

RUSSIANS FIGHT ON DEFENSES OF TOWN

BATTLE LASTED UNTIL MIDNIGHT, WEDNESDAY AND HAD NOT BEEN RESUMED AT 8 A. M. THURSDAY—JAPS SUCCEEDED IN CROSSING THE RIVER, AND WHEN THEY DREW NEARER GENERAL KUROPATKIN GAVE THE ORDER FOR THE TROOPS TO WITHDRAW TO THE INNER FORTIFICATIONS — HAND-TO-HAND FIGHTING HAS OCCURRED AND ONE BAYONET CHARGE AFTER ANOTHER HAS BEEN WITNESSED—CASUALTIES IN THE FIGHTING HAVE NOT BEEN REPORTED, BUT ARE EXPECTED TO BE HEAVY BECAUSE OF THE HALF MILLION MEN INVOLVED—LIAO YANG IS STRONGLY PROTECTED BY WORKS RECENTLY CONSTRUCTED, AND SEEMINGLY ALMOST IMPREGNABLE POSITION OF THE TOWN WILL ASSIST THE RUSSIANS IN THEIR DEFENSIVE OPERATIONS—ST. PETERSBURG ANXIOUSLY AWAITS INFORMATION

TOKIO, Sept. 1.—The Russian right and center, defending Liao Yang on the south, is retreating this (Thursday afternoon). The Japanese are pursuing the Russians.

As Kuropatkin's line, according to previous advices, occupied a semi-circle several miles to the southward of the town of Liao Yang, it is evident the movement above alluded to is a retreat into the fortified positions of the town and environs and not from Liao Yang itself northward.

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 1, 11:30 a. m.—Although General Kuropatkin had the best of the two days' battle at Liao Yang, suspense is intense over the final issue of the gigantic struggle. In view of the number of men and guns engaged the carnage will doubtless be great on both sides. The best figures now are a half million men, with about 1,500 guns, are fighting for mastery. A crisis is expected today. The public is so hungry for news from official sources, the failure to give out advices last night was interpreted ominously in some quarters, but explainable by the theory that General Kuropatkin is too busy in the midst of the gigantic battle to prepare reports for publication, his reports to the emperor containing strategic information which can not be published.

Meager advices received make it plain the Japanese are trying to turn both flanks of General Kuropatkin's position and surround the Russian army at Liao Yang, as Marshal Bazain was shut up in Metz after the battle of Gravelotte, August 18, 1870, but up to last night, according to unofficial advices, their plan has failed and they seemed worried at all points.

Should the Japanese ammunition give out suddenly the position might become desperate. The press, realizing from experience the desperate character of the Japanese qualities and the fact the battle is not yet decided, while expressing much gratification at the result of Tuesday's fight, indulges in no premature jubilation. Most newspapers express the opinion that Marshal Oyama's reports to the emperor, in supreme command, was driven to attack General Kuropatkin by disappointment over the failure of the operations against Port Arthur. All papers point out the decisive moment to which all Kuropatkin's well thought out plans converged has arrived, saying he has at last drawn down the Japanese into a plain before Liao Yang, which positions have been prepared for months under the direction of the Russian engineer, General Valtokko. This morning reports from the Russ says, marvels engineering skill with galleries for the protection of the gunners, connected by telephone and defended by wire entanglements and mines. Into these works, however, General Kuropatkin will not go, except as a last resort. He is protecting himself in outlying positions.

General Kuroki's forces are crossing the Taitsi river on pontoons. One division is already across and others are following.

2:51 p. m.—The battle at Liao Yang last night was continued until midnight with frightful slaughter. The Japanese at last succeeded in getting a column across Taitsi river, northeast of Liao Yang, and General Kuropatkin gave the order to fall back on the main works, but owing to Japanese pressure this movement was not executed. The armies slept in their positions. Official advices this morning timed 6 a. m. say the battle had not been resumed up to that hour.

General Kuropatkin's forces, it is announced from St. Petersburg, yesterday occupied a position forming a semi-circle about Liao Yang, flanks resting on the Taitsi river, which flows north and east of Liao Yang, the left flank being east and the right flank west of the city. It is therefore to be seen the dispatch announcing General Kuroki's force is crossing the Taitsi river on pontoons indicate the Japanese either turned or are turning the Russian left, as Kuroki is understood to have been on the Russian left flank.

A dispatch to the Associated Press from Liao Yang yesterday evening announced the Japanese were getting around the Russian left flank and developments are expected in the west and northeast. It is stated, however, to be confirmed, that it is announced from Mukden in a delayed dispatch a Japanese force of 10,000 men is said to be advancing from the northeast of Mukden. The western movement has not yet developed, according to advices to hand, but the announcement probably refers to the Japanese force which has been reported to be moving up the Liao river.

3:25 p. m.—According to official advices from the front the battle at Liao Yang had not been resumed up to 6 o'clock this morning. The battle yesterday was of the most desperate character. It raged continuously from dawn until midnight and the slaughter must have been immense. At 8 in the evening, after holding his outer position all day in the face of most desperate charges, General Kuropatkin gave an order to retreat upon the main works about the city. The Japanese assaults during the day had been directed principally against the Russian center, a little east of Maletung Hill, near the railroad and three miles southwest of Liao Yang. Nothing approaching severity of infantry and artillery fire here has been heretofore experienced in this war. General Kondratievitch's division bore the brunt and suffered most.

Today's dispatches indicate the tide of battle around Liao Yang has turned appreciably in favor of the Japanese. With tremendous and sustained assaults on the right and center and threatened in the rear by a heavy force, which crossed the Taitsie river, Kuropatkin has been forced to fall back from the first line of battle to a fortified position he has established in the town of Liao Yang and its immediate environs. A St. Petersburg dispatch says this order was given last night. After the Russian had withstood an artillery and infantry attack from dawn to midnight, but that Japanese pressure was too great to permit it being executed. Kuropatkin probably feared a retrograde movement at that time of night would result in a riot. A dispatch from Tokio, however, brings the action up to this afternoon, says the Russian right and center is now falling back, pursued by the Japanese.

Bayonet charges succeeded each other in rapid succession, while the artillery never ceased for a moment. No attempt has been made to estimate the number of guns the Japanese used, except that there are many hundred. Each gun carries 150 shells and these must have been expended many times. Several hundred thousand shells were fired between sunrise and sunset.

General Kuropatkin's order to fall back on the fortifications was probably due to the receipt of information that the Japanese had succeeded in crossing the Taitsi river, northeast of Liao Yang, although Generals Rennenkamps and Mandarietoff's divisions have been specially placed in position in this direction to checkmate such a move. The Japanese crossed at a point called Sankankwantin, twenty miles east and somewhat above Liao Yang, and marched in general directly westward with the evident intent of cutting the Russian line of communication with Mukden. Their exact strength is not established.

As soon as the Japanese found the Russians retiring from the outer positions they resumed the attack there, southward they were quite dark. Thus although the Russians arrested their movement to the rear and again faced the Japanese. With a view to eventually retirement from the outer positions, the Russians dug a large number of pits, which were artfully concealed among the high Chinese corn. When the Japanese charged after the Russians they fell into the pits in hundreds and were engulfed and impaled on the stakes and the lines thrown up by the Russians.

The rattle of musketry and the boom of cannon continued until midnight when at last silence brooded over the bloody battle field, and the tired lay down where they fought, while worn out surgeons and the angels of mercy ministered to the wounded all night, and the Chinese coolies were at work carrying them into Liao Yang.

General Sakharoff, in reporting the battle, says the Japanese suffered enormous losses, much larger than those of the Russians, who also lost heavily.

TOKIO, Sept. 1, 4 p. m.—A telegram from the Japanese headquarters in the field says that the Russians at Liao Yang number either twelve or thirteen divisions.

DESPERATE RESISTANCE

CHEFOO, Aug. 31, 11:30 p. m.—(Delayed in transmission.)—Severe fighting at Port Arthur August 27, when the Japanese, moving from Shushiyung, attempted to capture Palungshan, which is south of Shushiyung and west of the railroad. The Japanese made two assaults between 4 and 8 o'clock in the morning. They were repulsed both times. A prisoner, subsequently taken, places their losses at 1,045 killed or wounded. For one hour after shells were thrown from Shushiyung into Port Arthur.

The above information was brought to tonight by a Chinese, who speaks excellent Russian, and who was employed at the police station in Port Arthur, which place he left in the evening of August 29. He adds that up to his departure no further attack had been made by the Japanese on Palungshan. He confirms previous reports that the Russians had reconquered Htshan, where there has been but little fighting recently. At 4:30 a. m., August 28, the Japanese attacked Fort No. 6, on the northeast portion of the island. This fort is a new and the right flank. This fort is a new and strong one. After three hours' fierce fighting, during which the Japanese entered a cross fire from Fort No. 2, the Japanese succeeded in entering the fort. When the Russians were safely away from Fort No. 6 and the Japanese flag waved over it several forts concentrated their fire on it and the Japanese were compelled to retire.

WOUNDED OFFICERS RETURN

VLADIVOSTOK, Sept. 1.—The officers and crew of the cruisers Rossia and Gromobol today bade farewell to Commander Babich and Lieutenant Diatchkov, both of the Gromobol, who were wounded in the recent battle near Tsu Island. The officers will start for Russia tomorrow to recuperate. They will visit Moscow first and afterward go to St. Petersburg. The parting between the officers and their men was an affecting scene.

JAPS CHARGE THREE TIMES

LIAO YANG, Aug. 31.—A Russian correspondent from the southeast front: After midday the Japanese concentrated the strength of all their artillery fire against Hill No. 98 and the village of Maetum, endeavoring to break into our left. At the same time they viciously attacked our west line to the right of the hill.

Attack followed attack for three hours. Between 2 and 5 o'clock in the afternoon they repulsed three headlong charges against our line. After the shells were expended, with the strength of all their batteries opened fire along the whole southern front, but this attack, too, was driven back with what seemed tremendous loss, although it was impossible to tell clearly what happened amid the shell fire and fighting. The roar of siege guns, mortar batteries and mixed volley firing went on until darkness set in.

To the north a storm, accompanied by thunder and lightning, broke while along the front, thousands of shells were burst, firing constantly. It seemed like a magnificent display of fireworks beginning description.

As a result of the exhausting efforts on the part of the Japanese our position on the eastern front is becoming stronger.

REPLIES TO THE EMPEROR

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 1.—The emperor received the following dispatch from General Stessel, commanding the Russian troops at Fort Arthur, dated August 26:

"The gracious telegram of your majesty has been received with resounding hurrahs before the enemy and redoubled the strength of the defenders and heroic spirit of the troops. From August 23, today, inclusive, all daily assaults have been repulsed with the help of God."

REPORTS TO TOKIO DO NOT MENTION THE CASUALTIES

TOKIO, Sept. 1, 11:30 a. m.—Reports received here from Liao Yang do not mention the casualties, which are presumed to be heavy on account of the heavy forces engaged and the nature of the attack the Japanese are making against the strongly defended positions. The second Russian line is proving stronger than that at Anshanshan, which they abandoned. It is estimated that General Kuropatkin has 150,000 fighting men in the field. It is impossible to forecast the duration of the great battle now going on. It may possibly be prolonged for several days.

SENATOR CULLOM SAYS SHOULD BE EFFORT TO END WAR IN THE EAST

CHICAGO, Sept. 1.—A dispatch to the Tribune from Freeport, Ill., says: Senator Shelby M. Cullom, who has delivered the principal address at the reunion of old settlers of Stephenson county, argued that there should be some recognized means of interference to end the war between Russia and Japan.

Under present conditions, he declared, if this nation or any other should interfere in the interest of peace it would itself become involved in the struggle and would accomplish nothing.

Senator Cullom is chairman of the senate committee on foreign affairs.

IT WAS ACCIDENTAL.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 1.—Investigation proves the fire which destroyed the American school for boys at Erzeroum, Asiatic Turkey, Aug. 29, was accidental. The school belonged to the American board of commissioners for foreign missions.

IRON TRADE DEPORT AGAIN

Program of Leading Members of Beam Association Is to Order a Cut in Beams and Structural Material

A NEW OUTSIDE MAKER

Has Not Yet Joined Association, But It Is Understood He Will Operate on Same Basis—Prices Out of Line in Standard Steel Rails

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—If the program of the leading members of the beam association, now in session here, is carried out, there will be a reduction in the price of beams and structural material of from $5 to $6 per ton, from the base of 1.60c per pound, Pittsburgh, says the Iron Age. It is known that the mills have reached an understanding about prices for fabricated material, so that a safer basis is reached in that respect. The new price for fabrication already has gone into effect, and while it temporarily checked business, this effect has now worn off.

The leading outside new maker of beams has not joined the association as yet, but it is understood that this producer will act in harmony with the association in all cases.

The board held today also a meeting of the plate association, at which lower official prices probably will be decreed. Just how much of a reduction from the base price of 1.60 at Pittsburgh will be agreed upon it is difficult to forecast, because opinions differ widely. Some important interests are reported as favoring so radical a measure as to cut to 1.25c, but in any case $5 per ton will probably be accepted. Until the exact measure of the cuts is known it is difficult to gauge their probable effect on the trade. It is hardly likely that it will stimulate buying until the strength of the market under the new conditions is thoroughly tested. It is not believed that any extravagant propositions are entertained by the great mill interests of any marked stimulating of the demand. That is not expected before spring, but the trade is on a sounder basis.

It is regarded as probable that in line with the same general proposition, there will be an early reduction of $1 to $2 a ton on steel bars, and that prevailing conditions will be frankly accepted by an official reduction in the price of billets to a $19 to $20 basis.

It has been accomplished the new prices from pig iron to the various finished forms will be in harmony and one serious element of uncertainty is removed.

The only branch in which prices are out of line is in standard steel rails. These, it is expected, will be dealt with at a meeting of the manufacturers which will be held early in October.

Aside from sales of the low phosphorus pig iron in the east, aggregating about 10,000 tons, not very important transactions have taken place in pig iron. The prospects of an early resumption of work at the collieries of the Birmingham district are becoming less favorable.

NORWAY TO COMPETE

CHICAGO, Sept. 1.—Norway soon will be a strong competitor in the iron markets of the entire world, according to Jacques Lagercrantz, manager of the recently opened northern division of the Royal Swedish state railways. Mr. Lagercrantz has arrived at Chicago on his way to Duluth, where he will study the ore trade and the methods employed in producing and marketing.

He has been sent here by the Swedish government, with a view to recommending the use of modern machinery in the mines in Norway and modern methods of transporting the ore.

The iron ore deposits are declared to be the richest in the world and consist of three mountains, which are 60 per cent pure iron.

The mines are now producing 10,000 tons a day. The company owning the mines has built a line to the Norwegian coast, which, on account of the gulf stream, is open the year round.

STRIKE ORDER IS EFFECTIVE ONLY IN TWO TOWNS

CHICAGO, Sept. 1.—The strike order by President Donnelly with regard to independent packers is to apply only to those plants in Chicago and St. Louis.

"Stock handlers," said President Donnelly, "are on strike only in Chicago and St. Louis. In Chicago only independent plants within the stock yards enclosure will be necessarily affected. Union men employed in independent packing houses will not be permitted to dress cattle handled on the hoof by non-union men. The fate of the outside independent packers depends on their ability to secure stock without recourse to the stock yards company."

ARMED PARTY VISITED HOME OF COLORADO MINER AND ESCORT HIM IN THE DIRECTION OF CANYON CITY

ARE PURSUED BY POSSE

Sheriff Bell and Deputies Follow the Committee, But Return Without Finding Them. Deported Man Recently Released on Bonds

ANACONDA, Colo., Sept. 1.—Last night twelve men quietly visited the home of M. N. Mooten of this city and escorted him over the hills toward Canon City, this being the last heard from him.

Mooten was released from the county jail about two days ago on bonds. He is charged with complicity in the Victor rioting of June 6.

As soon as the deportation was learned of by Sheriff Bell he took two deputies and went in search of the deporting committee. After riding the hills for nearly four hours they returned to Cripple Creek without seeing or hearing of the party.

TOOK PLACES OF STRIKERS AND NOW STRIKE

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 1.—A special to the Sentinel from Coak Creek says: About 550 non-union miners employed by the Coak Creek Company in its Fraterville and Thistle mines here went on a strike this morning. George Camp, superintendent of the mines, notified the men that effective today the scale of wages would be reduced.

The miners refused to accept the proposed reduction and accordingly quit work. A majority of these men are said to have come here last February to take the place of men who were at that time on a strike at the Coak Creek Company's mines. The town is quiet.

MR. CLAY EXPLAINS A. & M. COLLEGE MUDDLE

He Gives the Public a Statement Regarding the Funds of One of the State Institutions of Education

AUSTIN, Texas, Sept. 1.—W. J. Clay, commissioner of agriculture, insurance statistics and history, who is a member of the board of directors of the Agricultural and Mechanical College, was asked yesterday if he would make a statement with reference to the last meeting of the board and the reported financial embarrassment of that institution.

He replied that he had nothing to conceal from the public that was a matter of interest to the public, and had no sort of objection to stating just how matters stood.

"At a meeting of the board of directors of the college, held on the 19th and 20th," Mr. Clay said, "it was ascertained that there was a deficiency of $14,220.15. This is as nearly correct as could be ascertained by the board at that time.

"The deficiency does not, so far as the board is informed, show that there has been any intentional use of the funds other than provided by law; but during a number of years, in fact it is impossible to tell when the practice began, it has been customary to transfer amounts from one fund to another in order to meet the liabilities of said funds, replacing the same when other money was received.

"Expenditures have been made for repairs, buildings, equipment and other running expenses which, as it appears to the board, have exceeded the appropriations by the last legislature and which have resulted in this deficiency.

"At the meeting of the board its president, Hon. Marion Sansom, was instructed to procure the services of an expert accountant, in order that the books might be investigated from the beginning, that the various funds might be properly distributed and accounts checked so that each and every one might show its exact condition.

"The treasurer was instructed that under no circumstances was any debt in any manner or form to be created without express provisions of law."

PRINCE GEORGE OF GREECE ABSENT FROM ISLAND OF CRETE ON DIPLOMATIC MISSION AND REVOLT IS FEARED

FRANCE IS APPEALED TO

Sublime Porte Asks the French to Take Whatever Action Is Necessary to Preserve Integrity of Ottoman Empire and Prevent Annexation

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—The departure, recently reported, of Prince George of Greece from Crete, of which island he is governor, on a mission said to be with the object of inducing the powers to consent to the annexation of Crete to Greece, has aroused Turkey to energetic diplomatic action, according to a Times dispatch from Paris. It is stated that a note has been received in Paris from the sublime porte to the effect that a certain number of Cretans have decided to raise the banner of revolt against the sultan, to proclaim the independence of Crete as a preliminary to demanding the annexation of the island to Greece, and to send a petition to Prince George, who is en route for Copenhagen, acquainting him with this decision and asking him to accept the new state of things and incorporate it in the basis of his negotiations.

The porte does not guarantee the strict accuracy of this information, but instructs the Turkish embassy in Paris, in the event of such a proposition as is outlined being made to the French government, to protest most energetically against any interference with the integrity of the Ottoman empire.

The porte adds that it can not believe the European powers will break their oft-repeated pledges to maintain the status quo in the near east.

TURKEY AROUSED FIRE IN DALLAS

Armstrong Packing Company Loses Smokehouse by Early Morning Blaze—Much Meat Is Destroyed

LOSS WILL BE HEAVY

Is Believed Curing Meat Fell From Hooks and Caused the Blaze—Building Is Entirely Destroyed—Hard Work of the Firemen

DALLAS, Texas, Sept. 1.—The smokehouse of the Armstrong Packing Company was burned and about 15,000 pounds of cured hams destroyed this morning about 4 o'clock, and for a time the whole plant was threatened. The fire was gotten under control at 4:45 this morning, after the smokehouse had been practically destroyed with the meat which it contained.

The firemen had great difficulty in fighting the flames on account of the dense smoke from the burning meat. Twelve lines of hose were laid once, but it was found that the water mains were not large enough to supply water for the fire engines and some of them were taken off and moved to other mains further away, which caused a loss of some ten minutes time, during which the flames gained much headway.

With an increased supply of water the firemen made good progress fighting the fire and had it under control within half an hour.

The origin of the fire was not known, but it was said it might have been caused by meat falling from the hooks on the fire and causing it to blaze up and catch the other meat.

J. S. Armstrong, president of the company, is in St. Louis.

At 3:20 o'clock this morning fire was discovered in the three-story brick smokehouse of the Armstrong Packing Company. It was making rapid headway when discovered by the watchman and an alarm was turned in. On the arrival of the firemen from the Ervay street station a second alarm was given, which brought additional apparatus.

The smokehouse, which holds an immense quantity of meat, it was stated this morning, was about two-thirds full of meat.

The firemen found great difficulty in fighting the flames on account of the dense smoke from the burning meat, which filled every part of the interior. At 4 o'clock the flames burst out through the walls of the smokehouse and the whole plant was threatened.

Thirty minutes later the structure was doomed, burning as fiercely as oil, and it seemed as if one-half the entire establishment must go. The South Dallas engine company in a short time had three streams of water flowing upon the center of the fire.

But the torrents of water made no impression on the flames. Captain Marder turned in the three three's, bringing the chief and additional apparatus, and in a little more than two hours were laid. But the additional water failed to produce any good results. Five minutes afterward the flames burst from the top of the smokehouse, speedily followed by an explosion, blowing out the doors and windows on the south side.

The smokehouse is a three-story structure with basement. It is a part of the main body of the plant. Separated by a brick wall is the cooling room, filled with beef and pork in great quantity. Across narrow alley is the hard compounding department and behind that the soap factory, all filled with highly inflammable materials.

Small water mains made it necessary to transfer some of the engines. Valuable time was lost. For ten minutes only two streams were playing on the building.

The fire destroyed meat to the value of $5,000, and damaged the buildings to the extent of $10,000. The prompt work of the fire department saved a plant, which is valued at over a million dollars.

PLEADS FOR NEUTRALITY

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—Dr. Daniel Munoz, Uruguayan minister, has presented a note to the Argentine government, says a Herald dispatch from Buenos Ayres, calling attention to the facilities of every kind the Uruguayan revolutionists are alleged to obtain in Argentine territory.

He says there are armed bands in the provinces of Corriento and Santa Fe, awaiting an opportunity to cross the river into Uruguay to take part in the revolution. The minister of foreign affairs has replied to Minister Munoz that the authorities of both provinces have received orders to exercise due vigilance to prevent any breach of neutrality.

EX-HUSBANDS ARE EMANCIPATED BY NEW LAW

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—Men who have been paying alimony to a former wife married after getting her decree are celebrating over the new state law, which goes into effect today and cuts off the incomes of thousands of divorcees now living with their second husbands. According to the new statute alimony payments assessed against an ex-husband are to continue only so long as the woman shall remain unmarried.

A good many persons, not a few of them in the theatrical profession, will be able to visit New York for the first time in years, except on Sunday, they having remained out of the state rather than make the required payment, in default of which they could have been arrested.

HAY FEVER OR ENDEMIC CATARRH.

A Chicago Journalist Suffered From This Disease—Cured By Pe-ru-na.

Mr. L. M. Babcock, 1619 Addison Ave., Chicago, Ill., Secretary Chicago Journalists Association, writes:

"I suffered from catarrh and hay fever for some time and owe my recovery entirely to Peruna. I did not have much faith in its efficacy when I first started to use it, but as I gradually grew better, I began to feel that perhaps I might get rid of these annoying troubles. I continued to use it for several months until I was cured. It is a great relief to me and I am therefore pleased to give my endorsement to Peruna, and trust that all who use it may have the same good results that I have had."—L. M. Babcock.

Mr. J. Naschold, 426 West Mt. Pleasant avenue, Philadelphia, Pa., recommends Peruna for endemic catarrh (hay fever). He writes:

"I have used your treatment for catarrh of the head, nose and throat, as you diagnosed it. I have for years been a sufferer of this disease, especially during spring and summer time and never have received any relief until very hot or very cold weather set in.

"I took four bottles during February, March and April, when I not only felt greatly better, but am now cured. The attacks always returned about the middle of August and lasted until December I have been entirely free from catarrh this autumn."—J. Naschold.

Hay fever is really acute catarrh excited by minute emanations, from certain grasses, flowering plants, fungi, or dried vegetable substances. It is very sudden in its onset, and, without proper treatment, continues until the season changes or the patient goes to some favorable locality. It has all the symptoms of acute catarrh—sneezing, abundant exudations of mucus, and thickened, reddened mucous membranes, sometimes exciting spasmodic asthma.

Peruna is a specific for hay fever, and should be taken during the whole season of the exposure to the cause; for, as long as the exciting cause remains, no cure can be permanent. People who are unable to change their location during the season of hay fever will find Peruna a priceless benefit to them, as it meets every disagreeable symptom exactly. It is always advisable to begin the use of Peruna a week or two before the expected attack of hay fever in old cases, where the attack can be foretold, as this will often prevent entirely the return of the disease.

WAXAHACHIE AFTER COTTON TRADE OF COUNTY

Business Men Meet to Talk Over Plans to Attract the Farmers There With the Farm Products

WAXAHACHIE, Texas, Sept. 1.—An enthusiastic meeting of merchants, bankers and professional men was held yesterday in the rooms of the Retail Merchants' Association for the purpose of devising ways and means for exploiting Waxahachie as a cotton market and trading center. Suggestions and plans were offered by several of those in attendance, and all agreed that some concerted action must be had if Waxahachie secured the amount of cotton she was entitled to. An executive committee with T. A. Ferris chairman and a finance committee with Osce Goodman as chairman were appointed, with instructions to prepare plans and raise funds necessary for a vigorous advertising campaign. These gentlemen called meetings of their committees yesterday afternoon to begin an immediate campaign. The plan in all probability will resolve itself into one for giving premiums for cotton, the awarding to be based upon some plan fair alike to every one. These premiums will be made sufficiently large to attract those having cotton to sell.

RICHARD & PRINGLES MINSTRELS.

Do not forget the day and date of the Richards & Pringles' mammoth minstrel performance at Greenwall's opera house, Tuesday, matinee and night, Sept. 6.

Nothing to equal it will be seen here again this season. Fifty royal colored minstrel entertainers appear at every performance and fun runs riot through the entire lengthy program of varied acts—big hits, every one of them. Study the list:

Famous Clarence Powell. Clever Billy Young. Pete Woods. Pat Bartlett. Happy Bousloguard. Robert Williams. These are the six men that will shine on the end.

The olio consists of the following acts: Cooper and his Wooden-Headed Family; the famous Ham-Town serenaders quartet; Bailey & Crawford, dealers in music; Clarence Johnson, Hoop Controller; Boomsy, for eight years the assistant of Hermann, the great, who will entertain with tricks in magic; Clarence Powell, in up-to-date monologue. The performance will conclude with the funny farce, "Jim Jackson at the World's Fair."

Cornelius N. Shaw has been requested by the local union, No. 25, to declare a general strike of the Team Drivers here, the union claiming that the masters are united in an endeavor to crush the organization.

BEETLES KILLING TREES

Fruit Growers in the Territory Are Having Trouble With Insects. ARDMORE, I. T., Sept. 1.—In the vicinity of Ardmore the fruit and shade trees have been dying to such extent as to alarm the fruit growers and stir them up to a point of making thorough investigations of the cause. Dr. C. McCoy, who probably has lost the heaviest, has attributed the evil to a variety of the beetle which is about the size of the ordinary corn or wheat weevil. The insect flies in droves and attacks the trees in great numbers.

They bore through the bark and burrow upward under the bark. The tree gives an appearance as though dying from drought. Some of the beetles were gathered and sent to the Texas state entomologist with a request that a remedy for their destruction be given. The officer knew no remedy and Dr. McCoy began experimenting. He states that a mixture of lye soap, sal soda and Paris green applied to the trees will immediately stop their ravages.

OIL FLOW STRUCK

ARDMORE, I. T., Sept. 1.—The Santa Fe people struck a flow of oil here today at a depth of 200 feet. The well has a capacity of fifty barrels a day. The company believes that greater quantities lie deeper and will continue to go lower.

ARDMORE, I. T., Sept. 1.—C. C. Gilbert, United States marshal of the northern district, received a telegram today from the department of justice, instructing him to accept the new federal jail for the government. The 120 prisoners confined here will be removed into the new jail within the next ten days.

There were few hot days in Chicago during either August or the entire summer, the maximum temperature for the month being 90 degrees, while the minimum, noted August 8, was 14 degrees below the normal. Other points along Lake Michigan also enjoyed cool weather, although not so uniformly.

AN INDIAN BRIDAL COUPLE ATTRACTS ATTENTION

On Their Way to Mexico to Receive Blessings of Queen, According to Ancient Custom of the Tribe

An Indian bride and groom sitting quietly in the ladies' portion of the waiting room of the Texas and Pacific depot last night attracted much attention from the curious as they passed to and fro through the depot. The couple, however, were apparently oblivious to the great amount of attention they received, stoically returning the looks of those who watched them.

Of course, any bridal couple at a depot attracts attention, but to see a real Kickapoo Indian and his bride is a sight very much out of the ordinary, especially when the groom is attired in the full dress and regalia of a chief of his tribe, and the bride is dressed in the most gorgeous costume of a squaw of the fanciful Kickapoo. Such was the case last night and as the curious gathered about the young bridal pair, they seemed to rather enjoy, than to be disturbed by the attention they received.

The groom was Charlie Springing Water and the pretty bride, for she was pretty, was Weeping Wasp before the marriage. Now she goes by the name of Mrs. Charlie Springing Water, or at least she told The Telegram man so in answer to a question regarding the name she now bore.

Springing Water, is the son of one Kickapoo chiefs. These people own much land in both Oklahoma and Indian Territories, but they lease most of this land to farmers and prefer to live on a large tract of land in the state of Sonora in Mexico, which was given them by the Mexican government. The older members only return to the United States once every three years and then for the purpose of reviewing the leases to the land. Some of the younger members of the tribe, however, prefer to live here and follow the white man in his steps of civilization. The young couple were doing this when married.

When a man and woman of the tribe are married they must journey to the colony in Mexico to ask for the blessing of the head of all Kickapoo's, a woman and not a chief, namely their queen. As far advanced as this tribe is in many things, they having a language as distinct as ours and books printed of that language, they still hold to this ancient custom. To be married and not receive the blessing of the queen is sacrilege and would forever on the journey through life together bode the couple nothing but bad luck. The queen is never seen except by the chiefs and medicine men and she is the highest ruler of them all. To her the members of the Kickapoo look for advice in the planting of their crops, their trading and in all transactions. Her word is supreme.

which made a striking setting for the woman's shining bronze face. The two are both highly educated in civilized ways and talked intelligently. They were as happy as a pair of larks and seemed to act just like brides and grooms. They left on the evening Texas and Pacific train for El Paso and it is safe to say, as they went out of the depot to take the train that never was there a bride dressed more gorgeously or a groom in prouder colors or clothes. The two were the envy of all and everyone of those who saw them wished them well on their journey through life, and the best blessings of the queen.

DR. BURGER DIES

WACO, Texas, Sept. 1.—Dr. F. W. Burger, who died in Dallas yesterday and whose funeral takes place in Waco this afternoon, was formerly a resident of Waco and was for years county treasurer. He came here from McGregor and is well known in the state. He was a strong fraternal man and believed firmly that the principles and teachings of many secret orders were calculated to uplift men. In an address here some two years ago before the Knights of Pythias he said: "Christ was the great teacher of fraternity and His benediction rests upon the work which is being done by most of these orders in aiding their fellow men, uplifting the fallen, encouraging the faint and aiding the sick and oppressed." He was very popular here and was a prominent member of the Christian church, having at one time being prominently connected with the Texas Christian University.

ABSCESS

W. H. Harrison, Cleveland, Miss., writes, August 15, 1902: "I want to say a word of praise for Ballard's Snow Liniment. I stepped on a nail, which caused the abscess to rise in my knee, and the doctor told me that I would have a stiff leg, so one day I went to J. F. Lord's drug store (who is now in Denver, Col.) He recommended a bottle of Snow Liniment; I got a 50c size, and it cured my leg. It is the best liniment in the world."

ABSCESSSES, with few exceptions, are indicative of constipation or debility. They may, however, result from blows or from foreign bodies, introduced into the skin or flesh, such as splinters, thorns, etc. Sold by H. T. Pangburn & Co.

Market Quotations

NORTH FORT WORTH, Sept. 1.—Receipts of cattle today were light, with only about thirty cars in the pens, making the total figured close around 1,200 head.

The proportion of steers was small, made up of medium grades and feeders. There was a slow, weak demand from the packers, and selling on those good enough for slaughter ruled 10c to 15c lower. Feeders found a fairly good outlet, on a steady basis. The top price paid was $2.90, with the bulk of sales at a range of from $2 to $2.75.

The butcher stock supply included an assortment of all classes. The late market yesterday closed bad, and sales were generally 10c to 15c lower. There seemed to be no better demand today, and selling ruled just about steady, with sales at a range of from $1.50 to $2.

Bulls ruled active and steady, at a range of from $1.50 to $2.

The calf supply was light and of medium to good quality. There was a good demand and selling ruled steady, the best averaging 17c pounds and sold at $4, with the bulk landing at a range of from $2.50 to $3.25.

The supply of hogs, with four shipments in, numbered about 400 head. The quality was common to medium and bidding was lower. The opening market ruled slow and draggy, but finally salesmen cut loose and selling ruled 10c to 15c lower, the best selling at $3.50, averaging 21c pounds.

GRAIN

CHICAGO, Sept. 1.—Wheat—September wheat opened 1/2c lower, with May and December about 1/4c higher. There was liberal deliveries, most of No. 2 hard wheat on September contracts. This was the cause of the relative weakness in that option. The general tone of the market was strong. It was mainly on showery conditions in the northwest. A good deal of the buying came from that quarter. It is not, however, an active market and there is nothing like the force to speculative buying there was a week or ten days ago. There seemed to be a good deal of profit taking in some quarters. Primary receipts are in excess of last year. Price Current was comparatively bearish, declaring that a crop of 575,000,000 bushels is not impossible. In view of the unfavorable nature of the effect of the rains in the northwest, where there is much late wheat and where the movement is delayed the action of the market is a little slow. Pending the movement in that quarter, we feel like only advising purchases of wheat on sharp reactions.

Corn—This market opened 1/2c to 3/4c higher this morning. It is the same kind of a scalping, irregular market as heretofore. There were further rains through the west, which were not needed. On the other hand, there seemed a tendency toward higher temperatures which are needed. There is the same strong cash position with a good demand for all the corn that is coming. The over-sold condition of the May contracts and the fact that it may apply on all options, makes the market sensitive to anything unfavorable in the way of crop news.

Oats—There is no change in the general cash situation. There is a fair demand, but stocks in all positions are probably accumulating. On the other hand, there is a little less selling pressure, the September stuff probably being fairly well placed. The action of the corn market is an influence on oats, but we see nothing of particular interest in the magnitude or the origin of speculative operations.

Provisions—Pork opened 1 1/2c higher; lard and ribs opened 1 1/2c to 1 3/4c higher. There seemed less selling pressure, probably due to the fact that the September liquidation is pretty well over. There was also some foreign buying of lard and some buying by local traders and scalpers. In the main, however, we can not see any accumulation of long stuff going on in good places. Naturally the selling pressure will be somewhat less as the September stuff is cleaned up, and a moderate reaction would seem likely. Before advising purchases, however, we would rather see a better class of buying.

EXPORT IS DEMORALIZED

PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 1.—The refusal of the foreign market to respond to the increased strength of the grain market on this side of the Atlantic has demoralized the export business of the northwest. The operation of buyers is confined almost exclusively to buying for the eastern and San Francisco markets. There is some demand for milling wheat, but that is greatly curtailed, owing to the exorbitant prices demanded. Another condition which has had surprising effect in the market is the high rate of 27s 6d fixed some time ago. Prices of all grades are unusually high. Shipments of wheat from Portland and Puget Sound ports last month exceed all previous records, being 516,105, as compared with 240,000 for August of last year.

THE NEXT GOVERNOR

Farmer Shaw of Dallas is up against the problem of who is to be the next governor of the state of Texas after the Honorable S. W. T. Lanham has been permitted to serve his second term. And Farmer Shaw thinks he has smelled a mouse with a peculiar railway odor.

"The question arises: Who will the Southern Pacific support for next governor after Lanham? That means, who will the railroads support, for they all suck juleps through the same straw? It has been generally believed that 'Promising Jimmie' Wells would be their candidate, but knowing ones say that report has been purposely circulated as a blind. 'Did you observe,' said one, 'whom almost the entire Lanham administration supported for chairman of the executive committee? The administration was sold for Andrews. Well, that is a straw in the political wind. That means that the railroads are going to support an administration man. The railroads are smart. Tom Campbell is to be a candidate. The railroads regard Tom as pizen. They know no consolidation bill would escape his veto. Crane is also a prominent probability. And the railroads would not give a toss-up for choice between Crane and Campbell. Both have records versus the railroads' gobbie-up programs. So the railroads set the triggers at San Antonio and greased them for an easy fall at Houston. They have their man already selected, and he belongs to the present administration.'

It is a little early to begin to figure on the next gubernatorial contest in Texas, but it seems that the people of the state are not relieved from the turmoil and excitement of one campaign before another is precipitated. This may be progressive and latter day politics, but its effect is to easily give one that tired feeling. Still, if certain influences are at work actively in an effort to build up a machine with the object of grasping control of the situation, there is nothing for the tired common herd to do but fall into line and meet organization with organization. There is a trite old saying which ascribes to the early bird ability to gobble the worm, and when the worm begins to crawl is a mighty good time to go worm hunting.

There seems to be some ground for the suspicion that the railroads of the state are making a determined effort to gain control of the political machinery for the purpose of fostering their own interests. The indications also are that they have been remarkably successful in the few preliminaries in which they have engaged preparatory to making the big fight that is believed to be scheduled for two years hence, and this is peculiarly unfortunate, as it will inspire them with confidence and the belief that there is an easy victory ahead of them. But in this assumption they are most terribly mistaken, for a man backed by the railway influence has no more chance to be elected governor of this state than a snowball has in the place which the lieutenant governor of Kentucky says was created expressly for the republican party. In the memorable Hogg and Clark gubernatorial campaign, sufficiently recent to be fresh in the minds of the people, it was commonly accepted that Judge Clark was backed by the railway and corporation interests, and every element of opposition that could be enlisted against the regular democratic nominee was rallied to his standard under the inspiring cry of "Turn Texas Loose." The fate of Judge Clark will be that of any man who has the temerity to elevate his lightning rod with a railroad pennant streaming from its apex.

The fact of the business is that the pernicious activity displayed by the railroads in their efforts to gain control of the situation is arousing the ire of the masses, and that ire is certain to be made manifest during the coming session of the state legislature. Consolidation bills will be eagerly looked for, and it is possible that some measures along that line that may possess genuine merit are going to feel the cold steel of ruthless opposition in their vitals to such an extent that they will be wiped out of existence. The people have become aroused to the belief that there is a great big bug under the chip in these consolidation measures that hob up so serenely at each recurring session of the legislature, and they are telling their representatives to strike every one of them to the earth. That may be injustice to some of the railroads, but it is simply another case of being caught in a bad campaign.

The next governor of Texas will be a democrat and a man who is known to be in close touch with the people. He will be a man whose private and public record is absolutely above reproach. He will be a man whose sympathies and aspirations are those of the common herd, and who will know no interest except that of his people as a whole. There are plenty of such men in Texas and some of them are going to offer for the position. It does not make any difference that the railroads are in control of some of the party machinery. The creature of the railroad companies can never be elected governor of this state, and it were but a waste of effort to bring such a man to the front as a candidate. Farmer Shaw need not be unduly alarmed over the situation. Having proclaimed his warning from the sentry box he occupies, he has discharged his duty to his people. The citizens of Texas are not asleep and will not be when the time rolls around to make a selection. They are keenly alive to the dangers of the situation, and are determined that if there is a scheme to deliver Texas over bodily to the railroad interests it shall be thwarted, and the best thing the railroads can do is to recede from their apparent determination. Such action would have a tendency to prevent future advances in freight rates to cover useless campaign expenses. The awful example of other states that have been delivered over bodily to the railroads will always be sufficient to prevent such a calamity in democratic Texas. If the man of the hour has already been selected he is only another example of the lamb being led to slaughter, for political death is sure to be his heritage and disappointed ambition his reward.

There is going to be no dearth of first-class material in the gubernatorial offerings to succeed Mr. Lanham. There are hundreds of able men in this state who have been nursing this ambition for years, and perhaps a hundred more who are not so able, but with lightning rods elevated. What Texas now needs is surcease from political agitation and agitators long enough to get down to business and enjoy her impending prosperity. This thing of making another governor may be well deferred for two more years.

The democratic national committee has just issued a campaign book giving some extracts from books written by President Roosevelt, which afford some very interesting reading. In his "Oliver Cromwell," Mr. Roosevelt says, "In that great crisis it may be necessary to overturn constitution or disregard statutes," and that he has adhered religiously to that idea is apparent in all his official actions. In speaking of presidents of the United States in others of his writings, Mr. Roosevelt says of Thomas Jefferson: "He was timid and shifting, and the most incapable executive that ever filled the president's chair." He says President Madison was "incapable and the results of his administration brought shame and disgrace to America." Of President Monroe he says, "He had no special ability, and as secretary of war under Madison, Monroe was a triumph of imbecility to the last." He disposes of President Jackson with the assertion that he was "ignorant," and Van Buren, he says, "Faithfully served the mammoth of unrighteousness." Harrison, Tyler and Fillmore he grouped under the title of "small presidents," and Polk, he says, was, "excepting Tyler, the very smallest of the line of small presidents who came in between Jackson and Lincoln." Pierce was "a small politician of low capacity and mean surroundings," and Buchanan was another of the small presidents. Truly, there has been but one president of these United States who could measure up to the standard, and his name is Theodore Roosevelt. Teddy is the real thing and no mistake.

The following words of warning were uttered by Abraham Lincoln, one of the greatest republicans who ever lived, in his inaugural address in 1861, when assuming the duties of the presidency: "Monarchy itself is sometimes hinted at as a refuge from the power of the people. In my present position I could scarcely be justified were I to omit raising a warning voice against the approach of returning despotism. It is not needed nor fitting that a general argument should be made in favor of popular institutions; but there is one point with its connections, not so backed by as most others, to which I ask brief attention. It is assumed that labor is available only in connection with capital, that nobody labors unless somebody else owning capital, somehow, by the use of it, induces him to labor. Labor is prior to and independent of capital. Capital is only the fruit of labor and could not have existed if labor had not first existed. Labor is the superior of capital and deserves much the larger consideration. I bid the laboring people beware of surrendering the power which they possess, and which, if surrendered will surely be used to shut the door of advancement for such as they and fix new disabilities and burdens upon them until all of liberty shall be lost." Such was the admonition of liberty-loving Abraham Lincoln to the laboring element of this country, which is in marked contrast with the subsequent action of his party, which has since been engaged in forging the strongest shackles that were ever fastened upon the laboring man. The classes in preference to the masses is the guiding star of modern republicanism.

The result of teaching American history from the biased standpoint of the northern historian is often reflected in bad breaks in the relation of alleged facts in dealing with southern institutions. The moral of this is plain and lies in the teaching of southern children the truths of history as written by historians who are capable of doing the south justice.

The war with Russia is costing the Japanese government at the rate of four hundred million dollars per annum, and at that rate it will not be long until the little island empire will be in the sorest kind of financial straits. Lacking the stuffing out of the Muscovites is an expensive proceeding.

The ease with which a pugilist champion evolves into a high-priced actor is a glowing tribute to the elevating influence of the stage. But such procedure is but the natural result of the morbid appetite of the public continually for something that is of the sensational.

The new department of commerce was organized just in time to become a powerful republican campaign auxiliary. As a club for beating the recalcitrant trusts into line it has no superior.

The advice to stockmen that comes from the big market centers not to be in too big a hurry to ship their cattle after the break up of the strike, is worthy of the most serious consideration. The indications are that all the markets will be badly glutted unless there is wisdom and moderation observed in marketing.

The big peckers refuse to treat with the strikers on any terms, declaring that they have won out, and evidently inspired by the reflection that to the victors belong the spoils.

AMUSEMENTS

MISS GERTRUDE EWING The rendition last night at Greenwald's opera house of "Camille" by the Gertrude Ewing company proved to be one of the most satisfactory of the present engagement. Miss Ewing appearing in one of her best characters, that of Camille. Her conception showed a conscientious study, and aided by a thorough knowledge of the difficult roles she proved a decided success. It is doubted if Dumas' masterpiece has ever had a more perfect interpretation on the local stage. Miss Ewing is graceful and gives a decidedly pleasing portrayal of the difficult character she assumes. She was especially strong in the scenes where she shows her deep love.

Miss Ewing was ably supported last night by Charles D. Hammond, L. N. Harrington, L. D. Ellsworth, Gertrude Harrington, Irene Jones and May Hamilton and others. It is doubtful if a stronger popular-priced company has ever been seen in this city. Their popularity is attested by the growing large audiences which greet each performance.

The specialties last night were all good and met the approbation of the audience. Particularly was the banjo playing of Mr. Bookout well received. "A Connecticut Marriage" will be seen this afternoon as a matinee and "The Country Wife," which is said to be one of the strongest plays of the company, will be the bill tonight.

On Labor Day, matinee and night, the company will occupy the boards of special engagement with Manager Greenwald.

CHICAGO THEATER OPENS Announcement has been made that next Sunday the regular fall and winter season at W. S. Cleveland's Chicago theater will be opened with an elaborate vaudeville cast. Other theaters in Chicago are also opening for the season, which in a few weeks will be well under way.

A COWBOY'S BRIEF PERFORMANCE

(Copyright, 1904, by Newspaper Enterprise Association.)

Shorty McFadden had the blues. Whether it was remorse, indignation or the weather, he could not himself determine. He had come down from the Circle T ranch the day before with a number of other "boys" to "paint the town" and "blow in" the accumulation of his summer's earnings. They had had a wild night of it, and Shorty had awakened late that morning with a headache and a feeling of nausea and disgust for himself, the world and all mankind.

He refused to join the boys in a little game of "draw," but pulling his broad felt hat low over his sunburned face and with his hands in his trousers pockets sauntered off up the mountain road and sat down on a rock by the side of Cold brook. As he sat looking down at the water a face he had seen the day before kept constantly rising before him. He had led a lonely life riding the ranges of a Wyoming cattle ranch, and had seen few women, none like the one he had seen yesterday, with her delicate features and fair, patrician face. She had stood beside him in a store for a few moments, and the faint perfume from her clothing, her high-bred air and cultured voice opened a new world before him. He wondered moonishly had treated him differently, and looked down at his spurred boots and leather "shaps" with an impatient sigh.

The clatter of horses' hoofs upon the hard road made him look up, and his heart leaped as the object of his thoughts, in a trim blue habit, and accompanied by a tall, middle-aged man of military appearance, went cantering swiftly by. He rose and bared his head as one might do at the passing of a queen, and was conscious of a feeling of animosity to the man, who, he saw with satisfaction, was not near so good a horseman as himself. He watched them as they rode away down the dusty road, kicked a pebble out of his path with an impatient gesture, and started back toward the hotel, saying, "Shucks! what's the matter with you, Shorty? What's gone wrong with you that you've took to envying the swells? Reckon you'd better be startin' back to the ranch; them folks is a little out of your class."

He kept away from his companions that evening and went early to bed and when he awoke the next morning his mind was made up to go back to the ranch at once. Stealing quietly out of the hotel he saddled his little brown mare "Thunderbolt," whom he loved better than anything else on earth, and leaving a note for "the boys," took his way through the still sleeping town and out on the road towards the country. He had ridden several miles, whistling softly and with the bridle lying loose upon the mare's neck, when the rapid beat of hoofs on the road behind him caused him to wheel about in his saddle and look back. He started with a low whistle, for riding towards him, alone, and at a breakneck gallop was the lady, his lady, of the blue habit, her lips smiling and her cheeks glowing with the crisp morning air. "Ain't she a dream, though!" cried Shorty under his breath, staring with all his eyes and pulling his horse to one side, "sits like a queen and ain't afraid of nothin', and that little brute she's ridin' is a nasty one, too, I'll bet. Ah, I thought so!" For the hard-bitted little animal had shied violently at the scurry of a jackrabbit in the weeds, and was rearing and plunging like a broncho. Suddenly, with an angry shake of his head he sawed on the bit, got his head down almost between his knees and bolted away like an arrow from a bow. Horse and rider shot by Shorty like a flash of light, the girl sitting firmly in her saddle and not showing the least alarm as they dashed away up the dusty road.

"She's a peach of a rider, all right," remarked Shorty, with an appreciative grin, as he pulled Thunderbolt back into the road, "but if she was me—if she—if I had anything to say about her, I wouldn't let her go ridin' that there little devil around the country all alone. She'd orter have a better horse'n him, sure. He's mean, that little critter is, dead sure, he's a mean one, you kin tell that by the way he —what? No—by golly! I'll be everlastin' go'd-darned if the little beggar ain't bolted with her now, and here, too, of all places in the country!" Wasting no more breath on words, Shorty dashed the spurs into Thunderbolt's flanks, and with a wild "ki-yi" to speed him on his way, plunged down the winding road, his brown cheeks whitening a little under the tan and his breath coming thick and hard. "Go it, my beauty!" he cried, his heart beating as the wildest tussle with a bucking broncho had never made it beat before—"go it, old girl, for all there is in you. We've got some pretty work to do, Thunderbolt, my lass, or I'm a Dutchman. My God! I wonder if that poor girl knows what's ahead?"

Leaning far forward in his saddle he loosened his lariat rope and braced himself firmly in his stirrups. A short distance ahead of the maddened flying pony the road turned sharply to the right, while straight ahead a narrow bridge path led on into a dense growth of trees and undergrowth, through which came loudly the roaring sound of falling water. "If he was a decent, sensible beast like he'd orter be he'd keep to the main traveled road," groaned Shorty like he is, and a natural, that makes dollars to doughnuts, that he makes straight for the falls." It was but too plain to be seen that the frightened girl had lost all control of the vicious little beast, which, with the bit between its teeth, was rearing and plunging madly. As it neared the dangerous turning it veered a trifle, and Shorty sent up an unspoken prayer, but with a wild snort it left the main traveled road and dashed straight ahead. Shorty swore a mighty oath through his set teeth and plied whip and spur, making the brown mare fairly fly over the ground. "Hold hard!" he shouted as Thunderbolt came crashing through the underbrush. "Look out, the waterfall's just ahead! Get your foot out of the stirrup, sit loose, let go your bridle and trust yourself to me! don't be scared, let yourself come, steady there! NOW!"

With a swoop like a whirlwind he swept by her, caught her from the saddle as he passed and held her with an iron arm as he maddened pony plunged forward, tottered for a moment on the edge of the cliffs, and then plunged downward to the rocks below. "Mighty close call, wasn't it?" panted Shorty, when, a few moments later he led the snorting and trembling Thunderbolt carefully back into the road. "I tell you, you never can trust them nasty little piebald chaps, they're ornery little cusses every time. Aw, shucks! why that wasn't nothin' at all. Why me an' Thunderbolt we just—pshaw, now, don't you talk like that, miss, it puts me out a heap worse'n—now don't you worry, Thunderbolt, she jus' loves it, and as for me—well, I could walk along this road forever, a-seelin' you up there in my saddle. Funny, now, too, how it—it sort of becomes you."

The journey back to town, with the lady still rather white about the lips, sitting meekly in the saddle and Shorty walking beside her, was a heaven-vial pilgrimage to him. It was over all too soon, and when they reached the hotel, and an excited and breathless crowd began to gather round them he could stand it no longer, and threw himself into the saddle and never drew rein until he had reached the ranch, where safe in the shelter of Thunderbolt's stall he threw his arms about her neck and kissed her again and again, praising and thanking her in a choking whisper for what she had done. Then he took off his coat, and holding it up before him smoothed and patted it, kissed a spot upon the shoulder, rubbed his hand tenderly along the right sleeve, and then folded it up very carefully and put it away in his trunk. He was never seen to wear that coat again. For the next week Shorty was a conundrum to his associates. Usually the most genial and sunny of companions, he was silent, thoughtful, gloomy and depressed. The usual flow of cowboy spirits seemed obnoxious to him, and he sought lonely and remote corners, where he sat with such a downcast and faraway expression on his sunburned face that the "boys" summed it up that "Shorty must a-lost his hull pile in town."

For six long days Shorty remained on the ranch, nervous, distracted and oppressed. On the seventh he rode away to town with a new light in his eyes and an expression of determination on his lips. When he arrived there his first stop was at a fashionable clothing store, where he purchased a complete new outfit, after which he was shaved and had his mustache carefully curled. The rest of the day he put in alternately marching boldly up to the door of the hotel and slinking timidly away as if he had been detected in a crime. Towards evening he at last summoned courage to enter, and going to the desk asked the clerk in a hoarse, shaky voice if "that there young lady that wore the blue ridin' habit" was in. The natty clerk looked at him superciliously through his eyeglasses. "Do you mean Mrs. Gen. Fitz Green Wallace? Oh, she and her husband left for New York Tuesday. "Ooh," was all that Shorty found tongue to utter. "She went out, turned into a by-street, kicked in a new derby hat into a shopless mess, and mountin' Thunderbolt, rode slowly back to the ranch,

PICKING COTTON IN THE FIELDS OF TEXAS

Something About the People Who Labor in Cotton Patches and Why They Are Scarce at the Present Time

From Fort Worth daily shipments of cotton pickers are now being made to the vast territory tributary to the city.

This is the time of the year when the pickers, no matter what their creed, color or previous condition of servitude, are the most desired persons in this state.

Wherever in the state cotton is grown the cotton picker is now in demand and in great demand at that.

This year precautions were taken to keep away the boll weevil, the bane of the cotton planter, but with only partial success.

Hot weather and hotter winds ripen the cotton so fast, that unless it is gathered from the stalks at once, it falls to the ground and blows away.

When the cotton is gathered, it is taken to the gin, where it is cleaned and pressed into bales.

An Uprising of Two Hundred Blacks Subdued by Troops—Spanish Miners Are Being Imported

"On account of the failure of Japanese laborers to comply with their contracts some of the mining companies in Mexico are going to bring over iron miners from Bilbao and Santander, Spain, to work in the mines in the Republic," said J. C. Goodell, who has just arrived here.

Mr. Goodell says that in addition to being experienced miners, the North Spain men will not be troubled by not understanding the Mexican language. It is expected, he says, that a trial lot of the men will be brought to Mexico in the near future.

The Japanese are all right for agricultural pursuits, but their usefulness in mining is doubted," said Mr. Goodell. Mr. Goodell brings the news that a serious riot occurred a few days ago at Agua Clara, a large hacienda in the state of Chiapas, where 200 negroes brought from Jamaica attacked the employers and attempted to destroy the ranch.

Many Pounds of Mint Plants Wanted. Druggists Want All the Mint They Can Get for Use at the Soda Fountains and Other Purposes

The advertisement of a local retail drug firm for one thousand pounds of mint in last night's Telegram has occasioned considerable comment among those unacquainted with the uses of this plant.

A visit to the store by The Telegram man has revealed the fact that this little plant is a very useful one in the manufacture of drugs and has many medicinal properties, of which most of us are unaware.

The plant grows wild along the banks of streams and is also grown in hot houses under cultivation. It is used largely in the making of menthol and for various catarrh remedies. It is also used for carminative or stomachic medicines, for the making of pennyroyal and in soda fountain drinks. Beside peppermint drops, catnip, balm, horchound and hyssop, and last, but not least, the old southern julep, employ it in their make-up.

Several species of the plant of the over 2,000 species which grow in all parts of the world are found in Texas. Here the druggists buy it and make a concentrated syrup, which is used in the manufacture of medicines and at soda fountains. They will pay as high as 10 cents a pound for it and take the plant in any quantities delivered to them.

merce, there flows a rich stream of gold from the once neglected and despised goat. Indeed, should Jason and Colchus set out today in search of the golden fleece he would find it on the back of an Angora goat.

From Montana to Texas, from the Mississippi to the Pacific, the breeding of goats is one of the growing industries. In the mountains of Southwest Texas, however, a country peculiarly adapted to the goat on account of its similarity to his native Asia Minor, Angora breeding has been brought to its highest state of perfection.

representation being from the United States and Canada. Major Andrews was representing the state of Texas. One of the notable meetings of the congress was held in Crystal Palace, the attendance at this time being 70,000 people.

The delegates from the United States, Canada and Alaska chartered a steamer for the trip and started from New York city June 14, making the journey without unusual incident.

Discussing the Salvation army work the major stated that it was in a very prosperous condition and that some changes to be announced soon are maturing, one in particular being a successor to the commander, Booth-Tucker, who is at the present time making his farewell trip through the United States.

While no definite statement is made as to who will succeed him it is pretty generally understood that Commissioner Eva Booth of Canada and Alaska will succeed him in the United States and take charge of the work in this country.

Major Andrews is at the present time stationed at Dallas, but it is learned here that he will soon take up his abode in Fort Worth. Further than this mere statement nothing is given out.

Their accomplished daughter, Miss Jessie V. Cumbie, who has ably assisted her parents in army work, is spending her vacation with friends at Bolton, Miss., where she will remain until September 5.

Miss Cumbie has not been in very good health for some time and the rest has been taken in a hope that she will be benefited.

Captain Cumbie said this morning that other Salvationists will be in Fort Worth next Wednesday to take up the work while he spends his vacation of three months.

A PANORAMA 440 MILES LONG. From the Observation car on the New York Central a living panorama 440 miles long may be seen. This includes the Genesee, Black river and Mohawk valley and 143 miles of the Hudson river, including the foothills of the Adirondack mountains; the capitol at Albany; the Catskill mountains, the Palisades of the Hudson and the New York Central's magnificent approach to the metropolis—this being the only trunk line whose trains enter the city of New York.

NEW CORPORATIONS. NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—Monthly returns of new corporations in eastern New York have not been so light in a series of years as those compiled for August. They show a total of 200 companies with a capital of $1,000,000 or more of only $2,950,000. Maine heads the list with $12,000,000. The nearest approach in recent years to the low record was in February last when the figures were $2,750,000.

Our trains are composed of new equipment, high back coaches, free chair cars, elegant 1st-class Special World's Fair and standard sleepers are also carried and may be used by those holding long limit tickets. The rate will be exceedingly low, only about two-thirds of the one way fare for the round trip. Excellent rooms may be secured at sixty cents per day (not more than four in a room) this rate being available only by members of our party.

RAILROAD NEWS

COTTON IS NOW BEING RUSHED TO GULF PORTS WITH CONSIDERABLE ENERGY BY THE COTTON BUYERS AND BY RAILROADS. The movement is heavier and the August sailings larger than has been the case for the same month in many seasons and the fact that August cotton brings a better price than that of any other month.

Galveston and New Orleans receives the bulk of export cotton from the southwest and the Southern Pacific, International and Great Northern, Santa Fe, Missouri, Kansas and Texas and the San Antonio and Aransas Pass are just now taxed to supply the rolling stock with which to handle the rush cotton. Considerable cotton is passing through here for these gulf ports.

The early movement has been larger than the railroads anticipated, and export cotton for this season is going to be exceedingly large.

The crop is three weeks to a month earlier this year than last, and the heavy movement now does not necessarily mean an increased crop over last year, but an earlier maturity. However, there is no doubt of the fact that the Texas crop this year will be far in advance of the crop last year. This fact is conceded by North Texas cotton buyers and exporters, and besides the acreage in Texas has been increased about 9 to 10 per cent.

TRAFFIC AFFAIRS IMPROVING
Railroad traffic men seen today say that there has been an improvement in freight traffic during the past ten days, but the greatest showing is made in passenger movement from Texas. The past week was by far ahead of preceding weeks in the passenger traffic of the roads in this state. Much of this travel was to St. Louis, drawn there by the World's Fair, but aside from this travel the business west and east was also large. Passenger men believe that the sales of the past week are but the beginning of even greater sales the coming week and that the heavy traffic will continue until the tourist season has begun.

Both traffic and passenger managers assert that they look for the largest fall business in many years. Times have been good all over the country, and crops far better than they have been for several seasons. This naturally gives the people surplus money and when people have surplus money they travel in America. As a consequence the railroads confidently expect a big business beginning with this month.

While the freight movement generally in this country has been on the increase for some weeks, the conditions in Texas seem to be better than in any other section, except in the southern states, where large crops of cotton and corn and fruits and vegetables have been made.

Not in many years has there been such a prosperous crop outlook as in Texas, and as a consequence the railroads have reason to believe that they will be needed to haul the surplus to market.

The shipment of cattle from this state this season has been lighter than in many years, due to the great packers' strike, which has curtailed the demand for fat stuff at all the leading markets. This has had the effect to reduce the earnings of the railroads, but this trouble is now being relieved and cattle shipments are beginning to move in large numbers.

MEXICAN ELECTRIC ROAD
Benjamin Barrios has just obtained from the Mexican government a concession for the construction of an electric railroad from the City of Mexico to Puebla. By the terms of the concession the first ten kilometers of the road must be constructed within the next twelve months and thereafter ten kilometers must be built each year and a further road had to be deposited as a guarantee that the road will be built.

The concession is in the name of Mr. Barrios, but the construction of the road will be done by a wealthy German syndicate, and the cars and equipment for the line are to be brought from Germany.

The line will be used for carrying passengers and freight and within three months the preliminary survey will be submitted to the government engineers. A few months later the work of building the line will commence.

The line is to be 102 kilometers in length and it is claimed that the trip between the City of Mexico and Puebla will be made on this road in not to exceed two hours.

TO BUILD WESTWARD
John Scullin, a large stockholder in the Rock Island, gives out an interview at Denver to the effect that the Rock Island will build westward, but he does not definitely say whether the line is to be constructed to San Francisco, San Diego or Los Angeles. He does not intimate when the work will commence, but that it will be done by the Pacific coast he states is positive. He says that the beginning of construction will largely depend upon the financial condition of the country.

Mr. Scullin states further that the matter of building westward by the Rock Island has been under consideration of the chairman of the board of directors for some time, and that the scheme is looked upon with much favor by the stockholders.

Mr. Scullin is one of the multi-millionaires of the west and is president of the St. Louis and Northern Arkansas Railway Company, and was also at the head of several railroads which have lately been bought up by the Rock Island. Besides these railroad connections he is also one of the heavy owners of Santa Fe stock.

TWO RIVAL TOWNS OUT WEST
Just at the present time there is considerable rivalry between El Paso and Douglas, Ariz., over the location of the shops of the El Paso and Southwestern, which are to be built very soon. The car shops of the company are now located at Douglas. On account of the growth of the business of this road the present shops, etc., are inadequate for

SPORTING NOTES

ROCK ISLAND LINK
The Rock Island company has decided to build a link between Ardmore westward to Waurika, thereby making connection with Ardmore and Lawton. The contract for the grading between the two points has been let.

This branch will pass through a fine territory and will be a great feature for the Rock Island, besides giving that road a through line to South McAlester and Memphis.

Surviving parties running lines in the Sierra Madre mountain regions recently ran upon a number of renegade Apache Indians, 100 miles from Casas Grandes. The Indians are believed to be those who attacked the Mormon colonies in Chihuahua some years ago and are the surviving members of the Chiricahua band. This is the same band that was led by the famous chief, Geronimo, who is now exhibiting himself at the World's Fair.

It will be recalled that after a long series of outrages the band was attacked by General Crook of the United States army and most of the Indians either killed or captured. It is supposed that the remnant of the band escaped into Mexico.

MIKE FLYNN IN TOWN
Mike Flynn, owner of the Little Rock ball team, is in town. Mike is after players, but it has not been learned just how successful he has been in that line.

It is reported that he has made arrangements for the purchase of Shortstop Johnson of the Dallas Corsicana team, and that Johnson will return to Little Rock with him.

It is also rumored that Flynn came to Fort Worth to see Huddleston's work in the box, and that if the pitcher made the right impression Flynn would try to secure him for the Little Rock bunch.

SOUTH TEXAS LEAGUE CLOSES
Word comes from Beaumont that the South Texas League season will close September 2, instead of continuing until September 5, as the original schedule provided.

Houston and Galveston will begin their saw-off series for the pennant Saturday, September 3, at Galveston.

Eleven games will be played, all at Galveston. The team winning the six games out of the eleven will be the victors. If either of the teams wins the series before the full eleven are played the series will end. The two teams as picked for the post-season series are as follows:
Galveston—Gordon, Shelton, Schatzke, Aiken, Smith, Latham, Cermak, Kappan, Burns, Page and Reuther.
Houston—Moore, Dowle, Abstein, Paulig, Barritt, McDivitt, Edmundson and Weber.

The manager of each team has the right to select an additional player in addition to those above.

BOTANICAL PLANTS
Hold the Secret of Life and Death.

Recent experiments conducted by most recent scientists, prove that light is a great remedial agent; it is essentially Nature's agent. It may be either sunlight or electric light, but it has a decided effect in helping nature to banish disease and restore health. Other scientific men have proved that oxygen electrifies the heart and can prolong life.

The people on this earth are susceptible to some laws which govern plant life. A plant cannot be successfully grown in the dark. A man is seldom healthy and strong who lives in the dark or in sunless rooms. After all, Nature's ways are found to be the best. Nature's remedies are always best for eradicating disease, and by this we mean a medicine made of roots and herbs. They are assimilated in the stomach and act upon the blood, and are, therefore, the most potent means which can be employed for the regaining of lost health.

Dr. R. V. Pierce, consulting physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, at Buffalo, N. Y., in many years of extensive practice, found that he could pin his faith to an alternative extract of certain plants and roots for the cure of all blood diseases. This he called Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Containing no alcohol nor narcotics, entirely vegetable in character, it makes rich red blood and is a powerful tissue-builder, giving the tired business man or woman renewed strength and health. Rapidly growing school-boys and boys often show impoverished blood by the pimples or boils which appear on face or neck. To eradicate the poisons from the blood, and feed the heart, lungs and stomach on pure blood, nothing is so good as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

Don't allow the dealer to insult your intelligence by offering his own blood remedy to you instead of this well-known preparation of Dr. Pierce's. Ten chances to one he will substitute a cheap compound having a large percentage of alcohol in it.

Dr. Pierce's Pellets are the best for the bowels. Use them with the "Discovery."

and Johnson traveled out via second and first.

In the ninth Jackson remembered that he had not reached his allowance of free passes and immediately began a fateful delivery. With two men down he took up this generous habit, favoring Boyd first and then Zook. An emphatic hit by Ables sandwiched in served to cinch Boyd's run. Maloney took aim at the left foul line and made a straight go just within, that was all Ables needed to skip along with, and he promptly skipped home.

There is still a margin in which Corsicana can win those two games this week. Two games have been won in three days in times gone by. The score:

George Sinclair of the Albion boiler works, Leith, Scotland, having studied the practical side of the smoke abatement question for many years, has come to the conclusion that the admission of a certain quantity of air above the grates in steam boilers is as necessary as the admission of air below the grates in order to obtain perfect combustion. He has therefore, devised an air chamber and receiver to be placed at the back of the furnace front of ordinary hand-fired boilers; the admission of the air to this chamber, through rectangular holes cut in the dumb plate at each side of the furnace door opening, being caused by the natural draught produced by the boiler chimney.

THE SOCIALISTS

Benjamin F. Wilson of California Discusses the Principles of His Party to a Large Audience at the City Hall

NOMINEE FOR GOVERNOR

Word H. Mills of Dallas, Who Wants to Be the State Executive, Is One of Speakers. Meeting to Be Held Tonight, Another Tomorrow Night

A large sized audience filled the auditorium of the city hall last night to hear Benjamin F. Wilson of California, one of the leading men of the party, deliver the first part of a series of speeches on socialism.

Mr. Wilson in his speech enunciated the labor conditions of today as seen from a socialistic standpoint.

He began by saying that the labor problem is the question of how to assure every individual the most complete physical basis for living a complete human life.

Mr. Wilson then spoke of the competitive system. He told how this system not only kept the masses in subjection, but enabled the few by the organization of trusts and monopolies to control the prices in such a way as to make the people utterly dependent on them for life, liberty and happiness.

"It is because of this great evil, the competitive system, that prices are artificially raised and lowered," said Mr. Wilson. "It is on account of this great evil that men are left without employment and women and children are forced to go to the factories for work. Practically all present labor problems are caused by this competitive system, this monopolism by the few of the resources of life."

The speaker then went on to tell the conditions which made trusts and monopolies possible. The first great factor which has made the capitalists era a possibility is the power and perfection of machinery.

Wilson summed up his speech by stating that "if the capitalists can combine for profit, the people can combine for profit."

"The people should own these vast manufacturing enterprises and should use them for public need, and not for private gain."

Mr. Wilson then dwelt on the necessity of universal human happiness, of the need of the co-operative system among the people, and as he expressed it, the "triumph of socialism throughout our western civilization."

As an orator Benjamin Wilson impressed his hearers very favorably. Earnestness and vim characterized his speech.

When he speaks he uses every muscle in his body to get the desired effect. His shoulders, his arms and his hands are all brought into play as he paces up and down the platform delivering his speech.

Before taking up the work of socialism Wilson was for several years a Methodist preacher and the culture of the pulpit was plainly shown in his speech last night.

For a socialist Wilson is comparatively conservative in his hearers not by the manner of the loud-mouthed street orator, but by his straightforward and logical presentation of facts.

Wilson's speech was not against the individual, but against monopolies in general. Throughout his speech Wilson received rapt attention and at the end of his speech received an enthusiastic applause.

Before Mr. Wilson spoke Ward H. Mills, socialist nominee for governor of the state made a short address.

Wilson will deliver another address at the city hall tonight with "Socialism the Only Hope for the Dead Boy" as subject. W. B. Simpson, Jr., nominee for judge of the supreme court and national committeeman Kerrigan will be at the meeting tonight.

Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock the socialists of the city and county will hold a meeting for the purpose of arranging for the campaign. On Friday night there will be a meeting at Collier's Grove in North Fort Worth. Addresses will be delivered by L. L. Rhodes of Grand Saline, Ward H. Mills and other prominent socialists.

BUSINESS MEN OF TWO CITIES AT LAKE ERIE

Representatives of Leading Mercantile Houses Get Together for Pleasure and Mutual Understanding

There will be "big doings" at Lake Erie this evening, when a number of the most prominent business men of Fort Worth and Dallas will congregate there for a barbecue and a general good time. The affair was arranged in order to bring the business men of the two cities in closer touch with each other and to unite Fort Worth and Dallas in a strong bond of friendship. It is probable that similar gatherings will be given later.

The following unique invitations have been sent out by the committee on entertainment:

You are further commanded to have said witness bring with him his appearance ticket.

title, and for his safety you will order him to bring his sweetheart to protect him during said trial. There to remain from hour to hour until discharged by the undersigned.

The toast list, under the direction of Gen. M. M. Crane, is as follows, and comprises a number of the most prominent citizens of Dallas and Fort Worth:

What a pity we have to all go through the same school, to find out what paint to put on a house! Experience teaches. Isn't there any easier way to learn? Yours truly, F. W. DEVOE & CO. P. S.—Brown & Vera sell our paint.

BRUNER IS HERE AFTER HIS TRIP IN COLORADO

S. E. Bruner, the man who has given the officers of this county much trouble the past two weeks by fighting extradition in Colorado, was brought to this city yesterday afternoon over the Denver road from Denver, by Deputy Sheriff G. W. Prichard, who went after him.

Attorney Sharpshire has been retained by Bruner, and an effort is being made today to secure the prisoner's release on a $1,500 bond. Mr. Sharpshire stated this afternoon that he will be able to have Bruner's liberty restored during the day.

Deputy Sheriff Prichard states that the difficulty he encountered was the result of the acts of an attorney Bruner employed soon after his arrest at Denver. The Tarrant county officer is satisfied that had he reached Denver before the attorney had an interview with Bruner the latter would have readily consented to accompany him to Fort Worth, but the attorney stirred up a hornet's nest and nothing but trouble followed.

Deputy Sheriff Prichard is very much in love with Colorado.
