Lockney Lady Horns featured in Wayland Queen's Classic opening

OTTO PUGLIESE M.T. demonstrated the new radiology equipment at the Open House held at Lockney General Hospital Sunday from 2 to 5 p.m. Approximately 80-100 county residents were welcomed by hospital board members R.D. Baccus, H.E. Frizzell, and Kenneth Tate.

Lockney's Lady Horns, coached by Sheri Haynes, return to the Plainview Queens Classic again this year to join seven other top high school girls' teams in the three day competition in Wayland's Hutcherson Center Thanksgiving week-end November 25-26-27.

Coming off a 22-11 season with runnerup honors in District play last year, the Lady Horns return four starters from that team including: Connie Coffman, Shawnda Brock, Karen Mathis and Karyn Foster.

Miss Coffman was named to 2nd team All-State, Most Valuable Player in the District, All-South Plains and made the Panhandle-Plains Super Team for her performance last spring. She averaged 20.3 points per game.

Miss Brock, a 5-5 guard averaged 11.9 points per game last season.

Miss Mathis, a 5-10 Senior Post averaged 6.8 points per game.

Lockney will open the tournament in the feature high school game of Thursdays card, facing the Plainview Bulldogs at 8 p.m., the final game for opening day.

Six college teams are involved in this year's classic: Stephen F. Austin, Kansas, New Mexico, Missouri, Colorado College and Wayland University.

Energas honors locals for service

Pioneer Corporation honored its employees for service at a banquet held in the Country Squire Dinner Theatre in Amarillo Monday night, November 15.

Melvin Davis of Floydada, Paul Ogle of Floydada and Zora Reecer of Lockney were among the 146 awardees from the Amarillo District.

Davis received a gold watch for his 30 years of service. He works in distribution gas measurement.

Davis and his wife, Lou, have one daughter, Nancy Jarnagin, who also lives in Floydada.

Ogle was awarded a 5-year pen for his service. He is currently working out of the Plainview office as he is working in the supervisor trainer program.

His wife Judy is a beautician. The couple have two daughters, Amy and Angela.

ZORA REECER

Mrs. Reecer received a pendant/pen for 15 years of service. Her husband, Paul Reecer, is employed by Long Roofing of Plainview and is also a city councilman for Lockney.

Mrs. Reecer has actually worked for Energas for 23 years, going to work originally December 2, 1957. But she had a break in service of a year and 9 months when she temporarily stopped working at the birth of their youngest son, Jeff, 18, who is a student at Texas Tech University.

The couple have four other children: Jana Hill of Lubbock; Randy Reecer of Amarillo, Chris Reecer, who works for the telephone company in Plainview; and Robin Reecer, who manages Summerville Apartments in Lubbock.

They also have three grandchildren.

25 TO 30 AREA FARMERS met to gather Doyle Sandefur's cotton crop Monday. 16 strippers and 2 module builders started about 9 a.m. and planned on having the crop off the stalk by 3 p.m. Doyle is home recovering from a recent case of pneumonia.

Thanksgiving! What Is It?

We have all read or studied how our forefathers, The Pilgrims gave thanks with their Indian neighbors. These traditions have grown thru the years where today Thanksgiving means many things to each of us.

Many of us have traditions that entail sitting down with our families over a large meal. These feasts leave us stuffed and promising ourselves never to do it again, but Thanksgiving is more than this.

Each of us have things we should be thankful of this time of the year as well as all year long.

Monday of this week I had an opportunity to witness what Thanksgiving is really about. I drove out to the Fairview-Center community to take a picture of several area men and farmers helping harvest an ailing neighbor's cotton crop.

During this slow farming year when many are having a hard time, I viewed 16 cotton strippers, 2 module builders and 25 to 30 men giving one day of their time and their machinery.

This country way of life we share in Floyd County where neighbors help neighbors is what the Thanksgiving spirit is all about.

JEFF KLOTZMAN spoke to the Floydada High School Band Monday about the "Christmas for Kids" concert. This year the concert will be Saturday Dec. 11 in the Lubbock Memorial Civic Center and will feature about 800 area band members. Kids from Girlstown, USA, Texas Boys Ranch, Buchner's Children's Homes, Children's Home of Lubbock, South Plains Children's Shelter and all the foster children in the 22 county area served by the Department of Human Resources will benefit from "Christmas for Kids". Tickets may be purchased locally through the Floydada Lion's Club. Tickets are also available at the First National Bank in Floydada, Script Printing and the Hesperian. Your support of our kids in the concert will be appreciated. About 57 Floydada Band members are participating. Tickets are priced at $2.50 for adults and $1 for students.

Commodity and farm storage loans disbursed in November by the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Commodity Credit Corporation will carry a 9.75 percent interest rate, according to CCC Executive Vice President Everett Rank.

The new rate, down from 11 percent, reflects the interest rate charged CCC by the U.S. Treasury in November, Rank said. It is the lowest interest rate charged by CCC since the 1979 crop when the rate was 9 percent. Rank said.

Texans rate enforcement agencies

Texas residents in general are satisfied with the courteousness and fairness of police officers, while those arrested for misdemeanor crimes are not.

These were among the results of a recent study of "Public Perceptions of the Police in Texas," conducted by the Survey Research Program of the Criminal Justice Center at Sam Houston State University.

Responses came from 1,345 individuals from 181 Texas counties, selected at random and questioned earlier this year on their experiences during 1981.

"At no time in the history of Texas have the police been under greater public scrutiny," said Dr. Raymond H.C. Teske, Jr., director of the Survey Research Program. "The press, the judicial system, public officials and others consistently make reference to the role of the police."

Another survey topic which Teske said has not received adequate study is the extent and types of contact Texans have with the police.

"Most law-abiding citizens are pleased with their police," said Teske. "Highest marks went to the Department of Public Safety, followed by local police and sheriff's departments."

The DPS was rated professional or very professional by 82% of those surveyed. Local police and sheriff's departments got 65% positive ratings in those categories.

Ratings on fairness in administering the law were 80% for DPS, either very fair or fair; 65% for sheriff's departments; 64% for local police.

Among those who had been arrested for misdemeanor offenses (29 of the 1,345 respondents, 34 total arrests), fairness ratings were understandably lower. A total of 52% of those arrested said they had been treated unfairly (38% or very unfairly (14%).

Only two respondents had been arrested for felony violations.

Ratings on competency, dedication, and courteousness were high among all surveyed, with least positive perceptions being reported in the category of honesty.

The DPS was rated as very competent (24%) or competent (56%), for a total of 80%. The local police earned 64% and sheriff's departments 61% total ratings in these categories.

The DPS was rated as very dedicated or dedicated by 73%, as compared to 59% for local police and 55% for sheriff's departments. The DPS received 77% ratings as very courteous or courteous, with the local police totaling 65% and sheriff's departments 61%.

In the honesty category, DPS got marks of 70% as very honest or honest and local police and sheriff's departments 61% each.

More than half of all Texans (57%), according to survey projections, had at least one contact with police during 1981. Of these, 58% were with local police, 13% DPS troopers, 12% police of another city, and 7% a sheriff's department.

Of those reporting contacts, 29% were for traffic violations. Almost half (49%) of these were for speeding and 17% were for out-of-date license or inspection sticker violations. Of those stopped, 62% were given tickets, and 72% said they were treated fairly.

Of those surveyed, 221 (16%) said they had been victims of crime during the previous year which they had reported to the police. Of those, only 43% were satisfied with the overall job done by the police. 35% dissatisfied, and 22% gave no opinion.

The most frequent types of victimization reported were burglary (6.6% of all respondents) and vandalism (5.1%) of all respondents. In only one-half (53%) of the incidents did the complainant actually sign a complaint or report form for the police, someone was arrested in only 15 percent of the crimes reported, and in only 5 percent of the cases was someone convicted. If property was stolen, in only 15 percent of the cases was the property recovered.

General questions relating to crime were also included on the survey. Over one-half of the respondents (54%) felt that crime in their community had gotten worse in the past three years, and 52% expect it to get worse in the next three years.

Over three-fourths of those surveyed (77%) said that court rulings on law enforcement had somewhat hindered (36%) or severely hindered (41%) police in their efforts to control crime.

Survey participants were asked about their use of police services during the past year and their lifetimes. A total of 161 (12%) had participated in one such program during 1981 and 234 (17%) during their lifetime.

The most frequent included "Neighborhood Watch" programs (6.1% in 1981, 7.6% lifetime) and "Crime Stoppers" (2.3% in 1981, 2.8% lifetime.) Only 1.3% had participated in gun training during their lifetime and 1.9% in a rape self-defense program. A total of 103 (8%) had requested a home or business security check during 1981.

Dr. Larry T. Hoover, who teaches in the area of law enforcement and police science and who participated in the study, said that the number of citizens reporting contact with the police during the year studied (1981) was surprisingly high.

However, Hoover noted that a relatively low proportion of the population has taken part in police crime prevention programs, calling into question the effectiveness of such programs.

Autopsy pending

A man believed to be from Claude was found dead at the Fieldan Motel in Floydada.

Kenneth Dwight Banister, 30, was found at 11:50 a.m. Tuesday November 16.

An autopsy will be performed and the results will not be known for about two weeks.

EMPLOYEES OF THE SOUTHWESTERN PUBLIC SERVICE COMPANY will show off their second coal fired power plant, Talk Station Unit No. 1, near Muleshoe, Saturday and Sunday. Everyone in the SPS service area is invited to the open house, said Lewis McDaniel, area manager in Floydada. Tours begin at 10 a.m. Saturday and 1 p.m. Sunday. When generating at capacity, the 561,000-Kilowatt unit will be able to supply the electricity needs to 225,000 people.

Low-Sulphur Western coal, stockpiled in the foreground, powers the unit. The coal is moved by conveyors into a crusher house where it is ground as fine as talcum powder. It is burned in a boiler housed in the giant finished building center, also pictured to the left of the finished building is the baghouse, which cleans flue gases on their way to the chimney stack. Cindy Smith initiated into history International Honor Society

Cindy Smith of Lockney, Brenda Coleman, Steve Ahlenius, Betty Tullis and Denise Sanders, all of Plainview, were initiated into the International Honor Society, Phi Alpha Theta, at Wayland Baptist University November 16.

Phi Alpha Theta is an international honor society in History. It was organized at the University of Arkansas on March 17, 1921. Since that time it has grown to the point where it now has several hundred chapters in forty-two states, Puerto Rico, and the Philippine Islands. It is the largest, in number of chapters, of the accredited honor societies holding membership in the Association of College Honor Societies. The total number of its initiates, since organization, is more than 44,000.

The membership of Phi Alpha Theta is composed of students and professors who have been elected to membership upon the basis of excellence in the study or the writing of History. It is highly democratic, however, in the fact that any student of History may become a member simply by maintaining a high standard of work in his studies, as well as in the fact that all the members participate in the work and in the direction of the society.

At the same time, Phi Alpha Theta is a professional society the objective of which is the promotion of the study of History by the encouragement of research, good teaching, publication, and the exchange of learning and thought among historians. It seeks to bring students, teachers, and writers of History together both intellectually and socially, and it encourages and assists, in a variety of ways, historical research and publication by its members.

Court to sell cannery

The Floyd County Commissioners decided to advertise for bid and sell the old Floydada cannery building stating that the building was in a too advanced state of disrepair and all of the useable equipment was sent to the cannery in Lockney to get that cannery in operating condition.

The Commissioners also stated that it would not be economically feasible to operate two canneries in Floyd County.

Mrs. Q.D. Williams and Lillian Smith met with the commissioners to ask that the building not be sold and possibly opened at a later date. They presented a petition signed by an interest group wanting the cannery not sold. Their reasoning was some people were not able to get to the cannery in Lockney due to lack of transportation or the distance was practical because most of their business transactions take place in Floydada.

Motions were made and seconded to approve the following requests and contracts for the use of county equipment and machinery: Thomas Warren, Sylvia Kinnibrugh, J.B. Cumbie, E.O. Barrett, J.R. Belt Farming Inc. by Eddie Foster, Beth Kropp, Donald R.

1934 Study Club hear antique program

On Tuesday November 16 the 1934 Study Club met in the home of Mrs. J.P. Moss, with Mrs. G.W. Switzer co-hostess.

After roll call Mrs. W.H. Bunch presided at the business meeting.

The program theme was "Beautiful Antique Treasures" and Mrs. J.S. Hale was the program coordinator.

"Never ridicule antiques because one person's trash may become another person's treasure." With this thought in mind, antique glass was discussed by Mrs. Moss and she had on display several pieces from her own collection. She said some of the glass pieces had been purchased from antique shops, some had been found in rather unique places, some had been given to her, and she had even "stolen" one piece. Before she was condemned for this she went on to explain it had belonged to her brother. She saw it on the linen chest in her family home, liked it and took it. Several years later her brother saw the piece in her home and was amazed to find out what had happened to it!

Mrs. Moss said she became interested in bottle collecting because of the graceful shapes and colors. She started displaying them on glass shelves that had been installed in a window where they could catch the reflecting sunlight. One bottle she displayed was found in Williamsburg, Virginia and it was actually made in the mold. The label was put on with glass, attached while it was still hot. The name on it was John Greenhouse, 1770.

Another interesting bottle was one shaped like a log cabin. It was an E.G. Boozie Old Cabin Whiskey bottle dated 1840.

Mrs. Hale discussed antique dolls, their history and collectability. She said she found enough material for one whole year of programs on dolls without covering the same subject twice.

Since the 1930's doll collecting has become the third most popular collecting in the world.

Mrs. Hale said, "Dolls date back to the ancient Assyrians and Babylonians. The earliest American dolls are of Aztec origin, discovered in the pyramids in Central America. Wooden dolls were found in the tombs of Egypt, and England's Queen Victoria had a very famous collection of 132 wooden dolls, elaborately costumed, which are on display in London's Albert and Victoria Museum."

"Marie Antoinette owned a splendid collection of dolls, most of them were fashion dolls, which were used by designers to display their creations to the wealthy patrons."

Old dolls, like their modern counterparts, represented the famous and the infamous. Dolls were always replicas of women until 1851 when the first child dolls were made. Baby dolls were introduced in the 1800's and now the majority of dolls are baby dolls that can do almost anything.

Mrs. Hale stated that if a person was looking for a good investment in doll collecting, that those made of vinyl and plastic were probably the best investments, as they have a petroleum base, and will possibly become too expensive to be made in the future. She also gave a tip on the care of antique dolls. Do not wrap dolls in plastic wrap, store them in low places rather than high, as heat rises and could cause damage to the doll which would be beyond repair.

Mrs. A.L. Wylie chose to speak on only one type of wood furniture, the durable oak, which was designed to serve people with average means. Furniture made of oak can be readily found at auctions and antique shops, usually reasonably priced. Oak is a hardwood and can easily be restored and finished.

"Wood will bring a higher price than veneer," said Mrs. Wylie. "The carvings and ornate decorations on the furniture item will greatly increase its value. A mail order catalogue in 1908 devoted nearly sixty pages to oak furniture for the home and office, ranging from a dining chair listed at 77 cents to an extension table listed at just under $30.00.

"The center of the oak furniture industry was Grand Rapids, Michigan, a name that came to stand for mass produced furniture and often used as a synonym for bad taste. Unfairly so, in the opinion of collectors."

The hostesses served refreshments of chicken salad, cheese balls, crackers, chocolate cherries, tea and coffee to the following members: Mmes. Floyd Lawson, J.S. Hale, Vernon Parker, Garland

Foster, Anthony Latta, W.H. Bunch, Dennis Dempsey, Alan Benson, Wade Warren, W.W. Trapp, George Springer, Kyle Glover, A.L. Wylie, Walton Wilson, W.O. Newberry, L.D. Simpson, L.B. Stewart, Allen Bingham, Milton Ashton, and J.R. Turner.

The next meeting will be in the home of Mrs. M.J. McNeill.

EARLY CHRISTMAS SHOPPERS and dressed up Lockney and Floydada residents going to or coming from activities Sunday made Schacht's a very popular place. Old friends and new acquaintances alike enjoyed the opportunity to visit, get in some shopping and maybe find some really smart ideas for gifts and decorating at their Open House.

Final preparation for the Hunt Breakfast were discussed. The breakfast will be December 12th at the Trinity Lutheran Church in Providence. The serving of the breakfast will begin at 5:30 a.m.

Members were reminded about the club Christmas party December 16 at the White House in Floydada.

Members present were: Janette Workman, Robin Stoerner, Reeda Cay Smith, Lisa Mosley, Cindy Means, Rhonda McCain, Kay Martin, Linda Marr, Brenda Mangold, Kathy Kellison, Jesse Johnson, Judy Jackson, Julie Hickerson, Lynda Gant, Kelly

LOCKNEY CARE CENTER CAPERS

BY VICKIE HUTTON

Our current events class really got heated Wednesday. The topic was nuclear weapons. There were many different view points but the majority was against nuclear weapons.

Our bingo winners this week were Albert Poole and Jewell Miller. Dominos is running a close second as being our second favorite game. Our competitiveness really shows.

We really painted up a stern Wednesday at Ceramics. The residents are painting gifts for Christmas. Or teacher really has a gift for teaching us the art.

A special thanks is sent to the WML ladies of the First Baptist Church in Lockney for the Delicious cookies they made and brought to the Residents. This was an extra special treat and we appreciate their thoughtfulness.

This is a special time of the year when we give "thanks to God" for all the blessings he has bestowed on us. The Residents wish each and every one of you a "Happy Thanksgiving." Until next time, "God be with you".

They say that one out of every four adults is unbalanced. Think about your three closest friends. If they seem okay -- you're in trouble.

Tolerance is sometimes the uncomfortable feeling that the other fellow may be right after all.

Things turn out best for the people who make the best of the way things turn out.

Too many of our children know when and where the Pilgrims landed, but have no idea why.

Every Thanksgiving the newspapers are full of diagrams showing how to carve a turkey. The trouble is that the birds we get never seem to have dotted lines on them.

We'd like to take this opportunity to express our sincere thanks to each and every one of you for your interest and patronage during the past year. BIRTHDAY HONOREES at this month at the Floydada Nursing Home are Mrs. Una Clark [seated] and Annalee Brown [standing].

Rest Home Birthday Party

By Lorilla Bradley
November 18, 1982

A chilly month, November...
When north winds whine and blow...
But celebrating birthdays
Should make it warm and glow!!

A very lovely lady
Is Mrs. Una Clark...
For fun she's always ready...
Her years are "just a lark!"

Our Mrs. Brown we're greeting...
...Her years are 82...
For her a birthday party
Is just the thing to do!

Lets cheer these lovely ladies
With the good old BIRTHDAY song...
So get your "vocals" ready
And sing out good and strong!

Thursday, November 18, was party time again at the Rest Home with ladies of the City Part Church of Christ acting as hostesses. Honorees and guests were ushered into the dining room with the honorees being seated at the "honor" table.

The table was laid with an ecru cloth and centered with a lovely arrangement of orange-bronze "mums". Special cards, matching the centerpiece, marked places for the honorees. A beautiful birthday cake iced in yellow and decorated with the fresh "mums" also graced the table.

The Hesperian photographer came for the "picture taking" after which the poem was read and all joined in singing the "birthday" song.

Seated with Mrs. Clark as her special guests were her granddaughter Sally Day and her great-great grandson Jason Westbrook. With Mrs. Brown as her special guest was Mrs. Tommy Simpson. Mary Corley was a guest of her husband and Jeannie Lloyd was the guest of Mrs. Lindley. Another special guest and helper was Paula Porter.

The honorees wore lovely corsages, compliments of Williams Florist of Floydada.

We surely missed Linda Emert. She has been so much help to us since she has been with the Home and we do wish her a speedy recovery and hope she can be with us again real soon.

The next party will be Thursday, December 16, 2:30 p.m. Please come and be with your loved ones and friends and help them celebrate their "special" day.

FLORA FAWVER [right] tells a humorous rendition of Goldilocks and the Three Bears with the help of Mrs. Allen Benson [left] at the Senior Citizens' Thanksgiving dinner. The program also included a presentation on Thanksgiving and the song "How Great Thou Art" by Allen Benson. The Thanksgiving theme included a cotton boll, maize, and pumpkin table decor.

Senior Citizens News

BY MARY PEARL COWAND

The Senior Citizens enjoyed a very bountiful Thanksgiving luncheon Thursday, November 18. There were 96 members and friends present to share and enjoy the meal.

The Seniors wish to thank the merchants and friends who so generously contributed the turkeys for the luncheon. To these we express our gratitude, Boone Adams, Kirtley's Grocery, Buddy's Food, and R.G. Dunlap. Thanks also go out to the ladies who cooked the turkeys and made the dressing and gravy. They were Mrs. J.B. Whitehead, Mrs. W.R. Daniel and Mrs. Nettie Adams.

Mr. Allen Benson brought an inspirational lesson. He opened the program by asking that we face the flag and sing the Star Spangled Banner and then to repeat the Pledge of Allegiance to the flag. He then told about Thanksgiving and that our American Thanksgiving was not the first Thanksgiving.

Mrs. Roy Fawver, with the help of Mrs. Allen Benson, gave a humorous rendition of the old story The Three Bears and Goldilocks.

Following the luncheon the ladies of the working crew left to attend a meeting, in Lubbock, of the nutrition councils of all the Nutrition Centers in the 15 county area around Lubbock. When we got there, we were told that the time of meeting had been changed and that it was held on Wednesday. We had not been notified of the change.

Jarnagin helps in rescue

Navy Chief Machinist's Mate Joe M. Jarnagin, son of Glenn and Floriene Jarnagin of Floydada, recently participated in the rescue of 51 Vietnamese refugees.

He is a crewmember aboard the guided missile cruiser USS Bainbridge, homeported in San Diego.

A P-3 "Orion" aircraft from Patrol

Squadron Nine spotted the refugees, about 240 miles northeast of the Singapore Strait. Following verification, the Bainbridge changed course to investigate. The refugees were found to be in need of assistance, but in good health, after nine days at sea.

Lyon receives highest honorary degree

Elvin Lyon, former Lockney High School vocational agriculture teacher, has been awarded the honorary American Farmer degree by the National Future Farmers of America organization at a meeting held recently in Kansas City, Missouri.

Lyon had been with the Lockney school system for 32 years as a coach and an ag teacher until his retirement last spring.

He was nominated for FFA's highest honorary degree by the State FFA. Only 78 teachers were nominated and each nomination had to be approved by the national FFA board of directors. Lyon received the Honorary State Lone Star Farmer degree more than 10 years ago.

That degree and an accumulation of points earned by his students' participation in FFA activities on the state level were necessary for the nomination for the national honorary degree.

Producing more energy from less ... makes the difference.

Their discovery would shake the worlds of communication, medicine and defense, but Charles Townes and Arthur Schawlow knew only that they had discovered an entirely new source of light. They called it an "optical maser." Today we know it as the "laser."

Their discovery was a light beam so concentrated it could produce power densities millions of times as intense as those on the surface of the sun - a light source so dense, the energy produced was greater than the energy required to produce it.

Arthur Schawlow and Charles Townes

This principle of more energy from less applies to the High-Efficiency Add-On Heat Pump - more units of heat than units of electricity needed to produce that heat. And while the Add-On Heat Pump works with your existing furnace to heat your home during the winter, the Add-On Heat Pump functions with the same efficiency to cool your home during warm weather.

As partners, Townes and Schawlow made a significant difference in our world with their work on the laser. As partners you, Southwestern Public Service Company and the Add-On Heat Pump can make the difference managing electricity in your home. Call SPS to see what your savings could be.

You and SPS, partners managing electricity, make the difference.

South Plains News

By Mrs. Murray Julian

Thanksgiving Day comes this week, November 25, Thursday. Many of our people plan to be gone over the holidays, but many here plan on a day of just having family, and loved ones with them as they enjoy big dinners of turkeys, some having wild turkeys, and other wild game. The weather has been beautiful this fall, and we have had a long Indian Summer! South Plains School will let out for the holiday on Wednesday at 2:30 p.m. and then will take up on Monday morning, Nov. 29th, at the usual time.

This lovely season is a time to thank our Maker for all the great and wonderful things He has done for us. We are so thankful for a country like the beautiful United States of America, for a place of love and contentment; for all our loved relatives and friends, and I thank each and everyone who have been so kind to me, in so many ways this past year. I have seen beauty unsurpassed in our cities, mountains, plains, and other places I have had the privilege to travel. My heart is singing with joy for this peaceful place, in Texas. Have a Happy Thanksgiving!

There will be a Christmas Open House at the Baptist Parsonage Sunday afternoon, December 12, from 3 to 6:30 p.m. with hosts for the church family gathering, the Reverend and Mrs. Cecil and Joyce Osborne.

The Thanksgiving and Christmas annual dinner given at the South Plains Baptist Church for all its church family, will be held at the Fellowship Hall of the Baptist Church, following morning services, December 5, and the dinner will be followed by an Ordination Service for three deacons, at 2:00 p.m. Dr. Strauss Atkinson will preside at the ordination service.

We are glad to have Mrs. Mamie Wood home again after being away 2 weeks at Tulsa, Oklahoma, where she was assisting her daughter, Mrs. Juanel Teague in a Positive Living Event, with Dr. Norman Vincent Peale, Zig Ziglar, Dr. Denis Waitley, and Marvin Phillips as speakers, on November 18. The People Plus, Inc. event was held in Tulsa, at the Mabee Center, Johnston Theater, and the Oral Roberts University. Mrs. Wood arrived home Saturday evening.

Word has come of the death of Pauline Gilliland of Dallas, who passed away Saturday night. The funeral services will be held this Wednesday morning, November 24, at the Gaston Avenue Baptist Church in Dallas. We are sorry to hear of her passing, and send sympathy to her family. Miss Gilliland at one time lived in the South Plains Community. The funeral is to be from the Sparkman Hill Crest Funeral Home in Dallas.

We have news of Mrs. Walter Wood through her daughter, Mrs. Jack McCown, that she is getting along well from her accident in which she broke her hip. Mrs. Wood will be in the hospital there at Lake Whitney through Thanksgiving. Hopefully she can go home soon afterwards.

The Mary Hill Davis Missions Offering at the South Plains Baptist Church has been extended to go on through November, so please help by giving your offering soon.

Visitors Sunday at the Baptist Church here included Kenny Dickinson, and Terry Babcock from Wayland Baptist College at Plainview, and Latham Dickens of Plainview here with his grandmother, Mrs. S.D. Kinnibrugh.

There will be a CPR Clinic held at the Fellowship Hall of the Baptist Hall on December 6, on Tuesday, and on Thursday, December 9th, with the hours for the clinic from 6:00 p.m. to 10:00 p.m.

The South Plains Elementary School held its Thanksgiving dinner with a turkey and all the trimmings, on Thursday at the lunch hour. Mrs. Nina Sanders served the delicious dinner to teachers and children of the school.

Mrs. Letha Mulder accompanied her sister, Mrs. Inez Minyard to Clarendon Friday where they spent the week-end with other sisters, Mr. and Mrs. Pete and Eunice Land, and Mr. and Mrs. Dale McGaugh.

Mrs. Cecil (Joyce) Osborne went to Muleshoe early in the past week for a couple days to visit her mother, Mrs. Corda Taylor and found her doing well.

We are glad to know Ernest Smitherman is home from the Central Plains Hospital in Plainview, after being there over a week. He is doing just wonderful following surgery there.

Those present were: Wanda Baker, Faye Belt, Alice Foster, Polly Gilbert, Dahlia Hight, Mildred Hilton, Bernice Miller, Merle Mooney, Elva Perry, Inez Rhodes, Marjorie McEleyea, Bernice Barker, Grace Colson, and Gayle Jackson.

LOCAL JOBBER PARTS SALESMAN IS GATES MYSTERY SHOPPER WINNER—Ted Allen, Floydada Auto Parts at 123 W. California was a recent winner in The Gates Rubber Company's Mystery Shopper Program. Allen will receive the gift of his choice from a selection of 10 outdoor-oriented prizes valued at $40 each. Allen was named a winner when he suggested that the Gates Mystery Shopper purchase, or inspect, a cooling system part related to a car V-belt or radiator hose being purchased by the Mystery Shopper.

The Gates Mystery Shopper program is a nationwide promotion designed to stimulate related selling of Gates products over the jobber counter, and to increase knowledge of automobile cooling systems among countermen and the do-it-yourself public.

Seedling applications available

Applications are now being accepted for windbreak seedlings from the Texas Forest Service.

These seedlings, grown from seed collected in West Texas and eastern New Mexico, are produced in the Service's greenhouse in Lubbock and in a field nursery near Halfway.

Conifer species available this season include Austrian pine, ponderosa pine, Arizona cypress, red cedar and Scotch pine. These containerized seedlings cost $1 each but are sold only in multiples of 30 seedlings.

Hardwood species include bur oak, green ash, honey locust, mulberry, native plum and Russian olive. These bare root seedlings are priced at $25 per hundred. Minimum orders of 100 seedlings will be accepted, but applicants may order 50 of one species and 50 of another. Applicants must also add a four percent state sales tax to the purchase price.

Seedlings ordered now will be ready for pickup and planting in March 1983. Tree seedlings sold by the Texas Forest Service may not be used for landscaping or ornamental purposes.

For applications and information on windbreaks, contact the Texas Forest Service, Route 3, Box 216, Lubbock, Texas 79401, (806) 746-5801. Applications are also available from county offices of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, Soil Conservation Service, and Agricultural Extension Agents.

Miss Nancy Ann Smith of Devine, Texas, bride-elect of Scott Brown, was honored at a bridal shower Saturday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Charlie Wheeler, Crosbyton. Among the co-hostesses were Mesdames Blanton Hartsell, Millard Watson, Q.D. Williams, and Georgia Mae Erickson. Mrs. Viola Brown, grandmother of the groom-elect also attended, as did his mother, Mrs. Edmund Brown, and other relatives. The couple plan to wed December 18, at Devine, Texas. Both are seniors at Texas Tech University.

Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Kendrick enjoyed a trip to the World's Fair at Knoxville, Tenn., during its final week. They traveled with their camper and Bobby was able to rest frequently. They had planned the trip before his heart attack the month before, and departed as soon as he felt able. They visited in Oklahoma City with their daughter and family, Mrs. Sandy Stewart and sons, Jed and Ben. Her husband, George, was in Saudi Arabia, with the Air Force. The autumn leaves were in beautiful color in the Blue Ridge Mountains and Smoky Mountains. As they returned through Camden, Ark. they visited Bobby's aunt, Mrs. Mae Coan. In Collinsville, Texas they spent the night with their son and family, Byron and Eileen Kendrick and little daughters.

Mrs. Lanny Glasscock had a booth for her woodcrafts at the Floydada Arts and Crafts show Saturday. Her parents, Ruth and Weldon Hammonds also helped out.

Mrs. James Lee Nichols had a booth for her ceramic ware at the show.

Mr. and Mrs. Rudolf McCurdy have a new granddaughter, Sara Elizabeth, born to Dr. and Mrs. Phil McCurdy of Marble Falls, Texas, November 17.

They have one other child, a little two and a half year old, Lillian Denice.

Cheryl and Donnie Guess and children, Amy and Bryan of Levelland, spent Saturday night and Sunday with her sister and family, Penny and Dayne Golightly, Lacy and Rance.

Joe Thurston is helping at the Mt. Blanco gin this fall.

Here at Lakeview the gin is not operating, due to lack of a cotton crop, but Duane McClintock and Jean are receiving the gear crop at the elevator. Loads are coming in from Cedar Hill, Cone, and other communities. Many farmers planted gear after it was too late to replant cotton after the late spring hailstorms.

The Lakeview skyline looks bare this year. Last fall every farm was rimmed with a solid wall of cotton modules. Now there is only a module on a farm here and there, and maybe two on another, and that is the picture all over the community.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Bishop spent the week-end at their ranch at Roaring Springs. Mr. and Mrs. Mike Bishop came down for Sunday dinner. Gary Dixon and Greg Bishop were down for deer hunting. Howard and Gary both bagged a deer apiece.

Miss Marlis McGaugh was honoree at a slumber party in her home Friday night for her fourteenth birthday. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James McGaugh, served the ten girls an informal supper of stew and crackers with birthday cake for dessert. The house was decorated with paper streamers. The girls played basketball and listened to music. All spread sleeping bags on the living room floor and some even got some sleep that night. Guests included Marlis' classmates: Lisa Graham, Lori Higginbotham, Jana Davis, Kim Ellis, Tanya Perry, Dawn Atterberry, Cynthia Covington, Paige Cannon, and D'Lene Pearson.

Mr. and Mrs. Randy Bertrand and daughter, Misty and Angie, were in Plainview Friday night and Saturday for Randy's racquetball tournament at the YMCA. Misty and Angie swam at the indoor pool.

Mrs. Dean Watson was Matron of Honor at the recent wedding of Kathy Patzer and Kip Pritchard of Plainview. The ceremony was read in the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Troy Pritchard, in Plainview. The groom is in the building contracting business.

Ford Miller of Texas Tech visited Mr. and Mrs. Q.D. Williams Saturday and Sunday and went hunting here and at Roaring Springs.

Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Kendrick were in Ft. Worth last week-end for the Eastern Star grand chapter meeting. Thirteen people from Floydada attended. Jean planned to host the Past Matrons in her home Monday night. Both she and Bobby assisted at the reception Sunday afternoon honoring Jimmy Willson for his work in the Masonic Lodge. They visited Mr. and Mrs. Earl Crawford Sunday evening.

Mrs. Betty B. Gafford and Mrs. Dick Carrol of Crowell visited Mrs. Weldon Hammonds Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard McCrevey of San Ignatius, Montana visited here recently with his half brother, Rudolph McCurdy. The McCreveys ranch in Montana.

Mrs. Dean Watson, Mrs. Cindy Fuller and their mother, Mrs. Tom Moore, attended the Arts and Crafts Show Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Watson recently joined other Watson relatives in honoring Mr. and Mrs. Millard

Some people are going elsewhere for Thanksgiving and some are coming here. We trust that everyone will get to their destination safely and Thanksgiving will be one of love and happiness.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Conner received word Sunday that Jim's brother, Preston Conner, 81, passed away Sunday morning after a lengthy illness in South Gate, California. He is survived by his wife, Hilda, one daughter, Virginia

Cook of California, one sister, Gertrude Barlow, who resides in a nursing home in Hereford, Weldon Conner, a brother of Colorado, and another brother, Jim Conner of Cedar Hill, 4 grandchildren and 2 great-grandchildren. Preston farmed in this community at one time and still owns land here. The Conners were unable to attend the funeral.

deacon in the Bell Baptist Church and an active church member. His sister, Grace Whitfill lived in the area until recently. We regret the sorrow that these families are undergoing at this time.

New Law to Simplify Wildlife Regulations

AUSTIN—A bill to enhance the stability of wildlife populations and expand outdoor opportunities for sportsmen and others has been pre-filed with the Texas Legislature. The Texas Wildlife Conservation Act would give to the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department statewide authority for wildlife management and do away with locally specialized wildlife laws now in effect in 116 Texas counties.

The Wildlife Conservation Act will be introduced by Rep. Fred Agnich (R-Dallas).

The bill will be considered in the 1983 legislative session. A committee, Texans for Wildlife Conservation, has been formed to promote the bill. The committee has garnered support among sportsmen's groups throughout the state and will be waging grass roots constituent contact and press campaigns in addition to directly lobbying for the bill. Among the groups supporting the bill are Sportsmen's Clubs of Texas (SCOT), The Dallas and Houston Safari Clubs and the Texas Trophy Hunters Association.

"It doesn't make sense to regulate wildlife as if animals could recognize a county boundary" said Martin F. Wood, executive director of Texans for Wildlife Conservation.

In 13 counties, locally specialized state law is in effect. These antiquated laws, first passed in 1925, are inflexible and do not provide for the needs of wildlife.

In 30 counties, Commissioners Courts have authority to veto wildlife regulations developed by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, even though the Courts are not comprised of wildlife experts.

In 73 other counties, the Parks and Wildlife Department has only partial authority to manage wildlife. Acts of the legislature have provided too-rigid regulations for certain species.

A prime example of the ineffectiveness of county-by-county wildlife regulation is the Texas deer herd, which features large numbers of undersized animals due to overpopulation. Commissioners Courts have often vetoed Parks and Wildlife Department regulations that would provide for proper thinning of the deer herd. County-by-county regulation has also adversely affected fish. For instance, Lake Livingston has not yet supported a healthy striped bass population although stocking has continued since 1977. The lake's major feeder stream (in which striped bass spawn) flows through Leon County which, under locally specialized law, permits the netting of striped bass.

Fragmented, county-by-county game laws have denied outdoor opportunities. For instance, Parks and Wildlife biologists have demonstrated that certain wildlife populations can support longer hunting seasons and more liberal bag limits than locally specialized laws and certain Commissioners Courts currently permit. In 33 counties, bag limits for quail are set at 12 birds and seasons are as short as 45 days. Biologists have determined that much larger bag limits and 90-day seasons are reasonable for many of the counties. Another example is the refusal of certain central Texas county Commissioners Courts to permit a spring wild turkey hunt, even though the birds are abundant.

The campaign being waged by Texans for Wildlife Conservation is calling on sportsmen and others to contact their state Senator and Representative in Austin to voice support for the Texas Wildlife Conservation Act.

For more information, contact Martin F. Wood, executive director, Texans for Wildlife Conservation, 2527 McKinney Avenue, Dallas, Texas 75201; (214) 871-0182.

The average American, the U.S. Dept of Agriculture reports, consumes some 95 pounds of refined sugar a year.

TURKEY AND DRESSING are always a favorite but when the holiday meal is prepared by the school cafeteria, and parents and family were invited, the expected crowd is stupendous! 945 ate at the Lockney Elementary cafeteria at the annual event last Friday.

LOCKNEY THANKSGIVING

MY PARENTS

By Chad Frizzell

My parents care about what I do. They are always there when you need them. They will try to help you anyway they can. Daddy is a good dad. He will help me with sports. He likes to fish, and I'm glad. Mother is a good Mom. She is like a bee. She works all the time but she still has time for all of us. She helps me with my studies any time I need help. I have two great parents, and I'm grateful for it. My parents are like living with a King. They let me ask friends to come over. When there is something after school, they will let people come over. That is why they are the greatest parents in the world.

IM THANKFUL FOR MY PARENTS

By Rusty Teeter

My parents mean alot to me. They're always there when I need them to give me a supportive hug or a helpful hint. I'll like one of the brightest stars in the sky because my parents make me feel so special. If you're reading this right now Mom and Dad, I just want to say, "I love you." My parents are one of the main things I'm thankful for this Thanksgiving.

THANKSGIVING

Steven Woods

Thanksgiving is the time to eat, eat more, and have fun. It's when all the relatives come over and help eat that nice plump turkey and all the pumpkin pie's. "Yum!" Thanksgiving is like a turkey because all we do is "gobble, gobble" up the food.

THANKSGIVING

Sherre Kinard

I like Thanksgiving because I get to see all my relatives whom I haven't seen in a while. Also I like Thanksgiving because we get to eat turkey and dressing. Another reason I like Thanksgiving is seeing the leaves lying on the ground like a crimson, brown, and gold carpet. Also, it is the time of year I can just sit and think of all of the things for which I am thankful.

THE THINGS FOR WHICH I'M MOST GRATEFUL

Allen Stallings

The things I'm thankful for are being able to play sports, and being able to be with the people I care for. My friends are so interesting to be with. Most of my friends are as calm as a kitten in your hand. I can't forget my parents. With out them I would be in a tight spot. These are some of the things I'm thankful for.

THANKSGIVING

Matt Mitchell

Thanksgiving makes me think fresh cooked turkey and dressing smothered with gravy that is as hot and fresh as the first day of summer. It also makes me think of cranberries, corn, and pumpkin pie. It reminds me of Christmas because much of the family is gathered together to eat and reflect on happy things that have happened in their lives. Thanksgiving is a time which we can all cherish because it is one of the most joyous times of the year.

THE THINGS FOR WHICH I'M MOST GRATEFUL

Inez Gibson

I am most grateful for my family and friends. I am thankful for my parents because they have me to love and be kind to other people. Also, my parents have taught me to do things I did not know how to do. Too, I am thankful for my brothers because they take me places with them. I am grateful for my friends because they are always there when I need them. My friends are like family to me.

THE THING I AM MOST GRATEFUL FOR

Shayne Damron

The thing I'm most grateful for are my parents, and my sister. We all love each other and are very grateful for each other. It is like we were all pieces to a puzzle in the way we all fit so nicely together. I'm very grateful for that!

THANKSGIVING

Amy Nance

Thanksgiving is a time when family and friends can get together and have a big meal. It's a very pleasant time for us, but not for turkeys. I like Thanksgiving turkeys are as crispy and as brown as autumn leaves. It's tender, juicy and delicious. We better enjoy our last November holiday for 1982 and be ready for Christmas.

THANKSGIVING

Benjamin Moya

Thanksgiving is giving thanks to others, like the Pilgrims were thankful for the Indians that taught them how to raise their crops and hunt. So in 1982, the Pilgrims and the Indians reunite once more to give their thanks.

THANKSGIVING

Lety Garza

The turkeys give their last gobble. The delicious smell of Thanksgiving squeezes in through all the kitchen windows of the small town. Waiting to sink their teeth into the big, juicy, gold-brown turkey, the people anxiously sit at the dinner table. Finally, the turkey is placed on the table! The eaters bow their heads; thank the lord, take a fork and knife and then prepare to attack, so that their stomachs stop growling.

THANKSGIVING

Johnny Silva

Before Thanksgiving Day I can hear

all the turkeys outside saying, "Come and shoot me if you can." When I hear things like that, I go and get my gun. My gun is small like a mouse. In other words it's a watergun!

THE THINGS FOR WHICH I'M MOST GRATEFUL

Scott Howard

The things for which I'm most grateful for, is having a good family. My mom, dad and I are very close. I guess we are closer than other people because my brother and sister are married and have kids. Sometimes me and my family have little disagreements, but we still love each other very much!

THE THINGS I'M GRATEFUL FOR

Julie Davis

We should all be grateful for many things—for being alive, food and our family. We should be most grateful for friends we have and can talk to, also, we should be grateful that we have a God to pray to and believe in, and churches we can worship in. I myself am truly grateful for the different things and people God has put on our wonderful earth for us. These things help make our short time on earth a little more pleasant, and for that I am very grateful.

THANKSGIVING

Steve Cates

Thanksgiving is like Christmas except Thanksgiving is a time to settle down and enjoy the fall before the sudden striking of old man winter. During Thanksgiving we usually have family reunions where the whole family meets to eat, be together, and watch football and parades on T.V. A good definition of Thanksgiving is a beautiful time of the year to enjoy food, family and friends.

THE THINGS I AM MOST GRATEFUL FOR

Christy Coffman

There are alot of things to be grateful for, but sometimes people just don't take the time to stop and think about them. One of the things I am thankful for is my country; I'm grateful for the freedom we have to worship and to choose our own goals in life. I'm also grateful for my family who supports me in everything I do.

THANKSGIVING

Guy Carthel

Thanksgiving reminds me of friends and families' meeting and hugging and saying to me, "The last time I saw you, you were only a foot tall." Thanksgiving reminds me of leaves that look like blazing fire and stuffed people watching football or playing with kinfolks your age. At Thanksgiving usually everybody gets to ask what they should get for so and so, so you had better "Watch out" so you'll get something for Christmas.

WHAT'S NICE ABOUT LIVING IN A LITTLE TOWN LIKE LOCKNEY

Syantha Hooten

Living in a little town is real nice. You learn to know the people around you. Around Thanksgiving and Christmas your family is here. Your friends may even be here. I'm thankful for living in such a little town like Lockney. I'm also grateful for all the friends and teachers I have in Lockney.

THANKSGIVING

Eddie Garcia

Thanksgiving is a time when families get together, share and give their love to one another. They should have fun and play games. After that, they should have a big turkey dinner to enjoy. We should be thankful to the Pilgrims who had the first Thanksgiving with the Indians. I'm very grateful for Thanksgiving.

WHAT THANKSGIVING MEANS TO ME

David Lemons

To me Thanksgiving means going to grandmother's and eating a big dinner. It also means that Christmas is near and there will be no more school for five days! Thanksgiving also means seeing all your relatives one more time before Christmas. When Thanksgiving comes, I also think of after the holidays when that first basketball game welcomes you as though you were a long lost friend.

WHAT THANKSGIVING MEANS TO ME

Wyman Rexrode

Thanksgiving is a time to feast with all that food waiting to be eaten by hungry little mouths, that are just like cats that haven't been fed for days. Most of all, Thanksgiving means a time of gathering for many families, and meeting your kinfolks. That turkey surely looks good.

HENRY HOWARD, Al Howard, and Earl Rowan dressed in their buckskins. These hunters recently enjoyed a deer hunt in the Hill Country with their muzzle loaders.

Blackpowder hunting growing sport locally

Hunting, the American pastime, has been enjoyed by men and boys for many years. It probably began cons of time ago to put food on the table, and to protect his family. Hunting has progressed through time to the point where men hunt for the adventure of getting away from the pressures of the job and every day matters.

Weapons have also progressed from the club men used to slay the Bisons. Long bows and cross bows were used to put food on the table for centuries.

Then someone developed gun powder and things really started popping. Guns called flintlocks were some of the early crude weapons. These progressed to a caplock rifle with its method of firing the gun powder.

The loading of one of these rifles was accomplished by pouring in a measured amount of powder. Then a round lead ball with a cotton patch was then pushed down on the powder to compress it. A cap which has a small charge is then placed on the gun. It is set off by the striking of the hammer which transfers the fire to the powder which explodes and sends the bullet on its way to its selected target.

Guns then progressed to the high powered center fire rifles we know of today. These current rifles of calibers of .22 to .458 magnums are highly accurate and powerful weapons that can be used on game from rabbits to African large game.

Now after this highly intelligent and comprehensive study of the progression of firearms why would men of today fall back into Davy Crockett times—using smoke poles to hunt deer and other game. We have in Floydada several men who prefer this kind of pastime. Two of these men are Al Howard and Earl Rowan.

These men have enjoyed this black-powder sport for the past 4 or 5 years. Al's current rifle is an exact replica of the Hawken rifles used by the mountain men of days gone by.

Earl's rifle is a model of a rifle built by J.D. Gimmer. Many hours were put in by these men to duplicate as close as possible these two greatguns. Not only do these men use their rifles for target practice they have been successful in bringing home venison with their efforts.

As the early settlers taught the young boys how to hunt, Henry Howard had the experience of learning to deer hunt this year. Bull, as he is often referred to, was successful on his first deer hunt. He shot his deer with a .50 caliber black powder gun with one shot. A thrill to remember for always and a step toward manhood as in days of the past.

The sport of black powder hunting and target shooting is gaining in popularity across Texas and the U.S. Many states now offer a black powder or primitive weapon season prior to the regular hunting season. Two of the reasons for this are black powder enthusiasts enjoy wearing their buckskins and beaver hats while they hunt. The other reason being these hunters need game that has not been spooked by many hunters using long range modern rifles.

If you are a hunter and want to take a step backward and get more enjoyment from your hunting get a primitive weapon.

Gun control defeated in California

By Paul Taylor and Jay Mathews
Washington Post Staff Writers

The nationwide handgun control movement, after two years of gains following the shootings of President Reagan and John Lennon, has been thrown back on the defensive by the overwhelming defeat of a moderately worded gun control proposition that was on the ballot in California.

Its leaders are stunned by the extent of their loss: 63 percent to 37 percent. They blame their underestimation of the fear of crime and their opponents' 5-to-1 fund-raising edge.

"We failed totally in dealing with the fear of crime," said Michael Beard, director of the National Coalition to Ban Handguns. "The notion that owning a handgun is not related to your ability to protect yourself against crime seems obvious to us, but apparently it isn't to other people."

Beard's point is underscored by the county-by-county breakdown of the California returns.

The proponents of handgun controls had hoped to build up big margins in urban areas, where high crime rates have long produced a fertile ground for control legislation. But in the state's five most populous counties, the proposal, Proposition 15, lost 59 to 41. In the rural counties it was 3 to 1.

The opposition—spearheaded by the National Rifle Association and gun manufacturers—raised more than $6 million in the campaign against Proposition 15, which would have frozen the number of handguns in California at its current level, estimated at five million. Gun control proponents, on the other hand, raised just a little more than $1 million.

NRA officials contend that their paid media advantage was offset by pro-Proposition 15 editorials in 10 of the state's 11 largest papers and on most of the state's television stations.

"What beat them was voters, not money," said NRA spokesman John Aquilino.

This was a fight the gun control advocates initiated, with considerable fanfare and high hopes.

The timing, the forum, the ballot wording were all their. This was going to be the showcase campaign to demonstrate that while the politicians could be cowed by the strength of a single interest lobby like the NRA, the people couldn't.

The control proponents will continue their legislative fight in city and town halls, where they have made some progress in the past two years. In Washington, they will keep trying to block passage of a bill, McClure-Volkmer, that would gut much of the Gun Control Act of 1968.

Their new worry is that it will be more difficult now to make the case that gun control is opposed only by a narrow, committed segment of the electorate. And they have a further worry—that, in the words of Beard, "Tom Bradley will become the new Joe Tydings around the necks of our movement."

He was referring to some post-election analyses of the California gubernatorial race that suggest the heavy turnout of rural, conservative voters spurred to the polls by Prop 15 proved costly to Bradley, who had supported the initiative. Tydings' loss of his Maryland Senate seat in 1970 has long been held out as a prime example of the political cost of supporting gun control.

Beard's group, which favors an outright handgun ban rather than halfway measures, deliberately stayed out of the California fight because the strategy of the Prop 15 campaign was to emphasize moderation.

To counter the NRA argument that the freeze was the first step toward confiscation or a ban, the initiative had a provision prohibiting the legislature from considering any future ban without voter approval. And to give it a tough-on-crime edge, Prop 15 had several mandatory sentencing provisions.

The idea was to avoid the mistakes of Massachusetts in 1976 in the only other statewide referendum on gun control. It called for an outright ban, with the state buying back all privately held guns. It lost by more than 2 to 1.

Even though they had endorsements running the gamut from liberal financier Max Palevsky to Reagan "kitchen cabinet" member Justin Dart to industrialist Armand Hammer, the proponents raised just $1 million after completing their spring petition drive, instead of the $2 million to $4 million they had budgeted.

Charles Orasin, vice president of Handgun Control Inc., speculated that the nuclear freeze issue on the same ballot robbed Prop 15 of attention and liberal money.

Victor Palmieri, Prop 15 campaign director, said one problem was that no economic interest would benefit from the measure, while one, the gun makers, would be hurt. Joseph McNamara, police chief of San Diego and a leading Prop 15 advocate, said the measure was in the wrong state, one with a strong western, frontier heritage.

Beard and most gun controllers remain hopeful, though, that last week's setback will prove to be a "temporary glitch."

"I hate to say it, but one well-publicized homicide could wipe that (California vote) out," he said.

WORKING RANCH WOMEN OF AMERICA

Do you qualify as a working ranch woman? Score yourself on this list of requirements to see how you fit in.
By STELLA HUGHES

IN 1963, with four other ranch women, I organized The Working Ranch Women of America. We spent several evenings listing requirements we thought any ranch woman should be able to fill to qualify for membership. The first 17 requirements were simple and straightforward. All five of us could do every one of them—some with a little more proficiency than others. We gave the test to some other ranch women we knew and almost all scored 100 percent.

This was too easy so we decided to tighten up the requirements, making them more difficult. The way things stood, just about any ol' ranch gal could become a member of our club. So we tacked on a few qualifications. Just by adding some *in spite of*s and *without*s, we lowered scores in a hurry.

For example, number 7 required a candidate to be able to drive drags in heat and cold, dust or rain. Up to this point, every woman passed. But when we added without bellyachin' about it, we all scored a big fat zero.

Requirement number 9 regarding milk cows with unpredictable bladders was a cinch up to the point where we added, without having a screaming fit and beating cow with milk pail. Only one woman, Bessie Filleman, passed number 9 because Bessie is so kindhearted she couldn't swat a fly without guilt feelings. As for me, during the years I milked a certain cow named Martha Raye, an eight-pound lard pail barely lasted a week.

Number 15 was as easy as falling off a log—all ranch women can chop wood without cutting off a foot; but a woman with any sensitivity would naturally have a walleed fit after finding the ax handle in an unsanitary condition.

I included number 18 just to add a little pizzazz. Time and time again, members have asked me to lengthen the stick—to say 20 feet! As long as I have a vote, number 18 remains; it's the one requirement that brings up my miserable score. I once killed a rattlesnake with a jack handle, a record that still stands.

Here are the requirements for membership, each with a comment explaining how I scored myself on that point. Note: Good counts 2 points. Poor 1 point, and No way is a big fat 0. If your score adds up from 42 to 48, you're a saint and would never make it as a working ranch woman. If your score is 14 or less, you are human. Welcome to the outfit.

1. You must be able to catch, bridle, and saddle your horse without (a) getting mad and throwing rocks when your horse runs off to the backside of a section pasture; (b) moaning and groaning when you find someone has let your stirrups out to the last notch; (c) calling in the FBI when you discover someone has borrowed your new bridle reins. (I failed all three "withouts.") 0
2. You must be able to drive a truck, hook-up any make of trailer, and haul livestock over trails that would make the Baja Run look like a freeway. You must be able to change a flat tire in less than an hour without cussing and/or crying. (I always cuss and/or cry when I change a flat.) 0
3. You must be able to help brand, castrate, earmark, dehorn, and vaccinate cattle without swooning, even if pregnant. (I score high because I have a cast iron stomach.) 2
4. You must be able to handle a rope well enough to keep from hanging yourself in the slack or cutting your fingers off when dallying, nor should you bow-up and go to the house when your pardner yells at you. (I can rope, but I always bow-up and go to the house when Mack squalls at me.) 0
5. You must be able to doctor screwworm cases, give a colt an enema, treat calves and colts with scours, and pull a calf without urping, even if pregnant. (Cast iron stomach, again.) 2
6. You must be able to pull a cow out of a bog, either with your horse or pickup, without choking her to death. You must be able to resist the temptation to let the ungrateful, stupid sookey go ahead and drown. (I've never let one drown yet, even when it belonged to the Apaches.) 2
7. You must be able to drive drags all day, in cold or heat, dust or rain, without bellyaching about it. (I always gripe.) 0
8. You must have some knowledge of engines used on a ranch and be able to grease a windmill, and not just throw a fruit jar of oil up into the moving parts of mill. (I didn't originate the fruit jar system, but I fully endorse the idea! If the greasing is left up to me I just let 'er squeak.) 0
9. You must be able to milk a cow, hobble one that kicks, and contend with a cow that insists on urinating during milking without having a screaming fit and beating her with the milk pail. (An eight-pound lard bucket lasts about a week.) 0
10. You must be able to assist in butchering a beef and be capable of sawing a decent steak of uniform thickness, not wafer thin on one side and thick as a ten-pound roast on the other. (I let Mack cut the steaks.) 0
11. You must be able to raise chickens in spite of bobcats, weasels, coyotes, skunks, and hound dogs. (I was put out of the poultry business last fall by coyotes—in one day!) 0
12. You must be able to grow a garden in spite of drought, grasshoppers, weeds, cutworms, blight, hail, and hound dogs. (I'm getting smarter all the time—I shoot the hounds.) 1
13. You must be able to tell a dry cow from a wet one. You must never, ever forget a cow, once seen, even if it's five years later. You must be able to determine when a cow is too thin to winter through, and needs to be brought in and fed cake until spring.

You must be able to out-guess your pardner on the weight of the yearlings going to market and not brag about it to his friends. (I always outguess Mack on the weight of the yearlings and I always brag about it.) 0

14. You must be able to assist in loading a spooky (or stubborn) horse in a truck or trailer without bowing-up and going to the house when your pardner works the horse over with a doubled rope. 0

15. You must be able to chop wood without cutting your foot off, nor should you have a walleed fit when you find the cow has messed up the ax handle. Again. (I always have a screaming fit when I discover an unsanitary ax handle.) 0

16. You must be able to help build fence, tie stays, and drive staples without cussing and/or crying. (I always cuss and/or cry when building fence.) 0

17. When sorting cattle and you're standing in the gate, a bunch coming on the run, and your pardner yells, "that one," you must be able to make up your mind in a split second if "that one" should be kept in or "that one" let out. (I've never guessed right yet.) 0

18. You must be able to kill a rattlesnake with a short stick. (I'm a champion on this one.) 2

Indoor Requirements

1. You must cheerfully drop whatever you're doing (canning, baking, laundry), jump into the pickup and make a fast trip to town for parts and resist the temptation to (a) go to a movie; (b) get a new permanent; (c) go on a shopping spree. ("Cheerfully" gets me first thing, besides failing all three "resists.") 0

2. You must be able to bake biscuits, feather-light, in less than 30 minutes (baking time included), three times a day without complaining about it. (I always complain about it even when using Bisquick.) 0

3. You must be able to get out of bed in zero weather, build a fire, and make coffee before calling your pardner, without muttering under your breath or having bad thoughts. (Mack gets up and makes the coffee, but if I had to I'd have had thoughts.) 0

4. When riding all day and getting home after dark you must be able to gather the eggs, mix formula for the doggie, pick beans to soak, and set a new sourdough starter, all while preparing supper, without considering shooting your pardner right

"You're not doing anything. How about scooting into town and getting those spare parts? And you'd better hustle—they close at five."

between the eyes when he mentions you look like hell. 0

5. You must be able to sew well enough to patch Levi's, sew sweat bands back in hats, stitch pockets back on chaps (leggin's), patch rips in tepee tents or bed tarps, cut tops from old boots and fashion handy carriers for screwworm medicine, vaccine guns, and/or sandwiches. 2

6. You must cheerfully make a pallet of your best woolen blankets for a newborn calf, sick colt, or a litter of hound pups without considering filing suit for divorce. ("Cheerfully" is what scores me zero.) 0

These further requirements are not mandatory, but help a lot: Staying slim and pretty until past 60 is a plus. More pluses are: a good sense of humor, an iron stomach, strength of an Amazon, be able to dance like a dream, raise from one to eight kids (all boys, if you can manage, for future roundup crew), and bake the best apple pie in the country.

If you feel you don't fill the above requirements very well, don't feel too badly. After much soul-searching, I was only able to score 11 points. And at 64, I'm no longer slim or pretty. I'm as graceful as a three-legged hog on ice when it comes to dancing. I only managed to produce two kids and one of them was a girl. However, I take solace in the fact I bake a pretty fair apple pie.

"Why now? Why now?"
