What Sulphur Does

For the Human Body in Health and Disease.

The mention of sulphur will recall to many of us the early days when our mothers and grandmothers gave us our daily dose of sulphur and molasses every spring and fall. It was the universal spring and fall "blood purifier," tonic and cure-all, and mind you, this old-fashioned remedy was not without merit. The ideal was good, but the remedy was crude and unpalatable, and a large quantity had to be taken to get any effect. Nowadays we get all the beneficial effects of sulphur in a palatable, concentrated form, so that a single grain is far more effective than a tablespoonful of the crude sulphur.

In recent years, research and experiment have proven that the best sulphur for medicinal use is that obtained from Calcium Sulphide and sold in drug stores under the name of Stuart's Calcium Wafers. They are small chocolate coated pellets and contain the active medicinal principle of sulphur in a highly concentrated, effective form. Few people are aware of the value of this form of sulphur in restoring and maintaining bodily vigor and health; sulphur acts directly on the liver, and excretory organs and purifies and enriches the blood by the prompt elimination of waste material.

Our grandmothers knew this when they dosed us with sulphur and molasses every spring and fall, but the crudity and impurity of ordinary flowers of sulphur were often worse than the disease, and cannot compare with the modern concentrated preparations of sulphur, of which Stuart's Calcium Wafers is undoubtedly the best and most effective.

They are the natural antidote for liver and kidney troubles and cure constipation and purify the blood in a way that often surprises patient and physician alike. Dr. R. M. Wilkins while experimenting with sulphur remedies soon found that the sulphur from Calcium was superior to any other form. He says: "For liver, kidney and blood troubles, especially when resulting from constipation and malaria, I have been surprised at the results obtained from Stuart's Calcium Wafers. In patients suffering from boils and pimples and even deep-seated carbuncles, I have repeatedly seen them dry up and disappear in four or five days, leaving the skin clear and smooth. Although Stuart's Calcium Wafers is a proprietary article, and sold by druggists, and for that reason tabooed by many physicians, I know of nothing so safe and reliable for constipation, liver and kidney troubles, and especially in all forms of skin disease as this remedy."

At any rate people who are tired of pills, cathartics and so-called blood purifiers, a far safer, more palatable and effective preparation.

SODA FOUNTAIN CAUSES TROUBLE

Overcome by Skillful Local Mechanic—Now in Successful Operation

Early in the year O. Mathews, 1004 Main street, realized that Ennis was not large enough for him to do business in on the scale he desired, so he decided to come to Fort Worth and engage in the candy business here, which he has done, opening one of the neatest confectionery stores in the city and has named it the Greek Candy Kitchen. At the time of his moving the store fixtures from Ennis to Fort Worth, he shipped via the Houston and Texas Central an elegant onyx fountain, one of the largest and finest of its kind in the south. In some manner the onyx part of the fountain was broken and the fountain was supposed to be in the game.

Two defects at the beginning of the week, the fountain was in a sorry condition for the 'varsity. Tuesday the railway mail service team won from them by a score of 5 to 2. The game Thursday with Entre Nous resulted in a defeat, 5 to 4. On Friday the high school team was beaten, 11 to 5, and Saturday Draughton's Practical Business College was beaten 15 to 1. Batteries Saturday were, Thornberry and Spencer and MacPherson and Griffin.

Saturday's game with Polytechnic did not count in the collegiate standing, three games arranged later in the season deciding collegiate supremacy in this city.

Cigarette and Tobacco Habits

CURED FREE IN ONE DAY. Each of the undersigned, for himself, freely and voluntarily certifies as follows: I hereby certify that I was completely and permanently cured of the tobacco habit by a free sample package of Tobacco-Specific, more than a year ago. I have positively disliked tobacco ever since I took the sample, have not used any in any form, and my health has been better than it was before. I state these facts freely and voluntarily, hoping other victims of the tobacco habit will profit by my experience.

Kulawsky, Del Rio, Tex. John W. Kenady, Mingus, Cal.

These people and hundreds of others in all parts of the country have been cured of the tobacco habit by free sample packages of Tobacco-Specific. It is a harmless, practically tasteless remedy that can be given in food or drink and will cure all forms of tobacco, cigarette or snuff habit without the knowledge of the patient. Taken by the patient himself the remedy is just as certain to cure.

Tobacco-Specific will cure any case of tobacco habit. Even the free sample package may be sufficient to cure you or your friend, no matter how long tobacco has been used. People are being cured by the free sample packages all the time. Try it. It can not do any harm, but will surely do good, even if not sufficient to make a complete cure, and it will cost you nothing.

The Rogers Drug and Chemical Co., 6115 Fifth and Race streets, Cincinnati, Ohio, will send you, by mail, prepaid, in plain wrapper, a sample package of Tobacco-Specific, exactly like those that cured the people named above, absolutely free. Write for it now. Do not wait.

be in such shape that it could not be used for a long time.

S. W. Noble, commercial agent of the road, with headquarters in Fort Worth, was anxious to have the fountain repaired. He tried to find a man willing to route to this city on the line he represents. He put himself in correspondence with the manufacturers of the fountain, who stated that it would be impossible to repair the fountain unless it was sent to St. Louis. They were perplexed as to what to do, as Mr. Mathews was anxious to use the fountain at the earliest possible moment. Mr. Noble was desirous to make good the damage done, demonstrating beyond all doubt that the Houston and Texas Central is fair to the shipping public in a way that means business every time. He consulted with Mr. Mathews relative to sending the fountain to St. Louis, but both were of the opinion that somehow, if the fountain was a man skillful enough to do the exacting kind of work desired at less expense and as satisfactorily as could be done at the factory, but where was this man to be found? They had tried to find men in the towns, but none were there. Had they looked at home they would have found the very man, whom later they did succeed in getting.

One day Mr. Noble was talking to W. M. Shedd, the machinist and electrician, 205 Main street, and asked him what he thought of the broken fountain. He asked Mr. Shedd to go and see what was the matter with it and to state if he could fix it. Mr. Shedd went to the fountain and soon decided that he was able to do the job just as well as it could be done at the St. Louis factory and at a great deal less expense. The necessary repairs were ordered and Mr. Shedd was given the work. It was only a short time until the fountain was in its place, none the worse for the accident and in as good order as it had ever been. Mr. Mathews, the owner of the fountain, was so delighted with the work of the skillful mechanic that he at once gave him the contract for the wiring of the entire building, and for the way, the work in the Greek Candy Kitchen shows that the man that fixed the fountain also has a thorough knowledge of electrical work. Since he did the wiring of the building, and of the fountain praise of it has been unstinted. The onyx front to the fountain appears like the original.

The rest of whole affair has been that Mr. Noble, the commercial agent of the road, has demonstrated that he is at all times ready and willing to be fair with the shipping public; that Mr. Shedd understands his business, and when he tackles a job it means it will be done right, and that Mr. Mathews now has one of the largest and finest fountains in the state in successful operation after a slight delay on account of the accident to the fountain also has a thorough and attractive ice cream parlor in which to serve his dainty drinks and creams must have a man at the fountain who understands his business. He has engaged to do this work Mr. L. B. Kelly, a mixed drink expert of twelve years' experience in New Orleans, to operate the fountain as it should be done. At the fountain can be found the latest and most up-to-date drinks of all kinds and in life store one can get candies of all varieties. In fact there is no place in town to go where one will find a store as neat, tidy and up-to-date as the Greek Candy Kitchen.

COLLEGES MEET HERE SATURDAY

Polytechnic and University to Play Game of Baseball on Varsity Campus

The first regular schedule game of Fort Worth University will be played Saturday, when they cross bats on the University campus with Polytechnic College. Both teams are rounding into good form and a close contest with a generous supply of college rooting is expected.

Nies of the 'varsity, who has been laid up with a crippled hand during the week, is recovering rapidly and will be in the game. Two defeats at the beginning of the week, the 'varsity was in a sorry condition for the 'varsity. Tuesday the railway mail service team won from them by a score of 5 to 2. The game Thursday with Entre Nous resulted in a defeat, 5 to 4. On Friday the high school team was beaten, 11 to 5, and Saturday Draughton's Practical Business College was beaten 15 to 1. Batteries Saturday were, Thornberry and Spencer and MacPherson and Griffin.

Saturday's game with Polytechnic did not count in the collegiate standing, three games arranged later in the season deciding collegiate supremacy in this city.

STORE HAS NOVEL FRONT

Enterprising Grocers Make Improvements to Store and Add More Goods

One of the most decided improvements ever made for the front of a grocery store in Fort Worth has just been completed by the enterprising firm of R. H. Griffin & Co., 604-606 Houston street. The customary way of displaying fruits and vegetables in front of the place of business has been done away with, and instead a large porch has been erected on the store property, giving the full width of the sidewalk to pedestrians. The goods are now displayed on an elevation and are shown to better effect; also doing away with the many nuisances that goods of that kind are subjected to by pets.

The interior of the store has been enlarged and the petals removed, making the two rooms on the well lighted room. The walls have been papered and the woodwork painted and the general appearance of the store improved as much as is possible. The stock of goods has been fully increased, and the business of the firm has also increased with the enlargement of the store. Taken all in all the store is one of the neatest and tidiest of groceries in the city, and the firm deserves the increased business it is receiving.

Religious Period Observed

The annual forty hours adoration, observance of which by Catholics began Friday evening, closes today. The service is one in commemoration of the forty hours during which the body of Jesus lay in the sepulchre. Its observance began in 1584, but was not introduced to this country until 1853. It was then observed at certain places only, general observance throughout the country being authorized in 1859.

How the Stomach and Nerves Depend on the Inside Nerves

Every day medical science becomes more simple—and more certain. Simplicity and certainty go hand in hand. For science has learned that while there are many diseases, yet there are but few real causes of diseases. That is, there are many names by which we know aches and pains and disorders. But most of these ailments spring from a common cause.

For instance, indigestion, sour stomach, heartburn, dyspepsia and all stomach troubles—diabetes, Bright's disease and other kidney disorders—heart troubles, liver troubles, bowel troubles, nervousness, fretfulness, sleeplessness, irritability—all of these ailments are due to a single cause. Painful, disagreeable and dangerous, though they be, they are not separate diseases—and they are not to be treated as such. They are merely outward signs of inward trouble—nervous trouble.

Understand first that we have two entirely separate nerve systems. When we walk or talk, or act, we call into play a certain set of nerves—nerves which obey our mental commands. That is why the arm can be raised, or the mouth opened, or the eye shut, at the slightest desire. That is why your fingers can delicately pick up a pin one moment, and hold a heavy hammer the next.

But these are not the nerves we are to consider here. There is another set of nerves which manages and governs and actuates the heart and the stomach, the kidneys and the liver and all of the vital functions. You cannot control these nerves. By no supreme effort of mind can you make your heart stop or start—nor can you even make it vary by a single beat a minute. And so with the stomach and the liver and the kidneys and the bowels—they are automatic—they do their work at a certain set speed whether you are awake or asleep—whether you want them to or not.

It is on these inside nerves that life and health depends. So long as these nerves perform their proper duties we are well and strong. When they fail, we know it by the inevitable symptoms—stomach, heart, liver, kidney troubles. And these troubles have no other origin, ever, than in these same nerves. For the stomach, the heart, the liver, the kidneys, have no power of their own, no self-control. They owe their every impulse to the inside nerves. The nerves are the masters. The organs their slaves.

These automatic nerves are sometimes called the "sympathetic" nerves. This name is given them because of the close bond of sympathy which exists between all branches. This explains why stomach trouble often develops into heart trouble—why indigestion brings on nervousness—why diseases become complicated. It explains, too, why ordinary medical treatments are wrong—why medicine so frequently fails.

For, despite the discoveries of science, the common remedies of the day are designed to treat the organ, not the nerve—the symptom instead of the cause.

Don't you, though you may not know medicine at all, see that this is wrong? That it is mere patchwork? That while the suffering organ is enjoying its temporary relief, the nerve that is really sick may be getting worse and worse? Does this not explain to you why relapse so frequently follows a supposed cure? Does this not account for the uncertainties of medicine?

More than thirty years ago this thought came to me: "If life and health depend upon perfect heart action, upon proper stomach digestion, upon correct kidney filtering, why does not life itself depend upon these life governing power nerves—these inside nerves?"

I realized, too, that all ailments which result from one cause may, of course, be cured by one remedy. I resolved not to doctor the organs but to treat the nerve system which operates them all. For those who treat only the symptoms need a different remedy for each. Such treatments are only palliative; the results do not last. A cure can never come in disease of the stomach, heart, liver or kidneys, until the inside nerve power is restored. When that is done, Nature removes the symptoms. There is no need of doctoring them.

My remedy—now known by Druggists everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Restorative—is the result of a quarter century of endeavor along this very line. It does not dose the organ or deaden the pain—but it does go at once to the nerve—the inside nerve—the power nerve—and builds it up, and strengthens and makes it well.

There is no mystery—no miracle. I can explain my treatment to you as easily as I can tell you why cold freezes water and why heat melts ice. Nor do I claim a discovery. For every detail of my treatment is based on truths so fundamental that none can deny them. And every ingredient of my medicine is as old as the hills it grows on. I simply applied the truths and combined the ingredients into a remedy that is practically certain.

In more than a million homes my remedy is now known, and relied upon. Yet you may not have heard of it. So I make this offer to you, a stranger, that every possible excuse for doubt may be removed. Send no money—make no promise—take no risk. Simply write and ask, if you have never tried my remedy, I will send you an order on your druggist for a full dollar bottle—not a sample, but the regular standard bottle he keeps constantly on his shelves. The druggist will require no conditions. He will accept my order as cheerfully as though your dollar lay before him. He will send the bill to me.

Will you accept this opportunity to learn at my expense absolutely how to be rid forever of all forms of nervousness—to be rid not only of the trouble, but of the very cause which produced it? Write today.

For a free order for a full dollar bottle you must address Dr. Shoop, Box 782, Racine, Wis. State which book you want. Book 1 on Dyspepsia. Book 2 on the Heart. Book 3 on the Kidneys. Book 4 for Women. Book 5 for Men. Book 6 on Rheumatism.

Mild cases are often cured by a single bottle. For sale at forty thousand drug stores.

Dr. Shoop's Restorative

WHY I MUST BELIEVE IN THE EXISTENCE OF GOD

By Count Leo Tolstoy. (Copyright, 1905, by W. R. Hearst.) Under my feet is the hard, frozen earth, all around me lofty trees, over my head a clouded sky. I feel my body, I have a headache, I am lost in thought, but at the same time I know and feel with my whole soul that the frozen earth, the trees, the sky, as well as my body and thoughts, are only products of my five senses; they exist only in that shape in my mind, because the relations between me and the outer world are as they are.

What matters it that I die! All these things will not, therefore, disappear, but only change their appearance.

Death is nothing but a change of consciousness which makes it possible for me to know myself. Therefore, fear of death is nothing but a superstition. Death is joy and rest, which happens at the end of every life. For this reason sufferings are sent to men to prevent them from rushing into the arms of death. Otherwise, all who understand life and death would joy at death, and men would reach death only through suffering and pain.

Death is a destruction of the organs, with the aid of which I perceive and look at the outer world, a crushing of the glasses through which I am used to look, but they are substituted by others.

Death is the passing from one kind of consciousness to another. From looking at one stage, with its actors and scenery, we turn to another, and it becomes clear to us that we considered reality what was nothing but ideas. In the moment of death we perceive and become conscious of the true reality, and, therefore, that moment is of great importance.

Formerly I saw the manifestations of life, but did not stop to think from where they came, or why I saw them. But then I realized that all which I see comes from the light, which is my reason, and I was overjoyed to think that I had found an explanation which satisfied me. But my joy was short for soon I saw that reason is a light which comes to me through a dark glass. I see the light, but where the light comes from, or who sends it, I did not know, though I knew that it existed.

The origin of the light which appears to me is God. I have had the following experience: I began to think in an abstract manner over the questions of life, wherein it consists, what is its object, and what love is, and came more and more away, not only from the Old Testament idea of God as a man's mind, and at last one ceases to believe in Him. We can only reach a perfect faith in God when he reveals himself to us again and then he appears to us in a new manner, appears to us in a new light when we seek for Him with our hearts and souls.

CIRCUS DREW CHILDREN

Various Attractions Reduce Attendance at Schools

Superintendent Hogg's school report for the week is as follows: The Gentlemen's convention, the Fat Stock Show and the circus all conspired to make the attendance at the public schools this week very low; and yet the average attendance is 90 per cent, there being in eight buildings 90 per cent and over. The worst showing is in the "dismitted too early." In this the parents are wholly responsible. The board gave a full holiday for this purpose in order that the pupils and teachers might visit the Fat Stock Show, and yet with all these drawbacks the actual number in attendance this week was seven and 44½ over the corresponding week last session. The first grade teachers will meet the

PRINCE, BAREHEADED JOINS HIS FIANCEE

Gustavus Adolphus of Sweden Compelled to Abandon Plans for Banquet at Naples

NAPLES, March 28.—The Duchess of Comaught and her daughters arrived last night on the yacht Essex, which landed at the Santa Lucia pier. Prince Gustavus Adolphus of Sweden was waiting at another quarter of the harbor and had arranged an elegant banquet for his fiancée and her party. Owing to this delay his plans had to be abandoned and he rushed bareheaded through the rain to the pier, where he boarded the Essex, which immediately departed.

IT'S FOOD

That Restores and Makes Health Possible There are stomach specialists as well as eye and ear and other specialists. One of these told a young lady of New Brunswick, N. J., to buy medicines and eat Grape-Nuts. She says:

"For about twelve months I suffered severely with gastritis. I was unable to retain much of anything on my stomach, and consequently was compelled to give up my occupation. I took quantities of medicine, and had an idea I was delirious, but I continued to suffer, and soon lost fifteen pounds in weight. I was depressed in spirits and lost interest in everything generally. My mind was so affected that it was impossible to become interested in even the lightest reading matter."

"After suffering for months I decided to go to a stomach specialist. He put me on Grape-Nuts and my health began to improve immediately. It was the keynote of a new life. I found that I had been eating too much starchy food which I did not digest, and that the cereals which I had tried had been too heavy."

I soon proved that it is not the quantity of food that one eats, but the quality. "In a few weeks I was able to go back to my old business of doing clerical work. I have continued to eat Grape-Nuts for both the morning and evening meal. I wako in the morning with a clear mind and feel rested. I regained my lost weight in a short time. I am well and happy again and owe it to Grape-Nuts."

STUDENT VICTIM OF ACCIDENTAL SHOT

Ball Enters Chest, and is Supposed to Have Gone Around Body, Coming Out of Back

Special to The Telegram.

AUSTIN, Texas, March 25.—Edwin Davis of Center, Texas, a student of the State University, today was the victim of a probably fatal accident.

While the other students at the hall were at dinner Davis was in his room cleaning his pistol, and accidentally shot himself just over the heart, the ball coming out of the back.

It is the supposition of the physician who attended him that the ball struck a rib and passed around his body, emerging from the small of the back.

Davis did not lose consciousness up to late in the afternoon.

Standard Oil's Agent Ill

BOSTON, March 25.—Albert C. Burrage, many times a millionaire and the Standard Oil representative in Boston, has undergone an operation for an old malady. State street does not know the nature of the operation, but it is understood it was for appendicitis, and the whereabouts of Mr. Burrage is kept a secret.

AUSTIN, Texas, March 25.—The following telegram was today sent to J. C. Stubbs, traffic director of the Hariman lines in order to try to induce him to include Austin while you are in Texas, and meet and become personally acquainted with the members of this body. Please wire us as to what date we may expect you." Signed Tyman, Gray, Hudspeth, Wilson, Sevier, Johnson, Fitzhugh, Brown, Brelsford, Gilliam, R. H. Edwards, Welmsford Ware, O'Quinn, McKinney, Cottrill, Martin, Stone and Holland, senators.

"Mr. Stubbs is recognized," said one member, "as one of the leading practical and fair-minded men among the great railroad directors of the country, and should have at our hands the recognition

FIRE AT MEDINA, TEXAS

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, March 25.—Fire from an unknown cause destroyed sixteen tons of hay and sorghum belonging to Frank Herrera in Medina. A hay press, barn and other buildings were also destroyed.

City Prison Dry

After having served his time in the city prison, Ed Johnson was released Friday afternoon, only to be arrested a few hours later while attempting to pass a bottle of whisky to the prisoners. Johnson was discovered in the act by Officer Dillard and was again put under arrest and placed in prison.

Escaped Prisoner Caught

TACOMA, Wash., March 25.—Albert Bett, the bank swindler and escaped federal prisoner from McLean's Island, was captured at noon hiding in the prison barns. A large posse armed with rifles and bloodhounds had searched the country for four days.

BOAT CAPSIZES; FOUR ARE DROWNED

Sudden Squall Fatal to Pleasure Party in Skiff on Florida River

ROCK LEDGE, Fla., March 25.—Four people were drowned by the capsizing of a rowboat in Banana river during a squall. The dead are: Mrs. Miller, Chattanooga, N. Y.; Mr. Moore and his daughter of Holyoke, Mass.; Mrs. A. W. Baldwin of Georgiana, Fla. The only member of the party saved was Mr. Miller, husband of Mrs. Miller. The party of five started out from Ocean Beach for a few hours' row on the river, which is four miles wide. While out some distance from the shore a sudden squall sprang up, which kicked up a choppy sea in the rather shallow waters of the river and the boat was capsized. All were thrown overboard, but clung to the boat. The wind became stronger and the waves beat and battered the faces and arms of the people until they lost their strength and one by one sank. Miller's hold was torn loose from the boat and it was only by great effort that he managed to stay on top of the waves. He was carried two miles down stream by the current to a point opposite Tolus, where he was picked up by a rescuing party. The river is being dragged for the bodies.

WHITECAP TRIALS

COME UP IN MAY

Prosecution Busy in Franklin County, Miss., Cases Against Alleged Organization

JACKSON, Miss., March 25.—The indictments against seventeen alleged members of the Franklin county whitecap organization, charged with intimidating government homesteaders in that county, will be called at the May term of the Federal court in this city and District Attorney Lee is now busy engaged in preparing the prosecution. Potter & Thompson have been engaged by the defense.

The indictment against these Franklin county citizens was returned by the Federal grand jury on the strength of evidence furnished by a young college student named Willis, a resident of Lincoln county, who was employed by Governor Ardaman to aid Detective Hoyt during a recent investigation in Lincoln county.

ARIZONA AND STATEHOOD

Magazine Describing Its Qualifications Distributed Here

C. H. Goshen of Dudleyville, Ariz., who is in Fort Worth, has distributed among a number of the business men and influential citizens a publication prepared at Bisbee, Ariz. "Completely refuting the statements often made in congress that Arizona was not ready for statehood single and alone, and as an evidence of the resources of the state," as announced in the introduction.

The publication is illustrated with a large number of engravings and describes in an attractive way the cities and industries of the territory. A timely description of the Arizona members of the Rough Riders, a number of whom will attend the reunion of the troop at San Antonio, is also contained in the volume.

SAYS HE WRECKED ROCK ISLAND TRAIN

Homestead, Iowa, Man Makes Confession to Detectives—Believed to Be Demented

DES MOINES, Ia., March 25.—Eric Kutzleben, a German, 35 years of age, confessed tonight that it was he who wrecked the Rock Island passenger (Rocky Mountain Limited) at Homestead, Ia., last Monday night, sending the train to the edge of a dangerous precipice and seriously crushing two engineers and injuring several passengers. He says the accident was a culmination of plans extending over three months and that he did it for the purpose of "seeing the cars jump into the ditch." Pinkerton detectives who have been assisting local officers in a search for the culprit believe Kutzleben is demented. Kutzleben told the entire story of the attempted wholesale slaughter in jail. After removing the spikes and angle bars from the rails, spreading them, he placed a newspaper over the spot and then lay in a nearby cornfield to witness the horrible effect. So interested did he become in his infernal plot that he drew a map of the railroad and surrounding country, including with it a schedule of the trains so that he could make no mistake in the selection of a well-filled passenger train.

reaching from Director Thomas B. Scandrett to the lowest member of the department of public safety. It was virtually a raid on the city hall and it was no respecter of persons. Ten informants before Alderman Toole were made. At midnight all the warrants had been served and bail had been given except in the case of Director Scandrett, who has not yet been located. The raid was the result of a campaign to purge the city of grafters and vice. The raid was the most sweeping in its character that was ever made in a city in Pennsylvania and it places the anti-graft crusade far above any of the same character that have taken place in an American city, and caused a tremendous sensation.

BOSTON DRY DOCK NEAR COMPLETION

BOSTON, Mass., March 25.—The great dry dock at the Boston navy yard has been completed and on Monday the first test will be given. Before long it will be placed in commission, thus giving Boston the finest and largest dry dock in the world. It has taken just six years to complete this mammoth structure, which is large enough to hold the largest ship in the world. With an extreme length of more than 750 feet, the Godfre, the longest ship ever built, could be docked easily, and the New Providence of the Fall River line, the ship of greatest width yet constructed, could enter the dock with many feet for leeway. At some of the big courses the ship drawing thirty-five feet of water can be floated into the dock. The width of the entrance of the high water mark is 102 feet. There is thirty-four feet of water over the bottom of the dock at an ordinary tide and its total depth is thirty-nine feet. The dock cost the government officially $1,125,000.

GRAFTING CHARGES STARTLE ALLEGHENY

Information Against City Hall Officials Result in Wholesale Arrests, Including Police Captain

PITTSBURGH, March 25.—Like a thunderbolt from a clear sky an avalanche of information charging grafting struck Allegheny city hall tonight,

A Good Deal of Nonsense

About "Blood Purifiers" and "Tonics." Every drop of blood, every bone, nerve and tissue in the body can be renewed in but one way, and that is, from wholesome food properly digested. There is no other way and the idea that a medicine in itself can purify the blood or supply new tissues and strong nerves is ridiculous and on a par with the fallacy that dyspepsia or indigestion is a germ disease, or that other fallacy, that a weak stomach which refuses to digest food can be made to do so by irritating and inflaming the bowels by pills and cathartics.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets cure Indigestion, sour stomach, gas and bloating after meals, because they furnish the digestive principles which weak stomachs lack, and, unless the deficiency of pepsin and diastase is supplied, it is useless to attempt to cure stomach trouble by the use of "tonics," "pills" and "cathartics" which have absolutely no digestive power, and their only effect is to give a temporary stimulation to the stomach.

One grain of the active principle in Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will digest 3,000 grains of meat, eggs and similar foods, and experiments have shown that they will do this in a glass bottle at proper temperature, but of course are much more effective in the stomach.

There is probably no remedy so universally used as Stuart's Tablets, because it is not only the sick and ailing, but well people who use them at every meal to insure perfect digestion and assimilation of food.

People who enjoy fair health take Stuart's Tablets as regularly as they take their meals, because they want to keep well, prevention is better than cure, and Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets do both; they prevent indigestion and they remove it where it exists. The regular use of one or two of them after meals will demonstrate their merit and efficiency better

ENGLISH COTTON TRADE BOOMING

Lancashire Mills Rushed With Orders—All Mills Now Working at Limit

MANCHESTER, Eng., March 5.—The soup kitchen and the free coffee house which have been prominent factors in saving from starvation the common mill operatives in the Lancashire district ever since the American "bull," Daniel J. Sulley, and his associate, Colonel Brown of New Orleans, forced the price of raw cotton above the prohibitive trade figures, are now little else than memories and not in this generation has there existed such a boom as the cotton trade is now experiencing.

Every mill in the town is working to its highest capacity and the mills have sold all they can produce up to May and June of next year. Merchant manufacturers, millers and spinners who were seen by the correspondent of the Publishers' Press yesterday all agree that the foreign demand for Lancashire goods is unprecedented within their experience. The average production yearly of $450,000,000 worth of goods, $350,000,000 is shipped abroad. When it is remembered that nearly all the raw material of this cotton comes from the United States it can be seen how the high price of the staple would bring the residents of the district near to starvation. The only cloud at present on the horizon is the question whether the 13,000,000-bale American crop which has been forecasted to be realized in the second half of the year, will be met by the blunder has been made and the crop turns out to be considerably below the high figures of the ginner's estimates, the speculators will again become a factor and the boom may be interfered with. The men chiefly interested in securing a large supply of cotton by adding to the area of production are trying to raise $2,500,000 for the purpose of extending and propagating the cultivation of cotton in the British dominions, preferably in Egypt and Africa. Up to last night there had been secured for this purpose $850,000. Lancashire manufactured products are now being disposed of all over the civilized world, even in America, while South America and China exporters from this vicinity are crowding the manufactured goods from the United States out. India next shines as a great market, as here more than forty per cent of the total cotton goods manufactured in the Lancashire district are disposed of. The only section of manufacture which has never felt the full pressure of the boom is the home trade, and it is now beginning to show signs of improvement. The long spell of shortages compelled economy on the part of the workmen; they incurred debts with tradesmen and were compelled to pawn most of their furniture for food. These debts have now been cleared off, their accounts are being squared and the merchants are beginning again to transact business. It is not alone in the cotton market that the section is enjoying a boom, but the yarn market is sold twelve months ahead. For years the prices are obtainable for early delivery, while immediate delivery is almost impossible. This yarn export is mostly for India, China and Japan.

ARIZONA FLOODS CAUSE DAMAGE

Southern Pacific and Santa Fe Railroads Heavy Losers—Food Scarce at Globe

PHOENIX, Ariz., March 25.—Floods have done damage to the extent of $200,000 in Graham county, the upper Gila valley and other counties have suffered materially. The main lines of the Southern Pacific and Santa Fe have lost enormously by the overflow of the rivers. In this flood at least ten lives have been lost and probably more. Food is scarce at Globe and famine conditions prevail there and at smaller and more remote points. At St. Johns, flour, sugar and coffee have given out and the population is resorting to whisky, of which there is an ample supply.

Danderine GREW THIS HAIR AND WE CAN PROVE IT.
 Results from its use are QUICK and PERMANENT.

MISS DOROTHY CLARK, 2130 Greenhaw St., CHICAGO.
 FRANCES MARIE KNOWLTON, 980 Garfield Boulevard, Chicago, Ill., Age 4 Years.
 MISS LUCY MAY, 5036 Forestville Ave., CHICAGO.

whose photograph appears herewith has a most beautiful head of golden hair, thicker than the crown of glory of most mature women. Frances is only four years old, and her hair hangs within 12 inches of the floor. The extraordinary hair strengthening qualities of Danderine has grown for this little girl the most admirable head of hair ever possessed by a child of her age in the world. The other two ladies whose photographs are shown here are certainly delighted with the results they are getting. Neither of them having hair that would reach to their waists before beginning the use of Danderine.

IT IS POSITIVE AND PERMANENT IN ITS RESULTS.
 When applied to the scalp on either old or young, it makes the hair sprout and grow thick, long and beautiful, and there is no waiting around for weeks and months to see results, either. Any druggist will refund the price if it does not accomplish every result we claim. NOW at all druggists in three sizes, 25 cents, 50 cents and $1.00 per bottle.

FREE To show how quickly Danderine acts we will send a large sample free by return mail to any one who sends this advertisement to the Knowlton Danderine Co., Chicago, with their name and address and 10 cents in silver or stamps to pay postage.

BROWNS SHOW IMPROVED FORM

Defeat Ward's Panthers in a Loosely Played Game by Score of 16 to 2

Sixteen to two, briefly tells the story of a one-sided game of baseball played at Haines park Saturday afternoon, when the St. Louis Browns unmercifully twisted the Panthers' tails from the opening inning until the time the last ball was batted. A brilliant hit by Hubbard in the eighth, when he drove the ball to deep center for a home run, bringing in Cavender from third, was all that saved the locals from a shut out. St. Louis began to do things in the second inning when Dick Padden sent a two-bagger to center. When the smoke had cleared away St. Louis had gotten five runs. A contagion of stupid playing seemed to pervade the entire Fort Worth team at times and in the sixth and seventh innings fans expressed their feelings rather strongly. In the fourth inning St. Louis again boomed things in the run column, getting three more men across the plate. In the sixth and seventh, eight more runs for St. Louis, while there were only goose eggs for the home team, caused a series of groans from the grand stand. From this point the game was so irrefutably lost that little interest was manifested on the part of spectators except for a spontaneous outburst when Hubbard made his hit to center for a home run. Van Zandt, the St. Louis center fielder, caused a thrill of excitement in the game when he sent the ball to center, striking the top of the fence. An inch further and it would have been a home run; as it was, the ball struck the top of the fence and bounced back to Ponderer's hands and Van Zandt was forced to content himself with two bases. A redeeming feature of the playing of the home team was a pretty double play in the last of the fifth, when Hogsett caught Rockenfield's fly to left, then quickly threw to Horn at second base, catching Frisk who had started to advance to third. Ballew replaced Christian in the box in the seventh and was steady and cool as usual. Christian's work was not bad, though far from brilliant. He was handicapped by poor support. Pelly pitched the entire game for St. Louis and appeared to use all his available steam. He is credited with four shut outs and Christian with four strike outs and Christian with the same number. Vor Pagle, the new shortstop from Michigan, was seen on the local diamond for the first time yesterday, not in his official position, however, for he played third while shot was held down by Boles. He seemed strange in the new position and the error column shows him to have made two slips. Boles on account of illness was taken from the game toward the close. His place at short was taken by Cavender, and Ballew entered the box. Tackaberry made himself a number of friends when he declared Rockenfield out in the sixth for interfering with Mauch, as the latter was making a try for a high foul. The St. Louis man did not interfere in a positive sense, but refused to move from the plate to give the catcher room to work. St. Louis seems to be rounding into season form rapidly and played the real big league article.

Last Game With Browns

The last appearance of the St. Louis Browns in Texas will be this afternoon when a final game will be played with Fort Worth. The game this afternoon will also be the last that the Fort Worth team will play here until April 16, when they will have returned from their South Texas trip to meet the Sioux Indian team. Burleson will hold down third base this afternoon and Vor Pagle will take his official place at short. Ballew will pitch. Boles' illness will prevent his playing.

FOURTH WARD 10, ST. ANDREWS 9

In a hotly contested game played Saturday the Fourth ward team defeated St. Andrews' choir boys by the score of 10 to 9. Batteries: Bryne and Lewis; Keenan and John C. Rye.

Browns Easily Beat Dallas

DALLAS, March 25.—A free silver finish was given to the local team Saturday afternoon when the St. Louis Browns ran up a score of 16 to 1. St. Louis was very much in evidence with stick work, getting a total of 12 hits. Dallas' only run was gotten in the last of the ninth when Jackson, the local second baseman succeeded in getting across the home plate. The feature of the game was a double play by Jackson unassisted. Hynes for St. Louis knocked the only home run. The score: ST. LOUIS. AB. R. BH. PO. A. E. Gleason, 3b. 5 0 2 1 2 1

JUMPERS FEATURE AT BENNINGS TRACK

Evans' Montrip Wins Chevy Chase Event, Which Is Witnessed by Immense Crowd. BENCHMARK, March 25.—With two steeplechases, one the Chevy Chase event for German riders as the features of the card today, one of the largest crowds ever seen at this course was present when the post bugle sounded this afternoon. Numerous known society people who backed their favorites at an abandon that would have done credit to old-time sports. The honors of the Chevy Chase went to Mr. Evans, who had the mount on Montrip and won riding a very clever race, letting the horse do most of the work without urging him until after the last jump had been cleared. Summary: First race, five and one-half furlongs: Preen, 115 (Creamer), 2 to 5, won; Amber Jack, 99 (Baird), 7 to 2, second; Pesta, 94 (Walsh), 15 to 1, third. Time, 1:11 4-5. Second race, 2-year-olds, four and one-half furlongs: Baden, 110 (Shaw), 12 to 5, won; Cologne, 110 (Baird), 6 to 5, second; Ambitious, 115 (McCabe), 8 to 1, third. Time, 1:00.

Third race, 3-year-olds and up, seven furlongs: Bill Curtis, 113 (Redfern), 3 to 1, won; Divination, 110 (Burns), 7 to 1, second; Arabo, 118 (Fuller), 6 to 5, third. Time, 1:33. Fourth race, Chevy Chase, steeplechase, two miles and one-half: Montrip, 156 (Evans), 4 to 1, won; Sifter, 162 (Duke), 5 to 2, second; Jacobel, 115 (Kerve), 4 to 1, third. Time, 8:01. Fifth race, steeplechase, two miles: Woden, 153 (Connelly), 11 to 1, won; Black Death, 153 (Finnigan), 7 to 5, second; Gold Van, 146 (Holman), 20 to 1, third. Time, 4:32. Sixth race, selling, 3-year-olds and upward, mile and forty yards: Uncle Uriah, 107 (Baird), 2 to 1, won; Cincinnati, 110 (Burns), 9 to 2, second; Warranted, 110 (Johnson), 25 to 1, third. Time, 1:51.

INTERVENORS ARE GIVEN JUDGMENT

Claims of Creditors Allowed in Case Involving Receivership Secured

The case of the Texas Cotton Products Company, plaintiffs, vs. the San Jacinto Oil Company, defendants, and J. J. Culbertson et al, intervenors, which has been pending three days in the Seventeenth district court, came to a close Saturday afternoon, when the jury returned the following verdict for the intervenors:

ACTIVE CRIPPLES A fracas among cripples at the corner of Rusk and Twelfth streets, resulted in the arrest of two of the participants Saturday. They were J. C. Burns and Howard Parsons, the latter about 19 years of age. Burns, it is alleged, struck Parsons across the head with his crutch, inflicting a serious wound, which may result fatally. He was placed in jail on a charge of aggravated assault.

MILAM MANDAMUS CASE For the third time the mandamus case against County Judge E. F. Milam to compel him to approve Mike Cassidy's liquor bond was passed Saturday in the Seventeenth district court. Further hearing of the case is not announced.

OVERRULED MOTION Motion for a new trial in the case of J. A. Hightower vs. F. E. and L. H. Du Bose was overruled by Judge Irbly Dunklin in the Forty-eighth district court. Intervenor Armstrong excepted and gave notice of appeal to the court of civil appeals, Second judicial district.

VOTE ON STOCK LAW Ballot boxes, clerks' supplies, tally sheets, etc., to be used in the election to be held in Tarrant county to regulate the running at large of stock, will be distributed in the various precincts Monday. The election takes place April 1.

JOHN G. HARRIS' WILL The will of the late John G. Harris was filed Saturday for probate in the county court. It was executed at Shreveport, La., March 7, 1894, while Mr. Harris was commercial agent for the Texas and Pacific railway, making Mrs. Agnes L. Harris executrix without bond. The community estate is valued at $3,000.

MARRIAGE LICENSES W. H. Harris and Miss Dossie Boswell, A. L. Sims and Annie Cooper of Fort Worth.

VITAL STATISTICS Births—To Mr. and Mrs. Millner of North Fort Worth, a girl; to Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Kirkey of Samuels avenue, Fort Worth, a boy.

COURT OF CIVIL APPEALS Proceedings had in the court of civil appeals for the Second supreme judicial district of Texas at Fort Worth are announced as follows:

Motions submitted: Missouri, Kansas and Texas railway company vs. Clark, for rehearing; Gulf, Colorado and Santa Fe railway company vs. Giles, for rehearing; Athison, Topeka and Santa Fe railway company vs. Williams et al., for rehearing; Texas and Pacific railway company vs. Lang, for rehearing; Red River, Texas and Southern railway company vs. Reynolds, for rehearing.

company vs. J. V. Riley, from Mitchell county, was reversed and remanded unless remittitur of interest recovered from the 8th to 15th of November, 1905, he filed, in which case the judgment will be affirmed with costs of appeal taxed against appellee.

Reversed and remanded: Woodridge & Son vs. Fort Worth and Denver City railway company, from Hall county; Jolley vs. Diehl et al., from Tarrant.

Affirmed: The Barton-Parker Manufacturing company vs. Givens et al., from Childress county.

The fine nisi heretofore entered against the attorney for the appellee for unauthorized detention of the papers in the case of the Colorado, Rock Island and Texas railway company vs. Sullins, was set aside, a sufficient excuse having been given by said attorney for not having the papers in court at the proper time.

Cases set for April 15, 1905: Curry et al. vs. Gaddberry et al., from Denton county; Smith vs. Coble, from Carson county; Pecos and Northern Texas railway company vs. Lovelady & Pyron, from Randall; Missouri, Kansas and Texas railway company of Texas vs. Allen et al., from Smith; Williams vs. Wolfflin, from Potter; Missouri, Kansas and Texas railway company vs. Garrett, from Midland; Texas and Pacific railway company vs. Middleton & Wyatt, from Eastland; Harmon vs. Leberman et al., from Young; Johnson et al. vs. Burton et al., from Young.

FEDERAL COURT The criminal docket will be taken up at the United States circuit and district court at the federal building Monday morning. United States District Attorney Atwell, who has been slightly ill on account of which the criminal docket was postponed one week, is now recovered.

MASSACRE FOLLOWED MUKDEN'S CAPTURE

Band of Chinese Bandits Began Murder and Pillage Before Japanese Entered

BERLIN, March 26.—The newspaper Die Post has received by telegraph from its correspondent at Mukden, who has reached Yokohama, en route home, the details of the massacre that followed the evacuation of Mukden by the Russians.

Almost before the rear guard of the Russian army a band of Manchus entered and pillaged all of the hospitals and larger buildings, murdering all who opposed them. Before the Japanese arrived and drove them out of the place, they had killed fifteen surgeons and forty-six nurses, besides having terribly wounded many more. The dead were all horribly mutilated.

The Japanese attacked the China Manchus and killed many of them before they finally retreated.

The correspondent relates that notable change has taken place in the attitude of the Roman Catholic church toward cremation and that following the battle priests conducted the funeral of a Russian general whose body was cremated.

BRIBERY SENTENCE FOR BALL MAGNATE

Former Alderman Charles Havener of Milwaukee Gets Four Years

MILWAUKEE, Wis., March 25.—

Former Alderman Charles Havener, the American Association baseball magnate, was today sentenced to two years in the house of correction for bribery in connection with a special council permit two days ago. Mr. Havener is president of the Milwaukee team and a strong figure in the association. He owns several houses here and is wealthy. The disposition of his team has not yet been decided upon. A motion for a new trial was denied.

RUSSIAN CLERICALS COMPETE WITH FRANCE

Strained Feelings Caused by Activity of Greek Church Representatives in the Levant

LONDON, March 25.—Reports of efforts being made by Russia to substitute its influence for that of France in the Levant has caused considerable apprehension in Paris. It has been ascertained that orthodox priests have been sent in superior numbers to every point occupied by French Catholic priests, working secretly to undermine the influence of these latter while in a number of native sections Russia has been substituted for France without any notification being made to the authorities. In certain circles it is said that the Levantines have been brought to consider the Russians as their future masters to the exclusion of all others. As French influence in the Holy Land depends entirely upon the religious protectorate, which is already menaced by the associations, laws and the ruptures between church and state, this new competition is taken very seriously and prominent French clericals, who until now have been the firmest supporters of Russia, are beginning to say unpleasant things about their allies.

FOUR WOUNDED IN FEUDAL BATTLE

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, March 25.—The feud between the Austrians at Bingham, Utah, culminated this morning when four men were shot and two fatally injured. Deputy Sheriff Childstor and Tony Scotchovitch, the leaders of one faction, were both wounded, the latter believed to be mortally. Childstor was shot while attempting to quell the trouble. In the battle between the Austrians over one hundred shots were fired. The home of John Bogan, against whom the men had a grievance, was riddled with bullets and the family narrowly escaped death. The wounded men were brought to the hospital here and ten feudists were placed in jail. Bingham is a great copper camp in Utah and there are many foreigners among the population there.

OTTOKAR MALEK COMING!

I have the honor to announce that Ottokar Malek, the Bohemian pianist, will appear in concert at the Christian Tabernacle, Fifth and Throckmorton streets, Thursday evening, March 30.

That Malek is a great artist is the universal opinion of every musical critic and musician who has heard him in this country.

Local musicians have left no word of praise unsaid. The desire to hear him again, to listen to the wonderful sweetness, tenderness, depth and beauty of tone he brings forth has been frequently expressed. Because I have heard this wish so often, I have personally signed the contract that insures the coming of the Bohemian. No club or organization shares even remotely in the responsibility. I have undertaken it out of pride in Fort Worth, and confidence in the musical taste of a large and cultured public; confidence that has not been weakened by the oft-repeated criticism that "in Fort Worth, the greater the artist, the smaller the audience."

I have had many opportunities of learning that Fort Worth knows the best as well as any other city or community, and will place approval upon none other. Malek is a high priest of the piano, the gifted interpreter of melody entitled to his place among the great living artists.

Tickets will be $1.00, and may be procured at Ross & Heyer's music house, 711 Houston street.

Respectfully, LORTAH K. STANBERY.

Pale, thin, tired, nervous, depressed?

The treatment which we send will bring immediate relief from the awful tortures of itching, bleeding, burning, tantalizing piles.

We send the free treatment in a plain sealed package with nothing to indicate the contents.

Pyramid Pile Cure is put up in the form of suppositories which are applied directly to the affected part. Their action is immediate and certain. They are sold at 50 cents a box by druggists everywhere and one box will frequently effect a permanent cure.

By the use of Pyramid Pile Cure you will avoid an unnecessary, trying and expensive examination by a physician and will rid yourself of your trouble in the privacy of your own home at trifling expense.

After using the free treatment, which we mail in a perfectly plain package, you can secure regular full-size packages from druggists at 50 cents each, or we will mail direct in plain package upon receipt of price. Pyramid Drug Co., 1517 Main street, Marshall, Mich.

COTTON HEARING NOT YET FINISHED

Question of Reducing Rates Goes Over Until Monday at Austin

Special to The Telegram.

AUSTIN, Texas, March 25.—The hearing of the railroad commission on the proposition to reduce the rate on cotton now applying in Texas is now well underway. Evidence was adduced this morning to the effect any change in the rate on cotton, either making it lower or higher, would not affect the price of cotton one way or the other so long as it remains in the hands of the farmer, the price being controlled entirely by Liverpool quotations.

Every feature of the expense of producing cotton was discussed. At the afternoon session witnesses representing the compresses over the state were placed on the stand. The testimony of these witnesses was substantially to the effect that their enterprises are not now making any money and are seriously embarrassed. A reduction of the present compress rates would add to the embarrassment and in some instances would practically have the effect of destroying these properties.

Testimony was adduced to show that the force in compresses had been reduced to the lowest possible number for the purpose of minimizing expenses and keeping the plants going.

It was also shown that the ravages brought about by boll weevils and other causes, caused the losses of man-presses to run into the thousands. It developed that a compress with a capital stock of $40,000 had made only $66 net profits last year.

Inspection of a list of labor organizations in Texas endorsing the application for the reduction in cotton rates shows a total membership of 20,000. This includes the labor organizations from Dallas, Fort Worth, Waco, Houston, San Antonio and other Texas cities.

The hearing will be resumed Monday.

The matter will then come up in the Seventeenth district court Monday morning, and if this effort fails, Attorney Davis will seek to enjoin the democratic party from putting the name of J. H. Maddox on the ballot, alleging that he was not nominated by the qualified voters of the ensuing election.

Very respectfully,
R. L. ROGERS, County Clerk.

James S. Davis was at once retained to represent the city citizens' party, and will, on Monday, it is announced, apply for a mandamus compelling the county clerk to place McCampbell's name on the ballot.

The matter will then come up in the Seventeenth district court Monday morning, and if this effort fails, Attorney Davis will seek to enjoin the democratic party from putting the name of J. H. Maddox on the ballot, alleging that he was not nominated by the qualified voters of the ensuing election.

How Health Is Gained.

The story of a great deal of the unhappiness of women is a story of lost health. Women wonder how it is that little by little the form loses plumpness, the cheeks grow hollow and fall, and they feel tired and worn-out all the time. In a large proportion of cases when women are weak, run-down and falling off in flesh and looks, the root of the trouble can be traced to womanly diseases which undermine the general health. The proof of this is that women who have been cured of painful womanly diseases by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription have recovered their general health, gained in flesh and in appearance.

$500 Reward for Women Who Cannot be Cured.

The proprietors and makers of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription now feel fully warranted in offering to pay $500 in legal money of the United States for any case of Leucorrhoea, Female Weakness, Proflaps, or Falling of Womb, which they cannot cure. All they ask is a fair and reasonable trial of their means of cure.

"I suffered for three years with ovarian trouble," writes Mrs. Ann Quinn (Treasurer Woman's Athletic Club, of 502 Sycamore St., Milwaukee, Wis. "The treatment I took did not do me a particle of good, until a good neighbor who had been using Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription advised me to give it a trial. The next day took my first dose, and was my first step toward recovery. In nine weeks I was a different woman, my flesh which had been lumpy became firm, complexion clear and my health bright. It was simply an indication of the great change within from pain and suffering to health and happiness."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets invigorate stomach, liver and bowels.

Two elderly ladies, who were school girls together, met in Fort Worth a few days ago, after a separation of fifty-three years. They were Mrs. W. C. Pope of Tennessee and Mrs. J. T. Blake of this city.

By mere chance Mrs. Blake heard of her old friend being in Fort Worth on a visit to her son, W. C. Pope Jr., of 1906 Alston avenue, and she lost no time in calling upon her for a long talk over old times in Tennessee, when they were roommates in a seminary in Maury county. When these two left school and separated, in 1852, they were just budding into young womanhood. Now both are grandmothers and one is a great-grandmother.

absorption. The educational field is divided. Harvard takes the liberal arts and pure sciences; Technology has industrial science. Each will be supreme in its own field, unhampered by the competition of the other. Remaining distinct institutions, with distinct excellences.

and plants, each will control its own resources. But Harvard will place at the disposal of the institute the income from its great funds received through legacy. The great McKay bequest for industrial education, for instance, can not be alienated from the control of Harvard, but Harvard finds herself able to expend three-fifths of the income of the McKay millions through the agency of the Institute of Technology.

The Lawrence Scientific school will be discontinued. The agreement provides that the Technology shall seek a new site on the right bank of the Chase river and that the institute shall be under the direction of an executive committee, three of whom shall be members of the corporation of the university.

County Clerk Denies McCampbell a Place on Official Ballot

COUNTY CLERK DENIES McCAMPBELL A PLACE ON OFFICIAL BALLOT

R. L. Rogers Makes Written Refusal to Application of Citizens Party

WILL SEEK MANDAMUS

Dispute as to the appearance of Andrew J. McCampbell Jr.'s name upon the official ballot for the coming city election came to a climax Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock, when County Clerk R. L. Rogers refused to place his name upon the ballot to be used in the approaching election of a city marshal and assessor and collector.

County Clerk Rogers, in reply to the solicitation of a committee of the city citizens' party to place McCampbell's name on the official ballot, indicated the following letter which was placed in the hands of the committee:

L. M. Whitsett, Chairman, and B. E. Gray, Secretary, City Citizens' Party. Sirs:—I regret to notify you that from my understanding of the election laws of the state I would not be authorized to place the name of Andrew J. McCampbell on the official ballot as the nominee of the city citizens' party for the office of city marshal of the city of Fort Worth, Texas, for the election to be held April 4, 1905, because of the fact that there was no mass meeting or convention held in each voting precinct of said city for the purpose of making nominations.

Very respectfully,
R. L. ROGERS, County Clerk.

James S. Davis was at once retained to represent the city citizens' party, and will, on Monday, it is announced, apply for a mandamus compelling the county clerk to place McCampbell's name on the ballot.

The matter will then come up in the Seventeenth district court Monday morning, and if this effort fails, Attorney Davis will seek to enjoin the democratic party from putting the name of J. H. Maddox on the ballot, alleging that he was not nominated by the qualified voters of the ensuing election.

Very respectfully,
R. L. ROGERS, County Clerk.

THE VALUE OF CHARCOAL

Many People Know How Useful It is in Preserving Health and Beauty. Nearly everybody knows that charcoal is the safest and most efficient disinfectant and purifier in nature, but few realize its value when taken into the human system for the same cleansing purpose.

Charcoal is a remedy that the more you take of it the better; it is not a drug at all, but simply absorbs the gases and impurities always present in the stomach and intestines and carries them out of the system.

Charcoal sweetens the breath after smoking, drinking or after eating onions and other odorous vegetables.

Charcoal effectually clears and improves the complexion, it whitens the teeth and furthers acts as a natural and eminently safe cathartic.

It absorbs the injurious gases which collect in the stomach and bowels; it disinfects the mouth and throat from the poison and catarrh.

All ailments, such as charcoal in one form or another, but probably the best is in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges; they are composed of the finest powdered Willow charcoal, and other harmless ingredients in tablet form or rather in the form of large, pleasant tasting lozenges, the charcoal being mixed with honey.

The daily use of these lozenges will soon tell in a much improved condition of the general health, better complexion, sweeter breath and purer blood, and the beauty of it is that no possible harm can result from their continuous use, but on the contrary great benefit.

A Buffalo physician in speaking of the benefits of charcoal says: "I advise Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges to all patients suffering from gas in stomach and bowels, flatulence, indigestion, and purify the breath, mouth and throat; I also believe the liver is greatly benefited by the daily use of them; they cost but twenty-five cents a box at drug stores, and although in some instances the charcoal is more than in any of the ordinary charcoal tablets."

RAILROADS END RATE ARGUMENTS

Officers Believe They Have Made Favorable Showing.

Rumors of an Appeal

Nearly all of the local railroad traffic men have returned from Austin, where they spent the greater portion of last week before the legislature looking after the interests of the railroad companies in the state and seeking to prevent, if possible, pending action by which it is proposed to reduce the cotton tariff.

It is maintained by the railroads that if this extension is made it will mean a loss in revenue to the railroad companies of approximately $1,000,000 annually. The proposed increase in taxation embraced in bills which are about to be passed by the legislature will place an additional burden of about $1,500,000 upon the Texas railroads, according to estimates made by well posted traffic men.

While the commission, it is said, has practically made up its mind to order a reduction of the cotton rate, it was stated here Saturday by General Freight agent Preston of the Frisco that he believed that the railroads had made a favorable showing of their side of the matter, and that they may have succeeded in getting the views of the commission before final action is taken.

If the commission does reduce the cotton tariffs it is said unofficially the railroads will seek to enjoin the rates in the Federal court.

TIME EXTENSION SOUGHT

Orient Wishes Longer Time in Which to Reach San Angelo

During the past week R. L. McCaulley, an official of the Kansas City, Mexico and Orient railroad company of Sweetwater, has put in most of the time endeavoring to secure an extension of time from the bonus subscribers for the road to San Angelo.

The present contract, which was extended a year ago, will expire May 31, and those who agreed to make a loan are not satisfied with the progress being made in the construction of the road to that place.

The promise now made by Mr. McCaulley is that if this extension is granted $50,000 will be spent within six months for grade work between San Angelo and Sweetwater, and in two years the road will be completed and cars running into San Angelo.

One-third of the $50,000 bonus offered by San Angelo has been paid and is in the bank at that place.

INDEPENDENT ACTION

Frisco-Eastern Illinois Announces Summer Excursion Rates

It was learned here Saturday that the Frisco-Eastern Illinois roads have notified the Western Passenger association that independent action will be taken with respect to summer rates to Eureka Springs, Ark.

From June to September, inclusive, a rate of one fare for the round trip plus $2 will be made to Eureka Springs from Chicago $10, with a return limit of thirty days.

While other roads have signified no intention as yet of participating in the reduced rates, it is more than probable they will.

BROKERS AFTER RAILROADS

Will Take Offensive in Struggle with Texas Lines

Ticket brokers in Texas are making ready to battle with the railroad companies of this state in the way of litigation, and backed by the national association of ticket brokers, will soon file suits alleging violation of the anti-trust laws and also a violation of the Sherman act.

News comes from Galveston to the effect that the brokers have been gathering evidence, and they declare they have enough documentary evidence to convict the Southern Pacific, the "Katy," the Rock Island and the Santa Fe. Several former employees of the roads have entered the service of the brokers and three of the leading attorneys in Texas have been retained to prosecute the cases. It is charged the roads have violated every section but two of the anti-trust law.

T. & O. DEAL DISCUSSED

Meeting of Interested Officers at Houston Held Friday

An important conference of General Traffic Director J. C. Stubbs and General Counsel R. S. Lovett of the Southern Pacific is said to have occurred at Houston Friday, with regard to the taking over of the 230 miles of road known as the Dallas division of the Texas and New Orleans road. Both these gentlemen spent several hours Friday with the local officials of the road at Houston, but what was done has been kept secret.

Messrs. Stubbs and Lovett are to make a trip over the Houston and Texas Central and will then go west over the Southern Pacific to San Francisco.

BIDS RECEIVED FOR WATERWORKS

Special Meeting of North Fort Worth City Council Held to Consider Offers

For the purpose of opening bids for the erection of the North Fort Worth water works, a called meeting of the city council of North Fort Worth was held Saturday evening. Nineteen bids were opened, but no action was taken. It was decided to consider them all until the next meeting of the council Tuesday night.

Among the bids was one of McQuarrie Bros. of Hillsboro, who proposed to erect the entire water works, pumping station, reservoir, etc., for $97,880, and to take the $100,000 worth of bonds issued by the city of North Fort Worth at par. Another bidder proposed to erect the water works complete for $84,500.

At the council meeting the North Fort Worth fire department gave an exhibition run, going two blocks, making the plug connections and throwing water in fifty-five seconds.

INTEREST IN AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE

The preliminary work in connection with the convocation of the international agricultural conference which will meet in Rome to consider the formation and scope of the proposed international institute of agriculture is now in full falling. The general committee is drawing up a provisional program, which will be sent to the different governments in order to ascertain their views on the subject which it is proposed shall be discussed. The powers also will be required to appoint their delegates to the conference, which will meet next May. King Victor Emmanuel is taking a deep interest in the conference and attends to matters in person. His majesty has already received acceptance of his invitations from many governments. It is confidently expected that the institute will be a brilliant success. The general committee composed of thirty members is presided over by Count Eugenio Falini, one of the best-known and richest agriculturists in Italy. He resides in Perugia and is the possessor of large estates in Umbria.

The Monarch Range

The Monarch Range demonstration, conducted by the William Henry & R. E. Bell Hardware Company, was ended last evening with a total of twenty-one stoves sold as a result.

This store is one of the foremost hardware pushers of Texas, and when a campaign to sell the Monarch Range was started, the plan was to make it nothing but a complete success, and the company is well pleased with the results. During the entire week a demonstrator from the Monarch factory explained the stove to all visitors in a practical manner, showing in a conclusive way that their range was all that was claimed for it.

Coffee, hot biscuits and butter were served, that were prepared on the Monarch Range, used for demonstrating.

DEGREE TEAMS TO HAVE MEDAL CONTEST

Woodmen's Circle Groves Will Compete for North Texas Medal—Challenge Received by Organization

Maple Hurst Grove No. 5, Woodman Circle, met in regular session Thursday afternoon.

Owing to so many attractions in the city the attendance was not as large as usual. There were nine applications for membership received and four transfer cards. Four applicants were considered, all of whom were elected.

The degree team received a challenge from Manchester Guards of Manchester Grove No. 80 for a competitive drill for the North Texas medal, which has been held by Maple Hurst Guards for two years. The time and place for the competition has not been decided upon.

A meeting of the circle will be held Monday afternoon.

BRITISHERS WIN THE CHECKER TOURNAMENT

BOSTON, Mass., March 25.—The championship international checker tournament between Great Britain and the United States was won handsly by Great Britain, the final score standing: Great Britain 74, United States 24, drawn 284. The final game tonight between Stewart and Denver was not finished. Stewart claims a win and Denver a draw. It was finally agreed that the game should be played some time, but in all probability it never will. Pending this it was allowed in the score as a draw. One of the features of the play today was the defeat of Charles Barker, the American champion, by Richard Jordan, champion of the world, in one out of four games, the others being a draw.

Slaves to Spring Catarrh Restored to Health by Pe-ru-na.

MISCELLANEOUS

SPRING THE TIME TO CURE CATARRH.

Pe-ru-na Invigorates Mind and Body.

Hon. Wm. G. Hunter, Ex-member North Carolina Legislature, writes from the Census Office Building, Washington, D. C., as follows: "The greatest family medicine ever discovered, in my opinion, which comes from experience as well as observation, is Pe-ru-na."

Takes Pe-ru-na Every Spring.

Miss Tilly Marx, 421 14th St., Milwaukee, Wis., writes: "I am pleased to endorse Pe-ru-na, as I found it very efficient in ridding my system of a severe cold and catarrhal trouble, after I had tried many other remedies without getting relief."

MISS LYDIA HERZIGER

Miss Lydia Herziger, Grand Recorder of American Daughters of Independence, writes from Neenah, Wis., as follows:

"I have used Pe-ru-na now for four years, each Spring and Fall, and it keeps me perfectly well and strong."

"I am able to continue working and do not have to take a three months' rest, as I used to do every year. This is a great comfort to me, as I was not able to afford such a long rest."

"I find that it is a great preventative for colds and coughs and soon rids the system of all disease and is an admirable medicine. I can honestly endorse it."—Lydia Herziger.

Spring Catarrh.

Almost every one has come to believe that spring is a season that brings derangements of the body dependent on blood impurities.

This belief is an old one, is nearly universal, and has arisen, not as the result of the teachings of the medical fraternity, but has been learned in the bitter school of experience.

Nervous Depression.

Depression of the nervous system at the approach of spring is a fertile source of blood impurities.

There are general lassitude, dull, heavy sensations, continual tired feelings, with irregular appetite, and sometimes loss of sleep.

That Tired Feeling.

That tired feeling, which is the natural result of the depressing effect of warm weather immediately after the invigorating cold of winter, quickly disappears when Pe-ru-na is taken.

The Proper Remedy.

Pe-ru-na meets every indication and proves itself to be perfectly adapted to all their varied peculiarities. Pe-ru-na invigorates the system, rejuvenates the feelings, restores the normal appetite and procures regular sleep.

Do Not Delay.

Get a bottle of Pe-ru-na when the first languid feelings make themselves apparent in the spring. Take it according to the directions on the bottle. Continue this treatment through the first months of spring.

This course of treatment is no experiment; it is as positive in its results as any fact of science can be.

A Spring Tonic.

Almost everybody needs a tonic in the spring. Something to brace the nerves, invigorate the brain, and cleanse the blood. That Pe-ru-na will do this is beyond all question. Everyone who has tried it has had the same experience as

Mrs. Winnifred Power, an artist, who, in a recent letter from 246 7th St., Portland, Ore., says:

"I am pleased to speak a good word for Pe-ru-na, as I found it an excellent tonic and spring medicine and very effective in ridding the system of cold and catarrh."

"About two years ago my system was all run down in the spring and I thought I would try and see if Pe-ru-na would be of any assistance in bringing back my health and strength."

"I found that it was splendid and all the medicine that I needed. In a little more than a month I was well and did not need to take any more medicine."

"I shall recommend it to every one in need of a tonic, and know that I have only to take a few doses of Pe-ru-na when I take a cold and I will soon be over it."—Winnifred Power.

Nature's Assistance.

Spring is the best time to treat catarrh. Nature renews herself every spring. The system is rejuvenated by spring weather. This renders medicines more effective.

A short course of Pe-ru-na, assisted by the balmy air of spring, will cure old, stubborn cases of catarrh that have resisted treatment for years.

A Word of Advice.

To those who have been afflicted with chronic catarrh we wish to say that the spring season affords you a splendid opportunity to get rid of your disease.

It may be you have been afflicted for several years; you may have tried different remedies. Perhaps you have become discouraged.

Now Is Your Opportunity.

This failure was during the winter months. But now is your opportunity. Nature comes to your assistance at this season.

Just help her a little and she will bring you out of the quagmire in which you have been floundering so long. Give Nature a little assistance lest her struggles be in vain.

A Typical Case.

Geo. M. Fillmore, late 1st Lieut. 8rd U. S. Artillery, writes from 909 E. St., N. W., Washington, D. C., as follows:

"I brought forward from winter into spring a sickening case of catarrh which was making existence miserable for me, until I was induced to try a bottle of Pe-ru-na."

"An immediate improvement gave me hope, if not relief. I kept taking Pe-ru-na and it has so strengthened and relieved me that I am now confident of a cure. I heartily endorse Pe-ru-na for catarrhal affections and as a tonic for their weakening effects."—Geo. M. Fillmore.

A short course of Pe-ru-na now will be just in time. During the month of April you will find the strategic time to rid yourself of chronic catarrh, one of the most persistent, stubborn diseases in the whole list of human ailments.

After you have tried it you will say Pe-ru-na is positively the best spring medicine you have ever used.

Mr. James A. Moody, Ex-president Board of Education, Mineral Co., W. Va., writes from 314 Massachusetts avenue, N. E., Washington, D. C., as follows:

"My family have used Pe-ru-na for several years past with excellent results and I take pleasure in testifying to its superiority as a remedy for catarrh."

"Every spring that dreaded disease will show up in my family and we always turn instinctively to Pe-ru-na to ward it off."

"It has never yet failed, and I never lose an opportunity of recommending it to my friends."—James A. Moody.

A great many years of extensive trials of this remedy in this class of derangements have demonstrated that there are no failures.

Thousands of Testimonials.

Thousands of cases might be quoted in which Pe-ru-na has rescued people from the ravages of spring catarrh, and put them on a good, solid foundation of health.

We can give our readers only a slight glimpse of the vast array of unsolicited endorsements. Dr. Hartman is constantly receiving. No other physician in the world has received such a volume of enthusiastic letters of thanks.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Pe-ru-na, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

PHILOSOPHY IN A PEA POD

Two pilgrims, starting for a shrine. Kept pace with one another. An hundred span, and then one man Outsped his friend and brother.

It was a penance. Priestcraft said: "Go bind within your sandals A dozen peas, and at each shrine Leave Peter's pence and candle."

Pat reached the shrine, and 'neath a vine Knelt down to pray—or ponder? His friend came late, with limping gait And eyes dilate with wonder.

"Where are the peas?" the laggard said, "See, here are mine; just file 'em."

"Here, too, are mine," quoth Pat, "but 'fak! I had the sense to file 'em."

There is no mortal guile so dense But could, were he to try, Find golden grains of common sense In Pat's philosophy.

The countless irritants of life— Foes we may rightly style them— Would shrink to insignificance Had we the sense to "file" them. —Springfield, Mass., Republican.

A housekeeper returned to her grocer an article of home manufacture. In apologizing for her action she told her reason:

"I do not want to be unreasonable. I suppose the article is excellent else you would not handle it. But this firm has for years employed cruel and brutal drivers of their teams. I have seen wagons loaded with two or three tons to which were hitched a team of horses, neither of which would weigh more than eight or nine hundred pounds. The lines were in the hands of ignorant negroes or brutal whites. I have seen them take the butt of the whip and beat the horses over the head until the blows could be heard more than a block, beating them to make the team pull the wagon over a stone curb twelve, or fifteen inches high. I have seen it not only once, but time and time again. I have asked men in town and many others are familiar with this sight of overloading and cruelty by this firm. I have said that no matter what they have to sell, or what my needs may be that firm will never get one penny of my money. I have discussed the matter with some of my intimate friends, and they, too, have refused to patronize this firm because of their utter disregard for the helpless beasts that serve them."

The humane societies have here a hint of a weapon that could be effectively used in their crusade on behalf of helpless animals. Public sentiment is the most powerful thing in the world. If the society should decide to give publicity to the business man's mistreatment of his animals there is no doubt that such abuse would cease, and cease with celerity. For publicity would arouse an indignation that would undoubtedly lighten that man's receipts. If a man's heart is reached through his stomach, his attitude toward his moral obligations to society is affected through his pocketbook.

A business in Fort Worth is employing a large number of teams and men will not allow a whip in the hands of any driver. "If a man knows how to drive he will not need a whip. If he does not know how to drive he have no need for him," is the way the president of the company states his position.

The humane society will never have any business with the employees of this company.

There is a distressing condition of downcastness enveloping a portion of Fort Worth society and the newspaper reporters of the doing thereof. It has come to light that certain friends of foreign communities are sitting in the seats of the scornful because of our primitive habits and phraseology.

Hostesses entertaining on a large scale with several hundred guests expected are in the habit of calling in to their assistance, and as beautiful accessories, certain and numerous of their women friends. If the entertainment be in the evening it not unusually happens that the husbands of their friends are asked to aid and the flower of gallantry to the social bouquet. In our benighted state we have called these assisting friends "the house party" and felt a sense of satisfaction in having disposed of the situation with an economy of words without loss of elegance of expression. But it is now brought home to us that we are quite "impossible" in our primitiveness.

"House party" shows an ignorance that may be condoned but not without a shrug of the shoulders of the critics. As we say "house party" there comes with subdued emphasis the "unbonneted party" in reply. Whereupon we are properly silent.

Concerning the use of "house party" and the following to say: "Personal taste may prompt to any choice of words, but while choosing a little respect for the origin of our language might be shown."

"Bonnet" is of old French origin, adopted by the English after the conquest and a Scotch form has prevailed since. The definition of bonnet is 'that which encloses the head more or less at the sides, generally at the back, trimmed with ribbons, and tied on the head with ribbons."

"Modifications of the bonnet had followed, but the use of strings to tie it has always, even at the present time, distinguished it from other head coverings, formal or informal."

"Bonnet was originally a head covering for men only, and was marked by the absence of a brim. It still has this significance in Scotland."

"Its application is enlarged by using it as a term in mining operations, in fortifications, in railroading. It is also a nautical term, again it is part of the front anatomy of a whale. It is a gaming decoy or a locomotive attachment. It has justified its usefulness and is a valued servant of the verbal needs of men. But it is available as a bad propaganda."

"House is purely Anglo-Saxon. Can even the critics, fashionable critics, devise their society friends, and newspaper reports of their doing, to boycott good honest words of Anglo-Saxon origin?"

"Party belongs to the middle English period, borrowed from a Latin root, but when Geoffrey Chaucer incorporated it in his Wyclyffe Tales he justified its use by readers, writers and users of English ever after."

"House party" has been the adaptation by common sense and some linguistic knowledge of the ideas involved to social conditions.

"Because somebody, some time, somewhere originated the word 'house party' to define the presence of country house guests for a several days visit, it does not follow that a number of guests assisting a hostess for several hours during the day or evening might not as logically be a 'house party.' As for the ethics involved though the ladies receiving discharge some of the duties of entertaining, does not every well bred woman accepting an invitation to any gathering feel under an obligation to make herself agreeable to every one she meets? And is not this effort and pleasant duty but one phase of assisting the hostess to achieve a social success?"

"I think so, and that I take it is the reason some women in every community are much sought after by hostesses who have made reputations as social leaders."

"As for the use of the word 'unbonneted' as descriptive of these authorized sub hostesses, I am inclined to think the word will not find large favor among those who are happily familiar with the English language, to say nothing of the social leaders who have the saving grace of common sense. Every idea conveyed by the word is opposed to its use in this connection. The etymology of the word precludes its use by any one of information who has carefully studied the English language or any other. Furthermore, it does not cover the case if facts are considered. At an afternoon reception ladies calling of course come in street apparel, but at an evening reception it is not unusual to see many guests minus a hat. Bonnets are not now in vogue. The 'unbonneted' might include a number of callers who were not representing the hostess."

EVENTS OF THE WEEK

Mrs. W. J. Hiley entertained with dinner last Tuesday in honor of the birthday of Mrs. J. M. Adams. Mrs. Adams is one of the best loved and most highly honored of the early makers of Fort Worth history. She has been a zealous worker in every good cause, and her labors for the happiness of others has crowned her golden years with universal love.

Mrs. Bailey's guests to share in the occasion and its sentiments were Judge Bell, Mrs. E. Bell, Captain and Mrs. Hogsett, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Orrick, Mr. and Mrs. Thorp Andrews, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Adams, James Offut, Mr. Offut, Major Hunt and three grandchildren, Thorp and Sammie Andrews, and Lucy Harding Adams.

The guests were seated at a round table, radiant with pink and white garlands, and the birthday cake in heart shape had its emblematic number of tapers, also of white and pink.

During the progress of the dinner an eloquent toast was offered by the hostess to the guest of honor, which was responded to with affection and joined in by every one of the company.

Mrs. C. S. Williams entertained last Thursday evening for Miss Russell of Michigan, Mrs. Williams' visitor, and this parting compliment was as delightful as the guest of honor was charming.

Pink and white carnations adorned the dining room and parlors and ferns and palms were noticed everywhere. In the dining room the table had an elaborate Mexican cloth, with a brass mounted reflector in the center, surrounded with a smilax wreath. Radiating were a number of smilax sprays, and between them were carnation favors for the ladies, and bouquets of violets for the gentlemen.

Riddles on the Bishop of Oxford entertained the guests; a pipe with amber stem and gold mountings going to B. H. Main, a box of stationery to Miss Bess Ellis. The answers to the riddles were names of various parts of the human anatomy, and the cards were ornamented with skull and cross bones in Indian ink.

Mrs. Groom delighted with a number of songs. "Good Night Sweet Dreams" was repeated several times.

Fruit nectar was served by Miss Charles Mae Williams and Miss Evelyn Rigley.

The guests of the evening were Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Martin, Mrs. Gordon, Miss Ellis, Miss Littlejohn, Miss Watkins, Mrs. Groom, and Messrs. Americus Johnson, H. K. McCullum, Sam Beck, B. C. Walker, John Reeves, Q. T. Moreland and Donnell.

Mrs. Sam Cowan entertained on Tuesday evening with a dinner for her guests, Mr. and Mrs. Tomlinson of Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. MacKenzie and Mr. and Mrs. Turney.

On Wednesday evening Mr. Cowan had for his guests, Mr. Tomlinson, R. J. Kleberg of the executive committee of the Cattle Raisers' Association, Mr. Jackson of Alpine, also of the executive committee; A. R. Robinson of Colorado City, Mr. Davis of Houston, J. L. McDonald of Big Springs, R. P. Sanderson of Big Springs and A. P. Bush, one of the presidents of the Cattle Raisers' Association, serving in the early days of the organization.

There were other luncheons during the week at the hospitable Cowan home, and nothing offered the guests during the week surpassed in elegance of service or cordial welcome.

Announcement is made of the approaching marriage of Miss Bess Ellis to H. K. McCullum at the home of the bride's parents, next Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock. Miss Cogdell will be the maid of honor, coming from Washington on the occasion. The nuptial music will be rendered by Mrs. Groom, Miss Ada Darter and Miss Mary Swayne. Pink will be the scheme of decorations which will be elaborate.

The dance at the Imperial hall Monday, given by the members of the club, was exceedingly enjoyable. The German was led by the new leader, Henry Beck. Those present were Misses Saunders, Anderson, Harrison, Jenkins, Lott, Binyon, Fakes, Fakes of North Carolina, Jennings, Stripling, Waples, Oxshier, Crowley, Fields of Dallas, Conner, Chalk.

Messrs. Stark, M. E. Martin, Collett, Wynne, Harding, Griffin of Waxahatchie, Oxshier, Winfrey, Kingsbury, Beck, Sondley, Hicks, Pollock, Caldwell, Van Volkenberg, Scharbauer and Jordan.

The West Side Tennis Club will hold a business meeting at the home of Miss Andre Anderson Monday evening. The club is now playing every afternoon on the club court at the J. Peter Smith place on Third street.

D. C. Colp gave a number of pretty girls a trolley ride last Tuesday, taking them up and down the principal streets and out to North Fort Worth. Those of his party were Misses Penelope, Hunter, Anderson, Grace and Juanita, Hollingsworth, Edrington, Waples, Terrell, Swayne, Buxton, Wright, Binyon, with Mrs. Wharton and Mrs. Eddleman chaperons.

The S. S. C. did not meet this week. The next hosts will be Miss Waples.

The Crescent Bowling Club met Monday afternoon and spent the afternoon in their favorite pastime. The players were Messdames Godwin, Littlefair, Dingee, Van Zandt, Conway, Coke, Edleman, Terrell, Fielding.

The club will continue to meet until the weather becomes too unpleasantly warm for exertion.

PERS

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Platter of Dallas

were the guests last week of Mrs. James Anderson.

Mrs. Peyton Gwynne will arrive this week to be the guest for several weeks of Mrs. F. K. Gwynne, 915 Cannon avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Tomlinson of Chicago were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Sam Cowan during the convention. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ellison will return to the ranch in a few days after spending the winter here.

Miss Mabel Long returns tomorrow to St. Mary's after several days' visit at home.

Mrs. Sam Henderson is the guest of friends in Dallas.

Miss Russell of Lansing, Mich., who has been the guest of Mrs. H. W. Williams, has returned home.

Mrs. Nettie Everett Groom is visiting friends in Waco.

C. S. Williams left last week for New York via Galveston.

The receptions of the week of special elegance and social importance were those of the Commercial Club and the Wednesday Club. That at the Commercial Club was the offering of the entertainment committee to the visiting ladies, with Mrs. Winfield Scott as their gracious representative.

The club rooms were filled with handsome gowns and charming women—the local committees and the out-of-town callers.

The tea room was in daffodil yellow, the table covered in smilax, with double baskets of jonquils as decorations. Mrs. Wharton and Mrs. Morris Berney turned the tea.

Assisting Mrs. Scott were Messdames Ware, Saunders, Fakes, French, Waples, Barnes, Rhome, Bailey, Hamilton, Mackerson, Burney, Morris Berney, Wharton, Humble, King, Nail, Newlin, W. R. Thompson, F. D. Thompson, H. W. Williams and Paddock, and Misses Stripling, Saunders, Samuels, Fakes, Waples, Newlin, Annie Newlin, Nail, Fakes, Eyers, Vintok, Wright and Paddock.

The Woman's Wednesday Club reception was given by the entire club, all the members acting as a committee on reception. The decorations were simple but effective, consisting of white lilacs in pots and a tea table with a basket filled with bluish carnations, the floral adornment. Mrs. Conner and Mrs. King turned the tea.

The visitors noticed during the different receptions were Messdames Buel of Chicago, Turney of El Paso, MacKenzie of Trinidad, Youngblood of Midland, Riggs of Midland, Van Tassel of New Jersey, Dr. Johns of Dallas, Gans of Dallas, Slaughter of Midland, Goode of Kansas City, McElroy, Halsell of Decatur, Waggoner of Decatur, Samuels of Greenville, White of Weatherford, Boog-Scott of Coleman, McFarland of Weatherford, Oliver Loving of Jacksboro, Ed Halsell of Vinita, Hall of Midland, Al Jopham of Amarillo, Swearingin of Quarah, and Miss Boog-Scott of Edinburgh, and Misses Gee and Wallace of Dallas.

Miss Bonnell entertained a few friends in the Arion Club last Tuesday evening, in honor of her friend, Miss Tuttle. There was a chafing dish and much skill in the use thereof, and afterward there was music, with Professor Schreiner, Mr. Pitzer and others contributing.

Those of the party were Mrs. and Mrs. Sigbee, Misses Whittaker, Boone, Paddock, Malone and Ray, and Messrs: Pitzer, Hemphill, Pease, Estes, Iioce, Boaz, Ewing and Ledgerwood.

The Wives of the Elks enjoyed an informal game of whist in the club rooms Friday afternoon, the prize, a cut-glass nappy, going to Mrs. Blythe. Six tables played, the small parties are proving most popular with the ladies and are eagerly anticipated.

The Woman's Missionary Society of the First Presbyterian church will hold its annual praise service next Friday afternoon. A musical program has been prepared by Rollin M. Pease and refreshments will be served.

A tea will be given by the ladies of the First Presbyterian church at the residence of Mrs. Shannon in West Fifth street next Tuesday afternoon. An invitation is extended to all friends.

CLUBS

The Panther City Lodge No. 2640 of the Coming Men of America gave an entertainment Friday evening at the residence of Mrs. M. W. Stokes, 155 Galveston avenue. Her daughter, Miss Mabel Ross, Elizabeth Harvey, Mary Vance, Louie Richmond, Mercey Chapel, Hattie Dixon, Ree Smith, Gertrude Robinson, Sarah Aitken, Edith Telfair, Lissie Ward, Fanny Forber, Pearl Forber, Beulah Wilkes, Viola Richmond and Messrs. The Monday Book Club discussed magazines, the round table talk being led by Miss Paddock, with contributions by Mrs. Craddock, Miss Newlin and Mrs. Henderson.

Mrs. Crandell's talk was on Florence.

The daughters of the American Revolution held a business meeting in call session last Friday morning at the residence of Mrs. W. V. Galbreath. The business concerned representation at the coming general meeting of the D. A. R. in Washington City and other routine matters.

The St. Cecilia's will meet Tuesday night this week instead of Monday. The temporary change is made so that the members may attend Miss Updegraff's concert.

The open meeting of the Trio Club will be given on the evening of Tuesday, April 4, with the president, Mrs. Davidson, as director. The meeting will be in the Christian Tabernacle and in consequence all members will be entitled to twenty-five guests. The list of these guests must be sent to Mrs. Davidson at once. Mrs. Will be the last open meeting of the year.

All participating in the chorus for the Euterpean meeting are requested to meet with Professor Lamb Tuesday evening. Promptness is urged as the rehearsal is most important.

The business session at the meeting of the Euterpean Club last Tuesday included the resignation of Mrs. Jacobson as director of the chorus and the treasurer's report and announcements for the open meeting. Mrs. Davidson was elected the club vice president of the Federation of English Singing Societies and Mrs. R. J. Lamb and Mrs. Ben M. Terrell were transferred to the active membership list.

The following Chopin program was rendered under the direction of Mrs. Hunton: Piano, waltz in C sharp minor, Miss Overstreet; voice, Maiden's Wish, Mrs. Stanbery; piano, twelfth nocturne in G major, Miss Tomlinson; voice, Mrs. Gross; piano, nocturne in G minor, Mrs. Coe; Miss Overstreet will direct the next afternoon meeting, April 18, sacred music being the theme.

Owing to recent interruption in their meetings, the Penelope Club will dispense with the monthly social and instead have the lesson that should have been on March 21. This includes chapters 8 to 11 on German history. Discussion of current events will follow.

The dance at the Elks' club rooms Wednesday evening was in honor of visitors and many out-of-town guests accepted the invitation. There were no special efforts, as the program, either in decorations or arrangements, but the welcome was sincere, the music more than excellent, and enjoyment was universal.

Among the large crowd were noted Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Slaughter of Midland, Mr. and Mrs. McElroy of Midland, Mrs. Riggs of Midland, Mr. and Mrs. Camp of Midland, Mr. and Mrs. Morgan Bryan, Mr. and Mrs. Talbot, Mr. and Mrs. Davis, Dr. and Mrs. Lord, Mr. and Mrs. Colvin, Mrs. Grassie, Mr. and Mrs. Watson, Mr. and Mrs. Stonestreet, Mr. and Mrs. Brock, Mr. and Mrs. Jere Van Zandt, Mr. and Mrs. Tipton, Mr. and Mrs. Wheeler, Mr. and Mrs. Ellis, Mr. and Mrs. Bowie, Mr. and Mrs. McCarty, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ellison of Memphis Texas.

Tuesday afternoon, inviting her friends in for a cup of tea at 5 o'clock. Mrs. A. R. Buel of Chicago was the guest of honor, though Mrs. Drum of Kansas City, Mrs. Ike Pryor of San Antonio, Mrs. Turney of El Paso, Mrs. MacKenzie of Trinidad, Mrs. Hass of Midland, Mrs. Kimberlin and Mrs. Tomlinson of Chicago were other guests for whom hospitality was happily expressed.

Mrs. Newlin was assisted by the members of her family, Miss Bennett, Mrs. Charles Nash, Miss Nash, her daughter Miss Newlin and Miss Annie Newlin, and Miss Edgington. Fragrant white and pink blossoms of early spring were used as floral decorations with deep eyed violets as companions.

The courtesies that marked the week ended with the business of the convention in emphasizing to our friends and guests the important place they hold in our esteem. There were many luncheons and dinners of a private nature; there were brilliant receptions at the Commercial Club and the Woman's Wednesday Club.

The Daphne Club of the Tribe of Ben-Hur will hold a business meeting Monday. This meeting will be to arrange for a summer amusement club to substitute for the Daphne dances. Several young folks occupied the Crescent alleys Friday evening, and bowled merrily from 8 to 11 o'clock.

The dramatic talent of the Tribe of Ben-Hur had an opportunity for expression in "Pygmalion and Galatea," which was rendered last Wednesday night to a large and enthusiastic audience. The preparation had been under the direction of Professor Heathcote, and both director and performers came in for much praise.

The cast was as follows: Galatea, Miss Cora Wilcox; Myrtle, Miss Addie Miller; Cynisca, Mrs. A. B. Moore; Daphne, Miss Jett Winters; Agassimo, Mrs. Elmore; Leucippi, George Adams; Chrysoos, Wright Gaines; Pygmalion, Professor Heathcote.

The members of the Trio Club will give a complimentary concert next Tuesday evening at the Christian Tabernacle. They have issued invitations to all of their music loving friends.

At the Arlon concert Thursday night for the visiting cattlemen, L. H. Ducker directed in the absence of their regular leader. Mr. Ducker is an accomplished musician, and any club would be fortunate to have the baton in his hand permanently, for their profit.

Much interest is being expressed in the forthcoming kindergarten convocation at San Antonio during the flower fete. There will be large attendance from Fort Worth.

The Woman's Auxiliary of the Railway Mail Service Club met with Mrs. W. A. Terrell Thursday afternoon. The committee program for next year, as appointed, composed of Mrs. Rader, Mrs. Rutledge and Mrs. Hubert. The discussion of current events and a penny contest constituted the entertainment of the afternoon. Mrs. Norman won a cup and saucer in a cut with Mrs. Taylor. Cake and ice cream was served.

The alumni of the Fort Worth Kindergarten college will give a tea at the residence of Mrs. John Winter, 710 West Second street, next Friday afternoon, March 31. NORTH FT. WORTH AND ROSEN HEIGHTS For the benefit of the parsonage of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, in North Fort Worth, a unique entertainment, known as a "measuring party," will be given next Thursday evening. Every one who attends will be measured, then required to pay one cent for every foot of his or her height and a cent for every inch over the number of feet. A musical program will be rendered and refreshments will be served.

By removing the board flooring two prisoners confined in the North Fort Worth calaboose, made their escape at midnight Thursday. The hole in the floor was discovered in time to prevent six other prisoners from making their escape. Jerry Main, who was charged with fighting, and a negro whose name is not known, were the men who gained their freedom.

Rev. J. P. Musset of North Fort Worth has the record of having performed twenty-two marriage ceremonies since Dec. 1, 1904. This breaks all nuptial records in the city and county. Mr. Musset is 61 years of age and has been a pastor in the Northwest Texas conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, for forty-one years.

Miss Belle Bennett, president of the Woman's Home Mission Board of the United States, will speak at the North Fort Worth Methodist church at 11 o'clock this morning. Miss Bennett will speak concerning home mission work.

BOLT MILL HAS BEGUN OPERATION

New Iron Works Will Soon Open All Departments—Big Hotel Being Built

Receipt of only a small part of the machinery is necessary before the iron factory and bolt mill erected on the south side is put into active operation. The bolt factory has already been put in operation and is supplying local trade. Ben Waggoner, one of the incorporators of the company, said Saturday that ten additional expert workmen with their families have been sent for, and will arrive soon from Ohio, where the business was formerly conducted. A twenty-room hotel is now being erected near the iron works by Contractor Walker for the Interurban Land Company, who, it is announced, are about to begin the construction of a number of small cottages. The factory is expected to be in full operation within a few weeks.

Master Robert G. Francis celebrated his fifth birthday last Monday afternoon, a number of little friends helping him to make the day pleasantly jolly. Miss Marie Virginia Nicholson was married yesterday afternoon at the residence of her mother, in Belknap street, to W. B. Townsend. There were only a few intimate friends present. Rev. B. B. Ramage officiated. Mr. and Mrs. Townsend will reside at Fort Smith, Ark.

STUDENTS PLAN COMMENCEMENTS

Fort Worth Colleges to Graduate Classes During the Last Week of May

Commencement plans are already in the air. At a meeting held during the past week the students of Fort Worth university took preliminary steps toward the graduation exercises to be held May 25. Frank Lundberg, a member of the senior class, was appointed a committee of one to begin the arrangements for the event. Other committees will be named later. Commencement of the medical department of the university will be held April 6 as announced. Polytechnic college will hold exercises beginning May 27 and continuing to May 13. The program of events has not yet been arranged. The date for the high school commencement has not yet been fixed by the school board, in whose hands the matter is placed.

Muautl Home & Savings Association,
611 Main Street, Fort Worth, Texas.

In submitting its annual statement in this its eleventh year the Mutual Home and Savings Association takes a pardonable pride in its past record. It is the only Savings Association in the city with home management and capital, having survived without a flincher the crucial years following the collapse of the "boom." Yet through it all, from the very first, through good days and bad, the Mutual Home with exact promptitude paid its regular 8 per cent cash dividends. Starting from the smallest beginnings, feeling its way carefully, it is thoroughly grounded in every step of its growth, and secured a foundation on which to build a magnificent superstructure. The reserve now building from a part of its surplus earnings go to show its increasing earning power.

For the benefit of newcomers and those not familiar with the Mutual Home and Savings Association, ITS WORKING PLANS ARE SET FORTH BRIEFLY AS FOLLOWS:

Loans are made exclusively on Fort Worth real estate, in order that every piece of property may be personally inspected and borrower investigated by the Appraisal Committee. Loans on homes are given preference at from 50 to 60 per cent of the valuation. Only accessible and desirable property is accepted. Loans are repaid in monthly payments with a minimum of $1.50 to the hundred. These payments include BOTH PRINCIPAL AND INTEREST; interest abating with reduction of principal. Borrower, however, may make excess payments as well as pay off the loan at any time, without any premium or penalty charged, interest being charged only for the actual time for which loan is kept in force.

Stockholders and depositors are paid dividends semi-annually, January and July of each year, at rates shown in below schedule:

8 1/2 per cent per annum on paid up Certificates withdrawable in 4 years.
7 1/2 per cent per annum on paid up Certificates withdrawable in 3 years.
7 per cent per annum on paid up Certificates withdrawable in 2 years.
6 1/2 per cent per annum on paid up Certificates withdrawable in 1 year.
6 per cent per annum on paid up Certificates withdrawable at any time.
6 per cent per annum on Book Deposits withdrawable at any time.

Paid up certificates are issued in any even hundreds ($100—$300—$1,200, etc.) under one of the above classes at owner's election. Book Deposits can be made in any amounts, large or small, can be withdrawn in part or whole at any time subject to the 30-day clause, which clause, however, is not enforced but is simply a precautionary measure.

Deposits in Saving Depositors' Department by non-members, withdrawable on demand, receive 4 per cent interest. Such depositors may have the use of one of the Association's Home Safes free.

Any further information sought will be cheerfully furnished by the Secretary, A. ARNESON, Office, 611 Main St. Phone 2269 3-r.

Wm. M. Hill's colts never started for time records; only for stakes and purses.

WM. HILL is the sire of more early extreme speed than any stallion living, and has sired more large, fancy road horses and match teams than any stallion in the southwest.

At the Texas State Fair his colts were first premiums for best carriage teams, and first in single and double roadster classes. Wm. M. Hill has never been defeated in the harness classes, having been exhibited at several Horse Shows and State Fairs in and out of Texas, winning at Dallas first in the roadster class and first in the sweepstakes, all ages and sexes, creating all the best road horses in the country.

WM. M. HILL, sire of Mex and Sid, the $5,000 show team, and many others just as good. Now is the time to breed. Good horses are scarce and selling higher than ever before.

Breed to WM. M. HILL. His colts are game race horses and great show horses and bring the highest prices. His colts held three world's records.

IF YOU WANT YOU WANT

If we have what you WANT you won't WANT long, for we try awful hard to give people just what they WANT, and if we have not got what you WANT, we will try and find what you WANT, for we WANT to please our customers' wants.

If you WANT a house, either for cash or easy payments, in Fort Worth, we have what you WANT. If you WANT a Brazos bottom farm, we have what you WANT. If you WANT a truck farm, near Fort Worth, we have your WANT. If you WANT land on the Interurban, we can fill your WANT. If you WANT to make some quick money on vacant lots, your WANT satisfied, WANT a well stocked ranch, from 1000 to 250,000 acres, any size you WANT, or WANT a stock of merchandise, we can please your WANTS. If you WANT a hotel we have them, and WANT to sell. In fact we WANT to sell you anything you WANT in the real estate line, and if you WANT to sell anything, tell us about it. We WANT to sell it for you. We WANT to see you and show you how bad we WANT. Yours truly,

NELSON & DRAUGHON BUSINESS COLLEGE, INC.

Corner Sixth and Main Streets, Fort Worth, Texas

Is a thoroughly reliable, up-to-date educational institution, and is recognized as such, not only in Fort Worth, but throughout the entire South, and we attribute our success to the fact that we have been honest in our dealings with the public and have been conscientious in our advertising, making our work in the interior correspond with our advertising without. We have never resorted to false promises or questionable methods in order to secure patronage, as others have done, but have always made it an aim to do exactly as we advertise, and to appeal to the better class of people. In this way we have gained the respect and confidence of our patrons and of the business men throughout the entire South. In addition to this, we have never spared either labor or expense in adding any new feature that would, in our opinion, strengthen our school.

OUR COLLEGE IS OWNED BY FORT WORTH BANKERS AND BUSINESS MEN

Our stockholders and directors are composed of some of the wealthiest and most influential business men of this city. Our board of directors is composed of the following well-known persons: J. W. Draughon, president of the Nelson and Draughon Business College; W. E. Connell, cashier First National Bank, president of the Commercial Club; Ben O. Smith, cashier Farmers and Mechanics National Bank; A. E. Want, president A. E. Want Grocery Company; G. H. Colvin, cashier American National Bank; O. Nelson Draughon, teacher and treasurer Nelson and Draughon Business College.

We give a thorough course in the shortest possible time in all commercial branches. A life scholarship, 30 days only, $33.00, all cash, or payable monthly. See us now. Phone 1307. Write today for catalog. Address NELSON AND DRAUGHON BUSINESS COLLEGE, Sixth and Main Streets, Fort Worth, Texas.

CORBETT'S GOSSIP

Copyright, 1905, by the News paper Enterprise Association. BY JAS. J. CORBETT. FIGHTS NOT BARRED IN 'FRISCO "Fugilism to the front again," is the slogan in San Francisco. Senator Ralston's anti-fight measure was hipped by the legislature and sent flying through the air for two years more. It means fun galore for the ring fans in California and 'Frisco in particular for the next two years at least. While the Golden state lawmakers were busy with the Ralston bill, the Yankees down in York state were boosting the Frawley bill, which permits of fifteen-minute amateur bouts. Of course the former is the more important because it permits the clubs in California to continue holding long-distaunce contests between professionals, while the Frawley measure allows but five rounds at the most. What effect the stops taken in the two states will have on the sport remains to be seen. It is to be hoped that the promoters of the game will use enough sense to boost the sport, and not knock it. In New York where there has been no fighting it is more liable to receive careful attention, but out on the coast there is a lot of haggling going on all the time between the manager of this club and that, between Morris Levy, of the Hayes Valley Club, and Alex. Greggins of the San Francisco Club, and Jim Corbett of the Yosemite Club. It was their selfish actions that almost put the sport under the sod on former occasions, and after the narrow escape this time they ought to realize that it is entirely too dangerous to keep up the scrapping between themselves.

WALCOTT TO DO STUNTS After a temporary retirement for six months, Joe Walcott, the simon-pure welterweight champion, again announces his intention of doing things in the squared circle. Joe tried to get gay with the business end of a poggun, and the result was a perforated mitt, which may interfere some with his ability. If it doesn't, then let the talkative ones within the reach of the swed-off black look out, for Joe for his weight is about the toughest nut the game has ever seen. What chance would "Buddy" Ryan, the present claimant to the welter title, have with him? Walcott is billed to do things to one George Fumher, dubbed the Melbourne Kangaroo, at Portland, Maine, in the near future, and unless the latter is several pounds over the average scrapper, Joe will blow out his candle in quick order. And if Joe gets back in the pugilistic limelight it will mean a quick ending to the present welterweight, B. Ryan.

SECONDS SHY AT KNOCKOUTS A knockout in the course of another two years in San Francisco. It has got so that the seconds of a fighter are keenly on the lookout, and generally able to decide for themselves whether the fight is over before the final wallop comes. It is lots better for the records to say "lost" than "K. O." Take the fight between Corbett and Nelson only a few weeks ago: The Denver lad would have gone down in one of those peaceful sleeps in ten more seconds had the battle gone on, but his seconds were too wise for that, even if he saw his star fastly falling behind the horizon of oblivion. The sponge was thrown in the ring, and when the records are published Nelson will not be recorded with a knockout, but with a win, and Corbett a "lost."

HOW KID MCCOY KIDDED 'EM

Kid McCoy is one of the greatest actors the ring has ever developed. Not a long while ago he was on his way to South Africa to rest up. On his way over on the boat, a series of athletic exercises and contests were arranged, in which McCoy was very active. He took several first places and became quite a hero. After the games were over a set of gloves were produced and sparring matches arranged. There happened on the boat on that trip a very clever fellow who had done a lot of amateur work in the ring. Because of his success in the other events, McCoy was picked to put on the gloves with him. Kid instead of stepping up to him like he was capable of doing, put up the wrong hand. The other fellow laughed and tried to explain to him the first principal of fighting or boxing as it was called on the boat. Everyone aboard looked to see McCoy get his block knocked off. Well Kid started to dance around like a kitten at play with a mouse before devouring it. After about twenty minutes of fun the other fellow looked seriously at McCoy and said: "I believe that if you were to turn your attention to fighting you would make a good man." Kid thanked him and smiled. One of the men who sailed on the same P. and O. steamer that McCoy took to South Africa, was a wealthy Britisher, who knew a fighter when he saw him, so he thought, and liked the game very much. He met McCoy and said to him that if he would go in for it he could make some money meeting the champion of South Africa. McCoy was willing, but the Britisher wanted to see McCoy up against a tougher proposition before he would risk his money on him, so he arranged a match with a professor in South Africa after they landed. McCoy took the genial teacher through 2 couple of rounds and it pleased the Britisher so much that he at once declared his willingness to back him. Unfortunately at that time McCoy was taken sick and had to drop boxing. When he recovered some one had discovered his similarity to a picture of Kid McCoy and the stuff was off. McCoy to this day will tell you that was the fastest thing that he ever overtook. JAS. J. CORBETT.

TRIBUTE PAID TO JUDGE J. H. REAGAN

House Crowded at Memorial Exercises in Honor of the Texas Statesman

Special to The Telegram. AUSTIN, Texas, March 25.—Long before the hour for the Reagan memorial exercises last night to commence representative hall was comfortably full of expectant people, anxious to hear the first word.

The gallery and columns had been deftly oiled by the Daughters of the Republic and Confederacy and tactfully but simply draped in black and white. The decorations around the speakers' stand was most elaborate, over the stand in a segment wrought in snow white flowers was "In Memory," while just below was a Texas star formed of electric lights; still lower was a crayon portrait of Judge Reagan, beneath which were the letters "C. S. A." in white flowers. Forming a background for these appropriate designs were flags of the republic of Texas, United States, Confederate states and state of Texas. In front of the stand appropriately displayed sober ferns and palms, the whole being delightfully effective and highly creditable to the fair hands and noble hearts of the patriotic ladies who gave it fashion and form.

Promptly at 8 o'clock the senate was announced at the door of the house, Speaker Robertson instructed them to be admitted and seated in the center aisle. A few minutes later the Daughters of the Confederacy and Republic entered, filed to the north side, where seats had been specially provided.

Dr. Lowler delivered the invocation, after which an appropriate song was beautifully rendered by a special choir.

Speaker Robertson presented Governor Lanham, who was the first speaker. He said: "The death of Judge Reagan was to me a personal grief. I have known him so long and loved him so tenderly that my grief, I repeat, is personally painful.

"In his death the country has lost a great and historic character, loved everywhere, but more especially in our southland. No ordinary man could have accomplished from an humble beginning what he accomplished. If I am asked the reason for his success, I would answer, his loyalty and devotion to the people. Faithful to every trust and devotion to his people made him a great man, and one to whom his people in turn were devoted. He has left his impress upon millions of people and we of the southland will never cease to honor his name, and cherish his memory.

"He lived and died a Christian. How blest the righteous when he dies, When sinks the weary soul to rest."

Colonel Miller said: "When I stood beside the open grave of John H. Reagan in Palestine a few days ago, I was reminded of the time when I stood beside the grave of General Edward Burleson in this city, and felt on each occasion that a great man had fallen. Houston, Crockett, Bowie, Travis, Lamar, Jones and Rusk have all gone to their rest, and now John H. Reagan has gone to join them, but the words 'remember the Alamo,' still ring through all Texas, and will be heard for all time to come.

"Judge Reagan was the son of poverty, but was blessed with all the elements of greatness in him; physical, moral and intellectual. He came to Texas when his young star like that of the republic was just rising, and lived to see both a blaze of glory and admired by the people. Judge Reagan had heard of the matchless heroism of the early colonists and resolved to emulate their example and dedicate his life to civil, political and religious liberty in a country then little more than a wilderness. Duty was always his guiding star, and he followed wherever the light from this star fell in his pathway."

"Hark, Hark, My Soul," another beautiful selection, was rendered by the choir. Senator A. B. Davidson said in part: "Those of us who belong to the younger generation of Texans, know Judge Reagan better by his acts and deeds than personally, and admire him as one of the great men and characters of the times. "Every act of his life was backed by a splendid judgment, and upon no part of his record, public or private, is there blot or stain."

Senator C. C. Stokes followed Senator Davidson: "Just as he was crossing the threshold of his young manhood the issue of the constitutional liberties was made, and he did not falter or hesitate to espouse the cause of his people, and give them the best service of which he was capable, for which he will enjoy the esteem of his countrymen as long as the ages roll."

"The Lord Is My Shepherd" was rendered as a solo by Mrs. Morris, after which Speaker Robertson introduced Hon. A. T. McKinney, an associate of Judge Reagan in the constitutional convention of 1875, who would address the audience. McKinney said: "A great man has fallen and the people now mourn from one end of Texas to the other. It is befitting that the people should come together and express their sorrow. "He served his country wisely and well. He was a great surveyor, a great judge, a great congressman, a great senator, a great railroad commissioner, and every act of his eventful life worthy of emulation by the young men of the country."

Assessing the audience, Judge A. W. Terrell said: "On occasions like this we can do the dead no good; he has passed from our reach, but lessons can be learned profitable to the young. If I were called upon to write an epitaph for John H. Reagan I would write it in three words, 'The Unselfish Patriot.' "Jones Rivers, Louis T. Wigfall excelled him in burning eloquence; Hemp-hill, Wheeler and Lipscomb excelled him as a lawyer; Houston and Burleson as he was the peer of any of them, and in exalted patriotism as great as any man who ever lived, and whether as civilian or soldier, he always did his duty. "At the conclusion of Judge Terrell's address the senators retired to their chamber and the house adjourned until today at 10 o'clock.

WALL STREET IRREGULAR

Bulls Finally Get Control of the Situation, and Values Gain Strength, Closing Firm

Special to The Telegram. NEW YORK, March 24.—Considerable irregularity was displayed at the opening of the stock market today. When the smoke cleared away, however, the bulls were found to be in control of the situation and values began to strengthen. In the railroad list, Ontario and Western was the strong feature. After a lower opening this issue became very strong. The buying was on a large scale, and it was hard to determine who was accumulating the stock, but the Vanderbilt interests were credited with a considerable part of it. The advance was steady and the price was bid up to 63-1/4, where it closed, being the highest price of the day. New York Central was again in excellent demand, being taken on by the same interests who were so active in Ontario and Western. There were rumors of a "community of interests" between the two companies. New York Central, after advancing to 162, met with selling by those who bought the stock on its previous advance, and this brought about a setback to 162, at which point support was extended and a rally to 163-3/4 ensued. The closing price was nearly $1 per share above yesterday's final quotation. The balance of the railroad list was sluggish, but values were maintained throughout the day. The bear element was less bold than for some days, and the aggressive selling of shares seems to have been effectually checked. Tennessee Coal was the leader in the industrial department, while Colorado Fuel, after opening lower, met with realizing sales, holders being disappointed at the failure of this issue to follow the advance in Tennessee Coal. The closing price for Colorado Fuel and Iron showed a loss of $1 per share. After opening at 103-1/4 from yesterday's final figures, Tennessee Coal gathered remarkable strength and on general buying advanced to 98, a new high level for this issue. Some selling of the evening up character was in evidence, which caused a fractional setback, the closing price being 97-1/8, or practically the same as that of yesterday. The bank statement was much better than expected, showing an increase of over $1,000,000. The closing was very firm and the bulls are confident that higher values than have yet been recorded will be witnessed in the near future.

WHEAT MARKET BULLISH

Shorts Face to Run for Cover Soon After Opening—Corn Also Has Firm Tendency

Special to The Telegram. CHICAGO, Ill., March 24.—Wheat opened firm, unchanged to 3/8 higher. Rumors of a new bull pool in the May had the effect of bringing in a flood of buying orders in that option and the shorts made a run for cover, bidding the price up to $1.14. July held fairly firm, but the weather news from the winter wheat belt was very favorable, and this proved a depressing feature on the latter option. Local receipts of wheat were smaller than expected, with no contract grade, while the receipts at Minneapolis and Duluth were larger than last year. The belief is growing that there will be "something coming" in the May option, and traders are disposed to let it severely alone. The prospects for the growing crop are excellent and according to the opinion of those usually well informed, nothing short of a calamity can prevent much lower prices for July and September options. Corn opened practically unchanged and ruled dull throughout the session. The public displayed but little interest in this cereal, but local operators were buyers in a quiet market. The domestic consumption of corn during the past four months has been enormous—125,000,000 bushels more than in the corresponding period last year. There is every reason to believe that the consumption for the next eight months will be at least 100,000,000 bushels above that of the corresponding eight months of last season. These figures are based on the government estimate of the crop and reserves in farmers' hands, and if they are correct, the price of corn is very cheap. The local crowd are very bullish on the cereal and a strong effort will undoubtedly be made to advance prices. Oats continued dull, with a small trade, and without feature. The closing was about 1/2 cent below that of yesterday. May is quoted at 20 1/2 to 30 1/2 cents. Provisions were very dull, the trading being mostly of an evening up character. May pork closed 2 1/2 to 3 cents lower. May lard 2 1/2 cents higher and May ribs about 5c higher.

COTTON MARKET INACTIVE

Tendency to Wait Until After Final Census Report, Next Tuesday, Shown by Traders

Special to The Telegram. NEW YORK, March 25.—Liverpool's opening was rather discouraging for those inclined to be friendly to the staple. On a decline of 2 points for middling 8,000 bales were taken, which amount was much better than usual. Considering the half-holiday receipts 14,000 bales, of which 8,000 were American. Our market, sympathizing with foreign sentiment opened quiet and 2 to 3 points off, with current months showing the most weakness. Local bear statisticians took advantage of the opportunity to recall the statistical position, yet neither side made any strenuous efforts. Trading was light, the professionals prefer to enter only for scalps until the final posting of the census report, which will be given out Tuesday, 28th inst. Guesses are being made on the exchange that the document will confirm figures ranging from 13 1/2 to 13 3/4 million bales spot cotton on the basis of middling. Middling closed quiet and 10 points lower at 8.65c, and futures closed at the low points made on the day, losing about 10 points on active options.

Receipts, $2,000; market higher; pigs and lights, $2.50; packers, $5.25; butchers, $5.40 to $5.50. Sheep—Receipts, 1,400; market steady; sheep, $3.60; lambs, $4.07.40.

THE LIVE STOCK MARKET

Receipts of Cattle Continue Light—Hog Supply Also Short—Prices Ranging Higher

Special to The Telegram. THE FAT STOCK SHOW made but little impression on the market save to furnish the market extra finished stuff for Saturday's buyers. The week's cattle receipts are some greater than those of the preceding week on cattle, the gain being on the large run of show stuff. Hogs were in smaller numbers and so were sheep. The general tone of the market has been better for the week, both on cattle and hogs, and shippers are wearing wide smiles at the end of the week. Taking up the cattle market—steers are 10c to 12c higher, fat stuff and feeders. Cows of all grades showing flesh enough to kill are selling strong to 10c higher. Packers are selling steady with a weak demand. No sort of undesirable cattle is wanted by the trade. Yearlings show a higher tendency. Good veal calves are steady. A better demand exists for heavy calves on the part of speculators and shippers. Hogs of good finish, and showing weight are 15c to 20c higher for the week. A comparison of prices paid in the middle of the week would probably show that the packing droves cost 25c to 30c more than they did last week. On common, razor-back hogs prices have been at a stand still. They did not participate in the raise. Sheep show a slight decline for the week, unless the price of show sheep is considered. There is a loud call for choice, heavy, fat wethers.

WEEKLY LIVE STOCK MARKET REVIEW

BY H. H. MACK. Special Correspondent of The Telegram. CHICAGO, March 1.—The outlook for cattle, the country over, does not differ much from the beginning of the week. The demand for well-bred, heavyweight feeders is still the leading feature of the trade, and is the strong argument in the trade in butchers' cattle, which are ranging from 40 to 50 cents per cwt. higher than at the beginning of the year. Prime steers have not shared the improvement in price and are now no higher than they were at this time last month. There is every reason to believe that tidy butchers' cattle will go still higher, as the result of a scarcity of this kind and an increasing demand, both from killer and feeders. CATTLE HIGHER THAN IN MARCH 1904. The Chicago cattle trade weakened materially toward the close of last week, as the result of a falling off in shipping demand, but a light run on Monday put values back to former levels. A comparison of current cattle markets with those that prevailed on this date last year will show a wide difference, especially in values for butchers' cattle. During the latter part of March and the first half of April, last year, half-fat steers were selling for $4.10 per cwt, which now readily bring $4.75 to $4.85. Feeders were not buying so freely at this time last year as they are now. The gain in prices paid for good steers, from April 1 to June 20, last year, was $1.50 per cwt in some cases; experienced cattlemen are not looking for so much gain this year during the spring months. There are many who believe that cattle will be higher in April than in May this year. Last year cattle dealers were contracting cattle freely for May and June delivery; this year feeders find it impossible to contract stock ahead at an advance over present prices of 40 to 50 cents per cwt. UNSHORN SHEEP SELL BEST. The leading feature, in connection with the present demand for sheep and lambs, is the strong position occupied by wool. Reports show that wool is selling in the west at prices averaging 6 cents per pound higher than at this time last year. In the east, wool prices are 8 cents per pound higher than last year on this date. Packers are trying very hard to feed feeders from shearing their fat stock, and not without success. A few bunches of shorn sheep and lambs have found their way into the markets of the country, but the prices which they brought were far from satisfactory to sellers; the difference between the price which is being paid for shorn and wool sheep is $1 per cwt. Sheep and lambs are still $1 to $1.50 per cwt. higher than at this date last year.

MICHIGAN DEMAND FOR FEEDERS

Michigan and Ohio feeders are buying lambs with the wool on in the Chicago market, with the intention of feeding them only a short time before shearing and selling. The active demand from feeders is the only thing that has saved the recent market from breaking; in fact, half-fat lambs are selling just about as high as finished stock, because of the feeder demand. The foreign demand for mutton and lamb does not warrant paying present prices. It would look like good business to sell all finished stock immediately.

HOG SUPPLY NOT EQUAL TO DEMAND

Recent receipts of live hogs have not nearly equaled the demand and values have been gradually working higher. The supply of fat hogs in the country west of Chicago is believed to be nearly exhausted, making the shipping demand remarkably strong. The fact that the season of bad roads and husky spring work for farmers is close at hand, makes it reasonably certain that current receipts will continue inadequate to meet the demand. The big packers have large supplies of pork products on hand, and it begins to look as though they were ready to see the speculative provision market go up. The speculative provision market for the next thirty days depends entirely on the price of live hogs; there is reason to believe that packers will be willing to see prices for live hogs go higher during the light receipts of early spring, in order to move provisions. Live hogs are now selling just about level with this date last year. Somewhat higher prices may be looked for between now and May 1.

VIOLA ALLEN, as Perdita, in 'The Winter's Tale'

AMUSEMENTS

CONGRESS OF NATIONS
Congress of Nations and Ben-Hur scenes will be the attraction at Greenwall's opera house Monday and Tuesday nights, March 27 and 28, matinees are to be given daily.

VIOLA ALLEN IN 'THE WINTER'S TALE'
Miss Viola Allen is to present 'The Winter's Tale,' one of the most delightful of Shakespeare's comedies, at Greenwall's opera house Wednesday night, March 29.

however, it has proved enormously popular. At the Queen's Theater, Manchester, a splendid revival of one of the classics is given annually. This scheme has been in vogue during the past dozen years or more.

From a critical standpoint 'The Winter's Tale' holds a lofty position among the great dramas. Charles Bathurst, one of the great Shakespeare commentators, said of it: 'It is a play of immense force; most delightful tenderness and pleasant, natural simplicity of feeling.'

OUR LAY SERMON

The best means of encouraging truthfulness in children is a problem which taxes the judgment of the best among us. The road to truthfulness can only be found through mutual sympathy—a sympathy which enables the mother to know what demands she can and ought to make upon her child's obedience to her higher will and which teaches the child uncomplainingly to accept her wishes as law.

If a child once feels that the day has gone by with a loss or lessening of the mother's love, the influence of the mother for good is dangerously weakened; a link is snapped in the chain of truthfulness, and a precious idol is in danger of being hopelessly shattered. Undue harshness is one of those irreparable errors we are sure to regret; mothers should, therefore, temper their reproofs with love. The responsibilities of motherhood are, indeed, heavy, but they are not beyond their powers, and it is within a mother's scope to control, far more fully than she may be ready to acknowledge, the environments of her children and to mold their characters for good or evil.—Washington Post.

Many of us encourage our children to be liars without apparently realizing the fact that we are engaged in that kind of business. We teach them little tricks and deceptions during the infantile period under the impression that we are learning them to be real cute, when the seed we are then sowing will afterwards produce a full crop of sorrow and tears. Too many parents indulge in this procedure at the very time when they should be the most careful and particular in an effort to inculcate the principles of truth in the childish heart.

"As the twig is bent, so is the tree inclined." This thing of character forming is the most important matter in which a parent can engage. There are many parents who honestly wonder where their children first learned viciousness, untruthfulness and other vices, when it can be traced directly back to the family fireside, where a mistaken policy has been pursued with the child from the start. The human nature is not so bad and perverted naturally that it cannot be inclined toward the better things. The human heart is not so naturally depraved that it cannot be made to respond to the proper teachings when the work is undertaken at the proper time.

We make the mistake of teaching our children to be liars and other abnormal things in their infancy, and when the habits have been almost irrevocably formed, we undertake the work of reformation, only to fall down grievously in the end. Some one has said that if they were given the first seven years of a child's life, they did not care who had the remainder, as during the early formative period seeds could be sown that a life time of continued effort could not entirely eradicate.

It is well for us to think of this feature of the situation in dealing with our children, remembering that during the first seven years of their life we are helping them to make the character that is to dominate all their future. It is ours to make or mar that child in preparing it for the future battles of life, and we are false in our duties if we fail to train the young mind properly and direct it into the right channels.

We must first learn to be truthful with the child, if we are to instill the principles of truth in the young mind. If you tell your child you are going to do a certain thing and fail to do it, the first thing you know the child will have you in the very same condition. Then it must follow if you expect the child to be truthful you must set the example. Many a young mind has been warped in this way through the failure of parents to live up to the standard they demand in the child, and there is no more important factor in the situation than this.

Children should be ruled through love and affection as far as possible but when necessity arises for sterner measures they should be properly applied. It is not meant by this to suggest that any parents should adopt a knock down and drag out policy in the handling of their children. The Telegram believes that love and gentle measures should always prevail when they will answer the purpose. But many parents allow their children to grow up almost without restraint through their unwillingness to apply the rod when the rod is very much needed. The first essential is to get the child under control, and the second step is to so manage that this control will never be called into question. The child that is under control is much more amenable to the softer influences that the one permitted to grow up under the apprehension that it is to know no master.

Mothers are closer to children than fathers. It is to the mother the child naturally looks for evidences of love and affection at all times. The father is made out of sterner stuff and the child naturally looks to that parent with more fear and trepidation than the other. Some children are in abject terror of their father on account of unnecessary severity in dealing with them. No father is warranted in treating his child as a brute, neither is he justified in turning the situation over entirely to the mother. There is important work to be done by both parents, and when one shirks the slightest responsibility it only adds to the burden of the other. There should be no interference on the part of one when the other is engaged in the application of corrective measures. The mother may feel the fire of resentment in her heart when corrective measures are being applied to her child by its father, but she should never interfere, for where there is interference the effects of the lesson sought to be inculcated are very largely lost. The father should keep his distance when the mother is trying the arts of gentle persuasion and should brandish the rod only when it has been demonstrated that gentler measures are ineffective.

It is a situation that is fraught with much importance to all parties concerned, and should be treated as its importance demands. Children must have the proper training at the proper time, or the work is henceforth a very up hill business. Teach them in their early youth the principles of truth and implicit obedience, and the rest will be easy. The child that has had the benefit of the proper home training is never very difficult of control, while the other kind are daily bringing the gray hairs of their parents in sorrow to the grave.

There is one fact that should be steadily borne in mind by all parents, and that is our children are usually just exactly what we make them. There is no going behind that proposition, for it is too apparent to be successfully controverted. They are usually chips off of the old block.

Some of the people of Oklahoma say they prefer to keep their prairie dogs rather than to pay the territory tax which provides for their extermination. Texas cattlemen were willing to divide grass with the dogs until they found that the dogs were getting more than their share, and the rule now is to go after the pests at every opportunity. The state law which provides a method for their extermination by counties, has exerted a very wholesome effect.

The Associated Press brings the welcome news that the peace party has won in Russia, and it is gratifying to realize that the close of the war with Japan can now be a question of very short time. It is said that Japan has already been approached on the subject, and is evincing a disposition to treat the proposals in the proper spirit.

If President Roosevelt don't feel good after he reads all the nice things that have been said about him by the Texas cattlemen, he must be made out of a very strange kind of material. The cattlemen are thoroughly of the opinion that the president is with them in the fight they are making for several needed reforms.

A Chicago Judge recently decided that a woman in that city had a right to kill her husband, but this rule will not permit of general application. It may be true that many husbands deserve killing, but it is not safe to act on the hypothesis that every wife has the legal right to assume the duties of executioner.

John D. Rockefeller has offered to take the entire issue of Kansas state bonds, to be issued to build a state refinery, and says he wants them as a business investment. That is very kind of Mr. Rockefeller, but those bonds are probably not quite all that he has an eye on during the present emergency.

Six thousand winners have just been converted during a big revival in Louisville, Ky., but much of the satisfaction that would naturally be gained from this announcement is lost through a realization of the fact that the star-eyed goddess is temporarily sojourning in Spain.

The Washington Post says: "Some one should explain how, when many of the by-products of a fat steer, which are now utilized, went to waste, the growers got more for their cattle than they do now, and the consumer paid less for his meat." We pass the matter up to Commissioner Garfield.

The farmers of Texas are very much pleased at the turn taxation matters are taking in this state, and indulge in the hope that the present session of the state legislature will be able to distribute the burden in a much more equitable manner than ever before.

There is one consolation in the Colorado gubernatorial fight that is quite refreshing, and that is the state is also rid of Peabody. Adams was thrown down very hard, but he has the former state executive between himself and terra firma.

The battleship Kansas will be completed and christened about the first of September, and the report that a bottle of Standard Oil will be broken across her bow does the Sunflower state a grave injustice.

Advices from Paris are to the effect that the slender waist is soon to come into fashionable vogue again, and short-armed and one-armed men are consequently delighted with the prospect for an inning.

From the action of the preachers in New England, it begins to look like John D. Rockefeller is going to experience some temporary embarrassment in the effort to buy his way beyond the shining portals.

The state of Delaware has just taken the necessary action to abolish the pillory, but Gas Addicks is still able to do business with the state legislature at the old stand and in the old manner.

Eugene Debs says the state of Kansas will lose in its fight against the Standard Oil trust, from the fact that it will require the expenditure of $30,000,000 to build and properly equip the proposed state refineries.

Over in Spain they are now addressing him as "Senor Enrique Water-son" and the star-eyed goddess only blinks a reflective optic and is content that such things should happen outside the pale of the old Kentucky home.

Arkansas very kindly offered to loan Texas some ready cash to help out the hole in the state treasury, and now Texas is proposing to furnish Arkansas with fire insurance when the old line companies have withdrawn from that state.

Fort Worth was visited by quite a coterie of politicians during the session of the cattlemen's convention, and some of them reminded the observer of the small ancient boy who made a long trip in search of a father.

The Cody divorce suit has resulted in a victory for Mrs. Buffalo Bill, the court deciding that she was a very badly treated woman. The colonel, however, has sought solace on the other side of the big pond, and will try a few whirls in gay Paris.

Governor Adams of Colorado, on his return to his home, said that he had rather be a victim of thievery than to be a thief, and those are just about the words that were expected from this sturdy scion of democracy.

It is a reasonably safe proposition that Commissioner Garfield will not be included in the list of witnesses at Chicago, who are expected to tell all they know about the beef trust.

Two Colorado men have just been exonerated on a charge of bribery by the legislature of that state, but that fact does not justify the stealing of the governorship.

A Dallas cow recently entered a woodshed and ate a quart of cucumber seeds and a package of dry hop yeast. The yeast raised the cucumbers and the cow died of cholera morbus.

If Marshal Oyama had been Oslerized ten years ago, just think what it would have meant for Russia. He is now quite game and sprightly at the age of seventy.

When that Texas baby beef sold on the Fort Worth market last week at 26 cents per pound, the beef trust doubtless registered a desire that Texas sentiment might speedily extend eastward.

Some of the papers are speaking of the advisability of making the Fort Worth Fat Stock Show permanent. As if the Fort Worth Fat Stock Show was not already permanent.

It costs the sum of $900,000,000 per annum to run this government of ours, and this amounts to about $10 per capita.

When you are disposed to criticize bad manners in another, remember that such may be all the offender has in stock.

Cleanings From the Exchanges

The home-grown, hand-spanked, bare-footed, hard-fisted country boy makes a better fight in the battle of life than the pampered, high-collared, creased-trousered youth of our cities, whose clothes have always been dusted with a wisp broom instead of a shingle. Let the town boy out of a job try a year on the farm. Plowing behind a mule will take the kinks out of his throat, the gas out of his stomach and the weakness out of his legs, and will give him an appetite, an honest living and a sight of heaven.—Merkel Mail.

And the country boy usually begins life with a constitution of iron and a digestion that will answer all legitimate purposes. There may be tan and freckles on his holdest countenance, but he is possessed, of much of the spirit of true manhood and usually develops into the very best type of citizenship. The country raised boy is all right.

The theory has been advanced that if every consumer of dry goods in the United States would spend one dollar more a year for cotton goods, than is now spent for woolen goods, the great surplus of cotton would be wiped out and the price advanced to at least 10 cents a pound within the next twelve months. It would no doubt tend to equalize the price of cotton and woolen goods if such a thing could be accomplished.—Honey Grove Citizen.

It is certain that if the people consume more cotton goods it must result in a greater demand for the staple. But the people of Texas have not evinced any burning desire to consume more cotton by manufacturing or otherwise. They have fallen into the error of carrying forward the surplus from the last crop to add to the demoralization of the next one. Suppose another bumper crop is made this year, what then?

The Cincinnati Enquirer says the "general democratic mind" has never been settled as to what party Colonel Bryan belongs. The "general democratic mind" is vague, but there is one thing certain and that is that more than 6,000,000 people in 1896 and again in 1900 were of the opinion that Colonel Bryan belonged to the democratic party, and it might be said in passing that these people are of the same opinion still.—Beaumont Journal.

The Enquirer having announced its own demise as a democratic organ, is no longer qualified to pass upon or question the democracy of others. Mr. Bryan occupies a place in the heart of the American masses that cannot be approached by any other democratic leader, and it is an apparent fact that his popularity is constantly increasing. Mr. Bryan is a democrat of democrats, and as such will be heard from in the not very remote future.

Not long ago, so an exchange informs us, a young man up in Kansas approached a minister, and it could be seen that the young fellow was suffering from embarrassment. He wished to know all about what was expected of him, on which side of the bride he must stand, whether he should wear gloves, and finally wound up with, "Is it kismet to cuss the bride?"—Bonham News.

It is usually a very trying ordeal for the nervous young man to arrange all the preliminaries incident to such a momentous change in his method of living, and the Kansas youth was doubtless doing the best he could under the circumstances. Of course, we can all understand that he was only anxious to ascertain whether or not he would be permitted to kiss his charmer before the argus-eyed public.

A POINT OF LAW

During Queen Victoria's reign one of the solicitors of the queen who had jurisdiction over capital cases chanced to be a man named Bacon. By a curious chance a man named Hogg was condemned to death under his jurisdiction. The day before the execution Hogg sent for his executioner, Bacon. The prisoner pleaded for interference in his case because of his claims of relationship to Bacon. The solicitor, always ready with a reply, answered: "I have no proof of our relationship. You are doubtless mistaken. At any rate, the execution must take place, for only in that way can matters be set right. Hogg is not Bacon until he is dead." It is said the prisoner laughed in spite of himself.

ATTACKED BY A MOB

and beaten, in a labor riot, until covered with sores, a Chicago street car conductor applied Buckler's Arnica Salve, and was soon sound and well. "I use it in my family," writes G. J. Welch of Tekonsha, Mich., "and find it perfect." Simply great for cuts and burns. Only 25c at W. J. Fisher's, Reeves' Pharmacy and M. S. Blanton & Co.'s drug stores.

JOURNAL INVITES YOU

To Become a Member of a New Club.

THE JOURNAL believes that every home should have an Encyclopedia. There is no surer road to success than Knowledge, and no quicker road to Knowledge than a good Encyclopedia. Any bright boy or girl can get a college education out of an Encyclopedia.

Heretofore good Encyclopedias have been put on the market at abnormally high figures, ranging from $80 to $120—prices which only the very wealthy could afford to pay. That's why this club has been organized—to overcome high prices by eliminating the middleman, and to furnish a good, modern Encyclopedia at about the actual cost of manufacture.

Our Object.

In organizing this club the Journal simply acts as your purchasing agent, thereby supplanting the middleman and showing what a great economic saving can be effected through co-operation. On account of our immense purchasing and distributing power, we were able to select for you the Encyclopedia at about the actual cost of production. By distributing it through a Co-operative club there will be no extra advertising expenses or salesman's commission to pay. This makes it possible for us to supply the Encyclopedia at a saving of at least one-half the regular price and on terms that mean only a few cents each, day.

Our Plan.

It is impossible in this limited space to describe fully the plans and purposes of the club and the benefits and privileges to be derived by members. Suffice to say that arrangements have been made with one of the largest publishing houses in the country for an entire edition of a new, high-grade Encyclopedia, which will be distributed to the members of the Journal Club.

For the Home—For Busy Men.

The New Standard Encyclopedia was selected for this enterprise because it is generally considered to be the best Encyclopedia for the home, for busy men and for school students of all ages. Its articles are written in a simple, clear style, containing all the facts in concise, readable form. It is complete in every respect, thoroughly up-to-date, and is recommended by leading authorities and public educators everywhere.

FREE—To Those Who Apply Promptly.

If you have no Encyclopedia at all, or if you have one that is old and unsatisfactory, it will cost you nothing to get particulars. Merely mail the coupon shown below, which is simply a request for information and does not obligate or bind you in any way, and you will receive, free of all charge, a beautiful booklet containing portraits of many of the editors, contributors and revisers of the Encyclopedia. It also contains ten pages of rare portraits of the Mikado of Japan and the Emperor of Russia, suitable for framing, as well as double page maps of Japan and Corea, and the new republic of Panama, where the Canal is being built, besides many beautiful colored plates, sample pages showing the text, etc. This offer is made only to responsible men and women. No children need apply.

The coupon must be sent in at once, if you desire to investigate, as there are only a limited number of sets to distribute.

HARD TO SERVE IN EDWARD'S COURT

Ladies in Waiting Threaten to Resign as Result of Arduous Duties

COUNTRESS COMING ACROSS

Lady Limerick to Give Concerts for Benefit of Dublin Charities

(Copyright, 1905, by the Hearst News Service.)

Special Cable to The Telegram.

BY PAUL LAMBETH.

LONDON, March 25.—The rivalry between the Duke of Marlborough and his cousin, the Duke of Roxburgh, is beginning to assume proportions. Although good friends there is just a little undercurrent of jealousy between the two young dukes...

The Duke of Roxburgh is now negotiating for a site for a London home, which is the only thing required to make his position a greater one than that of the Duke of Marlborough.

Several houses which are to be pulled down in Park Lane have been suggested as a likely site, but the duke does not wish to be in the midst of the South African magnates, soapmakers and tradesmen who now "own" Park Lane. It is quite likely that he will settle on a site in the Cavendish Square district, which is once more "looking up" as a fashionable center...

STRAIN OF COURT LIFE HEAVY

Many members of the royal household who served under Queen Victoria and continued in their offices under King Edward have resigned one by one, chiefly on account of the strain and the constant attendance required of them day after day and night after night.

King Edward's court is a maelstrom compared with that of the late queen, whose faithful attendants suffered from only two hardships—cold and early rising.

It was only a few weeks ago that Lady Musgrave, Princess Victoria of Wales's greatest friend, gave up her court post because she found she could give no attention to her own family, and now the Duchess of Buccleugh, the greatest lady in the land after royalty, who has occupied the office of mistress of the robes at various times since 1855, is about to resign.

The duchess has never been very popular with the king, whom she on more than one occasion lectured when he was Prince of Wales, for the duchess was one of the late queen's most intimate friends and confidantes, and the restlessness of the present court, to say nothing of the king's sporting friends and bridge parties, are not at all suited to her grace's old-fashioned tastes.

It is probable that the Duchess of Abercorn, who is of the more modern school, will succeed to the office of mistress of the robes.

COUNTRESS OF LIMERICK COMING

The beautiful Countess of Limerick has fixed on the first week in October as the date of her trip to America, where she intends to give a series of concerts in all the big cities in aid of various Dublin charities.

The concert tour will extend to three months. Meanwhile Lady Limerick has been in correspondence with Mrs. George Cartwright West, who ranks second after the countess as the best lady amateur pianist in the country. Lady Limerick will take Mrs. West's advice as to the program and the musicians who will accompany her on the tour, and at present she is practicing five hours a day at Drumore Castle, the Limerick seat in Ireland.

Lady Limerick should create a sensation in New York. She is typically Irish-looking, with violet eyes, long lashes and pretty features, and she understands the art of dressing. Her boy, Viscount Glenworth, is now ten years old and is being educated at an English private school.

Lady Limerick's father, Burke Irwin, of Drogheda, Ireland, was one of the finest amateur violinists in Ireland. Queen Alexandra, who has often heard Lady Limerick play, is deeply interested in the tour. It was Lady Limerick who first conceived the idea of presenting every soldier in the Irish Guards with a bunch of shamrock on St. Patrick's Day.

ASCOT SUMMER RESORT

Ascot is becoming more and more a summer resort for the American colony in London. Last summer Mrs. Fred Van Duser took a house there for the season, and Mrs. Eddie Jaffray, who married her English cousin, Captain Jaffray, has taken a cottage among the pine woods on a long lease. Mrs. Otley Forrester is the latest recruit to the Ascot colony.

She is one of the representatives of the artistic and musical set in London, and her Sunday evenings in her town house in Hans place have become famous

PARIS, March 25.—This snapshot was taken on board the Russian steamer St. Nicolas at Port Said and shows Madame Stoesel, who is seated in the center of the picture, wearing a soft Alpine hat surrounded by the orphan children of the Russian officers fallen during the long siege of Port Arthur, whom she has adopted. Mrs. Stoesel is, in the opinion of all, the real hero of Port Arthur, and what she has suffered is shown by the fact that her hair, which a year ago was jet black, is now completely white.

GERMANS FEAR FOR HEALTH OF KAISER

Old Dread That Kaiser's Malady Is Incurable, Revived by Story He Must Undergo Another Operation

(Copyright, 1905, by the Hearst News Service.)

BY MALCOLM CLARKE.

BERLIN, March 25.—Nothing occupies the German mind so much at the present as the old fear that the Kaiser is the victim of the dread disease which killed his father.

Ever since a Lisbon paper some ten days ago made the statement that the Kaiser had asked King Carlos of Portugal if he would receive him as his guest if the Kaiser should feel unable to stand the strain of traveling from here to Sicily without stopping, the ghost which is ever haunting the German people has once more arisen. Forgotten are the disturbances in Poland, forgotten is every domestic question of importance, to give room only to the one all-important question—will the Kaiser return from his southern trip restored to perfect health, as the official statements say he will, as he is only suffering from the effects of overwork; or will it be as a man who knows his days are numbered, that he will be present at the marriage of his eldest son, who may soon be called to occupy his place?

Why did the Kaiser conceal the fact that another operation had been performed on his throat if there were no danger? Why was it time and again stated that the only reason for the Kaiser's southern trip was his wish to accompany his convalescent son, until the truth was forced out by a statement in a foreign paper?

Now it is openly said that several of Europe's most famous specialists have been asked to meet in Sicily to decide whether still another operation might benefit the imperial sufferer.

although her name never appears in the society weeklies. Mrs. Forrester is a southerner, and a second cousin of Consuelo, Duchess of Manchester. At her house can be met the latest literary lion, the latest musician, and the latest dramatist, but she has a horror of the ordinary social functions with their attendant advertisement.

Her two daughters, who are Anglo-Americans, their father being an Englishman, could not be mistaken for either nationality. They bear the names of Adrienne and Paquerette, and speak with a slight French accent. And both of them are superb linguists and musicians. Their Sunday evenings will be greatly missed this season, for they have taken the house at Ascot for the spring as well as the whole of the summer season.

RESTAURANT TRADE FICKLE

Londoners are becoming very fickle in their choice of restaurants. Last year the Carlton was all the rage and, next to Claridge's, which is almost too high-toned to be amusing, was the most fashionable supper place in the town.

The smart set now divide their time between the newly-built Savoy and Willis' Rooms, and the next move is expected to be in the direction of Prince's restaurant, where the management are adding a fine winter garden.

The Carlton, for some mysterious reason, although crowded every night, is filled with typical city men and strangely dressed people from the suburbs, but the Savoy has been through the same phases exactly, and it is probable that the Carlton will be as fashionable as ever by next season.

The appearance of the Kaiser a month ago at the consecration of the Berlin cathedral was so shocking, and so pale and emaciated did he look that it was evident that only his iron will made his body respond to the demands of his official position.

The loss of the Kaiser at this time would be a serious blow to Germany, for although there is apparently no danger of an immediate war with any power, clouds are gathering thick and fast on all sides, and the government is working feverishly to be as well prepared as possible when the storm breaks loose.

M. Suvarin, the famous editor of the greatest of Russian papers, the Novoye Vremya, who, though formerly a strong reactionary, has become a friend of reform, has been interviewed by a German newspaper correspondent.

During this interview he said that when it was generally believed outside of Russia that the Russian people were wishing for peace, this was a mistake. "Personally, I see perfectly clear that this lamentable war is at the bottom of all our misery. The revolutionary party wants no war, any more than does the czar, but the masses of the people want it continued until the Japanese have been driven back. This must not be understood to mean that they originally wanted the war, but as long as M. Bezobrasov and his followers have rushed us into it, we must fight until we win. It will be left in the hands of the representatives of the people to decide whether we shall go on fighting or conclude an humiliating peace, and you may be sure that they will decide in favor of war."

That France has refused to lend us more money will then become of minor importance, money enough can be raised in Russia to keep up the fighting until we succeed.

Speaking of the future interior policy of the government M. Suvarin said: "One thing is certain—the government will no more attempt to repress the revolutionary movement by violent means. It realizes that this is useless. The czar was right when he told his ministers that only the convoking of the Semski Sobor would quiet down the people. But for this old-fashioned assembly to accomplish anything will take time, much time."

"You must remember that in the Semski Sobor not only different parties but different nationalities are represented. In time a regular government will emerge from the present chaos. As it is we have no government. Everybody has lost his head."

"Not long ago I received a letter from a German journalist in which he asks me if I do not think that Russia ought to import statesmen from other countries. The idea is not bad. It is so in Russia nowadays that the best carpenters, tailors, shoemakers, workmen and statesmen are foreigners."

"We have already successfully made the attempt, Sergius Witte is undoubtedly our greatest statesman, and he has more German than Russian blood in his veins. Of course there are, also among the Russians, talented men, but under the present regime they have no show and will never have any until we shall have a constitution."

ST. PETERSBURG, March 25.—Latest photograph of the only harmless Grand Duke Dimitri Paulovitch, only son of Grand Duke Paul, who is exiled from Russia because of his marriage to Baroness Pistohlkors, but who has now been forgiven by the czar. The little Dimitri, who is now fourteen years old, was the ward of the murdered Grand Duke Sergius. His mother, a daughter of King George of Greece, died six days after his birth.

FAMOUS FRENCHMAN DEAD

Jules Verne, Master of Imaginative Fiction, Dies in Room Where He Wrote Famous Works

AMENS, France, March 25.—Jules Verne, the author, died yesterday at his home here, after long illness. His death occurred in the room where he wrote many of his most famous works.

Jules Verne was born in Nantes, Feb. 8, 1828. He was educated for the bar, but aspired to become a playwright, and wrote several tragedies. Next he acquired some note as a comic opera librettist. Then he became a stock broker. As a diversion he wrote "Five Weeks in a Balloon," which ran as a serial in Hetzel's Magazine of Education and Recreation. It was a great and immediate success. This was in 1861, and ever since that time the publishing house of Hetzel has issued each year two books by Jules Verne. It is said that Verne has received $4,000 a year under his contract with Hetzel, but that the enormous sale of his books has made Hetzel rich, not Verne. The publisher has given Verne many costly presents, however, including a yacht. Verne lived comfortably in a beautiful villa at Amiens. He was almost blind during the closing months of his life.

Verne's most widely-known works are "Around the World in Eighty Days," "The Mysterious Island," "A Journey to the Moon," "Michael Strogoff," and "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea." He traveled very little, and his wonderful descriptions of scenes in many lands were due to a marvelous memory and much reading.

Verne's imagination anticipated many modern inventions—the airship, the submarine, the motor car. He is known as the most widely read and the cleanest of all French authors, yet, despite this magnificent distinction, his life was clouded by this great sorrow—that France refused to include him in the "Forty Immortals"—the French academy. Time and again his name was proposed and rejected, while men scarcely known outside France were voted in.

But the world has given honor where France refused it to her great son. Verne's works have been translated into every civilized tongue; even into Japanese and Arabian, and there is no doubt that for hundreds of years to come the name of Verne will be best known of all authors to the boys of the world.

GENEVA, March 25.—This picture shows the two men who have been in charge of the greatest engineering feat of the age, the "Simplon Tunnel," which was completed a short time ago. The man on the right is Baron Hugo von Kager, the engineer in chief on the Swiss side, while the other figure is Mr. Herman Haussier, his first assistant.

CHAMPAGNE TRUST PROVED A FAILURE

Chicago Man's Effort to Control Sizzling Fluid, Falls Flat. No Money for Belgians From Congo State

PARIS, March 25.—The trust question is very much before the people at present. Although we are not as trust-ridden as the United States, we have our share of these modern business combinations.

No Frenchman would probably ever dare to try to corner any of the necessities of life, as the people of France, less patient than their American brethren, would soon put an end to his ambition, but we have trusts all the same, which are almost as trying to a true Parisian.

Most conspicuous among these is the theatrical trust, which is reaching out for the control of the innumerable playhouses, without which the Parisian could not live. So far it has achieved some success, but let it only try to raise the price of admission to its establishments and it will be investigated in a manner very much different from that characteristic of American investigations.

An attempt was made to form a champagne trust by Professor N. C. Fredericks, formerly of Chicago, but the attempt was a failure. Now there is some talk of a newspaper trust, which will probably meet with the same fate. Although the soil of France does not seem to favor trusts, they appear only to disappear again after a more or less prolonged death struggle, during which they are watched with keen interest by the people.

The refusal of the French financiers to lend more millions to Russia, for the purpose of carrying on the disastrous war in the far east, must not be considered a sign that the sympathies of the French people are turning from Russia; it was a pure business move on the part of financiers who are afraid that a new government in Russia might repudiate the obligations incurred by the czar.

The feeling against the Japanese is more bitter than ever, because the French people, like the Germans, fear that Japan may turn its attention to them after finishing with Russia and a movement is afoot among prominent statesmen to work toward an alliance between France, Germany, Russia and the United States, with Great Britain as a possible party to counteract the panmongolistic tendencies which are growing in Japan.

The French people have little or no sympathy with the Russian government, which oppresses the people of Russia, but strongly sympathize with it in its struggle with Japan.

The feeling in the army is strongly pro-Russian, and hundreds of officers would be willing to fight on the side of Russia could they get the necessary permission, and are justly proud of the only French officer who has taken active part in the war, Prince Napoleon Murat.

Given a commission as lieutenant by the of the Caucasian volunteer brigade, the of the Caucasus volunteer brigade, the prince joined his regiment a year ago and immediately started for Manchuria. Since his arrival at the seat of war with his regiment he has not had a moment's rest.

Always to be found in the thickest of the fight, the French officer has distinguished himself many times and his name has often been mentioned by the war correspondents with both sides.

In October he was wounded by a bullet in his left side, but remained in the saddle all day and refused to go to the hospital. In the evening he had the bullet extracted and the wound bandaged, and the next day saw him once more on out-post service.

Since then he has been shot through the neck and his life was despaired of for some time. When last heard of he was in St. George's hospital at Mukden recovering from his wound, and just now all Frenchmen are anxious to hear what has become of him since that city was captured by the Japanese. It is ten to one, however, that he is again fighting.

The people of Belgium are beginning to wish that King Leopold had never been made the ruler of the Congo State. When that state was founded they were told that they were to become rich by the money which would flow into Belgium hands.

The money has indeed flown into Belgium hands, but these hands are those of King Leopold, while his subjects have paid dearly for his gains, both blood and money. Hundreds of Belgian officers, soldiers and civilians have lost their lives in the Congo State, and the king shows not the slightest inclination to pay back the twenty millions which were lent to him in 1890 by the Belgian people and which were to have been paid back on Jan. 1, 1900.

The opposition parties in the Belgian parliament intend, however, under the leadership of the socialistic representative Louis Bertrand to make it exceedingly hot for King Leopold if he does not pay back the money his subjects advanced. He could easily afford to fulfill his obligations were it not the only principle he ever had never to pay back any debts. He is the principal stockholder in the Compagnie des Wagon-Lits, the European Pullman company, controls several stock companies in Congo, and is almost sole owner of the railroad from Matadi to Leopoldville in the Congo State.

His fortune has been doubled several times during the last fifteen years, and the Belgian people are growing tired of being robbed to fatten him and two or three other plutocrats.

EMPEROR WINS IN SUIT FOR DEBT

Jacques Lebaudy Will Not Have to Pay Commander-in-Chief's Wages

DUBLIN, March 25.—These be the golden days of reputation—which has acquired so much value that even emperors adopt it. Jacques I, emperor of the Sahara, was sued for debt in the London King's Bench the other day by the commander-in-chief of the emperor's forces, one Colonel Graves. Eight hundred dollars, or one month's salary (a very modest wage, indeed, for a commander-in-chief) was the amount sued for. Jacques' defence was that he was a sovereign prince—and, accordingly, I suppose, not expected to have contracted the bad habit of debt-discharging. The jury found for the defendant with costs. I wish I were an emperor myself—at least at such times as the bill collector calls.

Of course the job has its inconveniences if there be Nihilists in the neighborhood. Being a prince carries with it its privileges, too, as witness the case of Prince Napoleon, who is intending to take Princess Clementine for richer, for poorer, etc., while still the first wife of his bosom has the power of her tongue. The law against bigamy would here step in to protect the man from himself; but the divinity that doth hedge a prince—from his wife—is thought by the law to be sufficient unto the domestic needs of royalty. It would does God's law likewise contain special provisions for princes, et hoc genus. From the irate parent (King Leopold of Belgium) only is a kick expected.

Mr. Wyndham has resigned the post of chief secretary for Ireland "through ill-health." It will be difficult to fill this post in future unless a home for broken-down Irish chief secretaries be established to assure the daring one that at least provision against the inevitable is certain. If a list were compiled of all the Irish chief secretaries that in the last fifty years have been put out of action, it might easily be mistaken for a return of the killed and wounded after Liao Yang. To Ireland chief secretaries as a rule come light-hearted, and go away broken-hearted. Also, they come hating home rules—the devil hates holy water, and they go away preaching home rule to the English world as a missionary does the light of salvation to the heathen. But it will take a sharp chisel and heavy mallet to convey into the head of Hodge the case for home rule. Wyndham had become a home ruler, practically speaking (it is a case of political ill-health that he is chiefly suffering from), but he essayed the rather difficult task of running with the hare and hunting with the hounds, and, as usually results, both hounds and hare disowned him. It is no wonder he should now be sick unto death.

Lord Hugh Cecil is one of three names mentioned as possible successors of Wyndham in the Irish chief secretaryship. Notwithstanding that he is a lord, Cecil is a remarkably clever young man, who has a high-minded conservatism and the country. He is undoubtedly one of the ablest of the young men who help to make noise in the house of parliament, and he has compelled the respect and admiration of those who differ with him. He is a high-minded conservative who cherishes ideals, and makes earnest effort to live up to them. I am sure he would not make a good chief secretary for Ireland, as he would be too firmly opposed to the will of the Irish people. He would earn washings and leavings of blame in the office; but, I think, no whit of shame. Bad as he might be from the Irish point of view, however, he would be better than many who might be sent.

The rector of Kingston Seymour, by right, should belong to the yard of the quick lunch. It was only the mischievous fates that dropped him in the west of England, where people still take their pleasure sadly, and like long measure in their sermons. The grave charge preferred against him is that his sermons last only one minute. His parishioners have good right to be indignant at the man who thus deprives them of the peaceful Sunday slumber that is the due of the righteous.

Swift one time preached a charity sermon at such great length that the people grumbled and contributed less than they would have done had he left them in better humor. So on the next occasion that he had to preach a charity sermon to the same congregation he said to them: "Dearly beloved brethren, short sermons are good for the soul. Down with the dust." Then the plate was passed and a record collection made. The dean would not have done at Kingston Seymour.

MR. HOGAN'S OBSERVATIONS
It has been my opinion for some time that wise men would be silent to the legislature that could think of some laws that had never been thought of by anybody, and, Morrissey, we've got them.
Now think of it, there is a man from Dallas that wants to tax all corporations two per cent on their payrolls. See what an immense revenue that will produce when you can get two per cent on all the incomes of all the corporations in this state.
Why, there are about five thousand of them, more or less, and more the better. That includes all of them from a skating rink to a railroad.
Another man has his mind on the intangible tax. And ye want to know what an intangible tax is, Morrissey?
Why, it's to lay a tax on corporations and tax them for something that's not in sight, for ye must know, intangible means something ye cannot touch, and my opinion is that the tax will be more intangible after it's levied than the subject was before, and it will grow more and more intangible all the time until some succeeding legislature will explain it away.
There are a few of them in the legislature that say there is a day deficiency in the treasury and it should be filled. Ye know what a day deficiency means, Morrissey? It means the lid is off the box and the bottom is out of it, and it lacks a half million dollars of having anything in it at all. Ye must raise a half million dollars to put a bottom in the treasury box so as to make a beginning.
Those few want to raise the tax on everything tangible, and pay the day deficiency, and it strikes me mind that that is the proper way.
But some of them say they dare not go back home if the legislature shall increase taxation on property that can be made to pay.
And there it is, Morrissey. The man that's got the tangible property don't want to have his taxes increased to pay old day deficiencies, and the class of pay-able that will have to bear the burden of intangible taxation has very little voice in the matter. As they know the tax collectors can never touch the intangibles to enforce collection, they don't worry. And there it is in three nutshell, Morrissey, ye can take yer choice.

MRS. STANFORD BURIED
Thousands Attend Funeral Held at Stanford University Chapel
STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Cal., March 25.—The body of the late Mrs. Jane Stanford, who recently died in Honolulu, now rests in the Stanford Mausoleum between the bodies of her husband and son, near the institution of learning that bears their names.
Before the final commitment of Mrs. Stanford's body to the stone sarcophagus simple services were held in the great memorial church, erected by her in memory of her husband. The church was filled with thousands of people from all over the state, who came to pay their tribute of respect.

Promptly at 1:30 yesterday afternoon the grand organ in Memorial church began the solemn tones of Chopin's "Funeral March," and at the same moment the bronze doors at the main entrance swung open to admit the small cortege of pallbearers and relatives escorting the coffin. Eight of Stanford's most stalwart athletes bore the body down the central aisle through the thronged congregation to the semicircular chancel and placed it in front of the altar.
The principal address of the funeral service was delivered by Rev. John W. Dinwiddie of San Jose.
Between 4,000 and 5,000 people followed the body from Memorial church to the mausoleum. Fifteen hundred undergraduate students formed the main body of the column. In addition there were nearly 500 faculty members and as many alumnae. At the portal of the mausoleum, which was covered with flowers, the last rites were performed. These were brief and simple and held entirely in the open air. Rev. Charles Brown of the First Congregational church of Oakland delivered a short address and Bishop Nichols offered the committal prayer.
You will need to prepare your system for the coming hot weather, get your organs to work like clock work. Hollister's Rocky Mountain Tea taken this month will do the business. 35 cents, Tea or Tablets. Ask your druggist.

LOOK FOR PEACE WITHIN SIX WEEKS
Negotiations Between Russia and Japan Believed to Be in Progress
ST. PETERSBURG, March 25, 2:56 p. m.—The information contained in these dispatches for over a week regarding Emperor Nicholas' attitude concerning the advisability of making a pacific proposal to Japan is fully confirmed and in very high quarters peace within six weeks is regarded certain. The positiveness with which this is affirmed would indicate the government already is in possession of information as to the Japanese terms which indicate the basis to which Russia can agree.
The exact situation is a mystery. The secret of what has been done and what is being done is zealously guarded. The Associated Press hears, however, from a source close to the throne that four parliars are actually in progress in Paris, but possibly only of a preliminary character and that Copenhagen may be the scene of the first exchanges between the representatives of the two powers.

SANTO DOMINGAN AGREEMENT MADE
Minister Dawson Has Completed Negotiations, Although Exact Nature Not Yet Made Public
WASHINGTON, March 25.—Renewed interest in Santo Domingo affairs was manifested in official circles today upon the receipt by the state department of a cablegram from Minister Dawson indicating he had effected with the Dominican government a tentative agreement which, temporarily at least, will adjust satisfactorily the fiscal conditions of the island government.
No explicit information concerning the contents of Minister Dawson's cablegram is available at this time, as it has not been communicated to President Roosevelt. It is believed, however, to be of such importance the president will take action upon it as soon as it is made known to him. While the precise nature of the negotiations between Dawson and the Dominican officials cannot be learned, it is understood it contemplates the placing of fiscal affairs of the island government, so far as the collection of revenues is concerned, in the hands of a commissioner to be designated by President Roosevelt with the consent of the Dominican government. The revenues of the island will be collected by this commissioner, a sufficient percentage of them being placed to the credit of the Dominican government to pay current expenses and the remainder deposited in a fund to pay the foreign claims of the island government at such times for distribution of funds as may be agreed upon.

MARGARET SANGSTER'S DEPARTMENT

AMERICAN GIRLS AND FOREIGN HUSBANDS

BY MARGARET E. SANGSTER.

(Copyright, 1905, by Joseph B. Bowles.)

When an American heiress with a dowry of millions marries an impoverished foreigner with blue blood and a title, the manifest conclusion is that there has been bargaining. The transaction savors of the market-place, of barter and sale.

This is not always fair. Some of the international marriages, which have grown so common as hardly to excite comment, are real love matches and eventuate in large happiness. We are told by those who know, that our good Americans are often laggards in love, that they have little of the impetuous fervor in courtship which sweeps a girl off her feet, and makes her surrender to the lover the most blissful action of her life. However this may be, we cannot deny that love seeks the best, and like seeks like.

No reason exists that can interfere with the union of two hearts, though one be under a British uniform, and the other beneath the corsage of a girl in America, whose father has made a great fortune in trade or mines. Undoubtedly, too, the daughter of poverty, sometimes weds a wealthy foreigner, though when this happens the fame of it is not blown by the press to the four winds.

Admitting this possibility, we must yet regret that far too many foreign marriages are entered upon by our girls without serious thought and with little notion of the life that may follow them. Heavily only knows why American mothers are so dazzled by the vision of their Ellens and Sarahs as Countess This and Duchess That, and why they are so complaisant to a commonplace young man with a tumble-down castle and a depleted rent roll, and a past that will not bear much scrutiny, though he wears a title and is called "my lord." As a rule, a girl's chances of development, of usefulness and contentment are greater if she wed one in her own condition, and her own country, than if she give her hand to some one brought up in a manner wholly unlike hers.

The question of the husband's people always pushes itself strongly to the front. The mother and sisters look askance at the newcomer, and do not understand her ways. She is apt to blunder without the least intention of doing so, and in Great Britain she may not treat the other sex with quite the deference to which their women have accustomed men. When her relations come to visit her, they may err in two ways. Very likely they will seem flippant and frivolous to heavy and serious mamma's, with a string of bashful girls to settle, and very likely, too, they will carry off some of the eligibles of the neighborhood. American girls are sure of admiration when transplanted to another soil, and though the Daisy Miller variety is an almost unknown species, the charm and piquancy of our girls is as ir-Resistible as ever. In effect they are Daisy Miller sublimated.

A young woman of my acquaintance married and went to London to reside. A year later her sister came to spend the season with her, and the usual gossamer went bravely on. Taken out to dinner one day by her host's brother, the youthful visitor was disturbed at finding him grim and taciturn. The next day she asked: "Ethel, do you suppose I have offended Harry in any way?" He had nothing to say to me all through dinner last evening.

"My dear," replied the experienced sister, "never talk to an Englishman when he is eating his dinner." Some years ago, a distinguished German professor was attending a great convention in New York. He was agitated at the freedom with which American wives treated their husbands. He wrote to a friend: "Actually, I have heard a woman say to her husband, 'Dear, will you go upstairs and get me a shawl?' In his view, the running upstairs and the waiting were to be done by the wife."

A girl who has all her life had men rise when she entered a room, and hasten to open a door for her, or to seat her at the table, will find herself rather neglected in the ancestral hall of a German baron. The man may love her with devotion. Far be it from me to discount the sincere affection of the German household. But he will not fetch and carry for her, nor surround her with those delicate courtesies that with us are commensurate as air, and as delicious as the perfume of the rose.

There is the greater danger to the too trusting American girl that she may marry a plausible adventurer, who is not much higher to his instincts than a beast of prey. Sometimes he masquerades as a count or a baron, when he has been only a gentleman's gentleman, and is base-born as well as impecunious. This has happened, and the bride away from her home has awakened to a profound disillusion and deep humiliation.

Differences in creed, a productive of disaster. A wife should be of the same church as her husband, and a girl trained in the observance of religion should not give herself to one who care for it not at all, or speaks of it only to scoff and jeer at what is dear to her.

In the old world, marriage is hedged about by rigid conventionalities. Parents on both sides are consulted and the legal formalities are as important as the ecclesiastical sanction. Foreigners are amazed at the facility with which people marry in this land. The very ease of the transaction is tempting to the unscrupulous.

A father, shrewd and successful in amassing his fortune, seems to part with common sense when it is a question of giving his daughter to a man who has nothing to recommend him but a glib tongue and a graceful bow.

It is the other way sometimes. The cadet of a noble English house, a man of breeding, wealth and integrity, courted the lovely daughter of a manufacturer in one of our eastern states. Both were in love, their ages were suitable, there was not an objection to urge. But the father refused to consent.

"Marry my Susan to a blasted British!" he exclaimed in a fury. "Never shall she wed him if I can prevent it!"

On the day of her marriage, her eldest brother gave her away, and her father sulked in his den, invisible to the wedding guests. This marriage turned out most happily, notwithstanding his ban.

Our American girls should remember that as the Bible says, their price is above rubies. They are the radiant flowers of our civilization. They constitute our most aristocratic class, and they often have a far finer education than is given to our boys. A lad is frequently hurried into business, while his sister is still absorbing the best that an American college and a foreign post-graduate course can give her. When a girl marries, she gives up her own name and family, and again as the Bible says, she must forget her own people and her father's house.

When we have so many fine and strong men in our own nation, why should our daughters go far afield to find husbands? Are they not a little to blame for the seeming reluctance of our young men to propose? Possibly the latter are a bit discouraged and feel that they have no chance. It has been noted that American resident on the other side are not slow to retail to our foreigners by selecting brides for themselves in England, France or Germany, or wherever they happen to be. They come proudly home with their foreign bride, although they may have spent years of bachelor freedom in towns where American girls abound.

Several times I had observed that Milverton looked at his watch, and once he had risen and sat down again, with a gesture of impatience. The idea, however, that he might have an appointment at so strange an hour never occurred to me until a faint sound reached my ears from the veranda outside. Milverton dropped his papers and sat rigid in his chair. The sound was repeated, and then there came a gentle tap at the door. Milverton rose and opened it.

"Well," said he, curtly, "you are nearly half an hour late."

So this was the explanation of the unlocked door and of the nocturnal vigil of Milverton. There was the gentle rustle of a woman's dress. I had closed the slit between the curtains as Milverton's face had turned in our direction, but now I ventured very carefully to open it once more. He had resumed his seat, the cigar still projecting at an insolent angle from the corner of his mouth. In front of him, in the full glare of the electric light, there stood a tall, slim, dark woman, a veil over her face, a mantle drawn round her chin. Her breath came quick and fast, and every inch of the light figure was quivering with strong emotion.

"Well," said Milverton, "you've made me lose a good night's rest, my dear. I hope you'll prove worth it. You couldn't come any other time—eh?"

The woman shook her head. "Well, if you couldn't you couldn't. If the Countess is a hard mistress, you have your chance to get level with her now. Bless the girl, what are you shivering about. That's right. Pull yourself together. Now, let us get down to business." He took a notebook from the drawer of his desk. "You say that you have five letters which compromise the Countess d'Albert. You want to sell them. I want to buy them. So far so good. It only remains to fix a price. I should want to inspect the letters, I should want to see the specimens—Great heavens, is it you?"

The woman, without a word, had raised her veil and dropped the mantle from her chin. It was a dark, handsome, clear-cut face which confronted Milverton—a face with a curved nose, strong, dark eyebrows shading hard, glittering eyes, and a straight, thin-tipped mouth set in a dangerous smile.

"It is I," she said, "the woman whose life you have ruined."

Milverton laughed, but fear vibrated in his voice. "You were so very obstinate," said he. "Why did you drive me to such extremities? I assure you that I wouldn't hurt a fly of my own accord, but every man has his business, and what was I to do? I put the price well within your means. You would not pay."

So you sent the letters to my husband—the noblest gentleman that ever lived, a man whose boots I was never worthy to lace—he broke his gallant heart and died. You remember that last night, when I came through that door, I begged and prayed for mercy, and you laughed in my face as you are trying to laugh now, only your coward heart cannot keep your lips from twitching? Yes, you never thought to see me here—now but it was that you—

there that I heard what had alarmed his quicker senses. There was a noise somewhere within the house. A door slammed in the distance. Then a confused, dull rumour broke itself into the measured thud of heavy footsteps rapidly approaching. They were in the passage outside the room. They paused at the door. The door opened. There was a sharp snick as the electric light was turned on. The door closed once more, and the pungent reek of a strong cigar was borne to our nostrils. Then the footsteps continued backwards and forwards, backwards and forwards, within a few yards of us. Finally there was a creak from a chair, and the footsteps ceased. Then a key clicked in a lock, and I heard the rustle of a para.

So far I had not dared to look out, but now I gently parted the division of the curtains in front of me and peered through. From the pressure of Holmes' shoulder against mine, I knew that he was sharing my observations. Right in front of us, and almost within our reach, was the broad, rounded back of Milverton. It was evident that he had entirely miscalculated his movements, that he had never been to his bedroom, but that he had been sitting up in some smoking or billiard room in the farther wing of the house, the windows of which we had not seen. His broad, grizzled head, with its shining patch of baldness, was in the immediate foreground of our vision. He was leaning far back in the red leather chair, his legs outstretched, a long, black cigar projecting at an angle from his mouth. He wore a semi-military smoking jacket, claret-colored, with a black velvet collar. In his hand he held a long, legal document which he was reading in an indolent fashion, blowing rings of tobacco smoke from his lips as he did so. There was no promise of a speedy departure in his composed bearing and his comfortable attitude.

I felt Holmes' hand steal into mine and give me a reassuring shake, as if to say that the situation was within his powers, and that he was easy in his mind. I was not sure whether he had seen what was only too obvious from my position, that the door of the safe was imperfectly locked, and that Milverton might at any moment observe it. In my own mind I had determined that if I were sure, from the rigidity of his gaze, that it had caught his eye, I would at once spring out, throw my great-coat over his head, pinion him, and leave the rest to Holmes. But Milverton never looked up. He was languidly interested by the papers in his hand, and page after page was turned as he followed the argument of the lawyer.

At last, I thought, when he had finished the document and the cigar he would go to his room, but before he had reached the end of either, there came a remarkable development, which turned our thoughts into quite another channel. Several times I had observed that Milverton looked at his watch, and once he had risen and sat down again, with a gesture of impatience. The idea, however, that he might have an appointment at so strange an hour never occurred to me until a faint sound reached my ears from the veranda outside. The St. Peter's of Protestantism

THE NEW CATHEDRAL, BERLIN.

BERLIN, March 27.—The famous new cathedral, erected by the Kaiser in front of his palace, has just been dedicated. It is the ambition of Emperor William to make this cathedral not only a national symbol of religion, but a common shrine for Protestants all over the world. At its dedication he said: "I hope to see it occupy that place in international Protestantism that St. Peter's is to the Catholic world. It has the prior right to rank as the mother church of international Protestantism, first, because it is the metropolitan cathedral of a country in which Protestantism was born and secondly because it is the official place of worship of the principal Protestant monarch of the world."

The dedication ceremonies were semi-military and were attended by representatives from England, Denmark, Switzerland, Sweden, Norway and Holland. The cathedral, completed, cost nearly two and a half million dollars.

Looking back, the huge house was one blaze of light. The front door open, and figures were rushing down the drive. The whole garden was alive with people, and one fellow raised a view-halloo as we emerged from the veranda and followed hard at our heels. Holmes seemed to know the grounds perfectly, and he threaded his way swiftly among a plantation of small trees, I close at his heels, and our foremost pursuer panting behind us. It was a six-foot wall which barred our path, but he sprang to the top and over. As I did the same I felt the hand of the man behind me grab at my ankle, but I kicked myself free and scrambled over a grass-grown coping. I fell upon my face among some bushes, but Holmes had me on my feet in an instant, and together we dashed away across the huge expanse of Hampstead Heath. We had run two miles, I suppose, before Holmes at last halted and listened intently. All was absolute silence behind us. We had shaken off our pursuers and were safe.

We had breakfasted and were smoking our morning pipe on the day after the remarkable experience which I have recorded, when Mr. Lestrade, of Scotland Yard, very solemn and impressive, was ushered into our modest sitting-room. "Good morning, Mr. Holmes," said he; "good morning. May I ask if you are very busy just now?" "Not too busy to listen to you."

"I thought that, perhaps, if you had nothing particular on hand, you might care to assist us in a most remarkable case, which occurred only last night at Hampstead."

"Dear me!" said Holmes. "What was that?" "A murder—a most dramatic and remarkable murder. I know how keen you are upon these things, and would take it as a great favor if you would step down to Appledore Towers, and give us the benefit of your advice. It is no ordinary crime. We have had our eyes upon this Mr. Milverton for some time, and between ourselves, he was a bit of a villain. He is known to have held papers which he used for blackmailing purposes. These papers have all been burned by the murderers. No article of value was taken, as it is probable the criminals were men of good position, whose sole object was to prevent social exposure."

"Criminals?" said Holmes. "Pardon?" "Yes, there were two of them. They were as nearly as possible captured red-handed. We have their footmarks, we have their description, it's ten to one that we trace them. The first fellow was a bit too active, but the second was caught by the under-gardener, and only got away after a struggle. He was a middle-sized, strongly built man—square jaw, thick neck, moustache, a mask over his eyes. "That's rather vague," said Sherlock Holmes. "Why, it might be a description of Watson."

"It's true," said the inspector, with amusement. "It might be a description of Watson."

"Well, I'm afraid I can't help you, Lestrade," said Holmes. "The fact is that I knew this fellow Milverton, that I considered him one of the most dangerous men in London, and that I think there are certain crimes which the law cannot touch, and which therefore, to some extent, justify private revenge. No, it's no use arguing. I have made up my mind. My sympathies are with the criminals rather than with the victim, and I will not handle the case."

Holmes had not said one word to me about the tragedy which we had witnessed, but I observed all the morning that he was in his most thoughtful mood, and he gave me the impression, from his vacant eyes and his abstracted manner, of a man who is striving to recall something to his memory. We were in the middle of our lunch, when he suddenly sprang to his feet. "By Jove, Watson, I've got it!" he cried. "Take your hat! Come with me!" He hurried at his top speed down Baker street, and along Oxford street, until we had almost reached Regent Circus. Here, on the left hand, there stands a shop window filled with photographs of the celebrities of the day. Holmes' eyes fixed themselves upon one of them, and following his gaze I saw the picture of a regal and stately lady in court dress, with a high diamond tiara upon her noble head. I looked at that delicately curved nose; at the marked eyebrows, at the straight mouth, and the strong little chin beneath it. Then I caught my breath as I read the time-honored title of the great nobleman and statesman whose wife she had been. My eyes met those of Holmes, and he put his finger to his lips as we turned away from the window.

furniture, opened another door, and closed it behind us. Putting out my hand I felt several coats hanging along the wall, and I understood that I was in a passage. We passed along it, and Holmes very gently opened a door upon the right-hand side. Something rushed out at us and my heart sprang into my mouth, but I could have laughed when I realized that it was the cat. A fire was burning in this new room, and again the air was heavy with tobacco smoke. Holmes entered on tiptoe, waited for me to follow, and then very gently closed the door. We were in Milverton's study, and the portiere at the farther side showed the entrance to his bedroom. It was a good fire and the room was illuminated by it. Near the door I saw the gleam of an electric switch, but it was unnecessary, even if it had been safe, to turn it on. At one side of the fireplace was a heavy curtain which covered the bay window we had seen from the outside. On the other side was the door which communicated to the veranda. A desk stood in the center, with a turning-chair of shining red leather. Opposite was a large bookcase, with a marble bust of Athens on the top.
