Citizen's Pledge to Help Law Enforcement In Floyd County

By Harris
The organization in formation is the Crime Line Board. It is a citizen determined to help law enforcement agencies in Floyd County. Crime Line was taken at a meeting held in the town of Lockney. Mayor Parnell and the board members with the program.

the organization in Lubbock. They named eight persons to be on the drop committee, and nine to be on the grievance committee.
On April 9, 1979 the organization was incorporated. This was done so that the funds would be tax free. "All money used by Crime Line is donated", Nelson said. "Money has never been a problem. Checks come in every day".
The Crime Line program is co-ordinated through the police department. "But the organization is run strictly by the citizens," Nelson said. The main cost is the private telephone line.
That line is open 24 hours a day, manned by Nelson or his partner. He emphasized that it was important to have a person familiar with police procedure to answer the phone. "They have to know what information is necessary to get an indictment. It is a one time chance (to talk to the informant) you have to get every thing you can get," Nelson stressed.

ANONYMITY IS THE KEY

The informant is given a number when he calls in. An example would be 80-001. The 80 would be the year, the 001 would be the individual. "Anonymity is the key to the operation," Nelson said. "Police officers must honor the anonymity of the informant".
The informant is close enough to the crime so that he knows when the criminal has been arrested and indicted. The informant will then call Crime Line giving his number and asking for the reward money. Either he or the Crime Line representative will set up the drop location.
This is handled by the drop committee. They will put the cash reward money in an envelope, mark it with the informants number and leave it at a small grocery store, or hamburger stand. Generally the drop committee member knows the owner of the store. Then at some time the informant picks up his reward money. He then calls back and confirms that he received the drop.

In Lubbock they have a set fee. For murder the reward is $1000, for rape or robbery it is $500, burglary is $300. If an informant will also testify at the trial, the reward money is doubled.

The grievance committee is called in when two informants call in about the same crime. It is up to the committee to decide how the rewards money will be paid. On one murder case in Lubbock the committee decided to pay both informants. The Chief of Police serves on that committee.

CITIZENS RUN CRIME LINE

The one rule that Lubbock has followed is to keep the operation non-political. There are no elected officials on the Board. "It's made up of private citizens," Nelson said.
He told the 43 citizens in attendance at the meeting that the way to get a program started in Floyd County is to Already enrolled in the first telecommunications school scheduled at the A&M West Texas Regional Training Center in August are six persons from Dodge City, Kansas and three from Artesia, New Mexico said Wayne McCauley, a new instructor at the school.

McCauley and his wife, Alice Virginia, will be moving here from Seymour within the next six months.
"I have some traveling to do for the next several weeks and then we will begin making arrangements to move to Floydada," McCauley explained.

This is the fourth trade school offered at the A&M Regional Training Center, McCauley said. He will be teaching cable splicing, installation and repair of telephones and central office repair and maintenance. This program will serve the areas of western Oklahoma, west Texas, eastern New Mexico and western Kansas.
McCauley will also conduct job training and safety on-site programs for telephone cooperatives and independents in New Mexico, Oklahoma, Kansas, West Texas and the Panhandle of Texas.
Beginning work with the Texas Engineering Extension Service April 16, 1980, McCauley started his work in telecommunications with General Telephone in 1950. He worked with Northwest Texas Telephone Company of Point, Texas beginning in 1965, went with West Texas Telephone Company of Pecos in 1967, was in private business for two years and was with General Telephone in Seymour when he accepted his present position.

Depression Occupation Begins An International Business

By Felicia Applewhite
Lloyd Wofford continues to manage the sucker rod company he and his father began in 1934. They did not begin sucker-rod manufacturing as a choice of business. It was depression times and they "were just trying to make a living". In the 46 years since that time, it has grown into a $500,000 business.
Their first sucker rod was made "in the back of the lumber yard" where the handy use of Arthur Barton's power saw took the labor out of hand sawing. This first rod was made from 2x4 pine lumber. It was sawed for a man who needed it and was willing to pay for it because he was "dreading having to saw it by hand." It took one half the 2x4 to make the sucker rod.

bought a little power saw which turned over on a 45 degree angle. They sawed the corners off after it was ripped off and made an octogen-shaped rod. It wasn't smooth, but would pump water and that was what was wanted.
It wasn't long until all the lumber from Barton lumber yard was used as well as all the lumber in West Texas. By that time Woffords were making other parts for windmills.
The company branched out when they began making a pitman which causes the sucker rod to raise and lower as the wheel turns. Since they were soon making more than they could sell locally, they decided to take them to other lumber yards to trade for lumber.

combines quit using wood bearings. But by that time, we had the sucker rod business providing work for my dad and me and three or four other men".
Even before the father and son made sucker rods, they had made a windmill wheel. They had continued making them in their spare time. When World War I was over, they kept on making wheels. Business was big enough that they could buy lumber by the car loads. Wood in a wheel had to be light. They

"We were making windmills for the Pitchfork Ranch. They had about 125 windmills that had wheels from 14 feet to 22 feet large. The depth of water caused the size of the wheel to vary. They bought the wheel in knocked-down sections to haul in a truck. All the wells could be serviced from one truck."
Just at the end of the war, Pitchfork had a barn to burn and "all the windmill stuff" was in the barn. After that, the ranch bought air-motors

LOYD WOFFORD

"What are you going to do with the other half?" they asked. The other half of the 2x4 was given the Woffords as payment for making the sucker rod.
As soon as the man left, "we put that in a bench vice and hand planned it off in an octogen shape like a sucker rod." Before the day was over, another lumber yard customer bought this last made rod. The Woffords bought another 2x4 with the money from the rod and made two sucker rods out of it. That is how Wofford Manufacturing of Company of Lockney had it's beginning.

About this time, they were buying couplings to go on the rod, the most expensive part of a rod. Efforts to buy couplings produced a dozen here, a dozen there, but not enough "to do the job". They had to make some themselves.
"We made some of the crudest things you ever saw at first from parts of old machinery." At present, the company buys 46,000 pounds of iron three times a year for the couplings they make. They galvanize the couplings through a zinc coating to prevent rusting or corroding. Cooper rivets are used to attach couplings to rods.

One day a man came in to say he needed bearings for his combine. Combines then used wooden bearings.
"We made a lot of these. We had a John Deere dealer in Plainview and one in Lubbock who bought the stuff by the truck load. To us it was big business. That's the way we got along until used basswood from East Texas.

mills for their steel mills. That ended Wofford's wheel making.

Now it was back to sucker rods only. They could make one that would last but it didn't look "very good" so that meant new machinery.

In 1957 the company purchased $40,000 worth of new machinery to modernize the plant and now they manufacture only sucker rods.

In 1973, a change came. "I was tired of having to work at the shop all day and do book work at night. I decided to close it up, sell all the supplies and auction off the machinery, but our children wanted the business. So, Jan. 1, 1974, I formed a corporation and turned the business over to Nelson, Anita and Sue. They own the company and I work for them. Nelson will eventually take over. Now he does part of the work and I do part."

During the course of years, the company has used all the American hard wood that they could find. As long as they could get it, they used ash. "The best wood to make sucker rods there is because it is straight and won't warp or twist. It wears well and is tough. It has no color, no taste and no odor."

Oak has also been used but it doesn't run for a while, it will cause water to taste like vinegar when first pumped.

Until ash became unavailable, it was bought around Lufkin and Irvin. After that, Pennsylvania, Indiana, New York, and Vermont furnished ash, but that too was eventually depleted. Even the shorter lengths used in hammer handles, ax handles and hoe handles is all gone. Even if it were available 1000 feet would cost $2,000.

It was necessary to turn to another source for wood for the sucker rods. This time it was apitong, a wood raised in the Philippines. It is a ditterocarpal wood that grows all through Southeast Asia and all the islands of the Far East; Malaysia, Borneo, and Java. The best is grown in the Philippines.

Another wood, not as good as apitong, is kerving, the same family of trees but has more gum. It is the "best we can buy and we have looked the world over."

"We have had our importers look the world over and we find the island wood is the best we can get."

There is a wood in South America and some in Central America that could be used for sucker rods, but the political situation hinders it's purchase. Africa has a lot of wood, but not the kind we have to have."

In the meantime, sucker rod demand and windmill demand is controlled by outside forces.

"We ship everywhere. Some of it goes to South Africa and Australia and other places that are still ranch country. In many places electricity has taken over, eliminating the use of the windmill.

Now, the rising cost of electricity is causing a new demand for windmills. Electricity was the reason "we got down to $100,000 a year in sales. Now, because of the cost of electricity, our sales are up to $500,000."

Ten years ago a utility company would come out and put lines out all over a ranch for a 1 HP submersible pump to water cattle. Now they will not put down a foot of line. The cost of copper wire has gone up so much, that they just can not do it.

"I was in one of our dealer's places in Lubbock a while back. It looked like they had about a half car load of windmills in their warehouse. I asked how many windmills they were selling. They said they sold more in the last six months than in ten years previous. This was about four or five years ago. Of course they are selling more now. There are 5 companies in the United States right now producing windmills.

The lowering of water depth in wells has a close connection with windmill use. "Water depletion helps ing because you can take a well in this country that's nearly dry and a windmill will sit there and pump all day and night because it doesn't pump very much, but you put a centrifugal pump in there that pumps about 60 gallons per minute and it will pump the hole dry and then the water-cooled pump burns up."

At the sawing of so much wood produces a sawdust that has to be disposed of. Burning, even though sawdust smoke is a non-pollutant, makes a thick black smoke that is a bother.

The company resorted to dumping it in holes in the dump yard and burying it. Then a horse raiser from Plainview asked for it to use as flooring in his stables.

At the same time, rip-raps, an inch or more wide, together with old sucker rods are all put in a truck. A man from Matador who runs an ambulance service has lots of time on his hands, so he makes these into stakes to go in ranch fences where the wire is sagging between posts. It is all sold to him for $50 a trailer load.

Even though Wofford's has the buildings on leased land from the Santa Fe Railroad, most of their ship-

Editor's note: This is the oldest company in Lockney doing business under the same management. It was known as Wofford Wood Shop for many years and changed to Wofford Manufacturing in July of 1960 and incorporated in 1973.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

May 25, 1980
Lockney Beacon, Dear friends; John Carroll and Jim Huggins, I guess Robert Willard "Little Doc" McCollum, failed to send in my subscription this year, so I am taking over. So please start my subscription again. "Thank You."
I wish I could come to Lockney just once more, but it is just too far for my feeble steps—ha! I was born in Colorado and lived there until I met Dr. Joe at Carver Chiropractic College in 1922. We were married in 1923.

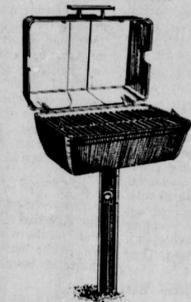

Since then I have been a Texan! Oh, I spent a short time away after Joe's death but all together a very short time, so to speak.
I have heard no more from Hallie King since her home burned. Where is she? I would like to get in touch with her by telephone: #428-8214. If you can pass this along to her tell her to call collect.
Will be looking for the Beacon next week. Sincerely a friend:

MRS. JAMES EARNEST FRANKLIN

Schwertner-Franklin Repeat Vows

Doris Marie Schwertner became the bride of James Earnest Franklin as they exchanged wedding vows in a double ring ceremony on Saturday, May 31 at 3:00 p.m. at St. Elizabeth's Catholic Church in Lubbock.

The Rev. Timothy Schwertner, uncle of the bride, of St. Michael's Catholic Church in Levelland, officiated. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. August E. Schwertner of Floydada. The groom is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. J.E. Franklin of Lubbock.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a wedding gown designed and made by her mother. The formal length gown of white nylon overlaid the white polyester, fashioned with a high neckline outlined in lace.

The bodice was accented in lace and beads. Three tucks accented the full length sleeves with lace cuffs. The full length skirt was accented with three tucks. The hemline was caught up with a white satin bow above an inset of lace. The long train was trimmed with lace matching her dress and veil.

The two tiered lace trimmed fingertip veil of bridal illusion was held in place by a crown of beads. Her bouquet was of white daisies; yellow, apricot, mint green, blue, and pink carnations; and white baby's breath. A white rosary was woven in her bouquet, which was crocheted by her grandmother, the late Mrs. Rudolph Schwertner.

Barbara Schwertner of Floydada, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a sheer yellow flocked formal gown over a solid yellow slip. A solid yellow belt complimented her dress. The dress had a round neckline and

Leona Warren Honored By School

The faculty of R.C. Andrews honored Leona Warren with a surprise breakfast Friday, May 30 in the Andrews Cafeteria. Mrs. Warren has retired after serving a total of 21 years at Andrews. During that time she worked with the cafeteria staff for three years, served as school librarian for three years and has been school secretary for the past 15 years.

Using a travel theme for decorations, the hostess and planning committee for the occasion, used road maps, highway signs, cars and other travel related items for interest. The school office equipment was used for flower vase stands. The honoree was given a travel hanging bag, small travel kit and a nice sum of money for travel expenses by the faculty and friends.

She was also presented with a plaque by Superintendent Jerry Cannon engraved with her name and the number of years she has worked for the Floydada Independent School District. Preston Watson, Andrews principal presented Mrs. Warren with a locket engraved with the letter "L" and the date, 5-30-80.

Among those attending were the faculty of Andrews, other school's faculty members, several school board members, retired teacher friends and Mr. Cannon.

All-American Barbecued Beef Takes On Mexican Accent

Few foods are as American as barbecued beef, but to keep the sandwich interesting, variations are always welcome.

Grilled Cheese Mexicana is one of the infinite variations, using more cheese than ground beef (12 ounces of the dairy product to eight ounces of beef) and a South-of-the-Border flavor accent with tomato paste and chili powder.

Just how does one-half pound of ground beef extend to make six sandwiches? Therein lies the novel treatment: the sandwiches are triple-decker, and the seasoned beef mixture is placed inside circles cut in the middle slice of bread. There's no need to be concerned about heartiness or protein since the cheese gives both.

It will also give a very neat sandwich which is first grilled, then baked. Serve it on a summer's day with a crisp, chilled green salad and ice cold milk, and reap compliments aplenty.

Fourth Annual Writer's Workshop Set For Wayland Baptist College August 11-13

A writing competition has been added to the list of activities slated for the Fourth Annual Writer's Workshop August 11-13 at Wayland Baptist College. Entries of 3,500 words or less are being accepted through July 12 in three categories: fiction, non-fiction and poetry, according to Dr. Dan G. Kent, director of this year's Workshop. Winners in each category will receive a $15 first prize cash award and will be recognized on Tuesday evening of the Workshop. "We've added the writing competition this year to encourage greater participation from those who will be attending the Workshop, and hope that it will also provide incentive for people who have never attended before," Kent explained. Writers may submit as many entries as they wish, although a $2 entry fee must accompany each submission. The writer's full name and address should appear on a cover sheet, with no identifying marks on the manuscript. Each entry will be submitted to an experienced judge, and all participants will receive a certificate and a brief critique of their work. Entries should be mailed to Kent at Wayland Baptist College, Plainview, Texas 79072. A group of 11 writers, including five from Plainview, will lead the fourth annual Workshop on the WBC campus. Keynoting the three-day event will be William H. Stephens, editor of Biblical Illustrator Magazine in Nashville, Tennessee, and his wife Shirley, a free-lance writer. Also featured will be Dr. Jerry Craven, associate professor of English at West Texas State University and widely-published poet; Linda Craven, a free-lance writer who has contributed to numerous national publications; David C. Strawn of Lubbock, veteran writer for the Baptist Sunday School Board; and Mrs. Etta Lynch, a full-time free-lancer from Lubbock. Plainviewians who will be leading conferences are Danny Andrews, managing editor of the Plainview Daily Herald, Louise Harper, columnist for the Plainview Reporter-News; Dr. Fred Howard, professor of religion at Wayland and widely-published writer; Arch Mayfield, assistant professor of English at WBC; and Eddie Owens, Wayland's director of public relations. Advance registration for the Workshop is $30 per person ($35 after August 1) and includes two evening meals. Housing on the WBC campus will also be available for $6 per night, and reservations should be made by August 1. For registration information, contact the first speaker, Vladimir Vladimirovich, at 220 South 2nd Street, Suite 201, Lubbock, Texas 79401. The first speaker was named "King of his earth" and his boys from their 1930s and 1940s to the tragic death of Bob Willis in 1975. This is Al Stricklin's story—the story of a band, a music and an era that still holds fascination for fans all over the nation. ### Bob Bullock Announces New Sales Tax Return

State Comptroller Bob Bullock Monday unveiled a new streamlined sales tax return—the best and shortest in the nation—that he says will reduce paperwork and book-keeping chores for most Texas businesses.

Bullock said the short form sales tax return is about the size of a postcard and will be into use this month. "The best and shortest in the nation, bar none," he said of the new return, "and it won't take a fancy-pants Dallas lawyer to fill it out."

Bullock said 85 percent of all Texas sales tax permit holders will be able to use the short form.

"Now more than a quarter-million taxpayers can fill out their taxes on a pre-printed 9-by-4 inch card in probably less time than it takes to make out a grocery list."

The new short form requires less information from taxpayers than the current sales tax return and state, city and metropolitan transit authority tax rates are combined in one computation.

The new form will also shorten processing time within the Comptroller's office.

Bullock said the design of the form is the result of a concentrated effort by his department to adopt reform measures that assist taxpayers by "making paying taxes as uncomplicated as humanly possible."

"Cumbersome forms at the Comptroller's office are going the way of gas-guzzling cars—into the junk heap."

Bullock said federal officials say government required paperwork at state and local levels nationwide costs between $5 to $9 billion to prepare each year.

"And, they didn't count the frustration level of those who have to do this paperwork and bookkeeping," he said.

"Our new return is just short of being revolutionary. It's a current application of some old advice: Keep it short and keep it simple," he said.

Monthly taxpayers will begin using the new form in June to report their May taxes and quarterly taxpayers will use the new form starting in July to report April, May and June sales.

Retarded Citizens Convention

Representatives from the 85 local member units of the Texas Association for Retarded Citizens will assemble in Corpus Christi June 5-8 for the association's 30th annual convention. The theme—Bridging The Gap—focuses on the efforts being made to bring to the mentally retarded the quality and quantity of services which is their right. Featured speakers include Dr. Marc Gold of the University of Illinois at Champaign-Urbana, Lyn Isbell of Utah, and Dr. William Bronston, M.D. of Sacramento, California. In addition to the main speakers and general business sessions there will be 20 workshops with topics including: communication, legislation, education services, mental health needs of the elderly mentally retarded, residential services, and fundraising.

In conjunction with the convention will be a special conference attended and run by retarded citizens of Texas. These mentally retarded people—self advocates—will be organizing in an attempt to personally bring to the attention of all citizens of Texas their needs and capabilities.

Approximately 500 people are expected to attend the conference and convention.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor,
I am writing in regard to the upcoming election on June 11 concerning weather modification. Only the five western voting precincts in Floyd County are allowed to vote on this matter, but if the vote passes, all Floyd County taxpayers will pay for the election. I don't like having my weather "experimented with" when I don't have a vote in the matter, and I especially resent having to pay for an election that I didn't want in the first place.
I farm two miles downwind from the proposed target area and I believe my rainfall will be directly affected by cloud seeding in the target area. When clouds are modified for the purpose of hail suppression, rain clouds are also suppressed; it's just that simple!
Therefore, I strongly urge all qualified voters in voting precincts 7, 18, 4, 16 and 3 in western Floyd County to vote against weather modification on June 11.

Sincerely,
Larry Bramlett

May 13, 1980
I would like to comment on the cloud seeding issue.

It is claimed by Plains Weather Improvement Association that cloud seeding prevents hail and enhances rain. If this were true, not one person would be in opposition to this program. The facts show that during the cloud seeding years, the target and surrounding areas had MORE hail, MORE tornadoes and MORE violent weather and had LESS rainfall. It has been proven that seeding the clouds affects normal weather patterns for up to 200 miles and cloud seeders themselves cannot guarantee what a single cloud will do when seeded.

A record flood in South Dakota in 1972, which killed 200 people, occurred shortly after a nearby cloud seeding. Idaho experienced a severe drought which they blamed the nearby state of Washington for their cloud seeding efforts, and seriously considered suing the state. The worst storm and flood in Southern California history came only hours after cloud seeding.

PWIA adds that hail insurance will go up. The fact is that EVERYTHING is going up - car insurance, taxes, groceries, gasoline, etc. And, have they mentioned the cost of the proposed cloud seeding program? This will be expensive in itself and will be another added charge for everyone. Don't be led into a dream world; find out the facts for yourself and go to the polls and vote June 11.

Thank you for this opportunity.

VOTE (NO) AGAINST

Weather Modification on June 11

Do you believe a cloud can be seeded over Lockney, (Precinct 18), to modify the weather, and effect the weather across Main St. to the East (Precinct 18) Street in Lockney to vote for cloud seeding when a living East of Main Street cannot vote?

Do you believe it is fair for a person living West of Main Street in Lockney to vote for cloud seeding when a living East of Main Street cannot vote?

Do you believe it is fair for NON VOTING East precinct citizens to help pay for a positive vote in an adjoining Precinct?

A Weather Modification District may ultimately be a TAXING DISTRICT, then you will pay for cloud seeding whether or not you want it. In 1977, the last year the Weather Improvement Association was in operation locally, $282,000.00 was secured by a special appropriation in the Texas Senate Finance Committee to monitor cloud seeding and hail suppression. You have already paid whether or not you wanted to!

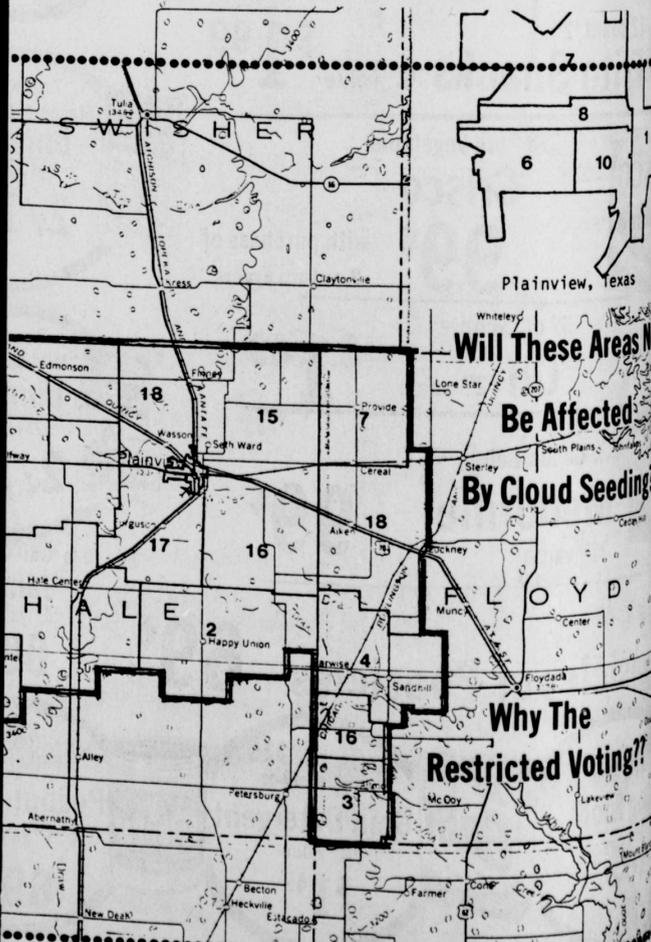

During seven years of Weather Modification almost run off occurred on the Mackenzie water shed. Two years without Weather Modification and hail suppression Lake Mackenzie is a reality with fishing, boating, skiing.

People who live downwind cloud seeding operations they are damaged by cloud seeding. They believe it will be LESS rainfall. Two years ago Brisco county voters voted 430 to 1 against. 430 to 1 opposed to Weather Modification.

Other area votes were:

Swisher County	1878 to 34
Floyd County	727 to 124

Bailey County	763 to 51
Castro County	812 to 306
Lamb County	1648 to 712
Hale County	1416 to 1732

Vote NO to Weather Modification on June 11. If you are a restricted NON-VOTERS...Voice your opinion to the voting who have the opportunity to VOTE NO!!!

High Plains Study Offers Promise for Water Importation

The six-state, $6 million High Plains Study offers great promise for water importation to the High Plains. Dr. Herb Grubb, the director of planning and development for the Texas Department of Water Resources, told the board of Water, Inc., Friday.

During his hour-long presentation, Grubb reviewed the work of the High Plains Study Council, which is the appointive body overseeing the study, and the four importation routes that have been selected by the council for additional investigation. The study, involving Texas, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Colorado, Nebraska and Kansas, marks the first time the problem of the Ogallala has been examined on such a wide basis. That is a major step toward eventual water importation, Grubb said.

"With the High Plains Study Council in place and with a broader base of participation than before," said Grubb, "I think you have a better foundation on which to move. There will be recommendations made to Congress at the end of this particular study. I believe there is a chance for this study to lead to something, but it is up to you to make sure that it does or to help me make sure that it does."

Grubb said Water, Inc., and the people of the region must follow this study up by demanding action for it to be a keystone in solving the decline of the Ogallala aquifer and the resulting economic dislocations.

Although the High Plains Study is primarily an economic endeavor to determine the impact of a dwindling water supply on the local, regional and national economies, it does provide for limited studies of potential importation routes into the area. Of the six that were originally selected for closer examination, four have been approved by the council for additional study. The water sources for those four routes are: (1) the Missouri River in Nebraska and South Dakota (2) the Missouri River on the Kansas-Missouri border (3) the White, Arkansas, Ouachita and Little Rivers in Arkansas and (4) from rivers in Arkansas and Eastern Oklahoma.

Grubb said one of the routes or a combination of routes could prove feasible for alleviating the region's growing water problems. The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers will make the study of the four alternative routes.

Unless something is done, Grubb noted, the agricultural productivity of the Great Plains region will be greatly diminished because the area relies heavily on irrigation.

Floyd Philosopher Comes Up With A Suggestion

Dear editor:
Some people are having trouble understanding the automobile business these days.

Why, they ask, are the big three car makers giving you a $500 rebate if you'll buy one of their new cars? "Buy a car from a dealer and we'll mail you a check for $500 direct from Detroit," the ads read. Why don't they just reduce the price $500 and save the postage, some people are asking.

They shouldn't ask such questions. Rather, they should keep quiet and let the idea spread to other areas. Maybe even the government will catch on.

For example, next year well ahead of April 15 Washington ought to take out an ad in The Hesperian saying "Pay your income taxes early and we'll mail you a check for $1,000."

You might say, why doesn't Washington just reduce taxes and save the trouble of mailing me a rebate, but that's because you don't understand the automobile business of the government either.

You see, when you get a check for buying a car you feel like you're getting something for nothing, while sometimes when you pay your taxes you feel like you're getting nothing for something. A government rebate might offset that feeling, if you can overlook the fact it'll be added to your next year's taxes.

Of course the idea can be carried too far. I'm not in favor of sending anybody a check for buying something produced out here on this farm. No use going hog-wild over it.

On the other hand, a judicial use of the idea has great merit. I'll be glad to trade in my old subscription and buy a new one to The Hesperian if you'll mail me a check for $10.

Yours faithfully,

Fed's Bank Move Unnecessary

The Federal Reserve Bank's recent move toward credit controls may have been unnecessary in the opinion of distinguished economist Robert Solomon, a senior fellow of the Brookings Institution.

On a recent visit to the Texas Christian University campus, Solomon said consumer spending had already started to drop when the Federal Reserve Board put controls on credit cards and other unsecured consumer loans.

"The consumer binge is peetering out," he said in pointing to weak retail sales during the past quarter.

"I don't think consumer credit controls will be needed for very long," Solomon said. "The economy will begin to weaken—in fact, it already has—and the demand for credit will drop."

"In fact, I believe the slowdown had already begun when the Federal Reserve enacted controls. If I'm right (about the recession) we didn't need controls at all," he explained.

Solomon, who has been a member of the Federal Reserve Bank, is the former chief staff economist for the President's Council of Economic Advisors. He was visiting TCU as part of the University's Green Honors Chair program, which brings experts from around the world to campus for a week to give guest lectures to students and the community.
