Medic Alert: a life saver

Medic Alert information brochures being distributed by the Lockney General Hospital Auxiliary through merchants.

Medic Alert emblem is worn by those who have a hidden medical condition such as diabetes, hypertension, heart problems or a serious allergy to penicillin or other medication. Brochure being distributed in Lockney has an order form for the emblem.

The Medic Alert Foundation also operates a twenty-four hour emergency medical identification service.

The medic alert emblem carries the emergency telephone number of the Lockney fire central fire that has medical and personal information necessary for the treatment of every individual registered with Medic Alert.

In recognition of Medic Alert Week, April 5 to 11, the hospital auxiliary is encouraging Lockney residents who have any hidden health problem to pick up a brochure and register with Medic Alert.

The brochures are available from displays set up at Reece's Cleaners, R That, Byrd's Pharmacy, and R That Pharmacy and T.V.

Plain stainless steel bracelets and necklaces with the emblem can be ordered for $15.00 which includes a lifetime membership in Medic Alert with free listing of medical information in their central file. Sterling silver and gold emblems are available at an additional charge.

Medic Alert is a non-profit charitable organization founded by Dr. Marion C. Collins after his daughter nearly died because of her allergy to tetanus antitoxin she received after she cut herself playing with a air rifle.

Dr. Collins designed a silver bracelet for his daughter to wear with the insignia of the medical profession on the front with the words "Medic Alert" and a description of her allergy.

Medic Alert has grown to over 1.7 million members in 14 affiliated foundations. The Medic Alert Foundation estimates that one out of five Americans has a hidden medical condition that would warrant wearing an identifying emblem.

Copeland: veteran councilman

In the history of the City of Lockney, there has been no councilman to serve any longer than mayoral candidate J.D. Copeland.

Copeland, with the exception of six years between 1954 and 1960, has been a member of the Lockney City Council since 1941, a total of 34 years. For the past eight years, the 72-year-old Copeland has been mayor pro tem of Lockney, serving as the city's chief executive in the absence of Mayor Claude Brown.

During Copeland's lengthy tenure on the council, the city has paved 100 blocks of streets. Copeland has also been directly involved in cleaning up the city over the past ten years, supervising the removal of 100 dead trees and 100 junked vehicles. Copeland was also instrumental in the construction of the new Lockney City Hall.

Copeland is a fiscal conservative who has supported Mayor Brown and other councilmen in efforts to keep taxes down. Lockney has had no tax increase for 19 years.

"We've made the improvements we were able to make without plunging the city into deep debt," Copeland said. "For this size town, the city is in good shape. Hopefully we'll be able to keep it in good shape."

Copeland said one of the most important issues facing Lockney in the next few years is getting water in from Mackenzie Lake...although he said, "Lockney is in pretty good shape water-wise right now. Certainly in better shape than Silverton and the other towns in the Mackenzie Water District."

Copeland said he expects residents of Lockney and the other four cities in the

Clarence Ansley : time for a new voice

Clarence Ansley is a 38-year-old man who runs a successful farm equipment and manufacturing business in Lockney. He wants to be elected mayor so he can help "better Lockney by encouraging it to grow."

Ansley has no complaints with the present city government, but believes, "it is time for some younger men to have a say in the future of Lockney."

Ansley's family moved to Lockney in 1955, and he graduated from Lockney High School. He started Ansley and Son with his father in 1964, and worked with his father until he purchased his father's share of the business in 1975.

Ansley has served in the fire department for seventeen years, and has been

Thanks, Mr. Mayor!

By this time next week, Lockney will have its first new mayor in 16 years. The winner of this Saturday's mayoral race between J.D. Copeland and Clarence Ansley is going to have an extremely tough act to follow.

Claude Brown has been Lockney's chief executive longer than any other mayor in the city's history. Mayor Brown is stepping down largely due to health reasons. But he intends to remain active in city affairs and plans to take a look at the situation in two years and possibly run for mayor again.

But if Mayor Brown never holds elected office again in Lockney, his record will be hard to match for years to come.

His list of accomplishments:

---under his direction there has been no tax increase in Lockney in 19 years. During Brown's tenure, Lockney has put some $27,000 into savings certificates, making the city one of the most fiscally sound in the South Plains and the Panhandle if not in the entire state.

---the city's bonded indebtedness has been reduced from $278,000 to $95,000.

---a new water well has been drilled to increase the city's water supply and the overhead water storage tank has been completely renovated.

---the city shop building on Highway 70 was bought by the city

---the city recently received approval of an $812,000 federal Block Grant from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development for improvements in the northwestern part of the city.

---more land was bought for the sanitary landfill and the site was improved.

---cable television was brought to Lockney.

---the fire department got a new fire truck, ambulance and rescue unit and the police department and its equipment were improved.

And that's only a very partial list of Mayor Brown's accomplishments.

Next week when he hands the gavel over to a new Mayor Brown will have left behind a record to be proud of and one the people of Lockney should be grateful for.

Claude Brown: good mayor, good man.

Thank's a lot, Mr. Mayor.

Claude Brown

Demonstrations alert homeowners to fire hazards

THESE WERE THE PRODUCTS used by Firemen in the demonstration to alert people to the fire hazards in the home.

SIMULATED DUST EXPLOSION is being demonstrated by Carroll Simms. Powder used is corn starch.

The Floydada Firemen, in an attempt to alert people to the common dangers in their own homes, have prepared a demonstration which the firemen will be glad to put on for any group.

The purpose of the demonstration is to make people aware of the fire hazards that they don't know they have. Most of these items are common household products; every thing from hair spray to cleaners and even bug repellent.

The products are packaged in aerosol cans. Most manufacturers are now using a form of L.P. gas as a propellant for the products. Called fluorocarbons, it is very flammable.

Many of the products themselves are quite flammable. The combination of the two, can mean a fire hazard.

"If the product is aimed toward a gas heater, you have an explosion," said fireman training officer, Dinks Eckert. "Aim it toward an electric heater and you get a fire."

The point of the 1 1/2 hour program is to "alert people to know what to do if they have a fire and what to do to prevent a fire."

Though the total program can last for over an hour, shorter demonstrations can be given.

The firemen have made themselves available for the program and ask that anyone interested contact them at the fire station.

The all-volunteer fire department is made up of 23 members. They meet the first three Monday nights of the month. The first is a business meeting, the other two are training or maintenance sessions.

Bobby Welborn is Chief, the other officers are Larry Guthrie, first assistant chief; Bud Edwards, second assistant chief; Carroll Sims, first captain; Jerry Galloway, second captain; Larry Ogden, sec.-tres. and Harvey Allen, assistant sec.-tres.

Most of the operating funds for the department are donated. The City and the county pay the regular bills.

The firemen attend several training school a year. In July each year they attend the week long session at College Station, Texas A&M campus.

hazards

This school consists of both fire fighting training and classroom work. The fire fighting uses simulated projects which are actual fires even though controlled.

In the classroom, there are lectures on the different aspects of fire science and techniques and pump operations. Firemen also attend the Lubbock area conference as well as the one in Abilene and Canyon.

The Floydada fire department equipment consists of four pumper trucks, two water trucks, a utility van, and a rescue van.

Firemen must also be trained in first aid procedures.

During the course of an average fire there are over 2000 toxic gasses given out.

These gasses came from the burning of a multitude of things, including the synthetics such as upholstery, veneer, varnishes and phonograph records which are the worse Eckert said.

When a fire starts the average temperature in a burning house at the ceiling level is 1000 degrees. When it smolders the temperature can average between 800 to 1000 degrees. The carbon monoxide build-up ignites when the temperature hits about 1200 degrees causing an explosion.

Three things are involved in a fire; heat, fuel, and oxygen.

Every home should be equipped with a dry powder fire extinguisher. There should be one in the shop, the kitchen, and one upstairs.

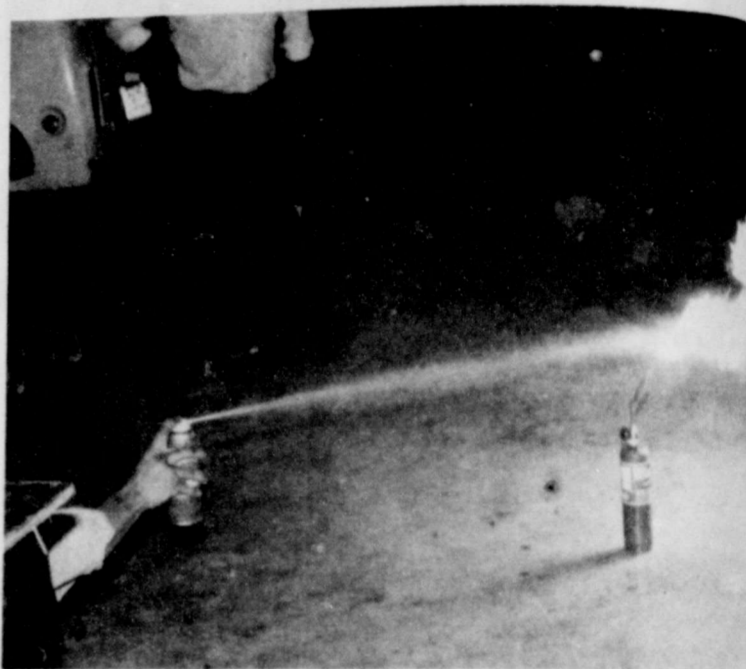

The best way to put out a stove fire is simply to set a lid over it Eckert said. You can use baking soda, but don't use flour.

If you do have a fire, Eckert urges you to call the fire department first. "We'd rather get there and you have already put it out, than for you to try to get it out first, find out you can't, and then call us. In other words, we'd rather be there and not be needed than have to fight one that could have been taken care of easily if we had been called right away."

So in case of fire, call the fire department first.

DINKS ECKERT shows the flammability of the contents of an aerosol can when it comes in contact with a heating element.

THIS SHOWS HOW THE SAME CONTENTS react when igniting on an open flame.

FLOYD COUNTY'S ONLY OIL WELL SUFFERED a serious fire yesterday, causing damage estimated at three-quarters of a million dollars. The oil well is seven miles south of Floydada and is owned by the Rebel Drilling Company.

JAWS OF LIFE DEMONSTRATION was held during the Lions Club regular meeting Thursday. Shown here is the cutting tool being used on the automobile.

THE CAR WAS COMPLETELY PULLED APART by the use of a hydraulic press. Anyone who has an old car they would like to donate for the firemen to practice on can call the Hesperian or Fire Department.

Lockney Block Hearings scheduled

Public hearings have been scheduled for the final application for an $812,000 Community Development Block Grant from the U.S. Dept. of Housing and Urban Development. The hearing will be held at 6 p.m. Tuesday at the Lockney City East Locust St. A second hearing is set for 9 a.m. Wednesday, April 13 at City Hall. The hearings are scheduled to give the public an opportunity to review the use of the Block Grant funds and to answer questions about the program.

Ansley...

The city is to do what is feasible to improve Lockney while continuing the sound financial basis. The city sees a critical need for recreation for the children and teenagers in the city. "There's nothing for them to do but hang around the street corners," he said. The city would like to see a YMCA type program in Lockney and thinks that the government could do something to help. "We need to spend a little money on our kids' recreation," he said. Another project Ansley feels is critical is expanding the storage space for the fire department. There are presently five fire department vehicles and four in the building. The fifth cannot be stored because the equipment, such as ladders, would be ruined since the vehicles must be left outside. Ansley has a wife, Katie, and three children. "I'll do the best job I can. I'll work for the people of Lockney, whatever my income or position," said Ansley.

It was obvious that you people attended the occasion because you wanted to. This is not always so with this type of program.

Lockney Block Grant Hearings scheduled

Public hearings have been held on Lockney's final application for an $812,000 Community Development Block Grant from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development. The first hearing will be held at 6 p.m. Tuesday at the Lockney City Hall, 115 East Locust St. The second hearing is set for 9 a.m. Thursday, April 13 at City Hall. Hearings are scheduled to give citizens an opportunity to review the use of the Block Grant funds and to ask questions about the program and provide input for incorporation into the final application.

Written proposals and comments from citizens about the Block Grant program will be accepted for consideration up until the time of the second hearing.

Those who are handicapped and may have difficulty attending either hearing should contact city hall to arrange for special assistance.

A copy of the city's preliminary application, which has already been approved, is available for public inspection upon request at city hall during normal business hours. In addition, written materials explaining the Block Grant program will be available at the two public hearings.

The final application, city officials say, is largely a matter of formality and there appears little doubt the city will not get the $812,000, a relatively small amount by Block Grant standards.

Although the money will be received over the next two years, it will take three or four years to complete the work the grant is funding.

The funds will be used for several purposes:

- $282,000 for street improvements.
- $163,000 for housing rehabilitation.
- $120,000 for sewer improvements.
- $91,000 for acquisition and relocation of housing.
- $65,000 for water system improvements.
- $36,000 for general administration.
- $30,000 for code enforcement.
- $25,000 for clearance and demolition.

With the funds included for general administration, no tax money will be needed to manage the program.

JERRY FORD of Lockney Cable Television began pre-wiring houses last week for the beginning of cable television. The first house to be wired was that of George Sparkman in the western part of Lockney. Ford says he expects to have cable television service going in most of the city by mid-May.

Pioneer Gas is gone; now it is Energas

(AMARILLO) — Pioneer Natural Gas Company, the gas utility serving 72 cities and communities in Northwest Texas, including Lockney, will change its name to Energas Company effective immediately, company officials have announced.

The name change is part of a process to streamline the utility operation. The process also involves restructuring Pioneer Natural Gas, which is a division of Pioneer Corporation (NYSE), into two companies.

ENERGAS

"For Pioneer Natural Gas customers, the only noticeable change will be the new name," K.B. Watson, president and chief executive officer of Pioneer Corporation, said. "Energas Company signs will begin appearing on company property during April, and after today (April 2) checks for bill payments should be made to Energas Company."

Watson said that Energas Company will serve almost all of the customers previously served by Pioneer Natural Gas. Transportation of gas to the Energas system will be handled by another new company, Wester Transmission Company.

Lockney Hospital open house Sunday

Lockney General Hospital will have open house for the new Cogdell Clinic Sunday from 2:30 till 4:30 p.m.

Everyone is invited to come by and see the new treatment rooms, doctors' offices, enlarged lab, minor surgery-emergency rooms, administrative offices, meeting room and renovation of the old clinic area.

Lockney High band in Six Flags contest

(ARLINGTON) — The Lockney High School Band has been accepted in the 1981 Six Flags Over Texas Invitational Band Festival.

Under the direction of Raymond Lusk, the group will compete against 90 or more groups in one of the country's largest and most prestigious music competitions.

Participating groups are given an opportunity to compete against groups outside their regular competition area.

In addition to the Invitational Band Festival, nearly 200 groups are expected to compete in Marching Band, Invitational Orchestra, Open Band, and Open and Invitational Choral Festivals.

Top groups will be selected by such national known judges as Frank Piersol, University of Iowa; Howard Nicari, Vanderbilt University; and Dr. R. Lyn Whitten, University of Colorado.

To qualify for the invitational competition, bands must have won a Division I rating in state competition in the past year or have received a division I rating in any Six Flags Festival during the past two years.

The Invitational Band competition will be held April 30, May 1 and 2, at Texas Hall at the University of Texas at Arlington.

In banking circles, it's almost revolutionary. All that hard-earned money in your checking account actually working for you. Collecting interest just like a savings account. Terrific, right? MRS. DAVID QUISENBERRY

McKibbens-Quisenberry exchange vows

Miss Tammie LaRue McKibbens and David Dean Quisenberry exchanged vows Saturday evening, March 28, in the home of the brides grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J.W. Gardenhire of O'Donnell. Rev. Don Cass, pastor of First Baptist Church of Tahoka officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Jerry McKibbens of Tahoka and Mr. and Mrs. Denny Quisenberry of Lockney.

Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. J.W. Gardenhire of O'Donnell, the late Mr. and Mrs. Pat McKibbens Sr., Mr. and Mrs. E.A. Bonner of Lockney and Mr. and Mrs. C.O. Quisenberry of Plainview.

A prelude of traditional and popular wedding selections were provided by pianist Mrs. Norman Patton. Mrs. Floy Ash of O'Donnell, sang "Twelfth of Never," "Time in a Bottle," and "God, A Woman and a Man."

Matching candelabra entwined with emerald greenery flanked the fireplace. The mantle and hearth were decorated with emerald greenery and leather leaf featuring two white doves in the center.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a white gown of Chantilly lace flowing into a chapel length train edged with a mushroom pleated flounce. The moulded bodice was accented with lace and pearls featuring a Victorian neckline trimmed with Chantilly lace and pearls, a sheer illusion yoke seceded with pearls, full skirt, full bishop sleeves with filled cuffs of Chantilly lace. A layered finger tip veil of silk illusion was attached to a capulet of beaded flowers.

She carried a cascade bouquet of spring flowers consisting of daisies, cushion mums, and baby's breath. The shower of bridal satin streamers were tied in love knots and accented with pearls.

Following tradition the bride chose as something old, a pearl seeded handkerchief which belonged to her great-grandmother Brewer; something new, her wedding dress; something borrowed, a diamond pin given to her grandmother Gardenhire by her grandfather; something blue was the traditional garter. A 1959 six pence, (the brides birth date) was placed in her shoe by her mother.

Jerri Beth McKibbens attended her sister as maid of honor. Mary Evelena, sister of the bride, served as bridesmaid and Shannon Ash, cousin of the bride, served as flower girl.

Candlelighters were Lana Gardenhire of Boerne, and Laura White of Idalou, cousins of the bride. The attendants wore formal gowns of yellow organza, fashioned with a ruffled neckline, capulet sleeves and a flared skirt with flounced hem. They wore headpieces of spring flowers and carried bouquets of yellow, pink, blue, orchid and white daisies.

Best man was Robert Murdock of Lockney, groomsmen were Johnny Wayne McKibbens of Snyder, brother of the bride.

The groom and his attendants wore pale blue suits. Their boutonnieres were white cushion mums accented with baby's breath and satin leaves. Yellow roses were presented to the mothers.

Tommy Gardenhire Jr. of Tahoka, cousin of the bride, served as usher. Cindy McKibbens, sister-in-law of the bride registered guests. Guests from Amarillo, Hereford, Lubbock, Lockney, Tahoka, Lamesa, Brownfield, O'Donnell, Snyder and Boerne were registered.

RECEPTION

A reception was held following the ceremony. The brides table was decorated with a white linen embroidered table cloth. Centering the table was an arrangement of pastel daisies, orchid and pink mums, white stock baby's breath and leather leaf. The arrangement was featured in a crystal bowl with crystal tear drops and accented with gold. Flanked on each side were yellow tapers in crystal tear drop candleholders.

The tiered cake was assembled with two tiers forming the bottom layer, and a third tier was separated with Grecian columns. Centered in the columns were petite birds and confection daisies. Topping the cake were love birds encircled by flowers, Banana crush punch, yellow bell mints and nuts were served in crystal appointments.

Serving at the brides table were Judy Haire of Lubbock, Cindy Goldston of Brownfield and Penny Wilt of Tahoka.

The grooms table was covered with a blue crushed velvet table cloth. A large hurricane globe and white candles nested in English ivy centered the table. A Norman Rockwell figurine of a football boy completed the decor. Assorted finger sandwiches, sausage balls, lumsia, mints, nuts and coffee were served. Silver coffee service and appointments were used.

Serving at the grooms table were Jamie Renfo of Lamesa, Jamie Hill of Lamesa and Kim Murdock of Lockney.

Mr. Marshall had died on Monday in the Crosbyton Hospital. His daughter, Mrs. R.Q. Botkin is Mrs. Johnson's mother.

Plains went up to Silverton last week to attend the Cowboy Camp meeting. Mr. and Mrs. Nathan and Kathy Mulder and children, Cindy, Penny, Jimmy and Cory, left here last Wednesday for a little vacation which took them down south for a historical and fun trip during spring break here. They got to San Antonio on Thursday, and visited the beautiful

Alamo, rode the space Needle, went to the zoo while there, enjoyed a boat trip down the river, and got to see the lovely homes. Next day they went to Corpus Christi where the wind was very high, and on down to Padre Island where the children went swimming in the Gulf of Mexico. In Port Aransas they rode the ferry, and saw the sights of South

Texas. The last night out they stayed at Seguin, and came home tired but happy Friday night.

Mrs. Mamie Wood and Mrs. Gertrude Smitherman came home from their trip to Lake Whitney Wednesday evening. They had got to visit Mrs. Walter Wood and the Jack McCowns, and enjoyed their visit. They tell us Mrs. Walter Wood looks so well, and has gained some weight. She is a wonderful pioneer, having lived most of her ranching days here in our west Texas, and is spry for all her 94 years.

Mrs. Letha Mulder was hostess in her home the past week-end for a gathering of her brothers and sisters. Four of her sisters, and two of her brothers came to spend the week-end, and they enjoyed a big dinner on Sunday at noon. They arrived at different times, on Friday a sister, Mrs. Inez Minyard of Littlefield, came and stayed until Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Dale and Lavoy McCaugh of Clarendon came Saturday, and on Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Pete and Eunice Land of Clarendon came, and Mr. and Mrs. Fladger Fitzgerald of Little-

The Rev. Michael O'Connor's

Perspectives

Whatever happened to imagination? Whatever happened to careful reasoned thought? Have these things become objects for scorn, or did they simply disappear from the thinking processes of people?

A group called the Coalition for Better Television (CBTV) was formed recently, and since one of the sponsoring members of the group is Jerry Falwell's Moral Majority, CBTV has come under attack.

CBTV plans on having volunteers from across the nation monitor television programming this spring. These viewers will make comments on the shows they watch, and CBTV will tabulate the results.

The watchers are to look for acts of violence, use of profanity, sexual innuendos and unnecessary showing of skin, and the use of alcohol. A strict tabulation of the number of incidents will be kept, and then the shows are to be judged on their benefit to society.

Of course, some of the judgements will be arbitrary, but the organizations hopes the response will be great enough to give a good overall picture of what is being presented on television. Sponsors of shows they find objectionable will be chosen for boycott by supporters of CBTV.

The critics of CBTV have cried "foul." CBTV is trying to force its morality on us, they say, and if those fundamentalists don't like what is on the tube, let them turn it off. It seems to me that these kinds of criticism show a definite lack of imagination and logic of the part of the critics.

The use of ever increasingly explicit violence and sex, as well as the use of profanity and alcohol are defended on the grounds of reflecting what is going on in contemporary society. There is, however, little being left to the imagination.

Contemporary problems and morals can be explored without using any of the above in any explicit sense. Comedy can be funny without being blue. And not everyone lives the way people do on TV. If CBTV manages to bring back a degree of imagination to the tube, then it will be great.

As to the logic of the critics, the faults in their comments are obvious to anyone who cares to look. Essentially, they are saying the same thing that CBTV is saying.

Both groups feel a particular brand of morality is being forced on them, and that the other group should turn off the set if they don't like what is on.

Some see the solution as simply being the need to have something for everyone. That will never work. People will still complain about things they don't like, and work to get them off the air.

What is the solution? Frankly, I don't know.

I know what I would like to see on TV wouldn't necessarily satisfy either side. However, shows stay on or go off because of ratings, and advertisers like to get on the top-rated shows, to get to a larger audience. So, what people watch will determine what goes on.

Maybe what we all ought to do is go back to reading; starting with the old classics, where we can learn to use our imaginations again, and with the philosophers where we can learn how to think again.

newspaper column. I mean, you can hardly blame my husband for being less than pleased for his wife to publish in the newspaper that he takes off his socks each night and puts them in a row under the coffee table. If I forget to look for a couple of days, there will be six or eight socks all lined up in a row.

If you were my husband, would you want the world to know that you still sleep with a Teddy bear after a hard day?

My husband may regret he ever encouraged me to write.

When he met me I was writing advertising campaigns for companies selling orange juice and pizza. I may have been writing but it wasn't exactly the great American novel.

I got my first non-edible writing assignment because he encouraged me that I could do more.

Somedays when my column comes out, he may wish that I were still selling orange juice.

Social Security news

BY VIRGINIA DEWITT

Young people planning to work for the first time this summer should be aware that the first step is to get a social security number -- and the time to take that first step is now.

Many young people may not realize that getting a social security number takes a little longer today than it did for their parents. Mom and dad probably walked into a social security office one day and walked out with a social security number and card. Today many of you can even apply by mail if you wish, but either way it takes about six weeks to receive a social security number and card.

The major reason for the difference is that the application is now more closely scrutinized to assure the applicant's correct identity, citizenship, or lawful alien status, and age. When the social security system first started 46 years ago and in its early years, the concern was to make it as easy as possible for people to get a social security card. Now that the system is a household word -- the Nation's primary means of providing an income to a family at the retirement, death, or disability of the breadwinner -- the major concern is that the card and the rights it represents are protected from fraud and abuse.

Moreover, the social security number represents your key to your earnings record and future benefits based on it. Eligibility for benefits is based on your date of birth and the amount is based on your covered annual earnings shown in your record over your working lifetime. Incorrect information on the application for a number could seriously affect your benefit rights later.

Many employers will not hire you unless you can show a social security card because the law required them to collect and pay social security taxes on the earnings of each person they employ, and they need a correct social security number for this purpose.

People 18 or over must apply for a card in person, but people under 18 may apply by mail or phone.

If you were born in the United States, a birth or baptismal record will be necessary for proof of age and citizenship. For proof of identity, we may accept any document which includes your signature, photograph, or physical description, such as driver's license, draft card, voters registration card, marriage record, school identity card, newspaper birth announcement, and similar documents.

If you were born outside the United States but are now a citizen, you will need to submit either a U.S. passport, a naturalization certificate, a U.S. citizen identity card, a certificate of citizenship, or a consular report of birth.

If you are not a U.S. citizen but are living in or visiting the U.S. and want to apply for a social security number, you will need an Alien Registration card (U.S. Immigration Form I-185, I-186, I-187, I-188, I-189, I-190, I-191, I-192, I-193, I-194, or I-195) and a copy of the original copy certificate which is returned to the office in person.

You should apply for the original copy certificate which is returned to the office in person.

The cat ran from the clatter Dad got the ladder And went to see what was the matter.

The wind boosted him to the top There he stood just about to drop To his knees When the wind did as it pleased And quick as a sneeze

It caught his glasses in the breeze And took them right off his face And threw them to the ground far below. He shouted and cried, "Hello."

But no one could hear him Above the din of the wind.

The sky was dark with the dirt He couldn't see because of the wind Had turned his shirt over his head He would have to be led Off of the roof that day.

But no one knew he was there Much to his despair.

Some children were blowing home from school When they looked up and said, "What a fool! There is a man on the roof With his hair in the air

We must save him if we can. Let's go get Dan."

With their back to the wind They sailed to town There they asked around But Dan was nowhere to be found.

So they got the fire boys In their red truck And they all flew like a wild duck Back to the house in the muck.

But Dad wasn't on the roof anymore He had blown into a tree by the door. So they got their fire hose And put a rope around his clothes

And brought the tree to the ground. There under his girth His glasses were found All safe and snug, there on the earth.

"Thanks, to you all." He said with a smile. "Come on in and get out of this gust for awhile." So they all went inside And drank tea from a cup And waited for the wind to shut up.

Q. We own a small rental house, and are considering the installation of a range and refrigerator in order to make the home more attractive to potential tenants. Should any special insurance arrangements be made to cover these appliances?

A. A standard Fire Policy should be written to insure the building. The definition of a building or dwelling in the standard Fire Policy includes building equipment. Since you feel it is necessary to equip the house with appliances, they would be considered building equipment. In some of the newer forms of coverage such as Special Multi Peril MLB-100 these appliances are specifically mentioned under the building definition.

County GOP adopts resolution

Albert Scheele, Floyd County Republican chairman, has released a resolution that was adopted at a meeting of the Floyd County Republican Executive Committee on March 24, 1981.

The resolution listed the economic problems the nation faces and urged support of President Reagan's proposals to lower government spending and taxation. The resolution praised the administration's goal of balancing the budget by 1984.

Included in the language of the resolution were instructions that a copy be sent to Congressman Charles W. Stenholm and to United States Senators John Tower and Lloyd Bentsen.

In commenting on the President's program, Scheele expressed the opinion that "big brother" government with cradle to grave assistance for everyone has not worked. Forty years of governmental over-control in every facet of American life at the cost of billions of dollars of taxpayer money has proven to be one of the biggest failures in history.

President Reagan is offering the American people a chance to regain more control of their own destinies, to have more control over the wages of their labor to save, to invest and to look forward to in the future.

The man Davis

One of the biggest headaches you can face in interior painting is that grease spot which will just not go away. Usually found in older homes and most often a resident of the kitchen, it seems that no matter how many layers of paint, or what kind of paint, that grease spot eventually comes through - loud and clear. There is a remedy short of wallpaper or, worse, a section of new wall. The next time that particular room is hinting at a new coat of paint, clean off as much of the surface dirt and grease as possible, then apply a coat of shellac over the spot. The shellac will seal the spot, stopping its constant reappearance through new coats of paint. Here's another painting tip. If you're painting over old paint or wallpaper whose color persists in bleeding through the new coat, paint over with gray paint. Let dry and re-paint using the new color. The gray paint kills the old color.

What's missing?

A Federal Crop Insurance policy. That's what this farmer needs to complete his insurance picture. And what you need to make your plans complete for a successful crop year. All Risk Crop Insurance covers the risk of losses from hazards like drought, flood, insects or disease.

Take a look at the five main benefits of buying All Risk Crop Insurance — benefits other farmers can't get. Protect investments — Your yearly costs in good seed, fertilizer, chemicals, repair and labor continue to grow. These per-acre charges need protection from loss.

Allow no penalties — Will you be leaving more land? Will you be adding crop acreage? If so, remember Federal Crop Insurance limits what you can lose. Make a risky investment attractive.

Flexible professional management — When you lose the risk, you're required to invest. So you can adjust to special needs, change to another crop and profit.

Special family service — Your family's security is important. When crops are planted, that means you are protected. Call your local FCI representative today.

April deadlines set for Crop Ins. Program

April deadlines have been set for area farmers seeking to insure their crops under the Federal Crop Insurance program.

"Corn producers in Armstrong, Castro, Deaf Smith, Donley, Floyd, Hale, Parmer and Swisher counties have until April 15 to apply for FCIC coverage. An April 30 deadline is in effect for cotton and grain sorghum applications in the same counties as well as in Briscoe, Collingsworth and Motley counties," said Jackie Harris, district director for the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation.

Stone to keynote banquet

Texas Farmers Union District II will be hosting a banquet Saturday in Lubbock at the Plains Cooperative Oil Mill, 2901 Avenue A at 7 p.m.

Keynote speaker for the evening will be National Farmers Union president George Stone.

Stone is from Oklahoma where he served as president of the Oklahoma Farmers Union prior to his election in 1980.

He also serves as the chairman of the Board of National Farmers Union Property and Casualty Company and "Other crops in the district eligible for protection include grain sorghum in Randall County, peanuts in Motley County and soybeans in Floyd, Hale and Swisher counties. The deadline on those crops is also April 30," he continued.

FCIC is an agency of the United States Department of Agriculture. It is designed to protect a producer's crop production expenses from risks like hail, wind, drought, insects and disease.

Information about the FCIC program can be obtained from any private insurance agent handling the program or from the FCIC offices in Amarillo and Lubbock.

the National Farmers Union Life Insurance Companies. Stone previously served as vice-president of NFU.

At the banquet, NFU President Stone will be joined by Texas Farmers Union president Mike Moeller and TFU vice-president Joe Rankin.

There will be live entertainment from the Youkum County FFA band and drawings for door prizes.

The banquet will begin at 7 p.m. with a catered barbecue dinner. Tickets are $6 and may be purchased at the door.

Swine Short Course tailored for Plains

(PLAINVIEW)—Swine producers in the Rolling and High Plains and Texas Panhandle will explore techniques which can help turn losses into profit in view of current feed prices during the annual Texas A&M University Swine Short Course here next Wednesday.

Leading animal scientists and producers from Texas, New Mexico, Kansas and Michigan will conduct the daylong program at the Hale County Agricultural Center south of the city on U.S. 87 business route.

The $10 registration fee includes lunch and proceedings, noted Dr. Robert S. Cohen, area swine specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

The course is organized and sponsored by the Extension Service. Cooperating with it are the department of animal science at Texas A&M, the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, Texas Pork Producers Assn. and Texas Pork Producers Board.

The course begins at 8 a.m. and adjourns at 4:15 p.m.

The impact of various production factors on profit and loss; practical aspects of herd health, reproduction and maintenance; conversion of hog biomass to alternate fuels; opportunities for computerizing swine production records, and the potential for farrowing cooperatives in Texas are featured topics for the program.

Speakers and discussion leaders will include Dr. Maynard Hogberg, Extension swine specialist, Michigan State University, Lansing, Michigan; Dr. Steve Henry, veterinarian, Abilene, Kansas; producers Adair Merrell of Animas, New Mexico, and Dan Berdell of Del Valle; and David Malish and Don Raley of Austin, whose engineering firm has designed a methane generating plant.

Also, Dr. T.D. Tanksley Jr., professor and Extension swine specialist in the department of animal science at A&M; Dr. D.A. Knabe, assistant professor of animal science, Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, A&M; Dr. Roland Smith, Extension economist-grain marketing, College Station; Dr. Ramon W. Sammons, Extension area economist-management, Amarillo, and Cohen.

Cow's nutrition is key to yearly calving

(COLLEGE STATION)—Herd nutrition is essential for cattlemen wanting to produce one calf per cow each year.

"A cow's reproductive performance is directly related to her plane of nutrition," says Dr. Larry Boleman, beef cattle specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

"As the plane of nutrition decreases, reproductive performance is the first affected," Boleman explains.

Supplying supplemental feed to the range beef cow corrects nutritional deficiencies as needed.

"Dry winter forage generally will not meet the higher nutrient demands of the lactating cow, lactating first-calf heifer or the growing calf," says the specialist. "Thus supplemental feeding is necessary."

Often beef producers have problems deciding on the amount and choice of supplement, which varies because of ranch location, management systems, rainfall and other factors.

"Nutrient requirements of the beef animal depend on age, condition, weight, stage of production and milking ability during lactation," Boleman notes. "For instance, thin cows may need to gain 100 to 150 pounds by calving time while those in average shape need to gain only 60 to 80 pounds. After calving for three or four months, a cow needs 60 percent more energy and more than twice as much protein per day as at other times."

Once cattle requirements have been determined, the herd should be separated according to these needs, and the approximate nutrient composition and availability of forage should be determined.

"Once a cattleman knows the nutrient needs of his cattle and nutrients available through hay or forage, it's easy to determine the amount of protein supplement, if any, that is needed to meet nutritional requirements," Boleman concludes.

Texas A&M holds Annual Animals Conference

Opportunities and techniques which could help pork producers make a profit instead of a loss in view of current feed prices, will be explored at the Annual Swine Short Course at Texas A&M University April 5-7.

The short course is part of the Texas Animal Agricultural Conference being conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

The impact of various production factors on profit and loss; practical aspects of herd health, reproduction and maintenance; conversion of hog biomass to alternate fuels; opportunities for computerizing swine production records, and the potential for farrowing cooperatives in Texas are among the topics featured in the two-day program.

In conjunction with the short course, the Texas Pork Producers Association and Texas Pork Producers Board will hold a directors' meeting at 7 p.m. Sunday, April 5, and the annual meeting and banquet of TPPA at 6 p.m. Monday, April 6.

The banquet speaker will be Orville Sweet of Des Moines, Iowa, executive vice president of the National Pork Producers Council.

Conference sessions will be held in the Rudder Tower and the Memorial Student Center on campus, said Dr. T.D. Tanksley Jr., professor and Extension swine specialist in the department of animal science.

Registration forms may be obtained from county Extension agents or from Tanksley, Room 212 Kleburg Center, Department of Animal Science, Texas A&M University, College Station, Texas, 77843. Advance registration received by Tanksley by March 25 is $25; registration at the door is $30. The fee includes the TPPA banquet, a breakfast and a copy of the proceedings.

The swine short course is sponsored by the Extension Service in cooperation with the Department of Animal Science at A&M, the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, Texas Pork Producers Association and Texas Pork Producers Board.

Consumer views important

(COLLEGE STATION) — Cattlemen must know the changing needs and attitudes that consumers have toward beef before they can hope for beef consumption to increase.

High beef prices are the major reason consumers give for not buying red meat. This explains the noticeable per capita decline in beef consumption since 1976, says Mary K. Sweeten, food and nutrition specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

"High prices have forced consumers to cut back on beef purchases, substitute cheaper cuts, and buy poultry and fish rather than beef. Others have stopped buying beef altogether," Sweeten explains.

"Cattlemen should realize that recent major changes in society have affected food consumption. Among these," she says, "are the number of available items in the grocery store, drastic changes in living patterns, an increase in the elderly population, health concerns and a reported seven million vegetarians. Although not practicing vegetarianism, another 37.5 million are making a conscientious effort to eat less meat."

Also affecting food consumption is the increased popularity of fast food establishments, government food programs and new food technologies that are resulting in more "engineered foods" such as breakfast bars and space sticks.

"American food policy has always stressed quantitative proportions to avoid hunger and nutrition deficiency diseases. But recently qualitative considerations have become more important," Sweeten says.

Beef is known as a nutritious food that contains protein, iron and the B vitamins that supply the body with nutrients. It also contains calories for energy.

But beef has appreciable amounts of fat that consumers are trimming off and throwing away. Cattlemen should look for ways to raise leaner animals, Sweeten notes.

"Cattlemen must also use marketing strategies to meet the needs of each consumer group in America: low income, senior citizens, minorities and parents. Consumers from different socio-economic levels and other groups differ in their beef needs.

"Cattlemen must understand the images that these groups have of the beef industry and work to provide leaner beef at more reasonable prices," Sweeten says.

Revised regulations an improvement

(AUSTIN) — A year of revised regulations in the Texas brucellosis program is highlighted by a sharp increase in vaccination of heifer calves, promising research developments, and improved cooperation with producers and other segments of the livestock industry.

Commissioners of the Texas Animal Health Commission adopted major changes in the Texas program a year ago. "We believe much progress has been made in that time," John Armstrong, Kingsville, chairman, TAHC, said. He explained the program has six basic thrusts:

1. To provide a practical and affordable program for the Texas cowman that meets scientific criteria for control leading to eventual eradication of brucellosis;

2. Significant increase in the use of the reduced dose of Strain 19 vaccine;

3. Expanded and improved laboratories;

4. Improved surveillance;

5. Individual herd plans;

6. Meet federal regulations for interstate movement of breeding cattle.

Brucellosis is a highly contagious disease, affecting mainly livestock, and centering in the reproductive organs. It causes abortions, sterility, weakened calves, and partial loss of milk. In humans, it is called undulant fever.

"Vaccination of heifer calves during the last calendar quarter of 1980 has shown an almost 100 percent increase compared to the same time period in 1979. This is due in large part to the approval of the reduced dose of Strain 19 vaccine. Vaccination is a key element in the Texas brucellosis program, but it

Drilling 6640 feet of pipe takes awhile

Drilling Company, Midland, has been drilling on the Wayne Collins farm south of Floydada for the Monday afternoon they were to a depth of 6640 feet. The drilling process had slowed down indicating the bit on the drill was about used up and had to be changed. The process of pulling the 6640 feet of pipe up out of the hole is called "backing the bit." The process takes three to four hours and is called "backing the pipe." The section is pulled out of the hole by the boom and derrick next to the derrick.

As the pipe comes out of the hole crew members stand by to clamp on the pipe joint. The roughneck in the rig catches the pipe just below the joint. Crew members in the background clamp on the pipe above the joint and twist the pipe apart. The pipe is wet with drilling mud and the crewmen are

Our new name... a Commitment to you

We have been known as Pioneer Natural Gas Company in West Texas for many years... but often confused with many other "Pioneer" companies.

Now we are Energas... a simple, distinctive new name to quickly and easily identify our company and our tradition of supplying efficient gas energy.

Energas customers are partners in helping to solve our national energy problems. Wise use of energy is a consumer responsibility; exploration, production and efficient distribution are industry responsibilities.

The business of gas distribution is complex, but the Energas priority is simple... dependable supply and efficient service to 72 communities across a 50,000 square mile region.
