Becomings By Duffy

Some famous poet said (or something close to) "If I were higher than the highest hill, mother love, mother love would follow me still."

I was thinking the other day about whether the nicer thing about life is having a mother or being one. Both are pretty special to me, so I thought I'd make a list of for and cons (you have heard of for and cons?).

Special memories which are uniquely mine as a result of having my own particular mother include: being allowed time to sit in the rocker in the living room and think, playing and singing at the piano, being taken to church, being taught the values of honesty, fairness and kindness.

I also remember good food on the table when I came home from school, fresh ironed clothes in my closet and her presence when I came home from school. In short, I remember a general sense of well being.

When I became a mother her advice on child care was clear—"Just treat them like they are little human beings..."

On being a mother...well, there are too many good things to list. Maybe special remembrances on special dates, maybe just everyday living, maybe special words and hugs, but I really think it was just the fact of the children's existence that made it all ok. There have been many good times, and now my youngest is to graduate from high school this month. I said "I'd list some cons, and I know there have been some...but you know, right now, I can't think of a single one."

BRIDAL SHOWER

The bridal shower will be given May 18 by Miss Debbie Burnett and Miss Carla Harbath of Smiley, Texas.

A rice party will be given May 19 by Mrs. Bubba Rix on Nixon.

MORE RECEIVING THAN WORKING

We assumed the following had now occurred, and now an economic report done by Ford Motor Company confirms it. There are now more Americans getting income from tax dollars than there are those working and earning in the private sector.

And the gap is significant and widening.

The study showed that 80,655,000 Americans get a tax dollar check, and only 71,650,000 get a non-tax supported income. Those 71 million are, in a wide aspect of our economy, supporting the 80 million.

It is true that a number of the 80 million on government tax dollar income also pay various types of taxes, including income tax.

Those who get their income from government include the two and a half million federal employees, the military, the vast retired military, the 8 percent unemployed, the millions on welfare, those on Social Security disability, and of course Social Security. There are the nation's teachers, law enforcement officers, firemen, all state, city and county employees, and a variety of people in such things as courts, and specialized districts of government, and public health care force in our hospitals in clinics.

The most rapid rise in numbers of those Americans whose incomes is from tax dollars is the welfare groups, and those on Social Security disability. Liberalization of benefits in the past decade on his was given as a direct cause. Our nation is not starving and not becoming more disabled.

But it seems that certain politicians and political groups would have us believe that we need more checks from Washington for welfare and a strangely expanding number of Americans who become disabled.

The widening gap between this 80 million Americans living off tax generated dollars versus 71 million who are not is the most significant thing in this economic study. It should cause all of us to stop and think about it, and fairly often.

New Texas Gov. Bill Clements promised in this 1978 campaign and reaffirmed this after election that he would reduce Texas state public employee roll by 24,000 over the next four years.

We wish him luck but the odds are against it. The political pressures from the "organized" public employees are great. These are the special interest groups that some liberal politicians attribute to only "business."

Texas state government has some "fat" in its number of employees. And so does all governments, especially in Washington, D.C. President Carter campaigned with a promise to reduce federal employee level. So far, he has seen an increase in numbers.

That is why the odds of closing the gap between payrolls from tax dollars and those from non-tax dollars are rather slim. And our company eventually will feel serious consequences as this gap widens.

—Gilmer Mirror

JUST DOESN'T HAVE THE KILLER INSTINCT!

POOR HANDWRITING

"Americans business is losing between $100 million and $200 million a year due to poor handwriting by workers and executives," says Frank King, executive vice president for the Writing Instrument Manufacturers Association.

For the past 50 years or more, experts have claimed that handwriting has deteriorated to a level that makes it almost a national scandal. King hopes that if business realizes the high price tag for poor penmanship, someone will finally do something about it.

He says the illegible scrawls in business offices, shops and government agencies produce billing mistakes, unreadable names and addresses, with consequent delivery failure, serious bookkeeping errors, indecipherable messages, poor inventory records and a lot of returned mail.

King estimates the direct cost, in lost sales and claims for various defaults, at $100 million a year. The amount of work that has to be redone, sometimes on overtime, because someone's handwriting was illegible could run another $100 million a year.

The pity is that it's all so unnecessary, King says, because there are only two rules that need to be followed to make writing legible:

1. Slow down, make every letter carefully and connect your letters properly to make words.

2. Keep all your writing slanted in the same direction.

We don't know Mr. King, but we agree with his assessment of the situation and acknowledge ourselves as being one of the offenders.

We started printing, not writing, early in life because the penmanship was so bad. Now, a couple of years later, we find we can't write at all — but can print pretty good.

Thank goodness for typewriters. —Jerry Tidwell, Lamb County Leader-News

The logo depicts a group of people standing with hands joined, forming an unbroken circle. In the center is the Mental Health Bell.

The changing shades of people, overlaid on the world in which they live, suggests the power of different individuals united to change conditions. The unbroken circle of people suggests togetherness and unity of organization.

The circle of people with heads towards the bell suggests the many heads concentrating together through an organization trying to find solutions to problems.

That mental health is a full-time, year-round activity is suggested by the fact that there are 12 people forming the circle.

During May citizens here can "make a difference" by contributing to the Mental Health Association.

National Hospital Week

National Hospital Week, May 6-12, is being observed at Lockney General Hospital. The Hospital Week theme this year is "The Voluntary Effort — It's Working For You," referring to the voluntary effort by hospitals, doctors, and others involved in the health care industry, to contain costs while maintaining the quality of American health care.

Lockney General Hospital is committed to a program of cost containment while maintaining high standards of quality care, according to Gayle Fortenberry, hospital administrator.

"Every effort is being made to contain costs at Lockney General Hospital, through food purchasing, supplies bought through two purchasing groups, preventive maintenance, and insurance coverage," Mrs. Fortenberry told The Beacon.

The Lockney hospital has 54 employees, of which 10 are part-time workers. Wages account for 60 percent of the local hospital expenses. Complying with government regulations involves considerable expense.

The top 2 sorghum hybrids on the High Plains are both from Pioneer.

Even in a rough sorghum year like 1978, farmers all over the High Plains brought in good yields with 8501 and 8451 from Pioneer. Both of these hybrids have outstanding qualities that make them ideal for High Plains growing conditions. Talk to your Pioneer dealer soon about one . . . or both of these hybrids for your place.

High Yielding Greenbug Tolerant

Greenbug tolerance without sacrificing yield! Even in marginal conditions this outstanding hybrid makes a good stand. Extremely good early-season vigor coupled with outstanding stress tolerance makes 8451 the kind of sorghum you'd choose even if it weren't tolerant to greenbugs. In side-by-side yield comparisons over a three-year period, 8451 has proven its performance potential by out-yielding later maturing hybrids by almost 350 lbs. per acre. If you need greenbug tolerance, but don't want to give up yield, plant 8451 from Pioneer.

Drought tolerance with high yield potential. In 56 tests over the last three years 8501 has shown a yield advantage of 339 pounds per acre over competitive varieties. A strong stalk and root system give 8501 excellent standability and add to its exceptional drought tolerance. 8501 has good tolerance to smut and MDMV. Very uniform head height, excellent head exertion and beautiful, bronze grain help make its field appearance outstanding.

Regular wheatland sweeps (1) are available in seven sizes from 8 to 20 inches wide. They take land polish quickly, are bottom-beveled to hold sharpness; kill weeds with minimum ridging. High-crown types

(2) are available in 14- to 20-inch sizes 5/16-inch thick compared with 1/4-inch stock on regular sweeps. Heavy-duty low-crown sweeps (3) are 16 to 18 inches wide. All feature wraparound shanks.

These 6-inch chisel sweeps (4) do a good job of breaking up soil for water absorption, and tack in stubble to retard wind erosion. Wraparound shanks ensure positive fit. Ribbing beneath points provides added strength. Heavy-duty sweeps (5) are designed for maximum strength and durability. Choose from five sizes, 6 to 14 inches wide.

Universal sweeps (1) are available in eight widths, 5 to 24 inches. Low crown, narrow shank, low wing angle, and quick scouring produce high-speed work. Peanut sweeps (2) offer eight sizes, 6 to 20 inches, of special design for high-speed cultivation with only slight soil movement. Mixed-land sweeps (3) have eight sizes, 4 to 16 inches; throw soil and leave a mulched surface due to high, broad crown, high wing angle, and broad shank. Blackland sweeps (4) are for areas where scouring is difficult; nine sizes from 4 to 20 inches with high crown and high wing angle. General-purpose sweeps (5) have 4 1/2- and 6-inch sizes with low-pitched wings for good soil flow.

Many of us believe rising health care costs are just like the weather — something everybody talks about, but nobody can do much about. We can do something about rising health costs if we are not just helpless victims of the system. What we can do also benefits us personally. We can all start by taking better care of ourselves. Illness and hospital care is the most expensive care we can have. For example, it has been estimated that 24 million people in the U.S. suffer from hypertension, which is a leading factor in one-third of premature heart attacks. Estimated medical care costs for 1975 were $15.9 billion. That's quite a price tag for a problem that can be controlled with proper diet, exercise and no smoking. Another illustration of the cost of illness is alcoholism. Alcoholism is the single most expensive health problem in the U.S. today, with an estimated price tag of $3.6 billion medical cost in 1975. Who pays the price? We all do, through insurance premiums and higher hospital costs. It makes sense, in my opinion, for us to take better care of ourselves and for health's sake.

This week is National Hospital Week, an excellent time to take a look at your lifestyle and choose healthier habits. As part of the national observance of this week, hospitals across the country are encouraging participation in the National Hospital Week Effort, a national coalition of hospitals, physicians, health insurers, business and consumer groups, joined together to slow the rate of increase in health care costs. We can do it. For the last remains, whatever is done nationally, that we as individuals have the personal responsibility to maintain our health. Start taking care of yourself today and we'll all reap the benefits tomorrow.

IT'S YOUR HEALTH

QUESTION: What are the symptoms of high blood pressure?
ANSWER: There are usually no symptoms. Although some people believe they will feel dizzy, lightheaded, or have headaches as a sign of hypertension, the only way to know if you have hypertension is to have your blood pressure checked regularly. Even healthy individuals who suspect no medical problems should have their blood pressures checked at least once a year.

QUESTION: Who is likely to have hypertension?
ANSWER: The older you are, the more likely you are to have high blood pressure. In the 18-24 age group, only three percent are hypertensive. This rate increases steadily with age up through the 65-74 age group, where more than 40 percent have hypertension. It is more common in men up through age 55, after which it becomes more common in women. Hypertension is more prevalent in blacks than in whites, especially in black females. Among all those with high blood pressure, one-quarter are likely to have obesity and/or diabetes along with hypertension.

QUESTION: Can high blood pressure be cured?
ANSWER: No, but it may be controlled by following treatment prescribed by your physician. Controlled hypertension drastically reduces the risk of other more serious problems such as heart disease, kidney disease and strokes.

QUESTION: How can high blood pressure be controlled?
ANSWER: Your doctor may prescribe a variety of measures including daily medication, reducing your salt intake, losing weight, stopping smoking, and exercising more. If medication has been prescribed, it must be taken every day, even if you feel great.

(Today's authority on high blood pressure was Dr. C. R. Allen Jr., Director, Chronic Disease Division, Texas Department of Health, 1100 W. 49th St., Austin, TX 78756.)

Crappie Catch Good, Bass Fishing Fair At Lake Mackenzie

John McCammon, assistant manager in charge of public relations at Lake Mackenzie reports large catches of crappie, ranging from one pound, caught in Cope Creek and Coronado's Landing (where the cottonwoods are submerged), fishing 8-12 feet deep. Floyd County folks can talk to Locknevites George Sparkman or Owen Thornton, who were there last weekend.

Bass fishing at Mackenzie was fair over the weekend and should improve this week. Anglers at Mackenzie were landing bass weighing up to three pounds.

Walleye fishing was fair, for those experiences enough to catch them. McCammon reports, Walleye have been caught at 25-foot depth off rocky bluffs; trolling is suggested. Water temperature at the lake is 60 degrees; depth is 100 feet; the lake now has about 12 miles of shoreline.

The Miller gave me this the...
Where there is hatred, let me sow...
Where there is injury, pardon;
Where there is doubt, faith;
Where there is despair, hope;
Where there is darkness, light;
Where there is sadness, joy.
O Divine Master, grant that I may...
To be consoled, as to console;
To be understood, as to understand;
To be loved, as to love.
For it is in giving that we receive...
It is in pardoning that we are pardoned...
It is in dying that we are born to life.
