MARKSMEN MEET HERE THIS WEEK

West Texas Gun Clubs to Hold Fifth Annual Shoot in Fort Worth

Indications point to a record-breaking crowd at the meeting of the east Texas Gun Clubs to be held in this city July 12 and 14, with a preliminary day, July 11.

Interstate Association rules will govern the shoots generally, notice being made of exceptions. Rules and regulations for the shoot have been arranged as follows:

Shooting will commence each day at 9 a. m. sharp. The referee's decision will be final. The blackboard is the official score. All shooters, except in trophy events, will be divided into three classes, viz: A, B and C.

Black powder and 10-gauge guns barred. Manufacturers' agents can shoot for targets only. Preceding the shoot a committee consisting of three members of the league will be selected to serve as a handicap committee, whose duties will be to classify all shooters throughout both days.

MARGARET SANGSTER'S DEPARTMENT

Preventable Illness

By Margaret E. Sangster.
(Copyright, 1905, by Joseph B. Bowles.)

The time has long since passed when sensible people looked upon illness as per se a visitation from God. In nine cases out of ten it is much more probably a visitation from the Evil One. And indeed, why blame the devil? We need not be ill as a rule. We often have ourselves to blame when we are. If we avail ourselves of the beneficent provisions of nature on every hand, and if we obey the laws of health we shall keep well. Because we habitually neglect precautions and break laws we are interrupted and laid aside by attacks of illness that might be prevented. Every illness from childhood on makes a draft upon the physical capital that should be sufficient for a long life.

We are ill because it is too much trouble to be well. We are ill because we live amid unsanitary conditions, or willfully surround ourselves with death-dealing germs. Take, for example, the familiar experience of an epidemic of diphtheria, typhoid fever, or dysentery in a country village in the later summer. Apparently everything in the place tends to health. The skies are bright, the air is clear, the fields and gardens wave with flowers, the trees in stalwart beauty stand in the village street, or encircle the homesteads. Yet, in one house and another, old and young are stricken, and before long the village is in mourning. In this and the other home, now the strong man and now the little child has breathed his last. Why? Not in the least because Divine Providence has sent a mysterious scourge, but because with unpardonable and wicked heedlessness, the contents of cesspools have been allowed to percolate through the soil, and tinkle into wells, and poison drinking water, or because, when the front of the house has blossomed like the rose, the back of it has, day after day, seen neglected garbage decaying in the sun.

Some years ago, in a small eastern city, in a single week, a father and five children in one house died of diphtheria. The only members of the family who escaped were a mother and a nursing infant. The family was conspicuous for brains, intelligence and eminent purity. Yet they had been away from home for nearly three months, and had come back in good health to open their closed house. When the premises after the tragedy were examined by the board of health, it was discovered that the cellar was filled with enough disease germs to poison the whole street. All sorts of kitchen debris and decaying vegetable matter had been sealed up there during the weeks of a stifling summer. Many a time a city has been swept by a pestilence, and its population decimated, not because that city was unhygienic in itself, but because of its filth and fetid corruption. Civic neglect and gross ignorance encourage epidemics.

We are learning that there is now neither occasion nor excuse for the ravages once made by consumption, that great White Plague which used to carry off piecemeal entire families. I knew a beautiful old mansion built of stone, standing well back from the road, and shaded by oaks and elms, that had been growing during the lives of three generations. The walls were thick, the shade was dense, little sunlight penetrated into the stately rooms. Across that threshold at intervals of eighteen months or two years, with a regularity that was like the formal execution of a sentence of death, were carried the sons and daughters of that family, until the venerable parents were left childless, beside their desolate hearth. One by one the young people drooped and faded. People thought it strange and mysterious and wondered how it was that the children of that household had so little stamina. The truth was that the walls and furniture reeked with infection, that the mansion, beautiful as it was, should have been stigmatized like a pest house, and that the old trees with their thick branching shade should have been cut down to let the sunlight in. The parents lived out their lives in grief and solitude, perhaps because they were naturally of stronger fiber than their children, and perhaps because, being older, they had taken less direct care of the sufferers.

We fortunately know now that consumption may be fought successfully in the right climate by an open-air life, and by nourishing food, and that love does not require the sacrifice of every life in the household, if one be stricken.

There are preventable illnesses which nobody fears. For instance, the commonest of all afflictions is a cold. The general opinion seems to be that there is no help if one takes cold. Yet a little care and forethought and much living in the open air will make most of us immune from this inconvenient and depressing malady. Note how many people are desperately afraid of a draught, how carefully they exclude night air from their sleeping rooms, except during the warmest weather. We live by the air we breathe, and we ought not to be afraid of it. It is impossible to take cold merely through breathing fresh air. If the body is in good condition and properly clothed we may defy pure air to do it harm.

Men, and women too, go on long tramps through the woods, sleep on the ground with a rubber sheet under them, and only a tent between them and the sky, and take no harm. Our luxuries make us effeminate and are at the back of many a cold which comes out of space, we know not how, and fastens itself upon us in our moment of least resistance, the moment when we are tired or have slept badly or have over-eaten.

To eat less rather than more would keep many people in fairly good health. The demon of dyspepsia pounces on those who eat irregularly, or eat more than they can assimilate, or indulge themselves in rich and indigestible dainties. Most of us would gain by limiting our bill of fare to simpler food and by taking meals at longer intervals.

Mental conditions have a great deal to do with preventing illness. Worry is the parent of disease. Whatever be the reason for it, worry is an immensely hostile agent in human life, ravaging happiness and depleting vital force. If you drift into a habit of chronic worry or if you constantly forebode disaster or let your mind dwell on some catastrophe that may happen, you will so weaken yourself that you cannot stand against attacks of illness. The mind has enormous power over the body, and this is the philosophic reason why, in countless instances, there is such a thing as beneficial mental healing. The part of sacredness, however, when illness has really come is to send at once for the best attainable physician, who is one of the most valued family friends.

When the ordinary health rate is high, when the house is sanitary, and the mind free from worry, the doctor has a fair field and a good chance to fight with any illness.

One of the richest women in America told me a few weeks ago that she had been for months slowly poisoned in her magnificent home, because of an unsuspected flaw in the plumbing. The illness from which she suffered was preventable, and could we get at the bottom facts, we should find this true of most similar experiences.

filled the cathedral square and the streets, and the soldiers were joking at the expense of the Jews. The police were speaking to the peasants in a very friendly manner, as if nothing had occurred.

Three students went to the chief of police, asking him to interfere. They came to Pavlikovka and discovered a store of weapons for the Jewish committee of self-defense.

Twenty swords and knives were put in a bag and taken through the streets, a gendarme walking in the front with a knife in his hand so that people might know the contents of the bag. This maneuver excited the mob. "Jews are ready to kill us!" the peasants shouted, and immediately began to smash the glass in windows.

LEADER ASSASSINATED

Suddenly news came that the Commissary Kuyaroff was assassinated. He was the soul of the movement. The discovered mob slowly began to disperse. Many peasants went home as the sun was setting, when suddenly three shots were heard on the square. Two volleys followed the signal, and two minutes after about a thousand men and women, Jews as well as Christians, were running down Kieff street. Stones and sticks were in the air, then the patrol followed galloping and all was quiet again.

The chief of police hurried on to Padol, a suburb, where massacres were reported, and when he arrived there he found six Jews and one Christian murdered and many wounded Jews.

AT THE SQUARE

The chief of police returned to the cathedral square and addressed the mob. At the same time the Commissary Yarozky was whispering to the peasants. The infantry threw their bayonets against the Jews, and the peasants behind the soldiers freely threw stones at the defenseless people, injuring many severely.

HEARTRENDING SPECTACLE

A terrible scene then occurred. Dr. Binloff (a Jew) and a student, Nicholas Blinoff (a Christian) spoke to the chief of police and the latter asked them to try to calm the mob. They addressed the Jews successfully and returned near where the infantry were stationed.

The hooligans, on seeing Dr. Binloff rushed at him, saying: "Here is a Jewish doctor, kill him!" Dr. Binloff fell on the ground, he would have been killed, but an officer of his acquaintance covered him with his own body and thus saved him.

BLINOFF, THE MARTYR

Blinoff was helpless. A stone hit him, he fell again, and the peasants hit him with clubs, saying: "You are a socialist. Although Christian, you are worse than the Jews themselves, for you help them." Blinoff rose and tried to get back through the line of infantry, but the latter threw him back to the infuriated mob. He shouted: "Come here, soldiers, save me; what are you doing?"

The soldiers did not move. He fell again. The peasants, five soldiers and a policeman rushed at him, and in two minutes a mutilated body lay on the ground.

Almost simultaneously a Jew named Nooger was killed while leaving a street car. The conductor of the car, just before Nooger stepped off, shouted to the chief of police, who was standing near by and to the soldiers: "Look here, this Jew's life is in danger!" The chief of police turned his head on the scene, and the officer of the patrol, when seeing the corpse, said: "Well, it is only a Jew!"

SLAIN BY PRISONER

In the afternoon the peasants were taken away from the Cathedral square by the troops. On the way to the police station one of the arrested peasants rushed to the life and killed on the spot a Jew named Elshansky. The soldiers saw it, but did not prevent him. The public was indignant and urged the troops to stop the massacres. "We have received no orders to do it!" was the constant answer.

JEWS FOUGHT BRAVELY

Terrible scenes occurred at the same time in the suburbs of Jitomir. The Jewish self-defense committees acted bravely, but they were few. It was a real battle between them and the hooligans. At first the Jews were superior in their tactics, but the Jews were destroyed when surrounded. They left six killed and about thirty-five wounded on the field. Many of the wounded died shortly afterward; all of them were horribly mutilated. The peasants lost one killed and six wounded.

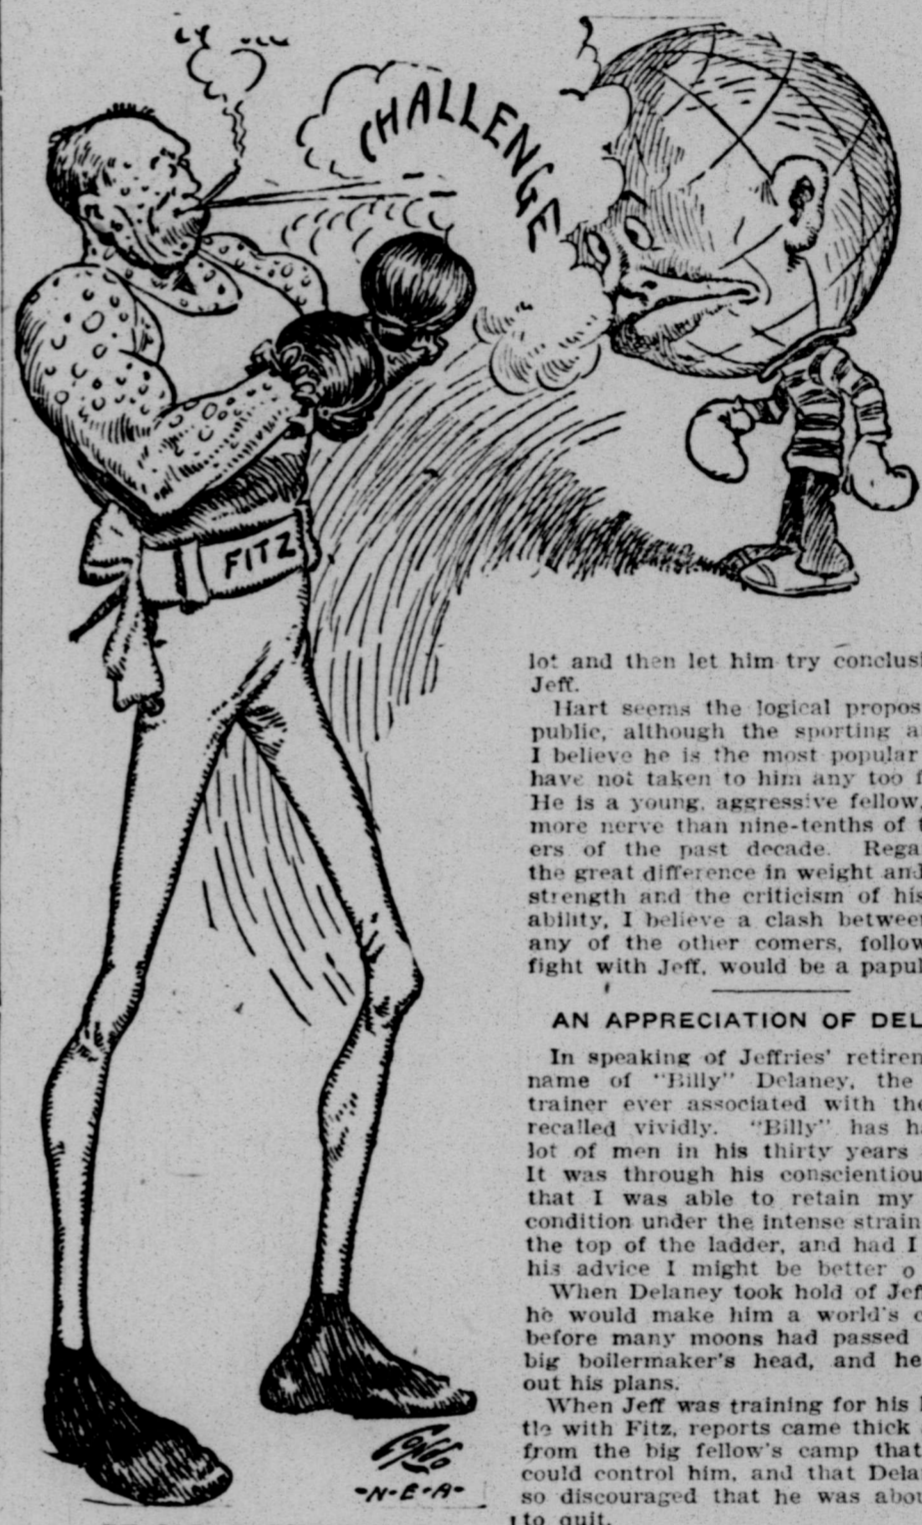

The municipality now held an extraordinary meeting in which it was decided to ask the governor of Valhynia to take measures to restore order. The latter said he was willing to do it, but no measures were taken. On the following day martial law was proclaimed, by order from St. Petersburg, and all was quiet in a moment. The fighting resulted in twenty-one men being killed, forty-three seriously wounded and more than 100 slightly wounded.

A ROYAL FRIEND

A story of the German crown prince's student days at Bonn illustrates an admirable trait in his character, his loyalty to a friend once made, says the St. James Gazette. It is a point of honor in the student duels which Mark Twain has made famous in English-speaking countries that a combatant should not flinch when the part of his cheek which is not protected by copious padding receives a slash from the rapier. If he look upon the whole thing in a way that is devoid of "courage," an otherwise excellent young man, an intimate friend of the crown prince, winced on one of these occasions, says the Manchester Guardian, and rendered himself liable to the customary penalty. The crown prince declared that if the sentence were carried out he would forthwith leave the corps and ostentatiously frequent the society of his friend the delinquent. He carried his point.

ONLY TITLE FOR FITZ AND ME IS THE "HAS BEEN," AND I'M OUT

SO SAYS JIM CORBETT IN REPLY TO FITZSIMMONS'S CHALLENGE—DECLARES NO CHAMPIONSHIP CONTEST POSSIBLE WITH JEFF LEFT OUT, AND THAT MITCHELL AND SULLIVAN HAVE CALL FOR DEAD ONE'S CHAMPIONSHIP.

BY JAS. J. CORBETT.
(Copyright, 1905, by the Newspaper Enterprise Association.)

ONLY ONE TITLE FOR WHIPPED MEN

I see that Bob Fitzsimmons has issued a challenge to fight the writer or any other man for the world's championship title.

I cannot see how anybody but Jeffries can take part in such a contest with Bob. Both he and I have been whipped fairly by Jeff, and unless he participates no title can change hands save the has-been championship, and, personally, I believe that Charlie Mitchell and Mr. Sullivan have the call on us for such a battle.

The papers have been full of talk about Jeff passing up the title. However, he has no right to assume such a power, and until he is whipped he will remain king of the heavies.

If Jeff retires, then he takes with him the title, and if it were possible for Fitzsimmons and myself to meet an decide the matter, I feel that the public would have the call on us for such a battle.

Of all the men prominent in pugilistic circles when Jeff won the title, not one is left who would have a show with him. Therefore, the old championship is really dead.

Now to turn to the new men with whom the public has yet to become better acquainted, I am of the opinion that Hart, Root, or some other comparatively young man, say Berger, the amateur, would suit the public better. Let these men get together and decide which is best of the quit the ring for the simple life.

In addition to handling Jeff and myself, DeLaney's name is associated with such names as "Rich" Terry, Costello, Jack Brady, Mike Conley, Mike Cleary and Denver Ed Martin.

"BUDDY" RYAN IS BUSY

No fighter in the limelight today is leading a more strenuous life than "Buddy" Ryan, the Chicago lad. Ryan has mapped out a hard trip and is off to win new laurels in the far west. His first engagement is at Butte, July 4, when he toes the market with George Herbert in a twenty-round battle.

Ryan is next booked to try conclusions with Dave Barry at Portland, where the fight game promises to be good this summer. Barry is a hard man to beat, but I look for Ryan to best him.

The Chicago boy's last fight will be at Coma, Cal., where he will meet Peterson, the youngster who won from Clancy, the coast boy, who calls himself an Englishman.

Ryan looks forward to his return trip to Chicago with a great deal of pleasure, as he is booked for several fights there next winter.

At present the fight game in the Windy City is very much dead, but the officials are going to let down the bars about Sept. 1, and then the contests will come thick and fast.

Chicago has always been noted for the number of its fights and not the caliber of the article. This, however, is not due so much to the desire of the fans as to the officials, who look upon a good thing with some hesitancy since the memorable fiasco in which Terry, McGovern and Joe Gans were the principals.

TWO OLD HEROES

I was recently asked about Dan Creedon and what he was doing. The last I heard of the once famous ring character he was in Sydney, Australia, where he has many friends. His hair has turned snowy white and he spends most of his time telling what a wonderful country America is and how well the fighters are treated here. Dan evidently forgets many of the unpleasant things that happened when he fought in the States. I saw him get trimmed in a "Frisco bar room on one occasion, and on another he was made the laughing stock of a party of backwoodsmen, who took advantage of his intoxicated condition.

The name of Creedon calls to mind another almost immortal ring name—Jimmy Barron. Jim at the present time is a brewer of the finest kind of beverages in Australia. He has promised to send me one, which I will place in my kennel and probably show on the bench.

GLAD TO SEE CORBETT WORSTED

When I defeated Sullivan at New Orleans I made many friends and also enemies. One man in particular, a southerner, took a dislike to me, because he had been a life-long friend of Sullivan. His name would be given here but for the prominent position he holds in the sporting world today.

When I was playing with Hal Davis in "Pals" last winter, this particular fellow was in Chicago on a trip from New Orleans, while we were there.

"By the way, your old friend Jim Corbett is in town, and in a show I know you would like," said Farnk Chance to him one day.

"No, I do not believe I want to see Corbett. I don't like him, and I am sure he couldn't entertain me," responded the man.

"Well, that is just the reason you ought to see him. In the show Jim is pushed over a cliff and gets into a rough and tumble fight with a big husky guy, and gets done up," replied Chance.

Chance came around and told me the next day that the fellow bought two tickets, and occupied both seats himself, that night.

There are a lot of Sullivan's friends that feel the same way over that battle at New Orleans. They are satisfied to see old John L.'s conqueror get the worst of it, if it is only in a show.

Troops Drawn Up for Protection Aided Mob Instead.

Christian Fell a Martyr

(Written for the Newspaper Enterprise Association by Special Commissioner of the Russian Liberal Association.)

JITOMIR, June 7.—The night following the stoning of the Jews on the river passed quietly. Single shots were heard from time to time, but no bloodshed occurred.

On the following day (Sunday) terror began to spread throughout the city. The hooligans sent their agents everywhere for assistance.

The police increased their activity, hastily taking all weapons from the Jews. The propaganda of the massacres was unhindered. The police listened quite differently to the shouts: "Beat the Jews!"

Preparations were made at Pavlikovka, where a crowd of hooligans assembled shouting: "We come from Moscow for the purpose of killing the Jews; we are told that they are our bitterest enemies."

Many Jews and Christians tried to calm the mob. The usual answer was: "We know you students. You are all socialists. You want a republican government." The peasants spit in the faces of the students, and the latter saw the massacres could not be avoided.

In the center of the town the attitude was even more ominous. A large crowd

TELEGRAM PRIZE WINNERS TELL OF THEIR TRIP TO COLORADO

Ten young ladies, tired but happy, reached Fort Worth Wednesday morning, June 28, from Colorado, on the Fort Worth and Denver City railroad. Each of the party wore a long red streamer which read:

WE'RE FROM TEXAS! FORT WORTH TELEGRAM!

The party was composed of the young ladies who won two weeks' trip to Colorado as prize winners of the Telegram. They were the winners in a Popularity Contest and representatives of various towns throughout Texas, Oklahoma and Indian Territory. The party left Fort Worth Sunday morning, June 18, on the Fort Worth and Denver City railroad. Colorado Springs was reached the next afternoon and the party was immediately installed at the Alta Vista hotel by Miss Helen Eyrle, proprietor and manager. Many of the young ladies had never been out of their state or territories before and it need require no very considerable stretch of imagination to appreciate the pleasure that was in store for the members of the party.

Sight-Seeing is Begun

Monday was a day of rest, but early the next morning the entire party, in two carriages, was driven to North and South Cheyenne Canyon, Seven Falls, Helen Hunt Jackson's grave, and returning to Colorado Springs via Bear Creek Canyon. It was a most beautiful drive over mountains, through canyons, and the highest point reached on this trip was something over 9,000 feet. The next day's drive took in Williams' Canyon, Cave of the Winds, Grand Cavern, Garden of the Gods, Glen Eyrle and returning to the Alta Vista hotel in the early afternoon. The week's stay at Colorado Springs was made the most of. Not a minute was wasted that could be devoted to sight-seeing. Everything of interest in and around Colorado Springs and Manitou was visited and much of it a second time. Nothing that was worth seeing was missed.

At Cripple Creek

One day was devoted to a trip to Cripple Creek. The going portion of the trip was over the Cripple Creek Short Line through the courtesy of the general passenger agent, Mr. McWalt. The return trip over the Midland Terminal road through the courtesy of General Passenger Agent Wiggenhorn. Every possible courtesy was shown the party both going and returning. The party was taken to the highest point reached on this trip by a trolley ride. The party returned to Denver and the Cripple Creek Short Line. The party was taken to the highest point reached on this trip by a trolley ride. The party returned to Denver and the Cripple Creek Short Line.

Party Goes to Denver

At Denver the party stopped at the Albany hotel and every possible courtesy was extended by the hotel through its manager, S. F. Dutton, and the proprietors, Messrs. Mayer and Dutton, the proprietors, were awaiting the coming of the party, having been advised by The Telegram Company that the Albany had been selected as the headquarters of the party in Denver. The young women took the guests of the hotel by storm and they were the center of attraction during the three days stay at the Albany. Entertainments of all kinds were tendered them, among these being a reception at the offices of the Denver Evening Post, each lady being presented with a souvenir by Mr. Maloney, the circulation manager of that paper.

Upon the invitation of Mr. and Mrs. Dutton the young ladies were given a trolley-ride about the city and through the city park and in the evening were again guests of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Dutton at the Adams Roof Garden, where music, dancing and refreshments were enjoyed. On Sunday a trip over the famous Georgetown Loop was taken and in the evening the party visited Elitch's Garden under the guidance of Frank Dutton, chief clerk of the Albany.

On Monday the young ladies devoted the day to general sight seeing and preparing for their trip back to Texas, being accompanied to the depot by Mr. and Mrs. Sam Dutton and a number of their friends. The young ladies were both to leave and each and every one expressed to Messrs. Mayer and Dutton appreciation of the many courtesies shown and the entertainments given them during their stay in Denver.

All were unostentatious in their praise of the Albany and the train pulled out of the depot cheerfully went up for the Albany and its courteous proprietors. The young ladies have some things to say on their own accord and space is herewith given to letters from them received by the management. The Telegram Company promised that this party would be taken to Colorado at no expense to the members and to take good care of them throughout the entire trip. These letters will show that The Telegram not only fulfilled their promise but did much more. W. H. Calkins, circulation manager of The Telegram, chaperoned the party. Not the slightest mishap happened to mar the pleasure of this trip. It was one of education, interest and happiness throughout. The young ladies have all returned to their homes with the exception of Miss Nora Drake, who is visiting friends in Fort Worth.

What the Denver Times Said. The Denver Times said: "We are the girls from Texas and we do not give a rap. If any young man fancies us, well, let 'em set his cap; but we're not waiting every one, since our time was ever begun. We have little time for mooning, or for silly love spooning. We are merely out for fun. There are ten of the most beautiful young ladies to be found in the area of Texas, Oklahoma and the Indian Territory. And this is not to Josh. All in winter traveling togs, they arrived in Denver this morning from Colorado Springs. They were here for four days they have been invited by trips to Manitou, Cheyenne Canyon, Cripple Creek and all sorts of side enterprises. With open arms they were met by their hosts of the Albany hotel, Samuel F. Dutton and William Maher—with open arms seems a bit strong, but it's only figurative. In the charming young southern belle appeared in the parlor balconies of the hotel which is to be their happy home for two or three days, after they had made their dainty toilet in the apartments reserved for them.

Denver's young men are all in a glow of excitement for a certain few form the committee of entertainment and more are trying to become members of that body and are moving in squad on Chairman Samuel W. Dutton and begging for a place, even the humblest, on the favored delegation. How Mr. Dutton secured the enviable position of chairman, that gentleman can only tell, but there he is and there he will stay, for the most frantic of wild horses were to attempt to drag him from his post. Mr. Dutton has not yet named his committee. He is taking his time while the assistants grill replies to a certain few young ladies are the most beautiful all the great area mentioned is fully established by the fact that they were chosen by vote, a Fort Worth daily newspaper having instituted the contest and awarded the prizes. The successful young ladies were awarded free trips to Colorado and all the principal points thereof with a stay in Colorado Springs at the Alta Vista and in the Albany hotel in this city. The party was taken to the highest point reached on this trip by a trolley ride. The party returned to Denver and the Cripple Creek Short Line.

The Rocky Mountain News had this to say: "From the top of a big Columbia coach, while Manager W. H. Calkins and S. F. Dutton and John Craig Hammond sat inside and watched them, the most beautiful girls in all Texas and Oklahoma and Indian Territory saw Denver yesterday afternoon, and were seen in turn, by a few thousand fortunate Denver people. It was an unusual sight and one that will serve to keep the reputation of the south for its beautiful women at its present high standard. There were five girls in the party—two from Texas and every one was pretty, and an honor to her state. Miss Ina Josselyn, who received the largest number of votes in the beauty contest instituted by The Telegram, is a blonde from Texas and is the most attractive girl in Texas, Indian Territory and Oklahoma. She has a blonde, with brown hair and blue eyes, and a very fetching manner that explains her popularity. She is a blonde with dark eyes, with a perfect figure, are counted among the accomplishments of Laura Drake of Shawnee, O. Miss Addie Mae Moore of Palestine, Tex., is one of the most beautiful brown eyes, Ivy Helen Wallace of Perry, O. T., is as graceful as the vine for which she was named, and Sallie T. Dowell has the prettiest blue eyes in the party. Miss Sallie T. Dowell has the prettiest blue eyes in the party. Miss Sallie T. Dowell has the prettiest blue eyes in the party."

Created they might have been a tribe of Amazons going to war or returning from the hunt. They are the guests of the Fort Worth Telegram, and have been voted the most beautiful young women in the Lone Star State and its sister territory. They are taking a trip to Colorado and all the principal points thereof with a stay in Colorado Springs at the Alta Vista and in the Albany hotel in this city. The party was taken to the highest point reached on this trip by a trolley ride. The party returned to Denver and the Cripple Creek Short Line.

Letters From Members of the Party. MISS MAYME MOORE. I cannot express the delightful feeling which I have on the beginning of the contest until the last was one of continual pleasure. For the benefit of the eight lucky girls in the contest now running, I will tell them what I saw and heard. At Fort Worth we were entertained at the Metropolitan hotel and carried on a jolly trolley-ride in the afternoon and taken to Handley in the evening where we enjoyed a dance. Sunday morning we left over the Fort Worth and Denver City railroad for Colorado, Colorado Springs being our first stop. We stopped at the hotel where we were in the afternoon and in the evening were entertained at the Albany hotel. While in Colorado Springs every place of interest was visited. The trip through North and South Cheyenne Canyons was one of beauty and grandeur. On the high drive over the mountains we reached a summit 10,000 feet above sea level. Looking down one would think Manitou must be a Lilliputian city. The trip through Bear Creek Canyon and Garden of the Gods was one of beauty and grandeur. The next day we drove to Williams' Canyon. In this superb canyon and in the Cave of the Winds you forget the world and live in a different atmosphere. This cave cannot be described, as it is the most wonderful place I have ever seen. The peculiar formation of the rocks form all kinds of animals and flowers. The grand organ was played by our guides. There were many other places. In Victor we visited the Independence mine and had the novel and unique experience of going down 900 feet in the elevator shaft. There we gathered some fine specimens of gold and silver ore. We regretted to leave Colorado Springs after having such a delightful visit, as we did not know what was awaiting us in Denver. Upon ar-

The ten young ladies who won two weeks' trip to Colorado, given them by the Fort Worth Telegram Company. They returned home Wednesday, June 28. Back row, left to right: Miss Sallie T. Dowell, McKinney, Tex.; Miss Nora Drake, Shawnee, O. T.; Miss Mattie Howard, Holdenville, I. T.; Miss Ivy Wallace, Perry, O. T.; Miss Addie Mae Harper, Palestine, Tex.; Front row: S. F. Dutton of Albany Hotel; Miss Ina Josselyn, Denison, Tex.; W. H. Calkins, Fort Worth; Miss Sallie T. Dowell, McKinney, Tex.; Miss Mayme Moore, Brownwood, Tex.

the day, taking us for a trolley-ride over the city of Denver, and in the evening at Adams' Roof Garden, where we had a most enjoyable time. While in Denver we visited the City Park and Elitch's Garden, and the office of the Denver Post. At this place, too, we all felt that we were treated better than we deserved. We also went over to the Georgetown Loop, enjoying the beautiful scenery on the way, which must be seen to be appreciated. We all felt sorry when we had to turn our faces homeward, for we truly had the time of our lives and all felt that our efforts made to obtain the trip were appreciated. We all thank The Telegram and all others for the many favors and the kindnesses shown us. We especially appreciate Mr. Calkins' kindness and patience. Respectfully, WOODWARD, OKLA. MISS INA JOSSELYN. To The Fort Worth Telegram. One-zip, two-zip, three-a-zip-zam. We are the girls of The Fort Worth Telegram. Boom-a-lacka, Boom-a-lacka. Bow-wow, Chicka-lacka-chicka-lacka. Chew-chew-chew. Who are we? Who are we? The Fort Worth Telegram. Don't you see-see.

With these yells the Jolly Telegram crowd left Fort Worth Sunday morning, June 18, for the trip of their lives, after having spent a most enjoyable time in Fort Worth going over the city in a trolley-ho and out to Handley in the evening. Arriving at Colorado Springs, which is a dream of a place, we stayed at the Alta Vista hotel, where we were warmly welcomed and royally treated by Proprietor H. H. Stevens and the hotel attaches. Here in the city we spent a most enjoyable time. The trip over the above lines going and returning was magnificent. We were 10,000 feet high and could look over to what seemed great walls of water, but we were not afraid. The beautiful snow-capped mountain peaks. At the Alta Vista hotel we were highly entertained by the young men of Colorado Springs. The management of the hotel gave us a party and it is needless to say we all enjoyed and appreciated it very much.

Saturday morning, with much regret for leaving the Springs, we bade our friends adieu at the Denver Hotel. Immediately to the Metropolitan hotel and introduced there to all the other nine contest winners. Our whole happy bevy, in little state in a trolley-ho was conducted to many places of interest in the city. On the following morning our party of ten happy girls, scarcely recovered from the fatigue of the delightful dance of the night before, were taken to our room, finally realized and much-worked-for of two weeks' vacation in the mountains of Colorado with all expenses paid. Two days and nights' travel landed us at the Alta Vista hotel, where we were up-to-date accommodations were truly refreshing after our long journey. We attended the band concert at the City Park that night. Early next morning we took the Seven Falls, Elitch's Garden, and Prospect Dome, from thence climbing 260 precipitous steps, where we all mounted the little patient burros who bore us up and down to view the grave of the noble Helen Hunt Jackson. On the following day we beheld the Garden of the Gods and drove through General Palmer's grounds, the picturesque sights of which were almost beyond description.

On our trip to Cripple Creek we passed through the eight tunnels, viewing Grand Canyon, St. Peter's Dome, the latter an altitude of 10,000 feet. From there to the little mining town of Victor, where we went down 9,000 feet in the Independence mines. On our last night in Colorado Springs a complimentary hop was given us by the Alta Vista hotel management. In the city of Denver we were royally entertained by Sam Dutton and wife, a perfect host and hostess, who showed us all of Denver's places of interest. On our last Sunday in Colorado we took in the famous Georgetown Loop, enjoying the beautiful scenery we passed. When our happy, satisfied party started back to their homes, we all agreed that just such a trip we had never had before and all were convinced we would never have again unless we could come more to be successful winners in a Fort Worth Telegram contest. Gratefully yours, ADDIE MAE HARPER. Palestine, Texas.

At the ordinary price of 2 cents a pound for the Chinese rice farmers make money on about the same scale as would American farmers in the Mississippi valley producing wheat on a basis of 80 cents a bushel in Chicago. A justice of the peace who died recently in the north of England left King Edward a copy of the "Breeches Bible." It originally belonged to Prince Henry of Wales, the ill-fated eldest son of James II. The book was bequeathed to "Queen Victoria or other sovereign of the realm" at testator's decease. The latest historical personage to be commemorated was Archibald, the Greek gentleman who only wanted a place to stand on outside, in order to move the world with his lever. Syracuse, in Sicily, has made him a monument, representing the great mathematician and physicist with his inventions grouped about him.

MISS MAMIE STUART. To The Fort Worth Telegram. I wish to thank you for the lovely time I had during our trip to Colorado, and feel doubly repaid for my share of work which won me such a pleasant time. Words are scarce in expressing the sights of interest and the pleasure of the scenery alone was grand. My good name was doubly pleased. Among some of the excursions was North and South Cheyenne Canyons, Bear Creek Canyon, Williams Canyon, Garden of the Gods, the Seven Falls and many other interesting spots of which I will not take up the space to relate. Besides all these, were the courtesies extended to us by all with whom we came in contact. For instance, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Dutton, together with the hotel attaches, showed us a splendid time and just to put it in plain words, we had possession of the hotel while we were their guests. Again I thank you for the which will ever linger in the memory of your friend, MAMIE STUART. Bryan, Texas.

MISS SALLIE BROWN. To The Fort Worth Telegram Company. Home again after the most enjoyable trip a girl ever dreamed of and I now place a give all my friends and all parties interested in The Telegram an insight to the way in which we were entertained during our stay in Colorado. Upon my arrival in Fort Worth I was met by Mr. Calkins of The Telegram

"Mr. Carnegie smiled and nodded. "You, madam," he said, "are proud of your descent. I, on the opposite tack, am proud of my ascent."

A HIGHWAYMAN'S MISTAKE. No sympathy can be felt for the young ruffian whose misadventure came recently to the knowledge of the police and public, says the London Globe. Walking along an outlying and little-frequented boulevard, he came across a woman, whose ruffian's dog, leaning over her forearm, being a thief by profession and a cur by nature, he saw an opportunity to steal. "Give me your bag," he said, clutching it. "Give it quietly, or I shall do you an injury."

THE BOY'S VIEW OF IT. "I had a young friend," said Mrs. Kate Upson, Clark of Brownsville, "who was taken to the circus by his father, while his little sister, Lucy, was left at home, says the Philadelphia Ledger. On departure two toy balloons were purchased, one for him and one for his sister. The mother, in a moment of her father's absence, fastened them above the heads of the crowd, floating at the ends of their long strings, when one of them exploded. The boy looked up with an agonized expression. There, there, he roared out, while the mother smiled and he remarked: "It's too bad Lucy's balloon's spoiled, isn't it?"

BEEF ATHLETICALLY. Richard Harding Davis, when he was a reporter in Philadelphia, delighted to disguise himself as a "tough" young man and to mingle with the odd characters of the Ninth street district of the Quaker City. Mr. Davis got to know this district with peculiar intimacy. His prize fighter he knew especially well. Not seldom, in the gathering of some news item, he would accompany a third-rate pugilist to the ring and dine with him and his board on the most unpalatable fare. "I used to know one fighter," said Mr. Davis, "who was a character, a wit, a man of no mean talents, and a man of no mean courage. He was a boarder, one of those who where the landlady sits at the head of the table and serves the dishes to the submissive pensioners ranged in two lines below her. "My friend got a piece of steak that was full of gristle. Finding this steak so abominable, he began to amuse us all with burlesque attempts at carving. He turned back his cuffs and carved. Then he took off his coat. Then he held his knife like a chisel and pretended to carve the handle with biscuit. "The landlady up to this moment had been too busy serving to notice the pugilist's antics. Now she spoke up. "Is there anything the matter with your steak?" she said in a stern voice. "The pugilist smiled politely and answered: "It's a trifle overtrained—perhaps, madam; but, really, I never saw a harder muscle."

TOO EASY. Attorney William S. Barnes has a new office boy. The last boy with whom he was associated resigned a few days ago because the law business did not suit his peculiar temperament, says the San Francisco Chronicle. "How long have you been here?" asked Barnes when the small boy made known his intention to engage in a different vocation. "Six months," replied the boy. "And you don't like the law business?" "Now. It's no good, and I'm sorry I learned it."

UPS AND DOWNS. An interesting story of Andrew Carnegie was narrated the other day by one of the American visitors to Skibo Castle, "Mr. Carnegie," he began, "was entertaining a party from London, and among his guests was a single woman of about 50—a woman who had been one of Queen Victoria's ladies in waiting. "She carried a stick, smoked cigarettes, drank and swore. Yet she belonged to one of the most ancient English families, and though poor herself, she numbered among her relations the richest peers of the realm. "She said at dinner one night that she was a Tory, an old-school Tory, and that she placed family above everything else in the world. "Now, I can understand, madam," said an American clergyman, "how you might place family above wealth; but to place it above everything—that, surely, is carrying the matter too far." "Not a bit too far," said the woman calmly. "You don't place family above genius?" said the clergyman. "The late Marquis of Anglesley, for instance, you wouldn't place him above the poet Swinburne, eh?" "Surely, surely," the lady answered. "And you place family above achievement?" said the clergyman. "To be sure I do," she returned. "I am so proud of the fact that I am a descendant of a family which looked at Mr. Carnegie—that I would not change places with our host himself."

OUR LAY SERMON
Judged by the amount of attention it is attracting, one might conclude that the proper study of mankind is longevity.

Beginning with Demosthenes, we find that the great Athenian delivered his oratorical masterpieces—the orations "On the Crown"—at 54.

Chaucer wrote the "Canterbury Tales" and other famous works after 40.
Spinoza wrote his epoch-making book after he was 42.

Lawrence Sterne wrote "Tristram Shandy" when he was 47.
Cervantes was 56 when he began to write the immortal "Don Quixote."

Defoe was 54 when he gave the world "Robinson Crusoe."
Oliver Cromwell did not begin his wonderful life work until he was 43.

Titian was over 40 when he began work on the renowned masterpiece, "The Assumption of the Madonna."
Leonardo da Vinci, who we are told, comes nearest to being history's "universal genius," was 45 years old when he painted "The Last Supper."

Sir Christopher Wren designed St. Paul's cathedral at 46 and the towers of Westminster abbey at 50.
John Hunter, the celebrated physician, wrote his greatest treatise when 66 years of age.

Pasteur was 53 before he fairly got to work on his hydrophobia cure.
Morse was 41 when he gave the world the telegraph.

Past 40, too, was Mohammed before he began to write the Koran and to organize the scattered tribes into Islam.
Mommson was on the shady side of 40 when he wrote his monumental history of Rome, and the other great German historian, Ranke, did not begin his "History of the World" until he was 50.

If these men of genius had been Oedipized, the world would have been much poorer in consequence.
The advancing years that come to crown every life should constitute a wreath of undying honor. And when as a nation learn to honor the gray hairs that have come to our fathers and mothers in the proper manner, there will no longer be heard any cry of old and only in the way. There will be plaintive prayers breathed up to God for an ending of existence, but there will come the blessings of peace, love and abounding joy to that household sufficient to shed a genuine halo about its very inmates.

If we must dispose of our aged ones, let's smother them with kisses and finally kill them with the very joy of living.

as a matter of fact, the great majority of us feel an inclination to stay here just as long as possible. It is true that this is a hard world and life here is attended with many cares and vicissitudes, but we know what it is and as we grow older we learn to profit by the experience accumulated during the time we were young and callow.

The desire to accumulate wealth is a healthy and inspiring ambition. But wealth should be acquired only through the practice of thrift and frugality. The wealth that comes from indulgence in the sharp practices of the modern system of high finance is as evanescent as a soap bubble. There is nothing tangible and substantial about it. It is a snare and a delusion that is wrecking many homes and sending thousands of people into untimely graves.

Another direction. The man who spends his life in the mad rush engendered by the greed for gold, has no time for anything else. All the joys and pleasures that belong to our temporary sojourn here are sacrificed to this modern Moloch, and loses just about all there is in life that is worth having. Money is a power for both good and evil, but there are many things money can never control. It cannot make a man out of the wrong kind of material. It cannot purchase the happiness that comes from a clean conscience.

It cannot bridge a man over the grave and keep him from paying the penalty that must be paid by all flesh. It cannot buy entrance in the joys of the Great Beyond, and its possession during the brief time we are upon the earthly stage is but poor recompense for the sacrifices involved in its acquisition.

We are living in a fast age and have to go a swift gait in order to keep up with the procession, but there is no reason why we should forget to be honest and give to every man we come in contact with the squarest kind of a square deal.

"UP THE DALLAS SLEEVE
A live, active, progressive and up-to-date man should be nominated for governor next year. All the congressional claimants should be sent to the woods or pensioned, and Judge Terrell should retire on his laurels already won.

Who is the man that Dallas is preparing to spring on an unsuspecting public? Is the Hon. M. M. Crane going to again enter the list as a candidate?—Fort Worth Telegram.

Well, General Crane is live, progressive and up-to-date. He fought for the Panama canal and he isn't a spoke in the wheel of "the system." General Crane, like James Stephen Hogg, writes his own announcements. He made the race for governor a few years since and the little Jerseyman of Navarro and "favorite" elsewhere combined to put him out of the race. It is too early to pull a pessimism which will not be ripe until next year.—Dallas Times Herald.

The Telegram was satisfied there was something up the Dallas sleeve and is gratified that it was able to so easily call the turn.
General Crane is a man who has rendered distinguished service to his state and his party, and the people of Texas are not unmindful of his admirable qualifications and democratic fighting qualities. When the nominee of his party for the office of attorney general, Crane was not averse to chartering special trains with which to reach joint discussions with his populist opponent, and that kind of man will always be dear to the democratic heart in Sunny Texas.

But should General Crane enter the lists as a candidate for governor he is going up against a very hard situation. The other fellows have the political wires in good working order all over the state, and it looks like the Crane boom is doomed to failure from pure inanition.

Governor Joseph D. Sayers is receiving some very warm roasts these days from various sources on account of his connection with the Texas railways. Sayers may have made a mistake in accepting the position that was tendered him, but that fact is no imputation on his sterling honesty and integrity.

Elihu Root is one of the New York friends of the president who seems to be regarded as big enough to fill any position. He has already been tried in the cabinet and never failed to measure up. As the successor of John Hay, however, he is going to be placed in a very trying position.

Fort Worth must meet all reasonable requirements in the matter of that projected Interurban line to Mineral Wells. It is one of the things that will be of some real benefit to the city. It must and will be built.

The cattlemen of the country are looking to President Roosevelt to push the prosecution of those beef trust indictments. They have an abiding faith in the belief that his sympathies are with them.

Governor Hogg is to address the Farmers' Union at Waco next month, and this is but another evidence that when you locate a big bunch of farmers anywhere in Texas the Storm-tossed One is always to be found in easy calling distance.

The president of the Farmers' Union is cut in a public statement to the effect that the organization is strictly non-political. And the people of Texas interested in its success and future truly hope that it will always be thus.

Mayor Thomas Jefferson Powell modestly disclaims any designs upon the congressional seat of Hon. Oscar W. Gillespie.

The Telegram of today is a newspaper. Compare it with the Sunday issue of more pretentious publications and see if it is not the real thing.

waste of the people's money in an effort to build up the fortunes of those who are on the inside in these big corporations, until finally the whole structure seems just about to fall through the sheer weight of its own iniquity.

These are among the things that we call high finance. These are some of the methods we see used by the leading financiers of the country in the mad greed for gold, and these are the things that will ultimately ruin this country unless there is some method devised for curbing the too general disposition.

LEADING NEWSPAPER COMMENT ON THE PACKERS' INDICTMENTS

LAW MUST BE VINDICATED

Without in any way prejudging the guilt or innocence of the meat packers indicted on Saturday, we may take satisfaction in the work of the Federal grand jury which has for five months carried on the investigation resulting in these charges. It is not often that a body of men with private interests, like grand jurors, thus give themselves up to consider a labor for the public weal.

The only way to stop violations of these laws is to punish the individual men who violate them. The old saying that a corporation has no body to kick and no soul for which to apply particularly well to this situation. Corporations willing to break the law do not mind injunctions and fines. They make enough money by their disobedience to pay a percentage to outraged justice.

So long as the persons who do the work which it is so hard to carry on, the Amalgamated Burglars' Trust could draw a herring across the trail of the individual croakerman and assume corporate responsibility for his operations, house-breaking would become a safe and profitable industry. The government is on safe ground when it assumes that for every broken law there is a personal lawbreaker who should be held responsible for the crime.

The United States circuit court, however, has found a state of facts in the packing industry which would clearly establish Judge Grosscup issued an injunction against these unlawful practices and the appellate court sustained him. The testimony taken by the grand jury court of the national government is long and strong, and the Federal courts have been regularly successful in dealing with rich and powerful criminals in the past. And so there is good reason to hope and believe that justice will be done at last in this case of the people.

The council for the packers declare that they have not violated the law, but have been endeavoring faithfully to comply with it. If so, it should be easy for them to furnish evidence to the grand jury. If, on the other hand, their corporations are found to be violating the law, it may be safely determined that at least some individuals are violating it.

POPULAR IMPRESSIONS CONFIRMED
The Federal grand jury at Chicago, after a very laborious investigation, adopts an evidence theory by which the public has endeavored to see the conditions in the market for cattle and beef. With the usual abundance of verbiage which characterizes most indictments, it charges that competition in the industry which holds the market for stock yards of the principal cities by the defendants requiring their purchasing agents to refrain from bidding against one another.

Thus the grand jury fully confirms popular impressions as to existing conditions and the reason for them. The indictment was found mostly under the Sherman anti-trust law, which is a restraint of trade, monopoly and conspiracy to restrain trade, both among the states and with foreign countries. There are also charges of violation of the law against rebates. The indictments were probably been foreseen the prosecution may fairly expect that its main contentions will be sustained by the trial judge.

The present state of proof, however, is likely to present greater difficulties, for however well assured the people may feel of the truth of the indictments, the task of fixing the blame is one which past experience has shown to be extremely difficult. The resources of the men who control these immense properties are exceedingly great, and they will have the assistance of the most expert lawyers in defending the law in the courts.

There are a good many self-made men, but the public they did a poor job. Grandview Tribune.
True enough. But it is always a hard job to convince them.

The indicted packers are giving bond for their appearance in court just the same as the most unpretentious citizen. The doctrine of "the square deal" seems to be working over time.—Dallas Times-Herald.

It sometimes occurs that men take time to fully muster up their courage, and in this instance procrastination was a sure sign of real desertion. The Lanham boom was a full grown one.

CRY IS FOR JUSTICE.

The indictments against the beef trust officials will probably result in one of the greatest combats that has ever been waged in this country under the forms of criminal law. The Federal government has grappled with the biggest monopoly and one of the strongest financial giants of the age, in a criminal prosecution which menaces not only the existence of the packers' trust, but the business honor, social standing and personal liberty of the packers themselves.

Armed with great wealth, with high social and business influences which ramify throughout the entire and land and reach to the heart of Washington itself, the beef trust magnates will be able to use every agency known to human ingenuity to defeat the ends of justice. Not only the vulgar bribe—and it will amount to a king's ransom wherever it can avail—but more potent and far-reaching personal influences and secret spheres of human conduct will be brought to bear upon prosecutors, witnesses, jurors and all who have a voice in the trials.

Yet the arm of the national government is long and strong, and the Federal courts have been regularly successful in dealing with rich and powerful criminals in the past. And so there is good reason to hope and believe that justice will be done at last in this case of the people.

DOUBT NO LONGER EXISTS
The announcement that the indicted Chicago packers will not be tried until next fall does not indicate the speedy justice the public is expecting. But this delay may be of use in developing the policy of the trust while the cases are pending.

It has been remarked that when the beef trust has found its way into court and the defendant has been compelled to pay for its failure to observe the law it has immediately advanced the price of meat. There is no record that the price has since been reduced, so the Chicago yards have been paid many times by the public. This in itself shows the disposition of the combination, for there is no longer a doubt that such a combination exists. The fact that it has the power to control prices is sufficient evidence that it has gained the mastery in every branch of the business.

But the beef trust, like all other combinations of trade in this country, is controlled by men who are watching every detail of the precarious enterprise in which they are engaged, and public opinion is a factor with which it must deal. However, the inquiry at Chicago has been in progress so long that the public is very well acquainted with the fact, and there is every likelihood that the consumer will withhold all sympathy for the men who have been indicted, while the operations of the beef trust are such that a general demand for the vigorous prosecution of the indictments is probable, regardless of the price of beef may be.—Pittsburg Dispatch (Rep.).

GOVERNMENT HAS EVIDENCE
The Federal grand jury seems to have been more successful in its investigation of the beef trust than was Mr. Garfield. It has returned indictments against twenty-two individuals and four of the great packing firms, the charges being, in the main, that they have combined in restraint of trade, and have conspired to receive and grant rebates.

Of course, shall not be guilty of judging these men in advance. But it may fairly be said that, whether they are guilty or not, it is notorious that there has been practically no competition in the buying of cattle at the Chicago yards; while every buyer of beef knows that there has been no effective competition in the selling of beef. There is no reason whatever, except a monopolistic one, why the price of beef should be so high as it now and has been for months. Monopoly there is, somewhere.

Restriction of trade is plainly apparent. In regard to the grand jury inquiry, it is not so much the individuals as it is the fact that the men who control these immense properties are exceedingly great, and they will have the assistance of the most expert lawyers in defending the law in the courts.

YOUNG PRINCESS CANNOT WED THE MAN SHE LOVES

Princess Patricia May Wed the King of Spain Although She Loves a Captain in the Army

(Copyright, 1905, by the Hearst News Service.)
BY PAUL LAMBETH.
Special Cable to The Telegram.

LONDON, July 8.—Now that the Duchess of Connaught has got her daughter happily married to Prince Gustavus of Sweden, both she and the duke are trying their best to turn the thoughts of their other daughter, Princess Patricia, toward matrimony.

But try as they may it is extremely doubtful if the princess will be induced to marry King Alfonso of Spain, to whom she was distinctly cold during his majesty's recent visit. Even princesses occasionally resent being married to persons who do not even interest them, and in Princess Patricia's case there is a romance which accounts for her peculiarly obstinacy.

For the past two years, the princess, who is even more charming than her newly-married sister, has been deeply in love with a certain captain in the army who is also a royal aide-de-camp. The captain returned this affection with the greatest ardor, but both knew that a marriage was out of the question. Princess Victoria of Wales, Princess Patricia's cousin, who has formed several sentimental attachments herself, took the deepest interest in the romance, but the Duke and Duchess of Connaught strongly hinted to the captain that he had better seek a bride of his own rank.

The disappointing end of the romance is that the captain must now become engaged to a girl with a handsome dowry. Meanwhile the Princess Patricia is being diverted in every possible way, and nothing is being done to press her in regard to the Spanish marriage, of which nothing definite will be heard probably until next winter.

While the young Duchess of Roxburghe is every day increasing in popularity, her mother-in-law, the dowager duchess, is steadily losing favor at court.

The dowager has an uncomfortable habit of speaking her mind about the present court regime, of which she has never approved. She was an intimate friend of the late Queen Victoria, and more than once snubbed the king when he was Prince of Wales. This the king has never forgotten, and while his majesty always shows attention to the young duke and duchess, he only treats the dowager with formality.

To a recent court function the dowager received no card of "command." She waited patiently for half an hour, and then wrote to the Earl of Clarendon, whose painful duty it is to send out invitations. "I think there must have been some mistake," wrote the dowager, "as I have not yet received my command from his majesty." To which the unfortunate earl was compelled to reply: "Dear Duchess, I regret to find that there has been no mistake."

Theatrical Stars
Never before has London been invaded by such a galaxy of Parisian theatrical stars, and the privileged few who have had the stars before them, have not indiscriminately—derive the greatest possible amusement from watching the attitude of these same stars toward one another.

Le Bargy, who is so very much younger than any one of the others, is patronized and talked of as very promising indeed by her older sister artists, but when they all meet they literally fall on each other's necks in an orgy of mutual admiration.

The other day Le Bargy, Sarah Bernhardt, Rejane and Lignier were all present at a charity function, and caused immense amusement for the audience by their mutual friendship for each other. Rejane is not drawing such good houses as usual, but when she makes up for it by getting many engagements at private houses, for which she asks huge fees.

Le Bargy is, of course, not on her own time, as she is paid a salary by Mr. Alexander, but even the divine Sarah's bookings are not as big as they generally are.

Was the Wrong Man
There is a delightful story going the round of the clubs just now concerning a certain Freddie Morton of the Guards, who is very popular with the duchesses.

It appears that the Duchess of Devonshire sent him an invitation for her royal hall at Devonshire House, at which the king and queen were present, but, unfortunately, the invitation was directed to the wrong club, and reached the hands of another Freddie Morton, who is an octogenarian, very short sighted and equally hot tempered.

The old gentleman received a shock at such an invitation being sent him, as he had not been invited for twenty years to party of any kind. But, being a little flattered by this mysterious attention on the part of a duchess, he determined to go.

When he arrived he found he knew no one, and he wandered about, feeling very late and gloomy for some time.

Presidently Queen Alexandra spied him and said to her hostess: "Who is that poor, dejected old man? He does not seem to be talking to any one."

The duchess took the hint and went cheerfully up to the octogenarian, not knowing in the least who her guest might be.

"You don't seem to know many people here," began the duchess, kindly. "No, and by the look of 'em I don't want to," he smiled. Then he turned his back on the assembly and left.

TITLE OF COUNT IS OFFERED FOR SALE

Hard Times Induce Countess Esterhazy to Agree to Sell Title for $100,000

(Copyright, 1905, by the Hearst News Service.)
BY PAUL VILLIERS.
Special Cable to The Telegram.

PARIS, July 8.—Should young Rockefeller or any other young American millionaire want to become the bearer of the title and name of one of the oldest and bluest-blooded families of Europe there is a chance for him now in this city to acquire it for the modest sum of $100,000.

Countess Esterhazy, of the noble Hungarian family of that name, is willing to bestow the title upon any young man willing to pay her price.

She is at present living in the utmost poverty in a small hotel in a side street in this city. Here she told a newspaper reporter the sad story of her life a few days ago, and with tears in her eyes explained how much it had cost her to decide to make this sacrifice.

"My grandfather," she said, "was a marshal of the court of Poland and a cousin to King Stanislaus. Originally my family belonged to Hungary, and my father held exalted rank. He took part in many campaigns and had no fewer than six horses killed under him."

"My mother, although a French woman, was descended from an Irish family, and her father being one of the five hundred who accompanied Marie Stuart from France to Scotland. I was born titled and rich, but today, because of my marriage to a spendthrift of a Frenchman, I am penniless."

"After three years of married misery I got a divorce. I have nothing but my good name and my title. If there should be in America a family desirous of a title for their son, I am willing to sell mine."

"I invite investigation, for my title is an ancient and honorable one. I will part with it on $100,000 being deposited in my name. During my lifetime I shall be at liberty to dispose of it as I please, but my death the young man who bears the title will inherit the principal."

A Queer Law
Switzerland is decidedly not a country for the modern woman. She is not even allowed to quarrel with her husband. An English woman who had married a foreman of a large factory frequently quarreled with him, as she imagined she had a right to.

But she had not taken the authorities into consideration. After a few quarrels she received a warning not to do so, and as she did not heed it she was expelled from the country and escorted across the frontier by a gendarme.

Dead Soon Forgotten
How soon the dead are forgotten here in France. A few years ago Emile Zola, the famous author, was lionized by the people of France, and now who cares for his memory except his widow, and that although he gave away a large part of his fortune to charity.

The other day his widow, who is financially embarrassed, decided to dispose of part of his personal belongings at an auction sale at Meulan.

Barely two hundred people came, and the prices paid for things which had been at a high salary, for they are both in the lowest water financially.

She is said to be in time eclipse all the time, and she is in time eclipse all the time, and she is in time eclipse all the time.

Every time this young German singer has appeared she has received an ovation. Her notes are like those of Melba, but she is far "warmer" in her acting, and is young and good looking.

She has already engaged the great Caruso to sing and also Fraulein Selma Krutz, who has made all the other prima donnas at the Covent Garden opera house perfectly furious by her wonderful success.

During the short time King Alfonso was a guest in England a warm friendship sprang up between the two young men.

THE GERMAN EMPEROR FEARS HIS SOLDIERS

Many Cases of Insubordination Has Caused Him to Rule With Iron Hand

BERLIN, July 8.—With the greatest concern the kaiser and his government are following the events in Russia and especially in Russian Poland.

Should the rising of the people of Poland against Russian oppression be successful it is sure to have a strong effect in the Polish provinces of Prussia and Austria, where dissatisfaction with existing conditions is equally strong.

In view of a possibility of an uprising in the German Polish provinces strong forces of troops from other parts of the empire have been garrisoned there, but though their presence may tend to keep the Poles quiet at least for a time, the danger of an uprising which would cause the shedding of much blood is always there.

The many cases of insubordination in the German army and the increasing number of men believing in the theories of socialism, in the German army, is also a source of much anxiety to the military authorities and has resulted in increased penalties for insubordination.

The iron discipline is maintained in the army, but how long will it be possible to maintain it, when Russian soldiers, formerly equally well disciplined, are now so insubordinate as to refuse to submit to them.

Historian Passes Away.
One of the most original figures in German contemporary history, the kaiser's old teacher, Captain Sidney O'Daune, has just died in the asylum of which he was an inmate.

Of Irish descent, he was a captain in the Prussian army when he was chosen by the German Crown Princess, later Empress Friedrich, for the position of military teacher of her oldest son, the present kaiser.

In 1888 Sidney O'Daune suddenly appeared in Paris after a quarrel with Prince Bismarck, who drove him out of Berlin. His winning ways gained him many friends, and he was well received in official society.

But his movements, however, soon attracted the attention of the French war department, and he was suspected of being a spy, he was expelled from France and went to Switzerland.

PRISONERS BEAT DOWN CELL DOORS

Soldiers Compelled to Fire at Convicts Before They Would Return to Cells

LEMBERG, July 8.—Further details of the mutiny of the prisoners in the prison of Zloczow have now become known here in spite of the efforts of the authorities to keep them secret.

The prison cells are in the historic old castle, which is situated outside the city and which is surrounded with moats and walls nine feet thick.

At 9 o'clock in the evening a signal was given and all the prisoners simultaneously began to break down the doors and destroy the furniture of their cells.

The wardens were forced to retreat to the court yard, where they were bombarded with bricks and stones by the prisoners. Several prisoners escaped by the way of the roof and swam across the moat before the second story, which was taken by two companies of infantry surrounded the castle and fired on the prisoners before charging them with fixed bayonets.

The prisoners then barricaded themselves in the second story, which was taken by the soldiers only after a fight of three hours, during which two prisoners and one soldier were killed and an officer and many prisoners and soldiers were severely wounded.

The castle is still in the hands of the troops and all the prisoners are chained in their cells.

ANGERS, July 8.—Princess de Vitana-val has rented a small cottage near the prison in this city where she intends to spend the two years her husband still has to serve for swindling.

The princess was, before her marriage, Mlle. Louise Faure, one of the most beautiful actresses of Paris. She met the prince when he was in the heyday of his glory and when he, after losing his fortune, was sentenced for swindling, she refused to give him up. The couple were married in the prison chapel three weeks ago.

KING ALFONSO'S READY TONGUE MAKES FRIENDS

It Is Predicted That Spain's Young Ruler Will Become Most Popular Monarch in All Europe

(Copyright, 1905, by Hearst News Service.)
By the Marquis de Castellana.
Special Cable to The Telegram.

PARIS, July 8.—Since the visit of King Alfonso to Paris, there is no end to the stories told of the young monarch's ready tongue. Here is one which gives a good idea of his tact. As the young sovereign received a deputation of manufacturers and shopkeepers he noticed that, though French, they were all decorated with the order of Charles IV. of Spain.

"I see that you all wear the same decoration that I do, but with this difference, gentlemen—that yours have earned yours, whereas I got mine through no special merit of my own, as it was given to me among other royal presents, which I was born with."

Here is another good story about him. When he arrived at the ministry of foreign affairs, after the bomb outrage, he said: "It isn't true, you know, that I thought of giving an explanation; I only said that so as not to alarm the dear good Mr. Loubet."

The king's youthful air, his cheerful expression, and his merry ways, combined with a gift for making pretty speeches, won the hearts of the French public. It is safe to say that if he keeps on in his present way he will soon be the most popular monarch in Europe.

Undisputed Swan.
Countess Melanie Pourtales holds undisputed sway over fashionable Paris, and though other queens may come and go she is always the leader when it comes to organizing social entertainments. This year she has closed the season with a grand ball making pretty speeches, won the hearts of the French public. It is safe to say that if he keeps on in his present way he will soon be the most popular monarch in Europe.

A Sensational Novel.
Each year Countess Mathieu de Noailles produces a novel or a volume of poetry. Last year she acquired fame through the publication of a volume, which she entitled "Le Visage Emerveille," in which she showed us a young nun haunted by sentimental notions and engaged in all conceivable love intrigues.

This book had caused considerable scandal in the world to which the countess belongs, and, for that matter, in pretty much all intelligent circles in the French capital. But her latest production was a mere nothing as a shocker compared with her latest production, "Domination." Here the author shows us all the passions of which a man's heart is capable.

It is not necessary to point out that some of them are far from proper, and it must be admitted that, to say the least, Countess Mathieu de Noailles' last novel is very immoral. But they can't help it, the longer I live, the more convinced I become that women were created to be mothers, not writers.

Was King of Fashion.
In the last century the height of fashion was personified by a single individual. Count d'Orsay was the king of fashion during the reign of Louis Philippe. The Duc de Grammont-Cadrouse was the leader of swifdom.

For twenty consecutive years the Prince de Sagon was the foremost beau of the third republic. But nowadays things have changed, and no one man can call himself the leader of fashion. The social scepter has been divided, and several men wield a piece. Just now there are four gentlemen who aspire to raise the traditions of elegance of their former height. But they can't succeed—for the reason that they are too many.

However, we ought to appreciate their efforts, and it is only fair to state that among those who of late years have been most successful in this particular line are the bearers of most aristocratic names. They are: Prince Charles-Louis de Beauveau, Monsieur Leon de Laborde, Monsieur Andre de Fauquier.

The Latest Story.
Here is the latest story which is going the rounds of the Paris clubs. A yacht was sailing on the ocean when all of a sudden it came across a whale.

The passengers became alarmed. "Suppose it should attack us," said they; "we'd better throw over the Chinese cook to appease its appetite." They did, and the whale swallowed the Chinaman in one gulp and still pursued the vessel.

"Let's throw over the rotten oranges in the hold," said some one. This was done, and the oranges disappeared as the Chinaman had done. Then some one suggested feeding the whale with an iron bench which stood on the deck. When this was thrown overboard the whale gobbled it up without winking.

Passengers and crew were at a loss to know what they should next give the ravenous monster when some one was struck with a particularly happy idea. "Suppose," said he, "that we throw over the old peddler that we picked up at the last port."

As soon as the whale had gulped down this last morsel he turned over on his side and went to sleep. Seeing this, the crew harpooned the creature and hauled it aboard. They ripped it open and were astonished to see the peddler sitting on the iron bench and selling the rotten oranges to the Chinese cook.

DUKE CARL EDWARD, Of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha, the youngest of European sovereigns, who becomes of age July 19. The young Duke is English born, being a son of the late Duke of Edinburgh and a nephew of King Edward VII.

MARQUIS ITO, The "Hismarck of Japan," whose diplomacy will largely shape the Japanese procedure in the expected peace negotiations.

RAILROAD SPECIALS

CHEAPEST RATES TO COLORADO EVER KNOWN.

In view of the intense interest in Colorado's attractions this season, and the rather extraordinary demands for a cheap rate excursion for the benefit of vacationists, the Fort Worth and Denver City and the Houston and Texas Central roads have announced a rate from all Texas points to Pueblo, Colorado Springs and Denver and return, of but three-fourths of one fare for the round trip; tickets to be on sale July 9 and 10, with a limit of sixty days, and to be good for stop-over privileges at all points between Trinidad and Denver, in either or both directions.

This is really an extraordinary arrangement and one which will at once appeal to hundreds who could not visit that most interesting section under the higher rates ordinarily effective.

Anticipating an appreciation of the conditions related, it is understood the lines mentioned will have occasion to add considerable extra equipment to their trains of the 9th and 10th, including a tourist sleeper, and that arrangements to that end are perfected.

Rate from Houston will be $24.15; from Fort Worth, $18, and from all other points correspondingly low. For full information, Tourist sleeper rates from Fort Worth will be $2.50 per double berth, which may be used by two persons without extra cost.

ST. PAUL, MINNEAPOLIS AND DULUTH.

Via Chicago and Northwestern Railway Four magnificent fast daily trains from Chicago to St. Paul and Minneapolis and Duluth. The electric-lighted, Northwestern Limited and Duluth-Superior Limited to the Head of the Lakes, include all that skill and liberal expenditure can provide for comfortable and luxurious travel. Beginning July 1, round trip summer tourist tickets will be on sale daily from Chicago at the rate of $16 round trip to St. Paul and Minneapolis and $20 round trip to Superior and Duluth, with correspondingly low rates from all points. For full information apply to your nearest agent or address, A. L. Fisher, traveling agent, 823 Main street, Kansas City, Mo.

THE PACIFIC NORTHWEST.

A complete and interesting presentation of the scenic beauty and the rich natural resources and rapid growth of the Pacific Northwest are set forth in a beautiful illustrated booklet recently issued by the Chicago and Northwestern Railway, which will be sent to any address on receipt of 4 cents in stamps.

The Lewis and Clark Exposition with the very low excursion rates and personally conducted tours in connection therewith over The Northwestern Line from Chicago and St. Paul have created an interest in this subject never before equaled. For full particulars address W. B. Kniskern, P. T. M., 215 Jackson Boulevard, Chicago.

TO THE GREAT CRIPPLE CREEK DISTRICT.

The Midland Route is the only line running Observation cars on all trains to and from the Cripple Creek district. The scenic attractions of this line are unsurpassed in the world. Descriptive literature sent upon application to J. B. Wigenhorn, General Passenger Agent, Cripple Creek, Colo.

For trains of Saturday, July 8, the M. K. and T. railway will sell round trip tickets to Galveston at rate of $4.85. Train No. 3, leaving Fort Worth at 8:30 a. m. Saturday, July 8, will run through to Galveston, arriving there 10:40 p. m. No. 1, leaving Fort Worth at 5:50 p. m., will be run through to Galveston, arriving there at 7:40 a. m. The Katy Flyer leaves at 8:15 p. m., arrives Galveston 9:35 a. m.

$15 to St. Paul and Minneapolis and return from Kansas City via Chicago Great Western Railway. Tickets on sale daily to Sept. 30. Final return limit Oct. 31. For further information apply to J. H. Lyman, G. A., 7 West Ninth street, Kansas City, Mo.

On July 9 and 10 the Fort Worth and Denver City road will put on a special round trip rate of $18 to Denver, with a sixty-day limit and stopover north at Trinidad.

The Telegram's Great Popular Voting Contest

IN WHICH THE MANAGEMENT WILL SEND EIGHT YOUNG LADIES TO COLORADO FOR A TWO-WEEKS' VACATION, WITH ALL EXPENSES PAID, STARTED MAY 16.

The past week in this great Colorado Contest has been a very quiet one indeed, from a voting standpoint. This is thought to be due to the bad weather throughout the two territories and Texas, as some of the young ladies have written to the Contest Editor that they could not get out and work on account of the rainy weather. On page 5 of today's paper the prize winners in The Telegram's late Colorado Contest tell of their trip to Colorado. They are very interesting indeed, and should be read by each one of the young ladies in this contest. The eight winners in this contest can rely upon it that The Telegram and the people of Colorado will entertain them just as royally as these ten young ladies were. So hustle some votes now. There is not a young lady in the contest but what can win if she will exert her utmost efforts each day from now on until August 19. Now is the time to make your votes count. Get your friends interested in your behalf, and the battle is won. Now is the time for a long pull, a strong pull, and a pull all together.

How the Votes Count

For every cent received on subscriptions between now and midnight, Wednesday, May 31, five votes will be counted for the lady of your choice; four votes between May 31 and midnight, Friday, June 30; three votes from June 30 to Saturday, July 29, and two votes from July 29 to midnight, Saturday, August 19. The contest will close at midnight, Saturday, August 19.

Terms of Subscription

The Daily and Sunday, one year $6.00, counting the schedule number of votes for the lady of your choice; Daily and Sunday six months $3.25, counting the schedule number of votes for the lady of your choice; Daily and Sunday three months $1.75, counting the schedule number of votes for the popular lady of your choice; Daily and Sunday one month 65 cents, counting the schedule number of votes for the popular lady of your choice, and the Sunday only Telegram $2.00 per year, counting the schedule number of votes for the popular young lady of your choice.

AMATEURS WILL PLAY FOR CHAMPIONSHIP

United States Golf Association Issues Program for Championship Contests

NEW YORK, July 8.—The program of the annual national amateur golf championship has just been issued by the United States Golf Association. It is an important respect different from those of last year. The clause providing that "foreigners" who are visiting this country may be invited by the executive committee has been retained, but it has not been widened. The chief details follow:

The competition for the amateur golf championship of the United States, open to all golfers belonging to clubs which are members of the United States Golf Association, and to those foreigners visiting this country and who may be invited by the executive committee of the association, will be played on the course of the Chicago Golf Club, Wheaton, Ill., commencing Tuesday, Aug. 8, when the Havemeyer cup and four medals will be competed for under the rules of the United States Golf Association.

The winner of the competition shall be the champion amateur golfer for the year, and the cup shall be held for that year by the club from which the winner shall have entered. The winner shall receive a gold medal; the runner-up, a silver medal; the other four first prize bronze medals. The player making the lowest score in the qualifying round (thirty-six holes) shall receive a special prize.

The competition is to be played as follows: The contestants shall first compete at thirty-six holes, medal play, eighteen holes on the first and eighteen holes on the following day. The thirty-two players making the lowest scores on the thirty-six holes, medal play, shall then compete at eighteen holes, medal play, until the finals, which shall be played at thirty-six holes, medal play. In the event of a tie or ties for the last place in the medal play qualifying round, the contests so tied shall continue to play until one or the other shall have gained a lead by strokes at any hole or holes to be played out.

Competitors shall enter for the championship through the secretaries of their respective clubs. An entrance fee of $5 must accompany each entry and must be received by the secretary of the association not later than 6 p. m. Monday, July 31.

All entries are subject to the approval of the executive committee of the association and any entry may be rejected by the committee. All disputes shall be settled by the executive committee of the association, whose decision shall be final.

Any player who fails to appear at the tee within fifteen minutes of the time he is called to play, or whose competitors shall be dissatisfied for one reason satisfactory to the officials of the tournament be given.

Any person paying his entrance money shall be considered thereby to have submitted himself to the rules of the association, both as to restrictions enjoined and penalties imposed. On these conditions alone he is entitled to enjoy all of the privileges and advantages of the association competition.

All score cards in the medal play rounds must be kept in strict accordance with rule 4, special rules for medal play. Competitors failing to comply with the requirements of this rule will be disqualified.

The privileges of the club house and grounds are extended to all competitors in the championship for one week previous to the tournament.

The program follows:
Tuesday, Aug. 8—9 a. m., medal play round (eighteen holes).
Wednesday, Aug. 8—9 a. m., medal play round continued (eighteen holes).
Thursday, Aug. 10—9:30 a. m., first match play round (eighteen holes); 2 p. m., second match play round (eighteen holes).
Friday, Aug. 11—10 a. m., third match play round (eighteen holes); 2:30 p. m., fourth match play round (eighteen holes).
Saturday, Aug. 12—9:30 a. m., final match play (first round eighteen holes); 2:30 p. m., final match play round (second round eighteen holes).

WILL COVER MONEY AND DEFEND TITLE

Hackenschmidt Will Find Time to Wrestle All Aspirants to Title

LONDON, July 8.—Reports having been circulated to the effect that George Hackenschmidt was not prepared to defend his wrestling title, Mr. Hackenschmidt himself announces that he is willing to meet any of the men who have expressed a desire to test his catch-can skill. He makes the important but sportsman-like stipulation that the stakes must be put down. He has no intention of going in for gate money shows, but having adopted the catch-can style, he is prepared to defend his title to the championship for any reasonable amount. To a reporter Hackenschmidt said:

"I am booked up at one hall for the best part of the year and for 1906, but all the same I will find time to contest some matches. Considering my engagements and the position I hold in the wrestling world I think I should have a say in the matter of dates. If convenient I will, however, wrestle in Scotland—or London will suit me—any place, indeed, where the contest can be decided in a satisfactory manner. I will meet or have my representative meet—any aspirant for the championship and will at once cover the money. I have been blamed in the past for not wrestling in the catch-can style. Now I will place no obstacle in the way of a contest under these rules; therefore I hope those who have been so ready to challenge will now come forward and get to business. My check is ready and waiting."

Charley Mitchell Says Plucky English Fighter Did Not Do Himself Justice

LONDON, July 8.—In a letter to Jabez White, Charley Mitchell states that there will be plenty of money for the Birmingham boxer when he meets Britt again. He, in conjunction with many others, considers that White did not do himself justice on the occasion of his meeting with the Ben Wrestling man. Before leaving England White was induced to invest in some public house property, which utterly failed to come up to his expectations, and the investment caused him heavy losses. The months of worry he experienced told upon him, and did not tend to increase his chances for success. Falling Britt, Jabez can have a match with "Batting" Nelson at an early date for $5,000 a side. Other engagements await him during his second visit, which it is said, will not take place within the next two or three months.

ABOUT BOOKS!

BY J. MONTGOMERY BROWN

"The Beautiful Lady," by Booth Tarkington; illustrated, 12 mo. McClure, Phillips & Co.

In the field of the novelette, Mr. Tarkington shows at his best. He expends an artistry upon the shorter piece of fiction that is not to be approached by any American author writing today. He has learned to polish and polish applied to an original situation is most likely to end in something worth contemplation.

The singular episode upon which this little story hangs at once arrests and keeps in custody the attention. The masterly play of humorous and pathetic emotion, the delicate satire and the secure touches of characterization all go to make a volume that leaves a pleasant memory of its perusal. One feels reluctant to lay it aside, yet is convinced that a would have been involved in a further expansion. Only a glimpse of Paris life, a dinner in Italy, a beautiful American girl, and the son of an American millionaire, a Neapolitan prince, and his scorned half-brother—Mr. James might have vainly devoted two volumes to a treatment of this theme, in "tily" English. Mr. Tarkington uses literary English, and wastes no words—each scene, each person, counts.

"The Freedom of Life," by Annie Payson Call, is the sort of book to put into the hands of the nervous man or woman who indulges in worry and who finds it nerve-racking to adjust themselves to circumstances. The basis of the author's essays is her theory that "interior freedom rests upon the principle of non-resistance to all the things which seem evil or painful to our natural love of self," but behind it must be a very strong love for righteousness and truth. Miss Call writes well. Her book contains suggestive, helpful advice for all sorts and conditions of men, for she deals with the subject of nerves and the power of thought. Her philosophy is sound, practical, health-building and far-reaching. Among a hundred quotable ideas she says "it isn't the work that there are chapters on How to Sleep Restfully; Resistance; Hurry; Worry and Irritability; Nervous Fears; Self-Consciousness; Personal Independence; Self-Control, and the Religion of It, $1.25. (Little, Brown & Co.)

"The Breath of the Gods," by Sydney McCall; cloth, 12 mo. $1.50. Little, Brown & Co., Boston.

There is a vivid Japanese coloring in "The Breath of the Gods." The heroine is Yuki, a Japanese girl, and many of the strong scenes are laid in Japan. But there is no sacrificing of the dramatic story to an attempt at exposition; Japan is not an aim, but an incident. The local Asiatic color is used as spontaneously as was the southern color in "Truth Dexter." And yet it is in the sidelights which the author throws upon the manners and customs of the Asiatic Islanders, their intense patriotism, the strength of their love, the tenacity of their social and religious ideals that a great service has been rendered. It has been remarked of many books of Japan, even recent ones, that they give little to explain the extraordinary phenomenon, recently disclosed, of Japanese endurance, resourcefulness and heroism. In "The Breath of the Gods" these traits are the very terms in which the story is told. In brief, it may be said of the book that it brings together adequate elements from that east and that west which, in the shrinking of the world, are so fast becoming one.

"The Master Mummer," by E. Phillips Oppenheim, cloth, 12 mo. $1.50. Little, Brown & Co., Boston.

"The Master Mummer" is the title of a new novel by that popular English writer, E. Phillips Oppenheim, whose previous published stories, "Mysterious Mr. Sabin," "Anna, the Adventuress" and "A Prince of Sinners," have been widely read. Mr. Oppenheim knows how to keep his readers thoroughly entertained, and this new story will be counted among his most successful mysteries. It has an ingenious plot, and a steady stream of romantic and dramatic incidents, with pretty touches of sentiment. The story opens with the rescue of a charming girl from a wicked baronet. Thereafter the readers have work enough for their hands and wits in defending Isabel de Sorrens from her enemies, who are persons in high places, entirely unscrupulous.

leous and audacious. The description of Isabel's happy life in the studio with her three self-appointed guardians, the mystery that surrounds her, her strange experiences, and her ultimate fate, are all skilfully set forth, and will be found of absorbing interest to those who love a story of action and romance. In construction, management, style and variety of incident, "The Master Mummer" is one of the best stories of its kind that has appeared.

LITERARY NOTES OF INTEREST

In these days of "Confessions," one is not surprised to hear that among the books soon to be published will be "The Confessions of Lord Byron." Just now, when Byron is a popular hero in new fiction, a role in which he seems more especially favored than in that of a great English poet, this is singularly appropriate. Its compilation by W. A. Lewis Bettany and its publication have been well-timed, to say the least. Nevertheless we feel that we shall be unable to view it with other than interest when it arrives.

Appropos of the differences between James H. Metcalf, the dramatic critic of Life, and the theatrical trust, the New York legislature is considering a bill forbidding the exclusion of any person from a licensed place of amusement without just cause. If the bill is passed, it will be a question for the courts to decide, whether adverse criticism of the plays or their management, is reason for preventing a person from following his legitimate profession.

It seems that the characters in "The Golden Flood," by Edwin Lefevre, are big Wall street figures whom Mr. Lefevre in his position as financial editor of the New York Globe has had a chance to meet personally. It has been suggested that Richard Dawson, the banker, to whom young Grinnell goes with his deposits of millions in gold, has a prototype in James R. Stillman; the Mellons are supposed to correspond to the Rockefellers, and Isaac Herzog is, in all probability, Jacob Schiff.

Filipino students at the University of California are making plans for the publication of a magazine which will contain only articles by Filipinos. Felipe Buencamino, whose father was secretary of state under Aguinaldo, is one of the leaders in the project. The boys hope to circulate 10,000 copies in the Philippines.

James Jeffrey Roche, author of "The Sorrows of Sap'ed," has been appointed by the president to be consul to Genoa. Mr. Roche is an editor, as well as author. He succeeded John Boyle O'Reilly in the control of the Boston Mot. It is his intention to devote his spare time to literary work while abroad.

According to George Ade and the Society of Authors of the Hoosier State, Indiana boasts of 22,837 literary geniuses. Mr. Ade gave out the statistics before the Periodical Publishers' Association, which held a meeting recently at Lakewood, and classified them as follows: Historical novelists, 8,903; dialect poets, 6,297; magazine poets, 1,625; real poets, 430; dramatists, 1,216; syndicate humorists, 674; short story writers, 3,323. Unlike the ending of most of the humorists' fables, he failed to draw a moral.

Maxim Gorky is a good business man as well as a great writer. Though the fact is by no means well known, he is at present at the head of one of the largest publishing concerns in St. Petersburg, a firm which goes by the name of the Knowledge Publishing Company, and it is said that in the few years during which he has been thus engaged he has made some $125,000 out of it.

Compressing 300,000 newspapers by hydraulic machinery, an Austrian inventor has constructed a yacht of the material thus obtained, complete in every detail, and no less than sixteen feet in length. Everything about the little vessel is of paper—not only the hull, but the masts and even the sails. The Paris Auto vouches for the fact that the yacht is not a mere toy, but a real vessel capable of fulfilling all the requirements of any ship of similar size.

Captain Harry Graham, author of "Misrepresentative Men," a second edition of which has been issued by Fox, Duffield & Co., has lately been appointed secretary to Lord Rosebery. The ex-premier's partiality for Americans has long been a subject of comment and may be said to be signalized here still further in his choice of an Englishman who so thoroughly understands the spirit of American humor as "Colonel D. Streamer."

Notwithstanding the honor in which harakira is held in Japan the proportion of suicides there is comparatively few—177 per million, to 246 in France, 238 in Italy, 233 in Switzerland and 206 in Germany.

There Shall be Wars

AND RUMORS OF WARS!

MANY of us live today who well remember the three fierce battles which were fought at Bull Run, Chancellorsville and Gettysburg, in which so many precious lives were offered as a sacrifice for our dear country. But my friends, the battle which is on today, and will continue to be for the whole of July at The Daylight Store, is even more and more fierce. It's a fight to the finish and to the quick. It's a Midsummer Clearance Fight in which every vestige of summer goods must go, even though it cost bloodshed. Our store was crowded all last week with eager buyers, notwithstanding the rainy weather, and we sold quantities of good merchandise at a small price, but our stock is not yet hurt, and Monday morning will find many new things added in each department which will doubly add to your advantage in buying good goods at a cheap price such as only The Daylight Store keeps.

About 250 yards left out of three large lots of Organdies which were very fine and sold at 25c, 35c and 50c per yard, go in this fierce Battle selling at .12 1/2c

Belding Brothers Embroidery Silk Floss Goes in This Battle Winning Sale, at Per Shein 2c

Another shipment of Baskets, the kind you won't find outside of this house. The strong, short, durable Basket; the pretty work Basket; the lunch Basket; the traveling Basket; in fact any kind of a Basket, and they all go in this big sale at, up from 15c

Another Embroidery sale. One would think, we would get tired of measuring it off, we have sold so much; but we have got plenty of it and are going to sell it, so here it comes in this battlefield, 10c Embroideries for, per yard .....3c

20 pieces 40-inch snow white Lawn just came to our rescue and came in time to be a reinforcer. But it won't last long, it's too cheap. It's the 12 1-2c kind and goes in the fight at, per yard .....9c

The best 25c Stocking in the world for children. But we are a little overstocked in this one number and so they go in this big battle fighting at a straight price .....15c

The most beautiful line of White Waists ever brought to Fort Worth and the reason we know it is because our customers say so, and they are right. New, but they, too, go at up from ..50c

The past week's freight brought us another 50 Trunks. We sometimes wonder where all the Trunks we sell go to; we never hear of going to pieces. It's the quality we handle, that's why. But this lot goes to the great battlefield, at up from ..$3.95

Covered Silk Sofa Cushions, the clean, soft kind, the sort that you can't tell from the real down kind and only cost one-third the price; all sizes, go in this big Battle Sale, at up from ..19c

THE FASHIONS OF PARIS
The general keynote of the season's dresses is, clear, pale colors, simple shades and soft, wide, undulating skirts, says Edouard La Fontaine, in the August delineator. The materials are generally finer than those approved last year. The leading color is white, in various shades—pure white or chalk, sand, twine, and so forth; then comes blue, in numerous gradations from the palest flag flowers to the bright bluebell. Pale pink is in great favor and always gives a refined aspect. There can be no doubt that the tendency of the current fashions is to enhance the beauty of the waist line. This brings us back to more closely fitted busts and hips and to wider skirts. The practice of combining laces of various origins was started last year, but general approval has insured its success for this season. Effective, thick flowers in Irish lace on a background of Valenciennes produce a very pleasant and varied impression. Eyelet embroidery of a somewhat elaborate pattern can also be matched with lace, and one of the most graceful creations of the season is a lace princess gown having toward the lower edge a broad incrustation of muslin, on which blue roses were painted by hand. Among hats, the most popular model is the small plateau boldly tilted over the face and profusely trimmed under the brim with choux of tulle and velvet bows, and adorned on top with beautiful natural appearing flowers. The recent fashion of bold coiffures and audaciously tilted hats cleared the way toward the acceptance of hats with larger crowns, and adorned on top with beautiful natural appearing flowers. ST. PETERSBURG, July 8.—To the horrors of unsuccessful war and the widespread revolution, Russia, it now seems certain, is to suffer the torments of a famine.

In the northern provinces of the empire crops have been destroyed by long-continued and very severe drouths. In the south and east the unrest among the inhabitants and the many disorders which have occurred has so demoralized the people that the grain crops there have suffered severely while the use of the Siberian railroad for military purposes for the past year or more have made it impossible for the growing agricultural interests in Asiatic Russia to get their products to market profitably and they have therefore curtailed their crops. The situation in many parts of the empire is said to be serious already and that there will be great suffering cannot be doubted.

THE LATEST FASHION FANCIES.

The Formal Side of Summer Gowning

A GARDEN PARTY GOWN.

THE summer hotel plays a very important part in the current fashions, so large, indeed, that one wonders if Dame Fashion herself ever takes a vacation. Seemingly her votaries never do, for the stream of fashion "flows unceasingly on" from year's end to year's end. Ever it is new gowns, and newer occasions on which to wear them.

The old-time novelties used to declare that women dressed to please the men, and they used to reiterate this announcement until, by sheer force of repetition, doubtless many of them even came in time to believe it themselves. If only some of them could be resurrected and planted down at any one of the fashionable summer hotels their old-time opinions would, perforce, undergo a radical change.

The paucity of the masculine element at these resorts has long been food for the comic papers. The one lone man at Lonesomehurst-by-the-Sea has been doing duty so long that it is time—high time—he was pensioned off for long and meritorious service, and in his absence it will be seen but too truly that women dress more for one another than they do for any mere man. To see and to be seen is, doubtless, the raison d'être of their sojourn at many of these places, for there is little there to do and less to see, unless they confine their attentions to the doings and the wearings of their fellow-guests.

However, all this is delightfully managed under the guise of entertainments, and entertainments, of course, mean toilettes suited to the especial needs and character of their kind. There are picnics when the smart linen gown is worn, and here the hatless fad is indulged in to the full, the smart cuff and hairnet serving to keep midday's tresses in order. There are luncheon parties where one's frilly lingerie frocks, with their dainty ribbons, sashes and adornments fill in the picture, and where each guest strives to outdo the other in the matter of costly simplicity.

The tea-gown is in great vogue at all of the summer resorts. The cottage element at so many of the fashionable hostelrys get together and have tea served in the seclusion of the screened piazza, and the most bewitching confessions make their appearance at this hour. The sleaz is fast becoming a popular institution for the warm hours of the afternoon, and when that is over what more delightful to slip into than a tea-gown that is right up to the very latest moment in the matter of chic and grace and style?

The less lucky sojourners at the hotel, however, are not a whit behind their cottage neighbors. They form little cliques among themselves, and, donning their tea-gowns, have tea served in some one or another of their sitting-rooms.

Bridge whist parties have reached such a point of popularity that the special signs in coats, flimsy lace, and almost negligee affairs, are gotten up expressly for wear at bridge parties. Bridge coats, as they term them, take the lines of dinner coats, rather than of the negligee type that is known as the coffee or breakfast jacket. The throat is usually open, fronts rolled back to display a most elaborate vest, and the skirted part is irregular at the lower edge, so that the figure is not cut into two unequal halves by the line of demarcation between coat and skirt.

Dinner is really a social function at all resorts, no matter what their excuse for existence may be. Of course, they are all supposed to be primarily for health, but fashion is the real, unacknowledged reason for the existence of most of them. The toilette for dinner is the most elaborate of the day, and when there is a dance to follow very often the ball gown makes its appearance at dinner, too. This, however, is not always followed, since the fashion of dining en decolletage is one that has not received much public approval on this side of the water. Many matrons who would not consider themselves suitably gowned for a private dinner unless the gown were cut low, and generously low at that, will hesitate to don the same garment for the public dining room of a hotel; but, nevertheless, some few hours later she will not scruple to wear that same decolletage to the ball-room that may be, and often is, under that very same roof! A distinction without a difference. But then this is one of the most elusive of Dame Fashion's many charms, and those who are well versed in their elucidation are the ones who never make a mistake or are guilty of the crime sartorial of wearing the wrong toilette at the right time.

The dancing frocks that are presented for this summer's entertainments are really pictures in the artistic way in which they employ silks and laces, chiffons and ribbons in their construction, and even the least expensive materials are made up with a lavishness which atones for, if it does not entirely wipe out, the original inexpensiveness of the gown.

Dainty Summer Wraps.

Extremely fancy capes—all those so far want of a better and more descriptive title—are among the latest things in summer wraps. Delightfully frivolous and coquettish-looking little things they are:

and very far removed from the dowdy and matronly garment that we used to know as a dress cape.

The newest ones are usually planned on suite with the gown, and in this way are intended to complete the three-piece costume which Dame Fashion dictates as her latest caprice. In silk, in linen, and in the lighter woolsens—cellulose, henrietta and such—they add just that last touch that makes the outdoor toilette a finished picture.

There is simply no limit to the designs in these, and but one feature is common to them all, and that is brevity.

The outline is extremely irregular. Laces, particularly the heavy and effective kinds, are used lavishly, and fantastic folds and fringes are the accepted mode for trimming the edges.

Some of them are very cleverly fashioned to admit of the simulation of a sleeve in the shoulder portion, the fulness most often being merely tacked together to let the arm slip through. Some of the shorter ones have the line lengthened and built out over the arm, this part merely lying flat on the dress sleeve, and there being no protrusion whatsoever of the usual arm covering.

Toilettes for Dinner and Promenade.

DINNER GOWN IN PINK TAFFETAS
Ribbon and lace are effectively used to supplement the silk in this smart gown. The bodice is cut slightly round, a wreath of ribbon flowers defining the decolletage, and the deep bertha of Limerick lace, trimmed with tiny ruffles of pale pink velvet ribbons. The skirt is tucked over the hips, and at knee depth a dounce is introduced, the exquisitely fine Limerick lace being used for a heading to the skirted and corded dounce that is attached slightly lower down. The shirring is done over cords of the featherbone and follows wavy lines. The center of the skirt is pink ribbons that exactly match the taffetas in tint, and the deep point in front is cleverly offset by the little touch of jeweled lace that is tucked in across the top.

SUITABLE FOR MANY OCCASIONS.

A soft shade of rose pink, or, rather, rose red, for it shows more red than pink, taffetas is used for this smart frock, which, however, is simple enough in point of construction. The bodice follows surplus lines, pleated lace and shirred bands, both making and defining the vest portion, and the full folds are drawn into a cleverly constructed belt that fastens at the side. The sleeves show a shirred top puff, and a deeper one slit in front to display an under puff of lace, and the cuff likewise is of this same lace. The skirt is tucked all around the top, the tucks released below the curve of the hip, and at the knee an insertion of broad lace, with a ruffled lace heading, is employed, the finishing circular dounce of silk being applied to this, with a ruffled heading that is cleverly festooned at intervals.

A GARDEN PARTY GOWN.

Looking as though it had been copied from some old family portrait, this dainty gown of mousseline imprimé, chiffon and satin ribbons is just the thing for the many garden parties that punctuate the summer months. The style is that of the Directoire period, the printed and embroidered mousseline de sole forming a long jacket effect that is cut away in front to display the skirt or petticoat of white chiffon, laid in deep pleats, and trimmed with lace and tucks and ribbon from knee to hem. The mousseline de sole is black, printed with a large rose pattern in pinks and yellows, with the green of the foliage offering a pretty relief. A silk dot, also black, is thickly scattered over the entire surface, and the mousseline is so transparent that the petticoat of white gleams through clearly.

The neck is cut round, and a heavy black lace collar posed on the shoulders. Broad revers are arranged in the front, and the shortwaisted effect, characteristic of the style, is emphasized in the snub of black satin ribbon that is passed loosely around the waist to tie at the left side of the front with many tasselled ends.

LATEST NOVELTIES OF FASHION. Some New Arrivals and Some Resurrections.

The cynic that declared that "there is nothing new under the sun" should immediately enroll himself in the ranks of fashion devotees, or, better still, marry one of them, and he would renounce that blasphemous insinuation, and perhaps even be induced to make public recantation of it.

The most fascinating thing about fashion is, or are, her ever recurring surprises—something original, always startling in spite of the many who nod their heads wisely and reiterate "I told you so." Some of the innovations of the current season have both originality and artistic merit to commend them. Witness the dawning vogue for embroidered laces. We have had embroidered laces before, that is true; but this last and latest development can surely claim that it has not been done to death in some other connection already.

Laces with a bold and well-defined pattern are what lend themselves best to this new vogue. Floral designs are, perhaps, the best choice, for then the floral colorings may be carried out in the dull and faded tones of ribbons that have always maintained for such work. The idea is copied from the exquisite gowns of Marie Antoinette, made of the richest of silks and satins, and elaborately encrusted with the ribbon embroideries in exquisite tones, the design being supplemented with tiny spangles and mock jewels.

This same class of work is used to decorate the fine laces that ornament gowns for formal, and oftentimes informal occasions as well. Any girl who has any eye for color and some skill with the needle can readily reproduce the most expensive of these and be assured of a possession that will not soon become de-mode because of a too enthusiastic acceptance. The work is best mounted in a regular embroidery frame; not the little round ones that one may carry in the hand, but rather the oblong ones that will accommodate at least half a yard at the time, for perspective has a great deal to do with the success of this work. The Parisiennes excel in this, and they employ a regular embroidery frame or table, mounted upon a standard, and plan the color schemes and combinations so that they will not present a blurred and confused mass of color when viewed from a distance.

There is a very decided vogue for the combination and blending of several materials in the one gown. It is no uncommon thing to observe silk and lace and chiffon and velvet and ribbon, all cleverly combined in the one costume, and that without the slightest hint of patchiness or of short remnants utilized, either. That it takes quite some cleverness in designing and in matching colors and planning color combinations goes practically without saying; but when it is well done the result is always delightful, never bizarre.

In this connection one might instance a crepe de chine princess gown. The top part, what one might describe as the guimpe, is altogether of a ribbon encrusted lace, the fanciful edge of the dentelle making an irregular outline. To this white chiffon is applied in deep pleats, and this chiffon just reaches to below the bust. Here the gown proper commences, a dull blue crepe de chine, the crepe applied in deep side pleats that can easily be manipulated into the closely fitting lines that this mode demands. The crepe extends unbroken to the knee, where the lace and chiffon begin again, and the lower dounce is entirely of the crepe, laid in deep pleats, or, nun's folds, so that a better contour at the hem is thus attained. The fastening is in the back, and all up the line of closing there are little square bows of a dull blue velvet, making an escalier or ladder. The whole presents a picture of color harmony, the white chiffon, blue velvet and crepe, the ribbon embroideries following the dull blue and rose and lavender shades that are each one of the complement of the other; a mass of conglomerate materials brought into artistic harmony.

The coat bodice is demanding much attention of the fashionables. It is already an old told tale to those who can afford to order their gowns "irregardless," as Mrs. Burdington says, of number or price from the best makers of the mode. There are long ones, short ones and the ones that will fit in between. They are variously of lace, of ribbons, of allover embroidery of silk, of satin and of velvet, and examples are not lacking where henrietta is used and liberally trimmed with velvet ribbons.

That they are all of the fitted variety goes without saying, and the addition of open fronts that are to be filled in at will make them possible for more than one use, more than one occasion. The sleeve may be long, or it may be short. This is a matter of individual preference, but it must be admitted that the elbow sleeve makes for a far more dressy garment than does the familiar full-length arm covering.

One of the most favored decorations for the full skirts that are so much in vogue are round pastilles of silk or velvet, applied with button-holing directly to the fabric. The velvet is usually of the chiffon variety, while when silk is used it is either chamelon or plaided. These round coils or pastilles are mounted upon canvas or crinoline. When applied with button-holing the edges are left raw, the foundation cut in a trifle from the edge; but when they are to be attached lavishly the edges are turned under, and the catching stitch is applied from the underside of the goods. Graded sizes make the best impression in this mode, the larger ones at the edge and the size diminishing from the hem upwards.

It is quite a necessity for the dressy woman to have a very marked change in the little neckpieces—the tours de cou, as they are termed in France—with which she completes her toilet for carriage or street. The ostrich feather is restored to the high place it occupied for so long; but the new bows are quite different to the long, round length that were once the sole presentation of this fascinating and almost universally becoming item. There are several small strands caught together into one long scarf, this making for a very flexible adjustment; and the tips are finished tassels, shaded to a lighter coloring than prevails in the rest of the bow.

MODISH GOWN OF OLD BROCADE.

THE MODE IN EMBROIDERED LINEN.

Varying Modes for Various Occasions

MODISH GOWN OF OLD BROCADE.

Those who can afford them are ordering many of the old brocades made up into gowns—gowns that follow the very latest mode and upon which almost priceless lace is lavished for adornment. The brocade illustrated is in an ivory ground with a design in dull silver and gold threads wrought on the dull lustrous background. This dull lustre is typical of the old fabrics and one especially suited to the exploitation of the precious metal threads. The corsage is of the swathed order, the material shirred in the seams and seemingly drawn closely around the body. The decolletage is draped with an effective square of Chartres lace, this disposed in handkerchief points, and the wreaths on the design outlined with a pear-shaped silver spangle.

THE MODE IN EMBROIDERED LINEN.

The English eyelet-work is cleverly wrought into the design of this linen frock, the large centers of the pattern being filled in with contrasting Irish crochet, this making for a very smart effect, indeed. The coat is one of those affairs in which both front and back are hung loosely from the shoulders and the sleeves attached to a skeleton lining. This allows for the broadened effect at the shoulders, which is such a desideratum in all of the summer frocks. The sleeves are short and loose, ending at the elbow to display the ultimate cut of baby Irish lace which decorates the smart blouse beneath. The skirt has an embroidered panel down the center front and the sides and back are arranged in double box pleats, these stitched a short distance over the hips, and then well pressed to the hem.

PRINCESSE GOWN WITH EMBROIDERED LACE.

The princess mode is one that grows daily in favor, especially for the frock intended to grace formal occasions. In the illustration the old ivory shade crepe de chine is supplemented with white lace, the pattern of which is brought out with ribbon embroideries. These are in the dull and faded tones of pink, green and lavender that are so much in vogue in this connection. The gown is lined with embroideries for an irregularly shaped yoke, to which white chiffon is piled in pleats, and just below the crepe de chine is employed in finishing the body part. The wrought lace covers the point of joining, and the crepe is laid in side pleats that much facilitate fitting process. At the knee the crepe de chine is again interposed, and this is hung loosely from the shoulders and the sleeves attached to a skeleton lining. This allows for the broadened effect at the shoulders, which is such a desideratum in all of the summer frocks. The sleeves are short and loose, ending

Toggery for the Rest Hour

Written especially for this paper.

Every woman who has any social demands whatsoever upon her time knows that every day must have its rest hour, when she may forget the world and free herself from every restraint and worry. This is a little golden hour when tired brains recuperate and eyes regain their brightness. The rest would lose half its charm for Milady were she to don some tawdry, unattractive garment which would banish all feeling of daintiness. On the contrary, the "idle-moment" toggery must be almost more delightful than any other kind, and where feminine ingenuity and clever fingers work together, the results are bewilderingly pretty. This part of the wardrobe appeals with especial force to womankind during the warm days of summer, when a relief from the collar and fitted gown is one of the most enjoyable moments of the day. Aside from its comfort, the negligee is a garment of vast becomingness. If it does not succeed in making the wearer look ravishingly lovely, the blame cannot be laid to these dainty French creations. By all the laws of art and beauty, even a plain woman should gain tenfold loveliness when robed in the filmy folds and laces of this graceful garment.

Perhaps the most charming negligees of the hour are the elaborately trimmed petticoats of silk or lingerie worn with dainty jackets. The silk petticoats are a vast improvement upon their predecessors, being gored as carefully as an outside skirt so as to fit perfectly about the hips and flare at the bottom and at the back. Many of the new models show ruffles in back from hem to waistline. These hold out the skirt and remind one very much of the old-time "tilter." All petticoats are shorter than formerly, giving opportunity to reveal the pretty footgear which Milady dons as a relief from the barbarous high heel. It would be impossible to detail the countless modes in matinees and dressing-sacks, but an exaggerated shortness evident in most of them lends a jaunty youthfulness to the wearer. On the prettiest ones the yoke is definitely outlined, and from this ruffles or full flounces fall to the waistline. Many of the more elaborate matinees begin with a kilted silk foundation over which a thin lace or net is hung.

For the warm summer days there are very pretty washable jackets of flowered batiste or lawn with scalloped ruffles and ties of ribbon matching the flowers in color. These may be fashioned at home, and contribute much toward the summer rest and pleasure. The French batiste is especially adaptable for these as it comes in the most delicate and alluring shades and washes like long-cloth. The finer stripes and patterns are far more dainty and attractive than the more striking designs, and for hot weather, the more delicate the color, the better. The French and German Valenciennes laces are durable and effective trimmings.

Frocks for Little Folks

What a world of fetching frocks Mistress Fashion has created for the little men and maids. They never seemed more lovable than in the simple little gowns of the present time. And this is as it should be, for simplicity is the essence of child-life. Nothing could be more inappropriate than elaboration or rich stuffs in children's dresses, even for the most ceremonious occasions. Serge, cheviot and canvas are the most suitable fabrics for rough-and-ready wear all the year around, while the light wools, voile, albatross, henrietta, poplin and cashmere are very serviceable for the cool days of summer, spring and fall. The very best frock may be of crêpe de Chine, mull, batiste or lawns, while cashmere, challis, pongee and linen wear and wash well and make over into something else.

There is a fascination about modes for the little people which even older people's clothes do not possess. No. 3038 portrays a smart little gown of pongee, with full front, collar and under-sleeves, when used, of India mull. Two straps connect the fronts and the same effect is obtained in the sleeve. A shaped yoke appears in back and at the sides of the front. The skirt is a round gathered one finished with a stitched belt of the material. Serge or cheviot might be used to develop this gown and prove very serviceable for all-year-around wear. The pattern is very simple and easily put together. For a medium size, it requires 3 3/4 yards of 36-inch material. The pattern, No. 3038, is in 5 sizes, 2 to 10 years.

Here is another bargain in patterns for tiny folks. A member of the household whom we all love and cannot forget is the wee person who does not bother his head about clothes, but for whom mother is always planning and keeping her fingers busy plying the needle. During Baby's first days, his wardrobe must be quite as complete as his devoted mother can find time to make it. To fashion such tiny daintiness is a work of delight, and the patterns shown here will assist many a mother to make the small clothes with little trouble. The dress has a round tucked yoke and neck and sleeves edged with embroidery for its only adornment. The tiny kimono will find use almost every hour in the day to protect the delicate little person from sudden cold and change of temperature. The petticoat consists of a full gathered skirt and a body part, and requires 1 3/4 yards of flannel and 3/4 yard of muslin. Lawn, mull or nainsook will serve for the dress, while some soft French or outing flannel would develop the kimono. The dress requires 2 3/4 yards of 36-inch material and the kimono 7/8 yard. As a special opportunity, these four patterns in the outfit, No. 2737, may be obtained at the price of one.

No. 3024 shows a new design in blouse and knickerbockers for a lad who has not yet reached the age of trousers. This same boy needs many suits to keep him looking trim, and the economical mother will fashion these of durable fabrics. These frocks must be loose and free, ready for the rough and tumble which characterize the real boy. This design has broad plaits in front and back turned to resemble a triple box plait. The shaped collar is decidedly new, being tailor-stitched and fastening at one side of the front. A shield or chemisette finishes the neck and a belt of the material or leather holds the plaits in long-waisted effect. The fullness of the sleeves is retained at the wrist in tiny tucks. The knickerbockers are full at the waist and knee, being run with tape or elastic. Blue serge or blue or white butchers' linen will develop this suit for service. For a medium size, 2 3/4 yards of 36-inch material are necessary. The pattern, No. 3024, comes in 4 sizes, 2 to 8 years.

Fill in blank spaces carefully, enclosing 10 cents for each pattern ordered.

COTTON LEAK NOT CLOSED INCIDENT

Attorney General Moody Considering Facts Developed During Investigation

PRESIDENT TO HEAR FROM

Opinion of United States District Attorney in Matter Not Accepted

OSTYER BAY, N. Y., July 10.—It is regarded as not unlikely that criminal prosecution will result from the investigation of the cotton report leak in the department of agriculture.

The subject has not yet been presented to the President in a formal way, although he is familiar with most of the details of the inquiry.

United States District Attorney Beach of Washington was of the opinion, after a cursory examination of part of the evidence, adduced in the investigation that criminal proceedings could not be maintained against the former Assistant Statistician, Holmes, who is alleged to have profited by giving advance information of the condition of the cotton crop to certain brokers.

The department of justice is not inclined to accept this view of the case. While no decision to institute criminal proceedings has been reached, the subject is being considered by Attorney General Moody, who will later take the matter up with the President.

No visitors of importance had engagements to see the President today.

WILSON SAYS HE'D WELCOME SUIT

Secretary of Agriculture Says He Has Nothing to Take Back Regarding Cotton Leakage Report

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 10.—That Secretary Wilson intends to take no step backward in his report on the cotton leakage investigation is evidenced by his today's statement that he is not afraid of any libel suit which might be filed against him by Mr. Price or others mentioned in the report. In fact he said he would welcome such action because it might be the means of developing such facts not already uncovered and which it is desirable to know.

"This is a quarrel among gamblers," he said, "brought about by dissatisfaction from them in not getting what they thought was their due. I have nothing to take back. As head of an executive department of the government, it was my duty and right to give to the public the result of the investigation by secret service agents into the charges which had been filed leading up to the dismissal of Mr. Holmes."

The secretary added that he had given consideration to Mr. Price's request for an inquest through his attorney, William M. Keens of New York "to withdraw the unjust, offensive and unsubstantiated charges and implications" and had reached a determination to take no further action in the matter. He said he would not communicate with Mr. Price or his attorney in any way.

PRICE MAKES PROTEST

Requests Secretary Wilson to Withdraw Charges in Report

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 10.—Theodore H. Price of New York arrived in Washington yesterday, and through his attorney requested Secretary Wilson to withdraw what Mr. Price characterized as the "unjust, offensive and unsubstantiated charges and implications" contained in the report made public yesterday in connection with the removal of Edwin S. Holmes, Jr., assistant statistician of the department of agriculture.

Mr. Price stated later that Secretary Wilson has his request under consideration.

KRUGER BOARDS SHIP

Russian Admiral Takes Possession of Kniaz Potemkine

KUSTENJI, Roumania, July 10.—Admiral Kruger has boarded and taken possession of the Russian battleship Kniaz Potemkine, King Charles of Roumania having sent instructions to the commander of the Russian squadron that the vessel be delivered to the Russian authorities without raising difficulties.

The torpedo boat which accompanied the Kniaz Potemkine, however, left for Odessa without surrendering, declaring that she had not mutinied, but that the Kniaz Potemkine had forced her to follow.

DYNAMITE WRECKS KANSAS SALOONS

Three Liquor Stores Demolished and $100,000 Damage Done at Iola

IOLA, Kan., July 10.—Three saloons in the heart of the business district of Iola were completely wrecked by dynamite today. Much damage was done to other property in the vicinity and the loss is estimated at $100,000. J. E. Thorpe, owner of one of the saloons, was injured, but not seriously. The dynamite was exploded apparently by some temperance reformer. No arrests have been made. There were two distinct explosions. Besides demolishing three saloons, the explosions damaged a shoe store, two drug stores and shattered dozens of plate glass windows in the business section. The explosions were heard at Humboldt, nine miles distant.

The mayor has offered a reward for the miscreants and called a special meeting of the city council to consider the situation. There has been much agitation in Iola recently to close the saloons, which were run openly in violation of the prohibition law, and Governor Hoch has been appealed to aid in closing the places.

FRAUD ORDER OUT AGAINST U. S. BANK

St. Louis Concern Headed by E. G. Lewis, Magazine Publisher, Barrred From the Mails

WASHINGTON, July 10.—Postmaster General Cortelyou has announced the issuance of a fraud order against the People's United States bank of St. Louis, Mo., its officers and agents, and E. G. Lewis, a publisher, effective July 9. The action bars the company from the use of the mails after an investigation by the postal authorities as to the details of the business of the institution.

The postmaster general, in his announcement says:

"It is understood that the funds of the bank which have not been borrowed by Mr. Lewis and his enterprises, amounting to about two-thirds of the total amount permitted, are deposited in banks and will be available toward reimbursement of the stockholders who number upward of 65,000. It is the intention of the officers of the postoffice department to cooperate with the secretary of state of Missouri in every proper way for the interests of the investors and depositors."

The announcement of Mr. Cortelyou says that although in early articles in his magazine, Mr. Lewis represented that he would subscribe to the capital stock a dollar for every dollar subscribed by all others, so that he would own half of the capital stock, and that later he represented that he had pledged his entire fortune, every dollar he had, and his publishing business, in this banking enterprise, and that his subscriptions would exceed a million dollars, the inspectors found that Mr. Lewis had not cooperated to the extent of a single dollar of his own money, although the bank had been in operation seven months and had paid-up capital of $2,000,000.

CHINA WANTS IN ON PEACE CONFERENCE

Russia Regards Plea Favorably, but Japan Will Not Sanction Suggestion

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 10.—China's request to be represented in the Washington conference on the ground that she is vitally interested in its proceedings has been received by the president and informally transmitted to the belligerents.

Whether the president has received the formal replies cannot be learned, but it can be stated that while Russia is inclined to favor the suggestion, Japan will not consent to it.

Japan has already made public her assurance that Manchuria is to be restored to China. That is one of the principles which the says she has been fighting. Japan regards herself as fully capable of executing this promise without the assistance of China, and in view of China's inability before the war to cope with Russia in Manchuria, the Japanese government is unable to see what possible service a Chinese representative would be in the Washington conference. Moreover, Japan has all along taken the position that when peace negotiations were begun they would be conducted directly with Russia. It is altogether unlikely that the Washington government will press the claim of China and the official view here falls to sympathize with the idea.

The past week has seen few developments in the plans for the negotiations. Negotiations for an armistice are not expected to be concluded until after the plenipotentiaries meet.

Baron de Rosen will go to New York within the next few days and thence to Oyster Bay to be presented to the president for the holding of the conference, but it is believed here that the choice lies between Portsmouth, N. H., and Portland, Me., with the chances in favor of the former.

Mr. Takahira, the Japanese minister, will be an early visitor at Oyster Bay to discuss the arrangements for the conference. It is the belief here that instead of the president making the tedious trip to Washington to greet the plenipotentiaries, the plan which probably will be adopted is for the plenipotentiaries to go to Oyster Bay, the Japanese boarding the Mayflower at the navy yard, Washington, and the Russian envoys going in the Dolphin from New York to Oyster Bay, where they will be jointly received by the president and formally presented to each other. They could go by boat, thence to the place selected for the conference, returning to Washington at the conclusion of their labors for the formal signing of the treaty of Washington, provided their labors are so successful.

CHICAGO, Ill., July 10.—Deliveries to and from strike-bound houses by parcel express concerns, which threatened to spread the industrial war between the teamsters and employers to more than four hundred drivers, were expected to be made today without protest from the baggage and parcel delivery drivers. At a meeting the union decided not to call a strike against these firms.

LAWSON LOSES HIS VOICE IN KANSAS

Boston Broker Suffering From Effects of Unusual Strain on Vocal Chords at Chautauqua

KANSAS CITY, July 10.—Thomas W. Lawson of Boston is in Kansas City, speechless.

It is not a lack of words in which to express himself or rage over the misdeeds of frenzied financiers that has made Mr. Lawson dumb, but unwanted use of his vocal organs at the dinner to the Knife and Fork Club Friday night and the long address he delivered at Ottawa chautauqua Saturday.

Mr. Lawson did not mean to come back to Kansas City, but was obliged to do so to consult a specialist. Physicians tell him, unless he is very careful and gives his throat absolute rest, he will have to cancel all his speaking engagements and go home. They offer some hope that he may, by strict obedience to orders, get in shape to make the address scheduled for Tuesday night. So Mr. Lawson is doing no talking now, but is giving out interviews with pencil and pad.

Mutineers Opened Cocks of the Kniaz Potemkine Before Leaving—Ship Sunk

NEW YORK, July 10.—Arthur Neely who lost his life in the fire at 122 and Forty-fourth street today, belonged in Chicago. He was a brother of F. Tennyson Neely, a publisher of this city. F. Tennyson Neely saw his brother killed. Arthur slung the top floor of the building. His escape was cut off and he cried at the window for help while his brother on the roof of a bay window just under the second story window, implored him not to jump.

When the frenzied man could restrain himself no longer his brother dragged a mattress on the roof of the bay window for him to jump on, but he missed it and rolled to the street, where he was struck by a fireman. Firemen were already raising their ladders as the man leaped and if he had waited only a few moments longer his life might have been saved.

Neely leaves three children. Their mother was killed in a railroad wreck several years ago.

CASSINI DEPARTS

Former Russian Ambassador Bids Adieu to America

WASHINGTON, July 10.—Count Cassini, Russia's first ambassador to the United States, after seven years' service here, left today for New York, where he sails Tuesday for Europe and will later go to his new post at Madrid. Gathered at the station to bid him good-bye were nearly every diplomat remaining here and a number of the ambassador's personal friends. Among them the Italian ambassador and Baroness Mayer des Planches, his closest friends in the corps; M. ## IN JAIL FOR SMOKE

Patent Medicine Salesman Runs Against Indiana Law

LAFAYETTE, Ind., July 10.—Edward Hamill, traveling salesman for a patent medicine company who has been convicted of smoking cigarettes, is serving a sentence of twenty-nine days in default of payment of a fine of $25 and costs, assessed by Judge Foster of Otter, will in all probability be compelled to serve the entire sentence.

An attempt having been made to effect Hamill's release by habeas corpus proceedings, based on recent court decisions holding unconstitutional that part of the law which refers to the smoker, Judge Rabb of Fowler held that the prisoner's only means of obtaining relief was by appeal. Hamill's sentence will have expired before an appeal can be heard.

TOO MUCH REALISM

Five Men Seriously Injured at Fire-Fighting Exhibition

NEW YORK, July 10.—Five men were seriously burned during a fire-fighting performance at Coney Island and were taken to hospitals. Flames, instead of pouring out of a window at which the men were stationed, were blown back by a "back-draft" in their faces. They were burned about the face and body and inhaled the flames. Before ladders could be raised the men leaped to the ground, a distance of thirty-five feet. Some of them are believed to be fatally injured.

Sixty-Eight Cases of Sunstroke in Italy. Germans Seek Cool Resorts

NEW YORK, July 10.—Telegrams from prefects of provinces to the Italian minister of the interior announce a great number of fatalities due to the heat, according to a Rome dispatch to the Herald. In the province of Alessandria, Piedmont, there were sixty-eight cases of sunstroke and twelve deaths. At Palermo in Sicily twenty-eight sunstrokes and five deaths, at Messina twelve sunstrokes and two deaths and at Bari eight sunstrokes and two deaths.

A Berlin dispatch says: "The record-breaking heat is paralyzing all branches of trade. The schools are all closed and 200,000 persons left the city for cool summer resorts."

WEATHER MAKES NEW COLD MARK

Temperature Drops to 56 Degrees This Morning, Creating a New Record

The coldest temperature for the month of July in the history of Fort Worth was registered at the local weather bureau this morning at 6 o'clock when the thermometer went to 56 degrees. The year 1905 so far is 500 degrees behind in temperature.

Average daily temperature for the week ending at 7 o'clock this morning has been 73 degrees, 8 degrees lower than the normal for this season. The average daily temperature for the first week of July, 1904, was over 80 degrees.

Former July records show that the temperature has never before gone below 63 degrees. The minimum temperature reached last July was 68 degrees, on July 4.

Records in rainfall have been broken this month as well as those in temperature. Total precipitation for the week ending this morning has been 4.26 inches. Rainfall since Jan. 1 makes a grand total of 28.62 inches, only 1.38 inches behind the normal yearly rainfall for this station.

DENVER, Colo., July 10.—The seventh international convention of the Epworth League closed last night with meetings in the downtown churches and auditoriums, at which was read the report of the committee on board of control, the governing body of the league. The report refers to the Smoot case as follows:

"Inasmuch as Reed Smoot, senator-elect of the United States from the state of Utah, is subservient to authority that is antagonistic to the purity and integrity of the American home and subversive of the laws of the land, by reason of his official relation to the Mormon hierarchy, we earnestly and solemnly protest against his admission to a seat in the supreme legislature of the nation, and we urge on congress the need of passing laws making it impossible for representatives of such a treason-working system to obtain seats in the legislative bodies of the United States. And we urge the congress of the United States to submit to the people a constitutional amendment prohibiting polygamy or plural marriage within the territory of the United States."

SCROFULA FROM PARENT TO CHILD

The laws of heredity are invariable and the diseased blood of parents is handed down to children in the form of Scrofula. Being thus deeply rooted nothing can reach the disease but a constitutional remedy. The very foundation of the blood is diseased, and until it is purified and made strong, those who are born with a scrofulous tendency cannot have the blessing of robust health.

Cleveland, O., 122 Brownell St.

I inherited Scrofula from my ancestry, and this means, of course, weak, impure blood and a run-down, debilitated condition of the system. Treatment of physicians did not do me anything like the good S. S. S. did last winter when I took it. It promotes appetite and digestion, gives strength and energy, builds up the general health in every way, and in addition to being an excellent blood purifier it adds to its success as a remedy for Scrofula. It did more for me than anything I have used, and with pleasure I recommend it. S. S. S. completely cured me of this blighting disease.

MRS. LOUISE COHEN,

S. S. S., the king of blood purifiers, is the medicine that is required, because it changes the quality of the blood by cleansing it of all poisons and impurities, building it up and strengthening the entire system. When S. S. S. has restored the blood to a healthy condition and forced out the scrofulous deposits, there is a sure return to health. No remedy has ever been found to equal this great vegetable preparation for the cure of all diseases arising from a diseased or impure blood supply. If you have Scrofula or a tendency to it, that way write us about your case and we will send you a book describing the disease and give, without charge, any medical advice you may need.

POLYTECHNIC PLANS TO IMPROVE CAMPUS

Director Favors Expenditure to Beautify Grounds About College—More Room Needed by Institution

Work on the new girls' dormitory of Polytechnic College is nearing an end. The roof is about completed and the building will be finished and ready for occupancy by the opening of school early in September. When finished the new improvements will represent an expenditure of $20,000.

Director George Mulkey announced today that the college needed several other improvements in the way of enlarging and putting in better shape the campus. He says that about $5,000 should be expended in this work in an effort to make more beautiful the landscape of the grounds.

In addition to the dormitory Mr. Mulkey says that two other buildings will have to be provided for the proper care of the boys who will attend this season's term.

The indications are, he says, that there will be a total of 600 pupils this year, an increase of 100 over last season. He further says that if the facilities were at hand the college could easily increase the attendance to 1,000 pupils.

In estimating the good to the city from these students, Mr. Mulkey says that fully $100,000 will be distributed among the various business firms in Fort Worth in a year's time. He believes these figures to be conservative and says that the educational interests of Fort Worth bring to the city annually a very large amount of money.

SAKHALIN ISLAND NOW HELD BY JAPS

Importance of Loss Recognized by Russians—Gives Japan Trumps in Peace Game

ST. PETERSBURG, July 10, 2 a. m.—With the Japanese flag hoisted for the first time on Russian soil after eighteen months of war, the importance of the landing on the island of Sakhalin is generally admitted both in newspaper comment and in government circles. Complete occupation of the island is regarded as a foregone conclusion.

The Novoe Vremya voices the general sentiment in holding that control of Sakhalin puts a powerful card in the hands of Japanese diplomacy, which finally has something tangible in its hands to throw on the scales with the sword in the coming conference.

There is a divergence of opinion with regard to the effect it will have on the negotiations at Washington, some of the irreconcilables declaring that it makes peace at the present juncture more impossible, than before, as Japan will be able to demand the cession of the island and a heavy indemnity as well, at which terms peace will be too costly to Russia, but the more prevalent view is that Japan has now in her hands enough trumps to take the game.

The attack on the island certainly dispirits one of the hopes of the peace advocates who have been suggesting that its voluntary cession might be an offset, while Port Arthur and the Chinese railroad, against the payment of a large part, or all, of a monetary indemnity.

No further report of the landing operations has been received. M. Muraviev, Russian ambassador at Rome, as one of the peace plenipotentiaries, has arrived in St. Petersburg and called on Foreign Minister Lambsdorff yesterday. His arrangements have not been perfected yet, as they are dependent on the date of audience with the emperor, which probably will take place Tuesday. His suite has been completed by the selection of two secretaries from the foreign office.

ST. PETERSBURG, July 10.—A landing of Japanese troops on the island of Sakhalin started yesterday at 10 a. m. at St. Petersburg, though it had been realized that in the defeat of Admiral Rojestvensky the Japanese were able to take possession of the island, the garrison of the island was too weak to offer an effective defense.

Though the Japanese seem unwilling to risk a battle with General Linevitch pending the peace meeting at Washington, the landing of troops at Okhalin is considered to express Japan's designs regarding the general conclusion of an armistice.

Receipts 584,898 head were cattle, 69,380 head calves, 1,472,214 head hogs, 780,000 head sheep, 29,418 head horses and mules. In each case there was a gain over like movements in 1904 and 1903.

During the first five months of the current year there were received at Chicago 1,334,118 head of cattle, 182,955 head of calves, 3,546,993 head of hogs, 1,896,849 head of sheep, and 69,853 head of horses, making a grand total of 6,829,898 head, as compared with 6,707,523 head in 1904 and 6,059,831 head in 1903.

All this indicates that notwithstanding all that has been said to the contrary, there is a gradual but certain increase in the supply of cattle, a similar increase in the shipment of cattle, and a similar increase in the local consumption of cattle at Chicago and probably in all other large cities.

There has been a general impression among the producers of beef out here in the range country that the supply of beef cattle was steadily decreasing. Whether or not this is true as regards the country as a whole, it is morally certain as applied to the range country.

Those British officers who are lying awake nights under the apprehension that war is imminent with Russia are evidently not keeping posted as to current events. There is never any danger in the heels of a dead mule.

After all the fuss and feathers raised in Bleeding Kansas over the Standard Oil trust, and the law passed by the last state legislature providing an appropriation of $410,000 for the erection of a state oil refinery, it develops that nothing can be done.

That investigation instigated by the cotton producers of the country relative to the leak in the agricultural department has borne good fruit. The allegations of the cotton men have been sustained and the assistant statistician has been summarily bounced from office.

Gradually the people of Sweden and Norway are preparing to unsheath the sword to determine whether or not the bond of union between the two countries shall be severed.

Verses That Ring

WE TALK TOO MUCH. Most everybody talks too much; I'm certain this is so. I think about it more and more the older I get.

There's quite a lot of ignorance that silence would disguise. How very little people know you never would surmise, if they didn't talk so much they'd be considered wise.

There's little one can talk about from which no harm can come. There's much of hidden danger lies in confidence, or chum, and secrets told are far less safe than if the lips were dumb.

How often one, in argument, by fiery impulse led, will many more antagonize, and bitter discord spread. I guess the most we talk about were better left unsaid.

And so I think a man may fill a high and honored place, and carry many grievous sins and dignity and grace, if he can wear a pleasant smile and a calm and silent face.

There're many men in prison cells and liable to stay, who might be floating at the top, distinguished, blithe and gay. They answered people's questions, and gave themselves away.

We all know men well qualified a prison cell to fill. Who never got behind the bars, and may be never will. And all the reason for it is—the gentlemen kept still.

Spiders and baseball players are great on files. Death has evidently traded his pale horse for an automobile. Woman is a conundrum, but man is unwilling to give her up.

The cream of the baseball club should be found in the pitcher. It pays to be good; if you get in the penitentiary it shortens your term. There doesn't live a man who objects to having nice things said about him.

A philosopher says people might live forever if they would only quit worrying. A woman's idea of a sensible man is one who makes a fool of himself over her. A woman wins a man by her action; a man wins a woman by his foolish talk.

When it comes to getting money the lawyer takes fewer chances than the burglar. He who waits never heads a procession—except in the company of an undertaker. When a man tells his wife he has a surprise in store for her, she hopes it isn't a basement bargain.

Most men can get more real enjoyment out of a street piano for a dime than they can out of a $3 opera ticket. It sometimes happens that a law student gives up the law business to engage in the son-in-law business. A man's wife may not object if he becomes economical with his kisses six months after marriage, but she's sure to kick if he acts the same way with his money.—Chicago News.

Dr. Roberts of Kerrville also came down and attended the patient during the night. Dr. Palmer of Kerrville is expected down to also assist in the case. The swelling did not appear to increase during last night, and this morning, and that fact made the physicians and others hopeful for recovery. However, the swelling this afternoon is such that respiration is very difficult, and Dr. J. F. Noe remarked that an operation of tracheotomy would probably be made before night to facilitate breathing. He also stated that the patient had the symptoms of farcy, an ailment most common to horses.

TURNEY FOR GOVERNOR. If energy and honesty, devotion to the people's interests, are a guarantee of election, Hon. W. W. Turney of El Paso certainly has equal chances with a number of aspirants for the privilege of warming the governor's chair. Judge Turney has given no encouragement to the use of his name as a probable candidate, but West Texas is calling loudly for him to come from the far west. But Mr. Turney is a native of Harrison county. His candidacy would at least have the enthusiastic support of the stockmen of the state, who are cognizant of his ability to do things that no one else could do. The cattle raisers' Association of Texas.—San Antonio Express.

SOLD SWENSON HEIFERS. A drove of fifty-six head of 620-pound yearling spayed heifers sold to Swift to-day at $5. These were S. M. S. cattle bought as calves last fall by H. I. Parish & Sons of Harrison, Ill., who feed annually hundreds of Panhandle cattle. Their weight was light, but quality was in evidence, although the price was a surprise to many who appraised them in the pen before the sale was concluded. The transaction attests the value of Panhandle calves in the feed lot. They were all white-faced. A very pretty spectacle.—Chicago Live Stock World.

LARGE TEXAS SHIPMENTS. It is now evident, says Field and Farm, that the largest shipments of Texas cattle in the history of the west are to be deposited on the northern ranges this season. Before the close of July thousands of cars will have passed through Denver and other intermediary points on the various routes leading with cattle bound for the open country in Wyoming, Montana and Idaho. Next year at this time these same cattle will be sent to the markets of the world. This stupendous movement of cattle means so much to the railroads, both now and later, that some of them are sidetracking their fast express trains that the southern cattle may more speedily reach their destination.

Eight homing pigeons, liberated at Capetown at 5.31 a. m., performed the astonishing feat of reaching Kimberley, about 513 miles away, before 7.30 p. m. Sark, one of the Channel Islands, has a prison that contains four cells. But in the last five years it has had only three occupants. Sark has a population of about six hundred.

There's a pretty girl in an Alpine hat. A sweeter girl with a sailor trim. But the handsomest girl you'll ever see. Is the scabbiest girl who wears Rocky Mountain Tea. —J. P. Brashear.

MAYOR POWELL URGES UNIFORM CITY CHARTERS

SAYS TEXAS MUNICIPALITIES SHOULD PROFIT BY MISTAKES OF OLDER TOWNS, AND DRAW LINES BETWEEN LOCAL AND STATE RIGHTS

"MANHOOD RULE" ONLY MEANS OF SECURING PURE MUNICIPAL ADMINISTRATION

Mayor T. J. Powell in The Lantern for July has an article urging uniformity in municipal charters and control of municipal affairs by the people. The article follows:

By T. J. Powell, Mayor of Fort Worth. The following article is written with the belief that uniformity of city charters should exist in Texas and with the hope that it will start a discussion that will result in the elevation of municipal government and give to the cities of Texas the right to govern themselves which is denied to them under the existing conditions in this state.

Texas cities are now in bondage to the legislature, and their organic law is shaped by representatives in the legislature without due publicity being given to the changes made from time to time. The wishes of the citizenship are rarely consulted in the framing of the charters, and our cities are gradually drifting away from any semblance of government by the people to governments dictated and controlled by a few men.

The state constitution applies to the whole state; its terms are brief, and it is left to the legislature to make the instrument, regarding the rights and duties of the people, and can only be changed by a direct vote.

City Charters Secured City charters, in like manner, should be looked upon as sacred instruments, to be changed only by the will of the majority of the people whom they affect. The local citizenry should have the power, under the charters, to legislate for local needs. In other words, the citizens of the cities of Texas ought to be invested with the power to do and perform anything required by the municipality, without state or legislative interference or control, that is not in conflict with the federal or state constitutions.

A careful examination of the special charters of Texas cities will convince any student of municipal government that it is best to "throw the whole away and begin over." In them will be found on every page evidences of selfish interests and disregard of public rights, clauses with hidden meaning, contradictory phrases susceptible of opposite construction, ponderous and voluminous legislation that has no business in fundamental law—and over all, the trial of ward politics.

The best governed municipality is one in which the citizens, by their own will, legislate for the municipality. This kind of government is found in the states where the village school bell calls the citizens to mass meetings to decide questions of municipal government. The worst form of municipal government is found in cities where all legislative power is delegated to a handful of men. In the towns governed by the people we find purity in public life and in public morals, also in private life and private morals.

There is also a high state of civic sentiment among the people; while in the cities under an organic law that refuses the citizen the right of local self government, we find lower standards of public life and public morals, and a lower morality (judging the whole mass of the citizenship) and a correspondingly low standard of religious sentiment.

Law and the Gospel In speaking of the relation of city government to religious sentiment of the people, Rev. Abner Monk of Fort Worth contributes the following quotation to this article:

"The law and the gospel are the two great conservative factors in all moral government. If the law be weak, in some measure, belongs to the gospel. Civil government is the natural and legitimate offspring of gospel dominion. Where there is no gospel there is not, there cannot be, a very high state of civil government. Civil government, therefore, owes its best to the church of God; but if this natural and mighty offspring of Christianity refuses its support to the moral and general teachings of the gospel, then the child has turned against the mother, and all best family government is rudely dashed to the ground. Moral suasion and legal power are essential each to the other. Neither can long prosper in the absence of the other. Each has a work to do that the other cannot possibly do. If the law were so enforced as not to allow the unrestrained indulgence of the carnal and grosser nature, then the masses would readily turn to the indulgence and development of the better and higher nature. In the absence of moral and intellectual development the municipal government owes it to the community to shut off the pitfalls and light up the ways of passage that lead to the pines and attitudes of the carnal and grosser nature to have full play upon all the people. Legal permission is equivalent to legal endorsement; and that is to turn all the force and power of government back against the church, and to give for all that is best and possible for the race. The church of God has a right to expect the support of the strong arm of city government to co-operate with her in bringing the masses up to a decent and moral life; to neglect at this point is to oppose. Shut off the darkness so that the people can see the beauties disclosed by the light of heaven, and the government owes it to all the people to guard-fence all holes, pitfalls and bells, as they may not fall into them."

Change is imperative Unless a change be made and a reform, vital and fundamental, occurs in the city life of America, the republic, with its ideals of equality and justice, will pass into history as a failure, to take its place among the wrecks and ruins of civilization of the past.

A free people will remain free so long as they can govern themselves; and unless this fundamental right is retained by them there can be no such thing as justice, equality, liberty and freedom in a government. This applies to city life as well as to state life or to national life.

The process of drifting away from local self-government in Texas commenced when the constitution of the state gave the legislature the right to legislate for the municipalities and grant special charters to the larger cities. This took away from the citizenship and inherent right to govern themselves and delegated the power of legislative control to the legislature, that, with the exception of the local representatives, knows nothing of the local needs and requirements of the cities. The result has been that the charters of cities instead of being instruments of power, are instruments of limitation given to the cities, often without their wishes and consent, and often making them subject to exploitation by selfish interests by virtue of legislative enactments of which the citizens know nothing and cannot remedy.

ambitions of factions in city politics—Texas state reports are filled with conflicting judicial construction of legislation found in our city charters, by reason of conflicting clauses to be found in those charters, until it is almost impossible for the trained legal mind to determine what are the powers of city government in any of the charters. All this could be avoided if there were uniformity of charters for all cities, giving the citizens the right to legislate for themselves and to perform any act not in conflict with the federal or state constitutions. It can not be contended with truth, that the legislative body, composed of representatives from all over the state, is better qualified to legislate for the city than the people who live in the city and are subject to its laws. It can not be truthfully stated that selfish interests can more easily control all citizens of a city, who are vitally and directly interested, than the representatives in the legislature, who yield in local matters of this kind to one or two members of the state legislature. The state constitution should be amended, divesting the legislature of the control of our cities and giving the citizens the power of self government.

Municipal Independence I plead for municipal independence in this great state; I protest against the bondage of our municipalities to the legislature; I appeal with all emphasis possible for a better, a nobler, a higher code of public honesty and public morality. As it is, I do not believe these things can be accomplished under the present system of charters that deny to the citizens the right of local self government. I make a plea for uniformity of Texas city charters, simple and effective, enumerating powers, and leaving everything to be done that can be lawfully done by the citizens themselves—Independent of legislative control or interference.

If the people of the cities are given the power of local self government, reforms which they are demanded—can be instituted without waiting for the consent or direction of the legislature of the state. With this almost divine power of local self government we would find a better code and system of public and private morals than exists today.

In this uniform charter, lines should be drawn defining the state and city interests, and municipal sovereignty should be provided to the fullest extent, establishing what is known as the "Manhood Rule." This power, authorizing the citizens to elect any necessary local, would create vast improvement upon that which we now have. In addition, there should be certain powers and limitations concerning the taxing rates, and the power of the city to issue bonds. Some radical reform takes place in Texas, our cities, which are just beginning to develop into great municipalities, will follow in the path of older cities, and the result will be the greatest blot upon American civilization.

Let us try to make our Texas cities as near ideal as possible; let us get away from the centralization of the legislative power in the hands of a few men in the legislature, and restore self government to the people where it belongs. Let us make them democracies in which there is diffusion of interests of the community shall be determined by the majority of the citizens affected. Let us go back to the ideals of the fathers of the republic, when they founded it, placed as its basic principle the rights of local self government.

As the City: So the Race Civilization in all ages has been judged by its great centers of population. 'Tis true that the mind is filled with wonder and admiration at the awful virtue of civilized men of all civilization, but the historian in writing the record of a people, usually closes the last page by noting the downfall of that civilization through the corruption to be found in the great cities, and the "failure" is the verdict upon the race and the civilization. No fairer page is recorded in history than that of the civil life of the primitive Romans; yet in its cities we find the downfall of as noble a race of men as ever trod the earth's surface. As it was then, it is today; the city is the standpoint from which the race is judged; and today our cities are building the record for our race and our civilization. If our government fails it will be because we, too, will founder upon the rock of class hatred—propagated, fostered and cultivated in the dense masses of crowded life of our great cities. It is in the city that we find most accentuated the contrast between wealth and poverty. It is in the city that the manhood, virtue and patriotism of the people are undermined by class hatred, idleness, the luxury of inherited wealth and legislative privilege created for the few at the expense of the many. In the city are bred those enemies of the republic, who monopolize the essential services of mankind and absorb the surplus wealth in the unequal conflict. They are the noble ideals of our great forefathers, providing for "equal and exact justice to all men," and that "government derives its just powers from the consent of the governed." America started upon a career grander, better, higher and nobler in its conception than any other government created by man. It is only when we have drifted away from those ideals that we have encountered the shallows and shoals of mis-government.

In this great empire state, and in the south, lies the hope of the republic. Its citizenship have the highest ideals of government. It has passed through the crucible of war. It is passing through a crucible now, in the shape of the "race question"—a problem as great as ever confronted a people, and from which it will emerge with undiminished honor as a race. Its vitality has not been sapped and undermined by idleness and the pension sloth. The cormorant of commercial greed has not yet fattened itself upon our body politic; and class hatred, that ghoul that gnaws over the graves of all dead and buried civilizations, has not yet destroyed the patriotism of its people. There still remains the opportunity for our southern cities to set the pace and standard of American civilization by uniformly engraving upon southern life the cardinal doctrine of local self government for its citizens.

There can be no freedom in government; there can be no equality and justice in government; there can be no diffusion of liberty in government that does not found its institutions upon the principle that mankind have a right to govern themselves. Unless this principle is planted, imperishably, in the charters of cities under the constitution of this state, just so sure as effect follows cause will these cities pass through the same record of filth

New Building at Texas and Monroe Streets Adapted to Physical Culture

Bids will be opened late today for the new Y. M. C. A. building at Texas and Monroe streets to be erected according to plans prepared by M. R. Sanguinet. The building to be constructed at a probable cost of $20,000, will consist of three stories and a basement, a feature of the plans being a first class gymnasium of large size and modern baths. The basement will be used for a gymnasium, two bowling alleys, boiler rooms and small boys' baths and locker rooms.

On the first floor will be the gymnasium gallery, general baths and lockers, business men's baths and lockers and plunge baths. On the second floor there will be a reception room, reading room and library, reading and social room for boys, office, two educational class rooms and a lunch room. Twenty-one sleeping apartments will be placed on the third floor together with two educational class rooms. The building, 62x100 feet, will be of Kenedale brick, with stone and terra cotta trimmings.

TEXAS DELEGATES NAMED BY TURNEY

Leading Cattlemen Will Discuss Foreign Tariff Regulations and Reciprocity

President Turney of the Texas Cattle Raisers' Association has appointed delegates to the national reciprocity conference of live stock interests to be held in Chicago during August, as follows: S. H. Cowan, John T. Lytle and S. B. Burnett, Fort Worth; Ike T. Fryer, San Antonio, and Murdo McKenzie, Trinidad, Colo. President Turney will also attend. The Chicago meeting will be attended by representatives of all live stock associations and the packing industries and will consider the tariff regulations of foreign countries, including France and Germany, with a view to stimulating the export of American meats and cattle.

THE LAND OF PERHAPS!

Every big store in this city was once situated in "The Land of Perhaps." Every merchant carries in his mind, a map of this odd country. And no two of these maps look alike. On one map the Capital of the country is marked "Common Sense;" on another it is marked "Dreams." "Determination" is a chief city on one man's map; and it is situated on the river of "Plans." The other man's map shows the town of "Sometime," on the river "Not-Yet." On one man's map of the Land of Perhaps is shown a Trunk-line railway, named The Publicity Short-Line, making connections at the Port of Hustle with daily steamers to the town of Real Things—which is in our own country. On the other man's map is marked a railway called "What's-Your-Hurry?" One terminal of this road is called "Forget-It," and the other is called "What's-the-Use." No tickets are sold to the town of Real Things.

Every merchant in this city owns property in this Land of Perhaps. Those who use the railway called "The Publicity Short-Line,"—no rebates on private car concessions—will eventually get most of this property moved into the town of Real Things—which is a town very like this one.
