DR. M'ADAM MAKES A TALK AT THE LIBRARY

At the public library this morning Dr. George MacAdam, president of the Fort Worth University, made an address to a large audience on how to make the home beautiful. In part he said: "We can not, perhaps, a single one of us, understand how it was that when a Scotch lad heard his grand old grandmother he asked, 'Will faythair be that?' and when told, 'Of course,' replied, 'I dinna want to go there,' and yet there are homes where this sentiment must certainly be created.

Home should be the most beautiful of all earth's spots, for here are the great forces which make beautiful lives. Religion, citizenship, government, education, fortune and happiness begin in the home. You will never be able to overcome entirely the tendency it will give to your lives. If you could run 100 miles an hour and should run for the next 100 years, you could not run so far but that its influence would be with you when you stopped to take breath.

Who can be asked to help in making the home beautiful? Why, the children, of course. First, a child should remember that it has an obligation to the home. Our parents are most anxious to let us know that everything which a home has belongs to the children. This is right. I have no patience with a home which is left entirely at the disposal of its inmates. Now I hope that we thoroughly realize that to make it beautiful is an obligation upon every child in a home. And then comes the inquiry as to how you may do this.

By being beautiful ourselves in character. This may not seem to you to be relevant to the theme. If home is only the building and the furniture then might not be. But home is more than that. It is an atmosphere—not only a place, but also a state or condition. So that entering as a factor into the beauty of the home is the kind of people who live there, and the nicer the people and the higher the character, the more beautiful the home.

Now the highest development of character is a disposition of love, kindness and sympathy. Without these any home is ugly. With them any place is beautiful. They transform barren walls as hanging up damask can not. So often we save our smiles for society, and our complaints and grumblings for home. We have careful thought for the stranger. And smiles for the sometimes guest. But off for our own the bitter tone of discontent. Put it in the best of us. Though we love our own the best of us. A young man had just secured a seat on the Chicago Board of Trade. An acquaintance asked another: "Is he a bull or a bear?" "Don't know what he is on the Board of Trade, but I was at his home the other day, and heard him address his mother, and positively affirm that she was a bear at home."

At the great exposition in Omaha it was the custom for the people to register or sign their names in the different state buildings. People who registered were asked to give their occupations, so that they could be read like this: "John Smith, farmer; Thomas Brown, carpenter," and so on. A little golden haired girl asked that she might register. She was told to write her name and occupation, and she wrote: "Mary Jones; I help mamma."

The trouble begins with that demoralizing little phrase, "It's only John, or mother, or Mary; no need to thank them." And so it's good-bye to the little courtesies which make home beautiful. There should not be necessary for the "Please," "Good morning," "Good evening," "Excuse me," and "Thank you," may have a beautifully terraced lawn, and its external conforming to the strictest artistic standard, and be devoid of home beauty.

mother, or Mary; no need to thank them." And so it's good-bye to the little courtesies which make home beautiful. There should not be necessary for the "Please," "Good morning," "Good evening," "Excuse me," and "Thank you," may have a beautifully terraced lawn, and its external conforming to the strictest artistic standard, and be devoid of home beauty.

2. By being cleanly and neat in person. The most beautiful object in a home is a child if it is well kept and neat. Otherwise it detracts from every other attempt to make a home beautiful.

There comes a time when the nurse and mother should not be necessary for a child's neatness. In the care of the person—face, hands, nails, hair and clothing. There comes a time when a mother should not have the care of one's room, and one's possessions. The football has its place, but it is not in the reception hall or the parlor, nor the kitchen. Boxing gloves belong somewhere, but it's not on the piano. There's the place for the overcoat, but its not on the divan. A curling iron has its legitimate place, but it's not in the card receiver we ought to find it. If everybody in the home takes the privileges of some boys, it would resemble a second-hand store or a rummage sale. A mother who earns $25 a day with her pen was compelled to follow her son through the house, putting in place an endless string of towels, socks, coat, hat, slippers, books and papers—fung everywhere it pleased him. She said one day, "I am going to stop this. You must do your share toward keeping your home orderly. Beside, it costs between $2 and $3 a day to pick up after you, and more than this, you are cultivating a habit which will prove your ruin in business life."

Why should not a boy as well as a girl learn to care for his own room? If you go to a military school it will be required of you. A CHILD'S WORK 3. A child may make a home beautiful by caring for it. I know a home which could afford a masterpiece on the walls, a piece of statuary in the hall, a good library, a conservatory for flowers, but it takes so much to replace and repair the property ruined and damaged by a large family of children that there is nothing left for ornamentation.

There is no necessity for a boy or girl being a vandal. A boy ought to use a jack knife, but he ought not to use it to cut the furniture and carve his immature attempts at art on the buildings. A boy from Texas went to South Carolina to visit grandpa and grandma. The home was a magnificent old southern mansion, a beautiful feature of which was a broad, majestic stairway, with a rail of old walnut of exceptional weight and beauty. One morning the old gentleman noticed a dull scratch running down the center of its polished surface from the top to the bottom. Earnest inquiry was made for the vandal. The scratch daily grew into a deep cut, which kept on getting deeper and deeper. A boy from Texas went to South Carolina to visit grandpa and grandma. One morning the old gentleman noticed a dull scratch running down the center of its polished surface from the top to the bottom. Earnest inquiry was made for the vandal. The scratch daily grew into a deep cut, which kept on getting deeper and deeper.

So it is that thoughtless lads with knives, and brooks and pencils may make in a short time a beautiful home to resemble an old and worn out piece of property, while fathers and landlords are in despair. ADDING TO ORNAMENTATION 4. By adding to its ornamentation and beauty. Perhaps it never occurred to you how many things of utility and beauty youthful hands may add to a home. Time was when an expert cabinet maker, or the finest furniture dealer, or a cabinet maker, but now something which love has made adds immeasurably to the beauty of an article.

These are days of manual training for boys, and the highest recreation and pleasure for a boy to use the modern keen-edged tools and work in the fragrant wood to bring forth some design of beauty. I have all my life longed for a scroll, saw and lathe, and at the World's Fair I saw the most perfect of these tools and to my desire came a vision of the pretty things I could have made. In Chicago in the grammar schools boys were taught a manual training department, and they had astonishing and marvellous things beautified by the articles which they constructed. There were brackets and stationary racks, letter holders, chairs, tableset, picture frames, match boxes, and many other things which were made by the boys, where brain and eye and hand are employed in the work of bringing beauty out of the raw material. And in these days of art and craft what marvels may be wrought by the girls.

Some priceless effects may be produced by becoming a faddist in modern rug-weaving. Commonest materials may be worked into the most conventional designs and yield you results which many dollars invested in Oriental rugs could not equal. A little time and effort in basket making will throw about a home many bright and striking as well as useful little baskets and will at the same time do wonders in developing the artistic sense and talent. Prography or burnt wood and leather—pass as it may seem to be—nevertheless is almost limitless in the opportunity it gives for the development and application of original ideas. An article of original design will work the beauty of a home, you say: "You can buy so much of this stuff." That's true. But we don't buy it, and many a barren wall and empty corner could be beautified by some design of your own by the use of a little time which otherwise would be expended in frivolous amusement and from which, too, delightful recreation would come.

One young lady desired her room papered, but her father did not feel able at the time to afford it, so she secured a strip of stiff Manila cardboard and then made it impervious to moisture by a little chellac. She next took a sharp knife and cut out a stencil of her own design and decorated most beautifully her room. Then she made a pair of curtains, a lampshade, a sofa pillow and on an expenditure of a few dollars had economized.

The town of Perkins, on Swan Island, in the Kearsage river, has long been famous as throwing the smallest vote at a state election of any town in New England. many and had a room of exceeding beauty. We hope to be able in the near future to rear an arts and crafts school, from which shall spread a great interest in the learning how to design and make many things of great beauty, as well as utility. How may the children make beautiful the exterior of the home? Very often the father who would be glad to get out with spade and rake and hoe is confined to his labor so that it is impossible and the lawn and yard and the buildings go uncared for except as the labor is hired. This is a very important matter. Every city is judged by its appearance. Every home should be patriotic and strive to be as beautiful as possible. The young people can and should do much to make it so. 1. Every child in the home should have at least one tree or shrub which it cares for. 2. Every home should have a nice lawn. A boy can carry home in a basket enough Bermuda grass roots which he can find growing wild to grow into a large patch of beautiful green. 3. I have seen in a large city school grounds which had been laid out—a part of it—into flower beds and walks and growing emblems by the pupils of the school. If it can be done for a school, why, surely, the same boys and girls could do it for their own homes. In many cities and towns there are juvenile civic beauty clubs and to the children are distributed flower seeds. They are instructed in garden making and flower growing and the results are said to be something amazing in the improvement of the community and the children themselves. 4. Take your old back yard that grows up in weeds and grass. How much more beautiful and profitable it would be next spring and summer if it should be devoted to a well cared for garden. Plant a line of sweet peas along the back fence, place a barrel hoop on top of a pole, set a bird's nest on top of it, then plant the old-fashioned cypress about it in a circle or a star and you will have something to afford you a peculiar delight all the season. 5. Make a study of roses. This is a delightful climate for them and the expressions of admiration they elicit from visitors especially will reward you for the effort if the roses do not themselves. Plant them in banks and beds, in ranks and rows, and though the house be old, though the fence be ancient, though the walks be indifferent, you have made your home beautiful. "There are such sweet associations with flowers and especially with roses. Have you heard the legend of how the red rose became queen of the flowers? Study your roses. Breed them, and as you labor with them and study them their beauty and fragrance will in some way get into your lives. The Alchemy of spiritual things will work the beauty of the external things with the beauty of soul life which will make you delight and inspiration to the earth—a garden of spices and fragrance amid the world's deserts.

OF INTEREST TO THE STOCKMEN INTERNATIONAL EXPOSITION The fifth annual convention of the International Live Stock Exposition will be held at Chicago from November 25 to December 3, and while there is little interest, seemingly, displayed here among stockmen, it is believed that Texas will be fairly well represented in the way of exhibits. Stuart Harrison, who is always well posted on matters relative to show cattle, stated last evening that he was not advised as to who would have exhibits at the Chicago show from this state, but was inclined to believe that very few cattle will be taken there from Texas this year. Previously this state has sent large numbers of show cattle to Chicago and blue ribbons have been awarded to Texans on several occasions. The railroads in Texas have granted a very reasonable rate to the Chicago show, the rate being one fare plus $2 for the round trip. B. C. Rhome, who is now in the east, expects to return home via Chicago, and will take in the show. Aside from this gentlemen, it is not known here if others will attend.

SAME OLD STORY

Every spring the cattlemen of the northwest who come to Texas to buy steers to run on their ranges, send a little announcement prior to their coming to the effect that they will not want as much stuff as usual and what they do require must be purchased at a very low price.

It is a fact that the demand from the northwest showed a very marked falling off this year. The settler in that section is doing his work just about as well as he has done it in Texas and other portions of the range country.

Another feature of the situation that should be borne in mind by the men who are insisting on cheaper cattle of the Texas ranges, is the large amount of money that has been spent annually for the past ten years in grading up our range stock.

Already our northwestern friends have sent us word that they will be with us next spring to buy some steers, but preface the notice of their coming with the remark that they intend to buy them so cheap that it will look like they are stealing them.

FOSTER'S WEATHER FORECAST

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Last bulletin gave forecast of disturbances to cross continent 16 to 20, warm wave 15 to 19, cool wave 18 to 22. Next disturbance will reach Pacific coast about 21, cross west of Rockies by close of 22, great central valleys 23 to 25, eastern states 26. Warm wave will cross west of Rockies about 21, great central valleys 23, eastern states 25. Cool wave will cross west of Rockies about 24, great central valleys 26, eastern states 28.

This disturbance will start in during the prevalence of an extensive cold wave and will cause a great rise in temperature, but that warm wave will soon collapse and the weather will fall back into a winter-like cold spell.

THE YELLOW HOLLY

BY FERGUS HUME, AUTHOR OF "THE MYSTERY OF A HANSOM CAB," ETC. Copyright, 1903, by G. W. Dillingham Co.

"But you are ill," protested the young man. "I am dying. But what of that? I am glad to die. I shall meet Rosina again after long, long years of sorrow. Go, George. We understand one another, and you have forgiven me. There is no more to be said."

"There is nothing to forgive," replied George softly. Then, to humor his old guardian, he departed. A strong grip of the hand was exchanged between them. George left the room and saw Ireland lying as still as any corpse.

George left the house, as there was nothing he could do, but he intended to call in again. Meanwhile he repaired to Amelia square to see Bawdsey. Derrington wished him to tell the detective to stop looking after the case and discharge him from his employment.

"I should rather ask you that," said George. "You seem excited." "Not very. Only I have been fortunate in some business, and"— "What is the business?" "I'll tell you that later. What is yours?"

"A pleasant one," rejoined George. "Here is the check for £1,000 which my grandfather promised you. Marry Lola and go to the States and stop searching for the assassin of Mrs. Jersey."

"Thank you," replied Bawdsey, taking the check eagerly; "your grandfather is a prince, Mr. Brendon. As to the case, why should I stop searching?" "You will never find the assassin."

"Pardon me," said Bawdsey in high glee. "I have found the assassin. Miss Bull killed Mrs. Jersey." CHAPTER XXV. GEORGE stared at the triumphant detective in surprise. It seemed impossible that what he stated could be true.

"You must mean Margery," said George after a time. "No, I don't," replied Bawdsey in a determined voice. "I mean Miss Bull, or, as you know her, Miss Johnny Howard."

"But what reason?" "Ah, that's a long story! She shall tell you herself." "Have you had her arrested?" "Not yet. But she will be arrested before the end of the day. I have already communicated with Scotland Yard. It was your idea about Margery that put me on the scent."

"But why should you trouble about seeing any one?" Miss Bull looked down and then looked up abruptly. "Mrs. Jersey would have sent me back to the asylum if she could, and I was always afraid lest she should see some one secretly about the matter. I crept down the stairs, leaving Margery in my room playing at patience. Mrs. Jersey's door was closed. I heard the murmur of voices, and I put my ear to the keyhole. I heard that dancier—afterward I learned that it was the dancer—I heard her accuse Mrs. Jersey of having killed Percy Vane."

"On what grounds did Lola base that accusation?" "She said her mother told her." "And what did Mrs. Jersey say?" asked George. "She denied it and made some sort of excuse. I remained to hear no more. I knew then that Mrs. Jersey had killed my Percy."

"But she did not. It was an accident." "I know. She explained. But she was the cause. I was right to kill her. But for her Percy would have been alive. I would have been his wife, and you, George, would have been my stepson."

"What did you do next?" "I went up to my room and resumed my game of patience. I intended to have a talk with Mrs. Jersey the next morning, but when I found that she had struck Margery I came down at once."

"That was after 11?" "About a quarter past. Mrs. Jersey was in her room. We talked, and I told her what I had heard. She denied it. I pointed to the stiletto which was on the table as a proof that the girl had been here. Mrs. Jersey said that it was the same stiletto with which Percy had been killed, as Lola had received it from her mother. That put the thought into my head that God intended Mrs. Jersey should be slain with the same weapon with which my darling had been stabbed."

"I accused Mrs. Jersey of having killed Percy. She glared in the fact that it was through her he had died. She declared that if Ireland had not held her hand she would have laid him dead at her feet. She exulted that the accident had fulfilled her intention and taunted me with the fact that I never became his wife. I was very quiet," added Miss Bull, her eyes glittering, "but my blood was boiling. Mrs. Jersey turned her back on me, with an insolent laugh, and sat down. The stiletto was on the table. Her head was turned away. I softly took the dagger and—"

Miss Bull rose. "George, you now know all. Go! No, do not shake hands. I have avenged your father, and I expect I will be hanged."

Margery burst out into renewed weeping, and Miss Bull soothed her, talking to George the while. "Tell my sister," she said, "that the name of Howard will not be mentioned. I will die under my false name. No disgrace will be brought on her. As to Dorothy"— "No disgrace will befall her. Marry her, George; love her, make her a good husband and take this kiss to her from a sorely tried woman."

Before the astonished George knew what she was about he felt a pair of cold lips pressed to his own. The next moment she had pushed him out of the room and had locked the door. That was the last George saw of her.

Whether Margery had agreed to die with her or whether Miss Bull, knowing what a miserable life the girl would lead after her death, compelled her to take the poison will never be known, but when the door was burst open the two women were found on the floor in one another's arms. On the table was an empty glass, and it was ascertained that Miss Bull and Margery had taken prussic acid. Bawdsey entered the room an hour after the death, alarmed by the silence. He found that his prey had escaped. Miss Bull was buried under her false name, and Margery was buried with her. Nothing of Miss Bull's sad past or of her killing of Mrs. Jersey came to light.

Bull opened it to fly—panic struck, I expect—but Margery came down, and stopped her. Miss Bull closed the door and remained to face the worst." "Well, she is dead and buried, and the scandal is laid at rest, unless that Bawdsey revives it." "Oh, you can trust Bawdsey," said George, smiling. "He and Lola are quite happy, and she has almost forgotten me. I got a letter from Bawdsey the other day. He is acting as his wife's agent, and they are making a lot of money."

RIBBON EMBROIDERY IS NEW AND BEAUTIFUL

Ribbon embroidery is elegant and new. The work is done with narrowest ribbon. In the above cut the embroidery is set onto an ecru lace bodice. The little wheels have the appearance of flowers and the ribbon scrolls look like stems. Leaves are made by shirring with bits of ribbon, as shown in the detail above. The colors used in carrying out the design make or mar the whole effect. The work shown is a mahogany shade with pale blues and greens. A tiny yellow center is worked into the flowers. The ribbons used in the scroll may or may not be shirred. The shirring is not elaborate in any case. The mahogany shades form the base of the wreaths in design and the pale blues are used at the upper part of the wreaths. The ribbon is often put on in bow-knot effect, simply caught blindly here and there. Collar and cuffs are ornamented in the same manner.

THE PERFECT WAY

Scores of Fort Worth Citizens Have Learned It
If you suffer from backache. There is only one way to cure it. The perfect way is to cure the kidneys. A bad back means sick kidneys. Neglect it, urinary troubles follow. Doan's Kidney Pills are made for kidneys only. Are endorsed by Fort Worth people. T. P. Hughes of 219 Bolkesnap street, who is very well known to many of our readers, says: "I suffered all last year from lumbago. I had terrible pains in my back and could not stoop or bend over without intense suffering. It was also impossible for me to rest in bed with any comfort. I never seemed able to get any rest. The kidney secretions were highly colored and emitted a strong odor. I know that I was in a bad condition. I tried several remedies which failed to bring the hoped for relief and finally a friend of mine, Mrs. Sinclair, advised me to try Doan's Kidney Pills. She spoke so strongly in their favor that I went to Weaver's Pharmacy on Main street and got a box. They proved to be exactly what I needed. The pain in my back soon disappeared and the kidney secretions were rendered normal. I cannot tell how much I appreciate this wonderful remedy."

Board of Trade Appoints a Committee to Act With Promoters of the Spring Exhibit to Make It a Big Success

D. T. BOMAR, PRESIDENT

New Executive of the Organization—Auditorium Proposition Has Been Made to the Board of Trade—A Factory Wants Donation

The meeting of the directory of the Fort Worth Board of Trade last evening was attended by President Jacob Washburn, Secretary B. B. Paddock and Directors E. H. Carter, C. C. Mountcastle, J. B. Burns, William James, D. T. Bomar and Dr. J. L. Cooper. A quorum being present, the meeting was called to order by President Washburn, with Paddock as secretary.

Mr. Bomar moved that the board proceed with the election of officers. Mr. Carter placed D. T. Bomar in nomination for president. The latter wanted Mr. Mountcastle as president, but he declined and said he would be unable to serve. Mr. Bomar was then made president by acclamation.

The remaining officers chosen are: First vice president, W. C. Stripling; second vice president, Dr. J. L. Cooper; treasurer, W. B. Harrison; secretary, B. B. Paddock.

The secretary was authorized to employ a collector for the Board of Trade. Secretary Paddock said he had received communications from the Beaumont and Houston boards of trade, asking endorsement for a movement seeking legislative action against ticket scalping in Texas. The idea is to have the legislature pass such laws as will stop scalping in this state. The matter was referred to the railroad committee of the board.

One of the measures has reference to the passage of a "home rule for taxation" bill. This matter is regarded by the board as very important, and it was looked upon with favor and the board will use its efforts to have the Tarrant county representatives support the measure at the coming session of the state legislature.

Secretary Paddock also read a letter from the Dallas Commercial Club, seeking to have established in New York what is to be known as a Texas information bureau. The communication was, after discussion, received and filed.

An enterprise has been proposed for an enterprise which asks the Board of Trade for aid in encouragement for a factory in Fort Worth that will cost from $100,000 to $125,000. The company wants a donation. On motion the directors authorized that the same be filed. It is not the policy of the board to make donations. Whenever it gives money to encourage any enterprise it must have stock to show for the money.

Stuart Harrison presented to the board the matter of holding the next fat stock show in this city during the month of March, when the Cattle Raisers' Association convention is to be held. He said it was essential that something definite be done soon, so that exhibitors will have plenty of time in which to get stock in condition for show purposes.

The board was asked to take hold of the proposition and help raise a sum necessary to make a liberal premium list, which amount it was suggested would be about $5,000.

Mr. Harrison thought the fat stock show was one of the best entertainments that could be provided for the visiting cattlemen.

It was suggested that an entry fee should be charged, but it was decided that this would not be advisable at this time. It was stated that the Fort Worth fat stock show was possibly superior to that held in Kansas City, and was the only one in the country that admitted entry exhibits free.

Director Mountcastle moved that the board appoint a committee of three to confer with the Live Stock Exchange regarding the coming fat stock show and report back to the board at a meeting to be held Tuesday night. Directors Washburn and Cooper and Secretary Paddock composed the committee.

Secretary Paddock announced that he expected to have present a gentleman who had been commissioned to make the board a proposition to build an auditorium—but from some cause he did not show up. However, the gentleman representing the company which proposes the erection of the building, Secretary Paddock said, will be in Fort Worth next Tuesday, at which time he will meet with the board and discuss the proposition.

Captain Paddock said the plan was for Fort Worth to contribute $20,000 and the company would furnish the remainder of the necessary money to build a large auditorium, one of the considerations being that the city should not be charged for the use of the auditorium at any time. The size of the proposed building is to be 100x200 feet.

HARRY BERESFORD
There is no artist now before the public whose advent is more eagerly anticipated than the coming of Mr. Harry Beresford. This gifted player will present during his special engagement here, Charles "Vincen," a charming comedy "Our New Man," which has proved so brilliant a success wherever he has presented it. Of the play itself much has been written, suffice that it is a laugh producer, and in it and through it Mr. Beresford has attained a position in his chosen profession of which he may well be proud, many critics going so far as to compare his work and classing him with such men as Stuart Robson, William H. Crane and Nat Goodwin, he this as it may be said to have built a clientele who will follow his fortunes for years to come. In "Our New Man" his many-sided versatility is ample opportunity to display themselves, and he does not fail to take advantage of them.

What the Baby Needed
I suffered from nervousness and headache until one day about a year ago it suddenly occurred to me what a great coffee drinker I was and I thought may be this might have something to do with my trouble, so I shifted to tea for awhile but was not better, if anything worse.

"At that time I had a baby four months old that we had to feed on the bottle, until an old lady friend told me to try Postum Food Food. Three months ago I commenced using Postum, leaving off the tea and coffee, and not only have my headaches and nervous troubles entirely disappeared but since then I have been giving plenty of nurse for my baby and have a large, healthy child now.

"I have no desire to drink anything but Postum and know it has benefited my children, and I hope all who have children will try Postum and find out for themselves what a really wonderful food drink it is." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

Both tea and coffee contain quantities of a poisonous drug called Caffeine that directly affects the heart, kidneys, stomach and nerves. Postum is made from cereals only, scientifically blended to get the coffee flavor. Ten days trial of Postum in place of tea or coffee will show a health secret worth more than a gold mine. There's a reason. Get the book, "The Road to Wellville," in each pkg.

"THE FORBIDDEN LAND"

The entire original production, cast, chorus and auxiliaries of the newest and most successful comic opera "The Forbidden Land," is announced to be given at Greenwall's opera house Monday night, November 14. This production is said to be the most pretentious of the season and comes endorsed as an attraction of more than usual interest for it not only possesses all the elements that go to make a successful opera, but it also possesses the novelty of being the only opera ever written in which the life, habits, rites and amusements of the East are so vividly portrayed. "The Forbidden Land" has two magnificent stage settings, the first act showing the exterior of the palace of the Barca Tarium who is the official head in local affairs, and practically a potentate equal in rank to a king under a protectorate. He is the next in authority to the Dakai Lama, who is the civil, religious and supreme ruler of the Buddhist faith. In the distance is seen a splendid view of the sacred city of Lhasa, perched upon the top of a rocky mountain and surrounded by an apparently impregnable wall.

More than 100,000 copies of the play have been printed, and it is being distributed from a photograph taken by a Hindu pilgrim several years ago and was until recently, the only photograph in existence of the mystic city. The play is shown in the interior of the Barca Tarium's palace and is a superb specimen of the stage carpenter's craft and scenic artist's skill. From the terrace in the rear another showing of the city is obtained, and the play is a school of theology and sacred treasury. Aside from its value as a splendid comic opera, the educational display of scenery, costumes and accessories, is alone worth the price of admission.

"THE VILLAGE PARSON"

One of the present successes in a dramatic way is the new musical comedy, "The Village Parson," which will be presented at Greenwall's opera house Wednesday matinee and night, November 16. The play deals with the affections of the heart and the cardinal virtues of truth, honesty and strongly intense human emotions and arouses great interest. The play has been likened to that successful drama, "Human Hearts," but from a literary standpoint is considered superior in characterization. Splendid scenic environment is used and a full acting company has been entrusted with the various roles.

KODAMA'S HEROISM

General Kodama is one of the most prominent men in Japan at the present time. He was about 25 during the 1877 rebellion, when he was the hero of an off-related episode. It occurred during the siege of some castle or other in which he was in command of the garrison. The outer wall was on fire, and the flames were spreading in the direction of the magazine where all the gun powder was stored. He called upon his troops to remove the powder, but they, brave as they were, hesitated—and little wonder, for the work, as they were well aware, meant almost certain death, an explosion being practically inevitable. Whereupon he just gave them one glance, and without saying a word he sprang coolly onto the roof of the magazine, where, if explosion there were, he was sure to be first to be killed. And there he stood, in spite of all entreaties, until every ounce of powder had been removed to a place of safety.

While Jeffries, the pugilist, was appearing in "Davy Crockett" at Rene, Nev., theater, September 27, cowboy named Elmer Purdy was overcome with excitement when Jeffries was defense of a band of stage wolves in a fight with the heroine, and died an hour later.

As early as 1875 the first commercial institute was established in Tokio. Since that time similar schools have been established in various parts of the Japanese empire. In 1893 the commercial schools were regulated by ministerial decree, and in 1899 a general law was passed concerning commercial educational institutions.

rum, Mr. Mountcastle stated, has not only been of great utility to the city, but has paid the stockholders a dividend on the investment.
Director Cooper suggested a plan for increasing the membership of the board. He thought if the board would make a canvass of the city in a body the results would be satisfactory. It was finally decided to begin this work at once, and on Monday morning next at 9 o'clock, the start will be made.
Captain Paddock said that if the board was to be a potent factor in building up Fort Worth, it must increase its usefulness by increasing its membership. He said he expected to live long enough to see Fort Worth the biggest town in the state, and he believed that by persistent work by the board this would be an accomplished fact.
Colonel E. W. Taylor appeared before the board and asked its assistance in raising $100, which is to be a part of a fund of $500 which is to be used by the local United Benevolent Association members in entertaining the supreme lodge, which is to meet in Fort Worth January 11 for three days. He said there would be 150 or 200 delegates present.
President Bomar appointed Directors Cooper, James and Mountcastle a committee to solicit the fund.
The board then adjourned.

IN A TREMBLE

News of Overwhelming Victory of Republican Party Learned With Fear by Those Resident on Isthmus of Panama.

MR. TAFT IS EXPECTED

Was Believed He Would Come With Honeyed Words and Phrases, But Now They Fear He Will Handle the Big Stick as Result of the Election

PANAMA, Nov. 12.—While the dwellers in the canal zone are ardent admirers of President Roosevelt the news of the overwhelming vote given him at the election has caused a decided feeling of uneasiness upon the Isthmus.

Panamanians fear that the president will take this vote to be an unqualified endorsement of his strenuous foreign policy.

Secretary Taft was coming down here in about a fortnight to smooth the ruffled feelings of the new republic, but now, it is feared, there will be less of kind words and more of the big stick.

In brief, the Isthmians wonder whether or not the discontent among them over their treatment by the United States may not be summarily smothered by orders to land troops and marines and practically seizing the Isthmus.

They argue from the election returns that the people of the United States would just about applaud such a Rooseveltian move, and they tremble at the thought.

A DYING CHILD PLEADS FOR HER DOLL

She Asked Her Mother to Bury the Plaything With Her, and the Little One's Request Was Granted

ALBANY, Ga., Nov. 12.—There is an angel of death near, Jessie Rayfield, a little blind girl, yesterday morning, called for her mother, who with tear dimmed eyes sat near by as her baby's life ebbed away.

"Mamma, when I am gone away," said the child, as she groped in the dark to touch once more the mother whose loving care she knew so well, "I want you to bury my dollie with me. When I get to heaven then I can see her, and, O, mamma, next to you, I love her so."

Unable longer to control her grief the mother threw herself at the bedside and with her arms about her darling's neck, promised between sobs to do as the little one wished.

Once more before death had robbed her of all consciousness, the child's lips moved and she talked again of her doll and her love for it.

"I love my dollie, mamma, and though I hate to leave you, I am glad to die, because I can see what my dollie looks like. She loves me, too, I know, for ever since she was brought to me she has been my playmate."

Tip-toeing softly, that the child might not be disturbed, her mother arose and brought the doll to the bed. The tiny arms closed closely about the doll and words of childish endearment broke the silence of the room. At last the child raised the face of the doll

Mothers! Retain Your Youthful Figures.

To be beautiful is to be loved by all. If there lives the woman who is indifferent to this she is yet to be heard of. Yet from time immemorial society has recognized what they thought to be a detriment in the way of such a realization. The bearing of children has meant to them the marbling of physical beauty of figure, without which beauty of face would be of little account. Nothing could be more remote from truth than this; childbearing is purely a natural phenomenon, accompanied by pain, to be sure, but if properly managed no more harmful in its effects upon the human form than any other natural function.

MOTHER'S FRIEND

It is essential in the proper management of every case of labor; it relaxes and softens the abdominal muscles, thereby enabling them to sustain the stretching that they must undergo, and from this very fact it facilitates their return to normal proportions after childbirth, and it is obvious that pain must be greatly lessened from this very reason.

It is a liniment, it is harmless, it is potent, it is priceless in its results, it is Mother's Friend. $1.00 per bottle at drug stores. Our book of priceless value sent free to all women.

Colds

How often you hear it remarked: "It's only a cold," and a few days later learn that the man is on his back with pneumonia. This is of such common occurrence that a cold, however slight, should not be disregarded.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy

has gained its great popularity and extensive sale by its prompt cures of this most common ailment. It always cures and is pleasant to take. It counteracts any tendency of a cold to result in pneumonia.

and a moment later she had passed away, with her own cold lips pressed to those of her dollie.

When the undertaker had been called, the dying request of the child was explained to him and after the body had been clothed all in white and placed in the casket, the doll, dressed in the same color, was once more laid on her breast, with the little arms encircling it. And those who stood by on the features of the dead girl saw beside her face that of the inanimate playmate of her years of illness.

The little girl about three years ago was stricken with brain fever. It was this that made her blind, and it was from the affliction that she died.

WE DEARLY LOVE A TRAIN

Where is the person with soul so dead, who never to himself, herself or it hath said, "I dearly love to see the train go by?" We love action, life, movement, speed, and find them all in a limited or unlimited express. Apropos, one of the latest arrivals at the St. Louis station is the Empire State Express of the New York Central, a creation of George H. Daniels. Nothing in the entire show attracts more attention, for this train has been advertised throughout the universe. It has been on our postage stamps, and that's the only way it ever got licked, says Mr. Daniels. On June 17, by actual count, 7,622 persons walked through the splendid coaches and hovered about the locomotive. Alongside is the ancient relic, the De Witt Clinton, with its three quaint cars—the first train ever placed on the Central road. The contrast is powerfully appealing and instructive.—From "On the Tip of the Tongue," New York Press.

ANNUAL REPORT OF MILITARY SECRETARY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—The annual report of General Ainsworth, military secretary of the army, the first issued from the office since its creation in congress at the last session, gives the total strength of the army at the close of the last fiscal year of 3,871 officers and 68,946 enlisted men. The loss of officers from death, dismissal, retirement and other causes is 155; number of enlisted men lost by death, 436. Of 27,389 recruits enlisted during the past fiscal year, 9,962 were of foreign birth. Complaints as to the number of unsatisfactory recruits are said to have been unusually numerous.

Speaking of the militia it is said that very satisfactory progress has been made towards bringing the organized militia, respecting armament, equipment and discipline, up to the standard of the regular army. The total of 6,566 officers and 83,102 enlisted men in militia organizations were present at inspection.

Referring to the act of congress providing for a roster of officers and enlisted men of the Union and Confederate armies, the report says responses of governors addressed inviting co-operation has been such as to assure the department that they fully appreciate the importance of the work and will co-operate heartily with the department in an effort to give to the Confederate soldier the place is due him in the proposed compilation.

NEXT CONVENTION TO HAVE FEW DELEGATES

AUSTIN, Texas, Nov. 12.—Aside from business, the all-absorbing theme of conversation and discussion among the state house delegates yesterday was the Roosevelt landslide. It was contrary to every one's hope, but not unexpected, and was accounted for in a great variety of ways. By some it was said to be Roosevelt's proverbial luck, by others for the reason that he was a man of destiny, by still others that Judge Parker had never been a factor in national politics, and was therefore largely an unknown quantity.

As a rule the result was philosophically accepted.

The light vote polled in the state came in for some share of the discussion, and the poll tax amendment to the constitution was generally conceded to be the cause of the great decrease in the vote.

Attention was called to the fact that in the last democratic convention there were 962 votes, which will be reduced in the next to about 675 or 700, owing to the light vote polled in the counties for governor in Tuesday's election.

J. N. Tilton, a merchant of Bozeman, Mont., left in a will that was probated on October 10 the income of his estate, which will amount to several thousand dollars annually, for the celebration of the Fourth of July with fireworks, flags and bunting. There will be no opposition on the part of relatives.

COTTON PICKING MACHINE SAID TO BE GOOD

It Has Been Tested in the Fields Near Albany, Georgia, and Is Said to Be a Success

ALBANY, Ga., Nov. 12.—There is absolutely not the shadow of a doubt that the cotton picking machine which has just been invented by Mr. George A. Lowry is a success.

The machine picks cotton in the fields, and it does it in a manner that many who were skeptical about the success of a cotton picker never expected to see. It is not an automatic machine that picks cotton without the direction of the human intellect, but it is a machine that reduces the labor by three-fourths.

The announcement that the machine upon which Mr. Lowry has been at work in the fields around Albany for three months past had been perfected, and that it was a success has attracted to Albany a large number of capitalists and cotton men from the east and south. These men have watched the wonderful work of the picker but a few hours, and without one single exception, have then declared it to be a practical cotton picker, a machine that will solve the labor question of the south.

When Mr. Lowry was seen at his room at the New Albany last night he was naturally feeling very much elated over his latest and perhaps greatest invention. He was able to say that success had crowned the work of months, and that he had added another great labor and expense saver to the southern farmer.

AT HOT SPRINGS SWINDLERS BARRED

Secretary Hitchcock Is Taking Action to Protect Those Who Visit the Great Health Resort

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Through an order promulgated by the secretary of the interior, the various kinds of swindlers who have done a rich business during the busy season at Hot Springs, Ark., will be deprived of their opportunities to fleece the public. "Fake" doctors and their drummers, the exponents of peculiar cures, "healers" and the like, undergraduate medical practitioners and charlatans generally, who have been taking advantage of the weakness of invalids to rob them, will hereafter be ruled off the reservation, and any attempt now to practice the chicanery of other days will land people in jail.

Because of thousands of complaints from victims who have been swindled at Hot Springs, the law passed by congress last spring requiring every kind of doctor or "healer" to be examined by a federal board of medical men before treating patients was promulgated by Secretary Hitchcock. Accordingly every physician or surgeon now at Hot Springs, or who is going there, will have to appear before this board and obtain a certificate or leave the reservation. The department has also adopted a new and stringent set of rules and regulations for the government reservations, which went into effect yesterday.

Brain Workers.

Brain workers suffer from headache because they over-tax and exhaust the brain nerves. Tired, irritated, turbulent brain nerves throb and ache; this weakens the brain power, and robs the memory.

Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills bring tranquility to the excited nerves and stop the pain. If not relieved, this nerve disturbance is frequently extended to the stomach, causing nausea, vomiting—sick headache.

Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills are convenient to take—just a little tablet, that in a few moments relieves the pain; they leave no disagreeable after-effects, as they contain no opium, morphine, cocaine or chloral in any form.

"From personal experience I can testify that Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills are a most excellent remedy for headache and neuralgia. I have been a great sufferer from both diseases for the past three years. A friend who had also suffered from neuralgia handed me some of the Anti-Pain Pills. I took them and they gave me almost instant relief. Since then I have a package at home, and another at the office, and they never fail to relieve me." R. V. MEGARY, 937 S. Sawyer St., Chicago, Ills.

Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills are sold by your druggist, who will guarantee that each package will benefit. If it fails he will return your money. 25 cents, 25 cents. Never sold in bulk. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

IN THE COURTS

The W. R. Eaves embezzlement case will come up in the federal court here for hearing Nov. 22, and as the case has attracted much attention among lawyers as to whether the federal court has jurisdiction over state courts where an embezzlement of funds from a national bank is alleged.

Eaves it will be recalled pleaded guilty in the district court of embezzling some $8,000 from the Citizens' National bank at Arlington and was given three years in the penitentiary.

Since this action on the part of the defendant it has been questioned whether the state has jurisdiction over the federal court in such cases, and to test the matter the attorneys for Eaves will take the case into the federal court.

Discussing this matter today Attorney James S. Davis says that it is now settled by the authorities that in so far as the statutes of the United States cover offenses by National bank officers, clerks and agents, they extend to the federal court on the subject. The following authorities are upon the point: State vs. Fuller, 34 Conn., 280; State vs. Fields, 98 Iowa 748; Com. vs. Felton, 101 Mass., 204.

It is also true that where an offense is not defined by Federal law, state law controls. State vs. Fuller, 34 Conn., 280; State vs. Fields, 98 Iowa, 748; Com. vs. Barry, 116 Mass., 1; State vs. Bardwell, 72 Miss., 535; State vs. Cross, 101 N. C., 770; affirmed in 132 U. S., 131.

The offense of embezzlement is exclusively punishable under Federal laws. People vs. Fonda, 62 Mich., 401; Com. vs. Felton, 101 Mass., 204; Com. vs. Ketter, 92 Pa. St., 372.

Section 5209, Revised Statutes of the United States provides that "every president, director, cashier, teller, clerk or agent of any association who embezzles or willfully misapplies any of the moneys, funds or credits of the association, with intent to injure or defraud the association or any other company or any individual person, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and shall be imprisoned not less than five years nor more than ten."

A conviction in a state court for embezzlement of the money or funds of a national bank would be void, as being rendered by a court without jurisdiction over the subject matter, and such conviction could not be pleaded in bar of a prosecution for the offense in the Federal court. The fact that the accused submitted to the jurisdiction of the state courts would not alter the situation, as jurisdiction over the subject matter can not be conferred by consent of parties.

The fact that a person pleads guilty to an offense does not prevent him having such conviction set aside, where the indictment charges no offense against the state laws, or where the conviction is in violation of the state laws. Nor would the fact that a person had endured punishment under a valid judgment of conviction avail him as a credit upon his sentence in a subsequent valid prosecution and conviction.

Attorney Albert Baskin at noon filed with District Judge Irbly Dunklin a motion for a new hearing in the case of the state against W. R. Eaves, who, it will be recalled was given three years in the penitentiary on the charge of embezzling funds from the Citizens National bank at Arlington.

The grounds on which a new trial is asked in the district court is that the state has no jurisdiction. Judge Dunklin has not yet acted upon the motion, but will probably do so during this afternoon.

FEDERAL COURT

Only a short session of the United States circuit and district court was held this morning. The court then adjourned until 10 o'clock Monday morning. The case of Dixon et al vs. Swift & Co., damages. A non-suit was taken by the plaintiff.

CHEMICAL CREW LOSES VERY FINE WHIP The chemical engine company branch of the Fort Worth fire department is about one piece of equipment in the shape of a fine whip.

In going to the fire at the corner of Peach and Live Oak streets last night, the company lost a fine whip which was recently purchased. The boys believe if the finder knows what it is a piece of fire department apparatus that it will be returned to the station, and they ask The Telegram to publish a notice of it.

A SMALL VOTE IN NEXT CONVENTION IS RESULT

Returns from the vote in this county on Tuesday are still incomplete, the Crowley and Haslett precincts not yet having returned from officials. The vote of these two places, however, will not materially affect the result as they are both small boxes. The total vote is the smallest polled in Tarrant county for years and will greatly reduce the representation in future conventions.

The vote for governor, according to the returns now in, is only 3,972. Oscar W. Gillespie for congress, leading the ticket with a vote of 4,046. Judge Stanley received 764 and Colonel Mallett 115 votes from the same precincts that gave Gillespie 4,046. It is probable that when the returns from the two remaining precincts are in the total vote for governor may reach the 4,000 mark, but this is not likely.

Basing the representation on the figures already in it will give a vote of only 13 and a fraction, but if the total vote reaches 4,000 the representation will be fourteen.

The representation of this county in the past has been seventeen, making a loss of four. Speaking of the reduced representation Judge C. C. Cummings this morning said that he believed that it would be just as well if the representation would not be as unwieldy, and as the same conditions have prevailed all over the state on account of a light vote there will be very small state conventions in the future.

The totals of the vote for some of the higher officials, show the following: For Electors—Democratic, 5,341; republican, 824; prohibition, 133; people's party, 119; socialist-labor, 29; socialist, 146.

For congress—Gillespie, 4,046; Stanley, 764; Mallett, 115. County judge—Milam, 4,222. For county clerk—Rogers, 4,254. For county commissioner—Castleberry, 2,661.

DR. C. H. SHERMAN OF DALLAS IS VERY ILL

He Was Brought to This City From Dallas Today and Is Now at the Infirmary for Treatment

Dr. C. H. Sherman, at one time one of the most prominent physicians of Dallas, was brought to Fort Worth this morning on an early train to be taken to the St. Joseph infirmary for treatment. While waiting for the ambulance to convey him to the hospital he was taken with a severe attack of heart trouble and for a time his life was despaired of.

It was necessary to lay him down in the Texas and Pacific yards on an overcoat, as it was impossible to move him for a considerable length of time. The man's condition was reported to be very ill.

Dr. Sherman was at one time one of the wealthiest and best known practitioners of medicine in Dallas, coming there about fifteen years ago and in a short time had not only established a lucrative practice, but was known as a gentleman and a good fellow. Misfortune and sickness has caused the man to suffer untold agony and when brought here today he was in a very bad condition.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Nov. 5.—(Special Correspondence.)—The almost miraculous cures of hopeless invalids made by Professor Thomas F. Adkin, of this city, have been of such a startling character that they have aroused widespread wonder, admiration and curiosity. Time and again he has taken cases pronounced hopelessly incurable by the medical profession and restored the patients to life and health in a most phenomenal manner.

There is considerable mystery attached to his method of accomplishing these marvels, as it is known that he does not use the drastic drugs and medicines that doctors depend upon. He claims to have discovered that a certain law of nature has peculiar properties heretofore unsuspected, and that by the application of this law there is no disease he may not cure. And it is a matter of proof that with the mysterious power this discovery gives him he has made the blind see and the lame walk. He has revived the flickering spark of life in bodies on the very verge of the grave, and restored to health men and women given up to die by doctors and specialists. It seems to have absolute control over human life and the diseases that attack it. Notwithstanding what might be considered a most favorable opportunity, he does not extort money from those whom he treats, saying: "I choose to give my services free to the sick and afflicted. My discovery is my own, to do with as I please, and I could charge every patient a thousand dollars if I wanted to. But I don't. And I know of no law to compel me to take money for restoring a man to health. I do not care what the disease is. I am just as ready to cure consumption, cancer, paralysis, Bright's disease or any one of the so-called incurable diseases as I am to cure rheumatism, stomach trouble, catarrh, blood disorders or any other ill that flesh is heir to. I am just as ready and willing to give my services free to a poor man as I am to a rich man. When it comes to a question of life or death, sickness or health, the amount of money a man has makes no difference to me. "A prince or a pauper, I treat them just the same. To me, as to the law, all persons are equal. I see and admit no difference between a man who is sick and a man who is well. What other men do, I am concerned. If I choose to help all who are ill without pay there is nothing to prevent my doing so. And I may as well tell you right here that I mean to keep on curing any one who asks me of any disease they may have just as long as I am willing and able. What other men do, they may fall to do or what they charge makes no difference to me. I feel that it is my duty to carry out my own plans in my own way, however much it costs me. I can not bear to think of men and women and little children continuing to suffer and die when I have the power to save them and restore them to life and health so easily and quickly. And there is no disease I may not cure. "You think that a broad statement? Well, maybe it is, but no broader than the truth. I knew the wonderful power I have because I have tested it in thousands of cases. You know consumption is supposed to be incurable. Well, not long ago I had a young lady as a patient, Miss H. L. Kelly of Seal Cove, Maine. The doctor said that she had consumption and could not live, but her case was incurable. And to them it was. The poor girl was in despair, thinking her days were numbered. But I cured her."

"But how do you make these marvelous cures? What is this power that you possess?" asked the reporter. "It would take too long to tell you, but here is a copy of a book I have written describing my discovery and my method of treatment. I do not sell it. I had it printed for distribution among my friends and patients and those who might be interested in this study of a new science. To them I am glad to give it upon request. If reading the book does not satisfy you, and you want to know more of how I cure any disease tell some one who is sick to write to me. I will go even further—tell any one who is attacked by any disease, no matter what it is, to write to me telling me the name of their trouble or their principal symptoms, age and sex, addressing Professor Thomas F. Adkin, office 1115 G, Rochester, N. Y., and I will prove my power to do all that I claim, and I will give the proof without charging a cent for my services."

"Do you mean that any one can accept this offer?" "I mean it for any one who is ill, from any cause, and who feels that the doctors do not understand the case, or who does not want to pay doctors' and druggists' bills." "But how about those at a distance—can you cure them, too?" "Just as easily and just as surely as though they came to my office. Whether they live one or a thousand miles away, it's all the same. A letter to me does just as much good as a personal visit."

"And they do not have to inclose any money?" "Not a single cent. Simply write to me and ask to be cured." "But it seems strange." "Strange or not, I mean just what I say, as any one can find out by writing to me."
