

MILK DEMONSTRATION ON TRADES DAY

ELECTION FOR PAVING WINS BY 128-2 VOTE

COUNCIL WILL CLEAR PRELIMINARY WORK IN ORDER TO START WORK ON PAVING MARCH 1st.

The paving election Saturday was a very quiet affair, the bond issue being approved by the voters of Canyon by a majority of 128 to 2. The city council met Tuesday night canvassed the election returns, and made some plans as to the procedure to get the paving started. Mayor J. D. Gamble stated to the News yesterday that owing to prevailing conditions, the members of the council at the meeting Tuesday night decided to not put the bonds on the market until March 1st as they believe there would be a better market by that time, and all conditions would be much better for starting the work. Paving material is declining in price and by that time it is expected the labor market will be more favorable. It is not practical to attempt to do paving during cold weather, and 120 days hence the spring will begin to open. Mr. Gamble states that the bonds will be dated March first so that the tax payers will lose no interest and the contract will be let so that work may begin about that time. He believes that a saving of at least ten percent will result in the short wait. At the present time the city has a man working the streets, opening the ditches to the south in order to carry the water away from the public square. Mr. Gamble states that an engineer will be employed by the city to lay out grades which will keep all of the water away from the square.

KNIGHT BOAR GETS FOURTH AT FAIR

The big Duroc Jersey boar belonging to John Knight, King Jack's Friend, won fourth place in the show ring at the Dallas Fair last week against very strong competition. This boar is a litter mate of the sow which won fourth at the National Swine Show at Des Moines and she stood second at the Dallas Fair which was one of the best hog shows ever held in the southwest. Mr. Knight was offered a very handsome price for this boar after the show, but decided that better hogs were needed in the Panhandle country, and this could only be brought about by keeping in the country such fine animals as King Jack's Friend.

SCHOOL PARADE TUESDAY FAVORING AMENDMENT

The pupils of the Canyon public schools had a parade Tuesday morning to encourage the voters to support the school amendment in the election held that day.

The pupils came down headed by the drum corps of the school, followed by the other pupils from the tenth grade down to the beginners in the school. After circling the square once, the pupils halted on the east side and gave several yells and sang songs in support of the amendment. The parade caused much favorable comment.

Registered Stock to Royal W. E. Bennett and Wm. Gouddy are shipping five head of their Hereford bulls to the Royal show at Kansas City on the 18th of this month. Both breeders are among the leading breeders of this section.

Next Thursday will be November 11th—Armistice Day. The members of the Palo Duro Post are planning to make it a great day in Canyon with a program on the court house lawn if the weather permits, and if the weather is bad, the program will be held in the district court room. All members of the Post and all ex-service men are asked to appear in uniform. They will meet at the Club House on East Houston street at 10 o'clock to receive instructions from Post Commander H. C. Gamble. Church Call will be sounded at the court house at 11 o'clock and the program will then start. The program will be divided into two parts, the first to commemorate Armistice Day, and the second part to stress the importance of the Red Cross Roll Call. The speakers for the program are President J. A. Hill, Rev. Ted P. Holifield and Rev. Simeon Shaw. The day has been declared a legal holiday and the business houses will be asked by the Post to close.

SIX ACE BLACKIE IN PEN FOR CAR THEFT

"Six Ace Blackie" one of the men who stole J. E. Rogers' car two months ago is in the federal prison serving a sentence of one year and one day. As will be remembered this man and Harry Melvers were captured at Gallup, N. M., and returned to the Amarillo jail by Mr. Rogers and the Amarillo Sheriff. They broke jail two weeks later, Melvers making good his escape, and Blackie being captured again at Abilene. The prisoner will also have to stand trial in the Potter county district court after his term of sentence is completed.

Start Building Soon

Miss Mary Adaline Lamb has bought a lot of E. Burroughs on East Evelyn street and will start a new residence soon.

CLARENDON COLLEGE PLAYS HERE SATURDAY

Coming Three Games of Football on Home Ground by the Normal Team.

Clarendon College will play the Normal team in Canyon next Saturday afternoon. By comparative score the Normal has a good chance to win. Wayland and Clarendon have played two games, each winning a game. The New Mexico Military Institute defeated both the Normal and Wayland by the same score. Wayland defeated the Normal in a lop-sided game when the local had a very bad case of stage fright. On Nov. 13th the Southwestern State Normal of Weatherford, Okla., will play the normal here. On Nov. 19th the return game with Wayland will be played in Canyon. The Normal will close the season at Clarendon on Thanksgiving.

BLANKET TAX TICKETS ON SALE FOR CITIZENS

The West Texas State Normal College is the first school in the state to offer for sale blanket tax tickets to the citizens of the community. This plan was adopted last year, the tickets being sold to the members of the student body which allows the holder to almost all of the activities and programs held in the school, together with admission to the athletic games. This year the blanket tax system was extended to the citizens in order to give them the same opportunities as the students attending the school. Two classes of tickets are being offered to the citizens of Randall county: First, those calling for the four lyceum numbers; second, those giving admission to all athletic contests and the Normal debates to be held throughout the year. The first lyceum number will be given next Thursday night at the Normal auditorium, which comes as an especially strong feature.

Sold Bull for $1,000

E. C. Dodson sold one of his fine Hereford bulls this week for $1,000, the bull being shipped to Sweetwater parties.

REPUBLICAN VOTE LARGE IN COUNTY

Republicans Carry Randall County Outside of Canyon Box; Vote Very Heavy Tuesday.

The heavy democratic vote in Canyon saved Randall county from going republican in Tuesday's election. The entire vote was the heaviest ever polled in a general election in this county, and the republican vote was by far the greatest ever cast here. Three county boxes gave the republicans a big majority and three went democratic, but with a bigger republican vote than usual.

No votes were cast in the county for the Black and Tan Ticket. The American party received 2 votes in Canyon and 3 in Umbarger, while the Socialists scored 2 in Canyon and 1 in Umbarger.

The following was the vote by precincts:

Next Monday is Trades Day in Canyon.

The day will be one of unusual interest to the people of Randall County owing to the fact that a milk demonstration will be put on at the court house by the Agricultural and Home Economics Departments of the West Texas State Normal College.

Every person in Randall county interested in handling milk and the food properties of milk should attend the Milk Demonstration. This should include every person in the county.

SWINE BREEDERS TO HAVE SALE JAN. 15

Walker Calls Meeting at Court House for Saturday Afternoon This Week at 2 O'clock.

C. F. Walker has issued a call for all swine breeders to meet at the court house Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock for the purpose of making arrangements for a sale to be held in Canyon on January 15th.

Mr. Walker wants to meet owners of all breeds and would like to have a pledge of 40 to 50 hogs to enter the sale in January. A number of exceptional sales are being booked for this part of the county during December and January. There are enough breeders in Randall county of the very best of stock to guarantee a great sale.

FARM PRODUCTS WIN AT THE DALLAS FAIR

C. F. Walker returned Thursday from the Dallas Fair where he took some hogs and the Randall County exhibit which won 12th place. He states that his wheat was damaged in transit and that the heads heated, otherwise the county would have gotten better place. Mr. Walker's hogs failed to get a place against the 390 shown in his class, but John Knight's big boar won fourth place in his class.

The following premiums were won in the farm class:

- 1st baled Johnson grass.
- 3rd, 4th hard wheat.
- 3rd-bergamot.
- 3rd millet.
- 3rd alfalfa.
- 4th, 5th wheat, any variety.
- 4th oats.
- 4th sorghum.
- 3rd best 10 stalks seeded ribbon cane.

Red Cross Evening Classes

Miss Botsai has started Red Cross classes which meet at 7:15 on Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings. These classes are started in order to give an opportunity to those who could not attend the day classes.

Form the Habit of Right Eating

Most aversions to food are formed during or before the period of adolescence. These are deplorable, socially and economically, and may be the cause of badly selected diet. They arise through unpleasant associations as sickness or accidents; through imitation of others, especially admired adults; through unpleasant suggestions made by others; or through idiosyncrasies of taste. An enthusiasm for nourishing food needs to be cultivated among children by precept and example, and worthy foods should be kept from falling into disrepute by every legitimate means. The cultivation of a rational appetite will help immensely in laying the foundation of health for later years. Many of the results of dietetic indiscretions are not apparent immediately, and their seriousness is apt to be underestimated. Fuller physical stature, greater resistance to disease, freedom from fatigue, increased mental alertness are hard to measure in concrete terms. But psychologists and physiologists are perfecting tests, and these, even in their present crude state, give abundant evidence of the value of food in promoting health. And while we are right in insisting upon economy in the use of food materials, it must be a rational economy which avoids waste but recognizes the necessity of an ample food supply, rich in building material, not only through elementary school and high school, but even through college. Many a young man and woman has by subsistence on meager and unsuitable food during college years, paid the penalty of lowered resistance at the time when such a person should have been in his prime. If rigid economy must be practiced, let it be as far as possible on the seasoned adult who can best bear it, and not upon developing young people, whose right it is not only to be well born but also well reared.

NOTHING WILL TAKE THE PLACE OF MILK IN A CHILD'S DIET. GET THEM WELL STARTED.

Irlbeck Will Have Big Sale

Ludwig Irlbeck was in the city Monday from his stock farm near Happy. Mr. Irlbeck is one of the leading Poland China breeders in the Panhandle Plains country and has one of the finest herds in the entire section. He had a good sale of registered Poland Chinas in September and is planning another sale in December. Mr. Irlbeck stated to the News that he believed the advertising in the local papers of the Panhandle did him by far more good than the hundreds of dollars he spent in the swine publications over the country. Practically all of his buyers came from Randall, Swisher and adjoining counties and were brought by advertising in the Randall County News and other local papers. He believes that most breeders make the very sad mistake of spending all of their advertising money away from home and not using the home papers. He is now advertising by the year in several home papers and will devote practically all of his advertising for his next sale in the local papers. Mr. Irlbeck is one of the most successful breeders in the entire Northwest country and is making an exceptional record.

Come to Canyon to live.

RED CROSS ROLL CALL NOV. 11-25

The Annual Call of the Red Cross starts on Thursday, November 11th, Armistice Day.

Beginning that day and continuing for two weeks, the people of Randall County will be given the privilege of taking annual membership in the greatest humanitarian institution in this world.

H. C. Gamble is chairman of the drive in Randall County. Mr. Gamble is Commander of the Palo Duro Post of the American Legion and has the hearty co-operation of the entire membership of the local post in his work of enrolling every man, woman and child in Randall county in this great organization this year.

Mr. Gamble plans that most of the work in Randall county shall be done in one day—Armistice Day.

The members of the Palo Duro Post will meet at the Club House on East Houston street next Thursday morning at 10 o'clock to prepare for the Armistice program. At that time Mr. Gamble will assign different blocks in the city of Canyon and different communities in Randall county to the members of the Post who will make an effort to reach every person in his territory during the afternoon of Armistice Day. All of the men of the Post are highly interested in seeing that the people of Randall county line up with the Red Cross for the coming year, and will make a close campaign of the city and the county, inviting each and every person in his territory to join the Red Cross.

The Red Cross is not a mere war organization. Its greatest work has been done along other lines, especially when disaster overtakes a city or community. During the war the whole efforts and efficiency of the organization was directed to carrying for the American soldier.

Randall county made an exceptional record in Red Cross work during the war. Very few counties raised as much money for this institution as did Randall county. Practically every man, woman and child in the community was a member of the organization.

The Red Cross has as great a peace program as has the war program. The organization believes that health is of utmost importance in America today and it is in this direction that the Red Cross is extending its efforts and the force of its efficient organization.

The annual dues of the Red Cross is only $1.00. Half of this money will stay in Randall county to be used in supporting a nurse and for any other relief work that is necessary. That dollar will do a lot of good, and every citizen is expected to take out the membership for the coming year.

State Allowed Claim of 60,000 Acres
Claims of the state of Texas for 60,000 acres of land in the Panhandle, alleged to be excess in the survey of 3,000,000 acres of land granted the Capitol League Syndicate for erecting the capitol building in 1884, were allowed in a decision in the Fifty-third district court.

The state contended that the syndicate received 3,060,000 acres instead of the 3,000,000 acres due them, this contention being based upon a resurvey of lands held by the syndicate. The judgment allowed all state claims and directed that the 60,000 acres of land shall be taken from the 600,000 acres still in the hands of the syndicate and that it shall be in one body. E. F. Smith, assistant attorney general, who handled the case of the state, said he expects an appeal to be taken by the syndicate.

The Japanese Program

There is among art forms none more subtly appealing than that which leaves an impression of sheer beauty; nor is there on an appreciation of which is more difficult to express in words. This is, perhaps, because appealing through tone, line or color to emotion—thought serving but little in the process of enjoyment—it creates a mood, rather than stimulates thought.

This was the effect, upon the discriminating, of the program presented by Mr. and Mrs. Ongawa in the College Auditorium on Saturday evening, October the thirtieth. The setting itself, simple but very beautiful, was stimulating to the imagination, and little by little the audience was transported to the atmosphere of the Orient.

It is difficult to judge of the excellence of this charming program by applying any of our accustomed standards. Even so, we must acknowledge the superiority of these artists in the perfection of those very instruments of expression most imperfectly developed in American artists—gesture and diction. If, to our less delicately aesthetic notion the finesse of technique seeming at times too highly artificial—a trifle too self-conscious—not quite that greatly-to-be-desired "art which conceals art," we must grant it to be altogether charming, and to be the result of an over-emphasis upon excellence for which we have yet scarce begun to strive.

Theirs is "the new (?) manner," so much sought after in the Western world today—one of the dominant characteristics of the Little Theatre Movement, and associated with such names as Edward Gordon Craig, Max Reinhardt, Joseph Urban, Winthrop Ames, Stuart Walker and many others. This manner in its best expression consists of unobtrusive beauty and suggestive simplicity in the setting, soft but adequate lighting, with a sensitiveness to the significance of line and color,—all enhancing the interest in the actor as the central and dominant part of the artistic whole.

In this synthetic art are combined the arts of music, sculpture, painting the dance and the spoken word, all conspiring to produce that unity which is the test of every work of art.

The numbers on the program of the "Japanese Entertainers" were fragmentary, but in each was found this essential unity which has been described as "the whole expressed in each of the parts." The rose-clad figure of the Japanese maiden outlined against the black screen with the spot of gold on either side (made by the shrine and the Japanese lamp) was a picture of exquisite composition, which at the same time furnished an artistic setting for the song, "Moonlight and Waves."

The three representative dances were interesting as distinct types, but how can one describe the impression of classic beauty in the first, the free, fluttering grace of "Cho-Cho," or the peculiar quality of character impersonation in the Comic Dance.

How many in the audience who felt the charm of Mrs. Ongawa's exits realized that the handling of her kimono sleeves or her outer drapery in graceful long lines served in large measure to produce an effect akin to the "ceasing of exquisite music?" But—to speak of it thus is to destroy the charm. One should feel such beauty and avoid the sacrilege of outspoken critical analysis.

The pantomimed "Song of the Sword," was another example of this artistic unity and was convincing, because each striking pose was a true expression of a state of mind, while the samisen accompaniment was subordinated to the spirit of the whole.

The audience bore away with them an impression of wonderful beauty, which was as subtly haunting as a rare perfume. —M. M. B.

ROSWELL DEFEATS NORMAL BY SCORE OF 13 TO 0

Saturday afternoon the clouds hung low and a drizzling rain dampened the earth. But no inclement weather could discourage football enthusiasts. The student body was out in full force, with "pep" yells and college songs.

The rival teams met on the local gridiron at 3 o'clock and the grilling contest began. The Roswell eleven outweighed and outplayed our boys, but at no time in the history of football on the local grounds has a team put up a pluckier fight. Our boys knew that the "odds" were against them; but they fought persistently and consistently to the end, covering themselves with the glory of honorable effort.

The only touchdowns were made by the visitors, during the second quarter. After that the fighting Normal team held them scoreless. Roswell has a fast and a clean team, and from the beginning to the end the game savored of true sportsmanship.

Eruptions of the Skin Cause Torturous Itching

If you are afflicted with any form of skin disorder, you are well acquainted with the flaming, burning itching that these diseases produce.

Skin diseases are caused by an impurity or disorder in the blood, and there is no real and genuine relief within your reach until such impurities are removed.

S.S.S. has given great satisfaction in the treatment of these disorders, because it is such a thoroughly satisfactory blood purifier. It cleanses the blood of all impurities, and thus counteracts the effects of the germs that attack the skin.

Begin taking S.S.S. today, and if you will write a complete history of your case, our medical adviser will give you expert advice without charge. Address Chief Medical Adviser, 158 Swift Laboratory, Atlanta, Ga.

A prominent stock breeder from Illinois visited Randall county four years ago. Last week he made a return visit. He stated to the News that he had never seen the stock of any country improve in quality so greatly as had the live stock of Randall county in four year's time. When he first visited here, there were but few farmers who raised registered cattle; now practically every farmer has some registered animals, and the big herds have had the use of registered and big grade bulls until even these herds have improved at least 100 per cent. Four years ago, registered hogs were the exception on the Randall county farms; today every farmer who buys hogs demands that they be registered stock. A prominent breeder in this county was offered a very fancy price for a noted boar last week. He chose to keep the animal in order to further improve the hogs of this section. Had the boar been sold out of the county the quality of swine would have been suffered.

"Just as I expected," is the usual democratic comment upon the election returns denoting the election of Senator Warren G. Harding as the next president of the United States. There are very few democrats in the country who deep down in their hearts believed that Cox stood any show in the campaign. The people of the country wanted a change. The economic conditions of the past two years were enough to drive even dyed in the wool democrats to forsake their candidate and vote for Harding. The League of Nations question was ignored in favor of questions nearer at hand and seemingly more vital in their relations to American problems. The election is satisfactory to a vast majority of the people of this country, without reference to whether they supported the winning candidate or not.

The News believes that the United States will become a member of the League of Nations as soon as Warren G. Harding is inaugurated president of the United States. The League will be accepted practically as it now stands with only such reservations as to definitely outline the things that this country will and will not stand for upon the motion of the League. Furthermore, the News is certain that the United States would today be a useful member of the League had it not been for the bull-headed notion that President Wilson took to not consult or advise with the senate when the treaty of peace and League of Nations questions were in the making. For this fact, the members of the senate may be blamed as much as Wilson, however.

The paving proposition went over almost unanimously. The only criticism that the News offers is that the paving does not extend far enough. To pave only the square would not solve the mud problem in Canyon. The paving should be extended from the depot to the Normal. The News believes that a majority of the property owners on this street would favor the paving of Houston street, and that immediate steps should be taken in that direction.

It was with a great deal of pleasure that we read of C. W. Warwick having purchased all outstanding stock of the Randall County News at Canyon. Editor Warwick is one of the most thorough business men in the game in the Panhandle of Texas, and while the old stockholders will lose some dividends by disposing of their stock, yet they are winners by being able to retain such an efficient newspaper man in their community. The News feels that congratulations are due both ways, and we are mighty glad that C. W. Warwick remains in the Panhandle.—Clarendon News.

Last week's issue of the Randall County News carried the announcement of editor C. W. Warwick that he is now sole owner of that popular and prosperous paper, having bought all of the stock owned in that paper by Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Keiser, Oscar Hunt and J. W. Reid, amounting to three-fourths of the capital stock of the paper. Mr. Warwick owning the remaining fourth. Clyde Warwick is among the Panhandle's most popular and successful newspaper publishers and editors. For ten years he has been the guiding genius of the News, but was closing up his business affairs in Canyon preparing to seek a new location. His ability to buy the remaining shares of the company caused a change in his plans and he is now permanently fixed for all time to come. The Herald editor joins the Panhandle newspaper fraternity and the citizenship of Randall county in sincere expressions of gladness that both Mr. and Mrs. Warwick are to remain permanently in the glorious Texas Panhandle.—Panhandle Herald.

C. W. Warwick, editor of the Randall County News, announced last week that he had bought all the stock in the News, and is now sole owner. The News was for years owned by a stock company. Mr. Warwick has been connected with the News as editor for ten years, and has given the people of his town and country a splendid paper. In his announcement he states that he has recently communicated with more than 200 newspapers and investigated various towns, with the intention of leaving Canyon, but has found none as inviting a field as Canyon. He, therefore, elected to stay with the Randall County News, and accordingly bought out all the stockholders. The writer is a personal friend of Editor Warwick, of which fact we are proud, and it is with much joy we learn of his intentions of staying in Canyon, and that he assumes complete control as owner and publisher. While Mr. Warwick announces that he has had complete control of the News as to policy ever since he has been with the paper, yet he will find it more pleasant to be owner and publisher of his paper. The Beacon is owned outright by the writer. Not a soul owns a nickel in the Beacon save Ben F. Smith, who shapes its policies, writes all the editorial and feature articles, and only has to answer to his own conscience on any stand he takes on public questions.—Lockney Beacon.

C. W. Warwick has decided to remain in Canyon, having bought the stock of the other shareholders in the Randall County News. Warwick is a good newspaperman.—Plainview Herald.

CANYON BOY HAS BIG BUSINESS AT UNIVERSITY

Austin, Texas, Oct. 15.—Unusual is the method used by W. S. Gatewood of Canyon, Texas, to pay his expenses at the University of Texas. Mr. Gatewood came to Austin in the fall of 1919, and within a few days procured from the downtown district a "War Savings Bank" used in war time, had it moved to a location directly opposite the campus of the University and opened a second-hand book store. As the season progressed, he added school supplies and note books. Still later, as the cold weather created a demand for warm lunches he installed a gas stove and began to dispense hamburgers, to be accompanied by either soda water or milk, according to the taste of the customer. Candy, gum, mints and fruit were added and finally hot chocolate, in response to the demand from hungry students.

During the present school year Mr. Gatewood has sold already more than $3300 worth of books, according to his statement. This represents a total saving to the student body of $1250, he says. In addition he has on hand now about $2000 worth of books which he expects to dispose of later in the year.
"I have made more money with this small business in the year that I have owned it than I did in four years of teaching school, and at the same time have been able to attend the University," said Mr. Gatewood.
Mr. Gatewood employs several part time assistants, students with no exception, and thus has time for his university work.

Twentieth Wedding Anniversary
One of the most delightful celebrations during the Hallowe'en season was the surprise cover dish luncheon given in honor of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Service's twentieth wedding anniversary. A large number of friends and relatives came in at the dinner hour with abundant good things to eat. Rev. Shaw reperformed the wedding ceremony, and then dinner was served. The spirit of good fellowship pervaded the whole group, and the hours passed too quickly. Each guest, upon leaving felt the ties of friendship and home bind him—just a little stronger.—Contributed.

NORMAL BOYS WILL GET PIGS FOR CLUB WORK

Prof. Frank R. Phillips is making arrangements with C. F. Walker, county agent, to get pigs for all of the members of his pig club. Bred gilts will be handled by a number of the boys.

Every boy in the Vocational Agricultural department will be compelled to have a pig, cow, calf chicken or some kind of an animal in order to make the work practical. The boy must present an accurate record of the cost of the animal, the amount of feed used in six months, the amount of care given the animal. No credit is given for the course until this record is presented.

Mr. Phillips states that while every thing done is with a view of keeping away from the "book-farming" idea, yet the so-called "book-farming" is nothing more or less than a record of the experience of the very best farmers of the country.

Sheep Turn Waste To Profit

Earl Moulton, who for a number of years has been in the sheep business in the Estancia Valley, and is now connected with the Chas. Ifield Company, is in Mountainair today, to meet some of our farmers and discuss with them the possibility and advantages of keeping a few sheep on each farm.

In talking with the Independent man, Mr. Moulton said: "There is so much feed going to waste in this part of the country, which could easily be turned to a cash bank balance. There are great stacks of bean hulls—some of which have stood untouched since last year's crop was threshed—which together with feed left to waste in the fields after harvest, could readily be turned to good account. If the farmers would secure a few sheep, according to the amount of feed they have, and allow the sheep to utilize this otherwise waste product, they would be surprised at the returns from the small investment. For example, old ewes could be secured, and bred to lamb rather early in the spring. Then by pushing the feeding of the lambs a little, by July or August, the lambs will bring more than the original cost of the ewes, and the farmer has his ewes left as well as the wool from them. At every bean-hull stack, there are enough beans that have gone through the separator together with splits and damaged beans which the sheep will eat, to supply all the grain necessary for the animals. Give the sheep some pasturage together with the run of the stack, and they will practically care for themselves, and grow fat at it.

"In speaking of the grain ration for sheep, Mr. Moulton said that from a fourth to a half of a pound of beans contains all the food properties in the way of grain that a sheep needs. At this maximum amount 100 pounds of beans or splits would feed one sheep 200 days of about 7 months. I know from experience that beans, bean hulls and pasture will cause the sheep to put on flesh and keep them in good condition.

Old Wolf Caught in the Act

The other day on a ranch near Clearmont, Wyoming, Luther Zing heard his cattle bawling. He rushed out and was amazed to observe that a mother wolf had driven about fifty head into a bunch, around which she had stationed eight half-grown pups. The old lady was engaged in educating the pups in the art of hamstringing the stock. So intent were the wolves on the job that they did not observe Zing until he galloped his horse into their midst. He roped one pup, dragged it until it was helpless, turned and rode his horse over it, the animal's hoofs beating it to death, loosened the rope and got a second pup, which was dispatched in the same manner. Meanwhile the mother, who at first attempted to attack Zing's horse, had decamped with the other six pups. Several head of cattle were severely bitten by the mother wolf, but she was interrupted before she had hamstrung any. The wolf's den was located the day after the attack on the cattle, but the wise old marauder had moved the survivors of her family to some other location.—Field and Farm.

Keep the Boys on the Farm
Messrs. J. C. Simpson, of Muskogee, Oklahoma, and Carl Rosenfeld of Kelley, Ioka, are using some methods that will help keep their boys on the farm. After the boys have worked hard helping to fit the show herd they let them take the cattle out to see personally the results of their labors.

Mr. John F. Simpson, twenty-year-old son of J. C., is out taking in the entire circuit with their herd, having sole charge of the cattle and does the bulk of the showing. Mr. J. C. remained at home and according to last reports was trying to get some prairie hay baled but it would not stop raining long enough for him to make much headway at it.

Mr. George Rosenfeld, the sixteen-year old son of Carl Rosenfeld is out on the circuit with their show herd, and while the experienced herdsman, Mr. Ben Brown, is with him, yet he goes 50-50 with the work and does his share at showing. His smile is just as big as the smile his father carries when he gets a blue ribbon. Think these boys will leave the farm?

Fight Insects Now With Plow
Fall plowing is the most universally effective way of controlling the insect pests that annually cause great losses to the grain farmer. It is much easier and cheaper, says the Bureau of Entomology, United States Department of Agriculture, to prevent an insect outbreak in this manner than it is to stamp out the infestation once it is fully developed. The Hessian fly, so destructive to wheat, is one of the insects that can hardly be eradicated once it is established in the crop. Fall plowing is recommended because it breaks up the soil and destroys the grubs and pupae of many insects by exposing them to the sun and air.

Farmers' Bulletin 835, prepared by the Bureau of Entomology, tells how to control the most common and dangerous of the grain farmers' insect enemies. It gives briefly the life histories of the Hessian fly, army worm, cutworms, grasshoppers, white grubs, billbugs, corn-root aphid, and wireworms, with authoritative data describing the characteristics of each pest and the best practical remedies for control. The bureau advises the grain farmer to plow in the fall, if possible; to keep a supply of insecticides and a spraying outfit on hand; to watch the crops carefully for an outbreak, and to report all outbreaks to the county farm adviser, or direct to the Bureau of Entomology, United States Department of Agriculture.

Didn't Need to Advertise
Under the above caption an advertising agency recalls the disappearance of Pearlina from the market, and the reason for its eclipse, and then points out the moral of the story as follows:

"Do you remember Pyle's Pearlina? Once it was the most popular washing powder in America.

"In 1907 Pyles Pearlina ceased advertising. They did not have to advertise. Advertising was no longer necessary. Pearlina was a good product and every body knew about it.

"In 1914 the Proctor & Gamble Company bought Pyle's Pearlina at their own price to save it from bankruptcy.

"In seven years the public forgot Pearlina. You have got to do more than make a good product. You must tell your dealer and consumer and keep on telling them the advantages of your article.

"If people did not die, if people did not move, if new generations did not grow up, if customs and habits did not change, if competitors did not compete, if people were not open to suggestion, and receptive to new ideas, then there would be no need of advertising.

"But until then advertising is the surest safeguard for the established product, the most certain hope for the new idea."—Advertising Age.

A Chemist's War
According to a report issued by the War Department, gas caused more casualties in the American Expeditionary Force in France than "gun-shot missiles," which in previous wars decided most of the battles. There were formerly combats, it is true, in which artillery played a major part—that is to say, shell and shrapnel. In the Great War shrapnel and shell not charged with gas were far down on the list as destructive agencies. The gases used by the enemy were most terrible in surprise attacks. Of 266,112 admissions to the American hospitals in France, 8,980 or 3.4 per cent were due to gas, and no less than 38,396 to mustard gas, which the Germans were first to use in quantity. "Gunshot missiles" caused 32 per cent of the American casualties, shrapnel 15.2 per cent and shell 8 per cent. Much was heard in descriptions of trench fighting of the deadly hand grenade, but no more than 1,156 Americans were wounded by that ancient but improved method of attack. Only 245 were brought with bayonet wounds to the hospital.

In comparing gas and "gunshot" casualties, which are close together on the list, it must be considered that the enemy often ran short of gas. Maj. Gen. William L. Sibert, director of the Chemical Warfare Service, has said that the Germans were never able to manufacture more than ten or fifteen tons of mustard gas a day. At the time of the Armistice the United States had completed a chloride plant with a capacity of 100 tons a day. If the war had gone on, the American forces would have been supplied with enough mustard gas to overwhelm the enemy in every battle.

The subject is not a pleasant one, and it was difficult to interest Congress in the establishment of a permanent Chemical Warfare Service Bureau, to be attached to the War Department. Orge was authorized, however, in the Army reorganization bill, which was passed just before Congress adjourned. There can be no doubt that if there is another great war, gas will cause vastly more casualties than "gunshot missiles," a term that includes ammunition fired from machine guns, which on the fields of France were often used side by side over a far-extended front. General Sibert, admitting that chemical warfare was at first viewed with horror and condemned as barbarous (it was felt that such an insidious agency should be forbidden) says:

"As soon as the scientific world developed means of protecting the soldier against it, and the various advantages, strategical and tactical, of its use became known, military men began to look upon it as a means of warfare that had come to stay and

It has become a commonplace of prediction that chemists would kill their millions in another war between great nations. All the Powers are preparing to use explosives and gases of unprecedented destructive force, to be discharged from airplanes and dirigibles as well as from field guns. General Sibert tells us that the mustard gas devised by the American chemists, but never used, would have been far more deadly than the German variety, which drove the British out of strongly fortified Armentiers in one hour. It cannot be impressed upon civilized peoples too much that a chemist's war would be incalculably more disastrous to the nations engaged in it than the struggle of 1914-18. The American people must ask themselves whether they can afford to disregard the conviction of the thirty-nine countries now forming the League of Nations that it offers the best safeguards against the horrors and waste of modern war.—New York Times.

Use More Milk Campaign

Rosier cheeks, brighter eyes, plumper bodies, keener minds and better health for the children of the Panhandle—these are the aims in "Use More Milk" drive beginning the next Trades Day, Nov. 8, in Canyon. The Randall County Commercial League is putting on the campaign thru the Agricultural and Home Economics Departments of the West Texas State Normal College, in an effort to get every child in the Panhandle to use at least a pint of milk each day in its diet.

The people of the Panhandle have long been able to feed their live stock so as to win championships in Kansas City and Chicago, but they have been content to let their children "just grow." The "Use More Milk" drive is a start toward scientific feeding of children.

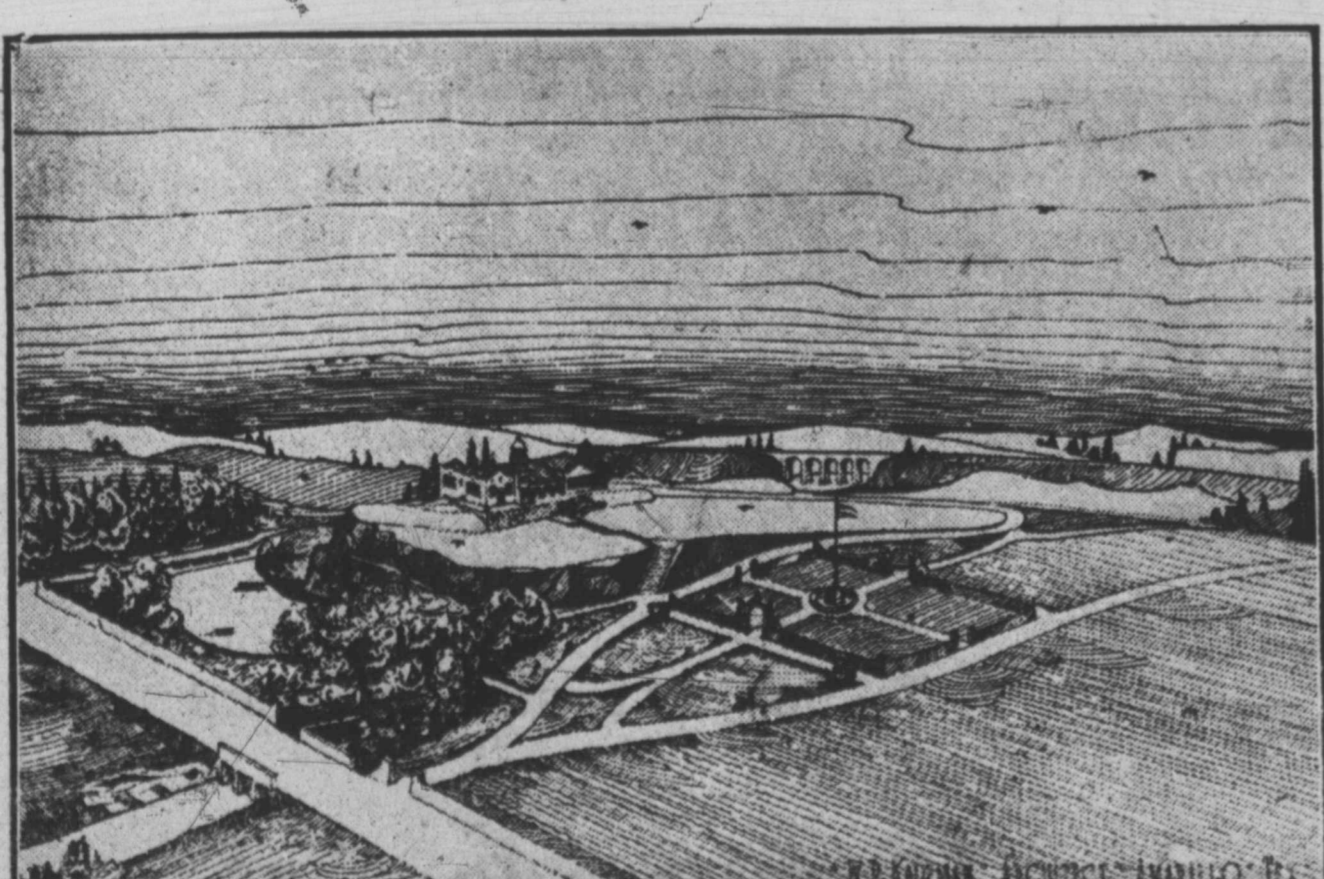

Statistics show that a large percent of children are underweight. In one county where a survey showed 69 per cent were underweight a campaign was started; in one of the schools fifteen out of twenty-four were underweight when the test began Jan. 28, though they had received as much food as they cared to eat, but the food was not of the right kind. The children brought a pint of milk with them each day, drinking one half of it in the morning and one half in the afternoon. When the experiment ended May 15, it was found that nine of the children who were underweight in the beginning had become exactly normal, three had become overweight and three others were still below normal. One child who had failed to gain was found to have an undeveloped thyroid gland and the case was put in the hands of a physician.

The Agricultural and Home Economics Departments of the West Texas State Normal College decided if 62.5 per cent of the children in the above school could be brought up to normal by the use of a pint of milk it was worth while to put on a campaign to get every growing child in the Panhandle to use milk.

Miss Georgia Watkins of the Home Economics Department will give a demonstration at 1:30 p. m. on some of the uses of milk in the diet. Recipes for the dishes prepared will be given away.

STARTING NEW COUNTRY CLUB NEAR CITY

Mrs. Winston Marks nee Winston Hitchcock, formerly of this city has bought the Herman Wragge place on the Highway north of Canyon, and will soon start work on a new country club to be called "The California Club."

The land is an ideal location for such a club, laying along the Palo Duro creek, with enough of the creek and some bluffs for a building site.

Mrs. Marks is going to offer for sale shares in the club to the people of Canyon and Amarillo. Improvements to the amount of $15,000 will be started at once, consisting of a club house, walks, dam, golf links, swimming pool, etc. A large dining room and dance hall will be maintained.

The Randall County Fair Association has been offered the use of the south part of the land for the fair grounds if the location suits the organization, the rent to be free the first year, and after then a small rental for each year for a period of ten years.

Mrs. Marks is highly enthusiastic over the proposition and believes she will soon have a much finer club than any now in existence in the Panhandle country.

Canyon, Trades Day, Nov. 8

The Panhandle needs more dairy cows.

There is no stock on the farm that will return as much value in production for the amount of feed fed as the dairy cow. With milk selling at fifteen cents per quart and butter fat around sixty cents per pound, and feed plentiful and cheap, there should be a big profit in keeping cows this winter.

Any cow that is worth keeping must give over four thousand pounds of four-per cent milk per year. Many will give over twice that much. It costs but little more to feed a high producer than a scrub.

Can you answer these questions?

How much milk does your cow give per year (not counting the foam)?

What per cent of butter fat is this milk?

How many germs in this milk?

Are you feeding a balancing ration?

Can you feed a cheaper ration and get as much or more milk?

The writer has kept a grade Jersey-Herford cow in town for the past year, paying current prices for every bit of feed used, at an expense of $70.00. This cow has produced almost five thousand pounds of four per cent milk and has made a net profit above all expense $160.00. If this can be done on a low grade animal, what can be done with a good one?

If you are interested in milk cows, come to the Dairy Demonstration at Randall County Court House next Trades day.

Early Panhandle Farming

By Phebe K. Warner in Star Telegram.

These fine Autumn days while the people of Texas are busy viewing the prize-winning kafir, cane, maize and wheat in the Panhandle booth of the State Fair, we thought it might be interesting to you to hear a little about how and when and where agriculture had its birth in the Panhandle.

According to the most reliable information to be found it is now thirty-seven years since the first agricultural products appeared in what is known as the Panhandle of Texas. The first Panhandle soil to be broken and transformed into grain was near Goodnight in what was afterward carved out of Armstrong County. Cotton was the first agricultural experiment and wheat was second. Both proved profitable so far as the yield, but either could be marketed at a profit because of the isolated location. Indian corn proved a success also but could not be marketed for lack of transportation and people.

Kafir corn and maize were introduced by Secretary Rusk in 1890, while sorghum has been raised for feed ever since there has been any need for feed. Later sorghum was raised for seed after a market had been created for it.

Oats was grown in small quantities for horse feed from the first. The first re-alfield of oats was sowed by Lee Dyer, a brother of Mrs. Charles T. Goodnight. This field was near where Canyon now stands on the land that later became the farm of John Hudson. This was a fine field of oats and might have advertised the shallow water belt to the world thirty-five years ago, but about a week before time to harvest a herd of wild buffalo got into the field one night and when Mr. Dyer returned to harvest his crop there was not a head of oats standing.

This was really the first lesson on how to market a Panhandle crop but the demonstration came thirty-five years before the people. Today the crops around Canyon are being marketed not by buffalo, but in the form of red hogs.

The first wheat ever threshed in the Panhandle grew near Goodnight. The Denver railroad furnished the seed. Sam Dyer, another brother of Mrs. Goodnight, did the work. The Denver-shipped in a binder and thresher, cut and threshed the crop and shipped the machinery back. No combines then. There were 104 acres and it averaged 8 bushels per acre. President Meek of the Denver road offered to pay for putting the wheat in but Mr. Goodnight paid all expenses and furnished the land for the experiment. The Denver did the rest and received the crop.

In 1891 Mr. Goodnight distributed a car load of wheat free to the neighbors for sowing. The contract was that every one who accepted the wheat was to put it in six inches. Those who kept the contract had wheat; those who did not failed. For several years Mr. Goodnight spent $100 to $150 every year experimenting with different seed, with the result that kafir and milo maize proved to be the best adapted to the latitude and longitude of the Panhandle, the conditions being more nearly perfect at an elevation of 3,000 feet.

"We have accomplished more here in thirty years than has been accomplished in any other part of the United States in from 50 to 150 years," said Colonel Goodnight not long ago, as he reviewed the marvelous development of this great country for which he has lived and worked so many years.

Ranches were established when nothing else could have thrived. Every cent of money originated with the ranches. Everything marketed was marketed through a ranch. There were no railroads and the only way to market anything was on foot or over the wagon trail.

The first public school was built at Clarendon, and the same little city still leads in educational affairs, with the exception of our one State school built near the oats field that was consumed by the buffalo.

The first church was built and supported by Mrs. Goodnight. From the very start, the pioneers of the Texas Panhandle, all of them, stood for high ideals in morals and education. And while we of today look with pride upon all that is being done in agriculture, stock raising, education and commerce, let us not forget to give credit to the brave ranchmen of the Plains who paved the way for such an exhibit as the people of Texas have seen in the Panhandle section at the Fair.

Thirty-five years ago, one field of oats, one field of wheat. This year, millions of bushels of prize-winning grain and more new farms in the past ten years than anywhere else in the United States.

Panhandle Surprises Oklahoma Folks

A surprising feature of the statistics tabulated by the State Department of Agriculture, showing the distribution of agricultural wealth in Oklahoma was the record of Texas County. Located up in the Panhandle—in the short grass country—it seems no one expected it to give much of an account of itself. But the cold figures prepared by the agricultural department's statistics place Texas county fifth in the state in the value of its crops last year. It produced $14,058,131 worth of agricultural products. Among its various kinds of livestock were 190,774 chickens and 2,647 turkeys. There were 102 tractors and 74 silos within its boundaries.

There is the largest percentage of home-owned farms in the state in Texas county. John Whitehurst, president of the board of agriculture, asserts 78 per cent of the farmers own their farms. It is true, however, that this percentage has decreased since 1910 when 82 per cent farmed their own land. Texas county, also furnishes an example of the absorption of small farms by larger ones; there were 3,026 farms in the county in 1910, and 2,250 in 1919.

There are 1,321,000 acres in Texas county, of which 826,917 acres are in farm land and approximately 433,000 acres under cultivation. Guymon is the county seat.—Oklahoma City Correspondence in Wichita Eagle.

Has Developed a New Feterita

Superintendent R. E. Dickson, of the Spur Experiment Station, is one of the most progressive, active, and, we venture, gets more and better actual, beneficial results for the people and the country, than any other substitution agent in the state of Texas. Several years ago, along with his other experiment work, R. E. Dickson successfully developed what is now known, recognized and appreciated throughout the whole country as Spur Feterita—a variety of feterita which produces abundantly of large, full grain heads which will not shatter, and which is now being grown extensively throughout the country in preference to other varieties.

However, not being content with the success of his experiment, Mr. Dickson's latest achievement is the development of a superior product in feterita which he designates as Spur Dwarf Feterita. While this later product may be of somewhat finer grain and fuller heads, its chief difference from the Spur Feterita is in the height of the stalk. The Spur Dwarf Feterita is approximately two feet lower than the Spur Feterita, which makes it easier and less tiresome to head. The Dwarf is also early, quick maturing and will not shatter, making a superior grain crop for West Texas.

Mr. Dickson is becoming a second Burbank in the matter of in-breeding and development of farm products. As soon as one experiment and test is completed and made a success, he begins another. He is now working on a new development by in-breeding alfalfa, and in the course of time Spur will be given the further distinction of producing a new and much improved variety of alfalfa from the experiments and tests now being made. This alfalfa will grow and thrive here has been thoroughly demonstrated at the Spur Experiment Station in the past five or six years during which time several acres of alfalfa has been grown and harvested each year—even during the dry years.—Spur Texas Spur.

Champion Panhandle Syrup Maker
Mack Moat, who farms southwest of Childress a few miles, is perhaps the champion syrup maker of the Panhandle. Mr. Moat has been busy for several days making syrup from sorghum and the quality this year is very fine.

Mr. Moat has not been able to secure enough buckets and small cans to hold the syrup made, so he is now buying five gallon oil cans from the Norris Hardware Company. Up to Thursday morning Mr. Moat had purchased twenty-six of the large cans.—Childress Index.

High School Notes

The past week, although seemingly full of interesting events offers very little to report.

The Third Grade gave an interesting entertainment in chapel last week. The main play was called the "Black Cat" with J. D. Prichard, Ward Hughes, Edmund Sone, Normal Clauch, W. L. Wilson, and William Flesher as "Black Cats." The play was very comical and was heartily laughed over by every one. The remainder of the program consisted of another short play and two songs by the girls and a reading by Maude Evelyn Foy.

The monthly tests were given last week and a very few failures were made. But no one made as good a grade as they wished.

The first team went to Amarillo to play football Friday but they had to play a team much larger than they should have played and lost the game.

The pupils paraded around the square Tuesday in the interest of the better schools amendment. They grouped on the east side of the square and gave several yells and sang songs boosting the amendment.

On Tuesday, Oct. 22, the Campfire Girls of the Canyon High School had a sale of sandwiches and candy. The proceeds were eighteen dollars and were used to purchase rings and manuals. That afternoon the girls went on a picnic and the left overs from the sale were eaten on this trip. At the weekly meeting a tacky party was staged at the home of Misses Grace and Momi Williams. The program consisted of jokes and fortune telling. A bead of honor was presented to the tackiest person.

Great Day for Canyon Baptists

Sunday, Oct. 31, 1920, was a great day in the Canyon Baptist Church. The entire day was given over to the young people and the older members sat back and rejoiced to see their boys and girls serve the Lord and honor Him with their talents and lives.

At the eleven o'clock hour the Normal students, who attended the Brownwood Convention for Baptist students of Texas, gave soul-stirring reports of the blessings and inspiration they had received from this great gathering of young people. The work the Student Department is trying to do was put before the church and their support and loyalty asked for. Almost the entire audience heartily responded and we feel that great good shall result from this service.

Almost fifty young people from Hereford, Tulia, Happy and other points arrived on the afternoon trains to meet with the Canyon B. Y. P. U. in an Associational Meeting. They were given a hearty welcome by the B. Y. P. U. pers.

At the evening hour, in the presence of a large congregation, a helpful and inspiring program was given. Representatives from the various towns were the speakers of the hour.

One of the most delightful features of the program was the music rendered by the Hereford delegates.

The evening ended with a social hour and all present declared that we had indeed had rich blessings on this Sabbath day. —Contributed.

Faculty Ladies Hem/Napkins For Cousins Hall

On Saturday, October 23, at 3:00 o'clock, Misses Rambo and Bell were hostesses to the lady members of the faculty and the wives of the men members. Beside the social feature of the meeting, it was for the practical purpose of hemming napkins for the use of girls at Cousins Hall. Later in the afternoon, a salad course, olives, chocolate, and wafers were served by the Home Economics Department.

At the meeting, it was decided to organize a faculty ladies and faculty wives circle, for the purpose of strengthening the social bonds. The first regular meeting was designated to be held at Mrs. Guenther's with Mesdames Guenther, Terrill, and Duflot, and Misses Lamb, Brigham, and Hamill as hostesses.

Fact and Comment

Did you ever notice that people who change their minds often never seem to get a good one in the process?

Who would have supposed that the athletes from little Finland, the most remote and inclement of European countries would take second in the Olympic games—second only to the United States? If it is hard to raise other crops in Finland, the crop of hardy, agile human beings seems to be excellent.

A half holiday on the farm seems incredible, but it is true. Middlesex County, Ontario, is the place and Wednesday is the day. The United Farmers' organization brought it about by agreement among the members. Every Wednesday afternoon the farmers—their hired men, their sons and daughters and wives take a half day off and spend it as they please—at a picnic, the movies, in hunting or fishing or a ball game. There is already a baseball league in the organization.

An Austrian statesman who knew everything that went on during the fateful July of 1914 has an interesting explanation to offer for the outbreak of the war. "It was the telephone," he says. "Its workings with Berlin and St. Petersburg ruined us. Instead of writing old-fashioned notes which would have given us time to think, we telephoned—and lost our heads." Haste is destructive everywhere. In diplomacy its effects are perhaps more fatal than anywhere else.

Not only has wise management increased the number of seals on the government property in the Pribilof

Islands: it has found uses for what was formerly wasted. The blubber is now tried out, the meat is fed to the silver and black foxes that the government raises for their fur, and the bones and offal are made into fertilizer. There are piles of bones on the islands that are several feet thick and more than a hundred years old, and extend for a hundred miles. Those, too, are now being gathered and made into fertilizer.

Oil does not seem to be the right kind of emollient for the Mexican troubles.

On July 1, when the protection of land fur-bearing animals in Alaska passed from control of the Department of Commerce to that of the Biological Survey, new protective went into effect, by which certain kinds of traps and the use of dogs and of poison are forbidden, and closed seasons are prescribed to fit the local conditions of the three sections into which, for protective purposes, the territory is divided. The new laws should help to conserve the fur-bearing animals of Alaska, which have been and are still a source of large revenue, but which have been shamefully exploited.

The wide use of finger prints for purposes of identification has raised the question of how to record deeds that are "signed" by finger prints. Obviously, finger prints are not nearly so likely to be forged as the mark that an illiterate man makes as his signature, and such a deed already has been offered for record in the county clerk's office of Queen's county, New York. For want of particular instructions the clerk recorded it as if it were signed by a mark, for which the law prescribes a definite procedure. It is suggested that the difficulty can be solved in the future by placing with the record a photograph of the finger-print impression.

The scarcity and high price of both wood and coal have directed attention to the sunflower as a possible source of good fuel. Land that is too poor to produce other crops will produce sunflowers, though they do better, of course, with fertilizer and cultivation. An acre of land will produce about three cords of stalks, some of which will be two or three inches in diameter. The seed make excellent food for cattle and hens, or they can be ground for oil. Any farm boy who has had to cut hickory or rock-maple firewood will hail the sunflower as a public benefactor.

Prospective Mothers who prepare carefully with Mother's Friend make Child-birth easier.

It is recorded of the primitive American Indian women that child-birth with them was entirely painless.

Modern dress was unknown!

Exact social duties that wreck so many women of today were a minus quantity in their lives; and so it is small wonder that the weaker sex becomes a prey to misgivings when approaching maternity nears the crisis.

But this should not be—because —the prospective mother can find comfort in MOTHER'S FRIEND. An external lubricant that spreads its influence over the skin; penetrates to the broad, flat abdominal muscles, and prepares the way for an easier, quicker and practical delivery.

Many doctors and nurses recommend MOTHER'S FRIEND. Get a bottle from your druggist today.

For valuable booklet—"MOTHERHOOD and The BABY"—free, fill in coupon below and mail direct to the makers of MOTHER'S FRIEND.

WARNING: Avoid using plain oils, greases and substitutes—they act only on the skin and may cause harm without doing good.

The Sabbath Day

I believe in the infinite wisdom and goodness of God. He instituted the Sabbath. It is a day set aside by our God as a day of rest. The Hebrew verb, Sabbath, means to rest, and our word Sabbath was taken from it. Our Sabbath is one day in every seven set aside by our state as a day of rest from all, except necessary, secular work. It was not designated as such because God had set such a day, but because the most observant statesmen of this age see that such a day is necessary in human life.

More and more as the world goes forward in knowledge and discernment is the Bible found to be man's best guide.

It is not my purpose to write about our state Sabbath. God instituted a Sabbath and made his law concerning it. This God did, because He knew it to be for the best interest of man. This is why God makes all his laws, because they demand a course of conduct that is the best and only course of life that will bring man to his best estate.

God's laws are binding upon all responsible creatures, and all such must answer to Him.

God's law of the Sabbath is not a religious law only, but it is a civil and moral law, as well—a law of universal application. Every man is answerable to God for its observance. The man who has no Sabbath, who keeps no stated day of rest in every seven. Who has no regard for God's command to keep his Sabbath holy must fall under the displeasure of God. As for me, I had rather my life should be pleasing God than that it should be any other wise.

It seems to me that he who makes the Sabbath day a day of merchandise, a day of secular work—work whose aim is material and financial gain—is flaunting his disobedience, his own will, his utter and shameless disregard of God's will in the very face of God.

There is one class above all others who should sacredly, joyously and constantly keep the Sabbath. That class holds in its numbers all who profess that God's will is their law. To them, if to no others, God has made it both a day of rest and a day of worship. For them to disregard their Father's will is to put his cause to shame and to say to the world that they care less for God's pleasure than they do for their earthly gain.

God loves his people. He loves them too well to allow them to go on without his correcting rod. In past ages He has visited his people with the severest chastisement when they disregarded His Sabbath. From His dealings with his ancient people can't we learn to fear Him. Would that some knowledge would put the fear of God into our hearts. Yet, we who love Him should not have to be driven to obedience through fear. We owe Him everything. We are His. He loves us. Nothing good will He withhold from those who love Him. To please Him should be our greatest joy.

I believe with all my heart that for the people of our goodly town to observe God's Sabbath as He has directed in His Book will be for the enrichment of every character that exercises in that sacred duty and will bring upon us other inestimable blessings.

Let God's people set and maintain the example, then this day will soon bring to us and our children immeasurable good. I believe it. Don't you? I am going to try to keep the day holy. Won't you? I believe in God and I love you, therefore have I written.

 First frost of any consequence was noticed Nov. 1. A little more on the 2nd, with nearly 1-4 inch of ice.

Pounding
 A great crowd surprised the pastor and his wife at the church Monday night. Prof. Johnson made a nice little talk on Loyalty, and Bro. Geo. S. Wyatt spoke about many things. By this time the pastor caught on to the pounding and made a short talk of thanks. Then we all went into the Primary room and the whole face of the earth was covered with good things. A whole ham; a whole box of apples; and enough to feed the Shaws for weeks. It took a whole Hudson car to transport it all to the parsonage, and ever since the golden tide flows in.
 Bro. and Sister Shaw certainly appreciate the spirit of love and appreciation which has taken this abundant form. It will take devoted service to the worthy of such expression of good fellowship.
