Floyd Folk Fare Fine

Floyd County residents as a whole are in better shape, financially, than they were 15 years ago, the records show, despite the three major recessions that occurred during the period.

As in every other part of the nation, they have had to cope with steadily rising prices for goods and services. Their cost of living climbed to new heights, as a result.

The bright side of the picture, however, is that their incomes went up at a faster rate than their costs, except during times of depression, leaving them with more discretionary cash to spend after taking care of their normal needs.

In general, according to Bureau of Labor Statistics figures, it takes close to $18 to buy what could have been bought for $10 in 1960. The extent of which earnings exceeded this rate of inflation is a measure of the gains that were made since then.

In Floyd County, personal income rose to a record level, as indicated by the market research reports covering the period. For the average local household, it went from $6,285 in 1960 to $11,066 at the beginning of last year.

In part, the better incomes reflect the fact that wages and salaries moved upward in tandem, more or less, with living costs.

Also contributing to the rise was the massive movement of married women out of the home and into the job market. The extra paychecks enabled many families to upgrade their standard of living.

The added purchasing power showed up in the amount spent in Floyd County's retail stores. It rose from a total of $13,633,000 in 1960, to the $18,319,000 figure reported last year.

According to a study by the Conference Board, the average American family has more real spendable income at its disposal today, after providing for the necessities, than it did in 1960.

As a result, its outlays for TV sets, cars, sporting goods, toys and appliances, adjusted for price changes, are up sharply since then.

Consumer Debt $1,650 Per Family In Floyd County

NEW YORK. —To what extent have Floyd County residents been utilizing the installment credit available to them in their recent stepped-up spending for consumer goods?

How large is their debt load, relative to income, and how well are they managing it?

As in other parts of the country, there was an upturn in consumer spending in recent months, especially in December, causing the debt load to expand considerably.

From the standpoint of business, this was a good sign. It was a solid indicator of an economy that was on the rise. People were again in the marketplace for new cars, washing machines, furniture, refrigerators and other costly goods and services.

Because most of it was bought on credit, as usual, the increase in the debt load reflects the increase in consumer buying.

Nationally, according to figures from the Federal Reserve Board, consumer credit at the beginning of the year was at a three-year high, nearly $179 billion. It was 10 percent more than a year earlier. Auto buying was the chief reason.

In Floyd County, based upon average earnings and spending locally and upon the national findings, the amount of installment debt outstanding is estimated at $1,650 per family.

In general, the debt load is equivalent to about one-seventh of net disposable income.

That is the average. Some families have bigger obligations than that and some have much smaller ones. There is a small proportion that buys for cash and has no installment debt at all.

As for the Floyd County population as a whole, the amount of such debt outstanding at the beginning of the year was approximately $6,258,000, it is estimated.

The largest part of it consisted of loans for car purchases. Most of the rest was for other consumer buying, for personal loans and loans for home repair and modernization. Mortgage loans, charge accounts and single payment loans are not included. They do not fall into this category.

Homemaker Service Provides In Home Help

Homemaker service aides who will provide in-home help for elderly persons in 15 West Texas counties have become more professionally trained to serve the aging through a Texas Tech University-directed program.

The aides have participated in a 15-session training program conducted by the College of Home Economics and financed by a grant from the Administration on Aging (AOA) of the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Many of those who enrolled in the training course completed it satisfactorily, others began late and will require further training, according to Gail House, director of the Homemaker Service Aide Program (HSAP) and member of the Texas Tech Home Management faculty.

Approximately 50 homemaker service aides were enrolled. Fifteen family care providers employed by the Texas Department of Public Welfare also participated in the training. The Department made special arrangements with Texas Tech's College of Home Economics for its employees' participation.

The course covered first aid, personal care, psychology and physiology of aging, care of the terminally ill, food and nutrition, home needs, consumer education, rehabilitation and sources of assistance for the elderly.

HSAP provides quality, in-home care services of meal preparation, personal care, home management, escort service, visitation and companionship for the elderly, House said.

The aides work with elderly in Bailey, Cochran, Crosby, Dickens, Floyd, Garza, Hale, Hockley, King, Lamb, Lubbock, Lynn, Motley, Terry and Yoakum counties.

The program is designed to provide services to elderly persons in the community where they and the aides both live.

Persons over 60 are eligible to receive homemaker services, based on their ability to pay.

Karen Willis, Asst. Supervisor In Program

WTSU — A West Texas State University recreation major is one of six individuals selected from 116 applicants to be accepted in the Austin parks and recreation department summer intern program.

Karen Willis, a senior from Floydada, will be an assistant seasonal supervisor who will help coordinate different programs between parks, community centers and other recreation facilities.

Miss Willis has been working as community school director for the Canyon Community Education program, and assisted in the Canyon summer education program last year.

"We have one of the most flexible programs in the state," said Mrs. Mary Hill, WTSU, assistant physical education professor and recreation advisor. "It lets our student take a broad range of classes, such as art, speech, psychology and music. The key is that it has a humanistic approach. Some programs are only concerned with the maintenance of parks."

"I was an art major and I want to do something that I could be using my art, but I also wanted to work with people," Miss Willis said. "I like the opportunity to work in so many different areas and with so many different age groups."

"Recreation is a very rewarding field," she said, "one that will keep on growing."

Miss Willis is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Willis of Route 4, Floydada.

SPA IN LUBBOCK

Honors Senior Citizens

South Plains Office on Aging entertained a fifteen-county area of Senior Citizens May 11th in Fair Park Coliseum in Lubbock in conjunction with Senior Citizens' Month in Texas.

Some 446 area citizens registered for the days activities and picnic lunch.

The group was welcomed by Mayor Roy Bass on behalf of the city council. He told the Seniors they were builders of our country. Their stamina in overcoming hardships of the early day have left footprints on the High Plains. Today many government-supported agencies exist to aid Senior Citizens in solving their problems.

Each group attending elected its honorary citizen who was recognized and awarded a plaque of honorary merit by Judge Abernathy. Those from Floyd County receiving honorary mention were George McAda, Lockney, and J. C. Wester of Floydada. Those receiving plaques were Menard Field, Floydada, and Mrs. Bob Knox, Lockney.

Pictures were made of all

15 county honorees later to be arranged in a group plaque and placed in S.P.A.G. Building in Lubbock.

Floyd County was well represented with 46 attending.

Entertainment after lunch consisted of group singing from Lockney led by George McAda; square dancing, and speech making by Menard Field.

Pioneer Reunion Set At Plainview Next Saturday

The theme, "Pioneers — Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow," has been chosen for the 49th Pioneer Round-Up to be held in Plainview, Saturday, May 21st. Miss Judy Smith, president of the sponsoring organization, Plainview Business and Professional Women's Club, stated that all activities will be held in the Hale County Agriculture Center and will have the entire facilities there while the Plainview Band Parents Carnival will be held in another location.

The reception beginning at 10 a.m. at the Hale County Agriculture Center in Plainview, is a big feature and is a time when the real "old-timers" get together to reminisce and exchange stories of the past. Mrs. Fannie Mae Green, chairman of this committee and her assistants are expecting many pioneers from near and afar to arrive soon after 10.

One of the few remaining parades in Plainview will be staged at 2:30 p.m. originating at the Santa Fe Depot on north Broadway. Parade will move south on Broadway to the American Legion Hall where it will disband.

Durward Lynch will be parade marshal. The color guard will also head the parade and the Plainview bands will march. Some bands will march. Some floats have already been entered and Mrs. Jan Tye, chairman of the parade committee, stated additional floats are welcome on that date. Antique cars, riding clubs, miscellaneous riders including the Texas Tech Red Raider for 1977-78 are some of the other attractions scheduled for the parade. Winners will be announced at the night program.

The "Country Store" and concessions will be open all day at the Hale County Agriculture Center and Mrs. Edna Looper and Mrs. Ruth Renegar are the chairmen. Sandwiches, pies and cakes will be available at lunch time. Also a bake sale will be included. A special item this year will be a drawing of a hand crocheted afghan by president Judy Smith. All proceeds from this drawing go to the scholarship fund given by the Plainview BPW Club to a Plainview High School senior girl.

The evening activities will also be held in the Hale County Agriculture Center. From 6 to 8 p.m. the chuck wagon supper will be served "Take-out" plates will also be available. The meal will consist of a son-of-a-gun, barbecue, sour dough biscuits and all the trimmings. Mrs. Opal Strother, chairman of the Foods Committee, gives assurance that plenty of food is being planned for and that this year the members of the BPW Club will prepare the food and assist in the cooking. The club members will "rock the beans" on Tuesday afternoon with the cooking beginning early Saturday morning.

The program beginning at 8 p.m. will feature Zaida Ellison, country-western vocalist of Dimmitt.

Following the meal the reigning Pioneer Woman of the Plains, Mrs. Lula Mae Waller, Plainview, will relinquish her title to the new honoree. Prizes will be awarded to the couple who have been married the longest, the oldest pioneer present and to the pioneer (over 60) traveling the farthest distance to attend the Round-Up.

The square dance will conclude the Pioneer Round-Up again this year. Mrs. Helen Pemberton, chairman of the committee, has announced that Roy Johnson of Amarillo, will be the caller. She stated that all who like to square dance, waltz, polka and participate in other couple dances are invited to do so. NEWS 'N' NOTES

(by Sharon Hillis)

Women's special problems with high blood pressure (hypertension) make them prime targets for its dangerous threats—especially during pregnancy.

High blood pressure is a disease which may lead to crippling or killing stroke, heart disease and kidney failure. Currently 23 million Americans have high blood pressure.

Pregnancy is a time that women who have never had high blood pressure may develop it, according to statistics. So it's important for both the mother and her developing baby that the pressure remain in the normal range as pregnancy progresses.

If pressure gets too high, blood vessels may be constricted—and that would seriously reduce the blood supply from mother to baby.

Sometimes blood pressure will return to normal after delivery—but if it does not, you should follow your doctor's advice and treatment for controlling it.

During May—National High Blood Pressure Month—women are urged to begin having blood pressure checked regularly—and to make sure the entire family, even young children, have their blood pressure checked.

ICIENCY
A clean, well-maintained air conditioner means more efficient cooling—and comfort for the family.

Regular inspection and cleaning of filters and grills in home air conditioner units keeps the house cooler—and saves fuel.

Filters are traps for the almost invisible impurities in the air and regularly build up an accumulation of dirt.

Air conditioner filters in most units—and those in older buildings—require vacuuming and warm-water washing monthly. Shake off excess water, dry and replace filter.

An alternative to that is the disposable filter—available in various sizes, usually easy to change, and inexpensive.

New homes—or recently remodeled homes—may need more frequent filter changes, or cleanings, during the first cooling season, because of extra dust in the system.

For cleaning room grills, use a soft cloth, mild soap and warm water—not waxes or cleaners.

If the system seems sluggish after cleaning, call a service man certified by the manufacturer of the air conditioner—or an electrician.

Since cleaning filters and grills is relatively simple, someone in the family should be responsible for giving a frequent check.

More cooling-cleaner homes—save energy.

Water board delays seeding decision

By CARROLL WILSON

The Texas Water Development Board postponed Friday the issuance of weather modification permits to two South Plains cloud-seeding firms.

"We won this round," said Nolon Henson of Randall County, chairman of the 1000-member Citizens for Natural Weather. "It's the first good news we've had on this deal."

Henson told The News Saturday the water board postponed its decision on issuing permits for weather modification activities to Plains Weather Improvement Association and Atmospheric, Inc., until a June 13 meeting.

Henson said the board asked representatives of the two firms, which have proposed to seed clouds to stop hail over most of the Southern Panhandle, to explain how they comply with Texas law which requires that cloud-seeding activities be conducted so as not to substantially alter weather patterns.

If the decision is postponed to June 13, the decision might fall within the purview of a new state law Henson and his group have been fighting for in the legislative session now underway in Austin.

The law, which passed out of a Senate committee last Wednesday, would require that residents of areas over which cloud-seeding was proposed be allowed to vote for or against such activity.

Henson said the water board's attitude Friday in Austin was such that he felt the board would not have granted permits to the two firms had the decision been made Friday.

Henson and other Randall County area farmers have been fighting the weather modification firms for three years, contending that the firms, in their efforts to reduce hail have also reduced rainfall in the weather modification areas.

An effort to prevent the firms from obtaining permits failed last year and the year before.

Henson was accompanied to Austin by the mayor of Tulia and a representative of the McKenzie Water Authority, as well as several farmers from Happy. In other developments last week, State Senator Kent Hance, who is carrying the cloud-seeding legislation in the Senate, called on area residents to stop sending letters to senators concerning the bill.

"I'm trying to help them and they're really hurting the cause," Sen. Kent Hance of Lubbock told The News. Hance urged area residents to discontinue a mail campaign urging passage of his bill and condemning senators who don't support the measure.

"You get more with honey than you do with vinegar," Hance said.

Hance said many correspondents have written form letters to each senator and many of the letters have been threatening political repercussions if the Hance legislation is not passed.

"They're only clouding the issue," he said. "They're alienating folks."

Hance said the bill, which would require an election in areas over which cloud-seeding is proposed in the future, passed through a Senate committee last Wednesday without objection.

He said he will try to have it brought before the full Senate this week for passage.

But, Hance said the recent three-day filibuster by one Senator could have an adverse effect on the legislation since only about three weeks remain in the current session.

Hance speculated that the filibuster may have killed 150-200 bills because of the loss of the three days.

The senator said he particularly resents several letters coming from area residents suggesting that Sen. Max Sherman of Amarillo has not supported the legislation.

He said Sherman had worked closely with him in obtaining passage of the bill.

"If Sherman continues to get nasty letters or criticism about this, I'll not even push the bill," he said.

Cotton Replanting Could Be Serious This Year

COLLEGE STATION—Texas cotton producers are able to get by with replanting cotton in some years, but this is not the year to give it a try, emphasizes a cotton specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Dr. Robert B. Metzger says that the consequences of replanting cotton this year are more severe than in past years due to a shortage of high quality seed. This shortage is being brought about by the increased cotton acreage along with the production of low quality seed in some areas last year. Texas cotton acreage is expected to be up about a million acres over 1976.

"Seed supplies of many recently developed varieties have been exhausted for several months," points out the cotton specialist. "Unless replanting is kept at a minimum, a critical shortage of good planting seed could develop. Any significant replanting could force producers to use lower quality seed and could limit their choices to less profitable varieties."

Except for the Rio Grande Valley, Gulf Coast and South

Texas areas, most of the state's cotton crop still remains to be planted.

To keep replanting and stand failures at a minimum, Metzger offers these suggestions:

- Avoid planting in cold soils below 60 degrees F.

- Avoid planting in excessively wet soils.

- Plant on a well prepared bed.

- Use systematic insecticides only with high quality seed.

- Keep seed out of direct contact with nitrogen, potassium and herbicides.

- Avoid planting too deep, especially with low germinating seed.

"Getting a good stand of cotton from the first planting should be an important goal for producers this year," contends Metzger, "due to the high cost of replanting and short supplies of high quality seed. Replanting will also cause producers to miss their optimum planting date and will reduce crop profits."

"Truly absurd is the man who never changes." Auguste Barthelmy

Soil Stewardship Week

COLLEGE STATION — Man is responsible for protecting and conserving soil, water and other natural resources provided by God. Emphasis on that awesome responsibility will be the highlight of Soil Stewardship Week, May 15-22.

Theme of this year's nationwide observance is "When We Care." "The theme is designed to help everyone examine his own motives and actions in the conservation of God's manifold gifts," points out Dr. B. L. Harris, soil and water use specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. The Extension Service is cooperating with the National Association of Conservation Districts and Soil and Water Conservation Districts throughout the state in the weeklong observance.

"At a time when pressures are growing regarding the use of natural resources, it is vital that we reflect on our dependence on God for all things," emphasizes Har-

More than 25 percent of the heat gain in most American homes is estimated to come through windows exposed to sunlight—and this can increase air conditioning bills and waste electricity.

A totally new system for cotton production and processing has been posed as one possible answer to the non-cellulosic component of "cotton dust" that is being blamed for a respiratory ailment called byssinosis in textile workers.

"The possibilities of such a concept loom even more important in the face of the recent proposal that stringent cotton dust standards be placed on cotton gins, compresses, cottonseed oil mills and others," notes Donald Johnson, Executive Vice President of Lubbock-based Plains Cotton Growers, Inc.

The new system, as envisioned by researchers at the Texas A&M Research and Extension Center, Lubbock, calls for a semi-closed capsule cotton that protects the lint and seed from foreign matter, plus revised harvesting and ginning procedures that will afford further protection.

Elmer Hudspeth, agricultural engineer with the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Agricultural Research Service at the Lubbock station, has submitted the idea to USDA's area director at College Station and will ask USDA for funding to implement all phases of the work.

Cotton breeder Dr. Lavon Ray of TAES already is looking at plants that will produce less trash in the material harvested. Some of his selections, along with exotic germ plasm being maintained and studied by other scientists, are said to be very encouraging, "and the chances for success of the total program are very high," states Hudspeth.

The TAES station at Lubbock already is renowned for its outstanding contribution in the development of stormproof cotton, mechanization and ginning innovations.

"I feel this total system, with adequate research, offers real possibilities for meeting dust and foreign matter standards, not only in gins but in textile mills as well," Hudspeth says.

Johnson, testifying before an OSHA hearing on proposed cotton dust standards in Lubbock May 10, stressed that the exact byssinosis-causing component of cotton dust is as yet unknown, and that reasonable and effective standards cannot be written to solve the byssinosis problem until the causative agent is identified.

"But we have no assurance that OSHA intends to be reasonable," Johnson comments, "so we would be foolish not to pursue the TAES and every other avenue to reducing the foreign matter in our cotton."

Senator Bentsen Discusses Social Security

People are contributing to the Social Security system right now without any idea of what benefits they will get when they retire. They can't even be sure that the system will have enough money to pay them what they are entitled to.

Over the next 50 to 75 years people who retire could receive benefits as high as 243 percent of their earnings before retirement. Clearly, this type of benefit—exceeding a worker's highest earnings—was never intended to be offered by the Social Security system.

The problem is a flaw in 1972 amendments which will ultimately cause Social Security benefits to increase much faster than the cost of living.

As the law now stands, the ratio between a worker's earnings and his projected Social Security benefits changes each year according to changes in the cost-of-living.

Benefits have been automatically tied to the cost-of-living. If it goes up, benefits do, too. If it goes down, they follow.

But the mechanism for determining changes in the cost-of-living is flawed.

Although the legislation works as it was meant to work now—and will continue to do so in the near future—it will eventually lead to wide discrepancies in the relationship between an individual's earnings before retirement and the Social Security benefits that person later receives.

If the flaws in this legislation are not corrected the tax needed to support such a system could be as high as 40 percent of this country's payroll, or in the alternative, the Social Security system would go bankrupt.

I have proposed legislation to help correct the problem by cutting the projected deficit in half. The trustees of the Social Security system confirm that my bill would stabilize the system by providing a stable relationship between earnings and benefits.

This legislation would have no effect on people who are already retired and receiving benefits. And it would not change the provision enacted in 1972 for automatic cost-of-living increases in benefits after retirement.

We must reassure the people of Texas and our nation that the Social Security system is working, and that it will remain financially strong.

My bill, which has the full support of the Federal Council on the Aging, is a vital step in that direction. As a member of the Finance Committee, I will be doing whatever work is necessary to insure its passage.

This legislation will improve the fiscal soundness of the Social Security trust funds, and insure that the Social Security system performs equitably over the long haul.

We must protect the future of a system in which we have all placed our trust.

Today one out of every seven Americans receives benefits from our Social Security system. And over 100 million Americans are paying the taxes that support it.

Crude Oil Production Declines

and was a retired paint contractor. He was a member of the Colonial Baptist Church.

Survivors include his wife, Mattie and three brothers, Charlie of Lubbock, Otto of San Antonio and Willie Lee of Kingsland.

DALLAS — Despite 12 months of production at or near the maximum effective recovery rate in nearly all of Texas' oil fields, the state's crude oil production last year declined for the fourth consecutive year.

The 1976 output of the nation's No. 1 oil producing state was almost 1.2-billion barrels and pushed the state's cumulative production since 1889 to just over 41.5-billion barrels. But last year's output was almost 32-million barrels below 1975 production and more than 111-million barrels below the all-time peak production year of 1972.

The following table shows the amount of yearly decline in recent Texas crude oil production:

Production (Barrels) and Loss From Previous Year (Barrels) are as follows:
1976, 1,179,221,092, 31,958,079; 1975, 1,211,

179,171, 40,605,785; 1975, 1,251,784,956 32,448,893; 1973, 1,284,233,849, 6,281,104; 1972, 1,290,514,953, —, totaling 111,293,861, or an average of 27,823,456

Jack S. Blanton, Houston, president of Dallas-based Texas Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Association, says that an acceptable national energy policy must acknowledge that the expense and production today has greatly increased the cost of replacing this oil. "Adequate prices and other incentives to encourage petroleum development must be forthcoming. Not only production, but reserves of one of Texas' most valuable natural resources have been dropping as each year we produce more oil than we find," says Blanton, an independent oil company and refinery executive.

Floyd County, which has had recorded production since 1952, last year produced 622 barrels of crude oil at the rate of two barrels per day. Production in 1976 boosted Floyd County's production total through the end of the year to 17,054 barrels.

In 1976, 17 counties produced more than 10-million barrels of crude oil, a decrease of three counties from 1975.

Use Anhydrous Ammonia With Care

Anhydrous ammonia is used extensively as a source of nitrogen. It can also be a source of danger if used carelessly, says Doyle Warren, county agent with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

An accident with the pressurized gas can kill or inflict injuries. Ammonia inflicts a dehydration or water-absorbing burn, and only water flushing in the eyes or on the skin can deter its effect. Flush for at least 15 minutes and do not apply ointments to the burn. Warren also urges farmers to take a quart container of water along when applying anhydrous ammonia.

Wear rubber gloves, chemical splash goggles and a face mask approved by the Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) when working with anhydrous ammonia, cautions Warren. Always wear clothing which covers the entire body and be certain to wear a full face mask when working around the nurse tank.

Be especially careful when filling the nurse tank and never leave the equipment during the filling operation, Warren advises. Also, stay clear of the bleeder since many eye injuries have resulted from facing the bleeder valve.

Farmers should check tank valves, hoses, safety equipment and other equipment continuously. Corroded and worn valves and tanks, along with dry rotting hoses, are dangerous. Failure of equipment is a major cause of accidents, notes Warren.

Federal standards covering design, construction location, installation and operation of anhydrous ammonia systems are in effect, and farmers should be familiar with them.

Congressman Mahon headed a list of dozens of persons speaking against the OSHA move.
