Alcohol production can increase ag income

Dr. Steven R. Beck of Texas Tech University's chemical engineering faculty, told Texas senators that farm production of alcohol can increase agricultural income. But the ultimate economy will be in adapting both gasoline and diesel driven engines to run entirely on alcohol.

Beck testified before the Texas Senate Committee on Gasohol meeting in Lubbock.

He said the goal of Texas Tech researchers is to develop a process to produce fuel ethanol at less than $150 per gallon and preferably at $1.10 to $1.20 per gallon.

"A farmer cooperative venture could easily operate a one million gallon per year distillery and produce 200 proof ethanol." he said. Although on the High Plains the real potential for alcohol production lies in crop residue, Beck said, the proposed cooperative was evaluated using grain sorghum as the feedstock.

It was assumed that sorghum would cost $4 per hundredweight. The distillers' grain would have a value of $110 per ton and the carbon dioxide produced in the process could be sold to oil companies for recovery of additional crude at $40 per ton.

"If 100 percent equity financing was used," Beck said, "anhydrous ethanol would have to be sold at $1.49 per gallon to yield a 15 percent rate of return on the investment. The current selling price in Illinois is $1.72 per

He said that farmers could be in for disappointment in gasohol production because, to sell ethanol for blending with gasoline, it must be water-free. This requires complex processing that the individual cannot accomplish easily. Most farm stills, Beck said, produe 140 to 190 proof ethanol should be encouraged," Beck told the committee. 'These can be operated by existing farm labor at low cost, and the ethanol from these small stills could be dried at a central dehydrating facility."

He pointed out that construction and operation of dehydrating facilities creates an opportunity for entrepreneurs that has not been filled at this time but, without such facilities, many farmers could be highly disappointed.

He said a second solution would be to eliminate the dehydration step by discovering methods for using 14-190 proof ethanol as fuel.

Beck said the Texas Tech research team is studying two approaches for this. One is to find a suitable chemical that would prevent water separation when 190 proof ethanol is blended with hydrocarbons. The second approach, "and perhaps the better one," adapt an engine to use only alcohol.

"In the case of spark-ignited engines, this should be relatively easy to accomplish," he said. "In diesel engines a lubricant, such as vegetable oil, will be required.

Bck urged research funding for more study and said "the federal and state govrnments have a responsibility to encourage power ethanol production."

He urged the passage of legislation to exempt from the gasoline tax gasolhol which uses ethanol produced in Texas and the use of gasohol in all state

ANOTHER RECORD YEAR SEEN FOR WORLD COTTON USE; DEMAND REMAINS EXCEPTIONAL ABROAD FOR U.S. COTTON

Another record year appears to be shaping up for world cotton consumption in 1979-80, report economists at Cotton Incorporated. This, says Daniel Troxler, director for demand economics, is one of three key points that emerge from an analysis of world cotton use prospects for the current cotton marketing year.

Among the other noteworthy factors cited are unusual actions by China and Russia that have had a "dramatic effect" on U.S. cotton export demand. In addition, says Troxler, "the prolonged threat of recession has not yet dampened worldwide (textile) mill busi-

New insect discovered

A new insect that might help farmers fight a poisonous fungus in grian has been discovered in a Michigan wheat

Bisham P. Singh of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service said he found the new insect - a tiny, dark beetle during a routine survey in St. Clare county for plant diseases of economic importance in Michigan crops.

James O. Lee, APHIS deputy administrator, said the new insect is one of an obscure specie of beetles never before detected or described in scientific literature anywhere in the world. He said the insect was found feeding on ergot, a common fungus of grain often fed to livestock.

Scientists of the USDA's Science and Education Administration now are taking steps to identify, describe and name the insect.

Ergot is a poison to warm-blooded animals, including people. Some of its components are said to be related to LSD, Lee said.

Ingestion of the fungus in great quantities, Lee said, can kill humans or livestock, frequently posing a problem for farmers. However, the newly-discovered insect, in both immature and adult stages, appears to consume large quantities of the ergot components without any side effects.

Researchers will evaluate whether the insect helps spread the poisonous fungus as it moves from field to field or whether it could be developed as a parasite to control ergot. They also will look at the enzymes in the insect's digestive tract to learn what substances break down the poisonous compounds, a determination which could lead to a possible cure for ergot poisoning, Lee

Farmers should not bear brunt

Washington, D.C. - Senator Lloyd Bentsen on Wednesday argued the need for an early decision on government diversion payments to farmers, noting that many Texas farmers are almost ready to plant crops.

Bentsen, Chairman of the Joint Economic Committee, upheld this point during hearings in which Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland testified on the effectiveness of the new agricultural sanctions toward Russia.

FROM PLAINS COTTON GROWERS, INC. Officials have revealed that the 23rd annual meeting of Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., Lubbock, will be held on the afternoon of Wednesday, April 2 in the Banquet Room of Lubbock Memorial Civic Center.

Complete details will come later, says PCG Executive Vice President Donald Johnson, but it has been decided that the meeting will be built around Cotton Incorporated (CI), the subject that has been under intense discussion in High Plains cotton circles for

"PCG is a service organization," Johnson reasons, "and we could think of no more timely or valuable service to our membership than to use our annual meeting as a forum for clarifying the issues surrounding the controversy that has developed over CI's use of producer funds in national and international development of markets for U.S. cotton and to bring producers up to date on CI accomplishments."

After studying the results of a CI investigation released in June of 1979 by USDA's Office of the Inspector General (OIG) and reviewing actions taken to answer OIG criticism, the 50-man PCG Board of Directors last October passed a strong resolution reaffirming CI support and at the same time calling for continued efforts to improve the fiber company's efficien-

CI operations are conducted under authority of the Cotton Research and Promotion Act of 1966 which stipulates that its programs and policies be established by a CI Board of Directors, made up of cotton producers, subject to approval by the Department of Agriculture and a Cotton Board. The OIG report found fault with certain CI staff actions and also accused the CI Board of Directors, the Cotton Board and USDA of laxity in oversight responsibilities. Consequently PCG will include on its program representatives from all CI entities. All speakers are not confirmed, but P.R. "Bobby" Smith, Assistant USDA Secretary for Marketing Services, who is responsible for USDA's part in CI operations, has agreed to appear.

"Smith, someone from the Cotton Board, a representative of the CI Board of Directors and at least one Cotton Incorporated staff member will be available for questions at the meeting," Johnson said, "and it is our hope that many of the questions that now exist in the minds of producers will be answered to their complete
