

NO FRICTION IN FEVER FIGHT

Physicians Prompt in Reporting all Cases

QUARANTINE IS ERRATIC

Some Localities Increasing

Restrictions, While Others Lift Ban on Freight

RECORD TO NOON

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 15.—Up to noon there were nineteen new cases of yellow fever and three deaths.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 15.—Except that the spasmodic showers somewhat lowered the temperature there is little change in the yellow fever situation and the time of the federal authorities is largely taken up by routine work. A dozen suspicious cases were reported for investigation during the night, and occupied the attention of the inspectors, but with the large percentage of recoveries and small percentage of deaths the whole situation is regarded as cheerful. The only depressing influence upon the community is the serious inroads upon trade which have been made by the quarantines.

PHYSICIANS GIVING AID

The fact that physicians are now assisting the marine hospital service in turning up all existing cases of yellow fever was evidenced at an examination of the report for the past twenty-four hours. Of sixty-one cases, thirty or about half reported by the doctors as having come within their practice. The others Inspector Perkins produced nineteen cases of yellow fever and cases presenting symptoms thereof, two returned by ward organizations, two by city health board, five by the emergency hospital and four by the charity hospital. Any friction that heretofore existed passed away, perfect harmony now exists in the work. The total number of cases treated at the emergency hospital to date is 157, of which number 36 died. Three cases of yellow fever have been taken from the steamship Sapphire at quarantine. The vessel is from Colon. The first case where the refusal of a householder to permit screening a patient's room resulted in quarantine of the house, has occurred in the down town section of the city. As soon as it was reported to Dr. White the fumigating and screening squads had been refused permission to enter the premises. Inspector Whitaker who ordered the policeman on duty to prevent egress or ingress. An affidavit will follow. Two cases of fever have been found at Esplanade avenue. The victims are Italians. They are ill but are apparently seeking to avoid discovery. When, however, they collapsed, a telephone message was at once sent to the emergency hospital where they were carried to that institution. The men said they had come from the country. It was found that they had been at Bayou Sale on the Southern Pacific railroad.

QUARANTINE VARIES

The quarantine improves in some directions and grows worse in others. At Monroe a conflict arose between the citizens' meeting and the authorities. The citizens in a sudden burst of alarm, decided to restore shot gun quarantine. Mayor Forsythe objected and ordered the military to hold themselves in readiness. An appeal was made to the governor who said that the orders of the state board of health must be followed or the soldiers would be mobilized. The citizens yielded. Vicksburg has ordered a cargo of sugar to be reloaded and returned to New Orleans. Shreveport has again open communication with New Orleans, allowing freight to come in that has been fumigated. Fruit and dry goods are excepted. President Souchon telegraphed congratulations to the Shreveport authorities.

DR. GUTERAS HOPEFUL

Dr. Guterias said today from what he had seen he regarded the situation as being controlled, though it was always difficult to stamp it out if it is not taken in its inception. Dr. Guterias believes that the marine hospital ought to be left in charge of the fever disappeared to conduct the campaign against the outcropping of the disease next year.

UNIQUE CAMPAIGN BY CONGRESSMAN HEARST

"Big Chief Sits in His Teepee Cheering Braves to Victory"

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—Congressman William R. Hearst, from the Eleventh district of New York, wants to go back to congress on the expiration of his term. Charles F. Murphy, the boss of Tammany, has indicated a desire to put some other person to the front as the democratic candidate. Hearst is going to put himself up.

He has begun his campaign by a series of free excursions tooney island, with common ticket road fares there and back and many of the side shows at that popular resort. The tickets are being given out so that by the end of the season every woman and child in his district will have had an opportunity to go. If that doesn't catch the favor of the populace the Hearst boomers will turn some other trick for they are bound to down Boss Murphy, as far as the Eleventh district is concerned.

COPPERHEAD SNAKES IN WEST VIRGINIA

Large Number for Many Years, but Abnormally So For 1905—Incidents of Finds

WHEELING, W. V., Aug. 15.—This is a year of copperhead snakes in West Virginia. In many localities copperheads have existed for years, but this season there appears to be an amazingly large number everywhere. True snake stories touched for come from all parts of the state. This is the record of a day: At Hundred, Mrs. F. M. Keller, wife of a well known justice of the peace, sought her rocking chair on the front porch. A copperhead was coiled on the cushion. Mrs. Keller called her son and he beheaded the reptile with a black-snake whip.

King Cusick, near Hundred, has four cornfields. Copperheads have ripped through these from one to the other, nearly all the young stems. At R. Kline, near Moundsville, found a copperhead had cornered his little boy in one corner of the yard. The snake was killed. It was twenty-six inches long. John Henshaw, near Burton, killed twelve copperheads in his milk house. Mrs. James Teagarden of Tom's Run, Marshall county, was going into her cellar. As she opened the door a copperhead rolled from the top of the door frame, struck her on the back of the neck and fell at her feet. She stamped it to death.

Mrs. Edward Hadley, near Chester, went to make up the beds. As she turned back the covers from one she found a huge copperhead enjoying a nap. She threw the covers over the snake and got a kromstick. The snake was twenty-eight inches in length.

POLICE THINK THEY'VE CAUGHT SWINDLERS

Suspected Wire Tappers Arrested in Raid on Fashionable New York Residence

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—Having been informed that a band of swindlers posing as wire tappers had netted a large sum by the familiar confidence method of pretending to hold back race results going by wire to pool rooms, the police have raided a brown stone front house, handsomely furnished, in West Forty-fifth street. Nine men alleged to be members of the gang were arrested. Eight of the prisoners already had their pictures in the rogues' gallery.

Police reserves were called out to help in the charge on the building. Officers climbed up the front and entered by the rear window. Eleven men were within and they made a wild dash to escape. Two succeeded, but the others were held up at the back fence and submitted without a struggle.

On the way out of one room was found a telephone which appeared to have been in use for some months. A telegraph instrument in the corner was merely a blind, while the walls were covered with racing charts.

All of the prisoners were stylishly dressed and the majority of them were elderly gray-haired men, who looked like prosperous laborers. They chaffed the police and boasted they would get out free in short order, but were looked on for the night. Many complaints have been made by persons swindled through the wire tapping game, one man having lost $30,000 a few months ago.

HARPER'S HEALTH GOOD

Rockefeller Says Harper Visit Purely a Social One and Denies Reports

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Aug. 15.—The following statement in respect to the health of President Harper of the Chicago University, who is a guest at Forest Hill, the summer home of Mr. Rockefeller, near this city, was given out today by the secretary of John D. Rockefeller:

"It may be said authoritatively that President Harper's health is in better condition than at any time in the last months; that he thought whatever has been suggested of another operation, and that no physician has been called to attend him at Forest Hill. It is further to be stated that the secretary of the University of Chicago is absolutely without foundation, and that he is holding no conference with Mr. Rockefeller concerning the university's affairs; the visit of Mrs. Harper and himself being a purely social one. It is his plan to return to Chicago at the end of the week and to resume his duties in his classroom and in the president's office."

TO SEE EXECUTION OF NEGRO WIFE MURDERER

Minister to Test Feeling of Body After Condemned Man Drops—To Fight Capital Punishment

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—To strengthen his argument against capital punishment, the Rev. Emilie M. Meny, pastor of the Second Reformed church of Jersey City, will witness the execution of Edward Tappety, a negro wife murderer, in the Hudson county jail on Friday.

Henry contends there is consciousness after the body of a condemned man leaves the platform. He declares that a man who was hanged in Jersey City four years ago gave a signal after the drop fell showing consciousness, although his neck was broken.

SUBMARINE SINKS JUST AS FISH DO

Government to Examine Recent Investigation—Likely to Accept It For Use in U. S. Navy

CHICAGO, Aug. 15.—A special from Cleveland, Ohio, says: Luther C. Thompson has invented a submarine boat which the United States government is examining with a view of adopting it to the navy department. The invention looks like a shark and that is the name Mr. Thompson has given the vessel.

"I have studied the actions of the fish for twenty-five years and my boat is constructed to sink just as a fish does, by means of diving blades, said Thompson today. The present steering gear used on the submarines is not adapted to the kind of work that vessels of this class are expected to do."

Lawson Pays Burial Expenses of Associate Who Asserted Boston Man Owed Him $10,000

COHASSET, Mass., Aug. 15.—Prof. A. Woodbridge died with fierce hatred for Thomas W. Lawson, the Boston "system fighter," but it will be Lawson that keeps him from a pauper's grave. Woodbridge had been superintendent of the public schools at Chelsea, and stood high until the death of his wife, a year ago, stole hope away from him. His body was discovered in the surf near here. For over a week it lay unclaimed, and was about to be buried in potter's field, when Lawson came forward with money to provide a decent resting place for the man who had been his associate.

At the same time the pugilist's spouse filed a suit for $5,000 against the negro school teacher for the alienation of Joseph's affections. Two letters, which it is claimed will prove the allegations, are in the possession of the wife.

Mrs. Schramke was a trapeze performer in Berlin a few years ago, when a lieutenant in the German army induced her to elope with him. NORFOLK, Va., Aug. 16.—J. E. B. Stuart of Virginia, son of the famous Confederate cavalry leader by the same name, has been launched as the southern candidate for the republican vice presidential nomination in 1908.

Later Stuart resigned as marshal and was made collector of customs at Newport News, which position he now holds.

He said there was a considerable volume of business in Houston where he was in a rush, but moving on smoothly.

HACK IN FINE SHAPE

"Russian Lion's" Manager Says Wrestler Is "in Great Shape"

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—A letter has just been received from London, written by Charley Cochran, who came over from London last winter with Hackenschmidt, southwesterly. To carry cotton seed oils required more care than to carry petroleum oils and the shipments were of comparative significance.

The reduction of the rates without a fight is of the greatest significance. It means that refiners that are able to get oil from the Texas field to a refinery near New Orleans will be enabled, so far as railroad rates are concerned, to send oil into territory now dominated absolutely by the Standard, on practically equal terms.

MILLIONAIRE'S SON GAME TO DEATH

Graham Hilton Forsakes Position For Actress Early in Life—Leads Fast Pace to End

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—The career of H. Graham Hilton, son of the late Henry Hilton, former partner of A. T. Stewart, in his great commercial enterprise here, is a warning to the "young bulls." Hilton is dead at his home on Morris Heights at the age of 48, unwept and unhonored, except by a coterie of fast friends, that kept diminishing as his funds diminished. He began hitchhiking early in life, and kept it up until the very end. Sylvia Gerrish, an actress whose greatest claim to fame rested in the fact that a millionaire once drank to the success of an American crusade, defended from her slipper, married him, and now her greatest claim to charity is the fact that she stood by him, even when his star had set, and she was one of the few that kept watch at his deathbed.

Young Hilton's father tried in every way to break off the attachment, but the last straw was laid upon his shoulders when the wayward boy in him ordered from the hotel where he was living with the Gerrish woman. This was even when the old man had mortgaged his interest in the Stewart firm for $1,250,000 to Hetta Green to pay his son's debts. So when the Elder Hilton died, worth $7,000,000, it was found that Graham had been cut off with a cold.

Sylvia Gerrish, who had led him on the road to ruin, was a San Francisco choir singer by the name of Lillian Rollins, not beautiful at all, but with a remarkable voice and a perfect figure. The woman she replaced as young Hilton's affections was a Brooklyn girl who had been a cashier in the Stewart store.

McEVROY WALKS WATER

Apparatus of Englishman Sustains Man. Would Be Good Live Saver

LONDON, Aug. 15.—While it may be many more years before moderns can expect to emulate the feats of Perseus of old by flying through the air, James McEvoy recently proved what it is not impossible to walk on or in the water, causing a vast deal of excitement among the people who were waiting on the embankment, near Charing Cross bridge, to see the Prince of Wales go by.

Dressed in a weird-looking coat and equipped with appliances resembling nothing so much as wings upon his heels, Mr. McEvoy was seen to get out of a small boat lying in midstream, and to everybody's astonishment, instead of sinking or swimming, he began to make his way up stream, in an upright position and only half submerged.

The impression of the crowd was that Mr. McEvoy was in some mysterious way a competitor in a race with a passing steambot. But it was soon seen that this idea was erroneous, for on arriving at Westminster, apparently satisfied with the experiment, he left the water.

The coat was then seen to be equipped with an air belt which accounted for the inventor's upright position. The wings which expand and close, almost on the same principle as a duck's foot, proved an excellent medium of propulsion. The inventor had faith in his appliances that, although no swimmer, he took his chances going boldly overboard.

MERELY BASIS OF TREATY

The Associated Press is now able to state authoritatively that both sides of the twelve "articles" now before them, constitute the "bases" of a prospective "treaty of Washington," but as the wording is to be revised it does not, as accepted, necessarily establish the final text.

To Eat at Navy Yard

Beginning today the peace plenipotentiaries to be served with breakfast in their dining room at the naval stores building at the navy yards. Heretofore luncheon and afternoon tea has been served in the dining room and the arrangement has proven very attractive. The menu for breakfast is printed in French and sets forth an array of dishes calculated to please the appetite of the widest variety. It is the intention to have the meal conclude so that the session of the conference may begin by 10.

The trip of the envoys from the hotel to the navy yard this morning was very disagreeable. A chilling rain was falling.

NO DEMAND FOR OPEN DOOR

TOKIO, Aug. 15.—Asahi, in discussing the proceedings of the peace conference at Portsmouth, suggests that Japan omitted to demand the "open door" in Siberia and the opening of Siberian rivers to navigation for the benefit of Japan as a free port. It declares, would not benefit Japan much, but would greatly assist in the development of American commerce.

STILL ON ARTICLE SEVEN

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Aug. 15.—The morning session of the peace commissioners of Russia and Japan today ended at 1 o'clock. During the entire time the discussion was upon Article VII. of the peace terms which refers to the cession of the Chinese Eastern railroad to China. The exchange of views this morning was of a very earnest character and it is expected the discussion of Article VII. will consume all afternoon session. Indeed, at the time the envoys adjourned for luncheon, they were not certain that they would be able to complete the discussion today.

FISH PLAYGROUND HAS BOY AS MAYOR

Park Commissioner Engineers Unique Election by Lads Who Frequent East Side Park

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—A unique election has been held among the boys who frequent themselves on Hamilton Fish playground, an east side park. Under the tutelage of the city commissioner of parks, they cast regular ballots last night for mayor of the playground and elected Nathan Kaase, 16 years old. All the boys under 18 were allowed to vote and they rallied to Kaase under the banner of the political party. Lads to the number of 800 were registered, but less than half of them went to the polls in the heavy storm which prevailed.

The new mayor will be responsible for the care of the dumb bells, trapeze and other apparatus used by the youngsters who frequent the park. He will appoint a squad to act as police agents and other lads will be nominated to aid the park laborers in keeping the playground clear of rubbish.

PEACE ENVOYS HALF THROUGH

Conference Takes Up Article Seven

ARTICLE 5 IS SHELVED

Cession of Sakhalin Island Will Be Discussed at the End of Negotiations

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Aug. 15.—The Japanese envoys, after a trip from Newcastle in an uncovered motor car, though cold rain prevailed, arrived at the navy yard at 9:40 today. The Russian commissioners reached there a few minutes afterwards. It is understood that the subject to be considered today will be No. 7 of the peace conditions, which is the one relating to the cession of the Chinese Eastern railroad to China.

ARTICLE 4 ACCEPTED

Article 4 of the peace conditions under consideration by the Russian and Japanese plenipotentiaries, was agreed upon during the forenoon sitting of the peace conference yesterday. Consideration was also given to Art. 5, but in the course of discussion difference of views developed and it was decided to take note of the opposing opinions and proceed to the consideration of the other articles. The following is the official announcement of the morning session: "In the morning sitting of Aug. 15 the conference has discussed Arts 4 and 5. Art. 4 was unanimously agreed upon. Not being able to arrive at a unanimous decision on Art. 5 the plenipotentiaries have decided to take note of the opposing views and proceed with the remaining articles."

The plan now is almost certain to pass over the disputed articles and see how far an agreement is possible, then to return and attack the obstacles.

If in the end an agreement were found to be impossible the world would know and be able to fix the responsibility for the merits of the respective contentions and place the blame for the prolongation of the carnage in the Far East. The very fact that ultimately the world will be enabled to fix the responsibility for a rupture, that in the final analysis the two countries are on trial before the public opinion of the world constitute the main hope of a successful outcome of the negotiations.

Art. 3, which was agreed to Tuesday, it develops was incorrectly stated to be the cession of the Chinese Eastern railroad. That article comes up later. The third article pertains to the restoration of the Chinese administration in the province of Manchuria as a necessary and natural sequence to Art. 2, providing for mutual evacuation and mutual recognition of Chinese territorial integrity and the open door policy for which American diplomacy has fought. The mistake was due to the fact that the railroad question involved generally in the restoration of the Chinese administration in Manchuria was touched.

The Associated Press is now able to state authoritatively that both sides of the twelve "articles" now before them, constitute the "bases" of a prospective "treaty of Washington," but as the wording is to be revised it does not, as accepted, necessarily establish the final text.

How to Avoid Yellow Fever
An Interview With Dr. Hartman Concerning the Yellow Plague

RECENT interview occurred with Dr. Hartman upon the subject of epidemic of Yellow Fever in New Orleans.

A summary of this interview is being broadcast over a portion of the United States for the benefit of Yellow Fever sufferers.

The Doctor said, in part, as follows:

"I leave the matter of quarantine and protection of localities against Yellow Fever with the health authorities. That is their business, not mine.

"I would like to say a few words, however, to the individual who has been exposed, or is liable to be exposed to this plague.

"There is no use having Yellow Fever. The thing to do is to keep clean outside and inside. The body should be kept clean.

"You should avoid everything which depresses the nervous system.

"By frequent bathing, the pores of the skin should be kept open and free from dirt.

"It is, however, quite as important that the inside of the body be kept clean.

"The skin covers the outside of the body. The mucous membrane lines the inside of the body.

"The lungs are lined by mucous membrane, the stomach is lined by mucous membrane, the bowels are lined by mucous membrane.

"The infection from Yellow Fever enters the system by way of the air that is breathed into the lungs, by the water which we drink or the food which we eat.

"If the mucous membranes are kept perfectly normal, the contagious or infectious material breathed from the air or taken with the food or drinking water cannot enter the system.

"The way to keep the mucous membrane strong and healthy is first to live an absolutely temperate and frugal life, drinking only boiled water, eating only well-cooked food.

"There are, however, thousands of people who have defective mucous membranes.

"Some phase or degree of catarrh has destroyed the integrity of the mucous membranes, leaving minute ulcers or openings through which the infectious poison can enter the system.

"In all such cases it is advisable for the person to take Peruna. No one should neglect this important detail. Begin taking Peruna at once in teaspoonful doses so as to harden and heal the mucous membrane against the possible invasion of the Yellow Fever poison.

"The bowels should be kept freely open by the use of Castor Oil while Peruna is being taken.

"No other laxative is as good as Castor Oil in cases of Yellow Fever.

"This advice is especially applicable to those who are detained by quarantine in the infected districts.

"Those who can get away into healthful localities would lessen the risk of infection by doing so.

"But thousands of people will be compelled by quarantine regulations to stay in diseased localities, and thus they will be brought daily into contact with infection.

"Such people ought to begin with a course of Peruna at once. Peruna will fortify the system against the invasion of Yellow Fever poison.

"The belief that mosquitoes in the spread of Yellow Fever makes it prudent at least for every one to protect themselves from their bites by having the houses perfectly screened from these pests.

"In order to be on the safe side, however, Peruna should be used during the whole course of the epidemic.

"I feel sure," the Doctor went on to say, "that any person following this advice is in no danger of taking Yellow Fever."

Rain Would Be Beneficial in Many Sections—Cotton Outlook Improved
GALVESTON, TEXAS, Aug. 16.—Following is the government weekly crop bulletin report for the week ending Aug. 14, 1906:

Slightly cooler weather than during the previous week prevailed. The weather was fair throughout the state during the greater part of the week, but early in the week showery conditions were quite general. Occasional scattered showers occurred during the remainder of the week. In those sections where no rain fell for several days, the soil was becoming dry and rain would be very beneficial. The weather was generally favorable for farm work, which was pushed as rapidly as possible. Considerable work in the way of preparation for fall plowing and seeding has been done.

WITH THE CATTLEMEN

WILL MODIFY LAW

CHICAGO, Ill., Aug. 15.—Secretary of Agriculture Wilson held a conference today with about fifty cattlemen at the Stock Yards Exchange on the subject of live stock transportation.

The cattlemen made it plain to the secretary that they were opposed to the law which requires shippers to feed and rest cattle every twenty-four hours on the journey east. They wanted it extended to thirty-six hours.

The ranchmen argued that it distressed cattle and does more harm to take them from the cars every twenty-four hours, loading them with poles and banging them against the sides of the car and cattle pen chutes than it does to allow them to remain in a car for a day and a half.

Secretary Wilson told the stockmen who were from Texas, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Iowa and other cattle states, that he could not change the law, but he agreed to modify the order, which now limits the number of cattle in cars when they are fed en route.

"As to feeding the cattle in the cars," said Secretary Wilson, "there are not enough of the right kind of cars to make that general. The stockmen represented today of the association are W. P. Smith, president, Monticello, Ill.; W. J. Moore, vice president, San Antonio, Texas; S. H. Ward, secretary and treasurer, St. Paul, Minn. The following program has been arranged for the meeting.

THE ALPINE COUNTRY
ALPINE, TEXAS, Aug. 15.—W. T. Henderson sold to W. R. Bush of Newton, Kan., 113 head of 2-year-old black mule steers. They were shipped from here Friday and the price is $3.50 per hundred weight in El Paso. It was estimated that they would weigh at least 1,000 pounds.

W. T. Henderson has just bought of H. A. King 700 head of 2-year-old steers at $2.00 to be delivered Dec. 1.

Jackson & Harmon have purchased of S. J. Adams 400 head of cows.

W. Q. McKinney sold to Harrell & Slower of Sanderson 600 head of goats at $2.

SELLING MANY CALVES

E. F. Dawson, who is a resident of the Rosen Heights neighborhood, remarked yesterday to a reporter for this paper that the number of calves coming into this market for the past few weeks has been a source of wonder to those who are acquainted with the conditions existing here.

If a fellow gets real now, it will be free and all right; but, if he gets beef, plain, ordinary cow meat, he won't every time get anything near like real good beef. Cattlemen don't sell any young cows; but when they want to get rid of calves, it is the younger set that is shipped into the market. There are many reasons why a man should want to get rid of calves at this time of the year. If he has too many calves, it is the calves that have to go, with a few of the older cows—old and tough ones.

"I buy a few cows, calves and steers for feeding and hardly ever buy any cows at this time of the year. If a man can get hold of a small bunch of milking fair calves and feed them until next spring, he will realize almost the same amount of profit from them as from handling an ordinary farm. By a small bunch, I mean more than two or three hundred. It takes a small amount of labor to furnish food for them and only a small outlay compared to the returns that, in the ordinary course of things, will be realized."

INDIAN TERRITORY CONDITIONS
R. M. Tadlock of Rush Springs, I. T., was a visitor at the stock yards Tuesday morning, "just looking around, rather feeling of the market," as he stated to a reporter for this paper. "Mr. Tadlock is in the cattle business in Indian Territory and is a frequent shipper to and from the Fort Worth market.

Conditions in the territory are all that the cattlemen, or any one else for that matter, could wish, according to statements by Mr. Tadlock. There have been no complaints coming from the farmers or the grazers on account of lack of rain. The territory received a full share of the abundance of rain that fell over the southwest during the late spring and summer of this year.

MINERAL WELLS, TEXAS, Aug. 16.—Some sweet revenge was tasted by the Arlington baseball team in Monday's game, as promised by them on Sunday. Their new battery work was much better and some good ball was played by both the visitors and locals in the game. The sad feature of the game was an accidental scuffle at first by a base runner and baseman in the eighth inning and exchange of blows, soon brought on a general engagement, full reinforcements coming to the aid of both men, and for a short while a "free for all" was enjoyed by the grand stand crowd. The matter was toned up, however, and the remaining innings played out, giving the visitors a victory by a score of 8 to 5.

Auditorium Notes

The second relay in the auditorium contest came to a close last night and there was much excitement and hard fought competition among the loyal contestants and their many friends. Miss Boswell, Miss Ochs and Miss Breeding still hold first, second and third places, and Miss Bessie Elmore takes fourth place, while Miss Myrtle Frost goes from sixth to fifth place and Miss Frances Preult drops from fourth to sixth place. Vote Lela Breeding cast the heaviest vote yesterday of any of the young ladies, making a gain of nearly 5,000 votes. Miss Cassie Boswell cast the next largest number of votes, making a gain of nearly 4,000. Miss Bessie Elmore was next with more than 3,000. Miss Lottie Holland next with 3,000. Miss Myrtle Frost with 3,000 and Miss Florence Goetz with 1,000.

There was much excitement at auditorium headquarters all day yesterday. The crowd of young ladies and young men poured into Secretary Brown Harwood's office during the entire day. Secretary Harwood was at his desk until a very late hour last night, counting, checking and rechecking the thousands of votes that were cast by these loyal young ladies and their many friends.

The contest is now in the last relay and from now on until it closes, which is at 6 o'clock, Sept. 9, only three votes will be counted in each 10-cent coupon sold. No one as yet could possibly predict the winners as the list of votes is a very close one, and surprises may be sprung at any time. There were several out of town friends of two of the young ladies who dropped into Secretary Harwood's office and cast votes for their favorite, and they gave out hints to the effect that the auditorium committee could expect a heavy vote for two young ladies on the last day of the contest. Their favorites are not near the head of the list at the present time, but judging from what they had to say they will give the leaders a hard fight for first place.

Between The Devil and The Deep

They had been talking about bears. "That reminds me," spoke up Eastman Brown, an old gentleman, as he fixed his personality more comfortably in his chair, "that I know a little about Montana myself and have had an encounter or two with Br'er Bear. You see, I was a mail contractor at the time I refer to, and to be a mail contractor out there in that new country of Montana at the time I speak of, was a vastly different thing from what it is now.

"I had taken the contract from the government to carry the mails between Durgin and Camp Brown, both being mining towns, the latter on the Cross river, a distance of one hundred and fifty miles.

"It was about a week before my usual time for paying the ranchmen, etc., but there was no time to waste, at hand, and, thinking thus, the wisest course for me to pursue was to beat a hasty retreat. This I did, and had hardly got half way down, when, to my horror, I saw a gigantic grizzly bear coming toward me—coming up the ridge directly toward me.

"Under the inspiration of this new fear, I retreated until near the top of the ridge before I recollected the savages who were coming from the other side. And I may as well add to have been between two fires, and for a moment I was completely bewildered by my fearful situation—a situation in which there was little chance between two impending perils; one seemed as certain of death as the other, but the bear being the closer, I was necessarily compelled to encounter him. It was plain that the brute had discovered me, and was after me alone.

"My resolve was made in an instant—I determined to shoot the bear in the head, not in the hope of killing him, for it generally takes more than one shot to do that, except when hit in the most vulnerable part of the head, but I trusted that I might bewilder him for a moment, during which time I would make an attempt to escape both him and the Indians, too, who by this time, were close at hand. Quickly bringing my rifle to my shoulder, I sighted at the head of the big brute and fired. It struck him somewhere in the head and made a painful wound.

"The instant the bear felt the twinge, he reared on his hind legs, and putting his paws up to his head, tried to pick out the bullet. This, of course, he did, not with the slightest idea of the nature of the wound, but under the delusion that a splinter, or some sharp object had penetrated his flesh, which he could easily push away with his paw.

"Without waiting to see the effect of my shot, I ran in a direction that would allow me to pass around my brute enemy, made a tremendous leap down the ridge, alighting on my feet with such momentum as to lose my balance. I was precipitated forward on my face and, bruised and stunned, rolled to the bottom far more expeditiously than my feet could possibly have carried me.

"It was at this moment that the bear, recovering from the momentary bewilderment occasioned by the shot, and raging and furious from his wound, looked around for me in order to wreak his vengeance. Not having seen my unceremonious descent, the brute still looked above him, and now comes the singular part of my adventure.

"At the very moment the bear reached the summit, the two Indians in pursuit of me also put in an appearance, the opposing parties being within ten feet of each other before either knew it. The encounter was so sudden that the foremost savage may be said to have run directly into the monster's grasp, and the fury of the latter was so great that he was not particular as to who fell into his power, provided he secured some one to revenge himself upon.

"One of the Redskins was doomed, while the remaining one had the narrow escape of his life. The agonized yells of the Indians gave me the true nature of affairs, and so soon as I was able I crawled to my feet and got away from the spot, which had come so near witnessing my own death. I walked on and on, until, just as the bright sun tipped the eastern sky with red, the Stars and Stripes above Camp Brown gladdened my weary eyes.

"TO MY HORROR, I SAW A GIGANTIC GRIZZLY."

so I put my coin, as customary, into my leather bag around my waist and started out alone. On the third day of my solitary ride, toward night, I struck the head of Yellow Water creek. Following this stream I would at length leave the mountains, after which a ride of thirty-six miles would bring me to Camp Brown.

"One more night in the mountains and the risks of my adventure would be over. Musing as my horse picked his way along the obscure trail, yet watchful, I had ridden four miles, when, suddenly, my steed slipped, fell and broke his right forefoot, entirely disabling him.

"I at once, of course, shot the animal, and, after debating for a moment, I concluded to ascend a rocky ridge some distance away, to take a better observation of my situation. I did so, and was standing on the most elevated portion of the same, with a very fine view before me, which view I would like to have gazed at more minutely, when suddenly, I was startled by the discharge of two rifles, and, looking hastily around, I saw two Indians making all haste toward me. My first inspiration was to take a shot at them, which would have been one of the easiest things and reload before they came up, but I thought there might be others close

NO OCCASION FOR ALARM

The recent hanging of a negro at Waco and incarceration of another at Sulphur Springs has occasioned a considerable feeling of unrest among the negro population of the state, and especially in the communities directly affected. In Sulphur Springs it is said that the feeling of apprehension among the negroes has grown to such an extent that many of them have left the town, while others are preparing to cast their lot elsewhere just as soon as they can get together the necessary funds for the journey. The report is that many of those who have taken an abrupt departure did so with no knowledge of where they were going or what they were going to do. They simply boarded the train and asked the conductor to take them as far away from that town as their limited cash would pay for, the main idea apparently being that it was best to put as much distance between Sulphur Springs and themselves as was possible.

Such a feeling of apprehension among the negro race is entirely uncalculated for, as the people of Sulphur Springs and no other community in this state are going to interfere with them so long as they are peaceable and law-abiding people, realizing their places and not making themselves obnoxious to their neighbors. The fact that one of the race met with a terrible death in that staid little city is as deplorable from one standpoint as another. No doubt the men who perpetrated the act regret what they believed was a necessity for such action as much as the negroes did to have it accomplished. They realize that the taking of human life is a terrible procedure under any circumstances, and the horrible manner in which death was meted out to the victim of the recent awful tragedy does not imply that the people of Sulphur Springs or any other Texas community desire to engage in such practices for the mere sake of pastime. The act of those Sulphur Springs people, lawless and revolting as it was, was intended as notice to the negro race that the laying of hands on a white woman in Texas means sure and speedy death in as horrible form as it can be administered. If they profit by the incident it will be found that no more of them are in any kind of danger. All that they have to do is to bear in mind the terrible lesson that has been given them, and strive to fill their places in life and inculcate that principle in the minds of those who are coming after them.

Down in Waco, where a negro was hanged for the same offense by a mob, a rumor has been in circulation to the effect that the negroes were so resentful of what had transpired that a race war was imminent. It was whispered that the negroes were preparing to rise up against the whites and execute summary vengeance for the hanging of the prisoner, Sank Majors, who had been granted a new trial. But investigation into the situation revealed the fact that there was nothing in the rumors, except perhaps a little apprehension among the whites. S. B. Rose, a leading negro of Waco, prints the following card in the Waco Times-Herald:

In view of the fact that there exists in this city and county some apprehension of a race war, I have made diligent inquiry among my people, both in and out of the city, and I find that all such rumors are false and without any foundation. While we deplore the happenings of last Monday night, yet it cannot be helped and any criticism of the white people of this town and county by the colored people will tend to make matters worse. I speak for a large majority of my people when I say the rape fiend has no sympathy among us, and we assure the good people of Waco that there is no movement among us to bring about trouble between the races. Our advice to our people is to cultivate a friendly relation with the white people, and should any one attempt to agitate trouble, put the seal of disapproval upon it. We are sure that the industrious, law-abiding negro has nothing to fear, but on the other hand has the protection of all good citizens.

And that is the idea exactly. The industrious, law-abiding negro has nothing to fear from the white people in Waco, Sulphur Springs or elsewhere in Texas. The people of this state have nothing against the negro race that could inspire any other feeling so long as they prove themselves law-abiding and do not seek to make trouble. There are some exceptions in almost every community among the white people, who are against the negro on general principles, just as there are worthless and shiftless negroes who are averse to honest labor and seek to stir up strife among their own people and teach them to hate the white man and his ways. But these are fortunately in the minority everywhere, and there is no occasion for any alarm on either side of the question.

Instead of stirring up strife and further contention, which could but result in further disaster, the idea is for both whites and blacks to remember that such a course can but result in grave trouble. The negro is here and plays an important part in our domestic economy, but he is not more essential in that sphere than the white man is to the negro. Each has his allotted work to perform, and there is no real cause for antagonism. Leading negroes in every Texas community should study the card from the Waco member of their race and seek to impress its principles upon the members of their race generally.

QUESTION OF CONVICT LABOR

The Farmers' Union, at the recent session in Waco, passed a resolution against the employment of convict labor in competition with that of American workmen. The Times-Herald thinks that this opposition to competitive convict labor is largely sentimental, for we are all sharers in wealth produced, no matter by whom. But we won't stop to argue this point—it is not material. The question naturally arises, what shall we do with the men in prison? They can not remain idle, for Satan ever finds mischief for idle hands to do. Besides, the rest of us do not care to be taxed to support them in idleness. If they make articles of commerce, according to the Farmers' Union, they come in competition with free labor, whether they work in the shop or on the farm. Here's a pretty how-do-you do they must labor and they are not to produce anything for the markets.

There's only one way out—only one solution to the problem. Put the men to work on the public highways. Give us better roads. Hands all round, let the music be spirited, and we won't go home till morning.—Waco Times-Herald.

The question of what to do with the convict labor of this state is one that is annually becoming more perplexing. Our convict population is annually increasing to such an extent that both of the big state penitentiaries are full to overflowing. The management of these penal institutions have been submitted to much hard work and anxiety of heart to meet the condition as it has arisen, for there seems some form of objection that can be advanced against every procedure that is contemplated. Hundreds of these men have been hired out to different lines of railway to do certain kinds of heavy work, but every convict that is employed on railway work robs honest labor of just that much employment. The state has purchased several large farms and many of them are engaged in tilling the soil, but here again the convict labor question comes in contact with honest labor, for every bit of agricultural products that the convicts produce comes into more or less competition with the work of honest labor. So it is with the work done in the penitentiary enclosures. The product of the furniture factory, the shoe factory, the iron furnace—all this is in competition with honest labor, and the question is what can the state do to remedy the situation?

The Farmers' Union and all forms of organized labor oppose the idea of coming in contact with the convict as a competitor. The policy of the state has always been to defer to this sentiment as nearly as possible, but there are limitations that clearly ought to apply. As the Waco paper suggests, it is absolutely necessary to keep these unfortunates at work. Good, hard, honest labor is something of a spur or incentive to their reformation, besides saving them from the horror of brooding continually over their miserable condition and continually plotting escape. It is essential, too, from a hygienic standpoint. If these men were permitted to loiter around the penal institutions in utter and complete idleness there would soon result a frightful mortality among them. Epidemics would break out among them and they would die like sheep with the rot.

The suggestion that the services of the convicts be utilized on the public roads of the state is a good one, but it has been made so many times in the past without eliciting any favorable action that it seems superfluous to again bring that idea to the front. Still, in the opinion of those who have given the matter close study, it would seem that the employment of all short term men on the public highways of the state would be a step in the right direction. It is true that such action would bring the convicts into competition with the honest road builders of the state, but there would be no material objection to this. The average citizen of Texas works the public road in much the same spirit that he pays taxes—always under protest. But if a law was passed providing that the services of all short term convicts were available in such counties as were willing to feed and care for them while engaged in the work, the effect would be to do a great deal for the public highways of the state.

It will always be necessary, however, to afford employment for a very large proportion of these men within the walls of the institutions in which they are confined, and just to that extent will they always come in competition with honest labor. That such is a fact may not be appreciated by those who are opposed to convict labor, but that does not alter the situation one particle so far as the state of Texas is concerned. The state is confronted with the problem of keeping these men at work, and while there is no desire to interfere with honest labor, yet the fact remains that there is no other course open. So long as the convicts have to be worked there will be heard the same old complaint.

The idea that the people of Texas were sitting up nights waiting for the time to come when they could invest in state banks under the new law, seems to have been a mistake. Only six charters were taken out the first day after the new law went into effect, when it was expected the number would run up into the hundreds. The fact of the business is the new Federal law which authorized small national banks, seems to have come very near supplying the demand for banking institutions in this state.

The time is drawing near when the great state of Texas is going to offer 5,000,000 acres of public school land for sale to the highest bidder, on a minimum valuation of $1 per acre. It is going to be a case of the longest pole knocking the permisson, and as there are so many permissons, it is hardly possible that one of the state's offerings will bring a fancy figure. There is too much of that school land for it to run very much above the minimum valuation, except in some isolated instances.

The Mineral Wells Index asks who killed the interurban project, Fort Worth or Weatherford? The Telegram was not aware the interurban project had been killed. It has simply passed the wind-flogging period and been reduced to a cold business proposition. And means will be found for the construction of the line. The original bonus hung up in the beginning will be sufficient to attain the desired result.

Oyama is ready to strike a telling blow against the Russians in Manchuria, and he should not hold back on account of those alleged peace negotiations. Russia is determined to comply with but few of the Japanese demands, and another knockout blow at this time would bring her to a clearer realization of her real position in the premises.

Texas lands are daily enhancing in value, and that little farm you have been dreaming of for years will cost you double value if it is not purchased within the next two years. The time is near at hand when all Texas land that is at all desirable is going to be as high as the proverbial cat's back.

Judge C. K. Bell of this city made a very telling speech before the Grayson county old settlers at Sherman last week, and made many warm friends and supporters as a result. Judge Bell never fails to make friends when he gets out among the people.

The new street car line to Arlington Heights is to be completed in October, and the manner in which the new owners of that very desirable property have taken hold of the situation seems to indicate that there is to be a campaign of push from the very beginning.

Some person has discovered that nearly all the men who are members of congress are guilty of the practice of nepotism. It is a practice that seems to be prevalent from one end of the country to the other and has become almost legitimate from long custom.

Several Texas cities and towns are now receiving their first bales of the new cotton crop, but as yet Fort Worth has not done one single solitary thing to even divide honors with Arlington. Is it possible that Fort Worth does not desire to become a cotton market?

THE WEB

By FREDERICK TREVOR HILL.

Once out in the street, Maddox stopped at the foot of the doorsteps and stood there for some time turning things over in his mind. He had either said too little or too much. Possibly his self-assurance had prejudiced Ainslee's last chance. But in any case, he had offended Harmony without warning her sufficiently against Myrick. Was it possible that Myrick was attempting any tricks in the Placento litigation by his visits? No, that was ridiculous! Myrick laughed as he banished the idea. He had been making an ass of himself all the evening. He had presumed on the friendship of a dear little comrade, and been angry with her because she would not take him seriously. He behaved absurdly and been laughed at as he deserved. It was preposterous to have asked her to trust him without explanation. He had treated her like a child. He would go back and ask her to forgive him, tell her the whole story, and let that excuse him as far as it would.

Maddox mounted the steps again, but stopped half-way up. No, he had blundered enough for one night. This was not the moment to correct his errors. It would be better to take time to evolve a remedy for his folly. The wolve Dave descended the steps again and turned slowly homeward.

CHAPTER XXI. The first news which Maddox read in his paper the next morning was that Richard Lorimer had been shot dead in his rooms during the night. In the newspaper story the fact of Lorimer's marriage and divorce and a few other details were given, but Ainslee's name was not directly mentioned. The account was scarcely more than a statement of the fact that Lorimer had been shot through the heart by a pistol bullet fired at close range through his left side and under his arm.

The body had been discovered by the night watchman, who, seeing that the door of Lorimer's apartment was open, had entered to warn the tenant of the fact. Lorimer had, it appeared, returned to his rooms about 10 o'clock, and the watchman had given the alarm about half-past 11. The murder must have been committed between those hours. Maddox had left Ainslee at her hotel not later than half-past 8.

There were three hours unaccounted for, thought Maddox, his brain awhirl. Suppose she claimed that she was asleep during all that time. Such a claim would require more proof than her statement in the light of previous events.

Even in the short space of time between the water discovery and the hour of going to press the reporters had collected the main facts of Lorimer's life. Before another morning they would ferret out every detail of Ainslee's affairs. It would not be possible to keep the story of "Lorimer vs. Lorimer" a secret. Certainly Rutledge, Bailey & Nugent were no longer interested in concealing it. Such a story would leak out sooner or later. It pointed too directly to the possible murderer; it supplied too clearly a motive, to be left untold. Anyone who tried to be left untold. Anyone who tried to be left untold.

It was quite plain that while the young man may not have known anything about music he knew a thing or two about baseball.

"Can you take your new automobile apart?" "Oh, yes, that's no trick at all. All I have to do is start it and it falls apart."

"Not by hiding or suppressing anything—not by doing what I've tried to do for you best. I'd rather have you testify against me, Dave, than know you were concealing something you ought to tell. I'm sure you do not feel right about this. I can read it in your face. You must not be my counsel, Dave. I am not afraid."

There was a knock at the door. Maddox called out an answer and then stooped and whispered quickly in her ear. "I helped you last night, Ainslee, did I not?" She pressed his hand gratefully. "Then will you not help me now?" She nodded slowly and Maddox turned quickly to the door. At the threshold stood a hall-boy, who asked for Mrs. Evans, and behind him Dave recognized Bradley Parker of the detective bureau.

"Mrs. Evans?" he repeated to the hall-boy's question. "Yes, come in, Mr. Parker," he added, addressing the detective, and then as the door closed, "Mrs. Evans, this is Mr. Parker, of the detective bureau. My client, Mrs. Evans—Mr. Parker."

CHAPTER XXII. Maddox shoved a chair toward the detective and seated himself opposite Ainslee.

"I told Mrs. Evans she would have to answer a lot of questions today if the matter wasn't promptly cleared up," he said, "and I might have promised you her first caller would be."

The moment he recognized the detective in the hallway Maddox realized that the situation was critical. Whatever Ainslee said now she would have to abide by in the future. If she told the whole story, there was no saying where it might lead her. This man had come to obtain that preliminary and informal talk which Maddox knew convicted more criminals than all the testimony of witnesses and cross-examining of counsel put together.

Complete suggestions and disarranged possibilities of all kinds darted through Maddox's brain as he sat listening to Parker and Ainslee with a careless, absent-minded air. "Are you quite sure Mr. Lorimer did not kill himself?" "Yes, Ma'am."

"This account suggests suicide," Ainslee pointed to the newspaper on the table, but the detective shook his head. "It ain't possible, Mrs. Evans. The track of the bullet proves that. It entered here and passed down like this. Now if you take this—" he drew a revolver from his pocket, watching her closely as she took it in her hand, "if you try to hold that against your left side with either your right or left hand at this angle—no, it isn't loaded. You ain't afraid, are you?"

"No; but I've handled firearms enough to be cautious." "I see. Then you can readily understand, ma'am, how improbable it is that a man would tie himself into a double bow-knot to shoot himself in the side when there's easier ways."

"Say, Parker," Maddox interrupted. "Say, Parker, don't you think Mrs. Evans' story ought to go to your or the coroner's office before it reaches the newspapers?" "Of course."

"Well, she can't refuse to talk to the reporters very long without getting every newspaper in the country down on her. How would it do if I wrote a note to the district attorney offering to give him the benefit of her testimony at first hand if he thought it of any importance after hearing your report?" The detective nodded approvingly. "That's a good idea, Mr. Maddox," he assented. "The newspapers don't give us a fair show these days."

"They didn't give us any show at all when I was district attorney out west. I remember more than one good catch which escaped us, thanks to the early information of the press. If you'll take my offer down-town and telephone me what to keep back, I think it'll work to our mutual advantage, for, of course, it goes without saying that unless this case is cleared up at once Mrs. Evans will be in a most unfortunate position."

Parker's face took on an expression of well-weighed surprise. "I don't see why, Mr. Maddox," he replied, innocently. "Well, you're a detective, you know, and not a reporter. If you'd been educated in Newspaper Row, you wouldn't be looking for criminals, but for copy, and then you'd see the grand possibilities of this affair. Just take the bare facts as we know them, for instance. Here is a man who has been divorced from his wife, and on a diet of morphine has acquired an appetite for revenge. He takes advantage of a technicality in the law and brings a suit for divorce against the woman who has divorced him and married another man. His suit is so well founded that she cannot escape an outrageous decree against her. Nothing but his death can help her. Don't you see the newspaper motive?"

Ainslee stared at the speaker in wondering silence as the detective nodded comprehensively, but with every evidence of astonishment. "Well, the motive being established, look for the opportunity," continued Maddox. "Mrs. Evans had every opportunity for killing Lorimer. She knew where he lived—he occupied the apartment in which he was killed before she married him. She knew his mode of life and his habits. Moreover, she was, as she has told you, familiar with firearms, and to cap it all she cannot prove that she was not at Lorimer's rooms last night. Why, my dear fellow, there isn't an amateur in town who will not pronounce her guilty beyond the shadow of a doubt on such facts as those!"

Parker gave an embarrassed little laugh as Maddox paused, but it was plain that much of the story was new to him and that it had startled him considerably. He turned inquiringly to Ainslee. "Doesn't anybody know where you were last night?" he asked. (To be continued)

Verses That Ring

GROWING OLD A little more gray in the lessening hair Each day as the years go by. A little more stooping in the form, A little more dim in the eye. A little more faltering in the step As we tread life's pathway o'er, And a little nearer every day To the ones who have gone before. A little more halting of the gait, And a dullness of the ear; A growing weariness of the frames With each swift passing year. A fading of hopes and ambitions, too, A fading of life's quest, And a little nearer every day To a sweet and peaceful rest. A little more loneliness in life As the dear ones pass away; A bigger claim on the heavenly land With every passing day. A little further from toil and care, A little less way to roam; A drawing near to a peaceful voyage And a happy welcome home.—Dallas Lantern.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS

Dead soldiers draw no pensions. But the rank outsider in a race often has the inside track. One can often measure a man's debts by the cut of his clothes. So many of us are anxious to do away with vices—in our neighbors. Wise farmers never attempt to raise their crops in the political field. On the day a man discovers that he is a fool he begins to acquire wisdom. Culture enables one to dodge the pronunciation of depot by calling it station. Most people are opposed to everything of doubtful propriety that cannot be concealed. Women do not take kindly to the telephone, when using it they have to listen half the time at home. With a tombstone epitaph the trouble is that it comes too late in the game to enable a man to borrow money on the strength of it.—Chicago News.

REFLECTIONS OF A BACHELOR

You can make people believe you have a very fine judgment by always asking them. It's a smart baby that knows enough to save up all its cries till the middle of the night. No woman ever reads anybody's will in a newspaper without hoping her name got in somehow. An awful easy way to get a girl to marry you is to have her mother tell her she ought not.—New York Press.

AMONG EXCHANGES

Colonel Watterson says that he is going to enter the political arena again this fall. This means that the colonel has some new ideas that he wants the public to gasp while there is yet time and before any platforms are built.—Austin Statesman. It is rumored that Colonel Watterson will be a candidate for the democratic nomination for governor of Kentucky, and if this is true it is a pretty safe assumption that he will be elected.

Least Yellow Jack comes from the south by way of the north, there will be guards placed on the northern line of Texas, and it is a good thing. An ounce of prevention is worth a whole ton of cure when it comes to yellow fever.—Terrell Transcript. It is eminently proper that all necessary precautions should be taken to prevent the introduction of yellow fever into North Texas. But there is no occasion for hysterics over the danger to be apprehended from that source.

In the Fort Worth Telegram of Tuesday is a large picture on the front of Mrs. George Gould, under which is the sad story of her husband's wreck at Dieppe, France, in which Mrs. Gould, while riding with her husband had one of her limbs slightly brushed. Such accidents are terrible. When we think of them they make us shudder and we wonder if it is not in our power to keep the country to go on mourning for at least one day?—Wichita Falls Herald.

The Wichita Falls paper should be more accurate in its statements if it would avoid trouble. The picture referred to was not on the front of Mrs. George Gould, but on the first page of the Telegram. Some people just naturally can't make a statement of fact without getting things twisted.

General charges of graft in public office are wrong, for under such wholesale charges the good suffer with the bad. There is probably grafting in Texas, as there is probably in every state in the union, but the charges ought to be sufficiently specific not to include men who are honest and who are trying to do their duty by themselves and the public they serve.—Denison Herald.

There is no grafting in Texas, and the papers alleging such a condition are doing the entire state a gross injustice. Texas is one of the best governed states in the union.

Generational aspirants in Texas are having rather a hard time mingling with the dear people this year, and none realize that fact more than the politicians in question.—Austin Statesman. The trouble with the Texas gubernatorial aspirants is that they are about six months too previous.

If a mosquito breaks into your room and commences to sing "My Creole Girl" in a Stygiana Culex tone of voice, get up at once and bat it with a bed sliver for it may be from the swamp of Louisiana, and may have its pistol pocket loaded with yellow fever germs.—Cleo Roundup.

There is not much danger of a Louisiana mosquito finding himself as far west as Cisco, and there is not much probability of that progressive little city ever experiencing the horrors of a yellow fever epidemic.

Don't drop your insurance policies. Study the situation and get yourself in a position to act intelligently with regard to your interests in this regard. The average man has been too prone to take the word of the agent regarding insurance when it is a matter on which he should thoroughly post himself.—Denison Herald. All insurance companies should not be regarded as frauds on account of the developments that have come to light regarding some of them. Life insurance is a very safe and proper investment.

PLAN 3-LINE SYSTEM FOR SOUTH SIDE

Traction Company Officials Discuss Street Car Service With Civic League

PROPOSED THREE-LINE SYSTEM FOR SERVICE SOUTH SIDE
MAIN STREET LINE—Cars to run south on Main street to Magnolia avenue, thence west to Hemphill and return same route.

Operation by three separate lines to the South side, suggested at a meeting of the Sixth Ward Civic League Tuesday night was promised to be taken under consideration by Vice President and General Manager Mapledoram of the Northern Texas Traction Company, who attended the meeting and heard complaints of citizens concerning the service now given.

INSUFFICIENT SERVICE
Insufficient car service at all busy times was also taken up at the meeting, a number of prominent citizens saying they had been forced to walk home in the evening to avoid hanging on overcrowded cars.

MERCURY WORSE THAN THE DISEASE

The effects of Mercury and Potash are worse than the effects of Contagious Blood Poison, for which these minerals are generally used. They cannot cure the disease, and in addition set up a poison of their own, producing dyspepsia, by drying up the gastric juices, salivation, sores, mercurial rheumatism, and often necrosis of the bones.

Bowling Green, Ky., Mitchell House. Gentlemen:—For over four years I suffered greatly from a severe case of Contagious Blood Poison. I went to Hot Springs, Ark., where I stayed for four months at a big expense. I then consulted physicians, who prescribed Mercury. Nothing did me any good, in fact the treatment proved more harmful than beneficial. I at once commenced its use, and in six months could find no trace of the disease whatever. This was about two years ago, and there has been no signs of return. D. M. SANDERS.

S. S. S., a remedy made from roots, herbs and barks, is the only known antidote for Contagious Blood Poison. It thoroughly and permanently eradicates the poison from the blood so that no sign is ever seen of the disease in future. S. S. S. builds up instead of tearing down the system, as do Mercury and Potash, and when it has cured the disease every part of the body has been toned up by its purifying and tonic effects. S. S. S. also removes any effects of the mineral treatment from the blood. We offer a reward of $1,000 for proof that S. S. S. contains any mercury or any other mineral. Home treatment book and any medical advice will be given without charge. THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., Atlanta, Ga.

is being abandoned in all large cities, according to Traction officials and traffic men present here out in the statements. Other citizens, however, took an opposite view of the matter. "When we had the old system here, I thought it was the worst that could be had, but since the establishment of this I have learned better," declared one speaker.

STATION INACCESSIBLE

Inability to reach the Texas and Pacific union station was next taken up at the meeting. Dr. George MacAddam, president of Fort Worth University, spoke in this connection and told of the difficulty of pupils of that institution in getting to the university from the station and back. He urged that a strategic point in any city such as the meeting point of its railroads, should be made accessible in any adequate system of street car service.

ROUND ABOUT TRIP

Time lost in boarding a car and going a great distance south before the actual trip to the city began was also thrashed out, statements being made by those present that they frequently walked from their homes leaving at the time the car did and reached the post office before the car overtook them. Sam Triplett, secretary of the meeting, declared he could beat the car to town every morning and not run.

COST INVOLVED

Vice President Mapledoram pleaded short residence in the city of a large amount of work accumulated during the illness of Mr. Haines and called upon Superintendent Edwards to explain the workings of the system. Heavy cost, Mr. Mapledoram declared, would be involved in replacing switches for a two way service and made a significant statement that cars could be run every thirty minutes. This called for protest to know if the company were operating just to hold its franchise.

After a vote showing overwhelming dissatisfaction with the service was taken following an unsuccessful effort to table it, it was decided to name a committee to continue the discussion of the matter with Mr. Mapledoram. Members of this committee are Dr. George MacAddam, J. W. Spencer, C. T. Hodge, A. E. Want, E. H. Carter and Judge W. P. McLean.

New members of the organization elected at the meeting were: George Diehl, Captain J. P. Littlejohn, J. S. Levesque, Louis Frazier, Morris Burney, F. A. Blain, Judge W. P. McLean, Judge B. R. Webb, J. W. Bicknell, D. S. Thomas and L. G. Gilbert.

PTOMAINE POISON CAUSE OF DEATH

Bruce Parks, Railroad Man, Taken Sick on Run and Dies After Removal to This City

Ptomaine poisoning, according to the death certificate, is the cause of the death of Bruce Parks, a Texas and Pacific railway brakeman, who died Monday morning at 1011 Annie street, this city.

Parks went out on his run Monday morning on the westbound Texas and Pacific train. After leaving Thurber he was taken violently ill and was brought back to this city as soon as possible. He arrived here at an early hour Tuesday morning, but died shortly before noon. It is supposed that he had eaten something at the noon hour Monday which contained the ptomaine.

Parks was about 15 years of age and had been in the employ of the Texas and Pacific railway for more than twenty years. He was a member of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen.

A widow and several small children survive him. The body was taken in charge by Undertaker Gause and was sent to Weatherford today for burial.

CARPENTER IS SLASHED

A. H. Robinson Has Wounds Treated at Emergency Hospital

A. H. Robinson, a carpenter, living in Lake avenue, was given medical treatment at city hall shortly after midnight Tuesday night. Stitches were taken in a gash in the left arm, extending from the shoulder to the elbow, a gash in the left thigh, above the knee and a bad cut in the right thigh. Thomas Redding, brother-in-law of Robinson, was placed under arrest charged with the attack.

CREDIT MEN UNITE

Dallas and Fort Worth Organizations to Work Together

Though yet in its infancy, the Fort Worth Credit Men's Association has grown marvelously since its organization about six months ago, there being now fifty members in this city, in addition to that number in Dallas, which organization has united with the one here.

A feature of the organization is the reporting and adjusting bureau, which is conducted by George Q. McQueen, former member of the association, through this department is proving invaluable to members of the association. It is reported.

Complete organization throughout the state is expected as a speedy series of small towns are learning of the benefits.

HEALTH MENACE TO BE REMOVED

County Commissioners Will Drain Slough Described in Telegram Recently

Petition for the drainage of the slough west of this city along the Benbrook road was granted Tuesday afternoon by the county commissioners.

The petition, signed by residents of Stove Foundry and Brooklyn Heights communities, as told in the Telegram, complained of the danger to health from the stagnant water and asked the creation of an outlet to the Clear Fork of the Trinity river.

The action of the commissioners provides that the work be done as soon as the county finances permit. Exact time when this will take place has not been announced.

The place made subject of complaint, as previously described, extends in a semi-circle west of Brooklyn Heights, crossing the road in two places. Much sickness resulting was reported in the petition.

Other matters taken up by the county commissioners at the afternoon session were:

Petition of Fort Worth Benevolent Home for donation of thirty-three acres of land for erection of a new building. Passed until next session of the court.

Petition of Brooklyn Heights school trustees to sell out. Granted.

Assessment petitions. Referred to tax collector.

Petition of trustees of Wyatt's chapel to sell. Granted.

Petition of A. H. Tandy and others for rescinding of taxes. Granted.

Petition of Dr. G. H. Thomas to lay pipes in streets and alleys of Handley. Granted.

Petition of Texas Consolidated Long Distance Telephone company to construct a line between Fort and Dallas. Referred for more specific information.

George W. Riddle is president of the company and F. B. McElroy, secretary. Statement that further lines in Tarrant county are considered was made in the application. The company is the one now working on the line in Dallas county. It has secured the Tarrant county line and seeks permission to continue the work. It will be operated in connection with the exchange of the Fort Worth Telephone company.

TEMPLE WINS OUT IN SECOND INNING

Schwenk Proves Easy Picking for Shelton's Ball Weevils

Temple took the measure of Pitcher Schwenk yesterday in the second inning with a vengeance, and when the smoke cleared away the victors were so far ahead that the Panthers could not catch up.

A large crowd was present at the game, as Schwenk's performance against Dallas was in the minds of all, but yesterday he had an off day and although the speed and the curves seemed to be there, the visitors from Temple in their Corsicana suits had no difficulty in pounding him for two singles and two two-baggers in succession, netting four runs.

Run getting was started by Temple in the first half of the second, Clayton swung a big one from Willson the ball out for two bases, hitting the left field fence. Deskin planted one safe in left but fast work by Cavender prevented a run and kept the men on first and third.

Mauch advanced the men on grounder to first. Walsh struck out and Gfrorer and Cavender each placed a hard drive past third and together scored three runs on the hits. That was all, however, and Lewis settled down and held his job throughout the rest of the game.

Temple scored another in the third inning. Clayton was hit by the ball and advanced to third on two fielders' choices. Then Salm lined one out to the right field and Lewis called safe enough for two bases.

OPPORTUNITIES NOT LACKING Fort Worth had opportunities to score in every inning except the third but every one of the opportunities came when there were two out and the third out was always made before the run could be sent over the plate.

In the eighth inning Temple was sent in to bat for Walsh with Mauch on first and two out, but he could not make good although he lined a vicious one at Alken. In the last inning Boles was the last man to bat and with Willson on first there were cries of "Home run." Boles hit the ball hard, but it did not go far enough and fell into the left fielder's mit.

The same teams play the second game of the series here this afternoon and it is almost up to Fort Worth to take the game if the pennant is to float here next year. Temple has a good lead now and seems to be so, as Dallas and Waco efforts do not seem to be strong enough to beat them enough to bring their percentage down.

REFUSES CHALLENGE

To Swim Whirlpool Rapids Said to Be Suicide, No Less BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 15.—William J. Glover Jr., who recently defeated Captain Graham in a swim through the lower rapids in Niagara river near the falls, will not accept the challenge of John W. Glenister of New York to swim the turbulent waters of the upper rapids in which Captain Webb lost his life in the 80s.

RAILROAD RUMBLINGS

The Texas freight committee representing the railroads of Texas will hold its bi-monthly meeting in Fort Worth, Aug. 23. W. F. Sterley, general freight agent of the Fort Worth and Denver City, is chairman of the committee.

WILL AMEND LAW

Believed Here Twenty-eight-hour Measure Will Be Modified The meeting which convened in Chicago Monday of representatives of the railroads and the cattlemen, will prove to be one of the most important held in some time, and will probably result in the conclusion that the twenty-eight-hour stock law should be repealed or modified so as to permit cattle being unloaded while in transit every thirty-six hours instead of every twenty-eight hours, as at present, on the opinion of railroad men here.

During the discussions thus far at the Chicago conference the consensus of opinion has been that the law should be at least amended so that live stock can be hurried to market without being unnecessarily delayed in transit.

PRESIDENT BAKER HERE

Brazos Valley Plans Are Now Completed for New Extensions President R. H. Baker of the Trinity and Brazos Valley Railroad Company was in Fort Worth Tuesday and confirmed the reports previously printed in The Telegram that the line is to be extended from Mexico to Houston and from Cleburne to Fort Worth, which extensions will complete the Oklahoma-Hawley system from Colorado to the Gulf.

PUZZLE IS SOLVED

Successful Device Prevents Resale of Return Tickets The anti-ticket brokerage device invented by Dr. J. N. Tabler of Royse City, Texas, has already been adopted by several Southern railroads.

The device consists of an envelope of peculiar construction, whereby it is sealed from within, leaving no break on the outer surface. These envelopes are supplied to the conductor by the respective roads. When the conductor comes to the last coupon of a round-trip ticket he takes it up and places the return coupon in this inner sealing envelope and seals it up. The traveler is given envelope containing the ticket and it must be handed to the conductor on the return trip intact, otherwise the ticket will not be honored.

MAY DIVERT LINE

La Porte Wants Port Arthur and Houston Road An effort is being made to divert the Port Arthur and Houston Short Line in order to place La Porte on the line.

The railroad company has made the citizens of La Porte a proposition that if the road will be built through that town instead of crossing the San Jacinto river several miles north of Lynchburg. Just what the demand of the railroad company will be upheld or rejected by the courts. The ticket scalpers claim that the ticket is the property of the purchaser and that it cannot be surrounded by restrictions such as is proposed by the patent envelope. The railroads will probably put the matter to a test.

SUCCESSFUL OPERATION

Baltimore and Ohio Figures Show Good Returns Statement of the growth of the Baltimore and Ohio road shows that between 1896 and 1934 gross earnings from operation increased 50 per cent per mile; operating expenses to earnings per mile and an increase of 89 per cent in net earnings from operation per mile; tonnage as a whole, doubled in volume, while decrease of 9 per cent in the ratio of operating expenses to earnings per mile increased 75 per cent; passenger receipts increased $1,000 a mile; gross income from all sources per mile increased 69 per cent; gross expenses and charges meanwhile advancing in ratio of but one-half, and net income reaching $3,100 a mile, a proportion of capital liabilities per mile changed from 21 per cent bond and 29 per cent stock, to 55 per cent bonds and 44 per cent stock; fixed charges—interest, taxes, rents, etc.—decreased 12 per cent per mile, and a net income—after payment of dividends on preferred stock—the average of which for four years has equaled 3 1/4 per cent on the outstanding common stock.

Young of Clay, N. Y., did. She says: "I had never heard of the liver and stomach, my heart was weakened, and I could not eat. I was very bad for a long time, but in Electric Bitters I found just what I needed, for they quickly relieved and cured me." Best medicine for weak women. Sold under guarantee. W. J. WOMAN
FACES HARD ORDEAL
Her Silence May Cost Good Name; to Speak, Her Husband's Life

ROME, Ga., Aug. 14.—Deliberation of the jury for ever six days in the celebrated Sanford-Wright murder trial resulted in a disagreement. This means, probably, that there must be another trial and that Mrs. Sanford must again undergo an ordeal as trying, almost, as can come to a woman.

Dr. Lyon's

PREPARED BY

her cruelly and said that months ago she had prepared an application for divorce. Proceedings had been deferred only because they would bring about the financial ruin of her husband. In declaring her intention to side with the prosecution, she said:

"I have to defend my honor, although to do it may mean the hanging of my husband and the father of my children." When he had read his wife's statement Sanford said he would be willing to mount the scaffold with a light heart and a smile on his lips if she could prove her innocence.

Much of the evidence at the trial was of such a character that boys under 21 years of age were excluded, and not a woman approached the court house.

Eight of the jurors were for conviction and four for acquittal. The latter said they had asked themselves the question: "Should we find Sanford guilty of a crime that we would have committed under similar circumstances?"

Mrs. Sanford has filed suit for divorce, making many sensational charges against her husband. She will persist in helping the prosecution. "He ought to suffer," she says, "as others have suffered. I shall stay in Rome twenty years, if necessary, to see that he gets what he deserves."

NOS. 2712-2713—A NOVEL CORSET-COVER AND UNDER-PETTICOAT
Feminine ingenuity is often exercised to devise new modes for dainty lingerie, and there is no field which offers more opportunity for originality of ideas. The first essential quality is daintiness, but when good taste is brought to bear upon the exquisite materials, the fancy may be allowed to run riot within limits. In the design illustrated, nainsook is used with a pretty trimming of needlework banding a little distance about the waist-line. Pale-blue wash ribbon run through embroidered heading draws the corset-cover in at the upper and lower edges, the former being in becoming round outline. Short tucks appear at the top of the back, which is drawn down tightly to eliminate the appearance of undesirable fullness, but at the front more of a pouched effect is given, which is always becoming. Gathers are sometimes used in place of the tucks. The under-petticoat shown with the corset-cover is snugly fitted over the hips, five gores being used, and the ruffle at the edge is used or not as one may fancy. The quantity of material required for the corset-cover, medium size, is 1 yard of goods 36 inches wide, 1 1/2 yards of insertion, 2 yards of heading, 4 yards of edging and 2 1/2 yards of ribbon. The under-petticoat requires, medium size, 3 3/4 yards of material 36 inches wide.

Pattern No. 2712 is in 6 sizes from 32 to 42 inches bust. Pattern No. 2713 is in 3 sizes from 20 to 34 inches waist. Send 10 cents for one pattern, or 20 cents for the two together, and the size, name and address to The Telegram.

KILLED BY TRAIN
Forty-Niner Meets Death on Railroad Near His Old Home
MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Aug. 16.—Stephen Caldwell of Phillipsport is dead from being struck by a train near his home. He was brought here yesterday. Caldwell was in the rusted and the California gold fields in 1849. He made a fortune. While returning by the sea route the vessel was burned and though many lives were lost, he succeeded in escaping by floating to shore.
Later he returned to California and was badly injured in a mine disaster.

RAILROADS BEGIN MOSQUITO WAR

Queen and Crescent Issues Exhaustive Pamphlet and Calls Upon Other Roads

In an effort to spread the educational campaign against the yellow fever mosquito, the Queen and Crescent has prepared a pamphlet, setting in a clear way the work of Major Reed at Havana, in eradicating the scourge there and demonstrating the mosquito theory conclusively. This publication is being scattered by them broadcast, with the avowed intention of arousing the people to the necessity of mosquito war.

Copies of the pamphlet have been received by the shippers in this city calling upon them to take up the same work in the interest of the people and themselves.

In the letter to other systems, General Passenger Agent George H. Smith says: "No standing water means no stegomyia. No stegomyia means no possibility of spread of yellow fever. No possibility of spread of fever means no necessity for quarantine. No quarantine means no interruption of traffic. No interruption of traffic means no interference with business, which spells prosperity."

FIRST BAGGING ORDER RECEIVED

Sixteen Cars for North Texas Ginners Opens Season, Which is Greatly Behind Normal

"Sale of bagging and ties to the ginners of North Texas usually begins during July," said J. A. Stephenson of M. Sanson & Co., at their office in the Live Stock Exchange building this morning, "but this year, owing probably to a condition of the weather, which has made the cotton crop an unknown quantity, the run on these articles consumed by ginners did not begin in any quantity until recently."

"We received the first large order of the season this morning amounting to sixteen cars to several North Texas points. This, in itself, is not an unusual quantity of the supplies, but somewhat out of the ordinary for the first hour's business of the day."

NORTH FORT WORTH NEWS

A horse hitched to a peddler's wagon with a load of watermelons dropped suddenly between the shafts between this city and the North Fort Worth road shortly after 8 o'clock this morning. For about a half hour the driver, who gave the name of the man and says he resides at his Wall street, this city, thought that the horse would die, but, being released from the harness and allowed to cool off in the shade of the wagon, the animal recovered.

A special meeting of the city council of North Fort Worth was called this morning to meet this afternoon and consider the installation of air compressors at the waterworks rather than deep well pumps.

Recommendation that air compressors be used will be made by the waterworks committee. Increased cost is the objection that has been raised to the installation of the compressors.

Clarence Coleman, who was injured at the North Fort Worth waterworks Tuesday afternoon by the falling of a quantity of metal being used in the construction of the tank, is resting easily today at St. Joseph's infirmary. The tank is being erected by a Chicago company, having been purchased standing by the McQuatters company, who are building the waterworks.

On their return to the city they will make their home in Glenwood.

THE MAN ABOUT TOWN

One of the ardent Fort Worth fans has a wife who is a devout church member and worker. Just now when the Fort Worth boys are putting up an interesting article of ball, this fan devotes more time than usual to the newspaper accounts of the game. On a recent Sunday morning he was so absorbed in his paper that his wife became impatient while waiting for him to accompany her to church.

"John, it is nearly church time. Come on, I am ready."

Her spouse looked from his paper.

"Who is going to pitch today?"

"The wife is not a fan and her preacher has not yet heard of his new title."

Large crowds continue to visit Lake Erie, the attractive, being an interesting dramatic and vaudeville performance every night. The play Tuesday night was "Home, Sweet Home." Tonight the bill will be "As You Like It."

Beginning next Monday no admission will be charged. Because of yellow fever in Louisiana Manager Burton is unable to get performers already under contract, and until further notice no charge of admission will be made.

Careful Housewives always use Burnett's Vanilla because no state pure food examination has ever questioned its absolute purity.

LOCAL SHIPPERS DISCUSS BUREAU

Need Declared for Freight Agent to Investigate All Rate Matters

From the tone of sentiments expressed by prominent shippers of the city it is probable that within a short time a local freight bureau would save the Fort Worth shippers many dollars each year. The question of organization has been discussed many times, but no action has ever been taken. The bureau in Dallas has proven beyond a doubt that such an organization of shippers is a great benefit.

"Under the system as in vogue the shipping agent investigates all rates, a matter which is really in need of such a bureau. While I can cite no specific instances where we are imposed upon by the railroads, I can safely say that a freight bureau would save the Fort Worth shipper many dollars each year. The question of organization has been discussed many times, but no action has ever been taken. The bureau in Dallas has proven beyond a doubt that such an organization of shippers is a great benefit."

ARCHITECT APPOINTED

Frank W. Kane, Formerly City Engineer, Joins Texas and Pacific Force

Frank W. Kane, city engineer here during the administration of Mayor Pendleton, and who has been recently living in St. Louis, has been appointed to the position of chief draughtsman and architect for the Texas and Pacific railway, to fill the vacancy made by the recent resignation of O. H. Lang.

Mr. Kane, who is well known in this city, has already assumed his duties. Under his supervision the Texas and Dallas city passenger station will be completed. As has been previously announced in The Telegram, Mr. Lang has resigned and has opened an office in Dallas.

ANOTHER PLAN FOR INTERURBAN

Temple-Belton Builders Willing to Consider Fort Worth-Mineral Wells Project

Still another investigation of the Mineral Wells-Fort Worth interurban proposition is to be made in addition to that for which arrangements have been made as announced in Tuesday's Telegram.

The latest prospector in this direction is H. E. Ahrens of Reading, Pa., one of the builders of the Temple-Belton electric line, who reached this city Tuesday night on his way to Kansas.

After the investigation of Kansas projects, Mr. Ahrens will return to this city for a complete investigation of the outlook for the line. While here Tuesday night he arranged for the collection of information regarding the proposed route, traffic and other matters. Mr. Ahrens is at present interested in an interurban line to be Reading and Lebanon, Pa., besides the Texas line. He is also considering a Colorado system.

Representatives are expected in this city this week to investigate the line in connection with the cotton gin system outlined in The Telegram of Tuesday.

ARREST IS MADE AFTER NINE YEARS

Uncle Sam's Long Memory Is Shown by Late Return of Prisoner

Having been indicted by the Federal grand jury in this city nine years ago on a charge of illicit distilling in Erath county, a man thought to be J. E. Hendon has been arrested in Sherman, Texas, and will be brought to this city for trial.

Arrest of the man came about in a peculiar way. Through the serving of a witness subpoena in a murder case by Deputy United States Marshal W. O. Thomas of this city the man was recognized as answering the description of the man indicted years ago for illicit distilling. A picture in the possession of Mr. Thomas of Hendon and his wife convinced him that the man was the same. Deputy Marshal Satterfield at Sherman was notified and the arrest of Hendon followed.

EXTENSION POSSIBLE

Southern Pacific Said Likely to Build Line to Austin

Special to The Telegram.

AUSTIN, Texas, Aug. 16.—During the hearing before the railroad commission yesterday there was one feature in the proposition to change the present location of the La Grange branch from Columbus to La Grange brought out in the testimony that is a matter of surpassing interest.

Attorney Joe Wooten of Columbus, who represented the opponents to the proposed change, asked Mr. Kellog, the engineer of the Galveston, Harrisburg and San Antonio railroad, this question:

"Do you not know that it is the intention of the Galveston, Harrisburg and San Antonio railroad to extend its line from La Grange to Austin?"

Mr. Kellog did not answer this question categorically but the inference drawn from his reply was that such might be the policy of the road.

Of course, Mr. Kellog does not know, yet what the Southern Pacific will do, but since "straws indicate which way the wind blows," the question of Mr. Wooten yesterday may indicate that the Western Pacific will build to Austin.

SHONTS REPORTED ILL

Panama Commission President Said to Be Sick at Greenwich

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—It was reported in this city late last night, says the American, that Theodore H. Shonts, president of the Panama canal commission, is seriously ill in Greenwich, Conn. No confirmation could be obtained and none of Mr. Shonts' friends here had heard of his being ill.

HOUSTON TO HEAD STATE UNIVERSITY

Regents Select A. and M. President as Successor to the Late Dr. Prather

Special to The Telegram.

AUSTIN, Texas, Aug. 16.—Dr. David F. Houston, for three years president of the Agricultural and Mechanical College, is the new president of the University of Texas. The announcement of the selection of Dr. Houston as president of the university came late yesterday afternoon, as the result of the day's meeting of the board of regents. While it was announced by the board that the final vote was unanimous for Dr. Houston, it is understood that the board considered all the names which were suggested by their members and several of those who were mentioned received votes for the presidency.

While there were no formal applications for the position, quite a number of names were presented, among them being Col. Woodruff of this city and many other outside men.

Just how the board stood on the first ballot, or just how many ballots were taken, will probably never be known. The board gave out the statement as to the final outcome and this was unanimous, and there the matter ended.

The name of Judge Lancy Lewis, formerly dean of the law faculty and a graduate of the institution, has been frequently mentioned, but he addressed a letter to the board stating that he did not desire to be considered as an applicant for the presidency.

The board met behind closed doors, and no one, not even the secretary of the board, was allowed to hear the proceedings of the meeting.

Think He Will Accept

It is believed by his friends that Dr. Houston will accept the position and hand his resignation to the board of directors of the Agricultural and Mechanical College as president of that institution. Governor Browning of Amarillo, a member of the board, stated last night that the board has wired Dr. Houston, who is now in Beverly, Mass., with his family on a vacation, and an answer is expected at any time. It is one of his closest friends in this city, stated last night that Dr. Houston will doubtless accept. He now holds one of the most prominent positions in the state, that of president of the State Normal School of South Carolina, a matter of preference with him between the two institutions, but it is thought that this being the most important of the two he will without a doubt accept the new offer.

Dr. Houston is a southern man. He was born in North Carolina, Monroe, Union county, Feb. 17, 1846. He received his early training in the graded schools in South Carolina, where he removed with his father at an early age. He entered South Carolina and graduated from that college in 1867. He then took charge of the State Normal School of South Carolina as superintendent, which position he held from 1889 to 1891. He entered Harvard graduate school in 1891 and took the degree of master of arts in 1892. He continued his work in that college in the department of political science for two more years, during which time he was a graduate student in the school of political science, and enjoyed the enviable position of president of the Harvard class of '94. Young Houston came to Texas in 1896 and took charge of the school of political science in the University of Texas as adjunct professor. In 1897 he was made associate professor and he held this rank until 1900, when he was made full professor, which rank he held until his resignation in 1902. In 1909 Professor Houston was made dean of the faculty of the university. In 1902 he was elected to the presidency of A. and M. College, which responsible position he has held since, and his action as president of the University of Texas comes as a fitting climax to a long line of rapid and merited promotions.

GATES AT HAVANA

Former Assistant City Agent Here Goes to Cuba

The local passenger office of the Houston and Texas Central has received information of the appointment of Conway Gates to be chief clerk and cashier to the general agent of the Southern Pacific at Havana, Cuba.

Mr. Gates was for a long while assistant city ticket agent of the Central in Fort Worth, but for the past year has held a similar position in the local office of the Southern Pacific at Beaumont, from which point he left for Havana a few days ago. The appointment became effective Aug. 15.

Young Gates is a son of the general agent of the Big Four, with headquarters at St. Louis.

DEATHS

REX POTTS

M. W. Potts of this city has received word of the death of his nephew, Rex Potts, who was killed at Fresno, Cal., while coupling cars at that place. Rex Potts, who is the son of B. V. Potts of Las Cruces, N. M., was also a nephew of J. P. Potts, living in Madras, northwest of this city. He was formerly employed by the Texas and Pacific railway in this city about two years ago, making his home at that time with M. W. Potts. His remains were taken to Las Cruces, where interment was made last Saturday.

BOY FOUND DESTITUTE

Lad of Fifteen Years in Dangerous Condition—Cared For at Weatherford

Special to The Telegram.

WEATHERFORD, Texas, Aug. 16.—Officers yesterday picked up a 15-year-old boy at the Texas and Pacific station who is in a dangerous condition. When found he was almost delirious from fever. He was taken to the court house and after looking into his case and having the county physician examine him, County Judge Stennis had him taken to a hotel, where he will remain until he is well. The boy claims that his father is in Madras, Louisiana, and that he has an uncle at Abilene. He gives his name as Francis or French, but has told the different officers so many different stories that it is hard to believe any of them. He claims to have come here from Dallas.

He was clothed in rags and was in a very dirty condition, until County Clerk Bankhead, through pity, went to a store and bought him an outfit of clothes. He was given a bath, clothed in his new suit and said he felt better.

The boy's case created quite a stir for a time as some one started a report that he had yellow fever. The physician's diagnosis, however, calmed the fears of the people and the rumor was hushed.
