

American Agriculture Meeting In Floydada

American Agriculture will have a meeting in Floydada at the Massie Center Friday night at 7:30 p.m.

There will be a speaker who will also discuss about what the American Agriculture movement has accomplished to date, and plans for the future.

A farmer in this area who is interested about low farm product prices is invited and urged to attend.

LUBBOCK STRIKERS

Farmers from the Lubbock area literally surrounded Lubbock Tuesday on the By-Pass as over 1,000 vehicles made a ring of 27 miles with tractors and pickups. Crop duster planes also flew over the parading tractorcade.

About 2:30 p.m. they all headed for home...leaving as quietly as they had assembled.

The Lubbock tractorcade, which Hereford strike leader Mike McCathern said was staged to keep the farmers' problem in front of the public, was termed "a great success" by state strike officials.

"I think it's fantastic," McCathern, a main organizer of American Agriculture activities across the state, said. "Phase Three began a success, and hopefully Washington will have reacted favorably by the end of January (the end of the phase). If not, then there will most likely be a Phase Four."

Last Planned Phase

Tractorcades across the region Tuesday were the last planned Phase Three demonstrations for this area, according to Robert Mahagan, a Hale Center organizer, though strike leaders will continue to meet with government officials about their problems.

Wednesday, representatives of the striking farm group were scheduled to meet with Texas Atty. Gen. John Hill in several South Plains communities.

Lubbock police officials apparently expected more than the estimated 2,000 farmers who began moving toward the city about 8 a.m. Tuesday from outlying communities, some as far away as the New Mexico state line.

15 'Landslide' Moved Houses And Fences In County

For the land-slide, our house in McKin property that joined us with it," says Lavon Johnson of Johnson & Johnson Auto Parts.

"Landslide" was the word used in the survey to describe the shifting of the ground to the north in the 1915 survey.

The purpose of the survey was to determine the excess land in block C-9 into the 1915 survey.

Some of the previous surveys starting with established points, section lines and an excess of land was the block.

A controversy developed. One man shifted his line according to the survey because his new line was on the man to the north of the block. He took his old line fence down a mile of post holes according to the survey. (Putting down a mile of posts was hard work. Post holes were dug by tractor-powered post diggers in those days.) When he dug the next morning to put in wire, he found that someone had filled all the holes with dirt. He had to dig out each post hole with the diggers.

He moved our house to a location now marked by a 'lonesome tree' there by my mother. That was the other buildings that were with it have long since been removed," Johnson says.

The established point for the 1915 survey on block C-9 was a point on the peak.

After house with corrals and shed were moved from its position one mile from Lone Star to the section line at that time.

The first job I had was work in a barge in wheat cutting time. There was a wagon which had the 'header' low enough for the barge to convey wheat to it. The other was tall enough that the wheat was thrown over. At my position in the barge, I had to keep the wheat from falling down which was difficult because of wheat beard and because the wheat was dry and fluffy.

When the wagon was unloaded on the farm, it was thrashed later. These were left for a week before being moved because they went through a

There were six horses that pushed under while my dad stood on a platform behind the teams to guide the plow by a rudder wheel that worked on a rudder in a boat while turning the plow. When it was time to turn, the horses on the left were stopped and the other three while they pulled the header around."

Lavon Johnson now lives in Lockney where he operates Johnson and Johnson Auto Parts with his son Jerry as shop foreman.

"I'll tell you what started Johnson and Johnson Auto Parts. Hazel, my wife, and Lucille, my brother Ike's wife, put a little piggy bank on the Christmas tree and said, 'This is the beginning of Johnson and Johnson garage.'

"They did it because Ike and I had always planned on having one. We had been mechanics all our lives.

"I learned mechanics under a shade tree when I worked on an International Farmall and on a Ford tractor. Also, I operated a 1220 Rumley in breaking a lot of land around here."

The piggy bank Santa Claus saw their dream of a Johnson-Johnson garage become a reality.

The brothers bought the garage that was first operated by Ford and Busby and then by Hugh Counts and the Sams boys.

"When Ike and I opened there, we had 100 dollars to buy parts. Dad wanted to let us have a 1,000 dollars, but we were not sure we would make a success, so we refused his offer."

The Johnsons say they are not superstitious because they opened the garage on Friday and were brought 13 irrigation motors and so many Ford tractors they had to get Julian Roach, who liked working on Ford tractors, to help them. Julian could overhaul a tractor in a day-grind valves, install rings and "he didn't take coffee breaks."

Ike took ulcers. He said it was his lying to people that gave them to him. He would set a certain time for the owner to pick up a truck, tractor or pump. If he failed to have the motor ready at the time he had promised, whether for failure to get necessary parts or that he found the motor needed more work than he figured on, his ulcers would act up.

Ike's ulcers caused Johnson and Johnson to partnership another venture. They rented their mother's farm of 133 and one-third acres. Ike and his son, Tommy, have managed the farming which has grown to an 850 acre business.

"All of the mechanics in town began with us. We trained them. All of them are now in business for themselves. That is the way I like it. One said not long ago, 'All I know, I learned at Johnson's.' I am proud of having trained men. It helps the community."

Johnson and Johnson burned out in 1946 because of city sewer stop up. This pushed gasoline to ignite with a "burner" where we had a vat. Ever since we never leave it burning."

Johnson do not practice working on Sunday, but if someone comes for Jerry on Sunday, he goes.

"Naturally, I have learned all I know through actual experience, and it hasn't all been through working with machinery.

"I shifted from driving a combine for a man to feeding his 2800 sheep at Brownfield. Then he traded for Hi-Lonesome sheep ranch in Yeso, New Mexico.

"With a little help, one other man and I took care of 6,000 head of sheep and 500 head of cattle. Cattle was fed in the winter, but most of the time it was grass.

"If a sheep dies, you have to haul him off in a hurry, or the rest will run up and die with him," Johnson laughingly says. "There is always something to do when you deal with sheep. You have to trim the wool out of their eyes where they can see. Then an old sheep for no reason will not claim her lamb."

Considerable Johnson experience with machinery came from a job he had with Caterpillar tractors. A part of this experience was in Kansas during the dust storms.

"I lived in Kansas during the black blizzard days. I never saw the sun for 30 days because the air was full of dirt. When the wind quietened down, the air was still full of dirt. Before it could settle, the wind would begin again," he remembers.

He was then transferred to Montana and snow. There was one thing about changing to Montana. That "that fell there was clean."

Lavon, Jerry, two mechanics, a parts man and a clean-up man are the present Johnson and Johnson work force. The Johnson brothers still farm the land that was involved in the 1915 state survey.

'Horns Drop Two Games

The Lockney Longhorn basketball team lost a pair of decisions at the Childress tournament Friday and Saturday. The 'Horns fell to Childress 68-63 in the opening-round game and to Crowell 86-63 in the consolation contest.

The Lockney team was behind 19 points at one time in the encounter with Childress but fought back to within five points at the final buzzer. It was 34-20 Childress at halftime. Lockney scorers were Danny Clark, 21 points; Danny Riddley, 15; Howard Moore, nine; Jim Burt, seven; Aaron Wilson, five; Ereck Record, two; Dale Kidd, two.

Riddley was high-point man (20) for the 'Horns in their loss to Crowell, a highly-regarded Class-A team. Also contributing to the Longhorn cause were Moore (18), Clark (13), Billy Sesson (five), Joe Rodriguez (four) and Wilson (one).

Lady Horns Lose In Finals

Lockney High School girls finished second in the Childress basketball tournament Friday and Saturday. The Lady Horns defeated the host team 49-34 in the opener but lost to Crowell, 44-35, in the finals.

High-scoring Lockney forward Sheila Hrbacek sprained an ankle in the first quarter of the game with Childress but still led the Lady Horns scoring in the tourney, scoring 22 points in that game and 26 in the Crowell contest.

In the victory over Childress, Melinda Wilson scored 13 points and "...played extremely well..." coach Marsha Sharp said. Lockney's Stephanie Turner also cracked the double-figure mark with 10 points, and Bonita McDonald added four.

Lockney led Childress at the end of each quarter—11-5, 23-19, 36-28, and 49-34.

In what Sharp called "our first game of the year," the Lady Horns fell to Crowell in the tournament finals. Scoring for Lockney besides Hrbacek were Turner, five points; Wilson, three; McDonald one.

January 15 Deadline For Family Histories

Persons wishing to have their family histories included in the forthcoming Floyd County Historical Book are asked to note the deadline of Jan. 15. This deadline is also in effect for purchase of the books at $24.50 plus tax.

Family histories should be no more than 500 words in length and should be sent to the Floyd County Historical Museum in Floydada.

Girls Trounce Olton

Lockney's varsity girls' team had little trouble defeating Olton 56-30 in a basketball game Tuesday, but Olton boys won twice, 57-44 in the varsity game and 34-31 in the junior varsity contest.

Coach Marsha Sharp said "I was extremely proud of our people—they came back after playing poorly at Childress." (The Lady Horns lost to Crowell, 44-35, in the Childress tournament finals last weekend.)

"Our guards played extremely well," Sharp added. "Particularly in the first half, when Olton made only four field goals and three free throws." The Lady Horns were ahead 42-11 at halftime.

LADY HORNS

Sheila Hrbacek was, as usual, high scorer for the Lady Horns. She netted 24 points. Stephanie Turner and Melinda Wilson also scored in double figures, 15 and 13 points, respectively, and Bonita McDonald put in four for Lockney. Kennison paced the Fillies with 10 points.

LONGHORNS

The Longhorns, playing without the services of Ray McMahan (who suffered a knee injury in a tournament game last weekend) and Danny Clark (who was in bed with the flu), lost a 57-44 decision to the Mustangs.

Howard Moore was high-point Longhorn with 15. Joe Rodriguez, Jim Burt and Aaron Wilson had seven each. Danny Riddley scored six, and Breck Record had two.

The 'Horns led 9-8 at the end of the first quarter but were down 30-22 at halftime and 46-35 starting the final period. Coach Mike Bellar mentioned a great defensive effort by Billy Sesson, but said, "playing without Clark and McMahan made lots of difference on the boards..."

JV BOYS

Olton defeated a cold-shooting Lockney junior varsity team by a score of 34-31 Tuesday. The LHS boys hit on only 13 of 80 field-goal attempts in the game and only three of 37 tries in the second half. But they were ahead 11-9 at the end of the first quarter and 21-20 at the half. Olton led 27-25 at the three-quarter mark.

Scoring for the Longhorn team were Earlee Mathis (seven points), Raymond Guerrero, Curtis Ford and Steve Warren (six each), and Craig Ellison (two). Roy Moody and Mitch McMahan logged playing time for Lockney.

4 Games On Tap

All four Lockney High School basketball teams see action tomorrow (Friday) when they take on Muleshoe teams in the LHS gymnasium, starting at 4 p.m. Junior varsity and varsity games, both boys' and girls', are scheduled.

The adverse health effects of cigarette smoking first became apparent to men, because men as a group started smoking earlier than women. But as the cumulative effect of cigarette smoking builds up in women, cigarettes have proved equally dangerous to them.

Floydada Nursing Home Happenings

By Dartha Westbrook

Happy New Year! from all of us at Floydada Nursing Home, to everyone who reads this column, or comes to visit us at Floydada Nursing Home. We are sorta glad the Holidays are over, and things can get back to a routine again. It seems with Christmas and New Year coming right together, it's a little hard to get back into the groove of working again.

Many of our residents were able to go out and be with their families during the Holidays, and many of the families were able to spend time with their loved ones here. Of course, this is what makes a good Christmas for all of us-getting to spend time with those we love. I believe this is the nicest Christmas I can remember since I was a child, and of course, nothing can ever "top" that.

I think I forgot to thank one person, Linda Turner brought a ham for the residents-thanks Linda.

VA NEWS

A six-months campaign to make the more than 200,000 Veterans Administration employees increasingly aware that good service is the prime mission of the agency was announced today by VA Administrator Max Cleland.

The campaign is planned in conjunction with release of a new VA motion picture, "VA-May I Help You?". The film will be shown to VA employees, and will also be available for TV showings and use by local veterans and civic organizations.

In a message to top officials in the more than 350 VA installations throughout the nation, Administrator Cleland said, "The purpose of the campaign is to emphasize our dedication and personal commitment to provide competent, courteous and compassionate service to veterans with the sure knowledge that how veterans feel about VA is a direct reflection of how we as employees do our job."

During the campaign, Cleland said, "every field station and Washington office element will find its own unique ways in which to feature the 'May I Help You?' theme." He asked that "May I Help You?" greetings be posted in all the places veterans visit to seek VA help, and that the phrase be used by switchboard operators.

Special recognition will be given those employees who earn incentive awards in the course of the campaign for devising ways to improve VA operations and agency service to veterans and dependents.

Smoking Mothers Harm Infants' Health

You've come a long way from the days when a woman who smoked a cigarette was considered a social outcast. Today, the number of stillbirths and spontaneous abortions is increasing. There is an excess of premature (by weight) babies among smokers, with an average difference of more than six ounces between babies of smokers and nonsmokers. Babies with low birth weights have a greater risk of disease and death.

Studies also show that respiratory illness is twice as common in young children whose parents smoke at home compared to those whose parents do not smoke in the home.

The adverse health effects of cigarette smoking first became apparent to men, because men as a group started smoking earlier than women. But as the cumulative effect of cigarette smoking builds up in women, cigarettes have proved equally dangerous to them.

VA NEWS

A six-months campaign to make the more that 200,000 Veterans Administration employees increasingly aware that good service is the prime mission of the agency was announced today by VA Administrator Max Cleland.

The campaign is planned in conjunction with release of a new VA motion picture, "VA May I Help You?". The film will be shown to VA employees, and will also be available for TV showings and use by local veterans and civic organizations.

In a message to top officials in the more than 350 VA installations throughout the nation, Administrator Cleland said, "The purpose of the campaign is to emphasize our dedication and personal commitment to provide competent, courteous and compassionate service to veterans with the sure knowledge that how veterans feel about VA is a direct reflection of how we as employees do our job."

During the campaign, Cleland said, "every field station and Washington office element will find its own unique ways in which to feature the 'May I Help You?' theme." He asked that "May I Help You?" greetings be posted in all the places veterans visit to seek VA help, and that the phrase be used by switchboard operators.

Special recognition will be given those employees who earn incentive awards in the course of the campaign for devising ways to improve VA operations and agency service to veterans and dependents.

The Floyd Philosopher

Throws Up Hands At Surveys

Showing Practically Everything Sub-Par

Editor's note: The Floyd Philosopher on Johnson grass farm must be feeling sub-par this week, his letter suggests.

Dear editor:
It was bound to come sooner or later. The drinking water in 80 large cities fails to meet proper health standards, according to the Environmental Protection Agency.

I knew it. I knew if they kept on testing everything we consume they'd run out of something to forbid and as a last resort would have to get around to tap water.

What I'm wondering now is, do the EPA investigators, when they travel to one of those 80 cities to check up on other hazards, carry their own jugs of water? Will they tell us what spring they're using?

I'll tell you, this country is about to be surveyed to death. Another survey has reported that out of 3,000 hospitals checked, including some of the largest such as the teaching hospital for Harvard University Medical School, 40 per cent of the correct standards.

Just recently Chief Justice Warren said a large percentage of lawyers are incompetently representing their clients.

It now looks like if you drink your automobile and go to a sub-par lawyer to file a malpractice suit, you make any difference because of sub-par education and you won't read the verdict anyway.

And on top of that, if you live on a ranch with sub-par income, I throw some water in my face. This, of course, is a survey of the newspaper.

LIVING WITH OUR NUCLEAR WASTE

Research tests being conducted in Idaho indicate that people who live next to the National Engineering Laboratory, one of the nation's principal facilities for nuclear energy research and waste storage, receive no more radiation in the course of a year than do residents of other eastern Idaho communities.

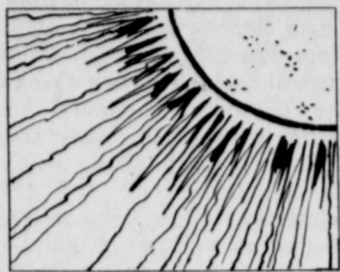

What's more, most of this radiation is from naturally occurring radioisotopes—cosmic radiation, rocks in the earth, and the natural concentrations within our bodies. Of the 100 to 200 millirem dose received annually by individuals living in this Idaho area, less than 0.2 millirem might be attributable to atmospheric releases from the INEL.

This, of course, is no surprise to the Department of Energy or to EG&G, Inc., of Woburn, Massachusetts, which has the major management and operating responsibilities for DOE's 894-acre site near Idaho Falls. Because the INEL facility has the world's most varied collection of nuclear reactors, a nuclear fuel processing plant, and major facilities for the temporary handling and storage of radioactive wastes from this and other DOE locations, EG&G and DOE scientists and engineers are using the most advanced waste management and monitoring technology available to assure that present and future radiation exposures are kept at low, safe, and environmentally acceptable levels.

There are four distinct types of radioactive waste being handled at the INEL—high-level and low-level liquid wastes, routine solid wastes, and transuranic solid wastes, principally plutonium-239. Low-level liquid wastes, usually water contaminated during the reactor cooling process or water containing trace amounts of radioactive material and some nonradioactive chemicals, are released for filtering into small seepage ponds. Highly radioactive liquid wastes from the reprocessing of reactor fuels at the Chemical Processing Plant are collected and stored there temporarily in large underground stainless steel tanks buried in concrete. This waste is gradually being converted into solid, retrievable granules by a calcination process; and the granules are placed in underground bins, where they can be stored safely for 500 years.

Compactible low-level solid wastes, consisting of paper, rags, and construction debris that may be only slightly contaminated, are compacted into bale-type units, then packaged and stacked in pits or trenches, where they are covered with soil. Noncompactible solid wastes with significant radiation levels are handled remotely and buried directly in the soil using shielded handling equipment. Ninety-eight per cent of the radionuclides in these wastes have half-lives of less than a year and can't move around since they are part of the solid structure of metal objects.

Solid wastes contaminated with transuranic isotopes (isotope heavier than uranium) are usually received in such forms as broken laboratory glass, worn-out equipment, coveralls, and shoe covers. These are specially packaged for storage on an asphalt pad from which they can be easily retrieved. Several DOE contractors, including EG&G, have been studying long-term solutions for essentially permanent storage. On identification and construction of national repositories, much of the INEL waste will be shipped to such facilities. Even then INEL will continue important work in nuclear waste management.

Thousands Die Early From Smoking Diseases

Each pack of cigarettes sold in the United States carries the warning that smoking may be harmful to your health. What exactly does this mean to smokers?

There no longer is any scientific doubt that tobacco smoking, and particularly cigarette smoking, is associated with shortened life expectancy. Some 300,000 Americans die prematurely each year from diseases related to smoking.

Smoking is a major cause of lung cancer, heart disease, emphysema and chronic bronchitis. Tobacco smoking also is strongly associated with cancers of the larynx, mouth, esophagus and urinary bladder. Smoking is associated with increased risk of strokes and other circulatory diseases.

In most diseases related to smoking the health hazards are directly proportional to the number of cigarettes smoked per day, the earlier the age at which smoking was started, and the number of years smoking has continued. Those who start young, smoke heavily and keep it up for many years are the greatest risk.

Fortunately, those who quit smoking begin to decrease the risk to their health as soon as they quit.

Most smoke-related diseases develop over a long period of time, but every single cigarette affects a smoker, says the AMA pamphlet: Smoking: Facts You Should Know. Even one cigarette increases blood pressure and heartbeat and slows down the action of the cilia inside the bronchial tubes. The cilia work like tiny brooms to keep the lungs clean and when they are not working properly the lungs are vulnerable to all kinds of infection.

Smoke, a product of combustion, contains hundreds of chemical substances, including nicotine, tar and carbon monoxide. Nicotine indirectly causes blood vessels to constrict, which in turn forces the heart to pump harder and faster, increasing the stress on the cardiovascular system. Tar in smoke are tiny particles that settle on the membranes of the breathing passages and delicate lung tissues. Tar contains chemicals that have produced cancer in experimental animals. Carbon monoxide reduces the oxygen-carrying ability of the blood by driving oxygen from red blood cells. As much as 10 per cent of the oxygen that would normally be carried by the red cells is driven out by the carbon monoxide.

Seventy-five years ago cigarettes were not recognized as an important threat to public health. They were not a major article of consumption. Today they are both.

TIPS FOR HOMEOWNERS
Fix It Yourself For Safety & Economy

EMERGENCIES - LEAKY PIPES

If you're the average homeowner, learning what to do when you have a leaky pipe can save you many dollars in damages to your home.

The first step is to shut off the water supply to the break. Make it a rule to know where the shutoff valves in your house or apartment are located. Valves are often under or near plumbing fixtures. The hot water supply for the entire house, can generally be turned off at the hot water heater. If necessary, cut off all water in the house by closing the main water valve. A good do-it-yourself manual will usually show you how to make emergency repairs.

SHUT OFF OR SHIP OUT-
The main shutoff will turn off all water in an emergency.

Emergency repairs can range from taking temporary measures while waiting for the plumber, to making repairs that will last for years. But even minor leaks should be attended to promptly to prevent further damage. Leaks tend to enlarge over a period of time and dripping water can damage plaster, stain paint and wallpaper and create an electric hazard.

Attracting Birds To Your Backyard

LUBBOCK - In spite of cats, pesticides, neatly trimmed lawns and few trees, it would be hard to find an area of the South Plains or

Panhandle that doesn't have birds of some type during the winter months, but all neighborhoods can have more birds of a wider variety with just a little planning and work.

Duplicate nature as closely as possible having both open areas and densely planted areas to provide cover which birds need to protect them from enemies. Since foliage attracts different birds, vary your plantings and include such trees as fruit, shrubs, vines, and flowers that provide natural fruits and seeds.

For example, the ornamental flowering dogwood attracts over 90 species of birds to its branches and of these, at least 28 species are known to eat its red berries.

In addition to trees, your bird area should contain some of the fruit producing shrubs and vines. Members of the honeysuckle family - elders, snowberries, honeysuckles and viburnums - are a good choice. They all produce berries which can be eaten and the foliage provides good cover and nesting habitat.

If you have difficulty in deciding which plant to put in your bird area, contact your local nurseryman who will know which species will grow best in your area.

In addition to natural food, supplemental bird feed might be necessary for survival of your bird friends.

If you plan to put out food for birds, be sure it is done twice a day as the birds will become accustomed to the food and depend upon you for their dinner.

Eating habits of birds can generally be divided into two groups: a diet primarily of insects and other small organisms, and a diet mainly of seeds.

The various sparrows are the most familiar seed eaters and a display of commercial bird seed, grain crops, sunflowers, or a mixture of these ingredients will draw the birds along with aggressive bluejays. For troublesome birds, place a separate feeder some distance away allowing the smaller birds a chance at the food.

There's an Answer!

by Norman Vincent Peale and Ruth Starford Peale

IS THERE AN ANSWER?

Q. I have questions that keep digging into my soul. All my life I have been looking for meaning or truth. I am not satisfied with the concerns of daily living as being the purpose of man. I've begun to find that only God could be infinite enough to fill all the gaps, for without Him it is a horrible chaos. Yet something is wrong. I continue to question, to test, to search with a frightening zeal for something. Where do I turn for a community of God to find answers that are not mirrors of other people's narrow-minded "pat" answers? I sense in your answers to questions a deeper understanding, a fuller wisdom perhaps, that is truly guided by the presence of God. Is it a flaw in me that rejects what has been already established as ultimate Truth? Do you suggest that I settle down my mind and humbly surrender to a God who comes only upon that surrender?

A. We are impressed by the quality of your mind. You are a thinker. And it's healthy to ask questions, to search for truth and meaning. You seem to have, however, an overtense attitude that could lead you into the erroneous feeling that everything is bad. Look for the good. Emphasize love. Strive to know the compassion and understanding of the good God. Then we think you will find a satisfying belief that in life's trouble good ends are developing.

The insect eaters such as swallows and chickadees prefer suet (all fat trimmings from meat) or table scraps placed in an aerial feeder.

Another part of the bird's diet that is overlooked is grit. Sand particles and crushed shells help grind the food in the bird's crop and provide useful minerals. A cupful of grit on the bird food platter would be welcomed by your feathered friends.

As spring nears, ease off slowly on the bird feed but do not stop suddenly. A transition period between the winter and spring feeding habits will occur but even April and May could be critical as long, rainy days and low temperatures keep the birds from finding natural foods.

With a variety of foods to utilize, the only remaining requirement is water. You may wish to include a pool or birdbath in your bird area and it should be flushed clean every two or three days and refilled with clean water.

When you have provided food, water and shelter, it is time to set back and enjoy the fruits of your labor - the joy of watching the different species of birds use and enjoy your little sanctuary.

WIFE'S FRIENDS ON DOPE

Q. My wife of one year has left me, the main reason being that I will not associate with her friends who stay high all the time (they stay high at the end of my rope, and I have become depressed to the point of not wanting to live like this any longer. I love my wife very much, and I will not live without her. Please help us.

A. It is understandable that you do not want to live as you describe. But you owe it to your wife to be patient and understanding. If you treat her lovingly the chances are that you can lead her to different associations.

If she is on dope herself she can be cured by proper treatment. If you love your wife very much, as you say you do, you must just hang in there and help her.

A SIGN FROM GOD?

Q. Three years ago I had a stillborn, deformed son. Also, I was ill with complications for almost two years afterwards. This turned my marriage "inside out" so to speak. Now we are thinking of trying again but are so afraid. Is what happened a sign to us from God not to have any more babies? Thank you for your words of advice.

A. Medical advice, as indicated by your question, could be very important. It is also true that no one should live in fear, ever.

Unless there are medical reasons that your doctor may give you, as husband and wife, put your lives in God's hands and believe that another child would be well-formed and healthy. But do not allow another child to be born in a negative and fear-filled mental atmosphere, for that itself is unhealthy.

Bigger Pensions Check

NEW YORK, Nov. 25 - How much are Floyd County residents now receiving from Washington each month in the form of Social Security checks? How do the payments compare with those going to people in other areas?

Based upon the latest official figures, the amounts they are getting are relatively large. The size of their checks, as well as the number of local recipients, has been on the increase the last few years, as revisions have been made.

Another upward revision in their benefits is expected next July to compensate for the rise in the cost of living, to which they are now tied. Last July the hike was 5.9 percent.

The report released by the Social Security Administration shows that payments to Floyd County residents, as of the beginning of 1977, were at the average rate of $2,128 per year. This compares with $1,183 five years ago.

Throughout the West South Central States as a whole, the average was $2,057 and, in the State of Texas, $2,103.

The fact that the checks going to local beneficiaries are running bigger than those to many other parts of the country indicates that, over the years, their incomes were larger than the Social Security trust fund.

With each passing year, the number of retired or disabled workers, who were receiving Social Security benefits are increasing.

The current report shows that the number of persons in Floyd County who were receiving pensions in the past year was 1,701, up from 1,511 in 1971.

The combination of more revisions and bigger checks has increased the amount of money going to the county from the Social Security trust fund.

The government's figures show that overall payments to Floyd County residents in January 1st, were at the rate of $3,620,000. Five years earlier, in contrast, the total was $1,788,000.

Changes in the Social Security system are expected in the future as Congress and the Administration decide on the measures to improve its financial condition. The system has been deteriorating.

Texas Law specifically state that everything of value unless it be specifically exempt by the State Constitution comes within the meaning of taxable property. Courts have ruled for example that where cattle are being fed, pastured, or otherwise cared for on property owned or leased by another, the owner or lessor is responsible that the cattle be rendered properly, or may be assessed for the cattle himself and under certain conditions required legally to pay the tax. The same example applies to any type of personal property, controlled by persons not the owner.

American Agriculture Eyes Future Program

An American Agriculture meeting was held Tuesday night in Tulia in the county court room to hear reports of an area meeting held last week in Amarillo and to discuss plans for Phase 3 of the farm strike.

Oran Watson, chairman, told of an estimated 25,000 cattle from Mexico in quarantine at El Paso. Plans were made to send a delegation to El Paso to film a documentary and to discourage the importation of cattle by large agribusiness concerns and big Texas ranchers, some reported to hold high office in Texas.

It was announced that farmers on tractors and in pickups would parade in Amarillo Tuesday.

Plans are to plow up five per cent of one's wheat acreage every Tuesday beginning Jan. 17 until a maximum of 50 per cent of the crop is destroyed or until the price reaches parity.

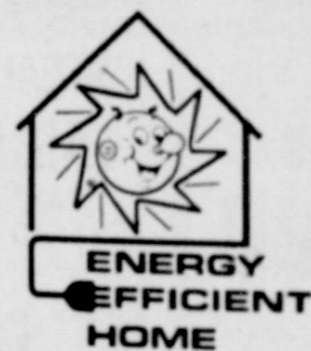

Thousands of farmers are planning to invade Washington the week that Congress convenes to dramatize the problems of agriculture.

The group reported favorable cooperation by most county merchants who have been asked to support the movement.

Several hundred tractors were expected to encircle Lubbock Tuesday via the highway loop, also a number of crop dusters were expected to fly over Lubbock to remind Lubbock citizens that the farm problem still has not been solved.

Farmers Union For 20% Cotton Set Aside

The Texas affiliate of the National Farmers Union has announced support for a cotton recommendation issued last week by the nationwide farm organization's Board. Texas Farmers Union, in a letter to Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland, has called for a minimum 20 per cent set aside for cotton with diversion payments. This is a policy recommendation that will be updated when the Texas Farmers Union meets in its annual state convention in Austin, January 20 and 21.

The state office, headquartered in Waco, has issued an endorsement of the National Farmers Union views on cotton and termed the recently announced cotton program, "illogical and inconsistent". Jay Naman, President of the Texas Farmers Union, says that the Secretary of Agriculture should be reminded that we have a price depressing surplus now. The 1978 cotton program will encourage expansion of cotton acreage when expansion is not needed. Naman said: "The new cotton program assures over production and low prices for cotton in 1978. It encourages cotton farmers to expand their production at a time when expansion is contrary to the producers' interest."

Under the new law a cotton farmer may reduce his planted acreage 20 per cent below last year and be entitled to full payments on his planted acres. He may plant as much as he wishes and still take advantage of disaster payments and a high percentage of the total target price payments. (A cotton farmer's share of the national program acreage is computed after the crop is planted, but is expected to be in excess of 80 per cent of full payment.) This would discourage cotton farmers from voluntarily reducing acreage, according to Farmers Union.

Naman went on to say that the new cotton program is not compatible with other provisions of the program for other commodities and would discourage diversification in areas where cotton is now being planted in conjunction with other crops. He pointed out that the new cotton program will be unsound in terms of conservation of water and land resources and would tend to favor areas where there is unlimited opportunity to expand production and where cotton has not been previously grown.

Cotton producers who attend TFU's Austin convention on January 20 and 21 are expected to be quite outspoken over the current cotton program and reiterate the message to Secretary Bergland if modifications are not made. Both the state and national Farmers Union organizations will be exerting full pressure on the U-SIA to substitute a minimum 20 per cent set aside for the program which was announced and to add to it a program allowing for diversion payments. This, according to the letter to the Secretary, would be the most economical approach in terms of costs and the most beneficial to family farmers.

Number of Farms Declines During '77

WASHINGTON (AP) - The United States will begin the New Year with an estimated 2.68 million farms, 26,000 fewer than last Jan. 1 and about the number that existed more than a century ago, according to the Agriculture Department.

But today's farms are much larger, an average of 400 acres each, against about 150 acres in 1870. Last Jan. 1, the average farm size was 397 acres, the department said Thursday in an annual report.

Even so, the amount of land actually in farms continues to shrink because of urban sprawl, highways, recreational facilities and other non-farm uses which gobble up the countryside.

The department said that as of Jan. 1, 1978, there will be an estimated 1,072,341,000 acres in U.S. farms. That represents a decline of almost 2.7 million acres - one quarter of 1 percent - from 1,075,011,000 acres in farms last Jan. 1.

Although department experts say that there is little danger that the United States will run out of farmland, there is serious concern that city sprawl and other encroachment threatens the existence of substantial amounts of prime land, the most productive acres needed to grow crops.

The decline in the number of farms has been going on generally since the mid 1930s. Much of the shrink in the amount of land actually in farms has occurred since 1950.

In 1870 when there were about as many farms as there are today, only 408 million acres were involved in them.

But by 1910, according to department records, the number of farms had grown to nearly 6.4 million. The land they covered also grew to 879 million acres in the 40 years after 1870. During and following World War I, farm numbers held fairly steady. By 1920, there were 956 million acres in more than 6.4 million farms.

The mid 1920s brought some decline in farm numbers and in the land used by farmers. But by 1935, as the nation's worst economic depression still gripped the country, farm numbers rose to a record peak of 6.8 million and involved nearly 1.06 billion acres.

After 1935, farms continued to grow larger and their numbers gradually declined. In 1940, there were 6.1 million farms involving more than 1.06 billion acres - slightly less than the land used today.

The years following World War II saw another era of expansion in farm size as thousands of rural families left the countryside for cities and towns.

By 1950, the number of farms dropped to 5.4 million, and the amount of land in them had increased to about 1.16 billion acres. Since then, however, the land in farms has generally declined but not as rapidly as the number of farms. In 1964, there were still more than 1.1 billion acres in farms but the nation's farm count was down to about 3.2 million.

The report Thursday showed that the number of farms declined since last Jan. 1 in 23 states and held steady in the remainder. Texas continues to lead with 197,000 farms, down from 199,000 last Jan. 1.

Other leaders in numbers of farms included: Missouri 133,000 farms unchanged from last Jan. 1; Iowa 128,000 and 131,000; Illinois 117,000 and 118,000; Kentucky 117,000 and 118,000; North Carolina 115,000 and 117,000; and Minnesota 114,000 and 116,000.

Water Levels To Be Measured

During the month of January, field personnel of the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District No. 1 will begin the annual measurement of the depth-to-water levels in the more than 800 observation wells in the District's fifteen county area.

These wells will be measured to find the depth to "static" water level within each well and a green and white identification tag will be placed on the well-head equipment for the owner's information.

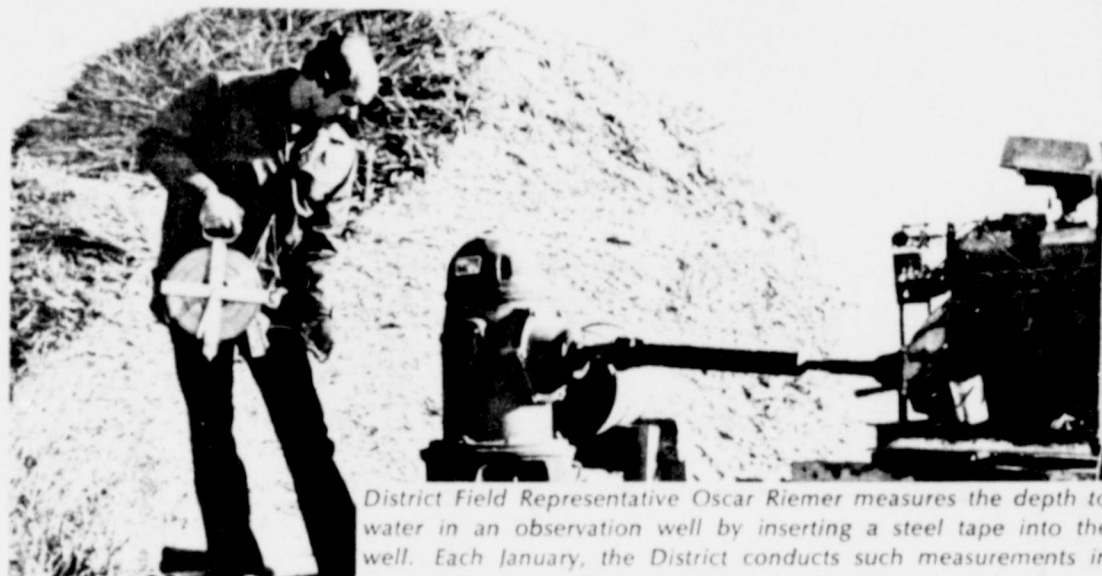

Since most of the wells to be measured are operational irrigation wells, the month of January was selected to afford a reading in wells that have not been pumped for a sufficient period of time to allow recovery of the cones of depression developed during the pumping cycle. These readings will then reflect the depth to water levels at a time when the aquifer is most nearly at rest.

The information obtained from the observation well measuring program is utilized in assessment of remaining water in storage, long term projections of decline rates, and as a basis for the income-tax depletion allowance claims on landowners' tax returns.

The District would like to express our appreciation to those irrigators who voluntarily allow for these measurements to be taken from their wells.

Anyone sighting a blue-and-white vehicle with the District seal on the door should note that a District representative is conducting field work in the District's behalf.

District Field Representative Oscar Riemer measures the depth to water in an observation well by inserting a steel tape into the well. Each January, the District conducts such measurements in more than 800 wells lying within the boundaries of the District as a part of the observation well program. The measurements are taken in order to determine the water-level declines or rises within the District during the past year.

Field Crop Drought Damage Shows Up in Reduced Yields

AUSTIN—Drought damage to Texas field crops is showing up in reduced yields as harvesting activity winds down, Agriculture Commissioner Reagan V. Brown reports.

Dry weather during the latter part of the growing season is expected to lower grain sorghum production 21 per cent from last year, Brown said. Average yields are down 200 pounds per acre, he said.

The drought has cut both yield and quality of many peanut crops. A 275-pound per acre drop is expected in average yields statewide, he said. Total production is forecast at 377.5 million pounds, a drop of some 86 million pounds from 1976.

Corn yields are down

15 bushels per acre due to dry weather, Brown said. Average rice yields dropped 100 pounds per acre.

Brown pointed out, however, that a record soybean harvest is expected if predictions hold true.

Total production is estimated to be 18.8 million bushels, more than double the previous record crop of 9.3 million bushels harvested in 1975. He stated that the large crop was mainly due to an increase in planted acreage.

Ask Tex Schram

Q: Which rookie scored the most touchdowns in a single season?

Robert Alcala, Ft. Worth, Texas

TEX: Gayle Sayers of the Chicago Bears, set the record at 22 touchdowns in 1965. He scored 14 rushing, six pass receiving and two on kickoff returns. Oddly enough, he did not hit the 1,000 yard mark rushing, picking up 867 yards. Dorsett's records of 13 touchdowns and 1007 yards rushing are both Cowboys rookie records.

Q: In super Bowl V, January 17, 1971, Dallas vs. Baltimore, who was it that hurt Johnny Unitas, George Andrie or Jethro Pugh?

Dan Barker, Visalia, Cal.

TEX: Unitas was injured while being sacked by George Andrie. Earl Morrall came in at quarterback and the Colts won a highly controversial game 16 to 13 on a last second field goal.

Q: Does Tony Dorsett or any other player have in their contract that they will get a bonus if they become Rookie of the Year or are selected to play in the Pro Bowl game?

William G. Byars, Lubbock, Texas

TEX: Rookie of the Year bonus provisions are not uncommon in the National Football League in first year contracts. Neither are bonuses predicated on being selected to play in the Pro Bowl. We do not comment on individual player contracts.

Q: Would you please explain why some players wear gloves when it isn't cold? I'm sure I saw Thomas Henderson wearing them during the Denver game.

R. B. Mangum, Oklahoma

TEX: Thomas Henderson started wearing gloves in a cold game in New York and has continued wearing them because he feels they give extra protection to his hands, a better grip when making tackles. When he puts stick on the gloves, it helps him in catching the ball. He is the only member of the Cowboys who wears gloves, other than practice gloves worn by some linemen.

Q: Are Harvey Martin and George Martin of the Giants brothers?

Mike Kossa, Schulenburg, Texas

TEX: George Martin of the Giants was a college basketball player from Oregon who was drafted as a football player by the Giants and is no relation to Harvey.

Doctor Advises: Let Yourself Go On Holiday

When a holiday comes, run with it, advises a Chicago doctor.

"Don't feel guilty about letting yourself go when you can. Being able to relax doesn't feed your neuroses. Rather, it is essential if you are to maintain your psychic equilibrium. Every organ of your body needs it," said Dr. Edward A. Newman of Michael Reese Hospital and Medical Center.

"Then, when you get back to work you'll feel good. You'll be in a state of temporary euphoria," he added. "If you aren't, then you abused your holiday. Either you didn't relax or you played too hard."

Dr. Newman favors periods of self-indulgence as essential to health in our pressured world. He loves Monday holidays because they make weekends longer than normal several times a year.

"These bonus days are really therapeutic. They give us something to look forward to. Like ads say, it's 'the pause that refreshes.' We all need release from our daily obligations, need to lose ourselves in moments of pure pleasure once in a while," he said.

He added that "Just doing nothing is pleasure for a lot of surviving spouses whose eligibility for GI Bill education benefits expired on June 1, 1976, or later, but who had not used all their schooling entitlement when mental or physical disability interfered with their training.

The disability must not have resulted from the individual's willful misconduct, Coker emphasized.

Coker cautioned potential applicants they must provide medical evidence that mental illness or physical disability was responsible for their being unable to complete schooling before the expiration of their GI Bill eligibility.

Under the law, veterans have ten years from the date of their discharge from active duty to complete GI Bill training, "spouses or surviving spouses have ten years from the date of their initial eligibility to complete training under the bill.

Until passage of the new law, those who had not used all their GI Bill education benefits by the end of that ten year period lost it forever.

"This law," Coker said, "gives us a welcome opportunity to help veterans who had their education delayed or interrupted because of circumstances beyond their control."

By Mrs. Murray Julian

South Plains, Jan. 2

Our first snow of the 1978 season came Sunday morning, New Year's Day. Following church services the ground was nearly covered and it was not heavy, but it has taken all of the dust out of the air, and it is 16 degrees this Monday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Staples of Arlington, (Nelda) have moved to South Plains over the past week end. Their new home is located east of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hamm, south-east of South Plains. The Staples will be farming the Hamm's place. They have three children, Billy, who is 11 years old, Stacy, six, and Kevin, the baby, who is two years old. We welcome this family to our community.

Mr. and Mrs. Arby Mulder went to Amarillo Christmas eve, to share the night and Christmas Day with their daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Taylor and four children. The grand children have spent the past week here with the Mulders, and Sunday morning, Ronda and Candy were visitors at the Baptist Church with their grandmother, Mrs. Arby Mulder.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Whitfill of Sweetwater were hosts for the family Christmas tree and dinner for Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Nichols, who went there Saturday and returned home on Monday. Mr. and Mrs. Terry Michaels of Dallas were there too.

Mr. and Mrs. Tillman Powell and Sandy arrived home on New Year's eve from a Christmas trip which took them to Wheeling, West Virginia, where they visited her mother, Mrs. Joseph Auber, and several aunts, uncles, her sisters, brothers and friends. They left on Thursday before Christmas, and stayed ten days, arriving home Saturday night.

Mrs. Mike Marble, (Tonya) entertained the Lockney 1976-77 Senior girls in her home on Monday, December 26, at 7 p.m. There were fourteen girls present who had graduated with Tonya, and were in Lockney High School together last year. Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hamm went to Arlington on Friday, Dec. 23rd, to spend Christmas with their daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Staples and children, and Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Huff and 4 month old Duane. Others who came there to be with them for Christmas were Dr. and Mrs. Tom Aufdermorte, and his mother, Mrs. Mary Aufdermorte, of San Antonio.
