H. B. Wells Dead.

Hirman Burl Wells was born at Tulley, Cortland county, N. Y., July 22, 1834, and died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. E. C. Prichard, on last Thursday morning, August 5, 1915. For 27 years during his early life he was a carriage smith. In 1856 he went west, but was forced to go back home on account of the panic. In 1870 he came to Wisconsin, where he farmed for twenty years. In 1899 he moved to Minnesota and in 1911 he came to Randall county and has lived at the Hickcox and Prichard homes.

On June 23, 1879, he was united in marriage to Miss Anna M. Hickcox. To this union three children were born, two of whom died in infancy. The wife and daughter, Mrs. E. C. Prichard, remain to mourn his death, together with large numbers of friends he has made since he arrived in Texas.

He has been in poor health only a short while and his final sickness only lasted from Tuesday night until Thursday morning.

The funeral services were held Thursday evening, Rev. J. W. Mayne officiating.

We wish to thank the many kind friends for their assistance during the sickness of our husband and father.

Mrs. H. B. Wells,
Mrs. E. C. Prichard.

Miss Lamb requests all patrons and friends and those interested in the children of the Normal training school to be present at the Parent-Teachers association, Friday, August 13, 3:30 p. m. in the Normal auditorium.

PLANNING TO LAY THE CORNER STONE

Big Celebration Will Probably be Held on Saturday, Sept. 4—Committee now at Work.

A meeting of a number of the business men and citizens was held at the court house Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock, at which time it was decided to have a big celebration at the time of the laying of the corner stone of the new Normal building. The time has practically been set for Saturday, Sept. 4, although it is subject to change at another mass meeting to be held this afternoon at 4 o'clock.

A finance committee composed of J. D. Gamble, Dr. S. R. Griffin, D. A. Park and H. W. Morelock was selected to make a thorough canvass of the town and to report at the meeting today. The nature of the event will depend largely upon the amount of money this committee has in view at today's meeting. It has been decided to serve meat, bread, pickles and coffee, and to ask the people of the town to bring basket dinners to supplement the meal. It was the opinion of the men gathered Monday that this should be made the largest celebration West Texas ever had. Governor Ferguson will be invited to make the principal address with other prominent men to assist in the ceremonies.

Every person in Canyon interested in the welfare of the Normal and of Canyon is urgently invited to be present today to assist with the work.

Evil Renown.

"What sort of man is Henry Hank?" I asked the cashier at the bank. He sighed, as with regrets, and sadly shook his head, and swatted seven flies and said, "He doesn't pay his debts." Thus finally the cashier spoke, no explanations did he make—there was no more to say; no use of arguing about—for that pronouncement lets Hank out, the man who doesn't pay. A man's forgiven many things as through this busy life he swings, and swears and swats and sweats; a thousand faults we lightly scan, but there's no pardon for the man who doesn't pay his debts. If I had seven sill sons, I'd hand them counsel, tons to tons, to help pay on their way; the burden of my spiel would be "My batty boys, on land or sea, be prompt your bills to pay. You may have stacks of sterling worth, and seem too good for this cheap earth, but if you dodge your bills, the world will strike your balance sheets, and set you down as chronic beats, which reputation kills. Go forth, my beamish boys, I'd say and always be prompt to pay, as you are prompt to buy; and you will flourish then, and thrive, and men will boost you while alive, and praise you when you die.

Walt Mason.

Correct. All but the Facts.

Editor L. P. Loomis of the Slaton Slatonite used almost a column of valuable space last week in an attempt to defend the Slaton ball team for not coming to Canyon to play the two series of games for which they were scheduled. He tries to lay the blame on Canyon and states that Canyon is the team that called off the schedules. Ask your manager, Loomis, and see what he says about it. Canyon happens to have the evidence that for the first series scheduled the Slaton team cancelled their dates only a few days before the time to come, and for the second series Slaton failed to even notify Canyon that they would not come until Manager Luke phoned two days before the series, asking if they would play an extra game here and one at Amarillo. Slaton's team may have disbanded before the last series was to have been played, but why didn't she come for the first series, and why didn't she do Canyon the courtesy of formally cancelling the last series with out Manager Luke having to call them? Canyon claims to have the best team in West Texas and will continue to make the claim until thoroughly convinced of the fact on the baseball field, rather than in the columns of a newspaper.

OVERCOMING FEAR OF DEATH

Uselessness of Feeling Apparent to All, But Few Ever Succeed in Mastering It.

The spirit will still be in a measure the slave of the body while we are capable of fear. The dream in our hearts is somehow to break through the last barrier of fear—to come out, as someone has said, on the other side of fear. The uselessness of the fear of death is as apparent to us as the sun in the sky. Its ignobility is a thing that haunts all who are subject to it.

Whether the love of death as the deliverer in the spirit of Walt Whitman is a passion to be cultivated may be doubted. Those who have scorned death most, as the great gentlemen of the renaissance did, saw it none the less the destroyer of the beauty of men's bodies and of the light of the world as the common man knows it. To the religious mind, which accepts the vision of a real and populated world happier than this beyond the grave, death is no doubt the deliverer. But even to most religious men this world has gathered about it all the dearness of home; death, at its best, is an exile, a desertion. They have the bravery to die; but their bravery has the sadness of Hector's. And yet, as with Hector, some instinct drives them to despise this death of the body, to accept this exile as more to be desired than safety and a man's own hearth and children.

Christian, pagan, and atheist are at one in this. They feel that the life of the body itself can be fully enjoyed only when the fear of those that kill the body has been utterly overcome.—The Statesman, London.

FISH ALMOST A CLEAR WHITE

Remarkable Specimens of Albino Trout That Are on Exhibition in New York Aquarium.

Among the interesting exhibits at the New York aquarium is a collection of albino trout. These creatures, which are all of a clear cream white, including their fins, with no color about them except that of their characteristic bright ruby-red eyes, are most striking and curious in appearance, an exchange says.

In its natural coloring the lake trout shows on its upper body white or grayish spots on a brown background. On the large albino lake trout the spots can be discerned, appearing as very faint spots of the same color, but of a different weave in a woven fabric. These spots show so faintly that they would never be noticed by one unfamiliar with this species and its markings. To the casual eye these fishes present bodies of solid unbroken white.

The lake trout is a handsome fish and these albino trout are perfect specimens without a blemish. They appear not as freaks, but simply as graceful and beautiful white fishes. To display them to greater advantage by contrast the larger albino trout are shown in a tank of brook trout.

Democratic Swiss Army.

It is a democratic army, that of the Swiss. The whole manhood of the nation is liable to service, and there are no officers but those who have served as privates. There are no such colleges as at West Point or Woolwich or Sandhurst, but the man who is to become an officer must get his instruction in a few weeks' training in the schools at Thun or Basel. The confederation has the control of the skilled mechanics, such as engineers, the sanitary corps, the commissariat. So much the democratic country has left to the central government. But the cantons have to look after and supply the infantry, and their duty is to see that no man able in body and mind evades his military service; but no canton may keep more than 300 men as a permanent force, which is a curious illustration of the double sovereignty in that crinkle of Europe.

"Classical" Music.

Many people have an idea that only the compositions of the old masters are classical and frequently imagine that these are classical because they belong to the past. It is not antiquity or the name of the composer that determines whether a piece of music is classical or otherwise. The true meaning of classical music is: Compositions which maintain a certain standard; music of the first rank. Compositions can be classical and romantic at the same time. The word romantic, as applied to music, means imaginative, fairylike. Music which is classical and at the same time romantic, is more emotional, more fanciful, more poetic and less rigid and formal than strictly classical compositions. For example, Bach's works are, more frequently, strictly classical, whereas Mendelssohn's and Schumann's are both classical and romantic.

Wisdom.

Wisdom is not the same with understanding, talents, capacity, ability, sagacity, sense or prudence; not the same with any one of these; neither will all these together make it up. It is that exercise of the reason into which the heart enters; a structure of the understanding rising out of the moral and spiritual nature. It is for his cause that a high order of wisdom—that is, a highly intellectual wisdom—is still more rare than a high order of genius. When they reach the very highest order they are one; for each includes the other, and intellectual greatness is matched with moral strength.—Sir Henry Taylor.

Wm H. Bush of Chicago has moved to the Texas Panhandle. He is a wealthy man and owns more than thirty sections of land in Randall county. He pays in Randall county yearly more than a thousand dollars taxes. Not a fifth of his property is located in the Panhandle. He is acquainted all over the United States, has crossed the Atlantic nearly twenty times, toured the world twice and has spent nearly as much of his time in Europe as he has in the United States. He is a man who knows and who does things. Speaking with a citizen of Canyon in Amarillo last week, Mr. Bush stated that he moved to the Panhandle because he knew of no place of a more promising future than this Panhandle country. He has seen other places develop. He knows the natural resources necessary for a country to make the proper development. The Panhandle country welcomes such men. They are glad that the fame of the Panhandle appeals to such men. It will not be long until every quarter section of land in the Panhandle will be the home of a prosperous farmer. The men who know are not afraid to pin their faith in the Panhandle country.

The fine rains will induce farmers to plant a larger wheat crop than ever. The ground is in the best possible condition. Come to Randall county this fall.

The fruit crop for Randall county is the largest in several years. Every tree is loaded to capacity.

While we have nothing to do with running the war in Europe, it looks to us that if the allies ever expect to win they will have to show a better spirit of cooperation than has been manifested during the past. England and France have been practically idle while the mass of the German forces was thrown against Russia. Warsaw has fallen. Russia is on the run. It will take them sometime to gather their forces for an attack upon the Germans. Meanwhile Germany is free to handle her other enemies. Her ability along this line has been thoroughly demonstrated.

Some fellow said he would rather be right than president, but we would rather be a citizen of Canyon than president of Hayti.

The War From German Standpoint.

The following article was handed the News by Joe Backman, one of the good German farmers of Randall county, with a request to publish since it states the German standpoint in the great European war:

Germany looks back upon her accomplishments of the first year of the war with satisfaction. The Germans believe the events of the past twelve months have demonstrated to the world that the Teutons are the mightiest race of all history. No other country could have withstood the combination of world powers which Germany has kept at bay since last August, declare the Germans, and no other country has ever so deeply stirred the imagination of the world.

Germany has won her claim to a place in the sun. The German Empire has added brilliant chapters to the history of Teutonic might begun under the Hohenzollerns of the Kingdom of Prussia. The kaiser himself has earned for himself the title of William the Great, which posterity surely will bestow upon him. These are the dominant beliefs of the German people at the close of the first year of the war.

Germany has shown up the world in all its littleness, and all its boastings of false greatness. Only the Germans themselves have withstood the test of blood and iron for only the Germans have gained victories during the past fateful twelve months. Germany believes she has changed the whole future course of history. German influence upon the future of civilization for generations to come will be far beyond the influence of any other nation. Germany will not dominate the world by her armed might, but by her virtues which have given to her a greater capacity for organization and discipline than all the rest of Europe combined.

When the Germans look back to last August and recall the threats that then were being made against them, and the penalties that were imposed by England, France and Prussia in advance of the trial by battle, the nation laughs. The world didn't understand Germany last summer. It is beginning to learn that the Hohenzollern Empire has progressed during the years since the Franco-Prussian war in ways unsuspected by the rest of mankind. There is nothing in the German of today that wasn't put there by the discipline and study that the world knows under the name of Teutonic Kultur.

The increasing respect paid to German Kultur is not one of the least victories the Germans declare they have won for themselves during the past year.

Nothing came as a greater shock to the Germans last year than the way in which their Kultur was everywhere derided. The comments passed upon Germany for her strong belief in her own destiny, as represented by the Kultur caused more resentment than anything else that happened in the early days of the war. The Germany indignation at last changed to contempt as the idea grew that the world laughed at Teutonic Kultur because the world had been left so far behind by German progress, as to be unable to understand the German point of view.

This opinion has grown as Germany has shown her ability to thrive on misfortunes, and to rise to heights of attainment capable of meeting every new task imposed upon the nation. Each new victory on the battlefield and in departments of internal organization has been regarded as one more proof that the Germans really are the world's super men. German Kultur is now firmly believed to have conquered all opposition and to have established its preeminence among adverse conditions such as never before have had to be encountered by the aspirations of any nation in all history.

Germany has shown no spirit in the past year of revolt against her form of government. Democracy and absolutism have been in combination against the German system of a mixture of the two. The result is declared by Germans to be such as to increase the faith of the Teutonic empire in its own governmental methods. There probably will be a more equitable division of electoral districts in Germany as the result of the war, and political parties may have their representation in the Reichstag seriously altered, but Germany is not going to duplicate the British brand of democracy.

The German people believe they owe their existence as a nation to the unprecedented capacity for organization and discipline they have developed during the past year. The feeling has developed that British democracy is incapable of reaching to the heights attained by Germany, and if the Germans had been governed according to the British system they would now be crushed and at the mercy of their foes. The world said during the early days of the war that Germany would emerge from the conflict democratized. The Germans are now laughing at that prediction. They declare the prophecy must be read backward, and democracy will have to Germanize itself if it is to keep pace with Germany's progress in the future.

Another early prophesy of Germany's enemies which is now being recalled with mirth was the one professing to see the certainty of a German revolution before the war had gone very long. As a matter of fact the Franco-Prussian war did not solidify the people of the Empire as much as this conflict has done.

EMPIRE Jr. GRAIN DRILLS

One of the most important mechanical features in the construction of grain drill is the feed. Empire Jr. Internal or Double Run Feed Cup is what the name implies—two feeds in one. The smaller side for wheat, rye and other small grains. The larger for peas, beans and all kinds of large seed which may be shown in a large range of quantities per acre without cracking or injuring the seed.

Cup consists of but four parts held in place by one bolt which may be tightened to take up wear. Feed wheel is lower than bottom of hopper. Sides of cup funnel shaped with the incline towards feed wheel. The pressure of grain in hopper insures a full feed wheel in every cup. Inside of feed wheel has flanges which grip and force a steady, continuous stream of grain through outlet. Feed cup channels are positive and unchangeable.

The multiple gear on main axle has ten rows of heavy cogs. The heavy solid yoke swings from axle independent of drill hoppers, enclosing the multiple gear and all working parts which are self-contained, all within the solid yoke.

The large cold drawn steel upright shaft is seated bottom and top, in the same yoke casting. Cannot get agay or out of line. This positively assures sliding pinion on upright shaft always engaging alike in each of the ten rows of cogs on multiple gear as the face of same is always parallel to upright shaft. Cannot wobble or get out of alignment to wear or cut out cogs.

The bevel pinion on upper end of upright shaft drives countershaft, for which two sprocket wheels—6 and 12 tooth—are supplied. Malleable chain from this sprocket to sprocket on grain feed shaft drives the feed. Heavy teeth on all of the pinions, made to give wear, practically eliminates pinions wearing and cutting out common to other types of change speed gears and insures the most efficient, positive and durable transmission.

We have on display one of these drills.

You are hereby commanded to summon Mrs. Wm. Ross MacDonald and Wm. Ross MacDonald by making publication of this Citation once in each week for four successive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your County, to appear at the next regular term of the District court of said Randall county, to be held at the Court house thereof, in the town of Canyon, on the fifth Monday in August A. D. 1915, the same being the 30th day of August A. D. 1915, then and there to answer a petition filed in said court on the 13th day of July A. D. 1915 in a suit numbered on the docket of said Court No. 788, wherein George Phillips is Plaintiff, and Mrs. Wm. Ross MacDonald (formerly Mrs. A. J. Jennings) and Wm. Ross MacDonald, her husband, are Defendants, and said petition alleging in substance, as follows, to-wit:

That heretofore, to wit, on or about the 7th day of March, A. D. 1913, defendant Mrs. Wm. Ross MacDonald, then known as Mrs. A. J. Jennings, a widow, made, executed and delivered to one C. O. Keiser, of said Randall county, her two several promissory notes for the sum of two thousand and eighty Dollars, each, bearing date on the day and year aforesaid, due: one of said notes, "on or before three years" after March 1908, the other note due "on or before four years" after March A. D. 1908, payable to the order of said C. O. Keiser, bearing interest at the rate of seven per cent per annum from said date of execution, said interest payable annually, further providing for seven per cent interest on all past due installments of interest, and further stipulating for ten per cent additional on the principal and interest due on said notes if placed in the hands of an attorney for collection, or if collected by suit. That said notes were given for a part of the purchase money of the following described real estate and premises situated in Randall county, Texas, to-wit:

Section No. One Hundred and Seventy-four (174), in Block No. M 9, Certificate No. 0-232, John H. Gibson, grantee, containing 640 acres, more or less, and situated about thirteen miles south and fifteen miles east of Canyon, county seat of said Randall county.

That said land was, on or about August 7th, 1908, conveyed by said C. O. Keiser to the defendant, Mrs. Wm. Ross MacDonald, then Mrs. A. J. Jennings, by his deed of that date, of record in Vol. 16, page 161, Deed Records of said Randall county, in consideration, among other things, of the two vendor lien notes herein described, and that in said deed of conveyance a "Vendor's Lien" was reserved on said land to secure the payment of said notes, as is expressly stated in the face of said notes.

Plaintiff says that he is the legal owner of said notes, that they are due and unpaid, and that he has placed them in the hands of an attorney for collection and for suit, and has contracted to pay his attorney the ten per cent attorney's fees provided for in said notes; that defendants, tho often requested; have failed and refused to pay said notes, each or either of them, and still refuse to his damage, the principal of said notes, $4160.00, the accrued interest, interest on interest and attorney's fees, amounting in the aggregate to the sum of Five Thousand Three Hundred and Fifty Dollars. Plaintiff prays judgment of the court for said sum of money, $5350.00, interest from this date and for his costs; for the foreclosure of his vendor's lien on said land and premises; for an order that said land be sold to satisfy his debt; for a writ of possession, and for other and further relief, in law and in equity, as he may be entitled to.

The MAID of the FOREST

A Romance of St. Clair's Defeat
By RANDALL PARRISH
ILLUSTRATED by D. J. LAVIN
COPYRIGHT A. C. McCLURE & CO., 1915

"Peste! You are a man! How came you out here, madameur?"
"The smoke of the burning cabin drove me out; else I should have suffocated. I burst open the door."
"Burst it open? Incredulously. "Then it was not barred? Some one had entered from this end."
"So I discovered, mademoiselle; one of them is here with me—an old acquaintance of yours."
"Of mine?"
"Ay! Step out into the cave so the light can find entrance; now, do you know the man?"
Her eyes wandered from me, whom she located by voice, toward the Englishman, who remained silent, his scarlet coat conspicuous in the glare. A moment their glances met, his face showing white and drawn, hers I could not see.

"Oh, so it is you, is it!" a metallic ring to the low voice. "I thought you were safely away before this. And
"Please Stand Back, Monsieur; This is My Affair."
You have been hiding here. I ought to have suspected that. Now I remember, you knew of the tunnel."
He did not answer, although I saw his lips move. What was the man afraid of? He had been sharp and snappy enough with me.

"I think you mistake, mademoiselle. I interposed, shocked at the expression of the man's face. "He has told me how it occurred; it was another who killed your father."
"What other?"
"A negro half-breed; I encountered him in the passage; we fought it out there in the dark."
"Alone? Where was this—this man?"
"He was lying unconscious beyond, next to the entrance."
"And—and," the words trembled on her lips, "you—killed the negro?"
"No, mademoiselle, I did not. We struggled together; then he fired at me, and in the flash saw my face. The sight seemed to frighten the man, for he broke away, and endeavored to run. In his haste he forgot the leanness of the tunnel, struck his head against a sharp projection, and died."
She stood motionless, her hands pressed to her forehead. Suddenly she turned from me, and faced him. I thought he shrank back against the wall; but, for a long moment, she stood there in silence, staring at him.

"Who was it?" she asked at last, her voice like ice. "Tell me the truth—was it Picard?"
"He dropped his eyes, with an odd gesture of the shoulders. The girl's rifle flashed to a level, so quickly I could not even throw out my arm."
"Say yes, or no! Please stand back, monsieur; this is my affair."
"Yes," the word seemed dragged from him.
"And you told monsieur here the negro killed my father? You said that!"
His lips moved, but no sound came forth from them. She waited a breathless moment.

"That was a lie! You would not dare repeat that to me," she burst forth passionately, her whole body trembling. "You thought you could tell him, and he would believe you; would pity you, and let you go. You did not dream that I was here—I, Rene d'Anvray, monsieur—to face you. You are afraid of me; yes you are—it is in your eyes. You think me an Indian? That I will avenge myself? Is that what you fear?"
He muttered something in Indian dialect I could not understand.

"He told me he attempted to make love to you, but failed, yet hinted that marriage might have been possible."
"He did venture that far. Then, monsieur, I will tell you the truth. He won my father to him—God alone knows how—and persuaded me to go through the tribal ceremony. To me, a Christian and a French woman, that mockery of form means no more than to him. It was the price I paid for peace."
"But the Wyandots?"
"In their eyes I am this man's squaw," her voice trembling with scorn, her hand pointing at him. "But in the eyes of God, I am not. His hand has never touched me—never will. Monsieur, I had to tell you."
"And I am glad you did. It is better for me to know."
"Oh, I begin to see," broke in the prisoner, finding his voice. "T is not my appearance that you object to, mademoiselle, only you prefer the Yankee edition."
I strode forward threateningly. "You low-lived coward—"
"No, monsieur, let him talk," and she caught my arm. "We have no time now for a personal quarrel. We must save a man's life."
"His?"
"Monsieur Brady's. There is but one way. T was for his sake, the endeavor to save him from torture, that I was so long in coming here. I did all that was in my power, but those Indians are not of my tribe. They might listen to me, but for the Englishman who leads them. He is heartless, more cruel than any savage; moreover Brady struck him, and he suspects me of aiding you to escape. There is no mercy in him, and I have failed: they mean to burn him at the stake, and I could do no more."
"Where are they now?" I asked in horror.

"Yonder on the mainland. I could not remain to witness the scene—I could not, monsieur. I was under guard, but stole away in the darkness, and came here, praying I might find you yet waiting. Now I know God has answered my prayers. He has shown me the way."
She turned from me, her eyes on his face.
"Are you any relative to Monsieur whom you resemble so much?"
He laughed unpleasantly.
"Lord, I hope not—if so the connection is too remote to be considered. I have no desire to claim any Yankee cousins. Why?"
"The reason is not material. I want you to hear me. I do not know you killed my father, but I suspect it, and am certain you lured him to his death. If it was Picard's hand that did the deed, it was done at your desire. I would be justified as a Wyandot in killing you—even this American would grant me the right—but I am going to spare you, Monsieur—on one condition."
"What?" The very sound of his voice proved his realization of her seriousness.
"That you accompany me to the Indian camp yonder, and help me save that white man's life."
"What do I care—?"
"You care for your own, no doubt. Well, monsieur, it hangs by a hair. Only on such a pledge will you go forth from here alive."
"You threaten to kill me?"
"It is hardly a threat—it is a certainty, monsieur."
"Tell me the plan then," he said roughly.

"I can control the Indians," she went on, "if the Englishman does not interfere. It will be your part to command him."
"Who is the fellow?"
"The fur trader—Lappin."
He stared into her face; then laughed insolently.
"Then the game is up. By the gods, it would be more likely he burned me. You make sport to suggest I could influence that monster."
"I do not," her face changeless in its expression. "There is nothing for you to laugh at. I know you two are enemies, but he dare not ignore your uniform. He has no authority and you have. You can accomplish the rescue of this prisoner if you have the courage, and will. There is only one thing for you to say—yes, or no."
"Answer the lady," I commanded sternly.
His eyes settled on my face; they were furtive, cowardly.
"Oh—well—I'll go," he said slowly and sullenly. "But it's little enough good you'll get out of it, I promise you."

CHAPTER XVII.
The Fire in the Clearing.
"Go on now," I commanded grimly, "and do not forget. Mademoiselle, do you go first, and show the way. I will keep good guard of the rear."
She gave me her hand in a long, lingering clasp, and then her slender fingers
