

Longhorns hope for spoilers' role

Although their playoff odds are long, the Longhorns could play the role of spoiler in their remaining three games. That could begin Friday night when the Hale Center Owls, currently tied for second in district, arrive for a 7:30 p.m.

contest at Mitchell-Zimmerman Field. Since Hale Center and Lockney have had many crucial showdowns in recent years, Coach Jim Clark's Red and White would like nothing better than to begin their role as "spoiler" tomorrow night.

The injury and illness bug continues to haunt the Fighting Longhorns. Several key players missed the Hart contest last Friday.

This Friday contest will be the next-to-last contest for the '87 Longhorn gridders. They travel to Olton on Oct. 30 and close out the campaign on Nov. 6 against the rugged Abernathy Antelopes.

This is the beginning of a new day God has given me this day to use as I see fit, I can waste it, or grow in its light and be of service to others. But what I do with this day is important. Because I have exchanged a day of my life for it. When tomorrow comes, today will be gone forever. I hope I do not regret the price that I paid for it. —Submitted by Charlie Wright

PUMPKINS FOR JESSICA

An individual, who wishes to remain anonymous, has an excellent idea for assisting Jessica McClure, the 18-month-old who fell into a hole in Midland and captured the hearts of the nation during her rescue, and her parents with financial obligations.

The fellow suggests that a load or two of Floyd County pumpkins be gathered by an organization such as Lions or Rotary and taken to Midland to be sold by a similar service organization there. All proceeds would go to Jessica.

The novel idea sounds like a winner.

SWEESTAKES

Surely I wasn't the only person notified last week that I have won one of those sweepstakes awards.

Not one of the big prizes, but one of those "other prizes."

It came in the form of a $320 check which I can apply on the purchase of a $399 set of luggage.

It's tempting to put $79 with the check and become the proud owner of the most expensive luggage I've ever had. But the pictures of the suitcases look strangely similar to the $39.95 suitcases I already have. —Wendell Fought, Haskell Free Press

Mitch Probasco hurt in Monday plane crash

Lockney resident Mitch Probasco was in Lubbock's St. Mary's Hospital Tuesday morning with injuries suffered in a plane crash which occurred Monday afternoon at about 4:00 p.m.

Probasco had apparently been spraying an area near his home, 10 miles southwest of Lockney, when the accident occurred.

According to witnesses, Probasco had been executing a turn near his home when the engine of the crop dusting plane stalled. At that point, one wing of the plane dipped into the dirt of the plowed field just south of his home and rolled end over end. The plane came to rest on its top with the motor and wings completely severed.

According to witnesses, Probasco exited the plane and stumbled about 30 feet before collapsing in the dirt.

Members of the Lockney Volunteer Fire Department were on the scene shortly after receiving the call and attended Probasco before transporting him to Caprock Hospital in Floydada. After being checked in Floydada, Probasco was transported to St. Mary's by the Flight for Life helicopter. Reports Tuesday morning indicated that Probasco is in "stable condition."

PTA Halloween Carnival scheduled for October 31

As of Monday, the Lockney P.T.A. had 15 booths reserved for its upcoming Halloween Carnival to be held on October 31 at the Lockney Elementary cafeteria.

Several booths are still available, at a nominal rental fee, however they must be reserved no later than Friday, October 23. Anyone interested in renting a booth should contact Reeda Cay Smith at 652-2338.

Booths will include balloon decorating and M.A.S.H., a jail house, face painting and boat pick-up, ring toss, dart throw, cake walk, dunking booth, beanbag toss, and a spook house.

Other booths are a pie throw, candle shoot-out, cookie decorating, apple bite, and funnel cake.

There will also be a costume contest for ages 2-12.

In addition to booth games of all kinds, the Lockney P.T.A. will have a concession stand. They will be serving Frito pies, nachos, hot dogs, candy, popcorn, pickles, and soft drinks.

Remember, if you want to reserve a booth, deadline is Friday, October 23.

Cindy Means continues to pace grid contest race for tickets

Taking first place in the football contest this week was Kenneth Wofford who just missed four games on his entry. He also had a tie-breaker score of 25. He wins the $10 check.

Second place this week goes to Cindy Means who also missed four, but had a tie-breaker score of 29. She wins $6.

Third place goes to Olga Guevera who also missed four, but had a tie-breaker score of 30. She wins the $4.

Missing five on the contest this week and receiving honorable mention are Dottie Stansell, Retha Wofford, Johnny Dorman, Karla Josey, Steve Stansell, and T.C. Bilbrey.

Staying in first place for the football tickets to see the Dallas Cowboys game in November is Cindy Means. Means now has a total score of 77 points. Following closely behind her is Johnny Dorman with 75, and Mike Means with 73.

Having 72 points in the contest are Retha Wofford, Kenneth Wofford, and Karla Josey.

Having 70 points are Dickie McCarty, Dr. Gary Mangold and girls, and Roy Saucedo.

There are quite a few entrants that have point totals in the 60's and they are not out of the running yet.

Remember to get your entries in before 5:00 p.m. each Friday, not only are the Dallas tickets at stake, but also $20 in prize money each week.

Lockney this week . . .

SCHOOL ATTENDANCE

The month of October is attendance month in the State of Texas. It is during this month that the average daily attendance is recorded for each and every school system in the state. It is the ADA which determines how much in state financing each school system will receive the next year. For that reason, it is most important that every student enrolled in the Lockney school system, from kindergarten through 12th grade be at school every day possible this month.

QUARTERBACK CLUB MEETS EACH MONDAY

Films of the previous week's game and comments by coaches provide the program for Lockney Booster Club meetings, held each Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the elementary school cafeteria.

CHEERING THE HORNS this year are varsity cheerleaders (top to bottom) Lori Perez, Gwen Lane, Shea Jackson, Cindy Cooke, Sundal Workman and Connie Vasquez.

Senior citizens will serve lunch

Members of the Lockney Senior Citizens Center will be able to enjoy hot lunches, beginning November 9.

Board members met on October 6 and again on October 13 to interview applicants. Hired in the position of cook for the new center was Nina Sanders who formerly cooked for the South Plains school.

Sanders will report to work on November 2 but meals will not be served until the following day. Menus for the senior citizens will be posted in the center and will also be published in The Lockney Beacon.

Any member planning to eat lunch at the center, once meals are being served must sign up no later than 9:00 a.m. on the days meals are served. Further details will be discussed with members who may have questions.

Wishing Jessica well

Floyd County residents are being given an opportunity to send their wishes for a speedy recovery to Jessica McClure, the 18-month-old Midland miss whose rescue from an old water well captured attention throughout the United States.

Sheets of paper are being placed at The Beacon office in Lockney and at The Hesperian office in Floydada for well-wishers to sign. These will be placed inside a giant card and forwarded to the youngster.

Contributions also will be forwarded from persons wishing to assist financially.

There is no charge for signatures, which will be mailed in about a week.

Dear Longhorn Fans,

This year has been an enjoyable one for the cheerleaders, but now that district play has begun, it's time for us AND for you to get together and support the Longhorns.

This year the coaches have chosen "Fighting Longhorns" as the season motto. The players and the coaches are fighting not only for the school, but for you, the fans, also. We, as cheerleaders, know that the backbone of a good team is the support of the fans.

The cheerleaders want to challenge you as fans to yell, make noise, stand up, and support the "Fighting Horns" through all four quarters of each of the three remaining district games. This week the Horns will face Hale Center here in Lockney. Please bring your cans, keys and anything you can think of to make noise, but most of all bring your spirit and cheer the Longhorns on to VICTORY!!!

See you Friday, The Varsity Cheerleaders

'So many cars!' Nakamura says following Texas visit

Akihiro Nakamura, a 20-year-old Japanese from Tokyo, found Lockney school "interesting" during a Thursday visit. He shared his time that day with several classes. Seven years ago, he spent time with an Arkansas family during a 4-H exchange program visit.

Now a junior student in Meiji University in Tokyo, the soft-spoken man paid his own fare to the U.S. because "I wanted to improve my English." He has studied English eight years but wanted another first-hand experience with American people.

After revisiting the Arkansas family with whom he made his home in 1980, he came to Texas to spend five days with the Jerry Williams family. His brother, Masahiko, had been a guest of the Williams' nine years ago through the same 4-H exchange program.

Kay Williams, a Lockney High teacher, wondered how her houseguest would react to a Texas school. However, "the students thoroughly enjoyed him" on Thursday.

NO PICKUPS

"Do you have wheels (vehicle)?" asked one LHS student. Yes, Nakamura does have a car, but most 20-year-old Japanese do not.

"How about pickups?" asked another. Pickups are almost non-existent in Tokyo.

Because the young Japanese speaks so softly, Mrs. Williams observes, local students were extremely quiet while listening to him talk.

Despite the difference in his culture and education, the young man who wore stonewashed jeans and a faded blue shirt — with the shirt tail out — did not seem at all out-of-place in the halls of Lockney High.

During an interview with The Beacon editor, he answered questions about the Japanese educational system. Youngsters attend kindergarten two years, elementary school six years, junior high three years and high school three years. For those who choose, college follows. The slightly-built lad explains that junior high and high school are private schools.

Also, high schoolers in Japan wear "uniforms." They study during "five or six" 50-minute classes, six days a week. Teachers are almost exclusively men, (schools are not co-ed, usually boys schools and girls schools).

"Scholastics only" are taught in Japanese schools. Extra-curricular activities are practiced after school hours. Baseball, basketball, tennis, soccer, and "some" ice hockey and snow skiing are sporting activities.

In private schools, males and females normally attend separate schools.

The primary mode of transportation is "the train," although some Japanese own personal autos.

Asked why he found Lockney different, he answered, "There are so many cars."

A young person in Japan is eligible for a driver's license at age 18.

While their male counterparts have majors in economics, law, business, biology and other subjects, most Japanese females study fine arts for two years.

MORE WESTERN STYLE

In more ways than Americans might realize, Japan is adopting more western culture. Such establishments as McDonald's, Wendy's, Pizza Hut, Kentucky Fried Chicken and Red Lobster are commonplace in Tokyo, a city of 11 million citizens. Fish, chicken and pork are common meats, but beef is "too expensive."

Although young people begin dating at "15 or 16" years, the average age for marriage is "about 26 for males and a about 23 for females," according to Nakamura. Japan has "some" divorces, although the percentage is much lower than in the U.S.

Twenty is the legal age for purchasing alcoholic beverages. Nakamura says that drinking below the legal age and drugs "are not much of a problem."

AIDS is not widespread in Japan.

The Lockney visitor noted that a small percentage of Tokyo residents are involved in organized religion.

Unlike the past, more women work outside the homes. Mothers with young children, however, seldom hold outside jobs.

Nakamura's mother works with his father in a family-owned sales business. One additional employee is needed.

The Lockney visitor's family includes his parents and the older brother. He says the average family includes two or three children. While a majority of the families reside in single-family dwellings, many younger married couples are now living in apartments.

METICULOUS PEOPLE

Kay Williams says the Japanese are "very meticulous people." She noted that her family's houseguest wanted to purchase a T-shirt and "he knew exactly what he wanted."

Nakamura also is "very polite and very soft spoken."

He experienced a typical West Texas man's day Wednesday when he accompanied Jerry Williams to Floydada on business, ate pizza and then had his

Two university students join local ag department

Two new faces have been seen recently in the Lockney FFA department, one a very familiar face and the other a frequent past visitor to the department.

Gary Bigham, son of Bill and Anita Bigham, is working in the ag department on Friday's as a teacher observer, and Tom Maynard is working in the department as a student teacher. Both are based with the agriculture department at Texas Tech University.

Both of these young men have chosen to become agriculture science teachers and both chose to come to Lockney and work with FFA advisor Randall Robbins for this particular area in their courses of study.

Both seemed pleased to be working with Robbins and both had only good things to say about him and the Lockney ag program. Maynard said "Randall has a very good shop program and he is extremely knowledgeable in ag business. I feel he has lots to teach me. I am also happy to be doing my student teaching in an area where agriculture is the mainstay of the community. There is a lot to learn from many people in this area."

Bigham commented, "I know Mr. Robbins and wanted to work with him. I am very happy to be here and be able to observe his teaching methods. Also this is my hometown and I am glad to be here for that reason."

Bigham, who graduated from Lockney High School in 1984, was a member of the Lockney FFA program for four years. In that time he showed steers and barrows, worked with and participated in a number of FFA activities. While a member of the local chapter he served as reporter and chapter president. He was the recipient of three proficiency awards, in crops and beef.

He was a leader of the chapter conducting team and the quiz team for three years, and was a member of the livestock judging team for two years. During his junior year he represented Lockney at the State FFA convention and there he received his State Farmer Degree.

Upon his graduation from LHS, Bigham chose to attend West Texas State University for two years and then transferred to Tech. At WTSU, Bigham was in a pre-agriculture education program. While attending WTSU, Bigham was a member of the crops judging team which advanced to nationals and now at Tech he is a member of the soil judging team.

Among his other outstanding accomplishments as a member of FFA, Bigham achieved the American Farmer Degree and is the third person from Lockney to ever achieve this status.

Among the duties Bigham will be performing as a teacher observer with the Lockney FFA program will be helping prepare students to receive proficiency awards, working with those students eligible, to receive Lone Star Farmer degrees, helping with record book preparation, and working in the office of the local chapter.

Bigham commented, "The kids in the program are very cooperative and enthusiastic. They are also willing to learn." Bigham will be in the Lockney FFA department on Friday's for about the next three months.

Tom Maynard is a graduate of Cal Farley's Boys Ranch. He received a Bachelor of Science degree in animal production from Texas Tech University in 1986 and is presently working toward certification in agricultural education.

Maynard spent seven years at Boys Ranch before his graduation in 1982. It was on the 10,000 acre ranch that he learned to appreciate the hard work that is involved in the farming and ranching industry.

Maynard was also a member of the FFA in his high school years. He served as a chapter officer and was president of the Amarillo District FFA. He was also later elected to serve as one of nine vice presidents of the Texas FFA Association. During his term as a state officer he traveled more than 20,000 miles as a motivational speaker and leadership clinician for the 58,000 member state FFA organization. Maynard made several trips to Lockney during this period and also made a trip to Capitan, New Mexico, with the Lockney students.

Junior High Honor Roll

EIGHTH GRADE:

A — Tony Ascencio, Rance Ford, Ignacio Luna

B — Monica Arnold, Daisey Blanco, Coy Davis, Jennifer Fortenberry, Clay Golden, Jessica Lemons, Domingo Luna, Brandon Poole, John Torres, Chris Villa

SEVENTH GRADE:

A — Kori Kellison, Lance Patridge
B — Heather Henderson, Jeri Lambert, Michelle Lavy, Renee Salas, Andy Stapp, Tami Vernon

SIXTH GRADE:

A — Stella Garcia, Rhanda Hickerson, Allen Martin, Ubaldo Ochoa Jr.
B — Josie Cavazos, Angie Clark, Maggie Duenas, Ryan Ford, Patricia Garcia, Jerod Glasson, Max Green, Nancy Perales, Cynthia Perez, Debbie Pyle, Michael Rodriguez, Melissa Salas

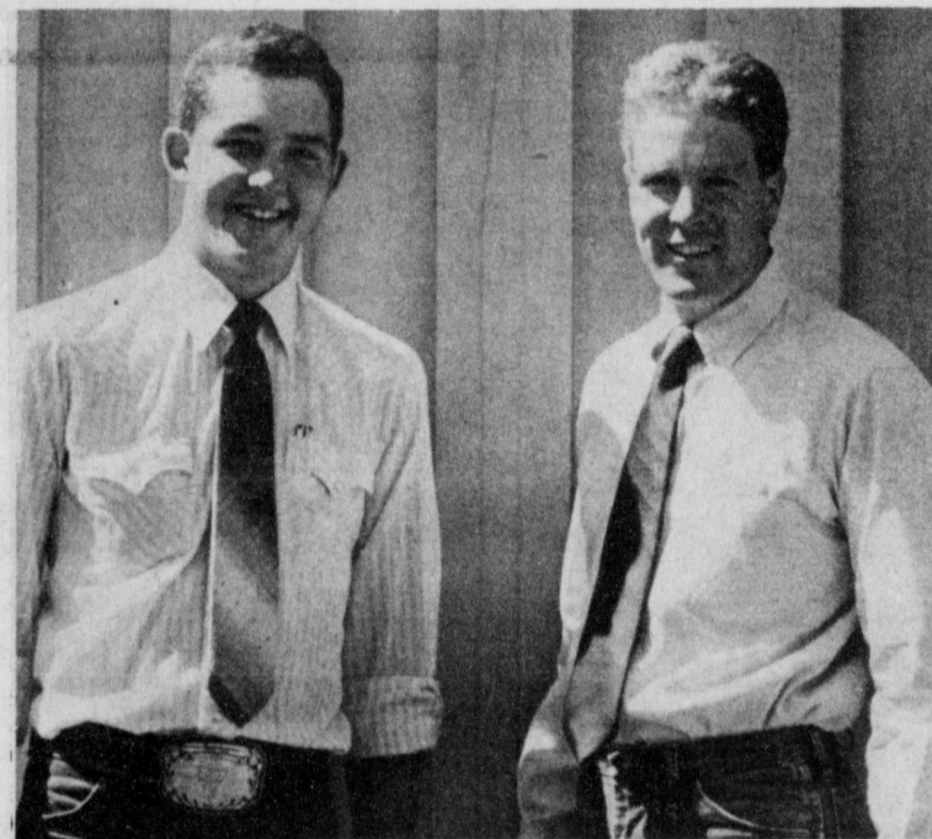

Though now a college student, Maynard's interest in youth leadership through the FFA program continues. This year, he served on the staff of the FFA's national leadership conference, the Washington Conference Program. In addition, he has served as a leadership consultant for the Vocational Opportunities Clubs of Texas (VOCT) and the Vocational Industrial Clubs of America (VICA).

Even through his college career, Maynard has continued to interest youth in agriculture related fields of study. He has just completed a three year stint as coordinator of Texas Tech's Ambassadors for Agriculture. During his tenure, the Ambassadors grew from a low profile program which handled about 30 speaking engagements per year, to a nationally recognized organization which completed over 100 engagements and reached nearly 9,000 people in 1986-87. Also under his leadership, the Ambassadors began producing a weekly agriculture talk show on public television and developed educational programs for elementary students.

In addition to his work with the Ambassadors, Maynard traveled the nation in 1985 as a member of Texas Tech's highly competitive meats judging team. He served as a student recruiter for the College of Agricultural Sciences and was a Student Senator in 1985-86. Also, in 1984, he served on the staff of the Texas Senate Subcommittee on Agriculture.

Maynard began working in the Lockney agriculture department last Monday and will continue through mid-December. Among the duties assigned to Maynard while he is in Lockney will be training the leadership teams for competition. He will also be teaching the Agriculture II classes and working for one hour with the General Ag Mechanics classes.

Of working with the Lockney students, Maynard commented, "There is a lot of potential in the students here. The chapter conducting team stands a good chance to place highly in contest and I feel that Lockney has an excellent shot of winning district with Raetta Starnes in extemporaneous public speaking. I have always enjoyed spending time with the Lockney kids in the past and they are very cooperative."

FFA STUDENT TEACHER AND TEACHER OBSERVER—Gary Bigham [left] has returned to Lockney as a teacher observer, through his study course at Texas Tech University, and Tom Maynard is serving as student teacher through his ag studies also at Tech. Both of these men chose to do their observation and student teaching work under Randall Robbins, Lockney FFA teacher. Bigham will complete his degree in agriculture in May of 1988 and Maynard will receive his degree in December of this year. —Staff photo

OBITUARIES

TED BOEDEKER

Theodore (Ted) Boedeker, a longtime resident of the Providence community, was claimed by death Thursday afternoon in Central Plains Hospital in Plainview following a brief illness. He was 77.

Mr. Boedeker was a well-known farmer at Providence.

Memorial services were at 4 p.m. Saturday in Trinity Lutheran Church at Providence. The Rev. Bruce T. Adamson, pastor, officiated.

Grandsons served as pallbearers. Interment was made in Plainview Cemetery.

Born Aug. 29, 1910 in Washington County, Mr. Boedeker moved to Providence at a young age with his parents, the late C.R. and Ida Boedeker. He was raised in that community.

The former Freda Sammann and Mr. Boedeker were married on Dec. 6, 1931 at Providence.

A member of the Trinity Lutheran Church council, he was a past director of First National Bank of Plainview and was a director of Pheasants Unlimited.

Survivors include his wife; three sons, Cecil Boedeker of Providence, Larry Boedeker of Plainview and Merlin Boedeker of Bedford; a daughter, Foncine Carthel of Plainview; 10 grandchildren; and nine great-grandchildren.

MILLIE SINGER

Memorial services for Millie Vida Singer of Hereford were at 2 p.m. Thursday in First Baptist Church of Hereford. Burial was in Littlefield Memorial Park.

Mrs. Singer, 79, was a sister of Arvie Newton.

She was claimed by death at 7:03 p.m. Monday, Oct. 12, in Deaf Smith General Hospital after a lengthy illness.

A Bridgeport native, Mrs. Singer moved to Hereford in 1979 from Brownwood. She married Willie (Bill) Singer on Feb. 4, 1925 in Snyder, Okla. He preceded his wife in death in 1972.

Survivors include a daughter, Bonnie Hartley of Hereford; two sons, Norman Singer of Tulsa and J.C. Singer of Houston; four brothers, Arvie Newton of Lockney, Dewey Newton and Dalton Newton, both of Amarillo, and Vern Newton of Denver, Colo.; three sisters, Myrtle Leu of Dallas, Irene Fox of Sulphur Springs and Clara McClure of Tahliquah, Okla.; nine grandchildren; 11 great-grandchildren; and four great-grandchildren.

Ross Coopers' daughter dies in Amarillo crash

Three Amarillo residents, including a former Lockneyite, were killed Saturday afternoon in a two-vehicle collision at the intersection of Farmers Avenue and South Georgia Street in Randall County, according to Department of Public Safety (DPS) spokesman Jerry Hatley.

One of the victims was Gloria Beth Prichard, 36, the daughter of Ross and Kathryn Cooper of Lockney.

Also perishing in the accident were Chase Wilson, 12, and Donald Gene Grooms, 30. All three were pronounced dead at the scene shortly after 4 p.m. Saturday by Randall County Justice of the Peace Phil Woodall, Hatley said.

He explained that Grooms was driving a 1975 Chevrolet pickup southbound on South Georgia Street when he ran a "stop" sign and collided with a 1980 Toyota driven by Mrs. Prichard.

Young Wilson was a passenger in Prichard's vehicle, which was east-bound on Farmers Avenue, Hatley said. The accident occurred about one mile south of Amarillo.

The DPS trooper said Grooms was not wearing a seat belt, but Mrs. Prichard and Wilson were wearing their safety belts.

Services for Gloria Beth Prichard were conducted at 2 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 20, at First Baptist Church in Lockney. Officiating was Murray Brewer, staff evangelist of Coulter Road Baptist Church in Amarillo. He was assisted by the Rev. Murle Rogers, a retired Baptist pastor from Lockney.

Interment was made in Lockney Cemetery, under direction of Moore-Rose Funeral Home of Lockney.

Serving as pallbearers were Garry Marr, Archie Jones, Johnny Vaughn, W.H. Vaughn, David Waits and Wayne Tannery.

The former Gloria Beth Cooper was born April 20, 1951 in Lockney. She was a payroll supervisor at West Texas State University in Canyon. She was a Baptist.

Survivors include her parents; two sons, Chris and Michael, both of Amarillo; four brothers, Kenny Cooper of Round Lake, Ill., Cliff Cooper of Fort Worth, Robert Cooper of Albuquerque, N.M., and Rhea Cooper of Lubbock; and a sister, Brenda Ricks of Houston.

WILSON SERVICES

Services for Chase Wilson were at 2 p.m. Monday at South Georgia Church of Nazarene in Amarillo with the Rev. Cecil L. Gray, pastor, and the Rev. Murray L. Brewer, staff evangelist of Coulter Road Baptist Church in Amarillo, officiating.

Burial was made in Memory Garden Cemetery in Amarillo.

Born in Philadelphia, he was a seventh grade student at Horace Mann Junior High.

According to friends, he was a grandson of Mrs. Ross Cooper's sister.

Survivors include his parents, Don and Robin Wilson of the home; one sister, Danaca Wilson of the home; two brothers, Logan Wilson and Brennen Wilson, both of the home; his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Billy Wilson and Mr. and Mrs. Luther Hildebrand, all of Amarillo and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Tannery of Belen, N.M.; and a great-grandmother, Zola Zinger of Haddam, Kan.

Seventh graders nip Plainview

The Lockney Junior High seventh grade Shorthorns faced off with Plainview Coronado Red on October 8 and fell just five points short of victory. The final score of the game was Lockney 8, Plainview 12.

Lockney's only score came in the fourth quarter as Sammy Salas took a six yard run around the left end for the TD. The two point conversion run, again by Salas, over the left tackle was good. Plainview scored in the second and third quarters of the game. The extra point attempts failed.

Of the game, Coach Tommy Kelly said, "The entire defense played an outstanding game. They gave a super effort. Outstanding players were Daniel Perez, Sammy Salas, Joey Adams, Cosmo Gonzales, Ricky Herrera and Richard Guerrero."

Last week the seventh graders faced off with the Plainview Coronado Blue team and this time emerged victorious with a final score of the game being Lockney 8, Plainview 6.

Coach Kelly commended the entire team "for a job well done" against the Plainview squad.

Lockney scored in the fourth quarter when Salas made a three yard run over the left tackle and Salas took the same run over for the two point conversion score. Plainview scored in the second quarter of action with just 17 seconds left in the half. The extra point attempt failed.

Horns fall, 10-0

"Our offense still lacks consistency. We have some young kids and they still have a way to go. We are gaining experience but we are running out of time," commented Coach Jim Clark following the Lockney Longhorn loss to the Hart Longhorns last Friday.

Hart scored their only touchdown in the first quarter with eight minutes left in that first period of play. The two point conversion, on a faked punt was good.

After that the defenses of both teams took control of the game and battled for three more quarters of play.

The Lockney team was able to stop Hart four different times as they reached scoring range inside the 25 yard line and was able to capture two fumbles, but were unable to capitalize on them.

Ron Cates, Lockney defensive lineman, was able to get three unassisted quarterback sacks in during the game and kept pressure on the Hart quarterback for the entire game, which limited

Hart to only three complete passes out of nine attempts.

The Hart two-point safety came in the fourth quarter with just over two minutes left in the game when a Lockney fumble was recovered in the end zone.

This week Lockney will face off with the Hale Center Owls in Lockney at 7:30.

Lockney JV wins two in row

The Lockney Longhorn Junior Varsity has posted two wins a row, first on October 8 when they played Springlake-Earth and won by a score of 13 to 6, and the second last week when they faced Hart and won in a 13 point shutout.

During the SE game, Lockney's first score came in the first quarter when Aurelio Jimenez grabbed a Kip Holt pass 27 yards down field and scored. The extra point put the Horns on top by 7.

The Horns again scored in the fourth quarter on a six yard run by Louis Luna. The extra point failed this time.

The Lockney team held Springlake-Earth out of scoring range during the entire game, however on the last play of the game, SE, in a last ditch effort to avert a shutout, hurled a pass 87 yards downfield for a touchdown.

The JV Horns now have a season record of 2-3-1 and a district record of 1-0.

HART SHUTOUT

Last week the junior varsity faced off with Hart and this time completely shut out the opposing Longhorns by a score of 13 to 0.

The Lockney team scored once in the third and fourth quarters.

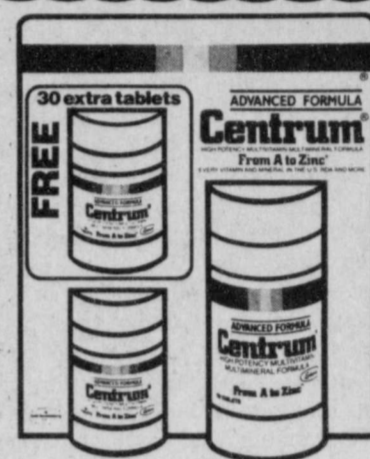

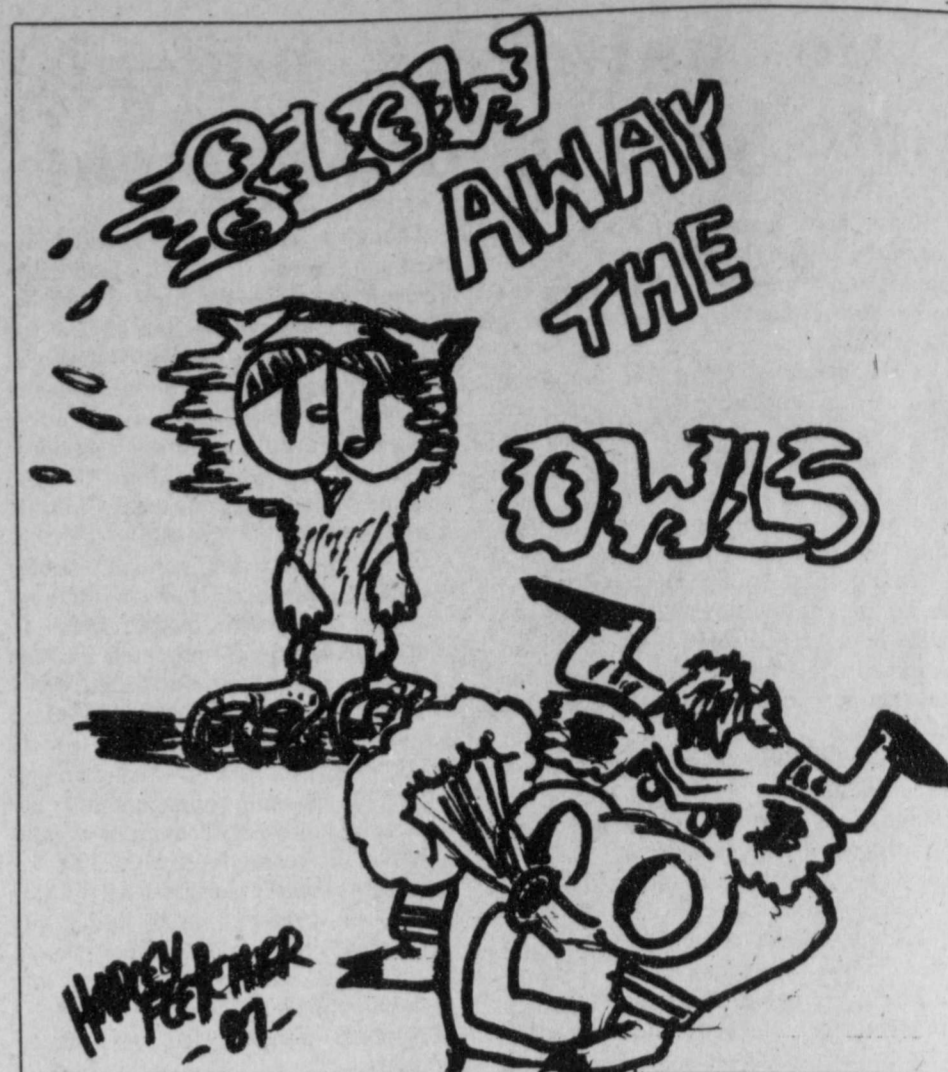

The first score came when Henry Ruiz nabbed a Hart interception and ran it back 27 yards for the TD. The extra point failed but the Lockney Horns were in the lead.

The score in the fourth quarter came on a three yard run by Louis Luna. Roland Raissez booted the PAT and put the Horns up 13 to 0, the final score of the game.

The Richard Nixon Sequoiadendron giganteum became so gnarled and twisted that it choked itself to death right on the South Lawn of the White House. A sad loss, but gardener Irvin has his eye upon another sequoia to replace it. Thus does the life cycle on the White House grounds go on even as in the political world. Andrew Jackson Magnolia Grandiflora has rotted out, and not even the steel reinforcement rods may be enough to hold it in shape for many more months. When the time comes sound taps for a 150-year veteran. But be not despairing. Its twin is still healthy and firmly rooted by the south entrance to the White House.

Lyndon Johnson's Duercus Phellos has leaped from 15 ft. to 50 ft. in 13 years. Just like the man who planted it, the willow oak seems determined to be bigger and better than anything else in sight. Jimmy Carter's youngster, Acer Rubrum is a red maple that is putting two to three feet each year. The Fagus sylvatica "Asplestfaldia" trees, so lovingly planted by Lady Bird Johnson and Pat Nixon, are gorgeously full of life, even though these fern-leaf beeches are close by the press area, where the air on most days is believed to be considerably hotter than normal.

Nor has anything slowed down Herbert Hoover's Quercus Alba, standing a proud 60 ft. In fact, the Hoover white oak has grown rotiened, reminding visitors of the fellow who planted it 56 years ago. It makes you wonder if there is some mystic force in Irvin Williams' 18 acres where nature imitates human nature. Williams has seen just about everything else in his 26 years of coaxing trees, flowers, grass, birds and squirrels to coexist on top of and among security alarms, underground cables, and rooms. The battle is constant but he loves it.

CONTEST RULES

Any Beacon subscriber or person purchasing a copy from a newsrack is eligible to enter, except for employees of Floyd County Newspapers. Three cash prizes are awarded weekly. Ties will split prize money. Staff members of this newspaper are sole judges of the contest and their decision is final.

It is not necessary to indicate scores on all the games, but total scores (combined total of both teams) of the tie-breaker must be indicated in football.

Circle the team you believe will win each of the footballs. Deadline for submitting entries is 5 p.m. Friday and winners will be announced in the following week's issue.

Enter one entry per person per week. Print name and address plainly on blank below and bring entire page to The Beacon office in Lockney before 5 p.m. Friday.

Tie breaker game will be considered only in case of ties.

Contestants receive one point for each correct game throughout the season. The person with the greatest number of points for the season wins two tickets to the Cowboys-Miami Dolphins game in Dallas on Nov. 22.
