The Lockney Beacon

Lockney (Floyd County), Texas 79241 Sunday, July 1, 1979 12 Pages No. 52

Many Businesses To Close July 4th

Businesses in Lockney will be closed on July 4th. Remaining open will be Queen, Dick's and shops, the swimming pool, Thomason and Page's groceries, and Patterson Grain.

Webster's station will be open until lunch Wednesday, but Gammage station was uncertain.

Several businesses will be open if the farmers are able to work or able to harvest wheat. These include Consumers, Perry and Lockney Cooperatives.

Dick's and Dan's automobiles will be closed Monday instead of Wednesday.

Rogers cafe and pastries will be open on Monday only during this week. They will re-open July 9.

Definitely planning to be closed are Ansley & Son, Baccus Motor, Brown's Department Store, Byrd and Mize pharmacies, J.D. Copeland (telephone business office), Curry Motor Freight, Lockney and Davis lumber companies, First National Bank, Jackson Tire, Lockney Beacon, Johnson and Johnson, City of Lockney, Lockney General Hospital clinic, Miller Insurance, Parker Furniture, Pioneer Gas, Plains Electric, Schacht's, Strickland Restaurant and Southwestern Public Service.

Beacon To Be Printed Early
The Lockney Beacon will be printed on Tuesday afternoon so that employees may observe the July 4th holiday. News and advertising deadlines for the Thursday paper only are Monday at 5:30 p.m. Cooperation with these deadlines will be appreciated. Local Beacon subscribers will receive the paper in Thursday's mail.

Bank Team Might Win 'All The Marbles'

First National Bank team, which shared the season title with Tye Company, squeaked out two wins Wednesday and Thursday nights to have a good chance at winning the whole thing.

The co-champs in the season play were scheduled to meet again Friday night. If First National won, the season is over. If Tye won, they had to play again Saturday.

The Little League tournament results this week have been the following: Lockney Cooperatives beat Lockney Volunteer Fire Department then lost to First National Wednesday night by a score of 8-7. First National beat Tye 16-8 Thursday night in the first game of a "best two-out-of-three" series.

Little Leaguers To Have Family Swimming Party

A swimming party Tuesday night will end the Little League season in Lockney.

The party begins at 7 o'clock and each ballplayer must bring his suit or he can't swim.

Families of the ballplayers are invited to come. Each person that swims will be charged $1.

Each family should bring a picnic supper with enough food for their own family. The swimming pool will be selling soft drinks, or will furnish cups and ice for people who bring tea.

'Boredom Buster' Features Misses Helms, McAlister

First Baptist Church recently hosted a "boredom buster" for teenagers in both the Lockney and Aiken Baptist and the Methodist congregations.

A spaghetti supper prepared by James and Sheila Poole, L.T. and Karen Cooper, Mrs. Richard (Peggy) Wiley and Mrs. Johnny (Pat) Adams was served to the youth.

Other sponsors were Monte Richards and Dennis Noblett, ministers of youth and music at Lockney and Aiken, respectively, and Mrs. Jim (Lela) Warren.

The program of singing, music, testimony and serious silliness on the church lawn was attended by some 50 youth. Special on the program were Carol Helms, former Lockney Junior High basketball coach, and Becky McAlister, who are working with youth groups in the Texas-New Mexico area this summer.

"Birthday Party" To Be Attended By Mitchells

Timothy Michael Mitchell is only six-months-old, but he is going to a very important birthday party Wednesday.

Timothy and the other honored guests aren't really old enough to celebrate, but their parents and some medical people think that the fact that the babies are alive is reason enough for a party.

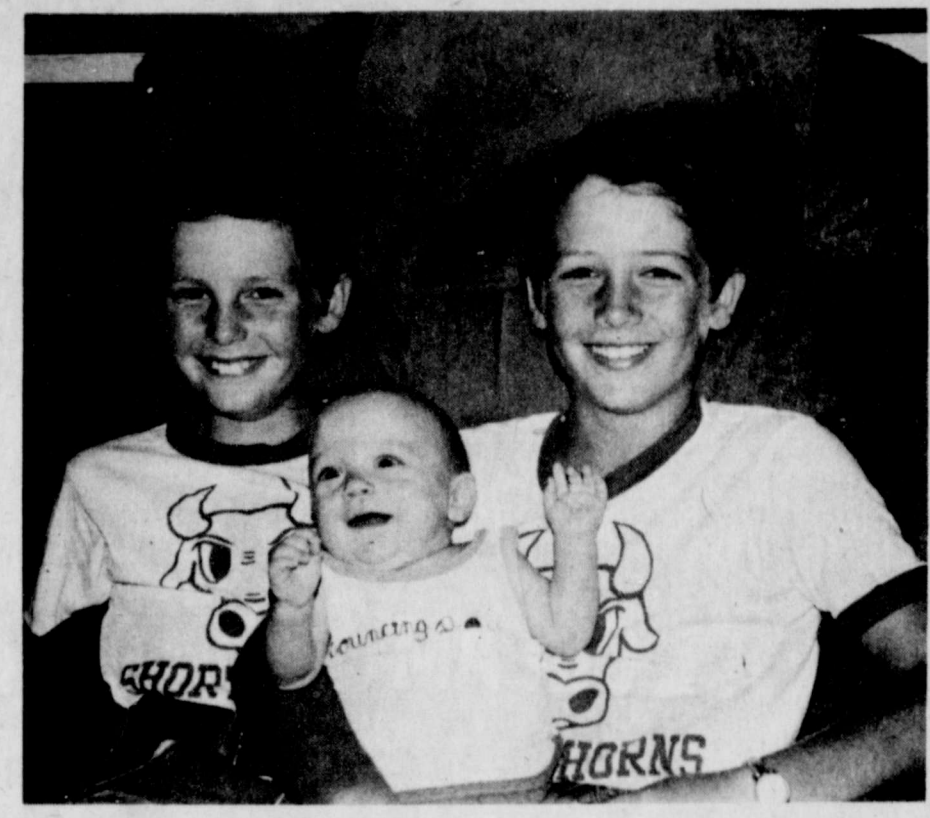

Timothy's parents are Warren and Charlotte Mitchell of Lockney.

The birthday party is being given by the staff of the Neonatal Intensive Care Unit of Health Sciences Center Hospital in Lubbock. All of the honorees have "graduated" from the special intensive care unit since it was opened Feb. 1, 1978.

All of the babies needed highly specialized, concentrated care because they were born with high-risk problems. Timothy Mitchell only weighed 2 lbs. 11 oz. when he arrived Dec. 28 in Central Plains Regional Hospital in Plainview.

and the West Texas Children's Foundation. A picnic lunch will be served and gifts will be presented to each baby.

Over 600 babies have been admitted since the unit opened. It is the only unit of its type in the West Texas area.

SIX-MONTHS-OLD Timothy Mitchell now weighs over 13 pounds, but brothers Joel, left, and Matt, right, can remember the tiny 4-pound version of Timothy that came home from the hospital in February. The baby only weighed 2 lbs. 11 oz. at birth December 28. [Staff Photo]

Dr. Larry Karrh, assisted by Dr. Coe Branch, delivered the Mitchell baby. Neither had much hope for little Timothy when he was rushed to the Lubbock hospital.

Health Sciences Center Hospital doctors and nurses in the neonatal unit used special knowledge, equipment and experience to give Timothy the extra care he needed to survive. He was released from the hospital Feb. 4 after stabilizing at a little over 4 pounds.

Despite an operation and a few baby hood illnesses, Timothy now weighs over 13 pounds.

His brothers, Matt, 10, and Joel, 8, think he is a pretty special little guy. His struggle to live endeared him to the boys before they were able to even touch him.

His parents went to the hospital regularly those weeks that Timothy was in Lubbock. They were permitted to hold and feed him. At first, he didn't even fill his father's hand.

The NICU birthday party is being sponsored by the Health Sciences Center Hospital, the hospital auxiliary

On Horses, Mules, Livery Stables, Wagon Yards And Such

by Felicia Applewhite

If you drive down Seventh Street in Plainview with an old timer, he will begin remembering.

"Plainview Fire Department once was located next to where this alley now is west of Blair Drug Store. The fire department building faced Seventh Street," he begins. "The department had two great, big old horses."

"The harness was suspended above where the horses were hitched. In this way the harness could be dropped down on the team in the least possible time. The harness collars were buckled on the bottom instead of the top as the average collar was buckled. All that remained in harnessing for a quick get away was snapping the britchen and the horses were ready to go."

"The fire alarm was a big bell. When that bell rang, the horses really got nervous and were hard to hold. After they were harnessed, they would come out of that fire station in a dead run. When the fireman wanted the team to stop, they slacked the lines and hollered "whoa." In the absence of a fireman one day, a merchant drove the team. When he got to the fire, he pulled on the lines to stop, but the horses kept running. He circled them around the block. When he came back by, he jumped off and threw the lines down. When he threw the lines down, the horses stopped."

The old Largent barn was on the south side of the block that corners the north-east of the courthouse square.

Once when my horse was shying here and yonder just north of the square, I took my rope down and gave him a rap and the rope got under his tail. He broke in two with me (bucked) in Kneecap mud."

"Cobb's Wagon Yard was in north Plainview near the railroad. I was leading 4 mules just east of the wagon yard. They were big, stout mules that had been delivered to me at the wagon yard by a Mr. Coffee from Hale Center.

"I had necked the four of them together before I started leading them. I was hardly started before the rope got across the breasts of the mules and jerked my horse down. When I saw that the horse was going down, I stepped off and then necked the mules two and two. My horse was a good horse and he had a fair pull but he just couldn't hold those stout mules."

"Plainview had a John Meisterham Boot Shop. Meisterham made cowboy boots for nearly everybody in the West. His shop was located about where Blair Drug Store is now but set off 30 feet. It faced Broadway. Most any cowboy having a pair of boots made there could go back to the water cooler and help himself to a bottle of beer."

"Shipley had a wagon yard just two blocks west of Cobb's wagon yard. Each wagon yard had a sort of bunk house in one corner of the building. Lois of news was exchanged between men from over the area as they stayed a night. They would talk on into the wee hours of the night. Stalls for mules and horses joined the bunks and went on around the walls of the wagon yard. Most of the men had their own food brought from home."

"There was a stove to cook on. A little, old coal oil lamp could be lighted near the stove. It gave a very dim, smoky light."

Once when Dad and I were in the wagon yard, we went to town and bought sausage and cooked it on the stove. It was not as good as ours at home."

"Some men from the wagon yard would go to the Busy Bee Cafe. The Busy Bee was operated in Plainview several years and was moved to several different locations. First, it was on the north side of the square about the middle of the block."

"October 9, 1915, the 101 Show came to Plainview. It attracted nearly every

There will be first, second and third place ribbons in each category and a trophy to the overall winner in each category.

Runners may register until 7 a.m. the morning of the race, but, according to John McCammon, public affairs director, participants are urged to register as soon as possible. Call 633-4318 or at night, call 823-2394. Registration fee is $2.

The annual fireworks display will be bigger and better, as the Lions Clubs of Floydada, Lockney, Silverton and Tulia have donated money for the event. The fireworks will begin at dark, so come early, bring a picnic and get a ringside seat.

Nuptial Vows Unite Cathy Archer, Gary Hill June 30

Miss Cathy Jean Archer became the bride of Gary D. Hill in a double ring service Saturday, June 30, in First United Methodist Church of Lockney at 10 a.m.

Bobby Hise, Church of Christ minister from Albuquerque, N.M., read the wedding ceremony. Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. W.G. "Red" Archer of Lockney, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J.C. Odum of Floydada.

On each side of the nuptial area was a spiral, brass candelabra holding blue tapers. Greenery and ribbon decorated each candelabra. Centering the area was a white memory candle made by the bride's mother, who had hand-lettered on the candle in blue ink the couple's names, their wedding date and "God Is Love". Surrounding the candle were blue silk daisies. All of the flowers used in the wedding were made by the bride and her mother.

Honor attendants were the bride's sister, Janie Archer, and Mike Reeves of Floydada. Bridesmaids were Virginia Mangum, Penny Taylor, Penny Hight, Tammy Adams, cousin of the bride, and Peggy Reeves. The maid of honor wore a blue and white checked dress styled on princess lines with a deep ruffle on the skirt hem. The bodice had bell sleeves edged with white eyelet. The bridesmaids dresses were of the same material but had bodices with necklines edged in white eyelet and short sleeves. The A-line skirts had a deep ruffle at the hemline.

Her veil of illusion, held by a comb, was cathedral-length, and was completed edged in lace.

The bridal bouquet was a cascade of pale blue silk daisies and white baby's breath with streamers of white ribbon tied in love knots.

"Something old" was a heart-shaped locket which had belonged to the bride's maternal great grandmother, the late Eula Moffett of Plainview; "something new" was her wedding gown; "something borrowed" were shoes belonging to the bride's cousin, Tammy Adams; and "something blue" was the traditional garter which was made by the bride. In her shoes were pennies made in the birth years of the couple.

"Rainbow girls" stood in the aisle with each holding a half-arch covered with white silk daisies and ribbons to match her dress color. Four arches were formed by the half-arches meeting as they were held over the heads of the bride and groom as they left the church. The "rainbow girls" were Rhonda McCulloch, in a lime green dress; Bonnie Moffett, the bride's cousin from Haysville, Kansas, in yellow; Kim McCAda in orange and Patti Christy in pink. Their dresses were gingham and styled like those of the bridesmaids.

Reception

The fellowship hall of the church was scene of the reception. The bride's table was laid with an off-white cloth with a blue net overlay. Blue bows caught the net at intervals on the edge of the table. Centering the table was a white seven-branch candleholder with blue votive cups. Blue silk daisies surrounded the candles. The traditional three-tiered wedding cake was topped with a bride and groom figurine. Serving dishes belonged to the bride's maternal grandmother, the late Mrs. Virgil Adams of Plainview.

Serving cake and punch were Rhonda McKay of Amarillo, cousin of the bride, and Brenda Williams. In the houseparty were Mrs. M. E. Wayne Bramlet, Tommy Montandon, Phil Green, Johnny Adams and Jim Hug-gins.

MRS. GARY HILL

Rice bags were distributed by the bride's cousin, Justin Adams.

Rehearsal Dinner
The rehearsal dinner was held in fellowship hall of Main Street Church of Christ. Host was the groom's father, Everett Hill of Slaton. After a short wedding trip, Gary and Cathy Hill will reside in Slaton.

The groom was a 1978 graduate of Floydada High School. He is a welder.

western-minded person in the West. Afterwards, young boys tried doing the 101 tricks. One of the favorite tricks was to stand upright with a foot on each of two mules necked together and ride them at full speed around and around the corral. Most of the boys learned to jump in and out of a rope he was spinning, and some learned to spin a rope while standing on a moving horse.

"The first wagon yard in Lockney was run by Marion Day. Once a drummer who worked a smart mule, bet Marion Day that he could tell that mule to come from the stall and stand by the tongue of the hack. Marion couldn't believe that the mule would do it, so he took the man up on the bet. First, the drummer opened the gate to the stall and told the mule to come out and stand by the tongue of the hack. The mule did that and Marion lost $5.00.

"There was a freighter that came into Marion's place driving four mules. He put two mules together in two stalls. He told Marion that he had better put a rope across the gate or one of the mules would come out. Marion said he couldn't see how a mule could come out of that stall, and he laughed at the man.

Soon one of the mules put his head over the top of the gate and pushed with his breast against the gate and came right on through."

"West of Marion's wagon yard, Mrs. Hill ran an eating place where a lot of freighters ate. Some stayed there. There was a porch on the west side near one of the rooms.

"Ben Jasper had stied there number of times when he was freighting. He always just raised the window near the wash stand in his room and threw the wash water out the window.

"He and Put got there late one night and got the same room. After Ben had washed, he raised the window and threw the water out.

He didn't know that since he was there last that Mrs. Hill had made a room out of the porch. There was a man in the bed where Ben threw his wash water."

"Plainview and Lockney both had lively stables. I believe there was one in Plainview near the old block house — an early-day structure.

In Lockney, Alford's livery stable was on the corner where Jackson Tire Company is now. The stable was well-stocked with buggies and horses for rent. Among the horses was an old horse named Satan. He was mean and high strung.

"Right in the prime of Satan's life, I believe was a man loading a shotgun that he had to be killed. The shot blast that hit him was claimed to be accidental."

"Bill Alford said that he had hauled enough horse manure out of the stable to fertilize a section of land.

"The stable was a good-sized barn with horse stalls on each side of a breezeway in the center.

"The buggies to be rented were pretty nice and were kept in good shape. Alford had one Spalding Hack — maybe two. Land agents coming west in the prospecting days used the hacks taking prospectors or new settlers to see the country. A special courtesy during cold weather was the loan of lap robes.

"There were lots of buggies, but it was the 'sports' who hired them. It gave a man some prestige to drive a buggy fancy with shining wheels and with flynet covering the horse that pulled the buggy. Add to this an over-check that made the horse hold his head high and that was all that some would ask for. There were two horse buggies as well as one-horse ones for hire.

Some of the buggy seats were fancy shaped — in a way similar to the bucket seats we now have in cars. You could see yourself in the polished backs of the seats.

"All the horses were good buggy horses. A stable owner wouldn't settle for less.

"One horse incident with buggy was when a boy was taking his date to a picture show that had no projector and had to be operated by hand crank. The boy knew that the horse he had at the buggy would buck. On the way, when the horse began bucking, the boy was amused and just let him buck.

"The girl became frightened, grabbed the reins with such force that she almost set the horse back in the buggy with them."

"You could feed a horse a bundle of maize for a nickel. A feed of hay was a dime — a nickel a block. Once I fed mine two blocks and liked to have killed him. He wasn't used to it."

"Norman Livesay borrowed two mules from us to pull a fuel wagon to Floydada. The fuel was for an old Case tractor that Sterling Welch used in threshing. Norman was warned that one of the mules would kick him if he had a chance. He had to spend the night in Floydada.

"The next morning, he went out to hitch the team to the wagon. He went into the stall to catch this mule. The mule whirled and kicked him back through the gate. Somebody had to help him harness the team because Norman was so bruised by the impact of the kick."

"If a man came in to town driving a tired, gentle, old horse late at night, he would just drive in and leave the horse harnessed and go look for a bed to sleep. Early the next morning, the manager would unharness and feed the horse."

"Two local men who hung out around the stable each had a powerful bull dog. Once the dogs met on main street in Lockney in a life and death fight. It could be seen that one was going to win. The owner of the losing dog just stooped down and pulled the winning dog off his dog to give his dog a better advantage. This started a fight between the two owners. A crowd gathered around to witness the outcome."

Vicky Ortegon Attends Bluebonnet Girls State

Vicky Ortegon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ramon Ortegon of Lockney, returned home Friday after attending Bluebonnet Girls State June 19-29.

Vicky's participation in the citizenship training was sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary Unit 260 of Plainview.

Girls State was organized as a national Americanism activity in 1937 by the American Legion Auxiliary. Non-partisan and non-political, the purpose of the program is to provide citizenship training for girls of high school age, to afford them an opportu-ity to live together as a self-governing group and to inform them of their privileges, rights and responsibilities which they will assume when they become adults.

The 1979 session of Bluebonnet Girls State was held on the campus of Lutheran College in Seguin, Texas, and was 560 girls.

Vicky was elected municipal "City B". The "state official" by the girls were administered at the office in the Rotunda of the Capitol by Chief Justice Joe Coe and the Texas Supreme Court.

UIL Explains Stand On Summer Activities

To camp. Or not to camp. This question, involving the University Interscholastic League's sanction on specialized summer football, basketball and volleyball camps, is suddenly a hot item of discussion among high school athletic officials and enthusiasts.

The rule states that students attending specialized camps will lose one year's eligibility in the sport or sports in which he or she attended the camp. Despite a setback in court last August and Legislative attempts to circumvent the rule — not to mention probability of further litigation — Texas school administrators voted 670-259 last April to retain the ban on camps.

"The basic question is this: Does the member school have a vested interest in the activities of students during summer months?" said Bill Farney, UIL athletic director. "The answer is 'yes.'"

"The UIL is one of the few remaining amateur organizations in the nation," Farney said. "In order to retain this amateur status, some rules must be enforced throughout the year. For example, the League has restrictions on gaining college instruction in all activities: Music, literary and academic, as well as athletic.

"There are varying degrees of restriction from event to event, and these degrees of restrictions arise from the pressure on students inflicted by members of the community, coaches and other peer groups."

This explains in part why camp participation is allowed in tennis and golf, band and one-act play, but not football or basketball. Community pressure has not come to the point where golfers and thespians are pressured to attend summer camps. In basketball and football, this is not the case. Prior to the rule, students were "indirectly coerced" to attend camps, whether they wished to or not.

League officials contend that already, junior high students (who are not bound by camp prohibitions) are pressured into camps against their will, being told by coaches and others, "You cannot play on the high school team unless you attend a camp this summer."

Farney said, "It is the feelings of the school people that there are a lot more who would be forced into going to camps than there are those who want to go but cannot. In other states, we find this happening."

In addition, sports such as golf and tennis are individual sports, considered lifetime avocations. Football, basketball and volleyball are team oriented sports and, except for a small fraction, most do not participate regularly past the high school level.

Furthermore, golf and tennis as well as baseball are traditional summer sports. Football and basketball are not.

The rules do not prohibit students from attending these camps but state that a student who attended a specialized camp cannot represent the school on the varsity squad. He may play for the junior varsity. The rules do not prohibit summer workouts. An athlete may practice the entire summer, so long as the practices are not organized. Most high schools open gymnasiums in order to allow students workout time of their own.

Rules governing out-of-season participation are not unique to the UIL. The NCAA and other sports organizations, including the professionals, have rules governing organized practices outside the regular season.

"These rules are not adopted by irascible school administrators for no good reason," Farney said. "These people are not given to capricious or arbitrary behavior and the actions they take are given grave consideration. One thing to keep in mind is that every rule in the League Constitution was placed there in order to relieve some abuse of educational competition."

"The League program is structured so that each program is in coordination and perspective with the others," he said. "While some states may allow some activities Texas does not, we here allow quite a bit they may not."

For example, Minnesota allows its schools to play only 19 basketball games per year, in contrast to Texas schools, which can play as many as 35-40.

"We allow more games than most states," Farney said. "We allow schools to conduct a year-long off-season program whereas many states do not allow the one-hour practice period during the school day."

"This is a master plan by the school people to keep our program educational by not infringe upon another school program, and not allowing any of these programs to infringe upon the educational process," Farney said.

Farney said contentions that the camp ban has hurt basketball in Texas are absurd.

"In the first place, just because other states have camps does not mean they don't have problems with them," he said. "We attend national meetings and one of the major concerns is summer camps."

"As for the idea that no camps has hurt Texas, consider that there are no football camps and football in Texas doesn't seem to be suffering. In addition to that, we have the same rule for girls and the overwhelming majority of girls playing for Texas colleges last year were from Texas, playing the five player game despite the fact they've played the six-player game up to this year. And three Texas collegiate teams were ranked in the top ten nationally."

The question is one of interest. Better athletes in Texas traditionally went the football route, not only in high school but in college. Today, more interest is building in basketball and the sport is stronger today than ever and will continue to grow.

Consider the adverse effects of camps: Minority students or those from poorer school districts are at a disadvantage because they cannot afford the high costs of camps. Outstanding players from poor districts could face disqualification in violation of amateur rules if it is found he allowed a coach or other person to pay his way to a camp.

The camps, more often than not, are showcases for college recruiters. The basic activities are fundamentals and playing time. In some cases, the players are taught different fundamentals than the high school coach would teach and problems can arise when the coach attempts to correct or change what the player was taught.

The exceptional athlete will win the college scholarship. The rules affect not only the outstanding few but also the 96-97 percent who'll never participate in college football, basketball or volleyball.

These rules are necessary in order to protect that 97 percent, to make certain they can go out on their own during the summer months rather than being pressured by coaches and other parties to attend an expensive camp.

WHOZITS . . .

Floydada Whozit Stumps Guessers

Nobody guessed the last Floydada Whozit's identity. It was Elaine Anderson Galoway.

FLOYDADA WHOZIT — Anybody recognize this four-year-old cutie pie from a picture taken — well, several years ago?

Weldon And Frances Graves Are Whozits

Despite a picture that was not very clear, several persons have been able to identify Weldon and Frances Graves as last week's Lockney Whozits.

Mrs. Elmo (Lily) Savage says that she identified Weldon from the way he was standing in the picture. Annie Smith of Kress dropped by the Beacon office Tuesday afternoon to tell us that her husband Junior Smith believed the couple to be Weldon and Frances Graves.

One little girl is dark, one little girl is fair, but they are more than just "kin". Their outfits are made of blue velveteen trimmed with white fur. The picture was made right after Christmas in 1941. Call the Beacon office at 652-3318 to make a guess about these little girls' names.

Two junior level contests will be staged at the same time as senior competition, Agent Hillis said. These younger 4-H members, ages 9-11 and 12-14, will not compete beyond the district level.

Awards to the participants will be presented by the Plains Co-op Oil Mill.

Cedar Hill News

by Grace Lemons

Another two inch rain Sunday night and an inch and 1/4 Saturday night put enough water in the lakes that they have overflowed across the highway. The high winds Saturday night did much damage in the community.

The Cedar Hill gin blew away, some buildings on the Bramlet place were destroyed and several television antennas were twisted. There was quite a bit of wheat that had not been harvested. Some parts of Cedar Hill had as much as five inches of rain during Saturday and Sunday.

The churches both dismissed their services Sunday morning. The electricity was out about seventeen hours although the REEA was busy fixing breaks.

Edna Gilly and her granddaughters went to Plainview Sunday and later to Floydada where they visited Mr. and Mrs. C.L. Gilly.

Janice Lackey and children Kelly and Troy of Burleson spent from Wednesday until Friday with Mr. and Mrs. W.E. Lackey. They were on their way to Glorieta to attend the Baptist encampment as representatives from their church. They will return the latter part of the week and visit the Lackeys before returning to their home in Burleson.

Kimberly Ann Lackey and Kelly Kyle Mixon were united in marriage in a family wedding in the First United Methodist Church in Floydada last Saturday June 16 at 7 p.m. with Reverend Isaac Butterworth, Vernon, officiating. Mr. and Mrs. Lindsey Lackey of Cedar Hill are parents of the bride and Mr. and Mrs. Keith Mixon of Levelland are parents of the groom. The bride, given in marriage by her father wore a candlelight gown of ivory sheerganza and Venice lace. The V-neckline was outlined with the Venice lace. The bodice was sprinkled with lace medallions, and the high rise waistline was overlaid with lace. The A-line skirt, which fell into a chapel length train, was accented with a flounce ruffle, headed by a lace band. Linda Turner, sister of the bride, served as matron of honor and Carla Burleson served as bridesmaid. The groom was attired in a candlelight tuxedo which was trimmed in brown at the lapels. Keith Mixon served as best man and Teddy Bayse of Levelland served as groomsman. Guests were seated by Kelly Wade and Marty Toombs. Penny Bertrand, organist accompanied Ann Ford, soloist as she sang "There is Love" and "It Seems I've Always Loved You." Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the fellowship hall. Beverly Burleson served coffee and finger foods from copper and brass appointments at the groom's table. The couple will reside in Hereford after a wedding trip to Colorado. The groom's parents were the Friday evening for the rehearsal dinner at King's restaurant in Floydada.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl F. Lemons had supper Wednesday evening in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Lemons near Lockney.

Mr. and Mrs. W.G. Bourland of Arlington visited Mattie Davis in Plainview last Friday. They were en route to visit Mrs. Bourland's mother in Clovis, who is a patient in the hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. John D. VanHoose spent Saturday night in the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. VanHoose in Floydada.

Mr. and Mrs. Garland Tucker visited Evelyn and Frances Tucker, Viola Hoole and Mrs. Robison in Lubbock Saturday.

Bruce Conner came from Lubbock Monday but due to the rains he returned home. Claude Keeter, 87, of Lockney died Tuesday morning and funeral services were held at the First Baptist Church in Lockney with De Witt Seago of the Lockney First United Methodist Church. Burial was in the Lockney Cemetery under the direction of Moore-Rose Funeral Home. Survivors include four sons: Clinton Keeter of Sun City, California; Olan Keeter of Plainview; Bob Keeter of Tulsa; Joe Keeter of Amarillo; and five daughters, Mrs. Alda Miller of Corona, California; Mrs. Lois Johnston of Salinas, California; Mrs. Mildred Reagan of Lockney; Mrs. Jean Taylor of Hollis, Oklahoma; and Mrs. Joy Assister of Floydada; a sister Mrs. Lois Martin of Lockney and nine half sisters, 27 grandchildren, 28 great-grandchildren and one great-great-grandchild. Dale Taylor, a son-in-law, and Grace Keeter, a daughter-in-law, lived in Cedar Hill until they both married. Several from Cedar Hill attended the funeral.

Commission Registering Artists

The Texas Commission on the Arts is now accepting registration cards to be included in the Texas Artists' Registry, according to Allan Longacre, Commission executive director.

Primary purpose of the new program is to enable persons and organizations seeking professional artists to locate them. The Commission will file registrations by artistic discipline and geographical area and will make all registrations available to persons requesting them.

"The Commission will not screen registrations for qualifications, but will accept all registrations received," said Longacre. "It will be up to the user of the registry to determine the ability or suitability of the individual artist."

Longacre also stressed that the registry should not be considered as an offer of employment for artists. "We want to know what artists are available and where to find them."

To register, an artist should provide the following information on a plain white 3x5-inch card:

Visitors in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Crawford are their grandchildren, Peier and Katy Crawford of Menlo Park, California. They are the children of Max Crawford and Susan Crawford. They plan to visit in Floydada for about two weeks.

SUMMER ROSE CARE

Roses need a little special care this spring and summer to help insure attractive and abundant blooms this fall, contends a landscape/horticulturalist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. Remove spent flowers regularly. Apply a complete fertilizer every four to six weeks until mid-August. Water plants thoroughly to a depth of 8 to 10 inches each week during hot, dry weather. And control blackspot and mildew with regular fungicide sprays (every 10 days to 2 weeks).

Story Hour Will Not Meet Wednesday

Children who attend the weekly story hour at Lockney Branch Library need to remember that it will not be held this week because of the July 4th holiday.

Reading will resume Wednesday, July 11, and will be held the next two Wednesday mornings, ending July 25.

Thirty-one children were present Wednesday as 11 Penseoso members were in charge of the reading.

Registering for the first time were Tommy and Karla Hutton, Louis Luna, Coy Holley, Missy Hayes, Jason Bybee, Jason Johnson and Ruth Elaine Wilson.

Reeda Cay Smith told the children about the Indians who lived in the Palo Duro Canyon area. Kay Martin discussed birds and animals found in Texas, and Ginger Mathis read from the book about "Johnny Texas". The story this time was Johnny's adventures on a trip to Mexico down the San Antonio Trail.

Youth Group Goes To MacKenzie Lake

Lockney United Methodist youth, guests and sponsors enjoyed an outing to MacKenzie Lake Wednesday.

The day was spent in boating, water skiing, swimming and having a wiener roast.

Going on the trip were Jim, Lela, Steve, Russell and Doug Warren, Charlotte Mitchell, Matt and Joel, Amy Shaw, Mary Huffman, Connie Coffman, Christine Huffman, Larry Tannahill, Eddie Kinard, Charlotte Brock, Byron and Kyle, Paul, Zora and Jeff Reecer, Rise Taylor, Stephanie and Kevin Turner, Robin Carthel, Keith Hight and Kay Tannahill.

Research Tracks Fertilizer Needs Of Area Soils

LUBBOCK — New soil testing techniques developed by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station here are helping High Plains farmers know how to fertilize their fields to produce the most profitable yields.

Fertilizer needs change from year to year as certain nutrients are depleted and certain nutrients are built up. "It is necessary to try to understand and account for these changes for the next year's crop," said Dr. Arthur B. Onken, professor of soil fertility with TAES.

Years of research, including more than 200 off-station tests involving every county on the Texas High Plains, have helped develop new tests for nitrogen which now are routine. Similar research is focusing on phosphorus, after nitrogen the next most limiting nutrient to plant growth.

Use of fertilizer materials has wide acceptance on the High Plains, particularly under irrigated conditions, Onken noted. Fertilizer use in this area has increased from 55,000 tons in 1955 to more than 666,000 tons today. Returns on each dollar invested in fertilizers are high, ranging from $2 to $10, depending upon the soil, crop and yield obtained.

"The use of fertilizer materials is an economic investment and must be considered in the light that too much applied is an unwarranted production cost, whereas too little applied results in lost returns due to less than optimum yields," Onken said.

The soil fertility and soil chemistry research program conducted by TAES at Lubbock is directed toward the most efficient use of fertilizer materials for optimum production and quality.

The research is designed and conducted to develop soil fertility programs that fit within the various cultural practices used by producers. These practices are dictated by soil type, availability of irrigation water and climatic factors, Onken noted.

The research is conducted not only at the Texas A&M University Agricultural Research and Extension Center but in fields throughout the High Plains. More than 200 tests have been conducted at off-station locations on major soil types in cooperation with producers and county extension agricultural agents.

It has resulted in the development of a soil test to determine build-up and depletion patterns of nitrogen in soils of the area. Nitrogen most often is the first limiting nutrient in plant growth. This test has been adopted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service Soil Testing Laboratory at Lubbock and is used routinely on all soil samples.

This test has significantly improved recommendations for use of nitrogen fertilizers, the TAES researcher said. Current research has developed a procedure which increases the ability to predict responses by crops to phosphorus, most often the second limiting nutrient to plant growth.

"Slight modifications of this same procedure are being used to study the solubility — and thus the plant availability — of native soil phosphorus and the reaction products of applied fertilizer materials," Onken said.

"While this research has just begun, we have established some solubility and rate of release guidelines based on known crop response. We feel that this research approach is going to greatly increase our knowledge of the behavior of phosphorus in High Plains soils. We need this information to make most efficient use of that which is native to the soil and that which we apply as fertilizers."

Plants obtain nutrients required for growth from several sources. These include the supply native to the soil, previous fertilizer applications, and fertilizer applied in the current crop year.

"From a production standpoint it is more desirable to be able to determine, prior to planting, the nutrient status of the soil and make a reasonable estimate of the amounts of nutrients to be applied to produce a projected yield," Onken said.

Soil testing is the best tool available to meet these needs, he said. Soil test correlations must be based on research data from carefully controlled plots. Natural soil variations must be taken into account and the materials must be applied to the test plots with a relatively high degree of accuracy to assure a reasonable degree of certainty of the amount of fertilizer applied.

"In this way, then, the guesswork can be taken out and the responses from different types of soils for different crops and different climatic conditions can be taken into account," Onken explained.

Soil test results and correlations are generally used in conjunction with anticipated yield potential to make fertilizer use suggestions, he said.

The soil scientist noted that ferti-

Herbicide Application Seminar Planned

PLAINVIEW — Presentations on proper herbicide use and calibration of recirculating and broadcast sprayers, demonstrations by 17 equipment manufacturers, and examination of test plot results will highlight the agenda as farmers and dealers from southwest Oklahoma and the Texas High Plains gather in Plainview for a herbicide application seminar Monday, July 9.

The afternoon session, sponsored by Monsanto, is being held at the Hale County Agricultural Center in Plainview, and will get underway at 12:30 p.m.

Two Monsanto weed control specialists — Dr. Domingo Riego of Oklahoma, and John Mason of Texas — will be joined by Texas A&M weed experts in making presentations to the gathering. Discussions will focus on test plot results, new application concepts, guidelines for calibrating circulating and broadcast sprayers, and proper use of Roundup herbicide. Roundup is the first chemical to be cleared by the Environmental Protection Administration specifically for use through the recirculation machinery.

Local farmers wishing further information can call the Monsanto District Office in Dallas at (817) 461-2223.

COTTON INCORPORATED

Even though cotton has made a strong comeback in the fabric marketplace in the past few years, sales of all synthetic fibers combined continue to surpass sales of cotton.

One key factor in the past growth of synthetics is the aggressive promotion by synthetic manufacturers of their product. Dupont alone is reported as spending three times as much for advertising as does cotton, and 10 times as much for research as cotton.

Does this mean that cotton will be forced into a smaller and smaller role in the world apparel market?

Not necessarily. Continued support by cotton growers of Cotton Incorporated, which conducts research and promotion on behalf of producers, has been instrumental in helping cotton overcome the overwhelming odds in favor of synthetics in the marketplace.

"In 1960, cotton enjoyed a two-thirds share of the U.S. fiber market," said Hal Brockmann, vice president for textile research and development for Cotton Incorporated. "In just 13 years, by 1973, we were down to only a 29% share of the market. We consider 1973-74 the leveling-out year."

"The success of synthetics was due to their very aggressive marketing program. There was no comparable effort on the part of cotton for years."

And when did this begin to change in cotton's favor?

"Cotton Incorporated's reference," said Brockmann, "was the seal of the U.S. and when our advertising began to be implemented on a scale on network TV, we saw a dramatic and immediate payoff to cotton production. The stabilized market share now regained about a 40% added. 'We have seen a return to cotton at the rate of this in part due to the promotion of cotton by Cotton Incorporated.'"

There is one thing that can be sure of. Millions of dollars spent by synthetics companies to promote their product, the counter-punch to their own pledge support of cotton promotion through the organization, Cotton Incorporated.

NFU Dismayed At Rule 9 Revocation

Washington, D.C. — National Farmers Union President Tony Dechant today expressed dismay at President Carter's decision to revoke Special Rule Number 9, which permitted agricultural producers to receive needed supplies of diesel for planting and harvesting this year's crop.

"Many agricultural producers are still in a critical energy need situation," Dechant said. "There are several significant production regions which need diesel fuel to power irrigation pumps during the summer. At the same time, harvest season is upon us and we will need diesel to get the crops out and to market points. It will have been in vain to have provided farmers with the necessary diesel to plant their crops if they don't have the ability to harvest and transport those crops to market."

"We are, however, mindful of the fact that many perishable agricultural products are rotting in the fields for lack of transportation services. Additionally, there is a need to move industry equipment and supplies if we are to avoid a serious economic disruption," Dechant acknowledged.

The Administration now needs to give immediate attention to establishing procedures that will put into priority position the fuel needs generated by the production and harvest cycle in the immediate weeks and months ahead.

COTTON TALKS
FROM PLAINS COTTON GROWERS

Official figures just released by the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service (TCLRS) show 1978 cotton production in the 25 High Plains counties represented by Cotton Growers, Inc., Lubbock, at 2,049,100 bales of pounds net weight.

The 1978 crop year yield was 1,166,200 bales per acre, an all-time record of 3,215,400 produced in 1977.

Planted acreage according to TCLRS was 4,360,000 acres, eclipsing the previous acreage record of 3,749,600 acres in 1977. But after drought and other adverse weather conditions only 3,584,300 acres were harvested in 1978. The per harvested acre came to 274.4 pounds in 1978, compared to 424.1 pounds in 1977 and an average of 378.5 pounds per acre for the 10-year period 1968 through 1977. The highest average per-acre yield ever achieved on the High Plains was the 513.2 pounds recorded in 1965.

Lubbock County with 228,000 bales, led the state in production. Second, third and fourth places were taken by Gaines (172,000), Floyd (164,900), and Hale (158,000). The top four producing counties in 1978, respectively, were Lubbock, Gaines, Hockley and Terry.

Per-acre yield leaders in 1978 were Parmer (414.4), Terry (398), Hale (388) and Lubbock (359). The chart shows planted and harvested acres, yields per harvested acre and total production in 480 pound net weight bales each of the 25 PCG counties.
