There was organized in Kansas City last Monday the Independent Packing Company, a movement that had its inwhich is generally understood, to be to compete with the packers' combine. The report sent out about the proceedings of the conference shows that a number of the prominent stockmen in Texas are to be connected with the new enterprise, among them L. F. Wilson, S. B. Burnett,

A. E. Halsell and S. B. Lucas. When the matter was first discussed by the officials of the National Live Stock Association the plan was to form an independent company with a capital of 000,000 and to build several houses at advantageous points in the cattle-breeding districts of the West and Southwest. One point discussed for a packing-house was Pueblo, but it has since developed that the locating of a plant there has been practically abandoned because it has been shown that Pueblo is not and cannot be made a live stock market. There was considerable objection from Texas stockmen to locating one of the plants at Pueblo, and the information was given out that if this place were selected the Texas cattlemen who were to become

The promoters of the company claim that the ties, though more expensive than wood ties, are ultimately economical, as they are guaranteed to outlast four chestnut ties.

Many railroad companies try to prolong the life of wooden ties by soaking them in creosote. The Burlington system pickles its ties in a solution of zinc chloride. Fifty thousand ties are pickled every month in the Burlington's main plant at Sheridan. The saving is considerable. "Most of the education of the young women to date has educated them away from the real life most women follow. Instead of the home which is woman's realm, the girl is prepared for society Too often the young lady returns from boarding school or college having lost sympathy with her mother's life, and finds she has a real aversion to the common duties of the home. The system for which this institution stands is the all-around equipment for a truly useful life. Domestic lines of education are emphasized be cause every woman is connected with some home, whether that home be her own or not. 'The home naturally forms about a woman,' says a recent writer, 'man alone seldom has a home in its true sense, but woman attracts the home about her as naturally as the magnet the filfor practical life. Heretofore humanity's children have been carried in the arms of The International party, however, is an endless succession of untrained mothers, who could bring neither education nor experience for the wonderful work. They brought merely the intense accumu lated force of brute instinct, the blind love of the mother for the child. This tremendous force needs direction, else it mars the life of the child forever, as the unwise, ungoverned mother of Lord Byron was largely responsible for the life failure of that brilliant man. We have depended upon maternal instinct and have filled the grave yards with a large percentage of the race who die in infancy, martyrs to this same instinct.

"But a young woman needs more than fitness for the home, since from choice or otherwise she may never have a home of her own. She must be fitted for an independent life, and so must be thoroughly equipped in some congenial self-support ing commercial business that self-respect may be enthroned in her character. lack of economic freedom has heretofore made marriage often only a commercial

"The most pitiable object in this world is a person untrained in an art, trade or profession whereby the needs of the body and soul may be provided. The misery poverty, wretchedness and often sin, that results is seen on ever hand. To approach the duties of life with ignorance and untrained capacity has hitherto been the wretched portion of many a woman, "The students of this institution have another prospect before them. Economic independence will allow them to build their lives upon intelligent choice. Love will be exalted and marriage honorable. This will react upon the race to its help. It must surely eradicate the double standard now existing between the sexes. There will be but one standard, the pure righteous standard of a 'white life for two.' The industrial independence of woman surely leads to this, and well may we rejoice, for Eden comes back again in

EXHIBITS FOR THE FAIR Texas World's Fair Headquarters Ar Receiving Good Specimens

Ed Otto, who recently volunteered t enter the work of collecting exhibits for the Texas world's fair display, has re turned from a trip over the Frisco as far out as Brownwood, and reports having met with encouraging success. His work has been in the nature of gathering exhibits at the different points from Brownw ld to Granbury, and in a few days a car will be sent from Fort Worth to bring in the collection, which Mr. Otto says is very large, and includes all classes of grain, fruit and vegetables. At world's fair headquarters all the collections sent in to date have been pre-J. R. Darnell et ux to B. Frank pared for exhibition, and are now in the Frush, lots 19 and 20, block 7, Evans' sulphuring department, ready for final shipment to St. Louis when the time for

The latest receipts of stuff include the following donations sent in from Grayson county:

Irish potatoes from J. Swayne, two varieties of apples from F. M. Pierce, apples from A. D. Jackson, apples from Frank Larkin, apples from J. M. THE OIL AT HENRIETTA Are Coming Up to Expectations and Yield Is Good

The developments being made in the Henrietta oil fields are giving satiswells are going down on property that A letter received today from the progress made thus far shows that there will doubtless be several gushers n that district when the proper depth has been reached. Mr. Chilson states that already several wells have been brought in and that pumps are running daily with good results. Quite a number of other wells are being drilled and no less than twelve rigs are working in the field today. It is believed that several of the wells will yield forty barrels a day, but thus far the output is in the neighborhood of fifteen or twenty barrels. Referring to the field, Mr. Chilson says that the average of a still field like the Henrietta district is fifteen years, though many fields with no better outlook at the beginning of the development have been pumped steadily for more than forty years. Several Fort Worth people have already invested in options in the Henrietta district and several others are now investigating with a view to securing interests there.

E. B. Carver is here today from Henrietta and is very much elated over the prospects of making Henrietta an oil-producing district of considerable . Barbetta Ehrenstein prominence. He says that indications show that there is plenty of oil there, and that men with means are now working to properly develop the field.

GOOD RAIN IN

Drouth at Colorado Is Broken and Borden County Is Also Visited

COLORADO, Tex., Sept. 23 .- Dan Wristen, one of the biggest tank builders in the West, is in the city today from Borden county. He says it has been dry pretty much all the year in Borden, but a telephone message has just been received from up there that a good rain was falling and that it seemed to be general. Mr. Wristen has i built twenty-five or thirty tanks in about 75 bales have been ginned to that country and says the stockmen are continually after him to build more. He has orders enough on hand now to keep him busy all the year. Stockmen generally are getting tired of their water playing out in a little ninety days' drouth and are arranging for a supply now that will stay with them all the year, rain or no rain.

> CALVERT, Texas, Sept. 24.-E. S. Peters, president of the State Cotton Growers' Association, has issued the following address to the farmers:

"Calvert, Texas, Sept. 22, 1903 .- Just a year ago I gave out to the press an interview in which I advised the farmers to market their cotton slowly, and if they did they would realize 10 cents before another crop was planted. Was I right? Did the farmers follow my advice? Had they done so, who would have had the millions the so-called bull pool headed by Messrs. Sully and Brown now posesses? Now, listen, farmers! If you will market the present crop slowly, feeding the mills just enough to keep them running you will see 15 cents before the end of this cotton year. If you fail to follow my advice don't rail at the speculators who are smart and wise enough to see that we have a short crop and that the world is consuming more cotton than we are producing. There is no doubt that the present crop will be a very short one, no matter how favorable the weather conditions may be from now on, and if we have an early frost it will make the shortest crop in recent years.
