Raymond Upton Is A Life-Long Resident Of South Plains

By Felicia Applewhite

"According to Texas State Highway 207 markers, we are located just 17 1/2 miles from Silvertown to our north and 17 1/2 miles from Floydada to our south. Lockney is about the same distance to the southwest of us." That is what Raymond Upton tells to locate his grocery store in South Plains. During a conversation, he will tell you that, "Our store is for sale". The Uptons have owned the store since 1945.

As he talks, he will probably be sitting comfortably near his desk behind the post office mail boxes, for the post office is a part of the well-stocked, orderly store.

Written across the front of the Upton Grocery Store is "United States Post Office, South Plains, Texas." The American flag flies at the front and above the building.

Raymond Upton can tell you as much about South Plains as anybody. He was born there and grew up there. He has spent his adult life there. His knowledge of this part of the country extends beyond South Plains area. His West Texas roots are deep because of West Texas ancestry pioneers.

It all began for him in 1890 when his mother, Miss Bell Bourland and her brother, Uncle Tommy Bourland together with their mother filed on 1/2 section of land south east of Lone Star north of Lockney 12 miles. In 1889, the mother died and was buried in Silvertown. They lived in a half-dugout when they first came here.

Raymond's Uncle Tommy Bourland became a legend in his life time. Even though there is not too much family history passed down to the family, it is told that Uncle Tommy was the object of much teasing and fun.

One Lone Star neighbor of Uncle Tommy's tells of the time Uncle Tommy lived across the fence from an early-day ranch. When he saw one of the ranch steers "down" and unable to get up, he decided to offer a helping hand. He "tailed" the steer up and had him on his feet. The steer turned, charged Uncle Tommy and butted him down.

Up to this time, neither Uncle Tommy nor Miss Bell had married. But when James Upton came calling, the picture changed. Upton had 5 motherless children due to the death of his wife. It is not long until he and Miss Bell were married.

Of the 3 children born to Upton and Bell, Raymond was the only boy and the youngest.

The Upton's lived on a section of land for which he had paid $1 an acre to the state of ownership. They were located 2 miles east and 1 1/2 miles south of where South Plains is now. Johnny Wilson owns the section now.

"Johnny and I are the only ones left here that were born in this community," Raymond says.

Upton's life was "just the life of the average kid-chores and everything." His list of chores included milking cows, feeding hogs and cleaning the chicken house—"all nice jobs" as he remembers.

He walked 2 1/2 miles for school to the Sunset School.

On a cold winter's day, Raymond was warming his feet at the wood-burning cook-stove. It was time to go to school, but the feet needed warming before shoes were put on. When he saw that others were leaving him, he just went on to school barefoot. After school, his surprised mother had no answer to her question, "Raymond, why didn't you wear your shoes to school?"

"At times, the school teacher boarded with us," says Mrs. Helen McLeod, sister of Upton. "Once when papa and the school teacher were catching a horse to break, Raymond stood looking in from the outside. The horse jumped over Raymond, fence and all. When they got to Raymond, they found a very frightened child."

"Mr. Tate, who used to teach at Lockney, boarded with us while he taught here. Raymond slept with him. When the teacher came in late at night in cold weather, he scooted Raymond over out of the warm place and took it himself," Mrs. McLeod remembers.

During this time, a mail hack "angled from Lockney by the Sunset School, but the name of the post office was Curlew."

The coming through of the railroad as a main track from Chidress to Lubbock changed everything. It meant the beginning of South Plains in 1928. The area changed from a section of the country where farm houses dotted the country side to a community center. The move toward a community center began.

"In the summer of '29, they tore down the Sunset School house after school was out and re-built it at South Plains and had it ready for school opening that fall—didn't miss a day, dern it. The building was rebuilt just as it had been at Sunset. A new school building came later."

The Baptist Church was moved to South Plains to its present location.

A grocery store and post office were built. A filling station and 2 elevators became a part of the town. It wasn't long until the mail was delivered by truck from Chidress. Even though unincorporated, South Plains became an active village.

"When they were laying the track for the railroad, I was walking along from school one evening about 2 miles east of South Plains. They were laying the track. Flat cars with rails were out front of the locomotive. I was about 12 years old. That locomotive was something out of this world."

"The engineer motioned for me to get up there with him. If there had been an offer of a million dollars as a choice, I would have chosen to get up in that locomotive," he states.

"At the time everything seemed favorable for South Plains making a town. Two men bought the town site and built 5 buildings. One was to be a bank building. It had a sign painted on it that it was to be a bank building. I tore the sign down in 1945 when the building became our old grocery store building before we built this one. The bank never opened."

School life at South Plains moved along in the same tempo of that as it had been at Sunset before the building was moved. Raymond remembers a particular incident in 1929.

"That April Fool, several of us were walking down the railroad track. Down the way a piece, we saw a flat car. There sat that flat car doing nothing!"

"We didn't know it, but it was there while the road crew worked on down the track putting up wire for a telegraph system."

"We put the flat car on the track and went for a ride. There were several of us around 12 years old and older."

"Some of us would push the flat car as fast as it would go, then jump on and all of us would take a ride. We went through both tunnels going toward Quitaque just like that. Then right out east of the second tunnel—there was the crew working on the telegraph wire."

"Of course, they took out after us and were about to catch us when we jumped off and ran over the hill."

"About 30 minutes later a special train came from the east and it was going fast. If that train had caught us in one of the tunnels!"

That does not end the story of the flat car. About 10 years ago Raymond Upton was in El Paso.

"I was introduced to the assistant manager of the ICX. When he found where I live, he mentioned the flat car incident. He was foreman of that crew that had parked the flat car beside the track."

"He said he almost lost his job because it was a rule that if a flat car or a motor car was parked to one side, it was to be chained down."

"That was about 40 years ago, but I ought to whip you yet," the former foreman said.

Only one of the tunnels that lead to Quitaque is left. It is the only one in Texas.

"Another time, I remember my mother was at the cow lot milking, and I was walking out the door to catch the school bus. I heard her holler, 'Son, Oh, Son'. I kept on walking. I never did hear her so far as she knew. She was going to tell me not to run away from school for April Fool. But we had planned on running away. It was a yearly act to run away on April Fool."

"We would always go to the canyons. Our favorite place was the Blue Mole. We walked down the railroad to get there."

One of the first school busses that Upton remembers had a door in the

The hostesses presented Lisa with a piece of her luggage.

The wedding ceremony uniting Miss Mary Sue Burt of Plainview and Harlan Everett Crume of Providence was read at 11 o'clock Saturday morning, May 27, in St. Alice Catholic Church in Plainview.

The Rev. Ralph Zinser of Nazareth directed the double ring service in the altar area of the church. Bouquets of white gladioli enhanced the area.

The former Miss Burt is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Burt of Nazareth. The groom's parents of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Crume of Plainview and formerly of Providence.

Mr. and Mrs. Alan Carson of Canyon presented the wedding music, accompanying themselves on the guitar. The processional was "It's A Beautiful Thing" and the recessional was "A Given Day". During the wedding service, the couple sang "Take My Hands", "The Lord's Prayer" and "There Is Love".

In the wedding party were matron of honor Mrs. Virginia Huseman of Nazareth and bridesmatron Mrs. Martha Kirkpatrick of Ardmore, Oklahoma, both sisters of the bride; best man Leslie Clayshulte of Las Cruces, New Mexico, the groom's brother-in-law, groomsmen Tommy Barker of Stephenville, ushers John Kirkpatrick of Ardmore and Gerald Brockman of Linch, Wyoming, the bride's cousins.

The bride's attendants were gowned in floor-length dresses of emerald tiffany knit. Printed sheer organza coats completed their ensembles. The dresses were designed with fitted bodices, long sleeves and full A-line silhouette skirts. Their flowers were cascade bouquets of white daisies and green carnations touched with baby's breath.

Escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father, Samuel E. Burt of Longview, the bride wore a formal gown of candlelight silk organza. It was fashioned with a moulded bodice frosted with re-embroidered alencon lace. The Victorian neckline was encircled with an organza ruffle. Alencon lace motifs adorned the petal points of the sheer organza sleeves. A full, fluid skirt of organza fell from the crescent waistline to a chapel-length train.

Her triple-tiered veil of imported candlelight silk illusion was attached to a camelot caplet covered in re-embroidered alencon lace. Each layer of the veil was edged in seed pearls. A sunburst of seed pearls and alencon motifs accented the top tier.

The bridal bouquet was of cascade style, and featured white daisies and white carnations touched with white roses and baby's breath.

Following the wedding, a reception and luncheon was held at the Plainview Country Club. Reception attendees were nieces of both the bride and the groom.

A rehearsal party Friday night was held at K-Bob's

Restaurant in Plainview. Mr. and Mrs. Everett Crume were hosts to the wedding party.

After a wedding trip to points in the southwest, Mr. and Mrs. Crume will make their home at 1308 Vernon in Plainview. Mrs. Crume is a 1962 graduate of Nazareth High School, and a 1965 graduate of St. Paul School of Nursing. In 1976 she completed the Harris Hospital School of Anesthesiology, Ft. Worth, Dallas. She is employed at Central Plains Regional Hospital as nurse anesthetist.

Judy Jackson Is Il Penseroso Clubwoman Of Year

Il Penseroso Junior Study Club members closed out the club year Tuesday night with a dinner party, installation of officers, and presentation of special awards.

Cheryl Teeter's home south of Lockney was site of the party. She was assisted in hosting the "hillbilly" themed event by Lisa Mosley, Jackie Holt, Barbara McCormick, Jan Duvall and Sheryl Bybee.

Highlight of the evening was the announcement of the outstanding clubwoman of the year. Last year's winner, Anita Bigham, used the idea of Wonder Woman to reveal that Judy Jackson, mother of four and devoted club member, had won the honor. She was given a small silver tray to commemorate the award. An identical tray, the customary gift, was also presented to outgoing president Cheryl Bradley in appreciation of her leadership during the club year.

The hostess directed several games. Each member was asked to guess which covered dish was brought by whom. Lynda Gant and Sharon Kinard corrected identified the cooks of fifteen of twenty dishes. Sharon won the gift of a recipe book after guessing closest to a secret number.

Each person attending brought a jar lid which she had decorated. The most unique lid was owned by Janette Workman. She and the second, third and fourth place winners, Jessie Johnson, Ginger Mathis and Cheryl Bybee, respectively, were given scented candles.

Judy Jackson's decorated jar lid won first place and a straw flower arrangement. The lids were later filled with cornmeal and each member wrote the name of her secret pal in the meal. This method of revealing secret pals was taken from the hillbilly custom of setting a dish of cornmeal out overnight in the hope of finding the name of one's beloved written in it in the morning.

Guests were dressed in their best bib and tucker, hillbilly style, with overalls being the most popular costume. Nearly everyone was barefoot, with the hostesses wearing matching bows on their toes. Several Daisy Maes were also present. Prize of a guest towel went to Gayle Jackson for having the most appropriate costume.

Since most everyone was in overalls, the team relay race that required each team member to dress in overalls, boots, hat and glove was a bit difficult. The girls also had to eat a cracker and then whistle before the next team member could start dressing in the hillbilly garb. The winning team members were given miniature baskets.

Ginger Mathis won a basket when she was the fastest to unceramle mixed-up hillbilly words which were found in the club's '77-'78 yearbook which was written in hillbilly style.

Selected letters from the scrambled words spelled out a secret message: Susan and Judy. These were the names of the two members who were winners of the two quilts assembled by the club with each member making several squares. Susan Flippin and Judy Jackson were especially thrilled to discover the meaning of the secret message in the scrambled words puzzle.

Outgoing president Cheryl Bradley presented handmade aprons to each of her outgoing officers. She then installed new officers: Anita Bigham, president; Sharon Kinard, first vice president; Treena Aston and Lisa Mosley, second vice presidents (yearbook); Lynda Gant, secretary; Judy Jackson, treasurer; Gayle Jackson, reporter, and Jan Duvall, historian.

An award went to Anita Bigham for having the most popular club program of the past year. Runner-up was

Homebuilders Club Tour

Scenic Points

Six members of the Homebuilders Home Demonstration Club went to Lubbock May 23, first stop being the beautiful City-County Library. The library guide took the group on a tour which surprised them as to the many services offered beside the ever-ending supply of books, photocopy machines and microfilm readers. They have film strips, story hours, puppet shows and special seasonal programs for children and film programs, discussion groups and luncheon special for adults. The civic center is a beautiful building as well, members said.

After lunch they went to the Ranching Heritage Center of the Texas Tech Museum and enjoyed the outdoor exhibit and could recall living or visiting in dwellings just like these.

Knox Village was also toured. It is a really large retirement community.

with vegetable dippers for a mid-morning or afternoon snack, or use the sauce in a sandwich for lunch with the vegetables as a relish and peanut butter cookies for dessert. Miss Reasonover suggests.

Nutritionally, the vegetables will furnish vitamin A needed for growth and to see in the dark. It is also needed by children to help protect them from infections by keeping the linings of the mouth and digestive system in good condition.

The vegetables also furnish vitamin C that helps hold body cells together and keeps walls of blood vessels strong. It's also needed to heal wounds and prevent gums from bleeding, she explains.

Cheese in the sauce furnishes calcium needed to help build bones and teeth. Calcium helps muscles work and nerves carry messages. In addition, it helps blood clot and keeps the heart beating.

Cheese and peanut butter also furnish protein needed for building and repairing body tissue. Muscles are built from protein.

Plus, the cheese sauce and peanut butter cookies contain carbohydrates and fats needed for energy for an active summer, the specialist adds.

"The country used to be full of jack signal, they would walk facing each rabbits as they walked. They met in the middle of the section still shooting.

I guess there was some danger in it.
One old man did get after me once. He said the buck shot from my gun went

He says "he has had a good life, but it

Senator Lloyd Bentsen Watching Washington

THIS YEAR, AT LONG LAST, a grateful nation has officially recognized the contribution made by a young Texan during those dark days at the beginning of World War II.

er of a 40 mm. anti-aircraft gun, in two World War II battles: Santa Cruz and Guadalcanal.

able discharge. The NAVY OPPOSED MY BILL, expressing concern that it would set a precedent and maintaining that Calvin had been "treated in the same manner as others similarly situated."

After the battle Calvin was one of some 30 sailors ordered to rescue duty. A brief passage from his article in THE AMERICAN LEGION Magazine shows the horrible impact of war on a boy:

I came across one of my best friends, Red Hezil, with his head blown off. For an instant I was sick...

Then, word began trickling into my office of other youths who served while under age during World War II and yet received honorable discharges.

In August 1942, Calvin says, some eight months after Pearl Harbor, he finally talked his mother into letting him go off and enlist in the Navy.

Less than a week later the Navy announced the honorable discharge.

It doesn't necessarily mean Calvin will receive medical benefits for the injuries to his mouth, suffered when he fell to the deck of the South Dakota. The Navy says his service record doesn't document them, but he can present evidence concerning the injuries to the Veterans Administration, and to the Board of Correction of Naval Record if necessary, and his prospects look good at this point.

The Navy awarded to Calvin Graham the Asiatic Pacific Service Medal with two campaign stars, the World War II Victory Medal and the Navy Unit Commendation with one Bronze Star.

They would not, however, give him a discharge. They claimed that since he had lied about his age he was never legally in the Navy so he couldn't be discharged from it.

The main battle, though, has been won. After all these years the United States Government has now officially recognized the service rendered in its hour of need by a youthful Calvin Leon Graham.

As It Looks From Here

OUR AMERICAN SOCIETY HAS MANY UNIQUE FEATURES in its system. One is the spontaneous working of a creative public spirit. Out of this traditional spirit have come institutions such as libraries, museums, civic organizations, great colleges and universities, the Salvation Army, symphony orchestras, garden clubs, hospitals, religious organizations, 4-H Clubs and many others.

MR. JOHN GARDENER, WRITING AN ESSAY IN TIME MAGAZINE, recently described this spirit. "These Americans are a peculiar people. If in a local community a citizen becomes aware of a human need which is not being met, he thereon discusses the situation with his neighbors. Suddenly a committee comes into existence. The committee thereupon begins to operate on behalf of the need and a new community function is established. It is like watching a miracle become these citizens perform this act without a single reference to any bureaucracy or any official agency."

WE HAVE ALREADY GONE DOWN THIS ROAD A LONG WAY but now the "Government knows best" people want to do away with the freedom of the tax deductible gift. Those who hold this theory propose to eliminate the deductibility of that dollar given to a school for the blind, take the money into the Treasury and if the school needs money, let Congress and the Federal Agency appropriate it.

Organization Aims At Making 'Older Years' Happier

Several thousand persons are enrolled now and a half million are expected in five years as Total Living for Fifty Plus, Inc. reaches middle age and older persons in Texas and nine other states in the southern subbelt.

Working with older people during more than a decade of ministry, Ray was convinced there had to be better ways for the senior citizens to spend their retirement years. He devised a plan, discussed it with leaders in many fields and then formed an organization to see it carried out.

ALREADY 2,000 CHURCHES have made inquiries about Total Living for Fifty Plus, Ray reports, and "more are received each week. Some churches already have their programs about ready to begin."

Development as complete persons - you must become more than what you do for a living. Discover a deeper meaning to your life and job. Enjoyable and growing relationships - to your spouse and others.

FINANCES - having enough to enjoy life and making it on your own, getting the most out of what you have. HEALTH CARE - in a day when hospital costs are escalating and all medical expenses are high.

PERSONAL DIGNITY, a genuine sense of self-worth in older years. "I'm still somebody". COMPANIONSHIP a growing relationship to your spouse, someone to help meet the shock of single living after the spouse dies.

INTEGRATION INTO SOCIETY, still a part of it, not a has been. MEANINGFUL ACTIVITIES to take advantage of experience and potential, to combat loneliness and boredom.

LIVING FACILITIES, adequate as possible. WHOLESOME ATTITUDES, to deal with life, disabilities and infirmities. SPIRITUAL WHOLENESS, for living and dying - to enable one to live a fuller life and accept dying as an act of God's love and grace.

Under his plan, seminars and Total Living Today magazine will take the inspiration and details to the public and at the same time churches will be encouraged to operate their own programs for their middle age and senior adults aimed at the same objectives.

They will go into many topics with the GO seminar the main one - getting the most out of Growing Older.

There are total living services for Total Living for Fifty Plus that have been arranged, with perhaps others in the offing.

Church assistance is being offered so these churches will be able to offer a service not available from other organizations.

Financial guidance will be offered - is being already through the magazine - with tax savings tips, wiser buying power, Social Security guidelines, information on wills and trusts, it's a "get the most out of your dollar" proposition.

A drug and prescription service is being arranged with the medicine available by mail at the lowest possible cost.

Additional information is available from Total Living for Fifty Plus, Inc., 3748 Jackson Street, Dallas, Texas 75219.

At Making Cotton Inc. Says Cotton Was Sick Industry - Steadily Getting Stronger

present and future came in a talk here recently to the Charlotte Textile Club. He described how cotton steadily lost its share of the fiber markets at the rate of 3 per cent a year from the early 1960s until hitting the bottom of 29 per cent in 1973. It was simply a case, said

Wooters, of the nation's cotton producers not having the tools to compete with the giant synthetic fiber companies. "There we were, just seven years ago, with markets being lost and no one calling on the textile mills" to promote the use of cotton, he recalled.

At the request of a group of concerned cotton producers, Wooters accepted the task of organizing a private company with the research and marketing capabilities to compete in the fiber marketplace. Cotton Incorporated began operations in early 1971.

Two years later, said Wooters, cotton's long decline was halted, and its share of the market has been generally stable ever since. He said Cotton Incorporated research and marketing programs have led to the introduction of a number of products that have made cotton more competitive. Some he mentioned include: -NATURAL BLEND (60 per cent or more) cotton men's dress shirts by Manhattan, Arrow, Van Heusen and some 11 other manufacturers. -The new predominantly cotton "Comfortale" sheet introduced this spring by Cannon Mills. -A durable press, single-knit cotton shirt marketed by Quality Mills of Mount Airy, N.C. Wooters pointed out that the new cotton products emphasize the easy care characteristics that helped push synthetic fibers to the forefront, plus the added comfort of more cotton. "No woman in America," said Wooters, "wants to be the washer-woman for the family."

Faith Begins With Crayons

Remember! Arithmetic began with apples: I had one. You gave me one. Then how many did I have?

So don't be surprised that Faith begins with crayons!

And never forget that in this free land your government compels only secular education. Rightly, it leaves the religious education of your children up to you.

From the first halting strokes with the crayon to the eager use of the Bible as a guide for life, the Church is your ally in the spiritual development of your child's soul.

But the compulsion must come from within . . . from your convictions . . . from your determination that your child may share your Faith.

Wise parents find their children's crying need for religious training a happy incentive for their own church life.

Motorists asked to drive with lights

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Texas motorists are being asked to turn on their low beam headlights during daylight hours of the Memorial Day weekend, Col. Wilson E. Speir said Tuesday.

The director of the Department of Public Safety said this coming weekend marks the opening of the summer vacation season and is accompanied in increased traffic in many parts of the state and nation.

"We believe this holiday travel can be relatively safe if motorists will slow down, adjust their driving to traffic conditions, and avoid drinking," Speir said. "The use of low beam headlights this Saturday, Sunday and Monday by a large number of drivers will serve to call attention to these vital holiday precautions."

"We believe this holiday travel can be relatively safe if motorists will slow down, adjust their driving to traffic conditions, and avoid drinking," Speir said.

Cotton Modules: Who Can Use Them Economically?

RALEIGH—A cotton module builder is expensive, about $18,000, and that means a lot of cotton producers cannot justify making the investment alone, since it takes a minimum of 500 to 600 bales of cotton production to justify ownership of modulating systems.

So how can smaller producers take advantage of the efficiencies of modulating cotton?

That is a question Cotton Incorporated researchers have been asking since they developed the cotton module builder in cooperation with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station.

Their research, and the research of others, has led them to several answers that are making the cost's saving efficiencies of seed-cotton modulating more accessible to smaller producers.

Cotton Incorporated, the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, and several gins have been experimenting with dump trailers—conventional trailers or modifications of conventional trailers—that haul the seedcotton to a central modulating station where the trailers are dumped into a module builder.

Cotton Incorporated and the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station developed dumpable baskets for use with conventional trailer running gear and goose-neck trailers.

These dump trailers carried six bales of spindle-picked seedcotton to the module yard where a dump-hoist boom mounted on a medium-size farm tractor unloaded the basket into the module builder. The trailers are two to three times more expensive than conventional trailers, says Dr. William F. Lalor, Cotton Incorporated manager of systems and cost engineering research.

However, he says, use of the dump trailers for central modulating should mean trailers would be used more intensively, which would make the per bale cost of te dump trailers less than that of conventional trailers that make few trips because they are tied up at the gin.

Research findings on the dump trailer are available in an Agro-Industrial Report published by Cotton Incorporated entitled "Dump Trailers for Central Modulating Facilities." A copy can be obtained by writing Dr. Lalor at Cotton Incorporated, 4505 Creedmore Road, Raleigh, N. C. 27612.

This concept of transferring cotton by dumping into a module builder has now been modified by gins so conventional trailers can be used at a modulating station.

At the Four Forks Gin in Alto, Louisiana, the trailer is anchored to a platform, and the platform is lifted using an overhead boom. The Four Forks Gin put up 2,600 bales that way in 1977. This system is actually cheaper than the modified dump trailer system, says Lalor.

"The expense of these systems to make modulating available to smaller producers is justified by getting faster harvesting and avoiding weather loss," says Lalor. "Each gin community will have to decide for itself whether the extra profit it gets by freeing up the trailers and thus speeding the harvest through modulating will offset the added expense of 1 to 1.2 cents a pound of lint for palletless modulating. Fast harvesting avoids losses in yield and quality, losses that can easily reach 3 cents a pound," Lalor explains.

Construction and cost details for the Four Forks modulating system are available by contacting Louisiana State University Extension Engineer Joe Smilie.

Some producers find the best way to take advantage of modules is to buy a module builder with some neighbors.

Royce Summers, Glenn Toombs, and Gilbert Merritt of Fluvanna, Texas cooperatively bought a module builder in 1977.

Summers says none of the three on his own could justify the expense of the module builder, but together with their combined total of about 800 acres of cotton, they could justify it.

"We started looking at modules in 1976, and in 1977 we bought one," says Summers.

"Getting our cotton out of the field quicker was our biggest reason for buying it. We knew we either had to invest in more trailers because of tie-ups at the gin or get a module builder. So we opted for the module builder. You bet, we're satisfied with it."

At harvest time, they kept two strippers busy and made about 65 modules, according to Summers.

The local gin wasn't prepared to handle modules, so the three arranged for a custom hauler to take the modules to a gin farther away.

One thing that made sharing the module builder work out was that all three partners had a clear understanding of what was involved in modulating before they bought the builder, says Summers. "This, together with good management practices makes our system work," Summers said.

Cotton Incorporated is the fiber company of American cotton producers. Its activities are restricted to research and promotion with the goal of reducing production costs for growers and increasing cotton markets.

State 4-H Roundup

COLLEGE STATION—It's that time again—State 4-H Roundup time. The event annually presents the "cream of the crop" among 4-H members throughout Texas.

This year's Roundup will be held on the campus of Texas A&M University, June 6-7.

Major events of Roundup include the State 4-H Food Show and competition in some 36 contests and demonstrations, ranging from horse and livestock judging to public speaking and demonstrations on safety and home environment.

All in all, some 1,500 4-H boys and girls will be competing for top honors in the various contest areas, points out George McArthur, 4-H and youth specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the parent organization of 4-H. These youth have qualified for the state competition by winning top honors at county and district levels.

This year's Roundup will also offer a new attraction—a State 4-H Project Show. This show provides an opportunity for 4-H members to exhibit their handiwork and expertise in some 25 project classes ranging from veterinary science and forestry to photography and creative arts. Entries will be judged from 7 to 9 p.m. June 6 and will be on display the next day.

Entries in the State 4-H Food Show will be judged the morning of June 6 and awards will be presented at 3:30 p.m.

The Roundup will officially open with ceremonies at 5:30 p.m. June 6, notes McArthur. Distinguished service awards will be presented by the Texas 4-H

U. S. OK's Beef Import

The Government of Brazil has authorized 100,000 tons of beef imports for domestic consumption in 1978. This is an contrast to previous forecasts for imports of about 30,000 tons.

Trade sources report that 75,000 tons have been contracted already. Of the total, Argentina accounts for 25,000 tons and Uruguay 50,000 tons. Paraguay may provide up to 5,000 tons.

According to a government spokesman, these imports have been authorized in an effort to put downward pressure on beef prices. The price of beef in the interior of Sao Paulo State has reached US$52 per 100 pounds, compared with US$42 per 100 pounds authorized for the purchase of beef by the government for domestic stocks. ## Cotton Lower During April

Spot cotton prices averaged lower in April than a month earlier, according to the Cotton Division, Agricultural Marketing Service, USDA. The April monthly average price for grade 41 staple 34 cotton in the 10 markets was 54.72 cents per pound, down 0.29 cents per pound from a month earlier

Soviet Workers Find It Tough

The Wall Street Journal of May 16 reported a letter from a Russian worker Leonid Sery addressed to George Meany, head of the AFL-CIO. Mr. Sery's pay averages 180-200 rubles a month, a good pay for the Soviet Union where a young scientist earns 100 rubles a month and a junior district doctor earns even less. But Mr. Sery's family of eight cannot live on his wages, even supplemented by small government allowances for a large family.

Mr. Sery writes, "We often cannot afford milk for the children. We have borsch once a month, on payday. We eat meat rarely. Our staple diet is tea and bread, sometimes with butter. Somehow we manage to make do, not to die of hunger. We don't have a refrigerator. We don't have any place to keep food...Not all live as we do. There are rich and poor. We do not belong to the privileged class. We are a simple working family with many children.

"As Soviet workers, we are not even entitled to ask for a raise. Our only right is to work, holding our tongue and receiving miserly wages bearing no relation to our family's needs. For the past several years, we have often been required to work on holidays in order to fulfill the plan. We receive compensatory time off at the convenience of management instead of extra pay. This is in addition to the traditional payless work days contributed to the state."

MEAT IMPORT ACT

The Senate has approved, with amendments, H. R. 5052, designed to allow meat imports to enter the United States, based on the so-called counterfactual formula. Hearings in the House Ways and Means Committee are expected in early June.

The idea of the legislation is to permit less meat to enter the United States during periods of low prices, and increased amounts of meat to enter during high price periods, as determined by government.

4-H'ers Discover 'Milky Way' To Nutrition

CHICAGO—June is National Dairy Month—a good time for 4-H members and other young people to think about the need for milk in their diets.

Milk contains calcium essential for healthy teeth and bones, especially during rapid growth periods of childhood and adolescence. It is also a valuable source of high quality protein, riboflavin and other necessary nutrients.

Nutritionists recommend that children 9-12 have three or more glasses of milk a day, and teenagers four or more. Daily requirements can be met by serving milk as a beverage, in products such as ice cream and cheese, or in main dishes, sauces and puddings.

The national 4-H dairy foods program, conducted by the Cooperative Extension Service and supported by Carnation Company, encourages young people 9-19 to plan, prepare and serve meals and snacks that include milk and other dairy products.

4-H members conduct experiments to answer such questions as "What makes milk taste and smell bad?" and "How is cottage cheese made?" They share their skills with others through demonstrations, and they ex-

AMA Says Gardeners Prove Good Therapy

Millions of American householders are back at the annual battle with crab grass and insects in the perennial effort to add a touch of natural color and beauty to the American scene.

The American Medical Association recommends gardening as good therapy and good exercise for almost everyone. It is ordinarily a safe and sane hobby, but gardening entails some hazards to health and safety, most of which can be avoided.

* If you have done nothing more strenuous than sit by the fire most of the winter, take it easy for the first few weekends of gardening. Give your muscles a chance to regain their strength gradually.

* Gardening often brings cuts and scratches from twigs, thorns and sharp tools. Wash the scratch with water and apply bandage. Let it to wash it.

* Power tools, equipment for home gardeners many are sharp and they are so. Study the instructions that come with them and follow them.

* Insect sprays plus poison baits are useful in deterring them. Herein hazardous or carbolic acid, read the label especially the
