Sharp quits as Lockney coach

Head of the Lockney Lady Horns varsity basketball team, Marsha Sharp has resigned. Her resignation was accepted at the monthly meeting of the Lockney Board of Education this week. Sharp, who compiled a 127-60 overall record in six years as coach of the Lady Horns, said she hopes to move on to a high school or into college teaching.

Sharp said, "I have no regrets with Lockney, whatsoever." Her teams compiled a 35-6 record in 3-A competition over the six years, finishing the district title two times and finishing second three times. Sharp is a native of Tulia and a graduate of Wayland Baptist College. Lockney school superintendent W.H. Sharp said they have no immediate plans for Sharp in mind.

Chamber banquet

Tickets for the Lockney Chamber of Commerce banquet next Thursday, March 19, are now on sale at member homes in town. Tickets are $6 a piece and only $4 for members. Tickets will also be sold at the door the night of the banquet.

Meeting tonight

The Lockney Chamber of Commerce Executive Committee will meet at 7:30 tonight at the National Bank in Lockney to elect an outstanding man and woman of the year for 1980.

Choose honorees

The Lockney Chamber of Commerce Executive Committee will meet at 7:30 tonight at the National Bank in Lockney to elect an outstanding man and woman of the year for 1980. Candidates for the honor will be nominated and voted for at the meeting. Those chosen will be honored at the Chamber of Commerce Banquet next Thursday, March 19. Jerry Johnson and Elvira Muniz were chosen as the outstanding man and woman for 1979.

In other action, discussed a cutback in teaching personnel for the 1981-82 school year. Hallmark said that because of declining enrollment, expected to total 800 students next year, down from about 840 this year, five teaching positions will probably be eliminated.

Hallmark said a fulltime band director will be hired to replace Raymond Lusk who has become junior high school principal. Hallmark said when a new director is hired, the position of assistant director will be eliminated.

In addition, Hallmark said the choir teacher and one agricultural teacher, who resigned, will not be replaced, and one fifth grade section and one third grade section may be dropped, eliminating two more teaching positions.

The board also: —hired Josefina Perales as migrant aide for the remainder of the current school year, replacing Hope Garza who resigned.

—accepted a bid of $4,970 from Motes Welding and Construction Co., of Plainview for improvements to the entrance to the junior high school.

—approved Maria Arellano, Ken Wofford, Mike Mooney and Merle Mooney, clerks for the April 4 school board election.

—renewed the contracts of all teachers, secretaries and custodians for 1981-82.

Carol Lea Clark's It's Not Easy

Every word my toddler learns is changed just a little as she makes each word her personal possession as she learns it.

On some words she adds a syllable, sox becomes "sockies" and milk is "molkie." Other words are shortened, open becomes "op" and more is "mo."

The problem is that I now say "op," "sockie," "molkie," and "mo," just to name a few of the words that I can no longer say correctly. I know I really shouldn't talk baby talk to my daughter. At least that's what I have been told by every childhood expert from Dr. Spock to my mother-in-law.

I do try. It's just that as her mother I can't help but think that everything she says is cute and so intelligent. I wouldn't want her to think that I don't appreciate her efforts when she says "mo molkie."

But, the problem goes even deeper. Not only can I not stop talking baby talk to my daughter, I find myself talking baby talk to my husband and my dog. Before long I won't be able to go out in public without asking if I can "op" the window, and I'll have to give up drinking milk because I can't say it correctly.

Since my daughter is suddenly learning to use so many words, my husband and I can no longer discuss things as if she doesn't understand.

We have had to resort to the age-old parent trick of spelling words we don't want her to hear. If we're talking about going to the store, we must spell "s-t-o-r-e" or my daughter will have her coat on and be waiting by the door.

Unfortunately, she is learning all too fast what we mean when we spell out simple words like "g-o" or "c-a-n-d-y." If I spell out "m-e-d-i-c-i-n-e" she is hiding under the bed before I even start for the medicine chest.

My daughter may be learning to talk, but my language is ruined. At this rate she may very well learn to spell while I am still talking baby talk.

Ladies Auxiliary sponsors dinner

The Lockney General Hospital Auxiliary will have a spaghetti dinner this Sunday, at noon in the grade school cafeteria. A meal of spaghetti with meat sauce, green salad, French bread, and fruit cobbler, tea and coffee will be served from 11:30 a.m. until 1:30 p.m. Prices for the meal will be $3 for adults and $2.25 for children under 12.

Proceeds from the event will go toward paying for the infant warmer recently purchased for the hospital nursery.

Rowell still on ballot after Confusion over qualifications

BY PATRICK CLARK
Confusion over interpretation of state election laws forced one Lockney City Council candidate to withdraw from the ballot for a few hours before his name was restored to the list by city officials. Lawson Rowell, a resident of Lockney since 1976, withdrew his name from the council race when he was unable to prove that he was a registered voter. City officials initially contended that in order to run for council a candidate must be a registered voter.

However, city attorney Paul Lyle determined that the section of state election laws dealing with cities in Lockney's category does not require a council candidate to be a registered voter.

John Nolan, an attorney with the Texas Secretary of State's office in Austin concurred with Lyle's findings.

"It appears," Nolan said after checking out the state election laws, "that you don't even have to be a registered voter to run for governor."

With Lyle's interpretation, Rowell's candidacy was restored. Rowell was pleased at the final results.

"I never would have withdrawn," Rowell said, "if they hadn't indicated they were going to disqualify me. But I'm happy to be back on the ballot. I feel like the city and the voters have learned something from all of this. These are things that every citizen of the United States should know and I think all the officials should know which laws govern their cities and counties."

Apparently the only requirements for Lockney City Council candidates are that they be residents of the State of Texas and the city for six months prior to the date of election.

With Rowell's name restored to the ballot, there are four candidates for the two council seats being vacated by Councilmen Thurman Davis and Bobby McCormick, and two candidates for mayor.

According to a drawing for ballot position held after the filing deadline the candidates will be listed on the ballots in the following order:

MAYOR
J.D. Copeland
Clarence Ansley
COUNCIL
Kenneth Wofford
Rodger Stapp
Lawson Rowell
Gail Kring

The new mayor and council members will be sworn in by city secretary Erma Lee Duckworth at the regular April council meeting which is specially scheduled for 9 a.m. Tuesday, April 7.

The incumbent council members will canvass the results of the April 4 voting at that meeting and after the results are certified, the new mayor and council members will be sworn in.

If Councilman Copeland is elected mayor, the council will appoint someone to fill his seat for the balance of his term at the council's May meeting. Copeland's council term expires in April 1982.

No one shows up for Lockney budget hearing

The proposed Lockney municipal budget for the next fiscal year will come up for final approval when the city council holds its next regular meeting in April.

No one appeared to speak either for or against the proposed budget at a public hearing last week, held in conjunction with the regular monthly council meeting.

The proposed budget for the new fiscal year beginning April 1 totals $326,562, an increase of a little more than 10 percent over the current budget.

Most of the increase is due to higher fuel and utility costs. Pay raises for municipal employees are also figured in the budget.

More than $14,000 of the budget funds will come from federal revenue sharing funds with $12,000 going for payments on the street sweeper and the other $2,272 going for public service purposes, mainly the purchase of walkie-talkies for the police department.

Other items in the proposed budget include: $65,000 for administration, $45,098 for the police department, $22,750 for the fire department, $74,785 for the water works.

$78,459 for streets and alleys, $13,015 for bonded indebtedness, $12,483 for the dump grounds, $500 for the city farm.

The public hearing on the budget will be held prior to the regular monthly city council meeting.

The council also approved a motion to have the city attorney draft an amended ordinance to raise the fee for using the city dump from $2 to $3. Mayor Claude Brown told the council the dump had been operating at a deficit since the dump operator was given a pay raise. In other action, the council:

—passed a motion authorizing the Floyd County Appraisal District to appraise property in the city. Existing real property will be appraised every five years, new real property annually and personal property every year.

—instructed police chief Bill McConnell to look into a number of complaints of livestock being kept within the city limits.

—instructed fire marshal John Hooten to send a letter to Marble Brothers Gins on Shubert to clean-up their property because of a potential fire hazard. Cotton husks that have accumulated on the ground after ginning at Marble Brothers have been catching fire and smoldering.

Hail hearing gets underway

BY CAROL LEA CLARK
Hundreds attended the first day of the Texas Water Commission public hearing in Plainview yesterday on South Plains weather modification.

The controversy being aired at the hearing is between the Plainview-based Plains Weather Improvement Association (PWIA) and the citizen for natural weather.

PWIA favors hail suppression activities in parts of Floyd, Hale, Lamb, and Castro counties while the Citizens for Natural Weather, an organization of farmers in a twelve county area of the South Plains and Panhandle opposes hail suppression because they believe that it reduces the level of moisture on dry land farms.

In his opening statement Harrell Feldt, attorney for the Citizens for Natural Weather said that the organization believes hail suppression, "will adversely affect property owned by Citizens for Natural Weather members and result in a loss of ability to make a livelihood." He also questioned, "whether the group (PWIA) has reasonable expertise in meteorology to adequately hold weather modification activities."

Royce Carthel the president of Plains Weather Improvement Association and the first witness called by PWIA stated the members of PWIA have "a mutual

Rain may bring weed explosion

Some ranges are already sporting a lot of weeds, and a little rain in dry areas could bring a weed explosion.

So ranchers need to consider herbicides in their arsenal of weapons to fight pesky weeds which render rangeland unproductive.

"Most annual weeds can be controlled with 2,4-D when seedlings are 4 to 8 inches tall and growing rapidly," points out Dr. Tommy Welch with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

Common broomweed is one of the most notorious annual weeds that periodically infests rangeland. In areas that received good fall moisture, common broomweed seedlings may be present. A heavy infestation of this weed will reduce grass production significantly and will reduce forage consumption by cattle in late summer and fall when the weed matures and forms the familiar "broom."

"Common broomweed can be controlled with 2,4-D when seedlings are 4 to 8 inches tall and growing rapidly," says Welch, a range brush and weed control specialist. "When plants begin to mature and develop a broom-shaped top in late spring, control is difficult. Thus positive identification of common broomweed early in the season and a timely herbicide application are keys to successful control."

2,4-D amine can be used effectively in areas that receive more than 25 inches of annual rainfall while 2,4-D low-volatility ester should be used in areas of less rainfall. A 2,4-D-dicamba mixture is a good choice for harder-to-kill weeds, when growth conditions are not ideal, or when annual weeds have begun to mature but have not flowered, notes Welch. Dicamba and 2,4-D can be tank mixed, or a 2,4-D-dicamba mixture (3 to 1 ratio) is commercially available under the trade name Weedmaster.

"In addition to annual weeds, ranchers must also battle perennial weeds that infest some rangeland. Among these are Western ragweed and yankeeweed," says Welch.

2,4-D is a good herbicide for easy-to-kill ragweed while 2,4-D-dicamba is needed for yankeeweed. Good growth conditions are necessary to obtain control of perennial weeds with herbicides, adds the specialist.

If plans have been made to apply a herbicide for mesquite control and weeds are present, a 2,4,5-T-picloram mixture (Tordon 225E) or 2,4,5-T-dicamba will take care of both problems.

Since 2,4,5-T-dicamba is no longer available as a commercial formulation, the mixture must be tank mixed.

Welch notes that ranchers sometimes do not get good weed control due to improper calibration of spray equipment or improper mixing of herbicide.

So those applying their own herbicide should calibrate their spray equipment and read the label for proper mixing instructions.

"To obtain maximum benefits from controlling range weeds with herbicides, ranchers must also practice good grazing management," emphasizes Welch. "If overgrazing is a prime cause for weed infestation, applying a herbicide may provide only short-term weed control. With proper grazing management, a good cover of grass can be maintained and weeds can be reduced."

Nation's cattle herd is increasing sharply

(COLLEGE STATION) — Buildup of the nation's cow herd is "picking up steam," and this could have some definite effects on the cattle industry in the next few years.

"Most cattlemen are continuing to expand their herds, and as a result 1980 was another buildup year in the new cattle cycle," points out Dr. Ed Uvacek, livestock marketing economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System. "In other words, cattlemen are holding back cows and heifers to rebuild their breeding herds."

On January 1, there were 5 percent more beef cows than a year ago in the U.S. The buildup of the nation's cow herd could remain rather rapid for the next year or so, but some slowdown is likely as early as 1984, speculates Uvacek.

"In fact, expansion could be so rapid that over-production problems might again plague the cattle industry by 1985 or '86," he points out.

Few changes asked in program

(WASHINGTON) — The National Cotton Council has asked a Senate agriculture subcommittee to continue the basic principles of the government cotton program for at least four more years, with some fine-tuning to make it work more effectively.

Among changes suggested were an increase in the loan floor from 48 to 55 cents, a target price based on per-acre costs, an export credit revolving fund, and more protection for farmers during export embargoes.

Council President Frank M. Mitchener, Jr., testified that market-oriented farm laws supported by the industry-wide organization and enacted by Congress in the last decade have greatly reduced the government's cotton program expenditures and helped fight inflation.

"Government cotton programs in fiscal 1980 cost only one-tenth what they did a decade ago," he said. "If inflation is taken into account, the cost is less than one-twentieth."

While 22 percent of the federal government's total outlay to stabilize farm income went to cotton in 1970, the percentage fell to only three percent last year.

Mitchener emphasized the importance of a four-year farm bill, pointing out that a one-year extension would bring farm legislation up for consideration in an election year.

It also was recommended that authority be withdrawn for set-aside and Normal Crop Acreage compliance as acreage control mechanisms for cotton. Under either of these, Mitchener said, most farmers can increase cotton acreage and still be in compliance by reducing other crops.

He pointed out that a 20-percent set-aside had been required for cotton on two occasions, and both times cotton plantings actually increased. As an alternative, the Sumner, Mississippi, producer suggested a paid division or a requirement that program eligibility be contingent on planting no more than a percentage of a particular crop's acreage the previous year.

Mitchener strongly urged that CCC funds be used to create a revolving fund to reestablish a direct export credit program for agricultural commodities. He pointed out that these programs were eliminated by Carter administration budget-cutters because the loans showed up falsely in the budget at outright expenditures. Actually the loans were fully repaid with interest but the repayments went into the general treasury under government accounting procedures.

"We keenly believe that stimulation of foreign markets is vital to our nation's effort to curb the inflationary influence of trade deficits," the Council president said.

Serious concern also was expressed about export embargoes on farm commodities except in the case of a national emergency declared by both houses of the Congress. If an embargo should be imposed on cotton for any other reason, the Council asked that payments be made to farmers to hold their revenue at pre-embargo levels.

Other suggestions included: — Continuation of disaster payments in areas where the new crop insurance program is not yet offered;

— Withdrawal of authority for cross-compliance and offsetting compliance because they limit farmers' latitude in making planting decisions and electing whether to participate in a particular crop program; and — Revisions in Title 14 of the 1977 act to advance agricultural research and improve production efficiency.

"These modifications, we believe, will make the cotton program work even more effectively in the future and will enhance our industry's opportunity for increasing its contributions to the nation's well-being," Mitchener concluded.

Around The County

By Jett Major
FLOYD COUNTY EXTENSION AGENT

There are good soils and poor soils in Floyd County although most are not that bad for gardening if prepared properly. Regardless of the type of soil in your garden, it can be improved by adding plenty of organic matter. This is one of the real keys to growing successful vegetables in your backyard.

If your soil is a heavy clay, adding organic matter will improve drainage and aeration as well as allow for better root development. If you have a sandy soil, liberal amounts of organic matter will help it hold water as well as nutrients.

Where do you get organic matter? Peat moss, compost, hay, grass clippings, barnyard fertilizer, leaves or even shredded newspapers are all forms of organic matter available in the area.

When adding organic matter to soil, be sure to apply enough to physically change the soil structure. Ideally, at least one-third of the final soil mix in your garden should be some type of organic material. To accomplish this, spread a 2- to 4-inch layer of organic material over the garden surface and till it to depth of at least 6 to 8 inches.

Apply the recommended rate of fertilizer over the garden surface at the same time and till it in along with the organic material. If you have a known nematode problem in your garden or if your soil sample report indicates that the potential for such a problem exists, then this would also be a good time to treat your soil with a nematocide so it, too, can be tilled in along with the fertilizer and organic matter.

TFU meeting set

Texas Farmers Union will be hosting a breakfast at King's Restaurant tomorrow morning at 7 a.m. New state president Mike Moller is expected to be present.

With the increase in breeding herds, the nation's calf crop will also increase. However, since cattlemen will be holding back more heifers for replacements, the number of calves available for feedlots will likely remain tight, Uvacek explains. This could force feeder cattle prices upward.

"With this expansion in the cattle industry, prices for feeder cattle and calves will likely be strong during the next couple of years," believes Uvacek.

"Of course, the economic health of the cattle feeding industry, which influences the demand for feeders, will have a great deal of impact on how well the overall industry fares. Currently, many fed cattle are moving to market at considerable losses to feedlot operators.

Thus, a strengthening in finished cattle prices would serve to 'prime the pump' for the rest of the cattle industry," contends the specialist.

Residents help Lockney burglar and wife were taken into custody by Lockney Police and Floyd Sheriff's deputies after they burglarized the home of First Bank President Carroll Anderson.

Arnold and Irene Sewell, are held in the Floyd County Jail at $15,000 bail each. Police Chief Bill McConnell says the couple has no permanent residence and apparently arrived in Lockney on a freight train. McConnell says a neighbor of Anderson's in the southwest part of the city, saw the couple allegedly entering Anderson's garage with a telephone and several other items.

While waiting for the couple to arrive on the scene, Record neighbors began following suspects along Spruce Street.

Meeting tomorrow form Lockney

Meeting will be held at 7:30 tomorrow morning at Strickland's restaurant in an effort to reactivate the Lockney chapter of the Lions International.

The Sparkman, who was named president of the chapter at a meeting last week, says about 100 members have been contacted attending tomorrow's meeting.

Lockney Lions Club became active about a year ago, but the club still exists. Sparkman, a regional representative for Charles Wilson, visited the club last week in an effort to get the club going again.

Sparkman says the local club will begin holding breakfast meetings a month if there is sufficient interest in reactivating the club. Sparkman says there are enough prospective members to get the club going again without taking members from other organizations.

Record telephoned police and several neighbors. While waiting for police to arrive on the scene, Record and other neighbors began following the couple along Spruce Street.

Lockney Police Sgt. Charles Higgs and Floyd County Sheriff's Deputy Olan Poteet were on the outskirts of town, in the same car, returning from Floydada when they received the burglary report. Arriving at the scene, Higgs and Poteet found the couple in the 600 block of Spruce Street with Record and other area residents following.

McConnell says the two, who were not armed, were taken into custody without resistance. The bicycle and jewelry taken from Anderson's home were recovered.

"I want to give my personal thanks," McConnell says, "to C.L. Record and other neighbors of Carroll Anderson for their assistance and aid to Sgt. Higgs and Deputy Poteet in this case. The conscientious efforts of Mr. Record and the other neighbors made our job a lot easier."

In past years, Sparkman says, the Lockney Lions Club has had a number of men serve in district offices.

The club was active in supporting the Little League, the Boy Scouts and providing eyeglasses and, Sparkman says, the club was 100 percent supportive in its contributions to the crippled children's camp at Kerrville.

interest to reasonably seed clouds to increase rainfall and to reduce damaging hail."

Thus, the two farmer groups disagree on the long term effects of weather modification through hail suppression.

The hearing is expected to continue through tomorrow at the American Legion Post 260, 111 Ash in Plainview. According to Texas Water Commission examiner John Green who is officiating at the hearing, "the level of feeling generated by this meeting is indicated by the fact that the American Legion Hall was the only meeting hall in Plainview that would allow us to hold the public hearing."

All the other organizations were afraid that the losing side would associate them with the outcome of the hearing."

The subject of the public hearing is a request for specific permits for the Plainview based Plains Water Improvement Association (PWIA) for actual hail suppression work.

PWIA now has a weather modification license from the water commission but the license does not authorize any actual hail suppression work. A separate permit has to be issued defining the areas for the hail suppression project.

project that defeated the measure can be excluded from the permit area, but opposing precincts which are located completely in the target area must be left in the permit area, according to the hail suppression election law.

The controversy over weather modification by hail suppression is not new to the South Plains and the Panhandle area. There has been a continuing confrontation between opponents and proponents of hail suppression for at least a decade.

The Plainview based Plains Weather Improvement Association operated a hail suppression program for 1970 to 1977, supported by some farmers and opposed by others. In 1978, however, because of defeats in series of elections throughout the area, PWIA's request for an operating permit that year was defeated, mainly due to the opposition of the Citizens for Natural Weather.

In 1980 the Plains Weather Improvement Association again became eligible to apply for an operating permit, which set the stage for another round of the High Plains weather modification story.

Only three file for hospital board

Only the three incumbent candidates up for re-election have filed for election to the board of directors of the Lockney General Hospital in the April 4 balloting.

Filing for election prior to this week's deadline were:

—Chester Carthel, who is seeking a third two-year term on the board.

—Kenneth Tate, who is seeking a second term.

—R.D. Bacus, who is also seeking a second term.

Since there are only three candidates for the three seats all three men are assured of re-election.

The other two members of the board, chairman Leslie Ferguson and Francis Montandon, are not up for re-election until next year.

Board members may only hold office for three consecutive terms and Carthel will be ineligible for re-election after completing his next term in 1983.

Earn money sitting around.

The way things are these days, nobody can afford to waste money. So next time you think of all the hard-earned cash parked on its duff in your checking account, ask yourself if it wouldn't be better off elsewhere. In a different sort of checking account. One that earns interest, seven days a week, twenty-four hours a day, just like a savings account. Naturally, there are conditions. Average balance requirements. Minimum balance requirements. # Balderas-Rodriguez wed at San Jose Catholic Church

Fresh flowers graced the altar at San Jose Catholic Church where Blanca (Estela) Balderas became the bride of Rodney (Ramond) Rodriguez. Officiating the Saturday, February 28, ceremony were Joe Bixenman, pastor, and Rev. Ramon Asebedo, pastor of Plains Mission Baptist Church.

Noe Martinez of Uvalde, served as best man and groomsmen were Troy Marquez, Lubbock, Ramon Martinez, Uvalde, and Randy David of Dallas.

The traditional long white gown chosen by the bride, featured a bodice overlaid with lace and a square neckline edged in matching lace. The full sleeves gathered to deep lace cuffs. The long skirt fell from an empire waistline and swept to a cathedral-length train outlined in lace. Her veil of illusion was caught to a tiara crown of crystal and pearls. The bride carried a bouquet of white flowers and crystal and pearl beads.

She also wore a necklace given to her by Kay Sherman as something old. Something borrowed was a set of diamond earrings belonging to Jennifer Smith and something blue was the garter.

A formal white gown was worn by the maid of honor and she carried a white floral bouquet. The other attendants were attired in lilac satin dresses that featured a low neckline.

The empire waistlines were complimented with purple velvet ribbon which fell into streamers. Each attendant wore silk flowers in her hair and carried a pink rose with baby's breath.

Others assisting with the reception were Lidea Rodriguez, Lucita Arjona, and Mrs. Ochoa.

White cloths covered the tables which featured fresh white flowers. Pink and white streamers complemented the decor.

The Copa Cabana of Lubbock, furnished music for the dance.

INSUR-MATION
Floyd County
Insurance Agency Jerry Cooper

I understand that banks require insurance coverage on cars which they finance. What type of coverage will I have to have to meet the bank's requirements? Physical damage coverage is generally the only insurance requirement, and that is basically divided into two parts: comprehensive and collision. Comprehensive applies to physical loss other than by collision, such as glass breakage, fire and hail damage, etc., and may be purchased with or without deductible, depending upon how much you wish to pay in premiums. Collision pays for all losses incurred by collision with another object, and may be purchased in various deductibles. It is sound financial planning, however, to make sure that you are adequately covered for all eventualities and not just enough to meet the requirements of the bank.

By Shelly Harris

It's not easy to be an elected official. I know it's not easy sitting at a table and trying to decide who will get public funds when there is not enough money to go around.

Now that in any county where the budget makes a bog out of the budget and where forty percent of the budget has to use those roads, their help is a major concern.

I surely wish that when the commissioners doled out the revenue money they could have granted the Senior Citizens the money that they had asked for.

Three groups came before the county to ask for a share of the revenue. One was the Floyd County Historical Commission. They wanted to begin erecting markers on historical sites in the county. They were given the budget for $500 and that was approved by the court.

Another group that went before the commissioners for funds was "Friends of the Courthouse Elevator Fund." They had asked for $1000 for construction purposes. They were given the tentative budget for $1000.

Commissioner Bob Jarrett made a motion that they be taken off the revenue budget and that their $1000 be taken from the courthouse elevator fund.

It was with that same motion that the tentative budget was deleted and that $2000 was also deleted from the Courthouse Elevator Fund.

Motion was to delete the funds from the library and for the Senior Citizens, but the remainder of the budget was to be adopted as read.

Spence, new commissioner from the county, voted against the motion. Judge Choise Smith voted for the motion.

Jarrett, Jack Lackey and Thomas Warren voted for the budget with its amendments and the motion passed.

The Floydada Senior Citizens also has Lockney memberships and county wide participation they say.

The Senior Citizens asked for $4000. They wanted to use the money to get their hot meal program started. That $4000 was cut to $2000 in the proposed budget. Then the amount was cut out altogether.

The Senior Citizens weren't asking for charity. They wouldn't have accepted it if it had been offered.

They want to begin a business of preparing nutritious hot meals at the center every noon. They would charge a minimal amount.

The lunches would be available for the elderly who live alone and don't cook the nutritious meals they should for themselves.

The price would be low enough that those on fixed income could afford the well balanced meal.

It would be a business the Senior Citizens would be involved in. They believe that in a month or two the program would pay for itself. The counties close to Floyd that have such a lunch program are self-supported.

All that the Senior Citizens asked for were the funds to get started and to run the lunchroom for one month. The money was to go for salary for the nutritionist-cook and for supplies.

It seems to me that this group of people, 1600 strong in this county, were the ones that gave the rest of us our start and that we certainly should do the same for them.

Since there is no county money for this worthy project it will have to come from some place else.

So how about putting on your thinking caps out there citizens of the county. I have watched you do amazing things to raise money whether it was for the "Jaws of Life," the heart monitor, or just to get your crop in.

The Senior Citizens need a little help right now. How about it? Has anybody got any ideas?

MELISSA PEREZ (left) and Irene Mariscal, representatives of the Lockney Future Teachers of America, presented a check of $100 to Sherry Cannon, member of the Floyd County Child Welfare Board. The money will be used to provide clothes and other necessities for foster children in Floyd County.

Pamphlet on taxes is available

The tax assessor-collector for the Lockney Independent School District, Jack Samford, has a 12-page pamphlet available at his office at 120 South Main St., that may help district residents save on their property taxes.

The pamphlet explains how the property tax system in Texas operates and highlights possible tax savings available to citizens.

The publication was developed by the Texas Property Tax Board in accordance with the provisions of the Property Tax Code which was passed by the 66th legislature in 1979.

Resident homeowners are eligible for a $5,000 school homestead exemption and certain disabled persons and those aged 65-years or older may qualify for an additional $10,000 exemption from the value of their property.

Samford said, "taxpayers who were 65 or older on January 1 of this year are also entitled to a school tax freeze on the tax bill for their house and yard. The elderly must make application to get the freeze in 1981 or retain one acquired in 1979 or 1980."

To qualify for the exemptions and productivity valuation, however, application should be made to the Floyd County Appraisal District office before the district's reditition period ends April 1.

"District residents," Samford said, "are encouraged to review the pamphlet and make application for all tax relief to which they are entitled before the rendition period ends."

The Floyd County Appraisal office is located in the county courthouse at Floydada directly across the hall from the tax office.

Samford said his office will be glad to provide assistance in completing applications and redititions for Lockney residents.

Commissioners veto elderly funds

The Senior Citizens and the Library were cut out of any Revenue Sharing funds by a bare 3-2 vote during County Commissioners Monday.

The Courthouse elevator fund was approved with $28,000 which should be enough to get the project started. Suggestion was made that an architect be asked to come to the next regular court meeting.

The major part of the $86,784 in Revenue Sharing funds was allocated to the four Floyd County precincts. This will likely mean it will be used for road funds. The precinct share amounted to $54,834.

The Central Plains MHMR received $3200; Floyd County Day Care Center received $250; Floyd County Historical Commission received $500.

The Senior Citizens were in the proposed budget for $2000 and the Floyd County Library was in the proposed budget for $1000.

Motion was made by Bob Jarrett that the $1000 allocated to the Floyd County Library Construction Fund be deleted and $1000 be added to the Courthouse elevator fund. Also in that motion the $2000 allocated to the Floydada Senior Citizens was deleted and $2000 was added to the Courthouse Elevator Fund. The remainder of the budget was adopted as read.

Those voting for the amendment were Bob Jarrett, Jack Lackey, and Thomas Warren. Voting against were Sam Spence and Judge Choise Smith.

Another split vote came up when Jack Lackey made the motion that Floyd County not pay their membership dues to South Plains Association of Governments for the year of 1981. Jarrett seconded. Jarrett and Lackey voted for. Thomas Warren, Sam Spence and Choise Smith voted against.

Then in a motion made by Warren and seconded by Jarrett, Commissioner Spence was appointed to represent the county on the South Plains Association of Governments board.

Ron Bibeau was hired as trapper for county. He has transferred from Callahan County, where he was trapper for 3 1/2 years.

He is living on the Truman Murrell Ranch.

Anyone who has predator problems can contact Bibeau at 806-469-5338 or P.O. Box 183, Quitaque, TX 79255.

County Tax Assessor Jonelle Fawver reported to the court that the tax statements were mailed out the first of March. She estimated that over 50% of the taxes have already been collected. She is hopeful that 90% of the taxes will be collected by the end of March.

The 3% discount will be good until March 31.

Lockney Rotary Club sponsors driving course

Defensive driving course sponsored by Lockney Rotary Club will get away at 7 p.m. Monday, March 23.

The course will continue at 7 p.m. Tuesday, March 24, and will conclude a session at 7 p.m. Thursday, March 26.

True, all hearing problems are not alike and some cannot be helped by a hearing aid. But audiologists report that many can be helped by this free model now, and wear the privacy of your own home. It is not a hearing aid, but it will show you how hearing help can be. It's yours to keep. The actual aid weighs less than a fourth ounce, and it's all at ear level, in one ear.

These models are free, so we suggest you write for yours now. Again, we repeat, there is no cost, and certainly no obligation. Thousands have already been mailed, so write today to Dept. 82791, Beltone Electronics, 4201 W. Victoria, Chicago, Ill. 60646.

Perspectives

The survivalists are getting a lot of press these days. These people are convinced that the end of the world is just within reach and they intend to be ready for it. Some of them feel that the beginning of the end is already upon us, and are trying to stem the tide.

At the least, the survivalists have begun stockpiling non-perishable goods, enough for about three years, the length of time it will take for fall-out to quit falling out, and for things to become relatively safe again.

In their more extreme manifestations, the survivalists build radiation-proof shelters (just big enough for their families), and arm themselves in order to fend off what they perceive will be bands of marauders - people who did not have enough sense to see what was coming and got caught unprepared. It will be a dog-eat-dog, every-man-for-himself life, they calmly assure us.

For those groups which believe we are already in trouble, the principle which seems to run their lives is selfishness.

They have decided that the world is already shot to hell, and that their way of life is the only one worth preserving is their own. Thus, they conduct training camps in survival techniques, use of automatic weapons, and, in many instances take the law into their own hands. We used to call them hoods.

The sad part of all this is that, with the exception of the Jewish Defense League, these people insist on calling themselves Christians, and the press goes blithely on referring to these groups in that manner. I think I'll find something else to call myself.

I would guess they have rewritten some of the Scriptures. This is what I hear them saying. The meek shall inherit the earth - over my dead body. Love your neighbor - as long as he is white, male, and "Christian."

Vengeance is mine, saith the Lord and I'll be His trigger finger. They who live by the sword shall die by the sword - amen.

You'll excuse me if I don't care to come to their party.

on grating the right initiative and referendum heard

ROSTER WHALEY, Representative of the Constitutional Amendments Committee, which I am Vice-Chairman, heard four bills on the right of Initiative and Referendum. The bills were referred to the committee of which I am designated chairman.

The bills were very similar to the one bill to get a referendum on a ballot in 10 percent of those counties of the last Governor's signature would be from at least 190 counties. You can get the most difficult to get an issue on a ballot. Some 20 states have initiative and referendum.

A coalition teamed up against the bills. Included Harry Hubbard of AFL-CIO, the School of Oil Company and Chamber of Commerce interest from the area.

Local taxpayers organizations such as Texas 13 Wagoner Carr lined up. Others were Women Voters groups.

The essence of the argument is I & R, if that case, they are likely to make a mistake electing to office as well as where they have R, the public has turned down far more issues than they have passed.

The facts are if we had I & R, only a small fraction of one percent of the laws would be enacted in this manner.

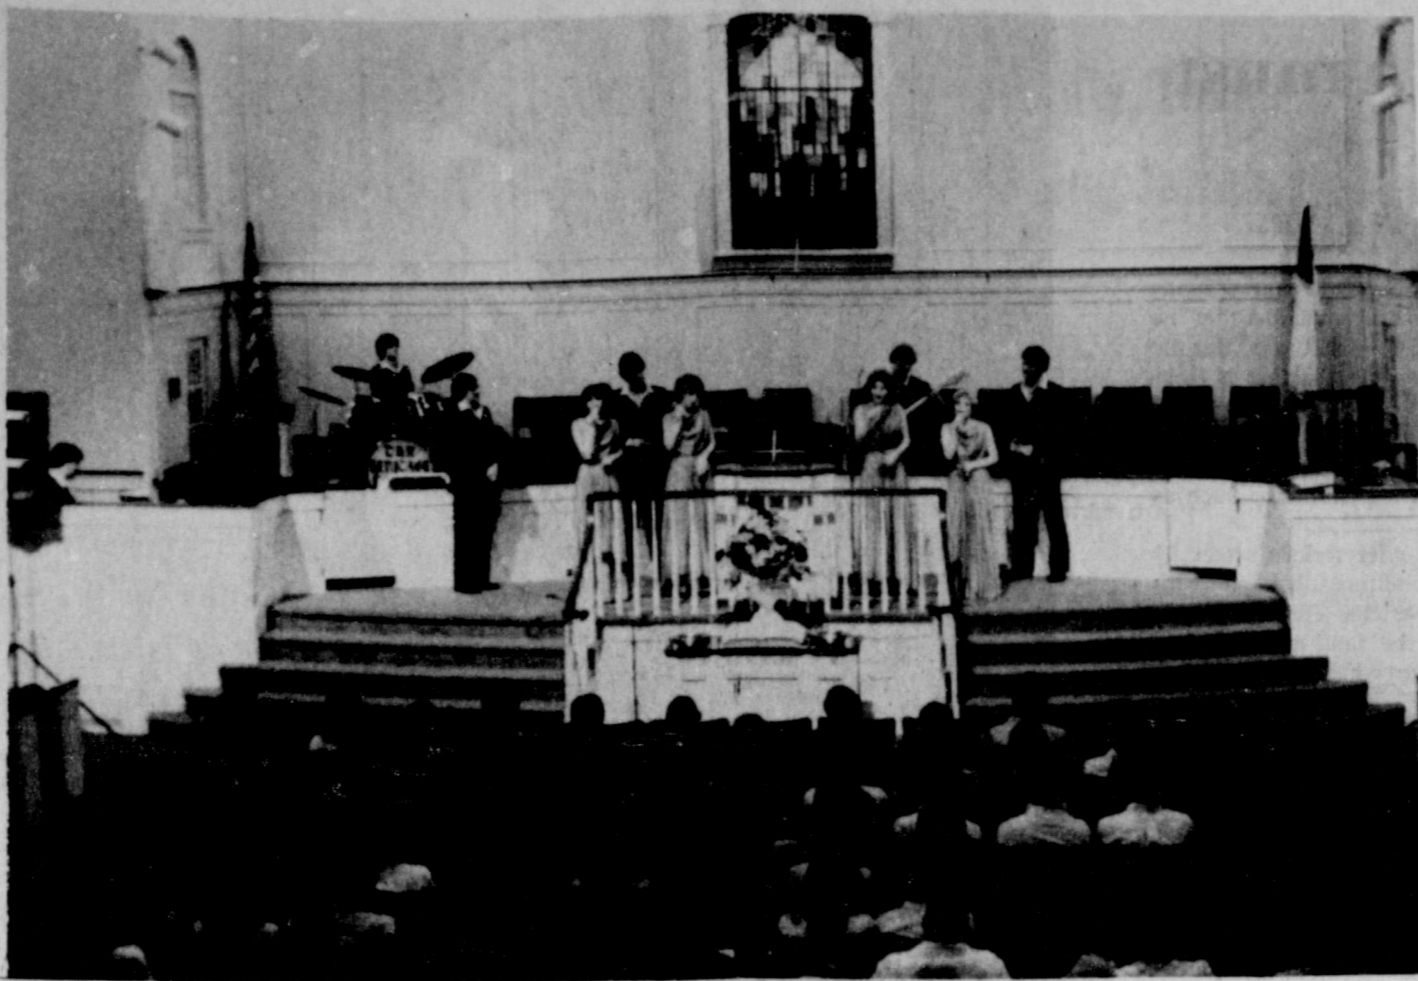

I am not afraid to trust the people that elect me. I feel that certain my sub-committee will report back some form of an I & R bill. Since it has to pass by 100 votes on the floor of the House and 21 in the Senate, I think chances are slim of passing anything but a watered-down version.

FUND BILL

The road and bridge fund bill was approved in the House last week and sent to Governor Clements. I am proud of the fact Governor Clements designated this an emergency bill at my request.

HERITAGE SINGERS

Heritage Singers to hold concert at the First Baptist Church in Floydada

The widely known Heritage Singers of Howard Payne University will be presented in concert at 7:00 Wednesday, March 18, by the First Baptist Church of Floydada.

John Francis, director, says the upcoming concert will be a blend of contemporary and traditional sacred music.

A dynamic Christian group, the Heritage Singers have traveled throughout the United States and abroad. Their concerts have included appearances with Pat Boone, Reba Rambo and the Cruse Family.

The Heritage Singers have presented concerts at such major events as "Freedom 76," a conference attended by 10,000 college students, single adults, young marrieds and military personnel in San Antonio. Their January, 1977, tour was highlighted by a performance for the Cadets at the United States Air Force Academy in Colorado Springs, Colorado.

Under the sponsorship of the National Music Council and Department of Defense, the Heritage Singers performed throughout Greenland, Iceland and Newfoundland under the USO program.

More recently the Heritage Singers, through the combined efforts of lyricist Ed Seabough of the Southern Baptist Convention Home Mission Board and arranger Bob Burroughs of Samford University, Birmingham, Alabama, premiered a new Christian musical "To A Broken World" at the Canadian Baptist Youth Conference at the University of Alberta in Banff, Canada. Since its premiere in March, 1977, the group has presented the musical in additional performances, including one appearance at the Golden Gate Seminary in Mill Valley, California.

In previous years, the group has released several record albums.

John M. Francis, associate professor of music at Howard Payne University, directs the Heritage Singers, the HPU A Cappella Choir and the Chamber Singers.

He holds the bachelor of arts, master of music and doctor of musical arts degrees from West Virginia University and has done additional studies at Indiana University and the Cincinnati College Conservatory of Music.

A member of the American Choral Directors Association and the National Association of Teachers of Singing, Francis at one time sang with the Atlanta Symphony Orchestra Chorus and Chamber Singers, under the direction of Robert Shaw.

He previously taught at Shenandoah College and Conservatory of Music in Winchester, Virginia and West Georgia College in Carrollton, Georgia.

Head of household must list dependants

A common error of taxpayers claiming head of household filing status is not listing the name of a qualifying dependent or child, and this can lead to a refund delay.

To file as a head of household, a taxpayer must be unmarried and provide more than half the cost of keeping up a home that is the main home for his or her dependent or child. An unmarried child who qualified the taxpayer as head of household must live with the taxpayer but need not be his or her dependent.

Other qualifying persons must be the taxpayer's dependents. They generally must live with the taxpayer. However, the taxpayer's dependent parents may qualify, even though they live elsewhere, if the taxpayer paid more than half the cost of keeping up their home and is eligible to claim one or both parents as dependents.

Unmarried includes single, legally separated, divorced and widowed persons, the IRS said.

Without a child or qualifying dependent, unmarried taxpayers are not eligible to file as heads of households and if they do not qualify as surviving widows or widowers, they file under single status and use the corresponding tax table.

A cut in federal spending to help curb inflation

WASHINGTON, D.C. — President Ronald Reagan's proposed budget cuts, outlined to Congress here Wednesday (February 19), are "a strong move in the right direction and represent an approach that I have advocated since first coming to Congress," Charles W. Stenholm said today.

"I certainly agree with the general direction the President's budget takes," Stenholm said, commenting on the Reagan speech, "even though I have some unanswered questions."

Stenholm singled out the projected $122.4 billion deficit outlined in the proposal. "It seems to me that if deficit spending has caused inflation for the past four years, then it stands to reason that it will continue to cause inflation," he said.

Stenholm said the President had presented a challenge to Congress for an alternative plan "which offers a greater chance of balancing the budget." The 17th District Congressman said he would respond to that challenge by looking at other areas in the federal budget "that could stand further cuts and at some of the President's proposed cuts."

"The budget that Congress finally passes must be as fair and equitable to all Americans as possible," he continued. "No single segment of the federal expenditure can be considered untouchable and there are several areas that I am closely examining at the present time that I think might possibly be eliminated altogether."

Stenholm said he thought the President's proposal would receive a fair, bipartisan examination by the Congress. "There isn't a Congressman or Senator on the Hill who shouldn't know by now that the American people really meant what they said at the polls in November. We have to drastically cut federal spending and take whatever other steps necessary to curb runaway inflation and we have to do it now."

Social Security News

BY VIRGINIA DEWITT

Do you ever wonder if some people are receiving social security payments illegally?

This is one of the areas in which Social Security investigators are working uncovering fraud cases. This unit of investigators is assigned to a five-state Dallas region in our area. Just recently, Arthur L. Carter, 1911 Harmony Street, New Orleans, was sentenced to five years supervised probation and ordered to refund the $3,711.50 he had illegally obtained.

Carter pled guilty to charges that he made false statements about his employment in order to continue to receive social security disability benefits.

In another case, a 24-year-old Dallas man, Charles M. Childress of 7142 Holly Hills, pled guilty on February 19 before Federal District Court Judge Sarah T. Hughes to one count of making false statements to the Social Security Administration.

Mr. Childress falsely claimed he was a full time student in order to receive monthly social security student benefits on the record of his deceased father. The maximum sentence for this type of offense is one year's imprisonment, a $1,000 fine or both. Judge Hughes scheduled sentencing for March 13.

The Social Security Administration remains constantly alert to seek out instances where the potential for fraud exists. I have listed above only two of many fraud cases prosecuted annually. They are evidence of our ongoing commitment to discover and prosecute those who falsify or conceal information in order to get social security or supplemental security payments.

Increased state aid - a must for public libraries

One of the most crucial issues confronting the public libraries of this nation today is the matter of adequate funding. What aggravates the situation is the fact that the major source of revenue to support public libraries is the local property tax. But the property tax is a regressive tax, and its most serious weakness is that it lacks elasticity. Unlike the income tax or the sales tax, which generate additional revenue automatically as wages and prices rise, the revenue from the property tax remains relatively constant and increases only gradually as the total assessed valuation of property rises. This is particularly disastrous in periods of high inflation such as this country has been experiencing for the past decade.

To make matters worse, the local property tax is now under serious attack by those who seek indiscriminately to limit governmental expenditures. It began with Proposition 13 in California and spread to many other jurisdictions. This has been a tremendous blow to many public libraries throughout the land for they are extremely vulnerable when budgets have to be slashed. Everywhere librarians are hearing the cry of austerity.

It is for these reasons that it is imperative to make every effort to shift part of the responsibility for the support of public libraries from local government to that of the state.

It is clear that the state must undertake to provide more funds for public libraries, for it is this institution that serves as the first port of entry for those seeking everyday general information or wishing to explore a subject in depth. This is why the collection and services of the local public library must be sufficient to meet the basic needs of its patrons. It is the state that has the responsibility for insuring that each community has a local library adequate to meet the general bibliographical and informational needs of its citizens.

It is recognized that there is nothing in law, logic or public policy dictating that public libraries must be funded almost exclusively through the local property tax. On the contrary, there is a strong legal basis to support the position that the state is responsible in large part to provide funds for the operation and maintenance of public libraries. Public libraries have been declared to be educational institutions in opinions rendered by the supreme courts of no less than nine states. The basic issue that the courts have been called upon to adjudicate is whether public library service is purely a matter of local concern—or interest only to the inhabitants of a particular municipality—or whether it is clothed with a governmental character of function in which the state and the public at large is concerned. The courts in their decisions have held unequivocally that a public library is an educational institution, and that since education is a prime function of state government, public library service is likewise a function of state government.

At the present time, state aid provides approximately 13 per cent of the funds required to finance public library service in this country. In comparison to state aid for public schools, the difference is colossal, for state government currently provides approximately 43 per cent of the funds necessary to operate public schools. Public schools, over a period of several decades, have moved from a position in which the local property tax served almost exclusively as their source of revenue to a position in which state funds provide an amount that is almost equal to that derived from the local property tax. If public libraries are to survive as vital institutions, it is imperative that they move in the same direction.

In a study published by the National Commission on Libraries and Information Science entitled Alternatives for Financing the Public Library, a balanced intergovernmental funding pattern for public library services is proposed. It recommends that state government provide 50 per cent of the funds necessary to operate the public libraries of this country, with local government providing 30 per cent and the federal government 20 per cent. This funding scheme is to be achieved over the period of ten years. It is our belief that this funding formula, based on a partnership approach, is not an unreasonable goal for the richest nation in the world.

Women's clubs have founded Texas libraries

The Tejas Study Club, the 1935 Study Club, the Maids and Matrons Club, the Mystic Study Club, the 20th Century Club—the list could go on. What do all these groups have in common? They all founded or helped to found public libraries in West Texas.

A letter on behalf of Mrs. Oscar Bock, current chairman of the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs, occasioned our inquiry into how many libraries in the West Texas Library System area were founded by women's clubs. The results of the survey were astonishing—all told we were able to report to Mrs. Bock that 18 women's clubs were instrumental in the founding of 16 libraries. And I'm sure there were some founding groups that we didn't uncover as well.

The oldest public library founded by a women's club that we were able to discover was in Brownfield, where, way back in 1907 the Maids and Matrons Club took charge of an infant book collection in the old Randal Drug Store and nurtured it for many decades until the County assumed responsibility in the early 1940's. Other early libraries founded by women's clubs were those at Plainview (1913), Littlefield (1916) and Spur (1917).

When the Littlefield Women's Club decided to start a library in 1916 they called a meeting

But the founding is only half the story. Just as importantly, as in the case of Brownfield, the women's clubs continued to support the public library, sometimes for many, many years. Many of the women's clubs continue to support their library to this day.

For example in Denver City members of the Wasson Study Club volunteer to conduct the Library Story Hour the fourth Wednesday of each month. The Muleshoe Study Club which founded the library in 1938 even today holds an annual Book Bazaar which raises several hundred dollars to buy books, furniture or equipment needed by the library.

Perhaps the greatest service for the cause of good library service has been done by those clubs that have gotten politically involved, and who have lobbied as tax-payers for greater city or county support of their library. In 1965, for instance, the Monahans Federated Clubs began a two-year publicity drive and lobbying effort, the fruits of which were a successful bond election and the construction of a new library.

Librarians like myself should be humbled when they read of the years of struggle by women's clubs and other private citizens in support of public libraries. For the most part it is not librarians or politicians we have to thank for our libraries. It is the citizens who have stood by their libraries through good times and bad, and who, I trust, will continue to do so.

Channel Five Highlights

BY MELISSA CREAMER

March 15-21 This is the second week of Festival Nights and if you have not caught some of the special programs, you must treat yourself this week and catch the best on Channel 5. We are working hard, beginning each week night at 6:55 p.m. for pledge breaks, and weekends have started at 2:00 or 3:00. Hope you enjoyed Grand Ole Opry last night—we did.

If you did not catch "A Love Class with Leo Buscaglia" last week on Thursday, you can see the repeat Sunday the 15th at 3:00 p.m. The noted lecturer and educator talks about human relationships and how to make them more fulfilling.

Another program is being aired Sunday evening that you may have missed—"Paul Simon in Concert." Songs performed by Simon include: "Sounds of Silence," "Still Crazy After All These Years," and "Me and Julio." It begins at 5:40 p.m. on Festival Weekends!

Then at 7:00 the story of man's journey to the moon and the excitement, dangers, follies, and beauty of America's space exploration is recaptured in The Greatest Adventure. It begins at 7:00 p.m. and features original NASA footage of many of our space flights.

Katherine Hepburn is being showcased in this year's Festival with "The Lion in Winter" and "Bringing up Baby." In addition a complete biography on her life and career will show Monday evening at 7:00 p.m. This is television's first major retrospective of this talented and respected actress and contains film clips of many of her best. Following the special is "Bringing up Baby" with Kate and Cary Grant.

Katherine Hepburn won her third Oscar for her role as Eleanor of Aquitaine in the elegant comedy "The Lion in Winter," that I mentioned earlier. This fabulous film is about the private lives of royalty in medieval England and Peter O'Toole stars as Henry II. It begins at 7:00 on Wednesday the 18th.

On Thursday, Willie Nelson, the Charlie Daniels Band, Larry Gatlin and the Gatlin Brothers, Earl Scruggs and Jimmy Buffet headline the cast of stars on "Country Classics: The Best of Austin City Limits." Merle Haggard, Marty Robbins, and Mel Tillis will be on it at 7:00.

Following Country Classics is "Gizmo." Oddball inventions—sometimes they work and sometimes they don't, but mankind's attempts to fly without a motor, climb trees in a boat, and wind spaghetti on an electric fork always provide a big laugh. Catch this one, it is really fun.

Saturday the 21st is full of good programs. Beginning at 2:00 is Matinee at the Bijou with "Submarine Alert" featured as the movie. Then at 3:35 is the Charlie Chaplin Comedy Theatre with "The Vagabond" as the movie. At 4:05 a special tribute to John Ford will be offered in show. That's the way it is at the Opry and that's what makes it so special.

Over 40 top country acts are expected to be on hand for this six-hour-plus telecast, which will air Saturday, March 14 at 6:00 p.m. LIVE FROM THE GRAND OLE OPry is just one of the special programs Channel 5 is showing during the annual fund raiser "Festival Nights." Sixteen days of the best of PBS programming is planned along with pledge breaks hosted by Channel 28's Bob Nash, KXTV-TV's Maria Smith and Melissa Creamer in order to raise money for the public television station.

"We are extremely dependent on our viewing audience for a good portion of our operating budget. If you watch Channel 5 and enjoy the programming please contribute so the quality programming that you want can be brought to your homes through Channel 5," said Melissa Creamer, Director of Development for the station.

Festival Nights begins March 7 and runs through the 22nd. Some other great programs scheduled are: Soundstage with Mickey Gilley and Johnny Paycheck, Paul Simon in Concert, That Great American Gospel Sound, Bringing Up Baby and The Lion in Winter—two movie greats starring Katherine Hepburn, the Best of Austin City Limits, and The 50's: Moments to Remember. Check your t.v. guide for times and days.

Fun at Six Flags has begun

The gates of Six Flags Over Texas opened for the 1981 season Saturday, March 7. That date also marks the public debut of the theme park's new ride Conquistador, the flying ship of Spain. The half million dollar ride is the focal point of an extensive revamping of the park's Spanish section. General Manager Ray Williams said the theming of the ride site is the most extensive decorative treatment ever given a single Six Flags attraction. The 16,000 pound replica of a sailing ship swings like a pendulum in an arc which carries its passengers more than 50 feet into the air, creating the sensations of both weightlessness and freefall. Six Flags will be open Saturdays and Sundays only during the spring, with the exception of the week of March 15, when the park will be open daily for the spring break period.
