Texas Panhandle is Not Land of Colt Revolver Serenades

The Texas Panhandle will not be pictured as the abode of desperadoes, bandits and bullets and the people of Texas in general will be pictured as they really are, in a picture film.

Fred Davis, commissioner of agriculture; C. Klaerner, state librarian, and Sinclair Moreland, archivist, besides other state officials, will cooperate with 150 counties of Texas and the Paragon Feature Film company.

Secretary Porter Whaley of the Board of City Development will write to Mr. Davis at once, asking what plans have been made for filming in the Panhandle portion of the picture.

This film, which will consist of 800,000 pictures taken of Texas scenes, will be shown in the largest cities of fifteen of the northern and eastern states free of charge.

Upon the completion of this circuit which will include 190 nights, covering fifty cities, no one of which will have a population of less than 40,000 people, the film will be returned to Texas and become the property of the state library and historical commission.

As a result of showing these moving pictures in the North, the northern farmer once for all will have the illusion obliterated that Texans walk around with six-shooters in their belts and that pitch battles occur in the principal streets of the cities.

In order to acquaint the people of the North with the growing of cotton, Texas' greatest crop, Commissioner of Agriculture Davis expects to use his influence in having this industry photographed in moving pictures.

Similar pictures of the pecan industry will be taken and exhibited. In addition to this, numerous pictures of thoroughbred horses, cattle, sheep and other stock will be shown as well as the various crops, and other industries.

In speaking of "Texas as It Is Today," E. N. Farris, secretary-treasurer of the Texas Commercial Executives association, and the secretary of the Corpus Christi Commercial club, says:

"Texas as It Is Today" will do more toward putting Texas, with its vast, its wonderful opportunities in the right light before the people of the North and East than any other medium of publicity.

The Paragon Feature Film company has made a guarantee with the state of Texas to insure the people of the state that the company will live up to its contract in regard to exhibiting of the picture.

Contrary to general expectation Senator Chas. A. Culberson has announced this candidacy for re-election to the United States senate from Texas. Culberson is one of the biggest men the state has ever produced. He has always stood high in the councils of the Democratic party, and is conceded to be one of the surest political prophets the state has ever produced. To say that Charles A. Culberson predicted the outcome of an election is almost equivalent to receiving the official count. What are his chances for re-election? He has been sick for a long while. He has attended to his duties in the senate chamber very irregularly. Yet, no one has ever charged him with overlooking a duty to his state. He states he is not able to make a personal campaign. He leaves it to his friends—and he has many who will campaign for him. He is one of the oldest senators, in point of service in the U. S. senate. He is strong for Wilson and his policies. He has a number of opponents, among them younger and very aggressive men. His friends believe that Culberson, ill half of the time, can do more for his state than any of the opponents even be they strong and well. What will the voters say?

Americans, especially, are too prone to forget the little things that go to make up the beauty of a life. The little kindnesses one may bestow while passing through life goes a long way toward the formation of what is known as a useful life. The American home wastes more little things than it takes to keep an European for a year. A great man once blew out one oil lamp while talking to a charity worker, and then gave $5,000 to her work, stating as he did so, that it was his habit in life of saving the little things that then enabled him to make such a contribution. There is hardly a man in this or any other town who doesn't owe some one a little bill, which he has neglected to pay. Yet all these little bill amount to a large sum when taken together. And while we're talking about little things, it is indeed a very little things to tell the News what is the news in your home or business, yet many—a majority of the people—will neglect this very thing. Care of the little things makes the great things in life.

The man who says he doesn't care what people think of him, doesn't realize what he is talking about. All live more or less on the good will of others. To betray that good will or confidence, brings bitter agonies the world knows nothing about. What people think about you is largely governed by the way you act toward the world. A false step will knock down the reputation a man has taken years to build up. The world too easily forgets the good a man has tried to do at the time he makes his false step.

J. Sams Dead.

J. Sams died last Thursday morning at two o'clock at the home of his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Mattie Sams. He was born in Ripsey county, Indiana, Sept. 18, 1828, being 87 years of age at the time of his death. He has made his home in this city with Mrs. Sams for a number of years. The body was prepared for shipment by Mrs. C. M. Thomas and taken to Portales, N. M., for burial.

Mr. Sams has been in ill health for a long while. Mr. Sams was married 58 years ago to Miss Mary Roberts and to this union were born seven children, all of whom are living except one son who was killed in Hutchinson county 12 years ago by being thrown from a horse.

Mr. Sams was what you might term one of the pioneers of Texas, having moved to Collin county in 1882 and endured many of the early struggles of the state. This class is rapidly passing away and much honor should be paid to their memory. Two of his sons, W. R. of Lockney and Jim of Commerce, were present when the end came.

We wish to express our sincere thanks to the many kind friends and neighbors who so kindly helped us during the sickness and death of our father.

Kill Cholera Hogs.

Dr. Frank R. Jones, of the bureau of animal husbandry, Washington D. C., and connected with the Texas A. & M. college, has been in the county during the past week, assisting Harmon Benton in looking after the cases of hog cholera that developed this winter. Dr. Jones states that the cases reported are getting along fine and that he believes that the cholera is under control.

He wished the News to especially urge all people who had cases to kill off the hogs that were affected and to get rid of all other hogs on the place. He states that in the country away from Canyon there has been no trouble but that in Canyon, the owners of little bunches are holding onto their hogs and that the loss has been the greatest here. He says that all hogs which die should be burned.

This year is the first time cholera has ever appeared in the Panhandle. It is traced to hogs being shipped in and since the people did not know how to combat it, it has spread to considerable extent, not so much in this country as in the vicinity of Canyon.

Visits Former Home.

From Coleman Democrat-Voice—Wilton Winn, of Canyon, Texas, was a business visitor to Coleman this week. Mr. Winn arrived Monday. He was here for the purpose of closing up the sale of his remnant of Coleman county property, 545 acres, which was recently sold to Upton Henderson. Mr. Winn's ranch interests are now in Bailey county where his son, Dan Winn, is in charge and making extensive improvements.

It would not be amiss to say in this connection that Dan is looking forward to the acquisition of a housekeeper to direct the affairs of the new home. The beautiful young lady comes from a prominent family of Lynn county, the courtship having its beginning at the State Normal School, Canyon.

Mr. Winn reported the Plains country in splendid shape, but said it was dry from Post City until he reached the line of Coleman county. While he is pleased with future prospects of the plains country, Mr. Winn says he never expects to live among a better people than his former neighbors and friends in Coleman county.

To Increase Amarillo Water Supply

An adequate supply of water for the city of Amarillo for all time to come may be obtained if the Board of Water Engineers for the state of Texas act favorably upon the joint application of D. C. Priddy and Dan O. Martin of Amarillo and W. F. White of Fort Worth for a permit to construct a water reservoir in the Palo Duro canyon. A notice was sent to the Daily Panhandle by the board of engineers today announcing that a hearing on the application will be held in Austin on Monday, March 6, and that the application will be continued from time to time and place to place, if necessary, until a determination is made by the board of what is deemed right, equitable and proper.

According to the plans of the applicants if their board acts favorably an earth-filled dam with concrete core wall will be built across Palo Duro creek in Randall county. The dam is to be 60 feet high, with slopes of 1:1; riprap on the water face, 16-foot crown, 10-foot board, with a paved spillway around the south end of the dam, thereby creating a reservoir having an approximate length of four miles and an approximate width of one-fourth of a mile and capacity of 15,000 acre feet and a submerged area of approximately 640 acres. This distance of the reservoir from Amarillo is 17 miles and from Canyon 8 miles.

The water to be impounded in the reservoir is to be used as a water supply for the city of Amarillo at the rate of 3,000,000 gallons daily. The water to be diverted from the reservoir by means of pump, as described in the application. It is estimated that the cost of the project would be approximately a half million dollars.

The reservoir site is located in a cove in the Canyon. The water would be supplied from the natural flow of Palo Duro creek and from the flood waters of a hundred sections bordering it.

W. F. White of Fort Worth, one of the promoters of the project and a well known Texas capitalist, arrived in Amarillo today to confer with his associates.—Daily Panhandle.

BRANDEIS NOMINATED FOR SUPREME COURT

Nominee Has Been Prominent as Lawyer and in Zionist Movement.

Washington, Jan. 28.—Unconcealed surprise on the part of all official Washington met the announcement today of the appointment of Louis D. Brandeis to the place on the Supreme Court bench made vacant by the death of Associate Justice Lamar.

Mr. Brandeis had not been mentioned among the long list of eligibles which President Wilson considered, or among an equally long list of aspirants who presented indorsements.

"I have nothing whatever to say. I have not said anything and will not," was Mr. Brandeis' only comment tonight as he went off to dine with President Wilson at Secretary McAdoo's house. Justices Hughes and Pitney also attended the dinner.

It was learned tonight that among the indorsements sent to the President urging Mr. Brandeis' appointment was one from Gifford Pinchot, former chief forester, whose celebrated controversy with Secretary Ballinger brought Mr. Brandeis into the public eye six years ago. He appeared as chief counsel for the forces opposing the former Secretary of the Interior in the noted allinger-Pinchot controversy in the which sent its ramifications into many phases of national politics at the outset of President Taft's administration.

Although celebrated as a lawyer, Mr. Brandeis has been devoting practically all his time of late to the Zionist movement in this country, which has far its object the repatriation of the Jews to a Nation of their own in Palestine. If confirmed, he would be the first Jew to sit on the Supreme Court bench.

Mr. Brandeis is a lawyer who has been much in public life during the last three years, not only in legal work but in various movements for social betterment. He was born in Louisville, Ky., sixty years ago and was educated there and at Harvard. In 1878 he began practicing law in Boston.

He came most notably before the public as a national figure through his participation in the Ballinger-Pinchot investigation in Congress. Later he was counsel for shippers who opposed the general increases in freight rates before the Interstate Commerce Commission and in the same period he was at the front of those who were demanding investigation of the financial affairs of the New Haven road.

Among his activities in other public affairs were his appearance as counsel for those who fought for the validity of working men's hours of labor law in Oregon, Illinois and Ohio; as counsel for those who contended for the preservation of the Boston municipal subway system, in establishing the sliding scale gas system and the creation of savings bank insurance in Massachusetts. He was in 1910 chairman of the board of arbitration which settled the New York Garment Makers' strike.

Mr. Brandeis has written largely and is regarded as an authority on public franchises, life insurance, wage earners' insurance, scientific management, labor problems and the trust question.

At the beginning of President Wilson's administration, Mr. Brandeis was expected to get a place in the Cabinet. Many of the administration leaders expected him to be appointed Attorney General.

CHARLES A. CULBERSON TO SEEK RE-ELECTION

Washington, Jan. 26.—Senator Chas. A. Culberson, in a formal statement issued tonight, announced his candidacy for re-election to the Senate from Texas. In candor, the Senator says, he is not able to make a campaign of the state and that it will not be attempted. He leaves his candidacy with his friends.

The announcement sets at rest all speculation concerning Senator Culberson's intention, which has been made the subject of gossip both here and in Texas for many weeks. After leaving Texas last fall the Senator spent a few weeks in Maine, returning to Washington about a month ago. His friends say that he is improving in health. The announcement is as follows:

"To the Democrats of Texas: Some months ago in a public statement addressed to you I said that in due time I would advise you respecting my attitude as to the Senatorship which I now hold through your favor and confidence. That time having, in my judgment, arrived, I will say that I have concluded to be a candidate for re-election to that high office and to submit my name for your consideration in the forthcoming primary.

"My views on fundamental public questions and my record upon them are well known to you and on them I will stand in the contest. In addition to this, it is not unbecoming in me to point to my share in bringing about the nomination of President Wilson and to rejoice with you in the brilliant achievements of his administration. His renomination is assured and his re-election is most probable. I have consistently and heartily supported his administration, and if I am re-elected, and he shall succeed himself in the Presidency, my course toward his policies and his administration will be along the same approving and friendly lines.

"While my candidacy for re-election is submitted to you, it is but the part of candor to state that I am not strong enough to make a campaign of the state, and I will not attempt it. My candidacy must therefore be left largely to my friends and democrats generally who approve my political course and for whose loyalty and friendship I am deeply sensible and profoundly grateful.

C. A. CULBERSON Bailey May Not Enter Race.

It was ventured tonight by friends of former Senator J. W. Bailey that he would not enter the Senatorial race this year, as he has been importuned to do by friends in Texas. It is generally understood that he had virtually decided to ask the people to return him to the senate by election this year in place of by election in 1918. The decision, however, was further understood to be predicted upon the contingency that Senator Culberson was not a candidate.

To pave the way for Senator Bailey's re-entrance into Texas politics, a lot of ironing out of personal and political differences between the former senator and some of the Texas political leaders has been attempted on the part of friends. While Governor James E. Ferguson was in Washington last December mutual friends undertook to bring the two together and cause incidents of the El Paso convention, which served to widen the difference between these leaders, to be forgotten. In the lobby of the Willard Hotel Governor Ferguson and the former Senator met, shook hands and conversed at some length, however, not upon topics political.

The efforts of friends to promote a feeling of cordiality between the Governor and former Senator are said to have been with the view of making it possible for Senator Bailey to receive the support of Mr. Ferguson's friends this year and leave the 1918 race open for Governor Ferguson to oppose Morris Sheppard. According to the Washington gossip, anti-prohibitionists, who it is stated, would support both Mr. Ferguson and Mr. Bailey, did not relish the prospect of being called upon to divide their forces between probable favorites.

The decision of Senator Culberson to enter the race probably will result in a realignment of the forces, and mutual friends say that Senator Bailey will not announce, but will support the Senator for re-election. Senator Culberson will also have the support of Postmaster General Burleson, according to statements heretofore made by that official.

Members of the Texas delegation in Congress were silent tonight upon the Culberson announcement. Representative Henry, who is an active candidate for Senator and who will leave in a few days for Texas to resume his canvass, said tonight that the desires of Senator Culberson to ask for re-election would not alter his plans in the premises.

New York, Jan. 28.—President Wilson in an address before two thousand preachers in Asolian hall today plainly indicated that he is no longer too proud to fight. Then he added that his fighting was not a case of "knock-down and drag out," but a "case of putting up best reasons why your own ideas should survive."

MANN, REPUBLICAN LEADER SPEAKS FOR PREPAREDNESS

Declares There is Much More to Fear Regarding War With England Than Germany.

Washington, Jan. 25.—Unqualified non-partisan support of military preparedness was urged today by Minority Leader Mann in a ringing speech on the floor of the House. He was heartily and repeatedly applauded by both sides of the chamber.

While it has been understood that most of the Republicans favored army and navy increases, until today none of their leaders had spoken on the subject. Consequently, coming as it did on the eve of the President's departure on a preparedness speaking tour, Mr. Mann's address was regarded as particularly significant. He remarked himself that he always had been known as a "small" army and navy man.

"It seems the part of wisdom for us to prepare ourselves for any possibility of trouble that may come," was the keynote of his remarks. Mr. Mann declared the world was in the worst condition that any living person ever had seen it, and predicted that it might be many years "before it is definitely determined whether one or the other, or neither side can become master." He also scouted the permanency of a "paper peace."

The cost, he added, would be great but it would be money well invested. "We can better afford," he said, "to spend hundreds of millions of dollars, or few billions of dollars, in ample preparation for trouble, than we can to wait for trouble and then spend untold billions before we are finally victors, as we would be."

I know that the gentlemen are sincere in their belief that there will be no trouble. I sympathize with those who prefer to spend the money of the people in the way of improvements and aiding our people at home rather than for the support of idle armies and navies. But when trouble does come, there would be no dissenting voice against spending all our means, if necessary, to defend our country, and our homes, and were wise for us now, it seems to me, to commence our preparation.

"I do not intend to discuss details, though I have reached the conclusion myself that if it were well as an emergency measure to increase our regular army to 250,000 or 300,000, or even 500,000, that we should increase or provide our fortifications so that our coasts may be fairly and amply protected and that we should provide a navy which will be able to defend us on the sea."

"I have much more fear of war with England than I have of war with Germany. Events are coming rapidly, and yet it is our duty, as managers of a great country and a powerful people, to provide for their protection against possibilities as well as certainties. I think that we ought to provide these great forces; that it ought to be considered an emergency matter, entirely apart from the ordinary routine, of expense of government, without regard to partisanship or party lines. If England and France and Germany and Italy can consider these propositions without party lines, a country like ours ought to be able to sweep aside mere partisan consideration and try all to stand together, loyal to our country, in the effort to aid the Administration of our Government."

Cattlemen's Convention. Albuquerque, Jan. 16.—An important meeting of the cattlemen of the west and southwest will be held in this city on March 7, 8, and 9, when the annual convention of the Panhandle and Southwestern Cattlemen's Association will be held. The Commercial Club of this city is making great preparations for the entertainment and accommodations of the visitors with $6,000 available for the work. It is expected that 3,000 outsiders will be in attendance, including bankers from every section, buyers, commission men and brokers. Some big deals are looked for in cattle and land.

This will be the fifteenth meeting of the Panhandle association. The organization has grown steadily until it is now one of the most important live stock associations in the country. The membership extends from Texas into New Mexico, Oklahoma, Arizona and Colorado. As a protective association it is an entire success. Its members have furnished to them for a small yearly fee detective supervision and inspection. Many indictments and convictions are secured every year against cattle thieves by the association, the detective organizations of which is at the command of every member. Albuquerque plans to show the cattlemen the time of their lives. One of the big features of the convention will be the fight for the next place of meeting. It is understood that Amarillo, Fort Worth and Oklahoma City will send special train loads of boosters in an effort to secure the 1917 meeting for their respective cities.

Face Washday With a Smile GET some TEXWAX. Shave off about half a cup full, put it into the wash boiler with the clothes. It makes the dirt fly, and yet cannot harm the most delicate fabric. It eliminates the need for heavy rubbing. And when you iron, it makes the linen fresh, crisp, and white. The iron slides more easily and reduces the work. Try it once; you will come back for more, and also find out about the other TEXACO HOUSEHOLD PRODUCTS. They are on a par with TEXWAX for producing results and saving work. TESTING TEXAS ROAD MATERIALS, UNIVERSITY OF TEXAS BUREAU OF ECONOMIC GEOLOGY

Millions of dollars per year are voted for road building in Texas, and increasing millions will be voted as the state becomes wealthier and more populous. The proper spending of this money is an enormous problem.

Above is a scene in the roads testing laboratory, at the University of Texas, in Austin, where the Bureau of Economic Geology is testing various stones and gravels which are found in Texas, with a view to determining their suitability for road construction.

Healthy Young Men Are Merely "Sitters"

By KATHERINE POPE, Chicago

Sometimes it seems that the "flower" of this age, youths in the early twenties, have as their chief characteristic the power to sit.

At a lecture last winter at the University of Chicago the committee on arrangements selected a hall not half large enough. During the long lecture many leaned wearily against the wall. The majority of these were women.

From time to time a rested girl rose and exchanged places with one of the standing sisterhood, but few boys gave in after the first firm resolve.

Shortly after another illustration came to my attention. In a suburban express train a goodly number of athletic youths remained anchored to comfortable seats, although among the strap bangers were two sisters of charity, several gray-haired ladies, a feeble old man and a group of girls.
