

SHERIFF BLACK PUTS IN A BIG DAY SATURDAY

ARRESTED MOTORCYCLE AND AUTO THIEVES IN ONE DAY

Takes Two Shots at Car, and Then Races Almost of Amarillo Before Capture is Made.

Sheriff W. C. Black put in a full day Saturday, and added three arrests to his record, all of the men being turned over to sheriffs of other counties in which they were wanted for theft.

Saturday morning the Sheriff was notified that a motorcycle had been stolen in Floydada, and during the afternoon two young men were arrested by Mr. Black. The men were turned over to the Floyd county sheriff before night and returned to Floydada.

Saturday night a mad chase was staged between Sheriff Black and a man with a stolen Essex. Judge Dinwiddie had driven his Essex up to the curb in Tullia. A young man was seen to enter it and drive away at a rapid rate. Sheriff Black was notified that the car was headed this way. With two deputies he went to the highway, and stood an Oakland car across the road. Armed with a shotgun, the sheriff stepped to the south of his car and awaited the coming of a car which they believed to be the stolen one. The driver never checked, and Mr. Black was forced to back out of the way or get run over. He let drive with his shotgun into the car, two loads taking effect in the gas tank, but failed to puncture the steel tank. The driver of the stolen car almost turned over owing to the high grade, but recovered and made away toward Amarillo.

Word was telephoned to Sheriff Burton Roach in Amarillo to come south to "dead man's corner," and blockade the highway. The arrest had just been completed when Sheriff Black arrived. The thief would not give his name, and would not talk of the affair. He asked Sheriff Black if it was he who had taken the shots at him in Canyon and stated that his home was in Clayton, N. M., was all the talking he indulged in.

Mr. Black stated Monday that he had information from Tullia that a few days previously—a Ford had been stripped, and the missing parts were discovered at the place the young man had been staying near Tullia. Also a large amount of merchandise was located in his room.

Moving to Canyon

G. H. Copeland of Childress was here this week and rented the Hicks place in the south part of town and has gone back to move his household goods to Canyon. Mr. Copeland is a brother of Mrs. C. A. Price. Their mother will accompany the Copeland family to Canyon. Mr. Copeland has been a prominent farmer in the Childress country for a number of years and will be welcomed to Randall county.

Panhandle Christian Endeavor

The Panhandle Christian Endeavor will hold their annual convention at Hereford, Texas, August 26, 27, 28. Visiting delegates will be entertained in private homes free of charge. We are expecting a great convention and an enormous crowd—please send your delegates as early as possible. Have them here on time for the opening session.

PANHANDLE FROG STORY CAUSES BIG SPECULATION

Panhandle put out a story last week of the visitation to that city of a cloud of frogs following a rain. The frogs came from the north and went to the south. They were as large as the end of the thumb and as small as the end of the little finger. They were five hours in hopping thru the town. So numerous were they that Panhandle people mashed countless numbers of them in crossing the streets. The frogs did not pass over buildings but hopped around them, keeping a general course to the south, going along with the multitude of other frogs. A few stragglers, attracted by the town of Panhandle as a possible oil center, located there.

The Record editor knew of a similar frog visitation on the South Plains, but the naturalists who edit Panhandle papers branded the story as an hallucination. A farmer friend had a dirt tank near his home and one summer frogs in countless numbers would appear at the tank and soon hop off to the south thru a field, moving until they disappeared from the farm. Several times that summer this phenomenon was repeated, but none ever knew from whence the frogs came nor whether they wenteth.—Canadian Record.

ONLY TWO GET INTO THE CIVILIAN TRAINING CAMP

Post Commander H. C. Gamble received a telegram Sunday stating that only two men from Randall county could be taken into the Civilian Training Camp at Camp Logan, the training to start next Monday. Mr. Gamble had filed more than thirty applications from this county.

No reason is given for the reduction of numbers from this county, but it is supposed that the summer training has proven popular and the enlistment has been larger than expected.

Neither Mr. Gamble nor Elmer Shotwell will attend the Camp as instructors, as was expected two weeks ago.

Custer Service and Ira Jenkins have been selected to represent Randall County in the training camp and will leave Sunday for Denver.

Holland Drug Co. Sells to J. W. McQueen

A deal of great importance was closed Monday afternoon when the Holland Drug Company was sold to J. W. McQueen of Hereford. Invoicing was started yesterday. J. Grady Holland will move his family in about three weeks to El Paso, where he has interest in a large wholesale drug firm.

Mr. McQueen is a well known druggist in this section. He has owned a drug business in Hereford, Amarillo, and for the past few years has been in Oklahoma, returning to Hereford this year. He has always been very successful in business. He will move his family here within a short while. The people of Canyon will welcome the McQueen family to Canyon and wish them the very best in their new business.

Mr. Holland bought the drug business nine years ago. Since that time there has been a steady increase in popularity of this store, and a great increase in volume of business. It is with genuine regret that the people of this community hear that the Holland family is to leave Canyon, but the very best wishes of all go with them to their new home in a larger field of business.

Wayside Items

Rev. Haygood Smelzer delivered two good sermons at Wayside Sunday and one at Beverly same day.

Methodist revival services are to begin at Wayside the third Sunday in August.

W. J. Williamson of Bellvue is visiting his daughter, Mrs. Della Walters.

Mrs. Harvey James is still improving.

S. J. Lillard, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Sluder were the guests of M. A. Butler and wife Sunday.

Little Fannie Mae Franklin has a good case of chicken pox.

Wheat harvest and threshing is nearly over. Farmers are pleased with the yield.

Moved to New Home

W. B. Baker moved Thursday to his new home on West Cedar Street.

Little Harvest Done This Week—More Rain

Harvest has virtually been at a stand-still during the past seven days awaiting dry weather. Very few farmers were able to get into the fields Friday and Saturday of last week and nothing has been done this week owing to another inch of rain Monday morning falling from 2:30 until 8:30 o'clock.

Farmers state to the News that estimates of only five per cent of the total grain crop yet uncut is too low. Many farmers who have been over the county state it will run nearly 10 per cent.

About sixty cars of wheat have been shipped from Canyon, with large shipments made from Happy, Ralph, Umbarger and Zita. A considerable amount of Randall county grain is also shipped from Wildorado, Bushland, Amarillo and Washburn, so that it is almost impossible to gain accurate information as to the total number of car loads which will be shipped out from Randall county this year.

Farmers are certainly praying that they be given a month of dry weather in order to close up harvest, get the row crop cleaned up, and get land ready for wheat planting in September. Weeds are making such a rank growth that the farmers' work is being increased very greatly every day of continued wet weather.

O'BANION HIGHLY RECOMMENDS CHAUTAUQUA TO BE GIVEN HERE NEXT WEEK

J. W. O'Banion, formerly superintendent of the Quanah public schools, and for several years a teacher in the summer session of the West Texas State Normal College, is now superintendent of Ennis. He gives this recommendation for the Chautauqua program which comes to Canyon next week:

"The White & Meyers Chautauqua was given in Ennis this year, and I am pleased to very highly recommend their program to the people of Canyon. The program is high class throughout, and greatly enjoyable as well as educational in its character."

The Chautauqua starts next Monday and will continue until next Friday night, with two big programs in the afternoon and night. The White & Meyers people have been in Canyon now for five years. The company ranks among the largest in the United States. The talent employed is the very best that money can procure. The numbers on the program this year are the strongest the Chautauqua has ever brought to Canyon.

The Chautauqua is under the auspices of the Randall County Boys' Club this year. The boys of this club are working hard to make the Chautauqua a success for the educational value that they are to derive from the Chautauqua. All of the money made from the program will go toward paying the expenses of members of the Club to the Dallas Fair where they will be entertained by the officials of the Fair on Boys Club Day.

Buy a ticket for the Chautauqua now. The program starts Monday. Canyon has always supported the Chautauqua and has always been highly repaid for the money spent in buying tickets. The boys of this club were plucky to bring back to Canyon a program of educational value which is for the betterment of the community and should receive the hearty support of every individual of this county. Buy a ticket for every member of your family as all will highly enjoy the program.

School Transfers Before First of August

Under the provisions of the law, children who wish to attend school in other than the district in which they live must make their school transfer with the County Judge before the first of August. This has special reference in this county to those living outside of the Canyon Independent School District who wish to attend school this fall in Canyon.

At the meeting of the school trustees Saturday, there was considerable discussion whether or not any transfers would be allowed into the Canyon school for the coming year owing to the possibility of overcrowded conditions. It was decided that no action would be taken this year to prohibit transfers being made, as Superintendent Sore believed that not many would be transferred for the lower grades, and there was plenty of room to care for all in the higher grades.

Dr. Riley Making Tests

Dr. Riley, government official, is here this week, making tests for tuberculosis among the registered herds of Randall county. Dr. Riley was here six months ago testing the various herds of the county, finding but a few cows which reacted to the tuberculosis test.

Baptist Woman's Auxiliary

"Be ye given to Hospitality" is an injunction from the Bible. The B. T. Johnson home is one which obeys this command in its fullest meaning.

On Tuesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock nineteen members and three visitors met with Mrs. Johnson for their monthly Missionary program. In order that we might have more "punch" in our work, we each had a drink of that delicious beverage and then proceeded with our program. Mrs. Davis, who has been away for the past nine months, led in the devotional. This dear "mother in Israel" always does our hearts good with her thoughts of experience and wisdom. Mrs. J. A. Hill discussed Ministerial Relief; Mrs. Humphries talked to us about our Orphanages, and Mrs. Ballard told us of the Baptist Hospitals in the South. The program was closed with a beautiful violin solo by Miss Marie Fronabarger, accompanied by Miss Jewel Ballard.

We then enjoyed a social hour during which we were served ice cream garnished with bananas and home grown strawberries and delicious cake. One of the most interesting programs of the year was closed as we each drank another glass of punch and bade our hostess goodbye.

Buy City Lots

B. T. Johnson closed a deal a few weeks ago for the northeast quarter of the block on which the News office and the Keiser office are located. Mr. Johnson just got the papers on the deal closed up. He stated Monday that it was his intention of building a residence on this land unless he disposed of it in the meanwhile.

Fine Sweet Potatoes Keep Well in Pit

The family of B. T. Johnson is enjoying sweet potatoes raised last year, which are as firm and tasty as they were when taken from the ground last fall. Mr. Johnson states that he keeps his sweet potatoes for a year in a pit under the barn. Very few people in this country have discovered that sweet potatoes will keep that long in this country.

Mr. Johnson always has a very fine garden and states that they are enjoying roasting ears, strawberries, beans, etc. from the garden. He picked strawberries December 16 last year, and had the first from the vines on May 15th this spring. The heavy rains have caused the plants to put on many runners this year. The fruit has been good this year, but probably not so prolific as would have been with less rain.

Mr. Johnson may be termed as an expert and very successful gardener and most Canyon folks could learn a lot about the art of raising something to eat for the year around if they will follow his methods.

TWO AMENDMENTS ARE GIVEN GOOD MAJORITY HERE

CONFEDERATE TAX AND SUFFRAGE AMENDMENT CARRY

Other Three Amendments are Defeated by Lightest Vote in History of the State.

A very small percent of the voters of Texas took any stock in the special election held last Saturday. Only 88 votes were polled in Randall county.

It seems from reports sent out by the Dallas News that two amendments were carried—the Confederate pension tax, and the suffrage amendment. All others went down by a big majority. The voters of Randall county were in line with the other counties in favoring only these two.

The following vote was cast:

THE AMERICAN PRESS ASSOCIATION

Hundreds of young people are attracted to the West Texas State Normal College every summer by the exceptional climate. They would come back for the regular fall, winter and spring quarters if they knew that the Panhandle was not as severe as it is pictured by the down-state newspapers. These papers have so long pictured the Plains as being only separated from the North Pole by a barbed wire fence that many people from this section have fully grown to believe it. As a matter of fact the climate of the Panhandle-Plains country is as pleasant in winter as it is in summer, compared season by season with other parts of the state. Let's do a little more talking about the winter climate of this section and watch the Normal grow in attendance.

Memphis has two good newspapers who are constantly supporting their city in everything that is undertaken in a commercial way. These newspapers have job plants capable of producing the ordinary line of job work. These newspapers are boosting the county fair. Yet when the fair officials wanted their catalogues printed, they sent the job to Ft. Worth. These fair officials expect the Memphis newspapers to give the fair association page after page of free publicity. The newspapers will do so because they stand for Memphis. Yet these fair officials send away work which carries with it a little expenditure of money. This is a great old world. The harder the home man hammers for his community, the harder some business men will hammer the local man.

The Klu Klux Klan gives an excellent opportunity for every member to square personal grudges. It is a dangerous organization and should be suppressed with an iron hand. If the members of the organization would lend their open support to the officers for the enforcement of the law, rather than rely upon mob violence, there would be no law violations in their communities. As it is, these men would rather dress in masks and openly violate the laws of the state rather than come into the open and stand behind the laws of their state and the officers who are chosen by a majority of their neighbors and friends.

No, Jasper, sticking a badly painted sign up in a show tent or on the elephant in a parade is not advertising. That is a donation from your hard earned dollars to the show outfit. People go to shows for the amusement they find. Since advertising was first conceived, slick guys have been inventing methods to get the money which ought to have been spent in the only pulling advertising way—the Newspaper.

The suspended sentence law has been greatly abused in Texas. The suspended sentence law is a good idea if properly administered. We believe that its application should be wholly in the hands of the judge rather than in the hands of the jury. The law is administered in such manner in most states. The legislature did well in refusing Governor Neff's plea for its repeal.

Beating Back
Anahuac Progress: Normalcy is a beautiful, pleasing creature, with whom we were on intimate terms a few years ago, but it seems plague-taken hard to get back to her. State Press in Dallas News: It is hard to get back to her. And she will not be the same when we get back to her, even though she may answer to the name and pretend like she hasn't changed. The reason we will never get back to the old normalcy is because the world is seven years older than it was when we saw her last, and seven years is a considerable span of time. Under the old normalcy everything was in accord with everything else than at present. Now we have a new overhead, a new cost of doing business, a new accretion of expenses necessary for a going concern to discharge. Many people ask why there is such disparity between the price of raw materials and the price of finished products. Anybody who doesn't know the answer shouldn't presume to speak with authority. Simply to reflect that the further away from the raw state a commodity runs, the more expenses attach to it is to answer the question. This applies to raw copper as well as to raw cotton; to raw tin as well as to raw turnips. Labor, meaning industrial labor, is receiving an average of 50 per cent more pay than in the pre-war normalcy. Taxes are 50 to 500 per cent higher. The disparity between the raw and the finished must continue until the costs of taxes and labor are more nearly equalized with what is called normalcy. No amount of palaver or elocution or demagoguery will change the iron of fact into the flowers of fiction.

Advertising and Business
Advertising and business are close partners. They are responsively sympathetic. In the times of the years ago, advertising was good in periods when business was good, and if there was a panic advertising slumped. Now there is less indication that business affects advertising. In the old times merchants, for example, advertised in the local papers liberally when business was high, spirits high, cash plentiful and when they "felt they could afford to spend the money with the newspapers." But that era has passed.

Business men put their first-rank business judgment, sense, skill into their advertising campaigns; for on these advertising campaigns depends the volume of their business. Competition is sharp; if business is good they advertise to keep it so and to get their own share and a little more if possible of what's doing in the trading line; if business is "off" then they realize the absolute necessity of advertising for a number of good reasons. The people, they know, are eagerly looking for the best places and the best prices; the business is not plentiful enough to go around with two or three liberal helpings and they resort to attractive, intense, emphatic advertising to get the largest possible proportion of what there is in sight.

In the old times the business man put advertising into the business system only when he thought the system was strong enough to stand it, nowadays he feeds his business a regular diet of advertising to keep its circulation normal, its strength vigorous, its growth steady; he gives it the extra treatment when he finds that a tonic or a stimulant is most required. Business men are coming to the sane view of advertising as an element, a vital, everyday, regular, steady element in business.—Albuquerque Journal.

A slick guy with a smooth line of talk, greased hair, pressed pants and a big card printed in three colors seems to be an excellent combination to separate business houses from $3 to $10 for box space on a pasteboard card after the aforementioned slick guy tells you it is advertising. Don't believe it. It's charity. He has no interest in your community or your business. His sole and only interest is your money and you will find him perfectly willing to add one lie to another to enlist your interest, for he will not see you again after he has cleaned up on the town and taken the train out.

Sometimes it is a thingamajig that he is going to hang on every telephone in the county; sometimes it is a hotel directory and other times it may be some new Wallingford folder that will gain the attention of even more conservative business men. They have an excellent line of talk, these fellows. They have to have, for that is what they live on. Ever hear of a business man who had to enlarge his store, or a town that doubled its trade territory as a result of this kind of advertising? I never did, and I do not believe that one of the slick guys did either.

But I know of several towns that have made phenomenal progress and of thousands of others that are being boosted as a result of advertising thru the home town paper. And they keep right on boosting whether you advertise or not. Did you ever stop to think of the number of editors of home town papers that are giving their life's work to printing the interesting things and everyday happenings that bind the community spirit and interest and create a spirit of loyalty and devotion to the home town that holds support and brings business to your doors? And that fool editor keeps right on doing it whether you put your advertisement in the paper or not.

Why? Because it is his business to grind out a paper that people want to read. And they read it whether your ad appears or not. If your ad is not there they will read some one else's ad. Got all the business you can handle—don't need to advertise? Don't fool yourself. One of the big packing companies, spends $50,000 a year just to keep its name before the public. They have more business than they can handle now, but they know that if they withdraw their advertising that it would not be long until they would have none to handle. All of which is by the way of indorsing a little item that appeared in the Cotton Plant Democrat a short time ago:

"A real slick pull-the-cork under advertising slicker was in the city Monday working a church directory scheme. The last we saw of him he wanted a sheet of red cardboard to map out a state hotel directory on. He said that it was a little hard to get it started here, but after he got the bank and a few others, the rest of them were easy. He had us figure on the printing, but said our price was too high, although he admitted that our price was about right. He said he was going to take the work over into another county where there were eight papers, all doing work cheap and starving to death. When a schemer of this kind comes along, using the churches, both white and colored, to promote his schemes, it is time for the business men to call a halt."

The interesting thing about this item is that the editor was not "beefing" about not getting the advertising himself. He probably has got all the advertising he could take care of. If the business man wanted to waste his advertising fund on a game as old as the gold brick and three-card monte game, he is willing to let them live and learn, but he does not want to see his churches swindled.

Human nature is a complex, puzzling thing after all. The editor of the Cotton Plant Democrat would be branded by the town people as a traitor to his community if he bought his clothing of a mail order house and did his banking in another town. And yet, the slick guy who calls his pretty cards "advertising," fills them up from top to bottom. And the editor uses only a bit of his space to make mention of the fact in a patient sort of way and keeps on boosting the town.

CHAUTAQUA OPENS MONDAY IN CANYON--5 BIG DAYS, AUG. 1 TO 5

A BIG BAND COMING TO OUR CHAUTAUQUA.

Quintano and His Band come from New York City, especially for the Chautauqua circuit of which ours is a part. Several years ago they were the musical attraction for the Dallas State Fair and the Oklahoma State Fair. They have played engagements lasting many weeks in many of the largest city parks of the country.

THE GREAT CLIMAX SCENE FROM THE FAMOUS PLAY, "FRIENDLY ENEMIES."

There has been no patriotic play quite so successful as "Friendly Enemies." Its message is true Americanism, convincing and persuasive. It is a play that everybody should hear. In the above scene through the love for his son, aided by the sympathetic understanding of his wife, and the constant pleadings of his life-long friend, Henry Block, Kard Pfeiffer, himself, sees the great patriotic truth of Americanism.

THE COMEDY MALE QUARTET.

Everybody likes a male quartet, and the ones that put comedy into their program are unusually popular. The one at our Chautauqua features their fun-making as well as their vocal and instrumental work. They can entertain anybody anywhere. The Comedy Male Quartet coming to our Chautauqua present their evening program as a school room scene, in which one member is the somber professor and the others the more or less well behaved pupils. The opportunities for entertaining songs and comedy are many, and the boys give plenty of fun.

SUCCEEDING BY CHOICE.

The psychologist has developed a field in science which upholds that no man just happens to succeed or just happens to fail. But the man himself can determine his degree of success or failure through mental choice. At our Chautauqua Clyde Wilson McCord lectures on this science of personal efficiency under the title "Modern Jeckyls."

Don't Paraphrase America

Unless we are mistaken, there is a law against paraphrasing or any parodies written on or from the national hymn, "America." Even regardless of the fact that there may be a law protecting the sacredness of the song that America sings, it is revolting to the patriotism of any true hearted son of Uncle Sam to see this song bandied about in the rags and tatters of a ribald cant, supposed to be the lamentations of an ex-booze fighter over the passing of personal liberty and the advent of hooch. It's all right to make sport of the passing of John Barley-corn, but keep that liberty-inspiring song "America," clean and above ribald jests.

Don't print it, boys. The man who wrote it should be fined heavily because of his lack of respect for the higher ideals of Americanism.—Canadian Record.

Peace is in danger of becoming a mere skeleton in armor.—Norfolk Virginian-Pilot.

Unearthed Bones of Monster at Hereford

(Hereford Brand). Historical events of twenty-one years ago, as discussed in another column of The Brand, seem clouded in antiquity to the minds of the present-day generation, but there's a spot right near Hereford where evidences of prehistoric life are almost daily unearthed that make twenty-one years ago seem but an hour by comparison.

School books teach our children of prehistoric monsters, who could toy with an African elephant and who would crack the pavement on Main street with their weight, were they allowed to return to the scenes of their day and time and to roam around Hereford as they did so many thousands of years ago that the pyramids are modern by comparison.

Men working in the T. B. Slaughter gravel pit near here are finding huge tusks, and monster thigh bones and other components of the frame-works of giant animals that inhabited this section of the earth. Mr. Slaughter gives some hint of the importance of these finds, from a research standpoint in the letter below. It may be that the attention of scientists learned in this reconstruction historical work will be attracted and more systematic collecting done. Here's Mr. Slaughter's letter:

"Hereford, Texas, July 13, 1921. To the Editor of the Hereford Brand, Hereford, Texas.

Dear Sir: "As the Hereford people know, I have been working a sand and gravel pit for the past three years in the summertime, one-half mile east of the city limits of Hereford, near the Tierra Blanco Creek.

"The different ones that have been working in the sand and gravel have found specimens of the most interesting prehistoric American animals. While I have a great many parts of these animals, one of the most interesting is a thigh bone which is four feet long. And I would refer you to "Compound of Geology," by Joseph Le Conte, Professor of Geology in California. If any of the teachers of the Hereford Schools are interested they will find a complete outline of these animals that I have mentioned. They are the Mammoth (Elephas Primigenius) and the Mastodon Americanus.

"Just recently T. F. Bishop found almost the complete lower jaw of the former animal, weighing fourteen pounds. The teeth and jaw bone of this animal were all together. J. J. Bokkin and Frank Neill found, this week, the larger part of the tusk of the latter animal. This tusk measure now eighteen inches in circumference and was in all probability twelve feet long and probably weighed 500 pounds. These animals are quoted by authorities as being twice greater in weight than any living elephant today.

"Probably if an automobile had come along and the animal had taken a notion to take it on its tusk, it could have carried it with ease. But, probably 50,000 years have elapsed since this animal made Hereford its home, hence the joy-riders need have no fear. Yours truly,

NAPOLÉON ONE OF WORLD'S GREATEST FINANCIERS

The "Corn Exchange," published by the Corn Exchange National Bank of Philadelphia, prints the following under the heading, "Napoleon as a Financier."

One hundred years ago Napoleon died. Those of us who are in the banking profession recognize that he was one of the world's greatest financiers.

His wars have vanished, but his banking reforms survive and have carried France through many crises long after his campaigns were over.

His father was an utterly unpractical, dreamy man, a spendthrift; thus his mother early instilled frugality and saving habits among her children.

When Napoleon was twenty, he received less pay, as a very subordinate officer in the French army, than many minor bank employes now do in the United States. Yet he was saving enough to educate his two younger brothers.

When he was thirty, he founded one of the greatest banking institutions in the world, now 121 years old in usefulness.

On Jan. 18, 1800 he decreed the establishment of the Bank of France, with a capital of 30,000,000 francs. These figures then seemed large but today there are at least thirty national banks in the United States with a greater capitalization.

It superseded the "Caisse des Comptes Courants" (Bank of Current Accounts) which had been founded on June 29, 1796, and which had carried on a discount business, received deposits opened current accounts, and issued notes payable to the bearer and at sight.

The bank of France did all these things, and more. It was the center of the French banking system since it had the Government behind it. The other banks which had enjoyed a right of issue either went into liquidation or were bought up by the Bank of France.

Nowhere did Napoleon show his genius more than in keeping the same able administrator at the head of the French Treasury from 1799 to 1814. This was Gaudin, whom Napoleon promoted to be Minister of Finance. He had already spent twenty-five years in that department and was thoroughly familiar with its workings.

In 1789, according to the great French writer, Taine, the average French peasant, out of every 100 francs of net income, paid 14 francs to his immediate feudal superior, 14 more to the church, 53 to the King and had 19 for himself.

Hence the French revolution. In 1800, after Napoleon had taken charge of affairs, the same peasant paid 21 francs in all to the Government and had 79 for himself.

Napoleon was a good bookkeeper. For the first time in twenty years the French national expenses and receipts balanced in 1801-2.

No country's finances were ever better managed than those of France under Napoleon from 1800 to his fall in 1814. "Efficiency" and "scientific management" were his guiding principles. Over a billion francs were spent on public improvements, such as bridges, highways, canals and waterways. Cotton manufacture was improved; a flax-spinning machine invented, and gas-lighting introduced, as well as the manufacture of soda.

Napoleon would have made an excellent bank president. We have much to learn from him.

To Find the Turkey's Nest

A quick and easy way to find stolen nests of turkeys is to confine the birds from early morning to late afternoon. The laying hens will then go straight to their nests to lay the eggs which they are holding, say poultry specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture. When turkey hens have free range they usually nest in obscure places and often wander a half mile or more from home before they find a nesting place that suits them.

If attractive nesting places are prepared about the barnyard, the turkeys sometimes lay in them. Such nests are easily made from boxes or barrels, or by scooping out a little earth in the shape of a hollow bowl, piling brush round it to satisfy the hen's desire for seclusion. The nest most preferred by turkeys consists of a barrel laid on its side, in which straw or hay is placed. When confined to a breeding pen several turkey hens may lay in the same nest but on free range each bird usually makes her own nest. Turkeys do not range far during cold weather. In the north, where the laying season often begins when there is still snow on the ground, the hens are more likely to select their nests near home.

KANRED WHEAT DON'T SHATTER; HEAVY YIELD

It appears that an unusually good wheat for this section of the state has come out of Kansas, which is known as Kanred. This is an improved Turkey Red, which was bred up at the Kansas Agricultural College. It is drought resistant, hard, and does not shatter, as was simply demonstrated during our June rains when every other grain of wheat, soft or hard, went to the bad and anywhere up to 50 per cent of it spilled on the ground before and during cutting. It also yields right along as much as Turkey Red from Kansas reports, which seem to be borne out here.

A. Moseley had in 400 acres of the Kanred. He was very much surprised when he cut it to find that the heads held their grain. Other wheat was badly shattered. He says it takes a great deal more "force" to thresh the Kanred than other wheats we have heretofore planted in this county. The only change which he noticed as attributable to the excessive rains was that the wheat became somewhat bleached in the head, and might be taken from its looks for soft wheat.

Next crop Mr. Moseley will plant all Kanred, some 800 to 1,000 acres of it. He believes, from his experience with this crop that it is the wheat for this section.

Another thing which Mr. Moseley had demonstrated to his own satisfaction is that soft wheat, which is at home on sandy land, the first planting on tight land becomes about 25 per cent hard wheat, and having noticed this on quite a number of occasions, he is of the opinion that soft wheat can be turned into hard wheat by planting on tight land and planting the same seed next season. Others may have also noticed this, but it seems not to have become generally known.—Quantah Tribune-Chief.

He next entered business, failed, and spent seventeen years of his life paying up the debts of a worthless partner. He was in love with a beautiful young woman to whom he became engaged—then she died. Later he married a woman who was a constant burden to him. Entering politics again, he ran for Congress and was badly defeated. He then tried to get an appointment to the United States Land Office but failed. He became a candidate for the United States Senate, and was badly defeated. In 1856 he became a candidate for the Vice-Presidency and was again defeated. In 1858 he was defeated by Douglas. One failure after another—had failures—great setbacks. In the face of all this he eventually became one of the country's greatest men, if not the greatest. When you think of a series of setbacks like this, doesn't it make you feel small to become discouraged, just because you think you are having a hard time in life?—Pratorian Guard. What Life is Like As I write this I can look out of my window and see a Cloud, a Hill, a Spire, a House, a Wall, a Road, and a River, in just this order from top to bottom. Life is not a cloud, for a cloud has no substance, save this mist. Life is not a hill, for a hill is beautiful at a distance only, while life is near and dear, and its microscopic ways are as charming as its perspective. Life is not a spire, for a spire points to a happiness in another world than this; whereas happiness grows in but one place, here, and at one time, now. The kingdom of life is about us. Life is not a house, for a house is permanent, while life is fleeting. Many lives come and go, and the house stands. Life is not a wall, for a wall is a limitation, while life is infinite, and has no bounds. Life is not a road, for life roams the fields and goes where other men have not gone. It flies over the hedges as a bird, it treads the forest as a deer. Life is a river, always the same yet different; always passing, always present; fluid, yet outlasting all walls and houses; flowing yet enduring; going, yet eternal. "The river of life" is a true symbol. The river is the one natural object that is both fleeting and permanent.—Dr. Frank Crane in Farm Life. "Whiskey has ruined the reputation of many men." "Yes," replied Broncho Bob, "and, at the same time, I ain't so sure that a lot of naturally no-account men haven't done their share to ruin the reputation of whiskey." John—"Don't you think that the way the women wear their skirts so high make them look shorter?" Henry—"Yes, and they make the men look longer." Thespis—"If you never acted better in your life, how was it the play failed?" Foyer—"I took the part of a landlord, and made it so true to life that I was hissed off the stage." Rural America "Rogers lives in a small country town." "How small." "Well, it's so small that he regards every competitor in business as a personal enemy."

New Wheat Yield • Is Above Average

Some time ago Judge Marshall in reading a newspaper saw a statement regarding a Russian wheat which interested him. The statement designated the wheat as Kharkov, from the name of the Russian province where it originated. It was claimed that this wheat would yield three bushels per acre more than Turkey Red. So he bought a sufficient amount of the wheat to seed 100 acres, using almost a bushel per acre, at a cost of $4.57 a bushel. The wheat grew off well. It was short strawed and filled out well. The June rains did not cause it to shatter, but when cutting time came it was so low and goose-necked that the harvester cut a considerable portion of it through the heads, therefore a considerable amount was lost in harvesting. But the crop averaged 17 1/2 bushels per acre, and after saving seed for 200 acres, Judge Marshall sold the balance to T. L. Hughston Grain company at $1.50 1/2 per bushel, delivery to be made at any time Mr. Hughston wants it. This Kharkov wheat stood up well under the rains. Turkey Red wheat on an adjacent field turned out seven bushels per acre. It had been successfully planted at the experimental station in Iowa and now it has become acclimated here, is expected to do better next year.—Quanah Tribune-Chief. Approximately 4,000 Parisian taxicabs are now upholstered in American Army Olive Drab as a result of the proprietor's discovery, that the cloth could be purchased more cheaply than French material, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. X-rays are being used successfully to bring out erased parts of ancient papyrus writings. The U. S. Department of Agriculture is growing Easter bulbs on its Arlington, Va., farm. The Chinese Government is about to make an effort to combat the activities of bandits and smugglers by the use of airplanes from which these persons will be observed and hunted. It is also proposed to transport precious ores and stones in this manner.

Keep Your Money in the Bank

It perhaps has not occurred to a large number of people, during these times particularly, of availing themselves of the services and checking facilities our banks afford. Now, more than ever before, every cent saved should be placed in our banks. Incidentally, this would keep more people employed, as much of the employment today is due to the lack of capital. Many concerns and individuals would build if they could borrow the money. If every man who had money, or was working regularly, instead of turning over his earnings every week to his wife, would deposit it to her credit in a reliable bank, she in turn pay her grocer, the landlord, and all her other bills by check, there would always be at least a small balance in the bank. The accumulation of a large number of these balances would enable the bank to lend some other individual money with which he could pursue some building operation or carry on his business in a larger way, thus employing more men. A few years ago, an employe of one of the larger concerns in the city was asked if he had a bank account, and his reply was "No." When asked why, he said he had nothing to keep in a bank. When the above suggestion was made, he readily agreed to open an account in his wife's name at once. There will always be a small balance there, perhaps it will lead to the idea of putting into this account other savings the family might have and it might stimulate the habit of making the bank account grow. By so doing, business conditions will be improved, money will be more plentiful with which to extend business and more people will be employed. Ability to resist the most potent cutting tool so far known, the acetylene torch, is the remarkable characteristic of a burglar-proof alloy now being used for lining bank vaults and safes, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. In an official test, a four inch plate of the material showed only a small hole, two and one-eighth inches deep, after nearly four hours' work with a cutting flame. A British inventor has originated a method for producing fluorescent dyes from inorganic matter.

THE STORY OF LUDWIG IRLBECK

What enthusiasm and Poland China Hogs did on the Plains of West Texas in twelve short years.
By Frank M. Clark, in "Better Polands."

At the age of thirteen, with his father and mother, Ludwig Irlbeck immigrated from a humble home near the Austria-Germany line to the U. S. A., and located at Templeton, Carroll County, Iowa. Living with his parents on the farm at Templeton, that they acquired soon after their arrival, Ludwig learned to know and to like the live stock business. What he gained here stood him well in hand in the grind of years to come.

In 1902, Mr. Irlbeck "found a woman" to help him make a home all his own. They lived on the old home place until 1909, when they held a dispersion sale and made ready to move to the then wilds of Texas.

He had had the first few lessons that all real constructive breeders get and as an evidence that he had passed the experimental stage, when his fat Poland China were shipped to the Chicago market they sold for 70c per hundred weight over anything else on the market, bringing at that time $9.70 per hundred. Realizing that he was better at producing and developing hogs than anything that he had ever tried and that he had to raise his own meat and lard (if he had any, for it wasn't produced in the Panhandle of Texas at that time) he brought four splendid Poland China sows with him. He hadn't yet gotten to the place where he deemed it necessary to keep the registration papers up on them. A few good blooded percheron mares and a stallion and the Poland China sows were the live stock that he imported to the Panhandle. The stock was well on its way to the wilds of West Texas when the parting of the families came. They had become so attached that it looked like a very foolish move for one of their kin to immigrate to the wilds. Mr. Irlbeck with his wife and four small boys and one girl went on their way for the great Plains where one only has to raise the eyes to see an object as far as the eye sight can carry. At that time there was not a fence, not a thing to obstruct the vision. At Happy, their destination, there was only a switch, not a house, not even a tree to be seen.

With 100 acres of land bought at about $3 per acre and quite a bit of the purchase price as a lien against the place, he made his new home. He had very little money to buy anything with, even if he had been where he could buy.

But Ludwig Irlbeck had a vision that the great Panhandle was destined to be a live stock breeding center. He saw the congestion of population rapidly coming in the old home country, and knew that the chances for a poor man were less than they would be in a more sparsely settled country and that his vision would be harder to make a reality. Right here the writer wants to say that it takes more than ordinary courage to make the sacrifice that Ludwig Irlbeck made that day when the decision was made to come to the frontier and bring a class of stock that had never been seen there before. But still Irlbeck was just the man who had the reserve courage to stand the grueling criticism of some of the populace.

He chose the big type Poland China hog to make the demonstration in the new country. And it was about eight years that he had toiled and spent every effort that he could muster to bring the true story of the superiority of the big black Poland China hog over every other breed of hogs that had come to compete for the domain of the country. It was in the spring of 1917 that he brought 20 head of his porkers to the station and shipped them to the Ft. Worth market, and his account of sales shows that they brought him $105.50 per head, and that 20 head of under six months old pigs sold at the same time brought an average of more than $50 per head. This sale of forty head of Polands scattered over the community like wild fire did in those days over the unused grass Plains. This feat lit a new light in the minds of a great many people who had been watching the efforts of Ludwig Irlbeck. That the Poland China hog would out rival in point of net profit any breed of swine, any breed of cattle, any breed of sheep, or stock that was then being raised on the great treeless plains.

About this time the vision was becoming to be a reality. There were many calls for breeding stock and it made no particular difference whether they were registered or not, Irlbeck filled their wants. But about this time another vision crept into the mind of Irlbeck. It was that this would be, and in the near future, too, a Poland China breeding center of pedigreed stuff, and that with the passing of only a few years the unpedigreed Poland would not sell for anything more than a hog for the packers.

With the thought that nothing but pure breeds would be in demand in a short while, Irlbeck continued to lead. It was in the fall of 1917 that he bought his first registered sows. They came from Mr. Lookabaugh, Watonga, Okla., three head at $150, $185 and $215 respectively. He was then selling his good grades for a lot less money. When these pedigreed hogs came in by express, with an expense bill attached for express alone for about as much as he had been remarking his good sows for, there were remarks made like, "Have you gone crazy?" "What 'ya' gonna do with 'em?" etc. Irlbeck told them that they were going to buy the offspring and get into the pure bred business, and that they wouldn't be long doing it either.

About this time there was a cloud drawn over the plans of this progressive promoter of live stock, in the form of the necessity of immediate help to the great war situation. In securing subscriptions for Liberty Loans, War Savings Stamps, no one was more active than Ludwig Irlbeck. He lent every effort in the years of 1918-1919 to help in any way possible, and placed a mighty force on the production of wheat to help feed the hungry world. Still, he took reasonable good care of the three registered sows that he had bought in 1917. And as a result he had quite a bunch of pure bred hogs, in fact there was nothing but pedigreed stuff on the place at the beginning of 1920.

At this time Mr. Irlbeck had returned to the study of Polands with plenty of determination to put the proposition over that he had visioned for all these years. He knew every man for miles around and they knew him and what he was doing with the big blacks. Right here a peculiar condition existed. Mr. Irlbeck was not offering anything for sale. He went to Lon Alexander's sale at Childress, Texas, on February 21, and was a strong competitor for every re-a-l good female, buying four head, and the aggregate of the sums paid for each reached well up toward five figures. In the buy was Chief's Model at $3,000. From Childress he went to Jack F. Jones' sale two days later and was again mean competition for all the good ones. He took them home and when his neighbors and friends learned what he had paid for them they were more than ever astonished.

Irlbeck was not yet ready to tell the world what he was about. At this time he saw that he needed a boar that would add prestige to his already famous herd. After several days of study of different boars that could be bought, he bought (from the writer) Silver Crest Bob by Big Bob. Silver Crest Bob is a very creditable son of the King Bee of all sires, Big Bob. When this boar was shipped to Happy and friends and neighbors learned that he had paid $5,000 for him, they were still more astonished.

Irlbeck was now ready to let them have his plans. He immediately announced that he would hold an auction sale at his farm two miles south of Happy on September 11th, and that his friends, fellow breeders and neighbors could have them at their own figures. He has spent as much money advertising his superior Polands as any man that has been in the business the same length of time. It is needless to say that his sale was attended by people from far and near and bid as high as the established breeders would go. Irlbeck's friends and neighbors that had wondered what he would do with the high priced Polands would not let the breeders have a single one. With an average of $188 and all going to his neighbors he felt that his years of hard toil and persistent effort had not been in vain, and the criticism had been forgotten, that he was what he had for many years planned to be—a Poland China Breeder.

Space does not permit to tell about his March 29th sale of Polands with only six days in which to advertise it, averaging $133 per head, and his next sale, August 16 of 50 bred sows and gilts bred to Silver Crest Bob and the 300 head of royally bred Hereford cattle, twenty or thirty head of splendid draft mare, just a farm of about 3,000 acres and all acquired since 1909, together with four more children to go out and make wives for other frontiersmen.

Ludwig Irlbeck is a man of vision, a man of action, a Poland China breeder in reality.

YORK, GREATEST HERO OF WAR, NEEDS HELP

A national "Help-a-Hero" fund has been started at Evansville, Ind., by Walter A. Edison, conductor of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railroad to prevent the foreclosure of a $12,000 mortgage on the farm of Alvin C. York, "greatest hero of the world war."

He sent $5 to the office of the Evansville Press and urged that others send money to the newspaper for the same purpose.

"I admire the stand York has taken in refusing to go on the stage," Edison said. "His attitude has been splendid. He hated war. He was a conscientious objector. He took it to the Lord in prayer and decided that it was best to go. And he made the best soldier in the allied armies. I'll say it's modest when a man, single handed, kills twenty-five Germans, puts out of commission thirty-five machine guns, and captures 132 prisoners and then calls it 'an act of providence.'"

"It's up to the people to force enough money on this modest man to pay off his mortgage and that $250 grocery bill. This has been a hard year for farmers."

Raising Of Hogs Proves Good Investment By Those Who Have Engaged In The Business With Good Animals To Work With.

The past few years have served to prove beyond a shadow of a doubt that the production of livestock is the most important and profitable phase of farming. Not only is this true, but it is now a universally accepted fact that admits no argument. It can be said to the credit of the intelligence of the American farmer that once convinced of the advantages of livestock as a means to increase the revenue derived from his farm and to increase the fertility of the soil, he undertook the increased production of livestock and the results have been such that farming without livestock is a situation that will never again be known to the world of agriculture. Livestock is permanent on every farm and it can be truthfully said that farming cannot be profitably conducted without the production of livestock in connection with farming operations. In nearly every farming community the farmers who have accumulated wealth and who are the forces behind the real accomplishments of the community are livestock farmers.

In an analysis of what constitutes livestock on American farms we are told by figures officially compiled that nearly fifty per cent of the total value of the meat and meat products slaughtered in the packing houses of the United States is derived from the hog. We can present no more telling argument to the American farmer, in our effort to encourage the raising of more and better hogs than these simple figures. The fact that fifty per cent of the meat products of the United States is produced by the hog, should be sufficient reason to induce all farmers, not heretofore raising hogs, to begin the production of pork.

The hog is primarily the most profitable animal on any farm. No other farm animal matures as rapidly, reproduces as quickly and in as great numbers, as requires as small an initial investment. The capital, labor and equipment necessary to engage in raising hogs is so small that it is within the means of every farmer to be a producer continuous and sure, which insures the farmer the use of ready money at all times of the year. Growing hogs thus earn quick interest on the principal and enable the hog grower to realize on the principal which can be re-invested. In other words, money invested in hogs is subject to "quick turnover" and is not indefinitely "tied up." The banker readily appreciates the financial advisability of growing hogs and investigation will show that the pork producer is generally regarded by bankers as a safe risk and is always given bank accommodations. Why is this true? Because the production of pork is profitable and is a fore-runner of success and financial independence. Hogs on any farm mean diversified crops, increased soil fertility and increased production, which is a natural consequence of the first two.

The hog is an economical feeder. There is no farm animal that will make greater gains in a given period of time on the same amount of feed than the hog. In other words, the hog makes the most meat in the shortest time with a minimum feed expense. There is no farm product that the hog does not eat and his position as the champion consumer of farm by-products has never been assailed. The hog likewise, makes the very best possible use of the pasture, turning into high priced pork, alfalfa, rape, wheat, oats, clover and most any native grasses in connection with other feeds. Hogs cannot be profitably raised on pastures alone, no more than they can be profitably raised on corn or other grain alone but good pasture is often all that is needed to make a balanced ration and in all cases greatly cheapens the cost of producing pork. It should be said that even the best pasture plus good corn is not a properly balanced ration for young stock that is being grown out and developed for breeding animals. Such stock should have other feeds that will grow bone, muscle and internal organs and that will stimulate growth and development. Without protein feeds no animal can make growth, much less produce pork at a profit. Hogs that have access to good pasture will invariably do better than hogs confined to close pens. By grazing, hogs secure roots, herbs and sometimes mineral matter that their systems demand, and that they would not otherwise get.

Montana has a mare mule that has become the mother of a sturdy colt, according to a dispatch from Dillon, Mont. Dr. W. J. Although this is but the fourth record instance, in the history of veterinary science, that a mare mule has dropped a colt, Dr. Butler states that there is no question about the legitimacy of the colt in question and is preparing data for the information and breeders, veterinarians and the bureau of animal industry of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Let not your limitations discourage you; it is your strength that, rebelling against them, makes you aware of them.
Do not make a nuisance of yourself with your horn, but at the same time remember that no one has ever been arrested for using it.

The day comes when a man gets no thrill as his foot touches the self-starter to get motion, or his hand presses a button to get heat, light or food. He longs to grabble with life at first hand through the paddle, the wood fire and the frying pan. He yearns to prove that so long as he has matches and flour and a canoe he can make his way through the wilderness by his own strength and resourcefulness, as the old breed of pioneers made their way. George A. Lawyer, chief United States game warden of the Bureau of Biological Survey, has returned from a trip that took him round almost the whole cost line of the country and enabled him to get definite knowledge how wild birds are thriving under the Federal game laws. His report is most encouraging. Wild ducks and wild geese show the largest increase, but the numbers of upland plover, sandhill cranes and Wilson's snipe are also notably larger. There are more hunters than ever before, but fewer who exceed the bag limit or shoot out of season. The result is just what those who framed the law intended it to be: more and better sport, more equally distributed.

Don't Overlook Any Diamonds

KIMBERLEY was going back. The farmers were disgruntled. They said they couldn't eke a living from the rocky soil.

And all the time, their ragged youngsters were playing with diamonds!

But the farmers didn't know. Many of them died poor. They thought the priceless gems were pebbles. Some folks are just like those Kimberley farmers. They seek opportunity in some distinct place and overlook the wealth that is daily within their grasp.

HEALTH NEWS

By Dr. M. M. Carrick, State Health Officer.

Young girls should be dissuaded from wearing corsets.

If you insist on being a knocker, knock to good advantage; knock the fly and open garbage can for the betterment of your own and your neighbor's health.

Take a smile to the room of the sick. It will have a wonderful effect on the morale of the patient, and will do no particular harm.

The hope of the State lies in its HEALTHY citizens.

Health first—low taxes afterwards.

Preventable disease is not merely accidental. It is due to criminal carelessness.

It is a bad policy for a state to allow conditions that breed and foster vice, disease, crime, lawlessness. Bad housing does all of this. It is a blight to the state, a disgrace and a reproach.

Every available means should be used to impress upon all mothers in the community, the need for careful attention to their children during the summer months.

Babies do not want silks and satins, but they do want sunlight and sanitation.

Health is something you care nothing about until it is mislaid, like your toothbrush, or your fountain pen.

Live cleanly. Live your best and you will not be a victim of vice. Many degenerative diseases are due to infections from bacteria. Exercise, care of the teeth and gums, the prevention of constipation by proper food are great helpers to avoid disease.

It will be a red letter day in human progress when all forces of every community are mobilized for the conservation of its child life.

It is more important to establish regular habits in a baby than it is to wind the clock.

Better save yourself in youth and young adult years than suddenly wake up at 45 with high blood pressure, bad kidneys, hardened arteries, and a failing heart.

Here We Value Quality and Service as Well as Price

Disappointment is the natural result of trading where one considered the price only. You know that the cheaper the goods are in price the cheaper they are in quality—and no one wants to eat cheap dope.

We are watching carefully the price, the quality and the freshness of the goods we sell. We want your patronage a year from now as well as at the present. Satisfaction makes customers that last; price sells goods only once—trade here for the sake of the satisfaction derived.

A Senatorial "Bloc"
 The newspapers announced the other day that twenty-two Senators from the South and West had formed a "bloc" for united action on certain measures affecting agriculture that were pending in Congress.

Bloc is a new word in our language. It comes, of course, from the French, but even in France it has been used in the parliamentary sense only a few years. It means originally a block, a clump or a heap of objects, as the case may be. Politically it means a group of legislators bound by agreement to common action on some or all of the bills that are presented. They may or may not be of the same political party. In European parliaments, where parties are numerous, the bloc is often a confederation of various political groups to support or oppose the existing ministry. In the case reported from Washington the bloc is made up of both Republicans and of Democrats; its members are united in desiring legislation that they think will help the farmers.

It does not yet appear how much ground the agreement covers or how long it is meant to last. It is understood, however, that the new group is pledged to support the bills that free agricultural associations from the provisions of the antitrust laws in marketing their products, regulate grain and cotton exchanges, restrict the sale of cotton futures, regulate the cold-storage business, and make it obligatory to mark alleged woolen fabrics that contain shoddy with the percentage of shoddy they contain. It is probable that some of those who organized the bloc will desire to apply the agreement generally and to make it a more or less permanent institution. Twenty-two votes will often hold the balance of power in the Senate, and if they can be kept together in the hands of capable leaders they will go far toward determining the action of the Senate on all sorts of subjects.

That is the danger of a bloc. It may be organized for the best of purposes and used in the first place to advance only useful policies. But it tends to restrict the independence and overawe the personal judgment of its members, and it makes it easier for Senators to think that they represent not the whole people but some "interest," commercial, agricultural, industrial or what not. Any Senator who is willing to sign an agreement to vote for certain bills should be glad to vote for them without the agreement. Those who have signed will need to be careful that the new organization is not used later on to force them to support legislation of which they do not approve. "King Caucuses," whether his mandates run in the name of a regular political party or in that of a bloc, is not a monarch to whom a self-respecting representative of the people can pay unquestioning allegiance.
