PETTY GRAFTING BY MEN AWAY UP IN OFFICE

Even as High as Vice President They Get Relatives Upon Government Payroll

CABINET MEMBERS AND FAMOUS SENATORS WORK THEIR SONS AND OTHERS INTO SNAP JOBS WHERE ABOUT ALL THEY DO IS TO DRAW SALARIES—NOTORIOUS NEPOTISM

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—When congress begins investigating the various phases of "graft" which have been brought to light, as it is predicted, congress will do so after it meets. The commission is likely to have some disclosures to make on the subject of "nepotism."

The practice of carrying sons, daughters, wives and more distant relatives on the government payrolls has been growing of late, and it is said that President Roosevelt is opposed to it as subversive of the principles of the civil service system.

THE PROFITS OF THE PACKERS: Charles Edward Russell of Chicago is still feeling after the fifth ribs of the big packers.

It is thought that he had exhausted his subject in the prior treatment of it, but in the September number of Everybody's Magazine he has a postscript, from which we extract the following:

"If the packers' profits were small and their business unproductive, would they now be defending those profits and that business with the most elaborate, intricate, and costly system of espionage and influence ever known in commerce?"

The packers have never been able to make any one but Commissioner Garfield believe their profits were small. That gentleman seems to have based his celebrated report upon the profit made by the packers on each animal, and while Garfield was fooled, the masses of the people saw at a glance that something was decidedly wrong with the situation.

The packers have never been able to make any one but Commissioner Garfield believe their profits were small. That gentleman seems to have based his celebrated report upon the profit made by the packers on each animal, and while Garfield was fooled, the masses of the people saw at a glance that something was decidedly wrong with the situation.

It was money made out of the packing business that has built up the great private car lines of which so much complaint is being made by the masses of the people. And the packers had a perfect right to invest in these things. It was their money, and they have an inalienable right to invest their surplus in any thing that promises them good interest on their investment.

It is but natural that these people should seek to hide their work under some effective cover. It is not to be expected that they would come boldly into the open and confess that they were operating in defiance of the law and that their profits are so great as to enable them to do this. If the people barely eking out a miserable existence there is afforded an additional opportunity to ply their vocation successfully, and no matter what else can be said concerning the men who are at the head of this great industry, it cannot be charged that they are fools. They are among the sharpest and shrewdest business men this country has ever produced.

The big packers are not only making a handsome profit on their operations but they have doubtless created a sinking fund to cope with just such an emergency as has presented itself. They have doubtless realized from the time the combination was first effected that exposure might follow, and when it came it would mean the hardest kind of a legal battle.

Where there is so much of a cry of graft prevailing all over the land, it is but right that we should stop and after carefully viewing the situation, decide where the responsibility belongs for the developments of which we complain. If we do this in a fair and just manner the responsibility must fall on ourselves.

The indifference of the good men of the country in political matters gives the bad men the very opportunity they seek, and so long as the good men of the country manifest this strange and unbecoming indifference, just so long will there be occasion for complaint.

The people of any land can overthrow civil evils whenever they want to, and can have a government as good as they themselves make it or as bad as they suffer it to become.

The government of the nation, state and city rests upon the active morality of the average individual. In proportion as the morality of the citizenry declines, the government must be inferior.

The people can teach them that to accuse the people and make them exercise their civic duties is a matter of supreme importance. In a monarchical form of government all authority is in the crown and delegated to those beneath.

There is a constant conflict between law and lawlessness, right and wrong, evil and good, in every sphere of life. The wrong must always be fought against, the ideal for good must be fought for, and the government must be shown to be the servant of the people.

There is a constant conflict between law and lawlessness, right and wrong, evil and good, in every sphere of life. The wrong must always be fought against, the ideal for good must be fought for, and the government must be shown to be the servant of the people.

The Telegram respectfully submits the folk idea to the careful and prayerful consideration of those who are alienating graft in high places all over the state of Texas. There is much food for thoughtful study in Folk's suggestions and all good citizens may study them with equal advantage and propriety.

Envoy Witte denies that President Roosevelt suggested the differences between Japan and Russia be arbitrated, but intimates the action taken was intended simply to prolong the negotiations and prevent an open rupture.

Japan insists that Russia must cede the island of Sakhalin, now being held by Japanese forces, and this is probably much more galling than the idea of a cash indemnity.

The British government believes that Japan is entitled to the full fruits of her victory over Russia, and is opposed to any modification of the Japanese demands.

A McKinney negro has just been fined $100 and sent to jail on a charge of carrying a pistol. It is a genuine pleasure to chronicle an item of this kind.

Quarantine regulations for the protection of Texas against the dangers of yellow fever invasion are being drawn tighter. Every precaution is being taken to prevent such a calamity.

Sully has gotten back in the cotton ring in New York, and that means there is going to be something doing in cotton circles in the near future.

The union of Sulu was so impressed with Miss Alice Roosevelt that he offered to make her sultana of his dominions, but the offer was very sweetly and graciously declined.

When you read The Sunday Telegram you can depend on the fact that you are getting just about all there is going worth your time and attention.

All the encouragement necessary should be extended the Farmers' Union of Texas in the matter of bringing the state headquarters of the organization to this city.

Well, Fort Worth has received one bale of cotton, and The Telegram feels its labors have not been entirely in vain.

"Wants you to come and see him. He's sick—dying sick, he says, but I don't believe it. He's too smart to die. But he makes me come to you and say that if you want to clear Maddox—yes, that's the name—come quick with me and he'll put you on. But you've got to come quick, and alone, and whisper." The old hag lowered her voice to a whisper.

"The old woman—where does Mr. Ricketts live?" "Where does he live? He lives in the old woman pulled down the lower lid of a filmy eye with her dirty fingers.

"Do you see any green there, deary? He looks like me—safe, and he knows it. Boys and girls get in trouble, and they know who'll care for 'em. Don't try to pump me, miss. Yer don't want to hear yer friend, if not, stay away."

"By hurryin'—maybe." "Harmony felt a sudden inspiration. But he can't go until I stop at our house for a moment," she objected.

"I never thought of that. You're right. I'm sure you'll find some refreshments there—perhaps a bottle to make up for my moment's stay."

"The woman again wiped her lips with her shawl, hesitated a moment, and then laid her arm almost caressingly on Harmony's arm.

"Harmony rang the basement bell, and leaving her in silent horror, while she ordered the maid to bring a bottle of whisky, some water and a glass.

"No water," interrupted the visitor, quickly. "The astonished servant left the room and returned with whisky glasses and biscuits on a tray. Harmony invited her guest to help herself, and begging to be excused for a moment, hurried out into the hall.

"Is Mr. Frayer at home?" she demanded, breathlessly. "No, miss. He won't be back tonight till after dark."

lish custom will no doubt come into popular favor.

In Lamar county a vigilance committee horsewhipped two young negroes for slandering a white girl. If all slanders of women, regardless of color, were horsewhipped, the negroes which wag in lynx mouths would cease to wag.—Dallas Times-Herald.

The horse-whip is usually a very effective remedy for slander, and is usually most effective when wielded by the injured party.

Mr. Witte is said to draw $200 a day and expenses for doing the peace-making act over here. However, if he succeeds in ending the war Russia will find that she has saved money in the long run.—San Antonio Express.

The sum of $200 per day and expenses ought to be sufficient to cause the peace negotiations to be long drawn out, if the Japs will only stand hitched.

The reports that are coming from all sections of the territory around Denison are that the boll worms have been doing a great amount of damage in the past ten days. There is no question but that they have materially cut off what gave every promise of being a magnificent crop.—Denison Herald.

There is always something happening to the Texas cotton crop, but when ginning time comes around it is invariably found that the damage has been overestimated.

There are frequent inquiries as to the pronunciation of the name of the yellow fever mosquito which the entomologists call the stegomyia. It is pronounced "My." It is a compound Greek word, stego meaning gable and myia a fly—a group of flies. Fasciata means banded, designating the white bands around the insect's legs and body. Stegomyia fasciata means, therefore, a species of banded flies of the culicid or mosquito family.—Houston Post.

The Post's explanation is highly satisfactory and the next Texan who is punctured by one of these critters will know just what it is he is cursing.

Jesse H. Jones, one of the leading Houston citizens and one of the principal owners of the big new mill being built at Orange by the Orange Lumber Company, set a good example to other business men of the state the other day when he wired from Virginia to Dr. Tabor to draw on him for $1,000 to help defray quarantine expenses of the state.

Make Texas a better state by advocating the best men for office and by insisting that the affairs of Texas shall be carried on with as much business as the affairs of private individuals, firms or corporations.—Sherman Register.

The best man for the place should be the rule from president to constable. The people never lose anything by electing their best material to office.

William D. Williams is a candidate for railroad commissioner, and he stands a good show for success. He hails from Tarrant county and knows what the people are entitled to expect from a railroad man.

Verses That Ring

THE FISH THAT GET AWAY I've fished in the old Ohio, When I was a young boy, Pulled 'em cats from the hole With a hickory pole.

And carried them home with joy; But among the cats, both large and small, That I hooked in my bygone day, The cat that I wanted most of all Was the one that got away.

I've tossed the lively shiner, With rod of steeple steel, Where lie the bass, By the floating grass, And brought them in with the reel; But of all the bass I ever caught None was so large and fine, None sent the blood through my veins so hot As the bass that broke my line.

I've waded the clear, cold northern streams And cast for speckled trout; Have found the fly That makes the bass bite, And lured the beauties out; But of all the trout that ever rise From many a teeming brook, None loom so large in memory's eyes As the ones that slip the hook.

So runs the world—our wisest words Are the words we fail to speak; Is the one we kiss; The sweetest grapes we seek Hang just too high; and we long and look And sigh as we sadly say, "The best of the fish that come to our nets Are the fish that get away." —Portland Oregonian.

When it was dumped into a scow, a mottled blue snake with orange gills unwound from the mud and chased the crew into the Mississippi river. It was captured by a detail from the Keeley cure, but only after it had become sluggish from swallowing a four-gallon demijohn of Peoria whiskey. HANLON HOLDS WAGO DOWN TO 3 HITS

Tigers Are Liberal With Errors, Too, Giving Panthers an Easy Victory

WAGO, Texas, Aug. 23.—Costly errors of the Tiger bunch, coupled with inability to connect with Hanlon, the Panther twirler, gave Fort Worth the game over Waco Tuesday. Score 4 to 2.

Waco scored one in the first when Sapp sent the ball over the fence and made the other tally in the ninth as a result of accepting free passage.

Errors in the meantime gave the Fort Worth bunch four runs, the Tigers losing despite the good work of Rodebaugh in the box.

The Panther fielders robbed Waco of several hits.

GRAVE TROUBLE FORESEEN It takes but little foresight to tell that when your stomach and liver are badly affected, grave trouble is ahead, unless you take the proper medicine for your disease, as Mrs. John A. Young of Clay, N. Y., did. She says: "I had neuralgia of the liver and stomach, my heart was weakened, and I could not eat. I was very bad for a long time, but in Electric Bitters I found just what I needed, for they quickly relieved and cured me." Best medicine for weak women. Sold under guarantee by W. J. AUSTIN MANAGER DEAD George Clark, Baseball, Theatrical and Hotel Man, Dies

Word has been received in this city of the death of George Clark, manager of the Austin baseball team until its disbandment this year.

Clark, who was a sufferer from pulmonary complaint, was engaged in the hotel business before joining the Austin team, in the hope of aiding his health by an open air life.

Clark was well known in theatrical circles, having first come to this state with a road company.

No torture to that of a rheumatic. Prescription No. 351, by Elmer & Amend, quickest relief of all. For sale by all druggists.

"ALL STAR" TEAM FOR TEXAS LEAGUE

George Markley Begins Plans for a Post Season Series of Games

An all star Texas League baseball team to tour the state at the close of the present season, playing the clubs in the North and South Texas Leagues is now in process of formation.

George Markley of the Panthers is arranging the plans for the team and its trip and is confident the enterprise can be made a paying one. He has already broached the matter to many of the leading players and is confident that he can secure the pick of the league for such a trip.

Though no definite announcement as to line up has yet been made, it is believed a strong percentage of Fort Worth players will be found among the all stars. Arrangements are now being made for an itinerary that will avoid too big jumps and El Paso, it is reported, has already signified willingness to play a series of games. A week of games is planned in that city.

GRAND CIRCUIT MEETING READVILLE, Mass., Aug. 23.—The annual grand circuit meeting opened here Thursday under most favorable weather conditions with a track that was glittering fast and with a choice array of lively steppers.

The attraction of the day was the Blue Hill purse for trotters eligible to the 2:30 class of last spring, and Delesse came up to expectations in taking the race in straight heats.

The baby trotters had their tuing in the Horse Breeders' Futurity for foals of 1903, and Homa, owned in Chicago, proved the best of the lot. Summary: 2:20 class, trotting, the Blue Hill purse, $5,000—Delesse (b. m. by Demarch) won. Albert C. second, Gratton Boy, Jr., third. Best time—2:09 1/2.

Foals of 1903 Horse Breeders' Futurity—Homa (b. f. by Walnut Hall) won. Quizetta second, Cochata third. Best time—2:19.

2:14 class, trotting, the Ponkapog—Ethel's Pride (br. m. by Directum) won. Glenwood M. second, Turley (br. g.) third. Best time—2:07 1/2.

WHY NOT IN FORT WORTH?

Ballinger has given a fifteen year telephone franchise to Judge C. H. Willingham on a basis of 5 per cent of the gross receipts, which will amount at present to about $200 per year. The towns of Texas are beginning to awaken to the fact that valuable franchises should bring them some revenue.—Brownwood Bulletin.

The little city of Ballinger, located far out in West Texas, and with a population of perhaps less than 3,000 souls, receives the sum of $1 per capita, or $4,000 for a telephone franchise that covers but a period of fifteen years.

Here in Fort Worth we are asked to grant Judge Armstrong a valuable franchise for a period of twenty-five years on a basis of absolutely nothing in return except the promise of cheap gas.

What would 5 per cent on the gross earnings of the Armstrong plant bring the city of Fort Worth in the way of revenue? It is believed such an exacting would be but a fair and just recompense for the rights and privileges conferred.

But Judge Armstrong is anxious to throw up a franchise that he now possesses that guarantees the city of Fort Worth the hagatelle of 2 per cent of the gross receipts, and obtain in lieu thereof another that confers the same privileges practically for love and affection.

The Brownwood paper says that the towns of Texas are beginning to awaken to the fact that valuable franchises should bring them some revenue. Is this awakening confined to towns of Texas exclusively?

Will the cities of Texas persist in the old habit of conferring these much desired blessings for nothing, or, will they awaken to the fact that they are debarred giving up something of great value for nothing that belongs to the people, and for which the people are justly entitled to due recompense?

Is Fort Worth so wedded to the old method that there can be no appreciation of the fact that the people are being robbed of their just patrimony every time a valuable franchise is handed out in this manner?

Such things are not tolerated even in Dallas.

The Dallas Gas Company pays the city of Dallas the sum of $500 per annum in return for a similar franchise, and the Dallas Gas Company was glad to get the franchise even on those terms.

They had been visiting the family of Ed Boles for the past week.

LYTLE BACK FROM CHICAGO MEETING

Secretary of Texas Cattle Raisers' Association Pleased at Results Accomplished

John T. Lytle, secretary of the Texas Cattle Raisers' Association, has returned from attending the reciprocity conference held at Chicago last week and is much pleased with the results accomplished and says, while it will take some time to put into effect the decision arrived at, the stockmen are inclined to believe that much good has been accomplished looking to an eventual extension of trade relations with both Germany and France, the time as with other foreign countries.

Mr. Lytle said that the cattlemen have been agitating this matter for several years and that it now looks as though something tangible will result.

The matter will now go before congress and with an active committee representing the live stock industry of the country Mr. Lytle believes that the end sought will be attained—trade extension on a reciprocity basis.

A committee to be appointed by the chairman of the late conference, from the different states, will work out a plan to be presented to congress. The committee will consist of twenty-one members and will probably be headed by Alvin H. Sanders, editor of the Breeders' Gazette. Who for the other members will be is not now known.

Twenty-Eight-Hour Law

The cattlemen all over the west rejoice over what has already been accomplished by the conference at Chicago, looking to modification of what is known among stockmen as the twenty-eight-hour law, regulating the time limit by which cattle in transit are permitted to remain in cars.

Secretary Lytle says that Secretary Wilson of the agricultural department, who attended the conference, was very well satisfied with the showing made by the cattlemen that the law should be modified in the best interests of the live stock industry of this country.

Mr. Wilson, he said, agreed to have the law withdrawn or so amended to extend the time limit beyond twenty-eight hours. The secretary said that the time should not be computed from the beginning of the loading of stock, but that it should be timed from the time the train starts for the market.

Secretary Wilson gave the stockmen assurances that the law when modified, should apply to all points west of the Missouri river and not east of it.

Secretary Lytle says that there will be one stockman in Texas appointed on the committee to look after the reciprocity matter, but did not know who he would be. On the whole the stockmen of the country are well pleased with the results attained at the Chicago conference, says Secretary Lytle.

IL PARRAMORE, a well known West Texas cattleman; J. M. Radford, a prominent wholesale grocer of Abilene, and John C. Harrison of the State National Bank of this city. The new bank will have a capital stock of from $50,000 to $100,000.

John C. Harrison of this city when asked regarding the new institution this morning admitted that plans for it were under way and that the bank would likely be organized, but that having been discussed here Tuesday.

It is taken as a significant fact that the new institution will be a national bank and not one under the recent state banking law.

Prosperous conditions in West Texas at this time, together with other developments are considered to make the time an excellent one for the opening of such an institution.

The American National Bank of Abilene recently passed into the hands of the city, leaving but two banks in a city of probably 10,000 people.

CITY MAKES NOTHING BY OWNING LIGHTS

Dallas Council Committee Reports Results of Investigations in Fort Worth

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

DALLAS, Texas, Aug. 23.—City ownership of lighting franchise has not been considered a paying proposition by the Dallas city council, the matter having been thoroughly threshed out at the time the matter of renewal of contracts for street lights was under consideration in that city. A study of Fort Worth's success in the undertaking, which must be considered fair as made by persons not interested in local affairs and merely to learn by example was made by Alderman J. A. Pondrom of Dallas, chairman of the committee to whom the matter was referred. His report submitted to the Dallas city council was:

"The annual report of the Fort Worth city electric light plant shows that the city of Fort Worth produced for the year 1902-3 704 incandescent lamps of thirty candle power each and 144 arc lamps of 1,200 candle power each, and according to their figures the ratio of cost of production is one to nine—that is, nine incandescents are produced at the same cost as one arc lamp, and one arc lamp is the equivalent of nine incandescents. Therefore the 704 incandescents divided by nine equals seventy-eight arc lamps, which added to the 144 arc lamps used makes the total number of arc lamps produced 192.

"The cost of operating the plant was: pay roll $3,600, fuel $1,589.06, expense miscellaneous $1,857.97, 6 per cent on cost of plant $3,755.79, total $10,946.82.

"This total, divided by 192, gives $56.94 as the cost of operating each arc light.

"Now our money cost is only 4 per cent, therefore we would reduce the interest charge 2 per cent, which would be about $1,250, or about $5.50 per arc light.

"Now let us deduct from the total operating expenses ($10,496.82) the $1,250 we would save in interest because we get our money at 4 per cent. This leaves $9,246.82 as the total operating expenses, and add to that for depreciation 10 per cent of the cost of the plant, $6,266.32. This added to the $9,246.82 operating expenses makes $15,513.14, as operating expenses plus the estimated depreciation, or $83.12 per arc light, about what Dallas is paying under the old contract.

"Now turn to the year 1903-4 and we find while Fort Worth produced identically by the same number of lights, pay roll increased $750. Miscellaneous expense increased $3,175.82, while fuel expense decreased $491.82, or a net increase of money at expense of $1,075.74, without producing a single additional light either arc or incandescent.

"Note the cost of the Fort Worth plant is placed at $62,663.20. Notwithstanding this, the cost of power house and boilers already and did not include them in these figures to produce a total of 202 lights.

"Basing our estimate on these figures for Dallas to install a plant to produce same number of lights and presume nobody dreams of having a plant with less capacity than that would require an expenditure of $175,000 to $200,000.

"The year 1903-4 was only the second year of this experiment in Fort Worth and the plant is practically new and yet listen to what the secretary says, and it speaks volumes:

"The lighting plant is greatly overloaded and must be increased at the earliest possible moment. All parts of the city are clamoring for lights and in the present condition of the plant it is absolutely impossible to supply any more lights."

"Note also in 1902-3 $3,659.04 was expended as new construction and it expended for that purpose should be added to the cost of the plant. But that has not been done. This $3,659.04 is neither charged as operating expenses nor as cost of plant.

"That was the first year the plant was operated and $3,659.04 of the people's money or $18 per light disappeared in the bottomless gulf of municipal waste. Now I ask you gentlemen if the Fort Worth plant is practically new and yet listen to our part in solving this question when glaring defects like this can be found in their published reports.

"It must be borne in mind that the contract system we charge the company with outages which amount to about 1 per cent, while no such allowance has been made by the Fort Worth plant."

Mr. Pondrom then went on to state that the Fort Worth management made no allowances for damage suits, accidents to the plant and calamities, such as high winds or storms that would blow down wires or other havoc wrought by the elements on the plant or equipment.

Letter to Secretary Calhoun

DALLAS, Texas, March 13, 1905.—H. L. Calhoun, Secretary City Water Works, Fort Worth, Texas.—Dear Sir: The city of Dallas is investigating the question of establishing a municipal lighting plant. I

Work Progressing Rapidly on Oil Mill and Saddlery Properties

Work is being pushed rapidly on two Fort Worth industries that will be in full operation by this fall.

Building for the Stockmen's Cotton Oil Company to be erected on the Texas and Pacific and Katy joint track north of the city, is progressing rapidly, and announcement is made that operation will be begun this fall.

The plant of T. R. James & Sons, saddlery, being erected on the Texas and Pacific tracks near Polytechnic College, is also nearly completed, and will be occupied by the company not later than Sept. 10.

In addition to the two-story and basement brick building now going up, another building will be put up just east of it. The first building has a ground space of 100 by 150 feet. The second will be 80 to 120 feet in size. Cost of the two buildings will be $20,000.
