The season tickets for adults are only $2 while for children they are only $1. The course is costing over $1000 and the season tickets are placed on sale at a very small price.

The holders of season tickets must get reserved seats for each number. The board will be at the News office next Tuesday in order to accommodate those people of the town who hold season tickets, or wish to buy single admission tickets for the one night.

Farewell Party

Mrs. Morrel and Mrs. Griffin entertained Monday afternoon in honor of Mrs. Cullum and Mrs. Will Word. The house was decorated with yellow chrysanthemums and white cosmos. The afternoon was spent with fancy work and conversation. Refreshments were served of fruit getelon in orange baskets, sandwiches and tea. The guests of the occasion were Mesdames W. G. Word, Cullum, C. T. Word, Jarrett, Pipkin, Ingham, Morelock, Holland, Ackley, Hanna, Gamble, Keiser, Luke and Meyer.

Gus Leseburg has bought a half section of land south of the Henry F. Miller farm, east of the city, and is building a new home, to which he will move soon.

Paving Needed on Square.

The heavy rains of the past week has made the streets around the public square a regular mud hole. The drainage of the town has brought much water to the square from the north and west parts.

The public square of Canyon ought to be paved. There is no question as to the advisability of paving being a necessity. Whether in dry or wet weather the paving would be a great thing. All that is needed is for the citizens to get behind the movement.

Hereford is fixing to do a lot of street paving this winter. Planview and Lubbock are doing the same thing.

Why not Canyon?

Randall county raises much money every year for road purposes. The city of Canyon pays a large part of the tax money. Not one cent has ever been expended by the commissioners upon the streets of Canyon. The public square is public property and to see it paved and free from mud in bad weather would be the delight of every citizen of Randall county. The commissioners would do their part in this paving.

Will we convert the mud hole around the square into a good paved street, or leave it as it now stands?

Buy's Half Section More.

E. Edmonds reports that he has bought another half section of land in the Peter Myers community where he recently acquired more than 2000 acres. He bought the last half section from Joe Gamble. He states that he paid for this land out of his wheat crop during the past two years. He came from Iowa a few years ago and is well pleased with the Randall county land. He now has 2764 acres of land in one body and is getting ready to go into the cattle business, but will not move to his land this year as he has no buildings on it yet.

Mrs. F. P. Guenther was an Amarillo caller Monday.

RANDALL COUNTY WINS AT THE STATE FAIR

The News has a telegram this morning from C. R. McAfee at Dallas who has charge of the Randall County exhibit at the state fair. He states that Randall county won the following:

Out of six entries in vegetable class we won first on tomatoes, squash and cantaloupe; second on cushaw and cabbage. Judging not finished.

The shipment of grain by freight did not arrive at the fair, and consequently Randall county was out of the running in the county exhibit, but even without any grain, Randall won eleventh place in the county contest. The grain was all shipped by freight in ample time to reach Dallas, but it had not showed up yesterday, and the railroad seemed unable to locate the shipment.

How Americans Lose Their Chances To Succeed.

It seems that human nature can stand just so much and no more, and the temptations of the present age are greater than any we have ever had before. The result is a general revel in the wildest sort of extravagance, in private as well as in public expenditures. When one talks these days about "public service economically administered," he insults the statesmen who stand out for more appropriations and larger appropriations as well as the prospective beneficiaries for whom the appropriations are so often made. But even the extravagance in the use and misuse of public money is rather a petty evil when compared to the prodigal waste of substance by the people of this country during a prosperous season like the present. The News has received from Mr. S. A. Fishburn a communication in which he declares that, "if some man wants to be the benefactor of his race, let him beat into the heads of the rising generation enough sense

1. Not to buy every fool thing that is offered for sale.
2. Not to buy luxuries until the necessities of life can be promptly paid for.
3. Not to buy things because it is the fashion to do so.
4. Not to buy expensive things with money that ought to go to the payment of honest debts.
5. Not to buy at all when the bills must be met by indulgent but debt-ridden parents."

No legitimate business can be hurt by such restraints. The fact is that bad debts and bankrupt customers are a heavy penalty in many lines of business, and wise rather than reckless buying is the very best remedy for these evils. Many a good customer who, otherwise, would have remained such indefinitely, has been broken down or driven away as a result of his own extravagance or of the heedless extravagance of his family or others. For a citizen to be provident and economical does not hurt any legitimate business, and may turn out to be a means of success to himself and his family and a continuing help to the community in which he lives.

We hear these days a great deal about the sum of money one must have to maintain himself or his family, and about his inability to live on this or that amount, as if somebody, usually supposed to be the Government, had given bond to meet his requirements. Certain of those who set forth their demands are victims of extravagance who pander to numerous exacting appetites upon which they waste their credit as well as their cash. A good rule is for a young man in his prime to save some of his earnings every week or month, whatever his earnings may be. The man in the prime of life who is raising a family should make it a point to provide something for future contingencies, and his wife should be eager to assist him in this task. That is one of the main things men and women, fathers and mothers, are on this earth for, and it is most unfortunate when selfishness, vanity and extravagance are permitted to come in and upset the main purpose of family life. It is not the least remarkable that the results of such profligality should tend to keep her divorce courts and other courts continually busy.

At this time there is no more important lesson to teach to the American people than the warning against reckless extravagance. The temptation are great and more numerous than they have ever been before, and the people are prosperous. Now is the best time to save something for a rainy day. Even when times are less prosperous, or even when times are hard, every man or woman in working trim and with regular employment should make it a rule to save up something for future demands; but the obligation to do this is even greater, during prosperous times. The people of other and far less prosperous countries do it and this is one main reason why they come among us and get the best of us. They are good customers of the merchants and of others, and are above the average when it comes to paying their debts. They buy, but they buy more wisely than man of us buy. That is the reason why they are so often able to buy out those of us who started in with a valuable inheritance. Even as a means of self defense, a more rigid economy, a providence that is more general and more careful, is absolutely necessary in this country. This fact has never been more forcefully emphasized than it is now being emphasized in Texas. Dallas News.

DENTAL PREPAREDNESS.

What is the most important attribute of a soldier?
Good feet?
No.
Good eyesight?
No.
Good brains?
No.
What then?
Good teeth.

A soldier may have good feet, good eyesight and good brains but if he has bad teeth he can't eat. If he can't eat he can't march near enough to the enemy to see him and use his brains to fight him.

How does a soldier get good teeth?
By having good teeth in childhood.
How do children keep good teeth?
Through being taught by their mother how to keep their teeth clean and having their teeth looked after.

The Garden Soil

Fall preparation of the garden land is highly desirable. The land should be broken early in the fall, even if a fall garden is not planted on it. With a fall garden the land will be prepared as it should be for winter.

Deep breaking will be advantageous, to all vegetable matter should be turned and allowed to decay to give the soil humus. By turning under the vegetable matter early it will be exposed to winter temperatures and rains and will thus be decomposed sufficiently for spring planting.

Barnyard manure should be spread in fall and winter. Where manure is taken from stalls and has considerable hay and straw with it some time will be required for it to decay and be of benefit to the soil. The garden soil will need an abundance of manure and this should be applied early.

When convenient a cover crop may be planted on the garden soil. The crop will be of benefit during winter, but it should be tilled in time for the crop to decay before planting time in the spring.

Those who expect to get the soil in good condition to produce well should begin early. This cannot be done if you wait until spring to break the land.

WHY BUSINESS HOUSES FAIL

Because of Incompetence or Inexperience, Says Bradstreet—Way to Get Experience.

Bradstreet attributes more than a quarter of the business failures to incompetence, and another five per cent to inexperience. Our intentions are all right, but we haven't been able to stand the strain.

We have all of us seen businesses which have prospered, have expanded, and have eventually gone on the rocks. They were prosperous as long as all was under the eye of the proprietor. When he had to delegate his authority things began to go wrong. He could fix things himself, but there were getting to be too many things to be fixed. He had always looked into everything personally. As the business grew, he resembled more and more a marathon racer on the last lap. If he had an iron constitution, he didn't join the wreckage on the coast of southern California; but in any case the business ceased to prosper, and was sold or helped to inflate the bankruptcy statistics.

Of course, in America, the great god Luck will very often see a corporation through such periods, writes Dwight L. Farnham in the Engineering Magazine. Not long ago a financier of international reputation advised a young man against entering the employ of a large and prosperous corporation in which he hoped to gain business experience. "Get a job with a concern that is losing money, or that's just keeping its head above water. You'll learn something about business there. Lots of these fellows that are earning big dividends are throwing away as much as they are making. They don't know it, and you'll learn bad habits."

JOKE WASN'T ON 'STONEWALL'

Students' Futile Attempt to Make Great Soldier Evince Even a Slight Sign of Fear.

"Major Thomas J. Jackson, later the famous 'Stonewall' Jackson, was our instructor in mathematics and drilled the students in artillery tactics," said General Armistead, an ante-bellum graduate of the Virginia Military Institute. "Old Jack," as the students called him, with his worn uniform, faded cap, usually perched at a ridiculous angle upon his big head, rusty old cavalry saber and ungraceful gait, was in appearance far from our beau ideal of a soldier. Nevertheless, it was possible even then to guess at the real greatness of the man.

"The guns we used in our artillery drills were pulled by hand. As the drill proceeded, our instructor would become transformed into the very semblance of Mars himself, as, with form erect, waving sword and flashing eye, he would give the command 'Fire!' in a voice that rang over the campus like the blast of a bugle.

"One day, in a spirit of mischief, the students who were drawing the gun pretended to lose control of it as it moved rapidly down a gentle incline, directly toward Major Jackson. But the commander, instead of scuttling out of the way as the boys had gleefully anticipated, stood sternly erect and immovable right in the track of the gun.

"I tell you there was some lively hustling, and just in the nick of time, too, to keep Old Jack from being run over. That was our only attempt to play a practical joke at Major Jackson's expense."—Youth's Companion.

Invisible Clock.

A public clock which can be heard but not seen is one of London's curious possessions. It is in the tower of St. Mary Abbot's church, Kensington, and is the only public clock in the immediate neighborhood. It chimes the quarters and the hours, but commits itself no further. It has no dial no hands, no outward and visible sign of any kind to show that it is a clock. This eccentricity, it is explained, is the result of two causes, one esthetic, the other financial. When the tower was built in 1879 a clock was suggested as an afterthought, but the architect protested that it would mean the addition of 15 feet to the tower, and the ruin of its cherished proportions. A second point was that the church, having but slender funds, could not afford a clock with a dial. A compromise was arrived at by installing the works of a chiming clock in the belfry without dial or hands.—London Tit-Bits.

To Increase Good Fortune.

Rejoice and give thanks for every evidence of returning health and strength. "Thou shalt call thy gates Praise." "Behold, I have set before thee an open door, and no man can shut it." This is the door of Praise. No man can shut this door for you, and when you open it wide all good flows in to you. Your part is to keep the door open. Praise every indication of good, even though it may seem small, and it becomes magnified in your consciousness. This is the way the things of the Spirit grow and increase in your life and affairs.—Unity.

In a Dry State.

A Portland man saw a neighbor's cat playing with a catnip ball. "What's that?" he asked. "Catnip ball," said the neighbor. "Where do you get 'em?" "Any drug store." He wanted one for his cat, so he went to his apothecary and he said: "Gimme a catnip ball." "A what?" said the druggist. "A catnip ball." "By gosh, you got me," said the other. "I never mixed one."—Portland Press.

OLDER BUT STRONGER

To be healthy at seventy, prepare at forty, is sound advice, because in the strength of middle life we too often forget that neglected colds, or careless treatment of slight aches and pains, simply undermine strength and bring chronic weakness for later years.

To be stronger when older, keep your blood pure and rich and active with the strength-building and blood-nourishing properties of Scott's Emulsion which is a food, a tonic and a medicine to keep your blood rich, alleviate rheumatism and avoid sickness. No alcohol in Scott's. Scott & Bowne, Bloomfield, N.J.

An Educational Need.

The next result of the meeting of the West Texas A. & M. College campaign committee in Fort Worth is that all prospect of friction with the friends of the present A. & M. College has vanished and that by the time the legislature meets the alumni of that institution may be expected to be among the most enthusiastic boosters for a new college "west of ninety-eight."

All that was necessary was a clear understanding of the situation to bring about this result. Both desired only the progress of education in Texas, and as soon as each found this out about the other way was clear for them to get together. It is now agreed that the new institution will be a branch of the present Agricultural & Mechanical College, with absolute autonomy as to appropriations from the state and the government of its curriculum, but under the direction of the board of directors of the present college. It is understood that this will carry with it a liberal expenditure of Federal money in extension work from the new college, and the bill will be so framed as to insure for its students the same recognition from the Federal government as will be received by the students of the parent institution.

This is the only common sense arrangement that could be made. Even if there were no difficulties in the way of establishing an absolutely independent institution it would be unwise to establish one. We have seen too much of the results of petty jealousies between our state educational institutions not to recognize that. Moreover, the present situation in education in Texas, especially agricultural education, demands the elimination of duplication and waste effort rather than the taking of any action which might tend to promote them.

But there are difficulties in the way which, added to these other considerations, make any move to establish an independent institution in West Texas or in any other section of the state is the very height of folly. The Agricultural & Mechanical College at College Station is a land grant college. As such it is the beneficiary of much Federal aid which has been given in the past and which will be given with increasing liberality in the future. An independent institution would have to depend entirely upon state support, and many features which the present institution could offer could never be offered by the independent college. That the independent college would be the one to suffer from such a situation goes without saying, nothing would be gained to repay it for the things it would be compelled to sacrifice.

The arrangement agreed upon means a bigger, better and more efficient institution in West Texas than could ever be hoped for under any other. Its practical independence in all necessary matters will not be sacrificed and all objectionable features are eliminated. Moreover, it makes the passage of the bill creating the institution all the more certain. It will be a simpler matter to convince the legislature of the need of the new college when the question comes before them as a purely educational question, freed from all sectionalism. The spirit in which the West Texas people have gone after this thing proves they are not animated by sectionalism. They desire to promote education, and they believe the promotion of education in Texas demands the establishing of an Agricultural & Mechanical College in that section. The outlook is that this will be done without much difficulty.—Star Telegram.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

Honest Efforts

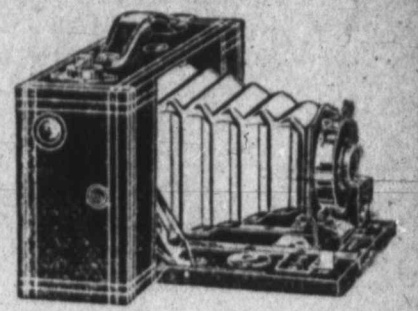

(By Horace Greely)

Moses was fated never to enter the land of promise he so longingly viewed from afar; and Columbus never found—who can now wish that he had?—that unimpeded sea route westward to India that he sought so wisely and so daringly. Yet still the world moves on and by mysterious and unexpected ways the great brave soul is permitted to subserve the benignant purposes of God contemplating the elevation and blessing of man. And so I can not doubt the unselfish efforts in our day for the amelioration of social hardships though their efforts may be rejected as mistaken or defective will yet signally conduce to their contemplated ends. Fail not, then, humble hope for "the good time coming," to lend your feeble sigh to swell the sails of whatever bark is freighted with earnest efforts for the mitigation of human woes, nor doubt that the divine breath shall waft it at last to its prayed-for haven!

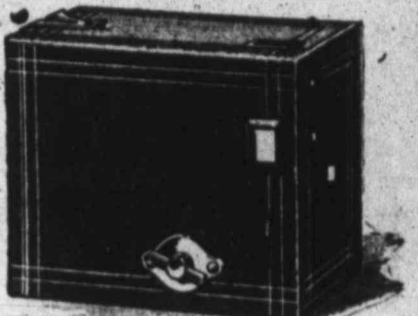

"Some day I know the evening sun will sink down its golden lane into the west but I'll have read the Greatest Poem of All and sought the solace of eternal rest. The little child-

Every democrat in Randall county should go to the polls on Nov. 7. Don't stay at home simply because there is only one party of strength in the state. There is a constitutional amendment to be voted upon which is of great importance to the educational interests of the state. Vote for that amendment.

Randall county cattle have again captured a bunch of good premiums in the great Kansas City show. And we have the best range cattle in the entire southwest—the judges say so.

On account of the high price of feed many farmers will sell many of their hogs this fall. But pork is certain to keep at a high price, and it may be a better plan to keep those hogs.

The more it rains, the more wheat grows; more wheat means more money for the Panhandle farmers next year.

A Randall county farmer made $100 per month during last winter from a small herd of dairy cows. The dairy cows is as profitable investment in Randall county as the range cow. There is always a ready market for all dairy products.

Why should anybody kill a mockingbird or a redbird? Why should doves be killed? No bird that is useful and harmless should be slaughtered. Hon. C. B. Metcalfe of San Angelo is leading a crusade against bird killers, and the incoming Legislature is to be requested to prevent by legislation, for five years, the killing of birds that are useful and birds that are not injurious. This will leave crows, hawks, British sparrows, jays etc., to be killed an ytime in the year, and will stop the slaughter of other birds that do no harm.—Dallas News.

Governor Ferguson and some of the members of the state university faculty seem to have thoroughly disagreed, and the Governor perferred charges against them before the board of regents. Texas schools are too much in politics. All governors have treated them alike. The regents are too much dependent upon the will of the politicians. It will not be long until this fault will be remedied.

Amarillo is working up sentiment to procure a district court for Potter county alone. Potter is now included with Randall, Armstrong and Donley counties. No doubt some of the aspiring lawyers outside of Amarillo hope to see the deal through.

The Amarillo News is a real daily newspaper now. It has all of the associated press stuff right up to the minute in every issue. Amarillo should appreciate the News as do the other towns of the Panhandle.

The reason that an American is an American is because he wants a car too large for his garage, a garage too large for his back yard and a back yard too large for his pocketbook.—Dallas News.

Wilson's answerd Hugh's attempt to drag the sectionalism quesin into the campaign. A 100 per cent candidate may be expected to do anything for votes. But what will it profit him?

Henry Ford is for Wilson morally but not financially. He should remember that getting elected president is no so easy as selling tin Henrys.

Randall county needs more land broken up into farms. A hundred farms could be rented this fall to new people coming in.

Suppose a German sub should enter Oyster Bay, would the explosion of the C. I. sink it?

Its about time for some fellow to start the early Christmas shopping talk—so here goes. Do it early.

Several new residences are being planned for Canyon this fall. But we need more rent houses.

Vote for the amendment across the bottom of the general election ticket on Nov. 7.

And Boston won, much to the mortification of some and glorification of others.

I. Thou shalt not put on other State, nor its products before Texas.
 II. Thou shalt not create an image in thy mind of Foreign-made goods being superior to Texas products; thou shalt not have a Fetish of the fruits of the factories out of Texas, to the detriment of thy neighbor, for he is as jealous of the creatures of his handiwork as thou art of thine; and if thou dost not give to thy neighbor thy Trade, showing him justice as well as Mercy, how canst thou look to thy thousands of Texas neighbors to trade with thee.

III. Thou shalt not break the Rule of "Patronize Home Industries" in vain for Loyal Texans will not hold their tongues that squander their substance beyond the borders of our own State.

IV. Remember on the Sabbath Day, as thou goest to worship in Texas Church, the interest of thy fellow Texans, and of thine own great State, and the good that thou canst do for the craftsmen, laborers and tillers of the soil of Texas.

V. Honor the products of Texas Soils, Looms, Workshops, Factories, and her Institutions of trade France and Learning, that thy Purse may grow long in this Empire that the Lord thy God has granted thee the great privilege as claiming as thy Home.

VI. Thou shalt not be instrumental in killing, nor in any way attempting to strifle the Industries of Texas, but shalt aid them to the fullest extent of thy power, that thine own may Prosper and wax Fat.

VII. Thou shalt strive mightily to aid in the upbuilding of Great Texas Prosperity.

VIII. Thou shalt not steal the Bread from thy neighbor's mouth by sending thy money great distances for that which thou canst buy from him at equal Prices.

IX. Thou shalt not fear false witness against the fruits of his Industry, but thou shalt aid him by word and deed in all his legitimate Enterprises, as thou wouldst desire him to assist thyself.

X. Thou shalt not covet thy neighbor's dwelling, nor any thing that is his or that he has accomplished, for by strict attention to the observation of these Commandments, all good things will be given unto thee, and in the resulting era of general Texas Prosperity that is inevitable, covetousness will have no place.—Clarendon News.

Origin of "Printer's Devil"

In early days printing was styled the "black art," and printers were supposed to be in league with Satan. But it was in the time of Aldus Manucius, in Venice, that matters took a serious turn. This was the famous printer who first published the Greek and Roman classics. He took into his employ a negro boy who was homeless on the streets in Venice. The people supposed the boy was an imp of Satan and helped in the printing. Mobs collected about to wreck the building when the boy was brought forward and exhibited, and it was shown that he was flesh and blood; but he still called "the printer's devil," and every boy in his position ever since has been so called.

NO REASON FOR IT

When Canyon Citizens Show a Way.

There can be no reason why any reader of this who suffers the tortures of an aching back, the annoyance of urinary disorders, the pains and dangers of kidney ills will fail to heed the words of a neighbor who has found relief. Read what a Canyon citizen says:

Mrs. Clarence Smith, E. Third St., Canyon, says: "My back was weak and ached. It was also stiff and sore. The kidney secretions annoyed me a great deal. Black spots floated before my eyes and caused dizziness. It took only a few boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills, procured from Burns Drug Store, to cure me and I have not been bothered since."

Price 50c. at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that cured Mrs. Smith. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

Mr. Johnson Says.

"A neighbor of mine returned from New York last week, and he told me about some fellow trying to sell him the court house at a bargain. He didn't buy it, because he figured that this man didn't have the right to sell it."

"The day after he got home, he met a smooth-talking young fellow on the street who was giving away a pair of spectacles and a news paper for 'just enough money to pay the postage on the paper,' which, he said, was $1.00. Of course, most everybody in town fell for this, although none of them had ever heard of this stranger before."

"If that fellow had tackled me, I would have told him to see the constable and get a note from him saying that all those fancy credentials were genuine. The fact is, though, I don't think I would have given him my subscription anyway, because there are too many subscription solicitors who live in this county, and spend their money here, for me to give my money to an unknown stranger who doesn't spend anything here but his time."

What we need worse than a law making "America" the national anthem is stern legislation that will enforce the proper tune among those who try to sing it.

The average mother knows that her fellow mother next door regards her own baby as prettier and better bred than hers, but she can never understand why.

The Toledo Blade says there is not as much singing in the Ohio saloons as there used to be. Where, then, do the men gratify their yearning to sing "The Old Oaken Bucket"?

"What will be the great discovery of the twentieth century?" asks a writer in the Scientific American. The great discovery, if made at all, will be a two-headed, freckled-faced boy of nine summers who loves castor oil on his pancakes.

A Thing of Beauty and the Coal Dealers' Enemy

The Vortex and Cole's Hot Blast

TESTED, TRIED, AND NEVER FAILED TO PLEASE. SAVES FUEL

Burns all the gases in coal which in soft coal amounts to more than half the fuel and which are wasted up the chimney with the ordinary under draft stove. The two top drafts discharge highly heated air into the combustion chamber with a rotary motion, which mixes it with the rising gases are more thoroughly than is possible with a single draft and these gases are thus oxidized and burned. The stove has a larger positive radiating surface than any other stove of the same diameter. Its handsome appearance with door surface milled air tight are additional points in its favor and are not found in any other hot blast.

THOMPSON HARDWARE CO.

To Make Trees Grow.

Many people who are building a home or who take possession of an old place neglect to plant trees upon the assumption that trees grow very slowly and that it takes a life-time to have trees large enough to be of any practical benefit to the place. Some with good intentions neglect the work of transplanting trees for two or three years and thus deprive themselves of that length of time in the growth and development of the trees.

That it does take considerable time for trees set in the yard to grow large, none can deny. But when we consider the value of the trees from the time they are large enough to add to the appearance of the place till large, broad and capable of casting dense shade, we cannot find any reason for neglecting tree planting.

Some observations of Elias A. Long an authority on landscape gardening, show how some of our ordinary shade trees grow under even fair conditions. The writer mentioned made some measurements in Buffalo Park of trees planted seven or eight years before. Here is what he found:

American elm, 19 feet high, 15 feet broad; silver maple, 22 feet high, 14 feet broad; Norway maple, 17 feet high, 14 feet broad; sugar maple, 16 feet high, 10 feet broad; white poplar, 30 feet tall, 25 feet broad, Lombardy poplar, 40 feet high; black and white pines, 12 to 15 feet tall, 10 to 12 feet broad; strong-growing shrubs, five to 12 feet high, five to 10 feet broad; dwarf-growing shrubs, two to four feet tall, three to five feet broad.

We are told by Downing of a silver maple tree, 12 years after planting, that has a trunk one foot in diameter and which grew shoots six feet long in one season.

We know that plants and trees are much like animals; they may grow and thrive, or they may dwarf and starve, according to the food available for them. We who have charge of them are responsible in a large measure for their growth.

We may summarize the needs of shrubs and trees in three divisions—moisture, plant food and protection from animals, insects, disease, etc. The general condition of the soil of course has to do with the available plant food. Such as leaf mold, manure, straw, etc., for mulch and humus are often desirable.

Lost time can never be gained in tree planting. Those who wait a few years to see their needs for trees will need them worse before the trees are large enough to be of benefit. The safest plan is to plant at once and then take the best care of them possible.
