Hardin new FNB president

"We're excited about coming to Lockney, and we look forward to working with the people," says Ronnie Hardin, who is on the threshold of becoming the seventeenth president of First National Bank in Lockney since 1900.

Hardin, who has an agricultural background, presently is serving as vice president of First National Bank in Post. He assumes his duties here on Oct. 1.

The Littlefield native succeeds Kim King as president of the local bank. King has been promoted to vice chairman of the board of First National Bank in Lockney and will be performing various duties with the Ford Bank Group, of which the Lockney bank is a part.

The Kings plan to continue to make their home in Lockney, where Mrs. King is a member of the school faculty.

First National Bank in Post, which Hardin has served as a vice president for the past six years, also is owned by the Ford Bank Group.

The future Lockney bank president and his family have been active in community and church organizations. They are members of the Baptist Church.

Ronnie and Shirley Hardin are parents of two sons: Sammy, who is married and studies at South Plains College in Levelland, and Glenn, who has enrolled as a junior student in Lockney High School. The younger son will become eligible for the Longhorn varsity football squad when the family moves here, which they plan to do in the immediate future.

Hardin serves as the Garza County business director on the Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., board, is president of the Garza County Junior Livestock Association, is an officer on the baseball park board in Post and holds membership in the Post Lions Club.

The new Lockney bank president was reared in Munday and was graduated from Munday High School. He earned an agricultural degree in 1970 from Texas Tech University.

Shirley Hardin was reared in Goree.

Following Hardin's graduation from Texas Tech University, he launched his career in the financial industry as a member of the Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) in Littlefield in 1970. Associated with FmHA for 10 years, he served offices in Littlefield, San Saba, Kerrville and Tahoka, being county FmHA supervisor in Lynn County (Tahoka) for two years before joining the Post bank six years ago.

Hardin told The Beacon that he has been involved in agriculture much of his life.

This Week . . .

SCHOOL OUT EARLY

Students in the Lockney school system will be dismissed from school at 2:00 p.m. Thursday (today) due to a teacher's in-service workday. School will resume with regular hours on Friday.

football season at the Lockney Elementary Cafetorium. Game films from the previous Friday night football games will be reviewed at these meetings. The public is invited to attend.

PEP RALLIES

Pep rallies are held each Friday afternoon at 3:40 p.m. in the Lockney High School gym. Anyone wishing to cheer on the varsity team is invited.

QUARTERBACK CLUB

The Lockney Quarterback Club will meet at 8:00 p.m. every Tuesday night through the 1986

Cooperative enacts new program

Lockney Cooperative Gin has enacted a new program which they hope will save time for area farmers. They will now be able to put crops in the loan without the farmer having to go to the local ASCS office for this task.

Co-op manager Delton Stone commented, "We are now able to handle all of the paper work necessary for the farmer to put his crop in the loan right here in our office; he will not have to make the trip to the local ASCS office for that purpose. We hope this service will save time for the farmers."

In addition to the new loan program the co-op has also begun three new marketing programs for farm commodities. There are three different marketing pools which will enable the farmer to get the best possible price for the farm goods.

"If anyone would like more information on these new marketing programs we invite them to come by our office and we will be happy to discuss them with the farmers. We have had meetings with some of the farmers in our area and if anyone would like to discuss these pools in more depth they are welcome to come by," said Stone.

OUCH!

Ouch! With the exception of Lockney's Longhorns, West Texas State and the Cowboys, the past week-end was pretty much a washout. A prime example was Tech's 61-11 waxing in the Orange Bowl...stadium, that is, no bowl.

Let's hope things look up this Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

WILL ROGERS SAMPLER

Being the number one fan of and distantly related to Will Rogers, we were delighted when Roy Howell, Lockney's Energas manager, stopped by Thursday with these gems which are typically Will:

"Never blame a legislative body for not doing something. When they do nothing, they don't hurt anybody. When they do something is when they become dangerous."

"This country has come to feel the same when Congress is in session as we

Hadley Fletcher featured cartoonist in The Beacon

The staff of the Lockney Beacon would like to take this opportunity to thank Hadley Fletcher for agreeing to be our featured cartoonist during the 1986 football season.

Hadley is a 12-year-old sixth grader at Lockney Junior High School, who really enjoys drawing. His mother told the Beacon, "Hadley's talent is natural and he draws all the time." He aspires to be an artist when he is older.

Hadley is the son of David and Debra Fletcher of Lockney. He was asked by members of the Baptist church to enlarge a picture for a wall in the fellowship hall of the First Baptist Church. His father is youth director at the church and Mrs. Fletcher is in charge of the nursery.

Hadley is a very good artist at this point in his life and we really appreciate his agreeing to take time from the more serious side of drawing to be our featured cartoonist.

Dr. Bill Mangold close in legislative election

In his political debut, Dr. Bill Mangold lacked only "about 50 votes" entering a run-off for the Democratic nomination for an Arizona state legislative seat. The primary balloting was last Tuesday.

The Lockney native was seeking the nomination in a district centered around Tucson. Three persons were primary candidates.

A son of Dr. W.J. and Martha Mangold, he has practiced plastic surgery in Tucson the past five years. In addition to his medical practice, Dr. Mangold also is a licensed attorney.

Valedictorian of the 1961 graduating class of Lockney High School, Dr. Bill Mangold received general surgeon training in Virginia and plastic surgeon training in San Antonio.

After practicing medicine at Lockney General Hospital in 1974, Dr. Mangold moved to Virginia.

He is a brother of Dr. Gary Mangold, who practices with their father at Lockney General.

Wilson wins football contest

All the winners in the Lockney football contest this week each missed one game making it very close.

Taking first place was Glenda Wilson of Floydada who missed the Notre Dame, Michigan game. She had Lockney to win and a total score of 28. She will receive the first place check of $10.00.

Second place this week goes to Jim Curtsinger of Lubbock. He missed only the 49'ers, Rams game and picked Lockney to win with a total score of 34. He will receive the second place check of $6.00.

Third place this week is a tie between Boyd Lee of Lockney and Dwayne Wilson of Floydada. Lee missed the 49'ers, Rams game and Wilson the Hart, Nazareth game. Both picked Lockney to win and a total score of 38 points. They will split the third place prize of $4.00.

For those interested in winning the tickets to the Dallas Cowboys game, it is important that you enter each week to add to the total of points. Points are given for each correct game on each entry and at the end of the contest we will add up the points. The winner will be the person with the highest total.

Jerry Burleson takes reins as hospital head

New administrator assumes duties October 1

"Possibly for the first time ever," Lockney General Hospital has been served by two administrators since the first of this month.

Actually, Terry Keltz will continue to serve as the medical facility's manager until Sept. 30. He begins duties the following day as a vice president of First National Bank in Lockney.

Keltz, who headed the hospital staff almost exactly two years, will be succeeded by Jerry Burleson.

Burleson and his family have moved to a residence southeast of Lockney from Knox City, where he was administrator of the Knox County Hospital for the past 18 months.

The Knox County medical facility is slightly larger than Lockney General Hospital, having 28 beds compared with 20 beds here.

Despite the size difference,

Burleson is excited about his move to Lockney.

"I'm really thrilled," he told The Beacon. "Lockney General Hospital is in such good shape in comparison with most small hospitals. I can't believe how cooperative the two doctors here are.

"I don't anticipate any changes due to the condition in which Terry leaves the hospital. I realize that I've got some awfully big shoes to fill, but I'm glad Terry is staying in the community and I know I'll be calling on him for advice."

A Memphis, Tex., native and a graduate of Memphis High School, the future local hospital administrator attended Clarendon College in Clarendon and Frank Phillips College in Borger.

He entered the medical field as general contractor of the Memphis Ambulance Service. He continued in this post for nine years before becoming director of purchasing for Hall County Hospital in Memphis, a position he held three years.

In 1984, he began duties with Knox County Hospital.

Burleson and his wife, Kathy, a Seminole native, have two sons. Blake, 16, is a Lockney High School junior and Kyle, 11, is a fifth grader.

A member of the Memphis Volunteer Fire Department for 15 years, Burleson is a president or past member of the Masonic Lodge, Memphis Chamber of Commerce and the Lions Club. He also has worked with Boy Scouts.

The Burleson family are members of First United Methodist Church.

"We feel at home here," he says. "The people of Lockney are so friendly that we already feel a part of the community."

In times like these... By Mary Jo Fielding

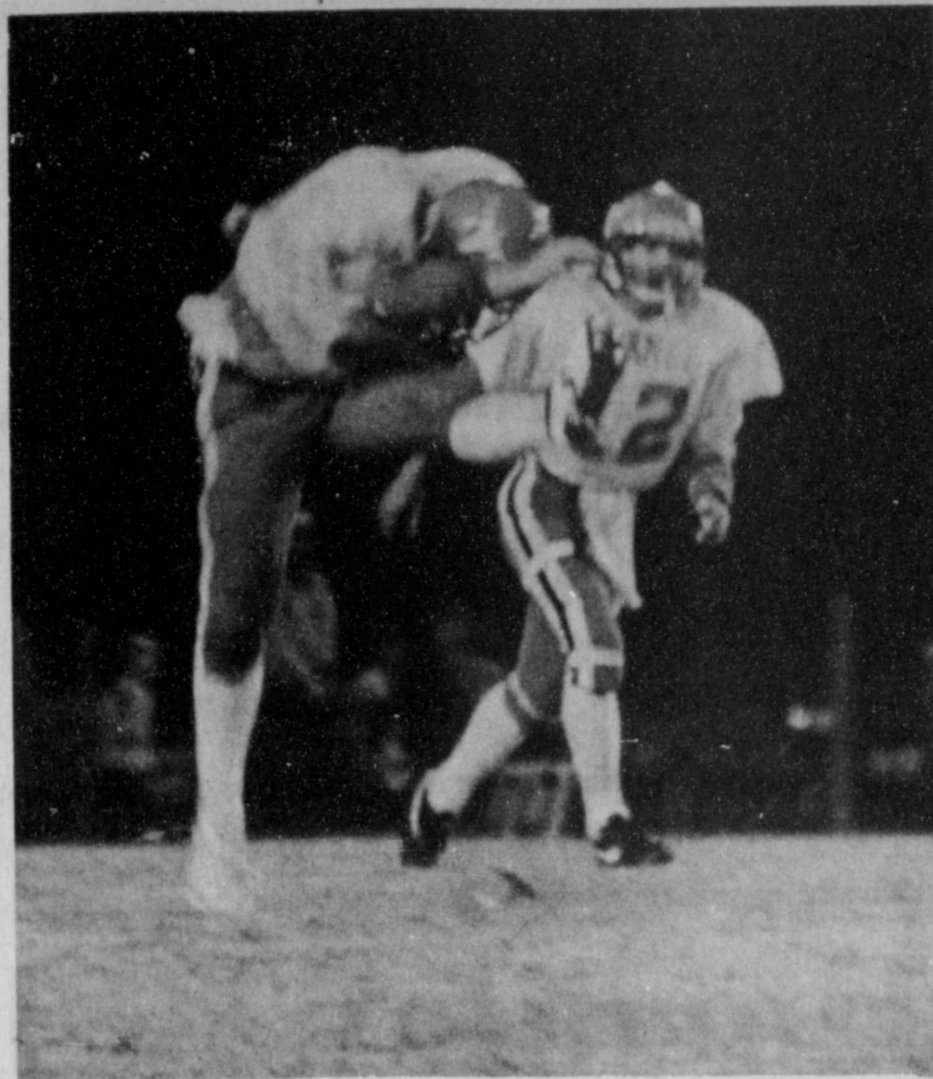

Through the familiar turmoil in the Middle East, moderate Arab voices have taken over from strangely subdued radicals. Out of the changing pattern a new reality is emerging. Growing recognition in the Arab world that it will have to deal with Israel in negotiations instead of war.

In July there was a meeting between Morocco's King Hassan and Israel's Prime Minister Shimon Peres. This meeting has become a catalyst for change, underscored by the muted reaction from other Arab leaders. Only Syria's President Hafez Assad severed relations with Hassan. Assad of Syria continued without pause his exchange with Jordan's King Hussein—who is widely viewed as desperate for peace. Hussein has become the region's point man for compromise, pursuing Arab unity and exploring accommodation with Israel. He is negotiating with Assad to reduce friction between Syria and Iraq.

Libya's Muammar Qadhafi, the most radical of all, has rarely been heard from since the American air strike in March. One possible reason for restraint by militant Arabs—such as Qadhafi and Assad, who depend on Soviet arms—is the prospect of improved Israeli-Soviet relations. Moscow canceled formal ties with Israel during the 1967 Mideast War.

Symbolizing the fresh movement on the Mideast scene is imminent warning of the cold peace between Egypt and Israel. Egyptian President Hosni Mubarek has recently resumed direct exchanges with Peres after a five-year break in Israeli-Egyptian summitry.

KICKING OFF—Ben Schuster puts his all into a kickoff to the Petersburg Buffalos last Friday night in Petersburg. Ben was called on frequently in the game to kickoff and to make the three extra points scored by Lockney during the game.

Care Center Capers

Hello Everyone,

We want to thank you for your support of our candy sales. We still have some boxes left, so we're still watching the hips.

Our bingo players are sure a lively bunch. We've added apples to our prizes to win, which everybody loves. In fact, Mrs. Julian tried hiding them by sitting on them. Mr. Pyle got them back, but his kept disappearing. Mr. Brooks and Mrs. Jackson decided they would just share one rather than risk it!

If anyone has a craft or any specialty to share with us, please let us know. Call 652-2502 or come by the Care Center anytime between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. We would love to hear from you! A tickle for the tummy:

The bride, bent with age, bent over her cane;

Her steps uncertain, need guiding, While down the church aisle,

With a wan, toothless smile,

The groom in a wheel chair came gliding.

Who is this elderly couple who have come to be wed?

You'll find when you've clearly explored it.

That this is that rare, conservative pair

Who waited until they could afford it.

Social Security News

By Terry J. Clements

It's important to remember that Social Security is a base on which to plan for retirement. It was never intended to provide 100 percent replacement of earnings or to guarantee everybody the same standard of living in retirement. In planning for retirement, a person should know how to build on that base. As a start, you should know generally how much to expect in retirement benefits from Social Security so you can plan how much you need from other sources. Secondly, a person should have some idea of how other types of retirement income will affect Social Security benefits.

It is estimated that a person will need about 75 percent of his or her pre-retirement earnings to maintain the same standard of living in retirement as he or she had before.

The amount of Social Security benefits depends on a person's earnings over a working life. People earning the maximum covered by Social Security can generally expect to receive initial benefits which replace approximately 29 percent of pre-retirement earnings. People with average earnings can expect to receive 43 percent of pre-retirement earnings, and people earning at the minimum wage level over their working lives may expect to receive initial benefits equaling 60 percent of their pre-retirement earnings.

The replacement rate is higher for low earners because they are less able to tolerate a reduction in income. Higher earners are expected to have more resources to build a base of retirement income, including investments, savings, and private insurance.

This brings me to the second important point to remember in building retirement income on the Social Security base. A person needs to know how other retirement income will affect Social Security checks.

The following rules generally apply: Investments, savings, etc.—Since a person is expected to build on the Social Security base, other types of typical retirement income generally do not affect Social Security benefits. This means that a person can use investments, savings, and private insurance to build on the Social Security base up to any level an individual requires.

Pensions—Most company pensions are actually figured to supplement

Social Security benefits an employee may expect so these pensions will not affect Social Security benefits. But those people who receive a pension from work not covered by Social Security will probably find their Social Security benefit reduced. A third rule applies to the spouse receiving a government pension based on work not covered in Social Security and also expects to receive a benefit on his or her spouse's work record. The Social Security benefit is reduced to reflect the amount of the government pensions.

Earnings—While earnings are not traditionally considered "retirement income," more and more people continue to work after retirement. There is a limit on how much a person can earn while getting all Social Security benefits. The annual limit increases with increases in wage levels. Currently, it is $7,800 for people 65 and over and $5,760 for people under 65. The rule does not apply to people 70 and over. Benefits are reduced if annual earnings exceed these amounts.

Keeping these facts in mind, a person can build a retirement income that will sustain his or her standard of living in retirement and assure that they are indeed in the golden years.

Rev. Rippy will lead revival next week at Aiken church

Ray Rippy of North Carolina has been selected to preach a revival which begins next Wednesday, Sept. 24, at Aiken Baptist Church. It continues through the following Sunday, Sept. 28. Gary Lloyd will lead the music. Weekday services — Wednesday through Friday — are scheduled for 7:30 p.m., with a Saturday youth night planned for 6 p.m. Sunday services will be at 11 a.m. and 6 p.m.

Rev. Rippy was raised in the home of a Baptist minister and began preaching in 1969. Since that time he has served churches in North and South Carolina and Alabama.

He has spoken in conferences and revivals in North and South Carolina, Tennessee and Alabama. Rippy presently is serving in his fourth church, Howell Baptist Church in Concord, N.C.

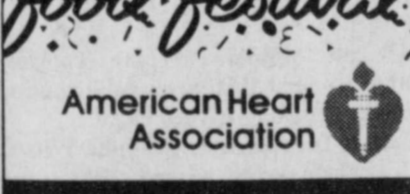

Either way you win. Because from cabbage and cannelloni to flank steak and flounder, a low-fat, low-cholesterol diet lets you eat to your heart's content. While reducing one of your risks of heart attack.

Surprised? Most people are. Eating for a healthy heart only means reducing your intake of foods that are high in saturated fat and cholesterol. And substituting vegetables and fruits, fish, poultry, lean meat, grains and cereals, and low-fat dairy products.

To find out even more about lowering your cholesterol, drop in Sept. 7-13 for the American Heart Food Festival.

It's a winning proposition, no matter how you look at it.

Save time, Save gas, Save money.

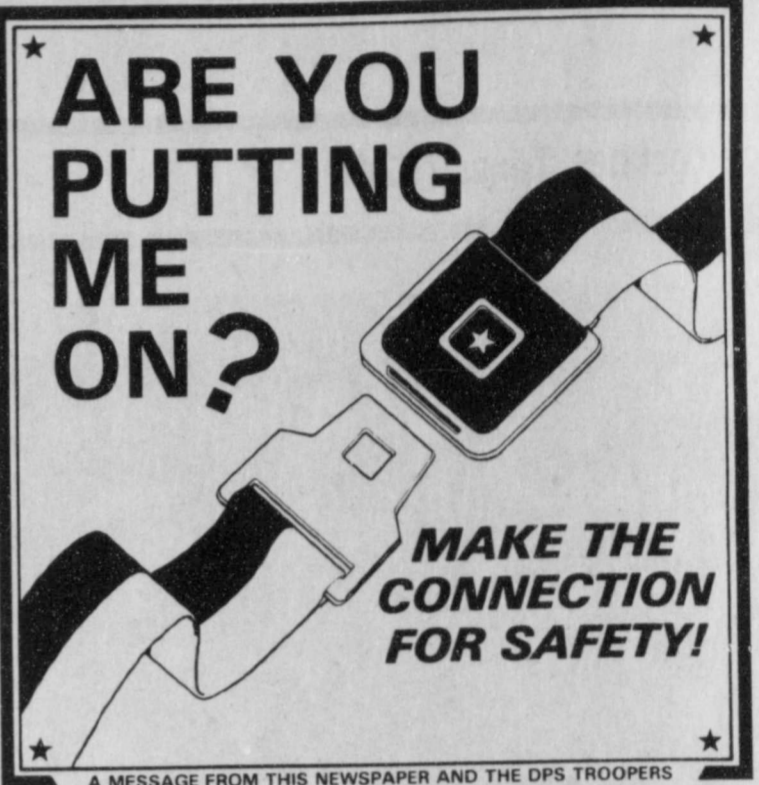

Check the ads in today's paper and shop Lockney. You will benefit yourself, your family, and your community.

It makes sense to stay involved with your cotton after it leaves the farm. That's why taking your cotton to your co-op gin is a good idea—for a couple of reasons:

First, when you take your cotton to a co-op gin, that gin becomes a part of your business. You have a voice in how it's run and you share in the profits. The more cotton you bring, the more it pays.

But, even more importantly, when you bring your cotton to your co-op gin you become part of a system that takes your cotton all the way to the market. A system that joins your local co-op gin with other co-op gins to give you a voice in the market. Being a part of that system is important to you now and it's even more important to the future of cotton farming.

Take your cotton to your co-op gin. After all, it's just good business to do business with yourself.

My Dear Son:

Just a few lines to let you know I'm well. I'm writing this slow as I know you can't read fast. You won't know the house when you come home. We have moved.

Your father has a new job. He has 500 people under him. He cuts the grass in the graveyard. Our neighbors started to raise pigs and we got wind of it this morning.

There is a washing machine in the new house but it doesn't work very well. I put 4 shirts in it this last week and pulled the chain. I haven't seen the shirts since. All the boys at school have new suits but we can't afford one for your brother, so we are going to buy him a new hat and let him look out the window. Your sister had a baby this morning. I haven't heard if it is a boy or a girl, so I don't know if you are an Uncle or Aunt.

Your Uncle Dick drowned in a vat of whiskey at the distillery last week. We cremated his body and it took three days to put the fire out. Your father didn't drink too much as Xmas. I put a bottle of castor oil in his beer and it kept him going till New Years.

I went to the doctor and he put a glass tube in my mouth and told me not to open my mouth for 10 minutes. Your father wanted to buy it from him right away. It only rained twice last week. Once for 4 days, and then for 3 days.

Monday was so windy one chicken laid the same egg 4 times.

We had a letter from the undertaker. He said if we don't pay the funeral bill for your grandmother within seven days, up she comes.

I must close now as the plumber is here to fix the washing machine as it smells awful.

Your loving Mother,
P.S. I was going to send you $10.00 but I had already sealed the envelope.

RURAL SCHOOLS

The rural schools are all gone now — the schoolyards empty and deserted — some of them plowed and fertile fields now; some lie covered with mesquite and buffalograss, where only the tumbleweeds and sagebrush sigh softly at the echoes of children's laughter and sounds of play, where once they romped and played before turning reluctantly back to their books.

As best as we can find, Cottle County once boasted 31 schools — including five city or suburban schools. Some of these country schools had 200-300 pupils enrolled.

From these modest but sincere halls of learning came the builders, the shakers and movers, the backbone and ribs, the speakers and doers of our communities and town; from these small beginnings, many Cottle County pupils of tiny one-or-two-room schools have become heads of companies, managers of businesses, doctors, lawyers, scientists and teachers; they have raised fine families, and sent out intelligent, caring children into the world to help make it better. — Jimmie Taylor, The Paducah Post

AT THE END OF YOUR ROPE? HERE ARE SOME SIGNS

These are trying times for farmers and often you wonder just how much you can take. Here are some guidelines . . .

You know you have reached the end of your rope when:

You don't worry when the wind blows because you don't have anything left to blow away.

Your banker goes broke and leaves town.

You have to replace the worn-out baling wire.

You need three aspirin and can only find one.

Your dog goes home with someone else.

Your foreclosure, bankruptcy, eviction and divorce papers come in the same mail — with postage due.

You're tempted to negotiate with the mother cat for the cottontail rabbit she just caught to feed her kittens.

You can't afford the tuition for the school of hard knocks.

You routinely search every new box of shop rags for something you can wear.

The kid with the peanutbutter sandwiches appears to be wolfing down dollar bills.

You've kept a "stiff upper lip" so long rigor mortis is setting in.

You try to hold a yard sale and discover you don't have anything anyone wants.

You can go through every pocket in the closet and not find enough small change to buy a stamp.

You need a good laugh (or cry) and find you've forgotten how.

Your kindergartner has never seen it rain.

You get knots in your stomach at the sight of a window envelope with a government farm lending agency return on it.

The grasshoppers demolish the African violet on the windowsill because it is the only green growing thing left.

Your tractor is repossessed — with your 12-year-old son in the cab.

The local thrift shop calls to see why their best customer hasn't been in and you have to tell them you can't afford to shop there anymore. — Farmland News, Phillis M. Letellier, Greybull, Wyo.

QUITAQUE NAME

The Quitaque name has intrigued and confused people for well over a hundred years. Not only is it difficult to pronounce and hard to spell, but to this day no one has ever been able to document what the word means, or for that matter, we're not even certain what language it came from.

Many believe it came from the Comanche Indians, but former resident Tommy Baird has another theory, and he believes the name has a Spanish derivation.

Tommy said in the Spanish dictionary there is an entire series of words beginning with Quita, and this is pronounced Kita, which is much like some early settlers pronounced it. He also said Quita means acquittance; release (from debt) and when pronounced with an exclamation it means get out; get off it; come on!

He thinks the meaning of Quitaque is somehow linked to the economics of the Comanchero trade relating to the Comanche Indians and their allies, the Kiowas, directly in the Quitaque area. This is the first time we've heard this theory, and Tommy could be on the right track. — Comings, Goings & Doings, Quitaque

SEX EQUALITY

The obscurity of the ideal of sex equality was brought home to me the other day when I noted the printed note on a restaurant menu to address requests to my "waitperson."

Someone was just playing around, or trying to fill up space, when that menu was designed. I can't imagine anyone sitting down in a restaurant and directing a request to anyone else.

Upon reflection, which I had ample time due to the inattention of the "waitpersons," it was obvious that deeper issues were at stake. Is this usage simply a particularly infelicitous extension of the normally defensible principle that language ought not arbitrarily link jobs to sex? Or is that principle inapplicable when such equivalent terms as "waiter" or "waitress" are available? Should sex blindness be accepted as a standard of sex equality or as a principle required by considerations of morality and social justice?

If such philosophies are taken to the extreme and we are to de-sex every word containing the word "man," the "huperson" race is in for a lot of confusion.

mium. This amendment will allow mutual insurance companies and stock companies to bid for life and health group policies of political subdivisions. Public liability will be limited to the payment of premiums specified in the contract.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:

"The constitutional amendment allowing political subdivisions the opportunity to engage in and transact business with authorized mutual insurance companies in the same manner as with other insurance companies."

PROPOSITION NO. 4 ON THE BALLOT

Senate Joint Resolution 4 proposes a constitutional amendment that would repeal the prohibition against branch banking by state banks and would allow state banks and national banks domiciled in this state to establish and operate banking facilities at locations within the county or city where they are domiciled. The amendment would also authorize the Legislature to permit a state bank or a national bank domiciled in this state to engage in business at more than one place if it acquires a failed state bank or national bank domiciled in this state.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:

"The constitutional amendment to provide that a bank may offer full service banking at more than one location within the city or county where its principal facility is located, subject to limitations and restrictions provided by law."

PRICE IS RELATIVE

"The price of an article is relative, to be sure. Right after World War II you could buy a top of the line Chevrolet for $1,400 and today it has a sticker price around $15,000. If you didn't have money, it didn't matter much how little the price tag was on a new car. The important thing was that your income bear some relation to the cost of what you want to buy.

In 1947 a farmer could buy a new car with 450 bushels of wheat. Today he has to produce 6,000 bushels of wheat to buy a new car and it costs him several times as much to produce a bushel of wheat as it did then.

There is an uneasiness in the land these days over the state of the economy. We have already felt the pinch out here where we depend upon wheat, cattle and oil. Other parts of the country outside the Sun Belt are also feeling the effects of a situation where jobs are being lost almost daily and nothing coming along to replace them." — Harold Hudson, The Perryton Herald

BRIEF EXPLANATORY STATEMENTS OF PROPOSED

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS

GENERAL ELECTION

NOVEMBER 4, 1986

PROPOSITION NO. 1 ON THE BALLOT

Senate Joint Resolution 15 proposes a constitutional amendment that would permit the legislature to provide by general law for the apportionment of the value of railroad rolling stock among the counties in which the property of the railroad is located for purposes of property taxation, and would delete the requirement that the Comptroller participate in making the allocation. To comply with both statutory and constitutional law, the apportionment currently is being made by the State Property Tax Board in conjunction with the Comptroller.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:

"The constitutional amendment to allow the legislature to provide by general law for the apportionment of the value of railroad rolling stock among counties for purposes of property taxation."

PROPOSITION NO. 2 ON THE BALLOT

Senate Joint Resolution 33 proposes a constitutional amendment that would replace the constitutional requirement that each house of the legislature adopt rules of procedure that would require the subject of each bill to be expressed in its title in a manner that gives the legislature and the public reasonable notice of that subject. Determining compliance with the rule would be the responsibility of the legislature. Currently, a law is invalidated if a court finds its caption is defective. The amendment would provide that past and future enactments may not be held void on the basis of an insufficient title.

The amendment also would eliminate the suggestion that the state's laws be revised every ten years, and instead would provide for continuing revision of state laws.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:

"The constitutional amendment requiring each house to include in its rules of procedure a rule that each bill contain a title expressing the bill's subject, and providing for the continuing revision of state laws."

PROPOSITION NO. 3 ON THE BALLOT

House Joint Resolution 73 proposes a constitutional amendment that would permit the Legislature to authorize any county, city, town, or other political subdivision to use public funds or credit to pay insurance premiums on nonassessable life, health, or accident policies. Due to the prohibition in the constitution against the lending of credit and granting of public money, political subdivisions currently are prohibited from becoming shareholders in associations such as mutual-insurance companies, in which policyholders are shareholders. A nonassessable mutual insurance policy does not allow a company to raise capital by assessing the policyholder an extra amount on a pre-do when the baby gets hold of a hammer. It's just a question of how much damage he can do before we take it away from him."

"What's the matter with us? No country ever had more, and no country ever had less. Ten men in our country could buy the whole world, and ten million can't buy enough to eat."

"There is not a man in the country that can't make a living for himself and his family. But he can't make a living for them and his government, too, not the way this government is living."

"What's this generation coming to? I bet the time isn't far off when a woman won't know any more than a man!"

"Income tax has made more liars of the American people than golf has."

"The lower-tax issue has been dragged out and dusted off. When a party can't think of anything else, they always fall back on lower taxes. It has a magic sound to a voter, just like fairyland is spoken of and dreamed of by all children. But no child has ever seen it; neither has any voter lived to see the day when his taxes were really lowered."

"Memoirs... means when you put down the good things you ought to have done, and leave out the bad ones you did do."

"That's one trouble with our charities; we are always saving somebody away off, when the fellow next to us ain't eating. Same thing wrong with the missionaries. They will save anybody if he is far enough away, and don't speak the same language."

"Gasoline was never much higher. But there you have a business that is in the hands of a few men, and they see that the price is kept up. It's not regulated by supply and demand, it's regulated by manipulation."

"Lead your life so you wouldn't be ashamed to sell the family parrot to the town gossip."

Will Rogers probably wrote most of these 11 tidbits in the '30s, but wouldn't most of them be applicable today! Oh how the USofA needs a modern-day Will Rogers.

My Dear Son:

Just a few lines to let you know I'm well. I'm writing this slow as I know you can't read fast. You won't know the house when you come home. We have moved.

Your father has a new job. He has 500 people under him. He cuts the grass in the graveyard. Our neighbors started to raise pigs and we got wind of it this morning.

There is a washing machine in the new house but it doesn't work very well. I put 4 shirts in it this last week and pulled the chain. I haven't seen the shirts since. All the boys at school have new suits but we can't afford one for your brother, so we are going to buy him a new hat and let him look out the window. Your sister had a baby this morning. I haven't heard if it is a boy or a girl, so I don't know if you are an Uncle or Aunt.

Your Uncle Dick drowned in a vat of whiskey at the distillery last week. We cremated his body and it took three days to put the fire out. Your father didn't drink too much as Xmas. I put a bottle of castor oil in his beer and it kept him going till New Years.

I went to the doctor and he put a glass tube in my mouth and told me not to open my mouth for 10 minutes. Your father wanted to buy it from him right away. It only rained twice last week. Once for 4 days, and then for 3 days.

Monday was so windy one chicken laid the same egg 4 times.

We had a letter from the undertaker. He said if we don't pay the funeral bill for your grandmother within seven days, up she comes.

I must close now as the plumber is here to fix the washing machine as it smells awful.

Your loving Mother,
P.S. I was going to send you $10.00 but I had already sealed the envelope.

RURAL SCHOOLS

The rural schools are all gone now — the schoolyards empty and deserted — some of them plowed and fertile fields now; some lie covered with mesquite and buffalograss, where only the tumbleweeds and sagebrush sigh softly at the echoes of children's laughter and sounds of play, where once they romped and played before turning reluctantly back to their books.

As best as we can find, Cottle County once boasted 31 schools — including five city or suburban schools. Some of these country schools had 200-300 pupils enrolled.

From these modest but sincere halls of learning came the builders, the shakers and movers, the backbone and ribs, the speakers and doers of our communities and town; from these small beginnings, many Cottle County pupils of tiny one-or-two-room schools have become heads of companies, managers of businesses, doctors, lawyers, scientists and teachers; they have raised fine families, and sent out intelligent, caring children into the world to help make it better. — Jimmy Taylor, The Paducah Post

These are trying times for farmers and often you wonder just how much you can take. Here are some guidelines...

You know you have reached the end of your rope when:

You don't worry when the wind blows because you don't have anything left to blow away.

Your banker goes broke and leaves town.

You have to replace the worn-out baling wire.

You need three aspirin and can only find one.

Your dog goes home with someone else.

Your foreclosure, bankruptcy, eviction and divorce papers come in the same mail — with postage due.

You're tempted to negotiate with the mother cat for the cottontail rabbit she just caught to feed her kittens.

You can't afford the tuition for the school of hard knocks.

You routinely search every new box of shop rags for something you can wear.

The kid with the peanutbutter sandwiches appears to be wolfing down dollar bills.

You've kept a "stiff upper lip" so long rigor mortis is setting in.

You try to hold a yard sale and discover you don't have anything anyone wants.

You can go through every pocket in the closet and not find enough small change to buy a stamp.

You need a good laugh (or cry) and find you've forgotten how.

Your kindergartner has never seen it rain.

You get knots in your stomach at the sight of a window envelope with a government farm lending agency return on it.

The grasshoppers demolish the African violet on the windowsill because it is the only green growing thing left.

Your tractor is repossessed — with your 12-year-old son in the cab.

The local thrift shop calls to see why their best customer hasn't been in and you have to tell them you can't afford to shop there anymore. — Farmland News, Phillis M. Letellier, Greybull, Wyo.

QUITAQUE NAME

The Quitaque name has intrigued and confused people for well over a hundred years. Not only is it difficult to pronounce and hard to spell, but to this day no one has ever been able to document what the word means, or for that matter, we're not even certain what language it came from.

Many believe it came from the Comanche Indians, but former resident Tommy Baird has another theory, and he believes the name has a Spanish derivation.

Tommy said in the Spanish dictionary there is an entire series of words beginning with Quita, and this is pronounced Kita, which is much like some early settlers pronounced it. He also said Quita means acquittance; release (from debt) and when pronounced with an exclamation it means get out; get off it; come on!

He thinks the meaning of Quitaque is somehow linked to the economics of the Comanchero trade relating to the Comanche Indians and their allies, the Kiowas, directly in the Quitaque area. This is the first time we've heard this theory, and Tommy could be on the right track. — Comings, Goings & Doings, Quitaque

The obscurity of the ideal of sex equality was brought home to me the other day when I noted the printed note on a restaurant menu to address requests to my "waitperson."

Someone was just playing around, or trying to fill up space, when that menu was designed. I can't imagine anyone sitting down in a restaurant and directing a request to anyone else.

Upon reflection, which I had ample time due to the inattention of the "Waitpersons," it was obvious that deeper issues were at stake. Is this usage simply a particularly infelicitous extension of the normally defensible principle that language ought not arbitrarily link jobs to sex? Or is that principle inapplicable when such equivalent terms as "waiter" or "waitress" are available? Should sex blindness be accepted as a standard of sex equality or as a principle required by considerations of morality and social justice?

If such philosophies are taken to the extreme and we are to de-sex every word containing the word "man," the "huperson" race is in for a lot of confusion.

mum. This amendment will allow mutual insurance companies and stock companies to bid for life and health group policies of political subdivisions. Public liability will be limited to the payment of premiums specified in the contract.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows: "The constitutional amendment allowing political subdivisions the opportunity to engage in and transact business with authorized mutual insurance companies in the same manner as with other insurance companies."

PROPOSITION NO. 4 ON THE BALLOT

Senate Joint Resolution 4 proposes a constitutional amendment that would repeal the prohibition against branch banking by state banks and would allow state banks and national banks domiciled in this state to establish and operate banking facilities at locations within the county or city where they are domiciled. The amendment would also authorize the Legislature to permit a state bank or a national bank domiciled in this state to engage in business at more than one place if it acquires a failed state bank or national bank domiciled in this state.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:

"The constitutional amendment to provide that a bank may offer full service banking at more than one location within the city or county where its principal facility is located, subject to limitations and restrictions provided by law."

American Fidelity Assurance Company, the firm which carries my health insurance, already has succumbed. After pages and pages of fine type telling what the company will and will not do in the event of such and such, there is this innocent disclaimer: "When the masculine gender is used it will mean feminine." That has to be a good case of over-reaction. I'm afraid they just wiped out all of my benefits. — Wendell Faight, Haskell Free Press

Understanding stress

original trainer left and a new trainer used a reward to entice the goats to exercise, the results were reversed.

For animal researchers, understanding animal stress can help minimize trauma to the animals, either by eliminating avoidable stressors such as noise or insensitive handling, or by modifying the animal's perception of the stress.

Allowing the animal to feel some control over its environment by giving it a predictable sequence of events, or changing the animal's perception of the stressful procedure by associating it with a pleasant one could help reduce the animal's fear or aversion to experimental procedures.

Producers can employ similar techniques to minimize stress in livestock, the authors say. Eliminating avoidable stressors, especially at crucial times such as weaning, artificial insemination, or transportation, can improve productive efficiency, they say, by avoiding the physical complications of stress.

Miss Mackenzie Pageant slated October 18 at Silvertown High

Who will become the thirteenth Miss Mackenzie Queen?

The queen — a student in either Floydada, Lockney, Tula or Silvertown school — will be crowned at the conclusion of the Saturday, Oct. 18, pageant. Sponsored by L.O.A. Junior Study Club of Silvertown, the event is scheduled for 8 p.m. in the Silvertown High School Auditorium.

Sponsors say the contest is "being held to promote the Mackenzie Dam and Lake."

A get-acquainted party is planned for 4 p.m. on the day of the contest in the Pioneer Room of First State Bank in Silvertown. During the party, contestants are to be interviewed by judges.

Rehearsal is scheduled for 6 p.m.

Tuesday, Oct. 14, in the Silvertown High School Auditorium.

Entry forms are available at newspaper offices in the four towns. They may be secured by either the sponsor or contestant.

"All business, clubs and civic organizations are urged to sponsor a girl," according to members of the L.O.A. Junior Study Club. Entry fee is $15, which must accompany entry fee.

Coach's Corner

By Bob Purser

Last Friday night's game against Petersburg was a very physical ball game. I think any time you play them you have to appreciate the effort and intensity that they give. We saw some improvement in many aspects of the game but I think the one thing that stood out was the effort of our young people. I believe right now they are playing together as a team and giving better effort than I could have imagined. Again much of this has to be credited to our seniors and their leadership.

Our back of the week this week was Javier Bernal who rushed for nearly 100 yards and ran with great determination. Our linemen of the week was a tie between Lupe Basaldua and David Rodriguez who both did an exceptional job blocking. Forcing unit player of the week was David Rodriguez who led the team in tackles. The secondary player was Steve Cates who again played with great intensity from his safety position. The Big Hit went to Dickie Hernandez and the special teams player was to Joe Torrez.

Probably the most difficult award each week is the player of the week and this week was no exception because of the effort of the whole team, but we chose Jimmy Ballejo because of his big plays offensively and the great effort he gave in stopping Petersburg on their kick off return.

This week we take another step up the ladder in degree of difficulty against Seagraves. They have gotten off to a rough start this year with losses to Stanton and Post, but both those teams are exceptional. Seagraves has the winningest tradition on the South Plains and winningest coach over the past 20 years is Jim Eddins. They have many good athletes and they possess that dreaded skill known as speed. We will have to play well to win.

Our Jr. High and J.V. play at Seagraves on Thursday starting at 4:30 with the seventh grade. Please support the Longhorns of tomorrow. See you Friday night at 8:00 in Mitchell-Zimmerman field.

Eighth grade wins over Petersburg in first outing

Eighth grade Shorthorns scrimmaged the Petersburg Buffaloes at Mitchell-Zimmerman Stadium last Thursday.

The youthful Lockney team found itself faced with a tough Buff defense. Powered by the running of Steven Vasquez and the strength of the Shorthorn line, Lockney drove the length of the field in 22 plays for the only score of the day. Steven Vasquez scored from eight yards out for his first touchdown of the '86 campaign.

A tough Lockney defense stymied any hope for a Petersburg score.

Seventh grade battles with Buffs to scoreless tie

The seventh grade scrimmaged Petersburg on the local field Thursday. The teams battled to a scoreless tie.

"It was the first organized ballgame for these youngsters and they performed admirably," according to coaches.

Offense stalwarts were Tony Ascencio and Matt Workman running with the ball and Ignacio Luna on the line. On defense, Rance Ford, John Garcia, Cody Jackson and Domingo Luna "played well."

First game for these youngsters will be today (Thursday) at Seagraves.

Roundup at LHS

Three week failure slips go out on Friday. So let's keep those grades up!

The F.H.A. meeting, originally scheduled for Tuesday night, was changed to Wednesday afternoon.

The band students will be attending Tech Band Day this Saturday.

Seniors had their first meeting Monday morning with Eddie Anaya, who helps students who are college bound. Mr. Anaya is associated with Learn Educational Talent Search in Lubbock.

The J.V. football team plays at Seagraves tonight at 7:30. The Varsity boys will play Seagraves at home tomorrow night with kickoff starting at 8:00.

Come and support the Longhorns!

LL cross country teams show improvement in second outing

Lockney's cross country team competed in their second meet for 1986 Saturday in Brownfield. It was run as a Texas 150 Jamboree celebration.

"The 21 students who competed finished the race and made a great effort for improvement," coaches report.

Lockney participants were:
JV girls division — Rosellin Arjona and Renee Brotherton

JV boys division — Jimmy Ballejo, Joe Castro, Henry Ruiz, Joe Torres, Michael Monroe, Michael DeLeon and Rusty Teeter. (Sixth place with 130 points)

Varsity girls — Melinda Molinda, Joann Castro, Linda Cruz, Veronica Blanco, Teresa Vasquez. These girls "gave an excellent effort in their ninth place finish with a total of 214 points."

Varsity boys — Eddie Garza, Corny Luna, Albert Martinez, Javier Bernal, George Bernal, Mark Gatica and David Rodriguez.

The local varsity boys captured fifth place with 158 points. They were beaten only by schools of the 3A to 5A classification.

"Four of these young men are returning 2A state champions. Eddie Garza paced the varsity boys team with a 15th place finish in 18:29.

First place finishers for LHS teams were: Rosellin Arjona, JV girls; Melinda Molina, varsity girls; Eddie Garza, varsity boys; and Jimmy Ballejo, JV boys.

"The effort of all runners was extremely heartwarming." The Beacon was told. "Each had personal goals, I'm sure, but our team goal for this week was to not be last and they all accomplished this.

"We would appreciate your support at our next meet in Plainview, Sept. 20 starting at 10 a.m. in the park behind Furr's Cafeteria. If you've never seen a meet you would find the daring competition of the young men and women most courageous. See you there!"

J.V. falls short to Hart in season opener

Longhorn JV played the Hart Longhorn JV this past Thursday, with the Hart lads emerging on the long end of a 26-6 score.

"The first half we made some crucial mistakes with our kicking game," coaches report. "They gave Hart some excellent field position."

Immediately before half, Hart ran a double reverse that caught Lockney off guard and the locals entered their dressing room at intermission trailing 20-0.

"We have several players who have not played in two or three years and for others this is the first time they have played, so we made several mistakes," coaches explain.

"The second half we came back and played much better. We settled down and started executing much better."

George Bernal scored the Lockney touchdown from three yards out. Extra point attempt failed.

Hart failed to score in the second half until time was running out on the clock when they intercepted a last-second pass and scored from 30 yards out.

"We were proud of the way our players came back the second half," coaches say.

Longhorn JV travels to Seagraves today (Thursday).

Horns stampede past Buffs for second win

The Lockney Longhorns made it two in a row last Friday night in Petersburg as they added their second win of the season to the 1986 tally. The Horns again shut out their opponent with the final score being 27 to 0.

Four touchdowns were scored by the Lockney team, two in the first quarter and two in the second. The Horns held their opponents to 208 total yards and themselves gained 293, 250 of which were on the ground.

This week's game against Seagraves promises to be a good game as "they have the speed that neither of our opponents have had the past two weeks" commented coach Bob Purser.

In the game against Petersburg Lockney took the lead early in the game and stayed out front.

Lockney kicked off to the Buffs but after three plays were forced to give the ball back to the Lockney team.

Jimmy Ballejo took the punt on the Lockney 30 yard line and was stopped at the Horns 35. Clay Harrison took the first carry of the series gaining four yards. On the next play Matt Mitchell took the handoff and earned Lockney's first, first down of the game. With first down and 10 on the Horns own 47 yard line, quarterback Steven Cates held on to the ball and moved it three yards. On the second down play he handed off to Matt Mitchell who once again earned Lockney another first down on the Petersburg 40 yard line.

Mitchell carried on the first down play and moved Lockney to within two yards of another first down. Jimmy Ballejo took over as quarterback for the second down play and on an option he carried the ball 33 yards for the Horns first score of the game. Ben Schuster added the extra point and Lockney was on the board with seven.

The clock was out when this scoring drive began so it is hard to determine the exact time this touchdown occurred but it was approximately three minutes into the game.

Lockney's next scoring drive came with 4:41 left in the first quarter of the game.

Petersburg fumbled the ball on a second and seven play and Lockney recovered, beginning their second scoring drive on their own 40 yard line.

An incomplete pass on the first and ten play left Lockney with a second and ten situation. Matt Mitchell took the handoff and moved the Horns three yards closer to a first down. On the third down play, quarterback Jimmy Ballejo took the option and ran the ball to the Petersburg 47 yard line and a first down. Javier Bernal took the handoff on the next play and traveled to the Buffs 37 yard line and another Lockney first down.

Allen Stallings and Matt Mitchell took the next two carries and moved the ball three yards each putting Lockney in a fourth and inches situation. An offside call on Lockney moved the ball back five yards and Lockney chose to punt. Petersburg then had a clipping call and moved Lockney back to the fourth and inches call.

Javier Bernal took the ball on the next play and moved the Horns to the Buffs 11 yard line. The next play was an incomplete pass attempt from Jimmy Ballejo, but with an interference call on the Buffs, Lockney was once again in scoring position on the six yard line. Michael Monroe took the next handoff and sprinted for his first touchdown of the 1986 season. Ben Schuster's extra point was good and Lockney was up 14 to 0.

There was no scoring action in the second quarter and in the early minutes of that quarter Lockney and Petersburg exchanged fumbles two different times.

The Horns third scoring drive of the night came with about 8:30 left in the third quarter. The Horns recovered another Buff fumble and began this series on their own 43 yard line.

Quarterback Steven Cates kept the ball on the first play and moved the ball one yard. On the next play the handoff went to Bernal who managed to get the Horns another first down on the Buff's 40 yard line. He also took the next carry another four yards. Cates took a keeper on the second down play and gained a first down on the Buff's 29 yard line.

An incomplete pass put the Horns with a second down, and Cates optioned to keep the ball. He made another first down on the 19 yard line and a penalty on the Buffs moved Lockney up to the nine yard line.

Another Buffs penalty on the second down play put Lockney on the three yard line and two plays later Matt Mitchell scooted across the goal line for another six points on the board. The extra point went wide and the score was Horns 20, Petersburg 0.

Lockney's last scoring drive came in the fourth quarter with about seven minutes left in the game.

The Horns kept possession of the ball for more than three minutes before scoring their final touchdown of the game.

The touchdown came with 7:42 showing on the clock. In the play just before the final score, quarterback Jimmy Ballejo had taken the option and carried the ball about the 40 yard line in for a touchdown, but the play was called back.

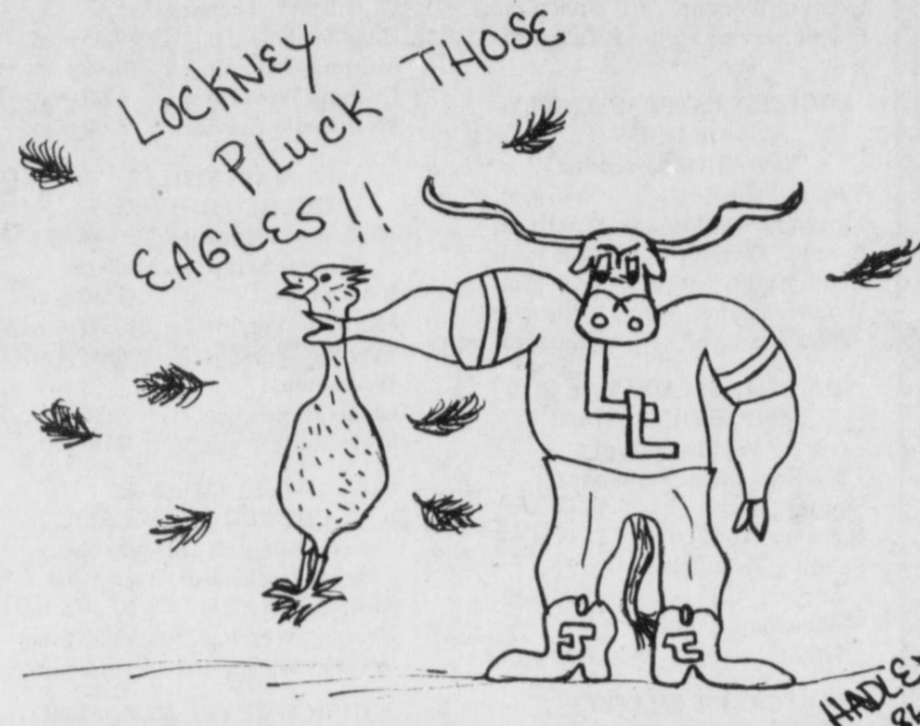

Ballejo remained in the game for the next play and connected with Clay Harrison in the end zone for a 43 yard pass. Schuster booted the extra point and Lockney had toted up 27 points on the board while shutting out the Buffs.

Understanding stress improves efficiency

By Marilyn Brown
TAES Science Writer

Although the stressful effects of poor nutrition and weather extremes have been well researched, little research has been done on the psychological stresses that affect livestock.

Dr. Ted H. Friend and Dr. G.R. Dellmeier, animal scientists with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, have done some preliminary study on animal stress, and they believe that learning more about it could prove useful in evaluating livestock management practices and for responding to critics of some practices.

"It is now known," the authors say, "that the physiological stress response of the body is more complex than originally conceived, and that it can vary with different stressors or across species."

Psychological stressors can be either endogenous (instinctive or within the animal) or exogenous (caused by the environment).

Endogenous stressors include hunger, sleeplessness, and unsatisfied libido. Examples of exogenous stimuli are climate, injury, or crowding.

Studies have shown that a chronic endogenous buildup of a drive to perform specific behaviors, such as a young calf's natural desire to run or move about, can result in animals displaying signs of chronic stress, including a suppressed immune system, altered metabolism, and learned helplessness.

An understanding of animal stressors and how they manifest themselves is important to animal scientists, Friend and Dellmeier say, because stress can adversely affect both research and production by increasing individual variation, decreasing fertility, and altering metabolism and the immune system.

One theory of psychological behavior says that the motivation to perform certain innate behaviors will increase until the animal is able to perform the blocked behavior, or a related one, relieving the motivation.

"The concept of endogenous buildup of a drive to perform specific behaviors is in accordance with recent advances in nerve cell biology," the scientists say.

Calves, for example, that are crated or raised in individual hutches to create tender veal, have shown altered metabolisms and suppressed immune systems.

"Animals maintained under chronic close confinement may not miss running across a field per se, but they do experience an increase in motivation to be active and to interact with their environment," Friend and Dellmeier say.

"The increased mortality in calves maintained in chronic close confinement has often been attributed to previous contamination of facilities with organisms from other calves, but such contamination is present also in other housing systems. Stress-induced immunocompetency may be a significant factor in the etiology (study) of disease in such animals," they say.

Experiments have shown that the potential stressfulness of a given event is influenced by many variables. For example, if the animal has a sense of control over its environment, such as knowing that a stressful event will occur, its physiological responses will be less intense.

Conversely, if an animal is unable to predict the stressful event, the stress-related disorders will be increased. That lack of sense of control may be why upper-ranking executives seem to have more stomach ulcers than do heads of corporations, Friend and Dellmeier say.

Animals learn coping behaviors to help them deal with stressful situations. "The performance of highly repetitive, stereotyped behaviors, called stereotypes, has been shown to help animals cope with environments containing little or unvaried stimulation," the authors say. Examples of stereotypes include tongue rolling in bulls or stall weaving in horses.

"Since these behaviors usually start in animals under conditions lacking varied stimulation, they may help an animal cope by increasing sensory stimulation, and increasing muscular and skeletal activity and the animal's sense of control over its relationship to the environment," Friend and Dellmeier say.

When an animal is frustrated, or prevented from performing a behavior it is accustomed to, it may perform some other behavior as a substitute. Examples of these displacement activities or nervous behaviors are a horse pawing the ground while awaiting feed, or even a person shifting from foot to foot during a speech.

Experiments have demonstrated that a hog, allowed to physically express its frustration by chewing on a chain when an expected food reward was not provided, had a reduced level of cortisol, a stress-related hormone.

"When animals are exposed to stressful stimulations, they normally respond by flight, avoidance, attack or other behavioral means. When they learn that none of the behavioral responses of which they are capable results in alleviation of the stressor, they give up and are said to have learned helplessness," the scientists say.

"When a calf is placed in a crate and given several days to adjust to the confinement, although it appears to have adjusted, learned helplessness is probably occurring and its physiology is now indicative of a chronically stressed animal," the researchers say.

There are major differences among species in their abilities to adapt to various degrees of confinement. Gestating swine, for example, are apparently better able to tolerate chronic close confinement than young calves.

"Whether or not a species or individual will be able to adapt to chronic close confinement is largely dependent on its innate, or genetically controlled, drives for various kinds of behavior; in other words, its basic nature," Friend and Dellmeier say.

With that in mind, it is not surprising that an animal accustomed to grazing would have a more difficult adjustment to confinement than would a gilt, which normally loafs for much of the day.

One of the most exciting developments in the field of stress research is the potential for using physiological characteristics to differentiate among various types of stressors, the authors say. Much of this work comes from human medicine; for example, while exercise induces a response of the sympathetic nervous system, acute psychological stress induces primarily an adrenal response.

This indicates that relative differences in epinephrines, or adrenaline, may be an effective means of differentiating among various emotional states in animals, especially when combined with other measurements, such as levels of cortisol and thyroid hormones in the blood.

Although it may be difficult to separate the effects of physical and psychological stressors, the failure to consider the psychological component has caused one medical laboratory to throw out 10 years' work, the authors say.

Data from pregnant goats, stimulated to exercise on a treadmill by electric shock, indicated that exercise was potentially harmful to the fetuses of women who exercise vigorously while pregnant because of a diminished blood supply to the fetus. However, when the
