The barge went down in a heavy sea last night about eight miles east by south from Mineot light. Those lost were Captain John B. Munsey, Mrs. Munsey, the engineer of the barge and the cook of the barge.

LAKE STORM FIERCE

Three Lives Lost and Several Vessels Sunk in Battle with Waves

DULUTH, Minn., Dec. 1.—A message received today from Port Arthur, Ont., says the Canadian steamer, Monks Haven, of the Algoma Central line is ashore at Pie Island, near Port Arthur. The crew was saved, but the vessel is a total loss.

The H. B. Nye arrived at Two Harbors last night in a badly battered condition as the result of its battle with the recent storm. Its cargo of flax, valued at $240,000, is half damaged. Three men lost their lives in the wreck of the scow, George Herbert, at Two Islands. When the scow went on the rocks William Hicks and Charles Johnson saved themselves by taking desperate chances, jumping to shore. They made it safely, but the other three lacked courage and as the scow broke shouted a last good-bye and disappeared.

Bishop Richard Scannell of the Nebraska diocese of the Catholic church has declared excommunicated 150 facts all members of the Catholic church who participated in the wedding of Congressman Kennedy and Miss Pritchett on Monday. ahy, wife of the packing house magnate. Miss Mae Hamilton, whose individual fortune is rated over $1,000,000, was one of the bridesmaids.

His Divorced Wife Lives

Congressman Kennedy has a divorced wife living and for that reason the bishop issued last Sunday a pastoral forbidding all Catholics to participate in the ceremony. The bishop today declared excommunicated all members of his church who attended the wedding. The ceremony was conducted by Dr. E. H. Jenks, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, of which congregation Kennedy is a prominent member.

The bride of Congressman Kennedy, who is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Pritchett, prominent members of the Episcopal church, is a member of the Episcopal church. None of the members of either Mr. Kennedy's or Miss Pritchett's family is a Catholic. Mr. Kennedy's divorced wife is a Christian Scientist.

Bishop Scannell today said he would take no steps in the matter, declaring that the Catholics who participated in the ceremony and also those who attended the reception were equally culpable and said that they had excommunicated themselves by their action in the face of the warning issued by himself last Sunday. The pastoral of Bishop Scannell recited the laws of the Catholic church in the matter and closed with a paragraph evidently directed at the forthcoming Pritchett-Kennedy wedding, at which it had been announced Catholics would be present and participate, which explained the reasons for the issuance of the pastoral.

It recited that any co-operation of Catholics in any act known to be unlawful was an act of sin, and that any attempt to question it on the grounds of modern usage could not stand, because the law of morals never becomes antiquated and that "the divine prohibition to put asunder those whom God has joined together is as binding today as it was twenty centuries ago."

MUTINY ENDED AT SEBASTOPOL

Soldiers' Uprising Is Crushed and Leaders Captured

ST. PETERSBURG, Dec. 1, 1:30 a. m.—The official dispatches announcing the decisive crushing of the great mutiny at Sebastopol and the capture of all the mutineers, including the fanatical commander, Lieutenant Smith, raised a great load from the heart of Count Witte and his associates. A protracted cabinet meeting was held yesterday and long and serious consideration was given to an even greater problem—the general strike of the telegraph and postal employees, which has completely paralyzed the interior communication of the empire and which, if continued, will mean the economic and industrial death of Russia.

According to telephonic dispatches from Moscow, the telegraphers approached Baron Mirev, the prefect there, who promised to present a petition for the re-employment of those who had been discharged, if work was resumed. The government perhaps will accept this egress from its difficulty in this regard.

Situation Tense The situation at St. Petersburg was extremely tense yesterday. In the absence of definite information from Sebastopol, the wildest rumors were in circulation in the city.

A panic spread on the bourse and government bonds dropped heavily. The government finally recognized that it was a tactical mistake to hold up the news, but the official announcement of its victory at Sebastopol came too late to undo the great deal of harm. The dispatches show that the resistance of the mutineers when they were convinced that the government meant business and could count on the active support of the troops in the forts, was faint-hearted, as the Otchakoff fired only half a dozen shots before hauling down its flag, the damage to the city of Sebastopol may be far less than had been expected.

Lieutenant Schmidt and other leaders of the mutineers probably expect a short shift and it is certain that the government will show them no leniency.

Lieutenant Schmidt for a short time commanded one of the torpedo boats built for Russia by Lewis Nixon. He is well known to Mr. Nixon, who says he is a rattle brained and incompetent. The lieutenant was retired a few weeks ago on account of his participation in the revolutionary propaganda.

The movement has begun in Union Pacific headquarters at Omaha, and will be extended all along the lines so that the proxies may reach New York before the annual meetings of the big life insurance companies. A recently poll of the railroads was made to see what clerks were insured.

DEAD MAN'S HAND LEADS TO MURDER

Fatal Duel Follows Game in Mining Camp

PITTSBURG, Pa., Dec. 1.—The "dead man's hand," aces and eights, a combination of poker cards which gamblers say was never beat, held good again in a poker game yesterday evening, but the man who held this hand lost his life, his head being completely severed from his body. The man who tried to beat the poker hand with seven cards and a hatchet escaped, with blood flowing from many knife wounds and is being sought by the police all over Western Pennsylvania.

Antonia Duvulko, a wealthy mill boss at Schoenberger's mills here, was the victim of the frightful murder at 8 o'clock. Leon Gillette has fled.

The fight occurred over a poker hand held in a game at 1629 Penn avenue. There were six men in the game, and it had been going since early in the afternoon. Duvulko, who had a big lot of money with him, was a heavy loser and seemed to be of the idea that Gillette was cheating him. About 8 o'clock Gillette dealt and Duvulko merely glanced at his cards, then was seen to turn pale. Throwing his hand down, face up on the table it was seen to be aces and eights, or "the dead man's hand."

The mill boss looked across at Gillette and said: "You're cheating; you have more than five cards."

With an oath Gillette tried to throw his hand in the discard, but Duvulko reached over and, grasping his wrist, shook the cards from his hand. There were seven cards, among them five queens, two of them being queens of clubs. Duvulko pulled a knife and made a slash at Gillette, cutting a gash across his forehead. Gillette jumped back and, grasping a keen-edged hatchet, came for Duvulko, and the fearful duel in the small gambling room was on. Gillette, who was a strong young fellow, forced Duvulko back with the hatchet and managed to get in a blow on his neck, almost burying the hatchet. Duvulko fell across the table, the blood pouring from his wound, and Gillette hacked him again and again, severing the head from the body, it being held by but a small bit of skin when the police arrived. Gillette had been struck several times with the knife and escaped from the house with blood pouring from his wounds. He has not been captured.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Dec. 1.—The Southern Pacific road, says E. H. Harriman, is in the market for forty-five tank cars, 1,500 steel underframe box cars of 100,000 pounds capacity each and 800 steel underframe refrigerator cars of 60,000 pounds capacity each. It is also said that he will place contracts for 5,000 more freight cars. The new refrigerator cars are wanted, it is said, to handle the banana shipments to the west from New Orleans and for certain other purposes not connected with the California fruit trade.

HELLO GIRL LUCKY

Leaves Hotel Exchange to Become the Bride of a Wealthy Orange Grower

NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—Speak kindly over the phone to the girl at central, for she may some day be the wife of a rich man.

Ida Schwindt, daughter of a poor German teacher, need no longer answer the jangle of bells and listen to the "hellos" of patrons on the telephone exchange of the Park Avenue Hotel, for now she is a bride, and as Mrs. Bernard Saxton, is the mistress of $300,000 Florida and a great orange plantation in Florida.

Last spring her old school friend, Annie Bennett, also a telephone girl, married a millionaire named Whitney. Several years ago Ida Schwindt, daughter of Philip Schwindt, a poor German teacher, took a position as exchange girl in the Park Avenue Hotel. Three years later, when she was a handsome girl of 23, Bernard Saxton, a wealthy bachelor twice her age, took up his residence in the hotel.

Attracted by the pleasant manners and charms of the girl, the bachelor wooed, but it was five years before he could persuade his fate to overlook the difference in their ages and become his bride. They were married yesterday.

HE SPURNS THE TOGA

Governor La Follette Likely to Refuse the United States Senatorship

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Dec. 1.—Governor La Follette will in all probability surrender his seat in the United States senate and remain governor of Wisconsin. Politicians are in the dark as to the election of a successor. This is beyond much doubt one feature of the business outlined by Governor La Follette in his call for a special session to meet on Dec. 4.

The governor himself was elected senator last January, to succeed Senator Quarles, but has never accepted, intending, he said, to guide important legislation for the control of railroads before relinquishing the executive chair.

Now it is generally understood he has finally determined to remain governor and to urge the election of Isaac Stephenson as senator. Stephenson is known as a financial backer of La Follette.

FLAMES DESTROY FARMERS' MARKET

Shed Burned and Thirty Bales of Cotton Damaged

At an early hour this morning fire broke out in the Farmers' Market Square, west of the Tarrant county court house, practically destroying the large shed which covers the market square and damaging some thirty bales of cotton. The origin of the fire is unknown.

The small frame building occupied by the Union Produce Company was also destroyed, but fortunately contained but a few vegetables.

The damage will be several hundred dollars, besides the cotton, damage to which cannot be estimated until a thorough examination as to its condition is made.

The damage will be several hundred market square at nominal rental, the place being the property of the Fort Worth Market House Company, whose proposition to build a market place in connection with the Auditorium was practically accepted by the city council some time ago, and which will be carried out as soon as the city is able to perform its part of the understanding.

Arrangements are being made to house the Farmers' Union in other quarters and it has not been decided as to whether the old place will be rebuilt temporarily or the debris removed to await action on the part of the Auditorium and the city.

SILVER JUMPING UPWARD

Highest Top Price Is Reached Since Year 1896

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 1.—Silver is jumping up in price. It is now 65 3/4c per ounce. This is the highest price since 1896. Two months ago the market quotation was 50c. A demand that is greater than the supply, say the brokers, is accounting for the higher price. But they also say in addition to the legitimate business demand there is also a speculative demand which must be taken into consideration.

FAST EXPRESS JUMPS TRACK

Two Killed in Strange Wreck in Pennsylvania

DROPS OVER TWENTY FEET

Train Falls Upon the Track of Parallel Railroad Below With Fatal Result

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Dec. 1.—Two men were killed and about a dozen others injured in the wreck of the Philadelphia express on the Central railroad of New Jersey last night near Penn Haven Junction, about one hundred miles north of Philadelphia. The dead are Fireman Rupert of Mauch Chunk, Pa., and an expert engineer named Detroy, who was riding home on the locomotive.

Nine of the injured were taken to St. Luke's Hospital at South Bethlehem, Pa. They are: Howard A. Fuller, compound fracture of the leg.

R. A. Lindsley, Philadelphia, contusion of the hip.

F. E. De Long, Philadelphia, contusions of the legs.

Thomas Goodwin, Philadelphia, lacerated wounds of the head.

Samuel Schultz, a clergyman of Lansford, Pa., lacerated wounds of the scalp.

M. B. Tilton, South Bethlehem, lacerated wounds of the head.

George M. Willis, East Mauch Chunk, engineer of the express train, lacerated wounds of the head and hands and scalds.

Charles Brady, Lansford, Pa., fracture of the nose.

F. O. Falkeek, body contused. The baggage master of the train sustained a fracture of two ribs.

Jumped Down Twenty Feet The accident occurred a short distance above Penn Haven Junction. According to the story told by Engineer Willis, the locomotive of the express left the rails as it struck a sharp curve. The engine, followed by a combination baggage and smoking car and a day coach, jumped across the northbound track and plunged twenty feet down upon the tracks of the Lehigh Valley railroad, which parallels the Jersey Central railroad at this point.

The coupling on the Pullman car, the only other car on the train, broke and the Pullman ran down the track for some distance. The coaches that went over the embankment were badly wrecked and it is considered remarkably that none of the passengers were killed. Penn Haven Junction at night is out of direct communication and it was some time before the accident became known at Mauch Chunk. A relief train was sent to the scene and by the time it arrived all the injured had been taken from the wreckage and placed in the Pullman car. It was 2:30 a. m. before the victims arrived at South Bethlehem. Eight of the uninjured passengers arrived in Philadelphia at 4 o'clock this morning.

RUSSIAN WIRES REMAIN SILENT

None But Few Government Reports Are Received

ST. PETERSBURG, Dec. 1.—The crisis here continues. The telegraph tie-up throughout Russia is practically complete and the government does not know what is happening in the interior of the empire.

Emissaries of the strikers have been sent to Finland to induce their comrades to join in the strike. This has cut off the cable communication which remains open for press and government messages, although the central office is normally closed. Much as the government would like to resist it is powerless.

WILL PLEAD ALIBI

Doctor Testifies in Suit Case Murder Mystery

BOSTON, Mass., Dec. 1.—The statement that he had assisted Dr. Percy McLeod in performing an operation to save the life of Susanna Geary was made yesterday by Dr. John H. Pattee at the trial of Dr. McLeod on the charge of being an accessory to the death of Miss Geary as the result of illegal surgical treatment. Dr. Pattee also testified that previous to the operation Dr. McLeod and Mrs. Dean, the woman physician arrested, discussed disposing of the body. Dr. Pattee stated that he knew a crime was being concealed and that he had said anything to the police because he wished to protect himself. This closed the government's case. Charles H. Innes, counsel for Dr. Percy McLeod, opened for the defense, which he declared would be an alibi. He claimed that Dr. McLeod's part in the case was simply that of trying to save the woman's life. He promised to show that Hunt's Philadelphia career made him the criminal agent.

MANY DRUGS STOLEN

Wholesale Chemists Reported to Have Lost $50,000 NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—Drugs worth from $25,000 to $50,000 have been stolen from wholesale chemists in New York during the last few months, according to detectives, who arrested two men on the confession of a third, accusing one of having assisted in robbing a branch house here of the Mallinckrodt Chemical Company of St. Louis. In court yesterday the prisoners described themselves as Louis Gear and Edward Smith. From Joseph Hogan, a confession is alleged to have been obtained. The latter was held as a witness. Hogan was operator of a telephone switchboard in the office of the Mallinckrodt Chemical Company. The others say they are drug clerks. According to the detectives, Hogan is said to have declared that his friendship for Smith induced him to enter the store room of the company and abstract two cases of goods, one containing cocaine and the other codine. This plunder, said Hogan, according to his confession, amounted to $600; and the goods were transferred by Smith to Gear for a consideration of $80. Detectives have been watching the drug thieves for several months. An immense amount of stolen drug property has been disposed of, so they declare, to retail druggists.

STATE REBUTS IN PARKER CASE

State Endeavoring to Offset Tax Collector's Testimony

Special to The Telegram. DALLAS, Texas, Dec. 1.—In the Parker murder trial the state today has been putting on witnesses in rebuttal, to offset the testimony given by County Tax Collector Henry Jacoby given as a witness for the defense, to the effect that at the time of the shooting of Frank J. Bell by R. B. Parker he (Jacoby) saw Mrs. Flora B. Taylor in the main hall of the county court house. If this testimony were correct, it would tend to destroy much of the value of Mrs. Taylor's testimony for the prosecution to the effect that she was in the room where the shooting occurred when Parker shot Bell, and witnessed the shooting; that she fled from the room into the little hallway and thence into the main hallway. The state up to noon during today's session of court had put seven witnesses on the stand, all of whom swore that immediately after the shots were fired they saw Mrs. Taylor hurrying through the little hallway, coming from the direction of the shooting, thence into the main hallway leading through the body of the court house. These witnesses, through their testimony, seem to strengthen the contention of the state that Mrs. Taylor witnessed the shooting.

TURKEY CAUSES SUIT IN COURT

Efforts to Capture Bird Result in Trial

A Thanksgiving turkey led to a contest today in Justice Rowland's court. Al Heene, a tailor, was arrested this morning on a charge of abusive language and disturbing the peace of H. P. London, a neighbor, whose home adjoins that of Heene in East Belknap street. Evidence was given that Heene's Thanksgiving turkey had strayed into the yard of London; that the defendant, in attempting to secure possession of his bird, used "bad" language. The case is being tried before a jury.

COUNTY COURT

No business was transacted in the county court this morning.

DISTRICT COURT

Judge M. E. Smith of the Seventeenth district court is hearing the damage case of William Barr against the Houston and Texas Central Railway Company.

The petition alleges that Barr's home in Tucker's addition has suffered because the defendant company has constructed a dump near his premises, which, he says, prevents the natural flow of water from the place. For this he asks $5,000. An additional $5,000 is asked because of the noise caused by the operation of trains, blowing of whistles, ringing of bells and the odors emitted from the engines.

Judge M. E. Smith admitted Allen Roauch to bond in the sum of $750. The defendant is charged with burglary.

The Carnelson case is still on trial in the Eighteenth district court.

 NINE PERISH IN FIRE  MOBILE, Ala., Dec. 1.—Nine persons occupying a pull boat on the Middle river, which is located between the Tensaw and Alabama rivers, twenty-five miles above Mobile, met a terrible fate this morning, all being burned to death in a fire which destroyed the boat. News of the terrible death of nine men, two of whom were white, was brought to Mobile today by Sidney Wheat, a negro, who escaped. His story is heart-rending and tells of the agonizing cries of those who were caught like rats in a trap and burned to death before his very eyes. Wheat escaped because, being ill, he was up at the time of the fire and made his escape in the nick of time. *****

 CHURCH INCORPORATES  AUSTIN, Texas, Dec. 1.—The Swedish Evangelical Lutheran Gustavus Adolph church of Fort Worth was chartered today, with no capital stock. The incorporators are Oscar Anderson, B. M. Pearson and Oscar K. Santz.

 HOLD-UP IN DALLAS  DALLAS, Texas, Dec. 1.—D. H. Parker of West Dallas was held up last night by two highwaymen in South Harwood street and robbed of $30.

 HOW TO GET RID OF NEIGHBORLY CHICKENS  Peter Lorillard Ronalds of New Rochelle, N. Y., who recently completed a thousand-mile coaching trip, is still young at 78 years, largely because he has always known how to get his rights without unnecessary fighting.

Once Mr. Ronalds had a garden and a neighbor who kept chickens. And the chickens, being negligently penned, were in the habit of straying into Mr. Ronalds' garden and spreading devastation. Mr. Ronalds mildly remonstrated with his neighbor, who repeatedly promised to amend the conditions, but the chickens continued to stray. Now, at this point some men would have lost their tempers, but Mr. Ronalds merely smiled, took a dozen eggs and under cover of darkness hid them in the flower beds where the chickens from next door were most wont to scratch.

Then the next morning when the neighbor was looking over the hedge, Mr. Ronalds sauntered down his garden path, and with many pauses and stoopings picked up one egg here and another there, until he had collected the entire dozen, while the neighbor watched him with an expression of stern displeasure and surprise. From that day the next door chickens roamed no more.

 ADVISE TO MEN ABOUT TO MARRY  Mme. Bouguereau, the widow of the noted French painter, who was Miss Elizabeth Gardner of Exeter, N. H., tells many tales of a wise old woman of her native town who had the knack of saying things at the wrong time. Her grandson married; and not long after the wedding this good old lady placidly remarked to the new bride: "I am glad Herbert had the sense to marry a settled old maid. Young gals is highly-tighty, and widders is overruin' and domineerin'. But old maids is generally thankful and willin' to please."

And somehow Herbert's wife wasn't pleased.

 BONDS REGISTERED  AUSTIN, Texas, Dec. 1.—The railroad commission today granted the application of the Beaumont, Sour Lake and Western railway to register in the state department an issue of $267,566 bonds on nineteen miles of completed road, the bonds to mature July 1, 1935. The bonds were registered in the state department.

 BRIDEGROOM GOES AS PLAIN BAGGAGE  Didn't Have Money Enough for Wedding Trip

OMAHA, Neb., Nov. 31.—George Francis, who was married in Denver two months ago, planned to take a trip to Chicago with the view of perhaps making that place their home. One obstacle that confronted the couple was a lack of cash necessary to take the two to the Windy City. Finally Francis hit upon a scheme which met the approval of his bride, and that was to pack himself in a trunk and be checked through to Chicago as baggage, the couple having only enough money to pay the fare of one.

Mrs. Francis purchased her ticket and had her hubby loaded on the train. Food and water were placed in the trunk prior to the departure from Denver, and the journey was begun. All went well until Omaha was reached, when a baggage man this morning thought he heard a noise in the chest. At the same time a motion inside the trunk was noticed through a hole at one end of the trunk, bored to allow ventilation. The baggage man peeped into the trunk and asked, "What are you doing in there?" Francis replied, "Don't say anything about this, please."

The baggage man, however, notified officials of the road and Francis was taken from the trunk after the key had been secured from the bride. The couple were taken to the police court and there they told a pitiful tale to the judge who, after due consideration, discharged them. It is understood that the couple made arrangements some way to resume their trip to Chicago.

A REGULAR CIRCUS

Trying to Give a Little Girl Cod Liver Oil An interesting incident was told in R. A. Anderson's drug store the other evening.

A man came in and bought a bottle of Vinol and while waiting, for change engaged the clerk in conversation. Said he: "We were told to give our little girl cod liver oil. We had a regular and took it home. We had a regular circus trying to get the child to take it. Then it did not agree with her at all, all the oil upset her stomach. She did not get any better, so I told the doctor how we had failed, and he at once recommended your Vinol, saying that it contained all of the curative, healing and strengthening properties of cod liver oil without a drop of oil, and that children all love its taste."

"I took home a bottle and we began to give it to our child right away. She said it was delicious and wanted more. Almost from the first dose we noticed a change, and she has gained flesh, strength and appetite and sleeps well every night. "I don't believe any one should give a delicate child old-fashioned, nauseating cod liver oil or emulsions when Vinol is so delicious, and it will do so much more good than any other tonic. It is simply a wonderful medicine for weak, young children, and I am recommending it to my friends."

"We guarantee Vinol will make weak, young children strong, robust and rosy, strengthen and invigorate all people and build up the run-down, tired and debilitated as nothing else can. If it fails we will return every dollar paid for it." R. A. Anderson, Druggist.

SUIT BROUGHT ON AIR BRAKE LAW

Government Takes Action Against Southern Pacific

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Dec. 1.—Southern Pacific officials have been served with notice of suit against them by the government in the United States district court at Portland, Ore., to collect penalties for violation of the safety appliance act passed by congress in 1893 and subsequently amended in 1903. Similar suits have also been brought against other overland roads. The act in question requires that every train should have sufficient number of cars so equipped with power or train brakes that engineers on locomotives drawing such train can control its speed without requiring the brakeman to use common hand brakes for that purpose. All passenger trains are properly equipped with air brakes, so the act refers more particularly to freight trains. The Southern Pacific has many of its cars so equipped and as a rule does not take a car from another road coming in a through train unless it has air brakes. The suit, therefore, it is in the nature of a surprise and is probably the first action of the kind brought in the Federal courts on this coast.

A SAD SIGHT

"When I was at Niagara recently," said J. A. Astor, "I was gazing at the white waters of the stupendous falls, when I felt a touch on my arm. Turning, I saw a white-faced individual who sighed forth: "It seems a pity to have all this going to waste, doesn't it?" "What are you?" said I; "an electrical engineer?" "No," he answered, "I'm a milkman."

BAD BLOOD'S WORK

ANKLES AND LEGS SWELL UNTIL MAN CAN SCARCELY WALK. After Six Months of Suffering Mr. Hoar is Completely Cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People.

"People can cure themselves of a good many common ailments at a very small cost if they go about it the right way," said Mr. Hoar, recently. "For instance, I have just cured myself of a very painful disease. I might have begun to treat it sooner, that's all the mistake I made in the matter. But I found the root of the difficulty and I picked out the right remedy without the aid of a doctor. "It was really all in my blood. I first felt a twinge in my left foot and ankle in the middle of last January, following exposure to cold. I realized I had rheumatism and I knew that really comes from bad blood. Cold simply develops it. Then my hands and feet were cold and clammy even in hot weather, and numb a great part of the time. I concluded that my blood was thin and poor and the circulation sluggish. "After a time my feet and ankles swelled so badly that I could only tie my shoes half way up. My legs swelled terribly and I could walk only a short distance before giving out completely. "When I read of the cure of all kinds of blood diseases, that had been effected by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, I was convinced that they were just the remedy for my case, and so it proved. I could see that they were benefiting me before I had quite used up the first box. The improvement was decidedly marked as I had taken two boxes. Three more boxes restored my hands and feet and legs to natural size and feeling and then I stopped taking medicine and have since been perfectly well."

Mr. F. LeRoy Hoar lives at No. 151 Constitution street, Bristol, R. I. Any one can readily tell for himself when his blood is thin, by the pallor of his skin, the bloodlessness of the lips and gums particularly, and he can be certain that his blood is impure when the limbs swell and rheumatic aches are felt. Any one can get convincing evidence that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have cured anemia, rheumatism, erysipelas and other serious diseases of the blood by simply writing to the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. Every druggist sells these famous pills.

UNIVERSITY WINS EXCITING GAME

Fort Worth Beats Dallas Y. M. C. A. 6 to 0

Fort Worth University defeated Dallas Thursday in the hardest fought and fastest game of football ever seen on the Dallas gridiron. The final score of 6 to 0 tells the story of the game. This score was made during the last minute of play.

Rivalry was intense between the teams, both because of former games and because it was Fort Worth against Dallas.

At 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon the University team and rooters packed a special car, which was decorated with bunting of blue and gold and F. W. U. banners. It was a gala day throughout. At Dallas the team was met by a band and proceeded to the new ball park.

Fort Worth kicked to Dallas' ten-yard line. Winchester returned the ball ten yards. Dean and Woolen repeatedly made good gains through the University line. After advancing the ball twenty-five yards Dallas lost it on downs.

As the University lined up for its first down with the ball the crowd waited breathlessly. Dallas had been able to gain substantially and everyone watched for some sign which would show how the game might go. A few sharp signals were heard and then the ball was passed to Mills, who went through right tackle for twenty-five yards. The University crowd went wild and threw hats and anxiety to the winds. Payton made three. Borden went through center for eight.

Fumble Saves Dallas
Mills then smashed right tackle again and carried the ball to goal line, but made an unfortunate fumble just when a score seemed certain.

Dallas fell on the ball on the fumble and a touchback was declared and the ball tumbled to the twenty-yard line and punted forty yards to Mills, who returned fifteen yards before being downed by Dean of Dallas.

Back and forth the teams surged, the University steadily forcing Dallas back.

Place Kick Fails
After forcing the ball to the thirty-yard line the University tried one of the place kicks for which it has become famous. Borden, the University kicker, was not in condition and the ball went wide of the goal. Another touchback was made by Dallas.

Mills received the ball and the kick-out and returned twenty yards. Again the University marched steadily toward the Dallas goal, but lost the ball on downs on the Dallas twenty-yard line.

Dallas Gains Ground
Dallas rallied and again advanced the ball by a series of terrific line plunges. This was the only time during the game that the Dallas team succeeded in getting the ball into the University territory. Fort Worth held on their own forty-yard line. Just as the half ended Mills made another break through tackle and planted the ball fifteen yards nearer the goal. The half ended with the ball in middle of the field.

Second Half
Dallas kicked to the University ten-yard line. Payton returned fifteen yards on a double pass from Mills. The University then got busy. Borden and Payton smashed and hurled the line for big gains. Mills made a double pass to Smith, who nearly got away. When Dallas finally stemmed the tide and took the ball it was on her own twenty-five yard line.

Again Dallas hit the line hard and hurled her big men at the light University team, but the skill and agility of the 'Varsity was too much for the Dallas players. The gains grew shorter and shorter. As the half progressed they rarely made first down more than once in succession.

The game was heartbreaking to the Dallas rooters and they called time and again for their husky team to "hold 'em."

During the last fifteen minutes of play the University was in striking distance of the Dallas goal. During this time they tried three place kicks. These failing Captain Mills called his team together for a brief word; there was tightening of belts by the University and then they let loose such a series of plays and so rapidly that often they were off before Dallas was more than half lined up. They literally tore the Dallas defense to pieces. Payton, Mills and Borden plunged so fast and gained ground so rapidly that the officials lost track of downs, distances and everything else. With a minute to play Payton carried the ball on the second down, crossing the goal line after a five-yard plunge through tackle. Borden kicked an easy goal.

The University team was literally swept from the field by the wildly enthusiastic crowd, which swarmed down upon the field after the game.

Those who have seen fast football say that never before did they see such playing as the University team did yesterday. The line-up:

Referee—Link. Umpire—Rowan. Time of halves, twenty-five minutes. Final score—University 6, Dallas 0.

VERSES THAT RING

LET US FORGET. Let us forget—not those who long have stood. The test of time in friendship's fair domain, Nor those in whom no selfish thoughts intrude To mar the luster of love's brilliant chain.

Let us forget—not those whose smiles we've known, Who by a kindly word have smoothed the way, When we were journeying o'er life's path alone, Dark night before, behind the joyless day.

Let us forget—the false who turned away, When kindly fortune had withdrawn her smile; Let us forget from this far distant day, The cruel wound o'er which we grieved the while.

Let us forget the thrush, the scornful frown, The harsher words that careless tongues have hurled, And crush today all bitter memories down— Forget the slights and wrongs of all the world.

Let us forget the sorrows that are gone, The heartaches we have known, the grief, the tears— Forget that we have ever groped alone, Or felt the blight which swept across our years.

Let us forget all these that there may be Room in our hearts for nobler thoughts to rise— Let us forget all unkind words that we May feel the joys of sweeter memories.

INTEREST IN CAMPAIGN
To The Telegram
It is really a condition of no small moment, rather one of much local pride and far reaching import to have three such excellent gentlemen as Judge Harris, Colonel Taylor and Mr. Laster permitting themselves to be advanced by their many friends for the office of mayor. Either of them will honor the office and city at home or abroad and in view of the fact that Texas in general and Fort Worth in particular is the common Mecca for home-seekers, capitalists and industrial promoters, it behooves us to have as head of our city a cultured, wide-awake, broad and prepossessing mayor to receive and welcome individuals and delegations, be they long term visitors or only sojourners passing our doors, in such a manner as to create a good impression at the start. A man of striking personality who will be ceaselessly attentive, instructive, a good mixer and intelligently informed as to municipal benefits already in evidence and the great things yet to be accomplished, to a strong, healthy, prosperous and growing city. It has been said to-day there is little actual work to do or there is not much he can do. I believe there is more to be accomplished for the general good in the future of our city by a mayor who rightly views the situation and has a firm grip on conditions and possibilities than all our civic bodies combined. He is or should be a perpetual reception committee and the better adapted to such labors he is the more nearly will he succeed in winning favors for the city. It is an art within itself and the man who is best equipped is the one who has traveled, mixed with the world, gone out from among his neighbors and learned by actual contact what is being done elsewhere and how. The eyes of the world are on Fort Worth today, and if we make no mistakes we will soon become the great intake of much of that element of good citizenship and capital that is so necessary for our upbuilding and maintenance. Nothing must be done or said that will awaken suspicion of this city not being the best place on earth to choose for

A Great Physiologist

Once Said That the Way to Keep the Stomach Healthy is to Exercise It
But He Did Not Tell How to Make It Healthy
The muscles of the body can be developed by exercise until their strength has increased manifold, and a proper amount of training each day will accomplish this result, but it is somewhat doubtful whether you can increase the digestive powers of the stomach by eating indigestible food in order to force it to work.
Nature has furnished us all with a perfect set of organs, and if they are not abused they will attend to the business required of them. They need no abnormal strength.
There is a limit to the weight a man can lift, and there is also a limit to what the stomach can do.
The cause of dyspepsia, indigestion and many similar diseases is that the stomach has been exercised too much and it is tired or worn out. Not exercise but rest is what it needs.
To take something into the stomach that will relieve it from its work for a short time—something to digest the food—will give it a rest and allow it time to regain its strength.
The proper aid to the digestive organs is Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets which cure dyspepsia, indigestion, gas on the stomach and bowels, heartburn, palpitation of the heart, and all stomach diseases.
Rest and invigoration is what the stomach gets when you use Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, for one grain of the active principle in them is sufficient to digest 3,000 grains of food.
The Tablets increase the flow of gastric juice, and prevent fermentation, acidity and sour eructations.
Do not attempt to starve out dyspepsia. You need all your strength.
The common sense method is to digest the food for the stomach and give it a rest.
Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets do not make the cure, but enable the organs to throw off unhealthy conditions.
Perfect digestion means perfect health, for under these conditions only do the different organs of the body work right and receive the building-up material found in pure food.
Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are a natural remedy and are a specific for stomach troubles. The ablest physicians prescribe them.
The Tablets are pleasant to the taste, and are composed of fruit and vegetable extracts, golden seal and papain.
At all drug stores—50 cents per package.

NORTH TEXAS COTTON MOVES

Freer Movement Reported Following Advance

During the past few days there has been a much freer movement of cotton from north Texas. This is attributed to the advance in price. There is some cotton still in the fields, but the majority of it has been gathered in this part of the state and in Oklahoma and Indian Territory.
Dealers here say that no large stocks are being held by merchants or farmers, and that which has been in warehouses is being turned loose. During the past week large quantities of warehouse cotton have been sold and shipped for export.
One dealer said he has information that a very large per cent of the warehouse cotton in north Texas, Oklahoma and Indian Territory has been disposed of, and that chances are more of it will be sold during the present week.
Along the Santa Fe railroad the yield this year has not been within 25 to 30 per cent of what it was last season. Similar reports are made along other lines, except the Rock Island and the Denver Road, where the yield have been satisfactory.
In east Texas the cotton yield has been very poor. It is said to be the poorest crop in many years, due to the heavy rains in the forepart of the cotton season.
The yield in Tarrant county this year will be approximately 27,500 bales as against 35,000 bales last year, while the approximate total yield of Texas and Oklahoma and Indian Territory is placed at 2,850,000 bales.
The disposition of farmers has been to sell their cotton which has been moving in large quantities since the price jumped to 11 and 11.50c in this market.

POLICE CAPTURE BURGLAR OUTFIT

Complete Set of Door Openers Secured
Police chasing a suspect near the Texas and Pacific passenger station Thanksgiving day were outrun by the man they desired to interrogate, but he threw away a bunch of keys in the course of his flight which Chief Maddox now has in his office. The keys on the ring are seven in number and of dangerously available use in gaining entrance through doors provided with almost any variety of lock. Of queer shapes and graduated sizes, the small kit of lockpickers is almost complete. One article only is missing. That is what is known to the "profession" as the "pinchers." These little implements are inserted in the keyholes of doors in which the intended burglar finds a key, the end of the key is seized by the nips of the pinchers and the key is turned around, opening the door without trouble and, to the adept, with as much ease as if he were the owner of the house, with a key in due form.
The police are keeping a lookout for the man, whom they allege to be a much wanted person from central-western cities, well known to police departments in several places.

DANCER LOSES WRAP

Annual Relief Ball Given for Firemen's Relief Fund Proves Great Success
Mrs. H. C. Glosson, wife of one of the members of the Fort Worth fire department, in this morning wondering whether her $20 cravatette coat worn to the firemen's ball in Bailey's hall, Jennings avenue, Thanksgiving night was taken away through mistake by one of the guests, or was appropriated intentionally.
Mrs. Glosson had not worn the coat before last night and the loss occurring at the ball, she hopes, was thrown mistake, although there was none left in the place of the one taken.
Several hundred people were present and an enjoyable time was had by all present, the program affording fourteen dances, the total of the numbers being over twenty, counting the extras and encores.
Chief Bidecker of the fire department said today that the ball was one of the most successful ever given under the auspices of Fort Worth Firemen's Relief association.
About 1,000 tickets were sold at 50 cents each, which amounts to $500. The expenses of the ball will be about $100, and $400 will go to the relief fund.
Conner's orchestra furnished music for the occasion and Chief Bidecker acted as caller.

Aged Woman Cured of Consumption and Hemorrhages

Mrs. Mary Griffis, of Albion, Pa., Restored to Vigorous Health by Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, Recommends it as the Greatest Medicine for Weak and Aged People.
"I was a Mere Skeleton From Consumption of the Liver and Hemorrhage, and Helpless as a Baby, but Now, at 64, I am in Perfect Health, and Duffy's is My Constant Medicine."

MRS. MARY GRIFFIS.
"I have taken Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey for almost one year, and I can truthfully and conscientiously recommend it to everyone as the best medicine for weak and aged people. I was advised to take Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey, and it certainly is better than any medicine I ever took. Today, at 64, I am in perfect health, and never have to call on a physician. Duffy's is my constant medicine, and I never will be without it."—Mrs. Mary Griffis, Albion, Pa., May 24, 1903.

WANT JUVENILE COURT

Washington Commissioners to Ask Congress for Tribunal
WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 1.—The district commissioners have decided to send to committees of congress a bill providing for a juvenile court, with a request for passage. The bill will include within the jurisdiction of the court not only the trial of children for petty crimes and misdemeanors, but commitments to charitable institutions and to hospitals for the insane.
The court is to have original and exclusive jurisdiction in all crimes and offenses of persons under 17 years of age not capable or otherwise infamous and not punishable by imprisonment in the penitentiary except for libel, conspiracy and violations of the postoffice and pension laws of the United States, and also all offenses of persons under 17 years of age hereafter committed against laws, ordinances and regulations of the district.

PSALM AND HYMN EXPRESS THANKS

Classics of Praise Discussed in Sermon

Sermon delivered by Dr. Clarence Stewart at the Mulkey Memorial church at the Mulkey Memorial church yesterday to the congregations of the Mulkey Memorial, Broadway Baptist, Cannon Avenue Cumberland Presbyterian, First Congregational, College Avenue Presbyterian and Missouri Avenue Methodist churches was based upon the passage, "I will sing unto the Lord, because He hath dealt bountifully with me."

He said in part:

"This is one of the grandest exclamations of gratitude that ever fell from human lips. It is the testimony of one upon whom Omnipotence had lavished the richest gifts and highest graces. It is the outburst of one who beheld the glory of God in animate and inanimate nature; in the King of Day as he painted the tree-tops and the moss-decked ledges with all the colors of the rainbow; in shining orbs that hung like golden lamps all night over the flocks on the hills of Bethlehem; in the majestic landscape where quiet rivers wrap their silver coils about the feet of royal mountains; in the liquid notes of feathered songsters lifted in a hymn of welcome to returning light. Seeing the might and grace of the invisible in the things which are made, he broke forth in that immortal song: 'The heavens declare the glory of God; and the firmament showeth His handiwork. Day unto day uttereth speech, and night unto night showeth knowledge.'"

"But further than this, the text is the cry of gratitude of one who has been delivered from immeasurable hatred and heartless and relentless persecution, the triumphant shout of one who had been an outcast, a refugee hunted and hunted like the beasts of the forest; making his home in the lonely defiles of the mountains, harassed by the murmurings of his 300 bodyguards; the grief of despair yawning before him and the path of retreat held by a fierce enemy. But now in exultant strain he sings: 'When the wicked, even my enemies and my foes came upon me to eat up my flesh, they stumbled and fell. In the time of trouble the Lord is with me, and my salvation; whom shall I fear? The Lord is the strength of my life; of whom shall I be afraid? I will sing unto the Lord, because He hath dealt bountifully with me.'"

"But still further, our text is the thanksgiving song of one who knows the peace and joy of divine pardon. O, thou sweetest singer of Israel, but a few hours ago thy heart was bleeding, thy conscience was a torment; innocent blood had congealed upon thy hands and cried out to heaven for vengeance. Thy heart was full of wicked imaginations, licentiousness, adulation, hypocrisy and murder. Thou wast a king in garb but a fiend at heart. Ah, me, is it any wonder he cried in that most pathetic of all penitential outbursts, 'Deliver me from blood-guiltiness, O God, thou God of my salvation, and my tongue shall sing aloud of Thy righteousness.'"

"The God of pardon looked infinite compassion upon him. And now he says, as he reviews his checkered life and the mercies of God, 'I will sing unto the Lord, because He hath dealt bountifully with me.'"

"So must we all acknowledge the hand of God in everywhere. Not only does it draw the chariot of kings and lay in ruins mighty empires, but that hand is discovered wherever poverty sighs, disease moans, sorrow weeps, death slays; wherever peace sings, joy laughs, health invigorates and life bursts into gorgeous bloom. As page by page the story of our lives is written, upon them all can be seen the finger marks of Providence. Yes, God is everywhere, in everything; God's presence is omnipresence and God's care is everywhere. His providence is over all.

"O, for how much we owe thanksgiving this day! Every day should be to every one of us a day of gratitude and praise. Every hour brings to us all some undesired blessing; our very lives should be monuments of gratitude. He who realizes how much he has to be thankful for will never murmur when trials come.

"When the path is shrouded with clouds of affliction we often become discouraged and dismayed. You have often heard the complaint of those smarting and chafing under their troubles: 'What have I done to deserve this? Why should I be treated so?' The truly grateful soul will not speak so unkindly of the providences of God. There is only one time when that question, 'What have I done to deserve this?' is proper; that is when you realize the joy of simply living, seeing, hearing, doing, loving and serving.

"When God smiles upon the work of our hands, when the sunshine kisses waving fields of green into golden harvest; creeps in at the open window to the sick couch to hasten the weary hours and lighten pain and sorrow; paints the dimpled cheek of childhood with the flush of health; hastens through the disease-laden streets of mighty cities, carrying up on its golden pinions disease and death, then may we ask, 'What have I done to deserve this?' Why is God so good to me?"

"O, fellow-traveler to the spirit land, whether in poverty or plenty, sickness or health, shame or honor, you have reason this day to sing with Israel's

"We thank Thee, O Father, for all that is bright, The gloom of the day, and the stars of the night; The flowers of our youth, and the fruits of our prime, And blessings e'er marching the pathway of time.

"We thank Thee, O Father, for all that is dear— The sob of the tempest—the flow of the tear; For never in blindness, and never in vain, Thy mercy permitted a sorrow or pain.

"We thank Thee, O Father, for soul and for feast— The harvest that glowed, and the wealth that increased; For never a blessing encompassed Thy child, But Thou in Thy mercy looked downward and smiled.

"We thank Thee, O Father of all, for the power Of aiding each other in life's darkest hour; The generous heart and the bountiful hand, And all the soul-help that sad souls understand.

"We thank Thee, O Father, for days yet to be— For hopes that our future will call us to Thee; That all our eternity form, through Thy love.

One Thanksgiving Day in the mansions above.

"O, ye upon whom God has lavished His kindness; ye whom He has blessed, caressed and comforted, 'sing unto the Lord a new song,' for He hath dealt bountifully with you.' Forget not to be grateful, for ingratitude is the basest of crimes."

"Not only is all animated nature vocal with God's praise; not only do the sun, moon and stars give thanks to Him and reflect His glory, but history is God asserting Himself. And no where more saliently than in the history of these United States is this fact better established. How thankful we should be this day that God from the very forenoon of Occidental history has kept His hand upon the pilot wheel and has moved us according to His own sovereign will. Before leaving the decks of the Mayflower, our forefathers, as if by inspiration, adopted a constitution, of which this is the preamble: 'In the name of God, amen, we having undertaken for the glory of God, and the advancement of the Christian faith, to plant the first colony in the northern parts of Virginia, do by these presents solemnly and mutually, in the presence of God and of one another, covenant and agree:

"As you stand in the old town hall of Plymouth and read those words, 'The safety and purity of society rests, as it always has rested, with the believers of Christianity,' your heart must cry out: 'The hand of God hath written it.' God has most signally blessed this nation as no other earthly power. Through war's mad convulsions He has led us; from the horrors of national servitude He has freed us; from internal division He has delivered us; through the trying hours of national panic He has piloted us; He never sent us into any valley of trouble but some mountain height of eminence waited on the other side.

Danger of Prosperity

"Our chief Magistrate declares: 'No other people have ever stood on as high a level of material well-being as ours now stand.' But our material prosperity is our greatest danger. Many of the commercial methods of today would shock the fathers. The ills and evils of this hour are greater than those the Revolutionary fathers had to combat. We must not forget our dependence upon God. The public conscience is being quickened; the grafter in business life is growing in disfavor and the boss in politics is being driven from his throne. National piety is the only assurance of national perpetuity, and national piety is the most effective expression of national thanksgiving. So long as this Ark of the Covenant, our Republic, is cherished as a sacred institution, so long our name shall glow, our fame shall shine.

Outlook Bright

"There are those who speak of the church with a tear in the eye and a sigh in the breast. They see no sun in the future, but all is swallowed up in murky night. These prophets of evil see the future dripping with blood, society robed in rags and dwelling in Golgotha midnight. Right is on the scaffold and wrong is on the throne. But such prophets are not the messengers of God. That we are in a period of theological unrest is true, but it is the struggle of truth for supremacy. We are not in the least discouraged. The religious life of our people today is deeper and wider than ever before. The ratio of Christians to our population has grown during the last quarter of a century. The church is giving more to missions, more to education, more to philanthropy than ever in her history. More wealth is in the hands of liberal, consecrated men than ever in the past. Every day we hear and heed the Macedonian cry from near and far; 'Come over and help us.'

Signs of Zeal

"Religious assemblies, congresses, conferences and conventions are signs of new life and zeal. The trend of the times is not, as many believe, toward the unorthodox, but toward a clear insight into and a firmer hold upon the eternal verities of God. In the work of evangelization we accomplished more in the last eighty years of the just departed century than we did in all the previous centuries combined. And now there are signs of a great, wide-sweeping revival that will touch every portion of our national domain. We have great reason to rejoice and give thanks this day to the Head of the Church and the Chief Executive of all the nations.

"We thank Thee, O God, for all Thy loving kindnesses and tender mercies, but we thank Thee most of all for thankful hearts.

"We thank Thee for Thy guiding

W. A. Huffman Jr. Killed in Railroad Accident in Mexico

Report of the killing by a railroad accident in Mexico of W. A. Huffman Jr., son of the late Walter A. Huffman of this city, a few days ago, mention of which was made in The Telegram Wednesday, has been verified by a dispatch from El Paso.

SORES-ULCERS

THE BLOOD DISEASED SYSTEM DISORDERED

When a Sore or Ulcer is slow in healing it is the best evidence of a diseased condition of the blood and a disordered system. They show that the bodily impurities, which should pass off through the natural channels of nature, are being retained in the system from some cause. The blood absorbing the waste matters becomes steeped in poison which finds an outlet through the Sore or Ulcer, keeping it inflamed, painful and festering. As the blood constantly discharges its poison into these places, they eat deeper into the surrounding flesh and tissues, growing larger and more offensive in spite of all the sufferer can do, until the entire health is affected. Washes, salves, powders and such treatment are desirable for the reason that they are cleansing and also help to relieve the pain, but they are in no way curative. The blood is filled with poison, and until it is removed the sore cannot heal. S. S. S. is the only cure for these evidences of impure blood. It goes down to the roots of the trouble and cleanses the circulation of all poisons and impurities. S. S. S. enriches the blood and reinvigorates the different members of the body so that the impurities and waste matters can pass off as nature intended. Then the discharge ceases, the sore scabs over, new flesh is formed, and the place heals permanently. Book on Sores and Ulcers and any medical advice you need without charge.

RECORD OF PRESENT FOOTBALL SEASON PRESENTS APPALLING LIST OF CASUALTIES

Seventy-one recorded deaths in the list of football fatalities in the past five years. Thirteen deaths in this season's record, but it will probably be increased, as there are half a dozen players in hospitals so badly injured that death may ensue at any time.

Seventy-eight accidents of a serious nature happened on the gridiron this season, according to the newspaper reports, exclusive of minor injuries, such as wrenched knees, torn ligaments, dislocated arms and turned ankles. The deaths by years for the twentieth century are as follows:

Table with 2 columns: Year (1901-1905) and Number of Deaths (7, 15, 14, 13, 13)

The deaths for 1905 were almost exclusively confined to members of high schools or small college teams. The list is as follows:

James Edward Bryant, member Canon City, Colo., high school team; killed in game with Florence, Colo., high school, Oct. 19.

Miss Bernadotte Decker, aged 18, killed in game at Williamamie, Oct. 22.

John C. Dondoro, Jewett City, Conn.; killed in game at Williamamie, Oct. 22.

G. C. Ficken, member of Junior team Southern Athletic Club, New Orleans; injured in game with Queen and Crescent eleven, Nov. 19, died on following day.

Horatio T. Knight, member of 1905 team at Phillips-Exeter Academy; died Nov. 9, from spinal meningitis, superinduced by injuries received in a game Nov. 4.

John Meehan, Monterey, Cal., member of Fifteenth United States Infantry team; back broken in game with Leland Stanford University eleven, Nov. 4; died Nov. 10.

Herman G. Norgaard, member Council Bluffs, Iowa, high school team; died Nov. 10 from injuries to the brain received in a game at Harlan, Iowa, Oct. 28.

James Squires, Altam, Ill., high school team; died Nov. 8 from injuries received in a game with East St. Louis high school, Oct. 21.

John S. Summerhill, Franklin College, Chester, Pa.; kicked in stomach during game Oct. 8; died soon afterward.

Clarence Van Bokkaden, aged 17, member Santa Clara, Cal., high school team; killed Nov. 4 in game with San Jose high school team.

Leslie Wise, 14 years old, member high school football team Milwaukee; killed Nov. 4, piece of wood struck and penetrated brain through right nostril when he was crushed beneath mass of other players.

Vernon Wise, Oak Park, Ill., aged 17 years, member high school; hurt in game with Hyde Park high school; died Nov. 2.

In nearly every instance the deaths have led to the abandonment of football by high schools and smaller colleges to which the victims belonged. Among the other gridiron victims who may forfeit their lives as the result of injuries inflicted during games are Scott Kerr, member of the Princeton Athletic Club, Sharon, Pa., who was terribly crushed in a game with a "scrub" team at New Castle; Homer Gibson, high school boy of Kansas City, Mo., whose collar bone was broken in a game at Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 18. His spine was also injured.

To show his courage Frank Simmons, a Denver high school boy, entered a game and was so badly hurt he will probably be a cripple for life. Guy Cameron of Shelby, Ohio, was kicked in the head during a game and his condition is still critical.

That the injuries are not solely confined to untrained youths is shown by the long list of men hurt in college games. Captain Hurley of Harvard was so badly hurt in a scrimmage Sept. 22 that for days it was thought his injuries were permanent. Captain Norcross of Michigan is probably out of the game for all time owing to an accident to his knee on Nov. 18. Mc-Nerney of Notre Dame was hurt Oct. 4 and played no more this season. Captain Fred McCreed of Lake Forest, Ill., college was hurt early in October and was out of the game two weeks.

In the game at Williamamie, Conn.

THIRTEEN DEATHS THE 1905 TOLL GRIDIRON GAME EXACTS

Oct. 22, when John Dondoro received injuries that cost him his life. His brother, Fred Dondoro, was kicked in the face and his left eyeball burst, causing the loss of the eye. Leo De Tray of the Chicago University may lose the sight of one eye as the result of being kicked in the face in the game with Northwestern, Nov. 18.

In a game played at Bridgeport, Conn., Oct. 22, James Burns, 16 years old, received a broken arm. Ed Siretta had four ribs broken and John O'Brien's hip was dislocated.

The claim is often made that injuries are sustained by boys and young men not in physical condition to play football; that the members of the college elevens, under careful training, are less liable to injury. As a general proposition this is true, but that skillfully coached and carefully trained players are not immune is shown in the following list of injuries sustained by players in well known colleges:

At Yale—Sam Morse, broken nose. At Harvard—Robert Bull, broken collar bone; Paul, broken collar bone; O'Brien, broken nose; Montgomery, badly wrenched knee; Nesmith, broken leg; Knowlton, ligaments torn in leg; Squires, broken thumb; McClatchie, broken rib.

At Princeton—H. Dillon, nose broken. At Pennsylvania—W. Hollenbeck, broken leg; G. W. Weeds, compound fracture of leg.

At Cornell—Captain Costello, broken hand. At Columbia—Post, broken arm; Muir, shoulder dislocated; Duncan H. Browne, collar bone broken.

At West Point—Garry, broken finger. At Carle—Larouque, broken rib; Hudson, broken nose.

At Wisconsin—Captain Vanderboom, broken arm. At Minnesota—Stafford, broken hand.

At other colleges—Eart Tietjen, New York University, broken jaw; Draper, Notre Dame, foot crushed; Silver, Notre Dame, shoulder dislocated; Koster, Oberlin, Ohio, college, hand broken; Snyder, Ursinus College, shoulder dislocated; Aber, Ursinus, collar bone broken; Gordon, Bethany, Pa., shoulder dislocated; Captain Conn, Lorain, Ohio, Athletic Association, two ribs broken; Captain Rousebush, Denison, Ohio, collar bone broken.

Edward Mynders, who played with the Elvira, Ohio, team, received injuries in a game Nov. 13 that made him a cripple for life. C. H. Montgomery is partially paralyzed from injuries received in a game at Richmond, Va., Oct. 6. In a game at Marshalltown, Iowa, on Nov. 11, Randall McLeod's intestines were ruptured and for weeks his life was despaired of. On Oct. 16 Sinclair Tomsey, son of wealthy Brooklyn parents, was so badly injured that he will be a cripple probably for life; his spine was wrenched, two ribs were broken and he suffered concussion of the brain. Edward Schoen of Indianapolis received internal injuries on Oct. 15 that incapacitated him from playing any more this season, and for a long time threatened to prove fatal.

While the crowd of over 500 stood on the side lines shivering in the cold, or warmed their toes and fingers around bonfires built at various points of the field, the Entre Nous and Fort Worth Light Weight football teams played one of the closest games that has ever been seen in this city. Had it not been a succession of fatal mistakes that were made by the Entre Nous players toward the close of the second half it is very probable that the score would have been 9 to 0. But football is a game where mistakes will happen and on that account the game was won by the Light Weights by a score of 6 to 0.

The game Thursday did not bring forth anything in the way of brilliant runs as there was not a single one of over ten yards. The tackling on both sides was good, the work of Schaubert and Pulliam of the Light Weights being especially noticeable. Time and again the runner on one side or the other would be thrown for a loss by someone breaking through and catching him before he was fairly started.

The first half was exceedingly close and the ball did not get over ten yards to either goal, even on kicks. During the entire half but five first downs were earned by both teams. The Entre Nous team made three of these in succession in the middle of the half and the other two were made by the Light Weights at the very close. The game which was the prettiest football that has been seen here for some time was spoiled to a great extent by the time that had to be taken out on account of the crowd pushing onto the field. Frequent time was also taken out in order to give the players a breathing spell.

The game started at 2:50 p. m., when the Light Weights kicked off to Baker, who ran the ball back 10 yards before being downed. The Entre Nous team started a line plunging game immediately and on the first play the runner was thrown for a loss. The second play resulted the same way and then the ball was kicked down the field for a good distance. During the entire half the ball was around the middle of the field, neither side being able to gain more than a yard at a time.

In the second failure to take advantage of a chance lost the Entre Nous team the only chance to score. Entre Nous kicked off and the ball was downed on the 20-yard line. The Light Weights instead of kicking the ball tried to rush it and lost it on downs in front of their own goal. Then after two unsuccessful attempts to gain, the signal was given for a third attempt with four yards to go, when the ball was directly in front of the goal and the chance for a field goal was as good as made. Instead of the ball being kicked, the Light Weights on downs and they immediately kicked it out of danger.

Shortly after this the Light Weights got the ball in the middle of the field and kicked it well down toward the west goal. The ball passing over the heads of the men playing back and quarterback Baker finally managed to capture it. Instead of returning with it he chose to return the punt with the result that in his hurry he sent it only five yards and the Light Weights had five yards and the line. Connelly nudged five yards outside of tackle and then on the next play a fumble lost the opportunity to score and Adams sent the ball well back toward the middle of the field. The kick was returned and this time Baker dropped the ball. Quick as a flash, Right End Schaubert dived for it and it was again the Light Weights' ball a few yards from the goal.

This time care was taken that no fumbles were made. Griffin cut down the six yards necessary for a touchdown to three, and then Connelly took down another. With third down and a

EXCITING GAME WON BY SCORE 6-0

Entre Nous Die Hard in Game With Lightweights

VARSITY ELEVEN DEFEATS FARMERS

Agricultural and Mechanical College Fails to Score

Special to The Telegram. AUSTIN, Texas, Dec. 1.—University of Texas defeated the Agricultural and Mechanical team here Thanksgiving Day by the score of 17 to 0 before the largest crowd ever witnessing a game on University field. The Varsity team outplayed the visitors all the way through the game, but the defense put up by the Agricultural and Mechanical College players when near their own goal line was the best ever seen here. Several times the Texas team was prevented from scoring after carrying the ball right up to the goal line. The Texas goal was never in danger.

The feature of the game was the playing of Blocker at quarterback for the Texas team. It was expected that on account of injuries he would be unable to play, but the game that he put up was the most sensational that has been seen here for a long time. His skill in running the team was shown in the way that the plays selected went through. His work on returning punts was especially spectacular, as time and again he would elude the grasp of the opposing ends and make good gains. Kelley, the Indian quarter for Agricultural and Mechanical College, also played a remarkable game.

Special to The Telegram. STEPHENVILLE, Texas, Dec. 1.—The Fort Worth Elks lost to Stephenville at Stephenville Thanksgiving Day after a very close game, in which neither side could make a touchdown. The game was decided by a goal from field, which was made by the Stephenville team toward the close of the second half. The Elks outweighed their opponents, but the difference in weight was not enough to enable them to win.

When the time came for the try for goal from the field the large crowd which was present was rather surprised, as a field goal has never been scored in a game at Stephenville before. As the ball cleared the goal posts a tremendous cheer went up from the spectators, who realized what had happened.

The Fort Worth Elks put up a fine game and deserved to win, but the playing of both teams was a little off on account of the cold weather, which chilled the men through every time that time was taken out. The line-up: Fort Worth Elks—Right end, Watson; right tackle, McKay; right guard, Cheatham; center, Alva; left guard, Hoo; left tackle, Vores; left end, Hall; quarter, J. Hyman; right half, Spencer; left half, Walker; fullback, R. Hyman.

Special to The Telegram. CHICAGO, Ill., Dec. 1.—For the first time in five years the Michigan team tasted the dregs of defeat yesterday and Chicago is now the undisputed champion of the west. Not once in all the time that Yost has reigned supreme at Michigan has his team failed to score in a game before and every time the game has resulted in a victory. Today, however, Michigan had to admit that the better team had won, although the score came in an unexpected way. The Michigan offense, of which so much has been said, could not do anything with the defense that Stagg had prepared.

The game soon settled into a punting contest between Eckersall and Garrels, as neither team could score. The score came in the second half, when Eckersall punted to the goal line. Clark caught the ball while standing under the goal posts, and after shaking off two of the Maroon tacklers he was tackled by Catlin and thrown over the line for a safety, making the score 2 to 0 in favor of Chicago.

Eckersall had only one chance for a goal from the field and that failed. Chicago outplayed Michigan all the time.

THE METEOR GETS IN LATE Wreck in Territory Delays Passengers Seven Hours

The Frisco Meteor, due to reach Fort Worth at 5:05 o'clock last evening, did not arrive until 1 o'clock this morning. The delay was due to the fact that the tender of the engine jumped the track near Ravia, L. T., yesterday. This accident caused several coaches to jump the track. They came against a high embankment, which fact no doubt saved a serious casualty. A few passengers were slightly cut up. No one was seriously hurt.

Arkansas Mayor Sees Good Signs in Panther City

Mayor White of Pine Bluff, Ark., is spending a short time in Fort Worth for the benefit of his health. He is very much impressed with this city and says that it has every indication of being a progressive and enterprising city. Referring to the healthy conditions on all sides, the Arkansas mayor said that Fort Worth was certainly blessed with having had good men at the head of municipal affairs. He spoke especially of the well-paved business streets.

Mayor White said that he was very much impressed with Fort Worth, which, he says, one of the best towns in the south. He is a guest at the Worth hotel.

OF INTEREST TO THE CATTLEMEN

FOUND THEM EASY

CHICAGO, Ill., Dec. 1.—Samuel N. Hoffheimer, a nephew of Nelson Morris, the millionaire packer, was arrested here tonight, charged with having swindled S. W. Strauss & Co., mortgage brokers, 154 La Salle street, out of $255,000. Being unable to furnish bonds fixed at $150,000 by Justice Cochran, who issued the warrants for his arrest, Hoffheimer was taken to the Cook county jail.

The alleged swindle operated by Hoffheimer extends over a period of eighteen months. His relations with the Morris family, it is said, made it possible for Hoffheimer to carry out the scheme for such a long period without detection. Two years ago, while the young man was carrying on a small commission business in buying and selling cattle feed, it is alleged he went to S. W. Strauss & Co. and explained that he was buying large quantities of cotton seed and cotton bolls, which he disposed of to Nelson Morris & Co.

In order to carry out the business, it is alleged, he explained that a large amount of money was necessary to take up the drafts which were made daily on him for the feed and to take up the bills of lading made with the shipments. He, it is said, requested S. W. Strauss & Co. to finance the deals, which they agreed to do.

From that time on, it is alleged, Hoffheimer delivered to Strauss & Co. daily lists of car loads of cattle feed which he said he had bought from various concerns, and had sold to Nelson Morris & Co. He would obtain checks for the amount of his purchases from S. W. Strauss & Co., and at the same time he would deliver to the bankers a draft on Nelson Morris & Co. for the amount for which he had informed them he had sold the feed to the packing company. The draft taken by the bankers was deposited in their banks in the usual course of their business.

At the beginning, according to the bankers, Hoffheimer carried on only small sales, but the amounts of the transactions grew, so that sales to Hoffheimer amounted to more than $150,000 a day. Until the first of this month the supposed sales continued, and then it was learned, it is said, that all the sales were fictitious. Instead of taking up the drafts which he had sold, Hoffheimer took up the drafts which he gave to S. W. Strauss & Co. against Nelson Morris & Co. In that way he continued from day to day, increasing his supposed sales and taking up the larger drafts against the packing company with the larger checks given him by the bankers each following day, making a small gain each day on the use of the bankers' money.

Knowledge of the drafts did not reach the packing company until Nov. 1, when Nelson Morris accidentally discovered one check while it was in the bank at the stock yards. An investigation followed, and Hoffheimer is alleged to have made a complete confession to Strauss of his operations, admitting that for eighteen months he had been carrying on the scheme which had made him a living and at the close had netted him $255,000, the amount of the check received from the banking concern to take care of the day's business.

Hoffheimer declares he has lost the money in investments. He will be given a hearing before Justice Cochran Dec. 5.

SPORTING SALAD

California ring followers who are watching the preliminary work of Fitzsimmons and O'Brien for their match at Colma, Dec. 20, have picked O'Brien as the winner, and will lay their money on the Philadelphia. Old Fitz is striving hard to get his hands and feet in condition, but is having considerable trouble in doing so.

The pick among the European stars has arrived at New York for the bicycle races which begin at Madison Square Garden Dec. 4. The foreign teams include Gougoltz and Vanoni, the French-Italian team; Gerslinger and Gussat, the French team; Troussier and Deoot, French team; Vanderstuyt and Stot, the Belgian team, and Hall, who has no mate yet.

Six Wisconsin veterans will leave the football team at the end of this season—Remp, Bertke, Bush, Vanderboon, Findlay and Donovan. The proposal to drop one of the big games next season's meeting with great favor, and it is almost assured that Wisconsin will not play with Minnesota in 1906.

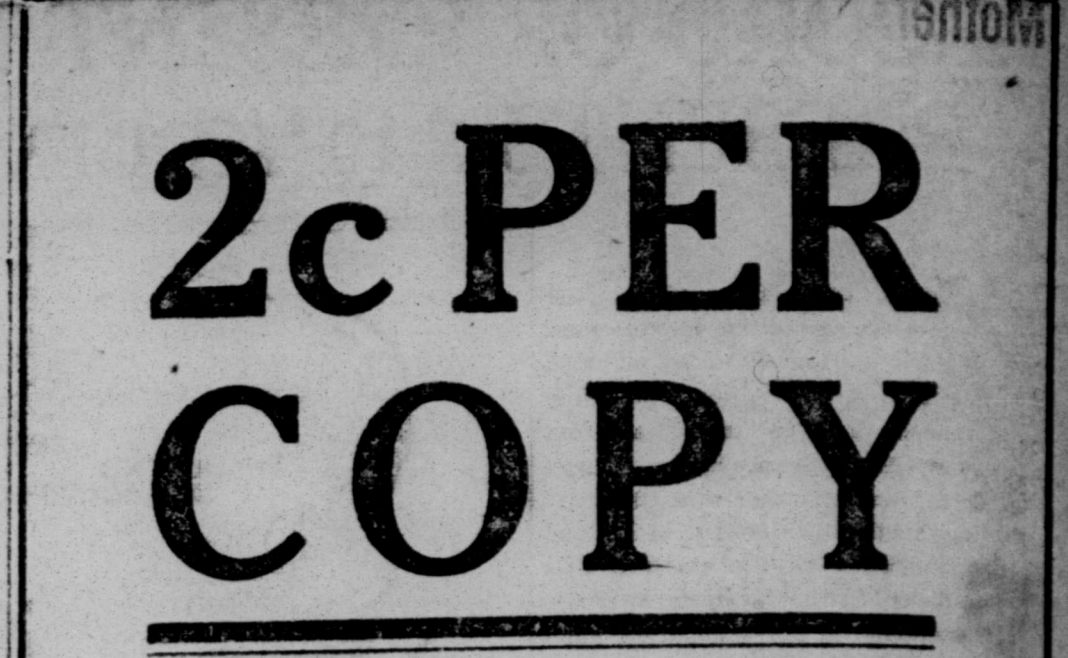

The signing of Third Baseman Chas. Babb of Brooklyn to manage the Memphis team in the Southern League assures the Tennessee town of an aggressive player for the position.

George Siler, the occasional referee of Chicago, is having a dreadful time all by himself arguing the question of who was the first Queensberry champion of the ring. He has proven to his own satisfaction that it was neither Sullivan, Corbett, Fitzsimmons or Slavin, and so the public ought to be satisfied—and continue in the belief that nearly all of these men at one time or another held the championship honor.

One of the disheartening features of the meeting between the army and navy football teams next Saturday will be this chorus of a song the Middles will hurl at their army opponents: "Army mule, army mule, You can kick and balk and bray, But football you cannot play, Army mule, army mule, Haw-he, haw-he, haw-he, haw-he, Army mule."

Young Theodore Roosevelt having recovered from his New York newspaper injuries, which consisted of a broken nose, a torn ear, a flattened chest, a wrenched ankle, a broken neck, a few displaced ribs, a discolored eye and some minor injuries, he can now settle down to his studies with the diligence that characterizes the Roosevelt family. How he escaped being killed by the New York newspapers is one of the wonders of the football season.

Pacific coast fight fans will see two good bouts on Dec. 20—O'Brien and Fitzsimmons at Colma and Aurelia Herrera and Kid Herman at Los Angeles. Herrera and Herman will go twenty rounds at catchweights, a fewer changes in the personnel of his team next season than any other manager in the National League. McGraw believes the men who won the pennant still overtop any of the youngsters coming up from the ranks of the minors, and that it is better to depend on seasoned material than take chances with the uncertain talent to be secured by way of the draft.

TEXAS FAVORS RECIPROCITY

W. A. Harris, just back from a trip in Texas, says the southern ranchers and cattlemen, regardless of political affiliation, generally favor reciprocity that will afford better outlet for the products of American farms through foreign countries that need them, and which have many manufactured commodities that American consumers need in exchange for them.

He met the ranchers at the big annual fair at San Antonio and found them making great progress in breeding up their herds, some being shown at the fair that would make a creditable showing in the north. "I find the country in general in favor of granting concessions in the tariff on hides and any other products that will insure better trade relations abroad," said Colonel Harris.—Chicago Drivers' Journal.

FOUR MURDER TRIALS

Hill County Court Has Important Cases For Trial

HILLSBORO, Texas, Dec. 1.—There is to be tried at the present term of the district court at this place four important cases for murder. They are C. F. Kent, charged with killing Sam Lawrence at Aquilla, Sept. 13, 1905; set for Monday, Dec. 4. Jack Early and Harmon Hoth, charged with killing Deputy Marshal J. T. Calloway at Mount Pleasant, Oct. 24, 1905; set for Monday, Dec. 3, and Thursday, Dec. 14, respectively. And J. L. Dial, charged with killing Charles Hudnall, near Abbott, in June, 1904; set for Monday, Dec. 18. Special venues have been ordered in each case.

BREWSTER COUNTY CONDITIONS

S. R. Guthrie of Alpine, who has been down two or three days from Alpine, will go back today. He has divided his time equally since he has been here, telling about what a good time he has been having and what a great cow country Brewster county is. He was telling a group of cowmen at the Menzer yesterday that the grass, water and altitude out there produced more delicious beef than anything raised anywhere else, and as there were about a dozen men present who were convinced that they had the best ranches in the country, Mr. Guthrie found himself up against a proposition of having to prove it or be charged with leaving largely in hot air. As a consequence, W. J. Moore and a half dozen others have accepted an invitation to go out, take their friends and stalk some of the choicest cuts. They asked him if they would taste any of his beef, but he told them that they should have Brewster county beef, and that was all he had promised them. In discussing conditions out there more seriously, he said that the country and cattle were in better shape than they had been for years, but says the job wolves are a serious menace to the stock interests at present and the problem is to get rid of them.

"I THANK THE LORD!"

For the relief I got from Buckner's Arnica Salve. It cured my fearful running sores, which nothing else would heal, and from which I had suffered for five years. It is a marvelous healer for cuts, burns and wounds. Obtained at Wallick & Fielder's, Holland's Best Cross Pharmacy and Renfro Drug Company's drug stores. 25 cents.

Mothers Are Helped THEIR HEALTH RESTORED

Happiness of Thousands of Homes Due to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Mrs. Pinkham's Advice.

A devoted mother seems to listen to every call of duty excepting the supreme one that tells her to guard her health, and before she realizes it some derangement of the female organs has manifested itself, and nervousness and irritability take the place of happiness and amiability.

Tired, nervous and irritable, the mother is unfit to care for her children, and her condition ruins the child's disposition and reacts upon herself. The mothers should not be blamed, as she no doubt is suffering with backache, headache, bearing-down pains or displacement, making life a burden. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the unfailing cure for this condition. It strengthens the female organs and permanently cures all displacements and irregularities. Such testimony as the following should convince women of its value: Dear Mrs. Pinkham: "I want to tell you how much good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done me. I suffered for eight years with ovarian troubles. I was nervous, tired and irritable, and it did not seem as though I could stand it any longer, as I had five children to care for. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was recommended and it has entirely cured me. I cannot thank you enough for your letter of advice and for what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me.—Mrs. Ph. Hoffman, 100 Elmwood Street, Brooklyn, N. Y." Mrs. Pinkham advises sick women free. Address Lynn, Mass.

MAY MANTON FASHIONS

5217 Empire Coat, 32 to 42 Bust.
EMPIRE COAT 5217.
The empire coat suits occasions of dress peculiarly well and is especially well liked for purposes of the sort. Illustrated is one of the most graceful and attractive models of the season, which successfully can be made from the chiffon broadcloths, from drap d'ete, from velvet and, indeed, from all seasonable materials that are sufficiently light in weight to be shirred, and which can be made adaptable for both daytime and evening wear. As shown, however, shell pink broadcloth is stitched with beading silk, trimmed with velvet and combined with a vest of pink satin richly embroidered, while the sleeves are finished with frills of net lace. The coat consists of a deep yoke or body portion to which the full skirt is attached, the trimming bands concealing the closing. The cape, which is an exceptionally graceful one, is made in four circular portions that are arranged over a foundation. The neck is finished with the collar and the vest is attached beneath. The sleeves are generously full and of the fashionable length. The closing of the vest is made in double breasted style, while the coat is buttoned over at the center front. The quantity of material required for the medium size is 8 3/4 yards 27, 6 yds. 44 or 5 yds. 52-inch, with 3/4 yd. of satin for the vest, 3/4 yard of velvet and 2 yards of lace to trim as illustrated. The pattern 5217 is cut in sizes for a 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42-inch bust measure.

CHAPTER II.
The intangible something that places the stamp of popular approval on one musical enterprise, while another equally artistic and as cleverly managed languishes in a condition of unindorsed greatness, remains one of the unsolved mysteries.

When a worker in the vineyard of music or the drama offers his choicest okay to the public, that fickle coquette may turn to the more ordinary and less succulent concord. And the worker and the public itself know not why. It is true, Diotti's fame had preceded him, but fame has preceded others and has not always been proof against financial disaster. All this preliminary—and it is but necessary to recall that on the evening of Dec. 12 Diotti made his initial bow in New York, to an audience that completely filled every available space in the Academy of Music—a representative audience, distinguished alike for beauty, wealth and discernment.

When the violinist appeared for his solo, he quietly acknowledged the cordial reception of the audience and immediately proceeded with the business of the evening. At a slight nod from him the conductor rapped attention, then launched the orchestra into the introduction of the concerto. Diotti's favorite, selected for the first number. As the violinist turned to the conductor he faced slightly to the left and in a direct line with the second proscenium box. His poise was admirable. He was handsome, with the olive-tinted warmth of his southern home—fairly tall, straight-limbed and lithe—a picture of poetic grace. His was the face of a man who trusted without reserve, the manner of one who believed implicitly, feeling that good was universal and evil accidental.

As the music grew louder and the orchestra approached the peroration of the preface to the coming solo, the violinist raised his head slowly. Suddenly his eyes met the gaze of the solitary occupant of the second proscenium box. His face flushed. He looked inquiringly, almost appealingly, at her. She sat immovable and serene, a face-framed vision in white.

It was she who, since he had met her, only the night before, held his very soul in thrall. He lifted his bow, tenderly placing it on the strings. Faintly came the first measures of the theme. The melody, noble, limpid and beautiful, floated in dreamy sway over the vast auditorium, and seemed to cast a mystic glamour over the player. As the final note of the first movement was dying away, the audience, awakening from its delicious trance, broke forth into spontaneous bravos.

Mildred Wallace, scrutinizing the program, merely drew her wrap closer about her shoulders and sat more erect. At the end of the concerto the applause was generous enough to satisfy the most exacting virtuoso. Diotti unquestionably had scored the greatest triumph of his career. But the lady in the box had remained silent and unaffected throughout. The poor fellow had seen only her during the time he played, and the mighty cheers that came from floor and galleries struck upon his ear like the echoes of mocking demons. Leaving the stage he hurried to his dressing room and sank into a chair. He had persuaded himself she should not be insensible to his genius, but the dying ashes of his hopes, his dreams, were smouldering, and in his despair came the thought: "I am not great enough for her. I am but a man; her consort should be a god. Her soul, untouched by human passion or human skill, demands the power of god-like genius to arouse it."

Music lovers crowded into his dressing room, enthusiastic in their praises. Cards conveying delicate compliments written in delicate chirography poured in upon him, but in vain he looked for some sign, some word from her. Quickly he left the theater and sought his hotel. A menacing cloud obscured the wintry moon. A clock sounded the midnight hour. He threw himself upon the bed and almost sobbed his thoughts, and their burden was: "I am not great enough for her. I am but a man. I am but a man!"

CHAPTER III.
Perkins called in the morning. Perkins was happy—Perkins was positively joyous, and Perkins was self-satisfied. The violinist had made a great hit. But Perkins, confiding in the white-coated dispenser who conducted his matin Martini, very dry, an hour before, said he regarded the success due as much to the management as to the artist. And Perkins believed it. Perkins usually took all the credit for a success, and with charming consistency placed all responsibility for failure on the shoulders of the hapless artist.

When Perkins entered Diotti's room he found the violinist heavy-eyed and dejected. "My dear Signor," he began, showing a large envelope bulging with newspaper clippings, "I have brought you the notices. They are quite the limit, I assure you. Nothing like them ever heard before—all tuned in the same key, as you musical fellows would say." Perkins enjoyed a glorious reputation with himself for bright sayings, which he always accompanied with a cock of the eye. The musician not showing any visible appreciation of the manager's metaphor, Perkins immediately proceeded to uncock his eye.

"Passed the box office coming up," continued this voluble enlightener; "nothing left but a few seats in the top gallery. We'll stand them on their heads tomorrow night—see if we don't." Then he handed the bursting envelopes of notices to Diotti, who listlessly put them on the table at his side. "Too tired to read, eh?" said Perkins, and then with the advance-agent instinct strong within him he selected a clipping, and touching the violinist on the shoulder: "Let me read this one to you. It is by Herr Totenkeller. He is a hard nut to crack, but he did himself proud this time. Great critic when he wants to be." Perkins cleared his throat and began. "Diotti combines tremendous feeling with equally tremendous technique. The entire audience was under the witchery of his art." Diotti slowly negated that statement with bowed head. "His tone is full, round and clear; his interpretation lends a story-telling charm to the music; for, while we drank deep at the fountain of exquisite melody, we saw sparkling within the waters the lights of Paradise. New York never has heard his equal. He stands alone, pre-eminent, an artistic giant."

"Now that's what I call great," said the impresario, dramatically, "when you hit Totenkeller that way you are good for all kinds of money." Perkins took his hat and cane and moved toward the door. The violinist arose and extended his hand wearily. "Good-day," came simultaneously; then "I'm off. We'll turn 'em away tomorrow; see if we don't!" Whereupon Perkins left Diotti alone in his misery.

CHAPTER IV.
It was the evening of the fourteenth. In front of the academy a strong-limbed and insistent tribe of gentry, known as ticket speculators, were reaping a rich harvest. They represented a beacon light of hope to many tardy patrons of the evening's entertainment, especially to the man who had forgotten his wife's injunction to "be sure to buy the tickets on the way down town, dear, and get them in the family circle, not too far back." This man's intentions were sincere, but his newspaper was unusually interesting that morning. He was deep in an article on the causes leading to matrimonial infidelities when his bus passed the Academy box office.

He was six blocks farther down town when he finished the article, only to find that it was a carefully worded advertisement for a new patent medicine, and of course he had not time to return. "Oh, well," said he, "I'll get them when I go up town tonight." But he did not. So with fear in his heart and a red-faced woman on his arm he approached the box office. "Not a seat left," sounded in his henpecked ears like the concluding words of the black-robed judge: "and may the Lord have mercy upon your soul." But a reprieve came, for one of the aforesaid beacon lights of hope rushed forward, saying: "I have two good seats, not far back, and only ten pieces." And the gentleman with fear in his heart and the red-faced woman on his arm passed in.

They saw the largest crowd in the history of the Academy. Every seat was occupied, every foot of standing room taken. Chairs were placed in the side aisles. The programs announced that it was the second appearance in America of Angelo Diotti, the renowned Tuscan violinist. The orchestra had perfunctorily ground out the overture to "Der Freischuetz," the baritone had stentoriously emitted "Die Posente," the soprano was working her way through the closing measures of the mad scene from "Lucia," and Diotti was number four on the program. The conductor stood beside his platform, ready to ascend as Diotti appeared. The audience, every ready to act when those on the stage cease that occupation, gave a splendid imitation of the historic scene at the Tower of Babel. Having accomplished this to its evident satisfaction, the audience proceeded, like the closing phrase of the "Goetterdaemmerung" Dead March, to become exceedingly quiet—then expectant.

This expectancy lasted fully three minutes, there were some impatient handclappings. A few persons whispered "Why is he late?" "Why doesn't he come?" "I wonder where Diotti is," and then came unmistakable signs of impatience. At his slight Perkins appeared, hesitatingly. Nervous and jerky, he walked to the center of the stage, and raised his hand begging silence. The audience was still.

"Ladies and gentlemen," he falteringly said, "Signor Diotti left his hotel at 7 o'clock and was driven to the academy. The call boy rapped at his dressing room, and not receiving a reply, opened the door to find the room empty. We have dispatched searchers in every direction and have sent out a police alarm. We fear some accident has befallen the signor. We ask your indulgence for the keen disappointment, and beg to say that your money will be refunded at the box office." Diotti had disappeared as completely as though the earth had swallowed him.

CHAPTER V.
My dearest sister: You doubtless were exceedingly mystified and troubled over the report that was flashed to Europe regarding my sudden disappearance on the eve of my second concert in New York. Fearing, sweet Francesca, that you might mourn me as dead, I sent the cablegram you received some weeks since, telling you to be of good heart and await my letter. To make my action thoroughly understood I must give you a record of what happened to me from the first day I arrived in America. I found a great interest manifested in my premiere, and so socially everything was done to make me happy.

Mrs. James Llewellyn, whom you no doubt remember, we met in Florence the winter of 18—, immediately after I reached New York, arranged a reception for me, which was elegant in the extreme. But from that night dates my misery. You ask her name?—Mildred Wallace. Tell me what she is like, I hear you say. Of graceful height, willowy and exquisitely molded, not over twenty-four, with the face of a Madonna; wondrous eyes of darkest blue, hair indescribable in its make of tawny color—in a word, the perfection of womanhood. In half an hour I was her abject slave, and proud in my serfdom. When I returned to my hotel that evening I could not sleep. Her image ever with me, she seemed to grow farther and farther apart—she nearer heaven, I nearer earth.

The next evening I gave my first and what I fear may prove my last concert in America. The vision of my dreams was there, radiant in rarest beauty. Singularly enough, she was in the direct line of my vision while I played. I saw only her, played but for her, and cast my soul at her feet. She sat indifferent and silent. "Cold?" you say. No! No! Francesca, not cold; superior to my poor efforts. I realized my limitations. I questioned my genius. When I returned to bow my acknowledgments for the most generous applause I have ever received, there was no sign on her part that I had interested her, either through my talent or by appeal to her curiosity. I hoped against hope that some word might come from her, but I was doomed to disappointment. The critics were fulsome in their praise and the public was lavish in its plaudits, but I was abjectly miserable. Another sleepless night and I was determined to see her. She received me most graciously, although I fear she thought my visit one of vanity-wounded vanity—and me petulant because of her lack of appreciation.

STOCKS

Special to The Telegram. NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—The entire line of the foreign market, the continued unfavorable news regarding the Russian situation and the expectation of an unfavorable bank statement tomorrow were the disturbing influences which had a depressing effect on stocks during the early session today, with the result that up to the noon hour the general market ruled rather irregular.

Heavy selling was in order and this connected with quite a volume of liquidation effected a decline of generous proportions. American Locomotive and Republic Iron and Steel were exceptions to the general rule, both of these issues showing substantial advances in the early trading.

There was an early effort to bring about a reaction in the Tennessee Coal and Iron and Copper shares, but after working up 2 1/2 and 1 1/2 points respectively, renewed selling was encountered and both issues sold off below last night's finals. Sales to noon 667,000 shares.

The afternoon session was dull and the general list continued weak. A covering movement in Tennessee Coal and Iron resulted in a complete reaction from the low point for that issue and the close showed a gain of over a point from Wednesday's finals. The balance of the list closed weak and practically at the low point of the day.

NEW YORK STOCKS. NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—Foreign markets were firm yesterday, notwithstanding the unfavorable developments in Russia, but this morning the foreign advices indicate an easier tone to the markets and doubtless an uneasiness over the result at Sepastopol. The outcome of the railroad rate bill to be introduced suggests some unfavorable developments from Washington in the near future.

NEW YORK STOCK QUOTATIONS. Special to The Telegram. NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—Stocks ranged in prices today on the New York Stock Exchange as follows:

PLAGUE AMONG JAPS. Black Death Reported Prevalent at Yokohama. SEATTLE, Dec. 1.—Bubonic Plague is raging in Yokohama according to officers of the steamship Dakota and possibly no more vessels will be given a clean bill of health until the scourge is wiped out.

GRAIN

Special to The Telegram. CHICAGO, Ill., Dec. 1.—Wheat ruled rather steady today, with a tendency to firmness in evidence during the early trading. The Russian situation influenced sentiment to some extent and there was buying throughout the day, and at one time the May option showed a gain of 1/2, but a recession in the late trading carried prices down and the close was unchanged from Thursday's finals. Local receipts 20 cars, against 16 last year.

Modern Miller today says: "The absence of the Hessian fly in the winter wheat crop seeded this fall has been commented upon from time to time. Recently, however, a statement that eggs of this insect have been discovered in the winter wheat crop of Tennessee led to an investigation. The returns show that Hessian fly eggs are prevalent in wheat in the western half of Tennessee, the remainder of the state being immune. The crop is generally said to be doing well."

NEW ORLEANS COTTON. NEW ORLEANS, La., Dec. 1.—Spot cotton steady and 1-8c lower, at 11 3/8c, with sales of 450 bales and 600 f. o. b.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 1.—Swanson cables: "The market was affected unfavorably in anticipation of a large bureau report."

REPUBLICAN CANDIDATE SAYS HE'LL NOT BE INFLUENCED. NEW YORK, Dec. 1.—Herbert Parsons, candidate for president of the republican county committee, issued a statement early today specifically repudiating all bosses.

BRIDE OF FOUR DAYS. Enjoins Her Husband from Drawing His Money Out of the Bank. MANSFIELD, Ohio, Dec. 1.—Mrs. Fanny Abel, a bride of four days, who married William Abel, a farmer, living near Nankin, Ashland county, today sued for alimony on the ground that he deserted her and refused to pay off a $500 mortgage on her home, that being one of the considerations on which she married him.
