Election of Officers and Hearing Reports Scheduled for Afternoon-Church Federation to Be Discussed

The forty-fifth general assembly of the Southern Presbyterian church convened in this city at 11 o'clock this morning, with Moderator S. M. Neel of Kansas City, presiding. The session here is the third within twenty years

The commodious Broadway Presbyterian church was crowded when the rainiest leaders in the denomination

The opening prayer was offered by which he took as his text the thirtysecond and thirty-third verses, "If I Be Lifted Up Out of the Earth, I Will Draw All Men Unto Me."

Dr. Neel spoke for nearly two hours. the discourse being a strong and logical sermon, well received by the immense congregation. Beginning, he said that all men were sinners in the sight of God and the the loss of sin. "The most damnable attempted union," he said, "is the between Christ and science; the world by wisdom knew not God and It was through sin in the garden of Eden that men lost their connection with God. It is a fact that man is dead in trespass and sin, his conscience being asleep, but when once aroused there is no peace until he finds Christ.

"It was night in this world when incobscured the light of God, and it was due to the instrumentalities of this world. That it is here no sensible: man can deny. With evidence all about us only the man who is a fool cannot

"It was by the mercy of God that Christ came to earth to destroy and counteract the work of the devil. The devil has us entombed and unless we have God's love, we are doomed. Our sins must be atoned for. Without the shedding of blood there is no remission of sins. Christ was sent to this world to redeem man; He came not to call the righteous, but the sinner to repentance. Only at the cross of Christ can we know the great love of the Redeemer.

"We are not a whit better than the men who drove the spikes into Christ's quivering flesh," said Dr. Neel. In concluding he said there can be o error in God's law; that righteousness and peace kiss each other, making the gospel complete. Music for the opening session of the assembly was provided by the regular choir of the Broadway Presbyterian church. The soloist was Miss E. Grace Updegraff of Washington, D. C., who sang "Open the Gates of the Temple." Miss Updegraff will remain in the city during the entire assembly. Her accompanist was Guy Pither of this city.

IMPORTANT QUESTIONS

The burning question with which the present general assembly of the Southern Presbyterian church will have to deal will be the subject of federation, and the expressions among many of the commissioners now here are in effect that more light is sought. "We are seeking light and are open to conviction," is the way Elder John Steel of West Lexington, Ky., pres-bytery expressed himself. While there is some opposition to the movement, it is believed by the more conservative element of the assembly that the movement will have a majority when the uestion is put to a vote. In a nutshell the federation proposition resolves itself into this: A consolidation of different branches of the Presbyterian church to work under one head. It does not mean an organic union. To this, there would be decided opposition. Therefore, this question of union will not be a part of the question to be discussed.

Speaking of the federation proposition, Dr. Francis R. Beattie, a professor in the Presbyterian Theological Seminary at Louisville, and also editor of the Christian Observer of that city, said, in brief, that the object of federation was that there might be a closer general church work, which includes all branches of religious effort, and has no reference to creed, etc. He said that the question will be

The committees of several such bodies met for conference in Pittsburg last November and formulated a plan of federation. This plan will be presented to the various assemblies and synods for their consideration, and is as follows:

Nov. 29 and 30, and Dec. 1, 1904, there assembled in the First United Presbytersian church at Pittsburg. Pa., the committees of seven Presbyterian and Reformed churches of the United States of America. These committees had all been appointed for the purpose of considering the subject of the closer relations of the churches which they represented. Between some of the churches proposals for organic union have been under consideration, and between others the only closer relations considered have been those arising out of proposals for plans of cooperation. A plan of federation was agreed upon, to be submitted to the general assemblies and general synods interested. The Presbyterian church, south, was represented by the following com-

The nerve cells in the brain generate nerve force-power-and send it to the organ through these nerves, and this nerve-force gives life and action. The organs work perfectly when there is sufficient nerve power. Lack of nerve force weakens the action of an organ and it works imperfectly-becomes sick.

Two-thirds of all sickness is thus due to weak or deranged nerves; it is therefore advisable to take Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine, because it makes nerve energy.

When you cure the nerves you remove the cause, and that's the way to get well.

that's the way to get well.

"Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine cured me of nervous prostration after every other effort had failed to give me relief. My trouble seemed to begin with a general loss of strength and a breaking down of the nervous system. I suffered from headache, constipation and fluttering or palpitation of the heart. My appetite failed and I was so nervous and restless that I could not sleep at night. My husband, who is a druggist, brought me a bottle of Nervine. It helped me from the start, and I continued using it until I had taken six bottles. My health was completely restored."

This authorization will insure a continuation of active operations leading up to the ultimate construction of the Engle dam, but does not in any way interfere with or complicate the international questions involved in this matter,

The Engle or Rio Grande project possesses unusual features of interest. Very citizens residing in this portion of the Rio Grande valley. The government engineers for many years have studied the problems of flood storage, and have made exhaustive research for feasible and adequate reservoir sites. Since the passage of the reclamation law the engineers of the service have pursued these investigations industriously, and an especially fine reservoir site has been located near Engle, that the region which is to be benefited by the waters conserved in it is today being irrigated by the oldest irrigation systems in use in this country. In the first half of the sixteenth century Spanish explorers riding up the valley of the Rio Grande found in the midst of arid surroundings thrifty and industrious Indian tribes irrigating the thirsty soil as their forefathers had done for centuries before them, and as their descendants are still doing today. This portion of the Rio Grande basin is known as the Mesilla valley, and lies on both sides of the river between two spurs of the Rocky mountains. Beginning on the north at Fort Seldon it extends almost to the corporate limits of El Paso on the south, a distance its boundaries are the lofty ranges of mountains, the highest of which, the Organ mountains, rise to a height of 8,000 feet above the sea. The general elevation of the valley is almost 4,000 feet. The reservoir site near Engle is described as one of the most feasible locascribed as one of the most feasible locations for storage found in the west. The reservoir will be forty miles in length, and its capacity wil be 2,000,000 acre-feet, or ample for the 180,000 acres of land to be supplied by it. The cost of the projectfi including reservoir and all diversion works and canals above El Paso, is cationally as a continued of the project of the projec estimated at $7,200,000, or $40 per acre on 180,000 acres. This is below the value of irrigated land in the valley, and those best informed pronounce the project desirable at the price. The main item of such a step would appear as if the city, progressing in every other way, was taking a step backward in regard to the training of her future men and women. M. L. Woods of the State National bank, whose son was valedictorian of the

R. H. Buck, ex-superintendent of county schools, says: "I feel it would be a great detriment to our city. Mrs. Charles Scheuber of the Carnegle library says: "The shortening of the school course would be a serious set back to the prosperity of Fort Worth. The most desirable citizen of all classes in choosing a home for his family will select the town, other things being equal, which offers the best educational advantages. Instead of shortening the course, we should enrich and add to it, so that the boys and girls, graduates of our public schools, will be fitted to enter any college or university of our country. Let us raise our schools to such a high standard that it will not be necessary for us to send our children abroad to fit them for college.

Dr. Lyon of Louisville said that possibly the question of federation will be the first order of business following the selection of a moderator. This will be done at the conclusion of the sermon of retiring moderator, Dr. S. M. Neel of Kansas City. This matter, he said, will come up in a report of a committee after which there will be a general discussion of the question on the floor of the assembly.

OPPOSES FEDERATION "I'm ferninst it," said Dr. C. P. Bride-well, D. D., of Atlanta, Ga., when asked how he stood on federation.

Dr. Bridewell was formerly pastor o the First Presbyterian church of this city, but now has charge of the First church of Atlanta. He will preach in the First church next Sunday morning, his subject being "Almost Persuaded." Dr. Bridewell said that this will be the strongest and largest general assembly held since the war. PROMINENT MEMBERS Among the prominent commissioners Dolores Wandry, the 17-months-old daughter of O. E. Wandry, died at the family residence, 1202 Hemphill street, and visitors today are Shackelford Miller, judge of the chancery court at Louisville, who is a commissioner. Judge Miller is one of the leading jurists of the 69.... 176 Wednesday night. Funeral services were held from the residence this aft-renoon. Declare Census Bureau Estimate Is Disproved by the Amount of Construction

Further evidence of the absurdity of the statement recently issued by the centects of the city to the effect that the progress and building activity of the city ears have been the greatest in its his-

Lumber sales of the last four years show conclusively that the gain in population has been great. Hundreds of residences and scores of business houses have been built, showing the expanse of the city in its yearly development. Archiects and builders alike agree that the figures announced by the census bureau

S. Wemyss Smith, architect, speaking of the matter Wednesday said that from his observations the figures of the census bureau were entirely wrong, being ompletely discredited by building activity. Similar statements were made from the office of M. R. Sanguinet and ther architects. Lumber dealers, including the Cameron and the Burton-Lingo companies, said to Mrs. J. C. Fergerson, 1205. that lumber sales show conclusively that the increase in the city's population since the census of 1900 has been great. The question of the city taking a private census as announced in The Telegram thus insuring correct figures and placing Fort Worth in the right attitude, will be brought up at the next council meeting.

GIVEN RECEPTION

Dr. Charles R. Hyde Meets Former Congregation at First Presbyterian Church Members of the First Presbyterian hurch of this city Wednesday night endered their former pastor, Dr. Charles R. Hyde, a royal reception in the parlors of the church, after which refreshments were served sermon before the reception, taking as his text the thirty-second verse of the twenty-seventh chapter of Matthew, "Him They Compelled to Bear His Cross.

Dr. Hyde left Fort Worth a little more than a year ago and is now pastor of one of the leading churches in Little Rock, Ark. Dr. Hyde preached an interesting

Dr. Caldwell, present pastor said that it afforded him much pleasure to be able to announce that Dr. Hyde would address his old charge, and he ACT QUICK OR YOU was sure the membership of the church joined him in welcoming Dr. Hyde. Dr Hyde said he need not say that it gave him unspeakable pleasure to be back in his old pulpit and to once again speak to the members of the He said, too, there was a de gree of sadness also mingled with the that Mrs. Parks had died as the result of pleasure from the fact that there wer malpractice. A coroner's jury was at a few empty seats and a number of old members absent, but with it all he was more than glad to meet the members and to speak to them once more.
