May Mean Adoption of Dark
Vision Policy

ASSASSINATION RUMORS

Reports Have Not Been Confirmed and Taken With Great Caution

ST. PETERSBURG, June 6.—Details of the epoch-making battle of the sea of Japan, which are drifting in here through the foreign press, and even the question of peace or war is almost ignored in contemplation of the more absorbing internal situation created by the sudden elevation of Governor General Trepoff to the office of assistant minister of the interior, making him virtually a dictator with the dark vision policy of reaction and repression.

Yet the Associated Press is informed on high authority that Treppoff's appointment is only half the story and that there is a brighter side to the picture. As intimated in the dispatches last night, it is to come in the shape of an imperial manifesto which will possibly be issued tomorrow, which is the empress' birthday, or on Thursday, which is the festival, the ascension and will immediately realize the popular demand for a legislative assembly, consisting of two houses.

The lower house will be called the gosudarstvennaya duma, "imperial duma," and the upper house the gosudarstvennaya sovet, or "present council of empire."

While the upper house will enjoy preponderance and power, the lower house will also have certain legislative functions and right to interpellate the ministers' plan also involving the responsibility of the ministers. Delays in the elaboration machinery of election will be obtained by the employment of the law of 1864, under which land owners and property owners in cities and villages, including the peasants, elect representatives to zemstvos, which in effect places representation on a property basis.

SAYS GOVERNMENT REPORTS INCORRECT

Southern Cotton Growers' Association Charge That Reports Are Doctored

NEW YORK, June 6.—Pritchard Cheatham of Atlanta, secretary of the Southern Cotton Growers' Association, who is in this city, has declared his intention to call President Roosevelt's attention to what he considers gross irregularities in both the preparation and the publication of the government cotton report issued last Friday. Mr. Cheatham will make no charges of bribery or any other crime, but his intention is to ask for a rigid investigation and that the resignation of one of the important employees in the statistical bureau of the department of agriculture be demanded. It is understood that he charges someone with the manipulation of the market tending to depress the price of the staple. Officers of the association declare they have as many experts as the department of agriculture and make every effort to secure the most trustworthy information regarding the condition of the crop. For several months the statistics gathered by the association have been at variance with those emanating from Washington, and the officers of the association, together with brokers and cotton merchants in this city, have conducted a secret investigation in the hope of ascertaining the reasons for the discrepancy.

About the Organization

The Southern Cotton Growers' Association is an organization of planters and southern brokers, whose object it is to regulate so far as possible the acreage of cotton and to protect the planters and other southern cotton interests from manipulation of the market tending to depress the price of the staple. Officers of the association declare they have as many experts as the department of agriculture and make every effort to secure the most trustworthy information regarding the condition of the crop. For several months the statistics gathered by the association have been at variance with those emanating from Washington, and the officers of the association, together with brokers and cotton merchants in this city, have conducted a secret investigation in the hope of ascertaining the reasons for the discrepancy.

Has Gathered Evidence

A prominent broker, it is now asserted, has gathered the most important of the documentary evidence in the case. From employees of the department of agriculture, he says, some of whom are in the habit of making frequent visits to this city, he learned that advances in information in regard to the reports could be secured. He followed up this line of inquiry whether or not the report could not be changed, and alleges he was successful in this endeavor also, receiving letters from at least one employee of the department and learning that at least one of the prominent firms of cotton brokers in this city had such an understanding with at least one official.

Mr. Cheatham was notified of the alleged discoveries by telegraph and made a hurried trip to this city. After many hours spent in consultation, he journeyed to Washington, remained a few hours and returned to New York, saying he desired signatures to a document in his possession.

It is said Mr. Cheatham will charge that the figures of the bureau of statistics have been manipulated in the interests of a certain banish element in the market here and this charge will include not only the furnishing of advance information pertaining to the government figures, but also falsification of the figures.

In the case of the report issued last Friday, he will charge that plans were laid practically a month in advance.

Efforts were made to arrange a conference today. The employers stated they would not make a settlement that did not include every firm involved. However, teamsters hope this move will prove an entering wedge leading to large negotiations.

Thousands Upon Thousands
View the Bridal Procession and Cheer Lustily

BERLIN, June 6.—The wedding of Crown Prince Frederick William, who if he lives, will one day be German emperor and king of Prussia, and the Duchess Cecile of Mecklenburg-Schwerin took place today in the chapel of the Schloss with severe though rich simplicity.

The spectacular part of the wedding, consisting of the arrival of the bridal party at the chapel, was witnessed by one of the largest assemblages of people that ever crowded into the streets of the capital. Along the route the bride-to-be was greeted with a continuous outburst of cheering.

The spirit of the affair was plain and democratic, although the costly gowns and jewels and the showy uniforms of distinguished personages, high officials of the empire, the army and the navy, the representatives of the people in the reichstag and the municipalities furnished a regal setting.

The first ceremonies of the day were private, and the attendance was limited to the households of the bride and bridegroom. The latest and customs of Germany, like those of most continental countries, require both a civil and a religious marriage. The civil ceremony took place this forenoon in the palace. The simple legal act was quickly and quietly gone through. These comprised merely the reading of the marriage law and the signing of the contract.

The first ceremonies of the day were private, and the attendance was limited to the households of the bride and bridegroom. The latest and customs of Germany, like those of most continental countries, require both a civil and a religious marriage. The civil ceremony took place this forenoon in the palace. The simple legal act was quickly and quietly gone through. These comprised merely the reading of the marriage law and the signing of the contract.

Starting for the Chapel
The crown prince repaired to the chapel, accompanied by his five brothers and by a numerous suite. He wore the uniform of the First regiment of guards, consisting of a long blue coat, blue trousers and gaiters extending to the knees. On his head was a helmet with white plumes, and his breast was decorated with the ribbons of all the exalted orders to which he belongs.

After the crown prince had taken up his stand in the chapel the German emperor arrived, accompanied by the empress, the other members of the Prussian royal family and all the royal guests and deputations present as representatives of the reigning families and governments of Europe and across the sea.

Meanwhile the bride and her party had left the Bellevue palace for the scene of the ceremony. The future empress was flushed and radiant as she emerged from the palace. A shout of welcome greeted her, which she stooped to acknowledge before proceeding on her way. She was escorted by a bodyguard of twelve young Mecklenburg noblemen and attended by twelve young girls belonging to the Mecklenburg aristocracy.

Greeted by Loyal Subjects

The short route traversed by the bridal party was through such thunders of applause and enthusiasm as constituted a greeting of which any queen might be proud. Representatives of all parts of the empire and many foreigners were in the great throng that surrounded the palace, while the brilliance of the decorations of Unter den Linden was limited to 300 lining thoroughfares appeared like a continuous canopy of garlands, banners and arches. Red and black, of course, predominated in the wilderness of flags and bunting, but light touches of other colors gave a delightful picturesqueness to the combined effect.

Meanwhile all the audience for the religious ceremony had assembled in the chapel. The scene was most magnificent. Though the attendance was limited to 300 it made up a gorgeous mass of many colored uniforms and beautiful gowns with flashing jewels and glittering orders of the royal personages and nobility. In the section set aside for them were the foreign envoys. These included Archduke Francis Ferdinand of Austria, the Duke of Aosta, representing Italy, the Grand Duke Michael, representing Russia, the Prince of Wales, representing England; Prince Arisugawa, representing Japan, and practically all of the reigning monarchs of the German states. Prince Albert of Flanders and the Crown Prince Frederick of Denmark were conspicuous among those present. France was represented by a delegation headed by General Lacroix and Admiral Marolle, and Turkey by the Minister of Mosques and Churches Turcha Pasha and General Abdullah Pasha. The United States was represented by the American ambassador and the first secretary.

The Ceremony Begins

Before the wedding procession entered the chapel the congregation arose and the entrance was made to the strains of a military march. First came a dozen couples of royal and noble relatives of the bride, men in spectacular uniforms, women in richly colored gowns, with a great array of jewels. Then, on the arm of her brother, Grand Duke Frederick Francis of Mecklenburg-Schwerin, came the bride, in a white gown adorned with the costliest lace, a long white veil and a small wreath of myrtle on her head. In both hands she held a bouquet of lilies of the valley and green, red and long white satin ribbons.

When the party entered the chancel the bride and the crown prince took the central seats, surrounded by the members of their respective families.

The court chaplain, Dr. Dryander, offered a long prayer in earnest tones. Next came a hymn from the choir. The duchess

HANDS DOWN OPINION
Attorney General Gives His Construction on "Concentrated Foodstuff"

AUSTIN, Texas, June 6.—In answer to an inquiry from Professor John A. Craig of the Agricultural and Mechanical College, as to the construction of the act passed by the Twenty-ninth legislature, regulating the sale of concentrated foodstuffs in Texas, Assistant Attorney General Pollard today handed down an opinion in which he holds that the term "concentrated foodstuffs" means either pure wheat bran or a mixture of either wheat bran with one or more articles contained therein.

Mr. Pollard also holds that it is the duty of the manufacturer to file with the authorities at the college a sealed glass jar containing not less than one pound of feeding stuff to be offered for sale, for analysis.

DELGASSE RESIGNS

FOREIGN PORTFOLIO

Resignation Due to Failure to Introduce French Policy in Morocco

PARIS, June 6.—Foreign Minister Del Casse has resigned and his resignation has been accepted. Premier Rouvier will assume temporarily the portfolio of foreign affairs.

The resignation of M. Del Casse is due to the failure to secure the French policy in Morocco, the sultan having practically rejected France's plans for the reform of the administration of Morocco, by proposing that the whole subject be submitted to a conference of the powers signatory to the treaty.

M. Del Casse resigned April 21, but he was prevailed upon to retain the portfolio.

The minister has previously been severely criticised for the alleged permission of French officials in the Far East to connive at the Russian breaches of neutrality.

M. Del Casse, in submitting his resignation, explained the reasons leading up to his action. He said he recognized the differences of view that has arisen between himself and colleagues relative to the execution of the foreign policy of France, particularly concerning the direction of the negotiations with Morocco, which he had believed it to be desirable in the interest of the ministry and the country to place his resignation in the hands of the president.

Premier Rouvier, in responding, expressed his regrets for his colleague, and by adding a tribute to M. Del Casse for his past service.

TRIBAL TAX MATTER WILL GO INTO COURT

Government Sued for Damages by One Business Concern; Other Suits May Follow

MUSKOGEE, I. T., June 6.—The only development in the tribal tax matter so far today is the arrival of about twelve of fifteen additional Indian police. This indicates some determined step on the part of the Indian police. This indicates some determined step on the part of the agency, but no one knows just what to expect.

The matter is almost wholly in the hands of the department of justice and the future action on the part of the agency depends upon the policy pursued by District Attorney Mellette. The latest development from the business men's standpoint is the restrictions of counsel by Patterson, Mercantile Company to institute damage suits against the Indian agent, Indian inspector and captain of the Indian police. Papers in the case are being drafted by Preston C. West, who refuses to make any statement as to the amount of damages his clients will seek to recover.

It is said that several prominent merchants have decided if their business is interfered with by the Indian authorities to adopt similar measures. This means a wholesale damage suits against the Indian agent and others if they should begin closing business houses again while business is being conducted as usual.

People are expecting some new turn in affairs at any moment. No violence is expected, as it is believed any more moves on the part of the Indian inspector and agent can be successfully combated legally.

One new phase of the case today is the statement that the criminal trial against the city officials and others who aided in the arrest of the Indian police has been abandoned.

EMPEROR FAVORS PEACE

Emperor William Makes Known His Views on Eastern War

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 6.—Regarding the attitude of Emperor William toward the war in the Far East, the Associated Press is authorized that from the beginning of the war the emperor has hoped for peace. He, however, has refrained from advising either of the belligerents, believing that until one or the other of them should intimate a wish to conclude peace, any intervening offers of mediation would prove futile. The emperor, however, has let his desire for peace be known.

sword. For several minutes they knelt before the altar with hundreds of eyes fixed on them as the deep, impressive tones of the chaplain's voice rang throughout the chapel as he repeated the marriage service.

Finally the minister held out a gold plate, from which the crown prince took a ring and placed it on the third finger of his bride's right hand. The bride took another ring, with a slight fumbling, and slipped it on the same finger on both the prince's right hand. The singing of another hymn concluded the ceremony.

The ceremony lasted rather more than half an hour and its conclusion was announced to the Berlin populace by the ringing of church bells and the firing of a salute of 101 guns from the forts round the capital.

When the ceremony was concluded con- gratulations were in order. The emperor immediately advanced toward the crown prince, kissed her on both cheeks, and offered her his congratulations, after which he kissed the crown prince on both cheeks and wished him lifelong happi- ness. All the royal ladies present kissed the bride, and the men kissed her hand. The crown prince and crown princess then signed the register, and below their sig- natures were written those of all of the notables present as witnesses, that of the emperor coming first.

DUCHESS CECILIE'S TROUSSEAU

Gorgeous Dresses Almost Without Number, Made in Paris for the Bride of the German Crown Prince

Special Correspondence to the Newspaper Enterprise Association.

BERLIN, June 5.—Duchess Cecile, the pretty 19-year-old Mecklenburg-Schwering princess, who will marry the German crown prince Tuesday, has completed her trousseau. The majority of the dresses have come from Paris, while the linen and underwear have been supplied by firms in her native duchy of Mecklenburg.

A few dresses have come from London and one or two from Berlin, but all the masterpieces of the trousseau are French work.

The wedding dress consists of heavy silver drap d'argent, the silver embroidery over ten inches in width.

The other dresses, although richly and elegantly made, serve ordinary purposes but are of greater public interest than the court costumes. Some of them, which are intended for evening wear, are provided with high as well as décolleté bodices, as for instance a dress of white and yellow ochre lace tulle, embroidered en relief with white guipure flowers.

Both bodices are trimmed with satin ribbons and a profusion of embroidery, in the shape of a spider's web, is drawn over the skirt and its lace flounces.

An elegant costume of black lace on a background of white lilies is heavily embroidered with black silk. Another evening dress, likewise provided with two bodices, is a Louis XV costume of pompadour silk on a pale blue background, trimmed with a muslin de soie richly, twined underneath small and richly embroidered taffeta facings. Small porcelain buttons painted in Louis XVI style, serve to fasten the bodice, to which a skirt of Valenciennes lace material with lace flounces, is attached. The décolleté bodice is made of Valenciennes lace.

A dress of pearl gray cloth, almost white, is conspicuous among the spring costumes. It is trimmed with taffeta folds and is shown together with a cloak, which, although of similar cloth and trimmings, can be used independently.

A masterpiece of fine workmanship consists of a simple white linen dress, the value of which consists in the embroidery being worked into the material. This embroidery has been copied from old drawings, and, together with guipure inser- tions, takes the place of the seams in the entire skirt. The smooth linen material is also richly embroidered with lilies.

A tussor robe, simply raw silk, vieux rose, trimmed with Valenciennes lace and black velvet stripes, is also noteworthy. The skirt of the same old rose shade is simply quilted by machine work.

A dress of black silk muslin, with a décolleté bodice, covered with Chantilly lace, to be worn in the event of half mourning, is also a striking feature of the trousseau.

In addition the trousseau includes a number of so-called "matinees" and small but indispensable accessories which form a Parisian specialty. One of the most striking of the latter is made of flowered pompadour tulle worked on a pink back- ground.

LABOR DAY PLANS

Committee Invites Non-Affiliated Organ- izations to Take Part

Plans for the celebration of Labor Day here were discussed by the committee at a meeting held Monday night in Labor Temple. The central committee appointed a sub-committee to wait on unions not affiliated with the Trades Assembly, and to get them to assist in making the Labor Day celebration the biggest event of the kind ever held in Texas.

Arrangements were also made for a good program, which is to include an address by ex-Governor Hogg, as announced in The Telegram.

The Labor Day committee has changed its regular meeting time from Sunday mornings to Monday nights.

ANOTHER ROAD TO JOIN BIG SYSTEM

Brownsville Line to Connect With Colorado Southern Extension

General Manager Jeff Miller of the Brownsville line reports that remark- ably fast work is being done on the construction of the extension from Bay City to Algon, at which point the road will connect with the Santa Fe, which will at once let trains of the Brown- ville road into both Houston and Gal- veston.

The completion of the branch from Bay City to Algon is to be ac- complished as rapidly as possible, and to do this large forces are at work all along the line. Six hundred teams and men were put to work last week and other equally as large forces are to be put on the work at once.

The building of the road into Hous- ton to make a connection with the Trinity and Brazos Valley, now being built south from Mexia to Houston, will be a matter of future consid- eration, but from what can be learned here this construction is to be done as soon as possible. This view is gathered from an interview had with Traffic Manager Wellington of the Colorado and Southern, who was in this city Monday.

Brownsville trains will enter Hous- ton over the Santa Fe tracks many months in advance of getting in over their own rails. It is believed here that the Brownsville road will also become a part of the great system planned by the Yankum syndicate, which takes in the Colorado and Southern, Fort Worth and Denver City, the Trinity and Brazos Valley and several other lines.

NO CONSOLIDATION. Orient and Sierra Madre to Be Inde- pendent

Judge A. B. Hall and Harris Wal- thall, accompanied by Thomas McMa- nus, general Mexican counsel for Col- onel Green's Sierra Madre railroad, have gone east on business connected with the extension of the line.

Judge Fall emphatically denies that the Sierra Madre has joined hands with the Kansas City, Mexico and Orient road in an effort to reach the Pacific coast. He says there are no negotiations pending. "The Orient people are building south out of Min- ica, and directly away from the Sierra Madre. He admits, however, that there is the best of feeling between the two companies, but no property interests exist between them.

The second day brought no relief in the flood of answers to the celebrated "Who? Where? What?" contest which has grown into sudden popularity and become a by-word on the streets.

"Have you answered the 'Who? Where? What?'" is now the usual salutation, replacing the time-worn weather observations. On the cars, the "Who? Where? What?" is the sole topic of conversation. "I told you so" is being heard on every side as persons returning from work read The Telegram acknowledgement of inaccuracy in quoting two of the advertisements.

Work of the contest editor is grow- ing daily and each day the answers pile up more highly on his desk, until he threatens to quit. Perseverance, however, will enable him to get through all the answers and the prize winners will be named Sunday.

Wholesalers' Convention

National Wholesale Dry Goods Asso- ciation Meets in New York

NEW YORK, June 6.—Delegates are arriving here to attend the semi-annual meeting of the National Wholesale Dry Goods Association, which will open Thursday. All the large firms in the country will be represented.

The chief subject to be taken up is the selling of goods direct to retailers by manufacturers. This was the chief matter discussed at the last annual meeting of the association and in the interval the executive committee has been actively engaged in promoting among manufacturers and others the campaign of education.

The members of the trade are very concerned over the probable outcome of the discussion, as it involves to a large extent the future of those en- gaged in the jobbing trade.

ANOTHER ROAD TO JOIN BIG SYSTEM

Brownsville Line to Connect With Colorado Southern Extension

General Manager Jeff Miller of the Brownsville line reports that remark- ably fast work is being done on the construction of the extension from Bay City to Algon, at which point the road will connect with the Santa Fe, which will at once let trains of the Brown- ville road into both Houston and Gal- veston.

The completion of the branch from Bay City to Algon is to be ac- complished as rapidly as possible, and to do this large forces are at work all along the line. Six hundred teams and men were put to work last week and other equally as large forces are to be put on the work at once.

The building of the road into Hous- ton to make a connection with the Trinity and Brazos Valley, now being built south from Mexia to Houston, will be a matter of future consid- eration, but from what can be learned here this construction is to be done as soon as possible. This view is gathered from an interview had with Traffic Manager Wellington of the Colorado and Southern, who was in this city Monday.

Brownsville trains will enter Hous- ton over the Santa Fe tracks many months in advance of getting in over their own rails. It is believed here that the Brownsville road will also become a part of the great system planned by the Yankum syndicate, which takes in the Colorado and Southern, Fort Worth and Denver City, the Trinity and Brazos Valley and several other lines.

NO CONSOLIDATION

Orient and Sierra Madre to Be Inde- pendent

Judge A. B. Hall and Harris Wal- thall, accompanied by Thomas McMa- nus, general Mexican counsel for Col- onel Green's Sierra Madre railroad, have gone east on business connected with the extension of the line.

Judge Fall emphatically denies that the Sierra Madre has joined hands with the Kansas City, Mexico and Orient road in an effort to reach the Pacific coast. He says there are no negotiations pending. "The Orient people are building south out of Min- ica, and directly away from the Sierra Madre. He admits, however, that there is the best of feeling between the two companies, but no property interests exist between them.

WHO? WHERE? WHAT? TALK OF THE TOWN

The Telegram's Great Contest Grows in Interest and Mails Loaded With Answers

The second day brought no relief in the flood of answers to the celebrated "Who? Where? What?" contest which has grown into sudden popularity and become a by-word on the streets.

"Have you answered the 'Who? Where? What?'" is now the usual salutation, replacing the time-worn weather observations. On the cars, the "Who? Where? What?" is the sole topic of conversation. "I told you so" is being heard on every side as persons returning from work read The Telegram acknowledgement of inaccuracy in quoting two of the advertisements.

Work of the contest editor is grow- ing daily and each day the answers pile up more highly on his desk, until he threatens to quit. Perseverance, however, will enable him to get through all the answers and the prize winners will be named Sunday.

Continued receipt of answers at the same rate until the closing of the contest Thursday at 6 p. m. will swell the number received far beyond all records.

Join the "Who? Where? What?" get your answers in by Thursday night and take your chance of winning the prizes offered.

NEW YORK, June 6.—Delegates are arriving here to attend the semi-annual meeting of the National Wholesale Dry Goods Association, which will open Thursday. All the large firms in the country will be represented.

The chief subject to be taken up is the selling of goods direct to retailers by manufacturers. This was the chief matter discussed at the last annual meeting of the association and in the interval the executive committee has been actively engaged in promoting among manufacturers and others the campaign of education.

ING THE SYSTEM A TRANSCONTINENTAL LINE

The Southwestern, he says, will abso- lutely not be a part of a line to the coast. It has been intimated that the road will be a part of the Rock Island system, which is aiming to reach the extreme west, but the statement of President Douglass sets at rest the rum- or.

ROCK ISLAND DEPOT

The Rock Island's new freight and passenger depot in North Fort Worth has been completed and is now ready for use. C. L. Winn, who has been chief clerk in the local freight office, has been appointed agent on the north side. His successor as chief clerk in the freight office has not yet been named.

STATION REPAIRS

The workmen are pushing the re- pairs on the Texas and Pacific passen- ger station and with the present progress it is likely that the repairs will be completed much sooner than was at first anticipated. It is more than like- ly that the depot will be completely within the next month. It will then be practically fireproof, the roof being en- tirely of steel, which was not the case before the fire, which damaged it some months ago.

ENGINEER FELLED WHILE ON ENGINE

Mysterious Blow Severely In- jures Jacob Weeman of This City

Seated in a cab of a westbound Tex- as and Pacific train at noon Monday Jacob Weeman of this city was struck behind the right ear with a missile of some sort and felled to the floor. Bleeding and in an unconscious con- dition he was discovered by the fireman.

The accident occurred between Weatherford and Brazos on the Brazos bridge. Weeman was sitting with his head near the window when suddenly something struck him behind the ear. The supposition is that some one threw a stone through the window, though this cannot be confirmed.

After the accident the fireman took charge of the engine and the injured engineer was brought to this city on the next train, arriving here at 6 p. m. Monday.

Dr. F. D. Thompson, the company's physician, gave him medical attention. Weeman was resting easily at his residence, 915 Elizabeth street, today.

MEDICAL EXAMINER

Of the United States Treasury Recommends Pe-ru-na.

Prominent Physicians Endorse Pe-ru-na.

DR. LLEWELLYN JORDAN, Medi- cal Examiner of the U. S. Treasury Department, graduate of Columbia Col- lege, and who served three years at West Point, has the following to say of Peruna:

"Allow me to express my grati- tude to you for the benefit derived from your wonderful remedy. One short month has brought forth a vast change and I now consider my- self a well man after months of suffering.

"Follow-sufferers, Peruna will cure you."—Llewellyn Jordan.

Doctors have been loathe to endorse a catarrh remedy because catarrh and catarrhal diseases have puzzled the medical fraternity for many decades.

More prominent physicians use and endorse Peruna each year. Dr. A. Morgan, 314 Gater street, In- dianapolis, Ind., writes:

"Regular physicians do not, as a rule, endorse patent medicines. I have, however, found in my practice that Peruna is a notable exception and not at all like any other medicine gener- ally sold as 'patent medicine.'

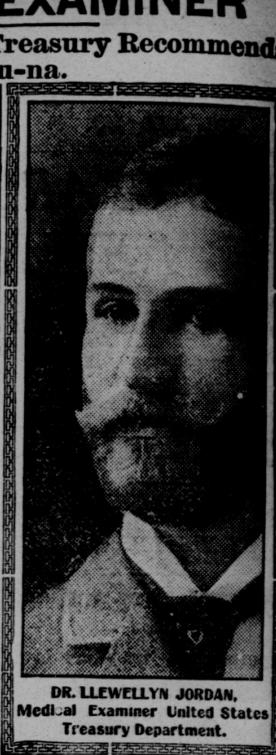

"In examining it I find that it is a scientifically prepared medicine, com- posed of herbal remedies of high medi- cal value.

"It is a specific for catarrh of the head, lungs or stomach, a fine remedy for female troubles, and invaluable to mothers and children.

"After fevers or other protracted ill- ness, it is one of the best tonics I know of to restore the system to normal con- dition and I recommend it to con- valescents.

"It is a high class family remedy, good for young and old."—A. Morgan. Peruna occupies a unique position in medical science. It is the only internal systemic catarrh remedy known to the medical profession to-day.

Catarrh is a systemic disease curable only by systemic treatment. A remedy that cures catarrh must aim directly at the depressed nerve centers. This is what Peruna does.

DR. LLEWELLYN JORDAN, Medical Examiner United States Treasury Department.

Peruna Contains No Narcotics. One reason why Peruna has found permanent use in so many homes is that it contains no narcotics of any kind. Peruna is perfectly harmless. It can be used any length of time without acquiring a drug habit. Peruna does not produce temporary results. It is permanent in its effect.

It has no bad effect upon the system, and gradually eliminates catarrh by re- moving the cause of catarrh. There are a multitude of homes where Peruna has been used off and on for twenty years. Such a thing could not be possible if Peruna contained any drugs of a nar- cotic nature.

CONTRACTS MADE FOR MORE PAVING

Throckmorton Street Is to Be Paved From Seventh to Tenth Streets

Contractor H. K. McCollum announced this morning that T. B. Ellison, owner of the new building, corner Seventh and Throckmorton streets, has made arrange- ments to have the street paved bordering the building on the streets mentioned.

Beginning just north of The Telegram building the paving will extend to Sev- enth street, thence east on Seventh to the alley between Throckmorton and Houston. Work on the paving will be begun as soon as brick can be secured.

Completion of this paving, together with the paving of The Telegram and L. F. Robertson already in, and that which the city and property owners have agreed to put in on Throckmorton street, will make a continuous stretch of paving from Seventh to Tenth streets on it.

Superintendent Henderson of the South- western Telephone Company announces that company will order the work front- ing its building.

FIFTEENTH STREET. Progress in the paving the is not to be confined to any one part of the city in addition to the Ellison paving, Mr. McCollum announced that property owners on Fifteenth street have agreed to have that street paved from Main to Jones. The Santa Fe has a contract to have Jones street, in front of the Santa Fe depot, paved from Fourteenth to Fifteenth street. Brick have been or- dered and the work will begin as soon as possible.

THE PRESIDENT'S PATRIOTISM

President Theodore Roosevelt is developing into a very broad statesman, and his patriotism is such as to commend it to every loyal citizen of this great republic. In an address at New York a few days ago, in which he paid tribute to the late General Henry Simons, the president said:

I see before me here men who won high honor serving as comrades in arms of General Simons, and I know that there exists in the Union men who will appreciate the fact that now, forty years after the war, the crowning triumph of what we did is to be found in the fact that we have a genuinely reunited country, a country in which the men who were the blue stretches the hand of loyal friendship to the man who wore the gray. A short while ago I passed through the great state of Texas.

Wherever I stopped in that great state I was greeted by representatives of the Grand Army marching side by side with or intermingled with men clad in the gray uniform that showed that they had fought in the armies of the Confederacy; men who had tested one another's worth on the stricken field; men who, knowing each that the other had been ready when the hour of supreme appeal came to show his worth by his endeavors, and men who now leave to their children and their children's children, as a heritage of honor forever, the memory of the sacrifices done alike by those who fought under Grant and by those who fought under Lee, for we, because of the very fact that the Union triumphed, now have the right to feel a pride in the valor and devotion of those who valiantly fought against the stars and those who finally saw their efforts and their sufferings crowned by triumph.

Think of it, my fellow countrymen; think of what a thrice blessed fortune has been ours that the men who were the blue of the nineteenth century saw after the close of the Napoleonic struggles should have left, not as most were inevitably do and must leave, memories of bitterness, dishonor and shame to men who know the glory memories which mark the men of one side hang their heads, but which have not left that, but should have left to the victors and vanquished alike, after the temporary soreness is over, the same right to feel proud of the sacrifice in the fact that the Union was saved and the greatest pride in the honor, the gallantry, the devotion to the right as each side had given it the right to see the right done alike by those who overcame as victor and those who finally went down in defeat.

The people the president met in Texas were just as patriotic as those of any other state in this Union. In fact, it is doubtful if there is another state in the entire sisterhood that can produce as much genuine patriotism to the square yard as the great state of Texas. It was the broad statesmanship and patriotism of the president that completely captivated our people. In the expressive term of Americanism they laid aside all the matters of party ties and gave the president a Roland for his every Oliver. The Texas people are patriotic to the very core.

The president is doing a great work in wiping out the bitterness that has lingered in the northern and southern heart since the days when the two great sections crossed swords. He stands bravely before a northern audience and repeats the very same things he said to a southern audience away down here in Texas. He has no word of condemnation for the men who wore the gray in order to bring applause from those who felt southern mettle during the time that tried men's souls. When he pays high tribute to those who wore the blue, his next sentence is to extol the valor of those who wore the gray. He takes the broad position that the valor displayed by both sections is the common glory of the entire American people. He does not seek to laud the northern veterans in a northern community and the southern veterans in a southern community. But he goes forth boldly and bravely with the same words of commendation to all the people, and preaches the doctrine of a thoroughly reunited country.

It was thought that the late lamented William McKinley would be the instrument of accomplishing the great work of pacification, unification and general good will where it was laid down by the peerless Henry W. Grady, but William McKinley, like his great southern prototype, was removed from the scene of his usefulness before that great work had been fully accomplished. Theodore Roosevelt, the man who has proved himself to be the great popular idol of the masses, has taken up the work and is proving himself well able to carry it on to a successful issue.

The Telegram said before the president came to Texas that he would be a bigger and broader man in consequence of that trip, and already has the prophecy been vindicated. The president has already developed into the broadest-minded public man of the day, and while he is encompassed by some adverse influences, it is confidently believed that he will be able to rise above every one of them and will in the end prove himself the most thorough going American who has ever presided over the destinies of this nation. Next October the president is going to visit the south, including the little Georgia town in which his mother was born, and Theodore Roosevelt will be a still bigger and broader man after that southern trip.

MINERAL WELLS INTERURBAN

Advices from Mineral Wells indicate that the progressive citizens of that enterprising little city are very much enthused over the idea of an interurban line of railway to connect with this city, and the people of the intervening towns, which have no railway connection, are exceedingly anxious to have the enterprise put through. Indeed, the threat has been made that if the present promoters do not take hold and consummate the deal the farmers are threatening to do so themselves as soon as they can get their crops in condition to leave them.

Weatherford is reported to be considerably stirred up over the situation, from the fact that it is believed that if an interurban line is constructed out of this city to Mineral Wells, that town will lose a great deal of desirable business it is now enjoying, and there is no doubt something in that idea. The building of an interurban line to connect this city with Mineral Wells, with a two hours service, would have the effect of diverting the major portion of the passenger business in and out of that great health resort over the new line. It would also greatly stimulate the passenger business, from the fact that convenient and rapid service would influence many people to make the trip who do not now do so.

The people of Fort Worth are anxious to see the line built, for the benefits to accrue to this city from its construction are many. The building of this line would have the effect of almost making the great Texas health resort a suburb of this city, and the advantages are many. It is generally hoped that the plans that are being matured for the building of this important line will not be long in materializing. That offer of right of way and $1,000 per mile ought to be sufficient to insure the construction of the line. The gentleman who is at the head of the enterprise speaks very encouragingly of the outlook, and the general impression is that the line will be built. In deference to the anxiety that exists all along the proposed line on the subject, it is to be hoped that there will be early and favorable action. And if present plans are not carried out, it will not require much time to find parties who will build the line. The bonus that has already been hung up is of sufficient proportions to insure favorable action from some source. Fort Worth wishes that proposed interurban line in her business.

Down in the Waco country the farmers are working on Sunday just the same as any other day. The idea appears to be that as the ox is now in the ditch he must be gotten out at all hazards. Texas farmers have had a pretty tough experience this season, but with continued fair weather they will soon be able to make good.

West Texas crops are said to be unusually promising this spring, and that section of the state is expected to give a good account of itself from an agricultural standpoint this year. West Texas is rapidly developing as a great cotton producing section, and the boll weevil sufferers of other sections are all turning in that direction.

Of course, you read The Sunday Telegram yesterday, and just as we have repeatedly told you, it was just about the best there was going. The Sunday Telegram is a Sunday newspaper. Next Sunday you will look for your favorite paper with keen anticipation.

President Roosevelt has said to the Russian ambassador at Washington that the best thing his distracted country can do is to sue for peace. But the Russian ambassador talks just as defiantly as if it was a Japanese funeral.

The southern cotton producers are always very anxious to know where the government gets its cotton figures when they are as such as to cause a decline in price. As long as the tendency is in the other direction the estimates are perfectly satisfactory.

There is a report in circulation to the effect that the czar is about to resign. Should this be true it is hardly probable that there will be any great rush to succeed him.

The young king of Spain is now visiting in England, and it is believed he will be safe from French bombs during his visit with Johnnie Bull. The English government is taking every precaution to insure his safety, however.

American labor is threatening to raise a row over the employment of 15,000 Japanese laborers on the Panama canal, but it is said that no attention will be paid by the Washington officials to these protests.

Senator Bailey is looking at a big ranch proposition in Oklahoma, and Texas people are wondering if Senator Bailey can find desirable ranch property for sale in Texas.

GLEANINGS FROM EXCHANGES

Isn't it rather peculiar that so many errors should have been made in enrolling bills passed by the last session of the Texas legislature? There were so many of them, and they were all so nearly on the wrong side, that it looks like a little more than error on the part of somebody—Sherman Register.

It is very peculiar that these things should have transpired with such unvarying regularity, and it is a matter that should be thoroughly investigated.

E. S. Peters believes cotton will be 19 cents in September. He said so upon leaving the New Orleans cotton meeting this week—Sherman Democrat.

The outlook is very good for ten cent cotton this fall, thanks to the reduction in the acreage that has been accomplished by Dame Nature. Cotton already has a strong upward tendency.

After his 2-per-cent-profit report on the beef trust the public should be prepared for a recommendation from Mr. Garfield that a subscription list be circulated for the support of indigent owners of Standard Oil—Texas Farm and Ranch.

The reception accorded Commissioner Garfield's beef trust report has been such as will doubtless make him careful about his oil trust declaration. His beef trust report has been the subject of much public reviling.

Railroads are beginning to prepare for the biggest stock rush in the history of west Texas. The beef cattle movement is expected to start the latter part of July to the markets. In the meantime shipments of feeders will keep them busy—San Angelo Standard.

West Texas is going to send some very fat cattle to market this summer and fall. Rang conditions are just about as good as they could be and the cattle are now putting on the tallow at a very rapid rate.

A news item tells of a man who went to sleep while smoking and set his whiskers on fire. That's all right, the latest rules say beards need fumigating—Austin News-Tribune.

The man no doubt lost the remnant of his whiskers by a close shave. If he was a populist he will soon grow another crop, however. Whiskers and populism are inseparable.

A Missouri paper has published the Ten Commandments. Missouri may be a trifle slow but she intends to get all the news some time—El Paso Herald.

The idea of putting a Bible in every New York hotel room might be extended to the residences and flats of that city and of Philadelphia and of Chicago, too, and shall we not include Houston?—Houston Chronicle.

Certainly. Houston hotels would be all the better if a Bible was included in the furniture of every room. In fact, all hotels might with equal propriety adopt the suggestion.

There is something astonishingly lacking in modern navy building when a $10,000,000 battleship can be destroyed in twenty minutes by a $50 million torpedo—Beaumont Journal.

The average Russian battleship does not appear to have been built for fighting. The Japanese have the fighting type of battleships, and we have some of them over here in America.

The following should be pasted in every man's hat as a reminder of duty when speaking ill of any woman's character. Think of how many years she has been building it, of the wounds received, of the toll and privation endured and let no suspicions follow her actions. The purity of woman is the salvation of the race, the hope of future greatness and the redemption of man. Wipe out her purity and man sinks beneath the wave of death with no star to guide his life into the channel of safety. Think, then, before you speak, and remember that any hog can root up the fairest flower that ever grew. So with character. It would be well for some people to think about this matter—Cleburne Chronicle.

Men do not speak disparagingly of women. Some things do, but their hats are usually too small to afford room for pasting.

Texas has had her share of high water, hail storms and cyclones this spring and without partially to any one section—Granbury News.

There is a strong suspicion in the minds of many of our people that Texas has had just a little more than she had coming along these lines. We seem to have had a portion of the other fellow's share.

LIKE MOTHER USED TO MAKE

"Like mother used to make"—ah, me! What memories are mine Of the old days and the plain ways Revived by that brief line!

In these degenerate times I wear The trousers of the best, With crosses down in front of them And colors grave or gay; They're built upon the latest lines, And cost a pretty stake— And yet, ah, me! those pants are not Like mother used to make.

My coats are done by tailor men Of such artistic taste That if the slightest wrinkle showed They'd think themselves disgraced; They'd turn me out in fashion's form, In which there's no mistake— And yet their coats are not at all Like mother used to make.

My shirts are cut by skillful hands From linen of the best, And fitted to me perfectly By every fitter's test; And eke my socks in every hue The rainbow dares to take— And yet those shirts or socks are not Like mother used to make.

My hair is cut by tonsors trained To wield the shears with skill That gives to every customer A high esthetic thrill; A haircut harmonious in line, In which no discords break— And yet the tonsor's cut is not Like mother used to make.

"Like mother used to make"—ah, me! What memories are mine Of the old days and the plain ways Revived by that brief line!

REFLECTIONS OF A BACHELOR

Everybody has a hankering to teach others what he doesn't know himself.

It's awful nice of a girl to treat a man so well that she won't even marry him.

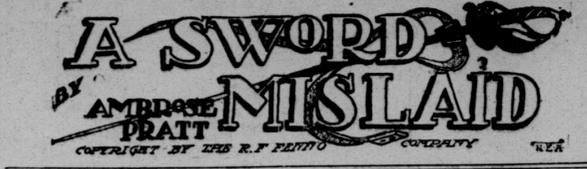

There is absolutely no satisfaction in doing something smart if there is nobody for you to brag to about it.

The countess arrived at 3 precisely. She greeted me with great coldness, barely touched my hand, and asked to be shown at once to her room. She looked pale and disdainful, and was plainly a lady who would be even barely civil to me.

As my bedroom was the only guest chamber in that den, I gave it to her, and the more readily seeing that I would not have hidden there myself for a pension.

She stood it bravely for perhaps the third of an hour, then I heard a little shriek and she burst out and came to me, shuddering.

"I must have another room," she cried, "that place is horrible!"

"I made my best bow, and answered gravely, 'Madam, I should like nothing better than to meet your wishes, but it is impossible, that room is the only one vacant, and, in fact, the best that this house affords.'"

"And other creatures." I completed the sentence for her.

"She went white to the lips. 'But there nowhere else I may go?' she cried imploringly.

"There is the tap-room, but that is filled with rough folk and ankle deep in tobacco juice."

"Most Dieu! what shall I do? And there is yet so long to wait."

"Mademoiselle was not nearly so disdainful by this; indeed she looked helpless and ready to weep. Outside a fine steady rain had commenced to fall, and a mist was creeping over the river like a monstrous white hand with outstretched fingers of fog."

"We might try the wharves were it not for the wet," I suggested, but she caught me up eagerly, and presently we sallied forth into the drizzle. I found a nook at last all that could be desired, quite close at hand and what was even more important, entirely screened from observation. It lay amidst a mass of lumber and with the aid of a lurking piece of sail cloth I made a roof, and spread a rug within as a seat for the maid.

There was barely room for two, but I chose to stay without rather than appear to press my company.

"But this is splendid!" cried Clarisse.

I shrugged my shoulders. "If it pleases you I am happy," said I, and commenced to march to and fro, none too pleased, however, with the rain.

"Mademoiselle curled herself up in the rug like a big squirrel and set herself to watch me. It is true that before a few minutes had passed I believed her the most selfish dame alive, but I never paused in my march and affected to be quite indifferent. Then a small voice disturbed my angry meditations.

"You are very silent, monsieur." "And you, also, mademoiselle," I retorted.

Another five minutes of silence, then, "Is it very wet out there, monsieur?"

"Very," I replied, sourly. "And cold?"

"Very chilly, mademoiselle." "It is quite dry and warm in here, monsieur."

"Mademoiselle has my felicitations on her good fortune," I growled, and resumed my sentry-go.

Ten minutes crawled by this time, then, in a very small voice indeed: "Would monsieur—it ah!—there is room here for two?"

"I suppose I was ill-tempered, for I replied with sarcasm, 'I fear to discommode mademoiselle.'"

"But you will be all wet." 'Twas nothing but a whisper.

"Still here," I answered cheerily; "nothing has happened. I'm about to give you your supper." Here the wick caught and I glanced at her. She was actually smiling, and she watched my movements delightedly. "Hungry?" I asked.

"Oh, yes, mon Dieu! yes. What have you to eat?"

I examined the parcel. "Cheese, bread, ale, red herrings, butter—ugh, rancid!" (I threw the stuff promptly overboard) "and cress."

"Splendid!" she cried, her eyes sparkling. There was not much affectation about mademoiselle just then. She ate a meal which would have done credit to an old campaigner, chattering all the while like a magpie.

I confessed when she had finished I was lost in admiration. She drank half the ale, too, and pretended to like it. We were quite old cronies when all was done, disposed to laugh at every discomfort, and marvelously pleased with the other. "I'll tell you what," I cried in a moment of enthusiasm, "you please me, mademoiselle; you're a brick."

"And," she cried with equal fervor, "I like you, too, monsieur; you are a gentleman not to have kissed me," and then she flushed crimson, face, neck, forehead to the very roots of her hair.

"Eh, what?" I cried, quite agliss. "Nothing," she said, "nothing," but turned her face from the light.

"Mademoiselle," said I sternly. "Monsieur," said a little tiny voice. "You have been playing with me." "Monsieur, I—"

"Mademoiselle, you only pretended to be asleep."

"I—"

"Mademoiselle, you only pretended wicked girl." I spoke like the magistrate at the county court. It was very effective. She gave a whimper.

"No doubt," I proceeded, severely, "your tears also were a mock." Silence.

"Well," said I, leaning back and folding my arms, "all I have to say is this—I am disgusted with you."

The silence was broken by neither of us, but of a sudden the landlord of the inn crept before us like a ghost, whereupon the maid screamed out in terror. Even I started, he had approached so noiselessly. "Is your honor mad?" he cried. "I warned ye not to let the light glim on the water, and here it is, a beacon to tempt any passer. Shiver my timbers! I saw it from my window and it gave me a big turn. Luckily I say it in time; the revenue cutter passes at 8 and it's high a quarter to 9."

I mumbled out some excuse, for the fellow had warned me, and little as I liked his tone, he meant well. "Let's shide it," I suggested, but we found this quite impossible, for the glare always showed out.

"Either ye'll must sit in the dark or come up to the inn," said the landlord, "but I warn ye, ye'll be best here, there's a rough lot drinking now, and more to follow."

I turned to the girl. "Shall we go to the inn?" I asked curtly.

"Oh, no, not that," she entreated. The landlord promptly doused the glim and left us, saying, "When the gent comes I'll bring him straight to your honor."

The silence was resumed, with the difference that now we were in impenetrable gloom, the only lights visible being the far-off gleams of ship lamps, and they were dimmed with the mist.

Once the maid moved, once I heard her fetch a sigh. Then after a long dense pause, she muttered tremulously, "I'm so frightened, monsieur." "Believe me, there is no occasion," I replied, frigidly.

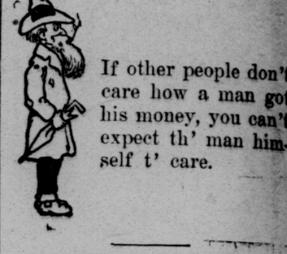

Quite another hour passed, then a pitiful little voice whispered, "I'm so sorry, won't you forgive me?"

"No." "Ah, monsieur!" "No." "Please, monsieur." "No," I was aching to relent, though.

Silence for five minutes, then a whisper—faint as a breath, "I was wrong, I know; it was wicked of me; you may beat me if you like, monsieur."

"In this raffle the prizes were turkeys, ducks, young pigs, baskets of eggs, and such like rural commodities. Through the little girl, with her hand in the bag, paused, it was her mother's turn, and she did not draw forth her mother's disk in her usual quick and careless way. She rummaged about. WITH THE CATTLEMEN

CATTLEMEN ARE SATISFIED

George Elkins, a prominent stockman of San Angelo, was in Fort Worth Monday with a string of three-year-old steers that were sold at private sale for a satisfactory price. In speaking of the cattle conditions in southern Texas, Mr. Elkins made the following statement: "In my judgment conditions were never better than at present. Not only cattle conditions, but crop conditions in general are excellent this year. "I believe that we are going to have bumper crops in everything, unless it is wheat, which seems to have fared less hardily than any of the other crops. "So far as I am able to learn cattlemen of Texas are feeling entirely satisfied with present conditions, and are preparing to take life easy and desist from the usual worry attendant to the stock business. Several with whom I am acquainted have held back most of the young stuff and will keep it on their own pastures, believing that the grass is able to support such as they have on hand. "From a financial standpoint this will mean a great deal to Texas, as it will keep much of the money in the state that has been going to northern men. I see no reason why any one in southern Texas should cry hard this year, unless they do not attempt to make a successful year of it. "So far as I am personally concerned, I am more than pleased and feel more than grateful for the turn affairs have taken. I believe I have cleared a profit this year, and that is more than I have done for several years past. My cattle are in good shape, and those that I have in New Mexico are doing nicely. The last reports from there state that conditions so far as they are concerned are as ideal in that country as I find them to be here. A great many Texas ranchmen are using New Mexico pasture lands this year. In fact, I believe that most of them became disgusted with the manner in which they were treated by Kansas pasture owners and have decided to quit the state for awhile. I have talked with a number of men recently, who have cattle in New Mexico, and all say they are doing well and that grass is cheaper there than it has been for a long time in Kansas. Just why they have been going to Kansas so regularly is more than I can tell, unless it be from force of habit. "When I made arrangements for my pasture in New Mexico, I was figuring with some Kansas people, and I thought the matter over carefully, took freight rates into consideration, and came to the conclusion that I had not been using good business judgment in sending stuff there when there was even better pasture nearer at home. I am informed that there is no vacant pasture land in New Mexico, and from the results of my last trip into that territory I am inclined to agree with the statement. Just as far as I could see, it appeared that the range was in every case overstocked, and it really would have been had it not been for the extra good year, and the manner in which grass has turned out. "It is true that Kansas grass is better than that in New Mexico. It seems to put the cattle in better shape for market, and they look better in every respect, but I do not think that there is enough difference to justify the difference in expense.

SOME OKLAHOMA EXPERIMENTS

"I have been trying some feeding experiments on my farm of late," said Charles L. Pollack of Woodward, Okla., "and I find that cattle and hogs can turn wheat or oats into money just about as fast as anything else I know of. "Not long ago I had a bunch of cattle that I was going to ship to Kansas City, so I proceeded to round them up in place them in an enclosure ready for shipment. My son was in the Kansas City at the time, and I received a wire from him to the effect that the market was down and advised me to wait. Well I waited, and that little incident taught me a great deal. "There was no grass in the enclosure, and I had some oats on hand. I fed the stock just a little of this mixed with hay. That lasted for four days, and when that gave out, I resorted to some wheat which I happened to have on hand. Well, things run along for five more days, and finally word came that the market was up and I shipped the stuff out, but there never was a better showing made in nine days than the cattle made right there in that lot. "They picked up in weight, and I am fully convinced that the wheat, oats and hay that they consumed returned me in good measure. "The cattle looked like stuff that had been fed for six months or more, and so pleased was I with the result that I have been trying it on some hogs that I have. It has only been three days since I started the last experiment, but the reason can not say what the result will be, but it is as satisfactory as the last was. I will be persuaded to try it on a larger scale next time. I make buy some stuff just on purpose to try the feed. "While I do not know what reason to attribute to the fact that it is nearly true that the cattle shipped to Kansas City shrank but a very little, less than I have ever had a car of cattle to shrink before, and I believe that I changed to feed them just the proper amount of each of the feed stuffs to make it pan out the best."

NEW MEXICO CONDITIONS

"We have nothing to complain of in our country," said Sam T. Wilkes of Roswell, N. M., who was on the Fort Worth market Monday. "We have had a successful year, most of us have come out with some little profit and are exceedingly thankful to a kind providence who has by favorable weather, assisted us towards attaining the desired end. "Weather is fine, grass good, cattle comparatively fat, and what were placed on the market brought a reasonable price, and we are satisfied."

TOO MUCH RAIN

"The rains have nearly put the farmers out of business in and around Rogers," said W. W. Thompson, who was in Fort Worth Monday. "I have never heard of such continuous rains before, and as long as I remain in the farming business, I do not care to know of them again in the future. "I had twenty acres of as fine cotton as one ever saw in Texas and it was doing fine until it commenced to rain.

THE OPEN RANGE IS A DETRIMENT

New Law, Which Goes Into Effect Sept. 1, Will Change Things. John Greenlee, a prominent cattlemen of the Mena country, thinks the open range has been a detriment to the cattle industry. He says: "The new law which will go into effect in Texas Sept. 1, will change things about considerably, and will force every stockman in the state to own his own land. It is bound to do away with leasing to a great extent, as all the leased land in the state will be thrown on the open market after the first of that month. That will give a man an opportunity to go right into the center of a big pasture on a leased ranch and locate and take the land just as soon as the least on it expires. That is where the trouble will be, and put the ranchmen to buying their own land. But it will be a good thing in the end, as it will adjust things so that there will be no more shifting about and leasing lands. "The fact of the matter is the greatest benefit that ever came to the Texas ranchmen was the fencing up of the land. In the days of the open range we did not have the good quality in our cattle that they possess now. In those days there was no use in trying to breed up cattle when they ran at large and bred in with scrub bulls. Since the open range was done away with we have been breeding up and now nothing but registered bulls are used, and as a result our steers bring the top price when offered on the market. "In former years we held our steers till they were 4 and 5 years old, but now they are nearly all sold before they reach 2 years of age, and the majority of them are sold when yearlings. At the present time the steers of that whole country have been contracted for, and are now being taken very fast. In a few weeks more there will be very few steers left there, so great has been the demand. With such conditions as these, there is not heard a single complaint from the average Texas cowman."

"I hope so, madam," replied the conductor. "Have you ever had accidents on this awful steep hill?" "Well," replied the conductor, "there have only been a few small accidents; nothing serious."

HOUSE NUMBERING CAUSE OF PROTEST

City Ordinances Require Compliance With Official Plat Under Penalty

Complaints in regard to numbering of houses in certain parts of the south side are coming to The Telegram and to city officials.

This morning the following letter was received at The Telegram office:

"We desire to call your attention to the horrible way in which May street is numbered; particularly south of Magnolia avenue. We have been informed by the city engineer several times that the first block south of Magnolia avenue should be 1300. However there are three sets of numbers in that square; viz: 1500, 1400 and 1300, while in the block north of Magnolia avenue, several houses are numbered 1400.

"Now this has become quite aggravating, and in several instances very serious. A few days ago a physician was called to attend a very sick child. After waiting an hour for his arrival, the mother called up the doctor again by telephone and asked him to kindly make haste as she was very much worried about her baby. His reply was that he had started for the number of the residence given to him, but finding the numbers all 'muddled up,' was unable to locate her house, and positively refused to make another effort.

"We have also had a great deal of trouble with the mail service on account of the houses being incorrectly numbered in this district.

"Again, in having goods delivered from town we are generally compelled to wait two days before receiving our purchases, and when making inquiries in regard to same we are informed that our driver was out yesterday but was unable to find you."

"Is there not some possible way to remedy this matter?"

At the same time Alderman Henderson of the Seventh ward received a similar letter, asking that steps be taken to remedy the present errors in numbering. Mr. Henderson conferred with City Engineer Hawley and learned that plats are on file at the city engineer's office giving the correct numbers for all parts of the city.

City Engineer Hawley says: "The mistakes in numbering are a result of neglect on the part of persons who number their houses. Correct numbers may be secured at my office at any time. Guessing at numbers and failure to conform with the official numbering system of the city is responsible for the trouble at present on the south side."

FINE PROVIDED

In the ordinances of the city of Fort Worth there is a special provision for street numbering, and a penalty for failure to observe the same. The ordinance states in part that all persons failing to number their houses within twenty days after erection, with plain letters not less than two inches high, displaying the same in some conspicuous place, and in accordance with the official numbering system of the office of the city engineer, will be liable to a fine not to exceed ten dollars. Provision was also made that houses then erected should be correctly numbered within a certain number of days.

H. T. WILSON TO LECTURE

Will Open Auditorium at Mineral Wells, Texas

MINERAL WELLS, Texas, June 6.—As an evidence of Fort Worth's genuine faith in Mineral Wells curative waters, it may be said that over sixty citizens from the Fort spent the past week here, most of them remaining for even a larger period. Monday's new arrivals from the sister city were Captain James H. Maddox, Senator W. A. Hanger, Virgile R. Parker, J. H. Jackson, T. J. Johnson, Ponder Greer, F. G. Hamilton and Mrs. M. E. Walker.

The capacity of the splendid new auditorium building will be tested Tuesday, since Rev. Homer T. Wilson will deliver a free lecture on "The Royal Character" this evening. The seating capacity is about three thousand and hundreds of home folks and visitors will gladly go out as a treat in its store.

Some new and quite unusual attractions are being presented at three of the most popular pavilions this week. At the Gibson some special violin and piano music by Messrs. Earl McCoy and Collis Jackson of Dallas. At the Carlsbad the Inimitable work of impersonation of negro, German and Irish characters by little Miss Watson Greta Love of Fort Worth. She is only 7 years old and is unquestionably the most talented child in the state today, as well as the most advanced in this special grade of reading.

At the crazy pavilion large crowds enjoy the new vaudeville work as well as the regular orchestra music by the Misses Diaz. There are three of them, all of Spanish parentage and much musical ability is shown by them.

Manager Bismuke of the summer theater announces that the large natatorium near the theater building will be refitted and refurnished at once and soon be ready for patrons and visitors at the wells.

Real estate firms of Mineral Wells claim that there's "something doing" of unusual nature in their lines, and many new and neat residences are now being built and planned for. Of course the lumber yards of "The Wells" verify and approve all such substantial grades of improvement for the fast growing and acknowledged health resort of the south.

FACTORY CLUB TO ADVERTISE WIDELY

Directory Discusses Plans and Adopts By-Laws—Praise for The Telegram

That the Fort Worth Factory Club will go into an extensive advertising campaign was shown at the regular meeting of the board of directors held in the offices Monday night, when a lengthy discussion of the work of the advertising committee was had.

It was finally decided that as the matter to be used would be sent to all sections of the country, the greatest care should be used and that all matter should be committed to the directory before being adopted and sent out.

Bylaws of the organization were adopted at the meeting, providing for a quarterly auditing of the books. The first Wednesday in each month was selected as the regular meeting night.

Professor J. H. Draughon was then elected first vice president of the organization, the unanimous vote of the directory being cast for him. A ruling was adopted requiring the combined order of the secretary and either the president or first vice president for the incurring of miscellaneous expenses.

On motion additional furniture for the office was ordered.

A resolution was then offered by Dr. J. L. Cooper, through whose suggestion in the columns of The Telegram the Factory Club was organized, thanking the press for aid given in the undertaking.

A. N. Evans at this time took occasion to pay a high tribute to The Telegram for its enterprise and readiness to support all movements for the good of Fort Worth, calling special attention to news and editorial articles appearing in its columns.

W. D. Harrison was made president of the finance committee and Secretary Hard Butler placed in charge of the entertainment committee. The meeting was held in the new office of the organization in the Wheat building. Several proposals were discussed by the directory, but no announcements made.

The Motor Union of Great Britain and Ireland, the largest organization of motorists in the world, has 7,500 members.

Outdoor sports are being held this afternoon for prizes offered by local merchants.

NO MORE HEADACHE

GENERAL WEAKNESS AND FEVER DISAPPEAR TOO.

How a Woman Was Freed from Troubles That Had Made Life Wretched for Many Years.

The immediate causes of headaches vary, but most of them come from poor or poisoned blood. In anemia the blood is scanty or thin; the nerves are imperfectly nourished and pain is the way in which they express their weakness. In colds the blood absorbs poison from the mucous surfaces, and the poison irritates the nerves and produces pain. In rheumatism, malaria and the grip, the poison in the blood produces like discomfort. In indigestion the gases from the impure matter kept in the system affect the blood in the same way.

The ordinary headache-cures at best give only temporary relief. They tend the pain but do not drive the poison out of the blood. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills on the contrary thoroughly renew the blood and the pain disappears permanently. Women in particular have found these pills an unfailing relief in headaches caused by anemia.

Miss Stella Blocker recently said: "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills did me a great deal of good. I had headache nearly all the time. After I had taken three boxes of these pills I became entirely well."

"How long had you suffered?" she was asked.

"For several years. I can't tell the exact date when my illness began for it came on by slow degrees. I had been going down hill for many years."

"Did you have any other ailments?"

"I was very weak and sometimes I had fever. My liver and kidneys were affected as well as my head."

"How did you come to take the remedy that cured you?"

"I saw in a southern newspaper a statement of some person who was cured of a like trouble by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. My physician hadn't done me any good, so I bought a box of these pills. After I had taken one box I felt so much better that I kept on until I became entirely well."

Miss Blocker's home is at Leander, Louisiana. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists. Besides headache they cure neuralgia, sciatica, nervous prostration, partial paralysis and rheumatism.

CRISIS OF GIRLHOOD

A TIME OF PAIN AND PERIL

Miss Emma Cole Says that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has Saved Her Life and Made Her Well

How many lives of beautiful young girls have been sacrificed just as they were ripening into womanhood! How many irregularities or displacements have been developed at this important period, resulting in years of suffering!

Miss Emma Cole

Girls' modesty and oversensitiveness often puzzle their mothers and baffle physicians, because they withhold their confidence at this critical period.

A mother should come to her child's aid and remember that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will at this time prepare the system for the coming change and start the menstrual period in a young girl's life without pain or irregularities.

Miss Emma Cole of Tullahoma, Tenn., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:— "I want to tell you that I am enjoying better health than I have for years, and I owe it all to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

"When fourteen years of age I suffered almost constant pain, and for two or three years I had soreness and pain in my side, headaches and was dizzy and nervous, and doctors all failed to help me."

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was recommended, and after taking it my health began to improve rapidly, and I think it saved my life. I sincerely hope my experience will be a help to other girls who are passing from girlhood to womanhood, for I know your Compound will do as much for them."

If you know of any young girl who is sick and needs motherly advice ask her to write Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., and she will receive free advice which will put her on the right road to strong, healthy and happy womanhood.

Is difficult of attainment, but not always impossible. It is a necessity, however, in Liquors, especially in Cocktails. You won't find anything better than our Gold Lion brand at $1.00 per quart bottle, and we doubt very much if you will find anything as good at a larger price.

We also advise you to try our pure California Claret at $1.00 per gallon, or a full quart of Green River Whisky at $1.00. We sell Duffy's Malt $1.00 per bottle. Eight different brands of bottled beer, $1.25 per dozen pints, delivered to your homes.

The above price and terms are the cause of so much interest by piano buyers, and is why we have only four of the first car on our floor and the club only eight days ago. We have another car of sixteen in transit. The club is absolutely limited to sixty. This is certainly an unusual opportunity to get an elegant, artistic piano at a low price.

Buying sixty pianos at one time for cash, to further introduce them for the manufacturer, and having you come in and buy them on our floor, thereby saving expense of salesman hunting you up is the "why" we make you such a low club price.

When this, the first Hoffman club of sixty pianos is filled, let it be understood that we will demand the regular price of $325 for this instrument.

What is a Ross & Heyer piano club? It is a concerted effort on our part to buy and sell sixty pianos of a good make and style at a saving of cost and expense. Sixty buying in pianos brings the utmost economy. Your coming in saves you outside salesman expense. All this justifies our making the unusually low price.

Every Hoffman piano is guaranteed for ten years, and if the instrument develops a defect it will be replaced with a new one free of charge.

These pianos are noted for their full, rich, resonant tone, every note of which is as clear as a bell. This quality in a piano must certainly be borne in mind by the intending purchaser. Another advantage this elegant instrument has is this: The power of its tone is excellent only by the largest grand, because, as the manufacturers claim, the scale is considerably larger than the average piano.

Remember, no soliciting; you must come in to save that expense.

CROP OUTLOOK AS DEALERS SEE IT

Yield of Oats Will Offset the Expected Shortage in Wheat and Corn

Information as given by visiting grain dealers indicates a consensus of opinion that a bumper oat crop is certain while there will be little wheat and corn, due to the rainy and delayed season.

The report is that there is considerable rain in the wheat fields, while corn has been drowned out in most sections.

H. Waldo, crop reporter for the Federal government in Grayson county, said this morning that the general impression is that on account of the favorable condition of the wheat crop in the states of Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma, Minnesota, the Dakotas and the Manitoba country, prices will go to 65 cents. The present prices are from 75 cents to 80 cents.

Mr. Waldo also says the wheat crop on the Pacific coast will be a good one. With these flattering conditions in the wheat belt the inevitable result will be that prices are bound to go down, and that Texas will suffer certain shortage, will be forced to ship in large quantities for home consumption.

John Harrison, one of the leading grain men of the state, said today Grayson county will have one of the greatest oat crops in her history, and that they will average from sixty to 100 bushels to the acre. He says that wheat will not make more than ten to twelve bushels to the acre, while there is a poor stand of corn. Mr. Harrison also says that the potato crop in Grayson county is practically ruined by the excessive rains, and that instead of 400 cars being shipped from that county, only 100 cars will be sent.

Among the Houston delegation are J. V. Neuhaus, C. P. Shearn, Burk K. Smith, W. D. Van Wageningen, J. C. Reader, J. E. Ervin and Bishop.

Mr. Neuhaus, speaking of the grain situation in his part of the state, said there would be a fair yield of corn, but that wheat is not good. Oats, he says, are very fine. Heretofore, he says, there has been a surplus of corn in south Texas, but he does not feel this will be the case this season.

IN HANDS OF ENQUIST

Russia Will Let Admiral Enquist Decide the Matter

ST. PETERSBURG, June 6.—Both the foreign office and admiralty say the decision whether to disarm the three Russian cruisers at Manila or effect repairs there and endeavor to reach a Russian port was left in Admiral Enquist's hands to determine according to his best judgment.

Little doubt was felt that the cruisers would be interned until the end of the war, as before the repairs which Enquist cables are imperative could be effected, a Japanese squadron would be off Corregidor island waiting to capture or sink the Russian boats.

JAPANESE REPLACE GUNS

Togo's Fleet Was Fitted With New Guns Recently

VICTORIA, B. C., June 6.—Captain McKelchie of the British steamer Ilford, which carried a thousand Korean coolies to Salinas Cruz, and then came here seeking a cargo, says that when Togo's warships gave battle to the Russian fleet every Japanese vessel had been fitted with new guns to replace those used in the earlier part of the war.

Captain McKelchie claims he carried 70 tons of naval guns made by Armstrongs, as well as 15,000 tons of cordite and two torpedo boats in sections, to Kure from England, and he knew of over a dozen steamers which had carried naval guns and explosives from England to Japan.

Captain McKelchie says that the cruiser Variag was raised once, but an accident occurred and the vessel slid down into a deeper part than where she was sunk by the Russians in the battle of Chumpei. She was afterwards raised a second time.

The Korietz was found to be not worth the raising.

CZARINA'S BIRTHDAY

Empress of Russia Is Thirty-Three Today—Passed Day Quietly

ST. PETERSBURG, June 6.—Today was the thirty-third birthday of the czarina and for the first time since she left her girlhood home in Darmstadt to become the wife of the ruler of all the Russians, the anniversary was allowed to pass with almost no public recognition. The course of events in the Far East has enshrouded the capital in deepest gloom and the public evinced no inclination to take part in the holiday rejoicings customary on the birthday of the empress. The only public observance was the display of flags on government buildings and the holding of Te Deum services in the churches. The empress herself passed the day quietly in the bosom of her family and in reading messages of felicitation and good wishes from her royal relatives in Germany and England.

DIRECTORS RESIGN

Colorado Fuel and Iron Company Situation Grows Tense

NEW YORK, June 6.—There is a report current that all the Rockefeller directors in the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company have resigned and left the Goulds in control of the situation.

A few years ago there was a sharp contest for control of the company, participated in by the Goulds, E. H. Harriman and John W. Gates as well as the old controlling interests headed by John C. Osgood. At that time personalities arose between Goulds and Harriman, which excited wide attention in financial circles. With the exception of Gates, representatives of all the interests concerned in that contest have remained on the board of directors.

The above company is threatened with a suit to recover damages in the amount of $45,000 for the death of fifteen Italians and Austrians, who lost their lives in the Tercio mine disaster of last October.

PRISONER IDENTIFIED

Negro Who Stole Tray of Diamond Rings

WACO, Texas, June 6.—J. Watson, a druggist and jeweler of Okmuklee, L. T., spent yesterday in Waco, having come here to see one R. D. Dalley, a negro arrested several weeks ago by police officers, and who was thought to be wanted in Okmuklee on a charge of stealing about $500 worth of diamond rings from Mr. Watson.

Dalley has been in jail, pending the arrival of some one to identify him. Watson says that Dalley is the right man and as soon as an order of removal can be had from proper sources he will be taken to Okmuklee.

Watson says that the negro, by the aid of a confederate, worked a slick scheme. Watson was in his place of business just about closing time one night when he states that Dalley came in and said he wanted to see a diamond, as he had never seen one. Watson got out a tray with nearly a thousand dollars' worth of sparklers on it and Dalley inspected it.
