Thereafter there were rows of diamonds and stately ranks of shining shirt fronts occupying the pews. The minister was high in the regard of the theatrical world and numerous popular actresses sang in his choir.

OIL WELLS IN KENTUCKY

More Than 15,400 Barrels Pumped Last Week From Wells Near Somerset

SOMERSET, Ky., Sept. 29.—The cool weather seems to have lent renewed enthusiasm to the oil promoters and workers of the Wayne and other Kentucky fields and the fields are fairly alive with activity. The Cooper division has been somewhat extended during the past week by the strike of the Clifty Creek Oil Company, on the Coffey farm. This well is 735 feet deep with twenty-three feet of sand, and filled 326 feet after the first shot. This company first sank a well in Pulaski county and brought in one on Clifty creek at twenty-five barrels, but being so far removed from the pipe line it was deemed best to start drilling on some leases in Wayne county.

The product of the Estill county fields, sixty barrels per day from thirty-two wells, is being shipped here and put through the pipe line to Licking river. The New Domain Company also has three wells in that field which will be put to pumping in a very short time. Considerably more life is being manifested in the Cumberland county field and recent pumping there is making a fairly good show for the field. The field will likely be a paying one in the future, and the oil men are keeping an eye on it.

The runs from the fields seem to be on the increase every week in a very decided manner and the past week experienced the largest run of the season. The output being 15,400 barrels, furnished by the divisions as follows: Cooper division, 3,885 barrels; Slickford, 2,010 barrels; Sunbrook, 2,055 barrels; Steubenville, 1,940 barrels; Barbourville, 1,230 barrels; Ragland, 5,753 barrels.

The coarser grades of cotton goods can be manufactured in the south at greatly reduced cost as compared with that in New England, which is the chief cause given for manufacturing this class of goods in the south.

WHITE IMMIGRATION TO SOUTHERN STATES

Special to The Telegram.
BALTIMORE, Md., Sept. 29.—"Those who have witnessed the settling up of the West, the Northwest, the far North, and latterly Oklahoma and Indian Territories, are now directing their attention to the advanced guard of the greatest immigration movement in years. This refers to the influx of Northern and Western people into the South and Southwest. To the close observer it would seem that the forces that built up the West and Northwest, peopling those vast domains with the best blood and brawn of the overcrowded East and Central West, are now uniting for a greater work in the South."

FOUNDATION LAID YEARS AGO
"The claim that it is impossible to attract white immigration to the South is contradicted by the experience of every man who has kept in touch with Southern development, is refuted by every authoritative statement of statistics, including the findings of the federal census, and so obviously untenable as a proposition that it should excite amusement rather than apprehension. I was identified with immigration work in the West twenty years ago. So it is in the South. We expect the next ten years will bring us due reward for our work."

THE TWO FIELDS
These statements are made by men acquainted through personal experience with successful immigration work in the past for the West, and who now are applying well-tested, practical methods to the peopling of the South with sturdy farmers and other settlers. The field of the one is west of the Mississippi; the field of the other is east of that river. Their utterances reflect the spirit of a score of letters published in the October number of the Southern Farm Magazine, of this city from officials of Southern and Southwestern railroads engaged in the task of finding suitable homes in the South for thousands of men from the North and West and elsewhere who have begun to realize the wonderful opportunities for them in the South. Nearly two years ago analysis of the population figures of the census showed that there was a greater movement of whites to the South than from it, and at the same time the negro population was diffusing itself so rapidly that nearly 1,000,000 of the 8,840,000 negroes in the country then lived outside the South. Since the census was taken this movement of whites to the South and negroes from it has been accelerated, and the reasons for it, as far as the whites are concerned, appear in the letters from the industrial and immigration agents of the Southern railroads.

THOUSANDS OF SETTLERS
These are not theoretical. They give definite facts. They tell of more than 75,000 Northern and Western farmers settled during the past ten years between New Orleans, La., and Corpus Christi, Texas, with 3,000,000 acres of farm land, 800,000 of them irrigated for rice, brought under up-to-date agricultural methods; of 1,200 farmers from outside who, during the past year, purchased and settled upon lands on the lines of one railroad south of the Potomac and east of the Mississippi; of it being possible to draw an approximately straight line 100 miles long through three Virginia counties in the so-called black belt without probably crossing an acre of land owned by a negro; and of a large percentage of the farms thus crossed being found in the hands of farmers from the North and West, and of an old field in Georgia transformed within a twelvemonth into a flour-

CAUSES OF MOVEMENT
Advancing values of farm lands in the cold and uncertain climate of the North and West and a better understanding on the part of farmers there as to opportunities in the South are bringing thousands of experienced tillers of the soil, men who are able to purchase when their wants are suited, and who, recognizing the vast greater changes in the South to men of energy and thrift, are not slow in taking advantage of the low prices of land to become desirable and useful citizens, and are being welcomed by the people of the South, who realize that an addition to the white population there means the betterment in every respect.

DEVoured BY WORMS
Children often cry, not from pain, but from hunger, although fed abundantly. The entire trouble arises from inaction, their food is not assimilated, but devoured by worms. A few doses of White's Cream Vermifuge will cause them to cease crying and begin to thrive at once, very much to the surprise and joy of the mother. 25c at H. T. Pangburn & Co's.

LABORERS IN MEXICO

Problem of Getting Men to Work Cheaply Is Serious
"The labor question in Mexico is beginning to be a serious problem," said a prominent railroad man who has been in the republic. The class of labor that is so serious has become that railroads are being compelled to import Chinese to work on the different lines. The Mexican government does not like the idea much of bringing labor from China and is offering a scale of wages paid for common labor is considerably less than in either America or Europe, and for this reason very few men seek work in Mexico from these countries. The Chinese, it has developed, are the only cheap laborers who will go to Mexico, and they are flocking into the republic in great numbers.

When the railroads in Mexico bring native laborers into the north part of the republic to work on the lines, they soon learn that they can get better wages in America and they catch the first train and go into El Paso. This seems to be the trouble as it applies to the railroads. The native laborers are willing to work for the small wages paid them in the interior or southern part of the republic, but whenever they learn that better wages are waiting them in the United States they are not slow in getting over the border.

The fact that the roadbed and machinery were not injured gives every hope of attaining a speed at the rate of 125 miles per hour.

GOOD RAIN YESTERDAY

GRANDVIEW, Tex., Sept. 28.—The drought was broken at Grandview after two months, today.

The oats and wheat stubble has all been turned under and is now in splendid condition for wheat and oats sowing. There will be a larger acreage of both than for several years, if crops can be gathered in time for planting wheat.

W. L. Knight, who runs a gin a few miles out of town, had three cars of cord-wood cut here to fire his boiler with. This is the first wood that was ever shipped here. There has always been plenty to meet the demands, but wood is getting scarce and will soon be cut up and destroyed.

Some of our farmers are devoting their time to raising grain and hogs. John Hull, who lives a few miles from Grandview, told The Telegram correspondent he had four acres of rape for winter pasture for hogs. Mr. Hull is only a small renter, but said he would have a car of hogs of his own to ship to market. He says there is more money and less work in raising hogs than there is in cotton.

The Trying Time

In a young girl's life is reached when Nature leads her uncertain steps across the line which divides girlhood from womanhood. Ignorance and neglect at this critical period are largely responsible for much of the after-misery of womanhood. Not only does Nature often need help in the regular establishment of the womanly function, but there is almost always need of some safe, strengthening tonic to overcome the languor, nervousness and weakness, commonly experienced at this time.

If there is an invalid woman, suffering from a feeble, irregular, or painful menstruation, prostration, or falling of womb, or from leucorrhoea who has used Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription without complete success, Dr. Pierce would like to hear from such person—and it will be to her advantage to write as he offers in perfect good faith, a reward of $50 for any case of the above maladies which he cannot cure.

"I wish to tell you the benefit we have received from using your remedies," writes Mrs. Dan Hill, of Broadhead, Green Co., Wis. "Two years ago my daughter's health began to fail. Everything that could be thought of was done to help her but it was of no use. When she began to complain she was quite stout; weighed 175 lbs. the picture of good health, until about the age of fourteen, then in six months she was run down her weight was but 50 lbs. She kept falling and I gave up, thinking there was no use, she must die. Friends all said, 'You will lose your daughter.' I said I fear I shall. I must see a doctor, that only for your 'Favorite Prescription' my daughter would have been in her grave to-day. When she had taken one-half bottle the catarrh was established and we bought another one, making only two bottles in all, and she completely recovered. Since then she is as well as can be." Weak Hearts

Are due to indigestion. Ninety-nine of every one hundred people who have heart trouble can remember when it was simple indigestion. It is a scientific fact that all cases of heart disease, not organic, are not only traceable, but are the direct result of indigestion. All food taken into the stomach which fails of perfect digestion ferments and swells the stomach, puffing it up against the heart. This interferes with the action of the heart, and in the course of time that delicate but vital organ becomes diseased.

Kodol

Digests What You Eat

Mrs. Loring Nichols of Penn Yan, N. Y., writes: "After eating, my food would distress me by making my heart palpitate and I would become very weak. Finally I got a bottle of Kodol and it gave me immediate relief. After using a few bottles I am cured." Kodol cures indigestion, dyspepsia and all stomach disorders, and gives the heart a full, free and untrammelled action. Bottles only $1.00 Size holding 2 1/2 times the trial size, which sells for 50c.

MARKET SLOW; RECEIPTS LIGHT

With Moderate Receipts the Cattle Market Ruled Slow and Uneven. No Hogs.

NORTH FORT WORTH, Tex., Sept. 29.—Receipts of cattle today figured close around 1,500 head, one-third of which were cattle shipped from points above the quarantine line and unloaded in the northern yards. More holdovers than usual were in the yards this morning, as a result of yesterday's heavy run, and with the immediate demand by the packers supplied, the market opened slow and dull. Very few cattle were sold on the morning market and those weighed up were usually small bunches cut from car lots. Several lots of good cows were among today's receipts, but no sales were made, sellers refusing the low bids offered by the packers. Commission men are quoting the market on this class of cattle fully 25 cents lower from last week's close, with a decline on cows and heifers of about 15 to 20 cents. Bulls and calves are selling steady, which is due largely to the light receipts for the past ten days.

Good steers, averaging around 1,050 pounds, are bringing $2.25 to $2.50, with the medium grade stuff, weighing 800 to 900 pounds, selling at $2.50 to $3.00. There is little or no change in the market on feeder steers, as the demand for this class of cattle is good.

At the hog division of the yards this morning not a hog was received, much to the disappointment of both buyers and sellers, who, encouraged by yesterday's heavy receipts to the ground early prepared to do business. While the run Monday was the heaviest received on this market for some time, the market was active and the entire offerings were sold and weighed before the noon hour.

Among the commission men the wisest of the wise are puzzled at the present market situation and refuse to make any more predictions for Fort Worth as a future good hog market. One salesman said today: "We have advertised this market far and wide, and have demonstrated to the shippers that the Fort Worth market is the best paying market for hogs this side of New York, but with all of this we find ourselves just at the opening of what should be a heavy fall trade that best quality butcher hogs in Texas are scarce, but the same conditions prevail in other western and southwestern states, but the market centers of which they are tributary keep fairly well supplied with pork, and are able to govern the market by their own markets by their receipts, a thing which we have never been able to do here, our market being controlled altogether by the actions of the northern markets."

Hog raising in Texas has never been on a large scale, but the advent of the packing houses and prospects for a still better market with more competition offers enough encouragement for the Texas farmer to at least give the experiment a trial.

REPRESENTATIVE SALES

The cattle market this morning was almost demoralized as a result of the heavy run Monday and liberal receipts today. The market opened slow and weak, and the sales in steers and cows showed a decline from last week's price of 15c to 20c. The only classes of butcher cattle which held steady against the general decline were calves and bulls. Light calves of fair quality sold about steady, while a few head of bulls went over the scales at last week's prices. Following were the representative sales:

STOCK YARD NOTES

The cattle market was slow and draggy this morning. No hogs were received on the market today. Work is being rapidly pushed on the new horse and mule yards, and they will be completed within a few days. The Fort Worth Horse and Mule Commission Company have opened their office in the Exchange building, and the company is actively at work arranging for the large sale which will take place at the new yards in the middle of next month. Letters of inquiry regarding the big sale are pouring in every day, and from all indications the receipt of live stock for this event will be much larger than was estimated by the commission men.

John R. Lewis of Sweetwater, the well-known breeder of fine cattle, is in Abilene this week, arranging for the exhibition of a large number of his white faces at the West Texas Fair, which will be held there October 13 to 17. A well-known cattleman refuses to allow his cowboys to accompany shipments of his cattle to market, stating as a reason that "he is afraid they might return and attempt to organize a cowboys' union." Well, if a union is a trust and a trust a union, why not let them organize and join forces with the Independent Packing Company?

Borden county reports good rains and the ranges in best-late condition. The demand for feeding steers at the local market is good and speculators and feeders are paying good prices for the right kind of stuff. The Fort Worth market has many troubles, but not the packers want them, and are offering many inducements to the shippers to get this market a trial. C. A. Lyford of the commission firm of Daugherty & Lyford of San Antonio, bought on the market yesterday morning 216 stock hogs at $4 and $6.10. They will be shipped to San Antonio this evening for feeding purposes. C. L. Brown, cattle salesman for Evans-Snyder-Buel & Co., is receiving the congratulatory of his many friends today on the arrival of a ten-pound daughter at his home last night.

GENERAL LIVE STOCK NEWS

All kinds of livestock are marketed now at a much higher price than some years ago and tendency is still toward baby beef, bay mutton and younger pork. At the annual international conference of sheep breeders, held in London, England, June 2, 1903, Ernest Practice a breeder of Suffolk sheep, speaking of the improvement effected in bringing about early maturity in sheep in these latter days, said 100 years ago the average killing age of woolly sheep was about 3 years. He thought that about fifty years ago it would have been found to be about 2 years and twenty-five years ago it was, to his knowledge, about a year and a half. So thought that he should be safe in saying that at the present time, the average killing age of a good many breeds was not over 12 months. The same changes have taken place in this country. Fifty years ago or even less about all the cattle slaughtered in the East were over from 5 to 6 years, weighing a ton or more. Over half the animal was wasted in slaughter, as there was no means then making use of the offal. Since those days we have made great progress notably in breeding, but in feeding and slaughtering—Chicago Daily News.

LAD TO REST SIDE BY SIDE

Remains of Hugh Wilson and His Wife Interred Today. Two Pathetic Scenes.

At 2:15 o'clock this afternoon the funeral of Gladys Allen Wilson, who was shot and killed yesterday morning by her husband, Hugh Wilson, took place from the undertaking establishment of George Gause.

At 4 o'clock this afternoon the body of Hugh Wilson was laid to rest, the funeral proceeding from the residence of the brother of deceased at 306 North Harding street. It will be remembered that Wilson, after shooting his wife, turned the revolver upon himself, with fatal effect.

The remains of the husband and wife, whose lives were brought to so sudden and tragic an end, were laid side by side in the city cemetery.

J. Mayfield, of the Christian Volunteers, conducted the services at the funeral of the woman. The scene in the undertaking rooms was a pathetic one. At the side of the deceased, the aged mother of the deceased, gray-haired and sorrow-stricken, weeping heartbrokenly, while beside stood the 13-year-old brother of the departed woman, crying as if his young heart, too, was breaking.

Ranged around the room were the women who were the friends and associates of the girl. For the time their gay colors were laid aside and their faces were innocent of rouge. They were all in deep mourning. They wept hysterically. There were many flowers for the dead woman and she was laid away in a beautiful and costly casket. She was dressed all in white and a white hearse was used.

The funeral at the residence of Wilson's brother took place at 4 o'clock. Members of the butchers' union and the family of the departed had charge of the arrangements. Here too a pathetic scene was enacted. Rev. J. S. Myers conducted the services.

PICTURE MEN ARE MEETING

The Sixth annual convention of the Photographers' Association of Texas was called to order at 2 o'clock this afternoon by President A. A. Brack of San Antonio.

Mayor Powell was introduced and made an address of welcome. He spoke of the progress in the photography art, and compared the picture of today with those of the day when he was a child. He referred to the art as being the handmaid of the press, and gave illustrations to show that the man with the camera is doing the duty newspaper that columns of type are saved by the story which is told in one picture. The suffering of the Jews in Russia was brought vividly before the vision of people in all parts of the world, and sympathy for the storm-swept city of Galveston was aroused by the pictures of the distress and destruction which were shown. The photograph instructs and elevates man and broadens man's conception of the material world. His references to the development of the art were so much appreciated. He closed with a cordial welcome to the visitors.

President Brack responded to the address in an interesting manner. The business session of the convention then commenced.

JUDGING THE DISPLAYS

During the morning the exhibit rooms of the association were closed to all visitors. Judges who are unknown to the exhibitors were locked inside the rooms and spent the entire morning examining and marking the pictures displayed. The work of the various photographers is very handsome. There are familiar faces, pictures of old men and young boys and babies, old women and young ones, some married and some single. Child life is shown in numerous photos, and interior views of handsome homes are very attractive. Every grade of the camera's art is shown. The displays are truly attractive to every one, and when they are thrown open for public inspection there will no doubt be a large number attending.

An especially attractive picture is that of General "Billy" Patterson of the Benevolent and Protective Army of Elks, who is to be a candidate for mayor of Dallas. The striking feature of the picture is the manner in which

GERMANY'S CHURCH CENSUS.

Religious statistics of the German empire, according to the recently tabulated results of the census of 1900, show that 62 1/2 per cent of the population are Protestant, and almost all members of one or another of the various state churches, and numbering in all 35,131,194. The Roman Catholics there are 6,472, and of "other Christians" 103,792. In the whole German empire there are only 558,833 who register themselves as Jews—far fewer, perhaps, than in the borough of Manhattan, New York. Only 17,535 Germans profess themselves to possess no faith.

IT WAS DIFFERENT, THEN

Richard Harding Davis, the novelist, was once dining at the home of a well known Boston society lady. He was introduced to a gushing young girl who said, with great enthusiasm: "Do you know, Mr. Davis, I have always been anxious to meet you. I think that you and Napoleon Bonaparte are the two greatest men that ever lived."

REFORMED CIRCUS CLOWN

"Dr." W. S. Wheeler, formerly a circus clown, but for the last seven or eight years a preacher, is in the city and will preach on the streets for several days. He has preached in nearly every town in the state since he reformed, and he says he will keep the work up as long as he can keep on his feet.

THE POPE'S MOHAMMEDAN CHAIR

It is said that St. Peter's chair, in which the pope sits when he is crowned with the triple crown as sovereign pontiff, has on its frame, carved in Arabic: "Allah Allah, Mohammed رسول الله"—"God is God and Mohammed is the prophet of God." This chair, it is believed, was looted by the Crusaders, who presented it to the then pope.

A DEAF MUTE HONORED

THE PACE THAT KILLS

The tragedy enacted in the red light district of Fort Worth yesterday morning is the result of burning the candle at both ends, and its attending features should be a lesson to every young man in the city—a lesson to teach him that waywardness has no reward, but reaches a most disastrous end.

will they? If they do not, they will end in the brothel or the gutter, in the wine room or the cell.

The pace that kills is not followed on a circular track as is the race between fine horse flesh. The circular track of the race course finishes at the starting point, and to follow it brings you to the beginning without harm. But the pace that kills goes the straight wide road, and it has its finish in a high precipice, over which you will go as the momentum of that pace will carry you over.

Next Tuesday will be a full three months since the contract for paving was let for the Houston street improvement. Work was to have commenced in forty-five days. There should be some relief for the people.

The rain of these two days will no doubt be mentioned as a reason the street paving has not commenced. It has not been raining all the time since the letting of the contract.

Mayor Powell told the photographers they were welcome. They have but to look about them to realize that what he said is true.

Former Governor Hogg is now in Dallas. Will he tell of his plans for future political action? The state is listening.

THE IDLER'S NOTE BOOK

It happened only last Saturday that an innocent book store man, who has thus far avoided being involved in the mysteries of the city text book proposition, stopped reading The Spectator in his back office long enough to go forward in order to help out his busy clerks, who were being worried by a horde of eager school children getting a supply of books for the next week's work.

The book store man doesn't sell books very often, he prefers reading them, but half a dozen children in a little knot, together appeared to be getting very impatient, so bending over the counter, he asked, "What is it I can do for you?"

"We want a grammar for the grade," said one of the little girls; "that is, we want six of them."

"What kind?" said the book store man. "We don't know," answered the little girl. "Teacher didn't know either, but she said if we came here maybe you could tell us. We'd like awfully to know."

The book store man says he failed to furnish the needed information and for all he knows the little girls are hunting grammars yet.

CLEANINGS FROM... THE EXCHANGES

The resolution adopted by the spiritualists demanding one moral law for both men and women shows that they are at least right on one question that so seriously affects society.—Austin Tribune.

It is right and it should be brought about. Society should shun the man as it shuns the woman, and close the door to the man as it is closed on the woman. The Mark Twain statement, "Be good and you will be lonesome," is a witticism, but not a fact. Men can be good and find company sufficient to entertain them. Immoral men deserve the same treatment awarded immoral women.

There are probably some very rough streets in Texas, but the Herald will back Main street, Denison, against any business street in any town in the state, great or small, for all round roughness.—Denison Herald.

You ought to be as long as the other. The coal company has been opposed to union labor. It was convinced the union could bring good results and the contract was signed. Now, convince the people that men should be elected to the legislature to guard the interests of the people, and they will do so. But do not expect legislators to protect the people against capital when capital is putting up most of the money.

Worry

Almost Unnerved Me—Heart Pains.

Short of Breath, Faint and Languid.

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure and Nervine Cured Me.

"It has been five years since I was cured of heart trouble by your Heart Cure and Nervine. I am just as sound as a dollar in that organ today. For several years I had been suffering with my heart. Breathing had become short and difficult at times, sharp pains about the heart sometimes accompanied with fluttering would make me feel faint and languid. The least excitement or mental worry would almost unnerve me. I felt that the trouble was growing worse all the time, and after trying many remedies prescribed by physicians without obtaining relief, I was induced to give your remedies a trial. I was relieved the second day, and after taking three or four bottles all symptoms were removed and have never showed signs of returning."—REV. GEO. W. KIRKCOPE, Chincoteague, Va.

There are many symptoms of heart disease, which so closely resemble those of more common nervous disorders as to frequently mislead the attending physician. Often in cases of heart trouble the stomach, kidneys, liver or lungs become affected. Again the symptoms may be those of weakened nerves, as tired feeling, dizziness, timidity, the patient is easily excited and apt to worry without cause. If you have the least suspicion that your heart is weak study your symptoms and begin the use of Dr. Miles' Heart Cure, the great heart and blood tonic, without a day's delay.

A Singular Revenge

(Original.)

My acquaintance with the Willmerths was intimate. The property of several branches of the family at last became one vast estate in the hands of Eugene Willmerth. He was a young man of an extremely pleasing disposition, generous to a fault, the soul of honor and so trustworthy himself that it never occurred to him to doubt any one. Those nearest him urged him to marry for the reason that in case he died without issue the estate would pass to his cousin, George Wilkinson, and it was considered desirable that the property should not be in the keeping of one whom no one either liked or trusted. But Willmerth seemed in no haste to be married and instead of grudging his cousin the possession of the property seemed bent on giving it all to him, for George had no wish that Eugene did not gratify. Eugene also voluntarily told his cousin that he would never marry in order that after his death George might inherit the Willmerth millions.

Love usually strikes suddenly those who hold up a shield to ward off its darts. Eugene met Miss Gertrude Thrall and at once became her slave. Most young women of Willmerth's set were to be had by him for the asking, for they were all looking for an establishment and everybody knew what the Willmerth estate was. But Eugene was so noble minded himself that he did not dream any woman would tender a love she did not feel for the purpose of securing his wealth. When he proposed to Miss Thrall she sank into his arms, vowing that he was the only man she ever would have married and if he failed her she would die a maid.

When Eugene announced his engagement to his cousin he accompanied it with a deed settling on Wilkinson a very large piece of property, the only portion of the estate he was at liberty to give away. Wilkinson seemed to be prepared for the news and congratulated Willmerth warmly, showing a thorough appreciation of his kindness. Wilkinson also informed the newly engaged man that he considered the girl of his choice perfect. All this made Willmerth happier than before, and there seemed no obstacle whatever to change the situation.

The next thing I heard about Eugene Willmerth was that he had gone abroad, then that he had taken passage on a Mediterranean line steamer at Marseilles for Naples, and when the ship arrived he was not to be found. It was supposed that he had either committed suicide or walked overboard in his sleep. George Wilkinson made every effort to discover his cousin, if he were still alive, and after spending six months abroad, giving the matter his personal attention, returned to America and took the estate.

It was not very long before it was rumored that George Wilkinson would carry out his cousin's intention that Miss Thrall should be mistress of the Willmerth estates by marrying her himself. Miss Thrall put on mourning for Willmerth, but as the months passed she gradually lightened it, and it was finally permitted to leak out that because Eugene had requested in the event of his death she should marry his cousin she had determined to respect his wish.

Many who knew Miss Thrall personally believed in her sincerity, and it was whispered that so great was her love for Willmerth that this marriage was repulsive to her. I confess I did not credit this side of the affair. I knew that most young women would have acted the same way in a case where wealth was concerned, and this was all the thought I gave it.

I was invited to the wedding, with a card to the ceremony, which took place at the house at 9 o'clock in the evening. Of course it was a grand affair. "Everybody" was present. The groom looked well satisfied with himself and the world, and the bride looked lovely, though there was a melancholy tinge about her that bespoke the memory of her lost love. Calling a friend's attention to this, I was surprised when he replied:

"They have been lovers for years." There was no time to follow the matter up, for the actors in the marriage scene took their positions and the ceremony began. As soon as it was over the guests commenced to arrive, and the butler stood at the drawing room door announcing them, according to the English fashion. A dozen or more had been thus admitted and with those who attended the ceremony kept up a hum of conversation. Suddenly there was an announcement that fell like a clap of thunder from a clear sky: "Mr. Eugene Willmerth!"

Every voice was hushed, and every eye turned to the door. There, on the threshold, in evening dress, stood Willmerth. Carelessly regarding for a moment the astonished groups, he sauntered to the bride and groom, extending his congratulations.

I was standing where I had a clear view of it all. I saw at a glance that there had been a great change in Eugene and that he had planned a scene which he was carrying out relentlessly. The bride and groom after the first shock strove vainly to look pleased, but soon withdrew. Five minutes after they had gone there was not a guest in the house—indeed not a single person except the servants and its owner. The true story was told only to a few. I being one. Eugene had discovered that Wilkinson and Miss Thrall were lovers and his cousin was planning to break the will by which Eugene inherited and marry his betrothed. Eugene had planned his own (apparent) death and turned up in time to be present at the wedding.

CALLS MEMBERS TO MEET HERE

President of Natives and Pioneers of Texas Urges Good Attendance.

(Special to The Telegram.) AUSTIN, Texas, Sept. 29.—T. L. Stanfield, president, and C. A. Hotchkiss, secretary of the State Association of Natives and Pioneers of the Republic of Texas, in an address to the members of the association, lament the apparent want of interest in its success.

As manifested at former meetings and make the following suggestion with reference to the meeting to be held in Fort Worth April 26, 1904.

The youngest "Natives" of the Republic of Texas are now fifty-seven years of age. Now I want to make this suggestion: Let the Natives of the Republic of Texas and the Pioneers attend the different reunions of gatherings, of whatsoever kind, of their respective counties, or get together in their own and establish county organizations, to meet as often as their judgment may dictate, discuss incidents and put in shape the items of unwritten history, that may have been received by them through personal observation, tradition or otherwise, and discuss such movements as they think the association ought to adopt and have as many as possible of their members attend our meeting at Fort Worth on the 20th and 21st of April next.

The meeting on the 20th is designed more than otherwise to partake of a social nature and to afford us an opportunity to visit the Daughters of the Republic, who will have their meeting on that day, and here let me assure you that no one who attends that meeting will ever regret the visit, and am sure that our sisters will gladly reciprocate, by honoring us with their presence and counsel on the 21st.

In what more appropriate and patriotic manner can we celebrate San Jacinto day? This is our day and let us hope that we will have a respectable number present, and that we may be able to put in motion such enterprise as will advise the world of the fact that we are here, and that we are true descendants of the heroes of the Republic of Texas. Yours truly, T. L. STANFIELD, President.

C. A. HOTCHKISS, Sec. and Treas. P. S. All persons who were born in Texas and all who immigrated to Texas prior to the annexation of Texas to the United States, on the 29th day of December, 1845, shall be eligible.

Blount, first vice president, as he Dr. Bailey expects to be absent for a while in Mexico.

The board is ever on the alert for something for Denton. It has tried, and has succeeded in a measure, to make everybody in Denton an emissary for the town when he is away from home, to try to bring citizens, businesses, industries and institutions here.

C. H. Donahower, one of Denton's leading capitalists, has returned from a several month's trip on the Pacific coast. During his absence he also visited Salt Lake City, Utah, where he attended religious services at the great Mormon temple. He talks interestingly of the sights he saw.

SECRETARY CURL FLOORED FOR ONCE

HEAD OF STATE DEPARTMENT CONFESSES THAT SUPPLY OF COCKROACH-KILLING FUNGUS HAS BEEN ALLOWED TO RUN OUT

AUSTIN, Texas, Sept. 29.—J. R. Curl, secretary of state, usually catches on his feet in any emergency, and is credited with the ability and rare tact of being easily able to give a ready and satisfactory answer to the countless correspondents who besage the state department with all manner of inquiries and all sorts of questions; but on last Saturday he received a letter from a prominent citizen of a Texas city asking for information how to rid his office of the large American cockroaches, which was too much for his diplomacy and information and practically floored him.

The specific inquiry was made "if a tube of sporotrichum globuliform fungus" is available at the department for experimental purposes.

Mr. Curl, while expressing himself as perfectly confident that the said tube of sporotrichum globuliform fungus would prove disastrous to cockroaches, was compelled to write that the supply was exhausted and that the letter had been forwarded to the state entomologist who is a recognized authority on this interesting science.

NOAH RABY IS DYING SLOWLY

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. C., Sept. 29.—Noah Raby will never celebrate his one hundred and thirty-second birthday. The last fragile strand of life which has held this remarkable man open almost a century and a half is parting, and it is feared that the oldest man in the world will never see another sunrise.

able to mumble, and he can take only a teaspoonful of nourishment a day. Noah Raby was born at Eatonville, Gates county, N. C., on April 1, 1772. His father was Andrew Bass, a North American Indian, and his mother Morning Raby, an English woman.

He enlisted in the navy in 1805 and served on the Constitution and Brandywine. Much of his life has been spent on plantations in the south. He never married. He smoked for 120 years. He drank whisky whenever he could get it for 110 years.

He never believed in hard work. He never worried and scrupulously avoided trouble. He would be 132 years old if he lived until March 31, 1904.

DICKENS' BIRTH PLACE AUCTION. House Where Great Novelist First Saw Light is Offered for Sale. LONDON, Sept. 29.—General hope is expressed in literary and artistic circles that the house in which Charles Dickens was born, 37 Commercial Road, Landport, Portsmouth, which was put up for sale at public auction today, may be acquired either by the town authorities or by some society and converted into a Dickens museum.

For very many years the house has been the property of the Pearce family, of Portsea, and the grandfather of Mr. Pearce, the present owner, was the landlord of John Dickens, and is spoken of as the original "Mr. Micawber." Among other articles in the possession of the Pearce family is the rent book, which proves the novelist's occupation of the house.

Charles Dickens was born in the house on February 7, 1812, and was the second son. His father was a clerk in the navy pay office, and had married the sister of a fellow clerk he had met at Somerset House. The house has six or seven rooms, with a garden at the back, and is generally an old-fashioned design throughout.

The plant has almost entirely ceased fruiting, and some central counties are dying. In North Carolina the conditions have favored the maturity of late cotton and in South Carolina premature opening has been checked. Weather map shows that good showings fell over a large part of drouth region of Texas and in Oklahoma during the past twenty-four hours.

STATE RESTS IN THE CREWS CASE

Two Saloon Keepers Testify Against Defendant Today. Other News of the Courts.

County Attorney Lattimore this morning completed his introduction of direct testimony in the case of the State vs. Andrews Crews, charged with murdering Hendricks Long, a young farmer, about December 16, last, and rested.

The trial is in progress in the Seventeenth district court. The jury was completed yesterday afternoon. When the state rested the defense began with its side of the case. The defense expects to establish an alibi.

It will be recalled that the body of Hendricks Long was found on the bank of the Trinity river, not far from the Concho wagon yard. The young farmer's wagon was found in the wagon yard. The miles, a fine team of which were hitched to the wagon when Long drove into town, were not at the yard. They were sold by some one, but whether by Long before he was killed, or made away with himself, or by some one who murdered him, is one of the points in the case.

Two of the witnesses today were "Bush" St. John and B. E. Williams, saloonkeepers. The first named testified that Crews, McCoy and a young man were in his place at about the time Long disappeared. It was in the evening. McCoy has not been caught by the authorities. St. John does not attempt to say that the young man whom he saw in the company of McCoy and Crews was Long. Williams' testimony brings the name of Joe Wolf into the case. He says that Crews and Wolf were in his place about the time Long disappeared, in the evening; they were accompanied by a young man whom he took to be Long. This afternoon testimony for the defense is being heard.
