

Canyon City News.

VOL XI.

CANYON CITY, RANDALL CO., TEXAS, FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 8, 1907.

NO. 33

Depositors Rightly Smile

at him who refuses to avail himself of the advantages of having a bank account. They know their money is safe from theft, injury or fire, while his is in danger all the time.

The Canyon National Bank

suggests that if you have not yet opened an account it would do no harm to do so as an experiment. If you don't like the freedom from worry such an account will give, you can close it any time. But you'll like it.

Rollins & Cranford

LAWYERS.

CIVIL PRACTICE SOLICITED.

STREET SCENE IN CANYON CITY, TEXAS.

Keiser Brothers & Phillips Buy and Sell Panhandle Lands.

THE PLAINS WIN

First Prizes Obtained by Our Nabors of Hereford at the State Fair.

Hereford had an exhibit at the State Fair of Deaf Smith and Castro county products and J. M. Boone of that town, in charge of the same at Dallas, writes the secretary of the Hereford Commercial Club as follows:

Dear Sir:—Hereford has won five first premiums and one second. We should have had our exhibit here on the 17th but I succeeded in getting in even at the late hour. I think that this is a feather in Hereford's cap. You will find the prize list in the News, but I give them here:—First prize, S. L. Boone, kershaw; Z. T. Clifton, milo maize; G. C.

Major, cabbage; J. S. Shadrick, Kafir corn; Sulphur Park Farm, alfalfa; second prize, Mrs. Claude Morman, beets.

Commenting on this report the Brand in part, says:

When it is known that only two days were given to get the exhibit together and that many of the best products has gone out of season, the people of Hereford must feel highly complimented at the results obtained at the Fair. With a more concerted effort a much better exhibit could have been made.

It must be an eye-opener to our Central Texas friends and Saline county, Missouri, editors for the Panhandle to win five first prizes on her most common products over all the big State of Texas, when no special effort was made to raise or collect prize winners—just the every day common growings from the field and garden. Alfalfa, maize, Kafir, beets, cabbage and kershaw, these were the prize winners. What could the Panhandle farmer do if he wins only half trying? It would take a case of blue ribbon to tie up the prize winners.

Panhandle Day at the State Fair was, according to the daily papers an eye-opener even to Texans. It convinced the State Fair visitors that the entire Panhandle, its citizens, its stock and its agricultural resources may well compare in excellence with any portion of the United States, and for all of this, say what we will about it among ourselves, the entire Panhandle is largely indebted to the enterprise of Amarillo.

A GOOD RULE.

No Orders Honored for Delivery After 5:30 p. m. Say Clarendon Merchants.

Clarendon merchants have notified their customers that beginning Monday, Nov. 4th, no orders for groceries received after 5:30 p. m. will be delivered until next morning. They do this, they say on account of shorter days and colder weather and out of, further consideration for the feelings and comforts of their driver and teams.

This rule, a humane one in every way, should be adopted by the merchants of Canyon City and other Panhandle towns. It could hurt nobody and would inconvenience nobody provided the rule was generally adopted, made known to all and then rigidly enforced.

The News will take pleasure in publishing free of charge such an agreement on the part of Canyon City merchants and believes it is secure in saying that it will meet the approval of all well thinking people.

Park Convention Delegates.

The Hereford Brand states that the Commercial Club of that town has selected the following delegates to the Park convention: Judge J. P. Slaton, G. A. Parker and J. Ray—alternates, J. E. Garrison, Mayor L. Gough and Geo. W. Barcus.

Armstrong county has also taken up the matter and at a meeting held in the courthouse at Claude Saturday a number of delegates were chosen.

Amarillo also promises to be here in good force.

Plainview and Tulia are talking favorably of sending delegates and so we may expect some from there.

Clarendon also, from the tone of its newspapers, will also be well represented.

Bryan's Commoner and The News, both one year $1.75.

IN DEAR OLD TEXAS.

The Hon. Cato Sells, once a prominent citizen of Iowa, became a Texan less than a year ago, and during a recent visit to his old home in Cedar Rapids was interviewed by the Gazette on the subject of his new home. Mr. Sells' observations show how completely Texanized he has become within the brief period of his residence. We shall reproduce several of his statements for the benefit of The Post's many readers in distant states who at times are inclined to be skeptical of the wonders of Grand Old Texas:

Texans are splendid specimens of good citizenship. Brave, generous and brainy, always ready to stand with unflinching devotion to conviction, ever able to sustain themselves intellectually and never indisposed to concede to the force of logic or decline chivalrous courtesy to friend or foe. They are at once as brave as they are forgiving and as capable as they are aggressive. A law-abiding, industrious, patriotic, home-loving and devoutly christian people.

No one can make a mistake by going to Texas. It is practically impossible to make an intelligent investment there in land or otherwise, that will not be profitable beyond expectations.

Texas is not only incomparably the largest state in the Union, but it produces more of almost everything than any other state.

Texas produces one-fourth of the world's cotton. It has more corn lands than both Dakotas. More fruit lands than California. More timber land than Michigan. More rice land than all other states combined. More marble and granite than Vermont and New Hampshire. More oil than Pennsylvania. More iron than Alabama. More than 30,000 square miles of coal fields. More cattle and more mules than any other state. More railroad mileage than any other state.

There are more improvements in process of construction and greater demand for building material than any other state. There is greater demand for labor, both skilled and unskilled, and at better prices, than any other state.

Texas has more thriving small towns, more prosperous cities and fewer stagnant localities than any other state. Texas is growing in proportion faster and will soon have more people than any other state, except New York, and the time is not far distant when it will be a dominating influence in the commercial, industrial, agricultural, industrial, financial and political affairs of the United States.

There is greater opportunity for any man, rich or poor, in Texas than in any other state of the Union.

There is more state pride and greater loyalty to Texas, on the part of Texans, than any other state.

There is no exaggeration in all this. Well informed people know that every word of it is true, but that all the wonderful greatness is by no means enumerated by Mr. Sells.

Texas is a real state. Her resources are so varied and abundant that she could maintain a population of 100,000,000 in the highest state of civilization without importing any article of real necessity from other parts of the world. There is no other solid body of land in the world so richly endowed and the time will come when all nations with knowledge that Texas was the masterpiece of God's creative power. He selected the finest quality of matter at his disposal in putting Texas together, whereas with states like South Carolina, New York, Indiana, Virginia and Tennessee he merely used left-overs.

It was Texas that gave mankind the inspiration that heaven was a part of the universal plan. Texas was at first the Garden of Eden, just as it is now the mirror of God's universal providence. When the rocks and hills shall melt and the seas evaporate, Texas will be left because it is too good to destroy. It will be the glorious empire of the millennium just as it is now humanity's promised land.

Grand old Texas! The exquisite, ethereal, Edenic, Elysian, ecclesiastical, embowered, effulgent, enverdured, epiclastic exalted and eutaxological emporium of eternal ecstasy!—Houston Post.

Why Colds Are Dangerous.

Because you have contracted ordinary colds and recovered from them without treatment of any kind, do not for a moment imagine that colds are not dangerous. Everyone knows that pneumonia and chronic catarrh have their origin in a common cold. Consumption is not caused by a cold but the cold prepares the system for the reception and development of the germs that would not otherwise have found lodgment. It is the same with all infectious diseases. Diphtheria, scarlet fever, measles and whooping cough are much more likely to be contracted when the child has a cold. You will see from this that more real danger lurks in a cold than in any other of the common ailments. The easiest and quickest way to cure a cold is to take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. The many remarkable cures effected by this preparation have made it a staple article of trade over a large part of the world. For sale by S. V. Wirt, Druggist.

If you want anything out of the ordinary phone Canyon Market. Phone 172.

A SIGN OF THE TIMES

It was recently reported that the demand for umbrellas has decreased very materially

This Does Not Mean that it rains less but that men are wearing RAINCOATS.

The R. & W. Coat

has taken the place of umbrellas whenever an outer garment is needed.

At Any Price Desirable

at our price an injustice to yourself to be without one.

Canyon City Supply Co.

