HUNDREDS OF THOUSANDS ARE READY

News of Moment is Hourly Expected From the Front, and the Russians Hope That the Unbroken Successes by Sea and Land Which Japanese Have Enjoyed Will Be Broken. Garrison at Port Arthur Can Hold Out Three Weeks—Kuroptkin Hopes to Sweep Kuroki Off Peninsula

ST. PETERSBURG, June 11.—That a battle which will be of a decisive character is imminent south of Liao Yang is no longer denied by the higher officials of the war office.

Across a seventeen-mile front General Kuroptkin has the bulk of the first, second, third, fourth, fifth, sixth and ninth divisions of the East Siberian rifles, which gives 72,900 rifles after deducting sick and losses; there are 3,000 sappers and 208 field guns.

sciaens considerable worry. Her nerves are so shattered by the present Russian disasters that all of her intimates have been warned not to discuss the war in her presence.

The dowager empress does not conceal her indignation at the advisers who have counseled the present Russian policy and this fact has greatly weakened both Admiral Alexieff and General Kuroptkin with the czar.

Ammunition has been purchased and shipped to the far east which has proved to be absolutely worthless and many of the siege guns are imperfectly bored and therefore useless for the purpose for which they were bought.

Committee Made a Trip Across Galveston Bay With Citizens of Houston

GO UP BUFFALO BAYOU

Members Are Fatigued by the Trip and Will Spend Sunday in Houston

HOUSTON, Texas, June 11.—After a minute inspection of the section of Buffalo bayou that is being converted into a ship channel today, the rivers and harbor committee arrived in Houston tonight in the hands of a special deputation of Houston citizens, who met them early this morning at Galveston.

The Houston committee was headed by H. W. Garrow, and with them was Congressman Pinckney, from this district. The distinguished visiting party is made up of the following: Messrs. Bishop of Michigan, Acheson of Pennsylvania, Alexander of New York, Davidson of Louisiana and Humphreys of Mississippi.

Leaving Galveston this morning, where the harbor facilities were thoroughly gone over last evening, the sea wall viewed, etc., the committee with the Houston delegation aboard the C. B. Clark, crossed the bay to the mouth of Buffalo bayou, and there began the ascent of the stream. The section upon which work is in progress was minutely inspected, a half day's hard work being devoted to it.

FOLK WILL NOT BE LED FROM STATE CAMPAIGN

ST. LOUIS, June 11.—With the democratic national convention less than a month away, preparations for its management are going on with apparently no more enthusiasm than small towns devote to an annual church fair.

Prosecutor of Boodlers Prefers to Wait Four Years and With a Good Record Behind Him, Be Introduced to a National Convention, and Therefore Declines the Honor of Presiding Officer at the St. Louis Affair--Little Interest in St. Louis in the Meeting.

ST. LOUIS, June 11.—With the democratic national convention less than a month away, preparations for its management are going on with apparently no more enthusiasm than small towns devote to an annual church fair. As in the case of the latter, a few people are quite busy perfecting the final plans for the bodily comfort of the visiting delegates, the convention hall is being put in order, but otherwise few visitors passing through the city could discover in the course of a ten hours' stay that the greatest party assembly of the year and of many convention years beside is about to be opened in St. Louis.

No headquarters for any of the prominently mentioned presidential candidates have been opened. Hearst had headquarters in his entire campaign throughout Missouri was shut off as quickly as the orders could be passed. Hearst has even cancelled his contracts for 1,500 rooms in the leading hotels, which were engaged months ago with the understanding they were to be occupied by his leaders from all over the country.

CATARRHAL NERVOUSNESS.

A Condition Known as Systemic Catarrh--- A Congressman's Indorsement.

DR. G. B. CROWE, a physician and a very influential man in Alabama and chairman of the Populist State Committee, in a recent letter to Dr. Hartman, of Columbus, Ohio, says: Washington, D. C.

"Peruna is a most valuable medicine. It affords me unlimited pleasure to testify as to the merits of your remedy as a catarrh cure. I have used it as such and find it is of very great benefit when my nervous system is run down. I heartily recommend Peruna to all whose nervous systems are deranged." -G. B. Crowe, M. D.

The nervous system is the source of all our bodily powers, mental or physical.

The brain and spinal cord generate the power and the nerve fibres convey the power to every part of the body.

It is the nerves that give the heart power to beat; it is the nerves that give the arteries the power to contract, and thus regulate the flow of blood through them.

Each artery is provided with an elastic or muscular coat, which is capable of contracting or expanding so as to permit more or less blood to pass through, according to the needs of the body.

When the nerves are paralyzed or weakened this contractile power of the blood vessels is wholly or partly destroyed.

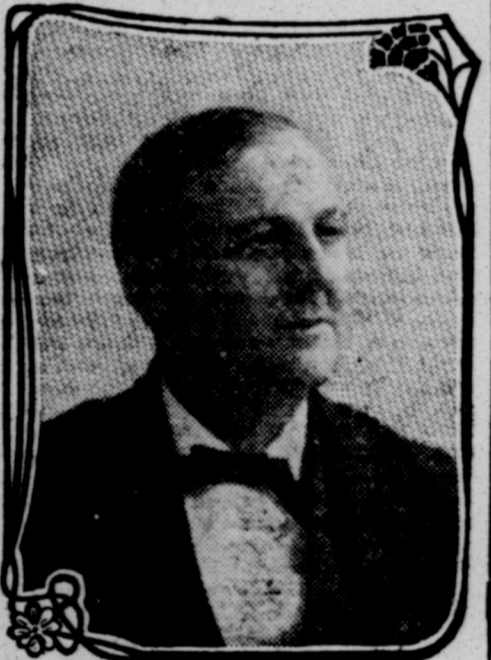

This produces congestion, especially of the mucous membrane lining the various organs of the body.

When this congestion continues for some time it is known as chronic catarrh.

The congestion may occur in the mucous membrane lining the nose, throat, bronchial tubes, stomach, bowels, kidneys and pelvic organs.

Whenever it occurs it produces the same condition—chronic catarrh.

J. H. Huling, ex-Member of Congress from West Virginia, writes:

CONGRESSMAN J. H. HULING. "Peruna as a cure for catarrh and a tonic of most serviceable excellence is beyond all question, as has been proven by many of my friends who have been benefited by its use." -J. H. Huling, Charleston, W. Va.

LEON J. CHARLES, ATTORNEY-AT-LAW, WAS VERY NEAR NERVOUS COLLAPSE.—SAVED BY PE-RU-NA.

Leon J. Charles, Attorney at Law, Winslow, Arizona, writes:

"For a man taken up with the daily routine, and rushed and pushed constantly to do thirty hours' work in twenty-four, there will invariably come a time when nature demands her due. I was on the edge of just such a breakdown when Peruna was recommended to me, and proved a helper and a friend. It seemed impossible at the time to take a vacation, and yet the constant brain fag seemed to compel it. Peruna built up the broken down system, restored me to a normal condition, and through its use I was enabled to continue my work. I have learned to appreciate Peruna very highly, and advocate it as a safe, proper and indeed necessary medicine to every business man who is worn out, tired and sick." -Leon J. Charles.

The symptoms of catarrhal nervousness are:—A foreboding of calamity, a sense of something awful about to happen, twitching of the eyelids, moving brown specks before the eyes and metallic ringing in the ears, sour stomach after eating, with belching of gas, a feeling of great weight in the stomach, morbid fear of leaving home, a constant desire to talk of symptoms, chills and hot flashes, hands and feet usually cold and clammy, general tendency to coldness and dryness of the skin of the whole body, neuralgic headache, nervous chills, hysteria, sinking and faint spells, distressing palpitation of the heart, defective eyesight, total inability to read, write or do any business, urine abundant, without color, loss of flesh, sleeplessness and sexual excitability. Some of these symptoms are present in every case.

All that is claimed for Peruna is that it cures catarrh, wherever located, by its action on the vaso-motor system of nerves. That it is a specific for that phase of catarrh called catarrhal nervousness the accompanying letters show:

Mr. T. W. Scott, Custom House, San Francisco, Cal., writes:

"Some time ago, suffering from indigestion, loss of sleep, and what might be termed general exhaustion, I was recommended to try Peruna, which I did, and found that it did all that is claimed for it."

If you do not receive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Address Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, O.

NAN PATTERSON TO EXPLAIN ABOUT THE TRAGEDY

Original Florodora Girl Will Next Week Change Her Line of Defense and Will Tell of Killing

NEW YORK, June 11.—Counsel for Nan Patterson has informed a representative of the district attorney and also the detectives who have been searching for him, that F. Morgan Smith, brother-in-law of the woman who is held pending investigation into the death of Bookmaker Frank L. Young last Saturday, will be surrendered next Monday.

At the same time assurance was given that Smith will then appear before the grand jury to purge himself of the contempt of court which he committed when he failed to answer a subpoena.

Smith is now outside the state and is safe from arrest on the warrant of attachment issued last Thursday by Judge Newburger, but it has been the intention of the district attorney to have him arrested on another charge and brought back to this city. The promise to surrender him probably will cause District Attorney Jerome to abandon that plan, though the police will continue the search for the missing witness, Captain Sweeney, in whose district the shooting occurred, believes no great difficulty will be experienced in persuading Smith to tell all he knows about the death of Young and the causes leading up to it. There are reports, which as yet are unconfirmed, that the attitude of the defense will change next week and that an explanation of the tragedy of the cab will be offered by the woman who was Young's companion when he was shot.

"Who killed 'Caesar' Young; or the Mystery of a Hansom Cab." A title that might fit a story by Gabriel or Doyle; and, indeed, there are elements of mystery in New York's great shooting sensation that promise to make it one of the most singularly puzzling cases in police annals.

It is easy enough to jump at a conclusion, but when arrived at a mass of refuting circumstances can be placed against it. It is not difficult, of course, for one to satisfy his mind, providing his mind is not analytic, by dismissing the case with the verdict: "There must have been a motive for the killing of Young and it is not hard to deduce who had the motive and likewise the opportunity."

But it is hard, very hard, from the evidence thus far obtained. "Nan" Patterson, the "Florodora" girl, was in the cab with Young when the bullet was fired which killed him. She was with him not at her own desire but at his request that he might see her again before he sailed for Europe with his wife.

"Nan" knew that he was about to sever relations with her. Had she not been murdered it is likely that she would have awaited him to summon her? She was asleep when the message arrived, and, probably, if she had not been thus disturbed, would still have been asleep after Young had started, according to her story, if she did not form a resolution to kill Young before starting to meet him she would not likely have carried a revolver, and so far as diligent inquiry has gone no one has been found who knows of any time when "Nan" did possess a revolver.

There was no deliberation in "Nan's" movements after she received Young's message. She dressed hurriedly and hastened to the place of meeting. The revolver was found in Young's pocket. It is claimed that some one with him must have placed it there. That does not follow. Young did not die instantly, but died to death. He could have placed the revolver in the pocket himself. As to Young's having motive for suicide, Nan says he had been melancholy and was very despondent while in the cab. As to her having motive to kill him, the Patterson woman is not of the kind whose affections are so extreme that she would have killed Young rather than part with him.

Against "Nan's" story of Young's suicide are many facts. The bullet entered just above the heart and lodged in the spinal column. Young was not left-handed and to have shot himself with his right hand he must have held the revolver in such a position that it would have been next to impossible to have pulled the trigger.

It is believed that he was sitting close to the woman and that would have made it very difficult for him to have used his left hand. Had he tried from his pocket the bullet must have taken an entirely different course.

Young never was known to have carried a revolver. No apparent motive exists for suicide. He had arranged to sail, had bought a straw hat, and the day of the shot was fired, had been in the best of spirits on that day in company with his friends, was wealthy and in good health.

Despite lack of strong motive for murder, or of any for suicide, a scuffle might have ensued in which the revolver was discharged—but by whom? In fact, unless some one can be found who can identify the weapon, the mystery of the hansom cab promises to ever remain a mystery, deep and unsolvable.

Countess Marquerite Cassini, daughter of the Russian ambassador, has sent to the Russian Red Cross headquarters in St. Petersburg $15,700, practically all of the proceeds of the Russian Red Cross fair held in Washington on April 26. This is a larger sum than has been realized at any similar event held in Washington for many years. The money will be used not only for the Russian wounded on the field of battle, but for the Japanese who fall within Russian lines.

EXHIBITS FOR THE FAIR SHERMAN, Texas, June 11.—Messrs. John S. Kerr and A. V. Gates yesterday shipped additional exhibits for the Texas agricultural and horticultural department at the Worlds Fair, the former forwarding a fine lot of ripe yellow peaches of the Admiral Dewey variety, and the latter a peck of unusually large onions grown at the Gates home in Fairview. Several of these onions measured seventeen inches in circumference and weighed two pounds.

Colonel R. E. Smith and W. G. Thompson will in a day or two forward similar exhibits and others are expected to follow as rapidly as the various crops of this section mature.

MILLIONAIRE WEDS SHOE FACTORY GIRL

BROCTON, Mass., June 11.—Maud Ella Crowell, the pretty daughter of Frederick Crowell, a workman in a shoe factory here, has been married to Henry S. Flote of San Francisco. The groom, who is said to be a millionaire, met Miss Crowell only two weeks ago at a theater party in New York.

Wellington's famous letter, written two or three hours after the battle of Waterloo, in which he says Bonaparte was totally defeated by the British army, recently brought $105 at a sale at Sotheby's. Was the recent discussion as to the part the British played in that memorable battle started by the owner of the letter? The conjunction of the sale and the discussion had at least a thrifty look.

Among several orders posted at the St. Louis World's Fair camp of the West Point cadets is this one: "Cadets, dancing with ladies, must dance with their left arm extended, and under no circumstances will they be allowed to bend the right elbow so as to draw their partners close to them." The dancing instructions are the subject of much discussion in and around the camp. The cadets think that as they are away from school and on a semi-vacation trip they should be allowed more liberty, even to the extent of drawing their partner at the dance a little closer, if she has no objections, and bending up the arm to the shoulder, as is in vogue generally.

Asphalt continues to be the most valuable mineral of Trinidad. The value of the exports has increased from $57,000 in 1895 to $810,000 in 1902. Up to last year this industry had suffered to some extent from long and costly litigations, but a special commission of inquiry recently made a recommendation which it is hoped will prevent litigation.

(Copyright, 1904, by W. R. Hearst.)

LONDON, June 11.—Lord Curzon has come home. He has been lionized and has quietly gone on his way to Dover, there to await his formal inauguration as lord warden of the Claque ports.

It has long been known that Lady Curzon detests India, the climate of which she insists, is injurious to herself and her children. If she has her way she will never set foot in the country again.

FRENCH GIRLS SEEK TO GET HUSBANDS

PARIS, June 11.—The young girls of Beauvais, a little town in Flanders, are always dreading their death as old maids, and as the young men of that particular neighborhood are usually bashful and retiring disposition, and for this reason not very prompt to pop the question, the girls many years ago adopted a novel device to make them propose.

Once a year all bachelors are invited by the young women to a feast, followed by a dance.

The dinner and the dance took place and all present were in the most hilarious mood when they parted in the early hours of the morning.

INFALLIBLE REMEDY AGAINST MICROBES

PARIS, June 11.—Dr. Raymond Petit of the Pasteur Institute has announced that after a series of experiments he feels confident that he has discovered an infallible remedy against all infections of the serious parts of the body, such as the peritonium and the pleura.

Experiments he made on various animals inoculated with disease germs convinced him of the remarkable efficiency of the serum applied locally.

It is believed that the serum will be especially valuable in preventing infection after surgical operations for appendicitis, peritonitis and other similar diseases.

Just That Many American Mamas Have Been Present-ed at Drawingrooms

AN HUNDRED IN WAITING

Each Hour of the Day Is Occupied and Physical Strain Is Very Severe

(Copyright, 1904, by W. R. Hearst.)

LONDON, June 11.—Three out of the four drawing rooms marked by the splendor of the early Victorian era have passed into history.

Sixteen anxious American mamas and debutante daughters have been raised to the seventh heaven of joy by being presented at court to the king and queen.

A hundred disappointed ones, still lacking the cachet of a drawing room presentation, which practically establishes their status in English society, must wait in the outer darkness until it shall suit the pleasure of the American ambassador to beckon them to the royal presence.

As the days go on the receptions, dinners, dances, balls, state dinners and parties figuratively tumble over one another's heels.

Only two kinds of woman—the horse-riding, race-going, golfing woman, or the hardy war-worn campaigner of half a dozen seasons—pass through the ordeal unharmed.

The remainder pay the usual price of impaired health.

American women were again to the fore at the last royal drawing room and once more they bore the palm of for beauty and dignity.

VATICAN DISCUSSES ALLOWING A BEARD

(Copyright, 1904, by W. R. Hearst.)

PARIS, June 11.—A letter from Rome states that a grave question is being debated in the vatican—shall Catholic clergymen be allowed to wear a beard.

Many prominent Italian clergymen are urging this and the Pope himself is said to be in favor of it.

To those who know Pope Pius, with his pronounced love for all the customs and usages of the archaic Christian church, there is nothing surprising in this.

There are many people who believe that the custom of shaving off the beard has existed from the earliest times of the Christian church, while as a matter of fact nearly all the old Popes wore abundant whiskers.

On the other side it is not much more than fifty years ago that Turin would not allow a bearded man with in their walls.

TOURISTS CROWD CITY OF GENEVA

(Copyright, 1904, by W. R. Hearst.)

GENEVA, June 11.—Although it is still early in the season, this city, as well as Lucerne and Interlaken, are already crowded with tourists, and among them an unusual large number of mountain climbers, who in spite of the dangerous state of the Alps at present and the continuous falling of immense avalanches, are already attempting ascents which even in fine climbing conditions are full of peril.

The well-known English alpinist, Mr. G. Hasler, has had an unpleasant experience and a narrow escape while climbing the Wetterhorn with the guide, Jossi.

They had started in satisfactory weather, but when not very far from the summit they were suddenly enveloped in one of the awful storms for which this mountain is so renowned.

SUFFERER ASKSTO PUT OUT OF WORLD

Cancer Is Wearing His Life Away and He Wants Children to Give Him Easy Death

CRAWFORD, Ark., June 11.—The strangest case in the history of the non-curable cancer has perhaps just come to light here through the action of John Wright, a young farmer, living at Arcadia. Accompanied by a younger brother, Wright called on the sheriff, and asked for permission to administer chloroform to his aged father, who is dying from cancer on the tongue. "My father is a living skeleton, and the doctor tells us there is no hope for a cure," said young Wright. "He does not weigh forty pounds with his clothes on, although he once weighed at least four times that amount. My mother is dying from grieving over father's condition. He can not talk, but has asked us by signs to be relieved from his suffering with chloroform. Before he immigrated to Arkansas from Germany the senior Wright was an inveterate smoker. After he moved to Arcadia he commenced to smoke a wild weed instead of tobacco, and the cancer appeared shortly after. Never having been asked to pass on such a case in his official career, Sheriff Bell Tomkins was at a loss as to how to advise the young man, and with his younger brother Wright returned to Arcadia heart-broken for fear the suffering of his father might cause him to lose his mother, also. The family came to Arkansas direct from a small German village ten years ago, and settled among a German colony which had preceded them.

COPPERHEAD SNAKE FIGHTENS WOMAN

Reptile Clings to Her Skirt and Causes Delirium and She Dies in Convulsions

SOMERSET, Ky., June 11.—Mrs. Henry Hargis, wife of a well known farmer living near here, was literally frightened to death today by a snake. Mrs. Hargis had taken a jug of water to her husband, who was working in the fields, and was returning to the house. She was nearly out of the field when she felt something pulling at her dress from behind, but thinking it only a briar, she gave her skirt a bounce to free herself. Instead of a briar there was an enormous copperhead snake attached to it. Upon seeing the writhing snake Mrs. Hargis fainted. Her husband at the other end of the field saw her fall, and, rushing to her assistance, found the snake within a few feet of his wife coiled ready to strike. He killed the reptile and carried the unconscious woman to the house. A physician was summoned and upon examination found that the snake had bitten the woman, but when she came out of the faint she was in a wild delirium, writhing and jumping from the bed and crying for some one to take the snake off her. Narcotics had no effect upon her and the delirium lasted several hours, when she died in awful agony, believing the snake was still clinging to her.

KNOW THE BARK OF WIFE'S DOG

Husband Follows Her to Meeting and Knock Sounded on Door Dog Gave the Alarm

MUNCIE, Ind., June 11.—Because her pet water spaniel barked at a very inopportune moment Mrs. N. H. Benson, formerly of Muncie, now of Indianapolis, is minus a husband. Mr. and Mrs. Benson came to this city several months ago. Mrs. Benson, young, charming and pretty, was a favorite at all social functions. Her admirers were legion. Especially devoted to her was John Abbot, a well known club man. Benson suspected that another was winning his young wife's affections. One night he decided to follow her when she left home, taking with her the pet dog. Benson called an officer. Approaching a darkened house the officer rapped on the door. The bark of a dog broke the stillness. Benson recognized the bark. This afternoon Judge Lettler granted Benson a divorce. Benson and the officer testified that the dog's bark and Abbot were together when the dog's bark revealed their presence. Mrs. Benson was not present in court and did not contest the proceedings.

FREEDMAN DEED IS BONA FIDE AND SO DECIDED

Indian Agent Makes a Ruling in Important Case Which Establishes Precedent for Future Claims

MUSKOGEE, I. T., June 11.—A most important case was brought up in the Indian agent's office here today. The case was important for several reasons, and the decision rendered will be read with a great deal of interest by all. Nannie Yokley, a freedman, was informed that after having sold her allotment she could not secure the aid of the agency in regaining possession. The land in question has been sold and a warranty deed given, and a non-citizen was in possession. The allottee filed a complaint, and asked to have the alleged intruder removed under the provisions of the Creek treaty. When the case came to trial yesterday the party in possession claimed that the allottee, having sold the land, and the deed being on record, the matter has passed out of the jurisdiction of the agent. On producing a certified copy of the deed, Mr. Bennett, chief clerk in charge of the department of intruders, after conferring with the agent, notified the allottee that the agency would take no action in the matter, the sale having relieved the government of further responsibility. The case is very important, inasmuch as it establishes a precedent and goes to show that the department recognizes the sale of freedman land as bona fide, and will not interfere with the right of possession after the land has been deeded by the allottee.

AUTHOR "QUO VADIS" ON HIS HONEYMOON

(Copyright, 1904, by W. R. Hearst.) FLORENCE, June 11.—The famous Polish author, Henry Sienkiewicz, whose book, "Quo Vadis," has been translated into all the languages of the world, is spending his honeymoon in this city. He recently married a sister of the Canonesses' Order, who belongs to the old Polish nobility, and is related to many distinguished Polish families. The Canonesses do not compel their members to take the vow of celibacy, but they are allowed to marry provided they first leave the order.

GIVES SWEETHEART JEWELS STOLEN FROM MAILS

Lay Reader in the Episcopal Church at El Paso Is Under Charge of Stealing From the Postoffice

EL PASO, Texas, June 11.—For months past jewelry and money has been stolen from the mails in the postoffice here. Today Paul Wilson, a clerk in the office, was arrested, his home searched and the stolen stuff found, and there was stolen jewelry in the possession of his sweetheart, whom he was to marry soon. Wilson is prominent socially. He is a lay reader in the Episcopal church. The thefts have totalled an immense amount. The sweetheart did not know the stuff in her possession was stolen, as it was given to her as presents.

IN AN AUTO TO THE WORLD'S FAIR

The farmers throughout this part of the country may be desolate over the effects of the recent heavy storms interfering with the harvesting, but to two men in this city the lowering clouds have borne far more sorrow. Today H. R. Cromer and Dr. A. R. Bond of this city were to have left on an automobile trip to the World's Fair, but the heavy storms of the past few days have caused a postponement of the Argosy, which will be attempted later in the week. It was not until last night that the trip was finally postponed, but at that time the reports of a number of bridges washed away and the roads generally in bad condition led them to the conclusion that it would be better to wait a few days. In making the trip Mr. Cromer's gasoline car, which, by the way, was the first to be registered under the new automobile ordinance of the city, will be used and the general route of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas railroad will be followed as closely as possible. No fast time is expected to be made on the trip as the gentlemen will stop at all the large towns along the way, selling optical goods, in which business both gentlemen are engaged in this city. No supplies other than samples and clothing will be carried on the trip, and stops over night will be made at towns affording good hotels. The travelers expect to reach St. Louis during August.

STOP AT THE INSIDE INN

An Ideal Location—Right Among the State Buildings at the World's Fair Convenient to The Pike, Yet Secluded and To enjoy the maximum comfort, convenience and pleasure at the World's Fair, St. Louis, with a minimum of trouble and expense, visitors to the big show should make their headquarters at the Inside Inn. This magnificent hostelry, which is built upon a beautiful wooded elevation right within the grounds, is taking care of many thousands of visitors daily. With over two thousand bed rooms and a dining room capable of seating over 2,500 people at every meal, and crowding or lack of accommodation need be feared. The equipment of this splendid hotel is of the finest possible description, rooms with and without bath, electric lights, superb protection against fire and a first class cuisine, rank it as an ideal place in which to sojourn. It is run on both the European and American plans at rates suitable for the most elastic pocket books. These rates vary from $1.50 to $5.50 European plan, and from $2 to $7 American plan, including daily admission to the fair in both cases. The higher priced rooms have private baths and all modern conveniences and the range of prices is governed solely by the location of the room; all having equal dining room privileges. Parties wishing to secure accommodations in advance may do so at any time until up to December 1. A booklet giving full detail will be obtained by writing the Inside Inn, Administration building, World's Fair Grounds, St. Louis.

THE DAYLIGHT STORE

WILL OFFER AS AN UNPARALLELED ATTRACTION a sale of High Class, Up-to-Date Coaching and Dress Parasols. From this superb collection, any taste, any pocket can surely get suited. The styles offered embrace the newest and cleverest shapes this season. The shape and general contour stamp a parasol just as it does a hat. Nothing tops off a faultless costume better than a neat parasol that is in harmony with the color and general effect of your dress. The colors and styles shown in this sale are blacks, navys, gold, browns, champagnes, white, sky, niles, reseda, red, pongee, and quite a few that show several colors skillfully blended. There will also be a sale of EMBROIDERIES, SUITS AND WAISTS, WHITE DRESS GOODS AND MUSLIN UNDERWEAR.

RAIN PROOF COVERT If you tailor your own skirt and coat for mountain climbing, here is your chance. A 54-inch warranted "Cra-vanette" Covert, colors, tan, blue and dark castor; makes good outing skirts, makes the correct rain coat, worth $2.50; special Monday at yard $1.98

JAP SILKS Jap Silks are the coolest for midsummer wear. We are showing a good line in plain stripes and corded kaikis, that make Pajamas, Car Robes and Night Gowns. This silk was cheap at 50c, quite a few good patterns left; special at yard $39c

BLACK TAFFETA The correct Walking Skirt material—Fashion's decree. You will have to have a walking skirt, instep length, regular tailored, like cloth. We are showing for this garment a special for Monday, 36 inches wide, at per yard $1.00

CHIFFONS, LIBERTY SILKS AND MOUSSELINES All the wanted shades—sky, pink, red, lilac, black and white, nile, champagne, cream, double width cloth, three different finishes; special at 50c and $75c

BLACK CHEVIOTS FOR RIDING HABITS The right cloth, good weight, wears well, 52-inch; special at yard $1.25

IN THE ART DEPARTMENT Top and Back of 22-inch Sofa Pillow, made of denim back and front with generous ruffle, stamped in many beautiful designs, is to be given on Monday from 9 to 11 o'clock with ample Olympia floss to work it with, in many designs, the floss alone would cost as much as we charge for the whole outfit, making it altogether one of the most desirable special sales we have ever made from our art department; Monday, 9 to 11 o'clock. 50c for Whole Outfit.

"NO MEND" HOSIERY Are you tired of buying Hose today, and finding holes in them tomorrow? Buy the "No Mend" Linen Spliced Toes, Heels and Knees. Knees, heels and toes out-wear the other part of the hose, saves half your hosiery bill at least, and all your darning. All sizes, per pair $25c

MORE FAMILY SCALES Weigh everything accurately up to 20 pounds. So quickly was the last lot of Scales taken, that we have calls ever since for more. We have received another small lot, and they go on sale Monday; same price, were $2.00 and $2.50, per pair $98c

LACE DRESSES There will be quite a large proportion of our ladies who will not hie themselves to the "mountains," but instead will visit some of our cities that offer courses in summer study. To those we offer this suggestion, that there is no handsomer gown than one of lace and net, for receptions, readings and kindred occasions. We have only six remaining—that sold up to $50.00. They are not expensive when you consider that they are already designed and trimmed—you can afford them at these prices: Monday, $17.75, $21.00, $23.00 and $35.00

SCARFS AND LUNCH CLOTHS We have received the last few days a few dozen Linen Scarfs and Lunch Cloths, beautifully worked and of very fine quality figured linen. They are not high, and we guarantee no such values were ever offered before. Call and see them at the linen counter, whether you buy or not; prices, Monday, 75c, $1.00, $1.50, $1.68 and $2.00

FINE EMBROIDERIES A new lot—just as pretty as the last and if anything cheaper. Just in the lengths most desired for skirts, underwear and children's frocks; prices just about one-half.

JAPANESE AND SILK GAUZE FANS This is fan time—better supply yourself. Fans of every kind and every price, from 1c up to $2.00

CARPET AND CURTAIN DEPARTMENT When you buy floor covering, whether it is a Wilton, Axminster, Brussels, Ingrain or Linoleum, buy none but the old reliable brands. We never sell any but the best standard makes, which we guarantee to sell to you 15 per cent cheaper than others charge for inferior goods. Besides we offer extraordinary bargains nearly every week, which alone should be an inducement to you to trade with us.

RIVALRY IN LOVE MUST FIGHT FAIR

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 11.—As a warning to all rivals in love that they must fight fair a jury in the circuit court declared today that John W. Tulley must pay $1,500. Tulley and John Bowling were rivals for the smiles of the same girl. Bowling is the younger of the two and seemed to be making headway. Tulley whipped him in the young woman's presence and got a clear field for himself. Bowling sued Tulley, and the jury today gave him $1,500. Of this amount $500 is to compensate him for the beating and $1,000 is for punitive damages. Tulley's case was a peculiarly aggravated one, because while Bowling sat in the parlor with the young woman, who was playing the piano, Tulley came to the door and beckoned him into the dining room. There he beat him unmercifully. The young woman was Miss Rose Wanstone, daughter of Mrs. Carrie Perkins.

RAISING A FUND FOR FENCIBLES

Fort Worth Citizens Are Coming to the Assistance of the Military Company of This City

Patriotic citizens of Fort Worth are rallying to the aid of the Fort Worth Fencibles, one of the twelve companies of the Texas National Guard selected by the adjutant general of the state to visit the St. Louis World's Fair July 16, for the purpose of taking part in the competitive drill, and are subscribing liberally to a fund to be used by the soldier boys in defraying their actual living expenses incurred on the trip.

The World's Fair management provides transportation for the Texas soldiers, but they are compelled to foot their other expenses and the collection now being taken by a local committee is to be used for this purpose. The money thus raised is to be turned over to the state, which will see that it is judiciously distributed among the members of the Fencibles.

Speaking of the matter yesterday, Colonel George T. West said that it would be safe to say that the Fencibles will be among the Texas companies at the World's Fair, and that they will not doubt make a showing of which the citizens of Fort Worth may well be proud.

The subscription list is headed by the Northern Texas Traction Company, which gave $50. The other donations are: Armory & Co., $25; Fort Worth Stock Yards Company, $15; August, $15; Oscar Lenglet, $25; J. D. McLean, $5; R. E. Milam, $5; C. T. Rowland, $25; C. Ross Bowlin, $25; J. C. Lord, $25; M. B. Loyd, $5; Fort Worth National bank, $5; Fort Worth Machinery and Foundry Company, $25; Captain J. C. Ferrell, $1; J. A. Starling, $1; B. C. Rhome, $1; W. H. Ward, $1; Geo. Lettler, $1; Washer Bros., $5; Worth hotel, $5; American National bank, $5; D. T. Bomar, $5; Turner & Dinger, $5; Martin Casey & Co., $5; Ladd Furniture Company, $5; Pater-Lowe Dry Goods Company, $5; Hunter-Phelan Savings bank, $5; J. W. Spencer, $5; John P. King, $5; R. H. McNatt, $5; G. W. Wilcox, $25; Bullock Bros. & Bannister, $25; W. G. Lattimore, $1; M. E. Smith, $1; Bill M. Williams, $1; Stephen Marras, $1; Phil Becker, $1; and The Fair, $5. The total subscription to date is $292.50.

It is the intention to raise a total sum of about $500, as it will require that much to even allow the boys a very poor "living."

"The going to St. Louis of the Fencibles will be a good card for Fort Worth and there should not be a hiten in securing enough money with which to send them in good shape," said a prominent citizen to The Telegram last night.

GLENWOOD AND POLYTECHNIC HILL

Preparations are being made at Polytechnic college to take care of the Tarrant county school teachers during the normal.

The dormitory is in readiness for occupancy by teachers who will attend the Tarrant county summer normal. About seventy-five or eighty teachers are expected to attend. The normal promises to be one of the most successful one ever held. It opens Tuesday morning.

President H. A. Boaz and wife have gone to St. Louis to attend the exposition for a few weeks.

Actual work has begun on the boys' dormitory. After the foundation is laid the walls can be erected in about three weeks.

Professor A. C. Hurt, teacher of language, left Friday morning for Chicago. He will pursue a further course in the ancient and modern languages at the University of Chicago this summer.

Little Misses Mary and Virgie Brown have been visiting their aunt, Mrs. L. A. Higginbotham, for the past two weeks. They left this morning for their home in Ryan, L. T.

Dr. R. A. Bond leaves in the morning for the St. Louis exposition. He will make the journey in an automobile and will not return until September 1.

COLD NUGGETS

Equal to a Fortune Left by a '49er

"How many times I have heard my father brag about a package of Grape-Nuts which I was to leave at her home for her for eating."

"As time passed on and I developed into a poor but aspiring typewriter (with no one to pay me for eating) some years of boarding house fare, hot gas, tough meat, soupy vegetables, heavy pastry, skimmed milk ice cream, all these showed themselves in dyspepsia and a crop of unsightly pimples.

"Now I think I had enough to lose one's youthful contour of face and neck by improper eating, but to afflict your friends with a pimply face and flabby double chin is to declare oneself 'below par' and 'out of the market.'"

"You know what that means in the case of a woman over twenty-five? I tried the 'no breakfast' plan until my eyes showed the injurious effects of hard work before food put in the stomach had drawn blood from the brain. When I did eat I had to take so much to get a little nourishment and this crowding showed in bad effects on the kidneys and stomach and I would wake in the morning with pains in the head and hot eyes, as the children say, 'with sticks in them.'"

"One day a good housewife sent me to the store for two packages of Grape-Nuts, which I was to leave at her home on my way back from work. About 11 o'clock that morning I felt terribly faint and knew the signal was flying for a sick headache, so what did I do but take one of my friend's packages of Grape-Nuts, still it open with a stick pin and munch about two spoonfuls. If one of the '49ers had left me a fortune in gold nuggets I couldn't have felt better.

"Next morning I had a package of my own, and a tip to the waiter brought a little pitcher of cream with an egg beaten up in it and pouring this over the Grape-Nuts I had a delicious little dish that kept me sustained and strong and vigorous until my 2 o'clock lunch, notwithstanding five hours' hard work at the typewriter. Grape-Nuts has been my breakfast since that time and note the result—"

"Brain is strong and vigorous, skin and complexion are clear, headaches gone and that terrible 'heavy' sensation of the body had disappeared."

There's a reason. Look in any package for the famous little book, "The Road to Wellville."

CHILD WANTS HER FATHER TO DIE

She Refuses to Plead With the Governor, as Fears if Murderer Escapes Will Kill Her

COLUMBUS, Ohio, June 11.—Because his 11-year-old daughter would not appeal to the governor to save his life Michael Schiller, condemned to die for wife murder, today severely reproved the child.

The three children of Schiller came down from Cleveland yesterday to bid their father farewell. They remained overnight, and today visited him again.

"Go to the governor and save my life, Minnie," pleaded Schiller. "I can not go," answered the child. "Then write to him, for God's sake, and tell him not to let me be electrocuted," came the further appeal.

"No, I don't want to do that. The governor has decided, and I don't want to ask him, anyhow," was the response. "This angered the father, and he upbraided the child.

Sister Housegardner, who was with the children, says that Minnie has feared that her father would kill her, too, if he had the opportunity. Before she consented to exact a promise from the mother superior that she would not be left alone with her father. She said she did not want him to escape the chair, for she knew that if he ever got free he would do to her as he had done to her mother.

There was a demonstration of Minnie's fear during the final visit, when Sister Housegardner expressed a desire to see the electric chair. She told the child she would be back in a minute, and started, but Minnie followed, declaring she would not stay with her father, even with the prison guard present.

BASEBALL, RACING AND SPORTS

A SHUT OUT FOR CORSICANA BOYS

The Huddleston Hoodoo Has Been Overcome in a Good Game of Nine Innings

The Huddleston hoodoo was broken yesterday afternoon and Fort Worth piled up a tidy bunch of hits and five runs.

The shut out started with Thebo, the first man up in the first, waving fruitlessly with the willow three times, and ended in the ninth when Markley hit Reitz for an out.

Christman was in the box for Fort Worth. Was at his best and received 18 karat support.

The home team tallied in the second inning. Willis drawing four unhit.

Dunn scored again in the fifth, going to bat after two were down.

Reitz started the sixth with a clean hit over the second bag.

The remainder of the game was played without any further scoring, in a nasty drizzling rain.

Table with columns: AB, R, BH, PO, A, E. Rows for Fort Worth and Corsicana players and totals.

Summary - Innings pitched, by Christman 9, by Huddleston 8, by base hits, Sullivan, Willis, three-base hits, Dunn, struck out by Christman.

Notes of the Game - Corsicana did not get a man past second.

Two peculiar plays marked the game. Coyle struck out on the third and McMurray threw to Reitz who got McCarthy.

Haidt is still improving and hopes to be in the game in a couple of weeks.

Dunn's bluff in the sixth that kept McCarthy on first was as near a three-bagger in the third.

Thebo came near being safe on first in the sixth on a hit to Willis who was playing off the bag.

President Abey announces that Wilson Matthews has asked for his release as umpire in the Texas League.

Elks are to play - Just what a game of ball can generate in the way of fun will be illustrated at Haines Park next Thursday.

In the first game that was played here Fort Worth showed a score of ten to eight.

PUT NONE BUT PARKER MEN ON GUARD AS DELEGATES

TARRANT COUNTY ENDORSES THE NEW YORKER—STRONG ENDORSEMENT FOR GILLESPIE—JUDGE B. D. TARTLTON MADE A FINE ADDRESS IN WHICH HE TALKS OF THE DISTINGUISHED JURIST OF NEW YORK STATE—JUDGE ALBRIGHT SCORES THE APPOINTMENT OF KNOX AS SENATOR

In a harmonious convention in which every motion offered was unanimously adopted the democrats of Tarrant county yesterday afternoon expressed their preference for Judge Alton B. Parker as the nominee of the democratic party and instructed their delegates to the state convention to cast the votes of this county for him.

Delegates were also chosen to represent the county in the judicial district convention with instructions to support Judge T. H. Connor to succeed himself. Resolutions were adopted endorsing the candidacy of James Hays Quarles as representative from the floral district, and endorsing Hon. O. W. Gillespie for reelection from this congressional district.

"The convention will please come to order," announced County Chairman Capps shortly after 2 o'clock, interrupting a buzzing and grouping that would have been ominous in any but so harmonious body. Then calling off the various precincts and wards in order that their delegates might be seated together for the purpose of the convention, namely to "choose the next president of the United States."

In response to the answering cheers Mr. Capps modestly stated that it was not for him to say who that would be. Mr. Capps then announced that in the event of a tie between any of the precincts or wards the matter would be settled by the temporary chairman and the members of the executive committee. No contests, however, being announced Albert Easkin placed in nomination for temporary chairman and secretary the names of William Capps and H. L. Calhoun. No contests being announced to prevent the immediate organization of the meeting the motion was changed on suggestion of Mayor Powell to make the gentlemen permanent officers. This was adopted unanimously and Chairman Capps in a brief speech thanked the body for the honor conferred and suggested immediate action as an aid to witnessing the ball game.

VOTE AS UNIT FOR PARKER
Senator W. A. Hanger at once offered a motion that a committee of three be appointed by the chair to select delegates to the state convention at San Antonio, and that the said committee be instructed to select thirty-four delegates to cast the seventeen votes of this county in the said San Antonio convention and that said committee be instructed to select no delegates who are not delegates to the convention of Judge Alton B. Parker of New York for president of the United States, and that said delegates be instructed to vote in said San Antonio convention for instructions for Judge Alton B. Parker for president and that said delegates be further instructed to vote for no delegates to the national convention in St. Louis, either for district delegate or for delegate from the state at large, who is not a pronounced and avowed supporter of Judge Parker for president, and that said delegates to said convention be instructed to vote as a unit on all questions coming before said convention.

The motion was adopted with a hurrah, no dissenting voices being heard, and Chairman Capps immediately appointed Messrs. Estell of Grapevine, Bratton of Mansfield and Parker of Fort Worth as the committee to select delegates. The committee retired, Chairman Capps announcing that he could now say whom he favored for the office.

INDORSEMENT FOR GILLESPIE
Mayor Powell then introduced the following resolution, endorsing Congressman Gillespie for reelection, which was unanimously adopted on a rising vote:
"Be it resolved that the democrats of this county, in convention assembled, do heartily indorse the course and record in congress of our present congressman, Hon. O. W. Gillespie, and recommend him to the citizens of Tarrant county and of the congressional district as a man well qualified for the high position he now fills and in every way worthy of their votes."

A FLORIAL INDORSEMENT
James H. Maddox, delegate from the Fourth ward, then introduced the resolution endorsing the candidacy of James Hays Quarles for leader from the district comprising Cook, Denton, Tarrant and Wise counties, and bespeaking for him the united support of Tarrant county. The resolution was unanimously adopted. Mr. Quarles not being present Judge Milam was appointed a committee of one to secure his attendance at the convention.

At this point Chairman Capps took an opportunity to explain the recent congressional executive committee's action and announced that as county chairman he would rule and give instruction to the judges to take votes for congressman.

JUDGES OF ELECTION
In the matter of the selection of judges for the various polling places he announced that he wished the members from the county precincts to present to him the names of representative men from their respective districts for the office. As it is necessary that there be a publication of this list he asked that recommendations be made as soon as possible. Mayor Powell suggested that members of the precincts present make such recommendation at the close of the convention and an invitation to do so was extended. The list of judges will be announced early this week.

At this point Judge Prewett asked for information as to whether these judges would not properly be named by the county chairman to be chosen by yesterday's convention, but being under the impression that Chairman Capps intended at that convention in place of the next succeeding one, as is the case, being set right on this point he removed the objection.

JUDGE TARTLTON SPEAKS
Pending the report of the delegate committee Q. T. Moreland moved that an invitation be extended Judge Tartlton to address the meeting.
Judge Tartlton responded in a rousing democratic vein that time and again elicited cheers from the audience. He said in part: "I will say my words to this convention should be in the nature of words of congratulation on their adoption of Senator Hanger's resolution rather than words in discussion of that resolution.

"We are all democrats gathered here, selected from the various wards and precincts. We are all democrats and it is only natural that we should be democrats. With us it is a matter of tradition as well as a matter of belief."

Passing to the scenes of destruction and reconstruction as visited upon the south, he drew a picture of Texas, proud and strong in her infancy and glory, then Texas as lying low, her fields laid waste, her houses desolate and destroyed. Quoting his votes from the time of Tilden down, he was met with a burst of cheers upon his announcing that his next vote would be cast for Judge Alton B. Parker.

"Why should we not support the most available man in the country? And Judge Parker is that man. He has been judge of the highest tribunal in the state of New York for a period of fifteen years. He has carried the state by an overwhelming majority of 79,999 votes against a ticket led by Roosevelt. As judge he has thoroughly reviewed the trust and corporation question and his decisions on these questions have always been found on the side of truth and justice and consequently upon the side compatible with the best interests of the masses. We can not elect a president unless we carry New York state and no one can better do this than one who has already carried the state by 79,999 majority.

"On the silver question I do not convict those who stood firm in their belief that that issue was paramount, but I would now invite them since that issue is past to join with us in the common support of the strongest man.

"It does not think we can stand upon a platform wholly silent on the silver issue."
Quoting largely from Judge Reagan, to whom he referred as the Nestor of democracy, he urged the sinking of issues and merging on the vital ones, and concluded: "You have asked for my views. I am not the man who will identify, typify and unify the party. Judge Parker will dignify it as a plain, simple democratic gentleman; he will typify it, for he is a typical democrat, and he will unify the party because under his banner we can all unite and march to victory and triumph."

A COMMITTEE APPOINTED
At the conclusion of Judge Tartlton's speech, which was received with prolonged applause, Chairman Capps called attention to the fact that the district judicial convention would occur on the same day as the party primary and that it, therefore, devolved upon the convention, although perhaps a trifle in excess of their duties, to consider the choice of the next judge of the district. The convention, however, being a typical democratic gathering, he suggested that some action be taken to appoint a committee of three to consider the choice of the next judge of the district. The convention, however, being a typical democratic gathering, he suggested that some action be taken to appoint a committee of three to consider the choice of the next judge of the district. The convention, however, being a typical democratic gathering, he suggested that some action be taken to appoint a committee of three to consider the choice of the next judge of the district.

THANKS THE CONVENTION
At this juncture James Hays Quarles appeared and responding to the invitation, he thanked the convention for their indorsement of his candidacy and explained fully his stand in refusing to enter a caucus of the candidates on the ground that if the county wanted him it was theirs to say so, and not a caucus of the candidates. The action of the convention, he said, he looked upon to be helpful in its effect upon the other counties, and assured the convention that he elected to the office would be no complaint because his district was not heard from. Again thanking the convention, he resumed his place in the audience.

THE SAN ANTONIO DELEGATION
The committee to appoint delegates announced that they were ready to report and submitted the following names, which were unanimously adopted: William Capps, W. A. Hanger, W. D. Williams, A. J. Baskin, Q. T. Moreland, Clarence Ousley, T. J. Powell, J. H. Maddox, M. A. Spoons, B. L. Wagonman, R. C. Armstrong, Jr., J. P. Hird, June Polk, W. R. Parker, R. H. Buck, R. M. Erwin, A. L. Matlock, Judge B. D. Tartlton, John F. Lehans, John F. Henderson, W. T. Maddox, Dr. W. H. Davis, James Delto, R. A. Barrows, O. S. Lattimore, Jake Buck, Mr. Fitzhugh, Frank Ramsey, C. E. Stewart, Zeb Jenkins, Stuart Harrison, Drew Fruit, R. F. Milam, William Barr, W. B. Paddock and Morgan Bryant.

JUDGE ALBRIGHT TALKS
While awaiting the report of the judicial district committee a short talk was made by Judge F. E. Albright, in the course of which he referred to the appointment of Attorney General Knox to succeed Senator Quay in seathing terms.

JUDICIAL DISTRICT DELEGATES
The report of Judge Williams naming as delegates Judge W. P. McLean, Theodore Mack, W. D. Williams, Ray Hunter, R. F. Milam, Judge Mike Smith, George Thompson, S. B. Canby, S. H. Cowan, W. B. Paddock, William Capps, Fort Worth; J. Henry Phillips, Mansfield; Ben Terrell and Mr. Dugan, Arlington; Clarence Stewart, Grapevine; John D. Hudson, Pringle, Kennedale; J. T. Valentine, North Fort Worth, and Mr. Cook from Keller, was adopted and the convention adjourned.

JUDICIAL CONVENTION CALLED TO MEET HERE

ABILENE, Texas, June 11.—Hon. B. A. Cox, chairman of the democratic executive committee for the Second supreme judicial district of Abilene, Texas, gave out the following call:
"To the Democracy of the Second Supreme Judicial District of Texas: In obedience to the instructions of the democratic executive committee of said district and by virtue of authority vested in me as chairman of said district, I hereby call upon the democracy of said district in the several counties of said district to select delegates in the manner determined upon in each of said counties on the second Saturday in July (July 9), 1904, to a judicial convention to nominate a chief justice for the court of civil appeals for said district, and the delegates as selected on July 9, being the second Saturday in July, by the several counties will meet in convention at the city of Fort Worth on the fourth Saturday in July (July 23), 1904, to nominate a candidate to said office of chief justice for the court of civil appeals for said district."

HARDEMAN IS UNINSTRUCTED
QUANAH, Texas, June 11.—The democratic county convention today selected delegates to the state convention at San Antonio. The delegation was not instructed as to president.
NOISY IN GRAYSON
SHERMAN, Texas, June 11.—The democratic county convention today was a long, noisy affair, which finally resulted in sending an uninstructed delegation to the San Antonio convention. The committee submitted a report, including Parker instructions, but this was voted down, after a long and heated wrangle, punctuated by vain calls for order by the chair.

EASTLAND FOR PARKER
EASTLAND, Texas, June 11.—The county democratic convention here today selected delegates to the San Antonio convention and instructed them to vote for Parker and as a unit on all issues.

OVIATION TO GILLESPIE
WEATHERFORD, Texas, June 11.—At the county convention here today a resolution was passed endorsing the course of Hon. O. W. Gillespie in congress and it is giving him favor for a renomination. The mention of his name resulted in an ovation. The delegation to San Antonio is uninstructed.

BRYAN PLATFORM DOWNED
DENTON, Texas, June 11.—The Wise county delegation to the state convention is uninstructed, the personnel, however, is strongly for Parker. The Bryan platform was unanimously downed.

GEORGE CLARK ENDORSED
WACO, Texas, June 11.—The McLennan county democratic convention instructed the delegates to San Antonio for Parker and endorsed him heartily. On motion of Hon. Waller S. Baker, the convention endorsed Judge George Clark as a delegate at large. The convention makes a strong plea for harmony in order to win.

It will be remembered that during the memorable campaign of 1892 when Judge Clarke was a candidate against Hogg for governor, when the latter was the democratic nominee, Hon. Waller S. Baker was in the executive committee managing the Hogg campaign. The lion and the lamb in the convention today lay down together. Judge Clark has contended all along that he has never deserted the party but that the organization had left the faith. He said he would continue to stand by the door and extend an invitation for the organization to return, and the plea for harmony made by the convention is in line with his personal views.

HARRISON FOR HEARST
MARSHALL, Texas, June 11.—The democratic convention held here today instructed for Hearst for president. The delegates are under the unit rule.

HARRIS FOR PARKER
HOUSTON, Texas, June 11.—The Parker men had everything their way at the county convention today. It was presided over by John H. Kirby. No opposition appeared in any stages of the organization. A list of Hearst delegates was rejected and a delegation numbering of the Daughters of the Republic of Texas was indorsed. Colonel R. M. Johnston was indorsed for national committee man.

BEXAR FOR PARKER
SAN ANTONIO, Texas, June 11.—The Bexar county democratic convention instructed for Parker and the delegates were instructed to vote as a unit. Bailey and Culberson and T. D. Cobbs were recommended as delegates at large for the state at the national convention. Frank H. Bustrick and Judge Clarence Martin are the favorites for the Fourteenth congressional district to the national convention.

FANNIN UNINSTRUCTED
BONHAM, Texas, June 11.—The delegates to the state convention go uninstructed. The convention indorsed Bailey, Culberson, Reagan and Hogg for delegates at large.
STATE IS FOR PARKER
AUSTIN, Texas, June 11.—Instructions for Judge Alton B. Parker of New York prevailed throughout Texas today. This was the day chosen to select delegates to the state convention which meets in San Antonio on June 21. Reports from all over the state show that the Parker men were voted for and that a large majority of the counties instructed straight out for Parker.

OPPOSES ANY INSTRUCTION
COLORADO, Texas, June 11.—The delegation goes uninstructed and instructed to endorse St. Louis. R. H. Looney, W. R. Smith and W. B. Crockett are delegates.
VICTORY FOR PARKER MEN
WAXAHACHIE, Texas, June 11.—When the state democratic convention meets in San Antonio, June 21, the sixteen votes of Ellis county will be cast as a unit for delegates to the St. Louis convention who are favorable to the nomination of Judge Parker for president. This was the result of the county convention held here this afternoon and regarded as a great victory for the supporters of Judge Parker for the reason a majority of precincts instructed against him last Saturday. The convention was organized by electing Hon. John H. Sharp of Ennis as chairman. Fifty delegates were selected to represent the county in the state convention. The platform adopted pledges, renewed allegiance to the principles of democracy as enunciated by Jefferson and denounced the administration of President Roosevelt as a menace to good government.

BROWN COUNTY FOR BRYAN
BROWNWOOD, Texas, June 11.—The county democratic convention was held here this afternoon and elected twenty-one delegates to the San Antonio convention, but the county is entitled to only seven votes in the convention. The delegation was instructed to vote for Hon. A. C. Overholser for presidential elector from the Thirtieth congressional district, and for John H. Reagan for one of the delegates at large from Texas to the St. Louis convention. A motion to instruct for Parker for president was lost by a vote of 18 to 16.

PRECINCT FOR HEARST
GRAHAM, Texas, June 11.—The precinct convention instructed for Hearst. The county convention meets Monday.

PARKER MOTION IS LOST
DENTON, Texas, June 11.—The Denton county democratic convention was held here this afternoon and elected twenty-one delegates to the San Antonio convention, but the county is entitled to only seven votes in the convention. The delegation was instructed to vote for Hon. A. C. Overholser for presidential elector from the Thirtieth congressional district, and for John H. Reagan for one of the delegates at large from Texas to the St. Louis convention. A motion to instruct for Parker for president was lost by a vote of 18 to 16.

COOKE IS FOR BAILEY
GAINESVILLE, Texas, June 11.—The democratic convention of this county instructed for Bailey if a candidate for president; otherwise for Parker.

CORVELL FOR PARKER
GATESVILLE, Texas, June 11.—Six of the twenty-eight precincts represented in the county convention instructed for Parker, Eidson for district elector, Pat Neff for an elector at large and the Lanham administration was indorsed.

HILL IS FOR PARKER
HILLSBORO, Texas, June 11.—The Hill county democratic convention elected delegates to the state convention and instructed them to vote as a unit for Parker for president.

FREE STATE OF VAN ZANDT
WILLS POINT, Texas, June 11.—The Van Zandt county democratic convention was held at Canton today. Delegates to San Antonio were selected and instructed for Parker for president.

DALLAS IS UNINSTRUCTED
DALLAS, Texas, June 11.—The uninstructed delegates in the county democratic convention here today, instead of electing eighteen delegates to the state convention which meets at San Antonio on June 21, went a signal victory yesterday afternoon and the Parker supporters deserve part of the credit. The result of nearly a day's debate, which at times was most animated, is that an uninstructed delegation will be sent from this county to the Alamo City. The list of delegates follows: N. W. Finley, Dr. William Fisk, M. M. Crane, J. T. Jones, S. E. Moss, K. K. Force, Henry Marshall, J. T. Mewshaw, W. A. Hanger, E. C. Williams, W. T. Strange, E. G. Senter, J. C. Rude, W. H. Clark, Edward Gray, M. T. Lively, Ben E. Cabell and C. A. Rasbury.

The Hearst men were numerous in the convention and their enthusiasm was of the genuine democratic brand, but they found it impossible early in the convention and their turned their efforts to wards preventing instructions for Hearst. There are five Hearst and five Parker men on the delegation and the remainder are non-committal, but the delegation is instructed to vote as a unit at San Antonio.

GREGG FOR PARKER
LONGVIEW, Texas, June 11.—The Gregg county convention today instructed for Judge Parker and adopted the unit rule in regard to the delegates to the state convention. Resolutions indorsing Proctor Cousins for state superintendent of instruction were passed, and also instructing delegates to vote against any change in the local option law.

WILLIAMSON FOR PARKER
GEORGETOWN, Texas, June 11.—In the county democratic convention today the delegates were instructed for Alton B. Parker for president. The unit rule was adopted.

HARRISON FOR HEARST
MARSHALL, Texas, June 11.—The democratic convention held here today instructed for Hearst for president. The delegates are under the unit rule.

HARRIS FOR PARKER
HOUSTON, Texas, June 11.—The Parker men had everything their way at the county convention today. It was presided over by John H. Kirby. No opposition appeared in any stages of the organization. A list of Hearst delegates was rejected and a delegation numbering of the Daughters of the Republic of Texas was indorsed. Colonel R. M. Johnston was indorsed for national committee man.

BEXAR FOR PARKER
SAN ANTONIO, Texas, June 11.—The Bexar county democratic convention instructed for Parker and the delegates were instructed to vote as a unit. Bailey and Culberson and T. D. Cobbs were recommended as delegates at large for the state at the national convention. Frank H. Bustrick and Judge Clarence Martin are the favorites for the Fourteenth congressional district to the national convention.

FANNIN UNINSTRUCTED
BONHAM, Texas, June 11.—The delegates to the state convention go uninstructed. The convention indorsed Bailey, Culberson, Reagan and Hogg for delegates at large.
STATE IS FOR PARKER
AUSTIN, Texas, June 11.—Instructions for Judge Alton B. Parker of New York prevailed throughout Texas today. This was the day chosen to select delegates to the state convention which meets in San Antonio on June 21. Reports from all over the state show that the Parker men were voted for and that a large majority of the counties instructed straight out for Parker.

Yorkshire, England, is always able, even in unfavorable seasons, to export to the United States large quantities of potatoes and to sell them here at a profit, notwithstanding the duty of 25 cents a bushel. The season of 1903 was especially unfavorable, the excessive rains causing a loss of fully one-third of the crop by rotting. In spite of this exports are being made.

AN INSTRUCTOR

SMALL ARM DRILL BY BRITISH NAVAL RECRUIT

By WALDON FAWCETT.

As is befitting the greatest naval nation on the globe Great Britain spends an immense amount of money in training young men for service in her navy. Whether she really gives her naval sailors anything like as perfect an intellectual and physical equipment for their sea duties as Uncle Sam bestows upon the American "Jackies" is a question which is, to say the least, open to argument. But, at any rate, John Bull does devote no end of attention to the subject and his methods are interesting and instructive, particularly in view of the fact that a considerable portion of the foreign seamen under the Stars and Stripes received the training of British tars.

To appreciate how much depends upon the British bluejackets it is only necessary to recall that her navy in reality constitutes Great Britain's "first line of defense." For our English cousins the sea is not a mere waterway from one country to another, but a domain to be policed, patrolled and guarded. The integrity of Britannia's widely scattered colonies, the prosperity of the commerce, which is the backbone of her prosperity, and, finally, the safety of the three exposed islands comprising the United Kingdom all depend upon the mastery of the sea.

Furthermore, what brings the matter home to every Britisher is the fact that the country depends so absolutely on the navy for its food supply. The densely populated islands never have more than six weeks' food supply ahead, and it is, after all, primarily as a safeguard against famine that John Bull maintains his great fleet of about half a thousand warships, manned by more than 110,000 officers and men, going down into his pocket to the tune of fully $15,000,000 a year to keep up and increase this cordon of floating fortresses.

For all that so large a force is required there has never been a lack of seafaring men to man the British navy. The young British tar has almost as much chance of promotion as a lad in the American navy. On board one of the training ships stationed at Portsmouth, Portland, Devonport, Falmouth or Queensferry he qualifies as a "first-class boy," and is subsequently drafted, after a six weeks' cruise on a training brig and a six months' course on a depot ship, to a coveted place on a seagoing training ship. Here begins his real career in the navy, and if he progresses advantageously the young man goes through in succession the different grades of "ordinary seaman," "trained seaman" and "leading seaman." If he works hard he will win promotion to the rank of "petty officer, second class." Harder work is required to merit recognition as "petty officer, first class," but it is quite within his reach, as are the positions of "warrant officer," "chief boatswain," "chief gunner," and even higher places.

In the British navy it is required that new recruits start in earlier in life than is necessary in the American navy. No boy, no matter how promising physically or intellectually, is received after he has passed his sixteenth year and each lad binds himself to continue in the service for 12 years, a much longer term of enlistment than prevails in Uncle Sam's seafighting force. The juvenile British tar is likewise more poorly paid than his American cousin.

Indeed, his wages for a considerable time after he goes aboard the old wooden man-of-war, which serves as a training ship, amount to only a few cents per day. The officers of the British training ships devote no end of attention to making the lads under their care physically fit. Boxing and other athletics are encouraged in every possible way. In the British, as in the American, navy the theory obtains that the training of the old-time sailor is the best in the world for giving his twentieth-century "successor" quickness and accuracy of hand and eye and steadiness of nerve and foot, and so the youngsters on the ships flying the Union Jack are taught all manner of work with rope and canvas; learn to make sail and to take hand-lead and deep-sea soundings; master the knack of steering to and for the wind; accustom themselves to manning, lowering and pulling boats, and gather all the other odds and ends of knowledge that constituted the stock in trade of the all-around man on the steam war boat.

When a young fellow in the British navy advances to the rank of "first-class boy" he receives 20 cents per day in addition, of course, to his board, lodging, clothing and medical attendance. The amount seems small in comparison to the sum paid for relative service in the American navy, but, nevertheless, a young Englishman who is apt and alert can work up to a very profitable position in the service, as, for instance, of chief gunnery instructor on a battleship, where the pay is nearly $50 per month—the equivalent of $70 net profit, since the seaman need have no expenses save those for amusements.

Marriage for the men who are working their way up in the British Navy is not discouraged, and there are few petty officers, even of the second class, who have not wives at the home station—helpmates who, in many instances, follow their husbands to a colonial or foreign station, and sometimes set up an established money-making venture as sailors' lodginghouse or some other business enterprise which constitutes for Jack to step into after his term of enlistment has expired in case he does not care to continue in his old vocation.

There is more difference than one might imagine between the young British tars and their competitors on this side of the Atlantic. Despite the vaunted claim of British officers that their enlisted men are, in actual seamanship, far superior to any other lads afloat, there is no doubt that in reality our present-day Yankee boys can give them goods not only in seamanship, but also in gunnery, mechanics and small-arms exercises. It must be admitted, however, that of all navy men the Americans take least kindly to the dirty, unpleasant and exhausting work of feeding and coaling the furnaces in the hold and coaling the warships. The Germans and Scandinavians do not appear to mind this class of work particularly, and the British bluejackets, although they term it "onpleasant," go through with the work, after all, with better grace than the Americans. After all, however, this may merely be due to the stricter discipline in the British Navy, for the American "Jackies" enjoy not a cent more pay, but also greater liberties than are granted to King Edward's tars—a circumstance which accounts for the propensity of the British Jack to leave his own service and enlist in the American Navy under an assumed name as an American-born or naturalized citizen of the greatest republic.

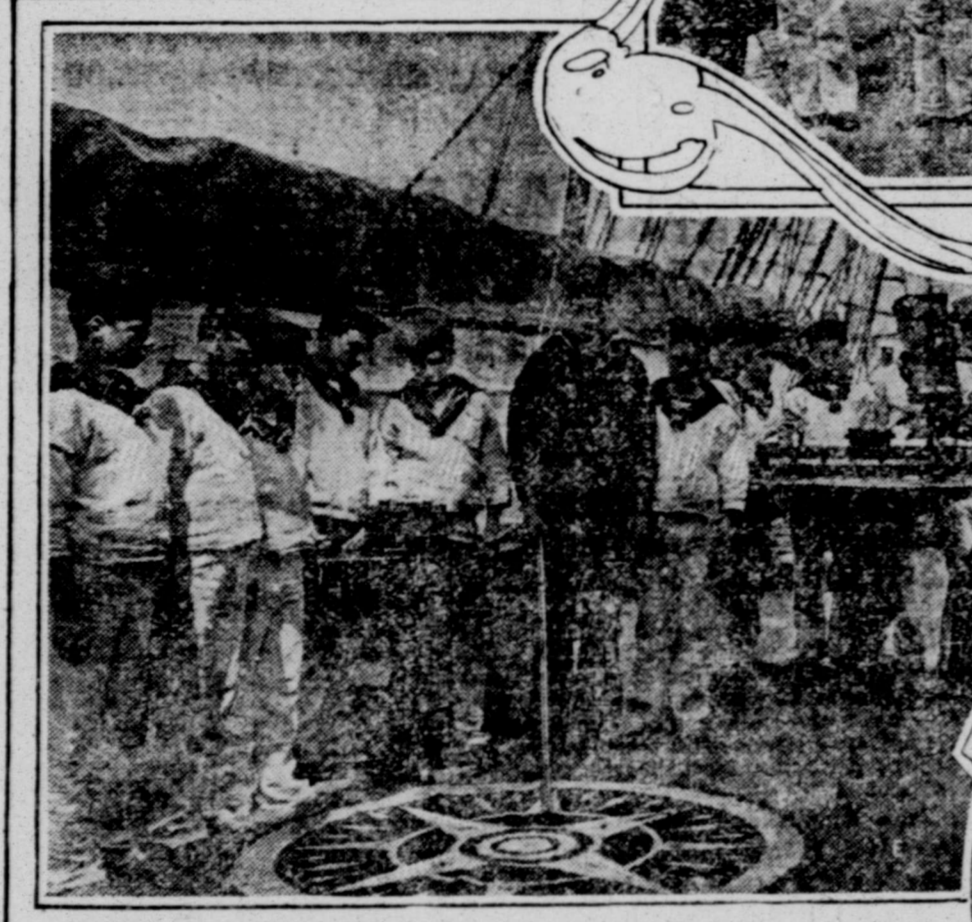

The difference between the American and British methods of turning out a modern bluejacket is particularly marked in the matter of gunnery. To teach the men behind the guns to shoot straight is one of the main objects sought on Uncle Sam's floating fortresses, and every effort is made to familiarize the men with all the details of the latest improved types of weapons. On the other hand, some of the British ships yet carry the old 10-inch muzzle-loading guns, and on all the British naval training ships the boys are taught how to handle such muzzle-loaders, an accomplishment which would be of very little use were they engaged in a battle where their opponents were equipped with modern breech-loading, quick-firing ordnance. Then, too, the British government does not spend anything like as much money as does the United States, in proportion to the number of ships in commission, for powder and ammunition for target practice—a short-sighted policy, and the result of which is manifest in the wretched scores made by the British naval gunners who, in some instances, have missed the target every time with the big guns.

If there be anything in associations, the young tars of the British Navy ought to derive some benefit from the influence exerted by memories of Nelson, Drake and other famous sea-warriors, for some of the ships of these heroes of bygone eras are still in use. Speaking of the Naval Reserve, it may be noted that this is one of the greatest sources of strength of the British Navy. Some of the boys enter the Naval Reserve young enough to be fascinated by their taste of the life and enlist in the navy, or, at least in the marines, if they be too old to gain admittance to the Naval Service, but for the most part, the Naval Reserves are valuable as an auxiliary to the regular naval force. In the strongholds of the merchant marine such as Bristol, Swansea, Liverpool, Hull and Glasgow, and in many of England's colonial possessions such as Newfoundland there are hundreds of men who are, from long experience, first-class sailors, and but need instruction in gunnery to transform them into first-class man-of-war's men. This training and drill they receive during the annual practice cruises of the various detachments of the Naval Reserve on board British men-of-war.

The British officials also keep their eyes upon another training ground for British tars which would yield valuable material should war necessitate volunteer additions to the regular personnel.

of the navy. This supplementary fleet of school ships for young sailors is nothing less than the ocean liners, which, though engaged in a regular passenger and freight carrying traffic, have been built in accordance with plans approved by the British naval officials, are regularly subsidized by the government, and, in the event of war, could be instantly pressed into service as an auxiliary fleet, instead of making it necessary to waste valuable time, as Uncle Sam did at the time of the Spanish-American War, in buying vessels for an auxiliary navy only to find that some of them were not, after all, suited to the purpose.

The British policy is to lose sight of no really promising candidate for the navy. When the ranks are so well filled that no new recruits can be taken, or when some minor disqualification prevents the acceptance of an otherwise satisfactory applicant, the officials endeavor to find places for the young men thus turned aside on the great liners. In order to get the full benefit of this supplementary training service John Bull encourages his naval officers to retire early or to take long leaves of absence from the regular service, in order to accept positions as first and second officers on the largest steamers of the merchant marine. Thus the apprentices who, failing to get into the regular navy, find berths on the large merchant vessels, are usually under the instruction and direction of full-fledged naval officers, and this is how it happens that many a powerful mail-carrying steamer sailing from British ports is so well officered and manned that, in the event of a sudden declaration of war, she could be transferred to the government service without the necessity for making a single change in the personnel.

WALDON FAWCETT.

THE COMFORT OF THE FEET.

In no part of the body is there more absolutely unnecessary suffering caused by abuse and neglect than in the feet. These faithful, long-tried servants do not receive half the care they need. If inclined to swell after long standing or afflicted with that mysterious complaint called "spring fever" they should be given frequent hot baths, with sea salt and borax dissolved in the water, followed by a thorough massage with alcohol or bay rum. When there are calloused spots—often caused by ill-fitting shoes or a seam in the hose—olive oil or cold cream rubbed in thoroughly at night will quickly soften them and aid in their removal. Night and morning dips in cold or warm water, as is most convenient, should never be omitted; and the daily rubbing with cologne, bay rum or alcohol will keep them fit for any amount of tramping, provided, of course, that justice be done them in the matter of shoes. These should be neither too large nor too small; one is as great an evil as the other. They should hold the feet firmly in a gentle clasp that prevents rubbing or slipping anywhere. A medium heel is better than the radically low one, which spreads the foot and strains the arch of the instep. An absurdly high heel is an iniquitous abuse of the foot, a proof of the extremest folly, and hourly invites a whole crop of evils—bunions, corns, ingrowing nails—and manifold deformities follow their use.

A frequent change of shoes is better for both feet and shoes and helps to keep both in good condition. It is a bad habit to wear the same shoes indoors as when walking and a demoralizing one to indulge in shapeless house shoes, run down at the heel. Always for its health and comfort the foot should be tidily and trimly shod. A little pedicuring semiweekly after a hot foot-bath is just as important as manuring. All callous spots should be gently scraped. This treatment, together with protection of the parts affected by a chamois plaster having a hole in the center, will in a short time free the feet from these afflictions. The pain from an ingrowing toenail can be relieved by treating with a mixture composed of one ounce of chloride of zinc and one drachm each of muriatic and nitric acids; mix them thoroughly and apply one drop daily to the afflicted toe.

A conductor on a street car in Portland, Ore., reduced a noisy man on his car to a state of decency in about the cleverest manner which has yet been reported. The conductor grasped him firmly by the ear, and the man collapsed in a heap. The conductor's other hand was on some part of the electric arrangements of the car, and he passed a heavy shock into the ear of the joyful one.

RIPARIAN RIGHTS ARE PASSED ON BY THE COURT

Associate Justice Speer of Appellate Bench Hands Down an Important Decision in a West Texas Case

The court of civil appeals of this city yesterday decided the case of Clements against Watkins Land Company and others, from Reeves county, in an elaborate opinion which lays down in clear terms the rules governing the rights of riparian owners on streams in the arid portions of Texas, deciding questions which have been a source of contention for many years in matters relating to irrigation. The opinion by Associate Justice Speer holds that riparian lands must lie in the original surveys as granted by the state and bordering on the streams, and must also be in the watershed of such streams, that is an area whose drainage is into such stream. It further holds that all riparian owners are entitled to a reasonable use of the waters of a stream for irrigation purposes, such use to be determined by the relative needs of such owners, and where the riparian lands are greater in extent than there is water to supply them, the deduction from the opinion is that there should be a reasonable apportionment of the water.

On a full review of the Texas cases this court is of the opinion that this is the true doctrine as heretofore decided by the court of Texas.

Under this ruling, the improvements and irrigation systems on the lower courses of the rivers and streams in Western Texas will be at least secured in the use of their reasonable share of the waters of such streams, and no owner of lands above them can, under this holding, appropriate all the waters for irrigation purposes to the complete deprivation of such lower proprietors. It would seem to be a question of fact hereafter in any given case to compare the area of riparian lands with the water supply, and apportion the water on a reasonable basis accordingly.

The case was reversed and judgment rendered for appellants. Appellant was represented by J. E. Starkey of Barstow and R. W. Flournoy of Fort Worth, and the appellees were represented by T. J. Hefner of Pecos, A. C. Mitchell of Lawrence, Kan., and Judge Edwards of El Paso.

JUDGE SPEER TO SPEAK
Judge Ocie Speer, associate justice of the court of civil appeals, yesterday received an invitation to be one of the speakers before the State Bar Association which meets in Houston, July 6. His address will have reference to rights of people in Texas to the natural waterways.

ONE CASE FILED
Willie Reeves yesterday filed a petition for divorce against J. W. Reeves.

SEVENTEENTH DISTRICT COURT
In this court Judge Smau acted on a couple of divorce suits, granting legal separation between Bertie Asbery and O. F. Asbery and W. G. Huffman and Sarah Huffman.

In the divorce case of Bernadina Babcock against D. C. Babcock, Judge Smith granted a divorce. The custody of children was awarded to Mr. and Mrs. John G. Lux. The parents of the children were given the right to see them at proper times.

PROBATE MATTERS
The last will and testament of George C. Rutledge was filed for probate yesterday. The property left by the deceased is valued at approximately $5,000. Mrs. Elma Rutledge makes application for appointment of guardianship of the estate of the heirs, who are Bettie F. Dixon, Monroe Henderson, Ethel Parks and other minors.

THREE ROADS ARE BOASTING OF A FAST TIME

Cotton Belt and Texas and Pacific Will Race to Nashville and Rock Island Claims to Make It Quick

During the past week there has been quite a rivalry engendered between the local roads for the business to the general reunion of Confederate veterans and sons to be held at Nashville this week, and each line has promised record-breaking time. Especially have the Texas and Pacific and the Cotton Belt been pulling for this business which leaves Fort Worth this morning in the reunion. Discussing the superiority of the service to be given, a representative of the Rock Island said to The Telegram last night: "You can leave Fort Worth any morning in the year at 11:15 via the Frisco, make direct connection with the Rock Island at Randolph and reach Memphis at 8 o'clock the next morning. There is a union station at Randolph. You step from one train to the other, no transfer.

"The Rock Island also has a chair car that runs from San Antonio to Memphis every day in the year via the Katy to South McAlester and the Rock Island from Dallas every evening at 9 o'clock and arrives in Memphis at 7:50 the following evening.

"The Rock Island is the only line from the state that runs into the union station at Memphis, from which station all the lines for the east and southeast depart, therefore it is the only road that can, with regular service, put one through Memphis without a bus transfer across the town."

tween Houston and Galveston, and on account of the extremely low round trip rate to be given by the Central the management of the Eagles' affair anticipate that there will be a very large attendance of Eagles from North Texas and immediate points. It is understood that there will be a number of the order from Fort Worth who will attend.

The Rick Island will also sell round trip tickets from points on that line in the territory and in this state, in order that those who desire can take advantage of the low rate offered to the Gulf. Over this route the rate from Terrell will be $6.00, Bridgeport, $5.25; Jacksboro, $5.75; Graham, $6.00. Correspondingly reduced rates are authorized from other points on the Rock Island.

COMING EVENTS IN SOCIAL WORLD

Miss Mary Alice Thompson has issued invitations for a dance at Lake Erie for Wednesday evening, June 15, in honor of Misses Alice Baker, Libbie Rice, Elizabeth Fitzgerald and Louise Fitzgerald of Houston.
The Sans Parlel will give a dance at Lake Erie Friday evening, June 17, and on all invitations appears a warning that recipients are expected to bring a lady, otherwise card will not be honored.
The Entre Nous will give a dance at Handley tomorrow evening.
The Calanthe Club will meet next Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 with Mrs. C. J. Ware, 1100 Taylor street.
The dance that was to have been given by the Commercial Club at Lake Erie last Friday evening has been postponed until the evening of Wednesday, June 22. The guests to whom invitations have been issued are requested to preserve their cards for that occasion.

HOSTESSES AND HOW THEY ENTERTAIN

AN INFORMAL MUSICAL
On Tuesday evening a few musical friends and neighbors were the guests of Monsieur and Mme. Jaccard, and a program of vocal and instrumental music delighted every guest. Mme. Jaccard is not yet fully recovered from a severe injury to her hand and the deprivation of hearing her play in her musicianly style was sincerely regretted. Those taking part were Dr. Chase, Holt Hubbard, Dr. MacAdams, Monsieur Jaccard, Mr. Watts, Miss Thrush of Stephenville and Mrs. Goggin. The guests of the evening were Dr. Chase, Mrs. Dayton-Chase, Dr. and Mrs. MacAdam, Miss Ada MacAdam, Mrs. Davidson, the Misses Davidson, Holt Hubbard, Miss Thrush, Mr. and Mrs. Boyce and Mr. and Mrs. Goggin.

MME. FERDINAND JACCARD
Mme. Ferdinand Jaccard entertained informally last Wednesday afternoon for her guest, Mrs. Randolph of Coleman. It was the first time many of her friends had had the opportunity of admiring the beautiful new Jaccard home, and this pleasure, combined with the greetings of a charming hostess and guest, made the occasion one of great and pronounced enjoyment. Mrs. Jaccard was assisted in receiving by Mrs. Randolph, Mrs. Goggin and Mrs. MacAdam. Miss Ada MacAdam met the guests at the door and assisted in serving the fruit nectar. Nearly a hundred friends called during the afternoon and enthusiasm over the beautiful home with its artistic appointments and elegant furnishings, as well as the works of art that abounded, grew with each and every view through the spacious apartments.

MRS. JOHN F. SWAYNE
Mrs. John F. Swayne entertained last Tuesday morning with whist, with Mrs. W. H. Patterson and Mrs. M. T. Lively of Dallas guests of honor. Roses welcomed the guests, who arrived for a 9:30 a.m. and pretty score cards with enameled decorations were distributed by Mrs. Moffett and Miss Swayne. Mrs. Benney and Miss Shelton were contestants for the prize, a cut-glass vinegar cruet. Miss Shelton winning in a final cut. The souvenir, a Dresden fan, was won by Mrs. Harris. The invitation list included Mesdames Lively and Patterson of Dallas, J. F. Cooper, Wallerich, J. Malcolm Brown, C. W. Cooper, Taylor, Berney, Bailey, Harold, Pettigrew, Buchanan, Pruitt, Samuels, Pendleton, Templeton, Jackson, Padlock, Harrison, Burns, Stanbery, Ryan, Mitchell, Enlow, Haire of Portsmouth, N. H.; Harris and Miss Shelton.

EASTERN STAR LADIES
Tarrant chapter, No. 8, Order of Eastern Star, gave a tackey party Monday evening, June 6, which was a very successful affair. Mrs. Clarence Jerome Warren secured the first prize, a beautiful fan, being the most tackey Eastern Star lady. Mrs. John McBride won the second prize, a handsome turnover. L. A. Stuck won the gentlemen's first prize.
Following was the program of the evening:
Miss Clara Miller, teacher, on the old fashion spelling bee. Miss Freida Miller won the first prize, a beautiful palm, and Mr. Field got the consolation prize.
The cigar prize was won by J. K. Lape. The picture prize was won by L. A. Stuck.
The prizes were donated by the Drum Seal and Floral Company, Washer Bros., Edrie & Johnson, Abe M. Mehl, The Fair Lane & Rall and Mr. Mahon.
A beautiful musical program was rendered as follows: Piano solo, Miss Ada Whittet of Dallas; reading, Miss Lizzie May Moore; song and dance, Miss Bettie Whittet of Dallas, accompanied by Miss Ada Whittet. The reading by Thomas J. Bedford of Rock Island general offices, was highly appreciated by members of Tarrant chapter, as well as others present. The male quartet, consisting of Messrs. Reddick, Taylor, Hoffman and Haggart, rendered some select music.
The refreshments were very appropriate and were enjoyed by all.

MRS. B. H. LAWRENCE
Mrs. B. H. Lawrence entertained with dinner last Tuesday in honor of Dr. and Mrs. Thompson, and Dr. and Mrs. H. W. Williams before their departure for a summer trip abroad. The guests were Dr. and Mrs. F. D. Thompson, Dr. and Mrs. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Richardson, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Martin and Q. T. Moreland. Over the coffee Mr. Moreland proposed eloquently the health and successful sightseeing of the travelers, and Mrs. Richardson in witty phrase answered with hope for the successful and happy stay-at-home.

MRS. WILSON AS HONOREE
Though knitting may be obsolete, and the riddle no longer in evidence, the spirit that accompanied them is a happy survivor and can make Kensington embroidery and a dressing acquire fill in a day of pleasure as did over the employments of the grandmothers—or, maybe, mothers. A number of ladies were the guests of Mrs. B. H. Lawrence last Thursday with Mrs. Hunter Wilson, a recent and charming addition to Fort Worth's matrons, the guests of honor. The midday dinner had eight courses for its expression and sweet peas winked their multi-colored eyes at the comfortable company and made everything especially pleasing to look at. The guests were Mesdames J. N. McKnight, William Capps, Sam Davidson, George Jackson, House of Houston, J. R. Richardson, Gray, Ben Martin, F. M. Weaver and Miss Mattie Warren.

Dr. C. J. Moffett is a graduate of medicine and has as much right to prescribe for the sick as any physician, and gives to mothers his "TETHINA" as the best remedy they can use for their teething children. "TETHINA" regulates the bowels, Overcomes and Counteracts the Effects of the Summer's Heat and makes teething easy.

MRS. JAMES WALTON
Mr. and Mrs. James Walton were the moving spirits of a picnic party at Lake Erie last Thursday evening, which included Misses Fry, Millican, Crowley, Cowden of Midland, Anderson and Roy; Messrs. Davis, Hicks, Soudley, Will Harty, Strauss and Dr. McLean.

THE MATLOCK
The A. L. Matlock home has been the gayest ever the past week with a bevy of charming girls as center of interest and attraction. Miss Maud Matter of Denton, Miss Alice Mount of Denton, Miss Alice Johnstone, Miss Cora Chambers and Miss Mary Chambers of Stephenville. Every evening has seen likeable folk going to the Matlock home and on Tuesday evening the Sans Parlel and their friends visited in a body and played flinch with animation. Miss Mayfield won a copy of "The Cost," and Gentry Browne "The Crossing." A bottle of "catchup" was awarded Wright Gaines. White and orange were the colors of the decorations and the souvenir and prizes were tied with ribbons of these colors, a pretty compliment to the club. On Wednesday evening the house party made up a jolly party for the theater for the St. Ignatius Academy exercises, and on Thursday evening a few friends played "pit." Those joining the house party being Miss Triplett, Messrs. Tukey, Nourse, Stephens, Speer, Triplett and Cook.

MRS. W. P. ROYSTON
Mrs. W. P. Royston tendered a reception to the Ladies Aid Society of the First Christian church and her friends in general at her beautiful cottage home at 1508 Lipscomb street on Wednesday afternoon from 2 to 6.

There was not one of her friends who accepted her courtesy who did not enjoy the pleasant and genial manner in which the hostess entertained. The interior of the house was beautifully and artistically decorated with palms, asparagus ferns, and beautiful cut flowers, while in the dining room the table was ornamented with Mexican drawn works and embroidery. From this table a dainty three-course luncheon was served. The guests were: Mesdames K. M. Van Zandt, Peter Smith, Bob Roy, Lydick Logan, Pateman, Furman, McNeely, Kohly, Evans, Tuna, Lane, Turner, Deffer, Chapman, Cox, Laddell, Andrews, Scott, Zearing, Smith, A. G. MRS. W. G. W. CARGILL
Mr. and Mrs. William C. G. Cargill were at home Saturday evening, June 4, at their residence, corner Lipscomb and Magnolia avenue, the occasion being the celebration of their twentieth anniversary, or china wedding.
The host and hostess were the recipients of many valuable gifts from their numerous friends all over the United States.
The house was beautifully decorated with palms, English ivy and roses. A most enjoyable and social evening was passed, interspersed with vocal and instrumental music. Fruit punch was presided over by Miss Aileen Cargill, followed later on by refreshments served by Misses Aileen and Rose Cargill, assisted by Misses Mabel Ross, Florence Goetz and Louise Schell. Among the invited guests present were: Mr. and Mrs. H. Smithson, Mr. and Mrs. S. Palmer, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Judd, Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Pentecost, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. A. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. A. Goetz; Mrs. Friel, Mrs. Slaght, Mr. Leonard Johnson, Misses Florence Goetz, Mabel Ross, Louise Schell, Catherine Smithson and Margaret Jackson.

MISS LILLIAN FULLER
Miss Lillian Fuller complimented Miss Norvell's house party with a dance at Handley last Wednesday evening, to which a large number of invitations were issued. The evening was a pronounced success and enjoyment was shared by every guest. The house party and receiving line were Misses Norvell, Eretta Carter, Del Shropshire, Mary Abernathy, Ethel Abernathy, Ethel Bateman, May Shindler, Nell Donald, Lenore Cook and Belle Bunting.

MRS. J. D. HOYNES
Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Hoynes celebrated their fifth wedding anniversary last Tuesday evening, more than twenty-five friends joining in congratulations at the happy passage of these first years on life's journey. A number of handsome presents marked the occasion.

CLUBS AND THEIR SUMMER AFFAIRS

ELKS TO RECEIVE
The Elks announce a reception to be given by the organization in their club rooms on the afternoon of Monday, June 20, from 4 to 6. The ladies of the Elks will be in the receiving line. At the close of the reception there will be a dance at Lake Erie. The care will leave at 8:30 o'clock.

WOMAN'S AUXILIARY
The Woman's Auxiliary, N. A. R. P. C., were entertained last Thursday afternoon by Mrs. John Berger. Several tables were filled with flinch players, the prize, a china card box, going to Miss Mary Edwards. The club colors, purple and gold, were used in decorating the parlors.

S. S. C. WITH MRS. MILLER
The S. S. C. was entertained by Mrs. R. E. L. Miller Tuesday afternoon, the four tables being set on a shady lawn with sweet peas climbing all over the fences.

while pink and white were favored dining room colors, appearing in the mints, cake and sherbet.
This was the last meeting of the club until the first Thursday in October, when Mrs. W. L. Cate will be the hostess.

The T. W. Club has hurled a conundrum at interested friends who would much like to know what these letters stand for. "Ten Weeks," says one guesser, and "Two Willing" for was it "Two Willing?" quoth another. The members who know let the guessers guess, while they go picnicking and dancing and doing other things that pleasure-make during summer days and evenings. The club's last festivity was last Tuesday evening, when they patronized Lake Erie, merry go round, boats, dancing and all. A support of the best the girls could do preceded the first named diversions. Those in attendance were Mr. and Mrs. Jere Van Zandt, Misses Anne Binyon, Lucile and Bess White, Rita Hunter, McCarthy, Markles and Pendleton, Messrs. Fred Adams, Demarest Smith, Perry Francisco, Clyde Maddox, Tillman Bibb, Robert Cheatham and Willbur Hardwick.

AMERICAN LADY IS AT THE HEAD OF ALL

(Copyright, 1904, by W. R. Hearst.)
 LONDON, June 11.—June, bringing Ascot and the season of public entertainments in its train, will of course be the busiest month of the summer. The St. Moritz ball at the Savoy hotel, the fancy headdress ball at Albert hall, and lastly the gigantic bazaar in aid of the Victoria hospital for children, which closes this month, are all planned on a magnitude to adorn any one of the half dozen London summers. In each of these the American lady, with her tireless energy, tact and business aptitude, is found at the head of affairs.

June and July will witness the beginning and the end of the great battle for supremacy between the three young American Duchesses of Marlborough, Manchester and Roxburgh. Helen, Duchess of Manchester, is established for the season in Grosvenor street, and has begun the campaign. Society has been surprised by the sudden advent in London of the Duchess of Roxburgh, who has taken Norwich house, the former home of Lord and Lady Breadalbane, it being supposed that her health would compel her to remain at Floors Castle for the summer. Consuelo, Dowager Duchess of Manchester, fully recovered in health, is already back in town to control the campaign of her daughter-in-law. Mrs. Ogden Goelet, immediately on the marriage of her son, will, it is expected, hasten back to England to remain at the side of her daughter. In the meantime the Roxburgh interests are safe in the hands of the Dowager Duchess, a type of this grand dame of the old school. London, watching the battle with cynical interest, wonders just what policy will be pursued by the Duchess of Marlborough, whose mansion in Curzon street, save in respect of her private apartments, remains unfinished. It is possible that the stories of retrenchment in the Marlborough ménage, made necessary during the present season by the enormous expenses incidental to the new house, have encouraged the clan of Roxburgh and Manchester to assail her strong position. The next three weeks will show whether the best loved of all the American women now in London is secretly preparing a gisarde coup that will shatter the forces of the enemy. In the meantime the warring factions have called a truce, the Duchess of Roxburgh spending a few weeks at Blenheim Castle.

FRENCH HERO IS TO BE TRADESMAN

(Copyright, 1904, by W. R. Hearst.)
 PARIS, June 11.—The hero who ever since the Fashoda affair has surrounded the head of Colonel Marchand is beginning to wear off. When the colonel recently resigned from the French army as a result of a slight from the minister of war he was still the idol of the French people, and his resignation was followed by rumors

KING OF SPAIN TO SWING AROUND CIRCLE

(Copyright, 1904, by W. R. Hearst.)
 MADRID, June 11.—King Alfonso has begun to make preparations for his round trip to the courts of Europe this summer. He has accepted an invitation from the Kaiser to be present at the large Kaiser maneuvers at Altona, where he will witness the German war lord lead a division of cavalry to one of his usual victories. The young king is very much disappointed that he has had to abandon his pet idea of visiting the United States during the World's Fair.

COFFIN MAKERS DO NOT LIKE THE TAX

(Copyright, 1904, by W. R. Hearst.)
 MALAGA, June 11.—A most peculiar strike is on in this city. It is the coffin manufacturers, who have stopped making coffins because they say that the government's special tax on coffins is too high and makes it impossible for them to make any profit. They have closed all their factories and shops and covered the doors with posters with the inscription: "Resqueat in Pace" (Rest in Peace). All bodies of people whose relatives are too poor to have coffins shipped from other cities are buried in burial pits.

INSURES MEMBERS AGAINST SIBERIA

(Copyright, 1904, by W. R. Hearst.)
 ST. PETERSBURG, June 11.—The authorities have discovered a new original co-operative insurance company, which insures its members against banishment to Siberia, and which has branches all over the empire. In case of an "accident," that is to say banishment, the insured receives $5 a month for six months. It is significant for Russia that nearly all the members are physicians, lawyers and students of both sexes, and that workingmen are admitted to the society on especially favorable terms.

BRIDGE HAS CLAIM ON FIRST VICTIMS

(Copyright, 1904, by W. R. Hearst.)
 LONDON, June 11.—Bridges, already claimed its first installment of victims. Society grins over the sudden disappearance from London of the three well known hostesses whose love of high play involved their unfortunate husbands in ruin. In the young set had planned an elaborate campaign for a season, when, presto! she rose from the bridge table one night $25,000 loser, and the whole framework collapsed.

ASSAULTS MAN WHO SAVES HIS LIFE

PARIS, June 11.—M. Christophe, an honest Parisian shopkeeper, swears that never again will he try to save a man from drowning, even if he could get the great medal of honor. Louis Rousseard, a young man, suffering from love-sickness, attempted to drown himself, but was saved by M. Christophe, who plunged into the water and pulled him out.

Not a Nostrum

When your hands or lips are chapped the skin is in exactly the same condition that is the lining of your throat, bronchial tubes or stomach is when those parts are troubling you. You wouldn't think of using any of the medicine on your chapped hands that you take into your stomach to cure your internal ills. That's just why so many people are chronically complaining of asthma, sore throat, lung affections and stomach troubles. The best remedy known for chapped skin is ordinary cream. Milk's Emulsion exercises the same healing and soothing influence over the mucous linings of the throat, bronchial tubes, stomach and intestines that cream does over the external skin.

THE DAY OF THE STRAW HAT HAS ARRIVED.

MANY LIVES SAVED THROUGH A LIFE-PRESERVER

An eminent physician of this city recently said: "Very thin people live from hand to mouth, and have little reserve for emergencies." Of course we know of persons whose nature it is to be thin—"born that way," some say, but there is a healthy standard by which a person who knows himself can gauge his good health or poor health. If for any reason he or she is below his or her normal weight, then it is wise to look out for trouble. In case the germs of grippe, typhoid, or consumption gain an entrance to the body they find a fertile field and develop immediately. We can only compare this sudden taking on of disease germs by the thin body, to the fertile field which lays fallow until an unfortunate wind carries the seeds of some wild and worthless plant there and they quickly root and flourish. Almost any grave change in health is at once betrayed by the loss of flesh, which shows most often in the face. This condition almost always co-exists with impoverished blood. A gain of flesh up to a certain point means a rise in other essentials of health; the red corpuscles of the blood are increased, and the color improved. When persons find themselves losing weight they should heed the warning, and use the proper means in time before disease fastens on them.

A tonic alternative is needed to digest and assimilate the food. "About four months ago I contracted a severe cold, which terminated in a hacking and most annoying cough," writes Christian Woelck, President California "Bruder Sam Fund," 350 Fifth St., San Francisco, California, whose likeness is given above. "I also suffered severely from catarrh, which affected my throat; head was stopped up, nose was running, and sore from continual blowing, and the disease seemed to affect my stomach, causing indigestion and a nauseating sick feeling. Tried several prescriptions, which did not help me, and I began to be very anxious. A friend who called on me, said she had a bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery in her home, and that she never would be without it, as it was the finest remedy she had ever tried. I naturally became curious and wanted to try this highly praised article. I soon found that it fully deserved the good name she had given it. I felt relief within two days, the sick feeling had disappeared from my stomach by that time. Gradually the congested feeling in my head was relieved, and within ten days I was well once more. I am thankful and happy that my attention was called to Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery." Another experience, showing the life-saving qualities of this wonderful "Discovery," is given as follows: "Some time has elapsed since I have written you in regard to the treatment I have been taking under your instructions," says Mr. E. F. Cingmars, of 533

Penn Avenue, Minneapolis, Minnesota.

"When first I commenced taking your remedies I had been for four months under treatment of a well-known specialist in this city for catarrh and stomach trouble, rapidly getting worse. I got so bad that I could not eat anything that did not distress me terribly and I was obliged to stop taking the doctor's treatment entirely. I was greatly reduced in flesh. As a last resort I wrote to you and stated my case, and after receiving your instructions I followed them closely. After taking five bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and one vial of his 'Pleasant Pellets' I commenced to improve, and decided to continue the medicines and observe your instructions regarding hygienic treatment. It is now nearly six months since I commenced your treatment and I can say that I am well and never felt better in my life. Am very grateful to you for what your medicine has done for me."

A man who lives close to nature in God's free air, on the sea or in the woods, is usually a healthier man than the one confined in factory or workshop. Nature's remedies are always best for eradicating disease, and by this we mean a medicine made of plants and herbs.

Get as near to Nature's way as you can. There's a reason. Vegetable foods are the best for the body in health. The human economy digests and assimilates them best. In disease, remedies made entirely of botanical plants and roots are best and safest for the system. They are assimilated in the stomach and taken up by the blood and are, therefore, the most potent means which can be employed for the regaining of lost health. Dr. R. V. Pierce, consulting physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, at Buffalo, N. Y., in many years of extensive practice, found that he could pin his faith to an alternative extract of certain plants and roots for the cure of all blood diseases. This he called Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

A chemical test of the water from the human body will tell whether the kidneys are in good health or not. These tests of health are conducted by expert chemists every day without cost. This is only a very small part of the work of the staff of physicians and surgeons under the direction of Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., the founder of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute of that city. To build up the body that has been weakened by an attack of grip, pneumonia or typhoid, write Dr. R. V. Pierce for advice, giving all your symptoms, and he will give you the best medical advice, and without cost. For those who are weakened by the after effects of a bad cold, cough or grip caught during the winter, nothing will increase the number of red blood corpuscles and eradicate poison from the blood so quickly as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

FREE! Send to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., 21 one-cent stamps, to pay expense of mailing only, and we will send to your address a copy of Doctor Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser (1008 large pages), in paper-covers. Or for the "Adviser" in cloth binding, send 31 stamps.

We guarantee that Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery does not contain alcohol, opium, or any harmful drug. It is a pure compound of medicinal plants scientifically combined. Persons making false statements concerning its ingredients will be prosecuted.

AMERICANS BRING ORDER AT CONGRESS

War of Words in the Meeting of Women Now in Session in Berlin

BOTH SIDES CALL NAMES

Delegates From United States Conducted Themselves With Marked Dignity

(Copyright, 1924, by W. R. Hearst.) BERLIN, June 11.—This city is now in the grasp of the International Congress of Women, which is now in session and which all through has been an exceedingly lively affair, giving the press opportunity for many satirical articles.

A socialistic debate in the reichstag would seem tame in comparison with the stormy discussions at these meetings of the fair sex.

To be just one must admit that the foreign delegates have behaved with much dignity and calmness and this is particularly true of the American women, but between our own German women great battles have been fought and many bitter expressions have been used in the heat of argument.

The preliminary skirmishes started several weeks before the congress met, when the radicals or women suffragists, headed by Miss Anita Augsburg, were excluded from the management of the conservatives, headed by Miss Helen Lange.

The radicals retailed by trying to break up the conference and succeeded in a measure, as they formed a new Woman's International Suffrage association, to oppose the old association, and from that moment the fierce though bloodless, war of words started.

Heavy ammunition was used by both sides, the conservatives calling the radicals "horrid political adventurers," "noisy agitators," "meddlesome political amazons," while the radicals called the conservatives as "timid old grandmothers," "miserable creatures whose spirits are crushed by male tyranny," and "slaves of the male sex."

It is largely due, however, to the two American delegates, Miss Susan B. Anthony and Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, that order was restored during the preliminary meetings which preceded the regular conferences of the congress.

As the oldest and most famous champion of women's rights, Miss Anthony was made president of honor, but the debate was led and regulated by Mrs. Catt and from that moment the women of home state had presented with an exceedingly heavy gavel which she has been using with great effect and which has been heard through all the din of the hall.

The meetings will be continued during the coming week, and it is now thought that everything will be run perfectly smooth and a final agreement reached.

JAPANESE GIRLS BEING EDUCATED

(Copyright, 1924, by W. R. Hearst.) LONDON, June 11.—The sense that wider education for women is a necessity is not, however, confined to Europe. In Tokio a large school has been opened for the little Japanese princesses.

There is in this college a number of English, and a few little Japanese from seven to fifteen is seated at her separate desk, with her text book in front of her, reading her lessons. It is interesting to hear the names called out, as they are all intimately associated with the history of Japan.

The first little lady summoned to read before the professor who visited the school bore a name which was already an old one in Japan, when William the First crossed Normandy, and that which struck Mrs. Lynch the most was the exquisitely musical voices with which the children spoke. The letter "r" seemed to be their greatest difficulty in reading English.

Attached to the college is a gymnasium, where a class was going through a dumb bell exercise. Lawn tennis appears to be the popular game and some of the little Japanese nobility play it extremely well.

THE GIRL GRADUATE HAS COME TO STAY

(Copyright, 1924, by W. R. Hearst.) LONDON, June 11.—Lady Henry Somerset writes: The girl graduate has undoubtedly come to stay. I appreciated that most fully when I made out way to the great hall of the imperial institute which had been lent to the London University on the great occasion of their conferring degrees.

On the platform was the chancellor and other academic dignitaries, standing amidst overhanging palms, bordered by a gay portiere of flowers and from every corner of the great assembly could be seen bright, happy face of men and women whose eyes were glistening with joy, while the undergraduates in all the glory of their newly earned robes were flitting hither and thither.

Everything was represented, science and law and medicine, dressed in their crimson, and members of convocation in their white. It was quite a kaleidoscope of color, and if people imagine that brains and beauty can not go together they would forever have to put that preconceived prejudice aside, for seldom could one see a brighter, prettier crowd. For a whole hour the graduates trooped up to the

QUEEN VICTORIA HEARD IRISH SONG

(Copyright, 1924, by W. R. Hearst.) LONDON, June 11.—It would be difficult to enumerate the countless definitions which have already been made of that quality which is called "tact."

Some people believe it to be the supreme knowledge of the ways of the world, but I have always held it to be the cultivation of the gift of imagination, the power to put ourselves in another's place and to understand just the feelings that others experience, because we realize how we should feel in the same situation.

I think I know of no better instance of supreme tact than the action of the queen of Roumania, related in Middle Vascareo's delightful book, "Kings and Queens I Have Known," and which some who took place in the castle at Windsor in the days when Queen Victoria was reigning.

The Roumanian poetess was staying there as a guest, and one evening when music was performed, came the command of Queen Victoria, who turned to an Irish singer who was present and said, "I wish to hear that song, 'The Wearing of the Green.'"

There was an uncomfortable silence in the assembly and not a few whispered to each other, "Oh, how tactless!" But the queen, who never varied an order once given, repeated her desire, and the young Irish singer began to sing that strange, wild, impassioned melody which was the expression of a people oppressed, glowing with wrath and filled with defiant challenge. All this was poured out by the Irish girl, who had lost all recollection save the sense of her people's wrongs. Each one dreaded the moment when the last note should ring out over the silent assembly. Who would dare breathe the name that would ensue?

But no sooner was the song ended, before any one could speak than the queen of Roumania crossed the room and quickly knelt by Queen Victoria's chair, and, taking both her hands in hers, she said with sweet, coaxing voice, "I am a very great queen you must be and how sure of the affection of your subjects to be able to hear such a song sung in your presence. In fact if you were not really a very great queen no one would dare to obey you."

"But the song is splendid," said Queen Victoria. "I wanted to hear it. I am very fond of the Irish, and you may be sure of that." And, then turning towards the girl, she said, "I thank you with all my heart, dear. You have given me great pleasure, and you have been the occasion of my receiving from the queen of Roumania a compliment that I shall never forget."

The preliminary skirmishes started several weeks before the congress met, when the radicals or women suffragists, headed by Miss Anita Augsburg, were excluded from the management of the conservatives, headed by Miss Helen Lange.

MAXIM HAS FOUND MAN FOR MACHINE

(Copyright, 1924, by W. R. Hearst.) LONDON, June 11.—Everybody interested in the prediction of Sir Hiram Maxim's new flying machine wondered who would be the man who would venture his limbs and life in the first test of the mechanical bird. At last Sir Hiram insists that he has found the man.

"A gentleman small in body but great in pluck, a perfect mechanic, an owner of motor cars and a horseman who could cut a point to any jockey," says Sir Hiram. But he asked for the name of the man he smiles and is silent.

Again the old and highly popular proposal to reinstate the remains of Oliver Cromwell in Westminster Abbey comes up. The discovery of the head of the Protector in the keeping of Mr. Wilkinson, a direct descendant of the Russells, would complete the corpus. But a doctor now advances the indisputable proposition that if Cromwell is to be reinstated it will be necessary to hold an inquest on him.

Now in London in the case of the age coroner's jury is drawn from gentlemen of the class who have apparently no other object than to lean against posts with their hands in their pockets. Imagine the body of grim old Cromwell being brought up by a jury drawn from the rear rooms of the nearest saloons.

For the remainder of the corps the king's faithful commons will turn to Yorkshire and Newburgh priory, the home of Sir George Wembell, one of the last survivors of the Light Brigade who took part in the famous charge of cavalry.

Walked up in the sarcophagus at the top of the stairs leading to the servants' room is all that remained of Cromwell. For Sir Lady Fauconbridge, Cromwell's daughter, died after the restoration of the crown. Cromwell's head had been severed from his body and put on a pike at Temple bar that Lady Fauconbridge of all the body had it secretly conveyed to her home and built it up in the place wherein it has been buried ever since. Another place might have been found, but in those days it was Holson's choice in the matter of choosing a resting place for Cromwell's bones.

ENDEAVORERS ARE GAINING IN ENGLAND

(Copyright, 1924, by W. R. Hearst.) LONDON, June 11.—The recent gathering of the Christian Endeavorers at Albert hall bore strong evidence to the fact that this excellent society is prospering in England, and perhaps the lady, Miss Weatherly, who received an ovation on that occasion has done more than any other to make the work successful in this country.

Dr. Clark, the founder and father of the movement, was received with the greatest respect by the entire audience standing with shouts of welcome, and amidst handkerchiefs and applause. Fresh and ruddy from his journey to South Africa, in a breezy speech, he called upon all those who represented the different countries to give a word of welcome in their own language.

And so sentence after sentence was spoken in German, Scandinavian, in Scandinavian and in the Bulgarian, and the doctor told a story of how, in a certain country, there was a tradesman who exhibited a big sign above his shop which spoke here, and American is understood. He said he was glad the vast audience understood his language.

But the Christian Endeavorers were destined to have still further honors, for a number of them were received at Windsor castle by the king and queen on the East Terrace, where they sang "God Save the King" with a great heartiness, followed by their favorite hymn, "Blessed Be the Tie That Binds Our Hearts in Christian Love."

There is certainly no society which appeals more to young people than it presents an aspect of religion which is bright, happy and joyous, and calls forth enthusiasm of youth.

There are 190,227 professional beggars in Spain. In some of the cities beggars are licensed to carry on their trade. Such an alms is recognized as legitimate business, and the municipality demands a percentage upon the collections. Seville is the only city in the kingdom which forbids begging in the streets.

DRESS MAKES A DIFFERENCE THERE

It Depends on How a Woman Is Attired Where She Is Treated With Respect

SHE TRIES TRAMP LIFE

Experiences of Wife of Minister Who Wanted to Know Other Side of Life

(Copyright, 1924, by W. R. Hearst.) LONDON, June 11.—Many and various are the newly acquired experiences of women, and great is the devotion shown by them in order to rightly understand how the other half live, and I know of no better instance of self-sacrifice than that made by a ministers wife, who determined to gain personal experience as a woman tramp.

For five days and for five nights she prosecuted her social investigation. Mrs. Higgs has been for many years interested in rescue work, and it was her experience in this line of philanthropy which led her to believe that there was something in our social arrangements which made for the creation of destitution, and that those who were once forced down on the road of life had no chance to rise again.

She has for some years visited lodging houses and questioned the girls who came to her for help and yet she could never have a bed for sixpence and were obliged to wash in the kitchen sink used by men and women alike. But these who frequented this lodging house told them that it was a palace in comparison with what they usually had to put up with.

The dress she wore was still respectable and clean and they carried soap and a towel and a change of stockings wrapped in an old shawl, and they took two shillings and sixpence between them. They spent their first night in the municipal lodging house, where they shared a bed for sixpence and were obliged to wash in the kitchen sink used by men and women alike. But these who frequented this lodging house told them that it was a palace in comparison with what they usually had to put up with.

MR. HEINSON SET TO MUSIC BY DR. LEVY

It is the first time, I think, in the recollection of this generation that a great water pagant has been seen in England. It is said that the king intends to revive the use of the royal barge on the Thames in London itself, and that he will use it in some subsequent functions.

RUSSIANS BELIEVE JAPS ARE MAGICIANS

(Copyright, 1924, by W. R. Hearst.) BERLIN, June 11.—Never before have the superstitions of the masses of the Russian people been so plainly in evidence as during the recent war.

Among General Kurapatkin's soldiers the belief is prevalent that the Japanese are all magicians and consequently not to be overcome.

But among the agricultural population, who for the most part have never heard of Japan nor seen a map, and therefore have no idea why the war has broken out, there are still strange beliefs.

The correspondent of a Russian paper who has been recently interviewing the peasants to ascertain their views on the present situation relates how in one village the peasants had said to him that it was so hard to fight with a Japanese "because one can not see him."

"But why not?" asked the correspondent.

"Well, it is simple enough; it is because he is a kind of insect—he is small, and only wakes up in the night. He hides himself with his sting in the grass and one has to find him there. A regular nuisance for our soldiers. He creeps in between the boots and sucks their blood. When he has drunk his fill, then he creeps out. But the poor soldier breathes out his soul. And one has to struggle with these fiends."

Here the honest peasant sighed deeply. "I couldn't believe my ears," adds the correspondent. "At first I thought he was making a fool of me; but later it was clear enough that the poor fellow was speaking from his heart."

CZAR'S SOLDIERS REFUSE TO FIGHT

(Copyright, 1924, by W. R. Hearst.) BERLIN, June 11.—A letter from Russia states that it is with considerable difficulty and only after many preparations that the Russian government has succeeded in sending reinforcements to the front.

The same letter was then given to the one-year service men, and again to every soldier who could read and write.

"All these men were then sent back to the barracks, while the rest were sent to the front lines in all parts of the empire where soldiers of the reserve had refused to go to the front.

"At Khar'kov alone more than 1,500 soldiers refused to go to war and were sent to military prisons."

EDITOR MAKES A CORRECTION FOR HIM

(Copyright, 1924, by W. R. Hearst.) BERLIN, June 11.—A curious story is published in the Crimen Messenger, the Russian official daily paper at Sebastopol.

One day the editor was sitting in his sanctum he received a visit from a diminutive Cossack dressed in the full national costume of his tribesmen.

The visitor seemed to be about nine years old.

"Sit," he said with the utmost politeness as soon as he had entered the room. "I wish you would make a little correction in an article which appeared in your paper yesterday."

"You say in this that a little urchin of unknown parentage met Admiral Skrydloff on the steps leading to the church of St. George and presented him with an ikon."

"Now, permit me to say that I am not a little urchin of unknown parentage, but a regiment of which my father is now dead, was colonel for many years."

"I came to this city for the purpose of offering to Admiral Skrydloff an ikon of the Holy Virgin of Khamban, the patron of our family. The admiral took the ikon, kissed me and thanked me for my children. Would you kindly put this in your journal?"

"Why, with the greatest pleasure," said the editor. "We shall be delighted to do this for you."

He then gave the Crimen Messenger published in the fat type that it was exceedingly sorry that it by mistake had called the honorable Cossack Popoff some little urchin of unknown parentage.

THE LABEL SUIT HAS BEEN DROPPED

(Copyright, 1924, by W. R. Hearst.) BERLIN, June 11.—The German socialists are jubilant because the government has been obliged to drop the suit against the Mainzer Volkzeitung, a prominent socialist paper, which some time ago published a series of personal letters from General Kroschmann in which he stated that Russian soldiers had sacked and plundered French towns and villages during the Franco-Prussian war.

Insisting that German soldiers would never do this, the Kaiser, through the minister of war, ordered the paper concerned to drop the suit for libel started against the editor.

Before the case came up for trial investigations by government officials showed that the soldiers had done much worse things than stated in the paper, and the suit was dropped.

The editor, however, was politely asked not to make any more unpleasant disclosures, even if they happened to be true, a request which he complied with after printing it verbatim in his paper.

ANARCHISTS ACTIVE SPIES ARE BUSY

Several Known to Belong to Most Dangerous Group of Reds Have Arrived

TREATS AGAINST CZAR

Message From Russian Government Suggests International Convention

(Copyright, 1924, by W. R. Hearst.) PARIS, June 11.—There are ominous signs of renewed anarchistic activity in this city and the secret police are kept exceedingly busy.

Several anarchists known to belong to "Reds" at Paterson, N. J., have arrived here and are being closely watched.

Thought it has been tried to keep it a secret, it is well known here that several conspiracies against the life of the Czar have been nipped in the bud by the secret service men, and their spies are busy attending anarchist meetings in disguise in anticipation of plots against the life of the young King Alfonso XIII of Spain, who is to visit us this summer.

A message has been received from the Russian government suggesting an international convention against the anarchists.

This document, which was signed by the Czar on March 4, has circulated from one European government to the other with the utmost secrecy, and though it has already been endorsed by the governments of Germany, Austria, Turkey, Denmark, Sweden, Roumania, Bulgaria, Serbia and Switzerland, it has not been laid before the parliament of any of these countries.

A French paper, however, claims to have penetrated the mystery. It has discovered a protocol which seems to date from the time of the Holy Alliance couched in the following terms: "The governments of Europe have decided that:

"Every anarchist who has been expelled from any of our countries shall be considered by the police surveillance by the shortest way to his native country, or the country in which he claims citizenship, where he shall be turned over to the police."

"If the countries do not adjoin, the police of the countries situated between them shall conduct the anarchist through their territory."

"Every country shall establish a bureau of registration, where all known anarchists are to be registered and a close watch kept on their movements and all these bureaus shall help each other in every possible way."

The far East, however, has refused to sign the document, but it is thought that the Kaiser may influence King Edward to do so during his visit to Kiel.

COMPOSER OF MUSIC LIONIZED IN BERLIN

(Copyright, 1924, by W. R. Hearst.) BERLIN, June 11.—The famous composer, Leoncavallo, who has been in this city for some time for the purpose of delivering into the hands of the Kaiser the opera which his majesty ordered from him some time ago, has been lionized by the people of Berlin, who have given him great ovations because he has shown himself.

The other night when the fashionable guests dining at the Adloning hotel became aware of his presence they asked the military band performing there to play one of his pieces.

The bandmaster, however, had to explain that this was not possible, as military bands in Prussia were forbidden to play copyrighted music without permission.

On hearing this, the composer wrote on the back of a bill of fare a declaration that he renounced his rights on the present occasion with regard to the premiere of his opera, "Pagliacci."

Thereupon the band played the piece by way of homage to the Italian master, and the performance was received with a storm of applause.

DOGS VALUABLE IN WAR SERVICE

(Copyright, 1924, by W. R. Hearst.) LONDON, June 11.—Much interest has been aroused among dog lovers by the fact that Major Huttonville Richardson of Carnoustie, Forfarshire, the well known trainer of ambulance dogs, has received an order from St. Petersburg to proceed at once with a number of these animals to Manchuria.

For many years Major Richardson has devoted himself to teaching, dogs and has experimented with every conceivable breed with excellent results. The dogs are trained to search for maimed and wounded soldiers, and they are able to penetrate through thick cover or travel over difficult ground where a man could not pass.

They carry medicine in little barrels and bandages in saddles on their backs, and when they find a wounded man, they utter low barks until assistance arrives, and the stretcher bearer can reach him.

If the soldier is able to do so, he can take the bandages from the saddle on the back of the dog, who is gentle and as quiet as a nurse under the most trying circumstances. It has been found for the most part that the Scotch collie is the best and most sagacious dog for this purpose.

FIGHT WILL BE BITTER

Those who will persist in closing their ears against the continual recommendation of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, will have a long and bitter fight with their troubles. If not ended earlier by fatal termination, read what T. R. King has to say, has to say: "Last fall my wife had every symptom of consumption. She took Dr. King's New Discovery after everything else had failed. Improvement came at once and four bottles entirely cured her. Guaranteed by Matt S. Blanton & Co., and W. F. Fisher, druggist. Price 50c and $1. Trial bottles free."

SUBMARINE BOAT IS COMPLETE FAILURE. KIEL, June 11.—Naval engineers here now admit that the new submarine boat which has been built here, and of which so much was expected, is a complete failure, being absolutely unmanageable when submerged. This is said to be a great disappointment to the Kaiser, who was reported to have intended to take a trip on board the vessel during the regatta week.

FURNITURE OF A NAPOLEON SOLD. PARIS, June 11.—A remarkable sale by auction, made without noise or advertisement, took place here today when the furniture of the palaces once inhabited by the Emperor Napoleon III was disposed of. The furniture, which was very old-fashioned, was embroidered with a large "N" and an imperial crown.

He was attended by his physician who was himself a victim of Diabetes. The object of the visit was to meet a prominent business man who had for months been investigating an alleged cure for Bright's Disease and Diabetes, and hear his verdict. He declared that the claims were fully proven and that for something like $500, on which he afterward, upon returning to his home in San Angelo, stopped payment, on the ground that it was a gambling debt.

His case came on for trial in the district court here last fall and the defendant was on hand with his witnesses, who included a number of the most prominent men of Tom Green county, and insisted on a trial. The state was not ready for trial because of the fact that the cashier of the San Angelo bank, upon which the check was drawn, was not present.

The court denied the state a continuance and the district attorney dismissed the case without prejudice and asked that Yates be held until he could be re-indicted. Yates gave bond and returned to San Angelo.

WILL RAISE HOGS. KENTON, O. T., June 10.—A number of ranches in western part of Beaver county are paying more attention this spring to hog raising than in former years. It is claimed by those who have practiced it for some time that it will eventually prove more profitable than cattle raising.

STOCKMEN ARE ELATED. SAN ANGELO, Texas, June 10.—The stockmen are elated over the splendid prospects which confront them in the range country. The recent heavy rains have brought the range out wonderfully, grass is up high and cattle are getting fat at a very rapid rate. Weeds are sprouting up thickly and the nut-hay is fast getting into shape and going out to market. Some fat ranges are a good deal to go out later on. There is no doubt now but that there will be a splendid summer range all over the stock country.

from $25 to $50 a head. The demand for stock and mules still continues and there does not appear to be a great many of them in the country at present. CATTLE ARE DYING. An Ardmore, I. T., dispatch says: A report comes from the western portion of the Chickasaw nation that many cattle are dying there from causes unknown. The cattlemen, however, believe that feeding upon oak leaves is responsible for the trouble. The season has been late, grass was slow in coming and range cattle have been grazing upon the oak shrubbery. Small grain in that section will not yield half a crop and much of it has been plowed up and the land planted in cotton.

up so fast that they now expect to commence shipping fat range cows and calves to market in July. In fact, a few shipments are going along from time to time now, but next month the shipments will commence to become much heavier, it is said. Last year the fat range stuff began to go out in numbers along in June. The winter before, however, had been exceedingly wet and the range had accordingly been in good shape all through the winter so that cattle did not get thin to a great extent. This winter just passed was unusually dry and the range became so poor that cattle got very thin and it takes them longer to pick up and get fat.

FEAR THE GRASSHOPPERS. A Red Lodge, Mont., dispatch says: Carbon county ranchers have had their hopes pretty well dashed on the grasshopper proposition. Last year, which promised to be the most successful agricultural year in the history of the county, was ruined by the grasshoppers in such numbers that they laid miles and miles of country absolutely bare. During the winter at times the hope has been expressed that cold weather with lack of snow had killed off most of the eggs, and that there was hope for a practical destruction of the pest.

FUTURE STEER CHAMPIONS. The fact that A. G. Leonard recently paid $225 for a 7-months Hereford calf to make into a candidate for steer championships indicates how highly that honor is valued among cattlemen. Last year $600 was paid for a steer that had the championship in view, but he lost it to one that was picked out of a bunch of cattle seven months before the show. The individual steer classes at our great shows should be more extensive than they are, considering the financial and other rewards held out to winners. There should be in this country more people finishing animals for competition therein, and especially calves and yearlings. The honors to be won are less important to the majority than the lesson to be learned.—Texas Stockman and Farmer.

ports from this country to foreign lands are increasing in volume. This is bound to continue. Conservative statisticians declare that in 1950—and many of the settlers now flocking to this country should live to see that date—the population of the United States will be at least 150,000,000.

One thing is certain—this land is all capable of being used and will all be used. If some of the present tide of immigrants do not succeed and wish to quit there will be plenty ready to take their places. The settlement of this land is an accomplished fact. All other vacant lands will be settled as their turn comes.

A young New York broker whose father has dropped two fortunes in Wall street, about a year ago fell heir to $30,000 from the estate of an aunt. He at once employed an expert and purchased at pawn-brokers' sales and elsewhere diamonds that took his whole fortune. The other day he sold the whole lot at an advance of $9,000.

The police court of St. Heller, the principal town of Jersey, is remarkable in several respects. First, the proceedings are always opened with prayer; second, it frequently happens that after prayers there is no more business, and every one goes home. There is so little crime committed in the island that the police force (twenty strong) is kept up only for visitors.

The revived popularity of the Tam O'Shanter, with the reported increased manufacture of this favorite head gear in the United States, had led Nottingham hosiery makers to put in extra machinery for its production.

Sideache, Back-ache, Head-ache. To a great many people it looks as though the present influx of settlers to the range lands will affect the country only temporarily and that the new ones, upon finding different climatic, soil and other conditions here from which they hail, will nearly all drift back to the places from whence they came.

We can judge the future by the past, but changing conditions must be taken into account. In the history of each new agricultural district which has been developed we find the first stage which is inaugurated by the boomer, and which is not founded on good, sound, working principles, is followed by a relapse, which, in turn, is succeeded by the substantial and permanent development, which must come sooner or later.

The natural resources of the land are never developed until it becomes an imperative necessity. If there had been more upland available the great dykes of Holland would never have reclaimed that land from the sea. At first the settlers in the eastern states used only the land which was naturally most favorably situated; but the need of more land has caused the expenditure of millions of dollars in draining swamp land, clearing timber land and removing stones in the use of fertilizers and in other ways. In the south and west enterprises have already been carried through or are in course of construction to reclaim agricultural lands by irrigation.

Population of United States Is Increasing So Rapidly That Much of the Range Country Must Be Utilized

And many other aches to which women are peculiarly subject are generally the result of a diseased condition of the womanly organism. When this diseased condition is cured, sideache, back-ache, headache, etc., are cured also. Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription establishes regularity, drives the drains which weaken women, heals inflammation and ulceration and cures female weakness. When these diseases are cured the aches they cause are also cured.

"I will drop you a few lines to-day to let you know that I am feeling well now," writes Miss Annie Stephens, of Belleville, Wood Co, West Va. "I feel like a new woman. I took several bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' and of the 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I have no headache now, no backache, and no pain in my side any more. No bearing-down pain any more. I think that there is no medicine like Dr. Pierce's medicine. I thank you very much for what you have done for me—your medicine has done me much good."

BIG RANGES ARE PASSING

The days of the great ranch are about over, particularly in Western Texas, where vast areas have hitherto been monopolized by the cattle barons, says a correspondent of the Chicago Chronicle. Ever since the first settlement of the region the lands there were regarded as unsuitable for agriculture and by common consent were left to the owners of flocks and herds. The district is suffering this spring from the severest drouth in many years. Hundreds of cattle are dying on the ranches for want of water and grass.

The ranching business in that vast region is declining, anyway, and the present losses of the cattle will probably accelerate the cutting up of the ranches into small holdings. This process has been going on for several years.

Perhaps in no other part of the world is so much land in big estates owned by individual property holders. In Texas there are ranches of more than 1,000,000 acres each, which are the property of the individuals utilizing them.

A New Yorker was traveling on horseback last summer over the prairie of Northwestern Texas, when he came to a wire fence that stretched away as far as he could see. The road led him to a gateway in this fence and on it was a sign, reading: "Eighty miles from this gate to headquarters."

The ranches with areas of 500,000 acres or a little less. But the days of the great Texas ranches are about over, and the reason is that more and more farmers are looking in that direction for tillable lands.

They find that the larger part of the lands which have been so abundantly fertilized but given enough, as a rule, to insure good crops. They are buying hundreds of thousands of acres at $5 to $7 an acre.

It takes from ten to twenty acres of these range lands to raise a single steer. If the ranchmen can get $5 an acre or more for their land they can lend the money in that country at 8 per cent and make more than they do in cattle raising.

So the ranches are being continually whittled down to make farms, and last year over 1,000,000 acres of ranch property were purchased by settlers from the north and east and the plow was set at work turning the sod under.

It's a race, then, between your own and their deed for a five thousand a year stake? "Exactly." "But I don't see where I come in." "I want you to run over to Mount Eagle, where Miss Trixie hangs out, and keep a sharp eye on her till the business is through. Sharkey & Snipplit are as sharp as scissors and shut as tight. These two greasy cans, both quite full, he wrapped up carefully in a couple of large silk handkerchiefs and stuffed into the bag.

Veterans Are To Meet In Annual Reunion At Nashville

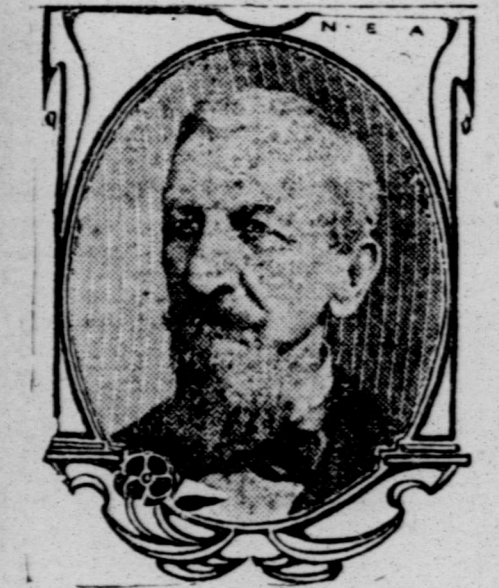

BRAVE WEARERS OF THE GRAY ARE TO MEET IN NASHVILLE

NASHVILLE, Tenn., June 11.—From 15,000 to 18,000 Confederate veterans will gather in Nashville June 14-16 for their fourteenth annual reunion.

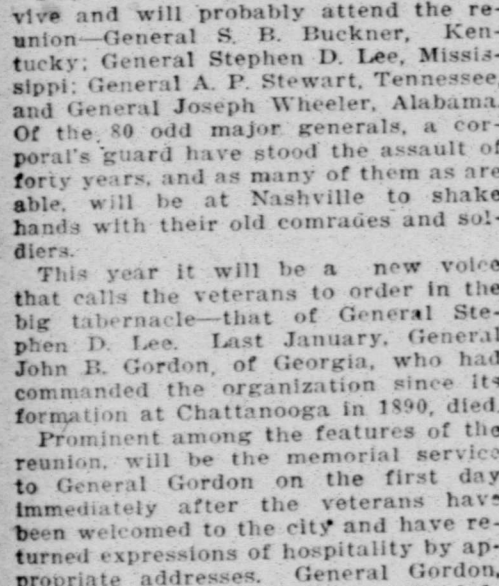

GENERAL S. B. BUCKNER.

The city of Nashville for the second time will act as hostess for the Confederate hosts.

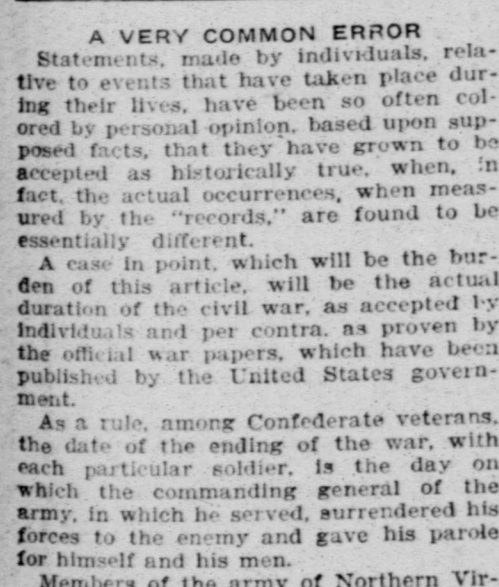

GENERAL A. P. STEWART.

The annual reunion of Confederate soldiers is the most important event of the year in the south.

GENERAL STEPHEN D. LEE.

Four lieutenant generals now survive and will probably attend the reunion—General S. B. Buckner, Kentucky; General Stephen D. Lee, Mississippi; General A. P. Stewart, Tennessee; and General Joseph Wheeler, Alabama.

GENERAL JOSEPH WHEELER.

On the afternoon of the first day, a shaft to the Confederate soldier will be unveiled at Centennial park.

On the last day will come the event of the reunion, the grand parade. In this every soldier who can walk will be seen, and the automobiles and carriages of Nashville will be at the service of the disabled and crippled.

mond, who harassed Sherman in Georgia, and fought with Price across the Mississippi; heroes of Chickamauga, Franklin, Shiloh, the two Bull Runs, Gettysburg and the Virginia campaigns; infantrymen, cavalrymen and artillerymen. And not a few in the array will be men who fought in independent commands, bushwhackers, guerrillas, rangers.

be a memory. The south knows it and the soldiers know it. And so everyone is determined that the few remaining shall be made grand successes.

To the Sons of Veterans, who will hold their annual meetings at the same time, the social side of the reunion, with the hundreds of sponsors and friends of honor is the drawing card.

A case in point, which will be the burden of this article, will be the actual duration of the civil war, as accepted by individuals and per contra, as proven by the official war papers, which have been published by the United States government.

As a rule, among Confederate veterans, the date of the ending of the war, with each particular soldier, is the day on which the commanding general of the army, in which he served, surrendered his forces to the enemy and gave his parole for himself and his men.

Members of the army of Northern Virginia, for instance, when asked the question, will almost invariably answer that the war ended at Appomattox, while others, who served with the army of Tennessee, will argue that the event came when General Joseph E. Johnston surrendered at Goldsboro, N. C. and so with members of the other armies.

army. A parole was issued to each man, which contained a provision that he would return to his home and not take up arms against the United States until exchanged, or properly relieved of the obligations of this parole.

The army of Northern Virginia thus became prisoners of war. But did this fact terminate the war?

On April 28, 1865, General Joseph E. Johnston surrendered the army of Tennessee in North Carolina to General W. T. Sherman, and he and his army gave their own solemn parole of honor, that we will not hereafter serve in the armies of the Confederate states, or in any military capacity whatever against the United States of America, or render aid to the enemies of the latter, until properly exchanged, in such manner as shall be mutually appointed by the respective authorities.

Now, while the Confederate soldiers may have thought that the war was over, as far as active hostilities in the field was concerned it was, still, in fact, until he was relieved of the obligation of his parole, by some act of the United States government, he was a soldier to all intents and purposes and in such cases, had he taken up arms against the United States government. He was relieved, however, on June 2, 1865, by the president officially declaring the war ended, and issuing his famous amnesty proclamation.

Hostilities ceased on June 2, 1865, but the war was not officially ended until exactly twelve months afterwards.

Fort Sumter was fired on on the 12th of April, 1861, and this act has always been considered the beginning of the war, so, as the war did not end until June 2, 1865, it lasted five years, one month and twenty-one days.

The only power that could officially declare the end of the war and relieve captives of war from the obligations they had incurred through their paroles, after the dispersion and capture of the Confederate government, was the United States, and until she acted there could be no end.

Several Sundays ago, at one of the usual meetings of R. E. Lee camp, United Confederate Veterans, a comrade, while giving some of his experiences, stated that he had served five years, and was asked to task by other members of the camp, who asserted that the war ended at Appomattox, and requested him to tell them where he was at during that last year.

He saw with Forrest that "war meant fight and fight meant to kill," and so he raised a company and marched it down Main street as company F, Walker's division, Army of the Trans-Mississippi. He C. (Tobe) Johnson was his first lieutenant and Frank Elliston, Joe Henderson and other well known citizens of the county, were in his command. This company was in the front, ready for duty, and assigned in keeping Texas intact from unlawful invasion. It was in the principal battles in Louisiana and Texas with this end in view.

modern colloquialism—"work," and it did not on that occasion. He and his uncle, Jim, who had copied and totally refused to read the women folk, argued as to what it was very much to be feared that the average males by George Washington in the cherry tree episode was miles behind the average ladies these two told as an inducement to deceive his aunt and make her believe that it was only intended to fill up the company, and that he could be gotten out at any time; Oh! yes, not a bit of trouble, etc. In the best matured plans, however, it often happens that something is overlooked, that, while unnoticed seems harmless, but when it does put in an appearance bursts everything to find out. The fatal error in his and his Uncle Jim's plans was in not posting the mustering in officer, who, not being aware of the situation, promptly told his aunt that it would be hard work to get him out at all. And so ended his prospects of war for that time, for his aunt was inexorable and totally refused to believe any more of the plausible yarns his uncle and himself related to her.

So utter was his defeat that he lost his appetite and refused absolutely to eat anything, even the fine roasting ears—the kind that Commodore Parrell says the Savior plucked in the fields, though it is hard to say how Mississippi roasting ears ever got into the Holy Land; might have been a miracle, however—and he wept, and it is said forgot the commandment and swore a little, young as he was, but it did not do any good. His effort to break into the Confederate army that time was a miserable failure, and when the other boys marched proudly off to the war he marched home with the women folk. So that is how the bold warrior, Taylor McRae did not get into the Confederate army.

The next lesson, which will be recited at some future time, will relate how Taylor McRae did at last break into the Confederate army and what happened to him, and what his experiences were, and how great respect with the true republican party, and prides himself as numbering among his friends such men as Marcus A. Hanna, R. C. Kerens, Powell Clayton and the late lamented Logan H. Root. He is now commander of R. E. Lee camp, Confederate Veterans, and their motto is "Charity to all mankind," and more especially to the indigent Confederate soldier.

He has associated with him in his regiment the noble spirits of W. L. Crawford of Beaumont, and A. C. Allen, Texarkana, as his major; M. L. Crawford, Dallas, Rufus Price of St. Augustine, Captain A. C. Smith of Atlanta, Texas, and a host of others equally as good and true men. All that these old heroes want now is a constitutional government, protection to all alike in life, liberty and pursuit of happiness, and to live to see the usurper, Theodore Roosevelt, discarded from the White House.

He has been a consistent member of the Methodist church, south, since he was 12 years old. He is now president of the United Beneficial Association.

SAVE THE BOYS. It is in order now to take time and the Fourth of July by the forelock and forestall a repetition of the horrors of last year resulting from the use of toy pistols, dynamite bombs and cannon fire crackers.

The record of the principal cities show that during the last ten years 1,100 persons were killed, 5,800 injured and a property loss of $6,000,000 sustained in Fourth of July celebrations.

Most of these persons were boys, slain to make an American holiday. The American Medical Journal says 4,449 deaths and injuries were caused last Fourth of July. There were 408 deaths from lockjaw caused by toy pistols; from other injuries, 60 deaths; 16 persons made blind; 75 lost one eye; 54 lost hands, arms or legs; 174 lost fingers, and 3,670 received other injuries—a costly sacrifice to so-called patriotism.

And the pity of it is the fatality falls mostly on small boys who do not realize the danger. They want to make a noise and take whatever is given or sold to them by older persons who know, or ought to know, the danger.

The city of Fort Worth ought to do something and do it now, not a few days before the Fourth, when the stores are loaded up with this destructive artillery. The city ordinance prohibits the firing of explosives and that ordinance ought to be made tight.

Chicago has an ordinance that all cities would do well to copy. It is stringent.

The ordinance positively prohibits the sale, gift, or keeping for sale, fireworks, cannon crackers, toy pistols, etc., provides for confiscation, makes it the duty of policemen to seize them on sight anywhere, and provides heavy penalties for violations. It also requires public notice to be given by the mayor, of the ordinance, and this the mayor has already done.

HOLD ONTO YOUR MONEY

Should you be enticed by a plausible advertisement offering to give you for a consideration—in most instances a consideration of a comparatively large sum of money—a fine location in the irrigated lands of the west, have a care.

There are those who offer to furnish government maps and accurate surveys of these lands which the government will irrigate. You can get the maps and surveys by writing to your congressman.

The lands will not be on the market, or open for homesteading, until the secretary of the interior gives due notice according to law.

There is certain to be a great demand for the lands. It has been amply demonstrated that the arid lands reclaimed by irrigation are the most valuable of all. The soil needs only to be watered to make it very fruitful and the climate and long sunshine permits the raising of several crops annually.

The government is engaged in a great work—making the desert to blossom as the rose. The land-hunger of Americans will be appeased to some degree by this undertaking.

If you wish to acquire these lands you must do so in accordance with the plans of the government. The way to do business with the government is to do business with it direct. No middle man is needed.

Hold on to your money.

THE WINE ROOMS

"They're hell, that's what they are." The policeman—for twenty years on the Chicago police force, was talking to a reporter about the wine rooms of that city.

From almost every city comes the news that the custom of saloon drinking by women is growing. In many instances, of course, what is known as the side or "family" entrance is patronized by respectable women and families who, of foreign birth or inherited customs, see nothing improper in such patronage. But the side entrance and private stall arrangement is fraught with grave danger to young girls.

A Chicago newspaper has been making an investigation of the wine room evil. It finds that more women and girls find their way to "wine parlors" with their accompanying dance halls than ever before and that many of them come from highly respectable homes.

As the policeman says, these places are simply side entrances to hades.

One of the highly respectable young girls who frequent these places said to the reporter:

"Of course it's the 'ladies' entrance.' How is a girl ever to begin coming to the saloon if there isn't a side entrance? It's like this: Girls have got to have a good time. They go to the family entrance of some saloon with some boy they know to get a glass of beer or maybe of soda. They see the dancing. He says, 'Let's try it.' She thinks there is no harm in dancing with him, and there you are. That was what I did."

"But you didn't drink?" "Not strong things. Lots of the girls around here don't. It keeps one's head clearer."

There are several ways by which a young woman can go down the toboggan slide into the depths. There is no quicker or surer way than by the wine-room route.

The devil has certainly got a string around that girl who voluntarily and repeatedly puts herself in a place where the sensual and nothing but the sensual is appealed to.

UNIFORM DIVORCE LAWS

Secretary Dike of the National League for the Protection of the Family, has supplied a new summary of the reasons for uniformity of divorce laws throughout all the states, and uniformity is to be gained, he contends, by concerted action of the several states, not by national legislation.

Congress can not pass a divorce law until the federal constitution has been amended, and amendment to the federal constitution is next to the impossible.

Nearly fifteen years ago a committee of the American Bar Association declared that a constitutional amendment was out of the question.

The late Professor Thayer of the Harvard law school used to say that this country would never get another constitutional amendment on any question, so great are the difficulties in the way. Certainly some great crisis must arise which will arouse the feeling of the people, more than any mere moral question ever can, before another amendment can be secured.

Throughout the south there is unalterable opposition to any further transfer of power from the states to the national government. It may also be added that there is less need in the south of laws to restrict divorces than in any other part of the country.

Besides, there appears no good reason why the national government should do for the states what the states can, if they will, better do for themselves.

The states have had no difficulty in getting together on uniform laws relating to money affairs; so it would seem there is no insuperable obstacle to their getting together on a vital question of morals.

Since the several states can agree to protect the banks, the way is open to an agreement to protect the homes.

The courts of Delaware, according to Mr. Dike, are forbidden to entertain a suit for divorce for any cause arising prior to the residence of the petitioner in that state unless it were also a ground for divorce in the state where it arose.

The adoption of a similar law in all the states would effectually end the migrations for divorce. It would put an end to the rivalry for divorce fees between the states which induces so much of the liberality of the laws.

But, after all, public opinion is the great power that not only can render divorce odious, but influence laws against it. Mr. Dike calls upon the churches to get together. That would be a good example to the states.

IN THE GOOD OLD SUMMER TIME

The Summer Girl and the Mosquito Arrive Together

NEXT TUESDAY IS NATIONAL FLAG DAY

Many of States Have Legislative Acts Which Provide for General Observance

STARS AND STRIPES As Each Year Passes It Comes to More General Attention All Over Country

"I'm going to get out my flag next Tuesday and put it on the gate post and I hope every person in Fort Worth will do the same," said an old citizen yesterday. "The flag is receiving too little attention from the matter of fact American people and next Tuesday we ought to have a grand revival of sentiment and have the city ablaze with the stars and stripes."

the question of observance of the flag feeling that with the large number of alien children in the schools of his city something should be done to make them honor and respect the emblem of their foster land. Speaking of the question at that time he said:

"Adults get lazy and take too much for granted on the subject of patriotism, and their children grow up ignorant of its commonest principles, because it would take more than an average inquiring mind to imbibe patriotism from the books in the schools of the present day. Children should be taught from the instant they take joy in the bright colors of our flag that it is the flag of the world; that it means more to the people of the nation it protects than does any other flag in the world. More men have fought for it, more men have died for it, than for any other flag that ever kissed the breezes of heaven. Not for the cotton or silk or bunting, but for the principles they represent in the American flag. It never protected a traitor; it never was struck in defeat. 'The child who learns these things will remember the glorious that in the hour of the nation's needs, but with the adult, late planted patriotism is a seed of stunted growth. The aliens who swarm upon our shores have taught us bitter lessons in their lack of patriotism and disregard—aye, even contempt, for the flag and the free institutions which it fosters and protects."

Since then the matter has been taken up more generally and in a number of states the flying of the flag over the school houses has been made compulsory. A bill making such action compulsory in the district of Columbia was also finally passed through congress and a fund raised for the purchase of the flags and today the observance of flag day is said to be growing more general every year. The first legally adopted emblem of the United States was that adopted by congress June 14, 1777, during the early days of the revolution, various emblems having been used by the troops of the various colonies.

The flag adopted at that time consisted of thirteen stripes alternately red and white with a union of thirteen white stars on a blue field. This form was altered by act of congress in 1794, providing that after May 1, 1795, the flag of the United States should consist of fifteen stripes, fifteen stars, etc. In 1818, however, the flag was re-established with thirteen horizontal stripes alternately red and white, the union consisting of twenty white stars in a blue field. Provision was also made in this act for the addition of a star for each state admitted to the union, such addition to be made to the flag on July 4, succeeding the admission of the state. This flag was first used July 4, 1818, and is yet the official emblem of the United States.

The first official flag of that adopted in 1777 was made by Betsy Ross in the now famous Flag House, still standing on Arch street in Philadelphia.

The "Cossacks" of the Russian army are said to be a mixed race of Russian, Polish, Tartar and other elements. Their principal homes are the steppes of the Don and of the Caucasus and a region at the southern end of the Ural mountains, on the borders of European Russia and Siberia. They are regarded by the Russian government as a military division of the people, and the males eligible for service are organized in 11 voivodes or corps. In addition to the cavalry there are infantry and field artillery. The total number of the race is probably between 1,500,000 and 2,000,000.

The extraordinary hair strengthening qualities of Danderine has grown for this little girl the most admirable head of hair ever possessed by a child of her age in the world. The other two ladies whose photographs are shown here are certainly delighted with the results they are getting. Neither of them having hair that would reach to their waists before beginning the use of Danderine. IT IS POSITIVE AND PERMANENT IN ITS RESULTS. When applied to the scalp on either old or young, it makes the hair sprout and grow thick, long and beautiful, and there is no waiting around for weeks and months to see results, either. Any druggist will refund the price if it does not accomplish every result we claim. NOW at all druggists in three sizes, 25 cents, 50 cents and $1.00 per bottle. FREE To show how quickly Danderine acts we will send a large sample free by return mail to any one who sends this advertisement to the Knowlton Danderine Co., Chicago, with their name and address and 10 cents in silver or stamps to pay postage. For sale and guaranteed by H. T. Pangburn & Co. Phone 81. Free delivery.

MARKET REVIEW

Owing to the excessive rains and the poor accommodations by the railroads to northern markets the receipts of cattle this week have been more liberal than for any like period during several months. The first two days of the week the market was exceptionally heavy and with a goodly number of through cattle held on account of washouts, the market was liberally supplied.

Trading showed a good healthy tone up until Thursday when medium grade steers lost 15c to 25c and the best prime finished steers 5c to 10c. Yesterday and Thursday choice heavy steers sold at $4.50, with a long string of heavy 1,274-pound, well-finished, graded steers on Friday's market at $4.70, the highest sale of the week. Good average quality feed steers have sold largely around $3.65@4.10, with the medium and bulk, $3.30@3.75. Best fat butcher cows have lost 10c to 15c during the week, with a decline of 15c to 25c on all grades of medium butcher stock. Best cows are quoted at $2.75@3.25; medium butcher stock at $2.25@2.75, and the ordinary killing kinds at $1.75@2.25.

Calves and bulls have, as a rule, been in light supply, with no material change in value. Receipts of hogs has shown a big decrease from the average weekly runs, and although the quality has been poor, the demand has been good, and, with the week's close, Saturday prices show a gain of from 10c to 20c. Best quality hogs are now selling at $4.75@4.80; mixed grades of good weight and quality at $4.65@4.75, and pigs and lights at $4.15@4.65. Sheep have lost 25c since last week, with the bulk of the littered and heavy forward to other markets. Best forward wethers are quoted at $4.10@4.25; mixed ewes and wethers at $3.75@4.10, and the medium grades at $3.50@3.75.

COTTON

NEW YORK, June 11.—The buying movement of cotton, which started Friday, was again in evidence today, leading to a very active and excited market. Supporting orders today seemed to come from the same source as during the stirring session of last summer, but the large room operators appeared to have been caught heavily short, and have been endeavoring to get covered up for ever Sunday. The opening was at a steady decline of 5 points to an advance of 3 points. Before the session was an hour old July was selling well above 12 cents, reaching 12.30c here about 12.70c. New Orleans market advanced 45 points. Light months showed smaller gains, but was very strong and almost equally exciting.

NEW YORK, June 11.—Liverpool cables fully responded to our advance yesterday, but our market opened at about closing prices. Market was hesitating and irregular during the first half hour, but later developed activity and quickly advanced to the highest point on this upturn. The strength was especially noticeable in July and August, and it is quite evident that the short interest in these options was much larger than generally estimated. We regard the advance in the fall options as largely due to short covering and manipulation of professionals, with a view of getting higher prices to sell on. We do not think the advance justified on the present crop outlook, and that sales on any further advance will prove profitable in the near future. In fact, there is evidence today that the weak short interest is pretty well covered and that it will now require continuous buying to carry prices higher. This, at least, is our judgment as regards the next crop positions, but we hesitate to give any positive opinion as to the course of the July and August options, as the statistical position is very strong and supplies becoming smaller every day.

NEW ORLEANS LETTER
NEW ORLEANS, La., June 11.—We had a rather lively session today. It was simply agony to see shorts in July mutilate each other in the scramble to get out. Opening at last night's figures, July jumped 5, 10 and 15 points at a time in the execution of buying orders for a few hundred bales, landing finally at 12.30, so great was the scarcity of sellers. Well, we have advised purchase of summer months since July came in the neighborhood of 11c, and have sent warning over the wire to keep off the short side in the near positions. As regards the rest of the advance of 20 points today, which was maintained for a while, is not due to the appearance of a strictly new crop feature, justifying the buying of winter months, but merely a sympathetic consequence of 20 points advance in July. There are always people who buy anything on the board if they get emboldened by the sight of an advance in some portion, no matter what particular claim this position has to the monopoly of improvement. Without this sensational advance in July, new crops would have undoubtedly suffered in value, as crop accounts and weather conditions continue very favorable. Good showers fell over the greater part of the belt during the past twenty-four hours. The weather map generally indicates fair weather over Sunday for the western part of belt, while light scattered showers are likely for the eastern half of the belt. Those who want to profit by a short score in new crops continue to drum about damage by excessive moisture as yet, but dry weather would be welcomed now in most parts of the state of Texas. From inquiries addressed to us it is quite clear that lots of damage reports are being sent out from the floors of the exchanges to scare shorts in new crops, which are naturally sensitive, owing to the big rise in July and August, into buying. It will be well to bear in mind that this advance in summer months has absolutely nothing to do with the new crops and we are near the time when summer months and new crops will detach themselves completely from each other. Consumers, straddlers and professionals are loaded up with new crops and work naturally for an advance, but there is no substantial reason in hand as yet to justify buying of new crops at 10c. There was the usual spot demand for good colored lots, while others were neglected. Quotations will be raised, owing to the big advance in July futures.

GRAIN

CHICAGO, June 11.—Wheat—The Modern Miller's report yesterday evening indicated a crop within 10,000,000 bushels of that harvested last year. This can not be construed as bearish when the present high level of values and the large stock and larger prospective supplies abroad are going into mills. It was evident it was not generally taken as bullish, as the market was bare of buying orders early and pit professionals took the opportunity to hammer values. The September market ruled relatively strong. Weather conditions are perfect. Cash demand was slow everywhere.

Corn—Corn was a local market and had the weakness in wheat and bearish factors of its own to contend with. Receipts continue large and the shipping demand poor. Perhaps the very best evidence of the relation between supply and demand is the increase of 1,250,000 bushels in local stocks this week. September was relatively stronger.

Oats—July oats were barely steady, while the September market was strong. Trade was light and offerings of the latter were limited. Cash position as strong as ever. Demand is good and movement light.

Provisions—The provision men realizing on the open advances, but the demand from one of the packing interests and the increased outside trade more than offset the market was active and the volume of trade large. Cash demand is good. Receipts of hogs were but 12,000 today, and the market for them strong. Estimated hog receipts for Monday 125,000.

STOCKS

NEW YORK, June 11.—A slight advance in prices of stocks has reflected some growth of confidence over the business outlook. The hopeful feeling regarding crop prospects has been an important influence in closing this sentiment in face of evidence of a lower present level of business activity and prosperity. The decline in consumption of iron, contracted bank clearings and decreased railroad earnings are the leading items of this evidence.

COWBOY FIREMAN OF THE PLAINS

How They Subdue the Terrible Prairie Fires by Killing Cattle and Dragging Carcasses Over Path of the Flames

The "firemen of the plains" work with a system—each man knowing what is expected of him and bravely executing it like firemen of the city. Cowboys are the "fire fighters of the plains," and burning grass is the material consumed. We will take, for illustration, the great "Espanola" or "Espanola" ranch in the lower Panhandle country of northwest Texas, and go back a dozen years, when destructive fires were more frequent than they are now. Hundreds of cowboys were employed on that ranch, living in camps widely scattered, covering the unsettled country of Dickens, Crosby, Garza and Kent.

Great and very destructive prairie fires often occurred, and systematic plans were adopted to fight successfully the devouring element, which not only involved a great loss of grass, but of stock also. One of the most successful plans was the following: It was understood among the men at the various camps that when a smoke was discovered ascending from the prairie each and every cowboy must saddle his horse and gallop away toward the fire straight out in a line from his camp.

This had to be done at night, also, the fire then being detected by its light, and the boys would come from every direction, striking the line of fire at many different points almost at the same time. If the fire had spread much the men from the different camps would sometimes be many miles from each other, those from the same station going in a squad together.

If it was at night the scene would be one of wild and wondrous grandeur. The great line of fire, the galloping horses as the cowboys approached it, some from camps on opposite sides, their forms and those of their horses standing in relief in the bright glare of the burning grass.

The men were not standing still on their horses; the fire was traveling, and they were going with it until ready to begin their attack. Cattle must be sacrificed to save cattle. As soon as an animal fell four cowboys dismounted and sharp knives and hatchets were at work, and in less than time it takes to tell the slain animal was put in a pile.

The halves were split so as to lay flat upon the ground, and to each hoof the end of a rope was fastened, the other end being around the pommel of a cowboy's saddle. They dashed away to the line of them.

When they reached this line two men would cross-plunge through the blaze. Tom tried it, but his horse wheeled and turned away from the blaze, snorting loudly and in terror. Fire, dragging the several parts after "Give me your end of the rope, Tom," said one of the men, "I can go over; Black Duncan will face it," and with a great plunge he cleared the line of fire.

One of the other two also crossed, and without a moment's halt and with scorched faces, they wheeled the horses and ran parallel with the fire, dragging the bloody half of the beef over it, smothering the fire out as fast as their horses could run and drag the weight. One man was then one side of the fire and the other on the opposite, each with his rope to the feet of a horse, stranding the blaze and beating out the greater part of it.

BUENA VISTA HEIGHTS

There are only 62 lots left in this beautiful addition to North Fort Worth; they are located on the hill, only 400 yards west of the packing houses, and within one block of the street car. They are going to be closed out on the plan of $2.00 down and $1.00 to $1.50 per week, until paid out. Remember, there is no interest, no taxes, no mortgage to sign, no payments while sick, and in case of death lot will be deeded without further payments to your beneficiary. Some out Sunday, June 12, and let us show you these lots. They may be just the thing you want. They are 50x140 feet, front on 80-foot streets, and run back to 20-foot alleys. They are "dandies," that's all there is to it.

The German crown prince's riding of a tie with Hittlermeister Von Holtzinger recently in the grand military steplachase at Berlin for the emperor's cup marked the first occasion on which a Hohenzollern so near the throne has been allowed to enter into sport competition with any of his fellow subjects. At Bonn neither the present crown prince nor the father before him was permitted to stand up against any fellow student at the "mensura," or sports duels, which they could only attend as spectators. The emperor never rode such a race as his son has now done, and for the simple reason that he has no power in his bridle arm.

WANTS THE SONS TO BE REORGANIZED

Taylor McRea Opposes Member in Which Auxiliary Is Conducting Affairs IS AGAINST FUNCTIONS Says There Should Be Change in Manner in Which It Is Being Conducted

There is opposition springing among some of the Confederate Veterans against the Sons of Veterans, and while it has been hinted at several times, none of the veterans have really spoken out. However, Taylor McRea of this city has startled the country by an address he has prepared to the Confederate Veterans. Mr. McRea says:

For some years it has become apparent to observant people, both in and outside of Confederate Veterans circles, that the annual reunions were being gradually diverted from their true purposes and were being used as occasions for either pecuniary gain or for grand society functions that from their nature debarrated the veterans as a whole.

To the true soldier of the south it is a delight beyond the comprehension of ordinary mortals to meet at a reunion their old comrades and in joyous converse fight their battles over again and question the living as to the fate of some friend who attended the last occasion of the sort. He cares very little for display and thinks more of his "parade" headed by some loved commander than of all the festivities of the reunion. He requires but little to make him happy and accepts with gratitude, as a gift from his people, the cot whereon to lay his aged body and the food that is provided to assuage his hunger and thirst. Grand balls, routes and banquets or other functions that have grown to be such a burden to the cities that have invited him to come as a guest within their portals have no attractions for him. I say that for these things he cares nothing, but for his honor as a Confederate Veteran and of that of his comrades and his camp, he is ever proud, and at all times will be ready to defend it from any attacks from whatever source. The veterans are the units around which the whole reunion revolves. But for him and his cause there would be no reunion, but in these later days this fact seems to have been overlooked in the struggle of the public to gain for themselves the pleasures and advantages growing out of the occasion. As a rule the veterans are very poor men and it is a struggle for most of them to support themselves and those dependent upon them and at the same time contribute their mite toward aiding their needy comrades. From this fact the average Confederate Veteran and of that of his comrades and his camp, he is ever proud, and at all times will be ready to defend it from any attacks from whatever source. Veterans Are To Meet In Annual Reunion At Nashville ed the train of Confederate ambulances conveying the wounded sick and disabled, and he with several others were taken to Merceburg, Pa., and there paroled. The wounded were treated most kindly by the ladies of Merceburg, their wounds dressed, and all food and medicine necessary furnished. Even the children were rescued for calling them rebels. His pedal extremities being all right, he with two of his comrades, tramped through the state of Maryland, thence via Winchester to Staunton, Va., when they were accommodated with rail transportation to Richmond, Va. He being wounded and a paroled prisoner after a few days in the hospital he was granted a furlough to his home in Mississippi.

His furlough expiring and not knowing whether he had been exchanged or not, returned to his command in Virginia, walking a good part of the way. Rejoining his regiment, then in winter quarters on the Rapidan river, he found awaiting him a commission from the Confederate States government of ensign of the Forty-second Mississippi regiment, with the rank of first lieutenant. Colonel Hugh R. Miller having been killed at Gettysburg, Colonel William Feeney was then in command and informed him that the promotion was in recognition of his heroic conduct on the battle field of Gettysburg. Breaking up winter quarters about the first of May, 1864, he carried the colors of his regiment through the battle of Petersburg, Richmond, unscathed though having his haversack with his rations shot off him, and forty-two bullet holes through his colors. The regiment suffered severely in this battle. Colonel Feeney being killed, and many others killed and wounded.

At Spottsylvania Court House he was highly complimented by his brigade commander in the presence of the regiment. Though he had many close calls, he carried the colors through this battle without a scratch. Grant's battle cry "on to Richmond" was kept up from this point, but wherever he made a stand he found the invincible Lee in his front. The adjutant of the regiment having been wounded and disabled from further service, the subject of this sketch was acting adjutant of the regiment, through the siege of Petersburg, Richmond, constantly on the firing line, he had many narrow escapes, was near the crater sprung by the Yanks in front of Petersburg, where it was death to raise your head above the breast works.

In August his regiment was relieved for a day from the trenches, to rest and launder their linen, most of the line officers took occasion to visit the city. During the day an alarm was given and the regiment ordered out to meet the Feds on the Weidon railroad. The Second and Forty-second Mississippi regiments on account of declining ranks had been consolidated, and commanded by Colonel J. M. Stone, Captain John Powell being the ranking officer present, took command. The first volley from the Feds disabled him, leaving Adjutant McNeely in command of the regiment. The ground covered with a thick growth of underbrush and timber, two lines of the enemy were driven back with severe loss to the Forty-second, and after nightfall they returned to the trenches.

Constant sharp shooting was kept up all along the lines, up to the evacuation of Richmond and Petersburg. Most of the Forty-second was captured just as the retreat from Petersburg commenced. Adjutant McNeely escaped capture and was with Lee's fragment of the grandest army ever marshaled to battle for their homes and freedom.

When the end came at Appomattox, April 9, 1865, with his parole he returned to his home, on his father's plantation in Mississippi, having left a brother, a brother-in-law and many of his kindred to sleep in unknown soldiers' graves.

After the reconstruction troubles had partially subsided, he settled in Bolivar, Tenn., and in September, 1873 married Miss Ida J. Mask. He was connected with the Illinois Central railway for several years as agent at Grand Junction, Tenn., and Holly Springs, Miss. In February, 1886, he removed to Fort Worth, Texas, with his family, where he still resides.

W. T. SHAW.
W. T. Shaw was born September 12, 1845, at Cincinnati, on Trinity river, the Montgomery county, but one year later embraced in the organization of Walker county, Republic of Texas. His father, Granville Clifford Shaw, a native of Tennessee, volunteered his services in defense of the young republic in 1836. Landing on Galveston island soon after the battle of San Jacinto, his first duty was to guard Santa Anna and other Mexican prisoners captured at that battle. His services continued first under the command of Felix Houston and afterwards Albert Sidney Johnson, until the army was disbanded in 1837.

James Shaw, father of Granville Clifford and grandfather of W. T. Shaw, a native of Maryland, served in the war of 1812, under General Jackson and was at the battle of New Orleans severely wounded and even left for dead on the field. Through the loyalty of a personal friend and comrade he was rescued, conveyed to the hospital and finally recovered and lived to a ripe old age. The early boyhood days of young Shaw was spent in Madison county, his father being one of the pioneers and organizers of that territory. In 1850 the family removed to Johnson county and it was from there that he entered the Confederate service in company C, Twelfth Texas cavalry, Parsons' Brigade, Trans-Mississippi department.

The Twelfth Texas cavalry regiment was organized by William H. Parsons, a veteran of the Mexican war, and thorough tactician. His thorough work in drilling and commanding these young Texans, born horsemen, soon placed him in command of the brigade. To this brigade belongs much credit for the fact that the south of Texas alone among all the southern states, was never overrun by the invading foe. They went to the front at an early period in the war and through constant vigilance on the firing line prevented the enemy from crossing the river.

When the subject of this sketch was born he weighed four pounds, was cross, feeble and was the fourth child of fourteen. At 16 months old he weighed nine pounds and was 25 years old before he weighed one hundred and thirty pounds. When twelve years old he was afflicted with rheumatism and went on crutches for over eighteen months. At 16 years of age he was brought into a family feud on account of the emancipation question, which lasted nearly five years, in which fifty-six persons lost their lives. By tact and shrewdness he became the leader of his family in this feud, and though hundreds of shots were fired at him, not one ever marked his body.

When this feud was over W. D. Miller, brother of Judge Sam Miller, one of the supreme judges of the United States, killed a negro in Robinson county, Texas, and fled to Garrard county, Kentucky, and was there arrested by this individual and brought back to Texas. He gave bond for appearance and in less than two months afterward Miller was murdered by Telephus Johnson and a man by the name of Tubbs backed up by a band of marauders in Robinson county. He had them indicted, paying five hundred dollars to John T. Finney for their prosecution.

to invade Texas through Louisiana, supported by Porter's fleet up Red river. During this decisive campaign Parsons' brigade were under fire almost daily for about thirty-eight days and while suffering constant loss, experienced their heaviest mortality at the closing battle of Yellow Bayou.

From a history of this campaign we quote the following: "To Parsons' Brigade was assigned the special distinction of being placed under General Green's orders for an attack on Porter's fleet, by General Kirby Smith as a body composed of veterans who had been at his front for over three years of incessant activity and of to him known reliability."

It was in this, the gunboat battle, that General Green, a veteran of San Jacinto, lost his life. We find in the archives of R. E. Lee camp two interesting letters filed as a part of Mr. Shaw's descriptive list, which give interesting evidence of his personal bearing as a soldier. One from Captain Ben Barnes of Alvarado, commander of his company. We quote the following language: "He was a brave and courageous soldier, member of company C, Twelfth Texas cavalry, Parsons' Brigade, Trans-Mississippi department, and remained as a loyal and faithful soldier until the close of the war." Another from J. A. Easterwood, Cleburne, Texas, reads as follows: "R. E. Lee Camp."

Dear Sirs and Comrades—I have learned with much pleasure of the election of my old companion in arms, Mr. W. T. Shaw, as commander of your camp. He was a member of my own company, company C, Twelfth Texas cavalry, Parsons' Brigade. Though a very young man at the time, he was faithful to every duty promptly and efficiently, and I have no doubt that in his relations with you, as well as his every day walk in life, that he will be as true and as steadfast as he was in the days of '61 to '65.

Captain W. G. Neal, the first commander of R. E. Lee camp, was also a member of Parsons' Brigade, commanding company F of the Twelfth regiment, and also commander of the squadron to which Mr. Shaw belonged. Thus we find that two of the men chosen at different periods to represent the army of peace, over this large and representative body of Confederate soldiers, actually touched arms in the heat of the strife.

CAPTAIN SAM EVANS.
The subject of this sketch was born in Garrard county, Kentucky, Oct. 28, 1821, being now over 72 years of age. His father was a farmer and doctor, who was born and died on the farm the subject of this sketch was born on. This farm was settled by his grandfather in the year 1790.

His grandfather, Elijah Evans, came from North Carolina in 1790 with five brothers, with only packhorses for transportation and back-knives and hatchets to clear their road.

His grandfather was a surveyor, school teacher and farmer. The hewed log house with stone chimney is standing to this day, having been protected by weatherboarding and other buildings. The remarkable thing about this house was that the shingles were put on without nails—holes being bored in them and fastened on with white walnut pins made by this patient man.

When the subject of this sketch was born he weighed four pounds, was cross, feeble and was the fourth child of fourteen. At 16 months old he weighed nine pounds and was 25 years old before he weighed one hundred and thirty pounds. When twelve years old he was afflicted with rheumatism and went on crutches for over eighteen months. At 16 years of age he was brought into a family feud on account of the emancipation question, which lasted nearly five years, in which fifty-six persons lost their lives. By tact and shrewdness he became the leader of his family in this feud, and though hundreds of shots were fired at him, not one ever marked his body.

When this feud was over W. D. Miller, brother of Judge Sam Miller, one of the supreme judges of the United States, killed a negro in Robinson county, Texas, and fled to Garrard county, Kentucky, and was there arrested by this individual and brought back to Texas. He gave bond for appearance and in less than two months afterward Miller was murdered by Telephus Johnson and a man by the name of Tubbs backed up by a band of marauders in Robinson county. He had them indicted, paying five hundred dollars to John T. Finney for their prosecution.

in on Deer creek near where Crawley now stands. From that day to this he has been a citizen of Tarrant county over 32 years before the war he was on the border fighting Indians and struggling against the hardships of a newly settled country.

He organized a cavalry company for the Confederate army and having business at New Orleans, turned his company over to Jasper Dodson, his first lieutenant. After going to New Orleans he went to Montgomery, Ala., and there got orders to go home and raise a company of infantry, which was known as Company C, Twenty-first T. V. I. This command with a body of three hundred other soldiers, were the first to go upon Galveston island after the federal left it. This command charged Kooner's wharf, which was occupied and defended by seven hundred marines, known as the Seventeenth Illinois.

He took charge of the prisoners taken by Dick Dowling at Sabine Pass, and the prisoners that were taken at Calcasieu, in which fight his command was engaged and in which three gunboats and fifteen hundred men were captured by less than seven hundred men and three pieces of artillery.

It was his fight at the Sabine Pass Light house. When the war ended his command was at Galveston and was held intact and kept in order until they reached their homes on Deer creek in Tarrant county and was there discharged.

The first thing he undertook after the war was to drive a bunch of 1,200 sheep to New Orleans, having in his employ two Confederate soldiers. At this time General Custer was quartered at Alexandria, La. The two soldiers while holding the sheep on the bayou found two federal soldiers skinning one of the sheep and killed them on the spot and left for parts unknown. On the next morning after it was known that the soldiers were killed, General Custer issued an order for the arrest of the owner of the sheep, but was discharged on proof of innocence or any knowledge of the killing.

After selling the sheep at New Orleans he came back by way of Galveston to Robinson county and he and Dr. John T. Barton were there instrumental in making Fort Worth a railroad center and fixed the railroad systems for Dallas, Houston, Tyler and Paris.

He has raised more bushels of grain and more bales of cotton than any other man in Tarrant county. He was married in February, 1848, to Miss Sarah E. McGaffey. Ten children were born of this marriage, of whom seven are living, all married and living in Tarrant county except a daughter, who lives in El Paso.

CAPTAIN O. PAINPARE.
Captain O. Painpare enlisted in Captain Bolling's company in 1861 and was elected first lieutenant of company A, Nichol's regiment, for six months, then was honorably discharged, then re-enlisted in Waul's Texas Legion, for the war was the senior captain of the first division of infantry. His company was all Galvestonians and were known as the Lone Star Rifles, organized at Independence, Washington, Texas. He was at several battles, at Corinth, at Holly Springs, Miss., at Greenville, Miss., at Coffeeville, was at the recapture of Holly Springs. From there the company fell back to Vicksburg in April, 1862, and was there during the siege and surrender of Vicksburg. Captain Painpare's company was called to volunteer to retake the advanced fort on the Jackson road, which Captain Painpare refused, but sent word to General Waul that if the general would issue the order he would try to retake the fort, which was in possession of the Federals, seven companies would send Captain Wrigley's and Captain Bradley's companies to reinforce him if they were needed. General Waul consented to this and the company started for the fight, leaving the two above-mentioned companies about 150 yards from the fort. Then Captain Painpare led this company to the fort and cautioned his men to follow, which was done. The fort was captured and held in all defiance until July 4, 1862.

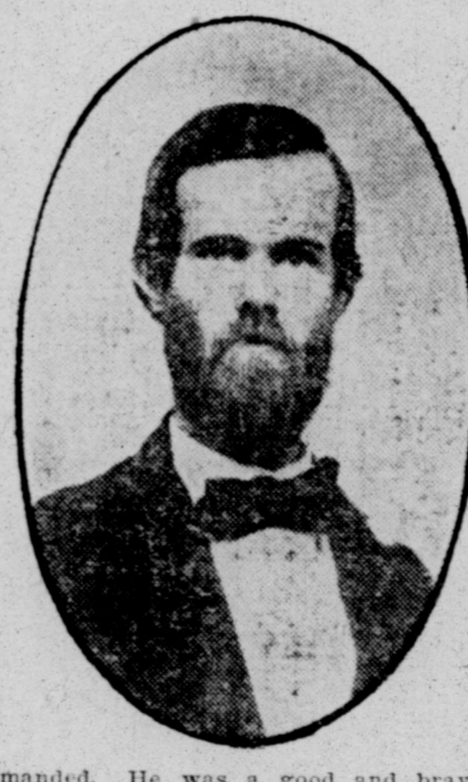

The dead were thirty-seven in the fort and 150 prisoners, including the lieutenant colonel in Captain Painpare then sent word to General Waul that the fort was in possession of his legion, with the small loss, which was done. The fort was captured and held in all defiance until July 4, 1862.

James R. Johnson, past lieutenant commander R. E. Lee Camp, Confederate Veterans, Fort Worth, Texas, was born in Richmond, Va., Jan. 29, 1835. He enlisted in John H. Morgan's old Kentucky squadron in March, 1862.

Had his horse shot from under him in his first fight at Pulaski, Tenn., May 1, 1862. Was captured at Lebanon, Tenn., May 6, 1862, where his captain, E. A. Brown, was killed. Was a prisoner of war confined at Camp Chase, Ohio, for five months. He participated in most of Morgan's raids into Kentucky and Tennessee.

At the "break up" he bore the last official dispatches between the secretary of war, J. C. Breckenridge, and President Jeff Davis. Was disbanded at Crawfordville, Ga., in May, 1865, by General Basil W. Duke. Paroled in Macon, Ga., May 16, 1865, the same day that President Davis and Past Master General J. H. Reagan were brought to that city as prisoners by General Wilson. He came to Texas February, 1867, and settled in Limestone county. Came to Fort Worth December, 1891, and conducts a blacksmith shop now on the corner of West Belknap and Taylor streets.

COPY OF CERTIFICATE
This is to certify that James R. Johnson, now living in Fort Worth, Texas, was a member of the Second Kentucky Cavalry, Confederate States of America, of which regiment General John H. Morgan was the first colonel. He served during the last nine months of the war in the brigade which I commanded. He was a good and brave soldier and surrendered only at the loss of the war, some weeks after the fall of Richmond.

Major Allen Cameron of the legion reported to me and complimented me on my actions. I told the major to go and shake hands with the boys, for they were the ones that did the work and deserved the credit. After this was done, when the major was retiring, he was killed by the treatment of a shell. We moved out of Vicksburg on the 9th of May, 1862, and went back again to our homes in dear old Texas. We were then properly exchanged and went to Mansfield and Pleasant Hill. There we became acquainted with the great hero, General Banks, and we ran the poor fellow through our eyes, swamps of Louisiana to New Orleans. From there we returned to Texas and the war ended, Company A, First Division of Infantry, CAPTAIN O. PAINPARE.

GENERAL STEPHEN D. LEE
As the time is at hand when the United Confederate Veterans will hold their annual reunion in the city of Nashville, and as since their last meeting another member of the association has assumed the command made vacant by the death of the late General Gordon, it seems appropriate that something should be told as to who this comrade is, and what his services were during that war which did so much to make some men famous.

Gen. S. D. Lee, who is now in command of the United Confederate Veterans, was born in Charleston, S. C., Sept. 22, 1833. His family was among the most prominent in that state. William Lee, his great-grandfather, was one of the principal citizens of Charleston, forty in number, who were confined on prison ship after the battle of Sumter, after the city was occupied by the British. Judge Thomas Lee, United States judge for South Carolina, during President Monroe's administration, was his grandfather and presided during the nullification difficulties, and was a strong Union man. General Lee from West Point, where he graduated in 1854, was assigned to the Fourth artillery, United States army, where he was first lieutenant and regimental quartermaster until 1861, when he resigned to cast his lot with the south in the civil war. He was appointed captain in the troops of the state of South Carolina, and upon the assumption of command of the Confederate armies by General Beauregard, was made aide de camp, and with Colonel Chestnut carried the demand for the surrender of Fort Sumter to Major Anderson, who was in command of the United States forces within the fort. The demand was as follows:

"I am ordered by the government of the Confederate states to demand the evacuation of Fort Sumter. My aides, Colonel Chestnut and Captain Lee, are authorized to make such demands under the most trying circumstances may be suggested by you in taking it down."

"Colonel Chestnut and Captain Lee will for a reasonable time await your answer. I am, "G. T. BEAUREGARD, "Brigadier General Commanding."

Upon the refusal of Major Anderson to comply with the demand, Colonel Chestnut and Captain Lee carried the order to open fire on the fort. General Beauregard in his official report said:

"For indefatigable and valuable assistance, night and day, during the attack on Sumter, transmitting in open boats my orders with alacrity, etc."

After the fall of Fort Sumter, Captain Lee was made quartermaster, commissary engineer discharging officer for the Confederate army in Charleston, having been appointed captain in the regular army of the Confederate states. At his request, he was relieved from these duties, which were distasteful to him, and went to Virginia in command of the light battery of Hampton's South Carolina legion.

During May, 1862, in the peninsula, he commanded three batteries of artillery, holding the rank of major, and was commended by General Hampton as follows in his report: "Major Lee again displayed the soldierly conduct for which he is conspicuous."

He was in several fights with federal gunboats on the Potomac and was promoted to major. He served with General Joseph E. Johnston at the battle of Seven Pines, and was again commended by Johnston as follows: "General Lee was actively engaged, especially at Savage's Station and Malvern Hill, being in command of Kirkpatrick's, Page, Read and Richardson's batteries and was again complimented by General Pendleton, chief of artillery, as follows: "The contest was most gallantly waged under general direction of S. D. Lee." General Magruder also bore testimony to his worth in these great battles, in the following language: "I beg leave to bear testimony to the gallantry, skill and ability of Lieutenant Colonel Stephen D. Lee, now chief of artillery."

He commanded for a short time (six weeks) the Fourth Virginia cavalry, as all of its field officers were wounded. At the battle of Second Manassas he commanded a battalion of artillery, and was pointedly complimented by General Robert E. Lee for activity and gallantry, his services on that occasion having for their brilliancy attracted the attention of the whole army. At Sharpsburg (called Antietam by the Yankees) his services were so conspicuous that he was promoted to brigadier general November 6, 1862, and ordered by President Davis to Vicksburg, Miss., to take command of the garrison and batteries holding the Mississippi river at that point. He was signally successful in many important engagements, notably at the battle of Chickasaw Bayou, and subsequently in the battle of Baker's Creek and Champion Hills, where he was greatly complimented for his gallantry. General Lee commanded a part of the trenchments in Vicksburg near the railroad cut, and immediately after the fall of the city was exchanged, promoted to the rank of major general August 3, 1863, and placed in command of all the cavalry in Alabama, Mississippi, West Tennessee and East Louisiana. During the march of Sherman from Vicksburg to Meridian, Miss., with an army of 20,000 men, General Lee with a force of only 2,500 men, hung on the flank and rear of the enemy. As the infantry was not large enough to fight a pitched battle, the only battle the opposition could be offered by General Lee with his small cavalry force.

When General Polk was ordered from Mississippi to Dalton, Ga., to reinforce the Confederate army, General Lee was promoted to lieutenant general, June 23, 1864, and assigned to the command of the department of Mississippi, Alabama, East Louisiana and West Tennessee.

General Lee was ordered to Atlanta, Ga., after the battle of Harrisburg or Tupelo, Miss., and placed in command of Hood's old corps of infantry, Hood assuming command of the army of Tennessee, relieving General Joseph E. Johnston. He was engaged in the battle of the 28th of July on the left of Atlanta, and was also in the battle of Jonesboro on the south of that city.

He accompanied General Hood in his flank movement around Atlanta and north as far as Resaca, and then into Tennessee via Tusculum, Ala. At Columbia, Tenn., General Stewart's and Cheatam's corps moved to the right flank to head off General Schofield. General Lee moved and with his corps followed directly after that general, and was thus too late for the battle of Franklin, only a small portion of his advance arriving in time to participate in that bloody engagement.

At Nashville he bore a prominent part with his corps, and when the Confederates at the end of the second day were defeated, Lee's corps held and repulsed the enemy at Overton Hill, and brought up the rear for three days after the defeat. He was wounded in the afternoon of the day of the battle, but did not relinquish command until his corps was relieved by an organized rear guard, composed of infantry and the cavalry corps of General Forrest south of Columbia, Tenn. General Lee resumed command of his corps in North Carolina as soon as his wound was sufficiently healed, and in time to surrender with the army commanded by General Joseph E. Johnston.

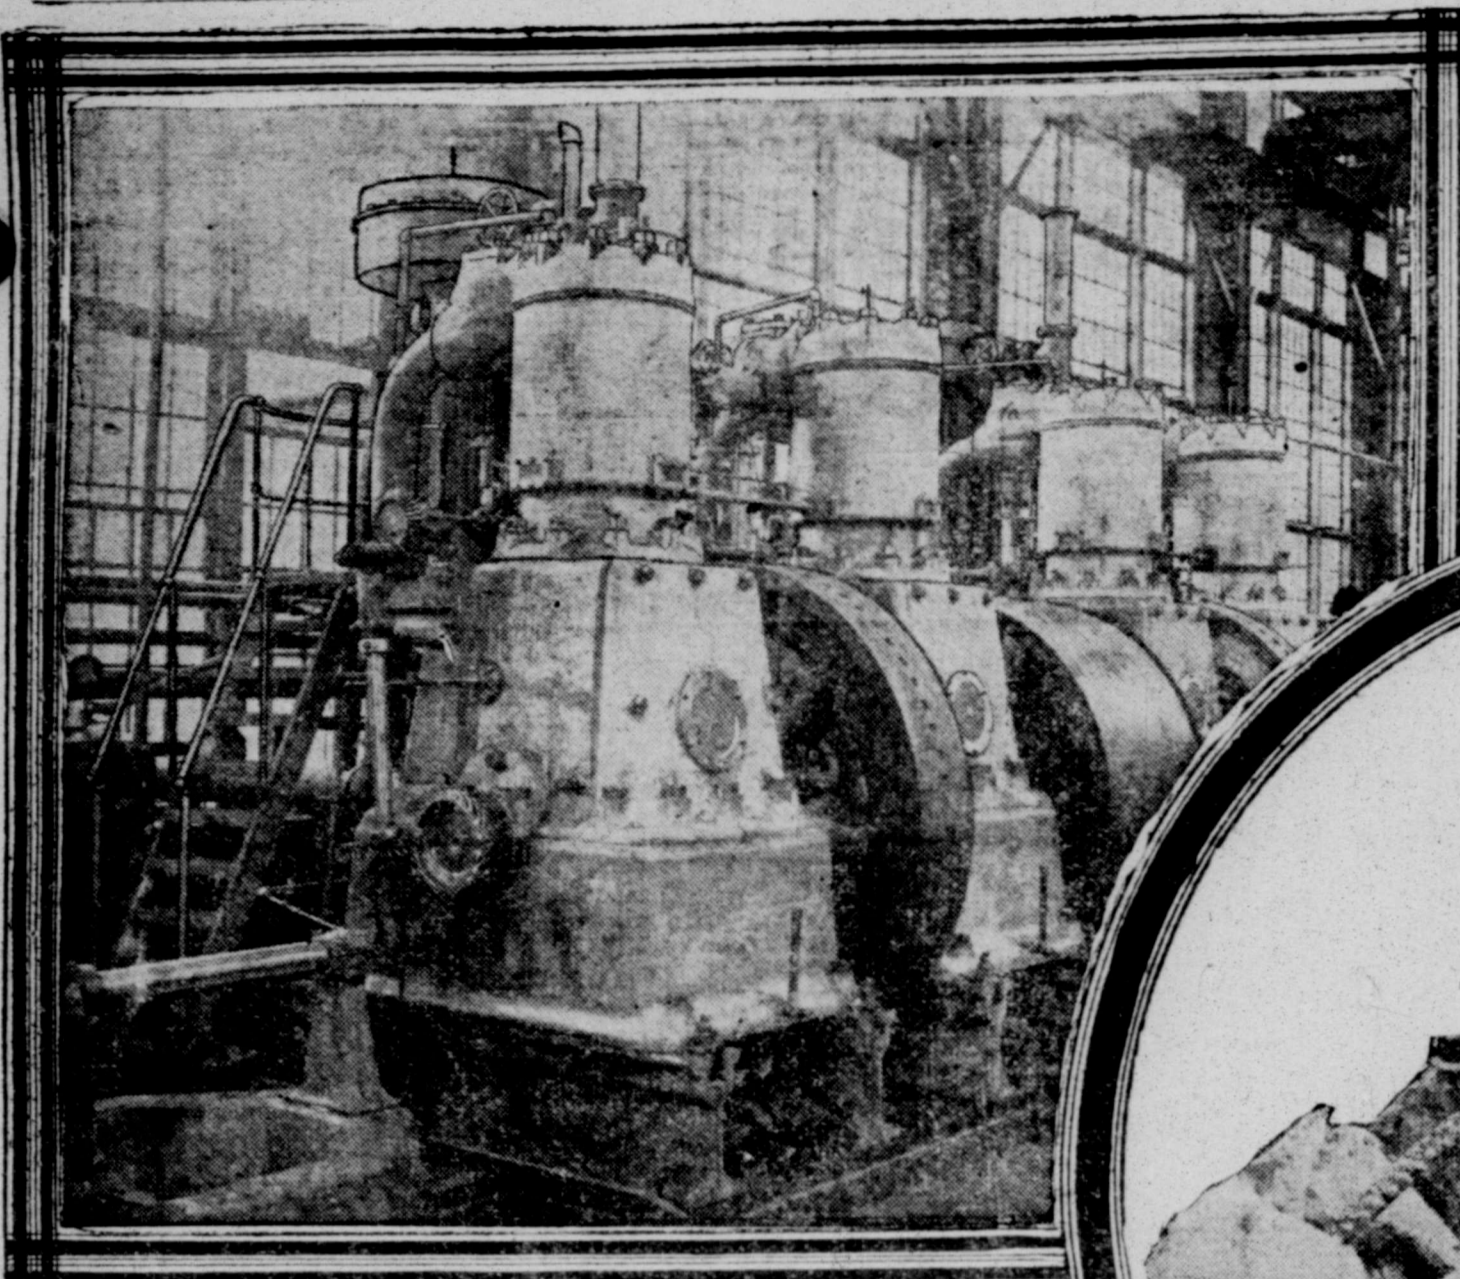

In February, 1865, General Lee married Miss Regina Harrison of Columbus, Miss., who died during last year. He has one son and child, Howard Lee.

Since the war General Lee has labored energetically to build up the waste places of the south. By profession he is a planter, but was selected as president of the Mississippi Agricultural and Mechanical college in 1880, and under his administration the college was most successful, proving the great ability of General Lee as an executive officer. He was never an aspirant to political office, but he was twice called on by his people to serve them, once as state senator, and as a member of a constitutional convention. He now holds a position on the commission of the organization has done so in his honor came during his military career—through his ability and merit alone.

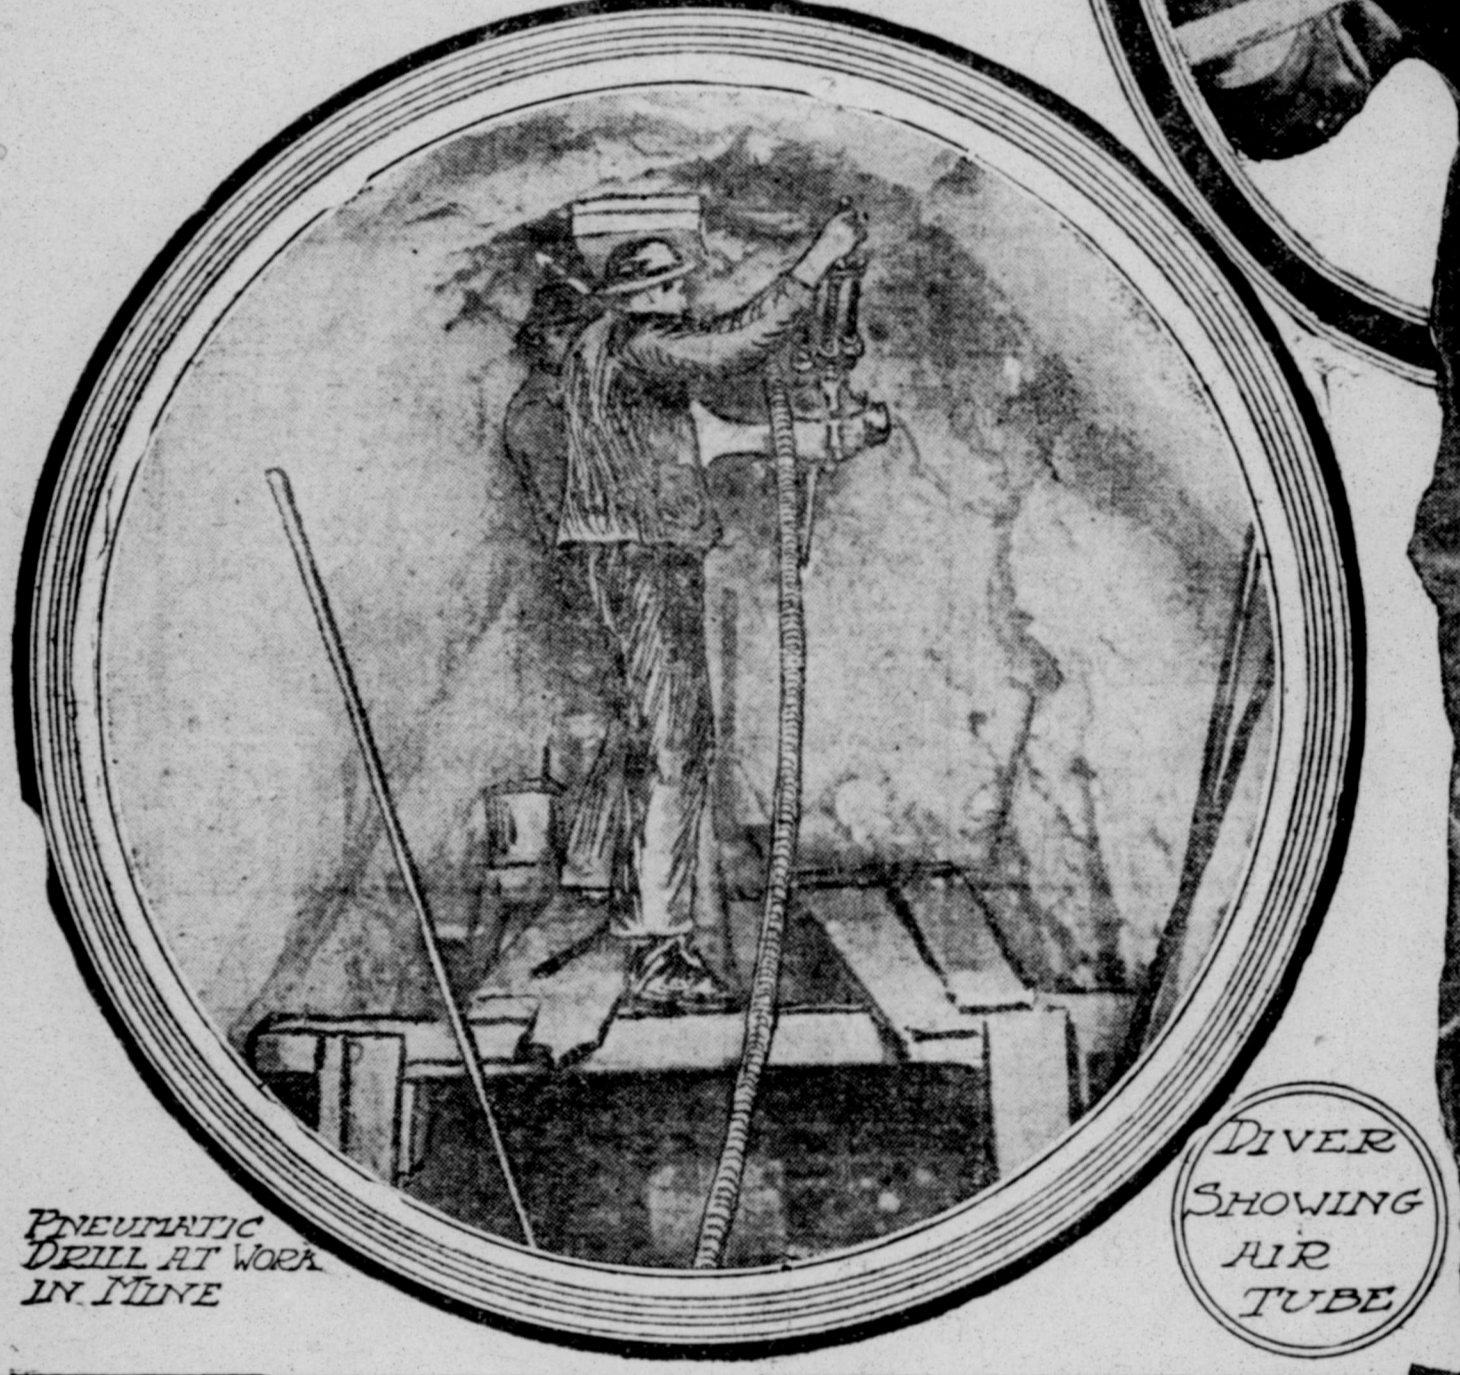

The author of this biographical sketch has used freely the information furnished by the National Cyclopaedia of American Biography, and General Lee stated was practically correct and the "War Records" from which latter the complimentary notices were obtained. The veterans would be pleased if the press of the state would copy.

Compressed Air in the Industrial World

AIR COMPRESSOR PLANT FOR SUPPLYING

A COMPRESSED AIR LOCOMOTIVE

BY WALDON FAWCETT.

In the American industrial world today three forces are doing the work which was formerly performed by steam. Compressed air and electricity at present not only perform much of the toll which formerly fell to the lot of steam-driven appliances, but they are rapidly encroaching upon the domain of the manual laborer. The general public does not, perhaps, hear as much about the achievements of compressed air as it does about the utilization of electrical energy, and yet in a way the employment of the stored atmosphere has introduced into our workaday world a time-saving and labor-saving factor that vies with any other twentieth-century innovation.

Pneumatic tools and other appliances and compressed-air haulage or transportation have performed the greatest wonders in mining, quarrying, shipbuilding, boilermaking and other kindred pursuits, but this by no means covers the entire range of usefulness of this novel force. The air has been harnessed to operate street cars in several cities, and, like electricity, this unique form of energy is even invading the domestic realm, where its adaptability for sweeping and dusting has rendered housecleaning easy. A progressive modiste has introduced a pneumatic dress form; in business offices pneumatic letter copybooks have appeared; London has a pneumatic clock, and thus the list of new-found uses might be continued indefinitely.

The modern discoverer of compressed air was Brunel, the great English engineer. To be sure, compressed air is as old as the hills, but it was the time of Hero of Alexandria, who was of little use to the world, except for experimental purposes, until Brunel used it in sinking caissons while building bridges over the Thames. Its importance in connection with caisson operations continues to this day, and, indeed, it is doubtful if, with all their daring, Yankee engineers would have dared attempt such piers as those of the Brooklyn Bridge, the St. Louis Bridge and other structures where deep foundations are necessary had they not been assured of the assistance of compressed air. Just here it may be noted also that the use of compressed air in caisson service led to its utilization in diving bells, which were at one time of great importance in excavating under water. Of late years the diving bell has been replaced by the diving suit, and this also involves an important use of compressed air.

To appreciate the theory of compressed air it is necessary to remember that air is a substance, and has properties like other substances. It is elastic and can expand or be compressed. When it is compressed it acquires tremendous force. Just as does water or steam when imprisoned within a vessel of limited size, which is closed, by an auto-mat. The cylinder is, at each stroke, filled with free air under orinary atmospheric conditions, but as the piston advances toward the closed end the pressure of the imprisoned air naturally increases and finally the valve connected with the receiver lifts and the piston forces the now compressed air into the storage reservoir. The piston is, of course, shoved ahead by a piston rod, which is in turn connected with some form of engine.

This is the simple operation of a one-cylinder air compressor. Where, however, it is desired to give the stored air power to do an immense amount of work it is compressed successively in two or more cylinders. The simplest class of machines used in generating this kind of power produce compressed air ranging in pressure from 5 to 50 pounds per square inch; the intermediate size compressors store up the atmosphere at pressures ranging from 50 to 500 pounds per square inch and the largest type of apparatus enables the air to exert a pressure of from 500 to 5,000 pounds per square inch.

In no industrial field has compressed air quickly come into more general use than in mining, and particularly coal mining. Mechanical miners operated by compressed air have virtually driven out the time-honored hand pick, and it is predicted that the time is not far distant when the pick mine will be an unknown institution. The installation of compressed air mining machinery has reduced the cost of production, increased the output and enabled the mine operators to dodge the bugbear of a scarcity of labor. In short, it enables a mine to double its output with the same number of men.

The principal compressed air mine appliance is the pick machine, an oblong apparatus mounted on wheels 18 to 20 inches in diameter and weighing from 500 to 750 pounds. In operation the workman sits upon a platform behind the machine which he controls by means of handles. The pick is shot against the coal by means of compressed air at a pressure of from 40 to 50 pounds striking with a force and speed which can readily be adjusted to range from 100 to 250 blows per minute, each blow having a force, according to the adjustment, of from 5 to 1,500 pounds. That the employment of these mining machines does not involve extravagant expense may readily be appreciated when it is stated that the sum of $10,000 will suffice to fully equip a mine with a capacity of 800 tons per day.

A subject akin to compressed air mining is compressed air haulage in coal mines. In the infancy of mining the methods of drawing coal from the bowels of the earth were primitive and cruel. First it was dragged through the underground chambers and along the subterranean passages on sledges drawn by women and girls who were used as beasts of burden. Then came the car running on wooden stringers, which in time gave place to iron rails and finally dogs, ponies, mules and horses were substituted for hand labor in hauling. As a long step in advance came the compressed air locomotive which is now to be found in operation on more than 100 mine railroads in the United States and a number in foreign countries.

The general mechanism of an air locomotive, cylinders, valve motion, frame, wheels, etc., is similar to that of a steam locomotive except that the bearings are larger and every detail of the construction stronger. The main points of difference in the design are that instead of the usual boiler and water accessories for developing steam power, the air locomotive is equipped with one or more strongly constructed storage tanks which are charged with compressed air at a high pressure, usually 700 to 1,000 pounds to the square inch sometimes 2,000 pounds and apparatus for feeding this air to the cylinders at ordinary working pressure, say 140 pounds. The locomotives are charged at stations located on the main line, the time consumed in charging, including coupling and uncoupling being from one to two minutes. A compressed air locomotive of fair size costs about $2,500 and from $5 to $6 per day is the total cost of operating one of these light engines which does the work of from 10 to 40 animals. Compressed air locomotives are also coming into extensive use for conveying material from one part of a manufacturing plant to another and for all the varied uses of the standard contractors' locomotive.

One of the most important of all the uses of compressed air is found in its employment for the operation of the pneumatic hammers, drills, rivets and other tools in general use in railroad shops, shipyards, boiler shops and manufacturing plants generally. Every one of the thousands of rivets in a modern steel steamer are driven by machines, which are light and short, rendering them portable in the highest degree. These pneumatic hammers consist of a simple apparatus, the fundamental feature of which is a piston moving rapidly backward and forward inside of a cylinder and striking mechanical riveters appeared on the scene just in the nick of time, for the increase in the size of ships has rendered the plating so heavy that to hold it requires a rivet too large to be promptly driven by hand.

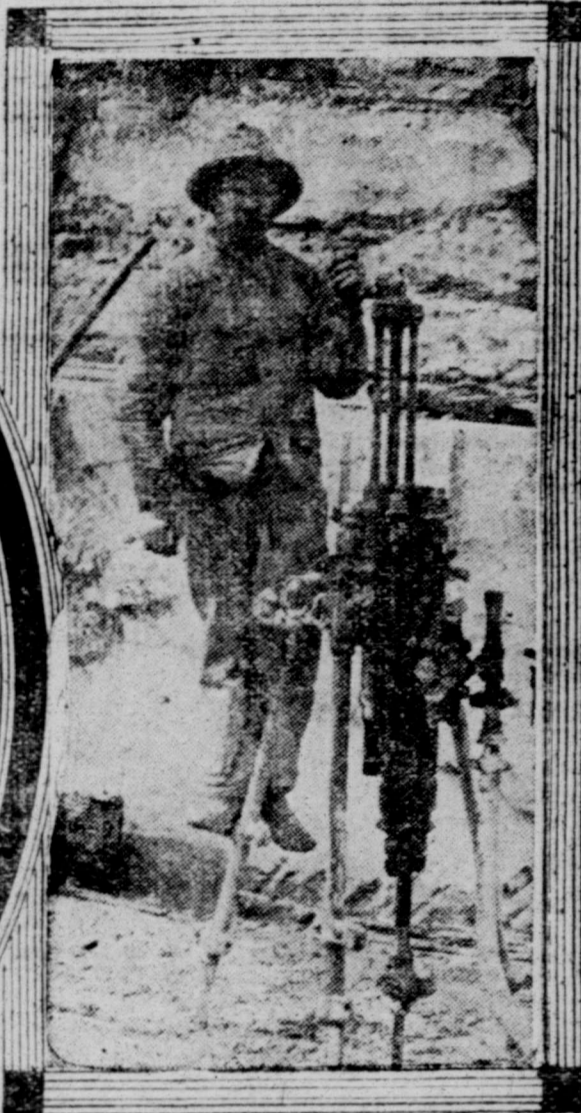

With the aid of compressed air the whole operation of driving a rivet is completed much more quickly than by hand, and as indicating what an immense saving in time and labor is effected it may be stated that three men and a heater boy will drive from 800 to 1,000 rivets in a day. Pictured in dollars and cents, it has been ascertained that the mechanical riveter reduces the cost from one to two cents per rivet over the old method of doing the work by hand, which means that in a large ship these is a saving amounting to $4,000 or $5,000. The most wonderful of all the riveting hammers now in use in American manufacturing plants is a big fellow which weighs 20 pounds and has a nine-inch stroke, hitting at a speed of 900 blows per minute. Of course, the rain of blows administered by this hammer does not compare with the pummeling produced by the smaller machines, which, with strokes of from one to four inches, have the almost incredible speeds of from 340 to 2,200 strokes per minute, according to the size.

Compressed air is also being used with marvelous success in the always more or less troublesome work of puncturing or cutting steel. For instance, there are in use today a variety of mechanical borers, known as air drills. A fairly representative one is of 35 pounds weight and will drill in cast iron up to a thickness of two inches, or pierce steel 1 1/2 inches thick. Such a drill requires for its operation about 25 feet of air per minute at a pressure of 80 pounds. In up-to-date shipyards and boiler manufacturing plants, the visitor may witness another odd employment of compressed air, namely, its utilization for painting great surfaces which would require weeks of steady work to be covered by hand, but which quickly don a coat of paint when it is applied by compressed air. The apparatus used for this power painting has, at a distance, very much the appearance of a garden hose attached to a 10-gallon paint reservoir, and the painter carries the liquid upon the surface to be painted very much as a man might sprinkle a lawn with water.

Railroads are employing compressed air for other purposes than construction work in their shops. For instance, many baggage cars are now equipped with miniature elevators operated by compressed air, which hoist trunks into the car in short order and with no strain on the muscles of the baggage men. At many railroad sandhouses there are pneumatic appliances for feeding the dry sand to the sand boxes of the locomotives which carry to receive this very essential article, and there are even railway coal storage yards where the entire work of handling the fuel and supplying it to the locomotives is carried on by compressed air. Compressed air has a wide field of usefulness in quarrying operations, embracing not only the cutting of the stone, but its handling as well. Compressed air has been extensively employed in all recent tunneling enterprises. It was one of the most important sources of energy in the digging of New York city's great rapid-transit tunnel, and is to be similarly utilized in the construction of the monster tunnel to be constructed by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company under the Hudson River.

AN IMPORTANT USE OF COMPRESSED AIR

A Court For Young Law Breakers.

BY RICHARD ELBRIDGE.

In New York city there is a Children's Court. If a boy or girl 16 years of age or under is accused of breaking the law or is neglected by its parents the case is tried in the Children's Court. Formerly such cases went to any of the city courts, and little children, many of whom had not meant to do wrong, were brought in contact with hardened criminals. That was very bad for these young people, so a law was passed establishing this court for children. Every day in the week except Saturday and Sunday there is a session, and children of all sizes, from babes in arms to tall lads and lassies almost fully grown, if a child is arrested for an offense he is not sent to jail, but is put in the care of the Children's Society or the Gerry Society, as it is commonly called, from the name of the founder, Commodore Elbridge Gerry. The society sees that the little culprit is bathed, has good food and a comfortable bed to sleep in while in its care, and an agent of the society appears with the accused child in the court. There is a lawyer, also, to defend the child and see that its legal rights are maintained.

Most of the children are poor. Their wrongdoing often is the result of lack of proper home training. Sometimes, however, "well-dressed, well-cared-for children appear in the Children's Court, and these are usually the hardest cases to decide.

A few weeks ago a little girl about nine years of age was brought into court by her parents. They told the judge that they could do nothing with Mabel. She was cheerful and happy at home, but she would run away. She ran off so often on her way to school that they hired an attendant to accompany her. Then she gave up the attendant the slip time after time, and got away just the same. She would wander about the streets of New York, playing until it grew dark; then she would creep into some hallway, curl up in a corner and go to sleep. Here the police would find her and carry her to the police station. Sometimes she would refuse to give her name, and at other times she gave a name that was not her own, and also gave a wrong address. The police, however, always found where she lived and returned her to her parents. She would do this trick sometimes as often as five or six times a month. Her father and mother pleaded with her, and sometimes they whipped her; but kindness and severity were equally unavailing to prevent her wandering away again when the spirit seized her. They took her to the Children's Court, therefore, and the judge asked Mabel why she ran away, but she refused to say a word.

"Very well," said the judge, "since you do not appreciate the comforts of your home and the love of your parents, I will send you to the Juvenile Asylum, where you will be watched for three months. When you come out I think you will be glad to stay in your home."

And he is in the asylum at the present time.

A boy came to New York from Boston to join the circus. He did not know that the circus people had all the boys they wanted and that, in any case, they would not take a boy that had had no experience and that they knew nothing about. It did not take this boy long to spend all of his money, and when that was done he had to ask help of the people. They sent him to the Children's Court, the judge gave him some good advice and his father in Boston was notified and sent money for his son to be returned home. After his experience he was willing enough to go back to school.

On the Lower East Side of New York there are many poor people who live in small tenements, for which they pay very high rents. For one of these little dark rooms a family will pay $1 a month, and you know in many places one can get a very good house for that money. In one of these houses, where about 20 families lived, they received word not long ago that they would have to move out of their quarters. When the news was brought into the Children's Court the next day they denied that they had thrown the stones at the boys, but the janitress swore that the six boys had thrown stones, and the policemen testified to seeing the broken windows. The judge took their statements and fined the boys $1 each. Their mothers grumbled, but each paid the fine and took her boy home.

They did take my purse, with 15 cents in it," reassured the girl; "but please, Judge, I don't want them sent away from me. She began to cry and to tremble so that a court attendant had to take her in his arms and tell her she would be all right.

The judge was very severe with the boys. He reminded them to the case of the Gerry Society for two days, and then he sentenced them to a term of months in an institution provided for young offenders. He lectured the parents, too, and told them that they took better care of their children than would not do such things.

Lace veils will be much worn this summer, and, in fact, many hats are sold with the veils draped on.

The once-over style of tie is possibly as much in evidence as any other form; certainly it is more prominent than it has been for a number of years past.

The stock is of the usual pattern, fashioned upon a mouseline feather-boned foundation, and to this the cascaded fabric is attached...

The end containing the wire loop is placed on the hat so that the opening comes at the back.

The little accessories of dress add immeasurably to one's appearance and dainty trifles in the way of belt and stocks are an absolute necessity.

Stockings, too, must be taken into consideration when supplying the summer outfit, for while the all-black stocking for most occasions is the correct style, there has been a tendency toward the stocking to match the gown.

Whole yards may be written upon the detail of the accessories in dress, and the above are only the most important ones.

With the new sailor shapes the correct veil is pinned around the brim and left to fall free of the face.

1. LULU: "Oh, Leander, what is the matter with this brook? When we came over it was nearly dry. What are we to do?"
LEANDER: "Some one has opened the sluice gates. There is only one thing to be done. I'll have to carry you across."

2. LULU: "Oh, Leander, isn't this romantic? Do you really think you can carry me without letting me fall?"
LEANDER: "Wag my sweetie, I could carry you if you weighed twice what you do!"

3. LULU: "Oh, Leander, what have you done? Why didn't you look out? You are always getting into trouble. Thank goodness, here comes Charley Onthespot."
LEANDER: "WEE-O-W!"

4. LEANDER: "Oh! oh! oh! oh! I've stubbed my toe! I've broken it, I'm sure! Oh! oh! oh! oh!"
LULU: "Oh, my poor, poor Leander! He does get into such trouble. Poor Leander!"
CHARLEY ONTHESPOT: "Gee, old man, you've got a dandy stone bruise there."

5. LEANDER: "Walk? I can hardly stand, Lulu. Oh, this is fearful."
LULU: "Oh, what are we to do? How shall we ever get across the brook?"
CHARLEY ONTHESPOT: "I'll arrange it all, Lulu. Say, old man, you'll not be able to get your shoes on for some time. Leave everything to me."

6. LULU: "Oh, Charley, you always come in the nick o' time. What should we have done without you?"
CHARLEY ONTHESPOT: "You stay right there, Leander. I'll have a man and a carriage up here for you in ten minutes. I'll take care of Lulu."
LEANDER: "Ye gods! Just see her in his arms with her arms about his neck. Did a lover EVER have such heartrending luck?"
