

As a Spring Tonic Pe-ru-na Gets the System in Good Shape.

John W. Glenister, the Champion Swimmer of America, After Using Pe-ru-na for a Spring Tonic Recommends It to Athletes

Pe-ru-na for Spring Catarrh.

It Renovates, Regulates and Restores a System Depleted by Catarrh.

ITS CURES ARE PERMANENT.

Advice All Athletes Who Are About to Go In Training to Try a Bottle of Pe-ru-na.

John W. Glenister, of Providence, R.I., is champion long distance swimmer of America. Mr. Glenister is a well known long distance swimmer, having performed some notable feats in this country and England.

New York. The Peruna Medicine Company, Columbus, Ohio. Gentlemen: "This spring for the first time I have taken two bottles of Peruna, and as it has done me a great deal of good, I feel as if I ought to say a good word for its worth.

A PROMINENT ATHLETE GIVES A GLOWING TRIBUTE TO PE-RU-NA.

PROFESSOR JOHN W. GLENISTER. Many Well Known Athletes Use Pe-ru-na as a Tonic, among which are College Men and Professional Athletes.

With weak nerve centers, the muscles become flabby and no amount of training will build them up. Athletes use Peruna, not as a temporary stimulus to tide them over some ordeal or sudden emergency, but as a lasting invigorator. It is a tonic that reaches the cause of all weakness, the organs of nutrition.

A tonic is a medicine that gives tone to some part of the system. There are different kinds of tonics, but the tonic most needed in this country, where catarrh is so prevalent, is a tonic that operates on the mucous membranes.

Peruna has no rivals, no substitutes. There is but one scientific, systemic catarrh remedy, and that is Peruna. PRESIDENT ATHLETIC CLUB SAYS: "I Thank Pe-ru-na for the Magnificent Health I Enjoy."

CHEMIST FINDS BLOOD ON KNIFE

BOSTON, April 23.—The stains on Charles Tucker's broken knife are of human blood, according to Dr. E. S. Wood, the Harvard chemist. This is the first time the state has been positively made. At the hearing in Waltham last week it was stated that the broken blade bore stains of blood, but that it was human blood was not stated.

DOES A HEN "SIT" OR DOES SHE "SET"?

The New York Times is being kept quite busy pacifying its readers, says the New Orleans States, who are writing to the Times against the further toleration of its sitting hen. The Times insists that it is the unanimous verdict of all lexicographers and grammarians that the hen sits, and never sets, but the protests continue to pour in from all the roosts and barn yards.

THE MORE IMPORTANT PROBLE

In addition to being one of the best known corporation lawyers in the country James B. Dill has a reputation as a story teller. Mr. Dill was in town the other day to speak in defense of the combination in a debate on the trust question. Incidentally he told a number of stories, and among them the following, says the Philadelphia Press:

No Doubt About Coffee in This Case Coffee sickness takes all kinds of forms, especially in children, frequently causing such severe nervous trouble as St. Vitus' dance, epileptic fits, etc. A case in point: "Two years ago my son, then 10 years old, was attacked with epileptic fits and a trouble like lock jaw."

TERRITORY COURTS DAILY CONFER

New Federal Judge for Each of Four Districts Cause of Rejoicing

ANDMORE, I. T., April 23.—The news that the "court bill" has been reported from conference and the probable passage of that measure, providing for an extra judge for each of the four judicial districts of the Indian Territory, was received here today and was the occasion of much rejoicing among the attorneys and others interested in the courts. The court dockets have been so badly crowded that important criminal cases have been sadly neglected and civil cases have been continued from time to time for the reason that the courts could not reach them, until attorneys and litigants have become disgusted with the slow procedure and cases of merit have been dismissed from the docket.

TO RUN TRAINS WITHOUT ORDERS

Lake Shore Adopts Method That Burlington Has Used for Several Years

CHICAGO, April 23.—W. L. Tompkins, a trainmaster of the Burlington road, has been traveling over the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern line during the past few years instructing employes in the new system of operating trains without orders. This system went into effect on the Lake Shore several weeks ago, and has given entire satisfaction to the managing officers of the road. Employees of the mechanical department have not felt that they understood the system entirely, and to instruct them the Burlington expert has been employed. The non-order system has been used by the Burlington for several years.

We Know What

Is going to happen to the little boy who is stuffing himself with green apples. A grown man couldn't be induced to try that experiment; and yet the grown man will overload himself with indigestible food for which he will pay a greater penalty than colic. It is this common and thoughtless eating which is the beginning of stomach trouble and all its painful consequences.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures dyspepsia and other forms of "stomach trouble." It restores the weak and run-down man or woman to sound health. "Some time has elapsed since I have written you in regard to the treatment I have been taking under your instructions," says Mr. E. F. Cingaras, of Minneapolis, Minn. "When I first commenced taking your remedies I was under treatment of a well-known specialist in this city (and had been for four months), for catarrh and especially stomach trouble, and I was rapidly getting worse, and so bad that I could not eat anything that did not distress me terribly, and I was obliged to quit taking the doctor's treatment entirely. I was greatly reduced in weight, and my health was in a last resort I wrote to you and stated my case, and after receiving your instructions I followed them closely. After taking five bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and one of his 'Pleasant Pellets' I commenced to improve, and decided to continue the medicines and observe your instructions regarding hygienic treatment. It is now nearly six months since I commenced your treatment and I can say that I am well and never feel better in any respect than I do now. I am very grateful to you for what your medicine has done for me."

Market Quotations

NORTH FORT WORTH, April 28.—Receipts of marketable cattle today were close around 1,200 head, with the usual heavy run of transient cattle yarded for food and rest.

Steers showed a big falling off from the average daily runs, and the small supply offered sold early at steady prices. One load, averaging 1,075 pounds, brought $3.85, with the bulk of sales at $3.40@3.70.

Cows were more plentiful and, as a rule, sold at a lower price than steers. The best landed around $2.75@3.10; good killing butcher stock at $2.25@2.75, and the ordinary kinds at $1.75@2.25.

Calves sold strong and active, two heavy drafts weighing around 145 pounds selling at a top of $4.75, with the usual supply of mixed fair quality veals at $2.25@3.75.

Bulls were scarce, and the supply offered sold at unchanged prices. All kinds of thin, green stuff is finding hard sale, and salesmen are advising their customers to ship this class of cattle elsewhere.

Pigs and lights were of unusually common quality and, with a fair number of the medium grade and weight killing stuff offered, this class of pork suffered to the full extent of the decline.

Andrew Nimmo of Montecello, Iowa, former general manager of the old Fort Worth Stock Yards Company, arrived in the city last night and will remain here for several days in attendance as a witness in a damage suit filed against the old stock yards company by west Texas stockmen.

SENATE FAILS IN CONFIRMATION

Senate Votes Down His Nomination as Collector at Charleston

WASHINGTON, April 28.—The nomination of William D. Crum to be collector of the port of Charleston, S. C., was considered yesterday in an executive session of the senate, lasting from 4:35 p. m. to 9:15.

Senator Spooner contended that the republican party should not be asked to surrender its convictions as to the rights of man; that the negro is held to be citizen and as such entitled to participate in the government.

In reply, Senator Daniel declared the appointment of negroes to high official positions, such as that to which Crum had been named, sets the race to dreaming of rights inconsistent with the position of negroes in society and inflicts more harm than good on both races.

INTERURBAN LINES

The Wichita Beacon asks: "Do interurban electric lines injure the business of steam railways?" and then answers it by saying:

The secret of success of interurban lines lies in the fact that they make new business. They afford a means of rapid and frequent communication between towns, bringing the consumer in closer touch with the manufacturer and dealer, obliterating city and county boundaries and building up each town along the line in proportion to its ability to supply the wants of the surrounding country. The larger the city, the greater the benefit of electric line communication with its tributary territory.

Before the great west was spanned by railroads settlements were few and far between. Steel rails and locomotives brought the tide of immigration. Each branch line was followed by a settling up of a new section of country. The same holds good of interurban electric lines. Instead of crippling the business of steam roads they are a great factor in filling up the country which they traverse, stimulating traffic for established lines and creating their own field of usefulness.

Texas has had but little experience with interurban lines, but what has been noticed here is that more travel follows as a direct result of the building of the interurban. The line between this city and Dallas has brought the two cities closer together, and it has made it more convenient for those living in the two towns to have business dealings with each other. Dallas nor brought Dallas business here, but it has had a tendency to create a business interest which is valuable. In addition to this, the social affairs of the two cities are more conveniently arranged by the people of the two towns. It may have interfered to some extent with the local travel on the railroads between Fort Worth and Dallas, but the Texas and Pacific Railway, with a thousand miles of track across the state, can not complain if it loses only the business of thirty miles of the line because of interurban competition.

The interurban between Denison and Sherman has created a travel, and ground has now been broken for the construction of a line to join Belton and Temple. The interurban creates its own business, and all communities affected are benefited.

NAVAL DEATH TRAPS

The Telegram a few days ago called attention to the fact that whenever there is trouble to a modern war vessel, it turns turtle or settles directly and all on board are lost. This appalling loss of lives in accidents to war vessels recently has revived discussion of the question whether vessels can be made unsinkable. Marine architects, engineers and navigators have given the problem much thought. In 1890 a Boston shipmaster devised a method for constructing an unsinkable ship, applicable to ships already built as well as to vessels in process of construction. High naval authorities heartily endorse the plan, which they describe as follows:

He has developed a double-hulled ship with compartments so arranged and constructed that it supplies a mathematical certainty against sinking. Between the outer and inner shells of his vessel is a series of longitudinal compartments, to be filled and emptied with water by the ship's pumps for ballast; above this section on either side, and rising to the full height of the vessel's sides, is a series of chambers filled with small air-tight tanks, their capacity being figured in excess of the known displacement of the ship and cargo. Thus, a cubic foot of air has perfect supporting capacity for a certain weight. If the supply of air in those tanks is 25 per cent above that required by the formula, nothing short of a fragmentary destruction could sink a vessel. Any probable collision, the penetration of a shot, or the explosion of a torpedo, would injure only a small proportion of the air tanks, and the rest would easily and safely perform their work. A vessel thus equipped would be practically non-sinkable.

Under present conditions it would not be out of place for the United States to experiment with such a plan for safety. The men who enlist for service in the navy are entitled to be surrounded by every safeguard. If it continues that they are to be drowned like rats in a trap whenever there is an accident to a vessel, they will cease to go to sea. Men who are moved by patriotism to go aboard these engines of war, are willing to sacrifice their lives in battle for the country, but they do not want to be taken out to deep water in a ducking stool and held under until they are dead.

The state of Texas would like to call the attention of the agitators of the race question in the north and east to the fact that a few days ago the superintendent of the colored deaf and dumb asylum at Austin, who was a negro, passed away, and the flag on the capitol was at half-mast in respect to him. Does this look like a prejudice against the men of the colored race? Flying the flag at half-mast is a tribute which the state can pay to one of the heads of its departments, white or black, and the state followed the custom in regard to this colored man, as it has in regard to every white official. This negro was in his proper sphere. He had a political appointment, but it was among those of his own race, and he was a faithful officer. The people of the south know how to treat the negroes who know how to behave themselves, and they know how to treat those who do not behave.

The report of C. W. Woodman of the American Federation of Labor of the condition in the lumber camps of eastern Texas, shows a new phase of the labor problem, and there will hardly be those who will indorse that management of working men. Every man who works is worthy his hire, and there should be some regular time at convenient intervals when he should be paid, and the payment should be in cash. In some trades people are given their wages weekly, but in no case is the payment at periods longer than thirty days apart. When men reach such a condition of affairs they are under the yoke of a peonage. A man cannot leave a job like that if he wants to, unless he walks from town to town. He never gets money enough to go elsewhere and find out just how the world is getting along. It is a deplorable state of affairs.

We can soon expect to see at the book stalls copies of a book which will be called "The Boy Bandits" or something similar, which will have to deal with an alleged story of the boys in Chicago, three of whom have been hung and one other in state prison. Such a book will do more to create more bandits than anything else. We have passed through the period when the James Boys, the Youngers, Quantrell's gang and Harry Tracy held the center of jurid literature interest, and such publications have done much to demoralize the boys of the country. The government and the various states should take some action to forbid the publication of those stories which incite crime. It will be one way of saving the boys.

The reports that he made a personal raid on the gambling houses in that city a few days ago. Judge Gerald is a man of much determination, and when he decides to do a thing he does it. The judge is the soul of honor, and he considers his oath of office sacred in every way. He declares that as long as he is county judge and the law prohibits gaming, that he will put a stop to it, and he is doing so. He walked into the gambling house, viewed the surroundings and then declared his presence. It requires nerve for a man to do these things, but the judge has shown on other occasions that he has the nerve.

The Fort Worth musicians who attended the festival at Houston could have arranged to bring the next festival of the State Singing Society to this city, but did not do so because "the auditorium would not then be finished." Is it possible the people of Fort Worth will need more than a year in which to build such a structure? Is it possible we are to lose conventions and large gatherings because we will have no auditorium? Let every fellow do a little.

It is said that John D. Rockefeller has issued a pamphlet which is in the nature of an answer to the charges made against him by Miss Ida M. Tarbell. The trouble with the answer is that circumstances so aptly confirm all that Miss Tarbell has said that John D. can not very well prove an alibi.

J. T. Trezevant of Dallas returns from San Antonio and when asked the cause of the rate war in insurance matters says it has been "brewing for a long time." Since we have a brewery in Fort Worth, is it not possible to brew a rate war in insurance here?

Those fellows who have been boasting so long that they entered the service of the United States for the Civil war when young in years have changed front and are now pleading old age, so as to get in under the service pension act of the president.

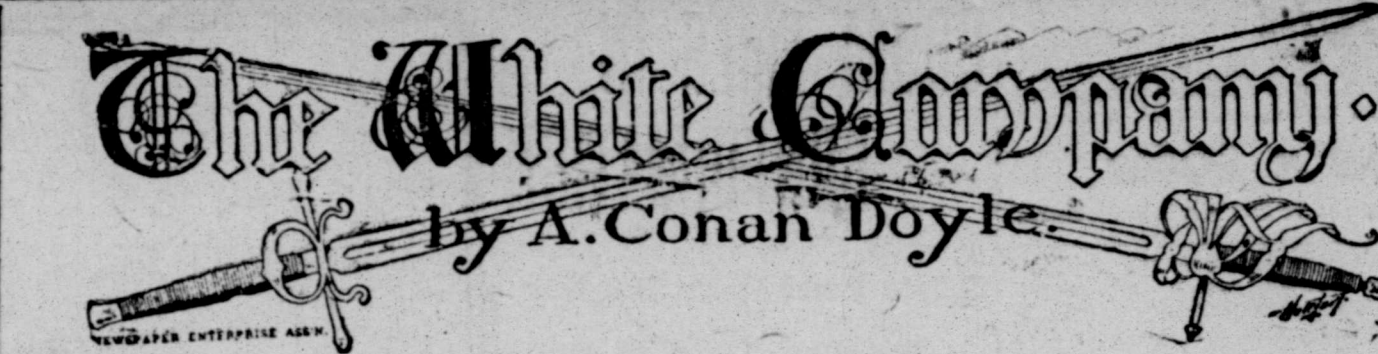

The fellow who is running a telephone exchange does not have to swear to his circulation. The directory tells the story. No chance to boom figures there.

Senator Bailey says that he is a spoilsman. He believes like a great many others that under the civil service law, long tenure of office "spoils men."

Why did not Colonel Johnston ask Judge Parker for whom he voted in 1896 and 1900? Is not the judge as able to answer as is David Bennett Hill?

The St. Louis Globe-Democrat says that after he has finished his presidential campaign Mr. Hearst will be entitled to a Carnegie hero prize.

Parker may be the most talked of man in the country, but he is the most silent for his years and stature the people have ever discussed.

Of the riders one was young, graceful and fair, clad in plain double and hosen of blue Brussels cloth, which served to show his active and well-knit figure. A flat velvet cap was drawn forward to keep the glare from his eyes, and he rode with lips compressed and anxious face, as one who has much care upon his mind. Young as he was, and peaceful as was his dress, the dainty golden spurs which twinkled upon his heels proclaimed his knighthood, while a long seam upon his brow and a scar upon his temple gave a manly grace to his refined and delicate countenance. His comrade was a large, red-headed man upon a great black horse, with a huge canvas bag slung from his saddle-bow, which jingled and clinked with every movement of his steed. His broad, brown face was lighted up by a continual smile. Well might John rejoice, for was he not back in his native Hampshire, had he not Don Diego's 5000 crowns ransoming against his knee, and above all was he not himself squire now to Sir Alleyne Edricson, the young Socman of Minstead, lately knighted by the sword of the Black Prince himself and esteemed by the whole army as one of the most rising of the soldiers of England.

For the last stand of the Company had been told throughout Christendom wherever a brave deed of arms was loved, and honors had flowed in upon the few who survived it. For two months Alleyne had wavered between death and life, with a broken rib and a shattered head; yet youth and strength and a cleanly life were his long delirium to find that the war was over, that the Spaniards and their allies had been crushed at Navaretta, and that the prince himself had heard the tale of his ride for succor and had come in person to his bedside to touch his shoulder with his sword and to insure that so brave and true a man should die, if he could not live, within the order of chivalry. The instant that he could set foot to ground Alleyne had started in search of his lord, but no word could he hear of him, dead or alive, and he had come home now sad-hearted, in the hope of raising money upon his estates and so starting upon his quest once more. Landing at London, he had hurried on, for he had heard no word from Hampshire since the short note which had announced his brother's death.

"By the road!" cried John, looking around him exultantly, "where have we seen since we left, such noble cows, such fleecy sheep, grass so green and trees so thick as yonder hedge."

"Ah, John," Alleyne answered wearily, "it is well for you, but I never thought that my home-coming would be so sad a one. My heart is heavy for my dear lord and for Aylward, and I know not how I may break the news to the Lady Mary and to the Lady Maude, if they have not yet had tidings of it."

John gave a groan which made the horses shy. "It is indeed a black business," said he. "But be not sad, for I shall give half these crowns to my old mother and half will I add to the money which you may have, and so we shall buy that yellow cog wherein we sailed to Bordeaux and in it we shall go forth and seek Sir Nigel."

Alleyne smiled, but shook his head. "Were he alive we should have had word of her ere now," said he. "But what is this town before us?" "Why, it is Romesey!" cried John. "See the town of the old gray church and the long stretch of the munnery. But here sits a very holy man and I shall give him a crown for his prayers."

Ere Alleyne could answer there swung round the curve of the road a lady's carriage. As Alleyne reigned aside to let the carriage pass, a wheel flew off and over it all toppled—carving, tapestry and gilt—in one wild heap, with the horses plunging, the postilion shouting and a lady screaming from within. In an instant Alleyne and John were on foot and had lifted her forth all in a shake and fear, but little the worse for her mischance.

"I trust that you have taken no hurt, my fair lady," said Alleyne, condescendingly to the bank. "Nay, I have had no scath. I am much beholden to you, gentle sirs. Soldiers ye are, as one may readily see. I am myself a soldier's daughter," she added, "and my heart ever goes out to a brave man."

"We are indeed fresh from Spain," quoth Alleyne. "From Spain, say you? Ah, it was an ill and sorry thing that so many should throw away the lives that heaven gave them. In sooth, it is bad for those who fall, but worse for those who bide behind. I have but now bid farewell to one who hath lost all in this cruel war."

"And how that, lady?" "She is a young damsel of these parts and she now goes into a nunnery. Did you ever, gentle sir, heard of a body of men called 'The White Company' over yonder?"

"Surely so," cried both. "Her father was the leader of it and her lover served under him as squire. News hath come that not one of the Company was left alive, and so, poor lamb, she hath—"

"Lady!" cried Alleyne, "is it the Lady Maude Loring of whom you speak?" "It is, in sooth."

"Maude! And in a nunnery! Did, then, the thought of her father's death so move her?" "Her father!" cried the lady. "Nay, Maude is a good daughter, but I—"

It was this golden-haired squire of whom I have heard who has made her turn her back upon the world. "And I stand talking here!" cried Alleyne, wildly. "Come, John, come!" Rushing to his horse, he swung himself into the saddle and was off down the road in a rolling cloud of dust as fast as his good steed could bear him.

Great had been the rejoicing among the Romsy nuns when the Lady Maude Loring had craved admission into their order. And now, when all was settled, and when abbess and lady superior had had their will, it was but fitting that some pomp and show should mark the glad occasion. Hence was it that the good burghers of Romesey were all in the streets, that gay flags and flowers brightened the path from the nunnery to the church and that a long procession wound up to the old arched door leading up to the bride to these spiritual nuptials.

But alas! for plots and plans when love and youth and nature, and above all, fortune are arrayed against them. Who is this travel-stained youth who dares to ride so madly through the lines of staring burghers? Why does he fling himself from his horse and stare so strangely about him? See how he has scattered the two and twenty damsels who sang so sweetly—and he stands before the novice with his hands outstretched and his face shining, and the light of love in his gray eyes. Her foot is on the very lintel of the church and yet he bars the way—and she, she thinks no more of the wise words of the lady abbess, but she hath given a sobbing cry and hath fallen forward with his arms around her drooping body and her wet cheeks upon his breast.

Very quiet was the wedding in the old priory church at Christchurch, where Father Christopher read the service, and there were few to see save the Lady Loring and John, and a dozen bowmen from the castle. The Lady of Twynham had drooped and pined for weary months, so that her face was harsher and less comely than before, yet she still hoped on, for her lord had come through so many dangers that she could scarce believe that he might be stricken down at last. It had been her wish to start for Spain and to search for him, but Alleyne had persuaded her to let him go in her place. There was much to look after, now that the lands of Minstead were joined to those of Twynham, and Alleyne had promised her that if she would but bide with his wife he would never come back to Hampshire again until he had gained some news, good or ill, of her lord and

The yellow cog had been engaged, with Goodwin Hawtayne in command, and a month after the wedding Alleyne rode down to Bucklershard to see if she had come round yet from Southampton. On the way he passed the fishing village of Pitts Deep and marked that a little creyer or brig was tacking off the land, as though about to anchor there. On his way back, as he rode towards the village, he saw that she had indeed anchored, and that many boats were round her, bearing cargo to the shore.

A bow-shot from Pitt's Deep there was an inn, very large and wide-spread, with a great green bush hung upon a pole. At this window he marked that a man was seated who appeared to be craning his neck in his direction. Alleyne was still looking up at him, when a woman came rushing from the open door of the inn and made as though she would climb a tree, looking back the while with a laughing face. Wondering what these doings might mean, Alleyne tied his horse to a tree and was walking amid the trunks towards the inn, when there shot from the entrance a second woman, who made also for the trees. Close at her heels came a burly, brown-faced man, who leaned against the doorpost and laughed loudly with his hand to his side. "Ah, mes belles!" he cried, "and is it thus you treat me? Ah, mes petites! I swear by these finger bones that I would not hurt a hair of your pretty heads; but I have been among the black paynim, and, by my hill! it does me good to look at your English cheeks. Come, drink a stoup of muscadine with me, mes anges, for my heart is warm to be among you again."

At sight of the man Alleyne had stood staring, but at the sound of his voice such a thrill of joy bubbled up in his heart that he had to bite his lips to keep himself from shouting outright. But a deeper pleasure yet was in store. Even as he looked, the window above was pushed outwards and the voice of the man whom he had seen there came out from it. "Aylward," cried the voice. "I have seen just now a very worthy person come down the road, though my eyes could scarce discern whether he carried coat-armor. I pray you to wait upon him and tell him that a very humble knight of England abides here, so that if he be in need of advancement or have any small vow upon his soul, or desire to exalt his lady, I may help him to accomplish it."

Aylward at this order came shuffling forward amid the trees, and in an instant the two men were clinging in each other's arms, laughing and shouting and patting each other in their delight; while old Sir Nigel came running with his sword, under the impression that some small bickering had broken out, only to embrace and be embraced himself, until all three were hoarse with their questions and outcries and congratulations. On their journey home through the woods Alleyne learnt their wondrous story; how, when Sir Nigel came to his senses, he, with his fellow captive, had been hurried to the coast and convoyed by sea to their captor's castle; how upon the way they had been taken by a Barbary rover, and how they exchanged their light captivity for a seat on a galley bench and hard labor at the pirate's oars; how, in the port of Barbary, Sir Nigel had slain the Moorish captain and had swam with Aylward to a small coaster, which they had taken, and so made their way to England with a rich cargo to reward them for their toils. All this Alleyne listened to, until the dark keep of Twynham towered above them in the gloaming, and they saw the red sun lying athwart the rippling Avon. No need to speak of the glad hearts at Twynham castle that night, nor of the rich offerings from out that Moorish cargo which found their way to the chapel of Father Christopher.

Sir Nigel Loring lived for many years, full of honor and laden with every blessing. He rode no more to the wars, but he found his way to every jousting within thirty miles, and the Hampshire youth treasured it as the highest honor when a word of praise fell from him as to their management of their horses or their breaking of their lances. So he lived and so he died, the most revered and the happiest man in all his native shire.

For Sir Alleyne Edricson and for his beautiful bride the future had also naught but what was good. Twice he fought in France and came back each time laden with honors. A high place at court was given him and he spent many years at Windsor under the second Richard and the fourth Henry—where he received the honor of the Garter and won the name of being a brave soldier, a true-hearted gentleman and a great lover and patron of every art which refines or ennobles life.

As to John, he took unto himself a village maid and settled in Lyndhurst, where his 5000 crowns made him the richest franklin for many miles round. For many years he drank his ale every night at the "Pied Merlin," which was now kept by his friend Aylward, who had wedded the good widow to whom he had committed his plunder. The strong men and the bowmen of the country used to drop in there of an evening to wrestle a fall with John or to shoot a round with Aylward, but, though a silver shilling was to be the prize of the victory, it has never been reported that any man earned much money in that fashion. So they lived, these men in their own lusty, cheery fashion—rude and rough, but honest, and true. Let us thank God if we have outgrown their vices. Let us pray to God that we may ever hold their virtues.

GIVES TO ANOTHER DEED TO HIS WIFE. HAMMOND, Ind., April 28.—Deeding one's wife away as if she were a piece of real estate or personal chattel is the latest sensational escapade of marital life in Whiting. At the complaint of Joseph Sherburn, a Whiting saloon keeper, Hammond policemen arrested Fred Siegrist and Eva Sherburn at Robertsdale today. Siegrist was armed with a magazine gun which was taken away from him by a ruse just as he was going to shoot the police. At his trial Siegrist exhibited a quitclaim deed from Sherburn, in which the latter transferred all rights and claims to the woman for life, providing that Siegrist took proper care of her. Further cross-examination showed that Sherburn then ordered the couple out of his house, and they began life anew in Robertsdale, a suburb of this city. Sherburn and his wife have been married twenty years. Siegrist was released on bond pending further investigation of the singular proceeding. In New South Wales the work of harvesting this year's wheat crop is nearly completed, and the government estimates place the yield at 11,000,000 bushels above the best previous record. Seventeen million bushels are now available for export.

LAUNCHING OF THE CALIFORNIA

Gala Event at San Francisco When New Armored Cruiser Slides Into Water

SAN FRANCISCO, April 28.—Not since the launching of the battleship Ohio, which was attended by President McKinley and other distinguished sons of the Buckeye state, has the ship yards of the Union Iron Works seen such a gala event as today, when the magnificent armored cruiser California was wedded to the waters. The christening and launching of the leviathan of the deep was accomplished in the presence of a crowd of thousands of spectators, made up largely of members of the society known as Native Sons of the Golden West, who were practically in charge of the day's ceremonies.

On the christening stand were Governor Pardee and other distinguished officials of the state of California and of the leading cities of the commonwealth. As the new warship swept down the ways the assembled multitude wildly cheered the new champion. The christening ceremony was performed by Miss Florence May Pardee, daughter of the governor. The interesting ceremony took place shortly before 11 o'clock. With the first movement of the big hull Miss Pardee lifted the beribboned champagne bottle above her head and sent it with a resounding crash against the unyielding wall of steel at the same time saying, in clear tones heard by all on the speaker's stand:

"I christen thee California." As the cruiser took her maiden plunge in her native element she was greeted by a welcoming blast from a large fleet of war vessels from Mare Island, excursion steamers, tug boats and other craft of many descriptions. IS SIMILAR TO THE PENNSYLVANIA The cruiser California is similar in type and dimensions to the Pennsylvania, recently launched at Cramps, the Maryland recently launched at Newport News, the West Virginia, also recently launched, and the South Dakota and Colorado now building. When completed the California will have a total displacement of nearly 14,000 tons. The type of the California derives pre-eminence from two qualities—

We Are Like Machinery. A small defect will if not speedily and immediately remedied render useless and powerless the most wonderful pieces of mechanism. The engine that supplies power for your every exertion is out of repair. This may truthfully be said of nine out of ten persons.

Your digestive organs are the machinery that you should keep constantly in repair. Neglect in this leads to complications that are almost impossible to correct. Bilioussness, Nervous Headache, Belching and Heart Fluttering will never be known to you if you keep your digestive organs in perfect condition and your bowels clean and regular. Dr. Caldwell's (Laxative) Syrup Pepsin does this. It is guaranteed to do this for you, the children or the grandparents. Get a trial bottle, then you will know the truth and will always use this famous remedy. Your druggist sells 50c and $1.00 bottles.

speed and concentration of fire. Her wonderful engines, driving twin screws, will develop a horse power of 23,000, capable of propelling the ship at a speed of twenty-three knots an hour—perhaps even faster. This speed at once will take her outside the reach of pursuing battleships, while her powerful battery will make her a dangerous antagonist, both in engagements with vessels of her own class and those carrying heavier ordnance. The main battery of the California is to consist of four eight-inch rifles, mounted in pairs in turrets, fore and aft. These guns are to be of the latest type, and will approximate as closely to the rapid-firing design as can be reached in guns of that caliber. There are in addition fourteen six-inch guns of the rapid fire design, whose broadside fire never guns on a side—concentrated on an enemy would prove irresistible.

Her secondary battery consists of eighteen three-inch rapid fire guns, twelve three-pounders, eight one-pounders, two machine guns and six automatic guns—in all a most formidable array of both heavy and light ordnance. Recent tests made to prove the strength of armor such as will protect the California's sides show that projectiles fired with a velocity of 1,558 feet per second broke against the four-inch plate like eggs. So that with her great speed and her splendid battery the California will also be protected by an armor belt, making her a fighting machine of great defensive strength as well as of offensive powers.

The contract price of the California is $3,800,000. Her constructors, the Union Iron Works, were the builders also of the famous Oregon and other of the finest fighting machines of the United States navy.

BOOKS OF PACKERS BEING EXAMINED

CHICAGO, April 28.—With an increased force, representatives of the bureau of corporations of the department of commerce and labor renewed with vigor the investigation into the alleged beef trust at the stock yards today.

Professor E. D. Durand came on from Washington with an expert accountant to take charge of the inquiry and to assist Special Agent T. A. Carroll, who has been at work since James R. Garfield left for the east.

According to the information gleaned at different headquarters at the yards, the books of Swift & Co. and Armour & Co. were being examined by the accountant. Business Manager Hayward of Swift & Co. and Assistant Manager Cady of Armour & Co. professed ignorance of any such investigation.

This was an unusually heavy day at the stock yards, 21,000 head of cattle being at hand at the opening of business. As a result Special Agent Carroll found plenty of material in the form of stockmen and farmers to elicit information from.

"The bureau is conducting this investigation with great thoroughness," said Mr. Carroll. "We shall look into every department of cattle business before we conclude this work."

YOUNG WOMAN KILLS DOG, THEN HERSELF

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., April 28.—Miss Martha Bond, a pretty auburn-haired girl, fearing that the janitor of her home would carry out his threat to kill her pet dog, shot the animal herself and then killed herself by drinking carbolic acid. The janitor of the apartment house told Miss Bond Saturday that the other tenants objected to the dog and that she must get rid of it. She went around grieving and finally she took the dog out in the yard and shot it.

Saturday night Miss Bond gave what was called a death party for Jack and games were enjoyed. After the party she went to the bathroom and drank two ounces of carbolic acid. She died in great agony.

PAPERS COMMENT ON BRYAN'S SPEECH

Chicago Newspapers Not Very Complimentary Over the Effort

CHICAGO, April 28.—It is interesting to note the manner in which the Chicago newspapers, republican and democratic, comment on the speech of Mr. Bryan here last Saturday night. The Chicago Chronicle (democratic) says under an editorial headed "Bryan the Bolter":
If western democrats be disposed to accept the counsel thus gratuitously extended to them in the mistaken belief that they are still to act within democratic lines, we would remind them that in this speech Mr. Bryan burned his bridges. He will not, and he can not, now support any democrat who may be named for the presidency. He has done his best to stigmatize the entire organization, collectively and individually. His democratic disguise, thin enough at best, has been cast aside. He is now, plainly enough, merely Bryan the populist and socialist, hating democrats and democracy as only the populists and socialists can. He will bolt the nomination of Judge Parker just as he bolted that of Mr. Cleveland.

The Chicago Times-Herald (republican) says:
As an appeal for a rally against the reorganizers Mr. Bryan's speech of Saturday would have been much stronger if it had not referred repeatedly to the Kansas City platform as a perfect model. Mr. Bryan appears as he did in 1890, if not in 1896, that is, as a man who turns his back upon the teachings of experience and who is convinced that his infallibility must conquer an erring country.

Such a case is hopeless, even though hope springs eternal in Mr. Bryan's breast, and there are certain phases of his conduct which are full of an unpleasant suggestiveness. How can a person of his pretensions tolerate Hearst as a presidential candidate? Yet he does this in his neutrality proclamation, which may later become an endorsement, since Hearst is the one active delegate seeker among the opponents of the reorganizers. Does Bryan propose to go with the Hearst delegates or are Hearst and his delegates preparing to swing about for Bryan? In either event the reorganizers may feel complacent to the question of principles.

The Chicago Tribune (republican) says in an editorial entitled "Bryan Talks in Vain":

Mr. Bryan, who claims to be the only authorized exponent of democratic principles, says that the platform is "ambiguous, uncertain, evasive and dishonest." He says that it is the work of "cowardly democrats," whose only aim is to deceive and to induce "organized wealth" to subscribe to the campaign fund. Nevertheless it is quite likely that the platform which will be adopted at St. Louis in July will resemble closely the one Mr. Bryan disapproves of. In the last two presidential campaigns the democrats experimented with unambiguous, unequivocal platforms and were badly beaten.

John Doe X His Mark

A man's mark is his honor. It stands for him and he stands for it. It's the old Saxon way of signifying good intentions.

The right to be protected in the exclusive use of a trade mark has been long recognized by the common law and enforced by the chancery courts of England and this country.

The Government puts its mark on a bond to give it value.

The National Biscuit Company puts its trade mark in red and white on each end of a package of biscuit, crackers and wafers to distinguish these products and to guarantee the quality, and it does.

To more clearly comprehend the real value of this trade mark, try packages of LADY FINGERS and GRAHAM CRACKERS.

GEN. SHAFER TURNED DOWN BY CONGRESS

WASHINGTON, April 28.—General William R. Shafter has been turned down by congress. Some time ago a joint resolution was passed by the house appointing a board of managers of the national home for disabled volunteer soldiers, and General Shafter's name was included as representative of the Pacific coast. When the resolution reached the senate, the name of former-Governor H. H. Markham of California was substituted for General Shafter's, at the request of the California delegation. The resolution went to conference, where Chairman Hull of the house conferees made a stiff fight for General Shafter, but was informed by the senate conferees that they would permit the resolution to fall rather than accept Shafter. Hull accordingly gave way and a report will be made tomorrow with Markham's name in place of Shafter's.

RAILROAD RUMBLINGS

L. F. Lorie, chairman of the executive committee of the Rock Island holding company of New Jersey, is in St. Louis conferring with President Winchell of the Rock Island, and other executive officers of that system. These officers will also meet and confer with similar officials of the Frisco system on joint interests. These conferences are to be held each month, alternating between St. Louis and Chicago, the first meeting having already been held at Chicago.

Questions having to do with the operating and traffic departments of both systems are to be discussed at these meetings. B. F. Toakum, chairman of the Frisco board, was expected to reach St. Louis from his Texas trip yesterday and will be in the conference.

When the business of this conference has been concluded Mr. Lorie will come south and make a trip of inspection of all Rock Island lines.

President A. J. Davidson has just issued a circular announcing that the jurisdiction of the Frisco officials has been extended over the St. Louis, Memphis and Southeastern line. The St. Louis end of this line will shortly be opened for traffic. Mr. Davidson has just been elected president of this road.

W. A. Nettleton has been appointed general superintendent of motive power of the Frisco system, headquarters at St. Louis. Mr. Nettleton was recently with the Santa Fe system, and formerly connected with the Memphis road.

President Davidson has been elected vice president, director and member of the executive committee of the Kansas City Belt Line Company.

THE VERA CRUZ AND PACIFIC
A deal has been consummated whereby the Mexican government has acquired the lines and properties of the Vera Cruz and Pacific railway. The transaction was concluded through the receiver of the Maryland Trust Company, which financed the construction of the road. The Maryland Trust Company some months ago suspended payments and the property attached to it is at present its chief asset.

Details of the deal are as yet lacking, but they are said to be very favorable and advantageous to the Mexican government, which will have secured the necessary and logical link between what is known as the merger system—the National, International and Inter-oceanic—in which the administration recently secured a controlling interest for the republic, and the Tehuantepec railroad on the south, which is the government's property and is being operated under a contract of partnership with the firm of S. Pearson & Son, Limited.

Thus, the government will own and control a complete and comprehensive system of railways covering the eastern section of the republic from the frontier with the United States, practically to the frontier with Guatemala, with a gulf connection at Vera Cruz.

Commercially, strategically and in every way the government's move is an important one, and the acquisition, on advantageous terms, of the Vera Cruz and Pacific, which was necessary to the completeness of the system, may be described as a master stroke.

Incidentally, it will dispose of the dispute which has been pending some time between the Vera Cruz and Pacific and the Tehuantepec railroad as to the contingent right of the former to run its trains on equal terms over the tracks of the latter and thus compete with the Tehuantepec route for transcontinental traffic.

A MISSOURI SHEEP RANCH
A deal has been closed by officials of the Missouri Pacific Railroad Company and the National Stock Yards Company with W. A. Dalmeida and Paul Ewing of Jefferson City, Mo., for the lease of 500 acres of land about five miles from Jefferson City for the location of a sheep ranch.

It will be made the largest sheep handling station in the middle west. It is being estimated that 200,000 sheep will be handled annually. The station will be made a small village in itself. Dwellings will be erected for the employees, there will be barns and sheds, elevator and long-distance telephone connections. The railway and stock yards officials have long been considering the problem of handling sheep shipments from the west, and have concluded upon this station as the best solution of it. Long trains of sheep have been sent from the west to St. Louis, not infrequently a dozen or more of them reaching that market at one time. The result was an oversupply, causing a drop in prices, which was attended with loss to the shipper. The establishment of this station will enable the shipper to care for his stock at a nominal cost and await a favorable rise in market quotations.

MORE TEXAS REPRESENTATIVES
The Missouri, Kansas and Texas Railroad Company of Texas has decided to put on additional traveling passenger agents in the state in an effort to secure as much passenger business during the St. Louis World's Fair as possible.

The Katy will transfer three traveling passenger agents from other states to Texas, besides making one additional appointment. These new representatives will be established at Dallas, Waco, Houston and San Antonio. These changes become effective May 1.

These changes will in nowise affect the position held by Traveling Passenger Agent Hall, who now represents the company at Dallas.

Have you lost any valuables? If so, they are probably advertised under the heading of Lost and Found in The Telegram.

WEATHER FORECAST

From present indications the Woodmen will be favored with fair weather for the whole week of the carnival, the cloudy and threatening weather expected tonight having vanished and leaving nothing but a prospect for generally fair and warmer.

Fair weather also prevails throughout the state, no rainfall being reported from any point during the past twenty-four hours.

WEEKLY CROP BULLETIN
GALVESTON, Texas, April 23.—The following general summary of the weekly crop bulletin for the week ending April 25, is issued by the agricultural department, from local station:

WEATHER CONDITIONS
The day temperatures were about normal, but the night temperatures were slightly below the normal. A cool wave overspread the state on the 23rd and 24th, somewhat lowering the average temperature of the week, but doing no material injury. Rainfall was general and abundant over the northeastern, central and eastern sections of the state, but elsewhere the showers, if any, were generally too light to be beneficial, except in a few scattered localities of the southwestern and coast sections. Drouthy conditions, extreme in many places, continue over the entire western half of the state while rain is urgently needed throughout the coast region. High winds have also affected adversely the agricultural interests in many sections.

COTTON
Except where temporarily interrupted by a cold wave, the planting of cotton was delayed under very favorable conditions throughout the week. The bulk of this work is now completed in the northeastern and central sections of the state, but in some of the counties along the Colorado river, where planting has been delayed by drouth and much replanting has been necessary, there yet remains a considerable portion of the crop to be planted. Good to excellent stands are being secured, and in many places the cultivation of the crop has been commenced, and in some few instances, the very early planted is receiving the second cultivation. The weather has been a little too cool for the rapid growth of the young cotton. Warm weather is very much needed. Lice and boll weevils have made their appearance in some of the southwestern counties.

CORN
Corn was greatly benefited by the rains of the week and is now in fine condition and growing rapidly. The crop is now generally receiving its second cultivation.

WHEAT, RYE AND OATS
These crops have been materially injured by the drouth except in the northeastern and central sections and even in these sections the crops are not up to the average. Wheat and oats are heading, although the stalk is very short. In some of the western and southwestern counties the wheat fields are being plowed preparatory to planting them in cotton or other crops.

RICE
The continuation of the dry weather over the rice belt has interrupted the sowing of rice and checked the development of that already sown.

SUGAR CANE
Reports indicate a satisfactory condition of the sugar cane crop. Good stands have been secured and the crop is growing nicely. Rain would be beneficial to cane.

MISCELLANEOUS
Fruit crops are generally very promising, especially the peach crop. Gardens

BUILDERS AND BUSINESS ISSUE

The city and county edition of The Telegram, to be issued at an early date, will be complete in every way. A copy of the paper will be put into the home of every taxpayer in Tarrant county, while many thousand extra copies will reach the farms and ranches of Texas cattlemen. An edition of at least 20,000 copies will be issued, and to advertisers the opportunity will be one that will be readily grasped. Phone 177 and an advertising man will call.

WEATHER FORECAST

are excellent and forage crops doing well except in the drouth stricken sections where the needs of live stock are becoming serious problems.

CONDITIONS IN COTTON REGION
Throughout the cotton regions generally fair weather prevails except in the extreme northeast portion where light showers have fallen. The temperatures are below the normal for the season, but will rise during the succeeding thirty-six hours, especially in the western districts.

FORECAST
The forecast for Texas east of the one hundredth meridian, issued at New Orleans, is as follows:
Tonight and Friday, increasing cloudiness; warmer tonight.

WEATHER CONDITIONS
Forecaster George Reeder issued the following statement of weather conditions this morning:
The area of high pressure is drifting slowly eastward and still retaining its wedge-like formation, and giving clear, cool weather over a large section of the country.
The Atlantic low has moved out of range of these reports, but the weather along the Atlantic seaboard continues under its influence as rain continues along the coast.
The temperatures have risen quite decidedly throughout the northwestern states and cloudiness is on the increase, the resulting conditions of the low which remains nearly stationary over the Rocky mountain states.
The weather continues clear in the west and cotton belt states, except in the extreme northeast section of the latter, including the Carolinas.

WEATHER RECORD
Following is the weather record for the last twenty-four hours—minimum and maximum temperature, wind in miles per hour at 8 a. m. and rain in inches:

IN THE COURTS

The evidence of both the state and the defendant in the Long murder case was all in yesterday afternoon and some of the arguments completed when the Seventeenth District Court adjourned for the day.

Assistant County Attorney R. H. Buck opened the arguments for the state. He was followed by Attorneys Parker and Shropshire for the defendant. This morning O. S. Lattimore, county attorney, concluded the arguments in behalf of the state, and the jury was charged.

The defense believes that it has succeeded in breaking down all charges brought in an effort to connect Wolf with the murder of Hendrix Long. The state, however, is equally confident that it has made a clear showing.
The state was able to offer only circumstantial evidence all through the trial of the case.

In the court matter having reference to the trial of Wolf in The Telegram yesterday the name of Joe Lawrence became connected with the case, which was unintentional error, and The Telegram takes pleasure in making the correction. Lawrence has not at any time been connected with the Long case.

TWO ARRESTS MADE
Warrants were issued today for the arrest of A. B. C. Mills and Grant Le Roy, the latter colored.
Mills is charged with theft from the person, while Le Roy is accused of assault to murder upon Eddie Cole, also colored, a few nights ago during a difficulty in the area.
Both Mills and Le Roy were taken into custody this morning.

COUNTY COURT
The case of the Texas Loan Company against Charles Miller is on trial in this court today.

MARRIAGE LICENSES
Following marriage certificates were issued by the county clerk yesterday and today: Edmond Owens and Miss Sannie Gadsbury; G. L. Jackson and Miss Florence Phillips; W. L. Lyons, Jr., and Miss Marie Augusta McGowan; Horace Weir and Miss Cordelia Hooper.

VITAL STATISTICS
Two births were reported to the county clerk today: To Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Chaney of Azle, a boy; to Mr. and Mrs. E. Hiser of Fort Worth, a girl.

CASES FILED
The following cases were filed in the district courts today: W. H. Simmons against Mary Simmons, divorce; Bertha Moore against Will Z. Moore, divorce; De Mars against City of Fort Worth, damages; Jennie M. Crisman against the Northern Texas Traction Company, damages; Josie Holley against the Texas Laundry Company et al, damages; B. F. Cornelison against the Fort Worth and Rio Grande Railway Company et al, damages.

In the De Mars case against Fort Worth, the plaintiff seeks to recover damages in the sum of $10,000 for alleged personal injuries to the wife of plaintiff, who, on March 11, 1904, while wheeling a baby buggy across a small bridge at the intersection of Jarvis and Hemphill streets, fell into an opening, disabling her permanently.

A verdict was returned in the damage case of Bertha Dee against the Gulf, Colorado and Santa Fe Railway Company, in favor of the defendant. This case was tried in the Forty-Eighth District Court.

SANTA FE YARDS GUARDED BY DEPUTIES

Only Evidence So Far of the Imminent Strike of the Machinists of That Railroad—Not Many Employed Here

Guards scattered freely in the Santa Fe yards, keeping a close watch on the engines and the water tank above the passenger station, are the only evidences in this city of any difficulty between the road and their machinists.

The company has no shops nor a round house here and not more than two or three machinists are in the service at this place altogether, all rolling stock being overhauled and repaired at Cleburne.

The men were reported at work there this morning, with no indications of any trouble. It is persistently rumored here, however, that they have been notified to be ready for orders from the headquarters of the international organization.

It was stated this morning that a number of special officers had been sworn in by Chief of Police Rea in order to be ready for any trouble that might occur. This chief denied and said that such action would be entirely unnecessary. The officers in the yards, he stated, were not a part of the local force, but men employed by the company.

WHEN IS A TRAIN CONSIDERED "DEAD"?

The discussion among railroad men as to when a train was to be considered "dead" still continues to be a topic of interest.

In this connection the following communication from a dispatcher has been received by the Telegram:
"I notice in a recent issue of your paper what you call a technicality in special rules for movement of trains. If No. 3 passes 'A' 11 hours and 55 minutes late and loses time and becomes 12 hours late and cannot make 'B' by 9:10 a. m., the time it is due to arrive, it would have no right to proceed or reckon on its departing time at 'B,' which is 9:30 a. m. No 4 moving in opposite direction would have the right to proceed as soon as No. 3 was 12 hours late on its schedule, arriving time at 'B,' which is 9:10 a. m., awaiting variation as the rules require."

BOWLING CONTEST IS ON FOR TONIGHT

The Dallas bowling team will arrive in the city at 7:30 this evening for a match game with Fort Worth. All members of Fort Worth team are requested to be at the alley by 8 o'clock.

The line up for the teams will be as follows:
Dallas, Finklea, Archenbach, Chapell, Colton and Harvey.
Fort Worth, Foote, Barse, Cunningham, McSkillic and Brown.

TO TELEGRAM SUBSCRIBERS
The Telegram is mailed to subscribers by district managers, who control the routes in which they work. They buy their papers from the Telegram Company and pay for every copy taken from the office. In behalf of these men the Telegram Company asks the co-operation of the readers of the paper in seeing that papers are promptly paid for. These district managers must depend on their collections for their daily living.

They pay The Telegram Company for the papers they order every day, whether they make collections or not. The Telegram's responsibility ceases when the papers are placed in the hands of the district managers. Many subscribers do not understand this and it is in the way of explanation that this statement is made.

These men have every authority to collect for the paper, for in doing so they are making their own collections.

CONGRESS GETS THROUGH TODAY

Both Houses Agree on Resolution to Adjourn at 2 O'clock.

Establish a Government for Panama

WASHINGTON, April 23.—The senate began business promptly at 10:30 o'clock this morning, being a continuation of Wednesday's legislative session, and immediately afterwards agreed to a conference report on the emergency river and harbor bill.

The Philippine bond bill, at the instance of Mr. Lodge, was taken up and read at length, the house measure being substituted for the senate measure.

THE HOUSE
The house resumed its session at 10:30 o'clock this morning, it still being the legislative day of Tuesday. The crowds which usually throng the galleries upon the last days of a session of congress are noticeably absent. The attendance of members when the speaker rapped for order this morning was also small.

The house at once got down to business, and agreed to a number of conference reports on bills of minor importance. The conference report on the bill establishing a government for the Panama canal zone was likewise agreed to. Both the house and senate have agreed to the resolution to adjourn congress at 2 o'clock today.

"Good Government Housekeeping" is the slogan chosen by Mr. Hemenway to represent his views. "A Congress That Has Done Nothing But Spend Money," is the heading of Mr. Livingston's summary.

After reviewing the expenditures for the next fiscal year, Mr. Hemenway concluded by saying: "The expenditures of our government in the aggregate, as exhibited by the appropriations of this congress, are large, and by unthinking persons, especially by misguided newspapers, is denounced as extravagance, and yet, according to the very best authority, our national government is the most economically administered of any in the civilized world."

The postoffices at Jaybart and Lanier in Cass county will be superseded at the same time by rural free delivery operating from Linden.

SIMMONS IS KNOWN AT WAXAHACHIE

WAXAHACHIE, Texas, April 23.—The fact developed yesterday that Henry Simmons, the negro in jail at Austin, who is charged with the killing of Miss Sandberg at Manor, was a few months ago discharged from the county farm of Ellis county. Simmons' wife now lives about two miles east of Waxahachie. Simmons brought his family to Ellis county last fall from near Bastrop to pick cotton. Soon after coming to the county a complaint was filed against him in the county court, charging him with aggravated assault, it being alleged that he had struck a negro girl. Before he could be arrested he fled from the county, but was later arrested in Fort Worth. He was brought back to Waxahachie and after entering a plea of guilty to the charge against him was fined and sent to the county farm. He had worked out about half his fine when he was discharged through mistake. Since then the officers have been looking for
