ADMIRAL NEBOGATOFF TAKEN

3,000 Other Prisoners are Captured by the Victors—Vice Admiral Rojestvensky Appears to Have Escaped. Japanese Still in Pursuit

Washington May 26-- An official telegram from Tokio states that Admiral Togo reports to his government that the total losses sustained by the Russian fleet Saturday and Sunday were:

- Two Battleships.
- One Coast Defense Armor Clad.
- Five Cruisers.
- Two Special Service Ships.
- Three Destroyers.
- All these ships were sunk.

In addition Togo reports the capture of two battleships, two coast defense armor clads, one special service ship, one destroyer and over two thousand prisoners.

Admiral Togo reports Japanese squadron undamaged.

ADMIRAL NEBOGATOFF IS TAKEN, PRISONER

TOKIO, May 29. Rear-Admiral Nebogatoff, former commander of the fourth division of the Pacific fleet, and recently commander of the information squadron composed of scouts and merchantmen, with 3 000 other Russians, is among the prisoners captured by the Japanese. Vice Admiral Rojestvensky appears to have escaped. The battle began Saturday morning and the Japanese are still in pursuit of the Russians.

AMERICAN VESSEL HAS BEEN SUNK

Confirmation of the Report Has Reached Washington Through Shanghai. WASHINGTON, May 29.—Confirmation has been received here from Shanghai of the press report that the Russian warships have sunk an unknown American merchant vessel off the Chinese coast. Heavy gunfire is plainly heard to the northward.

Not Officially Known

ST. PETERSBURG, May 29, 11:10 p. m.—Nothing is known at the admiralty of the reported sinking of an American steamer off Formosa by Vice Admiral Rojestvensky. It is recognized at the admiralty as quite possible that Rojestvensky may have been compelled by military necessity to destroy a neutral.

Government May Act

WASHINGTON, May 29.—It is stated at the state department that no further steps have been taken regarding the sinking of the American vessel by the Russian fleet. The sending of instructions yesterday to Minister Meyer to make in-

LITTLE LEFT OF RUSSIAN FLEET

Remaining Ships of the Vanquished Fleet Are Hurrying to the Northward—Rumor Is Persistent That Rojestvensky Has Been Killed

Special Cablegram to The Telegram.
 TOKIO, May 29.—It is officially announced that Admiral Rojestvensky's fleet has been practically annihilated. Thirteen warships have either been sunk and seven captured. Two of the largest vessels of the transport division are in the hands of the Japanese.

RUSSIANS IN FLIGHT
 All of the remaining Russian vessels are in full flight, hotly pursued. It is rumored, but not yet officially confirmed, that Rojestvensky's flag ship, the Kralz Souvaroff, has been sunk, the Russian commander going down with his ship and crew.

FLOWER OF RUSSIAN FLEET
 Special Cable to The Telegram.
 LONDON, May 29.—The battle took place in or near the Korea Straits, and it is believed that the Russian force consisted of the strongest and fleetest armed vessels under Admiral Rojestvensky's command. Opposed to the squadron is believed to have been the flower of the Japanese navy, which is said to have been making its base, from the first, at the port of Masampo, Korea, which is on the strait through which the Russians passed on Saturday. All the slower Russian vessels are said to have steamed to the eastward into the Pacific, evidently intending to make the circuit of Japan and endeavor to reach Vladivostok through one of the northern straits. A dispatch from Shanghai indicates that another naval engagement may have taken place near the mouth of the Yangtze river. Sixty-five Russian vessels are reported south of the Saddle Island, and it is said that there were thirty-three Japanese warships in the northern channel of the Yangtze yesterday. Furthermore, a report comes from Tokio that an attack was made by Japanese warships in the neighborhood of Shanghai, about the time the decisive engagement was being fought off the Korean coast. As to the character of Togo's battle, the Japanese censorship has not yet permitted any details to be cabled. From scraps of news derived from unofficial sources it appears that the Japanese admiral sailed from his base at Masampo and took the offensive.

SEA WAS HEAVY
 Late on Saturday there was a high wind and a rough sea interfering with the gunners and seriously impeding the proper handling of the smaller vessels. The Japanese are supposed, however, to have made free use of their torpedo boats, of which Togo possessed a large number. He is said to have lost ten of these vessels in the engagements. Naval officers are quoted as saying that such serious loss, as are reported to have been suffered by the Russian fleet, could hardly have been inflicted by ordinary fire. The Russians seem to have been decisive for a time.

RUSSIANS IN CONFUSION
 The vigor of the Japanese attack is believed to have thrown the Russians into confusion so that the battle took on the character of a running fight. The Russians steamed northward with the Japanese in pursuit and near the island of Oki, in the sea of Japan, about 200 miles northeast of the Korea Strait. Togo's ships again closed in among the Russian ships and is reported to have sunk the 12,000-ton first class battleship Bordeno, one of the strongest vessels in the Russian navy. From information received in Washington it is believed the Russian battleship Orel was also sunk. One dispatch from Tokio says that a

ST. PETERSBURG HAS NO NEWS OF DEFEAT

Today's Associated Press Information Casts a Gloom Over Russian Capital and Only Hope for the Best Is Left to a Despairing People

ST. PETERSBURG, May 29, 1:55 p. m.—At the admiralty this morning absolutely nothing is known of the naval battle in the far east, except the news contained in the dispatches of the Associated Press. The general impression produced by the cable message was undoubtedly extremely gloomy. While Admiral Rojestvensky was expected to pay a big price for reaching the haven at Vladivostok, the complete loss of two of his four best battleships, besides several other warships, with heavy damage to other ships, indicates an admitted spell of disaster, unless the Japanese suffered correspondingly.

For this reason news from Vladivostok where communication with the Russian fleet will be established, is awaited with intense anxiety.

The admiralty calculates that wireless communication with Vladivostok might be established as early as this afternoon or tonight, but as all dispatches must go to the emperor news is not likely to reach the public until tomorrow.

It is a matter of general comment that the most definite and most reliable information received up to the time of the official announcement sent out from Tokio came by the way of Washington. Some foreign press dispatches are very confusing, but everything seems to indicate that Togo delivered a series of desperate torpedo attacks during Saturday night with the support of his heavy ships.

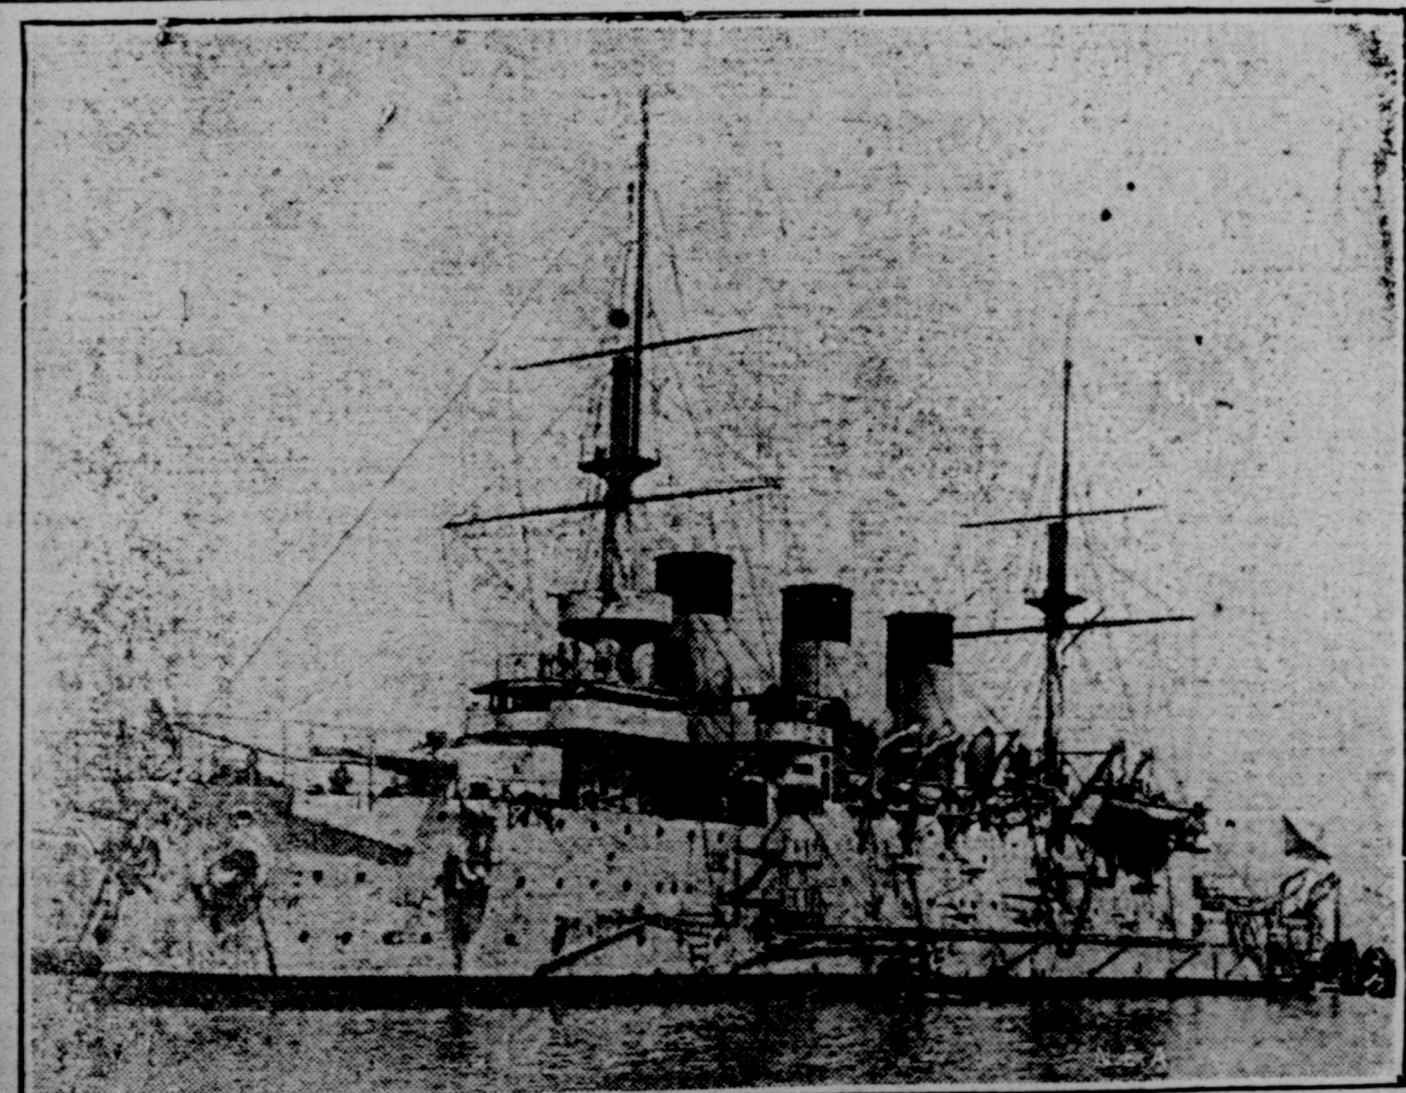

The reported sinking of so many ships, it is believed, might be also partly due to mines sown ahead of the advancing Russian columns. The belief is also strengthened that Rojestvensky was forced in order to secure homogeneity in speed and fighting power to divide his fleet, only a single division passing through the Straits of Korea, the other going around Japan.

The Straits of Korea division, however, evidently included the pick of the Russian fleet, the Bordeno and Orel being two of the four best battleships. It is possible that Admiral Rojestvensky transferred his flag from the battleship Kniaz Souvaroff to the Bordeno or to the Orel before the fight in order to prevent a concentration of fire on his own ship. Captain Srebernikoff of the St. Bordeno and Captain Ientiff of the Orel are regarded as extremely capable officers. Owing to the decision of the newspapers to suspend Monday publications only telegrams are being printed on fly sheets. The Novce Vremya alone comments editorially on the battle. The paper says: "Russia has been reproached with putting too much trust in God and sending too many sons to the war and not enough men. The results now, in the language of the Americans, is 'in the hands of the men behind the guns.' We Russians can be patient until the full results are known. Black pessimism reigns among the public." "The receipt of the Tokio official bulletin, announcing that Rojestvensky's fleet was practically annihilated, was a crushing blow to the admiralty officials, killing the hope which many of them had clung to that the silence of the Japanese government might be favorably construed. The wording of the official dispatches might be interpreted to mean that Admiral Togo had succeeded in barring and holding the entrance of the Straits of Korea against Admiral Rojestvensky.

Official Announcement
 WASHINGTON, May 29.—Official announcement of the result of the naval engagement between the Japanese and Russian fleets was received at the state department today at noon, in the following cablegram from Minister Griscom, dated Tokio, May 29: "Admiral Togo informed this government concerning the fight which took place Saturday afternoon and Saturday evening. "According to his report the Japanese fleet under his command destroyed and sunk one battleship of the Bordeno class and four other large Russian war vessels. Two or three more, have been captured. "None of the large Japanese men-of-war received serious injuries. "The battle was still in progress on Saturday. "A great Japanese victory is announced here as a general result of the engagement, but few details have been received."

LONDON WITHOUT NEWS
 LONDON, May 29.—Up to noon today the foreign office was still without news of the battle from any British source in the Far East. The Japanese legation is similarly without news from its government. Reports are current on the Stock Exchange, purporting to be from authoritative private sources, that Admiral Rojestvensky's flagship (Kniaz Souvaroff) was among the vessels sunk and that the Japanese are following up the Russians and picking off their ships one by one. Operators on the stock exchange are cheerful over the Far Eastern news, hoping that the battle might prove decisive and lead to peace. Consols went up 5-6 and Japanese bonds rose from 2 to 3 1/2 points. In Russian stocks no business was transacted; nominally prices unchanged. Americans rose 1 to 1 1/2 points over parity. Orders from Paris forced prices higher. Failure was announced of the Economic Bank on Bishop's Gate street. Is a small concern of no importance whatever.

JOYS OF MATERNITY

A WOMAN'S BEST HOPES REALIZED

Mrs. Potts Tells How Women Should Prepare for Motherhood

The darkest days of husband and wife are when they come to look forward to childless and lonely old age.

Many a wife has found herself incapable of motherhood owing to a displacement of the womb or lack of strength in the generative organs.

Mrs. Anna Potts

Frequent backache and distressing pains, accompanied by offensive discharges and generally by irregular and scanty menstruation indicate a displacement or nerve degeneration of the womb and surrounding organs.

The question that troubles women is how can a woman who has some female trouble bear healthy children?

Mrs. Anna Potts, of 510 Park Avenue, Hot Springs, Ark., writes:

My dear Mrs. Pinkham— During the early part of my married life I was delicate in health; both my husband and I were very anxious for a child to bless our home, but I had two miscarriages, and could not carry a child to maturity.

Actual sterility in woman is very rare. If any woman thinks she is sterile, let her try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass. Her advice is free to expectant or would-be mothers.

DAY AT MINERAL WELLS

Commercial Club Looks With Favor on Interurban Line

MINERAL WELLS, Texas, May 29.—Mineral Wells readers of The Telegram enjoy reading from day to day of the proposed interurban. The Commercial Club is ready to meet Mr. Beardsley of Louisiana and hear any business plans he may have in mind.

Will F. Skillman, a prominent banker of Sulphur Springs, has come over and brought his entire family for a month's rest and the healthful drinks.

Professor Connor the orchestra director of Fort Worth, is over for a short stay.

Visitors will especially enjoy this coming week's attractions at the Wells, the special events being daily shown by the famous Carter's Comedians at the summer theater here.

The small boy was at his best yesterday and today, Mollie Baily gave two performances in the city.

Compliments are heard almost daily regarding the splendid equipments of Mineral Wells in the sanitarium and bath house line. Over $10,000 were spent on the latter this year and no resort in the south is better prepared to handle its patrons than is this place. O'Neal's new sanitarium works over thirty people and has a capacity for over sixty persons.

A male quartet of Fort Worth came in yesterday and today are at the Gibson place confirmed "drinkers."

A TEXAS JAP COLONY

One Thousand Farmers to Be Brought Over for Paddy Fields

WASHINGTON, May 29.—Japanese colonization is contemplated in Texas by a wealthy Japanese agriculturist, who recently visited the United States, according to a report submitted to the department of commerce and labor by Fred D. Fisher, the American consul at Yamanashi.

The report says that 1,000 farmers are to be collected in Japan and that as a first undertaking 3,000 acres will be cultivated in paddy fields in Texas.

Mr. Fisher has forwarded to the department an interview with the Japanese gentleman in which the statement was made that farming was the only enterprise that can profitably be undertaken in America by the Japanese.

During the early part of my married life I was delicate in health; both my husband and I were very anxious for a child to bless our home, but I had two miscarriages, and could not carry a child to maturity.

Swedish Monarch Takes Reins of Power From Gustav

STOCKHOLM, May 29.—King Oscar of Sweden and Norway resumed the reins of government, superseding Crown Prince Gustav, who acted as regent during the king's recent illness.

When the king gave over the reins of government into the hands of his son it was understood that the power would not again revert back to the older ruler.

From Fort Worth to Amarillo there is no trouble and trains are running as usual. Connecting lines have been advised to sell no tickets to points beyond Amarillo until further notice.

General Superintendent Dolan of the Denver Road received advices this morning from up the line that the damages done to the South Canadian bridge Friday last have been repaired and that traffic was resumed at noon today.

LOCAL LABOR CONTRACT TO BE MADE STANDARD

Agreement of Fort Worth Merchants and Retail Clerks Will Be Considered by American Federation

The new agreement recently entered into between the Retail Clerks' Union and the merchants of Fort Worth, providing for a maximum hours for clerks, a minimum wage, arbitration clause and perpetual contract, bids fair to become adopted as a general form of contract by the National Federation of Labor at its coming convention, which will be held at Galveston July 11.

One of the desirable features of the contract, Mr. Woodman says, is that the contract cannot be annulled without a thirty days' notice prior to the expiration of the contract, and then only by mutual consent of both sides to the controversy.

In the letter received by Mr. Woodman it was stated that the proposition will be submitted to the convention and officers of the American Federation of Labor. The writer believes that the factors adopted by the clerks of Fort Worth will be incorporated into a law in their entirety.

BE A BIG SCRAMBLE

ENORMOUS WOOL CLIP IN MONTANA PROMISED

Sheepmen of the State Will Realize Close to the Sum of $9,000,000

HELENA, Mont., May 29.—Montana's wool clip for this season will aggregate slightly more than 12,000,000 pounds, and of this amount more than 25,000,000 pounds have been contracted for on the sheep's backs at prices averaging 21 cents a pound.

Thus, Montana sheepmen will realize close to $9,000,000 for wool alone, and as the price for mutton is above the usual figure the year will be one of the most prosperous in the history of the state so far as sheepmen are concerned.

In ordinary years the wool of the state has been such activity on the part of buyers for eastern houses. The buying of wool on the animals' backs will have the effect of doing away with the wool markets this year.

As usual, Boston and Philadelphia houses have secured the bulk of the clips, although St. Louis, Chicago and New York firms are beginning to send agents into the field, their houses having been advised of the unusual proceedings, with the result that automobiles, livery teams and horses are being made use of by the buyers in their scramble to get wool.

At least two clips have been sold at better than 24 cents a pound, one Ferguson county clip bringing 25 cents. A popular cry among the ranchers in Northern Montana is "four pounds for $1," and not a few are holding off for this figure.

ADVANTAGES OF DEHORNING

The eastern corn belt people who are taking large numbers of Texas range bred cattle every year to be fed and finished for market are evincing a marked preference for the young stuff that has been dehorned. In fact, so great is the demand for cattle without horns that many breeders even of range stuff are turning to the polled breeds as crosses in order to get rid of the horns. Some of these are said to exhibit great propensity as horn removers, and cattle without horns are steadily growing in favor throughout the entire country.

There are a number of methods of relieving the horned breeds of the incubus nature bestowed upon them. There are some dehorning instruments that are being used on calves with marked success, and there are some chemical preparations, consisting principally of lunar caustic, which are rubbed on the horns when they are just beginning to form, which totally suspends the growth and converts the animal into what is popularly designated as a muley. In the removal of the horns on the young animals either with instruments or by the chemical method, no ill results are perceptible. It is the custom of running mature animals into chutes, pressing them into small spaces and saying their horns off close to their heads that constitutes such exhibitions of cruelty that ought to be no longer tolerated in a decent and civilized community. The man who is too lazy to dehorn his cattle at the proper time should not be permitted to use the saw on mature cattle. One of the most repulsive sights the editor of this paper ever witnessed was the dehorning of several hundred two-year-old steers out in west Texas. He did not witness the operation on but one of the unfortunate animals, and that sight will never be forgotten.

It is claimed that the dehorning process results in taming the wild spirit of the animals to a very marked extent. They become more gentle and do not fight and scrap all over the feed lots and in the cars when in transit. They seem to realize that they have been deprived of the emblems of their former pugacity, and instead of exercising themselves in open declarations of war and pawing up the earth on the slightest provocation, they utilize their time in peaceful pursuit of acquiring tallow and laying on flesh for their owners. Some ranchmen object to the dehorning process on the ground that it is taking from the animal what nature endowed it with for its protection, and it is claimed the dehorned cow cannot protect her progeny from the depredations of wild beasts like the mother cow who has been allowed to retain her hooks. But the tendency of the times is unquestionably to get rid of the horns. The Chicago Drivers Journal says:

Arguments pro and con the dehorning of cattle are numerous, and objections to the practice wide and varied. From the present tendency of trade demands, however, it is safe to predict a steady increase in the practice of dehorning until only a very small proportion of the cattle that are sent to market for slaughter will bear their horns intact.

Year after year the favor of buyers for cattle that have been dehorned becomes more and more pronounced. Financial results are a strong factor in argument in favor of any practice, and the testimony of many sellers may be obtained that horns on fat cattle at market frequently result in a considerable discount from the price that could have been realized had all horns been off.

Buyers constantly and forcibly declare their favor for the hornless cattle, and especially in this case with the buyers of cattle on eastern shipping and export account. In fact, so strong has the prejudice in favor of a buyer of become that practically no one of the export animals can be interested in horned cattle, and the buyers on shipping account turn to them only as a last resort when the available supply of dehorned cattle of the class desired has been exhausted. Reason for this is obvious. Dehorned cattle are more easily handled in loading and unloading—an important matter of consideration with cattle that have to be transferred as many times as is necessary in the transportation of export beef stock. Shrinkage in weight of dehorned cattle will be somewhat less, owing to their quieter movement than that of animals which, equipped with horns, are ever inclined to test them when they may come in contact with strange animals. For this reason even the local packers, who are less disposed to discriminate against horned cattle, favor the hornless beef stock. Strange cattle brought together in numbers to hold over night, if equipped with horns, will clash together, resulting in many bruises and disfigurements that are avoided in the case of dehorned stock. Many a buyer has declined on that account to take on cattle to hold over night for shipment or slaughter. Leading exporters here persistently decline to purchase horned cattle, and say that feeders should become educated to the fact that better results at market are assured to the feeder who selects and handles dehorned cattle in his feeding. One of the heaviest distillery feeders of cattle in the country declares in buying young cattle for slop feeding, though they will be almost constantly tied, he will pay 10c per hundredweight more for any bunch of feeders that he finds with horns off, other conditions being equal. Since methods of dehorning have been evolved that to a great extent eliminate the objection of cruelty in the process, the trend of requirements of the trade seems to indicate that dehorning of cattle intended for market will be well repaid in results at market time.

The Texas farmers are still selling cotton now at about three cents less than they were offered for it last fall, and it is no wonder they are feeling just a little bit unkindly toward those dear friends who advised them to hold for fifteen cents. If prices are fairly good this fall it does not require any stretch of the imagination to forecast the manner in which the cotton crop will be marketed. It will be sold just about as fast as it can be prepared for market.

It is said the governor is deluged with invitations to make fourth of July speeches, but he should not complain. When he was a candidate he would have been glad to receive such invitations and would have felt honored. As it is, he has reached the topmost round of his political ambition and is not near so anxious to make speeches as formerly. There are plenty to come after him, however, who will be loaded for the fourth of July or any other old occasion.

The small remnant of populists in this state are going to find that they have bit off more than they can masticate in the attempted swallowing of the Farmers' Union. The scheme is a smooth one and has been most adroitly managed, but there are too many staunch democrats in the organization for it to rest comfortably in the populist stomach.

The movement that has been inaugurated for an auditorium in this city is one that should be pushed by every progressive citizen. Fort Worth is the convention city of the southwest, and when we get that big auditorium provided we will capture just about everything in that line that ever comes in sight. The people of Texas just naturally like to come to Fort Worth.

The censure that is being heaped upon the president in some quarters for having killed a few members of the bear family in Colorado, is puerile. A manly man likes to indulge in manly sport, and because the president finds happiness and solace in the chase does not render him the barbarian he is pictured by some of his carping critics. Is it any worse to shoot a big brown bear than it is to hook a poor little innocent fish?

Some of the Texas farmers are so badly behind with their work that they are now doing their plowing at night as well as during the day time. The Texas farmer is a worker, and can come just about as near overcoming adverse conditions as any human being on earth.

Mayor Weaver says he is going to run all the rascals out of Philadelphia, and if he succeeds in the undertaking the next census estimate will place the number of that town's inhabitants considerably less than has been accorded to Fort Worth.

The United States senator from Connecticut is said to be the laziest man in the Wooden Nutmeg state, but he will have plenty of company when he takes his seat in Washington. Much of the so-called dignity of the American house of lords is sheer laziness.

West Texas yearlings are selling at from $14 to $15 around at this time, and that is very nearly the figure they brought when the West Texas cowman considered himself strictly in the swim.

For the first time in my life I paraded before a sympathetic audience. Though no word in my favor had been spoken I felt it in my bones, and I knew that every man there ardently desired me to beat the Frenchman. The feeling gave me additional strength, confidence and composure. Hitherto I had invariably fought in the presence of those who would have welcomed my defeat with thankful hearts, and the knowledge of that disposition had ever served me to a reckless, irreconcilable with a display of perfect skill. But now I was at my best. I determined to kill my opponent, and with all the assurance of destiny I marked the spot on his shirt front where my blade should enter to slay his heart. The marquis was a fine exponent of one style of fence and one style only—that of the Italian school. In that I admit he was near perfect. But I had mastered all schools and styles, and very soon he perceived that his life was at my mercy.

I paid him many compliments as we proceeded, but he never relaxed from a fixed, dog-like grin. His blade once slipped past my head, only a swerve saved me. I pierced the lobe of his left ear by way of return. His blade passed between my left arm and my body; in exchange I cut his lower lip in two. One thing, however, I could not fail to notice in his off a long score—Gad! yes, a long score indeed. Well, what say, shall we lurch together?

There ensued the marvelous spectacle of the first gentleman of England walking arm-in-arm down Piccadilly with "that devil Franks."

Every face we met in our march went yellow with curiosity. Men stopped, stared and rubbed their eyes.

Truly, to more than me the world seemed turning topsy-turvy.

CHAPTER III. HIGH TREASON. The main point was that I was quite a rich man. Ten thousand pounds! I doubt if Devenac himself could have placed his hand on such a sum without considerable effort. I paid for the lunch. It cost me just 38 shillings, for the prince ordered one quart of old port and then another, but every mouthful made him more good natured and more friendly disposed toward me so I did not regret the prospect of this expenditure. He was then engaged in fighting the king and Adding-ton to try and wig from them a position in the army at least equal to that of the duke of York, considering fence. He left his breast entirely unprotected. Suspecting a ruse I faintly in such a manner as to lead him to expect a fatal thrust. He actually courted the disaster, for throwing up his sword he made no counter thrust. I was confounded with surprise, for no tyro could have been so foolish. I reasoned as I played with him, and presently hazarded a guess. To make sure I forced a smart rally, and in the midst of it pricked at his heart. My blade grated on steel armour, and without doubt, had I thrust hard enough I should have been left with a broken and useless sword. Thereafter he fought like a fiend incarnate, and only my skill and activity saved me from several vicious thrusts, but at last, with a swift lunge and turn of wrist, I sent his blade spinning from his grasp and he stood at my mercy, my point at his throat, his life mine to take or give.

His face, pallid before, was livid as a ghost, but I marked another emotion in his now. Fear—craven fear! He could not speak for fear, and his teeth rattled in his jaws. I gently pricked his throat; he fell back step by step. I followed him, until brought up by the wall he was constrained to pause. The silence in that room was the silence of a charnel house—intense, ghostly, full of horrid mystery. I was the god in the machine. I broke the silence.

"Undress, monsieur," I commanded. He actually sniveled. "Undress, monsieur," I lolly repeated. "or die."

As I said these words a gleam of craven hope crept into his blood-shot eyes. His teeth still chattering, he drew off his shirt, and there, manifest to all, the coward stood revealed, for from neck to bristlet he wore an undershirt of chain-steeled impervious sword and dagger.

I stood over him, believe me, magnificent in scorn. "This, your Royal Highness, I said, is the creature who would assail the honor of an Englishman. I will not defame by his death a sword which has only drunk gallant blood."

It far below his royal dignity to longer remain a paltry colonel of dragons. I had never mixed in politics, but I was conversant with the ordinary affairs of the day, and the army was a sore point with me. Five times during the present campaign I had attempted to obtain a commission for active service in Spain, but my applications had been contemptuously disregarded. I had each time been referred to the fact that after that affair at Goa at the end of Wellesley's campaign in India (through which I had fought with honor) I had been dismissed from the service in disgrace for the paltry matter of shooting Lord Melville's brother-in-law, in defiance of the edict forbidding duels. It will be readily perceived, therefore, that political influence I had none, for the excuse was trifling, and Melbourne was then on the eve of being impeached for malversation of state funds, yet he was able to veto my ambitions. I was all the more ready to sympathize with the prince, and my comprehensive damnation of the government against which he was striving placed us on the most amicable terms. I fancy I could have gained his influence in my favor, and was actually on the point of asking it, when an untoward accident occurred.

The room in Bidewell's in which we sat opened upon a passage hung on each side with mirrors. Unfortunately the door stood wide, and as I was modestly about to set forth my aspirations to the prince, I noticed his eyes wander to the doorway, and suddenly his whole demeanor change. His nostrils quivered with excitement, his lips were closed tightly over his teeth, his eyes sparkled.

Following his glance I caught a glimpse of a surpassingly handsome woman's face reflected in the mirror on the side of the passage opposite the door. The girl turned a rosy, startled face in our direction, then vanished. But the prince was on his feet in a second and after her, I heard a scuffle in the passage, and in a moment he returned, dragging the lady with him, one arm around her waist, his free hand over her mouth to suppress all outcry.

His royal highness had drunk himself by now to a pitch of recklessness, and he slammed the door behind him right noisily. "Help! help!" cried the girl, wildly, as soon as her mouth was free. Her voice had a slightly foreign

THAT they had not made him any money in the last three years, and that if he had not been for the hogs that he has raised he would no be business today, as the cattle have not made enough to keep his family from starving if they were dependent upon them.

THOMAS SWARTZ OF ANDREW FALLS, S. D., was at the Metropolitan Saturday. Mr. Swartz was formerly in the cattle business, but retired two years ago, when cattle were selling at a price below the actual cost of production.

Mr. Swartz organized a cattle company about three years ago and leased a large pasture near Andrew Falls. The company spent a considerable sum of money in improving the land for pasture purposes, fencing and providing for water.

After it had gone to this expense, the company was not in the best shape financially, and it was necessary to increase its capitalization before it could put cattle in the pasture. The capital was accordingly increased and a number of prominent men became interested in the business. Cattle were bought outright and placed on grass to finish for market.

Soon after the pasture was stocked cold weather and wolves commenced to get in their deadly work and over 50 per cent of the stock died the first year. This put the company out of business, and Mr. Swartz has kept strictly out of the cattle business since that time.

STEPS NEEDED TO ADVANCE FT. WORTH

The Telegram begins today the publication of a series of short articles prepared by the leading men of the city, expressing briefly in the opinion of each what is most needed to advance the welfare of the city and continue the rapid stride with which it has progressed in the past. The first article is contributed by Captain B. B. Paddock, secretary of the Board of Trade, a man thoroughly familiar with the steps that have advanced Fort Worth to its present proud position.

"Complying with your request for a suggestion as to what is needed to advance Fort Worth, I beg to say that the most essential thing at this time is a more combined and concerted effort on the part of its citizens.

"The most potent factor in the development of Fort Worth in the past was the united, concentrated effort of its citizens. In those days they acted as one man. A call for a public meeting to consider any proposition for the benefit of the city met with a hearty unanimous response from every citizen. A simple announcement in the paper for a meeting at night would pack the opera house from pit to gallery. Every man acted as if he felt it to be his bounden duty to be present.

"How different now. Letters, telephone calls, personal appeals are ineffective. Many of the most prominent and most interested citizens never take any interest in public matters. Its direction is left to the faithful few who always respond and upon whom all the burden is reposed.

"The citizenship has greatly changed in the last few years. Recent residents do not feel that same personal interest in the city that some of the older residents do, and even many of the latter have become like warm and indifferent. It has been many days since the familiar forms and voices of some of the best workers for the city have been seen and heard in our public meetings. Men like Robert McCarty, W. J. Boaz, K. M. Van Zandt, H. C. Edgington, M. B. Lloyd, S. B. Burnett, C. E. Nash, H. W. Williams, A. E. Want, J. P. King, William Capps, E. B. Cantey, Zane-Celti, Sam. Levy, J. E. Mitchell, Martin Casey, Scott Wilson, A. S. Dingle, Glen Walker, H. H. Pittman and hosts of others went to come out and help by their advice and example. They are never seen nor heard now.

THE USES OF PRAYER

Rev. Mr. Limbaugh Says the Old Conception is Untrue

"The Meaning and Uses of Prayer" was the subject of the discourse by the Unitarian minister, Rev. D. C. Limbaugh, at the Temple on Taylor street yesterday morning.

Rev. D. C. Limbaugh said in part: "Some years before his death Mr. Moody, the celebrated evangelist, defined prayer as the power that moves the arm that moves the world." Mr. Moody but expressed the conception of prayer which theology taught for ages before the advent of science. This conception was sanctioned by the Bible, abounding as it does with instances in which the prayers of mortals altered the decrees of God; and when we remember that the Bible was once deemed by all Christendom the veritable word of God we need not wonder that the old notion of prayer held the human mind in thrall down to our own times, and even yet we read of prayers for rain, as if Deity needed to be kept informed of man's necessities and to be teased into supplying them.

"While we mention the old idea of prayer, however, with nothing but a spirit of reverence for the sincerity of those who entertained this mistaken notion, we must realize that the advanced thought of the time has left the orthodox conception far behind and has given us in its stead a conception far better and grander. We feel now that prayer in its true sense is not a request to Deity for a selfish benefit, but is the uplift of the spirit toward moral and spiritual grandeur—the aspiration of the soul toward an even loftier ideal. The warm-hearted woman plying her needle to clothe some hopeless creature who has no claim but that of a fellow-being upon her sympathy and helpfulness utters a nobler prayer with the silent labor of her fingers than ever rose up from the pupil. In the glowing language of Montaigne—

"Prayer is the soul's sincere desire, uttered or unexpressed; The motion of the hidden fire That trembles in the breast." "In this better and broader sense every man who feels the longing for a nobler life for himself and for his fellows voices a silent prayer within his soul, and that great scoffer at prayer and worship, Robert Ingersoll, was the devotee of us all, for his pages breathe sentiments as tender and beautiful as were ever couched in language.

"The truest, the finest, the sweetest prayer, must come out of the loving, sympathetic, the tender soul. No selfish prayer can enter into the heart of God.

CAMP SPONSOR RESIGNS POST

Miss Ted Edrington Will Not Represent R. E. Lee Veterans at Louisville

Sunday's session of Lee Camp, United Confederate Veterans, was opened with prayer offered by M. J. Pankey, former chaplain, Commander E. W. Taylor presided.

Philip Weaver, a member of Company A, Griffin's battalion, was admitted to membership, his application having been favorably passed upon by the committee.

The resignation of Miss Ted Edrington as sponsor to the Louisville reunion was tendered and accepted by the camp with reluctance. Her substitute will be selected by the camp at the meeting next Sunday.

A communication to the adjutant of the camp from an inmate of the Confederate Home at Austin was read, in which it was stated that the inmates there are receiving the best of attention at the hands of the superintendent, J. Q. Chenoweth.

A report of the decoration of the graves of veterans was read, showing that seven graves could not be located in the old cemetery. In this connection, Historian C. C. Cummings referred to the recent visit to Fort Worth of Captain Ed Terrell, the first settler in Tarrant county, who participated in the annual memorial exercises.

The sum of $5 was acknowledged by Commander Taylor, from Captain J. E. Shields. The camp returned to Captain Shields its thanks.

A sketch of the life of L. W. Lloyd during the war was read by E. J. Parent.

A. B. Fraser delivered a short address on his experience during the war, which elicited marked attention from the old veterans.

John Montgomery of Rome, Ga., was a visiting veteran at the camp meeting.

MEETING OF SONS
Light attendance marked the meeting of the Sons' camp Sunday afternoon, and the entertainment program, that is usually very attractive, was not carried out on account of the absence of those who were to take part.

A communication was read from the Alabama division, asking the camp's indorsement of Thomas M. Owens of Montgomery, Ala., for the office of commander-in-chief of the national organization, to succeed N. A. Tisdal of Texas, now a resident of Rusk. The communication was received, but the camp took no action, preferring to wait until a nomination has been made.

A. B. Fraser of the parent camp entertained the sons and daughters by a short talk on war reminiscences. A piano solo was rendered by Miss Pearl Martin. The camp gave consideration to the matter of purchasing a piano, but decided not to take positive action until a later date.

MEMORIAL BY GRAND ARMY

Sermon Delivered to Veterans By Rev. J. F. Boeys—Decoration of Graves Tuesday Morning

Memorial service was held by the Grand Army of the Republic Sunday morning at St. Paul's M. E. church in preparation for the observance of Memorial day, May 30.

Rev. J. F. Boeys delivered the memorial sermon, taking as his text, "A people that jeopardize their lives unto death in the high places of the field." In the course of the sermon he paid a high tribute to the American soldier and the true citizenship of a man who offers his life in the service of his country. Deference was also had to the annual custom of decorating the mounds of departed comrades.

Special music for the occasion was sung by the choir under the direction of S. R. Green. The attendance of veterans at the service was large.

Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock members of the G. A. R. will meet at Second and Main streets and go to Oakwood cemetery, where exercises will be held at the grave of Comrade Bowles. A special program George MacAdam, president of Fort Worth University, will deliver an address. Patriotic hymns will be sung and each grave decorated with flowers and the flag under which they fought.

PASTOR ADDRESSES FORMER CONGREGATION

Dr. C. P. Bridewell of Atlanta Preaches at First Presbyterian Church, His Former Pastorate

Dr. C. P. Bridewell, D. D., pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Atlanta, Ga., who formerly had pastoral charge of the First Presbyterian church in this city, preached Sunday morning in his old pulpit, being greeted by a large congregation of his old charge.

Rev. William Gaddy, the present pastor, in introducing him, said that it gave him much pleasure to be able to have Dr. Bridewell back and that he knew the same pleasure was experienced by his old congregation.

Bridewell said that he experienced much joy in coming back to Fort Worth and his old church on this occasion to acknowledge the cordial greeting and welcome extended him by the old members of his congregation, whom he had known in former years. He took as his text the eighth verse of the fourteenth chapter of St. John, "Philip saith unto Him, Lord, show us the Father, and it sufficeth us."

He began by saying that the religion of Jesus Christ as given in the Bible in its entirety is significant and unfolds the inner life of humanity; that this religion is interesting to man who studies it to catch a glimpse of the smiles of his Father; the wall of the heart is for a fuller knowledge of God; it is the universal prayer of the human family to reach out for that which is alone in God; the world is swinging around here and there to catch a glimpse of the God-head; the finite soul cannot comprehend His God, but longs for a personal presence. The petition of Philip, he said, is like a child in its simplicity, in its yearning, and its obstructed soul longs to see its God. The craving all have is to get to the heart of all mystery, and it was the same with Philip.

"Here in this life," he said, "we are very much in the dark, but we feel capable of a higher and better something yet to be obtained which is not yet reached. We have no opportunity of informing ourselves of the hereafter, and thus go on not knowing whether we are drifting. Why should we live so remote from the center of things and be disturbed by mystery? The soul asks to be shown the God for whom we live."

Dr. Bridewell then told of a network of the philosophers to unravel the mystery and finally admit they cannot find the God. He said that it was but natural that man cannot know God, and said that he should let the thought come that God is his Father, who is revealed only through Jesus Christ. No further revelation will be made, but no further revelation can be made. It is not a theory of God—it is a vision of Christ that has been given. "We have all seen the Father, God is manifest in the flesh; His wisdom, His sufficiency for man, is a revelation of God to the world. We are waiting for Him and He will save us," said Dr. Bridewell.

Summarizing his sermon, he said: "Jesus is God's very self, revealed to man. There is no sorrow like unto His sorrow. His is a great heart filled with tenderest sympathy for mankind. What would keep us from madness if there were not a God with infinite sympathy to whom we could go in times of distress? God associates with the sinner and is compassionate, self-sacrificing and forgiving."

He concluded his remarks by the statement that when men are in trouble and distress God will comfort them, but call on him for deliverance and will make them more than conquerors over death and hell.

The discourse was one of the finest ever heard in this city. Dr. Bridewell has been in the city as a commissioner to the general assembly of the Southern Presbyterian church, the guest of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Carter, 402 Adams street. He will probably return to Atlanta today or tomorrow.

The singing of the choir was led by Professor Pease, who also sang a solo.

Grape-Nuts

THOSE WHO TRY THE FOOD FAITHFULLY FOR 10 DAYS LEARN THREE THINGS WORTH MORE THAN A GOLD MINE TO ANYONE WHO VALUES HEALTH AT ITS WORTH.

First, that a few ounces of perfectly digested food yields more nourishment and strength than many pounds of any kind of food undigested.

Second, that it is in Grape-Nuts alone that the starchy part of the grain (that part which is known to supply energy) is naturally pre-digested in the process of manufacture. Government tests and all the principal foods show no food known has as much as one-half the solubility (the digestive test) in cold water as Grape-Nuts and most of the foods range down from one-fourth to very low relative percentages.

Third, that nervous systems, exhausted by the high strain of present day requirements, can be and are rebuilt quickly when fed on Grape-Nuts, because Nature's Phosphate of Potash and Albumen are presented in the food and from these two things and water, the life forces make up the soft, gray matter with which to refill the depleted nerve centers throughout the body and brain. A distinct feeling of buoyancy and mental strength follows a "Grape-Nuts diet."

See suggestions in little brochure in package. The way back to health by Grape-Nuts is pleasant and most profitable.

IMPROVING PARK FOR CONFEDERATE REUNION

Lake to Be Stocked With Fish and Grounds Generally Overhauled for Annual Gathering

Officers of the Confederate Park Association are directing the work of improving the grounds for the annual fall reunion.

During last week Director R. R. Keith and others were superintending the work at the park. The heavy rains had weakened the ground, which forms the lake, and this was strengthened. It is to be stocked with fish from the hatchery at San Marcos, this state, in the near future. Several acres are covered by the water, which will afford a pleasure resort for those who delight in boating and fishing. A number of boats are to be provided by the time the reunion is held.

The lake is fed by three never-failing springs, which keeps the water pure and fresh. It is now thirty feet deep. The grounds in the vicinity of the lake have been planted in Bermuda grass and the fence has been made stronger around the entire camping grounds.

The date for holding the coming reunion has not yet been decided, but will be expected that this meeting will be one of the largest yet held by the association. Confederates from all over North and Central Texas are expected to be present, while a few will come from South Texas.

An effort will be made to secure some prominent speakers, the governor of the state, if possible, besides others who are leaders in Confederate circles in Texas.

TENT MEETING WELL ATTENDED

Much Enthusiasm Prevails. Scruples Concerning Death May Establish Mission in This District

The tent meeting in the Union Depot addition is now a week old and is growing in interest. Last night the tent was crowded and people were standing around outside of the tent and seated in buggies.

Mr. Kendall sang "Rock of Ages," while his wife, who is an expert with the stereopticon, illustrated the song with seventeen views, which were dissolved into each other in such a way as to produce a marvelous effect in figure and color.

The first scene was a storm at sea and then the wreck of the vessel from which a young woman emerged and was seen hanging to a cross erected on a rock. A sister puts up a hand from the waters, and is helped to the rocks and saved. The rescuer is given a crown by ministering angels and is at last lifted from the cross and carried before the judgment throne and at last welcomed by the hosts of angels of heaven.

Following the spirited singing of familiar hymns, Mr. Kendall sang a solo entitled "The Lost Ship," with telling effect.

Rev. Mr. Hamlin, who is conducting this effort, is doing so under the auspices of the First Christian church. It is hoped as a result there will be a mission church established here, on the corner of East Leuda and Illinois streets.

Sunday school has been organized, a tabernacle has been built, an organ has been bought and many conveniences for the work have been secured. There were forty-eight in the Sunday school at the organization three weeks ago and yesterday there were 117 in attendance.

Mr. Hamlin preached last night on "What This Community Needs Most." He said some people had given very queer answers to this question. One man had remarked that there was need for better side walks, another for a sewerage system and another for less slumber and so on, each giving a different answer. This brought the preacher to the conclusion that the people generally don't know and could not agree as to what is best for them.

On investigating God's word it is plain that God knows what is best for man and has shown his interest in the welfare of man throughout the ages sufficient to warrant the confidence of all well-thinking people in God's disposition of things. In the Bible we find that "He commands all men every where to repent." With the stress that he has put on this from the very beginning of the world's history until this time we must conclude that it is not of minor importance to say the least.

Mr. Hamlin's illustrations at this point were apt and forcible. He defined repentance from the original word to be more than a change of action or purpose in life, but a desire and effort at least to restore stolen property and to make right the wrongs of the past, when it is possible.

Tonight at 8 o'clock the services will continue as usual, and the Kendalls will illustrate a popular song, "The Vesper Bells." There will be a large number of pictures and all beautifully colored. People from all parts of Fort Worth are invited to these meetings and may take College avenue car to Illinois avenue, or Evans avenue car to East Leuda street.

What you pay for extracts is important but what you get for your money is ten times more important. Ask for Burnett's Vanilla and get the best.

Most of these will be entertained. The convention lasts three days, and will be a great gathering of Sunday school workers.

PEACE TALK IS NOW ON

NEW YORK, May 29.—Advices received from London and other leading continental financial centers by the local bankers were all of the opinion that Japan's decisive victory would hasten peace.

Reports that the government at Washington had signified its willingness to act as mediator in event of peace proposals were current and added to the hopeful feeling in financial circles that the end of the war might be looked for.

LETTER TO LOUIS WINEMAN

Dear Sir: You know what pain is for, how it does it, how it falls, what pain does it, and what pain don't. It's your business to know; of course you know Devoe.

There are some details, which, of course, you can't be expected to know. For instance the next-best paints are only three-quarters as good. That's strange; very strange. There are a dozen of them perhaps; you don't know them as accurately as that; you don't know them all by name. No matter; one is enough; the only one you have real occasion to know is Devoe.

The queer of it is that the others leave the whole business to us so. We make paint as good as we can; others make it as good as they have to. Queer, but we don't complain. Yours truly,

F. W. DEVOE & CO. P. S.—Brown & Vera sell our paint.

MORGAN SUES MULHALL

Youth Shot by Cattleman Wants $20,000 Damages

ST. LOUIS, May 29.—Ernest Morgan, an innocent bystander during an exciting pistol duel between Zach Mulhall, a ranchman, and two employees of the Cummings Wild West show at the World's Fair, asks for damages from Mulhall. Mulhall was convicted and sent to the penitentiary for three years on the charge of shooting Morgan and the case is now in the supreme court. Last Wednesday Morgan brought suit for $20,000 damages.

The shooting occurred June 18, 1904, on the Pike. In the suit which is filed in circuit court by Joseph Morgan, the next friend, the plaintiff says that although Dr. L. H. Laidley saved his life, he has endured great pain since that time, and is permanently injured.

Mulhall, who is general live stock agent for the Frisco, wounded both opponents, but a wild shot struck Morgan in the abdomen.
