

SUMMER SESSION OPENS TUESDAY

NEARLY 400 HAVE REGISTERED TO DATE.

Work Promises to be Pleasant During Summer—Many are Coming on Every Train.

The summer quarter of the West Texas State Normal college opened Tuesday with an attendance of over 300, which to date has been increased to 374. Compared with the enrollment at the end of the first week last year, this is 100 above last year's figures and about 25 more than the total enrollment of the entire quarter. Secretary R. A. Terrill says that he knows of about 25 students who have arrived in the city during the past two days and who have not registered. Word has also been received that 50 or 60 will arrive Saturday and Monday. Indications are very favorable that the attendance will reach the 500 mark by the end of next week.

The summer session will continue until August 24. During the summer there will be given two series of examinations for state certificates, the first July 8 to 11 and the second July 29 to August 1. While the number of students who are here for the examinations only is very large, the proportion of those taking the regular summer course is greater than last year.

While no figures have yet been compiled showing the distribution of the students over the state, it is known that they are here from practically every section. A number have come from the immediate vicinity of the other three normals, preferring to spend the summer on the Plains rather than swelter in the intense heat of the lower part of the state.

Training School, Summer Quarter.

First, Second, Third and Fourth Grades. Begins June 18, 1912, Continues Eight Weeks.

Children will be credited with work done in the summer quarter and will not repeat this work in the fall, except when necessary for the student's own good.

The summer quarter is established as an integral part of the year's work, and will work about two months each and every summer hereafter.

Let children bring books now in their possession, others will be furnished free.

Tuition Free. Miss Lamb assisted by Miss Burt Harrison will be in charge. The number in each class will be limited. If you have a child or children to be placed in the Training School see Miss Lamb.

Series of Ball Games.

The Clarendon baseball team will arrive in Canyon this morning to play a series of three games with the Canyon boys, the first game is to be played at 2:30 today, the second on Saturday and the third on Monday. The Clarendon boys have a fine team and have played a successful season. The Canyon team will be picked from the different teams of the city, but the line-up is not yet announced.

STAFF OF "LE MIRAGE," THE NORMAL ANNUAL NORMAL STUDENTS WIN GOOD PRIZES

$180 PRIZES GIVEN IN GERMAN CLASSES.

Three Canyon Students are Among Winners.—German Department is Highly Praised by Inspector.

Word has been received in the city regarding the examination given the last week of the regular session of the Normal to those students in German who wished to compete for the prizes offered by the Order of Sons of Hermann and the following students have been awarded money prizes: Misses Helen Buie and Lillie Hare and Alva Stafford, of Canyon, Veltie Daugherty, of Hagerman, N. M., Earl Laird, of Kilgore, and Miss Ellen Longbine, of Goodnight.

The examinations were given by B. Holekamp, of New Braunfels, Texas, and consisted of readings and examinations of grammatical constructions. The number of students to take these examinations was not large, but Mr. Holekamp reports that the work done in the local Normal is equal to that he has found in any other institution in the state. Up to the present time there have been many conflicts in the course of study at the Normal so that many who desired to take German were unable to do so, therefore the words of praise from Mr. Holekamp is all the more flattering to this department.

Prof. F. P. Guenther, head of the department, was highly complimented upon his work. Mr. Holekamp says that he noted especially the excellency with which the students pronounced the German language. This is due to Mr. Guenther being a German and thus being in position to teach his native language with more efficiency than an American taught professor.

The prizes offered by the Sons of Hermann is a permanent fund and will be offered every year. The following amounts were given this year:

For first year work:
Miss Helen Buie, $35.
Miss Lillie Hare, $25.
Miss Ellen Longbine, $20.
For second year work:
Veltie Daugherty, $35.
Alva Stafford, $25.
Earl Laird, $20.

CHOICE B. RANDELL WILL VISIT CANYON

CANDIDATE FOR THE UNITED STATES SENATE.

Will Discuss Issues of Campaign Next Wednesday—Royal Reception will Be Given.

Hon. Choice B. Randell, congressman from Texas and candidate for the United States senate, will visit Canyon next Wednesday in a tour over the Plains. While Sheppard and Wolters are pulling each other's hair and paying no attention to Randell, the latter continues a progressive campaign and the report comes that he is making many friends in every city.

Mr. Randell is an able and brainy man and every citizen of Randall county should hear him speak. He has been in congress for ten years, having succeeded Joe Bailey, and although his opponents have persistently put out their strongest man against him, he has continuously been elected from that district. He is an able speaker and will give the people of our county a fine address.

While there are few supporters of Randell in this county, every man in Canyon should consider himself on the committee to see that Mr. Randell receives a royal reception while in the city. Canyon has offered splendid receptions to Wolters, Colquitt and Sheppard and will do as well for Mr. Randell next week.

The News is in receipt of a message from Mr. Randell stating he will speak at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning. The meeting will be held in the district court room.

Four Teachers to Panhandle.

Four of the graduating class of the Normal have been elected to the Panhandle public schools. L. N. George, of Brownwood, was elected principal, Miss Antonio McMillian, of Bells, to the 1st and 2nd, Miss Ida Rowan, of Canyon, to the 3rd and 4th grades, Miss Pearl Hensley, of Canyon, to the 7th and 8th grades. There is only one other teacher in the school, she being re-elected from last year's work. This is a fine recognition from Panhandle to the proficiency of the Normal college.

DISTRICT COURT ADJOURNS.

The final business of the district court was transacted Friday of last week, and the district court adjourned until the November session. The following business was conducted Thursday afternoon and Friday:

The Canyon National Bank of Canyon, Texas, vs. Thomas Furniture Co. and C. M. Thomas, application by Rogers Wade Furniture Co. for a receiver was approved. S. B. Lofton was appointed by the court to take charge of the business and conduct the retail trade, selling for cash. His bond was fixed at $10,000.

MARRIED LAST NIGHT.

Miss Sadie Montgomery, of this City, and Fred Cole Pearce, of Plainview, Wedded.

At the home of the bride's mother on last night, Miss Sadie Love Montgomery and Mr. Fred Cole Pearce, of Plainview, were united in the bonds of holy wedlock, Rev. F. M. Neal officiating. The simple but impressive ceremony was witnessed by only the immediate family and a few friends. The bridal couple will leave this morning for Plainview where the groom is engaged in the practice of law.

Miss Montgomery is among the best known young ladies of the city. She has lived here with her mother, Mrs. C. I. Montgomery, for a number of years and has made many friends. Mr. Pearce is unknown in the city, but has a splendid practice of law at Plainview and has made friends with every business man in the city.

The many friends of Miss Montgomery wish her all the joys of a wedded life and extend hearty congratulations to Mr. Pearce for winning such a noble young lady for his bride.

Big Rain Yesterday.

Beginning Thursday at 1:30 and continuing for 40 minutes was one of the biggest rains this section of the Plains has seen for over a year. Over three inches fell in that short period. The streets were turned into rivers and the vacant lots into lakes.

The wheat and oats crops were needing rain badly. The past two weeks has been dry and if this rain had fallen a week sooner the yield would have been the greatest in the history of the country. However, this rain has saved a large part of the grain crop and will make a good average yield.

The row crops have been growing fine and have not suffered for rain. The farmers generally had these crops in good condition and the growth will be rapid.

L. E. Cowling joined the "bare foot boy" gang and came down town after the rain yesterday bare foot and carrying his shoes. The water was six inches over the sidewalk most of the way from his home to town. Cowling is getting to be quite an old "boy," but on days like yesterday is the "biggest boy" in the water.

MORE DAIRYING NEEDED

The following is the thirteenth of a series of articles on farming on the Plains of Texas, written by H. M. Bainer, Agricultural Demonstrator for the Santa Fe:

MORE DAIRYING NEEDED

The grain farmer who does not handle live stock to consume the greater part of his products, is unconsciously selling his farm in the form of grains and other crops. When he sells a ton of wheat he is disposing of $8.35, worth of soil fertility.

Dairying produces a constant and sure income. It cannot be considered as an easy road to wealth, but it is a sure road to agricultural prosperity. It enables the farmer to use unsalable fodders and farm materials, converting them into milk and butter which are the highest priced products of the farm.

When the grain and seed crop practically fail and very little is raised besides roughness, the old cow must be trusted to help feed and clothe the family.

Diversification in Farming and Dairying Go Together: The farmer who diversifies his crops and then does not depend upon them entirely, but rather grows them in connection with the dairy, poultry and hogs, is sure of his living expenses and a reasonable saving.

Cash crops, such as wheat and cotton, are not reliable enough to depend upon them alone. When they make a crop, they often pay for the land in one year. Another year they may be complete failures and then is the time that the cow can consume such roughness and drought resistant crops as can be raised and convert them into salable products. We can depend upon the dairy and other live stock, keeping the farm in better condition, preserving its fertility and enabling the farmer to sell his crop in a more consecrated form and for better prices.

Cash Income: The dairy farmer gets cash for his produce every week, this enables him to buy cheaper, for cash, which gives him the advantage over his neighbor who has something to sell but once a year.

Our most prosperous communities and states are those where livestock is combined with diversified farming. These sections are known by their good farms and well painted buildings. They also have good schools, good roads and farms of high value.

Feeds: Our range conditions of dairying, without the raising of special crops, suitable to milk production, must necessarily prove largely unsuccessful. We are often told that we cannot raise milk-producing feeds in this section but we can. Kaffir and maize fodders are almost as good as corn fodder. The grains of kaffir and maize are practically equal to corn, especially in connection with bran. Oats, millet and sorghum hays make good substitutes for hays used in the northern and eastern states. Cow pea hay is about equal to alfalfa hay and alfalfa cannot be excelled.

Silage an Excellent Feed: As soon as we learn to use the silo in connection with our dairying we will have advanced a long step towards success in the industry. We can raise several feeds that are good for silage such as corn, kaffir, maize, cow peas, etc. Green kaffir makes excellent silage. One acre of kaffir under our conditions should yield from three to five tons of green fodder, suitable for silage. 50 pounds of this silage makes a good daily ration for a dairy cow. According to these figures, one acre of green kaffir will produce enough silage to feed one cow for five to six months, especially when fed in connection with other feeds. There is no other cheaper or better milk producing feed than silage. It may be fed either in summer or winter. Good dairy-men who have had experience silage consider it indispensable, as they realize the necessity of succulent feed. Silage places the cow in pasture conditions in January. It can be stored at less expense than any other feed ten tons requiring the same space as is needed for one ton of hay.

Better Cows Needed: To make dairying a success, attention must not only be paid to feeding the herd, but also the class of cows making up the herd. The following three essentials are recognized by all successful breeders of dairy cattle: (1) Systematic records must be kept of individual cows, so as to determine which are profitable and which are boarders or profitless; (2) A pure-bred well selected bull is used; (3) Heifer calves from the best cows only are kept in the herd.

Income: The following data was recently received from Mrs. J. K. Hunt, Claude, Texas. It shows the dairy returns of 20 farmers for one year in Armstrong county:

- Number of cows milked, 70.
- Number of pounds of butter made, 12,712.
- Number of pounds of butter sold, 8,601.
- Number of pounds of butter used at home, 4,111.
- Average selling price of butter per pound, 25 cents.
- Total received for butter sold, $2,150.25.
- Value of butter used at home, $1,027.75.
- Total value of butter, $3,178.00.
- Value of butter per cow, $45.40.
- Estimated value of skim milk per cow, $10.00.
- Estimated value of calf, one year old, $25.00.
- Income per cow per year, $80.40.

When you buy a De Laval you have positive assurance that your machine will be good for at least twenty years of service, during which time it will save every possible dollar for you and earn its original cost over and over again.

APPLE RAISING ON THE PLAINS

QUALITY THE BEST OF ANY APPLE STATE.

Possibilities of the Plains Pointed Out in Interview Given in the Dallas Morning News.

The following extract from an interview by J. K. Street in a recent issue of the Dallas News, should call renewed attention to the possibilities in this section for fruit growing on a large scale:

"It is known that the apples grown on the mountain slopes of Georgia are of superior quality, better flavored than those grown on the Ozark slopes of Arkansas. But this reminds me that I desire to say, that an apple superior to either the Georgia or the Arkansas apple is grown in the Panhandle of Texas. My personal experience proves this.

"The entire Panhandle of Texas will produce the best apples in flavor, size and durability in the world, including those grown in New Mexico.

"No great effort has ever been made to grow apples in the Panhandle, but here and there, in nearly all parts of it, a few trees are grown. As to quality in flavor they are superior to either the Arkansas or Georgia apple, the same as those grown on the same elevation of New Mexico. There they are grown in large quantities. One man near Roswell has 640 acres in apples. The apples shipped from there to Dallas, I know, take preference in flavor of those grown elsewhere.

"I have gathered and measured apples grown in the Panhandle, as well as those grown in New Mexico which are 14 to 18 inches in circumference. The trees are of a tough quality. I have seen them loaded with fruit till the limbs swing on the ground and not a limb broken. They keep as long as any apple grown and they are never infected with worms. One shipper places on the boxes in which his apples are shipped: 'I will pay $1.00 for any worm you find in any of these apples.'

"Now the Panhandle is about twice as large as Georgia. We can raise four times the apples that are grown in Georgia and have room for vast fields of wheat and cotton, because they grow best in Georgia on the mountain sides. In the Panhandle the whole of it is a level mountain, with twice the elevation above sea level than in Georgia.

"If the people in the Panhandle would awake to the possibilities before them, it could be made the greatest apple-growing country in the world, besides most every other product grown in the south, citrus fruits excepted.

"No country is better than the Panhandle for growing other fruits, such as pears, peaches, plums, cherries and grapes. The rich, red soil of the Panhandle has enough of iron and phosphates to give that peculiar flavor to all of its fruits, found nowhere else except in the same kind of soil. As a rule the peach does not do as well where the apple thrives but they do in the Panhandle.

"Pears are grown in all parts of the Panhandle. I have never seen one dead with blight; they tell me it is unknown there. We have all eaten the grapes grown in the Panhandle and we know that they are not excelled in quality and flavor."

School Rally at Fairview.

Wayside, Texas, June 3, 1912. Editor Randall Co. News: After consulting some of the friends of education in the adjoining communities a call has been made for an Educational Rally at Fairview on the 3rd Saturday in June. Following is the program for the day:

MORNING

- 11:00 Music.
- 11:10 Short talks setting forth the purpose of Rally.
- 11:30 Shall we beautify our public school grounds with shade trees?
- 12:00 Basket Dinner.

AFTERNOON

- 1:00 Addresses from prominent school men.
- 2:00 Music.
- 2:10 School libraries as factors in the betterment of country life.
- 2:40 The public school building as the center of all the activities of the community.

Special invitation will be extended Judge Scott, Ex-officio Superintendent, as well as other prominent school men. It is desired that all friends of education feel free to express themselves with reference to these important subjects. In fact, long connection with the schools of Texas has convinced me that only as a people take an active part in the study of public questions do they become effective workers in the upbuilding of the country.

Two contests with the ball and bat have been arranged, one preceding the program and one following. Let all including the gray-beards come out and see our boys engage in this manly, character-building sport.

Within easy reach of Fairview we have men who have recently come to this country from the hustling states of Indiana, Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas and others. We expect them to tell us how they do things in those states. Come, let us have a great day.

Do You Like Coffee.

Do you like tea, coca, and Coca Cola? Do you know what it is in these beverages that makes them so refreshing—that helps you so nicely over the rough spots of the day? Scientists tell us that it is the caffeine which they contain.

As a learned Chinese said of it more than two thousand years ago:

"It tempers the spirit and harmonizes the mind;

Dispels lassitude and relieves fatigue;

Awakes thought and prevents drowsiness;

Enlivens or refreshes the body and clears the perceptive faculties."

In all nations at all times the caffeine containing beverages have been highly valued for their refreshing qualities. What ginger is to the ginger cake, caffeine is to coffee, tea, coca and Coca-Cola. Coffee without caffeine would not be coffee. Tea without caffeine would not be tea. Coca-Cola without caffeine would not be Coca-Cola. You would get no benefit from them.

They would be flat, stale, and unprofitable.

The old saying of caffeine is "to cheer and not to inebriate." In fact caffeine, according to medical authorities, is the only true or natural stimulant, because it is the only stimulant which does not call for ever increasing quantities and the only one whose regular use does not produce disease of mind or body. Caffeine is the only stimulant that is not only absolutely harmless but positively beneficial to health.

The News has been asked to publish a list of state officers, below governor, whom we think ought to be elected. These officers are largely clerical in their nature and there are a large number of good men in the race. While the head man in these offices may revise and reform the workings of his department, the general work of the department is governed by law and former practices. The work of these offices is such that it takes a man at least one or two years to get thoroughly acquainted with his work and put him in a position to make intelligent recommendations and practical reforms. In general, the News believes that the men who are running for a second term are entitled to re-election, and for the offices which are to be filled with new men, there is an abundance of material in the field, all good men and many of whom have personal friends in Canyon who are looking after the interest of the aspirants.

Will H. Mayes, editor of the Brownwood Bulletin, is making a splendid fight for the office of lieutenant governor. The newspaper boys over the state are boosting Mayes and with such a strong support he will no doubt be elected. This office is practically an honorary one and the friends of Mr. Mayes urged him into the field. It is noticeable all over the state how many of the newspaper boys are getting into political races this year. Talking politics continually, we shall be surprised if their acts are not very intelligent in legislative halls.

Singer Ed Phillips says that he never visited a town that had a larger per cent of church members than has Canyon. Mr. Phillips was well pleased with Canyon and spoke many kind words of the good people who live here.

It depends altogether upon which candidate you are supporting whether or not you think any particular man is going to win the nomination.

Society Notes.

The ladies of the Presbyterian church entertained last Tuesday at the Mrs. C. T. Word home in honor of Mrs. C. C. Miller, who is moving to Floydada. Mrs. Miller has been one of the best workers in the society during her stay in this city. Cream and cake were served as refreshments.

Mrs. C. W. Warwick entertained Monday afternoon in honor of Mrs. W. R. Warwick, of Montezuma, Iowa. Fourteen ladies were present. Entertainment of the afternoon consisted of each guest writing their receipt for a model husband. Alaskan cream, cake and ice tea were served for refreshments.

J. E. Winkelman entertained Thursday night a number of men in honor of W. G. Word, whose marriage is announced for June 12. The guests consisted of the Presbyterian baseball team and a few friends. The affair was in the nature of a miscellaneous shower and the gifts brought to Mr. Word were of a diversified nature and usefulness. Refreshments were served consisting of strawberries, ice cream, cake and cigars.

Mrs. L. T. Lester was hostess at a six o'clock dinner Monday evening at her home in honor of Mrs. Roxy Blalock and Mrs. Hessa Blalock, of Fayetteville, Ga., who are visiting at the Lester home. The guests were Mrs. Roxy Blalock and Mrs. Hessa Blalock, Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Cousins and Miss Kate Cousins.

Miss Maud Brandon entertained sixteen ladies at a shower Monday in honor of Miss Sadie Montgomery. The house was beautifully decorated in pink and white. The guests were required to write their best receipt, which were bound in book form and presented to the bride. A game of "progressive heart quilts" was then introduced by the hostess, the winner being presented with a Harrison Fisher bride. Mrs. C. E. Coss won the honors, but presented the drawing to the bride-elect. None of the guests had ever seen Mr. Pearce and they were asked to draw upon their imaginations to the extent of writing a description of him. These were read and then a picture of him, presented to the company. Refreshments were served in two courses, consisting of sandwiches, olives and fruit salad, shurbet and cake.

Are You Looking for a Store that will save YOU MONEY?

A large number of Canyon people have been in search of such a store and found one of the most satisfactory grocery and meat markets ever seen in any town on the Plains. During the past week we have figured on a number of large grocery bills for boarding houses and invariably we have offered a lower price on a high grade of goods than any of our competitors. We do this because we are buying and selling for cash.

OUR NEW STORE

Our new store building is one of the most interesting places in town. Why? Because our large force of clerks are busy from early morning until late at night making up large orders of the very best groceries on the market for the good people of Canyon. Our stock is displayed for the inspection of the general public and if you are interested in good groceries and fresh meats be sure and come in and see our shelves lined with everything fresh and clean, and just what you are seeking for your table three times per day.

OUR MEATS ARE BEST

Mr. Joe Arnold, owner of the meat business in our store, has bought the City Meat Market and moved the stock to our store. He handles nothing but the best, as he believes that Canyon people are entitled to know that the meat they eat is absolutely the best that money can buy. Please remember that all meat bills are absolutely cash. Get a coupon book so that the delivery man can easily be paid when your bill of meat is delivered.

WE WANT YOUR TRADE

We want your trade and are making prices that we know you cannot beat at any store in town. We want the farmers to bring us your produce and make our store your headquarters when in the city. Our trade is growing rapidly every day and we hope to count YOU as one of our regular customers.

Crops in the Panhandle.

The excellent outlook for crops on the Plains, coupled with the drouths that have prevailed in many sections of the country during the past two or three seasons and the extreme winter that has, in many instances, damaged the wheat crop, in the northern states, will have much to do with turning the people toward the Panhandle this year from the less favorable countries. If farmers on the Plains will still insist on trying to farm the bulk of their acreage by unscientific methods, they should at least farm a small field or two right to show themselves and the home seekers who will come among us during the summer and fall what it is possible to do here when using up-to-date methods of farming. Whatever the season may be from now on there will doubtless be many farmers over the Panhandle this year who will make thirty bushels of wheat per acre from thirty to fifty bushels of maize, kafir, sorghum and speltz, from forty to seventy bushels of oats, thirty to forty-five bushels of barley, from thirty to sixty bushels of emmer, from fifteen to twenty-five bushels of flax, from forty to fifty bushels of Spanish peanuts, from three to five tons of alfalfa or from one-fourth to one-third of a ton of broomcorn. These yields are within the range of any farmer who is favorably situated and who uses the latest and most approved methods of farming. Most of these records were equalled last year in the Panhandle when the conditions were less favorable than they are at this time. When more of our farmers learn the value of scientific farming and it comes to be practiced generally throughout the country this will become, more than ever, a farming country, and as many have predicted, the garden spot of Texas. Just to refresh your memory here are a few yields that have been reported in the Panhandle heretofore, most of them last year. Alfalfa five tons per acre by J. H. Slaton, Plainview; barley, thirty bushels per acre by E. A. Shaketon, Pampa. There was probably a loss of fifteen bushels more per acre on the same ground on account of smut; emmer, between twenty and thirty bushels per acre by H. S. Hatchett, Tahoka; flax, twenty-two bushels per acre by D. L. Hickcox, Canyon; kafir, fifty bushels per acre by H. J. Weber, Canyon; oats, seventy bushels per acre, Mr. Adamson, seventeen miles from Amarillo, and sixty bushels per acre by J. C. Cummons, six miles east of Plainview; peanuts, forty-five bushels per acre by D. W. Clappitt. What other farmers in the Panhandle have done you can do by the same methods and under the same conditions and here is predicting that many of the previous records for large crop yields in the Texas Panhandle will be broken at the coming harvest.—Daily Panhandle.

The Panhandle Is Ready For The Farmer

Here is a deep, rich soil, ready for the plow. An ample rainfall and a most healthful and splendid climate. Adequate railroad facilities by which to reach the markets of the world.

A return to normal climatic conditions, a greatly increased acreage of winter wheat, spring wheat, oats and barley, an unqualifiedly successful demonstration that Kaffir corn and Milo maize cannot be excelled as material for ensilage, the "better farming" spirit and the results of studying and developing this land assures a prosperous year.

The successful outcome of flax culture, demonstrated last year under conditions much less favorable than can confidently be reckoned on in the future has added another to the list of our resources.

Farms can be bought here now cheaper than they can later on, at prices which are certain of a steady advance as the summer and fall emigration stimulates the demand.

My farms are all favorably located, as regards towns and railroads and give the buyer a wide range in selection. All the improved farms are rented to good farmers and will produce a substantial revenue this year.

I am in position to give terms to suit the purchaser.

The State Convention.

C. R. Flesher, delegate from Randall county to the democratic state convention, writes the following to his brother, W. J., regarding the convention held at Houston:

Rock Island, Tex., May 30, 1912
Mr. W. J. Flesher,
Canyon, Texas.

Dear Brother:

After so long a time I reached home yesterday and found every body able to enjoy three square meals a day.

I had a very pleasant visit at Galveston, met almost all of my old friends and had a seat in an auto between two pretty girls in the parade of the opening of the Causeway. This parade was the longest that has ever been in the South, it being more than twelve miles long and consisting of autos.

The Steam Roller was in perfect condition and well oiled and with Tom Ball at the wheel proved to be a very reckless driver when in the territory of the enemy. It certainly did me good when he drove the Roller over Claud Hudspeth. Claud was there contesting the El Paso delegation. When it came to a vote on his contest and the Roller gave a honk! honk! and a toot! toot! over she went and Claud no longer had a seat in the convention. There was the sickest looking bunch of candidates at that convention you ever saw. Colquitt found it very convenient to be elsewhere. Jake's lip hung down and wobbled about like a goose eating grass.

All the prohibition candidates had a smile on their faces like the waves running over a slop bucket and seemed to enjoy everything that was going on. I think if they had come to a vote that Ramsey and Sheppard would have carried the convention five to one. The Roller was running at this convention at a greater rate of speed than it did at Galveston in 1910. The ones that were behind the roller at Galveston were right square in front of the roller and got the hound mashed of them this time and they went away back and set down never more to rise.

The more of this country I see the more I think of the Panhandle. The best crops that I saw after leaving Canyon until I reached Galveston was in the Panhandle. There is only one place hotter than this country and I sometimes think that it is very doubtful if that country is hotter than it is here. I don't think that there is a spot on my body bigger than a nickle that is not broke out with prickley heat and about all that I am able to do is to sit up and scratch.

As ever your brother,
C. R. Flesher.

Presbyterians Beat Boosters.

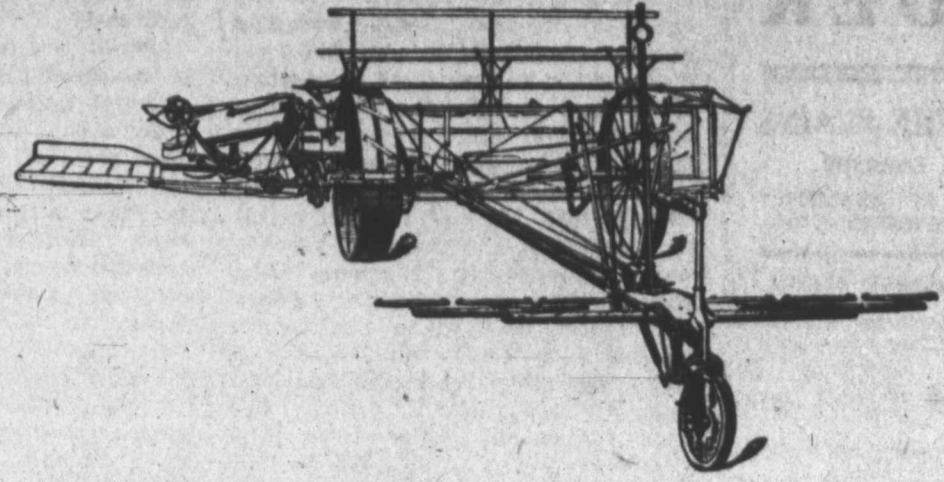

The third game between the Booster class of the Methodist Sunday school and the Presbyterian Sunday school was played Tuesday and won by the Presbyterians, the score being 9 to 6. Both teams played a good game but blow-ups by the Boosters in the 4th and 7th let in 3 scores in each inning. The Boosters came back strong in the 8th with a shower of hits and made 3 scores but were unable to overcome the lead of their opponents.

Singer Ed Phillips played first base for the Boosters for the first three innings, made four putouts, two errors and fanned out the only time up.

The following was the scores by innings:

Home Builders Want Good Lumber

In fact most of them absolutely insist on getting the best that their money will buy, and in that particular we heartily agree with them because that is just the way we buy our lumber. It must be strictly up to grade. We are not afraid to put our lumber up against any in the county---grade and price considered.

WILL YOU BUILD?

If you are planning to build a house, barn or shed this summer, come in and look this lumber over and let us show you our building material. Let us tell you first hand just what your cost for material will be.

KEITH OF THE BORDER

A TALE OF THE PLAINS

The other sat up suddenly, her white shoulders and rounded throat gleaming.

"The old General, you said? What General? When was he here?"

"Shure now, be alsy, honey, an' O'l tell ye all there is to it. It's not his name O'l know; maybe O'l niver heard till av it, but 'twas the 'General' they called him, all right. He was here maybe three days outtintin—a noise spoken of' gintlemin, wid a gray beard, an' on't he showed me the locket—he be the powers, if it do be his, there's an openin' to it, an' a picter inside."

The girl touched the spring, revealing the face within, but her eyes were blinded with tears. The landlady looked at her in alarm.

"What is it, honey? What is it? Did you know him?"

The slender form swayed forward, shaken with sobs.

"He was my father, and—and this is my mother's picture which he always carried."

"Then what is your name?"

"Kate Murphy." "Hope Waite." Kate Murphy looked at the face half hidden in the bed-clothes. That was not the name which Keith had given her, but she had lived on the border too long to be inquisitive. The other lifted her head, flinging back her loosened hair with one hand.

"Mr. Keith dropped it," she exclaimed. "Where do you suppose he got it?" Then she gave a quick, startled cry, her eyes opening wide in horror. "The Cimmaron Crossing, the murder at the Cimmaron Crossing! He—he told me about that; but he never showed me this—this. Do you—do you think—"

Her voice failed, but Kate Murphy gathered her into her arms.

"Cry here, honey," she said, as if to a child. "Shure an' O'l tellin' ye it niver was Jack Keith what did it—murder an't his style."

CHAPTER XVI.

Introducing Doctor Fairbain. Headed as they were, and having no other special objective point in view, it was only natural for the two fugitives to drift into Sheridan. This was at that time the human cesspool of the plains country, a seething, boiling maelstrom of all that was rough, evil, and brazen along the entire frontier. Customarily quiet enough during the hours of daylight, the town became a mad saturnalia with the approach of darkness, its ceaseless orgies being noisily continued until dawn. But at this period all track work, on the Kansas Pacific being temporarily suspended by Indian outbreaks, the graders made both night and day alike hideous, and the single dirty street which composed Sheridan, lined with shacks, crowded with saloons, the dull dead prairie stretching away on every side to the horizon, was congested with humanity during every hour of the twenty-four.

It was a grim picture of depravity and desolation, the environment dull, gloomy, forbidding; all that was worthy the eye or thought being the pulsing human element. All about extended the barren plains, except where on one side a ravine cut through an overhanging ridge. From the seething street one could look up to the summit, and see there the graves of the many who had died deaths of violence, and been borne thither in "their boots." Amid all this surrounding desolation was Sheridan—the child of a few brief months of existence, and destined to perish almost as quickly—the center of the grim picture, a mere cluster of rude, unpainted houses, woefully erected shacks, grimy tents flapping in the never ceasing wind swirling across the treeless waste, the ugly red station, the rough cowpens filled with lowing cattle, the huge, ungainly stores, their false fronts decorated by amateur wielders of the paint brush, and the garish dens of vice tucked in everywhere. The pendulum of life never ceased swinging. Society was mixed; no man cared who his neighbor was, or dared to question. Of women worthy the name there were few, yet there were fitting female forms in plenty, the saloon lights revealing powdered cheeks and painted eyebrows. It was a strange, restless populace, the majority here to-day, disappearing tomorrow—cowboys, half-breeds, trackmen, graders, desperadoes, gamblers, saloon-keepers, merchants, generally Jewish, petty officials, and a riff-raff no one could account for, mere floating debris. The town was an eddy catching odd bits of driftwood such as only the frontier ever knew. Queer characters were everywhere, wrecks of dissipation, derelicts of the East, seeking nothing save oblivion.

Everything was primitive—passion and pleasure ruled. To spend easily made money noisily, brazenly, was the ideal. From dawn to dawn the search after joy continued. The bagnios and dance halls were ablaze; the bar-rooms crowded with hilarious or quarrelsome humanity, the gambling tables alive with excitement. Men swaggered along the streets looking for trouble, and generally finding it; cowboys rode into open saloon doors and drank in the saddle; troops of congenial spirits, frenzied with liquor, spurred recklessly through the street firing into the air, or the crowd, as their whim led; bands played popular airs on balconies, and innumerable "barkers" added their honeyed invitations to the perpetual din. From end to end it was a saturnalia of vice, a babel of sound, a glimpse of the inferno. Money flowed like water; every man was his own law, and the gun the arbiter of destiny. The town marshal, and a few cool-headed deputies moved here and there amid the chaos, patient, tireless, undaunted, seeking merely to exercise some slight restraint. This was Sheridan.

Into the one long street just at dusk rode Keith and Neb, the third horse trailing behind. Already lights were beginning to gleam in the crowded saloons, and they were obliged to proceed slowly. Leaving the negro at the corral to find some purchaser for the animals, and such accommodations for himself as he could achieve, Keith shouldered his way on foot through the heterogeneous mass toward the only hotel, a long two-storied wooden structure, unpainted, fronting the glitter of the Pinoyer Dance Hall opposite. A noisy band was splitting the air with discordant notes, a loud-voiced "barker" yelling through the uproar, but Keith, accustomed to similar scenes and sounds elsewhere, strode through the open door of the hotel, and guided by the noisy, continuous clatter of dishes, easily found his way to the dining-room. It was crowded with men, a few women scattered here and there, most of the former in shirt-sleeves, all eating silently. A few smaller tables at the back of the room were distinguished from the others by white coverings in place of oil-cloth, evidently reserved for the more distinguished guests. Disdaining ceremony, the new-comer wormed his way through, finally discovering a vacant seat where his back would be to the wall, thus enabling him to survey the entire apartment.

It was not of great interest, save for its constant change and the primitive manner in which the majority attacked their food supply, which was piled heaped upon the long tables, yet he ran his eyes searchingly over the numerous faces, seeking impartially for either friend or enemy. No countenance present, as revealed in the dim light of the few swinging lamps, appeared familiar, and satisfied that he remained unknown, Keith began devoting his attention to the dishes before him, mentally expressing his opinion as to their attractiveness. Chancing finally to again lift his eyes, he met the gaze of a man sitting directly opposite, a man who somehow did not seem exactly in harmony with his surroundings. He was short and stockily built, with round rosy face, and a perfect shock of wiry hair brushed back from a broad forehead; his nose wide but stubby, and chin massive. Apparently he was between forty and fifty years of age, exceedingly well dressed, his gray eyes shrewd and full of a grim humor. Keith observed all this in a glance, becoming aware at the same time that his neighbor was apparently studying with a quick, jerky utterance, which seemed to peculiarly fit his personal appearance.

"Damn it all—know you, sir—sure I do—but for life of me can't tell where."

Keith stared across at him more searchingly, and replied, rather indifferently:

"Probably a mistake then, as I have no recollection of your face."

"Never made a mistake, sir—never forget a face," the other snapped with some show of indignation, his hands now clasped on the table, one stubby forefinger pointed, as he leaned forward. "Don't tell me—I've seen you somewhere—no, not a word—don't even tell me your name—I'm going to think of it."

Keith smiled, not unwilling to humor the man's eccentricity, and returned to his meal, with only an occasional inquiring glance across the table. The other sat and stared at him, his heavy eyebrows wrinkled as he struggled to awaken memory. The younger man had begun on his pie when the face opposite suddenly cleared.

"Damn me, I've got it—hell, yes; hospital tent—Shenandoah—bullet imbedded under third rib—ordinary case—that's why I forgot—clear as mud now—get the name in a minute—Captain—Captain Keith—that's it—shake hands."

Puzzled at the unexpected recognition, yet realizing the friendliness of the man, Keith grasped the pudgy fingers extended with some cordiality.

"Don't remember me I s'pose—don't think you ever saw me—delirious when I came—hate to tell you what you was talking about—gave you hypodermic first thing—behaved well enough though when I dug out the lead—Mintie bullet, badly bruised hitting the rib—thought you might die with blood poison—couldn't stay to see—to damn much to do—evidently didn't though—remember me now?"

"No, only from what you say. You must have been at General Waite's headquarters."

"That's it—charge of Stonewall's field hospital—just happened to ride into Waite's camp that night—damn lucky for you I did—young snip there wanted to see the bone—I stopped that—liked your face—imagined you might be worth saving—ain't so sure of it now, or you wouldn't be out in this God forsaken country, eating such grub—my name's Fairbain—Joseph Wright Fairbain, M. D.—contract surgeon for the railroad—working on the line?"

Keith shook his head, feeling awakening interest in his peculiar companion.

"No; just drifted in here from down on the Arkansas," he explained briefly. "Did you know General Waite was dead?"

The doctor's ruddy face whitened. "Dead?—Willis Waite dead?" he repeated. "What do you mean, sir? Are you sure? When?"

"I thought to be sure; I buried him just this side the Cimmaron Crossing out on the Santa Fe trail."

"But do you know it was General Waite?" the man's insistent tone full of doubt.

"I have no question about it," returned Keith, conclusively. "The man was Waite's size and general appearance, with gray beard, similar to the one I remember he wore during the war. He had been scalped, and his face beaten beyond recognition, but papers in his pockets were sufficient to prove his identity. Besides, he and his companion—a young fellow named Sibley—were known to have pulled out two days before from Carson City."

"When was this?"

"Ten days ago."

Fairbain's lips smiled, the ruddy coloring sweeping back into his cheeks.

"Damn me, Keith, you came near giving me a shock," he said, jerkily. "Shouldn't be so careless—not sure my heart's just right—tendency to apoplexy, too—got to be guarded against. Now, let me tell you something—maybe you buried some poor devil out at Cimmaron Crossing—but it wasn't Willis Waite. How do I know? Because I saw him, and talked with him yesterday—damn me, if I didn't, right here in this town."

Deafness Cannot Be Cured
by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.
