Government Ownership Likely to Be the Issue in Coming Campaign

MACHINE CRIPPLED Party Leaders Staggered at Prospect, Which Spells Ruin to Present Methods

Staff Special to The Telegram. WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 13.—Deep and almost startling significance is seen in the recent state and municipal elections by those who see the drift of national politics.

On the face of things recent happenings have demonstrated: First—Decline of partisan organizations and rise of independent sentiment. Second—Existence of widespread resentment against "the system," the partisan boss and the "machine."

Third—A growing sentiment in favor of municipal and government ownership spread of radicalism. The question most clamorous to men interested in national politics is this: To what extent will these new political issues pervade the next presidential campaign?

Have the old party lines gone forever? Must there be a new alignment of parties? Is the next presidential fight to be an enlarged edition of the late municipal and state campaigns? Is the presidential campaign to be a protest against machines, bosses, parties and "the system?"

Will it be a platform of government ownership instead of municipal ownership? With fear and trembling the old-time politician answers yes. With serious gravity President Roosevelt admits that this is the prospect. To him it is a warning—a warning to the members of his party to leave the dangerous ground and to go and meet the danger half way—to take up and champion the fight against the system—to put the party and the country on record by congressional action regulating railroads and corporations. He believes this only will avert a republican catastrophe.

Hearst Looks Big William Randolph Hearst looks on the national political situation like a portent. Win or lose in the majority contest, the significance of Hearst is the size of the vote cast for him as representative of certain political principles. This is chapter one in the "Story of the Rise of Radicalism." The election of Mayor Dunne in Chicago last fall was the prelude.

In the next presidential campaign the largest factor to be considered by the democrats (and perhaps that name will pass also) will be Mr. Hearst. He will be a presidential candidate. The day has passed when a party machine can choose candidates in disregard of popular will. Judge Alton B. Parker is a monument to the truth of this.

What then for 1908? Hearst and Bryan and a platform of government ownership. How will the country like that? What will the republicans do? Nominating Charles Warren Fairbanks? Not in seven thousand million years. Nominating Hon. Leslie M. Shaw of Iowa? Show the agitator for "party regularity" in the late Ohio campaign? Back to the mines!

Hon. Joseph Benson Foster? Merely under to the flames. Who then? Who will save the republican party? Roosevelt will not. This cannot be made too emphatic. He will not accept the unexcusable nomination. He values his place in history too highly to go back on his solemn pledge to retire.

"Boss" Cox, Who Says That He Has Retired

George B. Cox, undisputed leader of the republicans of Hamilton county, Ohio, is by reports worth $2,000,000, and is one of the leading characters of the politics of that state. He is 52 years old, a leading financier and a bank president.

He was born in the west end of Cincinnati and started out as a pin boy in a bowling alley. Then he drove a delivery wagon and became well known to the young men of his ward, the Eighteenth, then a democratic stronghold. There was a rebellious sentiment against the "kid glove" element, and Mr. Cox was nominated for the council and elected as a republican.

Mr. Cox really developed political power in 1884. He was selected as chairman of the county republican campaign committee. At that time the contest was on between Wilson and Cleveland. He tested his popularity in 1885, and was defeated for county clerk. He tried it again in 1887, and met with a similar fate. These two experiences convinced him that a political "boss" should not run for office. Since then he has never sought an election to any office.

Mr. Cox never speculates or gambles, and when he goes into the market he buys outright. He is regarded as a factor in the local financial world. Of determined character, he never calls on governors, senators or other distinguished politicians when they visit Cincinnati. His motto is, "What is worth having is worth asking for," and those who seek his favor and advice must call on him.

PASSENGER IS WRECKED

Santa Fe Flyer Partly Derailed Near Alvarado—Several Persons Hurt Special to The Telegram. ALVARADO, Texas, Nov. 13.—Southbound Santa Fe flyer was wrecked at the Katy crossing half a mile from here at 8:40 o'clock last night. The train, which was the first section of the regular flyer, was bringing a large number of excursionists from Dallas and was heavily loaded. Four coaches left the rails, according to the report received here, but no passenger was seriously injured except a Mr. Kingsbury of Dallas, who was painfully bruised.

Three other passengers received minor hurts and after being brought here, were sent to Fort Worth. As a result of the wreck trains were derailed over the Missouri, Kansas and Texas to Fort Worth and thence to Dallas via the Texas and Pacific.

Inquiry at local hospitals failed to locate any of the persons reported injured in the wreck. It is presumed their injuries were so slight they were able to continue their journey.

CLAIM MADE TO $125,000,000

American to Sue for Estate of George IV. of England CHICAGO, Nov. 13.—James L. Ord of this city, who claims he is the great grandson of George IV. of England and Mrs. Maria Synthe Fitzhugh, whose marriage is shown to be valid by papers which were opened in London last Friday, declared today he will take steps to claim his share in the estate which it is claimed was left by King George and Mrs. Fitzhugh.

Mr. Ord estimates the gross value of the estate at $125,000,000. His title to the estate, he says, comes through his father, who is the sole surviving grandnephew of King George and Mrs. Fitzhugh, who came to this country in 1810 and was known in this country as John S. Ord.

PRISONERS RETURNED

YOKOHAMA, Japan, Nov. 13.—Thirteen hundred and seventy-four Russian prisoners, including blue jackets from Fort Omaha, one colonel, one lieutenant colonel and eleven soldiers captured at Kludenburg and Tseliss, have been released and turned over to the Russian representative. The Japanese government provided accommodations for them pending transportation home.

WOMAN SHOT BY BURGLARS

Agent's Wife Surprises Negroes Robbing Station and Is Instantly Killed

Special to The Telegram. LAWTON, Okla., Nov. 13.—Mrs. Steidman, wife of the Rock Island railroad agent at Binger, was shot and killed almost instantly last night by two negroes, who entered the depot, broke into the money box and secured several dollars in money.

Mrs. Steidman was awakened by the noise made and arose in her bed and screamed, whereupon one of the robbers fired upon her with a revolver and killed her almost instantly. Both men made their escape.

ENGLISH GUN CUP BAPTISMAL FONT

Child Baptized on Flagship Drake by Visiting Chaplain

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—Little Louise Beatrice, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Chadwick of Ninth avenue, has the distinction of being the principal of the first christening to occur on the Drake flagship of Prince Louis of Battenberg.

Louise Beatrice is six weeks old and she cried lustily all unconscious of the honor conferred on her both in the christening and in the fact that she was given the name of the two sisters of the king.

The christening was celebrated yesterday in the gun room of the six-gun battleship, which is the starboard battery. Prince Louis was to have stood up as godfather, but his Sunday was so full of social engagements that at the last moment he had to decline, and his cousin, Albert Albert, was godfather in his stead.

HORSE SHOW OPENS

Attendance of Prince Louis of Battenberg to Be a Feature NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—The annual exhibition of the National Horse Show Association, which opened at Madison Garden today, was larger in point of number of entries to be shown than any previous show and was also unusual in social importance. Seventeen hundred entries are to be judged, which is 250 more than were shown last year, and with the presence of Prince Louis of Battenberg, admiral of the visiting British fleet, the great show is expected to become a greater social event than ever.

As Prince Louis is expected to arrive at the show the opening took on an international aspect. Festoons of the American and British colors were hung from the steel girders of the roof garden and the big box set aside for Prince Louis and party over the main entrance is liberally decorated in colors of the two nations.

It is expected the opening night will witness a gathering of social leaders and a display of expensive clothing and jewelry rarely before exceeded.

LABOR OBSERVES A. F. OF L. DAY

Twenty-Fifth Anniversary Observed at Pittsburg

PITTSBURG, Nov. 13.—The old city hall was crowded here today when Samuel Compers called the American Federation of Labor to order for the opening of the silver anniversary of the organization. Delegates representing every state in the union, Canada, England and other foreign countries are in seats, and all available space outside has been utilized by visitors. The hall is tastefully and elaborately decorated.

Shortly before the convention was called to order the delegates assembled about headquarters in the Colonial Hotel and headed by a motley band of 125 pieces made up of federated musicians in Pittsburg, marched through the principal streets to the place of meeting. As President Compers and Second Vice President John Mitchell entered the hall there was prolonged applause.

A few minutes later President Compers called the convention to order. He said the convention promised to be important as well as lively. He did not talk on any important questions that are likely to come up, saying they should be discussed by him and his committee when they met.

President Compers is out for re-election and it is generally believed he will be successful. A majority of the other officers are also candidates for re-election.

Map of India Showing Route Which Prince and Princess of Wales Will Take During Their Visit to British Territory

The tour upon which the Prince and Princess of Wales have started is a greater affair than is commonly imagined. They will tour India from end to end. The peninsula is in itself a great continent, its length being 1,900 miles. The area over which the prince and princess will tour measures 1,350,000 square miles, including Burma, which will also be visited. The figures may roughly be given at 1,500,000. The present prince and princess' tour will largely exceed the 10,000 mile tour undertaken by King Edward in 1875-6, when Prince of Wales. The tour begins at Bombay, and proceeds to Rajputana through the native states of that district. One of the first points visited will be Ajmere, the only point of British territory in this wide area of native rule. From there the route will lead to the remote northwest, historic Delhi in the center of the Mohammedan invasion, and down the plain of the Ganges to Calcutta. From the plain the prince will mount 7,000 feet to Darjeeling and afterward will journey across the sea to Burma; thence to Madras, Mysore and across the central tableland of India to Benares, and westward again to Simla and Quetta, finally leaving the country from Kurrachee, in March, 1906.

MOB HANGS 3 NEGROES

Triple Lynching at Henderson Follows Murder of Old Man in Home Near Town

HENDERSON, Texas, Nov. 13.—Following the lynching of three negroes by a mob at an early hour Sunday morning, the town is quiet. The bodies were put down when the mob had dispersed, and were placed in a corral of the court house by Sheriff Stone, where yesterday they were viewed by hundreds of people, both white and black.

The first reliable news of a mob forming came to Sheriff Stone about 2 o'clock Saturday night, when he began to take steps to avert the hanging by sending Senator Charles L. Brachfield and E. L. Young to the place where the mob was forming, three miles north of the city, to talk to the people and insist on their waiting until the court had an opportunity to act, and promising them that the court would meet on the 23d.

Their appeals failed to have any effect, and when they appeared in the city limits Sheriff Stone appeared before them and made a strong appeal to his friends in the crowd not to take advantage of his condition, but to give him an opportunity to protect his prisoners.

All his appeals failed to arouse any sympathy, and the crowd marched to the jail. Here the sheriff made another stand, and he and his deputies stood against the jail door and continued to talk to the crowd.

After listening patiently to what was said, about ten of the young men in the crowd approached the officers, and after a fierce struggle secured them. Being unable to secure the keys, they proceeded with axes and hammers to tear down the doors of the jail, and thirty minutes after the work was done, the prisoners in charge, bound, with ropes around their necks. The prisoners were then given an opportunity to make statements, and give names of their friends. Several names were given, but they were not taken into account on account of his confession, without which none of the prisoners could be convicted, and by unanimous consent Williams was placed back in jail.

The mob then took up the march to the public square where it hung the three negroes to a gallows tree in the court house yard. After the prisoners were pronounced dead, those participating quietly dispersed and left the city in an unobtrusive manner. So quiet was the whole transaction that only a few of the citizens of the city knew what had occurred until their friends were notified.

While there was no attempt to conceal their identities, very few of the parties participating in the hanging were recognized. Immediately after the crowd dispersed Sheriff Stone took down the

JAS. H. HYDE WILL TESTIFY

List of Equitable Insurance Witnesses Includes Many Prominent Names

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—Statements of an entirely new and interesting character are looked for, says the Tribune, when James Hazen Hyde takes the witness stand before the legislative insurance committee this week. Despite the nature of the Hendricks and Frick reports and the many disclosures that have been made since the Equitable imbroglio began, Mr. Hyde is expected to cause at least one sensation in his testimony.

John R. Hegeman, the president of the Metropolitan Life, it is believed, will take the stand when the committee resumes its sessions this morning. Halsey Fisk will probably follow Mr. Hegeman. Mr. Hyde, according to intentions yesterday, will begin his testimony tomorrow. As the result of this testimony, Jacob H. Schiff may be recalled to the stand.

The Equitable witnesses will include likewise, Senator Chauncey M. Depew, General Louis Fitzgerald, Edward H. Harriman, Gage E. Tarbell and George T. Wilson.

It is said that the committee will make a formal request to President McCall of the New York Life that Judge Hamilton return to this country and state this year. The committee has received no word from Al Fields and Thomas D. Jordan, the ex-comptroller of the Equitable, Mr. Fields was by last accounts in California.

TAWNEY TO BE NAMED

Minnesota Representative Will Head Appropriation Committee CHICAGO, Nov. 13.—A dispatch to the Tribune from Washington says: "It was said yesterday on excellent authority that Representative James A. Tawney of Minnesota will be named by Speaker Cannon as chairman of the house committee on appropriations succeeding James A. Hemenway, who became a senator from Indiana on the election of Vice President Fairbanks to his present office."

Mr. Tawney was a member of the ways and means committee in the last congress and for a number of years has been a "public whip," serving in that capacity under Speakers Henderson and Cannon. He is aggressive and has a large personal following in the house of representatives.

DEATH LIST GROWS

Hundred and Fourteen of Injured at Odessa Die ODESSA, Nov. 13.—Death list of Jewish victims of the recent outbreak here has been increased by 114, who succumbed to injuries.

As a token of deep mourning the Jewish clergy has decided not to celebrate any marriages for a month. Chief Rabbi Kreps, who has been very unpopular, has resigned.

SETTLEMENT AIDED

John D. to Improve His Buildings if Mortgage is Paid

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—A small parcel of gold has been received at the Jacob A. Risa neighborhood settlement from the woman of Colorado Springs as a contribution toward the sum now being raised in memory of Mr. Risa's wife to pay off the mortgage on the house.

From the middle west and from the Pacific slope contributions have been received and the managers announce that half of the sum of $50,000 has been raised and that they hope to be able to turn the mortgage on New Year's day.

This is the condition imposed by John D. Rockefeller, who has promised if this is done, to repair and remodel the two old dwelling houses in Henry street which the settlement occupies, at a considerable cost.

BIGAMY CHARGED

Wealthy Grocer Arrested by Federal Officers

TULSA, I. T., Nov. 13.—John C. Hess, a wealthy grocer of this city, was arrested by the Federal officers today on a charge of bigamy on information from Sheriff H. N. Graves of Mason county, Missouri.

It is claimed Hess had a wife and several children living in Mason, Mo., besides the wife with him here. She, however, is a firm believer in her husband's innocence and says she will stand by him no matter what course.

The Mason county sheriff is expected to arrive in Tulsa this afternoon to take Hess in charge. He will resist requisition.

Tiersot is director of the National Conservatory in Paris and author of several works on music. The topic of his lectures is "Ancient and Modern French Music."

CALL MONEY 20 PER CENT

Stringency in Wall Street Speculative Funds Continues Acute

SHAW HOLDS BACK

Says He Will Not Interfere Unless Convinced Business Interests Are in Danger

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—Disclosures of the deficit in the bank reserve shown in Saturday's bank statement have resulted in a feverish stock market today and in the early dealings there were declines from 1 to 7 3/4 points, the latter in Delaware, Lackawanna and Western. Reading sold down 4 5/8 and a number of others to 2 1/2. Call money was higher today, 20 per cent being bid before 11 o'clock.

At that time it was reported banks had lost $588,000 to the sub-treasury since last Friday.

SHAW HOLDING BACK

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 13.—Secretary Shaw has not yet decided to come to the relief of the money market. He authorizes the statement he will not interfere unless convinced that business interests are likely to suffer. Thus far no productive business interest, manufacturer, transporter, merchant or banker has asked if he will not come to the belief of speculation.

Should any business concern be denied credit at reasonable rates, the secretary wants to know the facts. He believes the majority of New York loans are still made at or below 6 per cent. Call money and speculation long-time money, in other words, market money as distinguished from customers' money, is higher.

IRON FOUNDERS OPPOSE UNIONS

Call for National Meeting Censures Apprentices System

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—The National Founders' Association, the members of which employ about 50,000 men, has issued a call for its ninth annual convention, which will be held in the Hotel Astor Wednesday and Thursday. The call to the convention does not intimate that there is any intention at present to refuse to make agreements with the iron moulders' union or any other of the unions in the skilled trades, but its general trend is against the closed shop.

Regarding the apprenticeship question it says: "The more thoroughly a shop is unionized the greater the difficulty in educating apprentices. It matters little how much proprietors of any institution desire to accomplish in behalf of the apprentice boy, while the boy himself is surrounded by this union atmosphere. It is an insurmountable barrier to his education."

The National Founders' Association, it says, must never cease its efforts at organization until its strength and effectiveness are equal to or greater than that of the unions.

DUNNE HAS NEW PLAN

CHICAGO, Nov. 13.—Mayor Dunne will tonight submit to the city council his fourth message looking to municipal ownership of street car lines. Three messages which the mayor has submitted on former occasions have been put aside by the council and the mayor will now present a plan for acquisition of street car lines different from anything he has offered heretofore.

He will ask the issuance of certificates for an amount not exceeding $100,000,000 for the purchase and reconstruction of existing lines or for the building and equipment of a new and complete system of street railway.

NEW PASTOR HEARD HERE

Dr. F. M. Masters Addresses College Avenue Baptist Congregation

"Speak unto the children of Israel, that they go forward" was the text of Rev. F. M. Masters for his initial sermon as pastor of the College Avenue Baptist church Sunday morning at 11 o'clock on the subject, "Going Forward." The full text is: "And the Lord said unto Moses, Wherefore criest thou unto me? Speak, etc." The remainder of the chapter recounting the passing of the Israelites through the Red Sea between walls of water, the armed hosts of Pharaoh, assailing to follow, were drowned in the midst of the channel. In his opening remarks Rev. Masters gave a brief description of the passing of the Israelites through the Red Sea between walls of water, the armed hosts of Pharaoh, assailing to follow, were drowned in the midst of the channel. In his opening remarks Rev. Masters gave a brief description of the passing of the Israelites through the Red Sea between walls of water, the armed hosts of Pharaoh, assailing to follow, were drowned in the midst of the channel.

Moses was a God-sent leader, and there is nothing strange that success came, much depends on leadership. If this church is led right, there is no doubt about its future. Let us pray that the Lord Jehovah may save us from mistakes here. Then go forward successfully. God's people must have right ideas as to their true mission in the world. Just as we err here, just so will we be retarded. Had the people of Israel understood clearly why God wanted them separated from Egypt and established as a nation they would have been saved many hardships. If this church has a clear-cut idea as to its true mission in the world its success is already assured. There is nothing that can hold it back.

MEAT EXPORT CENTER HERE

Fort Worth Packing Houses Declared Natural Point for European Supply

G. W. Simpson of Boston, formerly of the Fort Worth stock yards, who has been in this city arranging plans to increase the cattle export trade, makes the following suggestions for improving the condition of the live stock industry in the southwest: "Texas and the territories are now being furnished daily by the world's largest stock raisers with a surplus of sheep and hogs which will enable them to compete with the Argentine and Australian countries which are now supplying England with a large amount of beef and mutton at prices which the packer cannot compete with successfully and ship via the northern ports."

AMUSEMENTS

THE COUNTY CHAIRMAN

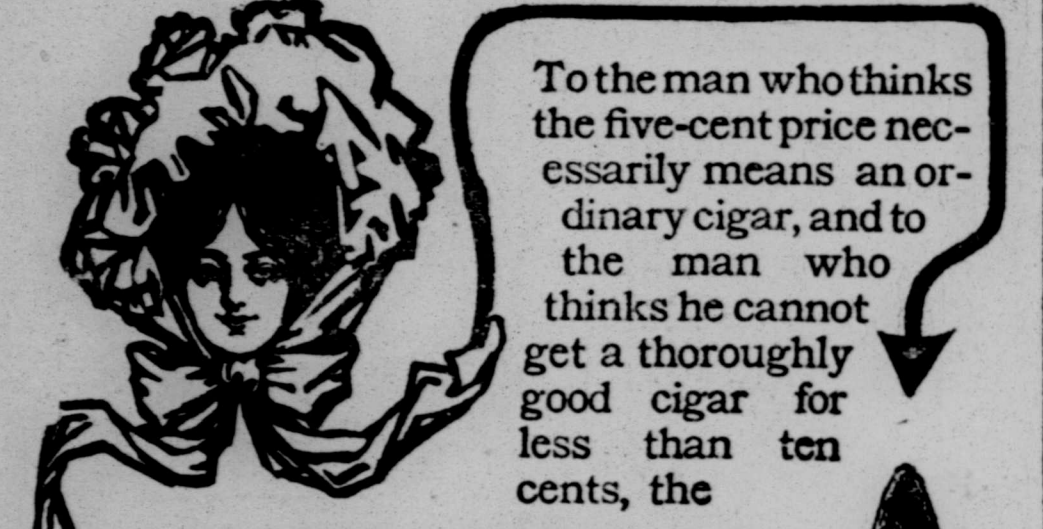

George Ade's successful comedy, "The County Chairman," which Henry W. Savage offers at Greenwall's opera house Wednesday matinee and night, Nov. 15, was the notable hit of the season in New York two years ago. There is a pretty love story and many exciting dramatic episodes in the play and a score of more of village types that every theatergoer who has been in the country will at once recognize. There is Jim Hatcher, the bluff, big-hearted county chairman of Jefferson county, with a kind word for every one, except his life-long enemy, Judge Hilly, a grasping "right fisted" politician. Sassafras Livingston, the shifthee darkey who sells his vote to the highest bidder, but he "won't stay sold," as one of the candidates expresses it. There, too, are Uncle Eben, the oddest inhabitant of the village, a house keeper and her practical husband who hates work; the eighty and fatigued milliner; the "city" drummer from Chicago; the handsome young lawyer and the attractive young girl from whom he is engaged; the editor of the country newspaper, the village orphan and many other characters. George Ade did not guess at his types. His boyhood was passed among such characters in Indiana and that's one reason why they are so life-like and real human beings on the stage. It is through the naturalness of "The County Chairman" that the best appeal is made.

THE COLLEGE WIDOW

The third act of "The College Widow," which comes to Greenwall's opera house Friday night, Nov. 17, shows a portion of the grand stand during the Thanksgiving Day football game between Axtell and Biogham colleges. Two inland institutions of learning which might be any other two in the United States, so pointed out is George Ade's satire. There is an old rivalry between the two schools and the stand groans with an eager, jostling, cheering crowd. Flugs waving, horns tooting, every one excitedly following the struggle on the field. The picture is a wonderful exemplification of study, craft, the carries the audience off its feet. The dramatic pitch is never lowered in this act. As the various characters describe the progress of the battle, the interest waxing intense until at one point, when the victorious Axtell eleven appears begrimed and bestrapped on the shoulders of the crowd, the audience reads itself cheering with the actors. It is a really wonderful bit of realism and craft. "The College Widow" nothing else to recommend it, this scene acts would carry it to success. But Ade does not depend upon that alone.

OF SPECIAL INTEREST TO WOMEN

"Don't!" I begged. "Oh, don't. Ray has told me his story. He has made me his confidant. He has told me how unhappy he has been, and how he loves you. Oh, Lady Angela, what is there I can say? What can I do?"

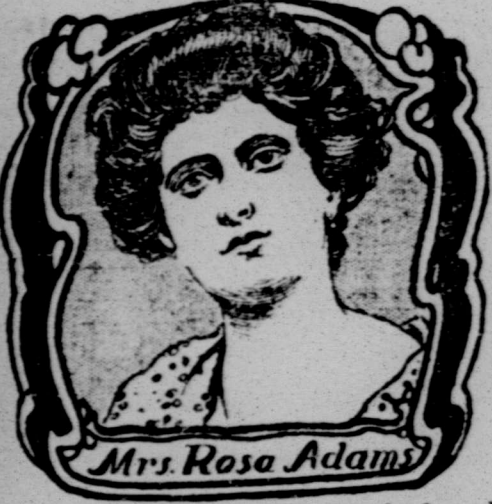

RAY LOOKED AT US INTENTLY AND MERCHLESSLY. "YOU CUR!" HE CRIED.

her face on my shoulder. Almost at the same moment Ray entered the room. She did not at once raise her head, although she pushed me gently away from her at the sound of the opening door. But I, standing facing that direction, saw him from the first a dark stern figure, standing as though rooted to the ground, with the door handle still in his hand.

Cure For The Blues

ONE MEDICINE THAT HAS NEVER FAILED Health Fully Restored and the Joy of Life Regained

When a cheerful, brave, light-hearted woman is suddenly plunged into that perfection of misery, the BLUES, it is a sad picture. It is usually this way: She has been feeling "out of sorts" for some time; head has ached and back also; has slept poorly, been quite nervous, and nearly fainted once or twice; head dizzy, and heart-beats very fast; then that bearing-down feeling, and during her menstrual period she is exceedingly despondent. Nothing pleases her. Her doctor says: "Thee up; you have dyspepsia; you will be all right soon."

much of his wonderful self-control was wanting. He did not answer Lady Angela. He did not glance towards her. "You cur!" he cried. "Twice in a day you cursed treachery! Twice in a day! Lady Angela, may I beg that you will leave us?"

"I think I know what you mean, sir," I said. "It is true that Mrs. Smith-Lessing is my stepmother. I believe it is true, too, that she is connected with the French secret police. I was there this afternoon - you yourself sent me. But I did not tell Mrs. Smith-Lessing the code word, and I know nothing of the disappearance of those documents."

"I would have spoken, but she held out her hand. "I think you forget, Colonel Ray," she said, "that this is my house. I am not disposed to let you and Mr. Ducaigne here together in your present mood."

"Your father has sent for me, Lady Angela. He is terribly indignant today." She smiled back to me quietly. I lingered in the hall for a minute, and Ray joined me there. He did not speak a word, but he motioned me fiercely to precede him to the library. Directly we entered it was clear that something unusual had happened. The great safe door stood open. Lord Chelsford and the duke were both waiting our coming.

"I LOSE MY POST The duke solemnly closed the door. "Ray," he said, "I am glad you are here. Something serious has happened. Mr. Ducaigne, Lord Chelsford and I desire to ask you a few questions. I could not indeed imagine, unless Ray had already made the disclosure. "The word code for the safe today was Magenta, I believe?" the duke asked. "That is correct, sir," I answered. "And it was known to whom?" "To Lord Chelsford, yourself, Colonel Ray and myself," I answered. "And what was there in the safe?" the duke asked.

Health Exercises

MOVEMENT NO. 6 This movement should alternate with movement No. 5, performing first one count of five, then five counts of six. Take position flat on the floor, as for No. 5, and lift the legs from the waist, to a position perpendicular with the body, raising them slowly and bringing them quite to the floor again for each count. Open the windows, fresh air is necessary. While performing these exercises consider them a recreation and the results will be more beneficial.

"The opening of the safe," I said. "It was impossible for Mrs. Smith-Lessing to have opened it unless she knew the code word. "The question is," the duke said, quietly, "did she know it?"

"I can suggest nothing," he answered in a low tone. "I must confess that I am bewildered. These matters have developed so rapidly. "Lord Chelsford looked thoughtful for a moment. "I have a plan in my mind," he said slowly. "Duke, should I be taking a liberty if I asked to be left alone with this young man for five minutes?"

"Your leadership may recognize them," I answered quietly. "They are a summary of the schemes of defense of the southern ports. I was at that moment, the moment when Colonel Ray entered, considering an offer of five thousand pounds for them. "Even Ray was staggered at my admission, and the duke looked as though he could scarcely believe his ears. Lord Chelsford was busy looking through the papers. "You young blackguard," Ray muttered through his teeth. "After that admission, do you still deny that you told Mrs. Smith-Lessing, or whatever the woman calls herself, the code word for that safe?"

BAD BLOOD WEAKENS THE SYSTEM AND INVITES DISEASE

Every part of the body is dependent on the blood for nourishment and strength, and when from any cause this vital stream of life becomes impoverished or run-down, it invites disease to enter. No one can be well when the blood is impure; they lack the energy that is natural with health, the complexion becomes pale and sallow, the vital energies are at a low ebb, and they suffer from a general broken-down condition of health. The system is weakened and unable to resist the diseases and disorders that are constantly assailing it. The Liver and Kidneys, failing to receive the proper stimulation and nourishment from the blood, grow inactive and dull, and the waste matters and bodily impurities that should pass off through these channels of nature are left in the system to produce Rheumatism, Catarrh, Sores and Ulcers, Skin Diseases or some other blood disorder. When the blood is in this weakened and diseased condition it should be treated with a remedy that is not only thorough, but gentle in its action. S. S. S., a purely vegetable remedy, made of roots, herbs and barks, is just what is needed. It not only cleanses the blood of all impurities and poisons, and enriches and strengthens it, but gently builds up the entire system by its tonic effect. S. S. S. reinvigorates every member of the body, gives tone and vigor to the blood, and as it goes to the different parts, carries robust health and strength. S. S. S. acts more promptly and gives better results than any other medicine. It cures Rheumatism, Catarrh, Sores and Ulcers, Skin Diseases and all other blood disorders, and cures them permanently. Our Medical Department will be glad to give advice without charge to all suffering with blood or skin diseases. Address THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, GA.

WHAT RUSSIAN LIBERTY MEANS

For more than 300 years the people of oppressed Russia have bowed beneath the yoke of the most oppressive autocracy that the civilized world has ever known. The law of the land has been embraced in the imperious Romanoff will, and opposition to that will has sent many a patriot to his long home, while others of lesser degree have been exiled and imprisoned in the gloomy wilds of cold Siberia. The war with Japan and its disastrous consequences seem to have awakened the czar to the desire for real peace, and when his distracted subjects launched an incipient revolution, he surprised them and the whole world as well by immediately conferring the desired liberty upon all his subjects—accomplishing a greater revolution in Russia within the space of a few minutes than could have been accomplished by an appeal to the sword in the passage of long and bloody years.

But while the czar was ready to confer the blessings of liberty upon these people, the people themselves seem to have been hopelessly unprepared for it.

They have celebrated their emancipation by the heinous murder of more than 40,000 poor, miserable Jews.

It is certainly a strange comprehension they have in Russia of the blessings of liberty. Not only a strange conception, but a most unnatural conception. Liberty for self does not carry with it the right to maraud and put out of the way those things and those people whom we do not exactly indorse and approve.

The Jew has had a miserable and sorrowful career in Russia. His existence there has been anything else but a halcyon dream. And now, when his heart has been raised up in the hope of the reforms it has so long hungered for, he only finds that liberty in Russia apparently only means license to kill.

In the face of these deplorable facts, censure of past Russian autocracy and despotism must largely cease. Three hundred years of it has proven insufficient to bring the Russian masses to the point where they can both define and appreciate the meaning of the word liberty.

Fort Worth must cultivate yet closer relations with West Texas. That section of the state is the most rapidly developing portion of Texas, and it has always been very rightfully designated as Fort Worth territory. Fort Worth and West Texas hooked together will constitute an invincible team.

If the railways of Texas have made up their minds to center a big fight against William D. Williams for railroad commissioner, his election will be almost absolutely assured. The people only love him the more for the enemies he has made.

Texas is leading all the states in the matter of development, but the trouble with Texas is that we have so much country to develop that it will take several more years to make a very appreciable showing.

Those candidates for county offices throughout Texas who have been wanting to announce but were afraid to do so for fear of being too previous, will not have much longer to possess their souls in patience. The first of January will soon roll round.

The amount paid out by Texas railways in damage suits the past year shows a decrease of more than a half million dollars from the preceding year. This fact seems to indicate that damage suits are becoming a decadent industry in Texas.

The election of John M. Pattison as governor of Ohio will immediately cause many democratic editors to waste a lot of their valuable space in nominating him for the presidency.

Legislative day at the Dallas fair Monday was largely attended by the politicians of the state, but it is hinted that the great majority of those present hardly knew what they were there for.

These fine falls rains we are having are detrimental to the gathering of the cotton crop, but they are putting the proper moisture into the soil for the coming crop of wheat and oats.

The Telegram is one of the fastest growing propositions in Fort Worth, and is just now preparing to get into its real developing clothes. The Telegram will always lead the procession.

Texas may be one million bales of cotton short, as compared with the yield of last season, but when the cash from the proceeds is counted it will not show such an alarming discrepancy.

The Sunday Telegram of next Sunday will be a very interesting and instructive number. If you fail to get it you will miss one of the very best things there is going.

The next five years will put Fort Worth so far ahead of other Texas cities and towns that there will be absolutely no comparison. That fact is already exemplified in our present rapid development.

A little more talk about enforcing the anti-trust law and a little less concerning the operations of trusts in Texas would no doubt exert a very salutary effect on the existing Texas situation.

The Sunday Telegram is essentially the people's paper from the fact that it always prints just exactly what the people desire to read. The Sunday Telegram is always bright, clean and entertaining.

William R. Hearst is going after those ballot boxes under suspicion in New York in such a manner as to indicate that he expects to find something that he was believed to have lost.

John M. Pattison was popular enough to overcome a terrific republican majority in Ohio, but the same conditions would not attach themselves to a national election.

If James J. Hill has really purchased the Katy railway he has come into possession of a mighty fine piece of railway property. The Katy is one of the most popular lines in the Southwest.

If any of the New York life insurance presidents have resigned the fact has been lost sight of in the election excitement.

A report from Austin says that the boom of C. E. Gilbert for land commissioner is one of the healthiest things about the state capital.

Now that the election excitement is over, we can with perfect safety and propriety proceed to return to our insurance mission.

Premier Witte seems to be completely in the saddle over in Russia, and every time he pulls the string the czar makes a graceful courtesy.

El Paso threatens to produce a candidate for governor, but it is hard to induce the balance of the state to accept many El Paso propositions seriously.

MOONSHINE AND MUSINGS

By SID BARTON

"The waves were rolling clear over the boat, and it rocked like a cradle. Some of the passengers prayed."

"Did you give up hope?"
"Oh, I gave up everything."

"Isn't she the foolish old maid? She's bought a monkey for a pet."

"It simply shows that if she can't have a husband she's bound to have the next best thing."

And now comes a Denver man who says he has never been kissed. Is it possible that Denver has so homely a man?

However, John D. Rockefeller appears to have retained his short-haired ways.

MAKING A SCENE

REFLECTIONS OF A BACHELOR

Buying experience is almost as profitable as speculating in stocks.
A pretty girl looks a sight more so when you have the sense to tell her so.
If there were no such word as fail, some unscrupulous man would soon invent one.
Woman's love for dry goods has broken up almost as many happy homes as man's love for wet goods.
It is seldom necessary to use a microscope in order to see both virtues and vices in your acquaintances.
Anyway, a woman has more reason for believing lots of the things she does than a man for his politics.
If a girl didn't know how tempting it was to bring her veil down to the edge of her mouth the way she does she wouldn't do it.—New York Press.

THE LAMP OF REASON

Even a lunatic may not wholly lack the power to reason. This truth appears in a story told of the inspection of an asylum by the trustees.
While walking through the grounds, they came upon a party of workmen who were repairing a wall. One of the harmless patients, apparently assisting in the work, was pushing a wheelbarrow along upside down.
"My friend," said a kind-hearted trustee, gently, you should turn your wheelbarrow over."
"Not on your life!" replied the patient. "I turned it over yesterday and they put bricks in it."

UNCONQUERED

However skilled and strong art thou, my foe,
However fierce is thy relentless hate,
Though firm thy hand and sure thy aim, and straight
Thy poisoned arrow leaves the bended bow
To pierce the target of my heart, Ah, know
I am the master yet of my own fate:
Thou canst not rob me of my best estate
Though fortune, fame and friends—yea, love shall go,
Not to the dust shall my true self be hurled:
Nor shall I meet thy worst assaults dismayed:
When all things in the balance are well weighed,
There is but one great danger in the world,
Thou canst not force my soul to wish thee ill—
That is the only evil that can kill.
—Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

DRIFT OF STATE POLITICS

MUST FORSAKE THE JUNIPER TREE

It may become the imperative duty of Colonel Dick Wynne to harness the lightning and oust Attorney General Davidson.—Waco Times-Herald.
The colonel's inclinations do not run in that direction. He is striving to arouse the people to a full realization of the duty they owe themselves in Texas.—Fort Worth Telegram.

We have heard that kind of talk before. More than once our good and great friend, Jim Hogg, started out to arouse the people, but the fellows who didn't agree with Jim went on plucking the offices.

The people do not get out to listen to a man who is battling as they believe in their behalf.
How can he be said to have on his fighting clothes when he only talks?

Not one man in ten thousand has read Colonel Wynne's manifesto, and not one man in a thousand will attend on his stump speaking unless he has some promise to make—some point to which he is driving.

When John H. Reagan wanted to get the car of the people, he ran for some office. And so with Coke and Mills and Throckmorton, and with all those old fellows who gave shape to political concerns.

Dick Wynne will never arouse the people by sitting under a Juniper tree and lamenting the evil days on which he has fallen.—Waco Times-Herald.

THE OBJECT OF LOCAL OPTION

The Lance, a prohibition paper published by Dr. Granville Jones, declares unequivocally that the prohibitionists have adopted local option as an expedient to gain prohibition; that what they feel themselves strong enough they will vote and enforce state prohibition. This presents a diametrically opposite opinion to that urged by most local option prohibitionists, who disclaim any intention or desire to enforce prohibition on the whole state. The Lance says:

"One of our exchanges complains that it cannot see how a man can be a believer in local option in a precinct or county and not believe in it for the state. Neither can we. We have for some years opposed the calling of a state election, and are opposed to it now, but we want it distinctly understood that we have a right to call one, and it is the will of the majority of the qualified voters, we have a perfect right to close the door of every saloon on Texas soil. While we are on this subject we will go a little further. We not only have the right, but we have the power to close the saloons in Texas. There has not been a time in five years, in our judgment, that prohibition would not have carried in Texas if left to the legal voters of the state. If it will help to allay the nervousness of some of our anti friends, we will tell them just at this juncture why we are opposed to a state election at this time.

"It is only a question of time when we will take the final step and outlaw the traffic on every square foot of Texas soil. Our cause was lost in 1897, but our action was premature. The time will come when it is both right and expedient to wipe this stain from the shield of Texas, and it will be done. So we counsel our friends to be patient, and our enemies to be resigned, for the faith of the one and the fears of the other will be fully realized, and at no distant day. The man who, as a matter of principle, is in favor of closing the saloons in one county is in favor of doing it in every county, and this is state prohibition at last. The Lance is thus explicit because we have nothing to conceal. We are not only willing to have our position known, but are anxious that it should be. We are going to fight in the open, and hope our enemies will have the courage to do the same."—San Antonio Express.

LITTLE TALES WELL TOLD

MEANING OF THE RUSSIAN DOUMA.

The douma, or national assembly of Russia, before recent developments was described by W. T. Stead as a horse without legs. The czar supplied the legs recently—liberty of assembly, liberty of association and freedom from arbitrary imprisonment. None of these things were embodied in the first proclamation of a constitutional assembly, hence the national dissatisfaction.

The members of the douma are to be elected in December, and to assemble not later than the middle of January. Mr. Stead says the electoral machinery is a Chinese puzzle. Each peasant household has a vote for his local volost or district council, and every ten peasants can send one of their number to the district volost. The district volost elects members of the general district assembly, who in turn select the peasant representatives in the electoral college, which will elect members of the douma.

Land owners and townspeople elect their representatives in similar complicated ways. Mr. Stead estimates that the total number of voters eligible to participate in the election of the national assembly will be over 100,000 (not including the peasants), out of Russia's 100,000,000 inhabitants. But 2,000,000 peasants will vote indirectly.

Under the terms of the czar's manifesto recently the national assembly may rearrange the manner of election, giving real popular representation. Another reform granted is that the douma will be the judge of the election of its own members, who, under the earlier scheme, were to be passed upon by an imperial electoral commission, which kept the power in the imperial province.

STORIES BY TRUTHFUL JAMES.

"Speaking of sudden changes," remarked Truthful James, "you think we have ten down here in Texas, but you ought to try a winter up in Dakota. There is where you get your sudden changes. Why, one day I saw a norther coming and I knew that it was time for me to hunt shelter. I got started just as the blizzard was nearly on me. I had as good horse as there was in that country, and the way he did buckle down was a caution. Well, I rode three miles with that blizzard right at the horse's tail, but it never quite caught me. When I started the thermometer was standing at 90 in the shade. I happened to have a thermometer and carried it with me. Just as I rode into the shed I looked at the thermometer and saw that it still registered 90, but when I looked around I saw that my horse's tail was froze off. That was how near I came to death on that occasion. If that blizzard had gained another foot on me I would have been a goner."

"I want to tell you that you can't be too careful about the way you leave dynamite laying round loose. One time I had a contract for blasting out some rock and I left three or four sticks of dynamite lying out on the ground near where I was going to do the blasting. There was a billy goat that used to roam about the country, and when his eye lit onto that dynamite it pleased him. He liked the taste of it and just naturally cut up all that was round there. When I came back to work after dinner he was just getting away with the last of the dynamite. Had his belly full of it and didn't seem to care whether school kept or not. I knew that it would do to take any harsh measures with the goat and so I jolting him with a board, because he had enough dynamite in him to blow up the Waldorf-Astoria hotel. I tried to coax him away, but he seemed to smell a mouse and wouldn't go. Then he got onto the fact that I was afraid of him for some reason or other and began to get gay and independent. I saw from the way he was walking around and the demonstration he was making that he thought he had me buffaloed and that he had a notion to run me away from the place entirely. I saw that something had to be done or there would be trouble. I went home and brought back a lookin' glass. I had an idea that maybe I could use that goat. There was a big rock that I wanted out of the way the worst kind. I slipped up and set that lookin' glass up against the rock and then I made a get away. The goat was brown'n' around but when I was about 500 yards away I looked back and saw that the goat had caught sight of the glass. For about a half minute he looked at himself in the glass and then I see him commence to back off for a good start. Then he made for that glass in a way that was a sight to see. Why he just jumped off the ground and shot through the air when he got within fifteen feet of that glass. The next thing I heard was a roar that shook the whole country. When I went back to look I saw that the big rock was gone, and as for that billy goat—well the next day I found a piece of him about as big as a silver dime sticking in a tree about a mile from where he was when he went off."

SENATOR BAILEY ON STATEHOOD

While in Dallas Saturday night the editor of the News-Republican met Senator Jo Bailey of Texas in the lobby of the Oriental hotel.

After passing the compliments of the evening, the writer asked Senator Bailey: "Well, Senator, do you think we will be given statehood this winter?"

"I see no reason why."
"Which do you think it will be, single or double?" was asked.

"If anything, it will be one state of the two territories."

"Do you favor one or two states?"
"I have always been of the opinion that two states would be better for the people of the two territories, and I am of that opinion still; but you people up there have by your actions demonstrated me not to congress and the senate that you want one state, and if you are still of that opinion, one state is what you should have."

"Are you in favor of that?"
"I am in favor of it because you people know best what you want; and while I don't think it the wise thing, I will in no way obstruct the passage of a bill of that nature should it reach the senate."

"What do you think of the new bill, giving the new state seven congressmen instead of five, as the original Hamilton bill called for?"
"I am in favor of giving the new state everything in reason, but they should not ask for too much."

"How about prohibition?"
"Get statehood first; minor matters will take care of themselves."

Senator Bailey throughout his conversation plainly showed that he was in favor of immediate statehood for the two territories. It is well known, however, that Senator Bailey is surrendering a principle when he agrees to one state, but he will not stand in the way of the passage of a bill granting one state since the people of the two territories have shown that this is what they desire. He stated, however, that the people in both territories had been led to believe that one state was inevitable when as a matter of fact they had heard no argument in behalf of two states.

Senator Bailey was the leading opponent to single statehood in the last session at Washington, and the people of Oklahoma are glad to know that he will surrender a principle in order to satisfy a craving populace of a commonwealth of over a million people.—Robert (O. T.) News-Republican.

THE INITIATION OF BACON

Robert Bacon, first assistant secretary of state and former partner of J. P. Morgan, was recently initiated into the Kitchen Cabinet by President Roosevelt. The other members of the Kitchen Cabinet, we are told by the Washington correspondent of the New York World, are Gifford Pinchot, forester for the United States; James R. Garfield, commissioner of corporations; Senator Lodge of Massachusetts and one or two other close personal friends of the President. The correspondent writes:

"It rained pitchforks, and the President had a reception to the American Bankers' Association on hand. He got tired after a time and sent word to Pinchot and Bacon to come to the white house at 4 o'clock. 'Put on some old clothes,' the President's message said, 'for I intend to initiate Bacon.'"

"Bacon is rich and so is Pinchot, and the question of clothes does not bother them much. They were at the white house at 4 o'clock in natty business suits, patent leather shoes and all that sort of thing. They found the President dressed in a very old and disreputable suit, with a rough rider hat and a pair of heavy shoes. The President looked at Bacon and Pinchot, grinned and said: 'Come on, we'll take a tramp.'"

"They went out into the rain. The President led the way and took his companions out Pennsylvania avenue through Georgetown and down a narrow street to the bank of the canal. There was a bridge about a mile down the canal, but none at the point where the President stopped.

"Oh, well," said Colonel Roosevelt, "it doesn't matter. Bacon, you take our watches and pocket-books, and Pinchot and I will wade across. You go down to that bridge yonder and meet us on the other side."

"Not by a darn sight," said Bacon, who was an athlete himself when he was in college. 'I came out on this walk with you and I am going where you go.'"

"Bully!" shouted the President. 'Come on, then.' He plunged into the canal, and Pinchot and Bacon followed. The water was about three feet six inches deep at its deepest point. The three men waded across, the President leading. They were thoroughly wet from the heavy rain, so the further ducking made no difference, but when the President got on the other side and looked at the patent leather shoes and

UNDERCURRENTS

Down 'neath the surface of ocean,
Wonderful secrets he hidden;
Back in the caves of the deep,
The shining of gems is forbidden;
Under the clouds and the shadows,
Under the boom of the storm,
Under the cover of midnight,
Await all the beauties of form.

Out in the depths of the forest,
Away from the tumult and strife,
Lading the air with their perfume,
The flowers are telling of life,
And there in the eloquent stillness,
Environed by magical power,
The rarest of beauties unfold
'Mid alternate sunshine and shower.

Beyond the horizon of vision,
Ethereal colors unseen,
Gild all of the shores of the unknown,
And line all the glories between;
Symmetrical forms lie beneath,
Above us float raptures galore,
Conforming in harmony all,
Extending from mountain to shore.

Out in the wilds of the country,
Unfettered by frivolous cares,
Exalted by natural freedom,
Imperial sage unawares—
The toiler with soul all aflame
With loyalty, love and devotion,
Though marked for obscurity's own,
Is moved by the noblest emotion.

Unsung are the sweetest of songs,
Unseen are the prettiest things,
Unknown are some heroic men,
Uncrowned are the noblest of kings;
Unheard are the great ocean currents,
Yet seething with potential fire,
The forces thus silent are greatest,
The motor of life is desire.

Prompting all action is motive,
Attending all aims is design,
Back of the glory of giving,
Thrills the heart of the giver benign;
The raptures unseen and untold,
Felt only by sensitive feeling,
Are the unalloyed silver and gold
Revealed and forever revealing.

"They walked several miles on the other side of the canal and came swinging back to the city about 6 o'clock. The President told Bacon he had been initiated, and was a full-fledged member of the Kitchen Cabinet. Bacon is now open to all sorts of invitations from the President for exercise in the open air.

"When Pinchot got home he was met at the door by the ancient negro mammy who has been in his family for years, and who was Pinchot's nurse. 'Well, Massa Gil,' said the mammy, holding up her hands in horror, 'you suthainly am a sight. You's bin out wit dat President ag'in.'"

MORE WORK FOR THE "BIG STICK"

A CONTEMPTIBLE TRICK

The Fort Worth Record of Sunday morning contains an attack on The Telegram that for brazen effrontery completely caps the climax, and as such as The Telegram dislikes personal journalism, it feels that its own self-respect demands that it not be passed unnoticed.

The Record was caught in the act of aiding a deliberate misrepresentation. It published conspicuously in its holy columns on the morning of the election, too late for an expose, a petition for political effect, containing names appended thereto without the authority of some of the people concerned, and when a prominent citizen demanded to know by what authority his name was placed there, he was met with equivocation and evasion of the most exasperating nature. That gentleman, after waiting twenty-four hours, in vain, for an explanation, came to The Telegram with a signed statement of the facts in the case, and The Telegram published his complaint and his protest, just as it would publish the complaint and protest of the humblest laborer in Fort Worth who had been aggrieved in so shameful a manner. The Telegram is a paper of and for the people, and it knows no higher duty than the discharge of its obligations as a paper of the people. The Record says:

As to The Telegram, its publication of the slander was a malicious libel, for The Telegram knows perfectly well that the management of the Record would not falsify facts, or could not afford to do so if it were so basely inclined. The Telegram can offer no defense of an inflated temper of a personal grievance. The libel did not slip in during a rush of news. It was deliberately accepted and deliberately displayed out of pure malice or cheap sensationalism. Impetuous persons are prone to rush into print with grievances, and many of them are too apt to impute dishonest motives, as Mr. Winters has done, but proper and self-respecting newspapers decline such communications.

The Telegram would not have dared to publish such a slander against an individual, for it knows it would be haled to court as soon as a damage suit could be filed. In publishing the libel against the Record it convicts itself of a malicious desire to injure the Record or prove itself a common scandal monger.

No decent newspaper would have done it.

The methods of the Record are as ingenious as they are contemptible. It seeks to cover up the heinousness of its own offense by a malicious attack on The Telegram, but the thing is too thinly veiled to stand inspection. The motive is too apparent.

A small boy, caught in the act of stealing apples, always howls at the injustice of the world and the owners of the apples in particular, when his ears are boxed for the misdemeanor.

And the effort of the Record to read The Telegram a homily on journalistic ethics under such circumstances is as amusing as it is frenzied.

Truly, the esteemed Record, caught red-handed in the deliberate act of giving circulation to a misrepresentation, an eleventh hour misrepresentation of the sort a Tammany ward heeler would scorn as beneath even his shady code—is a proper exponent of the ethics of reputable journalism. The Telegram owes the Record neither defense nor explanation. The Record's own acts have placed it without the pale of decent journalism.

The Record has not yet offered any explanation as to why a petition, so manifestly prepared for political purposes, was allowed to appear in its columns and displayed under a heading indicating that it was pure news matter, without having first investigated the petition's reliability if it was printed as news matter, or disclaiming its own responsibility if it was printed as advertising.

It is known that the Record displayed more than ordinary caution in printing communications opposing the Arlington Heights franchise and in several instances demanded the original manuscript together with the genuine signature of the author.

The Record has not apologized to the indignant citizens who declare that the publication of their names in connection with the "petition" has made them out hypocrites before their friends and The Telegram is forced to assert that the printing of the "petition" was a contemptible trick, immeasurably beneath the dignity of a reputable newspaper.

TO CONSIDER R. R. RATES

Senate Committee on Interstate Commerce Will Hold Session This Week

The senate committee on interstate commerce will begin considering the regulation of railroad rates at Washington on Wednesday of this week, and the advocates of the proposed legislation are confident that the bill will pass whatever it is presented to it, with the understanding that it meets with President Roosevelt's approval.

The stumbling block in the senate and the gateway to that body is through its committee on commerce. Attempts have been made to forecast the action of the committee, but these so far, owing to the wide divergence of opinion among those who favor the action. No doubt a majority of the committee feel the time has come to give the country what it wants in this connection, but scarcely two agree on how this can best be done. The task of framing a bill which will command a majority of the republicans on the committee is, therefore, a difficult one. There is, however, good reason to believe it will be accomplished, and that this session will frame a measure which will meet the needs of the legislature.

LINE IS NEAR BORDER
President of Orient Railroad Tells Progress of the Work

President Arthur E. Stilwell of the Kansas City, Mexico and Orient, who passed through this city a few days ago, made the statement that the line was now only eighty miles from the Texas border, building northeast out of Chihuahua. It is the intention to continue building on into and through Texas to Sweetwater, from which point the company is now constructing north toward Kansas City. Fifty or sixty miles of the road have been completed north of Sweetwater. About 10 miles of the road is to be completed in Oklahoma and Kansas to connect Kansas City with Sweetwater.

WORK FOR ENGINEERS
Southern Pacific Line to Be Run Through Gila Canon
The engineering department of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, in which some of the most skilled railway engineers are employed, is greatly puzzled over the problem of running the main line of the road through the canon of the Gila river. The plan of the officials of the company is to divert the main line so as to run through the valley in Graham county, Ariz., and to do this had planned to run through the bottom of the canon.

The government, however, has decided to build a dam in the canon to irrigate the Casa Grande valley, and has informed the railway that it cannot secure a right of way nearer than 180 feet to the bottom of the canon.

The engineers have been working on the problem and have decided that the building of the line through the canon at the height above the river mentioned is practicable and have made such a report to the company. It is anticipated that the engineers will soon be instructed to go ahead with the survey of the line.

The Middle Course

We don't boast of "cheapness" for our prices and do not solicit support BECAUSE we undersell on a value basis. We make price the secondary consideration, but when the buyer of outer garments is offered the choice between ready-made clothing at even less than value, and tailoring of the "Robber Barons" who offer their names at inflated prices, we recommend the MIDDLE COURSE which leads straight to us. Good, stylish, substantial tailoring at fair, moderate prices.

SCISSORS AID MAN END LIFE

Unidentified Suicide Ties Rope to Shears and Then Jumps to His Death

By the aid of a pair of scissors, an unidentified man, giving the name of John Martin, ended his life by hanging in his room at the Colonial Inn, 304 East Fifteenth street, this morning.

The man, apparently pushed the scissors into the flue in his room, climbed upon the sill of a nearby window and after fastening one end of the rope around his neck, tied the other end to the scissors, which he placed on the floor. He was dead when found by a chambermaid at 8:40 o'clock.

Refused to Reveal Name

In the room was found a note written in pencil and reading as follows: "My name is not John Martin, but if I give my things to Dad and think as well of me as you can."

The man had been staying at the Colonial Inn for about three months. He was a carpenter and the man referred to as "Dad" is a fellow workman. It is not known at the Colonial Inn where the suicide came from. He had made statements that one time he owned considerable property which he afterwards lost.

He was about 50 years old, 5 feet 9 inches tall, and weighed 150 pounds. His complexion was fair and he had a dark mustache and thick hair.

Justice Rowland held an inquest at which, in addition to testimony regarding the finding of the body, it was stated that the man had complained of illness this morning, had eaten breakfast, sat near the window and then went back to his room. A verdict of death by hanging with suicidal intent was returned.

The body was taken to Robertson's undertaking rooms.

IN THE COURTS

DISTRICT COURT
The debt and foreclosure case of Benjamin Bristol vs. P. B. Bussard et al, was dismissed this morning in the Fort-eighth district court.

The case of W. H. Smith vs. Tarrant county is on trial in the Seventeenth district court. It is alleged in the petition that plaintiff was employed as janitor of the court house on Nov. 11, 1902, by the county commissioners' court, for a period of two years; that the agreed salary was $40 per month; that plaintiff continued upon his duties and continued to serve as janitor until Dec. 1, 1902, when the commissioners' court, without plaintiff's fault and without legal justification, discharged plaintiff to his damage in the sum of two years' salary, less the amount which he earned while acting as janitor. The claim is for $467 back salary.

Plaintiff also asks damages in the sum of $1,000, besides costs of suit and general and special relief.

COMMISSIONERS' COURT
County commissioners' court was convened this morning for a three days' session.

Quite a number of claims were allowed. Approval was also given the purchase of a caliper for the district clerk's office, to cost $1.01.

In the next session of the commission, superintendents of the convict camp and county poor farm for the coming year are to be appointed. Physicians for the same, as well as a county physician, are to be named. Others to be appointed are janitors for the court house.

ELIOT PREACHES ON CHURCH UNITY

Unitarians May Be Admitted to Conference at New York

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—A sermon on Christian unity was delivered yesterday at All Souls' church by Rev. Dr. Samuel A. Eliot, president of the American Unitarian Association and son of the president of Harvard University. Dr. Eliot, Rev. Edward Everett Hale and former Secretary of the Navy John D. Long were not accepted as delegates to the interchurch conference for federation, which meets in New York this month. Dr. Eliot said in part:

"The federation of Christian people cannot be secured on the basis of intellectual agreement. Shall we not rather try the method of mutual service? Instead of lamenting the differences among men let us thank God for the variety and fullness of human thought and life. No one wants churches shorn of individuality. Let them retain their peculiar traditions. But let them submit all to the alchemy of brotherly love."

Dr. Eliot, speaking to reporters after the service, said that the Unitarians would make no effort to be seated in the conference. He added:

"There is this point, however: The congregational delegates are coming here with the idea—and it is a very large one, I must say—that the conference should not be conducted on a doctrinal basis. They do not relish a conference on such a basis any more than we do, I imagine. If the matter comes up and the non-doctrinal point is carried, it would theoretically serve to admit us."

CHURCH MEETING HELD

College Avenue Baptist Congregation Has Business Session

Prior to the service at the College Avenue Baptist church Sunday night a business and consultation meeting was held at which eight messengers were elected to represent the church in the Baptist general convention of Texas, which convenes in Dallas this week.

There was much enthusiasm in regard to the erection of the new church building. The building committee will meet Wednesday night for permanent organization preparatory to going ahead with the new edifice. The church voted enthusiastically to begin a revival meeting in a few days. Probably strong help will be had from a distance to do the preaching, though there was strong sentiment that the pastor conduct the meeting.

WESTERN OIL FIELDS GAIN

Production on This Side of Mississippi Passes That East of River

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 12.—According to a report issued by the geological survey the total output of crude petroleum marketed in the United States in 1934 was $101,170,466. The gain over the production of 1932 was 16,602,084 barrels in quantity and $4,476,416 in value.

For the first time in the history of petroleum industry the quantity of oil produced west of the Mississippi river was greater than that produced east of the river.

New pools were discovered during 1934 in Texas, California, Kansas, Indian Territory and Oklahoma and many extensions have been made to old fields.

An immense section, beginning in Southeastern Kansas and extending southwestward into Northern Indian Territory and Oklahoma over 180 miles in length and fifty miles in width proved to be locally productive of petroleum and natural gas.

The report says all indications point to an increase in the production of petroleum in the United States for a series of years.

Increased demand for petroleum in this country is attributed to the use of that article for automobiles.
