MAINTAINS NEUTRALITY

Care Taken That No Violation

Acts of a Crank

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Sept. 13.—Early today the destroyer Paul Jones, Lieutenant G. C. Davidson commanding, was sent to anchor off the Union Iron Works close to the Lena. Later, the Paul Jones was reinforced by a steam launch from the Marblehead in charge of Midshipman Davis with an armed crew of four marines with loaded rifles and belts filled with ammunition. Assisted by the launch as a picket and patrol boat, the Paul Jones will keep a close watch over the Lena as long as she remains in port, to see the neutrality laws are rigidly enforced, both for and against her. Vigilance is being exercised that no fanatic, Japanese or other, creeps upon the Lena for the purpose of doing her harm, and possibly repeating the Maine incident in this port, and equal vigilance is being exercised to see she herself receives no military help in the shape of arms, ammunition, men or equipment, any coal beyond the quantity to which she is entitled, namely enough to carry her to the nearest home port. Every boat that approaches is arrested by the alert launch until the officers in charge are satisfied the boat's errand is legitimate.

REPORT TO WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—Secretary Morton today received a report from Rear Admiral Goodrich, commander in chief of the Pacific fleet, stating he had an inspection made yesterday of the Russian ship Lena at San Francisco, and she genuinely needed repairs. The report shows further the nature of the repairs, said to be necessary, but the officials of the navy department decline to make this part of the telegram public. The report has been referred to the state department for action. Admiral Goodrich's report shows that the temporary repairs to the boilers and machinery of the Lena, according to the naval engineer's opinion, will require about six weeks' time. The captain of the vessel claims it needs new boilers and if the request to put these in is granted, no less than eight months' time will be required to make repairs. The state and navy department officials, in conference this morning and indications were temporary repairs will be allowed.

WAR RISKS ADVANCE.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 13.—War risks on cargoes to Japanese ports jumped yesterday from one-quarter per cent to three to five per cent, as a result of the arrival of the Russian cruiser Lena in this port.

IT IS UP TO TEDDY

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—After wrestling for two days with the problem what disposition to make of the Russian transport now in port at San Francisco, the officials of the state and navy departments and commerce and labor departments have turned the whole matter over to the president.

RUSSIA IS SURPRISED

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 13.—Authorities here profess ignorance of circumstances surrounding the case of the Russian transport Lena now at San Francisco. High officials of the admiralty say her appearance in San Francisco is a surprise, as Vice Admiral Skrydloff had not notified the Lena was going to San Francisco from Vladivostok. The foreign office also states it is without advice on the subject. Nevertheless, if the ship is in need of repairs and coal Russia will expect to ignore the reported Japanese demand that she be forced to leave within 24 hours and will permit the necessary repairs to be made and also allow the Lena to take on board sufficient coal to enable her to reach the nearest Russian home port. It is believed, however, Russia will object to the stipulation if the Lena is allowed to coal ship the same and will not interfere with neutral commerce pending her arrival at a home port.

GENERAL STAFF DENIES

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 13.—The general staff denies General Linewich marched into North Korea from Vladivostok and cut General Kuroki's communication with Feng Wing Cheng, as reported in the dispatches from Tien Tsin to the London Daily Mail.

JAPS ARE SEEN

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 13.—It is learned Japanese were seen southwest of the village of Bianiupuza, 36 kilometers southeastward of Mukden, not 25 miles southwest of the latter place as at first reported.

REPORTS ARE THAT CHINESE TROOPS ARE TO GIVE JAPAN HELP

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 13.—The emperor received a dispatch from General Kuropatkin announcing a considerable force of Japanese had been seen about twenty-five miles southwest of Mukden. No further engagements are reported. 1:30 p. m.—The war office authorized the Associated Press to deny the report circulated by the Morning Post of London to the effect that 3,000 men of Lieutenant Sassaletch's corps had been captured, and to deny the report from the same source that he had been wounded and also deny the statement from Tokio that Dumdin bullets are used by the Russians at Liao Yang. Reports of Chinese troops concentrating in the valley of Liao river is causing considerable concern here. The Gourse Gazette thinks it entirely probable the Chinese government formally proposes to undertake to guard and administer the territory actually occupied by the Japanese, adding:

"To this Japan will doubtless readily acquiesce as it will relieve Japan of guarding her lines of communication. In other words the regular Chinese troops will become auxiliaries of the Japanese, and the Japanese army will thus be relieved of the necessity of protecting its lines of stores and land transports and will set free all the strength of Japanese forces to operate against Russia. China will thus become actually an ally to Japan. If the reports are confirmed, not only Russia, but other powers must intervene to show China what the limit of strict neutrality means."

1:15 p. m.—No change is reported in the situation at the front and no confirmation is obtainable here of reports. General Kuroki is moving northeast of Mukden, but the authorities are noticeably more reticent than usual. 11 p. m.—The report published in Paris today that Rear Admiral Prince Ouktomsky has been tried by court martial and sentenced to death and shot for disobedience of the order not to return to Port Arthur after the sortie of the Russian squadron August 10, is untrue. He has not been tried by court martial but will be recalled.

STRIKERS GO TO WORK.

CHICAGO, Sept. 13.—More than 7,000 strikers at the Union Stock yards gathered in Packingtown today looking for work. About 1,100 were given employment and the rest went away to try again tomorrow.

NEGROES IN AUSTIN.

AUSTIN, Sept. 13.—Thousands of delegates to the National Baptist convention (colored), which meets here tomorrow, arrived last night. Five thousand northern and western delegates are expected tonight. The governor delivers the address at the convention, attendance is expected to reach twenty thousand.

THE BUREAU

(By Private Wire to M. H. Thomas & Co.)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—The following is the weekly report of the condition of the cotton crop as shown by the bulletin issued today by the department of agriculture. While rust and shedding continues over a large part of the cotton belt, reports of injury from these causes are less numerous than the previous week. In the central districts the weather has been favorable for picking, except in portions of Georgia and Florida, where this work has been hindered by heavy rains and picking is now begun in the northern districts. In Texas, cotton has improved slightly in a few northern counties, but on the whole very little new fruit is forming and boll weevils are puncturing nearly all new squares in the southwestern coast, central and eastern counties as well as a number of northern counties. North Carolina.—Cotton continues to shed, decided shortage in crop apparent; picking about general. Georgia.—Cotton opening rapidly, being picked, ginned and marketed as fast as possible; output above average in many sections; rust and shedding increased; caterpillars destroying top crop in middle and south. Florida.—Showers in early part of week delayed cotton picking, and damaged lint in portions of the north and southwest districts; crop practically made and in some fields half is open; pickers are scarce; rain benefited citrus trees. Louisiana.—Cotton opening rapidly; showers retarded picking and caused some sprouting in bolls; reports of rust, shedding and boll worms not so numerous; caterpillars increasing; Mexican weevil situation unchanged; many correspondents state cotton is much below the average. Tennessee.—Cotton is opening rapidly; picking begun; much rust and shedding. Alabama.—Cotton picking is general; rust, shedding and boll worms are still damaging; very little top crop opening; early stopped blooming late, not fruiting well. South Carolina.—Cotton deteriorating from continued rust and shedding, and recently from caterpillars, growth rank and lowest bolls rotting on clay lands, opening fast and picking active, except in northwest, where it has only begun. Arkansas.—Cotton continues shedding, some opening, prematurely; picking begun but not general. Texas.—Good showers over greater portion of the state first three days of the week and scattered showers over eastern half at close of week; rainfall slightly improved cotton in far northern localities, but on the whole very little new fruit is being made; boll weevil numerous and puncturing nearly all squares in southern and central, eastern and western portions of northern counties; bolls opening rapidly; two-thirds open in north; good progress made in picking, and work completed in some southwestern counties; very little damaged by rainfall. Mississippi.—Warms all and practically rainless week; rust and shedding continue in less week; not so damaging as during the preceding week; top crop a failure in north, light elsewhere; cotton prospects in central and south satisfactory in but few localities; bolls opening fast; picking well advanced in south; active in north. Oklahoma and Indian Territory.—Cotton opening rapidly; picking in general progress; yield poor to good; much damage by boll worms and shedding over Indian Territory, and to a much less degree over Oklahoma.

Special to the Public!

THURSDAY, SEPT. 15TH, IS BARGAIN DAY
AMONG FORT WORTH MERCHANTS

As has been its wont for several weeks past, The Telegram will, tomorrow, print the announcements of Fort Worth merchants who are anxious for your trade. These announcements contain special price inducements in order to help make mid-week shopping in Fort Worth more popular. Monday's and Saturday's are the days on which the largest amount of buying is usually done, and very often buyers find the stores so crowded on that day that the most satisfactory results are not always attained, and very often merchants are so rushed that they cannot give to their patrons the care and attention they would like. For this reason the public is asked by the merchants to make Thursday one of the shopping days. To familiarize this movement SPECIAL PRICE INDUCEMENTS are offered to those who will make their purchases on Thursday. And tomorrow, just on the eve of the season's fall opening, ESPECIALLY RARE BARGAINS WILL BE OFFERED FOR THURSDAY'S SHOPPERS.

The following merchants will have SPECIAL OFFERINGS in Tomorrow's Fort Worth Telegram, and they invite the patronage of the public:

- W. C. STRIPLING, RHODES-HAVERTY CO., THE FAIR, A. F. HARDIE.
- BURTON-PEEL D. G. CO., MONNIGS, KNIGHT D. G. CO., PARKER-LOWE D. G. CO.

STATUE STARTS

Standing Figure of the Great War Emperor, Frederick the Great, Is Coming to the United States As a Gift From the Kaiser.

UNVEILING IN NOVEMBER

It is to be Erected in Front of the New War College and Will Be Accepted in Person By President Roosevelt on Behalf of the People.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—After many delays and after much discussion of the subject on both sides of the ocean, the statue of Frederick the Great, the gift to America of Emperor William II, has started on its journey across the Atlantic. There has been much criticism of the gift and of its acceptance, on this side of the Atlantic. The statue is a replica of the famous original in front of the emperor's palace at Potsdam. The standing figure of the great war emperor is of heroic size, and the statue and pedestal are eighteen feet in height. HOW HE STOOD If historical contributions are to be accepted as correct, Frederick II of Prussia, the Great, was the great and good friend of the cause of the colonies in their struggle for independence. Among the acts of the king in support of the states was the arrest of 200 Hessian troops crossing Prussia on their way to America, and commanding future detachments to keep beyond the boundaries of his kingdom. The substantial value of his policy lay in the fact that without his active indorsement France would have been powerless to aid America. He bound himself sacredly not to disturb France during her defense of the cause of the colonies. He even pledged himself to back her up against a possible aggressor. FREDERICK'S COMMENTS In Frederick the Great's early political works there are many comments on the war for independence. "The more I reflect on the measures of the British government," he says, "so much the more arbitrary do they appear to me. The British constitution seems to justify a resistance. The government invents new taxes; it desires to burden the colonies therewith in open defiance to colonial privileges; the colonies do not refuse the former taxes, but demand to be placed on an equal footing with England with regard to the new taxes; yet the government will not concede this. This is the history of the revolution in a nutshell." The august proclamation of George III he accompanied with the following commentary: "It seems to me very harsh to declare free subjects as rebels, merely because they are defending their rights against the despotism of a ministry." THE SCULPTOR Joseph Uphues, the sculptor of the statue, is one of the self-made men of Germany. He is, after Begas, the most prominent sculptor of the empire. He was born in Westphalia, and in his youth carved saints and madonnas in wood. He thought it was time that he did something in stone, but had no money. He and a friend went to a graveyard by night and carried away an old tombstone that had fallen. Out of this he chiseled a little boy holding a cross. Later he made some money, traveled and studied, worked for a time, went to Berlin and aft-

WHEAT GOES TO RECORD PRICE

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 13.—The wheat market was nervously bullish today, opening with prices higher than yesterday's close and maintaining the advance. Heavy rains in Canadian northwest followed by freezing temperature last night gave the trade a bad scare. Spot touched 12 1/2, almost nine cents above the close of yesterday. On this high record for September, December went to $1.19 1/2, and May to $1.20 1/2. Traders freely predicting $2 wheat if the promised frosts strike the fields tonight.

CHICAGO, Sept. 13.—Blighting frosts over the Canadian northwest today added fresh zest to the bull crowd in wheat, forcing prices up to a new high record mark. Following so closely upon the government crop report showing the smallest yield in a decade for the United States, the announcement today of untold damage has been inflicted during the night upon Canadian wheat fields, necessarily awakened grave fears among the traders. The wildest excitement prevailed on the board from the time trading began. May opened at $1.14 1/2, $1.16 1/2, and December at $1.14 to $1.14 1/2. As trading progressed May soared to $1.18, which was one cent higher than the record price made Aug. 29. In the meantime December had advanced to $1.16.

CADDO BAPTIST CHURCH

WACO, Texas, Sept. 13.—The Waco Baptist Association is to convene soon, and this calls to mind an interesting note in reference to the Caddo Baptist church of Milan county. The association comprises the churches of McLennan county chiefly, but there has been no severance of relations with the Caddo church, which, while cut off from McLennan by an intervening county, still retains its affiliation with the Waco association, and this despite the fact that it has had repeated invitations from other associations to join them. The Caddo church belonged with the Waco association in the early days, when the district covered a wide expanse of territory, and has preferred to continue the old-time relations. It is one of the most liberal of the churches in the association and comes right up with its work and its obligations.

LITIGATION IN ELLIS COUNTY

WAXAHACHIE, Texas, Sept. 13.—As tomorrow is the last day of service for the September term of district court, which convenes the fourth Monday in this month, increased activity is noticed in the district clerk's office. Attorneys are coming and filing suits so that papers can be served in time for trial at the term of the court. In addition to the large number of divorce suits already filed during the summer nine new suits were entered on the docket Saturday and Monday. Among the suits filed Monday was one by Charley M. Howard against the Houston and Texas Central Railroad Company for damages in the sum of $5,025. The plaintiff was formerly a newsboy on one of the passenger trains operated between Ennis and Fort Worth. He alleges that about a year ago he got his fingers pinched by one of the car doors closing.

On June 24 London took over the management of its own water works, after paying about $150,000,000 to private companies. The water at present is gathered in 122 reservoirs, and the filtering works cover 143 acres.

Firemen and Police Do Valiant Work—One Officer Makes Frequent Trips Into Burning Building, Saving Life, Until He Drops Exhausted

DAVENPORT, Iowa, Sept. 13.—A report from Letts, Iowa, says the Rock Island train No. 11, which left Chicago at 6:55 last night, going through to Fort Worth, Texas, was held up on a sharp curve at mile post 220 at 12:10 a. m. The safe in the baggage car was blown open and its contents taken. The messenger says there was no money in the safe. There were five men engaged in the hold-up, according to the conductor. No one was hurt and passengers were slightly damaged. A special train with twenty-four men on board left Muscatine at 2:30 a. m. Another special with eight men left West Liberty, and a third special is to leave later from Davenport and Rock Island for the scene of the hold-up. The robbers took the engine, but left the engineer and firemen with the passengers. They left for the west in the direction of Letts.

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—Six persons in one family were burned to death and six others injured seriously in a fire which partially destroyed a tenement building at Nos. 68 and 70 First street, early today. More than twenty families were asleep in the building and many acts of bravery accompanied the rescue which was accomplished by the firemen and police. Owing to the danger of the fire in such a crowded street the police reserves from three precincts hurried to the scene. Within a few moments that way from the fifth floor and the neighborhood was in a panic of terror. Women and children were being dropped from windows to lower floors and dozens of persons were fighting in the hallway to reach the open air. A policeman climbed to the roof of an adjoining building and by clinging to the cornice reached down to the windows of the fifth floor and rescued seven children who were handed out by parents.

COMPANY ADMITS IT.

MEETING OF THE BUILDERS OF TEXAS

CHICAGO, Sept. 13.—The local officials of the Rock Island road confirmed early today the report of the hold-up on their road, but said they had no particulars of the occurrence beyond the fact that it happened near Letts, Iowa.

Another officer, winding his coat about his head, entered the building from below and rolled down the stairs the body of a half suffocated man. Three times the officer came back carrying two persons in his arms. Then he fell exhausted. In the meantime ladders had been run to the top of the building and the firemen rescued at least twenty tenement dwellers who were about to jump. The men sought to reach the firemen first, but were thrust back while the women and children were taken out. One fireman, although badly burned, took seven persons from a single window on the fourth floor. When work of rescue had been completed it was found that six were dead. They were: Onda Konovitch, his wife, and two sisters, and twin babies of the Konovitch family, 3 years old. Those injuries sustained their hurts chiefly by jumping from lower floors but many received severe burns. The financial loss is small.

SECURED BIG BOOTY.

KNOW THEIR GROUND

MUSCATINE, Iowa, Sept. 13.—It is said here the robbers who held up the Rock Island train last night secured $10,000 to $20,000. A posse of the number of one hundred men left here in pursuit of the hold-up men.

DES MOINES, Iowa, Sept. 13.—Five bandits perpetrated a successful holdup of a passenger train on the Rock Island near Letts, shortly after midnight this morning. The statements of express men are that they secured no money. The through safe was blown open and the contents taken, but the officers assert that the safe contained only merchandise of some value and company papers in transit, etc., but no money.

RETURNS HOME WITH A BRIDE

E. T. Duff of This City Was Married in St. Louis Saturday and Will Return Tonight

DENISON, Texas, Sept. 12.—George B. Goodwin, who has just been appointed a member of the national democratic executive committee by Chairman Taggart, was in the newspaper business in this city about ten years ago. Goodwin is the founder of the Evening Herald. He first conducted a boom paper. He put the Herald on a permanent footing. Goodwin was in the newspaper business in Boston, Mass. He was appointed consul to Germany by President Cleveland. He was the most forcible writer on the Denison press, and probably had no peer in the state. When he left here he went with the New York Herald. He has for several years conducted a press bureau. He is a gentleman of fine literary attainments. He is cut out for political work and is in some respects as clever as the late Boss Quay. He is a very magnetic man and makes immediate friends. Mr. Goodwin is about 59 years of age.

GOODWIN FORMERLY LIVED IN DENISON

Edmund T. Duff of the firm of Haggard & Duff will arrive home this evening at 7:40 from St. Louis, accompanied by his bride, whom he married in this city last Saturday. Only a few of Mr. Duff's intimate friends knew the object of his trip to St. Louis, the others thinking it was taken with the idea of visiting the fair. Mrs. Duff, who met him in St. Louis, was Miss Curtis of Lebanon, Tenn., before her marriage, being well known in society circles in that city. A beautiful home has been built by Mr. Duff at 1612 St. Louis avenue, and upon their arrival in this city tonight Mr. and Mrs. Duff will go to their new home, where they will reside permanently.

criminal because of a silly sentimentality regarding the horse, then there is neither God nor humanity in the society.

The situation as it is seems to be about this: One thousand dog tags are bought, the city gets $1,000 in the treasury, most of which will be paid to the dog killer to kill the dogs without tags...

Let everybody keep dogs, good or bad, if they want them, but require them to confine them on their own premises or have them securely muzzled when out, otherwise the dog can be killed by anybody...

Another demand for humane sympathy and humane effort is on exhibition daily upon our streets. There seems to be a large number of children without proper home protection...

OF INTEREST TO THE STOCKMEN The Montana range country is proving something of a disappointment to some of the Texas cattlemen who have moved stuff to that section. D. Barton of Higgins is one among these. Mr. Barton says: "Montana may be good, but it is not a great range country, but hereafter I shall confine my operations to the southwest. I took a large herd of two-year-old steers to that country two years ago, and have since had them on that range. The grass this year has been a failure in that country and water has been very scarce. A week ago I took a shipment of these cattle to Chicago, which weighed 1,100 pounds and were four years old. Sales there netted me $3.30, and the balance of the herd I turned on the range again. Next year I will try to market them again, and then I am through with the northwest."

LAKE ERIE PARK ATTRACTION IS A BALLOON Manager Taylor of Lake Erie Amusement company, has secured the Broadwicks, a lady and gentleman, to make ascensions at Lake Erie park. They have two monster balloons and during the afternoon the lady makes an ascension and at night the gentleman. The crowds have been watching the performances with much interest. The lady goes 2,500 feet. At night the balloon carries fireworks which are touched off in mid air.

country adjoining Pryor Mountain, just across the line in Wyoming. The camp of George Crosby, a Mormon, was attacked a day or two ago, and 500 of his sheep killed by driving them over a precipice. Such lawless acts are to be greatly deplored, but they are but an echo of some of the stirring scenes that have occurred between these rival interests in the past.

Joseph Thomas of Alliance, Ohio, says he notices a big change in the quality of the cattle now being produced in the west. He says about eighteen years ago he visited some Texas ranches, and at that time the Texas steer was tall and stood away up from the ground, and there were very few of the rich red color that now characterizes the bulk of the stuff that goes out from the Lone Star state. He says that while the east is breeding for milk and beef, the west is breeding for beef, and as a consequence the western stuff is considerably in the lead.

James A. Funkhouser, the well known Hereford breeder of Plattville, Mo., says there has never been a time in the history of the cattle industry when serviceable bulls of the Hereford breed were as scarce as they are at this time. He thinks this is a good indication for the future of the breed and is a condition that is very favorable for the breeder.

While the Arizona range country has had good rains, a considerable number of cattlemen in that section are shipping the southern portion of that territory. Stockmen of that section believe it is a wise idea to relieve the range in this manner and thus give it an opportunity to recuperate. Another factor in the situation is that by removing a portion of the stock much better grazing is assured the portion that is kept in the country.

The Turkey Track Cattle Company has just been incorporated under the laws of Arizona, with a capital stock of $1,000,000. W. C. Greene, the noted copper operator, is the head of the new company.

J. G. Imboden, a well known cattle feeder of Decatur, Ill., has been out in the Stamford country looking at feeder cattle. He says that the indications as he sees them incline him to the belief that the cattlemen in Northwest Texas will soon have to yield to the man with the hoe, in consequence of the cotton fever. Last fall Mr. Imboden invested in a bunch of Texas yearlings and fed them at his home. He has just sold the tallings of the lot at $5.25, averaging 796 pounds, and is so well pleased with the result that he expects to handle about 1,200 head more this fall.

Texas feeders say they will not handle many cattle this season unless the oil mill people come down on the price of feed. Captain E. B. Harrold, a well known feeder of this city, says unless prices are reduced at the mill there will be fewer cattle fed in Texas this fall than ever before.

FORT WORTH CHARTER. AUSTIN, Texas, Sept. 13.—The charter of Reynolds-Hanna Lumber company of Fort Worth was filed this morning. The capital stock is $20,000. E. T. Reynolds, G. C. Hanna and J. E. Quarles are the incorporators.

Inquiry among the incorporators elicited the information that the Reynolds-Hanna Lumber company will engage in the wholesale lumber business, establishing their wholesale office in this city. Yards will be operated by the company at Keller and at Roscoe. The operation of the company will not interfere in any way with the business of the John E. Quarles retail business in the city. Mr. Quarles joins Mr. Reynolds and Mr. Hanna in the wholesale business.

THE INFLUX OF PAUPERS.

The rate war for steerage passengers is resulting in a tremendous increase in the flood of immigrants to this country.

A problem that was extremely grave has become further complicated. A condition that was alarming has suddenly become greatly aggravated.

The Telegram is printing a series of five articles for this paper, covering a broad view of this endless influx of miserable humanity. It is not a pleasant picture, but the condition is one that must be understood and strenuously met if this land is to be saved from an invasion worse than that of war and pestilence combined.

The total of immigrants last year was 87,046—enough to make one of our greatest cities. Even before the cut in steerage rates, it was estimated that the immigration this year would exceed 1,000,000. Now all previous estimates must be recast. Every incoming ship is packed with them.

Mr. Pew, our correspondent, tells a remarkable story of organized promotion of emigration. Steamship agents, school teachers, postmasters, priests, throughout Europe, hold out to the poor peasants enticing pictures of the prospects in the land of the free.

It is not strange that peoples confined in a life prison of ignorance and drudgery should be enticed by the stories of bread growing on trees and gold being dug in the streets of New York. It is such stories of wealth without effort which bring the classes of people dangerous to the prosperity and peace of this country.

Up to a very few years ago the oppressed of the earth sought refuge and opportunity in America from worthy motives. What they sought was opportunity for fair reward for honest toil and for freedom for their children to develop into manhood and womanhood. They were worthy people, fit citizens of the fairest republic and they have become a part of the best bone and blood and brawn of the nation.

The classes which expect to find bread growing on the trees, and demand that it be buttered also, have nothing to contribute to the character or prosperity of any country. They are the people who must be helped to come, must be helped when here and must be helped until they die, because they have not within them the engine fires of ambition that generate capability.

The immigrant of today is not the muscular, energetic immigrant of ten years ago. The thousands now coming to us every day are the people of whom the European governments gladly rid themselves.

ROOSEVELT'S ACCEPTANCE.

The long expected letter of President Roosevelt accepting the republican nomination for the presidency, has made its appearance, and to say that it is distinctively Rooseveltian just about covers the case. The president proceeds to review his administration of the functions of chief executive of the nation, and says the government has never before been so well conducted as it has with his hand at the helm. He declares unequivocally that if he is re-elected he will continue in the course he has already pursued, and thinks he will be again placed in control from the fact that the democracy cannot be trusted.

President Roosevelt defends the pension graft on the old-time republican plea of duty to the old soldiers. On the financial question he says the maintenance of the gold standard can only be entrusted to his party, and in dealing with the question of capital and labor, he says he stands for equality before the law. He is for a continuance of the protective tariff, and favors a big subsidy for the merchant marine. He questions the sincerity of reciprocity, and says there can be no reciprocity without substantial tariff. He commends the present system of protection to the careful consideration of the American farmer, and thinks that issue alone should make good republicans out of every one of them.

As was expected, the president comes out boldly in favor of the army, asserts it is not too large, and insists that the government is not extravagant in its army expenditures. He defends the Philippines policy of his administration, and touches the race question very lightly in the United States, merely quoting an utterance of President McKinley on the subject. In fact, the president evidently considers that the less said on this subject the better for his party, and right there he shows some evidences of good judgment.

The letter of the president is a good campaign document for his party, as it was intended it should be, and robbed of its egotism and slurs upon democracy, it is a very readable document. There is much in it to be commended, as it has a ring of genuine Americanism that must appeal with some force to the members of all political parties.

Senator Culberson says that the state should be thoroughly canvassed by the democratic nominees, in order that misapprehensions concerning the national ticket may be entirely cleared up. He also thinks that several questions should be presented to the people, such as the condition of the state finances, the improvement of the civil service, the revision and improvement of our system of taxation, the thorough enforcement of the anti-trust law in the state, the prevention of all consolidations and combinations which are prohibited by the constitution, and the unalterable purpose of the party in Texas to regulate and control every character of public corporation within reasonable and just limits. Those suggestions carry with them the weight of sound democracy.

President Jordan of the Southern Cotton Growers' Association announced from Atlanta that there has been an agreement made between all the cotton growers of the country that they will demand 12 cents per pound for the entire crop this season. This price has been agreed upon as fair and equitable to all interests, after a careful consideration of all existing conditions. A big convention of cotton growers is to be held in Memphis on September 29, when further steps will be taken in the matter. It is figured that the present crop will probably not exceed 11,000,000 bales. If the right kind of organization is perfected and maintained a good price can probably be secured, in spite of the gamblers who usually control the situation.

The sentiment in favor of electing United States senators by a direct vote of the people is a growing one as it is a proper one. There is no sane reason why the people should not vote for the senator just as they do the congressman. In nearly all the southern states steps are taken which amount to practically a vote of the people, but that kind of a vote should be required by law. Such action would have a decided tendency to place the senators in closer touch with the masses they represent.

Mr. Joseph Pulitzer, editor of the New York World, seems to have arrogated to himself the proud distinction of being the chief manager of the entire democratic campaign. While his efforts are most commendable, and the facts he presents are worthy the most serious consideration, it hardly seems proper to make the blind the chief spokesman for the dumb. There are other democratic leaders who should be heard in this campaign, and it is not just exactly right for Mr. Pulitzer to monopolize all the honor and glory of the occasion.

The great trouble with the honorable Jefferson Davis of Arkansas appears to be that he talks too much with his mouth. The scarching he received at the hands of his party in the recent election goes to prove that a flannel mouth is no longer the charming institution it once was to the democracy of Arkansas.

In a recent article in the North American Review, Mr. William F. Sheehan of New York declares that Judge Parker is the antithesis of President Roosevelt in temperament, character and methods, and this fact constitutes the democratic leader's greatest charm.

While many of the western counties in this state are showing a considerable decrease in taxable values, on account of the depreciation in cattle values, the state as a whole will show a very gratifying increase over last year, which could be made much greater if the tax-dodger was made to toe the mark.

That hole in the state treasury at Austin will reach the very uncomfortable sum of $1,000,000 by the first of January, and if the state had but one-tenth of the money she is being annually defrauded of by the tax-dodger that deficiency would be a handsome surplus.

There are thousands of immigrants coming to Texas now, and they are but the advance guard of the big contingent to arrive this fall and winter. These immigrants constitute the very cream of the citizenship of the older states, and Texas with the land of plenty—is receiving them with open arms.

There are no indications from Austin that the relatives of any of the various heads of departments are amputating themselves from the pie counter. And still, democracy in Texas has declared in strong terms against the practice of nepotism.

Prince Boris of Russia says the Japanese shells have an uncommonly nasty smell, and that fact doubtless accounts for the Russian desire to avoid smelling them. Their olfactory nerves are super-sensitive.

Reports from Panama tell of a threatened revolution, the object of which is to return to the jurisdiction of Columbia. The indications are that Mr. Roosevelt may yet have serious trouble over the child of his secession ideas.

With a new wife and a newspaper, who is it that that will doubt Bob Taylor's lines have fallen in pleasant places?

And has long been noted as the mother of successful politicians.

The furnishing of country newspapers with paid-for plate matter assailing Judge Parker's early political career and trying to make it appear that his record is not clear is pronounced by leading republicans to be "bad politics" and sure to react. The democrats have nothing to fear from the attacks on the character of their fellow's men would adhere to the truth they would assist rather than injure the democratic cause.—Austin Tribune.

It is always a confession of weakness when any party attempts to continue its power by parading the personal shortcomings of an opposing candidate. The reaction never fails to benefit the other fellow, for the American people love fair play better than politics.

The city council of Dallas has passed an ordinance prohibiting any circus from performing in that city during the month of October on the ground that it would take money away from the Texas fair's side shows. GIRL'S SECRET.

"Aunt Cassie came to visit us and she saw I was nervous, had the fidgets all the time, and she asked me many questions, and finally said, 'Why, you dear, sweet girl, it's not your temper that's bad, it's your constitution that's out of kilter. You sit right down now and write a letter to Dr. Pierce, at Buffalo, N. Y., tell him all your symptoms—and so I did. It wasn't long before I had a long reply, carefully going over my case and telling me just what to do. I date my present happiness and little Cupid's return to the very day I sat down to write Dr. Pierce, for his advice was so good and his 'Favorite Prescription' worked such a complete change in me that now my former cheerfulness and good health—not to say anything of good looks—are restored to me. I have summoned Tom back to my side and we are to be married in June.'"

The proprietors and makers of Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription now feel fully warranted in offering to pay $50 for any case of Leucorrhoea, Female Weakness, Prolapsus, or Falling of the Womb, which they cannot cure. All they ask is a fair and reasonable trial of their means of cure. It is natural that a woman who has been cured of womanly disease by "Favorite Prescription" should believe that it will cure others. It is natural too that she should recommend to other women the medicine which has cured her. It is the name of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription a household word for the past thirty-eight years.

An old woman, eighty-two years of age, was indicted Saturday for introducing whisky into the territory. Verily the love of adventure lives long in the human heart, especially when there is the light of a dollar to kindle its flame.—Sherman Register.

Such incidents as the above serve to remind us how readily women in this progressive age are filling all the places that formerly belonged exclusively to men.

Another pitiful result of an ill-advised strike is to be found in the hopeless task of looking for jobs with which the strikers are now faced. The refusal of the packing companies to re-employ the old men, and the reduction of wages, tell a story which, when analyzed, is full of woe and suffering. The Gazette stated when the strike was declared that the time could not have been worse for the strikers, and the outcome has only shown this view to have been too real.—San Antonio Gazette.

When a fellow loses out in a contest which he believes involves a matter of principle, he at least has the consciousness of duty well performed. He may feel bad over the immediate result, but he still realizes that he did the best he could. "I told you so," may satisfy carping criticism, but it always appears in bad taste to the fair-minded observer.

It beats Cain how these southern state treasurers grow bankrupt and that without using the funds of the state for any general state improvements. Bad financing and poor calculation.—San Antonio Light.

The difference between the condition of the southern states' treasuries now and when they were under republican rule is that formerly heavy taxes were levied for the benefit of the officeholders, and now taxes are light and the money remains in the pockets of the people. All Texas needs is to smoke out the tax-dodger.

Fibroid Tumors Cured.

A distressing case of Fibroid Tumor, which baffled the skill of Boston doctors. Mrs. Hayes, of Boston, Mass., in the following letter tells how she was cured, after everything else failed, by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Mrs. Hayes' First Letter Appealing to Mrs. Pinkham for Help:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I have been under Boston doctors' treatment for a long time without any relief. They tell me I have a fibroid tumor. I cannot sit down without great pain, and the soreness extends up my spine. I have bearing-down pains both back and front. My abdomen is swollen, and I have had flowing spells for three years. My appetite is not good. I cannot walk or be on my feet for any length of time. The symptoms of Fibroid Tumor given in your little book accurately describe my case, so I write to you for advice."—(Signed) Mrs. E. F. HAYES, 252 Dudley St., (Roxbury) Boston, Mass.

Note the result of Mrs. Pinkham's advice—although she advised Mrs. Hayes, of Boston, to take her medicine—which she knew would help her—her letter contained a mass of additional instructions as to treatment, all of which helped to bring about the happy result.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Sometime ago I wrote to you describing my symptoms and asked your advice. You replied, and I followed all your directions carefully, and to-day I am a well woman.

The use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound entirely expelled the tumor and strengthened my whole system. I can walk miles now.

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is worth five dollars a drop. I advise all women who are afflicted with tumors or female trouble of any kind to give it a faithful trial."—(Signed) Mrs. E. F. HAYES, 252 Dudley St., (Roxbury) Boston, Mass.

Mountains of gold could not purchase such testimony—or take the place of the health and happiness which Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound brought to Mrs. Hayes.

Such testimony should be accepted by all women as convincing evidence that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound stands without a peer as a remedy for all the distressing ills of women; all ovarian troubles; tumors; inflammations; ulceration, falling and displacements of the womb; backache; irregular, suppressed or painful menstruation. Surely the volume and character of the testimonial letters we are daily printing in the newspapers can leave no room for doubt.

Mrs. Hayes at her above address will gladly answer any letters which sick women may write for fuller information about her illness. Her gratitude to Mrs. Pinkham and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is so genuine and heartfelt that she thinks no trouble is too great for her to take in return for her health and happiness.

Truly it is said that it is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that is curing so many women, and no other medicine; don't forget this when some druggist wants to sell you something else.

$5000 FORFEIT if we cannot forthwith produce the original letters and signatures of above testimonials, which will prove their absolute genuineness. Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

A MATTER OF MIND

By JAMES EDMUND DUNNING. (Copyright, 1902, by the Frank Leslie Publishing House.)

The policeman I had been noticing for some minutes came across the station to where I awaited my train. He carried a printed paper.

"Where are you going, sir?" he asked me, looking to the paper and back again. I had just bought a Providence ticket, but I replied:

"Excuse me, but I'm not sufficient. I decided to inform you. He did not seem so indignant as I expected, but smiled with an indulgent kindness which angered me.

"No offense, sir," he continued, "only—well, aren't you Mr. Martin—Gerald Martin of Philadelphia?"

"I'm not obliged to reply to such impertinence," I said.

"No—but aren't you?"

"What?"

"Mr. Martin of Philadelphia?"

"No!" I replied, in a way intended to settle our growing difficulty.

"I see," remarked the fellow with amazing effrontery, because I could not understand what he could see; "then, sir, as a special favor to an officer in the discharge of his duty, will you tell me who you are?"

self able to respond with sincerity to their greetings. One, a tall youngster, addressed me most familiarly, the other stared.

"I'm not 'Gerald Martin,'" I said, laughing in spite of my mortification, "and but for the rather brutal way in which you have assailed me, I could not have been placed in this embarrassing position. I've been working hard of late, I think, and—"

"What's your business, sir?" queried the silent member, suddenly. They all seemed deeply interested.

"Nothing regular, you know," I replied, conscious of a sense of impropriety in such an answer, though it was the best I had. "I—I rather keep an eye on the market—and I write sometimes." It was as easy as anything.

The end of it was that we all went to call on the chief of police. I felt chagrined. They chattered at a fearful rate, and then one said:

"He has been calling himself 'Geo. Marsh.'" My heart leaped.

"I am George Marsh, gentlemen," I said, for it seemed to come back to me then, "and I am a lawyer by profession, though given to literature. I live in the city of Boston, at the Winterset hotel."

The man who spoke little but looked at me hard, said:

"And how long have you lived in Boston, Mr. Marsh?"

"Oh," I answered, "not—not so long, you know—not so long." Really, it seemed to me the time was of no importance, just then. They spoke in low tones until my quiet acquaintance said:

"Mr. Marsh, we are in a very difficult situation. We cannot get out of it without your aid. I beg you will not insist on our at present informing you of the details. I want to ask you, as a special favor, to help persons in deep distress—are you willing to join our party and accompany us to Philadelphia, free of all expense, and at a reasonable compensation for loss of time."

"How long?" I asked, wondering what was coming next.

"Two or three days—perhaps," he replied.

"Yes," I agreed. "I will go if it will do you a service—because you seem to be agitated to an extraordinary degree."

We started for Philadelphia with no delay, and I found myself in company whose agreeable manners were tempered with a respectful reticence. On nearing our carriage at Camden I halted and said:

"Gentlemen, you must excuse me if I insist that before going further I be admitted to a knowledge of our errand."

The slender youth seemed fit for remonstrance, but the other, whom I had begun to like, interrupted:

"To be sure. Well, then, I am Dr. Wrangle. This is Mr. Harold Martin, son of Mr. Gerald Martin—"

"My double, I suppose?" I said.

"Yes," replied the doctor, and I wondered what about his face reminded me of that policeman.

"As to our errand," he continued, "Mr. Martin most mysteriously disappeared three weeks ago. We are searching for him, and we want you—a practical lawyer with plenty of leisure—to take up the hunt as an entirely unprejudiced person. The best detectives have failed. We have been seeking a man exactly—yes, I may say, exactly like you."

apprehension. Will you allow us to put you in entire charge of the search for a sufficient period to make a study of the case?"

I got into the carriage.

At the door young Martin led the way past a pretty maid into a house set with obvious elegance. It occurred to me that the missing Martin lived well when he was at home.

The doctor and I waited. Harold ran upstairs. I heard a door unlatch and a woman's voice cried something indefinite. Then Harold broke in.

"Yes, mother," he said, "we've found him."

The door closed. I found the doctor regarding me intently.

"Well, sir," he remarked, as if expecting me to say something of importance.

"Mrs. Martin was expecting me, then?" I inquired.

"Expecting you?"

"Yes—or some one in my capacity."

"Yes," the doctor led the way toward what looked like a library. "We needed you desperately."

lection of Byzantine teapots. He was by my side instantly, all alive.

"Don't start," said I, "I've only discovered that Martin was out of his mind. No sane man could stay out of this library three successive weeks and live."

"Don't trifle, please," said the doctor, looking pained.

But my opinion of Martin was fixed. "No sane man could quit these teapots three weeks," I repeated. "No proper mind could be lured from those Mongolian ivories, or these amazing brasses, or this luxurious Thackeray; hence, the poor devil is mentally askew. Clew one for me. Has Jolworthy so much?"

The doctor only pointed to the library table. "Look over his papers," he said, "his diary is there, too, at the top of the pile. He was hot over the trial, you'll see."

I read aloud the last entry: "Jury has now been out twenty-eight hours. My head spins. I'll walk in the park an hour to tone me up."

"That," I declared, "is where Martin went to smash."

"It is," assented the doctor. "Can't you some way connect that jury business with the mystery? Can't you make that and the walk in the park and the dizzy head mean something to you? Put yourself in his place, Mr. Marsh, can't you?"

"Can't see it," I replied. "I'm not a Vidocq, you know. In short, I make nothing out of it."

"Nothing at all!" cried young Martin, in a despairing voice. I turned to see him at the door, with a lady whom I supposed was his mother. They had been eavesdropping, and I did not like that. I bowed formally. In spite of Wrangle's detaining hand, Mrs. Martin, a most attractive person, I must admit, came quickly to my side and sank down with her arms about me.

"My darling!" she whispered, "won't my love help you to see it all as it is?"

I leaped to my feet and flung the woman off. Wrangle's face was an added insult.

"By heaven, sir," I cried, "if this is a joke—well, sir, and I started for the door. 'I don't wonder poor Martin left home!'"

Just then the detestable Jolworthy entered.

I read insolent intentions in his eyes and met them in perfect kind. "They're enough of you, sir," I growled, savagely as I could.

He grinned, insultingly. "Oh, drop this bluff," he said. "It makes me tired."

"Will you leave, sir, and let me finish my business with these people?" I demanded, very angry.

Jolworthy sneered audibly. I started for him. He dodged around the library table. I vaulted over it. As I alighted, Jolworthy, possibly somewhat cut up by my violence, extended his fist quite vigorously. Something cracked back in my head, and I could do nothing but fall on the floor.

It will always seem that it was a very long while later when I awoke. The slender youth and his mother were over me. They looked strangely like—then it began coming back. Why, I was in my house. My wife and boy—

My wife threw a towel one way and a bottle of camphor the other, after which she shrieked in a loud voice and cast her arms about my neck. I will not say what she said into my left ear. I discovered that my right ear was covered with a huge damp towel.

Harold was yelling like an Indian buck. And then that great boy kissed me. I was angry.

"Be quiet, you silly people," I cried, striving not to look too deeply disgusted over such hysteria. "Now tell me, did the jury report?"

Harold whooped and Helena began to cry.

"Harold," I commanded, sternly, "something has happened. Tell me!"

"Yes," cried Wrangle, who had been standing behind me all the time, "tell him, Harold, all of it—beginning with three weeks ago."

I reared my son to be truthful at all times, but I did not believe all he said. Then, after he had done, I turned to Wrangle.

"What broudering me out of it?"

"That broudering rap Jolworthy gave you," he answered, grinning. "I don't know who Jolworthy is," said I, going over to Helena and talking her in my arms then and there, "but white or black or whatever, I insist that he be invited here to dinner and that the best in the house be his."

But Helena did not seem to care about Jolworthy.

A MILLION IMMIGRANTS ARE COMING THE PRESENT YEAR

Only a Few Expected From England, Ireland, Germany or Other Parts of Northern Europe—On the Crest of the Tidal Wave Rides Disease, and a Menace to American Political and Industrial Institutions—Steamship Rate War Makes This Possible—At Ellis Island Can Be Seen the Result of Centuries of Racial Degeneracy—Uncle Sam Collects $2 Head Tax From Steamship Company

(Written for The Telegram by Marlen E. Pew. Copyright, 1904, by Newspaper Enterprise Association.) NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—I believe that at the very least 200,000 of the aliens who came here last year, though they may be able to earn a living, will be a positive detriment to this country. They will not be able to understand enough of our conditions to greatly benefit themselves by the change. Their coming has been a benefit chiefly, if not wholly, to the transportation companies that brought them here.

Immigrants find first traces of the loathsome diseases common to emigrants. The eyelids are turned up for signs of trachoma, a dreadful eye disease, which was unknown in America until recent years, when introduced by Russian and Slovak emigrants. It is said that there are nearly 50,000 cases of that disease today in Greater New York.

Increase of Immigration. Still, the detention houses at Ellis island are usually not crowded, and it is not that out of three-quarters of a million aliens who applied for entrance to the United States last year only 5,158 were rejected and deported.

Uncle Sam collects $2 head tax from the steamship companies for each emigrant. The steamship companies are compelled to support emigrants until they have passed the inspection, making the $7.50 steerage rate decidedly unprofitable as compared with the normal rate of from $30 to $40.

grants, out of a grand total for the country of $37,046, were subjected to his scrutiny last year. Any American citizen might stand aghast at the daily spectacle at Ellis island. This little patch of land in New York bay, within sight of the throbbing city and under the shadow of the statue of liberty, plays a tremendous part in the welfare of the nation.

Through the gates of this inspection bureau an average of some 2,000 emigrants pass each day and are subjected to government examination. Ellis island is clean; law, order and soap are its golden rule.

Persons of foreign birth constituted in the census of 1900 about 13.5 per cent of the entire population of the United States. In all great cities, except in the south, persons of foreign parentage constitute more than one-half of the total, and in New York, Chicago, San Francisco, Detroit, Cleveland, and Milwaukee they form 75 per cent of the population.

"STUMPED" Coffee Put Her in Bad Shape One of the worst coffee experiences is the case of a Danville, Va., lady who says: "I have been married five years and always had good health until the spring after my second child was born, in 1901, when my health began giving away."

B. D. TARLTON

Members of Fort Worth Bar Tender Banquet to Retiring President of the Organization Who Goes to University

DEAL OF LAW SCHOOL

All Pay Tribute to High Character of Former Chief Justice of Court of Civil Appeals—Many Addresses Are Delivered by Members

Had there been any doubt of the high regard in which Judge B. D. Tarlton is held by his associates at the Fort Worth bar, had there been any speculation as to his popularity, it would have been dispelled last night when an assembled company of lawyers, representing the Fort Worth association of that profession sat at meat and drink at the Delaware cafe in his honor. As has been heretofore stated Judge Tarlton has been elected dean of the law department of the state university, and will leave this evening to take up his residence in that city. This testimonial of the esteem in which all hold him was arranged by a committee of the bar, and when chairs were occupied there were in the party Judge Tarlton, as guest of honor at the head of the table; Judge Sam J. Hunter, toastmaster, on his left, and Judge W. P. McLean, on his right, Senator W. A. Hanger, E. C. Orrick, J. C. Terrell Jr., Judge W. D. Harris, Judge M. B. Huff, D. W. Humphreys, O. S. Lattimore, Walter B. Scott, Judge R. F. Milam, Tillman Smith, W. A. Coutant, M. A. Spoons, Sidney L. Samuels, Judge Ocie Speer, Charles Kassel, Henry M. Chapman, Thomas R. Koss, S. Essex, John Tarlton, Judge Truman H. Conner, B. K. Goree, Judge George E. Miller, David T. Bomar, Frank B. Stanley, Joe H. Barwise, Ben P. Ayres, Robert W. Flournoy, LeRoy Smith, C. K. Lee, C. W. Peck, Judge Irby Dunklin, John L. Terrell, Seth W. Stewart, Judge Mike E. Smith, Robert L. Carlock, B. B. Paddock, W. P. McLean Jr., W. H. Slay, W. B. Paddock, Ray Hunter, Charles T. Frewett, Marshall Spoons, F. W. Dunn, R. C. Armstrong Jr., W. M. Short and B. D. Shropshire.

table opinions will be cited and read in the courts of the land, and his fame as a jurist will continue to echo, "Through the corridors of Time." "Then wreath the bow With flowers of soul. The brightest wit can find us; We'll take a flight Toward heaven tonight, And leave dull earth behind us." Judge W. P. McLean was called on to respond to the toast, "Our Guest." He paid a high tribute to the personal character, dignity and professional purity of Judge Tarlton, and stated that his influence and instruction of the youth of the state, aspiring to enter the legal profession, would so profoundly impress the lawyers of the future that it would show to the benefit of the state and the credit of the university. Judge Tarlton was then called on by the cheers and applause of the assembled party, and delivered a fine address. He took a very wide range, discussing law in the days of Solon and Lycurgus, coming down to the present time. He reviewed the influence of the lawyer in society, as a legislator and as a judge, and pointed to the fact that while there are three co-ordinate branches of government, the legislative, judicial and executive, the lawyer depends the perpetuation of the work of the legislator, or its fall, and that by and with the advice of the lawyer and judge, the executive is directed in its channels. He spoke of the constitutional provision which made possible the education of the youth of this state, and emphasized the fact that the constitution of 1876 provided that there should be maintained by the state a "University of the first class," which should teach arts and the sciences. He spoke of the university at length and brought out forcibly the benefit it is to be to the state of Texas in the future as it has been in the past. When he came to his farewell to the bar, his address was one of tender pathos and appreciation for the compliment shown him, and was in beautiful language. In introducing Judge Ocie Speer who responded to the toast "The Court of Civil Appeals," Judge Hunter became very humorous and made one or two telling points. He said that Judge Speer had been the best "associate justice in Fort Worth," and when it was remembered that Judge Hunter was that defeated candidate, the party cheered him heartily. Judge Hunter said, however, that Judge Speer had a hard row to hoe as he is associated with a chief justice and a certain associate justice whom he would not name, "who are two of the most contrary men on the bench." This brought a laugh, because of the reference to the dissenting opinions which now and then come from a higher court. Judge Speer started by saying that the introduction almost overcame him so he could not speak, but Judge Hunter, quick at repartee, remarked "I could not do that, as I found out on the stump a couple of years ago." Judge Speer then took up the history of the court of civil appeals, and interspersed his talk with humorous references to practice, and then referred to the service of Judge Tarlton as chief justice on that court. He mentioned quite a number of opinions written by Judge Tarlton which would long stand as the law. He made special reference to several decisions by the former chief justice which operated to the betterment of the property rights of women. Judge Hunter next called for a response to the toast "The University of Texas," and said it would be by a young attorney who was known as a silver-tongued orator. He called no name, but as the program had given the name of Sidney L. Samuels for this, all looked to the left of the toastmaster where the brilliant young lawyer occupied a seat. Mr. Samuels blushed, and hesitated. The attorneys applauded, and Judge Hunter relieved the embarrassment by saying he did not think it necessary to call the "silver-tongued" by name, and affectionately laid his hand upon Mr. Samuels' shoulder. The introduction given Mr. Samuels was by no means out of order. His words were well chosen, his address a classic. He showed a wide range of thought and a wealth of knowledge. Being an alumnus of the state university, his reference to Alma Mater was beautiful in the extreme. In closing he paid a splendid tribute to the guest of the evening. W. H. Slay responded to "The Tribulations of the Young Lawyer," making a very fine address. Robert Flournoy spoke to "The Fort Worth Bar Association," and made an impassioned, calm appeal for a closer unity. Charles Kassel did not "take a fall" out of that time honored subject "The Ladies," as is customary, but when called on to respond to that sentiment, made a delightful address. He showed that the every day work of man, the ambitions of those in professions and the accumulations of those who invest, are in the interest of woman, and that beautiful, who brings good in man to the front. His talk was not exactly poetical, but it was of that character which would inspire poetry in any man. The closing address of the evening was by Judge M. A. Spoons, who spoke to "Auld Lang Syne." He was humorous throughout. The affair closed with the singing of that song by the entire company. Davenport's orchestra provided music during the evening, with now and then a song from a cuckoo clock on the wall. The appointments of the banquet were excellent and the service was of the best. Judge B. D. Tarlton, recently appointed professor of law in the University of Texas, is one of the foremost lawyers in the state and one of the most successful. He was born in St. Mary's Parish, Louisiana, October 18, 1849, came to Texas in 1875 when 26 years old and located in Waxahachie. He remained in Waxahachie one year when he moved to Hillsboro, where most of his life in Texas has been spent, all his victories in law and politics achieved, and can justly be claimed as a Hill county man. Judge Tarlton is a graduate of St. Charles College, and of the law department of the University of Louisiana. In his native state and Texas he has practiced law since 1872, and is not only a power at the bar but possesses that conservatism necessary for the bench, and bearing required in the classroom. He was elected to the Seventeenth legislature from Hill county in 1880 and was elected to the Nineteenth legislature of that body. In the Nineteenth legislature he represented the florid district composed of the counties of Johnson, Hill, Ellis and Navarro. In the Nineteenth legislature on proceeding and elections, finance and chairman of house judiciary committee No. 2. Judge Tarlton was appointed on the "Commission of Appeals" in 1891, a court created by an act of the Sixteenth legislature, which had the power to hear and pronounce awards upon all civil cases then pending in the supreme court or court of appeals, where the parties or their attorneys had filed their consent in writing to such reference. This court was abolished by the adoption of an amendment to the judiciary article to the constitution in 1891, and was succeeded by the present courts of civil appeals. Judge Tarlton was appointed chief justice of the court of civil appeals of the University of Texas held in the early part of last summer he was chosen professor of law to fill a vacancy caused by the resignation of Judge Yancy Lewis. With Mrs. Tarlton he will leave this city for Austin.

THE TEACHERS HAVE AN INSTITUTE TODAY Program Consisted of a Discussion Regarding Discipline in the School-room and In-corrigible Boys The second day's session of the teachers' institute was held at the high school this morning. Professor Alex Hogg opened the meeting with a short address. The assembled teachers then sang a song, led by Mrs. E. O. Evans. Rev. William Caldwell, the new pastor of the First Presbyterian church, recently called to this city from Mississippi, led the audience in prayer and made a short talk on "Ideals." After Rev. Caldwell's talk the regular morning's work of the teachers was taken up. The subject of the morning was "Order and Discipline in Schools." Professor J. S. McGee, principal of the Eighth ward school, was the first to talk on the subject. He emphasized the necessity of courage among the teachers in doing what they thought was right and maintaining their principles under all conditions. Another interesting point brought out by Professor McGee was in regard to incorrigible children. "Just as soon as we know definitely that a child is incorrigible and that we can do nothing with him we should let him go," said
