

HOSTS OF LABOR OBSERVE HOLIDAY

Thousands Join in Annual Celebration

1,500 MARCH IN PARADE

Hundreds of Visitors Brought from Neighboring Cities by Excursions

Represented in the line of march of the Labor Day parade, which formed at 10 o'clock this morning at the corner of Second and Throckmorton streets, were thirty-five labor organizations. There were over 1,500 union men in line. The parade marched north on Throckmorton street to Weatherford street and east to Houston, south on Houston to Tenth and to Main, south on Main to the depot, around the triangle and north on Main to the court house, where it disbanded.

The members of the various labor organizations in the city were out in force, the number was swelled by the appearance of more than a hundred members of the Farmers' Union as well as large delegations of members of the plumbers, electrical workers, bricklayers and machinists from Dallas, who participated in the parade.

A squad of county officers, mounted, headed the parade, followed by the carriers containing the speakers of the day. Connor's band followed and a squad of mounted police were next in line. The Trades Assembly and Farmers' Union came next, the end of the farmers' line being marked by a wagon containing two bales of new cotton. The International Brotherhood of Teamsters next occupied four carriages, the horses being covered with appropriate streamers upon which were inscriptions of loyalty and praise for officers of the national organization.

Bricklayers' Float

The first feature of more than ordinary interest appearing in the parade was a float of bricklayers' Union No. 4, upon which a half dozen sturdy representatives of that organization were busy laying brick on a board foundation which extended from all sides of the float. This exhibition appeared to interest the spectators greatly, and much favorable comment was heard from all sides.

Sheet Workers' Float

The float which attracted probably the most comment was that of the Amalgamated Sheet Metal Workers' Union. This float represented a temple open on all sides and seated on it were children and young ladies in attractive costumes carrying flags.

Bollemakers' Float

Another float which represented the daily work of the men was that of the Bollemakers. Upon this had been arranged a large boiler section. Rivets, after having been heated in a gas furnace on the float, were hammered down with great gusto by the big men who were on the vehicle. As they neared a corner work would begin on a new rivet and the noise, while deafening, appeared to interest the people who were crowded on the sidewalks.

Many Carpenters Out

The Carpenters had probably the largest division of the parade, being over 300 strong.

The Pressmen's Union also occupied carriages with a good representation.

MAVOR'S PROCLAMATION

Whereas, The first Monday in September of each year has been set apart as a day when the dignity of labor should be accorded that homage to which it is justly entitled, and believing that the day should be observed by all good citizens, I do hereby urge and request the people of Fort Worth to observe the day with fitting respect to the purposes for which it has been set apart. By virtue of the authority vested in me, I, T. J. Powell, mayor of the city of Fort Worth, do hereby declare and set apart Monday, Sept. 4, 1905, as a holiday, and I ask that all persons assist in the proper celebration of Labor Day.

In testimony whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the city of Fort Worth to be affixed, this second day of September, 1905. T. J. POWELL, Mayor.

in full force, five carriages being filled with men and the men marching in their rear.

Boys with banners indicative of union sympathies, sentiments and sayings had a place in the parade and attracted much attention, carrying banners with such inscriptions as "Well belong to the union some day," "Organized labor surrounds the home with comforts," "Organized labor gives us free schools."

The city turned out in large numbers and the railroad having run excursions from all nearby towns, crowds were present from Arlington, Denton, Mandley, Dallas, Ennis and other places.

Line and Marshals

The line up of the parade was: County officials; city officials; speakers' carriages; Connor's band, Trades Assembly; Farmers' Union; Denton unions; Waco unions; railroad unions; bricklayers; bricklayers; little boys with banners.

Line No. 2, Grant Steegall in charge, from Second and Throckmorton south on the east side of the street.

Plasterers, lathers, boilermakers, Brewery Workers 109, plumbers, bartenders, stationary firemen, electrical workers, tailors, Sam Rosen Union, team drivers.

Line No. 3, E. H. McKinley in charge, from Second and Throckmorton west.

Brewery Workers 128, musicians, iron molders, garment workers, Northern Texas Traction Company's conductors, cigar makers, machinists, retail clerks.

Line No. 4, from First and Throckmorton and east to Houston, thence south on the west side of Houston to Second street.

Typographical, barbers, coopers, carpenters, leather workers, pressmen.

The grand marshal of the day was C. W. Woodman, whose aides were: Ernest Stegall of the barbers, P. B. Evans of the farmers and E. H. McKinley of the iron molders. Sickness in the family of Frank Swor prevented him acting as grand marshal, as had been arranged.

At Hermann Park

The parade disbanded at the court house, adjournment was taken to Hermann's park, where address of welcome was this afternoon made by Mayor T. J. Powell. The mayor touched lightly on labor matters, and extended to the assembled crowds the cordial welcome to all within their gates. His remarks were punctuated by outbursts of applause. Jeff D. Montgomery replied for the Farmers' Union and Arch Grinnan for the general public.

The exercises of this afternoon include various features that will be of special interest to those directly interested in the cause of labor. The day will close with a grand ball this evening, which, it is expected, will be largely attended.

Good Weather

The weather was perfect and the air cool and refreshing. Rain and general disagreeable conditions of the elements have caused the celebrations of several years past to be marred, but today "all nature's wondrous works" appeared to be in harmony and perfect feeling with union labor and a great celebration is being had.

Home Industry Button

The committee of the Home Factory and Industrial Association had circulars distributed among the thousands lining the streets this morning advertising the button of the association and quoting The Evening Telegram of Aug. 26 as follows:

"At a regular meeting of Fort Worth Trades Assembly held Thursday night, the Home Industry button, adopted by the Factory Club to be sold for the benefit of the Auditorium fund, was adopted and delegates requested to bring the matter before their local unions with the recommendation that the button be worn by every union man."

NEW CASES DECREASING

Death Rate Continues Low and Health Authorities Are Encouraged

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 4.—Fever reports today were encouraging, the new cases recorded at the marine hospital office early in the day being fewer than usual, while only two deaths had occurred during the night.

Rain Hinders Work

In spite of rain today and the general holiday the work of the marine hospital service in the campaign against yellow fever went along as usual under the inspiration of Dr. White's battle cry, "There must be no let up until the disease has been whipped out of every nook and corner."

Rain and the strike of the teamsters made it somewhat difficult to carry on work of salting the gutters. Otherwise the situation was exceedingly favorable and September has started out so well it is considered improbable there will be much fever left when the month has passed. So much good has resulted from the series of educational meetings they are to continue indefinitely.

Doctor's Mistake Caused Arrest

Further investigation of the case of Dr. Philip Berge, the first physician to be arrested for failure to report yellow fever cases, develops the fact the doctor to a certain extent was the victim of his own mistake. It cost him fourteen hours in a prison cell. Instead of telephoning to 72, Dr. White's office, he got connected with 598, the emergency hospital, and reported the cases there.

Medical Assistant Lanoux at the hospital made an official statement to that effect and as it is evident Dr. Berge had no intention of hiding his cases, there probably will be no further proceedings in the matter. The arrest, however, will have good effect. It will warn all physicians they are taking a big risk in failing to report cases.

Labor, however, is difficult to obtain here and besides attending to the sick Dr. Marcou had to pull off his coat and oil cisterns and barrels. There are no cases at all now at St. Tammany and it is expected there will be a completed demonstration of the fact the disease will not thrive in that parish. In a sermon at Trinity church Dr. Beverley Warner took occasion to refer to the disposition he discovered in some quarters to underestimate what had been accomplished. Dr. Warner said he had heard it stated the fever this year was mild and not much was required to hold it in check. "As a matter of fact," said Dr. Warner, "it is a plague which has been throttled and whose strength is just beginning to give way."

Populace Reported Dissatisfied at Terms of Peace with Russia

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—It is reported in Tien Tsin, says a London dispatch to the Herald, that dissent in Japan over the concessions granted to Russia in the proposed peace treaty is so deep that it is feared a revolution will break out throughout the empire. This movement, it is declared, has manifested itself in Tokio.

DIES AT OWN HAND

CHICAGO, Ill., Sept. 4.—George C. Miller, a former board of trade operator, who last night wounded his divorced wife and her husband, Louis B. Hill, died today from the bullet wound which he inflicted on himself when the police came to arrest him. The police fear their theory that Miller is the man who shot Mrs. Mize, a Hyde Park society woman, a fortnight ago, mistaking her for his former wife, cannot now be proved. Miller never regained consciousness after shooting himself.

BRAVE SAILORS DIE AS HEROES

Seven Give Up Lives to Save Eleven

LAKE STEAMER WRECKED

Vessel Torn in Two in Storm and Only Eleven on Board Are Saved

BAYFIELD, Wis., Sept. 4.—Eleven of the crew of the steamer Sevonia were drowned by the wreck of the steel steamer on Sand Island reef on Lake Superior, late Friday night. Eleven others were rescued, including the remainder of the crew and four women.

Seven of the dead offered their lives as sacrifice for the rest of the twenty-two on board the ill-fated ship. Of those for whom they gave their lives, four are dead and the rest reached the shore after a night fighting the waves in an open boat and a trip of more than twenty-four hours, reaching the shore through the wilderness of Northern Wisconsin.

Dead Heroes Unknown

Those who gave their lives for their shipmates were:

CAPTAIN McDONALD of Northeast Pennsylvania.

FIRST MATE DARWIN of Medina, O.

SECOND MATE, name unknown, shipped at Cleveland.

TWO WATCHMEN, names unknown, shipped at Cleveland.

WHEELMAN, name unknown, has brother named Denny at Buffalo.

Those who probably were drowned in the wreck, but whose names were not known, were:

FIREMAN, name unknown, shipped at Cleveland.

VANVLEET, oiler, Erie, Pa.

OLLER, name unknown, shipped at Cleveland.

DECK HAND, name unknown, from Norckleash Pennsylvania.

The Sevonia was a big ten-hatch vessel bound from Allouez to Erie with ore. Four women were on board, including the wife of the cook, C. H. Clucky. Others who were aboard as guests of her were Mrs. Spencer and Miss Jones of Erie, and Mrs. Phillips of Buffalo.

Friday the steamer ran into the teeth of a northeaster. Captain McDonald tried to make headway against the heavy sea, but the storm broke too heavy and he turned and ran for shelter at Sand Island. When the vessel finally struck a great hole was torn in the bow and only half an hour after the wreck, the vessel was listing so that the stout ship in two. The vessel broke just aft of the fourth hatch.

SCHOOL CHILDREN TO PICK COTTON

Enough Laborers to Meet Demand Cannot Be Secured in Tom Green County

SAN ANGELO, Texas, Sept. 4.—Cotton picking has started in earnest in Tom Green and Coke counties. The demand for cotton pickers is so great that none of the country schools will open until the season is over. Children will spend the month of September in the field. Reports of the possible cotton yield over the Concho country are not as encouraging as they were a week ago. The exceedingly dry weather has done a great deal of damage and much of the cotton has fallen from the stalks to the ground. However, in Coke county a third of a bale is expected to the acre as an average and in many places some are counting on a half bale. Gins all over the country are busy and the new cotton is being ginned as soon as picked. The cotton is yearling at the highest market price. Sales of cotton Saturday brought 10.25c here and on Friday some cotton sold for 10.50c, but it graded high.

WHO IS THE REAL HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLAR MAN?

THE TRUE MEASURE SHOULD BE THE VALUE OF HIS SERVICE AND HIS SACRIFICE TO THE WORLD.

BY CLARENCE S. DARROW
Chief Counsel for the Anthracite Miners in the coal strike arbitration at Scranton and Philadelphia.

(Copyright, 1905, by the Newspaper Enterprise Association.)

It was President Roosevelt who advertised for a hundred thousand dollar man. Such a man is needed to build the Panama canal. Incidentally a number of thousands of other men, mostly poor and unknown, will give their strength and energy and lives to do the work, but one man worth a hundred thousand dollars must be had to boss the job.

The newspapers have been industriously pointing out the hundred thousand dollar man. In the main they seem to command large salaries or amass great wealth.

To settle the question of who is in reality the hundred thousand dollar man in this world, like every other subject of discussion, requires a starting point. What President Roosevelt aims at is to find the man who, under present conditions, could demand a salary of this size in the quires. Of course with this basis of worth of a man, the newspapers are right, and the President is right. There is but one commercial way of fixing the value of a man, and this is to apply the business test. What can he command in the markets of the world? This means that if nature has endowed him in a special way, or he has been highly educated at society's expense, then the individual has the right to demand for those natural or acquired gifts all that the market will permit. Of course there are fewer men born or educated to boss the job of digging the Panama canal than there are laborers to do the work.

Then, too, these few have the power and skill to fix their own price for their services and not dump them on the market as the laborer does his toil and the farmer does his wheat.

But the fact that a man is able to get a certain thing does not show that he is really worth the price. The true measure should be the value of his service and his sacrifice to the world. Measured in this way the hundred thousand dollar man is not the schemer and plotter who can exploit his fellow, but the patient laborer who knows no other trade the wealth of all the world. If by the hundred thousand dollar man is really meant the man of greatest worth, then the industrious workman should be the hundred thousand dollar man.

The average workman who does the labor of the United States would consider this salary fabulous beyond his wildest dreams. In the language of the markets, he is not the hundred thousand dollar man. For five hundred dollars a year is about the amount left to the average workman for himself and family after carrying the privileged classes on his back.

It is from the earnings of these five hundred dollar families that Mr. Rockefeller builds up his fabulous fortune; that Russell Sage schemes and schemes and saves; that

When the world learns to value honest service and shall invent some magic scales to find this worth, it will pass the schemer and jobber by, and mark the workman as the hundred thousand dollar man.

IN NOTHING ELSE BUT MONEY IS THERE SUCH DIFFERENCE BETWEEN MEN.

Morgan and Gates juggle and gamble; that Cox and other corrupt politicians live in show and splendor, and that Carnegie has amassed wealth to throw at the birds of the beguilement of his old age.

These five hundred dollar men are modest and obscure. Their names are never in the newspapers except the obituary notice that shows that their work is done. Still, however unknown and poor, they make up the bone and sinew of the land. It is given to them to produce the wealth in times of peace, to fill the ranks of the common soldier in times of war, and then to return from the field of battle and work to repay the money loaned at usurious rates as their contribution to 25,000 men, representing a city of 100,000 the cause. It is given to this class to toil the longest hours at the hardest work; to take the most disagreeable and dangerous tasks; to turn the switch in the yards while the Pullman coach goes by, and, finally, to leave the world as workmen, and at least ten or fifteen years earlier than the rich.

While the vast majority are living and toiling in the constant shadow of want, a small minority have ever been devising ways to spend the wealth created by these five hundred dollar men. In nothing else but money is there such difference between men, and in nothing else does work who receive but $500 for a year's work. They have the money scent, and this it is that makes them rich. As well say that a greyhound is smarter than a bulldog because he can run faster. Brains power can no more be measured by money than can physical strength. The logic that would make Rockefeller wiser than Agassiz would make him stronger than Sandow; and those apologists who pay for the crumbs that fall from the rich man's table, insisting that it is only a difference in brains, write themselves idiots in comparison with Rockefeller.

While the vast majority are living and toiling in the constant shadow of want, a small minority have ever been devising ways to spend the wealth created by these five hundred dollar men. In nothing else but money is there such difference between men, and in nothing else does possession have such little relation to either brains or merit.

The fortune of Mr. Rockefeller is variously estimated between $50,000,000 and $1,000,000,000. Doubtless the first sum is entirely too low, and yet it is utterly impossible to conceive what this really means. It would take the five hundred dollar man a million years to earn this sum. It would have required 500 men working steadily and spending nothing from the beginning of the Christian era to produce this amount. To make Rockefeller's fortune would require the labor of the

WHAT ORGANIZED LABOR HAS DONE FOR ITSELF

Smashed Pernicious Padrone System and Killed "Pluck-Me" Stores

BY MAX S. HAYS, Editor Cleveland Citizen; was delegate to British Trade Union Congress in 1903. Written for The Telegram.

What has organized labor done for itself? Is a question frequently asked by sympathizers as well as opponents. In fact this same query has recently caused a leading American university to undertake an investigation that will require upward of 10 years of time and many thousands of dollars to supply the information. While volumes may be written upon this topic, my answer to the question is, briefly, the perhaps sweeping claim that substantially all the improvements that labor has gained during the past quarter of a century, such as reduced hours of labor, higher wages, better living and working conditions and higher education, culture and refinement, are directly traceable to the efforts of the organized workers and to no other source.

Sold statement? Yes! And I will go further and venture the assertion that it is largely due to the constant agitation and militancy of organized labor, its readiness to strike blow for blow if necessary, that whatever liberties the American people possess in this age of grinding competition and trust encroachment have been preserved by the struggles and sacrifices of organized men and women in the ranks of labor.

The trade unions of America are like the regiments of a mighty army of 2,500,000 recruits, who are on the firing line, and who are being educated and disciplined for offensive and defensive purposes. Here a regiment on the left flank may be forced into a fierce engagement, be beaten back and temporarily demoralized, but it is reformed and prepared for the next engagement. There a regiment on the right flank may dash forward and acquire some new position of advantage to itself, add strength to the entire army and safeguard the common weal.

The mechanics and laborers have not enlisted in this campaign because they are fond of striking and suffering, or marching behind bands of music on Labor Day. They united because they were forced to, in order to save themselves as individuals from being crushed by the monopolistic juggernaut, to protect their homes and to close the door against the wolf of poverty.

This is not mere speculation or abstract theorizing. Here are some concrete illustrations that demonstrate the advantages that have accrued to union people in recent years: Thirty thousand bakers reduced hours of labor from 14 to 10 a day, raised average wages from $8 to $14 a week, abolished night work in many instances and enforced sanitary regulations. Glass workers in every branch reduced hours of labor from 12 to 9 and 8 per day, increased wages from 15 to 40 per cent and minimized the child labor evil.

MAX S. HAYS.

Over 150,000 longshoremen advanced wages 60 per cent, cut hours of labor 32 per cent and smashed the padrone system. Nearly half a million miners decreased hours of labor from 12 and 14 to 9 and 8 per day, raised wages 30 to 50 per cent, drove out the "pluck-me" stores, reduced child labor and enforced many other reforms in the industry. Cigar makers cut down hours of labor from 10 and 12 to 8, in many instances doubled wages, minimized tuberculosis and other diseases, and lessened and restrained the sweatshop curse.

More than a quarter of a million carpenters and woodworkers gained the 8 and 9-hour day, Saturday half holiday at many points, and advances in wages ranging from 25 to 100 per cent. In the printing industry the hours of toil of more than 100,000 workers have been reduced from 10 to 14 per day to 8 and 9, and wages have gone up 25 to 50 per cent. Over 100,000 machinists won 25 per cent increase in wages and gained a reduction of one hour in the working day. Bricklayers, stonecutters, granitecutters, etc., now work eight hours, as a rule, at wages 18 to 40 per cent higher than when they toiled 10 to 12 hours a day.

In no branch of industry was the sweatshop and all its concomitant evils of disease and misery more generally manifested than among the clothing workers. Yet, through the efforts of the tailors' and garment workers' unions—along with the splendid assistance given by the Consumers' League—considerable of a transformation has been worked. Hours of labor have been reduced as much as 50 per cent, wages have advanced, sanitary conditions enforced, child labor very largely abolished, and the health and happiness of the workers greatly improved. Retail clerks, wherever organized, have gained a reduction of working time averaging an hour a day, and the makers of hats and caps are better off, by reason of having unions, 25 to 40 per cent in wages, while hours of labor decreased to 8 and 10 a day.

Among the thousands of so-called common laborers the benefits of organization have also been marked. The men who work on buildings cut down their hours of toil one-third and raised wages from $1.25 and $1.50 to $2 and $2.50 per day; last year over 4,000 firemen reduced their labor time from 12 to 8 hours a day and increased wages 5 per cent; foundry laborers increased wages from $1.15 to $2 per day and reduced hours from 10 to 9 a day; organized freight handlers, in less than four years, raised wages 30 per cent and cut hours of labor from 14 down to 10 per day; cement workers count benefits obtained through their unions at 200 per cent. The street railway employees forced up their minimum pay from 14 cents to 20 cents per hour and reduced their working time from 14 to 9 hours a day.

The workers who toil in breweries, in theaters, hotels and restaurants, the boot and shoe workers, molders, boiler-makers, metal polishes and brass workers, blacksmiths, carriage-makers, electrical workers, painters, plumbers, seamen and many others, even the actors and bill posters, the scullions and houseboys, have all some benefits to report that they would not have if they were unorganized.

The foregoing statistics may appear "dry" to readers who are not in the working class, but those facts and figures are not uninteresting to trade unionists. They mean much, but they do not begin to explain many of the advantages enjoyed in the unions. For example, how many people know anything about the millions of dollars that are annually expended by the trade unions in order to secure the best benefits and to help one another in many ways? You seldom, if ever, hear of a union man or woman who is forced to depend upon charity, and indeed the outside public is surprised at the knowledge of the immense work that is being done by organized labor to brighten the lives of the toiling masses. And it is no small task to overcome the deep-seated prejudices and superstitions of race and creed, to say nothing of political and economic slavishness, and hammer together a homogeneous, mobile organization.

Wherever the trade unions are strong enough to enforce their demands the children are taken from the shops and factories and placed in schools; women workers receive the same wages as men for performing the same tasks, and life and limbs of the toilers and the general health must be protected.

And finally, the workmen of this country are beginning to take a broader view of the world. The advice of the politicians that union men "keep out of politics," so that the bosses and wardheelers might run things to suit themselves, is no longer proving a success. Prejudices and superstitions of race and creed are now taking place in the organizations, the members are being educated and united upon questions that affect their interests as a class, and this labor movement, besides playing its part in industrial affairs, is destined to sweep the bosses and their grafters into the oblivion they belong.

CHRISTIAN'S BLESSING ON LABOR UNIONS

Rector of Trinity Declares This Mundane Organization if Any Would Receive It

A special Labor Day sermon considering the labor union as a church was delivered at Trinity Episcopal church Sunday night by Rev. Robert Hammond Cotton, rector, a good attendance of union men hearing the address.

Tracing the high standing of labor through biblical history and declaring that an organization working for the salvation of its members, the union had equal right with religious bodies to the title "church," and would be blessed by Christ today, Dr. Cotton sounded a note of warning against false leaders, taking as his text: "And seeketh thou great things for thyself? Seek them not."

He said: "There are two sociological laws or fundamental principles, and these constitute the law of attraction in the physical world, and which is known economically as the principle of socialism. The former is of the devil, and is the principle of disunion, separation, 'variance, emulations, wrath, strike, seditions, heresies and such like,' which corresponds to the law of repulsion in the physical world, and which is known economically as the principle of individualism or competition. The former is of God and is known in the Hebrew and Christian scriptures as the principle of righteousness. The latter is of the devil, and is there known as the principle of sin or evil. The former is the ideal of what is called the church; the latter is the ideal of what is called the world."

Honor of Work

"Open the first page of the Book of God, dearly beloved, and what do you see? A version of the Lord God Almighty in the guise of a day laborer, faithfully doing his six days' work and resting the seventh day; and the fact that he is looking back upon the labors of the week and finding them 'very good.'"

"Next we come into contact with the work of the spoiler, the introduction of the principle of competition, the contradiction of the divine ideal. The author of evil comes into competition with the author of good. 'Sin comes into the world, and death by sin.' The labor of redemption must henceforth be carried on contemporaneously with the labor of creation. Existence becomes a struggle and man must earn his bread 'by the sweat of his brow.'"

Jehovah Labor Leader

"Passing through the centuries he who had appeared unto Abraham, Isaac and Jacob known by his name Jehovah, and reveals himself as a labor leader who has heard the groaning of the children of Israel, and who has seen the nation in bondage. He brings them out from the burden of the Egyptians, through the Red Sea, and makes the memory of this great event 'a statute for Israel and a proving of God to them.' The history of the world's redemption and the record of its path to everlasting glory."

"Brother men and brother workers, take this to your hearts as my first lesson tonight, and rejoice in the fact that the Lord God who has called you to labor for Him has in so doing called you to be partners of His own exceeding joy, and thus preparing a place for you in the ranks of those blessed who are called His favored children and for whom He reserves the end of their faith, even the salvation of your souls."

Union as Church

"Now let us turn to the thought suggested by the title under which I have announced tonight's sermon. 'The Labor Union as a Church; Its Perfections and Imperfections.' There are two distinct and opposite meanings of the word 'church,' which I now call to mind. According to the first the word church has no plural. This is the sense in which the Apostle Paul refers in the fourth chapter of the Epistle to the Ephesians: 'There is one body, one Spirit, even as we are called in one hope of your calling; one Lord, one faith, one baptism, one God and Father of all, who is above all, and through all, and in you all.' This body is the church, and it is not robbery to take upon himself the glory of His heavenly father and become one of the sons of God, beloved, you all know the wondrous work of God in the redemption of the world's redemption and the record of its path to everlasting glory."

"Then, secondly, there is what may be called the American ideal of the church. The word 'church' in this country has a plural. There are about 250 churches, each one having in itself as much right to be called a church as every other. Some particular portion of Catholic truth is broken out from the whole body and made the basis of individualistic creed; some particular part of the moral law is emphasized and regarded with as much reverence as if it were the whole; some mode of worship preferred by individual worshippers is set as a standard to be more or less universally followed; thus sects are multiplied, denominations are newly formed every day without ceasing, and religion, instead of being an embodiment of the love of God, union or fellowship, comes under the law of universal competition, and becomes an embodiment and fosterer of unlimited individualism. The principle of the world becomes the inspiration of the church."

Wesley's Definition

"Now, if we define the term church in accordance with this latter conception as a voluntary human society, a company of men, as Rev. John Wesley defined it, 'having the form of godliness, and seeking the power of God in its members, it is clear that the labor union has as much right to call itself a church as any other. It exists for the salvation, well-being and happiness of all its members, and its officers are under the provision of God a kind of ministry appointed to carry out the ideals of the body, and guard and guide the interests of its members.'"

"A brother Mason once said to me, after we had together taken part in one of the most solemn exercises of the order, and I asked him why he never went to church. 'Brother, the lodge is church enough for me.'"

Would Be Blessed by Christ

"Now, if this can be said of such societies as lodges, pre-eminently it can be said of the labor union. After all in its way, and under its limitations, it is a union, a unity, a communion, a fellowship, every one of its individual members, it exists in order to ease the burdens of toil, to protect the weak by placing them under the care and advice of the strong, to shorten the hours of labor and increase its rewards, to care for the sick, the destitute, the dying and the dead; and when I try to think, beloved, of the good that some of the unions do. I feel that if there are any institutions existing today which would receive the blessing of the Man of Nazareth were he here in the flesh to bestow it, it would be the labor unions.

"True, they cannot, and they cannot pretend to do everything. If I had time I might show up many things in which they fail. But the fault of competitive religion is that while every sect has its good, which it is very successful in accomplishing it has to leave very much undone; much truth unrecognized, much of the work of human salvation unattempted. So it must inevitably, if we try to regard the labor unions as a church, be true to the Union Principle."

Union Principle

"The eternal principle which lies at the basis of all good is the principle of communion, fellowship of love, and when we reflect upon the disastrous effect of the principle of competition as between laborer and laborers in the past, bringing down the wages continually and more and more below the minimum standard of comfort, and lengthening the hours of labor so that the laborer has no time for relaxation, bodily and mental improvement, or prayer, we must feel that every true disciple of Christ must be thankful for the good work done by the unions and say, 'God bless them.'"

Danger of Selfishness

"Brother men and brother workers! Suffer a two-fold word of exhortation, based on the teaching of my text. What is it that ruins every good cause in the country; that undoes the good work of every church? Each one is seeking great things for himself; each one is so busy trying to 'feather his own nest,' as the saying is, that he has not time or energy to spare for the affairs of the community. Unionism, like true religion, teaches us to care for the neighbor, to live for the community to which we belong; and in this it is doing more completely than we of the churches often do, the work of the Christ."

Loyalty Urged

"Be loyal to your labor, and always remember that non-unionism means submitting the interests to the principle of competition, and not to the great divine and catholic principle of unionism, communion, fellowship and love. Seek not great things for yourself; but seek great things for the order to which you belong, the aristocracy of the kingdom of heaven."

Church Also Needed

"And, finally, remember if your union has something of the nature of a true church in it, it is only a sect after all. Loyalty to your union will not satisfy the needs of your whole life. The life of the union is not catholic enough. The highest ministrations of the holy Catholic church you must never neglect. 'I was sorry a few weeks ago to miss one of my most valued parishioners, three or four weeks in succession, from the Sunday morning service. He told me that the union had some very important matters to be determined, and that they met on Sunday morning. He was obliged to go. Oh, why had they to meet in church, he would have been glad to meet in the union, or on Sunday afternoon? I maintain that in this case the union was seeking great things for itself, and not seeking of the higher great things needed for its members.'"

TEXAS IN BRIEF

GOING AFTER HOMESEEKERS

SAN ANGELO, Texas, Sept. 4.—Real estate agents of San Angelo held a meeting Saturday night and planned a campaign of advertising with the purpose in view of bringing many homeseekers here between the 17th and 31st of September. The Santa Fe has offered an exceptionally low rate for that time from points on the main line of the road and the realty dealers wish to bring many people to San Angelo. They expect to spend a very considerable sum of money in the effort.

PECAN CROP HEAVY

SAN ANGELO, Texas, Sept. 4.—Pecan speculators are flocking into the Concho country in anticipation of a large pecan crop this year. These men buy the crop from the ranchmen on the trees and then take chances on gathering the yield. The crop this season is heavy at some points and at others the nuts are shedding from the trees. It is expected the crop in the Concho country will average fairly well and the entire crop may reach $75,000, but this is not heavy as the crop was by some on account of the dry weather.

PARROW MARGIN PARTNERS WIN AGAIN

Four Thousand Fans See Another Cinch on Pennant for Fort Worth

For awhile, during the game yesterday between the Panthers and Tigers, it looked very much like a tie. So much so, in fact, that the fans were frantic in their rooting. The whole grand stand, bleachers and foot-lanes were filled with some 4,000 straggle, screaming, advising, entreating and imploring humanity whose one idea, hope and ambition was that the rubber might be broken and the plate crossed for the pen on Fort Worth. As everybody knows, for was not the whole town there?—the feat was accomplished and pandemonium reigned supreme as Hanlon settled himself against his heels on the turf for a few jumps expressive of his entire satisfaction at the manner in which the whole thing occurred. Walsh had worked hard, keeping Waco from scoring, while at bat during that time, but the solid wall behind him, and his inscrutable smile was good to look upon in the light of current history.

Pleased With the World

The crowd was thoroughly pleased with the team itself and the world at large, including Dallas, as the news became known that "Dallas did her duty." Temple had taken one game and the Giants the other. As the pennant loomed up in the minds of one and all, the fans, and erstwhile fans as well, made expressed resolutions to attend the game of Monday in the determination to get the initial sock, while less he saw fit to buy, borrow or beg opera or field glasses with which to better see double plays and save an enormous amount of worry and work to the fans, and the heavenly smile of all of which were favorable to Fort Worth Sunday afternoon.

The making of history began in the first inning Sunday. In the first, Waco up, Sapp walked, Bigbie attempted to sacrifice, but got the initial sock, while Sapp was caught at second. Stovall went out by the fly route, Cavender making a long running catch.

Fort Worth came in. Gfroerer was presented from behind the horsehide sphere, being presented with first, Cavender hit safe, Boles attempted a pretty sacrifice, the ball was muffed at first, Gfroerer and Cavender came in for two runs and Wilson came to bat. The first three balls on some pitchers' flight were called as such and it appeared like he would walk to first, but on attempting to make two bags on a safe hit, which looked easy, he lost out at second. Pennell well hit, but out at first on short drive and Willis finished the inning with a fly to Sapp.

In the second, Boles got in his work, picking up a swift grounder by Metz, after which Whitehead had landed for two bags, Williams going out to Cavender previously and the last man up—McDermott—striking out, while Whitehead died at third. Fort Worth added two runs in this inning, as follows: Markley struck out, Erwin hit safe, Hanlon followed suit and Gfroerer sacrificed, leaving Erwin on third and Hanlon at second, playing wide of the bags, as usual. Cavender distinguished himself with a two-bagger, scoring the battery. Boles ended the inning—fly to first.

Stovall Hit a High One

Waco came up looking determined, at the beginning of the third inning. With Rodebaugh at second and Sapp at first, Bigbie made an unusual attempt to advance the ball sacrifice, going out on a high bunt to Hanlon, but Stovall put the magic sphere over the right field fence, scoring Rodebaugh and Sapp. For the first time in the playoffs of the multitude, who perceived that the game would be all the more interesting by reason of his good batting. Ragsdale came in for a two-bagger, but never advanced, the next two men striking out, Pennell hit up the line down the right foul line for two sacks, one man being down, but failed to score, the next two men travelling the fly route into Whitehead's mitt.

In the fourth Walsh relieved Hanlon and Fort Worth made one more run. Cavender bringing in Erwin. In the fifth Waco tied the score, Sapp being hit by a pitched ball and scoring off a hit by Stovall, who also came in off a hit by Williams.

The game was swift, but not smooth, from the end of the fifth until the end. In the seventh there was some discussion over a decision at first. Fort Worth was at bat, Cavender hitting between first and second, near the initial bag. Ragsdale fell on the ball, Rodebaugh filling first base and catching the same from Ragsdale.

The crowd began cheering like mad, seeing the close play, but never dreaming that Cavender would be called out. Out he was and out he stayed. Perhaps the umpire was in the best position to see anyway have a hard road to travel any day. "Never mind a little thing like that," said a fan after the game, "we win."

In the eighth, Waco at bat, Boles stopped a swift ball, putting Ragsdale out on what was probably the swiftest throw made to first during the game. This was the great inning for Fort Worth in the making of the extra run needed at that time. Pennell went out to Whitehead, Willis hit safe and Markley came to bat. Willis scored second and Markley went out to Whitehead. Erwin hit safe, Willis scoring. Walsh made a short strike, the ball going to Bigbie, who made a sensational double catch.

In the ninth, the first two Tigers went out, McDermott batting to Boles and getting caught at first, while Rodebaugh was hit by a pitched ball and, on trying to gain second, was put out while Sapp was at bat. Sapp landed for a swift drive to Pennell, whose sensational pick up saved the Panthers, beyond any doubt. Bigbie was the last man up, Boles nubbing a short drive which put Bigbie out at first.

NOTES OF THE GAME

If we win today—quod erat demonstrandum, "I told you so." Pennell saved the day for the Panthers. Fort Worth has been playing ball at fast clip—yesterday was not an exception.

Hanlon's arm was not in condition yesterday and the big fellow was relieved by the emeritus Graeco, who was there all the time and then some.

Erwin knew when the pinch came and he did truly hit.

The visitors gained nothing in the second, notwithstanding the two-bagger by Whitehead.

Frantic fans on trembling toes describes the game from sixth on.

DALLAS AND TEMPLE DIVIDE VICTORIES

Weevils Hope of Victory Goes Glimmering Before Farris' Curves

DALLAS, Texas, Sept. 4.—Yesterday was a day of disappointment for those who went out with the expectation of seeing Dallas throw the two games to Temple in order to keep Fort Worth from the pennant. There has always been a strong rivalry between the teams and the fans of Fort Worth and Dallas, but the Dallas players put up a conscientious, honest game yesterday afternoon and made Temple play championship ball to get the first game.

There were something like 3,500 people present at the game, two or three excursions bringing hundreds to town. Temple was well represented by spectators wearing badges for the Boll Weevils. All of these kept busy and at least two-thirds of the Dallas fans wanted Temple to take both games. It is stated reliably that the citizens of the Bell county metropolis have agreed to give each of the players a new suit of clothes if the team wins the pennant.

After the first contest it looked something like Temple for both games, but as soon as it was known that Farris was going to pitch for Dallas those favoring Temple began to decamp. "Curly" Maloney never did Fort Worth a greater favor than he did yesterday afternoon when he sent young Farris in to beat the Boll Weevils. Farris is one invincible curve-server on the Giants' pitching staff, and when he got over a little wildness in the first inning he was a hard problem for the Boll Weevils.

VETERANS HOLD AN INTERESTING SESSION

Sons Requested to Act As Active Palbearers at Camp Funeral—Assistant Surgeon Named

M. D. McNeely presided over the Sunday session of Lee camp, United Confederate Veterans, in the absence of Commander E. W. Taylor, the meeting being opened by a prayer offered by Rev. Mr. Knox of North Fort Worth.

John McElreath was admitted as a member on a favorable report of the membership committee.

Adjutant McConnell offered the following resolution, which was adopted:

"Resolved, That the Sons of Confederate Veterans, R. E. Lee camp No. 239, be requested hereafter to perform the duties of active palbearers at the funerals of deceased Confederate veterans, and that all members of the camp be made honorary palbearers."

"Resolved, That we have an assistant surgeon."

Adjutant McConnell explained that the resolution authorizing the election of an assistant surgeon was not drafted through any disrespect to Dr. A. P. Brown, who has always fulfilled his duties with utmost care, but on account of the fact that Dr. Brown has been ill for several days and is not able to be around and really needs an assistant. Dr. E. T. Hall was appointed to that office.

It was announced by Adjutant McConnell that since the last meeting of the camp three members had died, namely: A. A. Bridges, H. N. Conner and Eugene Burr. Judge C. C. Cummings was appointed chairman of a committee to draft resolutions of respect on the lives of the departed members and to report at next Sunday's session.

Taylor McEae, adjutant of the Fifth brigade, was present and addressed the camp on the status of the division, which he said included eighty-two camps; that out of this number only twenty-six are in good standing, owing to the fact that dues had not been paid; that there are a large number in good standing with the general organization, but are behind in their dues to the division. He hoped that the camps now in bad standing would come forward and pay.

He urged the passage of a law at the coming annual reunion of veterans at New Orleans to provide for the collection of dues of both the division and general organization by the division. He said that such a law would be of benefit to both divisions.

A. P. Watson of Shawnee, Okla., addressed the camp, telling of his experience among the Federal soldiers in the north, and added that he was most royally entertained by them.

Sons Hold a Meeting

BAPTIST CONGREGATION HEARS NEW PASTOR

Dr. Charles W. Daniel Addresses Two Large Audiences at First Baptist Church Sunday

Dr. Charles W. Daniel, formerly of Covington, Ky., new pastor of the First Baptist church, preached interesting sermons to two large congregations at the church Sunday, each being made the subject of much favorable comment by those present.

His delivery was good, with a clear enunciation and force.

Dr. Daniel, who is at the Hotel Worth, will be joined in a few weeks by his family.

At the sermon last night Dr. Daniel took as his topic "God's Love."

He said in part:

"How prone we are to think that the faith in religion is different from the faith we have in our fellowman, from the faith we use in everyday speech. Faith in religion is the faith we use every day," he said.

The same, he said, is true of hope, and so it is of love. Religious faith is not different per se from everyday faith, the difference being in the object of the faith.

Hope in Christ is not different from earthly hope, the difference being in the thing hoped for, and so it is with love.

"God is love," said the speaker. "Not only do we love us, but He has established the sincerity of His love and He gives us proof of His love. He loves us and all no one can go out into eternity denying the love of God for every child of Adam. The quality of God's love is difficult of definition. It manifests itself in the origin of love and it manifests in the expression of His love. We recognize its power, but we are unable to define love itself."

Dr. Daniel then declared that while it is most difficult to give an abstract definition of real love, that love is born of gratitude, complacency, benevolence and compassion.

"One can easily discover the quality of an affection by finding the source of an

AMUSEMENTS

"Uncle Josh Perkins" played to a big matinee house this afternoon and will be repeated at Greenwall's tonight. Uncle Josh is a comedy-drama in which pathos and humor are well mixed—sort of a dramatic cocktail—and very bracing.

Tuesday night "Lord Baltimore," a new production, will appear at Greenwall's. The thread of the story is hitched to a tramp who succeeds in getting into more trouble than a goat at a picnic. Special scenery and electrical effects are carried with the show.

Wednesday matinee and night there will be another attraction with a tramp as central figure—"Hooligan" in New York. Interest in this production centers in the veteran Will Wheeler, who will be "Happy."

THE TRIUMPHS OF LABOR

The self-defense of labor against the cruel power created in the accumulation of its own product is as old as organized greed and as righteous as the heart of God.

Only the American mind has been slow to learn the world-wide truth that social misery comes more from inequality of privileges regarding property than from inequality of political rights.

Steadily we are being forced to recognize the fact that with all our long-boasted security of political equality only the most thorough organization of labor in defense of its rights saves us from the same misery that wears life under the despotisms of Europe.

United labor, though an immense, unwieldy and not always harmonious mass, is holding its own against united capital.

The long blindness originated in the teachings and training of past generations. Our fathers, having braved the perils of unknown seas and survived the privations of a howling wilderness, that they might believe in and utter aloud, without hindrance or restraint, certain religious maxims, came in time to believe that there was also a political gospel, somewhat akin to their theological creed, in which national salvation could be assured by simply uttering, from time to time, certain glittering generalities on political abstractions.

And we came to be a race of political phrase-eaters. Epigrams that had been passed down, canned and duly labeled, were bolted down without inspection of text. To maxims and proverbs—such, for instance, as "Government of the people," "All men are created equal" and the like, ad infinitum—we looked for our sole political and social salvation.

To this fools' paradise we were greatly helped by the happy circumstances attending the early conquest of civilization over a rich and fertile continent. The deep, fertile soil of our wide domain, which offered free homes to the industrious, saved us for a time from the fierce competition that crowds the hungry masses down.

Failing to comprehend from what we gained our prosperity, we attributed all the good we enjoyed to our "free institutions," as we called them, and blindly proceeded to cut from under our good fortune the very foundation of our advantage.

We demand whole territories of our precious domain to corporations, until the surplus land was practically exhausted, and then, with the same conditions that have no long afflicted Europe, we began to wonder that our "free institutions" seem to have lost their charm.

The ballot failed to bring just remuneration for toil. The sacred maxim that "all men are created equal" was a lie when one man had power to fix the terms and conditions under which another must work for him.

When labor had learned that if it was to have rights they must be secured and maintained by its own united action, there came the dawn of a brighter day.

Never before in the world was so large a body of men so well paid and so happily conditioned as is the vast body of American workmen who today celebrate the triumphs and advancement of united labor.

The old superstition that labor is capital's slave and must be content with such bread and clothes as its tyrant sees fit to accord it, is dead in this and forever.

The pity is it was so long in dying that organized greed gained a tremendous advantage.

GLIDING DOWN STREAM

Gently gliding down the stream, Youth and maiden fair; Life is but a rosy dream, Joy beyond compare.

Lover with his sun-browned arms Guides the frail canoe; Maiden with her sun-kissed charms Smiles upon the crew.

He's the crew from mate on down She's the captain bold; He fears to see her wear a crown, He fears to hear her scold, And so he guides the frail canoe Where'er she wills to go; She smiles upon her gallant crew, He loves his captain so.

Canoeing is not unlike life, As down the stream we float; Man takes his orders from his wife, He gently guides the boat. She watches him and gives him cheer, This she that keeps him true; She is captain, without fear, And he the gallant crew. —Detroit Free Press.

Familiarity breeds contempt for mosquitoes.

What man has done woman thinks she can do better.

Shortly after marriage a man acquires the habit of listening.

Fortune's wheel revolves for the man who puts his shoulder to it.

A long pedigree will not protect a dog from the small boy with a tin can.

A wife's yearning capacity is usually far in excess of her husband's earning capacity.

What a pity that the truth is the most disagreeable thing one can say about some people.

Some men practice what they preach, but the majority are satisfied with preaching what they practice.

Occasionally a woman likes to have her husband say mean things to her because it feels so good when it quits hurting.

A man may be able to prove to his own satisfaction that he isn't a fool, but he can seldom prove it to the satisfaction of his neighbors.—Chicago News.

AMONG EXCHANGES

Tom Watson in his magazine says the people's party does not attempt the impossible, or seek the unattainable. This leads us to wonder what kind of creature that was running loose in this state eight or nine years ago and calling itself the people's party.—Alvarado Bulletin.

It was a spook. Something entirely too intangible for any use, and it soon melted away in thin air.

Old Politician, the political oracle of the Dallas Times-Herald, states positively that Dick Wynne of Fort Worth is going to take a hand in the coming gubernatorial election when the proper time arrives. Old Politician also quotes Colonel Wynne as saying that none of the candidates now in the field has promulgated a single live issue. As Fort Worth's candidate is one of those already announced it would seem that things were not all one way in Tarrant. Colonel Wynne is in excellent health again and he may have something to say that will be of interest. —Denison Herald.

It is an open secret that the four candidates for governor are also in good health, and about as husky specimens of Texas democracy as can be found in the state. The man who steps on the tails of their coats is going to be very fittingly entertained for his trouble.

There will be a hot time in Tarrant county next spring. With a candidate for governor and a candidate for railroad commissioner and two candidates for congress, the city in which the panther laid down will have the political mercury boiling near its maximum. Johnson county and Fort Worth don't want the earth. Oh, no; just a good, big slice will do them at present. But Tarrant county need not expect to have easy sailing in the congressional race. SCROFULA FROM PARENT TO CHILD

The laws of heredity are invariable and the diseased blood of parents is handed down to children in the form of Scrofula. Being thus deeply rooted nothing can reach the disease but a constitutional remedy. The very foundation of the blood is diseased, and until it is purified and made strong, those who are born with a scrofulous tendency cannot have the blessing of robust health.

Cleveland, O., 123 Brownell St. Inherited Scrofula from my ancestry, and this means, of course, weak, impure blood and a run-down, debilitated condition of the system. Treatment of physicians did not do me anything like the good S. S. S. did last winter when I took it. It promotes appetite and digestion, gives strength and energy, builds up the general health in every way, and in addition to being an excellent blood purifier for Scrofula, it did more for me than anything I have used, and with pleasure I recommend it. S. S. S. completely cured me of this blighting disease.

MRS. LOUISE COHEN, S. S. S., the king of blood purifiers, is the medicine that is required, because it changes the quality of the blood by cleansing it of all poisons and impurities, building it up and strengthening the entire system. When S. S. S. has restored the blood to a healthy condition and forced out the scrofulous deposits, there is a sure return to health. No remedy has ever been found to equal this great vegetable preparation for the diseases arising from a diseased or impure blood supply. If you have Scrofula or any tendency

LEMON FAMINE IS NOW UNDER WAY

Holiday Thirst Quenchers Will Make Reduced Profits This Year—Sugar High

Holiday lemonade vendors will make reduced profits this year. A lemon famine is threatened from restricted railroad traffic as a result of the quarantine in the south because of the fever situation, and sugar prices are high.

Some days ago it was said that bananas could not be had for love or money. It is pretty nearly as bad as lemons. The scarcity is said to be about the same all over the country. A single lemon in some places costs 5 cents. This is the situation at Denver, but in Fort Worth three can be had for a dime.

In the east they are even dearer than this. The west is nearer California markets, which makes the fruit cheaper than in the east, where freight rates raise the price of lemons correspondingly.

Other reasons assigned for the scarcity of lemons are that the hot weather and the failure of the crop in foreign countries. The demand for lemons has been greater than in many years because of the extreme heat everywhere this summer, while the crop as a whole is said to be one-third smaller. It is asserted by commission firms that the price of lemons will continue to increase until they reach at least $15 per box.

HEBDOMADAL CLUB HAS LIBERAL LAWS

Those with Ability to Enjoy Life

There has recently been perfected in this city an organization having the dual purpose of enjoyment and usefulness. It has been in existence for some time, but until lately has devoted its energies to the mutual enjoyment of its members. Hereafter its scope will be widened and it will endeavor to be useful as well as ornamental. Prominent guests of the city will be entertained by it upon proper occasions. Articles of association have been drafted and signed and a charter will be sought.

The name "Panther Club," which has been adopted, is both appropriate and characteristic, and in the near future, when the weather gets cooler it proposes to do some good work for the auditorium. Among the membership are some of the active citizens and business men of the city.

The present official roster is: John B. Hawley, president; B. B. Paddock, vice president; A. S. Goetz, secretary-treasurer, and Arthur Crandall, commissary general. These gentlemen, with A. S. Dings, compose the board of directors.

Following are the by-laws of the club, from which it will be discovered that it is not hampered by any iron-clad or hide-bound rules and regulations:

"The officers of this club shall be a president, vice president, secretary-treasurer and commissary general, who shall hold their offices for one year and thereafter, until their successors are duly elected and qualified.

"The election of officers shall occur on the first Thursday of September of each year.

"The duties of the officers are such as usually pertain to such positions, and which it is unnecessary to more particularly define.

"All male citizens of Fort Worth and sister cities in Tarrant county of good moral character, and who have given evidence of an average ability to enjoy life shall be eligible to membership when recommended by at least one member of the club.

"The club shall meet hebdomadally on Thursday at 12:30 p. m., and remain in session one hour, and until all business is transacted.

"The dues shall be $1.50 per month, payable in advance, to be collected by the secretary, and expended by the commissary general under instructions of the club.

"All matters coming before the club shall require the unanimous vote of all members of the club present; only in matters of serious import and of an important nature shall the majority vote of the members present."

held next Sunday morning at the Eighth ward school. A large attendance marked the meeting Sunday and the school opens with bright prospects.

UNCLE SAM HAS CIGARETTE BARRED

Young Tars Must Pay Five Days Penalty in Dungeon For Use of Coffin Nails

L. H. Everidge, who recently joined the United States navy, and who is now in training on the training ship Franklin at Norfolk, Va., has addressed a letter to a friend, John Griswold, telling of his reception at the training station. Everidge says that while he has been in training only a short time, he is very well satisfied with the prospects. Among other things he says: "Cigarette smoking has been barred forever, and to disobey the order means five days in the brig on bread and water. It is useless to say that I have given up the practice of smoking them. The armored cruiser Charleston arrived here this week from Newport News for her crew and will sail soon for a two years' cruise in the West Indies and European waters."

Auditorium Notes

LIGHT COTTON YIELD FOR HOOD COUNTY

A Fifth of a Bale to the Acre Is Best Expected in Many Places

John McLaughlin, former land commissioner of Texas, who lives in Hood county, is here today and says that there is a very poor prospect for cotton in his county and that according to his idea little of the staple will be raised if rain does not come soon. He does not believe that to exceed a bale to every five acres will be raised. The crop, he says, is the worst in years. Cattle are in fine shape, however.

Regarding cotton conditions a gentleman representing one of the largest cotton brokers in Texas, said today that in those places where the prospects are not very flattering, in case it rains before the middle of the present month, fair cotton will be made. Of course, he says, if it does not rain until after that date there will be little chance for cotton to properly mature before frost comes. He added that it was a question whether the cool weather will benefit the crop where it has been so dry and warm. The hot sun, he says, has drawn the life from the plant.

NORTH FORT WORTH SCHOOLS OPEN SOON

Eleven-Year Course Will Be Followed, Beginning This Year

Announcement is made by Professor M. H. Moore, superintendent of schools of North Fort Worth, that studies will begin in that city Sept. 18. Arrangement of grades and buildings will be announced some time this week.

For the opening of the term the frame buildings will be used, the new $22,000 brick building now in course of construction not being expected to be ready until Jan. 1.

Scholastic population of North Fort Worth is 930 and it is expected that 600 of this number will enroll at the opening of the schools. Until the new building is completed difficulty will be had in accommodating the full scholastic population.

A change in course is made this year, a full eleven-year one being inaugurated. It will follow as closely as possible that used in Fort Worth, the only changes being those necessitated by using the state text books. Practically, however, the courses will be the same, making it an easy matter for the transfer of pupils from one to the other. The course established by North Fort Worth will probably be the most complete for any city its size in the state.

The Epworth League of the North Fort Worth M. E. church will meet at the church Tuesday at 8 o'clock to complete the reorganization. A good program has been provided.

THE DAYLIGHT STORE! DO YOU THINK FAR ENOUGH? It's an American fault to skim over things, to read on the surface and digest on the fly. We read a book in an evening; a newspaper in ten minutes; an advertisement at a glance. How much we lose. Take The Daylight Store Advertisement today for instance. Those who don't think far enough don't realize that beginning tomorrow we clear the decks for the fall campaign. Thinking far enough would soon make you realize that lowest prices as a rule are always found in this store, and if anyone can sell a thing cheaper than usual we can do it, that if another store cuts the price lower it is merely as a bait or because the quality is inferior. The wonderful growth of this store's increasing sales year after year in the same limited, cramped quarters is as clear as the sky if you think far enough. Just read carefully, then Think, Think, Think! That's the word. It will mean dollars in your pockets in the end. Tuesday morning this store will open at 8 o'clock a Store Brimful of Bargains and good values; some of them we tell you about on this page; you can safely judge the whole by these few. Think about it and be among the first to enter the store early Tuesday morning.

Rain Coats From $5.00 Up For the past few years it has been our custom to obtain the entire output of a prominent New York manufacturer of Rain Coats. We have done the same thing this season, because during the dull summer months labor is cheaper and more satisfactory. For Tuesday selling we have placed on sale 500 Rain Coats, in colors of tan, castor, brown, olive and oxford, from $5.00 and up. These Rain Coats are made in this fall's latest styles and patterns. A rain coat will not only keep you dry, but will make you appear well dressed. There's nothing that a girl needs worse than a good rain coat, either at home or away at school. You should see our line from $5.00 and up.

A Letter on Dry Goods from a Self-Made Merchant to His Son

Mineral Wells, Sept. 4, 1905. Dear Percy—You're about as spirited as that filly I had last year. Every time I cracked a whip over her head she tried to jump out of the harness. Simply because I say you pay too much for your dry goods, don't be a fool and try to break your way into the tramp gang by buying poor dry goods. It isn't what you buy that bothers me; it's what you get for your money. Much dry goods nowadays reminds me of horse trading. What you think you buy and what you actually get are two different things. After a month's wear the stuff usually looks like a broken-down, wizened and dilapidated old race horse that was doctored up to sell high at auction. I suppose the manufacturers think they are smart in putting cheap stuff in their goods, but they remind me of that smart Aleck out west further, who mixed in sawdust with the wheat he fed his chickens, saying, "They will never know the difference"—only to find, when he had hatched out some eggs, he had woodpeckers for a crop. If I've got to foot the bill for your dry goods, I'm going to buy them for you, and I am going to know what I get, Tuesday morning, at the Daylight Store, in Fort Worth, at 10 o'clock, is the time I want to see you. No, that isn't a bit too early in the morning. Set your alarm clock for 6, and take the 7:30 train out of Mineral Wells. I am hustling this along by special delivery. Your affectionate DAD.
