New Orleans Is Hopeful Despite Increases

SPREAD IN THE PARISHES

Federal Authorities Put Blame on Local Physicians for Carelessness

RECORD TO NOON New cases 4. To date 2,086. Deaths 2. To date 294.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Sept. 5.—Up to noon today there were four new cases of yellow fever and two deaths.

Public Accepts Explanation People generally today accepted the explanation for failure to report cases as responsible for the spread in new cases in the past twenty-four hours.

Medical Inspector Brady has reported to President Souchon of the state board of health that one of the reasons why the fever spreads so persistently in the country is the apparent inability or unwillingness of some physicians, though men of standing and ability in the profession, who apparently look for the black vomit and marked jaundice, and when these do not appear do not think the yellow fever diagnosis can be made.

City Health Officer Kolnik has written a letter to the managements of the various educational institutions, telling them under what conditions the schools may be opened. He advised against coming to New Orleans of pupils who live in uninfected localities and who are not immune.

NEW YORK VILLAGES SWEEP BY FLOOD

Towns of New Berlin and Edmeston Nearly Destroyed by Water

UTICA, N. Y., Sept. 5.—The villages of Berlin and Edmeston were nearly destroyed by a cloudburst which occurred Sunday evening. About 7:30 o'clock there was a terrific fall of rain, and in less than thirty minutes the streams became torrents which swept buildings from their foundations, uprooted trees, destroyed the railroads running through the villages and washed out great sections of the roads and dozens of bridges.

In New Berlin one large house occupied by Mrs. J. M. Deming was washed down through the main street and carried away. The woman had not been recovered and it is supposed she has been drowned.

BRYAN BELIEVES IN ORGANIZED LABOR

Says Even Men Outside of Unions Are Benefited by Them

OMAHA, Neb., Sept. 5.—William Jennings Bryan spoke to 15,000 workmen here yesterday. He said in part: "I believe in organized labor. Those outside of the labor organizations, even those laboring men who most bitterly oppose the labor organizations, profit by the organization."

"There are certain things which the laboring man has a right to ask of society. Let me enumerate a few of these. First, he has the right to ask for reasonable hours and I believe the eight-hour day is a reasonable request."

"The laboring man has the right to ask for arbitration of conditions between labor and capital. There ought to be in every city, in every state and in the nation a permanent arbitration board with power to investigate and report on any labor trouble."

"The compulsory investigation of a labor trouble must be distinguished from the compulsory enforcement of the finding of the board. It is far more important that the investigation shall be compulsory when either party desires it than that the finding shall be binding, because public opinion will surely enforce a fair and impartial finding."

"The laboring man also has a right to ask for reasonable compensation and the reasonableness of compensation should depend on the conditions which surround him."

THREE-YEAR-OLD CHILD BRUTALLY MURDERED

New York Police Arrest Mother and Man Living at Same Address

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—A child murder of unusual cruelty was called to light when the body of a 3-year-old girl was found in a dark stairway in a West Side tenement house.

That the child was either murdered in some part of the city and her body brought to where it was found or that she was lured to some place in the neighborhood and deliberately murdered was practically the result of an investigation by the coroner's jury.

Even before the body had been removed to the morgue more than five hundred persons residing in the vicinity of the tenement house where the dead child was found had viewed the body.

The craft and cunning and even the cruelty of the person or persons who sent the little one to her death were emphasized by the coroner's investigation. It was found that the stab wounds on the face were entirely superficial. Death was caused by an ugly bruise on the side of the head, which the physicians who have examined the body think may have been caused by the child being swung heavily against a post, presumably by some one who held her by the feet.

The police arrested Mrs. Riemont and Charles Denzer. Denzer also lived at 421 West Forty-fifth street.

Grove's The-Highest-Quality Chill Tonic

It would be false economy to cheapen the cost of production by using ingredients of inferior quality, because the selling reputation of Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic demands the maintenance of the highest obtainable quality. The makers use every year about ten (10) tons of Quinine alone, which is the largest amount used by any manufacturer in the world, and one-thirtieth (1-30) of the entire Quinine supply.

New corn will be coming into market right away, and predictions as to prices which will prevail vary somewhat. One dealer said he believed it would sell on the public square for 35 to 40 cents a bushel, and another thought it would bring 40 to 50 cents, while some think that it may reach 55 cents before another crop is made.

VETERANS OPEN THEIR CAMP TODAY

Address by C. K. Bell Heard This Morning—Many in Tents

The annual encampment of Fort Worth Confederate veterans was opened at Confederate park, twelve miles northwest of the city today. Between 400 and 500 persons are in the tents and cottages.

The grounds are particularly attractive, trees beautifully trimmed and driveways and lawns in perfect condition. Headquarters have been established at the tent of Major K. M. Van Zandt, who is entertaining extensively. Among his guests is a soldier in his command at Fort Donelson, who has met his commander since that time. The old soldier lives at Gainesville.

Opening exercises were held at 11 o'clock, an address being delivered by C. K. Bell. He outlined the events leading up to the secession movement, and then passing over the years of strife, described the Confederate soldier as he has been since the war—a steadfast citizen, making a record for himself in things both material and moral. The address was received with great enthusiasm. Judge L. J. Storey is in camp, the guest of W. P. Lane, and delivered an address this afternoon. Congressman W. Gillespie and family are also in camp.

Daughters of the Confederacy have opened their cottage under direction of the president, Mrs. F. L. Jordan, and the secretary, Miss Bertie Yates, and are furnishing accommodations to all who apply.

The piano recently purchased by the sons' camp has been brought to the park and is being used frequently. Several impromptu musicales are expected.

BREWSTER COUNTY FINE FOR FRUIT

Peaches Nearly a Foot in Circumference Are Not Uncommon Finds

ALPINE, Texas, Sept. 5.—Clyde Buttler shipped a car of calves to Fort Worth last week. They weighed 172 pounds, and sold at $4.40 per hundred.

William Van Pelt of Bee county is here prospecting for a ranch location.

W. J. McIntyre, one of Brewster county's wealthiest stockmen, left with his family this week for Austin, where they will make their home in order to place the boys in school.

W. J. Ward, a wealthy stockman of Pecos county, arrived yesterday with his family and will occupy the handsome residence he recently purchased of W. D. Kincaid. Mr. Ward has also bought the Joe Moss ranch and cattle in Pecos county.

Dan Farley was here Sunday from his farm north of Marathon, in this county, with a wagon load of watermelons which he sold for $28. He has a fine orchard and vineyard and is making money from his farm.

J. R. Sanford has bought the J. K. Brown ranch in Presidio county. The price paid for the ranch was $5,000 and contains twenty-eight sections.

Tip Franklin bought of Jim Chambers thirty-one head of cows and calves.

J. D. Jackson bought of I. Haley a car of cows at $18 per head and a car of calves at $6 per head and shipped them to Fort Worth Monday.

A. J. Richmond has sold his sixteen-section ranch and 450 head of cattle near Fort Davis to Mitchell Nash of Waco.

Dr. G. W. Deakley is experimenting with variety of crops on his ranch north of Marathon. He has cotton, several varieties of corn, two kinds of milo maize, Kaffir corn, Jerusalem corn, potatoes and sweet potatoes. He states that cotton will never prove a profitable crop in this part of the country, because the nights are too cool and he does not have much faith in Jerusalem corn, but the best crops are a small kind of white corn and dwarf farmer and expressed the opinion that farming in this country to be successful depends upon proper and timely cultivation to a greater extent than any other within his knowledge. He says it is absolutely necessary that the ground be stirred on top after a rain as soon as it becomes dry enough to plow, as the mulch of dry earth on the surface prevents the evaporation of the moisture.

Brewster county, especially the northern part, may never be a successful farming country, but as a fruit country cannot be excelled. Some of the largest and most excellent fruit ever raised in Texas is raised in the towns in the immediate vicinity of Alpine. Peaches that measured 11 1/2 inches in circumference and weighed 14 ounces, were not uncommon here this summer and apples equally as large and fine flavored are being exhibited. In fact, fruit of all kinds does as well here as in any place in Texas.

Alpine was visited by a good rain last night, which was very timely and greatly appreciated. Everything is in the pink of condition here this summer and this has been the banner year for everyone.

DROUGHT HURTS COTTON

Country About Granbury in Need of Rain

H. L. Neely, city secretary of Granbury and a member on the staff of Commander B. B. Padlock of the Fifth brigade, United Confederate Veterans, is in the city. Mr. Neely said that rain is badly needed in his part of the state and that cotton is doing poorly because of the continued drought. The condition of the staple varies according to location. In some places it looks fairly well, while in others it amounts to practically nothing.

A small shower visited Granbury Saturday, but was so light that it did little good.

MANY PERISH IN STORM ON LAKE

Eighteen or Twenty Lives Lost and Property valued at $500,000 Destroyed

DULUTH, Minn., Sept. 5.—Eighteen or twenty lives were lost and property valued at half a million dollars was destroyed in the furious storm which swept over Lake Superior Saturday and Sunday night. The gale was the most destructive to lake shipping that has been experienced in many years. Besides the wreck of the steel steamer Sevonia, which broke in two on Sand Island reef, seven of the crew lost their lives. It is now believed that two more ships were lost with the entire crews.

One of these is thought to be the schooner Pretoria of Bay City, Mich., the largest sailing ship on fresh water, and carrying a crew of eight men. The other is believed to be the schooner Olive Jeanette, which carried a crew of seven men. The Pretoria broke loose from the steamer that was towing her during the storm and today Captain Wandering of the steamer Mary Boyle reported that the spars of a sunken three-masted schooner could be seen a short distance east of the outer island of the Apostle group, about a hundred miles from portable entry. A mass for wreckage was sighted by the steamer Juanita near that point, and although the identity of the ship has not been completely established, there seems little doubt that it was the Olive Jeanette.

The storm reached the proportions of a hurricane at times and the stanchest new steel vessels were forced to run for shore. The steel steamer Stackhouse arrived at the Soo on her first trip with her hatch cover so badly sprung that water poured continually into the hold. One of her crew was overboard.

The terrific battering the steel steamers received in the storm gives rise to the gravest fears for the safety of many wooden ships which have not yet been reported and the record of death and destruction may reach much greater proportions than the present estimates.

FLANAGAN TO GET LABOR FOR CANAL

Will Be Stationed in South America by the Canal Commissioners

J. W. Flanagan, the latest railroad man to enter the Panama canal service, was in Fort Worth Monday night on his way to south Texas before going to Washington to report for canal service. He will go to Washington the latter part of this week.

Although reticent in regard to his future work, it is learned that Mr. Flanagan will be stationed in South America in charge of the employment of labor for the canal commission. Mr. Flanagan has had wide experience in South American countries, having spent a large portion of his life in them. During his time he participated in stirring events that make soldiers of fortune dry up and look sad. He was upon the staff of General Blasco during the revolution of 1896 in Venezuela and still bears the marks of a bullet received through the neck in its principal battle.

It is learned here that the arrangements for Mr. Flanagan's canal service were made within eighteen hours by telegraph and cable, explaining the great surprise occasioned by his resignation as general passenger agent of the Cotton Belt.

John E. Lehane of this city again becomes both general freight and passenger agent, with R. C. Frye as assistant general freight and passenger agent. Mr. Flanagan, it is unofficially announced, receives a practically doubled salary by entering the government service. He will report for duty to President Shonts.

Eight girls employed by the S. H. Kress store at Eighth and Houston streets struck this morning. Six other girls in the store remained at work.

The strike following on the heels of the Labor Day celebration here occurred at 10 o'clock this morning and was marked without any special incident. The girls declare they want a special salary over to avoid any unnecessary embarrassment of the company.

According to statements of both the girls and Manager Holdcroft, they met him at the main door as he returned from attending to some business and announced their intention of leaving. The girls then repaired to Labor Temple, where they were in conference with officers of labor organizations this morning.

When seen girls either made statements directly themselves or acquiesced in them upon the part of labor officers to the effect that they received but $3 a week for their services, quoting alleged cases to show that the same salaries were received by girls who had been in service ten weeks as those but a few days. It was declared most of the girls lived in North Fort Worth and had but $2.40 left after paying car fare.

The girls all announced an intention of remaining out of the store. One declared she would not go back at $6 a week. Statements made as to hard work and discourtesy were denied by Manager Holdcroft when seen later. Regarding salaries he declared he had no statement to make.

Members of the girl strikers declared this morning that one girl who came here from Bowie had quit because she could not secure board at the salary paid her. The girl strikers, it was announced, all live with their parents. Declaration was made that they could not clothe themselves as required upon their salaries.

Those striking this morning were: May Price, Bertha Pursley, Ada Chapman, Lula West, Lena Craig, Lora Gabbert, Eva Brown and Mrs. Myrtle MacMillan.

It was announced this morning that the Retail Clerks' Union would care for the girls during this strike.

Manager Holdcroft announced that he was not worried, as he had a list of seventy-five names upon which to draw for girls and declared that he had not even found it necessary to transfer help from other departments to meet the situation.

C. W. Woodman, general organizer of the American Federation of Labor, declared this morning that he depended upon all members of organized labor to make no demonstration as a result of the strike and to refrain from any overt acts.

SHOP GIRLS OUT ON STRIKE TODAY

Eight Employees Leave Kress' Store This Morning at Ten O'clock

The Mosquito is Responsible for the spread of yellow fever. This has proved to be a theory, but has been actually proved by scientists who have made it their study at a close range and is the keynote of the fight of the United States health authorities against the epidemic in New Orleans. This is the way infection is carried: The mosquito bites a sufferer with yellow fever after a period of incubation of ten or twelve days. It bites a well person, injecting directly into his blood the fever germs. In from three to five days' time he is taken sick with the fever.

OFFICIAL CHANGES

TRUNK ROCK ISLAND

Resignations and Promotions

Announced to Be Effective Sept. 10

It is officially announced here today that several changes are to take effect Sept. 10 among the minor officials of the Rock Island and that as a result of these changes a number of officials of that company will receive promotions.

M. E. Sebree, who has been superintendent of the Amarillo division, with headquarters at Amarillo, resigns and it is reported here that he will probably accept service with the Yukon-Haley syndicate, but in what position it is not stated. He is to be succeeded by Trainmaster C. M. Jones, whose successor will be Mr. S. Hess, for thirteen years private secretary to Vice President and General Superintendent S. B. Hovey. A. H. Crowley, now superintendent of telegraph of the Rock Island in Texas, will fall heir to the position to be vacated by Mr. Hess. Mr. Hess is a young man, but old in the railroad service, not only in Texas, but in Colorado, Kansas and Illinois.

Circulars announcing the above changes will be issued under the signature of Vice President Hovey in a few days. Mr. Hovey accompanied by his private secretary and General Passenger Agent Phil A. Auer, is at Amarillo today making plans incident to the changes noted above.

BIGGEST TIE PLANT

Santa Fe Has Largest in the World at Somerville

The largest tie-treating plant in the world, owned by the Santa Fe, is located at Somerville, Texas. The largest shipment of cross-tie ever made is on its way to Galveston by steamer from Dallas and includes 1,500,000 galleons. The Somerville plant consumes 400,000 gallons of creosote monthly, or approximately 5,000,000 gallons annually.

Some idea of the increase in the treatment of ties may be had by a study of these statistics: In 1885 there were treated in the United States only 211,000 ties. In 1894, practically ten years later, there was an increase to 520,000. In 1904 the figure was 1,711,000. The necessity for making timber of all sorts last as long as possible has begun to be realized. The forests are not as large as they once were and at the rate they are being cut down at the present day, he who is thoughtful of tomorrow must figure on economy.

RAIL ORDERS PLACED

Western Lines Doing Greatest Amount of Construction

The Illinois Steel Company is under contract for rails to keep it running six months steady, night and day. More than 600,000 tons have been contracted for. The orders are mainly from western lines, and a striking evidence of the prosperity of the West. Most railroad companies have been holding back their orders until prices for 1906 were announced before placing their orders.

Five railroad companies have placed orders totaling 20,000 to 25,000 tons each. Other large contracts are to be closed during the present week.

LEAVES RAILROAD

L. G. Leonard to Enter Lumber Business

It is announced from El Paso that L. G. Leonard, traveling freight agent of the Texas and Pacific out of that city for the Texas and Pacific has resigned to accept service with the McGowan Lumber Company of Mobile, Ala., with headquarters at Dayton, Ohio. Leonard's district will embrace Ohio and Pennsylvania.

Mr. Leonard came to El Paso eleven years ago and accepted service with the Mexican Central as operator. He was given a position of chief clerk in the local office of that company, which place he filled three years. Resigning he went with the Texas and Pacific as car accountant at El Paso. Later he was made local ticket agent and then traveling freight agent, which position he was occupying when he resigned.

now extends from Bellingham, Wash., to Glacier, on the Canadian Pacific road. This gives the Canadian Pacific an inlet to Bellingham, with its growing tonnage, and it is said to be the purpose of the company to extend the line to Seattle and to Spokane. The measure will be largely retaliatory, and is understood in the northwest that the Hill interests and the Canadian Pacific are at sword's points and will cut into each other's territory wherever possible.

NO DENVER CHANGE

Dining Car Service Will Not Be Abandoned

Vice President and Traffic Manager D. B. Keeler of the Fort Worth and Denver City road, today denied the report printed in a morning paper to the effect that the cafe service on the Denver road is to be discontinued.

"You can say publicly for me," he said, "that it is not the intention of the Denver road to do away with our present dining car service. The object in establishing eating stations at Childress, Amarillo and Texline is to provide suitable places for our trainmen when they come into these stations of their runs.

"However, passengers will also be permitted to lunch when they desire at these three points. The fact is, these eating houses are primarily for our employees, and will not be made regular meal-stop stations. No, there is no intention of the Denver road to change the present system of the cafe service."

A committee composed of some of the leading business men of Corsicana has been appointed to confer with the management of the Trinity and Brazos Valley regarding the extension of that line passing through Corsicana on route from Mexia to Dallas.

Southern Pacific Display in New England Proves Effective

The exhibit of products from Texas, under the management of the Southern Pacific, being shown at New England fairs is attracting much attention. Additional displays are now en route east in charge of John T. Patrick, general passenger industrial agent of the Southern Pacific.

General Passenger Agent Anderson says that this school of education of Texas products is having a telling effect among eastern farmers.

BIG COLORADO TRAFFIC

Past Summer Has Been Record-breaker for Railroads

Not in many years has travel from Texas and the southeast been as great. Colorado resorts as it was during the summer just closing, according to reports made by General Passenger Agents Auer of the Rock Island and Gilson of the Denver road. These lines have done the greatest business since the roads were opened up. The Santa Fe has also received a fair share of tourist travel from this state to Colorado.

Figures just compiled by the Western Passenger Association show that since June 1 approximately 50,000 people have visited Colorado common points—Colorado Springs, Denver and Pueblo. This is at least 25 per cent larger than the business during the same period last year. The estimate given does not include the Grand Army movement that is taking place this week. It is estimated by conservative men that this event will take at least 50,000 people to Colorado, but only temporarily, of course.

Altogether the tourist movement to the Rocky Mountains this season is the largest ever known, according to reliable estimates made by the Western Passenger Association.

NEW LINE ASKED

Rock Island Gathers in Another Link in System

The Rock Island system has just added another line—the Arkansas Southern—which runs from El Dorado, Ark., to Whifield, La., a distance of 110 miles. George W. Hunter was president of the road, but he is succeeded by W. S. Tinsman, general superintendent of the new law division of the Rock Island, with headquarters at Little Rock.

NEW CUBAN SERVICE

Fast service is planned from St. Louis and Chicago to Havana, Cuba, by the Mobile and Ohio road in December. The service is to be put on by the above road and the Museum Steamship Company.

It is proposed to make the time between Chicago and Havana just fifty-eight hours. The distance between Chicago and Mobile will be covered in twenty-two hours, while between Mobile and Havana the time will be cut to thirty-six hours.

CONTRACT LET

General Manager Van Vleck of the Southern Pac has let the contract to build the Stockdale-Cuero extension to W. O. Robinson of San Antonio.

CAN'T GET AROUND BRYAN

Colonel Henry Watterson, the very versatile editor of the Courier-Journal, is not wedded to the idea of supporting Bryan as the democratic candidate for the presidency, and in a recent public statement expressed himself as favoring Roosevelt in preference to the distinguished Nebraskan. But Colonel Watterson has been doing a little investigating into the situation. While he was having a gay time on the other side of the big pond, he had a confidential agent taking an inventory of the situation at home. The Courier-Journal sent a special man in the person of Edward Lissner, a capable and intelligent newspaper man, through the middle west to investigate and report upon existing conditions. This special agent traveled through the states of Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska, Minnesota and Montana, and indeed, the whole trans-Mississippi and trans-Missouri country, talking with the leading democrats both radical and conservative, wherever he went. In an editorial expression the Courier-Journal thus summarizes the findings of this special investigator:

"Briefly, Mr. Lissner writes that the issues uppermost in the democratic mind of the middle west are the railway rate question, the trust question, and the tariff question. We rejoice to observe that he does not mention the government ownership question. He tells us that Mr. Bryan is the most popular and accepted democratic leader; that he holds the key to the situation, and that, whichever he prefers, he may name the ticket or he himself be the nominee in 1908. Next to Mr. Bryan, the popularity of Mr. Roosevelt with the rank and file of democrats, he says, phenomenal. Incidentally, he describes the Bryan men as radicals, the men who made the nomination of Judge Parker last year as conservative democrats. The radical democrats are active, the conservative democrats are passive, and there we are.

The findings of the Courier-Journal man are correct. The questions in which the democrats of the middle west are the most concerned are those named and in the order in which they are presented. The railway rate question is the question of most absorbing interest at this time, but the trust question is crowding it very closely. The people of the entire west are demanding the amendment of the interstate commerce law in such manner as will bring the big railroads of the country under Federal rate making and control. Democrats and republicans are both demanding this procedure, and it is hoped the next session of congress will bring about this desired reform. So far as government ownership is concerned, that will only be sprung as a last resort. The democracy of this nation does not favor government ownership and there is no real danger of Colonel Bryan going against the expressed will of his party. If a republican congress fails to grant this measure of reform, the democratic party will go before the people with this proposition as one of the cardinal planks of its next national platform.

The trust question is also up to the republican party in such manner that it is compelled to take action. If the republicans fall down in the discharge of their plain duty, as we all believe they must fall down, then a sweeping anti-trust plank will also be incorporated in the next national democratic platform. As the republican party is the creator of the trusts, the hope that any relief will emanate from that source is a popular fallacy. And the question of tariff reform must again come up. This time it is coming in the form of the old reciprocity idea, democrats and republicans uniting on the idea that there should be reciprocal relations permitting modifications of the existing tariff as demanded by the exigencies of the situation, and it is morally certain the next national democratic platform will again take up the tariff issue in a straightforward appeal to the people.

Colonel Watterson sees in radical democracy and conservative democracy two democratic parties. But towering above both of these he sees the benign countenance of William J. Bryan, the acknowledged leader of the entire democratic party. He says further:

"With the two democratic parties against one republican party, democracy must go down in defeat. But it is too early to say whether we are going to have two democratic parties. There is little room to doubt that Mr. Bryan will control the party machinery and policy in 1908. It will be, therefore, up to him to say whether theoretical or practical shall be the word; whether we shall be dragged through new regions of experiment, or shall take the highway of the actual; whether we shall continue the folly of extracting subsums from cucumbers, or shall address ourselves to things immediate and tangible; in short, whether we shall fight a real instead of a sham battle, or still go mooning after the impossible."

Colonel Watterson will find that the platform adopted by the next national democratic convention will be one on which all true democrats will happily unite. There is no danger that Bryan will seek to take advantage of the opportunity to foist something upon the party that is not democratic. Bryan is a democrat, and wanting nothing so badly as he wants a true democratic platform. The signs of the times may seem to indicate that there are two democratic parties now in the field, but in reality there is but one. There are radical democrats and conservative democrats, but when the two wings come together the result will be that all will simply be democrats, and differences existing within the party will be laid aside and the fight directed unitedly against the common enemy. Democracy will show up all right in the next campaign.

DEMAND FOR TEXAS LAND

Nearly every paper published in West and Northwest Texas is teeming with reported land sales, and when this fact is considered in connection with the report that the state land office at Austin has had 39,000 inquiries concerning the state land placed on the market the first of September, it will be readily apparent that there is something doing in Texas real estate circles, with the indications favorable for more extensive operations in the future. The demand for this Texas soil is not the result of any abnormal booming or efforts on the part of Texas land owners to induce the people to buy. It represents a simple effort on the part of the people to provide themselves with homes while lands are yet cheap, and goes to show the generally healthy and prosperous condition of Texas and Texas people.

The Telegram is advised that during the month of August fully 75,000 acres of land have been sold to actual settlers, in small bodies, in Deaf Smith county. Hereford is the county seat of Deaf Smith county, and it is located away up on the Pecos Valley branch of the Santa Fe, near the New Mexico line. Much of the land state valued at $1 per acre and exchanged for the new capitol building at that valuation is located in Deaf Smith county. It is an open secret that land which sold in that section at $1 per acre only a few years ago is now selling at from $6 to $12.50 per acre. Thirty Texans are going into the Panhandle and West Texas in large numbers daily and are buying this land because it is cheap in comparison with the $75 and $100 land to be found in the older settled portions of the state.

And these men are going into these sections of the state and paying good prices for this land with a full realization of what such action means. They are fully cognizant of the fact that seasons are sometimes uncertain, and big crops cannot be depended upon every year. But they are taking hold of the situation imbued with the determination of adapting themselves to the peculiarities of the country. In that action they are wise. They are much wiser than the first settlers who went into to possess the land and make it conform to their peculiar ideas. They are wise enough to know that natural conditions cannot be overcome, and they must put themselves in line with nature and nature will aid and abet all their intelligent efforts. These men will stay, for they are on the right track. They are the people who will make West Texas and the Panhandle the fairest and best of all Texas. They hold the destinies of those sections in the hollows of their hands.

It is gratifying to The Telegram to note these things. It is pleasing to chronicle the fact that this great section of the state naturally tributary to this city is enjoying such rapid and permanent prosperity and development. Every man who settles there becomes at once a friend and ally of Fort Worth, and Fort Worth is pleased with the way things are now going in West Texas and the Panhandle. The demand for land is a most gratifying sign of the times. It means much for Fort Worth and incidentally for all Texas.

Candidate Colpitt also makes some very sensational statements concerning the prevalence of graft and official corruption in Texas, but it is possible Candidate Colpitt has heard the old, old story until he has become infected with the virus of misbelief.

The manner in which yellow fever is disappearing from New Orleans is a pretty strong evidence of the fact that when Uncle Sam gets in behind Yellow Jack there is nothing for that worthy to do but proceed to make himself very scarce.

According to some of the newspaper revolution is imminent in Japan, but the statement should be accepted with a grain of salt. It is not often that revolutions occur in Japan.

Fort Worth was full of visitors yesterday, and they all went home singing the praises of the place where the panther laid down.

There is no cry of hard times in Fort Worth. All Fort Worth people are both busy and prosperous.

WOMAN Born Bulldozer

by Cynthia Grey.

She pulls him, she pounds him, she bulldozes him. She begins early, too. Find the small young lady who has lived a year of eighteen months and watch her bulldoze her older brother. If there's isn't a brother a neighbor will do quite as well—if she likes him.

Before she can walk he is her most good natured and accommodating punching bag. When she is old enough to play horse, he makes the gentlest and most tricky of horses. She whips his back and switches his legs.

IT'S A GREAT GAME. SHE IS BORN TO BULLDOZE AND HE IS BORN TO BE BULLDOZED.

Fort Worth and Temple are having a close contest for the baseball championship of the state that promises to eclipse everything else of public interest until the contest is over.—Brownwood Bulletin.

The contest was settled in favor of Fort Worth. The Fort Worth team had fully made up its mind to that effect. There is another good showing of tribulation being made this season in Colorado by a few progressive farmers of the county, who each year "show" the "I can'ts" that this succulent plant can be produced in Navarro county with certainty and profit.—Corsicana Sun.

The farmers of Texas are learning that there are a whole lot of things they can produce now heretofore considered impossible. There are few things produced in any other country that cannot be grown in Texas.

Everywhere we go we find heart-broken mothers, denouncing villains for marrying their daughters. Well, who is to blame? The world is full of scoundrels, seeking whom they may devour, and you never inquire as to the character of young men, but send your daughters out with them as lambs to slaughter. God have mercy on some mothers.—Rusk Press-Journal.

And God have mercy on some daughters. As long as men are such consummate villains, just so long will woman's trust be misplaced.

The Fort Worth Telegram is gradually growing gentler and unsuspecting. It has gotten to the point where it doubts if there is wrong going on anywhere, and the universe will say something every time he speaks. He is built that way. He is one of the statesmen in Texas who can and does discuss issues, and besides he stands on the right side of them.—Tyler Courier.

Colonel Dick Wynne of Fort Worth is said, will take stock in the coming state campaign, and if he does so you can be assured he will say something every time he speaks. He is built that way. He is one of the statesmen in Texas who can and does discuss issues, and besides he stands on the right side of them.—Tyler Courier.

Jon. William D. Williams says he did not make republican speeches in 1896 or in any other year. Well, say he did? Senator Teller and Doolittle made democratic speeches in 1896 and voted the democratic ticket for the first time in their lives. Martin W. Littleton made speeches in 1896 against the democratic standard-bearer and in 1894 he was selected to nominate Judge Parker. In 1908 Mr. Littleton expects to second the nomination of W. J. Bryan, the man whose nomination made him jump the tracks in 1896.—Dallas Times-Herald.

Judge Williams has made no republican speeches. All his talks have had the ring of the true democratic metal in them. Williams is a democrat of the most pronounced type.

The Arlington Journal, in an editorial of some length, deprecates opposing candidates to Mr. Gillespie in Tarrant county next year, and advocates his election chiefly upon the ground that there is nothing wrong with his record, but fails to state what record Gillespie has or whether he has made any. The Journal ought to state what he has done during his last term in congress.—Venus Times.

Johnson county has never taken kindly to the candidacy of Congressman Gillespie. There are too many Johnson county gentlemen dreaming dreams of sojourns in Washington.

Colonel Dick Wynne of Fort Worth is promising to get out on the hustings during the next campaign and stir up the animals. The colonel is supposed to be listening to the buzzing of the gubernatorial bee, and while he has always been quite so success as a prodder, the result of his former campaigns for office has not been so overwhelmingly successful as to cause the gentlemen who are already in the race to hunt their noses for awhile.—Deaton News.

Colonel Wynne is going to give the people of Texas some new issues and great gobs of genuine democracy. At issue, such was the announcement made over in Dallas recently.

IT WAS NO FANCY SKETCH.

The Painting from the Marriage of Figaro Told a Story of Love and Sorrow

BY AN OLD MAID (Copyright, 1905, by the Newspaper Enterprise Association.) In the cabinet of an old friend, Mr. Winchester, there hangs a picture which has often attracted my attention. It represents a scene from "The Marriage of Figaro," but the faces were evidently portraits. Although it hung among many works of German, Italian and French masters it did not suffer from the contact.

I was standing one morning before this, my favorite picture, wondering if there was not some history connected with it and my Amy was Susannah. The curtain fell with the actors in the position you see in the picture. "As a surprise for me and a parting gift, Atherton had painted the girls' portraits."

"As winter came on Amy began to cough and her face was frequently flushed, while her breathing became very much oppressed. The best medical advice was called in. Too late. They pronounced my darling in consumption. "Oh, Emma! What I suffered can be known only to God. Amy was calm and resigned. Her only desire was to see Atherton. We both wrote the truth to him and implored him to come without delay. The day after the letters were sent I received one from him written on the eve of his departure for home. It was coming by sea and of course would miss our letters.

"One afternoon I was sitting beside her bed. We were alone. "Father," she said faintly, "I am going to die. I don't see Atherton. You will tell him how I loved him. Hark! There is a carriage at the door!" "I sprang to the chamber door and there, Atherton's voice was inquiring for Amy and I heard Ella say in a low tone, "She is dying. You may go up."

"Dying!" And he had not heard one word of her illness. "He flew upstairs and stood facing me. Never shall I forget his face. Going rapidly to the bedside he cried, "Amy! Amy! My own love, I have come home to you. Home, never to leave you again!" "No answer came from the lips of my child, but in her eyes was an expression of devotion and perfect love. Suddenly it changed and a look of pain came into it. She stretched out one hand to me. "Father," she gasped, "Atherton! I am so happy."

"Her head sank on my breast and her eyes closed. Amy was dead. "Atherton, on his knees, pursuing his profession. He is still a bachelor and a woman later, people say, so much do they know of him. "Kate and Georgiana moved to Kentucky where Georgiana died four years after her marriage. Ella is with Kate, I am alone."

When a deep sigh behind me caused me to turn my head, I saw Mr. Winchester, who had entered the room and was standing with his arms folded, looking sadly at the picture. "It is not beautiful, Emma," he said. "It is indeed," I replied, "and for a fancy sketch the faces are wonderfully lifelike."

"It is no fancy sketch," said my old friend, hastily. "The whole picture is drawn from life. Sit down, Emma, and I will tell you the history of the picture you admire so much. "You know my wife died when my only child, Amy, was but 7 years old. Of course it was necessary to provide someone capable of taking charge of the little one, and my dear sister, Ella, a widow, consented to bring her two girls and live with me. Georgiana, my elder niece, was 5 years old, and Kate was the exact age of my Amy, born upon the same day. The three girls were brought up like sisters, sharing the same studies and pursuits. But as the years elapsed and their different characters were more fully developed, each had some favorite study or pastime. Georgiana was fond of books and in danger of becoming very blue and peevish. Kate was a make her sister as possible. She was a perfect madcap, fond of gay amusements and especially fond of horseback riding and dancing. "Amy, my motherless one, was, as you are aware, beautiful, with her large brown eyes, luxuriant chestnut hair, fine figure and regular features. She was lively but not so daring as Kate, fond of books but not sufficiently so to be in danger of becoming a pedantic. Her ruling passion was music.

"When Amy was 16 years old an old friend introduced me to Atherton Holmes, a young artist, who was pursuing his profession in our city. I was much impressed with the modest manners and intelligent conversation of the young man and he took a friendly interest in our family affairs. He was poor, having nothing but his profession, and not having made his name famous this was but little. He became very intimate with Dr. Grant, Georgiana's betrothed, and we saw much of him. From his first visit I could see he was pleased with my Amy. "In less than two months he had asked and obtained my consent to pay his addresses to my daughter, and, as she was not indifferent to his attentions, I promised myself much pleasure in watching the progress of this little love affair. "Atherton made up his mind to go to California to try for a fortune. Amy was heartbroken at his decision, but he was so proud to marry her without wealth. "Shortly before he left, the 17th birthday of Amy and Kate was celebrated by a fancy ball, before which a series of tableaux were to be given. The last of these was the second scene from the second act of "The Marriage of Figaro"—the scene in which the countess and her waiting maid disguise the page to deceive the count. Georgiana represented the countess, Kate was Cherubino, the page,

MODERN HUSBANDS TOO SELFISH, SAYS DOROTHY

Daughter of Fair Lillian Russell Discourses on Faults of Married Men

What's the matter with the present-day husband? That's the question which was put up to Dorothy Russell, the serious young daughter of Lillian Russell, who is a member of the "Piff Puff Puff" company.

Dorothy Russell has a slim, round, supple figure, finely chiseled features, blue eyes and golden hair. She does not look much like her mother. She flounces about a good deal, in an absent-minded sort of way. Dorothy thought a minute and then said: "When I answer that question I will speak from experience. I have been married and divorced.

"The present-day husband is too selfish. He thinks of his own good time, and will not allow his wife to enjoy half the pleasures that are his. He has an ideal "ideal" seems to be her only linguistic eccentricity) that the wife should be content to lead a monotonous, colorless life, made happy by an occasional glimpse of her lord and master. "He also has an ideal that we women could find no pleasure in the things he enjoys—billiards, riding, hunting, yachting and so on. He will not share these things with his wife. Yet, given the chance, she might grow to be as fond of them as he.

"The seed of unappiness among the married is most frequently planted by the husband when he goes to the club evenings, as mine did, leaves his wife at home to pass the time any old way, returns after midnight, and in ten minutes is sound asleep and snoring.

"Young men of today want to be 'good sports.' It costs money to be 'good sports.' More than most young men with wives can afford. A man should not marry before he is 28 or 30. Before that time he is not ready to quit kicking up his heels and being a 'good sport.' "I fully expect to marry again—some day. But bless you, I'm in no hurry. He must be the right kind—industrious, frugal, kindly, courteous, affectionate, loyal, of good morals, with a keen wit and an active mind, and in every way superior. And he must stay home nights."

President: Grand! Glorious! Could you find time to mediate between me and the harem? THE SUIT. Never judge a woman's thoughts by what she says. It is easier to avoid debt than it is to dodge a creditor. It's a man's outgo that plays havoc with his income. Some men always do their best—including the best friends. As a woman grows older she becomes more sensible and less bossy. Never judge the value of a painting by the price tag attached thereto. If wishes were horses the majority of them would be among the also rans. A pretty girl is never so pleased as when some man reminds her of the fact. Ice cream soda is a popular interior decoration at the present stage of the game. The man who claims to want but little here below may be listed as a police suspect. When the cat's away the mice are apt to play around the trap until they get it in the neck. It is far easier for a rich man to say that he enjoys hard work than it is for a poor man to believe it. Unkissed kisses are not the sweetest. They are usually in the keeping of sour spinsters and cranky old bachelors.—Chicago News. REFLECTIONS OF A BACHELOR Not being able to tell the truth is very useful if you want to compliment a woman. When a man rows a woman across a creek she tells about it as if she had been off yachting. A man can marry a girl for her looks; but when it comes to living with her what he counts on is her disposition. A woman can always be happy for a while by imagining how all her friends would envy her if she were a widow. There is so much deception in a woman that she can make herself believe she is going to nurse a sick friend when she is going to make her sick with envy over the clothes she is wearing.—New York Press.

Mothers Are Helped THEIR HEALTH RESTORED

Thousands of Mothers Due to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Mrs. Pinkham's Advice.

A devoted mother seems to listen to every call of duty excepting the supreme one that tells her to guard her health, and before she realizes it some derangement of the female organs has manifested itself, and nervousness and irritability take the place of happiness and amiability.

Tired, nervous and irritable, the mother is unfit to care for her children, and her condition ruins the child's disposition and reacts upon herself. The mother should not be blamed, as she no doubt is suffering with backache, headache, bearing-down pains or displacement, making life a burden. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the unfailing cure for this condition. It strengthens the female organs and permanently cures all displacements and irregularities.

Such testimony as the following should convince women of its value: Dear Mrs. Pinkham: I want to tell you how much good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done me. I suffered for eight years with ovarian troubles. I was nervous, tired and irritable, and it did not seem as though I could stand it any longer. I had five children to care for. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was recommended and it has completely cured me. I cannot thank you enough for your letter of advice and for what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. WITH THE CATTLEMEN

SHEEP SUPPLY SHRINKING The rearing and fattening of sheep has been called the best sheet anchor of British farming, and there is no doubt much truth in the saying when applied to a very large portion of the area of these islands, says the London Live Stock Journal. And yet that country has lost five millions of its sheep stock in the last twenty years. In 1873 there were 3,400,000 but in 1904 only 2,900,000, which shows a decrease of 15 per cent. True, against this there is to be set the addition of about 1,300,000 cattle, which, in point of value, more than balances the loss, but this compensation is not so satisfactory as it may at first sight appear. Sheep are very largely a part and parcel of arable farming, and the substitution of cattle for them may suggest that England is moving in the direction of a pastoral system. This is only another way of saying the capital is being gradually drawn from the land and labor becoming less employed. Moreover, there is much less severe competition against this country in the production of sheep than in that of cattle, and it might be thought there has been a more hopeful sign if the increase had been in sheep instead of cattle.

The falling off in sheep is, however, by no means confined to England, for the decay of the industry appears to be spread all over Europe. Indeed, all the great continental countries are losing their sheep far more rapidly than we are. Major Gregory, in his lately issued report, says: "The changes in the position of the flocks of Continental Europe are, indeed, the most remarkable of the agricultural movements of recent years." In 1872 France had nearly 26,000,000 sheep and Germany 25,000,000, while by the latest available statistics France has now only 18,000,000 and Germany less than 10,000,000. Thus France has lost 30 per cent and Germany 50 per cent in twenty-one years, while we have only lost 15 per cent. Turning to other countries, it is seen that Austria has lost half her sheep stock and that of Hungary, which was last enumerated ten years ago, was found to have dropped from 15,000,000 to 8,000,000. As regards the comparative density of population and numbers of sheep in the countries of Europe, some interesting figures are given showing that in this respect the United Kingdom is far and away the highest stocked in proportion to area. Russia has 451 sheep for every thousand people, Austria 73, Germany 73, France 157 and Great Britain and Ireland 374.

Across the Atlantic there is less certainty in the information relating to the numbers of live stock, but as far as we are concerned, both in Great Britain and Canada are on the down grade with regard to their sheep stocks. The former seems to have suffered a decrease of 8,000,000 in four years, and the latter about a million. The stock of sheep in New Zealand has been reduced to the tune of 2,000,000, while as to Australia, we have but little information, but she has evidently much leeway to make up for the terrible losses inflicted by the droughts of a few years ago. The last report from Argentina seems to have been made in 1901, when the sheep of that country were given as 74,000,000. Probably that great exporting country is increasing her stock of sheep, but if so she stands almost alone in so doing among the considerable nations of the earth.

These reports, taken as a whole, possess almost a startling character, and the question arises, "What is the meaning of it all? Why are nearly all agricultural countries neglecting their sheep and increasing their cattle? Possibly one reason may be that sheep, to be kept successfully and finished for market requires more attention than cattle, and, as already pointed out, go more hand in hand with the cultivation of the soil, which in new and partly settled lands is in a backward state, while, on the other hand, in countries of the old world which suffer from agricultural depression a reduction of the sheep stock represents the loss of farmers' capital. This extended view of the subject of sheep breeding gives at least the consistency of feeling that this country is doing better than its neighbors—that is to say, that although the United Kingdom is losing ground as regards the number of sheep, it is doing so at a much more moderate rate than others. This may be but cold comfort, but surely the facts above given point out a practical lesson to every British farmer who breeds, or ought to breed, sheep. Many drift ewes might be allowed to run another year and produce another lamb. Fewer ewe lambs should be fattened and every effort should be made to bring the flock up to its full strength. The world's deficiency is a flock of ewes, and which promises considerable duration. Some confidence may therefore be felt in the future as regards the price of mutton, while the position above described speaks eloquently as to the cause of the rise in wool, and provides materials for a tolerably safe forecast of the trade's future.

HORSES BURNED IN CAR EL PASO, Texas, Sept. 2.—Nat Greer is back from New Mexico and tells of a horrible sight witnessed by himself and other passengers on a Santa Fe freight train near Albuquerque as they came down on the road home. A car filled with horses in a freight train caught fire from a hot box and the horses were literally roasted alive, he says, without being able to get out or be rescued. The fire had gained such headway when discovered that the train crew feared it would be unable to put it out. If the train was stopped and also that the entire train might be consumed, so, as Albuquerque was only five miles distant, a great effort was made to reach that city and secure the assistance of the fire department. As a result the engineer on the freight put on full steam and made for the town with all possible speed. The running of the train caused the flames of the car to rise and the horses were burned alive in sight of the people in the passenger train in the rear. Several of the horses managed to kick open the rear door of the car, Mr. Greer says, after they were almost burned to death, and to roll out along the right of way, but they had to be killed. None of the horses were alive when Albuquerque was reached, or if they were, they had been so badly burned that they were at once killed to put them out of their misery.

SHEEP AND CATTLE BASIN, Wyo., Sept. 1.—The old war between the cattle raisers and sheepmen has broken out again in the Big Horn basin, and the first clash resulted in the killing of 8,000 sheep in one herd, the property of L. A. Gantz, whose range is on Shell creek. It was the worst range in the history of the war between the two factions, and further trouble is anticipated, as both sheepmen and cattlemen are guarding their herds. The sheep camp was visited at night by a band of masked armed men who first captured the herds, burned the camp and equipage, killed the horses of the outfit, and then began shooting and clubbing sheep to death. Large numbers were driven over a high precipice and others were drowned in the river. The entire flock, consisting of 8,000 sheep, was killed. Cattlemen in the district have complained of Gantz for some time, claiming that his sheep were destroying the home cattle range, and insisting that he move them into the mountains. After the killing of the sheep the herders were given two days' food and feed. They were warned not to disclose the names of the destroyers even if they knew them.

BETTER MARKET WANTED "If the market was a bit better, we would see a movement of cattle from western Texas that would tax the capacities of the railroads to care for it," said Live Stock Agent W. H. Weeks of the Frisco road, yesterday. "I last week made a trip to the Lampasas, Goldthwaite, Brownwood, Ballinger and San Angelo sections and I found that there are plenty of cattle in that section fit for market. But I also found that the cattlemen are in a position to hold their stock for an indefinite period and this they will do, if the market does not take an upward turn. The cattlemen do not believe that the present level of values is either a just or equitable one at present prices is entirely too small, when the matter of risk assumed in raising cattle for market is taken into consideration. "Practically the whole of the country I visited is in need of rain for the agricultural products, but the grass is good and there is an abundance of water for the stock."

CATTLE HELD BACK IN CONCHO COUNTRY

Present Conditions So Discouraging Producers are Waiting

SAN ANGELO, Texas, Sept. 4.—Present conditions in the Concho country are not of the kind that make the cowman wear his broadest smile. The reason is that his cattle are now ready to ship to the market of the best that ever came from West Texas and yet the market is so low that he cannot see his way clear to shipping cattle and selling them for less than they cost him to get into shape. On the other hand, he has made good money out of his forage crops and has some good range left, despite the fact that the dry weather has affected some of it and the pasture fires have gotten other portions of it. The cattlemen are all determined to hold their fat cattle as long as they can and are in a position to keep them all winter if absolutely necessary to get a fair market.

Grass Nearly Gone
In most parts of the Concho country the grass is still fairly good, but will not last much longer unless rain comes. The dry spell at this time of the year is a little more than it has ever been before, but even with the scarcity of water the cattle are well taken care of for the ranchmen is a very narrow man who did not in the past few years sink wells and provide for just such a contingency as this. The last several weeks the wind has been so scant that most of the cattlemen have had to stay at home and see that the gasoline engines were pumping plenty of water. For a time they could get no water to water their stock when dry spells came, but now they have every preparation to take care of dry spells when the creeks and rivers will not supply the necessary water.

The plans for the fall live stock and agricultural exhibition to be held Nov. 14 to 18 are being carried out in a way that means a very successful carnival and exhibition. A list of the premiums has been prepared and it is a good one. Stockmen have expressed themselves as surprised that such liberality has been shown by the merchants and those contributing to the funds.

The general opinion prevails that the tempting list will bring exhibitors from all over the state and that as fine a lot of cattle will be shown as at any event held in Texas this year. The ranchmen and stock raisers are taking a very great interest and have promised to do everything possible to make the affair what it should be.

Pasture Fires Troublesome
Pasture fires the last several weeks have given stockmen considerable concern and made them have several hard fights with the flames. The fires have started from various causes. Some of the large tracts of grass destroyed were started by lightning during the storm of several weeks ago, while others are directly attributed to cowboys smoking cigarettes and carelessly dropping the stubs or lighted matches. Some of the fires have destroyed many sections and the loss is keenly felt by the ranchmen, owing to the dryness of the ranges at the present time.

One thing which gives the cowman considerable concern at the present time is the influx of settlers who are cutting up the large ranches and farming tracts. These people make the pastures a great deal smaller and usually plow up the very best tracts. Cotton is planted where the grass formerly grew and this takes from the cattle the most fertile spots for grazing. The settlers from the other parts of the state who come here are always anxious to raise cotton. Cotton to them is the best crop that they can possibly raise and the one that pays the biggest returns. These settlers figure that if they can get a bale to every four acres they are doing exceptionally well and that they can make good money, which they really do. This is the means for others to come here and they flock in at every chance they get and then, too, the real estate agents add them in coming. Some of the ranchmen welcome these settlers, while others dislike to have them about and especially the others. Nevertheless, the settlers continue to flock into the Concho country and as long as any ranchman will offer tillable land for sale he is going to dispose of it, if the price is anywhere near reasonable.

Mules in Demand
For the past several weeks mule men from Alabama, Georgia, Tennessee and Kentucky have been scouring the country for suitable yearling animals to ship to those states. These mules must not have a brand on them any place, but on the jaw, for if they have the buyers do not want them. The West Texas mule is about the finest animal of his kind in the world and better prices are paid for him than the Missouri yearling brings. The buyers say that they have a market for all that they can secure. Several carloads have been shipped and more are to follow. Stockmen see in the raising of mules a good field and have started to pay a good deal more attention to the sturdy animals and less to cattle. The time is soon coming when the West Texas mule will outclass the Missouri mule so far that history alone will ever be able to mention that Missouri was once famous for mules instead of Texas.

OLD ATLAS SHOWS GAINS OF TEXAS

Total Mineral Wealth Thirty-five Years Ago Was $900. Other Comparisons

Some interesting data of Texas' growth since 1870—thirty-five years ago—is given in a copy of Gray's Atlas, published by John W. Lyon & Co. of Philadelphia and owned by Dr. Charles P. Brewer of this city. The atlas shows Tarrant county to have a population at that time of 400 people. Richard Coke was governor. Dr. Frank Rainey, now superintendent of the Masonic Widows and Orphans' Home of this city, was superintendent of the state blind asylum at Austin. There were only thirty inmates of the blind asylum. Only six public libraries existed in Texas thirty-five years ago, with 22,241 volumes. There were 250,000 children of school age in Texas between the ages of 6 and 18 years and the number of children enrolled was 129,542, with an average attendance of $3,000. The number of school children who never registered was 63,277. Number of schools in the state was 210, number of teachers 2,207, average salary $27, total income $1,144,334, total expenditures $1,092,914. The value of mineral products of Texas as shown in the atlas was $900 and the product was stone. There were 2,000 manufacturers in the state in 1870, employing 7,927 hands, and the enterprises were capitalized for $5,284,110; wages paid was $1,787,835, material $6,273,193, value $11,617,302. The railroad mileage in Texas was 291 in 1870. The following year it was 1,254. The number of people pursuing professional occupations in the state in 1870 was 5,787, and the number of colleges reached twelve, employing a faculty of only eighty-four. Unclassified students numbered 423, preparatory 1,145, collegiate 638, female, preparatory, 417; collegiate 115.

UNION MEN HEAR LABOR EXTOLLED

Addresses at Hermann Park Praise Cause of Unionism. Ball at Night

Enthusiastic addresses and a large attendance marked Labor Day celebration at Hermann Park Monday afternoon and night. Addresses were made by Mayor T. J. Powell, J. D. Montgomery and State Senator Arch Grinnan. Mayor Powell was introduced by President Stephens of the Fort Worth trades assembly, in a few well chosen and complimentary remarks. Mayor Powell said in part: Any man ought to feel proud of the opportunity of making an address of welcome to such a body. Any man should feel honored when called upon to represent the great city of Fort Worth in bidding the representatives of organized labor more than welcome to the best that is within her gates. Organized labor, together with the farmers' movement, is the most potent factor in the upbuilding of home life in the United States. In this great country there are about thirty-six million people who are directly interested in and working for the advancement of the cause of union labor. Why? Because they feel and know that it is the one movement that has for its object their own prosperity and the continued well-being of their children by the founders of the greatest government on earth. The speaker discussed the progress of the country, touching on the trusts and continuing: "However, we have drifted from a nation of independent people to a nation of dependent people. You represent the brains of this country and

Covering Entire Body. Shed Dustpanful Scales Nightly. Skin Cracked Open. Suffering Dreadful. Doctors Fail. Prayed for Death. Sister says, "Won't give up. Try Cuticura." Eureka! Instant Relief. In 6 Weeks Completely CURED BY CUTICURA

I have been afflicted for twenty years with an obstinate skin disease, called by some M. D.s. Psoriasis, and others Leczema, commencing on my scalp, and in spite of all I could do, with the help of the most skillful doctors, it slowly but surely extended until a year ago this winter it covered my entire person in the form of dry scales. For the last three years I have been unable to do my labor, and suffering intensely all the time. Every morning there would be nearly a dustpanful of scales taken from the sheet on my bed, some of them half as large as the English shilling. My hair fell out. In the latter part of winter my skin commenced cracking open. I tried everything, almost, that could be thought of, without any relief. The itch of the skin started again, and I could reach it but I was so weak I should have to go to the hospital, but finally got as far as Lansing, Mich., where I had a sister living. One Dr. noon treated me about two weeks, but did me no good. All throughout I had but a short time to live. I earnestly prayed to die. Cracked through the skin all over my back, across my ribs, arms, hands, limbs; feet badly swollen; toe-nails came off; finger-nails dead and hard as a bone; hair dead, dry, and lifeless as old straw. O my God! how I did suffer!

My sister, Mrs. E. H. Davis, had a small part of a box of Cuticura in the house. She wouldn't give it up, said, "We will try Cuticura." Some of the scales were taken and sent to me. I was relieved; stopped the terrible burning sensation from the word go. They immediately got Cuticura Resolvent, Gintment, and Soap. I commenced by taking one tablespoonful of Cuticura Resolvent three times a day after meals; had a bath once a day, water about blood heat; used Cuticura Soap freely; applied Cuticura Gintment morning and evening. I returned to my home in just six weeks from the time I left, and my skin as smooth as the finest paper. (Signed) HIRAM E. CARPENTER, E. W. Henderson, Jefferson Co., N. Y. produce the wealth of today. I say God speed the day when every able-bodied workman in the country will be allowed to labor for his own benefit. Not for the purpose of organizing for opposition and tearing down things, but for the purpose of holding up for the rights and privileges that the constitution provides for you. The great problem that confronts organized labor today is the education of immigrants—the intermingling of laborers from other countries. I will say, gentlemen, that the greatest accomplishment of the country rests on the elevation of organized labor through the last decade. It promises more toward education and civilization than anything else that I know of. I was proud to see the organized farmers in the country marching side by side with other organized labor. The farmers and the laborers are fighting the same combinations. The same agencies that are at work against one are against the other. In the eyes of the wage position which they are fighting against and in the other it is the price of cotton. I hope that all of the farmers will take example from our organization in Fort Worth organized labor has received higher wages on the agreement of the employers. As long as I have been here I have never seen any combination of importance between labor and capital. Why is it not possible for the farmer to put prices on cotton as the laborer does on his labor? He can do it with education and organization. You farmers have been paying the price asked when you buy your goods, and yet you let someone else set the price for you on your cotton. You should also demand that cotton reports be given publicly. State Senator Arch Grinnan of Brownwood, Texas, being introduced, made a few complimentary remarks addressed to the mayor and Fort Worth in general. Touching on the labor question, he said in part: "We have had afternoon for the purpose of doing honor to the working faction which has made this country a powerful, great and prosperous one. Jefferson said that agriculture, manufacturing, commerce, and navigation are the four pillars of prosperity. He might have added that the foundation of these is the strong arm of educated labor. "Those men who bear our government were not afraid to wear blue shirts or dirty shirts. They were driven here by the oppression of the monarchs of the old world. These men gave up all but their sacred honor and devotion to liberty and God and came here where liberty and blessedness might be found. They established a government which would restrain men from inflicting one another and not take from the laborer the bread which he has earned. It was on these principles that our government was established. After these men came over here, with their hoe and ax they made the forest disappear. Then came commerce, manufacturing, etc. Each was dependent on the other and the laborer who propelled it. Suppose we should stop commerce? Manufacturing would stop. Suppose the spindle and the farmers would have no market for their products. Great industries would disappear like hailstones in the sun. One industry is dependent on another. "Labor is waking up like a lion, for it knows that something must be done. Labor bureaus and commissions are being established by the government for the purpose of collecting information on the knowledge of labor. Labor is beginning to learn that there are some provisions in the constitution for it and the laborers are right in asking for them. "There was a time when the laborer would kneel at the foot of capital, but he won't do it now. "I see that the farmers have also learned business methods in establishing prices for their commodities. I comment the and want them to sell on." Address of Montgomery. J. D. Montgomery, state organizer for the Farmers' Union, was introduced and addressed the assembly. The addresses of Mayor Powell and Senator Grinnan were endorsed and the speaker continuing said in part: "The great object of the Farmers' Union is to regulate the prices on the products we raise. Some say that we are diving into politics, while others insist that we keep out of politics. Why they do so is more than I can understand. It's on the same order as a man always getting after a man who doesn't drink telling him not to drink or to get drunk and tell of the bad effects. You need never be afraid of the farmers getting mixed up with politics. "By our organization we have forced the price of cotton above 10 cents, despite the fact that thousands of bales were held over from last season. We propose to do this year. If we do not, we will not be forced to put our cotton on the market. No farmer who is a member of the union has been forced to put his cotton on the market because he has no money. "Open air amusements of all sorts marked the latter part of the afternoon, a grand ball at night terminating the celebration.

Two big crowds enjoyed "Uncle Josh Perkins" at Greenwall's opera house Monday afternoon and night. The matinee crowd was particularly large. "Uncle Josh" has been improved since last season and in the hands of a better company provoked more fun than ever. "Lord Baltimore," which comes to Greenwall's tonight only, is a new play, but it is in the hands of a veteran, Jap Rentrow, whose name promises a first-class production. The story of the play deals with the adventures of a tramp at a rich Englishman's country residence.
