PLANNED TO BURN NEGRO AT STAKE

Edna Murder Suspect Is Reported Surrounded

WILL BE CAUGHT SOON

Declared That Officers Will Offer No Resistance to Infuriated Mob

ESCAPES SECOND TIME

Special to The Telegram. HOUSTON, Texas, Oct. 2, 2:30 p. m.—The latest report from Edna says that the negro, Monk Gibson, has again eluded his pursuers and is still at large. A cartload of fresh horses has been shipped from Richmond to be used in the search.

Special to The Telegram.

HOUSTON, Texas, Oct. 2.—It is believed that this afternoon will witness the last act in the tragedy at Edna, Texas, which has held the center of interest in all South Texas for the past five days.

A report comes from Edna that Monk Gibson, the sixteen-year-old negro boy suspected of having been implicated in the killing of Mrs. A. J. Condit, her fourteen-year-old daughter, and her three sons, aged 9, 8 and 10 years, has been surrounded eight miles from there in a locality known as "Devil's Pocket" and will soon be captured.

Then it is planned to lynch the negro by burning him at the stake in the public square of Edna at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

At Large Since Friday

Gibson, the youth who was working in a cotton field near the Condit farm all the day of the tragedy, who first discovered the murder and who gave the alarm, has been at large in the woods along the Navidad bottoms ever since he escaped from the custody of two deputy sheriffs last Friday night.

It will be remembered that after whipping the negro until he was half dead, in order to make him confess the truth about the wholesale murder, and placed on the back of a horse and started, in charge of two deputies, for Hallettsville jail.

When a short distance from town the negro suddenly turned his horse and galloped into a barb wire fence, where the horse fell. The two deputies were taken by surprise, but wheeling their mounts, galloped after the prisoner, fearful of the wire that had tripped the latter's horse. Their own horses fell when they struck the wire and before the deputies could pick themselves up, young Gibson had disappeared in the woods.

Tracks Found Yesterday

After a futile effort to get trace of the elusive prisoner, the deputies returned to Edna and reported their failure to the mob of citizens which became so angry at the officers that threats of violence were heard.

Finally convinced that the negro had escaped the mob was organized in posse which began a search to recapture the prisoner.

The search continued all day Saturday and all night Saturday night, but not until Sunday were any traces found to indicate the path Gibson had taken.

Then the tracks of a man in the soft earth near the river were found and bloodstains, having been sent for, were placed on the trail.

The pursuit was ineffective, however, until today, when it was thought the negro had been surrounded.

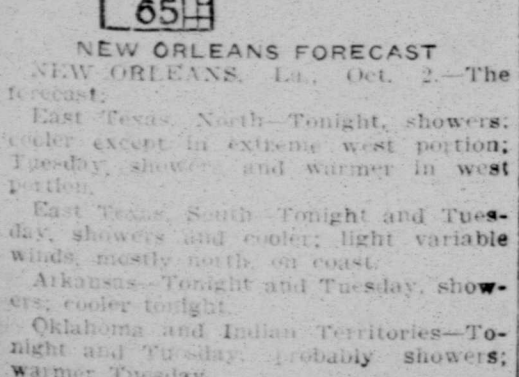

Lynching Is Inevitable

There is no doubt, if the negro is caught, he will be lynched. The officers dare not resist the spirit of the mob which is determined to burn the negro when he is caught. It is believed the officers will make no effort to resist the mob.

St. Paul Printers Out

ST. PAUL, Minn., Oct. 2.—About 200 job printers of St. Paul went on strike today because the employers refused to grant the demands of the printers' union for an eight-hour day. Some of the largest printing establishments in the city announced Saturday the shops would be operated Monday as "open shops" and they are idle today. An attempt was made by a few today to do business on a small scale with non-union help.

PRESIDENT HADLEY OF YALE WARNS STUDENTS

Opening Address of College Year Directed Against the Ideals Ruined by Success

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 2.—Dr. Arthur Hadley, president of Yale University, in his address at the first Sunday dinner service of the academized year yesterday, warned students against ideals that lead to fraudulent success, had politics and un-Christian civilization. He said in part:

"If a man's purposes and ideals are such that he is seeking to attain them for himself at the expense of his fellow-men, they are not ideals. If his ideals are such that each step toward their realization means the advancement of those about him, his purposes are Christian. Let us look at its application in various fields. What is the pagan ideal of sport? To win whether you play fair or not. What is the Christian ideal? To play the game fairly for all that it is worth, and win if you can.

"If we hold the former ideal every game that we play is a training for fraudulent business, bad politics and un-Christian civilization. The man who fails, if he can but keep from the discouragement of failure, sometimes learns more beneficial lessons from them than the man who succeeds. For the man who fails, and rises above his failure, is free from what is perhaps the most dangerous temptation of American business life at the present day—the danger of measuring the value of a man's purpose by the immediate and tangible results achieved.

CINCINNATI BANKER SPEEDS HIS MACHINE

Odell, a banker of Cincinnati, his wife, a guest and Orion Sault, the chauffeur. The policeman said that the automobile was making twenty-one miles an hour. The chauffeur was arrested and later hauled out. Neither the driver nor the Odells were in court when the case was called. The magistrate forfeited the bail bond.

BIRTH RATE IS HIGHER

Race Suicide Theory Not Maintained in New York

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—New York city, according to the report to the department of health made public yesterday, is blessed with a lower death rate than in a hundred years. The birth and death rate also fails to support the race suicide theory, as it shows that more persons have been married and more births recorded during the last six months than ever before.

In order to avoid complications over the remaining regulations in various states of the south, the President decided to make New Orleans the final stop of the trip. He will be at New Orleans on the 24th inst. After the President said that city he will go aboard the cruiser Cleveland to make the journey from New Orleans to Washington by water. AIR BRAKES FAILED

Collision Resulting Sent Train Down Embankment

ST. PAUL, Minn., Oct. 2.—A Soo Line passenger train from the east, leaving the union passenger station yesterday, collided with a Chicago Great Western freight train at the Fourth street viaduct.

The force of the collision sent five of the passenger cars down a twenty-seven-foot embankment. One man is dead and five were seriously injured, while a score or more were slightly cut and bruised. That more were not killed or injured is due to the largest number of men merely being having discharged the greater number of its passengers at the union depot here.

W. E. Haskell, who is among those slightly injured, was formerly owner of the Minneapolis Times, but is now connected with a Boston, Mass., newspaper.

The cause of the accident was the failure of the air brakes on the stock train to work.

SWITCH ENGINE OVERTURNS

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Oct. 2.—A switch engine in the yards of the Louisville and Nashville railroad jumped the track yesterday and two men were instantly killed and a third died in the hospital a few hours later. CALIFORNIA SETS NEW STYLE IN BULL FIGHTS

Matadors Wear Football Suits and Bull Looks Like Four-Legged Feather Bed

CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 2.—A dispatch to the Record-Herald from Los Angeles, Cal., says: "A bull fight, with the attachments of a comic opera, thrown in, was held at Santa Monica yesterday. The action was there, but of gone there was none, for the bulls were clad in football armor until they were twice their natural size and looked as if they had eaten something that had caused serious intestinal disorders.

The matadors were similarly attired, and when one, hampered by his padding, was unable to escape the charge of a bull, the impact resulted a collision between two feather beds.

The fight was more on the order of a limited round pugilistic contest, in that the palm of victory was awarded on points. The judges decided in every instance in favor of the bulls, which means in Spain that the matador should commit suicide, as he swears to kill the animal or be killed by it. Up to a late hour of the night the defeated matadors were pleading "matana," and other dilatory phrases in explanation of their failure to end their lives and thereby wipe out disgrace of defeat.

The most amusing incident of the battle occurred when the judges, who represent the president in Mexican bull fights, announced the result of the fight. One of the two dozen matadors flung his arms wildly into the air and swore in Spanish and shouted Mexican defiance at the decision.

Originally the intention was to hold a genuine bull fight, with plenty of blood-letting, but the authorities interfered. It was the first event of the kind ever held on American soil on the Pacific coast.

TEXAS ADVERTISERS TO ORGANIZE CLUB

Secretaries of Commercial Organizations Throughout the State Will Be Asked to Organize

WACO, Texas, Oct. 2.—A call will be issued in a short time asking the secretaries of the commercial organizations of the state to meet and form a state organization. Recently Homer D. Mr. Wade says that he has received replies from more than half of these men already, and they favor such an organization without exception, and request a call for a state meeting. With the replies received, Mr. Wade says that he is certain that the organization can be effected, and a call will be issued in a short time for a state meeting. The time and place will be announced in the formal call.

ATTEMPT TO DROWN PRESIDENT OF CUBA

Mere Accident Is All That Folds Carefully Concealed Plans to Kill

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—An attempt to assassinate President Palma by drowning has been made according to a cable dispatch to the Herald, dated Oct. 1. Details of the plot came out only Sunday, however, and then by accident. The correspondent for the Herald made inquiries of the President was not using his special car to travel to and from Havana as has been his custom, and was informed that recently wedges had been found driven into the bridges over which he passed, the wedges being so arranged that had his car struck them at anything near its usual speed, it would have been thrown into the water with him. Fortunately, however, the car was running slowly and passed over the obstructions in safety.

The danger was not recognized until afterwards. Since that time President Palma has driven the seven miles to his home, always accompanied by secret service police.

RECKLESS SPEEDING DENOUNCED BY PRIEST

Accident to Church Goer Just Outside of Church Calls Forth Scathing Sermon

CHICAGO, Oct. 2.—Reckless automobilists were denounced scathingly yesterday by the Rev. P. J. McDonnell, speaking from the pulpit of St. Michael's Roman Catholic church, Washington Boulevard and Forty-third street. Father McDonnell's utterances were prompted by an accident almost at the doors of the church a few minutes before Vespers service began. Mrs. Bridget Hannan, a widow 72 years of age, was run down by a machine. She was crossing the street to enter the church, which she is a member. Her injuries were severe and she was taken to the priest's house.

J. H. Eustis, owner of the car, stopped and gave what aid he could to Mrs. Hannan. His chauffeur, Harry Johnstone, was arrested.

Father McDonnell called reckless automobile operators cowards and demanded that laws against "auto-madness" be enforced.

HEBREWS ATTACKED WHILE PRAYING

Italian and Irish Laborers Throw Stones at Crowd of 2,000 Observing Religious Ceremony

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—Some two thousand Hebrews were attacked on the Pike street recreation pier on the East river front yesterday by two score Italian and Irish laborers. They were pelted with stones and several were hurt. The assault was kept up until the arrival of the police, which sent the assailants to the police station. They were released on the condition that they would attend a meeting for that purpose.

The Hebrews had gone to the river front to observe the Yishba, an ancient ceremony, which occurs on the second day of the Jewish New Year, and consists principally of recitation of a prayer. They had scarcely begun the ceremony when the assault took place.

A panic followed when one after another of the worshippers was struck and knocked down. A dozen policemen were hurried to the scene. All but three of the assailants escaped. An ambulance call brought physicians, who dressed the wounds of the injured.

LEADER URGES MUTINY

Wants All Hungarians in Army to Resist

BUDAPEST, Oct. 2.—Deputy Zoltan Lengyel, leader of the radical wing of the coalition party, wants to inaugurate a mutiny of all Hungarians in the Austro-Hungarian army to support the coalition demands. M. Lengyel in an open letter published today in the Budapest press, calls on the soldiers to refuse to obey orders issued in the German language. The deputy also proposes a social boycott of German and Austrian officers by the Magyar population.

The punishment of the mutineers, he points out, is impossible, as there would not be men enough left in the army to deal with the Hungarian protesters.

DIPHTHERIA NOT TO CLOSE CITY SCHOOLS

Decision Reached After Death of Pupil from Seventh Ward Building

Fort Worth public schools will not close on account of the existence of diphtheria in the city. This decision was reached after a conference between Dr. L. A. Barber, city physician; Alexander Hogg, city school superintendent, and Mayor Powell this morning.

SEVENTH WARD PUPIL DIES

The death Sunday afternoon of Charles, the 8-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Lightfoot, from the disease, was the cause of some apprehension among the parents having children in the Seventh ward school, where the boy was a pupil, and all children will be examined daily for diphtheria yesterday. We are not of the opinion that there is any danger to the remainder of the week, as a precaution. Dr. Barber said at noon today:

"Quite a number of cases of diphtheria have been reported to me during the past several weeks. There were a few cases in existence at the opening of the schools. Only two deaths have resulted from the disease, the last one being the first and last since the child taken was a pupil. There are now ten cases under treatment in the city and I think they are all under control.

"After a consultation today with Professor Hogg and Mayor Powell, I can say that the Seventh ward school will not be closed on account of the death of the son of Mr. Lightfoot from diphtheria yesterday. We are not of the opinion that there is any danger to the remainder of the week, as a precaution. The threats of all pupils of the school which the child contracted at the time he was taken, will be examined daily during this week and any new case will be at once isolated.

NO DANGER, SAYS CITY PHYSICIAN

"Just as soon as it becomes apparent that there is any danger in the material spread of the disease, the mayor will close all the schools immediately, but, at present, there is no danger of its spreading."

Two children of John Berger, superintendent of the printing department of the railway mail service in the federal building, who lives at 1214 El Paso street, are also reported to have been ill with diphtheria. One has recovered and the other is considered out of danger.

NEW GOODS BURNED

Merchant at Bryan Loses Unopened Fall Stock

BRYAN, Texas, Oct. 2.—The store and stock of merchandise of W. C. Boyett was destroyed by fire at College Station, involving a loss of $5,000, with only $2,000 insurance. In the fire was $1,000 worth of new goods received the day before, which had not been opened. Mr. Boyett also lost his books and store accounts, but records and supplies of the store, which were in the building, together with his records, etc., with the Houston and Texas Central agent's money on hand, were in the safe and were recovered after the fire.

Wirt Boyett, son of Mr. Boyett, was sleeping in the building and awoke barely in time to make his escape before the flames collapsed. Mr. Boyett talks the fire as of incendiary origin and that robbery was intended. The knob was broken off the safe door.

Sheriff Nall visited the scene this morning, but was unable to discover a clew. Mr. Boyett states that he will rebuild.

NEW YORK POLICE GET BOW TIEF

SEAMAN SAVED BY BRAVE COMPANIONS

Officers of Battleship Alabama Say Rescue Was Most Heroic Effected in Many Years

NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—A rescue, which the officers of battleship Alabama say was the most heroic that has taken place in the navy for many years, was effected by three seamen of that battleship off Provincetown, Mass., Saturday.

The man who was rescued is Andrew Anderson, a seaman, and the men who saved him are Edward Wagner, William Brannon and E. V. Anderson.

The Alabama is the flagship of the second division of the first squadron of the North Atlantic fleet, which arrived here yesterday.

When the order was given to the Alabama to weigh anchor and proceed to New York, the chains fouled the stock and somebody had to be lowered to unfasten them. The job fell to Anderson, who was getting along all right as the controller of the drum around which the anchor chain was to be wound was used. A minute later the anchor had sunk into two feet of water and Anderson went down with it.

The sailor managed to free himself of the rope that was tied around his waist. Once free Anderson tried to rise to the surface. Instead of doing so he struck the bottom of the Alabama. Three times the sailor tried to rise and then he lost consciousness. Captain W. H. Reed ordered full speed astern and as soon as the Alabama had cleared the spot where Anderson had gone down, the form of the sailor appeared on the surface of the water. Wagner was one of the first sailors to see him. He plunged into the water and swam to the spot where the sailor was. He caught the unconscious sailor and swimming with the sailor's head above water, finally, with the assistance of William Brannon and E. V. Anderson, landed him on board the vessel.

SOFT COAL ADVANCES

Scarcity of Cars Puts Price Up Several Cents

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 2.—Because of the scarcity of cars, soft coal has advanced to $1.25 a ton at the mines. Prominent operators say that unless relief comes within the next few days, the wholesale price will reach $1.50 a ton. In months there has been such a demand for bituminous coal, as at this time, notwithstanding the unusual demand, the larger companies say there is more coal above ground at this time than three years ago when the last strike was pending. They attribute the activity to a scarcity which has taken possession of the consumers.

LOUISIANA STILL GAINS IN BATTLE WITH FEVER

No Deaths Outside of New Orleans Reported for 24 Hours. Only a Few New Cases

NEW ORLEANS, La., Oct. 2.—While the opening of October finds the yellow fever still existing in New Orleans, the health authorities are supremely confident with the passing of the month not a vestige of sickness will remain. The record for the week ending Saturday is the best since August, with a total of 182 cases and twenty-three deaths, against 261 cases and thirty-three deaths the preceding week. While some parishes have not agreed to complete lifting of quarantines on the 15th of October, some of them have indicated a willingness to do so, and if the ratio of improvement is maintained here, it is expected by that time there will be little restriction against communication. In the country parishes increased interest is being shown in the fight here in view of the possibility of President Roosevelt's visit to New Orleans. There are many people throughout the state who are anxious to come here and persist in giving the President a typical Louisiana welcome, and if by the better conditions here, each a point where there are only sporadic cases it is not improbable there will be a modification of quarantines to the extent of letting those who wish to participate in the reception come to the city. The success of the fight against the fever above Canal street is shown in the report for last week, disclosing only a handful of cases and no deaths. In the downtown section of the city outside the nest discovered in Mount Carmel asylum there were only ten cases reported yesterday.

BETTER CONDITIONS IN STATE

Conditions in the state show general improvement. The Patterson situation is improving and a similar report comes from every other part of the state. Except at Kenner, which is just beyond the limits of New Orleans, there was not a single death in the country districts of Louisiana. Public schools opened here several hundred children having returned to New Orleans from the surrounding country at the week-end, and the announcement that the school term would begin today. Dr. Rudolf, who handled the situation at Patterson for several weeks, has gone with a nurse to Seattle, where fever has appeared. He was sent by the Louisiana board on appeal from the Mississippi authorities.

JAPANESE STOCKS RISE

Anglo-Japanese Treaty Causes Feeling of Confidence

TOKIO, Oct. 2.—Noon—A sharp rise in prices took place again this morning in the local share market with every indication that business activity will gradually overcome the depression caused by the treaty of peace. The new alliance with Great Britain has inspired the feeling of perfect confidence in the future tranquility of the situation in commercial circles and much activity is expected soon in all lines of business.

Freight Movement Heavy

W. L. Geer, commercial agent for the Cotton Belt at Waco, is in the city. Mr. Geer reports business is first-class in central and south Texas and crops never looked better. There is a very large movement of freight over the country and merchants do not complain of hard times in any of his territory.

WEATHER BUREAU WILL STAY IN FORT WORTH Factory Club Has Message from Congressman Gillespie Today to That Effect

The weather bureau station will remain in Fort Worth. Wild rumors to the contrary that were circulated are utterly without foundation. Fearing that such rumors might cause uneasiness in business and other circles, and believing that it has ever been a fixed rule of the bureau at Washington not to change any of its weather stations, the Factory Club made inquiries as to the truth of the report through R. L. Carlock during the past week, the result being the receipt of a telegram today from O. W. Gillespie, member of congress from this district, stating that the station will stay in Fort Worth.

The latter assured the striking printers the moral and financial assistance of their union.

There is no change in the situation in Dallas.

ROCK ISLAND DENIES REPORTED PURCHASES Says It Has Bought Neither Sierra Madre or El Paso and Southwestern

It has been rumored here and elsewhere that the Rock Island has bought the Sierra Madre railroad in Mexico from Colonel W. C. Greene, but President Ben L. Winchell of the Rock Island has taken occasion to deny the report and also to state that the Rock Island has no intention of doing so or does it intend to in the future. Mr. Winchell also says that the Rock Island has not taken over the El Paso and Southwestern, as has been frequently stated in railroad circles.

Denial is also given the rumor that the Rock Island has disposed of its Kansas City-S. Louis line to the Santa Fe. He admits, however, that the Rock Island is willing to make a satisfactory trackage agreement with the Santa Fe for the use of the road between St. Louis and Kansas City.

The Rock Island's new double track between Kansas City and Topeka is nearly completed. When finished it is to be used jointly by the Rock Island and Union Pacific.

The Rock Island will also have a double track entrance into Kansas City from Chicago when the new interlocking plant now being built at Harlet is completed.

NEW LINE TO SALT LAKE Northern Mexican and Gulf Incorporates With $300,000 Capital

A company with a capitalization of $300,000 has been formed to construct a railroad from Santa Fe to Durango, Col., and Salt Lake City. The road is to be known as the Northern Mexican and Gulf.

The road will make close connection with the Santa Fe central at Santa Fe, N. M., and its proposed extension from Torrance to Roswell and the Gulf will eventually be made.

Other than this feature there is nothing new regarding the pending deal.

The race may not be to the swift, but then again it may. And it's not to the man who doesn't start.

That's settled, anyway. —Chicago Record-Herald.

SANTA FE AGENT TO BE NAMED SOON F. S. Brooks Said to Be Slated as Successor to J. I. Conway, Recently Promoted

John I. Conway, who has just been appointed as general live stock agent for the entire system of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe, with headquarters at Kansas City, returned this morning from Galveston, where he went to confer with General Freight Agent Henshaw of the Santa Fe in Texas regarding the appointment of a successor as live stock agent in this state for the system.

Mr. Conway said that the selection of his successor has not been announced yet, but possibly would be during the day, and until Mr. Henshaw makes public the appointment he was unable to announce the selection.

It is pretty well understood, however, that F. S. Brooks, who has held the position of assistant to Mr. Conway, will be the lucky man. Mr. Brooks has been associated with Mr. Conway for two years and prior to that time was with the Santa Fe eight years and has held various positions in the live stock and freight departments of the company. He is said to be a very valuable employe and abundantly able to hold the position which is liable to fall to him before the dawn of another day.

The letters state that the two companies are abundantly able to finance the road and are anxious to take hold of the proposition.

Other than this feature there is nothing new regarding the pending deal.

CONTAGIOUS BLOOD POISON Contagious Blood Poison more thoroughly poisons the blood than any other disease. Every part of the body is affected when the virus becomes entrenched in the circulation; red eruptions break out on the skin, the mouth and throat swell, the glands in the neck and groin swell, hair falls out, copper-colored spots appear on the body, etc.

I was afflicted with blood poison, and the best doctors did me no good, though I took their treatment faithfully. In fact I seemed to get worse all the while. I took almost every so-called blood remedy, but they did not seem to reach the disease, and had no effect whatever. I was disheartened, for it seemed that I would never be cured. At the advice of a friend I then took S. S. S. and began to improve. I continued the medicine, and it cured me completely.

Hamlet, N. C. W. B. NEWMAN.

So highly contagious is this disease that many a life has been ruined by a friendly hand shake or from using the toilet articles of one affected with the poison. To cure this hideous and hateful disease a constitutional remedy is required. S. S. S. goes down to the very root of the trouble and forces out every particle of the virus from the blood and cures the disease permanently. S. S. S. is purely vegetable and drives out, root and branch, and no signs of it are ever seen again.

Those who have been cured by S. S. S. can feel assured that none of the poison is left in the blood to transmit to innocent offspring. The entire body is built up and the blood made pure, rich and healthy by this great remedy. Book with instructions for home treatment and any medical advice desired will be given free of charge.

COTTON MILLS IN THE SOUTH

The people of the southern states should feel very much encouraged over the drift of affairs in the matter of cotton manufacturing. Statistics for the past year show that nearly all the new mills erected were built in the south, and the same conditions have existed for the past three years. The Washington Post says:

In the last three years 483 cotton mills have been erected, and of this number 495 have been constructed south of Mason and Dixon's line. This has had much to do with the marked changes in the conditions connected with the manufacture of cotton goods, a change which was the chief topic of discussion at the recent meeting of the New England Cotton Manufacturers' Association at Atlantic City.

Members of the association discussed at great length the necessity of action looking to the enlargement of the market for the product of the American cotton mills, and frankly exchanged views and experiences as to the conditions of the mills of the south have led in the progress of manufacturing in the last few years and have made it necessary for the New England mills to look to the foreign fields for their products.

The northern spinners for many years had all they could do to supply the demands of the home market, but now the south, with its coal fields, timber forests, and magnificent streams, furnishing a cheap and never-failing supply of fuel, water and power; with its cheaper labor, and its cheaper cost of living, with all the natural and artificial advantages that may be profitably employed in the manufacture of the home-grown crop, is finding a welcome in the home market.

These facts doubtless fully explain why it is the New England mills are turning to the south as a more favorable location. One of these big mills has just closed a contract with the citizens of Del Rio, which provides for its location at that point, the citizens of the plucky little Texas town having subscribed one-half the capital stock of the company.

CRITICISING THE GOVERNMENT

The four officials of the Schwarzschild & Sulzberger Packing Company of Chicago, charged with "conspiracy to commit an offense against the United States law," were fined $25,000 in the United States district court sitting at Chicago. The defendants were Samuel Weil of New York, vice president of the company; B. S. Cusey, traffic manager; Vance D. Skpman, and C. F. Todd, assistant traffic manager. The fine was divided $10,000 each to Weil, and the other three $5,000 each.

of beef consumed, weeping over this separation from so much of the money of which they had plundered the public! The only regrettable feature of the closing of this incident of the government investigation of the beef trust, is that the prison clause of the sentence was not enforced. It is no hardship, and hardly a reproach, to require a man to pay a comparatively small fine after he and his associates have been allowed to pilfer the government and the public of millions. In truth, it is but a division of the spoils with the government on terms decidedly to the advantage of the manipulators of the deals.

If this is the manner in which the "government is going after" the beef trust, and other "conspirators" against the United States laws," as charged in this indictment, then the government investigation so much talked of by the present administration will have no terrors for those it is designed to prosecute. They will simply accept, pay up about 1 per cent of the amount they have gained by illegal methods, and go their way rejoicing—Mobile Register.

There has been considerable adverse comment in the leading papers of the country over the result of the indictment of these four men on a charge of accepting rebates from railroads on packing house products. And if this criticism is a criterion for that being held in reserve for the trial of the real beef trust cases provided the government fails to convict the men under indictment, it may be necessary to have the czar of Russia tender his good services as mediator between the government and an outraged public. But those who are in close touch with the situation believe the government is going to be able to make good in its trial of the real beef trust cases. The packers have been knocked out in all the first rounds and are being compelled to go to trial on the merits of their cases after seeking in every way possible to obtain delays and take advantage of technicalities.

What the result of those trials will be no one can foretell, but it is just as easy to anticipate a favorable result for the government as for the packers, and the indications are that the government knows just exactly what it is doing. Of course, the outside world knows nothing of the real facts in the possession of the government, but we have seen it able to make good in the rebate cases, imposing and collecting a fine of $25,000 on pleas of guilty, going to prove that the parties under indictment were guilty. The fact that the government was supplied with evidence that would secure conviction, and standing in fear of the extreme penalty, which carries an imprisonment clause, they made the best terms possible, and thereby placed in the government's hands means for bringing the offending railroads also to time. In this way the government will be able to kill two birds with the same stone. There is nothing for the railroads to do but emulate the example of the packers who sought and obtained clemency.

Those tears shed by the men before the bar of outraged justice may have been crocodile tears, but the celerity with which they parted with that $25,000 goes to prove that they realized they were at the end of their rope. It was a mortifying experience for them, and while they perhaps got off more lightly than they deserved, yet the fact remains that they must ever bear the stigma of confessed guilt. They may go and sin some more along the same lines, but they must ever bear the odium of confessed guilt, and it is reasonable to suppose they will be a little more circumspect in future.

We should remember in connection with this affair that we are not on the inside, and should not indulge in unjust criticism of the government, when it is so clear that its officials are doing the best they can and all they can to bring the violators of the law to justice. It will be but a short time now until the big show will come off, and we should not get unduly excited over the little side exhibition. The federal government is doing its whole duty in the matter of bringing these people within the pale of the law, and that they are very much frightened over the impending result is a very clear proposition.

The more insurance matters are probed in New York, the worse is the smell that is wafted down into the nostrils of policy holders. These big institutions seem to have resolved themselves into the political manipulators of the nation, and have made themselves felt in the politics of almost every state.

That foreign circus will find that it is going up against the real thing when it mixes dates with a Fort Worth enterprise of the same nature. The Fort Worth circus is the greatest ever, and will do the business whether the other one comes to town or not.

The Sunday Telegram always has it in just a little better shape than any of the others. The Sunday Telegram is a newspaper that measures fully up to the requirements of the people.

The Federal court in Chicago has overruled the plea in abatement made by the packers, and that is another round won by the government in its mill with the market manipulators.

There is no cry of hard times in Fort Worth. Every Fort Worth institution is prospering and growing.

SO IT DOES A professor while lecturing to his class on the subject of "Tornadoes" told the scholars that in the west were dug in the earth tornado collars, where the people run to shield themselves from an approaching tornado. One young lad in the class stood up to ask the question: "And where do you go if you could find no cellar?" The professor looked at him curiously, and replied: "That all depends on how good a boy you are."

THE DRIFT OF POLITICS

The prospective appointment of Mr. Cortelyou, postmaster general and chairman of the republican national committee, to the secretaryship of the treasury next year, when Mr. Shaw retires, has excited great interest in political circles. The first public announcement of Mr. Cortelyou's desire to become secretary of the treasury was made semi-officially in "Drift of Politics" on July 5 last, since then the matter has been discussed in all forms, and Mr. Cortelyou, as is his custom, has made the office more agreeable than he had anticipated. In fact, as an aspiring politician, Mr. Cortelyou has learned that the postal department is a vast and powerful empire, to be diverted politically in a way to make itself felt. Next to the President, the postmaster general is nearer to the people, the senators and the congressmen. More favors are asked of the head of the postoffice than of any other high official of the federal service. Although protected by civil service rules, the patronage is so vast that a postmaster general who is in thorough accord with the President, and who is, in fact, in a way to make himself felt, can, in a word, make his place a stepping stone for higher position.

Scheme to Deadlock Delaware Legislature

Addicks or some other man with a little ready cash can lock up the Delaware legislature and prevent the election of two United States senators in 1907. This matter is perfectly familiar to Senator Allee, who discussed it the other day. He declared that this would be closely watched, so as to avoid complications. There are sixty-two members of the Delaware legislature, and the republicans should elect at least thirty-two. It requires twenty-seven votes to elect. If six republicans should form a combine, and influence by money or other considerations, they could block the same successfully. Addicks held this balance of power in the last legislature and he is already at work getting his friends in different parts of the state to organize and keep Allee and his followers out. As Allee helped Addicks in the past to deadlock the legislature, he will devote his attention now to undoing his former work. Addicks cannot be elected in the present circumstances. Who will be named does not appear now, but Allee is anxious to retain his seat. He has a keen competitor in Secretary Layton, who may stand also in the back of the same Allee. Addicks, Ex-Senator Ball, chairman of the regular republicans, is not in the running. He represents the du Ponts. In fact, he has been elected in the past years. T. Coleman du Pont, the head of the powder company, is not a candidate, because of the business he represents requiring his close attention. The object of the proposition is to deadlock the legislature, so that the du Ponts, who have furnished the war for many campaigns, is the logical candidate of the regular faction.

Morgan and Perkins for Cortelyou

The republicans at the national capital are now going so far as to say that Geo. W. Perkins is one of the most enthusiastic supporters of Mr. Cortelyou for the treasury position, and that he is also an advocate of Mr. Cortelyou for the presidential nomination in 1908. Further than this, some of the very prominent financiers say that the support of Mr. Cortelyou for the treasury position is in the firm of J. Pierpont Morgan & Co. is by no means confined to the junior member of the firm, and that during the last visit of Mr. Morgan himself to Oyster Bay he took occasion to say to Mr. Roosevelt that he thought well of Mr. Cortelyou's ability for the treasury portfolio.

Campaign Contribution Revelations

Since the revelations in the investigations of the life insurance companies in New York, a change has come over the spirit of the dreams of those who administer national affairs. A state of blue ink over the revelations about campaign contributions. They say they are glad that there is nothing in the way of the general solicitor to George Massey, Railroad Company. That corporation is as dominant in the affairs of Delaware as it is in Pennsylvania, and Massey has never relaxed his grip on the politics of Delaware. Governor Lee, who is a director in the Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington railroad, is no doubt acceptable to Massey. Whether he would throw the company's influence for Allee remains to be seen. Allee must choose between two masters at the next session of the senate. If the President pushes his rebate war, he will want Allee on his side. The railroad companies will want Allee on their side. Who can elect the most members of the Delaware legislature, the President or the Pennsylvania Railroad Company? Governor Lea never showed Addicks any friendship or favors. Despite the fact that Addicks kept deposits with the bank of which the governor is president, Mr. Lea always kept the gammon at arm's length. The governor is under no obligations whatever to Addicks.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Primary Elections for Senators

The primary plan for selecting candidates for the United States senate goes marching on. Its latest is in Tennessee. In May next the democrats of that state will decide at the polls who shall succeed Mr. Carmack in the senate in case they carry the legislature. When Mr. Martin defeated Governor Montague in Herzig laughed and fumbled for a cigar. "The excellent Mrs. Webley," he proceeded, as he struck a match, "sent you to the Mill House because, during your absence from her shop, Roger Marske slipped in and paid her to do so. Being on his father's estate, he knew of it as a solitary house, where he would be able to bring you and your pursuit of him to an untimely end. Roger Marske really received his unacknowledged wife's letters at his rooms in Jersey street, with the 'Danvers Crane' envelope covered by

In less than five minutes he was acquainted with all my adventures, from Roger Marske's tracking me to Mrs. Webley's shop, down to my long drive from Marske hall to the docks in Sir Gideon's company, and the ruse by which I was induced to go below into the cuddy. Herzig heard of my danger in the burning Mill House quite impassively, but he showed keen interest in Mrs. Webley's behavior and in all that passed at Marske hall.

"You have had some narrow escapes, and have been among some place it around that of as big a scoundrel as ever deserved hanging." The object which he now extracted from his pocket and proffered for my acceptance was a chocolate box, tied with faded pink ribbon. "The contents in that box," he explained, "are identical with those with which Roger Marske poisoned Mrs. Rivington and her daughter, sending them to his victims through the post. The box also contains correspondence from a certain Italian chemist from whom they were procured. It speaks for itself, and is sufficiently clear to convict the recipient of murderous intentions. You hold in your hands as complete a case as a prosecuting counsel could desire."

"Now please pay particular attention to me while I sketch out your future course," he went on. "There are reasons, vital to my own safety, why, as Herzig, I should not appear in the matter at all. Are you willing to keep me out of it?" "If you will show me how it can be done," I answered.

"I have no objection to be known in the business under my alias of Dr. Barrabes," he said. "What I propose is this. As Roger Marske's supposed representative I shall bid Captain Belcher put you ashore at Totland Bay. You will go straight to Lord Alphington with the proofs and tell him the whole story exactly as you know it, merely substituting the name of Dr. Barrabes wherever you should say Herzig."

"But Roger Marske is aware of your real identity, and will disclose it when brought to bay," I said.

"Not so; as it will not be material to his own defense, there are the best of reasons why he should not disclose it," replied Herzig, with a meaning smile.

"Sir Gideon was the instigator?" I began in an awe-stricken whisper, which he checked with a wave of his hand.

"My dear young lady," he purred, "let us draw a veil over all that. I do not even admit that the instigator was ever a real danger to me, but this I do know—that your name will probably be recaptured, when even those proofs which you hold will be too late to save him. And I am afraid we may have difficulty with the captain. He gives me the impression of wishing to keep you on board."

"I am terrified by him; the first night I spent on the ship he first drunk, and I heard him talking to the mate," I said.

"Well, you heard me talking last night, so you must not be too greatly alarmed," replied Herzig, with a solemn wink. "All the same I agree with you that the man is a hog—"

"Who are you calling a hog on my ship?" came the suspicious inquiry from behind me, turning quickly, I saw that Captain Belcher was casting baleful glances at us round the corner of the wheel house.

CHAPTER XXXII

A Fight Against Time.

How long had Belcher been standing there, and how much had he overheard? I began to tremble violently, but with characteristic readiness Herzig stepped to the front, and, shielding me with his broad person, turned the awkward question aside with a jest. The individual to whom he had applied such a harsh term, he avowed, was the steward Antonio, who had only given him a teacupful of water to wash in.

Belcher scowled and muttered, but went on to say that the tide served, and to inquire whether Herzig wanted to be put ashore at that point, or whether he was going on in the steamer.

The question did not elicit an immediate reply, for Herzig capped it with another: "You are bound, in hal-lal, for Barcelona, I understand from Mr. Marske—to fetch home a cargo of fruit?"

"You've hit it, mister—first time," assented Belcher, gruffly.

"Very well, then, here is your program," proceeded Herzig, "and you have made terms with this young lady on behalf of my principals and yours. You will therefore start immediately, and shaping your course inside the Isle of Wight at your best speed, you will land Miss Chilmark in one of your own boats at the pier of Totland bay. I myself will enjoy the pleasure of your company considerably longer, captain, for I propose to go on with you to Barcelona."

Belcher had been staring at him open-mouthed, but now his jaw closed with an ugly snap, and he seemed on the point of an angry outbreak. I had been thinking of Arthur and Arthur's safety hitherto, but now I was free to rejoice at the near prospect of escape from this wild animal's domain. His visible disappointment at that moment brought home to me how doubly grateful I ought to be for Herzig's intervention. Had I been the passenger to believe the voyage I could see that the waves would have been my best friends before we were out of the channel. So I told myself in the exaltation of the moment, without reflecting that as long as I was on board the Nightshade such congratulations might be premature.

Belcher for the present restrained his wrath, and muttering that he would go and get the anchor up, turned to his left and went forward to the bridge. Shortly the steamer began to move, and as she crept slowly from creek to creek out to the open sea, Herzig filled in the blanks of his narrative.

He told me how Roger Marske had attempted to murder Arthur; how, fearing that as he had failed to silence my lover by that direct method, Marske would take measures to have him recaptured, he, Herzig, had hidden him in a vacant house and had started to try and trace me and procure evidence against Marske. He had intended to see Arthur and had before leaving Totland, to take food to him, but finding that Marske was leaving for London by the first boat he had had to alter his plans in a hurry.

Instead of going in person he had been compelled to trust a local fisherman named Croal with the duty of conveying provisions to Arthur's retreat. The limited confidence he had to place in this man was disquieting, but he had hoped and believed that the man was both stupid and trustworthy, and would not betray the trust. He had enlisted Croal's sympathies by telling him that Arthur was a runaway debtor, and it was hardly likely that the fisherman would connect the case with the fugitive convict, who was supposed to be on his way to America. At any rate, it was the best he could do, as it was imperative not to lose sight of Roger Marske. Only by sticking to him could he learn my whereabouts.

With persistent cleverness he had carried out the self-imposed task, traveling up to London in Roger Marske's company. Marske, of course, had heard from him already that Arthur's escape had been arranged by Sir Gideon; and, doubtless, his father, on the memorable night at Marske hall, had supplemented the information, so that Herzig had no difficulty in approaching the matter. He had therefore informed Roger Marske, what he knew already, that the affair which had caused Arthur's release was at an end, and had gained the villain's confidence by warning him of the charge which I was working to bring against him.

Falling into the trap, but without admitting his guilt, Roger Marske had thereupon disclosed to Herzig what had befallen me—how I had come to Marske hall, of all places in the world, to lay an information against him, and how advantage had been taken of this to inveigle me on board the Nightingale, over whose brutal skipper Sir Gideon had a firm hold. Roger Marske had also fully stated his plans regarding me. He was going down late in the evening to board the ship in Chichester harbor, when, unless I signed a document withdrawing all aspersions on him, especially as to what had happened at the Mill House, I was to be left on board at Belcher's disposal.

Herzig was of the opinion that the Nightshade's rendezvous at that lonely spot, unknown even to the captain till after he had sailed, had been chosen against the contingency of Roger Marske having to fly after the desperate effort he meant to make to silence Arthur by violence. The attempt having failed, and Arthur being unable to accuse him, he had, in reason, for flight and would not have remained on board.

Perhaps Hall Caine is so inflated with the idea that he is an author that he really feels it would lower his standing to become president of these United States. In that event it is but another instance of the ignorance that is bliss.

It is now alleged that some of the railroads are anxious to drop the suits against the Texas railroad commission to enable it to begin enforcing its emergency rates on dry goods from Galveston to interior points. If the case is tried on its merits, the people have nothing to lose, and the railroads nothing to gain, so it would appear that the best thing the railroads can do is to drop it. If the Texas railroad commission were not in existence it would cost the railroads of the state more than a million dollars annually to maintain a traffic bureau to keep the rates up like the commission is keeping them up, at no cost to the roads.—Sherman Register.

The railroads have found the commission a good thing, and the most of them are in favor of it, but they have to do a little injunction stunt occasionally for the sake of its effect upon the common people.

Colonel Wymore would make a fine legislator as well as a good governor. He is a man who has been a close observer of state affairs for years, and has been prominent in politics. But if there are two or three candidates his campaign may not be successful. That is not a good reason, however, why men of his class should not stand as candidates when the people call upon them to do so, and the News is quite sure that such considerations will not deter them.

The people should not hesitate to call men of Colonel Wymore's caliber to places of trust where their services are needed. The next state legislature should be composed of men of this standard.

When Mab and Rory A-Fishin' Went

'Twas a Singular Capture They Made and Brought Home to Their Mother

(Copyright, 1905, by the Newspaper Enterprise Association.)

"But it's such a little broken place," remarked Rory disconsolately, "we'll never be able to get in."

"I don't see why we shouldn't go," said Mab. "We might make the hole just a weeny bit bigger. We've just got to get in somehow, and it doesn't matter how we do it. Have you forgotten the pond with the gold fish that Hudson told us about?"

"Of course, I haven't," said Rory impatiently, his face puckering up, "why don't you remember we've got the fishing lines all ready?"

Mab pattered softly across the room to the cupboard. From the recesses of a Noah's Ark she drew out two pieces of string, each having attached to it a large bent pin.

She dangled the bits of string in full view of Rory, and he fell.

They traversed the dangers that lay along the route; the creaking board on the third stair from the top was safely circumnavigated, as was also a forbidding-looking ancestor, who stared down at them from the picture frame with eyes full of meaning.

Hand in hand they raced round the corner, out of sight of the silent windows.

Mab tossed her long dark hair from her face as they approached the gap in the hedge.

Mab knelt down and looked through. The next moment this terra incognita stretched before them. Here were the ple wake up early, too, sometimes, and I had a long journey yesterday."

"Don't you live here?" asked Rory. "No, I am only staying here for a few days."

He was very tall and thin and stern-looking, and though she was rather afraid of him, Mab thought him very kind for taking off his coat and wrapping it round Rory. Then Mab solved the problem that had been troubling her for the last few minutes.

"Why, of course," she exclaimed, "Rory, don't you see? He's exactly like the picture mother has over her bedroom mantelpiece, and one we always call the Right Honorable."

The elderly gentleman started violently, and his eyeglass dropped with a little click against a button.

"The Right Honorable's hair isn't nearly so white, and I believe he's wather more bet'er looking," said Rory, with decision.

"Will you tell me your names?" There was a look of painful suspense on the elderly gentleman's face.

"Rory and Mab. Rory's name is Roderick, really, and mine is Mabel."

"But your surname, your father's name?" interrogated the elderly gentleman, hoarsely.

"Arkwright."

Mab heard a stifled exclamation; but when she looked up, their new acquaintance was occupied in folding the coat more closely round Rory.

"They were moving toward home."

"Rory called Roderick after the Right Honorable," resumed Mab, presently.

"And who is the Right Honorable?" "I don't know," said Mab, perplexedly, "someone mother loves very much and says we must love, too; and she cries sometimes when she talks about him. But I don't see how you can love somebody very much if you've never seen him."

"Quite impossible," said the elderly gentleman. Then he coughed a little and looked uncomfortable.

"Do you think you could love me a little, Mab, just a little?" He spoke almost humbly. "Not at first, perhaps, but if you knew I was your grandfather? I am the same as the Right Honorable. I came hundreds of miles, in the hope of seeing you."

"Mab, do you think she will see me?"

"I'm sure she'd like to," said Mab, remembering the tears: "she and father will be at breakfast, I expect."

Hudson met them in the hall, struck dumb at the sight of the children's scanty attire, and scandalized beyond expression that an elderly gentleman should come to pay an early call in his shirt sleeves.

But Hudson had far too practiced an eye to be long in error, and had flung open the morning room door with the air he kept for only the very best people, before Mab had time to whisper, "This is the Right Honorable, Hudson."

The next morning Mab heard a voice that sounded like the Right Honorable's, that yet had a curious quiver in its tones.

"You'll give your old father some breakfast, Mabel, even if he's late by a few years in coming for it? Where's your husband?" And though Mab saw that her mother was crying on the other side of the door, she knew the Right Honorable's shoulder, she knew without being told, that they were happy tears, in no way resembling those she had shed over the Right Honorable's portrait.

JOYS OF MATERNITY

A WOMAN'S BEST HOPES REALIZED

Mrs. Potts Tells How Women Should Prepare for Motherhood

The darkest days of husband and wife are when they come to look forward to childless and lonely old age. Many a wife has found herself incapable of motherhood owing to a displacement of the womb or lack of strength in the generative organs.

Mrs. Anna Potts

Frequent backache and distressing pains, accompanied by offensive discharges and generally by irregular and scanty menstruation indicate a displacement or nerve degeneration of the womb and surrounding organs.

The question that troubles women is how can a woman who has some female trouble bear healthy children?

Mrs. Anna Potts, of 510 Park Avenue, Hot Springs, Ark., writes:

My Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

During the early part of my married life I was delicate in health; both my husband and I were very anxious for a child to bless our home, but I had two miscarriages, and could not carry a child to maturity. A neighbor who had been cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advised me to try it. I did so and soon felt that I was growing stronger, my headaches and backaches left me, I had no more bearing-down pains, and felt like a new woman. Within a year I became the mother of a strong, healthy child, the joy of our home. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is certainly a splendid remedy, and I wish every woman who wants to become a mother would try it.

Actual sterility in woman is very rare. If any woman thinks she is sterile, let her try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and write to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass. Her advice is free to expectant or would-be mothers.

AGAINST ORDINANCE

Negro Preacher's Sermon Condemns Separation of Races in Street Cars

Pastor D. S. Moten of the African Methodist Episcopal church, delivered a sermon on the subject "Americanism vs. Jim Crowism" before the Christian Endeavor Society of his congregation Sunday afternoon.

In discussing the question of separate parts of street cars for the races and an ordinance now proposed to be passed by city councils of Fort Worth and North Texas, he said that he expressed the opinion that the measure was un-American, but urged that the negro race act with conservatism in all matters pertaining to the race question.

Other addresses were made by Professor W. Coleman of this city and President E. L. Blackshear of Prairie View College, a school for negroes.

OF INTEREST TO THE CATTLEMEN

RIPLEY BLAMES PACKERS

CHICAGO, Oct. 2.—Testimony in direct opposition to evidence by various western railroad officials was given before the interstate commerce commission today by E. E. Ripley, president of the Atchison, Topeka, and Santa Fe railroad. The commission is investigating freight rates on live stock products from Missouri river points to Chicago. Ripley declared that the rate on dressed beef between Kansas City and Chicago should be 150 per cent higher than the rate on live stock. He said it cost less to carry live stock than packing house products, and submitted statistics in support of his contention.

"The packing house business today is so highly organized and concentrated in so few hands that this fact together with the keen competition between the railroads practically makes it impossible for them to dictate rates for dressed meat and packing house products," said Mr. Ripley. "Freight rates have always been based upon the value of the service furnished the shipper rather than upon the actual cost of transportation."

The witness then read a table of statistics showing the cost of hauling car load lots of live stock, dressed beef and packing house products from Kansas City to Chicago. According to the figures submitted by Mr. Ripley the expense to the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railroad for hauling a car of dressed meat from Kansas City to Chicago is $24.37, packing house products $5.93, and live stock $4.77. President Ripley asserted that his company lost money on every car of dressed beef hauled between Kansas City and Chicago.

"My opinion, based on a study of the subject and years of experience in the railroad business," continued Mr. Ripley, "is that the rate on live stock should not be higher than the rate on dressed beef and packing house products. The only exception to this is

VETERANS WILL AID EAGLE'S CARNIVAL

Members of Lee Camp Accept Proposition From Local Aerie For Entertainment

The Sunday session of Lee camp, United Confederate Veterans, was one of the shortest held in many a day, and only routine matters were disposed of.

A proposition has been made by the camp by the Fraternal Order of Eagles to give them 25 per cent of the receipts of a carnival to be held here during the latter part of the present month, provided the camp provides grounds on which to hold the event.

A committee was appointed to secure grounds and an effort will be made to have the carnival held on the Texas and Pacific reservation. The veterans believe that quite a large sum of money can be realized from this source.

An appeal was made for clothing to be distributed among destitute and needy families of the veterans.

Further time was granted a committee in order to confer with Governor Bob Taylor for a lecture in the near future.

J. C. Terrell, Dr. A. P. Brown and J. M. Johnston were named a committee to draft resolutions on the death of the late John P. Hughes. The report will be submitted to the next meeting of the camp.

The quarterly report of Quartermaster George Jackson was received and read.

Just before the camp adjourned Captain Paddock, Captain J. B. Littlejohn and Major W. M. Connell were named a committee to confer with the Texas and Pacific officials with a view to securing the grounds on which to hold the carnival preferred to above.

In the absence of Commander E. W. Taylor, Lieutenant Commander Campbell presided. Proceedings were opened Sunday by prayer offered by former Chaplain Pankey.

HILL MAKES PLEA FOR PATRICK'S LIFE

Urges That Attorney Prosecuting Prisoner Was Son of Judge Sitting on Case. ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 2.—In asking the court of appeals to grant a reargument of the case of Albert T. Patrick, now condemned to death for the murder of Millionaire William Marsh Rice, ex-Senator David B. Hill in his brief submitted to the court today, lays emphasis on the fact that Judge Gray, who wrote the prevailing opinion against Patrick, has a son, Henry G. Gray, who is assistant district attorney in New York; that this son participated in the prosecution of his client. On account of this relationship, Mr. Hill argued, Judge Gray should not have sat in the case and called attention to the fact that Patrick was innocent. The court would have stood evenly divided. The statute provides a judge shall not sit in a case in which he is "interested."

MOVEMENT TO CHECK FLOW OF FOREIGNERS

Restriction League Agitates Question Throughout the South

There is a decided movement in this country, especially in the south, to restrict immigration that is of an undesirable character.

Over One Million in One Year

Immigration for the past fiscal year, ending June 30, was over one million, or considerably over 1 per cent of the total population of the United States.

Immigration has settled in four eastern states. Less than one-tenth has gone to the south and west. One-fourth of this million was unable to read or write a single word in any language.

Not an Anti Society

"This league is not an anti-immigration society. It was formed by a voluntary group of business and professional men in 1894 to make a study of immigration.

SAYS LARGE BONUS WILL BE GIVEN INTERURBAN

Major Jarvis Talks on Possibilities of Mineral Wells and Fort Worth Road

Major J. J. Jarvis of Tarrant county is very much enthused over the chances of the Mineral Wells interurban road being constructed. He believes that the company that proposes to build the road will do so.

Probably no man in Fort Worth is as firm a believer in the future greatness of this city, and he gives his reasons. For instance, he says, above all other things, the packing houses and railroads, have done more than any other thing to make Fort Worth the town that it is today.

As a result of Major Jarvis' faith in Fort Worth a Dallas gentleman a few days ago made some realty investments in this city, after conferring with him a few moments, during which he convinced the Dallas man that Fort Worth was bound to be the largest town in North Texas in the course of ten years—possibly less than half that time.

HERE ARE SOME WAYS TO ADVERTISE FT. WORTH

Telegram's Story Calls Out Suggestions for Drawing Interest

Since The Telegram printed a story suggesting the possibility of magazine advertising as a means of drawing business enterprises and home-seekers to Fort Worth, various expressions have been made by local business men as the best means of keeping the Panther City before the United States.

The majority of those seen do not favor using space in the magazines for the reason the magazine system is an expensive method of drawing attention.

Captain B. B. Paddock, secretary of the Board of Trade, suggests Fort Worth newspapers as a much cheaper method, urging those who are interested in the city's welfare to subscribe for one or more copies to be sent to their friends in distant parts of the country.

"I am a firm believer in advertising, but my experience leads me to the conclusion that magazine advertising with the means at our command would not be profitable," says Captain B. B. Paddock.

"The magazines charge a very high rate, and advertising, to be efficacious must be done in large quantities. At the rates charged this would be beyond our means. What we could and should do, and what could be done at little or no expense, would be for every citizen of the city to send out a leaflet about Fort Worth in every letter they write. This would cost nothing, as the Board of Trade would furnish the matter, and it would result in nothing to the poster. The great majority of our people have friends and acquaintances in other states to whom they could send books descriptive of the city, some of which would most assuredly fall into the hands of interested parties and do good work for Fort Worth.

"Another good medium is the Fort Worth papers, which are continually pouring the country. The great subscription is so low that every one could afford to send one or more copies to their friends. By changing the address occasionally, say every three months, a large number of people would be reached in the course of a year.

"The necessity for doing this advertising is immeasurably great. There is a large amount of ignorant Texas and we should do what we can to dispel it. It will rebound to our good and pay a thousand fold the cost of the work, to say nothing of the benefit bestowed on the country.

Likes Personal Method Hon. S. M. Fry, member of the state penitentiary board, said his idea about advertising Fort Worth was to go personally to individuals and show them the advantages of coming to settle here. He does not believe that any other method for advertising the city will prove to be as effective. The new-comers who make good citizens are those who make a change of base from the smaller towns, those who have outgrown their surroundings and desire to live in a city that has greater promise for the future.

If a large class of people Fort Worth should reach out after. Of course the city can advertise in any shape it sees fit, but I believe the personal efforts will be going to pay for itself.

Readers of the Telegram are invited to send their names to the Telegram Men Oppose Magazines. L. B. Comer and T. T. McDonald, both connected with the Katy, said they did not believe the magazine method would be the best for advertising Fort Worth.

ELEVATOR GOING IN

Work on New Car at Federal Building Begins Today

Work was started today on the new elevator for the federal building and, as it will take about fifteen days to complete it, those who have business in the building will have the pleasure of climbing the stairs. All of the material arrived ten days ago but the men who install the machinery were working in Waco, it was necessary for the work to be delayed.

The elevator that will be put in is the very best and has all of the latest improvements," said the engineer in charge of the work. "It has a safety apparatus so arranged that in the case of an accident, it would be impossible for the car to fall more than two or three feet. This is a very late improvement and there are but two now in use in Texas. El Paso has one and Waco the other, but it will only be a short while until they will be a common thing, nearly every building that is going to have an elevator contemplating one of this kind."

The new car will be welcomed at the federal building as the one now in use is in very bad shape and it is not perfectly safe.

SALVATION ARMY HOLDS MEMORIAL

With the exception of the little daughter of Captain Walter's there have been no deaths in the Fort Worth Army.

After the memorial exercises an enthusiastic meeting was held at which there were four conversions.

CENTRAL METHODIST CHURCH ORGANIZED

New Congregation Starts with One Hundred Sixty-eight Members

Organization of Central M. E. church, South, took place Sunday night in the tabernacle at the corner of Lipscomb and Bellevue streets, with 158 members.

Rev. O. P. Scousebaugh, presiding elder, delivered the sermon at the evening service and took a collection for the immediate building of a parsonage to cost $1,500.

Work will at once proceed on the parsonage, the partitions for the various rooms being left out for the present in order that the house may be used by the congregation for church and Sunday school purposes in the interim before the completion of the church.

Joe T. Burgher stated to a reporter for The Telegram this morning that "it is the contemplation of the congregation of Central church to build as soon as necessary arrangements can be completed, the ground and church building to cost about $20,000."

The establishment of Central church comes as a natural result of the onward progress and rapid growth of Fort Worth. The majority of the members of this new Methodist congregation were formerly members of the Mulkey Memorial church, of which Rev. J. A. Whitehurst is pastor.

Together with members of other congregations in the city who have gathered the site of Central church than those in which they have held membership formerly, are but following out the expressed policy of the greater portion of Protestant denominations in the organization of another congregation, rather than one of two large crowded places of worship in the city.

Arrangements have been made for preaching in Central church every Sunday, both morning and evening. Various ministers in the city have expressed willingness to occupy the pulpit at intervals, until the session of the Northwest Texas Annual Conference of the church makes an appointment of a regular preacher for the ensuing year. The conference will meet in Hillsboro, Texas, in the near future.

ON MOVING TRAIN MAN ENDS LIFE WITH RAZOR

Body, Supposed to Be That of Patrick Fill, Found in Toilet Room of Coach

A man supposed to be Patrick Fill was found dead on the floor of a toilet room in a coach of an incoming Texas and Pacific passenger train which arrived from Dallas Sunday morning.

The body was found near the end of the car. When about half way to Fort Worth he was seen to go into the toilet and was not noticed after that by the other passengers.

When the train reached this city the coach was set out. The man was not discovered until the cleaner went into the car to clean it. His throat had been cut with a razor, the rash extending from one side of the throat to the other. The jugular vein had been severed and death was almost instantaneous. The razor had been placed on the window sill.

The body was taken to Gause's undertaking establishment in Weatherford street, where it is being held for the purpose of identification. The man was presumed to be 40 years of age, and weighed about 135 pounds. His hair was dark but his stubby whiskers and mustache were reddish and sprinkled with gray. He was five feet six inches tall.

In his pockets were found several letters that had been written some time ago. They were postmarked at various places over the country. One was from Jerry Shields, treasurer of Kern county, Cal., and had been mailed at Bakerfield. Other letters indicated the man had been at Portland, Ore.; Parnell, Mo.; points in South Dakota, and Memphis, Ill. All the letters were worn with age and hardly legible. Very little of the contents of the letters could be read.

Undertaker Gause sent telegrams to several of the parties mentioned in the letters, making inquiry as to who the suicide was, but up to this morning no replies had been received.

Judge Charles T. Rowland was summoned and held an inquest over the body. His verdict was that death was the result of wounds self-inflicted.

WANT TILLER TO RUN IN THE SEVENTH WARD

Circulate Petition Asking Him to Make Race

John Tiller is being asked by the voters of the Seventh ward to allow his name to be used in connection with the aldermanic race in that ward, but he says he does not seek the position.

Tiller served this ward for six years as alderman.

Several petitions are now being circulated in the Seventh ward, asking that Mr. Tiller make the race. Hundreds of citizens have signed the document.

From another source it is learned that the voters of that ward desire Mr. Tiller to make the race for the place, but he will probably decide to do so.

RAIN OVER TEXAS BEST SINCE JULY Precipitation in Fort Worth Begins at Midnight—Wheat and Cotton Aided

Sunday night and Monday morning Texas received the best rain that has fallen since July. After threatening clouds hanging over the state for the greater part of the afternoon, a slow and steady rain began to fall at midnight and continued until 4 o'clock this morning. It made a clean sweep of the state, starting in at El Paso and coming straight across to Fort Worth. At Abilene 1.76 inches fell, Fort Worth being second with 1.36 inches, which is more than has fallen here since July. Not only was the rain of last night fine in quantity but it came just at the right time. Those who plant wheat could not do it until they had a good rain, and now they can go ahead with their planting. In the case of the fellow who wanted late vegetables, as seed would not take root to do any good in dry soil. It will also be a great help toward the top cotton crop, which was doing no good in the dry ground. The fall garden stuff was just at the point where rain meant life or death to it and a few more days of dry weather would have ruined it.

In this rain Texas was again lucky, as it was the only state that had rain last night. This morning it was raining in Arkansas and Louisiana but only in showers.

Temple held the high place with the maximum temperature of 98 and Abilene with the minimum at 58, and out of thirty-four stations heard from, only six reported clear weather.

Official statement of the weather conditions is as follows: "The cotton belt is cloudy, except in the extreme east and west portions. Rain has been slight, except in Texas. Rain is falling in Arkansas, Louisiana and Texas this morning. Temperatures about normal."

"High pressure conditions dominate the middle portion of the country, east and west, from the Pacific to the Atlantic, with generally clear weather west of the Rockies, and temperatures near the frost line in the middle west. The southwest has low barometer, comparatively, and cloudy rainy weather prevails in the lower Mississippi valley, rain falling this morning in Louisiana, Arkansas and West Texas. Abilene and Fort Smith report a thunder storm.

"The cotton belt is cloudy in the central portion, north and south. Rain is falling at Amarillo, Weatherford reports 2.44 inches of rain. West Texas received fine rain from El Paso to Fort Worth."

Forecast until 7 p. m. Tuesday for Texas east of the one-hundredth meridian, issued at New Orleans, La.: "East Texas (north)—Tonight, showers; cooler except in extreme west portion. Tuesday, showers; warmer in west portion."

"East Texas (south)—Tonight and Tuesday, showers."
