What a disappointment! You had a tremendous drive, the perfect chip shot, and a brilliant putt; then your ball stopped a hairsbreadth from the edge of the cup. The birdie you thought was yours didn't materialize.

Of course, it's only a game; it doesn't really matter. But blighted hopes are not always so trivial. What if something really big passes you by? Suppose you don't get that promotion, your son's scholarship is given to someone else, an important client changes his mind, or the stock market wipes out your investment? Where do you turn? Where do you find strength to meet life's disillusionments?

Spiritual values are constant. Fortunes may shift and change but your Church stands firm. The truths and inspiration you find there give meaning, purpose, and stability to your life.

Last Week's Whozit

No one identified last week's Floydada Whozit, Jack Stansell.

LASTS WEEK'S LOCKNEY WHOZIT

As predicted, last week's Lockney Whozit was correctly identified by everyone who called. The Whozit picture was especially easy because her name was visible in the reproduction (we didn't think it would be). Those who guessed Veda Mae (Jones) Miller were Lockneyites Verner Hodel, Ann, Karyn and Melinie Foster, Mrs. Hugh Carroll, Retha Wofford, Beverly Hayes, Dottie Stansell and Beth Kropp, and Melinda Meriwether of Plainview.

LOCKNEY WHOZIT - Anyone know who this Lockney couple is? The picture was made in 1942. 652-3318 is the number to call to register your guess. Look closely, now....

Floydadan In Tech Study To Deter Fire Ants

The fire ant research program at Texas Tech University employs graduate students to conduct a part of the investigations... Michael L. Bishop, left, and James V. Moody of Forney research methodologies. Michael is the son of Mr. and Mrs. G. Bishop, Route 2, Floydada.

...ants isn't every- but for re- Texas Tech. Floydadan, it is an important... Bishop, son of Mrs. Howard Bishop, is a graduate of five graduate Tech who are studying the bio- of the impor- ant. The ants, slowly migrating across the state, present an agricultu- threat to the... people who are collecting... back to serve ward at a rate of about 20 to 30 miles per year along a front from Dallas to Uvalde. Dr. Darryl P. Sanders, Texas Tech entomologist, is concerned that it could reach West Texas in the next decade.

But that depends on how well the ant can adapt to the dry and cold environment in West Texas and the Panhandle. Sub-zero temperatures have prevented the northward movement of the ant, and research during the next 12 months will attempt to determine the effect of hot and dry environments.

Dr. James K. Wangberg, also a Texas Tech entomologist, said, "Soil types do not seem to affect the ant as it can adapt to a wide variety of soils. The ant has already infested more than 40 million acres in Texas."

Sanders and other researchers in entomology and biology are working on a continuing project to control the spread of the fire ant. The Texas Department of Agriculture (TDA) provided $200,000 to Texas Tech in 1977 to begin a fire ant research program, and TDA Commissioner Reagan Brown recently announced an additional $200,000 for the 1979-81 period.

The ant collection, made by Dr. Daniel Bartell and Dr. Oscar Francke, represents ants from 8,000 nests and includes 140 species. The collection provides information on biology, habitat, food habits and behavior.

"Parasites, predators and diseases can be identified from the base knowledge to control ant populations," Bartell explained.

This red fire ant was unknown in the United States 40 years ago, but since its introduction near Mobile, Ala., in the 1930's, it has moved westward.

Density surveys conducted by Ashdown indicate that the fire ant is concentrated along highways and that areas five to 10 feet from the paved edge have particularly high populations.

"The fact that the ants are close to the highways is obviously important because the ant could move faster if it gets an accidental lift on commercial or other vehicles," Ashdown said.

A computer model is being developed to predict where the ant is going and how fast it will get there. Pimm, who is developing the model, continuously feeds new data from the other researchers into the model to improve its accuracy. During the next two years the researchers will complete the collection of ant species; refine computer models; evaluate temperature, humidity and soil types as influencing factors; and screen the efficiency of biological and chemical control.

Ranch Management Conference Scheduled

Discussions geared to methods of producing more beef at less cost will highlight the 17th Annual Ranch Management Conference at the Vernon Regional Junior College Auditorium, Oct. 5.

"The conference is designed to help ranchers fight inflation and maximize profits," explained Dr. Tommy G. Welch, program chairman. Welch is a range brush and weevil control specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

Registration for the educational activity will begin at 8:30 a.m. in the lobby of the Junior College Auditorium. Ranchers from many parts of Texas and Oklahoma are expected to sign in for the program, which opens at 9 a.m., Welch added.

Welcoming participants will be Dr. Jim Fritze, associate dean of instruction for continuing education at the host college. Jim Humphreys, manager of the Pitchfork Land and Cattle Co., Guthrie, will chair the morning session. Fencing methods that save money will be discussed by W.J. Waldrip, general manager of Spade Ranches at Lubbock. A Texas Agricultural Experiment Station researcher, Dr. Rod Heitschmidt, will speak on "More Beef at Less Cost." He is headquartered at the Texas A&M University Agricultural Research and Extension Center at Vernon.

"Ways to Save on Supplemental Feed" will be discussed by Dr. Dennis White, area Extension livestock specialist, Dallas. Norman Britts, area Extension economist in management at Vernon, will speak on "Benefits of Improved Ranch Management."

Use of computers on the ranch, including mini-computers, will be discussed by Dr. Whitney Rounds, area Extension livestock specialist at Vernon, and Dr. Ray Sammons, area Extension economist in management at Amarillo.

During the lunch hour, participants will have an opportunity to view and discuss the computer exhibit.

Chairing the afternoon program will be Gary Mathis, assistant manager for Swenson Ranches, Stamford. Use of accounting records on the ranch will be discussed by Lawrence Harmel, Seymour rancher. Stanton Brown, manager of League Ranch at Benjamin, will speak on "Keeping Good Production Records — Livestock and Rangeland."

The question of "Can We Utilize Mesquite" will be discussed by a three-member panel. Dr. Willie L. Ulich of the Department of Agricultural Engineering and Technology at Texas Tech University will open the discussion with a talk on "Harvesting Mesquite." Edward B. "Bev" Herndon of the Department of Range and Wildlife Management at Texas Tech will discuss "Impact of Shredding Frequency on Mesquite Control." Dr. Reed Richardson of Tech's Department of Animal Science will speak on "Use of Mesquite as Feed Source."

An area range conservationist with the Soil Conservation Service at Abilene, Dan Caudle, will discuss causes of the winter kill of Kleingrass.

The conference is expected to attract between 150 and 200 ranchers. It is sponsored by the Texas Section, Society for Range Management, in cooperation with the Extension Service and Experiment Station of the Texas A&M University System, Texas Tech, Abilene Christian University, the Soil Conservation Service and the Rolling Plains Economic Program (R-PEP), one of the state's area income growth programs.

Farm Bureau News Summary

FARM AND RANCH LOAN AMENDMENT

The 66th Legislature, by a two-thirds vote, has proposed three amendments to the Texas Constitution which a majority of participating voters may approve or disapprove on November 6, 1979. FACTS FOR YOU will discuss the three amendments this week September 21, September 28, and October 5, in the reverse order from the way in which they will appear on the ballot.

If approved, the third proposed amendment would authorize the legislature to provide for the guarantee of loans used to purchase farm and ranch real estate for qualified borrowers. The full text of this amendment is as follows, although only the last sentence will be printed on the ballot, in English and Spanish:

Be it resolved by the Legislature of the State of Texas:

Section 1. That Article III of the Texas Constitution be amended by adding Section 50c to read as follows:

"Sec. 50c. (a) The legislature may provide that the commissioner of agriculture shall have the authority to provide for, issue, and sell general obligation bonds of the State of Texas in an amount not to exceed $10 million. The bonds shall be called 'Farm and Ranch Loan Security Bonds' and shall be executed in such form, denominations and on such terms as may be prescribed by law. The bonds shall bear interest rates fixed by the Legislature of the State of Texas.

"(b) All money received from the sale of Farm and Ranch Loan Security Bonds shall be deposited in a fund hereby created with the State Treasurer to be known as the 'Farm and Ranch Loan Security Fund.' This fund shall be administered without further appropriation by the commissioner of agriculture in the manner prescribed by law.

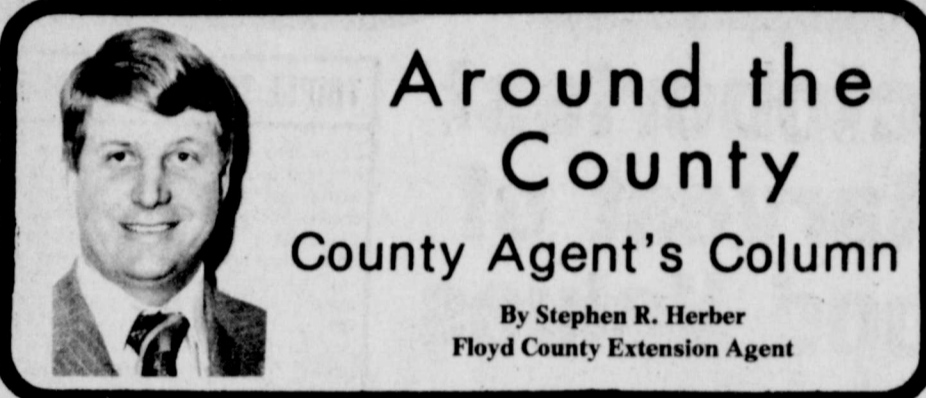

"(c) The Farm and Ranch Loan Security Fund shall be used by the commissioner of agriculture under provisions prescribed by the legislature for the purpose of guaranteeing loans used for the purchase of farm and ranch real estate, for acquiring real estate mortgages or deeds of trust on lands purchased with guaranteed loans, and to advance to the borrower a percentage of the principal and interest due on those loans; provided that the commissioner shall require at least six percent interest be paid by the borrower on any advance of principal and interest. The legislature may authorize the commissioner to sell at foreclosure any land acquired in this manner, and proceeds from that sale shall be deposited in the Farm and Ranch Loan Security Fund.

"(d) The legislature may provide for the investment of money available in the Farm and Ranch Loan Security Fund and the interest and sinking fund established for the payment of bonds issued by the commissioner of agriculture. Income from the investment shall be used for purposes prescribed by the legislature.

"(e) While any of the bonds authorized by this section or any interest on those bonds is outstanding and unpaid, there is hereby appropriated out of the first money coming into the treasury in each fiscal year not otherwise appropriated by this constitution an amount that is sufficient to pay the principal and interest on the bonds that mature or become due during the fiscal year less the amount in the interest and sinking fund at the close of the prior fiscal year."

Sec. 2. The foregoing constitutional amendment shall be submitted to a vote of the qualified electors of this state at an election to be held on November 6, 1979, at which election the ballots shall be printed to provide for voting for or against the proposition: "The constitutional amendment authorizing the legislature to provide for the guarantee of loans for purchase of farm and ranch real estate for qualified borrowers by the sale of general obligation bonds of the State of Texas."

The basic rule of law under the present Texas Constitution is that, unless there are amendments to the contrary, the legislature has no power to give or to lend, or to authorize the giving or lending, of the credit of the state in aid of or to any person, association, or private or municipal corporation. However, several court cases authorize exceptions to this rule if a "public emergency" is involved, such as using the credit of the state for the construction of seawalls to protect a gulf city from storms, or the construction of a bridge over the Red River between Texas and Oklahoma. Whenever Article III, Section 50 is amended courts can no longer hear the objection that the new loan program is not justified by a public emergency, since a separate constitutional basis for the program would then exist.

Beware of NO-TOX

NO-TOX is the trade name for a product that is supposed to neutralize the effects of trazine herbicides such as propazine (milogard) and atrazine (AAT-Res). This product received much attention this year from farmers who wanted to plant cotton or small grains in fields where these relatively long residual herbicides has been used on the previous crop. NO-TOX has been evaluated by Dr. John Abernathy, Texas Agricultural Experiment Station Weed Scientist. None of the studies have shown any positive results. In other words, the product failed to eliminate the harmful effects of the residual triazine herbicides on susceptible crops such as cotton and small grains. Many farmers, tried NO-TOX last year. Because of low residual herbicides levels, crop damage by weather and disease and other factors, many growers are still undecided about the worth of this product to be ineffective. If you have any questions please feel free to contact my office. Dr. Abernathy in Lubbock, or any of our weed specialists in College Station.

Computerized Cattle Service Available

A computerized stocker and feeder cattle budget analysis service is now available to producers in Floyd County.

The service is offered by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service at no charge to the producer. Many producers are now making management decisions concerning their stocker cattle operations on wheat pasture this fall. Fluctuations in cattle prices and increasing production costs necessitate sound decisions regarding cattle purchases and the use of alternative management systems.

Budget forms can be picked up at my office, that can be filled in by producers to aid in these decisions. The forms can be filled out and mailed to the TAEX center in Amarillo where the information will be processed into a detailed financial breakdown for your evaluation. This service allows producers to determine the economic feasibility of the various options available to them. The processed data will be mailed directly to the producers. If you have any questions or wish to use any of the forms please contact me at my office.

Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland's visit to the Lubbock area September 20, according to Donald A. Johnson, Executive Vice President of Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., Lubbock, may well have an impact on the future of High Plains agriculture far beyond the immediate benefits expected from the trip.

The Secretary came primarily to gain first-hand knowledge of hail losses suffered by area farmers in late August. Describing the damage as "horrendous," Bergland said current FmHA loans to affected farmers could be extended, deferred or ballooned, and promised to use his authority to keep anyone from being forced out of farming by the disaster.

Johnson expressed PCG's gratitude for the Secretary's assurances, and said "I also tend to believe what Bergland saw here may give him a better understanding of the need for continuing programs that give farmers more adequate protection against such disasters."

In addition to new disaster loans and extended or deferred current loans, farmers who lost all or part of their crops under disaster provisions of the current farm law. On cotton the payment will be equal to 19.2 cents per pound times the difference between actual yield and 75 percent of the farm's ASCS-established yield.

Obviously such a payment will not fully compensate farmers for losses, "but they will help," Johnson says. "But unless ongoing efforts to secure an extension of the disaster program are successful," he adds, "we won't have even that much protection for the remaining two years of the present farm law."

The Senate has passed a bill providing for an expanded Federal crop insurance plan and a two-year extension of the disaster program. But the House has yet to act on a similar but less palatable measure reported by the House Agriculture Committee. The House bill, as now written, would expand Federal crop insurance but would extend the disaster program for only one year.

The House is expected to consider the Committee bill in October, at which time an amendment will be offered to make its extension of the disaster program compatible with that passed by the Senate.

"This amendment and the bill itself are going to need all the support they can get from the Administration," Johnson believes, "and although the Secretary already has agreed to support the amendment, we're hoping his support will be somewhat more enthusiastic now that he has seen for himself the producer's dire need for protection."

Johnson was also encouraged by the Secretary's remarks on the importance of agricultural exports and the imperative nature of meeting High Plains water needs in the future.

Cotton Today

WHAT'S HAPPENING

Cotton fields with open bolls can be found in many parts of Crosby and Floyd Counties at this time. The majority of fields could use several more weeks of warm weather. The cool nights and mild days have greatly slowed lint development. About the only good thing I can say about the cooler weather is that it has also slowed down the bollworms.

While some eggs are still being laid, bollworm activity has decreased. Night-time temperatures in the low 50's slows development of both eggs and worms. In many cases eggs are not hatching. Larval growth has been slowed to the point that worms will do less damage to bolls.

Some cotton fields have received several heavy egg lays over the past three weeks. In such cases treatment may still be justified if worms are within the treatable size. In most cases only large worms remain and they are already in the bolls. In such cases further control measures would not be beneficial.

It is only now becoming evident to many area producers and businessmen that they have been through a severe bollworm problem. The damage inflicted by bollworms in Crosby and Floyd Counties will easily run into the millions of dollars.

SORGHUM
Harvest of sorghum has begun in a few fields. Sorghum is rapidly maturing with most fields in the hard dough stage. Headworm numbers have decreased in most cases. Sorghum midge are still being found in blooming heads.

FARM AND RANCH LOAN AMENDMENT

The voters have previously authorized the Legislature, by a two-thirds vote, to propose three amendments to the Texas Constitution which would give participating voters a referendum on November 6, 1980. You will discuss the amendments this week September 28, and October 5, in the ballot from the year in which they appear on the ballot.
