War Dogs of Two Nations Face Each Other Across the Manchurian Stream Where the Slaughter Has Been Terrible

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 21, 1:42 p. m.—The two armies face each other across the Shkhe river, but operations continue at a standstill. A heavy fog, which hung over the plain, was burned up by the sun yesterday afternoon and there was some desultory artillery firing from some Russian batteries, but nothing of importance. One of the Associated Press correspondents says the Japanese did not reply, indicating a possible shortage of ammunition or a desire to conceal the location of their guns.

AN OLD INHIBITION IS NOW WITHDRAWN

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 21, 3:32 p. m.—The Russian government has decided to resume wearing caps of the colors which were forbidden such corporation under Alexander III in pursuance of a policy of the Russification of the Baltic provinces. This step is considered to constitute another evidence of the conciliatory policy of the whole government, which has marked the inauguration of the regime of Prince Mirsky, minister of the interior.

CANNOT TELL WHEN SLAUGHTER WILL END

MUKDEN, Oct. 21, 5 p. m.—The weather and condition of the roads make extensive operations impossible, but the roads are now drying hard, which forecasts events in the near future. War correspondents in the field are kept in the dark and it is difficult to say when and how this dreadful slaughter will end.

STATE OF THE ROADS PREVENTS ADVANCE

HUANSHAN, Manchuria, Thursday, Oct. 20.—(By courier to Mukden)—Wednesday passed quietly. Along the Russian center there was some desultory out-post firing, but nothing serious. Last night was also without incident. This morning the plain is covered with a thick fog as thick as the darkest night. In the afternoon the weather cleared. The chief obstacle to the resumption of the advance continues to be the state of the roads.

NO FIGHTING YESTERDAY

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 21.—General Sakharoff telegraphs that there was no fighting yesterday. The armies retain their respective positions. There was continual reconnaissance on both sides.

ALL WOUNDED, NONE KILLED

MUKDEN, Oct. 21.—Every man of two hundred Cossacks, commanded by Captain Tourgeniff, was hit by bullets Tuesday night reconnoitered the Japs' left flank and who near Sandopu unexpectedly encountered a good sized Japanese force with machine guns, was wounded and every horse except Captain Tourgeniff's was hit by bullets from the Japanese machine guns. Tourgeniff, though mortally wounded, was carried off with one man behind his saddle while others managed to creep back to camp. As already stated, not one man was killed on the side.

There is the greatest fear upon the part of the Russian wounded of falling into the hands of the Japanese, the Russians being convinced they torture their prisoners.

LAW IS STRICT

Board of Pharmacy Will Make War on Blind Tigers in Territory Which Are Conducted on Drug Store Licenses

WILL BE HEAVILY FINED

Men Who Are Addicted to the Use of Opiates or Alcohols Will Not Be Given a Right to Operate Drug Stores in That Section

MUSKOGEE, I. T., Oct. 21.—The board of pharmacy for the Indian Territory, which adjourns here today, will, according to the statements of some of the members, make war on all druggists who conduct "blind tigers" in connection with their business. According to the law as construed and will be demanded by the board, the druggists who do business in the territory in future, must not only refrain from selling intoxicating liquors, but must make oath to the effect that they themselves do not drink. Any druggist who is addicted to the use of morphine, cocaine or any other opiate, will also be denied license. According to the law, the board is authorized to cause the arrest of all druggists attempting to practice pharmacy in the territory without meeting all the requirements set forth. The fine may be anywhere from $25 to $100, and each additional day constitutes a separate offense.

The law creating this board and defining its duties is a good one, and many incompetent druggists and others who know nothing at all of the business will have to close up. Heretofore the public had no protection in this regard at all, a grocery merchant, if he saw fit, having authority to put in a drug store and put a green horn behind the counter to dispense it out to the patients. In the future the man who does a drug business must either present a diploma from an accredited college or pass an examination that is satisfactory to the board. If proof is shown that a man has been in the drug business for three years prior to April 28, 1904, he may continue in business.

MEXICAN COURTS RELEASE TWO AMERICANS

Alleged Insurance Swindlers Are Given Freedom Because the Chemist Finds No Poison in Body

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—A dispatch to the Tribune from El Paso, Texas, says: A telegram from Mexico City says that the plea of Mason, Richardson and Harle, the alleged insurance swindlers, has been granted, and that the supreme court has ordered them set free.

Mason and Richardson, whose real names are Mitchell and Huribut, of Rochester, N. Y., were agents for an American insurance company at Chihuahua and, in connection with Dr. C. S. Harle, the company's physician in that city, are alleged to have insured and poisoned Mitchell's brother and an old man named Devel's brother. After the arrest and the confession of Harle, the bodies of Devers and Mitchell were exhumed at Chihuahua, and one chemist found poison, but later a government chemist declared there was none and the order is the result.

FIRST ISSUE OF LAMB'S JUVENILE TALE

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—"Othello Moore of Venice," the only known complete copy of the first issue of Charles Lamb's juvenile tale, has been sold at auction here. It brought only $500. This story, combined with others, was reprinted to form the "Tales from Shakespeare," written by Lamb and his sister Mary. The only other known copy is in the possession of an English collector and is said to be in less perfect condition than the one just sold here.

AUSTIN, Texas, Oct. 21.—While cross-questioning witness in a murder case today, Major W. M. Walton, one of the leading members of the Texas bar, was seized with an attack of apoplexy and carried out of the court room in a critical condition. He lost power of speech for some time.

TRAFALGAR DAY IS PROPERLY OBSERVED

LONDON, Oct. 21.—Trafalgar Day was celebrated today at home and in the colonies with the usual decorations and dinners. Nelson's flagship, Victor, at Portsmouth was gallily decorated with flags and decked with laurel and flew Nelson's famous signal. The base of the admiral's column on Trafalgar Square here was elaborately covered with wreaths, prominent among the flower tributes being one of huge dimensions, with French and Spanish colors, sent by the Navy League. "With respect and honor to the memory of the gallant French and Spaniards who fell at Trafalgar."

JURY GIVES W. R. EAVES SENTENCE OF THREE YEARS IN THE PEN

At 2:20 o'clock this afternoon the jury in the Eaves case brought in a verdict of three years in the penitentiary. Eaves was present in the court room, waived his right to two days before sentence and Judge Dunklin passed sentence on him immediately.

The jury in the Eaves case is still out and there seems to be no likelihood of an agreement being reached. The case went to the jury at noon yesterday and it was stated this morning that it was unable to arrive at a verdict. Attorneys not directly interested in the case state that the situation is an unusual one. They can not understand what is keeping back a verdict in the face of the facts that the defendant has pleaded guilty and is willing to accept the judgment of the twelve men who have his fate in their hands.

IT IS REFUSED

Germany Asks England to Allow Use of Walfisch Bay on Southwest Coast of Africa as a Harbor

WILL NOT AGREE TO IT

BERLIN, Oct. 21.—The government has asked Great Britain to permit Germany to use Walfisch Bay for landing troops and supplies essential in the war against the natives of German East Africa. The British government refused positively to grant the request. Walfisch Bay is the only good harbor for a thousand miles along the coast. Swakumond always has been a difficult harbor to enter. It recently took a German transport four weeks to land three companies of troops with horses, guns and supplies. Great Britain's refusal to allow the troops to land in Walfisch Bay will, it is asserted, interfere seriously with Germany's military plans in Southwest Africa. Cable dispatches nearly every day bring news of some small German reverse in Southwest Africa. The news was telegraphed last night the German station at Nontsum was captured by the Hottentots. Veterinary Surgeon Oscar Brecht and a pilot named Hermann are among the killed.

SHIPBUILDING RACE BETWEEN NAVY YARDS

One of the ships was assigned to the Mare Island yard, San Francisco, and the other to the yard here.

ISSUES A DEFINITIVE DEPOT TRAGEDY

Col. Cecil A. Lyon, Republican State Chairman, Will Return to Fort Worth Monday and Wants a Joint Debate

HE WILL MAKE CHARGES

Announces in San Antonio That He Can Prove What He Has Said Against State Administration and Is Willing to Meet Democrats

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Oct. 21.—At the republican meeting last night Colonel Cecil A. Lyon read the following statement: "Yesterday's Fort Worth Record contains interviews with Senator Hanger and Representative Williams, endeavoring to belittle the offer the republicans of Texas to deposit $5,000 to guarantee the expenses of a bipartisan investigating committee, saying that we know the time is too short to investigate the books of the state between now and election. We are fully aware of this and have only asked the governor to make a recommendation that the legislature appoint such a committee when it convenes. Senator Hanger well knows that while any citizen of Texas has the right to look at the books, the department at Austin would not permit me to take absolute charge of the books nor permit me to count the cash. It is also stated by these gentlemen that we charge by innuendo that accounts of the state are crooked. In reply to this we say we have not so charged, but only said we would pay the cost of investigation if accounts are correct and the laws of Texas have not been violated. Last night in Austin, State Treasurer Robbins sat silent in the audience while the charge was made that he was either incompetent or dishonest, and this morning's Austin Statesman heads the story of our Austin meeting with these words: 'Small Credit'—the campaigner, who Charge Corruption and Prove Charges. 'Further, we will say that on next Monday night, October 24, we will return to Fort Worth, and there in the city hall or other meeting place, make direct statements and show where the law has been violated, and will divide time with Attorney General Bell, Senator Hanger or Representative Williams. 'In Houston or Beaumont, where we are Friday and Saturday nights, we will divide time with the local senator or representative.' Arrangements are today being made by Judge N. B. Moore, secretary of the Roosevelt Central Club, for the coming discussion to be had next Monday in this city between Cecil A. Lyon, state chairman of the republican party in Texas, and state Senator Hanger and possibly Representative W. D. Williams on the matter of the proposition made by Mr. Lyon that the republican party would give $5,000 in the event an examination of the books and accounts of certain democratic state officers, hitherto were correct. This challenge was made by Mr. Lyon in Fort Worth last week, during the rally at the city hall, to which Representative Williams took exceptions and stated that the proposition was a great 'big bluff,' on the part of the republicans. MR. WILLIAMS' VIEW Mr. Williams was seen today and said that he did not know whether he would meet Mr. Lyon and his associate in this city to discuss the matter or not. He stated that it was 'tom-foolery' to contend that the books of the state officials were not subject to examination by any one who desired to take the liberty of doing so; that there was objection to this being done by democratic officials the court could be asked to mandamus such officers and compel them to permit an examination of the books, so the contention that the democratic office holders would refuse to allow the republicans to scrutinize the books and accounts of the said officers is without foundation. 'The books of the state officials are open for the inspection of any one, but, of course the records of the state could not, by any authority be taken full possession of and carried away from the state house,' said Representative Williams. SENATOR HANGER WILLING Senator W. A. Hanger was seen regarding the challenge of Mr. Lyon, and replied that if he could arrange his affairs on Monday so as not to interfere with a criminal case that has been set for hearing in the district court, he will be glad to discuss the matter and defend the acts of the state officials who have been assailed by Mr. Lyon and other republican leaders. On Monday Mr. Hanger is to appear in the Heard murder case in behalf of the defendant, and an effort is being made today to have the case advanced on the docket so as to allow Mr. Hanger to take part in the discussion of the matter of investigating the books of the state officials.

Children Intercept Letter From a Woman to Their Father, and During His Absence Answer the Appointment

THE DEADLY HAT PIN

She Turns Upon the Son With the Weapon and He Knocks Her Down—Being Assisted to the Train She Leaves and Is Dead Within a Few Hours

PEORIA, Ill., Oct. 21.—Mrs. Nellie Thomason, wife of a former prominent real estate dealer, is dead at Lacon as a result of injuries received in a sensational encounter with Richard and Jennie Higgins, children of John C. Higgins, supervisor of Peoria county and prominent in politics. The Higgins children intercepted a letter written Higgins, Sr., by Mrs. Thomason, in which she asked him to meet her in the Rock Island railroad depot. Higgins was in St. Louis and the son opened the letter. The missive asked Higgins to be in the waiting room. Mrs. Thomason arrived and was confronted by young Higgins and his sister. What took place is a mystery, as only the three and an uncle of Higgins was present. Some time later, however, the woman asked C. A. Brant, ticket agent, to assist her to the train. He did so, and when she was gone he discovered the floor of the waiting room covered with blood. The woman lingered in great agony at her home in Lacon until she died. Young Higgins is under arrest on a state warrant charging him with murder. Mrs. Thomason laid in a comatose condition for many hours, rallying enough to speak a word or two at a time. Her body presented a badly bruised condition. Her lips were severely bruised, both eyes blackened and her shoulder dislocated. Her back was covered with bruises and she was internally injured. Dr. John Potts, the attending physician, was unable to rouse the patient sufficiently to get a last statement, although this was attempted by Judge Richmond of Marshall county, at whose suggestion the Peoria authorities arrested young Higgins. Higgins went when placed in jail. "We have been trying for years to break up the relations between my father and this woman," he said. "When we got that letter my sister and I went down there to see if we could not make some arrangements with her. We met her in the waiting room. I went up to her and touched her on the shoulder. Mrs. Thomason, I believe, I said. She turned around quickly and said, 'Oh, it's you,' and drew out a hairpin. I then pushed her sharply against the side of the car and knocked her over a chair. My sister then pulled me away and told me I would be arrested; that we must not do anything with her. That's all there was to it." His sister corroborated the foregoing statement.

ILLINOIS GIRL SUES WINDY CITY PEOPLE

Declares Her Face Was Used to Surmount a Figure Displaying Underwear in a Catalogue

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—Declaring Sears, Roebuck & Co. used a photograph of her head in a cut showing underwear, Miss Cora Ward of Joliet, Ill., has sued the mail order house for $10,000 damages. Miss Ward testified that when she posed for the photograph only a bust picture was taken and she believed her features would be used in advertising matter only in that way. A friend, she said, recently found that in the company's catalogue for 1902 there were two illustrations advertising certain makes of underwear, with the face of Miss Ward on the shoulders of the advertising figures.

NEARLY A MILLION IS IN THE ESTATE

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—An estate valued at $25,000, of which $800,000 is in personal property, was left by the late Robert Scott, during many years connected with a local dry goods firm. The bulk of it is left to the widow and relatives, but charitable institutions and faithful employees of the dry goods concern also are remembered. The will, which has been admitted to probate, leaves $10,000 to the American Sunday School Union for the Northwestern district, and the Moody Bible Institute is a beneficiary to the extent of $10,000.

Why We Save You Money!

THE PRICE IS THE THING

Dr. J. C. Stuyvesant

It is often asked us why it is that we can sell goods for so much less than other big stores in Fort Worth. Here is the reason—Capital enough to pay cash for the merchandise that we sell for cash; practically no house rent to pay, where others pay from $350 to $1,000 a month; no loss in bad accounts and a willingness to make only a small margin on the goods we sell. When you buy goods at Stuyvesant's you get the very lowest price on everything that can possibly be made.

THE MARKETS

NORTH FORT WORTH, Oct. 21.—Receipts of cattle today were moderately liberal for Friday. About forty cars were in, making total receipts figure close around 1,500. Supplies of steers were small and outside of a few head of choice heavy fed, good quality steers the bulk were feeders. There was a good demand from both packers and feeder buyers today and all offerings went over the scales on a steady to strong basis. Four head of 1,350-pound steers sold at $5.25, which was the highest price paid since the selling of the show cattle last March. Feeders sold at a range of from $2.50 to $3.00. Butcher stock composed of the bulk of supplies and of common to medium quality. There was an active demand from both packers and butchers and a fairly good clearance was made early in the day on a steady to strong basis. There was no change in the bull market from yesterday, the bulk selling around $1.75. Receipts of calves were liberal and selling was slow and weak. Hog supplies amounted to about 400 head. The quality was good and with a strong demand, selling ruled active and fully steady with yesterday. The top today was $5.12 1/2 for those averaging 211 pounds, with the bulk of sales going at a range of from $4.50 to $5.00.

CITY WARRANTS READY MONDAY

REV. CALDWELL IS NOW ON TRIAL AT AUSTIN

AUSTIN, Texas, Oct. 21.—As indicated in yesterday's dispatch, Dr. William Caldwell, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Fort Worth, was placed on trial today at the session of the Texas synod of the Presbyterian church on a charge of heresy.

PALE, THIN, TIRED, NERVOUS, DEPRESSED? Ask your doctor about taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla for this bad condition of your blood. If he says, "All right," then take it. If not, then don't take it. We feel perfectly safe, for we know what doctors say about this old family medicine.

ROBBED THE GRAVE

A startling incident is narrated by John Oliver of Philadelphia, as follows: "I was in an awful condition. My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongue was coated, pain continually in back and sides, no appetite, growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Then I was advised to use Electric Bitters; to my great joy, the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks, and am now a well man. I know they robbed the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. Only 50 cents. Guaranteed at Matt S. Blanton & Co., Reeves' Pharmacy.

AGEE-SISK H. L. Agee, a prominent young business man of this city, and Miss Nora Sisk, also of this city, were married last night at the parsonage of the Mt. Meigs Memorial church by the pastor, Rev. J. A. Whitehurst. Mr. and Mrs. Agee will take a short trip to North Texas after which they will be at home at 907 Lipscomb street.

On the night of September 27 a 16-foot shark chased 20,000 herrings into the nets of a Dublin trawler and was caught himself.

THE COTTON CROP

REPUBLICAN DUPLICITY

The country is not only being treated to the astonishing spectacle of the cabinet officers of the national administration being turned loose to make speeches from one end of the country to the other...

There has been received in Fort Worth during the past few days more than one copy of extracts from the remarks of Congressman Burkett of Nebraska...

It is indeed bankrupt and its corporation was in little better shape. After more than an hour of fencing between these two masters of the art, Mr. Lawson terminated the interview by saying:

"It's unnecessary to say any more. FRENZIED FINANCE

BY THOMAS W. LAWSON OF BOSTON IN EVERYBODY'S MAGAZINE

The instalment of "Frenzied Finance" in the November number of Everybody's Magazine offers what is probably the best account of a financial war ever printed.

At length Mr. Lawson determined to open peace negotiations with Henry H. Rogers. By means of a "curious correspondence, cleverly designed to prevent Mr. Rogers using the letters against him, Mr. Lawson arranged for an interview at Mr. Rogers' house in Fifty-seventh street, New York.

"I did not believe this man could make an absolutely truthful statement on any subject of importance, but I knew enough of his real position to protect me from being fooled.

"Mr. Lawson, let's have no fooling about this matter. If we do business together, it will only be after there is some plain-brutally plain talk between us. It will do no good to trick, because someone will get slaughtered when the trick is discovered, as it surely will, after we hitch up together.

"After more than an hour of fencing between these two masters of the art, Mr. Lawson terminated the interview by saying:

And George quietly related his reduction of the dancer.

"Then you did make her the success she is?" cried Mrs. Ward when he ended. "Oh, yes, it's no use denying it. You picked a jewel out of the gutter and gave it a chance of shining."

"Perhaps I did that much. But she made a success by her genius."

"I hope she is grateful," murmured Vane, with a malicious smile.

Brendon turned on him sharply. "I don't know what you mean by gratitude," he said deliberately.

"Well," drawled the little dandy, "she is pretty and—"

"She is not at all pretty, Mr. Vane, and were she as lovely as Cleopatra it would not matter to me. My connection with her ceased when she made her success." George quite forgot the presence of Mrs. Ward and spoke vehemently. "Can't you understand that a man may do a kind action without being biased by the beauty of a woman?"

"Some men can," said Mrs. Ward glibly, "and I am sure you are one, Mr. Brendon. But suppose the woman—"

"I don't suppose anything, Mrs. Ward. I know. Senora Velez was poor. I helped her to attain to the position she now holds because I endeavor to follow the preaching of Christ, and she is to me a grateful friend. There is no more and no less to be said," and, a trifle ruffled, George turned on his heel to join Dorothy.

"Well, I'm sure," murmured Mrs. Ward, "and in my own house too!" Vane sniggered. "There must be something in it," he said. "She's too pretty."

So these two scandal mongers talked on, and George had only made matters worse by his explanation. However, he believed that he had nipped the scandal in the bud, and strolled into the next room with Dorothy to quiet his mind. Behind them they left Derrington talking to Train and rather enjoying himself.

"Do you think Lord Derrington knows who you are?" asked Dorothy as she and George seated themselves on a divan.

"I am not sure," replied George, who did not want to tell her what he knew, lest he should have to introduce the name of Lola Velez. "I have an idea that he does."

Dorothy shook her head. "I don't think so. If he knows you he must be aware that you know him, and about the relationship, and would not speak so freely. I think he is taken with you, George."

"Well, he has been putting me through my paces. I only hope that our chance meeting of tonight may bear fruit. What is Train doing here? Your mother only had him in her house once before, and she does not like him."

"I can't make out why she asked him," said Dorothy. "He is a dull young man, though harmless enough. But my mother made a point of asking him to dinner."

"Humph! I wonder what that's for," said Brendon, wrinkling his brows, for he knew well that Mrs. Ward did nothing without expecting an equivalent return. Then he recollected her questions about the crime and wondered if she had invited Leonard so as to pump him.

And that is what she was doing at the very moment. Almost as soon as the lovers had disappeared into the yellow boudoir Lord Derrington had taken his departure. He insisted that Vane should accompany him home, and they left together.

This was an excellent opportunity to find out what Mrs. Ward wanted to know. Taking Leonard's arm, she led him to a chair some distance from the door of the boudoir.

"Now let us have a nice long talk, dear Mr. Train," she said. "We can renew our pleasant conversation."

"I don't think it was very pleasant," said Train unwillingly.

"What an ungrateful thing to say!" "I mean to talk about crime!" "Is most amusing—I mean instructive. Oh, yes, I have read many of those novels—what do they call them?—detective novels. I have often thought how nice it would be if one could really try to find out who killed a person. Now, in this case, Mr. Train, I am sure you heard something or saw something!"

"Upon my word, I neither saw nor heard," protested Leonard. "I was in bed all the time."

"But you must have heard the fall of the body or the shutting of the door as the ah—" Mrs. Ward saw from the expression of Leonard's face that she had touched upon something. "You did hear?"

"No, no," he stammered, wondering how he was to get out of confessing about the opening of the front door without appearing rude.

"Nonsense! Confess! Confess, you silly man!"

But Leonard was too loyal. To lead her away from the point he asked a question. "Mrs. Ward, that yellow holly?"

"Yes. What about it?" She leaned forward eagerly.

"Did you give a sprig of it to any one else?"

TRYING TO FIND ADAMS MURDERERS

It was learned yesterday that the near relatives of Mark Adams, who was found murdered in St. Louis and the body thrown in Creve Coeur lake early this month, are still investigating the case in an effort to locate the parties who committed the crime.

Several arrests have been made in St. Louis, but evidently the evidence against the parties was not sufficient to warrant the officials in proceeding against them, as they were discharged after being held several days.

A sister of the dead man, said to the Telegram yesterday that everything possible would be done to locate the murderers of Mark Adams.

Facts relative to the case have been gathered in Fort Worth and forwarded to St. Louis and are now in the hands of the St. Louis officials which may be of assistance in apprehending the guilty ones.

AMUSEMENTS

"Tried for Her Life"

An adaptation from Dickens' Oliver Twist, was presented last night at Greenwall's opera house to a fair sized audience, who received the play with frequent applause.

Fagan's garret, where Oliver was first inducted into the mysteries of picking pockets was the central scene of the play, all the principal occurrences transpiring there.

Leno Hoyt and Nancy, and William F. Scheller as Fagan easily carried off the honors of the performance, shared with Bessie Brown as Oliver Twist.

The plot of the novel was followed much more closely than in the usual adaptations and presented the leading features of the work.

Specialties between the acts were unusually good, the work of Sid Hathaway, the Human Bat, who unfolded himself from a cracker box and retired to the same receptacle at the conclusion of his contortions, being especially well received.

THE DRIVER RUNS AWAY

Being Unable to Stop the Mad Flight, Physician Draws Pistol and Fires One Shot After Another, Killing the Animal.

Another News

McFADDEN'S ROW OF FLATS

Forced to choose between the life of a valuable horse and that of himself and pedestrians in North Fort Worth, Dr. C. M. Galloway, night before last killed the animal he was driving as a last means to prevent a serious runaway.

The doctor was just entering his buggy when the animal became frightened and darted off, jerking the reins so that they fell out of the buggy and beyond reach. The frightened animal dashed along Main street with its triple ax tracks, at every leap narrowly avoiding a collision or the overturning of the vehicle.

Seeing that the horse could not be stopped, Dr. Galloway reached for his revolver and fired six shots into the animal, killing it.

The animal was a beautiful black horse and of value.

CANDIDA AS A PLAY FOR CLERGYMEN

When "Candida" was away ahead of its rivals in its great run in New York last season, several newspaper was besieged the management, through the columns of their various newspapers, to give a matinee specially for clergymen. Of course they were very unwilling to take such a step, as many prominent divines attended the performance with regular theater goers, but the wags wanted to have their fling.

"There isn't a priest in New York of any denomination who could not learn a whole heap about himself in this play," one of them wrote. "If only those dear ladies of every congregation would invest some slight percentage of the money they usually spend on slips and things for their pet clergymen on a seat for him at 'Candida,' they could at least lay the flattering unction to their souls that they were engaged in the noble work of enlarging his horizon."

"Candida" will be the attraction at Greenwall's opera house Monday matinee and night, October 24.

AL. H. WILSON

The attraction at Greenwall's opera house Tuesday matinee and night, October 25, is that popular German dialect comedian, Al. H. Wilson, and he comes in the romantic play, "The Watch on the Rhine," by Sidney R. Ellis.

The title role is a young German, Mr. Strobel (Mr. Wilson), a soldier of fortune, whose poverty is no check on his effervescent spirit, nor his mishaps to ambition. This enjoyable type of German is peculiarly adaptable to Mr. Wilson's great talents, even more happily than his former success, Prince Von Reppert, in A Prince of Tatters.

The stage pictures required are exceedingly elaborate and massive, which, together with the costumes, and color properties, electrical effects and color properties, mark a memorable event in this modern day of realism. The acting company is unusually large in numbers, and as each character necessitates a careful portrayal, it is none the less great in talent.

During the action of the play Mr. Wilson sings six new and catchy songs: "My Own Sweet German Rose," "The Voice of the Storm," "Johnny in the Army" and "Naughty Naughty," which have already become immensely popular.

THEY WILL EXPORT COTTON SEED OIL TO MEXICO

Texas Brokers Believe There Is a Good Chance for a Market for the Product in That Republic Just Now

The cotton seed oil brokers in Texas are making elaborate preparations for the export of cotton seed oil into Mexico, in view of the fact that the cotton crop there will be considerably smaller than last year.

F. B. Weeks of Houston, who was recently in Fort Worth, a cotton seed oil broker, is now in the republic gathering data relative to the estimated consumption of cotton seed oil, with a view to supplying the increased demand. He is visiting some refineries and heavy consumers of the product.

Until recent years this oil formed a very indifferent consideration with the users of oil for culinary purposes, but this condition is changing rapidly and cotton seed oil is coming more into prominence in the republic. Mr. Weeks says this is demonstrated by the larger demand which cannot be supplied from Mexican grown cotton and which necessitates importations from the United States, even in the face of the heavy duty that importers must pay.

What effect the demand for cotton seed will have on the raising of cotton is problematical as yet, Mr. Weeks believes, though it is not impossible that it may assist in turning the farming element toward cotton growing as a more remunerative pursuit than truck farming. Heretofore cotton has been grown almost exclusively in Northern Mexico, with a few attempts in the central and eastern sections. Mr. Weeks says that should demand for cotton seed and its by-products attain anything like large proportion it is only reasonable that farmers will see the advisability of adding to their cotton acreage.

The uses to which cotton seed oil is put in Mexico are limited at present to refining for culinary purposes, though present indications seem to warrant the belief that much time will elapse before it will be used for everything possible, as in the United States. In this country it is converted into butter fat and oleomargarine, principally, while the grosser grades are used for soap. The grades which have been withdrawn are made into axle grease, cylinder oils and machinery oils of various classes.

Mr. Weeks says this has not been attempted in Mexico, except on a limited scale, though the raw material is not far distant when cotton seed oil will play as important a commercial part there as it does in the United States, and as a result Texas will be greatly benefited, as most of this product comes from this state.

Only two obstacles are met, say German papers, in the employment of big sailing vessels; first, it is hard to secure assurance of a sufficient cargo, and second, it is difficult to secure a crew of sufficient skill. These obstacles are important, because sailing vessels in order to be able to compete with steam must be much larger than heretofore.

FORMER CITIZEN OF FORT WORTH GETS NOTICE

A Political History of Jackson County, Missouri, Has Been Published Which Tells of E. Mont Reilly

In a "political history of Jackson county, Missouri," just issued, there is a lengthy notice of E. Mont Reilly, formerly of this city, who has a large number of friends in this city. The notice says:

"E. Mont Reilly, assistant postmaster and president of the Roosevelt Club, No. 1, was born October 21, 1866, at Sedalia, Mo., of Scotch-Irish parentage. His father, John G. Reilly, was a cousin of Governor Gamble, the first republican governor of Missouri. His mother was a Virginian. Mr. Reilly's early education was received in Calloway county, to which the family had moved. When he was fifteen the family moved to Fort Worth, Texas, where he attended the high school and Fort Worth University. Afterward he engaged in the real estate business and was quite successful. He twice received the republican nomination for clerk of Tarrant county, Texas, once at the age of twenty-one, and again at twenty-three. He was elected chairman of the city and county republican committee in June, 1901, to accept the position of chief deputy county assessor. In May, 1902, he was appointed assistant postmaster of Kansas City.

"The first Roosevelt Club in the United States was organized by Mr. Reilly in Kansas City, July 18, 1901. The club grew like a green bay tree and now numbers 3,500 members, the largest political club west of the Mississippi river. Mr. Reilly was an enthusiastic member of the Roosevelt club, and a warm friendship has sprung up between them.

"Mr. Reilly is a man of unusual ability concealed under modest and courteous manners. He is exceedingly loyal to his friends and his party. In August, 1892, at Fort Worth, Texas, he married Miss Minnie Mountfort, a sister of Wade Mountfort, associate editor of the Kansas City Star. They have one child, a girl."

LETTER TO D. T. BOMAR, Fort Worth, Texas

Dear Sir—As your business is to get people into and out of trouble, suppose you consider their paint; it makes 'em almost as much trouble as money, except of course matrimony.

They buy poor paint a good deal; they don't mean to; they don't know any better; they buy without thinking. Bad paint isn't good. It looks good enough for a year; then begins to get rusty; but changes so slowly one don't notice it.

Looking isn't all. The business of paint is to keep a house dry inside, the wood from rotting, the iron from rusting. Takes good paint to do it.

Good and bad paint are sold at one price or about that. One can't go by the price at all; as with lawyers, the price has nothing to do with goodness or badness, and costs are worse yet; the painter and sheriff come in for their share.

But the probability is that a man, who paints Devoe, will come out on top.

Yours truly,
E. W. DEVOE & CO.

Six boxes cured him completely and he has not had an ache or a pain since. We think the pills are the best medicine in the world."

RAILWAY MAIL SERVICE

The mail clerks who formerly run out of this city to Texarkana has been extended to Little Rock, Ark. This is to go into effect on November 15. This will make the run from here to that place and back one of the longest and heaviest in the division. On the same date a change will also be effective on the International and Great Northern, the present run from Texarkana to San Antonio being changed to Longview Junction. The changes are made for the betterment of the service and it is expected that such an innovation will expedite the handling of mail between those points. These changes were contemplated some time ago, but the trouble with the high waters has held the announcement back.

All railway mail clerks in the Eleventh division have been requested to forward to the office of the superintendent here their photographs for the 1904 commission. No kodak cabinet or miniature picture is desired. The picture is not to be mounted. These photographs are to be used for filing and for future reference.

Blood Troubles

Bad blood is the source of numerous aches and pains and the cause of nearly all stubborn, long-continued diseases. When the blood gets out of order, disease germs and poisons of various kinds find their way into the circulation and some serious trouble is the result. Rheumatism, Malaria, Old Sores and Ulcers, Scrofula, Anemia, and many pustular or scaly skin eruptions, like Eczema, Salt Rheum and Tetter, have their beginning in bad blood, and only a remedy that enters into the circulation and destroys the germs and poisons, can have any permanent good effect upon a disease of this character.

You can't check a blood disease by any external treatment; the sores and eruptions that appear upon the surface of the body are only manifestations or symptoms of some internal disorder that cannot be reached from the outside. S. S. S. antitoxes the poisons, humors and acids that are the real cause of disease, cleanses and enriches the blood, and builds up at the same time the general health. S. S. S. invigorates all the organs and parts of the system to greater activity, and strong nerves and renewed health is the result. If you have any blood trouble, write us. No charge for medical advice.

WORK ON INTERURBAN IS BEING PUSHED

TEMPLE, Texas, Oct. 21.—With the arrival and distribution of eight cars of steel rails yesterday for the interurban trolley line was completed the quantity of iron necessary to lay the tracks inside the city. The copper conductor wire is being rapidly strung in the city by the workmen, who are making good progress with the work. Owing to the desertion of its laborers to the cotton patches a month ago the construction of the line has been delayed and set back about that length of time, but large gangs of men are now being employed and the work is commencing to take on proportions.

WAR TERMS AND ARMY MOVEMENTS MADE CLEAR

To the uninitiated some of the phrases used in describing the fighting in the Far East are puzzling. Everyone has a notion that advance guard actions, rear guard actions, general engagements, flanking movements, outpost actions, etc., mean something, but just what is not clear except to those who have made war a study.

A body of troops, large or small, on the march, is protected by advance guards, rear guards and flank guards.

The duties of an advance guard are: To cover the movements of the column and prevent surprise; to secure information; to protect the main body by giving it time to form and take position for defense before the enemy approaches; to clear the way and prevent delay to the main body; to seize and hold important points until the main body comes up, or hold an advancing enemy until the main body can deploy; to support deploying cavalry and provide a rallying point for it if driven back by the enemy.

The advance guard is divided into two nearly equal parts; the van guard, which is the reconnoitering part, and the reserve, which represents its fighting unit. The van guard is divided into advance party and support. The advance party furnishes a point, flankers and connecting files.

Advance guard, showing how the troops march in an enemy's country, or when an enemy is supposed to be in the vicinity. The rear guard is simply reversed. In this illustration the strength noted designates that the advance guard comprises one battalion.

Should the advance guard consist of a battalion of four companies, the first two companies, or about two hundred from the van guard and the third and fourth companies the reserve. The first platoon, about fifty men of the first company, constitutes the advance party, while the support comprises the second platoon and the second company. The distances would be as follows:

- From the point to the advance party 150 yards.
- From the advance party to the support 200 yards.
- From the support to the reserve, 400 yards.
- From the reserve to the main body, 800 yards.

The strength and composition (infantry, cavalry and artillery) of the advance guard depends upon: first, the size of the main body; second, the object of the advance; third, the nature of the country, roads and weather; fourth, distance, composition and fighting character of the enemy.

Advance guard actions consist of clashes between these bodies and a body of the enemy, either rear guard or reconnoitering parties. If the distance between the advance guard and main body is too great the former may be cut off; if it is not great enough, the commander of the main body would not have time to form his troops for battle, so that the distance is a matter of circumstances and discretion.

Rear guards are of two kinds—first, to a force advancing against an enemy; second, to a force retreating before an enemy.

In the first case the duties are chiefly guarding wagon trains, and the rear of a column from attack and to measure of police against stragglers and marauders.

In the second case the rear guard has to delay the advance of the enemy so the main body may retreat without check or interruption. It is the most disagreeable work that can befall the lot of a soldier. The force opposed to a rear guard on the retreat is either the enemy's advance guard or a special detail hurried forward to harry the retreating force.

The formation of a rear guard is that of an advance guard reversed. For example: A company of 100 men would be divided into the reserve—one platoon—500 yards in the rear of the main body, followed by the support—one section—at 200 yards; the rear party follows about 500 yards in the rear of the support, and the point about 100 yards in the rear of the rear party. Flankers are thrown out as in the case of an advance guard, but are more numerous, as the danger of a flank attack is greater.

A retrograde movement is nothing more or less than a march in the rear of the rear guard. The acting advance guard is not necessarily very strong, its duties consisting of repairing bridges, roads, etc., and removing obstacles.

Rear guard actions usually are long drawn out, involving much shooting and but little damage. The efforts of the rear guard commander are bent to delay his retreat until the late minutes, then fall back hurriedly on a good defensive position which he again tries to hold as long as possible, giving his main body every chance in retreat.

Outposts are as important to a force in camp or at a halt as are advance and rear guards to a marching column. The men on outpost duty do not wait for the enemy's advance and then try to stop him; they search for and when they discover the enemy, ascertain what he is doing and how he means to do it. They never lose touch with the enemy once he is discovered.

One way of guarding a camp. Outposts, with supports and reserves, are established, and from each post sentries are sent out.

These constant efforts harass the enemy. Cavalry alone is of use for this work when any considerable distance is to be covered. In general, the outposts are relied on to gather information, prevent surprises, secure rest for the main body when encamped, prevent reconnoitering by the enemy and check an advance long enough to permit the main body to prepare for action.

It is these last two features of outpost duty that brings this phase of the fighting into the paper so frequently, as the clashes between outposts and advance parties or reconnoitering parties are numerous. An outpost often consists of all three arms, infantry, cavalry and artillery, and for this reason some of the engagements are of a severe character.

Reconnoissance in force is an openly offensive movement by a large body composed of all three arms of the service, and is usually followed by a general action. The invasion of Cuba by General Shafter's force was called a reconnoissance in force.

This explains clearly the meaning of "flank attack." The straight line represents an army's front, or firing line, the curved line a flanking column advancing on the right flank.

When one reads of a flank attack he understands that a body of troops were attacked on the side. If the flank attack be a surprise, the moral effect is great and a small force may easily drive a much larger one into confusion.

An attack along the enemy's front, or as it is called, a frontal attack, generally results in a great loss of life to the attacking force. By a combination of frontal and flank attacks, however, the chance of loss is lessened and of victory increased. A flank attack is generally made while a heavy fire is directed at the enemy's front and an effort made to keep his attention toward the front, that he may not send a sufficient force to intercept the flanking force. The method of meeting a flank attack is to change a sufficient number of men to cause position, facing the direction from which the flankers are appearing, and the attack becomes in reality a local frontal attack.

A turning movement, whereby a right or left flank is turned, is made by detaching a force to make a detour and fall on the enemy's flank. To be successful, this must be done out of sight and beyond range. Otherwise the opposing commander can dispose his men to meet the movement, and by taking the turning force in flank, turn the tables on the would-be flankers.

One method of making a flank attack is for a commander to extend his lines beyond those of his opponent, and then, with cavalry or infantry, wheel in toward the enemy's side. The method is dangerous where the attacking force does not exceed the enemy, for in order to overlap with one flank the other must be exposed to a like attack from the enemy.

An attack which pierces the enemy's front is generally the most decisive, for it usually results in cutting off a portion of the hostile army from its line of retreat. At Austerlitz, Napoleon having pierced the center of the allies, cut off their left consisting of about 30,000, which he threw back upon marshy lands, where most of those who were not captured were drowned.

Generally an attempt to pierce the front or center is hopeless, unless the enemy has invited it by undue extension of his lines for the purpose of overlapping both flanks of an assailant, for the attacking force would be exposed to a general artillery and infantry fire before the enemy's lines were reached.

To keep the armies supplied with necessities, including food and ammunition, pack trains, carriers and wagon trains are used. When railways and steamboat lines are not available. To protect these supply trains, adequate forces of cavalry and infantry are necessary. The formation of a wagon train and its escort on the march is very much like that of an army, the advance guard, flank guards and rear guards marching in their regular places, the main body remaining at the weakest place in the train, generally about the middle.

The following are some definitions of terms often used in war dispatches:

Deploy—To spread out. An army marching in columns, deploys into line of battle, one section marching straight ahead and the others branching obliquely to the right and left, presenting a broad front to the enemy.

The squad is used here to explain the meaning of "deploy." The same principle holds in developing larger bodies. The compact body represents a squad or column of troops while marching. The extended line shows the relative difference after deploying.

Flank movement—A movement directed against the side, or flank of a column.

Turned the right (left)—Used when a column forces, or turns back the right or left wing of an opponent's army by flank attack.

Movement in force—A reconnoissance in force. Used to express the difference between the movement of a small scouting party and a large body of troops directed against an objective. Generally a movement of all three arms; to develop an enemy's strength.

Narrowed his front—Shortening a line of battle; concentrating a large number on one point.

Stretched their lines—An effort to increase the front, for the purpose of flanking the enemy or to prevent being flanked.

One of the most effective methods of guarding a camp is to circle it with a cordon of sentinels, backed up by supports and reserves, entirely around the camp.

Left wing, right wing—The army is divided into three divisions: Center, left and right wings. The portion on the right of the center is the right wing and that on the left, the left wing.

Searched the position—This expression signifies that a commander, by means of shell fire, with artillery, tries to develop the enemy in a position he is suspected or known to hold.

Cut his communications—Every commander tries to keep in communication with his base of supply, either by telegraph, field telephone, courier or wagon train. To cut his line of communication often forces defeat, as it prevents supplies reaching the firing line. Cavalry, supported by infantry is used to accomplish this feat.

North or south of base—Commanders establish a base of operations or supply, fortified or unfortified. Commands of various strength are sent out from this base, upon which they can fall back if they find the enemy too strong.

PULLMAN PORTER IS UNDER ARREST AT EL PASO

Federal Officers Take Him on a Charge of Smuggling and Say They Are After Others for the Same Thing

EL PASO, Texas, Oct. 21.—S. Simmons, a negro Pullman porter running into this city on the Mexican central from Mexico City, is in the custody of the customs officers, and they expect to soon have others on the same charge, that of smuggling.

Simmons was arrested at the Sheldon hotel by George Smith, chief inspector of the customs service at this point. At the time of his arrest, Simmons had a large piece of Mexican drawn work on his person. Simmons acknowledged that he brought the stuff over from Mexico on the train, and said it was in one of the lockers of the car when the inspectors went through the train.

The officers have believed for some time past that these porters were smuggling stuff into El Paso, and they hope, through the arrest of Simmons, to effect the arrest of several others, as they hint that he has already given a tip.

Paul D. McQuiston has petitioned the Mexican government for the exclusive right to manufacture an article in pulverized form that, when mixed with cold water only, possesses not only all the advantages of an oil plant, but is even superior to oil colors in the tropical climate. The dry colors are to be manufactured in all desirable shades.

In the Hereford class: Lee Brothers of San Angelo, 2 cars; W. S. Beard of Hereford, 2 cars; Thomas Hogan, Nocona, 1 car, making a total of about 125 head.

In the range class below the quarantine: R. J. Kleberg of Corpus Christi, 2 cars; J. F. Scott of Coleman, 6 cars.

In the class above the quarantine line will be the following: Lovelady & Stokes of Colorado City, 3 cars; 3 cars in each class.

In the fat class: Marlon Sansom, 1 car of 2-year-old steers; N. N. Hoxie of Taylor, 1 car of 2-year-old steers.

There will also be two or three cars of Angus cattle from near Coleman, beside fine specimens of cattle from the ranches of the Slaughters, Swenson Brothers, the J. I. and the Capital Syndicate Company.

J. F. Johnson is a prominent ranch man of Mobeetie, and has the following to say concerning conditions in that section: "When I located in Wheeler county the whole country was open and a few big cattle syndicates owned all the cattle and occupied all the grazing districts of that country. But now the ranches are composed of a few sections of land, and besides raising good cattle we are raising a great deal of feed and some grain. And this year for the first time, we started to raising cotton, and the crop was a fairly good one. Cotton is one of the best legal tenders for gold that the Texas land owner can get hold of, and it pays to raise it. We can raise almost anything in Texas. Recently we have begun to raise alfalfa, and it is a great success there. This year a neighbor of mine by the name of P. P. Reed thrashed 100 bushels of seed from his alfalfa field, which is selling at $3 per ton. And besides this, he has all the hay he needs from the same field. But we are pretty heavily stocked in that part of the county, and a good many cattle are likely to be shipped from there during the next six weeks. The washout of the Canadian river bridge will delay the shipments for a few weeks, but the cattle are certain to come. The crops of all kinds of rough feed this season were good, and we are well supplied along that line."

A report from Clarendon says: Ranchmen report the loco weed unusually plentiful now. This has been a very wet fall season and as a result the deadly loco is springing up as if by magic. Grass is still good, but cattle and especially horses are leaving the grass for the weed. Some stockmen have taken their horses off the pastures where infected and put them on feed. In order to save them from the effects of the weed.

"South Dakota is getting out of cow stuff," said Carson Williams of Pierre. "The reason is the poor calf crop we have had lately. When we work off the aged steers now on the range there will be a demand for southern stuff, but we are going to buy them at a price just above where we would be open to indictment for stealing."

Louis Lee, one of the best known diamond brokers, estimates the output of the De Beers mines annually at $4,500,000. Add to this the cost of labor, the profits of the syndicates, etc., and he thinks that the annual output of diamonds is worth about $35,000,000.

DALLAS, Texas, Oct. 21.—The populist state executive committee will meet in Dallas tomorrow for the purpose of making final arrangements for the election on November 8.

There are several counties where no populist tickets are being printed and the committee will probably take some action in the premises.

AN EXHIBITION OF A FIRE EXTINGUISHER

The fire exhibition that took place last night west of the union depot in this city was a complete success in every way. At the appointed hour, 8 o'clock, the place was surrounded by a large crowd, including many business men. After throwing in a gallon of coal oil and making a raging fire, with the flames soaring high in the air, it was extinguished by Waddell in about three seconds with less than one tube of the Blaz Killers. Messrs. Marsh and Waddell have placed several large orders with many of the leading business men who wish to keep abreast of the times.

RAILROAD NEWS

There Is a Movement on Foot to Erect a Fine Brick Hospital in Temple for Use by the Santa Fe Railway

PRESENT ONE IS OLD

Sanitarium Now in Use Was Constructed Twenty Years Ago and Has Done Good Service, But Is to Give Way to More Modern Institution

TEMPLE, Texas, Oct. 21.—It has been ascertained from a reliable source that the prospects are good for Temple securing one of the finest railroad hospital buildings in the south ere long.

The Santa Fe Employees' Hospital Association maintain the general hospital of the line here and have done so for twenty years. The present building is an expensive one, but is a frame work nearly twenty years old. It was built at a time when the great strides of recent years in sanitarium construction had not been made and consequently may be termed an old style. At the death of J. C. Murphy, which occurred here about a month ago, his fellow trustees came here and made an inspection of the property, at which time enlargements and improvements were planned which as they were discussed finally resolved themselves into the proposition to erect a fine brick building, three stories in height, so planned that wings can be added from time to time as needed without interfering with the beauty of the design.

The finances of the association are in excellent shape and will permit of the construction of such a building without causing a strain. It is planned to have a model institution, perfect in every appointment and built according to the latest requirements of hospital care. The old frame building will be utilized for other purposes, the intention being to divide it into several parts and convert it into a home for the Sisters of Charity for one thing and with other sections making quarters for negro and Mexican patients.

So far as known no selection has as yet been made of a trustee to fill the vacancy created by the death of Mr. Murphy.

GOULDS NOT IN CONTROL

Reports reach here denying that the Gould interests have gained control of the Santa Fe Central, the new line to be constructed into El Paso. However, it is admitted that the Goulds will likely effect a traffic arrangement with the Santa Fe Central when it is built to El Paso, and thus give the Goulds an outlet from Denver through El Paso.

This new line is to be constructed for the purpose of getting to market the products of the country between Santa Fe and El Paso, especially the coal which exists in great abundance and is greatly needed by the railroads of Mexico, which are anxious to see the new road built, as it means much to them in facilitating the matter of securing fuel coal.

THE ANNUAL REPORT

The annual report of the Fort Worth Belt Line was forwarded to Austin from this city last night and that road will be before long one of those prosecuted by the railroad commission for failure to file annual reports.

This road was one of several that had failed to so file the report, and it was learned yesterday that the auditor had been instructed to prepare an order for suits to be instituted against such roads.

Information was given the commission that the local report would reach Austin today and it was not included. Suits will be ordered against the Texas and Beason, Spur Lake and Western Companies.

The report of another road, the Warren, Corsicana and Pacific, is also reported as still out, but as proceedings for forfeiture are to be begun, no action will be taken regarding the report.

FAIR ADVERTISING

With the approach of the close of the World's Fair season ticket agents here are beginning to look askance at the tons of pamphlets, circulars and advertising matter which remain upon their hands and which will be consigned to the consuming flames when the last fair day ends.

One ticket agent, whose road carried a great number of World's Fair visitors from here, has his office practically stacked to the ceiling with such literature, the counters being literally covered with the multi-colored pamphlets. "Look at all that stuff that will never be read," he complains, "there has been a world of money spent on fruitless advertising of this sort for the fair."

"These pamphlets, with their color work and half-tones, can not be had for a song, and though they are surely convincing, they are a nuisance to a single possible traveler or two at the most. Now, if the same amount had been devoted to newspaper advertising each one would have secured a hundred readers for one and the results would have been astounding. Not that I believe in advertising from this state could have been increased to any great extent, but the same amount of traffic could have been secured at a much less expenditure. As it is we still literally burn up dollars this winter when midnight sounds at the fair."

NORTH TEXAS

Commercial Agent Dillon of the Santa Fe returned this morning from a trip through North Texas, where he reports conditions most satisfactory and every one of our better cotton crop. Some difficulty is still being experienced in obtaining sufficient pickers, but with the holding off of frosts a record breaking crop will be marketed.

KATY FAIR EXCURSION

A specially conducted excursion to the World's Fair October 29 has been announced by the Katy, for which unusually low rates have been secured, a special board rate of 60 cents a day for Katy Club members being announced. Katy Club members being announced. Katy representatives, who are thoroughly familiar with the fair, its attractions and the holding off of frosts a record breaking crop will be marketed.

NOTES

M. B. Irwin, traveling manager of the St. Joseph stock yards, is in the city today, October 29, arriving at St. Louis at 7:30 a. m., October 30.

W. M. Brewer, manager of the strike of the Katy operators, reached here last night from Denison and declares the men are still firm in their determination to hold out.

L. C. Hill, horticulturist of the Santa Fe, has moved his headquarters to Galveston.

Traveling Passenger Agent Morgan of the Cotton Belt was in the city yesterday afternoon.

General Freight and Passenger Agent Lohane of the Cotton Belt is in the city. Superintendent Miller of the Katy dining service was in the city yesterday.

W. W. Stokes, attorney for the Prisco at Vernon, is here today.

WEATHER FORECAST

Just about the time the good citizens of Fort Worth had spluttered around and worked the stove men overtime, expecting them to set up their stoves on a moment's notice and had grown some fears that they would freeze to death, if the matter wasn't attended to at once, they are now confronted with warmer weather. Today has been just like one of those balmy days when there is just enough spice in the air to make one feel good. The sky has been as clear as a sky could be and those who started out this morning with wraps and overcoats left them at the offices and places of business. No need of them the rest of the day.

For tonight and tomorrow the man way up on top of the federal building has announced that it will be warmer and clear.

FORECAST
The forecast for Texas east of the one hundredth meridian, issued at New Orleans, is as follows:
East Texas—Tonight and Saturday, fair, warmer tonight, except in northwest portion.

WEATHER CONDITIONS
D. S. Landis issued the following statement of weather conditions this morning:
Cyclonic conditions prevail in the upper Mississippi valley and over the lake regions, and east to the Atlantic seaboard.
High pressure and cool clear conditions prevail west of the Rocky mountains.

The country is generally clear except in the northwest quarter.
Forecast of light nature occurred in the Arkansas valley, in Tennessee and in Illinois. It was raining this morning at St. Paul and St. Louis.
Texas is clear, cool and without rain.
The cotton belt is clear and no rain is reported.

UVALDE BURNS HAS ARGUED MURDER CASE

Uvalde Burns, an attorney of El Paso, is here today on his way home from being an important case before the criminal court of appeals at Tyler. Mr. Burns is defending a German named Henry Heirholzer, who May 15 last shot and instantly killed his friend, John Herr.

The killing occurred during the process of a ball given by the Sons of Hermann at El Paso.

Heirholzer was arrested for the crime, tried in the district court at El Paso, found guilty and his punishment assessed at death. The case was appealed to the criminal court and Lawyer Burns hopes to secure a reversal.

Mr. Burns said today that the case was one of the most peculiar that he had ever had anything to do with, in that the men were dear, close friends, and that the homicide took place while Heirholzer was under the influence of liquor, and that he did not know he had killed his friend until the following morning, when placed under arrest and told by the officers that he had shot and murdered Herr.

Mr. Burns believes that his client was temporarily insane at the time of the killing and did not realize what he was doing.

He hopes to secure a reversal on the ground that the trial judge failed to charge the jury as to temporary insanity superinduced by drink.

Mr. Burns is a brother of Hon. Waller Burns of Houston, Federal judge of the Southern district of Texas.

A COINCIDENCE

AUSTIN, Texas, Oct. 21.—In sending out coupon No. 2 of $100,000 for the maintenance of the public schools of the state for the past month, something of a coincidence was observed. Trinity county forms district No. 411, and the amount of exactly $111 was apportioned to the district by the state board of education.

Miss Rose Hennessy, well known as a poetess and elocutionist, of Lexington, Ky., tells how she was cured of uterine inflammation and ovaritis by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I have been so blessedly helped through the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that I feel it but just to acknowledge it, hoping that it may help some other woman suffering as I did. For years I enjoyed the best of health and thought that I would always do so. I attended parties and receptions thinly clad, and would be suddenly chilled, but I did not think of the results. I caught a bad cold eighteen months ago while menstruating, and this caused inflammation of the womb and congested ovaries. I suffered excruciating pains and kept getting worse. My attention was called to your Vegetable Compound and the wonderful cures it had performed, and I made up my mind to try it for two months and see what it would do for me. Within one month I felt much better, and at the close of the second I was entirely well."

"I have advised a number of my lady friends to use it, and all express themselves as well satisfied with the results as I was."—Miss ROSE NORA HENNESSY, 410 S. Broadway, Lexington, Ky.

The experience and testimony of some of the most noted women of America go to prove beyond a question that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will correct all such trouble and at once, by removing the cause, and restoring the organs to a normal and healthy condition.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—About two years ago I consulted a physician about my health which had become so wretched that I was no longer able to be about. I had severe backache, bearing-down pains, pains across the abdomen, was very nervous and irritable, and this trouble grew worse each month. The physician prescribed for me, but I soon discovered that he was unable to help me, and I then decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and soon found that it was doing me good. My appetite was returning, the pains disappearing, and the general benefits were well marked.

"You cannot realize how pleased I was, and after taking the medicine for only three months, I found that I was completely cured of my trouble, and have been well and hearty ever since, and no more fear the monthly period, as it now passes without pain to me. Yours very truly, MESSY PEARL ACKERS, 327 North Summer St., Nashville, Tenn."

When a medicine has been successful in restoring to health more than a million women, you cannot well say without trying it "I do not believe it will help me." If you are ill, do not hesitate to get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and write Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., for special advice. Her advice is free and helpful. Write to-day. Delay may be fatal.

$5000 FORFEIT if we cannot forthwith produce the original letters and signatures of above testimonials, which will prove their absolute genuineness.
Lydia E. Pinkham Med. Co., Lynn, Mass.

Is the usual favorable comment on the superb laundry work turned out at the Fort Worth Steam Laundry. The best of linen and other materials are easily ruined by careless and inferior laundering. WACO, Texas, Oct. 20.—The pastor's conference that is always held just prior to the Baptist general convention of Texas is a very interesting occasion and is well attended by the Baptist ministers of that denomination.

SUPREME CONFIDENCE MARKS YALE TRAINING

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 21.—There is a general glow among the football squad. They are not getting enough work, they think. Just like so many lions who are being stunted with rations, so to speak.

CONDITIONS AT CORNELL

ITHACA, N. Y., Oct. 21.—The Cornell football team has had its first real tryout in actual contest. The game with the heavy Bucknell eleven served this purpose, and gives the first indication of what the strength of the Ithacans will be when they meet Princeton on October 29 for their first big contest of the year.

ROCKWELL IS A LITTLE OFF

Rockwell is a little off. He is not strong constitutionally and worries his friends, at least for his health. The coaches are nursing him and figure on him for one half with Harvard. He is allowed a half-hour of practice daily.

HARD PRACTICE HAS MADE A FAILURE OF RIGHT ARM

Hard practice has made a failure of right arm and unless he shows a decided sprucing up, will be thrown overboard. Still, he is as good as others who have a clean patent to inability.

ANY ONE WHO BUYS

A Beckwith Round Oak Heater gets the original Round Oak, and the one that all other stove makers imitate. The price is no higher than other dealers ask for the just as good kind; so why not get the genuine and let the other fellow experiment with the imitation? It will be dollars saved in the long run, and satisfaction from the start.

Colds Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. How often you hear it remarked: "It's only a cold," and a few days later learn that the man is on his back with pneumonia. This is of such common occurrence that a cold, however slight, should not be disregarded.

THE ENDS are causing a little concern—not much, but still enough to worry Hogan, who couldn't exist without worry. Get at left end coming along famously. He is fast and full of ginger. Although light, he tackles in good shape and at present looks like a line man.

With these defects that the veteran coach points out and the accomplishments that he acknowledges, Cornell defeated Bucknell, 24 to 12. But the fact that their goal line was crossed twice shows there is much to be done if they are to win its big games.

After an absence of more than two weeks, Costello, the big guard of last year's eleven, is again in his togs, and will be able to take part in the work of the team in a few days. His entry into the eleven will work more than any change in its make-up, for he will likely go into the right tackle berth, displacing Halliday, who will become fullback. This will strengthen immensely the back field.

No new material has been discovered for guard and the problem set to Warner is to be to drill the four or five 180-pound candidates, teach them the tricks of their positions and take his chances. The outlook for good end men is more promising. Backstaff and Perry of the varsity are approaching something like their real form, while Van Orman and Oederkerk are also improving, although all four of the candidates are far below varsity standard.

Cornell's major opponents on the gridiron are Princeton, Columbia and Pennsylvania and she plays them this year in the order named. In their last games Princeton and Columbia were defeated and Pennsylvania barely escaped defeat—all of them at the hands of minor teams. This does not make the Ithacans any more confident of victory over their opponents. They realize that a mid-season defeat awakens a team to harder work.

J. D. Smith, ex-commander of the New York Yacht Club and a millionaire resident of the eastern metropolis, died of a remarkable cure of what was believed to be fatal illness. Early last spring Mr. Smith, who is 75 years old, was taken ill with a complication of gout and Bright's disease. By the month of June he had lost flesh until he was a mere skeleton. Then he insisted on being taken on board his yacht, on the deck of which he had a special hammock rigged. In this he lay all summer, day and night.

PERSONAL NOTED CLAIRVOYANT HERE DR. PHILIP BRENTANO OF BERLIN, GERMANY, VISITS FORT WORTH. HIS WONDERFUL POWER BRINGS COMFORT AND HAPPINESS TO MANY—DUMFRIES THOSE WHO CALL ON HIM.

THE EXPONDER OF CLAIRVOYANCE, PSYCHIC INFLUENCES AND OCCULTISM REMAINS BUT A SHORT TIME IN FORT WORTH—13 AM THE SPEER FLATS.

He insists on telling the truth to all callers, not comforting some with hollowed sophistry and others by glittering tales of fortunes in store for them. But to each and all he carries the conviction of honesty and straight-forwardness not often found in this fickle world, likewise his ability to perform all he promises to perform. Indeed, he takes no money from any individual expressing the slightest dissatisfaction, and there lies his strength. It is earnestly his purpose to fly from every shadow of humbuggery and not to deceive any of those who have placed confidence in his word.

Those who come to scoff may not remain to pray, but they go away with a puzzled look on their faces, wondering mightily. Perhaps you laugh at first, when you see the rather peculiar methods used by the professor in telling a fortune, but when he commences to talk and piles up fact after fact, which you know to be true, even to the smallest detail, your laugh dies away, and you gaze in amazement at the hidden way among the deepest of his affairs as though he were some unmanly being fresh from another world. You sit chained to the chair with fascination while your past and future are "laid bare" before you. After answering the final question you are perplexed and abstractedly draw forth your purse, throwing an inquiring glance at Mr. Brentano. He smiles and asks you if you are satisfied, saying he never accepts payment until assured that a person is perfectly satisfied and that he believes he has received a fair return for his money.

If you are interested in the outcome of your affairs and desire advice on perplexing questions, you should not fail to improve this opportunity. If you are discouraged, unhappy, if everything seems to go wrong and you are unable to change the course of your affairs, you should see Brentano. There are occult forces, stronger than will, ability and endeavor, that frequently cause the success of one and failure of others. Some call it luck. It may be lucky to have these forces with you, but not just an accident. "Luck," like every other effect, has a cause. Mr. Brentano has made a life's study of the forces and influences that rule the destiny of men and women. Magnetism, mental suggestion, the power to control by will of mind, to sway that "luck" in every one. It's a power all possess, but few know how to use. Mr. Brentano develops success and happiness in love, marriage, divorce, all sorts of troubles, business, salary paid weekly and expenses speculation, in fact, in a matter of human interest. It is not alone what he can tell you, it is what he can do for you, that makes a visit to him worth while.

Were it not for the fact that secrecy must be exercised in his profession, he could refer the skeptical to numerous well known citizens who have profited by his advice, and who have been made contented and happy by his readings of their past and future.

Like suggestion, now materially aiding the medical world in healing the sick, so does the legitimate art of trance clairvoyance assist all those in quest of knowledge. The truth of Professor Brentano's assertions has been established beyond a reasonable doubt and he stands ready to leave the merit of his readings to a committee of unbiased, responsible persons. As he reveals to you thoughts hidden away among the deepest recesses of your heart, you sit spellbound, unable to grasp the situation until calm moments possess you, when in awe and astonishment you exclaim: "How is it possible?" Unlike impostors and pretenders, Professor Brentano takes no money in advance and positively refuses to accept any fee if you are not entirely satisfied. All business strictly confidential.

Mr. Brentano's fees are within the reach of most people, a consultation fee of two dollars being charged. He may be seen daily from 10 to 12 and from 2 to 6 o'clock, with exception of Sunday, when the morning hours only prevail. His strictly private office is at the Speer Flats, corner of Fifth and Throckmorton streets, with entrance on Throckmorton.

A COMMITTEE HAS PERSONAL INJURY HEALTH LAW IN HAND LITIGATION IS IN BAD ODOR

Ordinance Prepared by City Attorney Orrick and Recommended by City Physician Chambers

The health committee of the city council met at 3 o'clock this afternoon to consider the meat ordinance drawn up by City Attorney Orrick and as recommended by City Health Officer Dr. R. Chambers. The committee will undoubtedly recommend the ordinance to the council for its passage, but it has been decided by those interested in the matter to hold off the ordinance until two weeks hence.

It has been proposed to the city health committee of the council had favorably passed on the measure that the ordinance then be published and the general public be given an opportunity to make any suggestions that they see fit toward the securing of an ordinance which will be most efficient in the matter of protecting the general public from eating bad or diseased meats unknown to them, and for which they paid the price that good meat would have cost.

The committee at the meeting this afternoon is also considering other matters of vital interest to the public health. It has been suggested that stringent measures are necessary to be taken in many things that affect the general health and this is to be done.

METER QUESTION WILL BE SETTLED

Will Be the Principal Business Before the City Council at Regular Meeting Tonight

Unless some one springs a surprise tonight's session of the city council will be an unusually quiet and peaceful meeting. The return of City Engineer Hawley, upon whose decision probably hangs the meter question, will undoubtedly bring that question up again, a choice between the two offered having been postponed to await his return, and interpretation of the report regarding them.

Section 4 of the Rosen additional franchises recently asked from the council, regarding the occupation of Front street, will not come up tonight. It is learned the street committee has decided unfavorably to the Rosen Heights Company, but that the report will not be filed at this session.

The meat ordinance will likely come up if it can be completed in time, and there seems but little doubt of its ultimate passage.

No special petitions have yet been filed with the city secretary for presentation to the body tonight.

Representatives of both meter companies are still in the city and a considerable portion of the time will doubtless be devoted to a settlement of this question, which engendered quite a warm argument at the last meeting.

WILL COMBINE WESTERN LINES

J. G. Watkins returned to this city yesterday afternoon from Brownwood, and reports that a consolidation will be effected of the Brownwood, Goldthwaite, Coleman and Ballinger independent telephone company into a single company, which engendered quite a warm argument at the last meeting.

When Mr. Watkins left Brownwood the arrangements had not been completed, but they had progressed sufficiently to assure the consolidation. With the consolidation, a central energy station will be established at Brownwood and new style phones will be installed throughout the lines.

The local independent telephone company is not connected with the new company in any way, though it is learned steps are being taken to secure exchange privileges for long distance service.

TWENTY MILLION IS ESTIMATED AS AN INCREASE

Tax Rolls Now in the Hands of the Comptroller Give an Idea of the Taxable Wealth of the State

AUSTIN, Texas, Oct. 21.—The complete tax rolls of all the 244 counties of Texas have been received by the comptroller for the year 1904, except Callahan, Cass, Ector and Starr.

No exact estimate of the increase in the taxable values of the state over 1903 has been made, or can be until the rolls of the three counties named are in. They are not, however, among the wealthy counties, and hence can make no great difference in the aggregate of the state's wealth.

The total taxable values last year were $1,064,948,037. Those in position to form an intelligent estimate of the increase say it will be close to $20,000,000. If this estimate is correct the total amount of the state's values for the year 1904 will be $1,084,948,037.
