Hico Strives to Serve the Needs of the Dairyman, Poultrymen and Farmers of This Vast Community.

NUMBER 2

Here In HICO

The Here In Hico writer and wife are playing hockey this week. When this is read (or perhaps we should say IF) they will be in Corpus Christi at the annual convention of the Texas Press Association. Great plans are being made for the entertainment of the newspaper men and their wives, including a side-trip to the Rio Grande Valley, and special receptions in towns along the way. Waco, Temple and San Antonio all promise a good time.

While it looks like the entertainment features will not be lacking, still there are important subjects to come before the meetings at Corpus Christi, and the ideas and information received should be worth-while to those attending. Some of the members will probably center their activities on securing the latest ideas in ladies' bathing suits and beach etiquette, but the News Review man will probably be safe from any and all temptations, taking his wife along and also suffering from the effects of the much-talked-of sprained ankle. We don't mean to imply that the sprained ankle and wife will both be handicaps—far from that—but we do mean that both these conditions exist.

During our absence Mrs. Forgy is the chief ram-rod of the News Review office, assisted by Roscoe Purdom who kindly consented to sub for us while we took the trip. While we are writing this some time before the paper comes out, we'll wager that this week's issue will not be disappointing to the readers, for we have been around newspaper long enough to realize that people enjoy a change now and then, and welcome a variation in their reading diet. At the time of our departure they seemed to be getting along all right on the paper, and told us to stay as long as we liked. We are rather in the position of one of our contemporaries though, in this matter. He was told that he might as well stay away from the office longer while on a trip, that the office would run all right without him. "I know it would," he answered, "but what worries me is how I could get along without the office."

The genial Katy agent in Hico, Mr. H. Smith did his part toward ridding the town of its editor for as long as possible. He gave us a return date on our tickets along toward the last of the month, probably thinking we might take advantage of same if we had it. His plan won't work, though, unless he makes up a fund to help pay expenses for that long a stay.

The vacation and fishing season has started in earnest now. Last week we wanted to go fishing, the first part of the week, but could not get no encouragement. Since that time we have been kept busy refusing invitations to go for an outing on various rivers. Several trips have been begun and some of them completed already. Fishing parties have gone and some of them already have returned. A short rest from the every-day run of things is good for anyone, and helps to make the hot weather more bearable.

While attending the convention and side-trips we will not hesitate to do as we would have others do—tell the world about Hico. We have lots of good things in our town to be proud of and talk about and we don't intend to let one of them go unmentioned.

We've told you about our plans for our trip. The next time you go somewhere, call by the office or telephone us and tell us about yours. Or if you have visitors don't fail to let us know, for other people are interested, and we have no way of finding out about many of these news items unless our good friends help us.

New Committees Named For Serving Hico Lions Club

The last meeting of the Hico Lions Club, held at the dining room of the Midland Hotel last Friday, June 6, marked the beginning of the term of office of the newly elected officers of the club.

Invitations have been sent to neighboring Lions Clubs in this district, De Leon, Dublin, Comanche, Hamilton and Stephenville to have representatives here for the affair. A golf tournament has been arranged for the afternoon, and a luncheon and other entertainment will be held at night at the Bluebonnet Country Club. Secretary Persons has written letters to the secretaries of the clubs above named, urging that they keep the date in mind, and make plans to have a representative number in attendance. Many Hicoans Attend Hamilton's Golf Tournay This Week

Golfers from all parts of West and Central Texas were in Hamilton most of the week for the start of the first annual invitation tournament of the Perry Country Club of Hamilton. The tournament marks the dedication of a recently completed beautiful club house.

The Perry Country Club is a nine-hole links well trapped with cottonseed hull greens. The fairways are heavily turfed. Many from Hico are attending the meet.

Prizes will be awarded to the winner and runner-up in each of the flights.

H. F. Sellers, A. A. Brown, A. I. Pirtle and Cole Hooper were the participants from Hico. A. I. Pirtle won out in the second flight and was presented with a large golf bag.

A Whole Family Of Eggs, All Sizes Makes Appearance

Not only small eggs and large eggs can this community boast of, but now we have on display a match box containing four specimens. The smallest is just too little to say much about. The next size is still very diminutive. The third egg is of oblong shape, and a little underweight. But the fourth one, the papa egg is indeed a fine specimen, and looks like it would make fine eating.

The display was brought in Saturday by J. P. Everett of the Millerville community, and many visitors have inspected the eggs. Mr. Everett says all the eggs are products of their White Leghorn hens, which are helping him greatly to pay expenses on the farm.

Little Miss Eddie Mae Walton, daughter of Mrs. Luther Thompson brought in a small egg, laid by one of their Rhode Island hens Wednesday. It is a little larger than a pencil eraser, and the color of the usual Rhode Island eggs. It is the smallest on display in the office at the present time. Since Mr. Everett left his egg family and with this one in addition, we have a collection worth seeing.

Golden Wedding Celebration Held At Carlton Sunday

The 10th day of this month marked the 50th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. King, who reside eight miles on the Carlton road, and the occasion was celebrated with a big dinner at their home last Sunday, when all their children with the exception of Mrs. E. D. Kilpatrick of Breckenridge were present. Forty-five years of this time have been spent in this community, and they are well known all over this section of the country.

The day, Sunday, was spent in discussing incidents occurring during those fifty years of married life, telling mostly of the good things, and forgetting the hardships that all who have lived as long as Mr. and Mrs. King have undergone. The children heartily enjoyed hearing these reminiscences and are very proud to know their parents are enjoying good health and happiness.

Mr. and Mrs. King were married at Hillsboro on the 10th day of June 1880 by J. J. Davis. Eleven children were born to this happy union, one son dying in infancy, while another son died at the age of 34 years. Mrs. King has reached the age of 67 years, having been born Oct. 9, 1862 at Kingston, Ark.; while Mr. King is now 74 years of age, and was born Aug. 3, 1855 at Alto, Texas. A sister-in-law of Mrs. King, Mrs. Frazier of Hillsboro, who was one among those present Sunday, was also present at the wedding fifty years ago.

The dinner was a bountiful one, and the honorees received a number of nice and useful gifts. During the day the local photographer made pictures of the group, in long remembrance of the occasion. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. J. S. King and daughter, Miss Lena; Mrs. Drew Moss and daughter of Corpus Christi; Mrs. A. D. Nance and two children of Amarillo; Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Zachary of Santa Anna; Mrs. J. E. King and children of Hamilton; Mr. and Mrs. T. H. King of Hico; J. W. Jordan and family, W. A. Moss and family, C. H. King and family, Fern Jordan and wife, Culmer Jordan and wife, all of near Carlton; Raymond Jordan, wife and children of Lamesa; Mrs. Belle Frazier, son, Dowell, and granddaughter, Carrie, of Hillsboro; Rev. and Mrs. J. T. Gardner and children of Carlton; Miss Viola Phillips of Santa Anna; besides 24 grand children, three great grandchildren. Ten grandchildren and two great grandchildren were absent.

German Millet Heads To Length Of Nearly 10 In.

Kal Segrist was in town Monday displaying a few heads of fine German millet raised by Bill Sisk on the Segrist farm three miles on the Fairy road, in the Old Hico community. One of the heads was measured and proved to be 9 1/2 inches in length. All of them were well filled, fully developed heads, and Mr. Segrist says he challenges anyone to show any better millet than that he had on display.

Mr. Sisk had about twenty or thirty acres of this feed, and a part of this week is devoted to having it cut.

T. U. Little Jr. Was Killed Sat. In Wyoming

T. U. Little Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. T. U. Little Sr., of Hico, who had gone on a trip to Canada and other points, was killed in a train accident last Saturday. The fatal accident occurred at Rawlins, Wyoming. The word flew over the town as on the wings of wind and wherever it touched it left sorrow. The expressions of sympathy for his family were many and from the heart, as they awaited at the family home three miles on the Altman road, the arrival of the body on Tuesday night.

Funeral services were conducted Wednesday morning at the First Baptist Church here by Rev. Clarence Allen Morton, pastor, who paid a beautiful tribute to the memory of the deceased. Songs were touchingly rendered by the choir. The casket was covered with the most beautiful floral designs loving fingers ever wrought. The pall bearers were F. M. Richbourg, Ray Connally, Garvin Bird, Earl Patterson, T. A. Duncan, Harry Hudson, Curtis Fairry and Holland Jackson. The flower girls were Evelyn Miller of Dallas, Mrs. T. A. Duncan, Marguerite Fairry, Wynama and Mable Anderson. Interment was made in the Hico cemetery.

T. U. Jr. was only 23 years of age and the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Little. He received his education in the Stephenville and Hico schools and later received employment in Waco and then Dallas. Several months ago he went to Houston and worked a while, but about two months ago went near Los Angeles, California. It was here he planned his trip, and saved his money to finance it. He was enjoying the new scenery and climate in the various states he was exploring, writing cards to his friends to that effect. His whereabouts here were kept posted as to his whereabouts along his route, and on Monday of this week following his death, they received a card advising them to write him next at Denver, Colorado, care general delivery. He carried an identification card, and kept a diary of his trip, which aided very much in notifying his parents of the accident.

T. U. Jr. was a member of the First Baptist Church at Hico, having been converted and joined the Baptist Church in Stephenville when only ten years of age, and later united to this church. He was of a sunny disposition, always having a smile and a pleasant word for his friends. If strangers felt the charm of his rare courtesy and joyous sunny temperament, how much more so the members of his own household upon whom he lavished all the earnestness and careful culture of his mind and nature.

He is survived by his parents, one sister, Willie Little of Dallas; and four brothers, Dick, F. S., Richard and Albert Harold.

Many out of town people were in attendance at the funeral services.

This is the second tragedy in the Little family within less than a year. The oldest daughter, Mrs. Lee Jones, of Midland, formerly Miss Odessa Little, died about nine months ago.

Death comes as a dark shadow to the friends and relatives who loved him so dearly, yet memories, sweet and precious ones, come crowding in.

"The sunset speaks but feebly of the glories of Another day. All is well."

MRS. J. N. COLLIER WAS BROUGHT HERE FOR BURIAL

The body of Mrs. J. N. Collier of Whitney was brought here for burial in the Hico cemetery Sunday afternoon.

Services were held at Whitney, then immediately the body was brought here. Friends and relatives from Vernon, Wichita Falls, Waxahachie, Hillsboro, Mineral Wells, Comanche, De Leon, Hamilton, Stephenville and other towns were present to pay their last respects to Mrs. Collier.

Mr. Collier is an uncle of Mrs. Lawrence Lane of Hico. The Collier family were quite well known in Hico, having made frequent visits in the Lane home, and also in the home of Mrs. Lane's parents several years ago.

A paving program is now on at Crowell and is proceeding at a rapid rate.

Iredell Boy Killed In Car Accident Last Friday Night

Attempting to cross a bridge at a sharp corner, and missing it by only three inches, caused the instant death of Marshal Royal, and the serious injury of his companion, Ben Bateman, on the Walnut Iredell Highway last Friday night.

The young men were in Iredell about 8:30, according to reports, but left there for an ice cream social between Iredell and Walnut Springs. When about 1 1/2 miles from Iredell just after crossing the railroad track, they attempted to cross a bridge, it was reported, and missed the bridge turning over and landing some twenty or thirty feet over an embankment. The car was a Chevrolet roadster and driven by Mr. Bateman. The lights of the car were still burning and several cars passed over the bridge, but seeing the light on, thought they were fishermen. About 11 o'clock a boy from Iredell passed and heard a moan, and went to see if someone needed assistance. He found Mr. Bateman, and inquired as to whether there was anyone with him, but the ensuing excitement caused a misunderstanding, it is thought, and his companion was inadvertently overlooked. Bateman was at once taken into Iredell and his wounds dressed. Several boys and girls decided they would go and see the wreck, and going down where the car was, discovered the leg of Marshal Royal protruding from under the car. The boys then raised up the car while the girls brought his body out, but he was already dead, and it was thought he had died instantly following the wreck. He was taken into Iredell and prepared for burial.

Both boys were members of the Cleburne Morning Review Baseball League, belonging to the Iredell Club. They lived in the community between Iredell and Walnut Springs.

Funeral services were held on Sunday afternoon at the Baptist Church for Mr. Royal and the body laid to rest in the Iredell cemetery. The pall bearers were members of the baseball league, and honorary pall bearers were close friends of his. One of the largest crowds ever seen at a funeral in Iredell were present, and the floral offerings were a mass of flowers covering and surrounding the casket.

Mr. Royal was unmarried. He is survived by his parents and several sisters and brothers.

Mr. Bateman is expected to recover, although he is suffering from severe burns from gasoline and battery fluid which leaked from the car.

Rev. C. A. Morton Closed Revival At McCamey Sunday

Rev. Clarence Allen Morton, pastor of the Hico Baptist Church returned to his home here the first of the week from McCamey, where he has been conducting a revival meeting at the Burlington Avenue Baptist Church. Great success was reported, and much good is expected to result from the meeting, there having been 15 conversions and 25 additions to the church.

McCamey is a town that just a few years ago was very little more than a cross-roads village, according to Bro. Morton, and from that start grew during the boom days to a population of near ten thousand. Now it has suffered a slump, however, until its population is scarcely more than half the figure at the peak period.

A Garland Adair is editor of the McCamey News, and while there Bro. Morton renewed his acquaintance with him. Mr. Adair, it will be remembered, was at one time editor of the Hico News Review, and has many friends here to whom he sent his best regards. His paper, The News, had the following to say about the revival meetings:

Great interest is being felt in the revival at the Burlington Avenue Baptist church, according to the pastor the Rev. F. C. Dutton. The meeting began last Saturday, the pastor doing the preaching until the arrival of the evangelist, the Rev. Clarence Allen Morton of Hico who preached his first sermon here Tuesday night.

The revival will continue all this week and next. The closing service is announced for Sunday evening.

The week day services are held in the morning from 10 to 11 o'clock and at night they begin promptly at 8:00 o'clock.

The visiting evangelist is bringing wonderful gospel messages at every service, said the pastor today in extending a welcome to the public to attend. "He is a pleasing speaker, an orator of note and has had an extended influence and a wide and rich circle of gospel work. He is the fourth generation of Baptist preachers of the Morton family all who have been prominent in Baptist affairs throughout the south."

Rev. Dutton further adds that in his opinion, Rev. Morton is the greatest gospel preacher—preacher of the old time gospel—that has ever been to McCamey. A cordial invitation is given the public to be present at every service.

Former Hico Lady Wins Recognition As Novel Writer

The following article from the Waco News-Tribune of last Tuesday's issue concerns Mrs. Frank Wilson, who was reared in Hico, and was called to our attention by Miss Jonnie Huchingson, who is a close friend of Mrs. Wilson. Her maiden name was Miss Memmie Perkins, and both she and her husband were reared here. She was an employe at the postoffice in Hico, several years, and has many friends here who will be glad to learn of her success in the field of novel writing. The article follows:

"To receive a letter giving honorable mention for writing a novel, from the publishers, is the honor which has been accorded to Mrs. Frank Wilson, 1109 North Sixteenth street who submitted a novel in the contest for a $10,000 prize offered by the Atlantic Monthly. Mrs. Wilson has been on newspapers and is a writer of short stories, and is now soaring to greater fields by novel writing."

Miss Mary Smith Succumbs At Home Near Iredell Tues.

Funeral rites were held Wednesday afternoon at the Honey Grove cemetery for Miss Mary Smith, who died at the home of her sister, Mrs. Guy Trantham near Iredell Tuesday. They were conducted by Rev. A. C. Haynes, pastor of the Hico Methodist church. She had been in ill health for the last several years, and bedfast for the past four months.

Miss Smith was only 38 years of age, having been born July 20, 1891. She was reared in the Honey Grove community, and lived there until a short time ago when she moved with her sister and family near Iredell. Her parents have preceded her in death. In spite of her illness, she was kind and patient. She was ever cheerful toward her friends and seemed to enjoy their presence.

She is survived by four sisters and four brothers: Mrs. Bert Trantham, on the Hamilton highway; Mrs. Guy Trantham of near Iredell; Mrs. Tom Powers of Hico; Mrs. Frank Rogers of Thurber; John Davis, Hico; Henry Davis and Will Wrickles, Nacona; and Sid Smith, Carbon.

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Copeland, Miss Ardis Coe and Miss Vivian Landers accompanied Miss Jonnie Copeland to Fort Worth Monday, where she entered T. W. C. for the summer term of school.

Keeping Up With TEXAS

Two children of Irene Richardson, negro, were burned to death, two others were badly burned and the woman sustained injuries when her home at Marlin was destroyed by fire Monday. The blaze is believed to have originated when a lamp exploded in the room where all the victims were sleeping. Little fire fighting facilities were afforded as the house was located in the outskirts of the city.

After having planned and executed one of the most daring burglaries ever perpetrated in Fort Worth, and obtaining diamonds valued at between $10,000 and $20,000 and about $750 in cash, Russell L. Kuykendall, 28, of Dallas, was captured as he sought to leave the jewelry store of Fred & Co., 1016 Main Street, at 9:30 o'clock Sunday morning. He had gained entrance to the store by sawing through the floor of an office immediately over the jewelry store, and was surprised as he was emerging from the same hole, bent on getting away with the loot that he had taken from a large safe in the office of the jewelry company. C. W. Allen, an employe, came in down the hall and caught the robber.

Editor W. A. Holford of the Garland News now seats his visitors in an unusual but comfortable arm rocker with a high back. The seat is upholstered in gaudy cretonne. The chair is the handiwork of Uncle Bob Greer, 80, of Garland and is made of bois d'arc trees cut at Bois d'Arc Island on the Trinity. It was necessary for Uncle Bob to use the rasp as the wood was too hard for planing.

Clifton Felts, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Felts, of Longview, fell from a moving but comfortable arm rocker with a high back. The seat is upholstered in gaudy cretonne. Mayor R. H. Alexander, acting for the City Commission, has issued an edict that all dogs within the corporate limits of Coleman be vaccinated, muzzled or tied. The edict is an aftermath of the mad dog scare the city had last week when four children were bitten by a dog which authorizes at Austin said had rabies.

The entire estate of Mrs. Mollie Sinequelfield Pope, 90, who died Saturday night, was left to Simmons University at Abilene, it was announced Monday. The estate is valued at between $40,000 and $50,000. Mrs. Pope was the widow of Dr. O. C. Pope, third president of Simmons, and was buried Monday next, her husband on the Simmons campus.

Joe Dyer, 45, shot and killed his wife, 45, and sister-in-law, Mrs. Dina Dyer, 33, at the Dyer home in Wichita Falls Tuesday, and twenty minutes later sent a bullet into his own brain, inflicting a fatal wound. The only explanation police could offer for the triple tragedy was that Dyer had gone temporarily insane. He had been out of employment for some time, police said.

Bill Snow, Dawson County farmer, is in a Lamesa hospital with a broken leg as the result of a pistol duel with A. A. Smith late Monday. Forty shots were fired by the two men, only one taking effect in Snow's left leg just above the ankle. It is said the argument started over the disagreement over a marriage between their children.

Two white men and a negro held up and robbed Jim Etheridge of Carrollton of $69 on a road a quarter of a mile south of Carrollton about 10 p. m. Monday. He was forced to get out of his car when they robbed him. The trio headed toward Dallas immediately following the hold-up. On account of the darkness, Mr. Etheridge was unable to get a good view of the robbers.

The Amarillo Globe-News says wheat destroyed by hail Saturday may total 25,000 acres in the Panhandle-plains area, with a loss amounting to nearly $250,000. Storms were reported to have been severe in that area.

Celebrates 68th Wedding Anniversary With Big Dinner

Mrs. N. C. Agee, who resides in Hico, was made happy Sunday when a few of her relatives gathered at her home to help her enjoy her 68th wedding anniversary. The dinner was unusually good, and she received many nice gifts which made her happy, indeed.

Out of town relatives present were: Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Driver and Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Barrett and little daughter, Miss Frances of Waco; Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Jackson and children of Vernon; and little Miss Mary Alice of Agee.

Convenience COUNTS!

Were there no other reasons for transacting one's business among one's friends and acquaintances, the fact of CONVENIENCE should alone be sufficient.

Buying from a Hico MERIT MERCHANT means that you get what you want when you want it, whether it be something to eat, wear or use.

There are no letters to write—no guessing about quality—no costly delays—no money in advance—no delivery costs nor substitutions—no misfits or off-colors. There is no need to buy excessive quantities to get a good price, nor need there be any misgivings about the lasting quality of goods.

Shouldn't these reasons suffice to convince even the most thoughtless buyer that his own marketplace is the safest and surest place to trade?

JESUS ON THE CROSS Matthew 27:33-50

Rev. Samuel D. Price, D. D. The world is Christo-centric because of the effective work of Jesus Christ on the cross 1900 years ago.

Events climaxed rapidly after Judas gave the dirty kiss of betrayal in the Garden of Gethsemane. Jesus was strengthened for the miserable events of that day by reason of recent prayer.

Our lesson text gives only some of the events. First study the devotional reading for the day, Psalm 22 and note numerous prophecies.

When in Jerusalem we noted the 14 stations of the cross as they were marked by tablets along the Via Dolorosa. Each records an event in the proceedings of that Friday.

Observe the distinction between the two drinks offered to Jesus. The first was of myrrh wine and was given by a group of women who went to every crucifixion and gave this opiate that the sense of pain might be lessened.

The nearness in time between Heaven and earth is indicated by the promise made to the penitent thief on one of the three crosses.

Jesus said, after his entreaty, "Today thou shalt be with me in Paradise." Paul in II Corinthians 5:8 makes it clear that "To be absent from the body is to be at home with the Lord."

Part Of Woodmen Home At Sherman

The Shrine of Fraternity, the first building of the Woodmen Circle Home for Aged Members and Orphan Children, will be dedicated at Sherman, Texas, June 26th.

First Building at Sherman Will Be Dedicated In June

"A chair by the fireside, a table, a light, God grant there is somewhere they wait you tonight, For fame you may hunger, for fortune may thirst But working or playing, 'Your Home should come first'."

The poet and the Woodmen Circle have the same ideas about home, but Douglas Malloch expressed them with melodious combinations of words, and the Woodmen Circle has expressed them with a beautiful Home for Aged Members and Orphan Children, recently completed at Sherman.

The corner stone of the first building will be laid and Dedicated in ceremonies held June 25, 26 and 27. Extensive preparations are being made for the celebration which will be attended by hundreds of people from all parts of the country.

Main events of the program will be centered on the first day, Wednesday, June 25. The presentation and raising of the flag by the American Legion will be a sunrise ceremony. At 9:00 a. m. the corner stone will be laid.

Among the officers active in the ceremonies will be Mrs. Mary E. LaRocca and Mrs. Dora Alexander Talley of Omaha, Neb., national president and national secretary, respectively. Mrs. Henrietta A. Thomas of Fort Worth, national junior past president, Mrs. Etta Davidson of Houston, national director and state supervisor, Mrs. Maggie Hyde of Dallas, national treasurer and Mrs. Jeanie Willard of Denison, national drill instructor.

Since the society decided to build a Home, the officers' ambition has been to make it a real home and not an institution. The building itself given an impression of hominess. The rooms are sunny and comfortable. There is a solarium where the old folks may bask in the health-giving sun rays. The 214-acre farm seems meant for happy romping children. Visitors to the Home get the impression of a home in every sense of the word, where folks really enjoy living.

Texas members have presented a 20-acre tract of land to the Home, across the highway from the first building. They have also contributed money to plant pecan trees on this property. A man in this state presented a thoroughbred cow to the Home and one of the groves donated a radio.

Quantities of table and bed linens, quilts and miscellaneous home furnishings have also been contributed by Texas members. According to Mrs. Ava Roddy, financial secretary of grove No. 1907, the first building is Georgian architecture. In the form of a Latin cross, it consists of two stories and a high basement. It is fireproof throughout, of reinforced concrete, steel and brick.

Newly Discovered Planet Given Name of "Pluto"

Flagstaff, Ariz.—"Pluto" has been selected by scientists of Lowell observatory here as the name for the recently discovered trans-neptunian body, which they believe is the long-sought planet X.

The announcement was made by Roger Lowell Putnam, trustee of the observatory and nephew of the late Dr. Percival Lowell, founder of the observatory, who predicted the existence of planet X 16 years ago, after extensive mathematical research.

Mr. Putnam, who came here from Springfield, Mass., to participate in the official naming of planet X, revealed that the name "Pluto" was selected after the host of suggested names had been narrowed down to three—Minerva, Pluto and Cronus.

"We felt," said Mr. Putnam, "that the line of Roman gods for whom other planets are named should not be broken, and we believe that Dr. Lowell, whose researches led directly to its discovery, would have felt the same way." "The discovery of this planet is so preeminently a triumph of reasoning that Minerva, the goddess of wisdom, would have been our choice if her name had not for so many years been borne by an asteroid."

"Cronus, the son of Uranus and the father of Neptune, would have been appropriate, but so is Pluto.

SERVING MANY BUSINESSES

Experience of large fleet owners reveals the unusual reliability and economy of the new Ford

A SIGNIFICANT TRIBUTE to the value of the new Ford is found in its increasing use by Federal, state and city governments and by large industrial companies which keep careful day-by-day cost records. In most instances, the Ford has been chosen only after exhaustive tests of every factor that contributes to good performance—speed, power, safety, comfort, low cost of operation and up-keep, reliability and long life.

Prominent among the companies using the Ford are the Associated Companies of the Bell System, Armour and Company, The Borden Company, Continental Baking Corporation, Firestone Tire and Rubber Company, General Electric Company, Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company, Kellogg Company, Knickerbocker Ice Company, Morton Salt Company, Pillsbury Flour Mills Company, The Procter and Gamble Company, and Swift & Company.

Each of these companies uses a large number of Ford cars and trucks. The Associated Companies of the Bell System use more than eight thousand.

Modern business moves at a fast pace and it needs the Ford. Daily, in countless ways and places, it helps to speed the production and delivery of the world's goods and extend the useful service of men and companies.

Constant, steady operation over many thousands of miles emphasizes the advantages of the sound design of the Ford car, its high quality of materials, and unusual accuracy in manufacturing. Beneath its graceful lines and beautiful colors there is a high degree of mechanical excellence.

An example of the value built into the Ford is the use of more than twenty ball and roller bearings. They are hidden within the car and you may never see them. Yet they play an important part in satisfactory, economical performance. Their function is similar to the jewels of a fine watch.

Throughout the Ford chassis, a ball or roller bearing is used at every place where it is needed to reduce friction and wear and give smooth, reliable mechanical operation.

At many points, as on the transmission counter-shaft, clutch release, fan and pump shaft, and front drive shaft, these ball and roller bearings are used where less costly types of bearings might be considered adequate.

Additional instances of the high quality built into the Ford are the extensive use of steel forgings, fully enclosed four-wheel brakes, Rustless Steel, four Houdaille double-acting hydraulic shock absorbers, aluminum pistons, chrome silicon alloy valves, torque-tube drive, three-quarter floating rear axle, and the Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield.

The Ford policy has always been to use the best possible material for each part and then, through large production, give it to the public at low cost.

HORSES, MULES AND COWS

How rapidly the horse is vanishing from the American scene can only be fully appreciated when we realize that, in twelve years, more than one-third of all the horses in the United States have passed out of existence and have not been replaced. The year 1918 was the banner year for the horse. From about ten million horses in 1880, their number multiplied through 38 years until, in 1918, it reached the high peak of 21,555,000. Since then the replacement of the horse by motor vehicles has been rapid. The latest Government figures place the total at around 13,000,000. Another ten years may see this reduced by half, and probably will.

The horse's career in America has been a short one. There were no horses or other beasts of burden known to the Indians of North America, though in South America the natives had tamed the llama to carry their loads. The Spanish conquistadores brought horses with them, many of which broke loose and ran wild. They multiplied rapidly in the fastnesses of the southwestern wilderness, and the Indians of the Great Plains speedily learned to break and use them. But a scant four hundred years, down to now, covers the history of the horse on this continent.

There are still a few horses left in the big cities. They are, so far, more economical than motors for house-to-house deliveries of milk, parcel post and express matter. But the increasing cost of their maintenance is gradually causing even these uses to be replaced by motors.

The mule is gaining on the horse. He is efficient, eats less and works harder. In the period during which the horse population fell off by one-third the mule census showed an increase of nearly 20 percent. However, this increase has now blackened. There are fewer mules in use now than there were in 1924, when these useful hybrids numbered 5,730,000.

In the period from 1920 to 1930, the number of beef cattle has dropped from above 47 million. We are eating less beef. But while we are drinking more milk, more butter and cheese, the number of milch cows remains about as it has been for nearly twenty years—around 22 million. They are better cows, however, giving more milk on less fodder; and the tendency is to increase their number and quality.

COMMUNICATION

There are still a few places in the world where a man can be completely out of touch with everybody else in the world, but the number of such places is diminishing so rapidly that it is a safe prediction that before many years have passed we can go anywhere and still keep in communication with home.

Telephoning from railroad trains in motion is now an accomplished fact, in practical use. From any important train on the Canadian National Railways, for a fee of fifty cents in addition to the telephone charge the traveller can call up any telephone connected with the Bell System, which covers the United States, Mexico, most of Europe and a large percent of Central and South America. Germany, France and other European countries have similar systems. America has no monopoly on inventive genius, nor are we always first to put these new devices into use. But there is no doubt that eventually this system of train-telephony will be adopted in the United States.

The larger passenger lines now have facilities for telephoning from ship to shore and vice versa. Soon or later all passenger ships and probably most freighters will be similarly equipped. A portable radio broadcasting set has been devised which takes up such small space and weighs so little that future big game hunters, penetrating the African jungle, can easily take one along with them and so report their safety—or the opposite—to the folks at home every day.

Aircraft in flight now carry many of them—radio equipments for both "code" and voice communication with the earth. Admiral Byrd's Antarctic expedition was never out of communication. The next step forward is television. That has now become practical. Our children probably, our grandchildren certainly, will be able to see around the world as easily as we talk around it today.

All of these inventions which make communication easier trend toward closer international relations, better understandings, reduce the likelihood of war. The time may even come when disagreements between nations will be settled as easily as disagreements between business interests are settled today, and with as little bloodshed.

WHAT OUR EXCHANGES SAY ABOUT US

During the absence of the editor, we take the liberty to print this article, taken from the Olney Enterprise, which we found while looking over the exchanges. In the first place we might get "fired" for losing time in looking over the exchanges during his departure instead of pounding at the keyboard of the linotype as we were told; and in the second place the editor might not like the exaggeration of his age and looks, which of course would add to our punishment. However, we are taking that chance and printing it as it came out in the Olney paper.

"The Hico News-Review celebrated its forty-fifth birthday with its last issue. One can't tell the age of an editor by the age of the newspapers he publishes. Of course there are exceptions, but they are very rare. For instance, the Enterprise recently celebrated its twenty-first birthday, and we went to the polls to cast our first vote just a very few short years ago. Neither can one determine what sort of looking guy the editor is by the appearance of the newspaper he publishes. We have seen editors so ugly they would stop an 8-day clock if they looked at a square in the face, who turned out a handsomely printed newspaper, and so on. But as we started out to say one can't judge the age, looks, etc., of the editor by the newspaper, Roland Holford is editor of the Hico News-Review. He is about 30 years old, medium height, average weight, and very handsome in looks. In fact, so handsome, he keeps his wife in hot water for fear he will be kidnapped. His daddy, Bill Holford, editor of the Garland News, will now puff out his chest and claim the boy is a "chip off the old block," when in fact Bill could easily qualify for the position of playing the lead horn in the bandwagon of 8-day clocks, etc. Roland inherits all his good looks and fine qualities from his mother. We know for we know both his daddy and mother. Roland recently purchased the Hico News-Review, and for the last ten of fifteen years we have seen this newspaper off and on. We will have to admit that it is now by far the best ever published in Hico. May you live long and prosper, Roland, and if those people down there want to possess the name of having one of the best weekly newspapers in the state, they will get behind you to a man and woman. Good luck!

Explanation On Ruling Rights Concerning Fishing
Attorney General Robert Lee Bobbitt has authorized the following statement in order to correct the misunderstanding which has resulted from some newspaper reports of the holding in an opinion recently rendered regarding the rights of the public, generally, to cross enclosed private lands for the purpose of fishing in public waters:
Under date of April twenty-second, last, the Attorney General rendered to the County Attorney of Llano County, an opinion construing Article 1377, Penal Code, 1925, as amended by Chapter 26, page 41, Second Called Session, Forty-first Legislature. The article referred to makes it a misdemeanor for a person to "enter upon the enclosed lands of another, without the consent of the owner, proprietor or agent in charge thereof, and therein hunt with firearms or thereon catch or take or attempt to catch or take any fish from any pond, lake, tank or stream, or in any manner depredate upon the same." The question asked was, whether a person violated the law referred to, so that he could be arrested and prosecuted thereunder by merely traveling across the premises of a private landowner in order to reach a public stream where, under the law, the person so traveling might have a legal right to fish.
The opinion given was that where a person did nothing more than cross the premises of a private landowner to get to a public stream to fish, such person did not commit a criminal offense under Article 1377 of the Penal Code as amended. The opinion given was thus limited strictly to a construction of Article 1377 in the light of the facts stated in a criminal case, and did not, in any wise, attempt to construe or pass upon the private property rights of landowners whose property is adjacent to public streams.
Private landowners have the same right to post and prohibit trespassing upon their property as they had before the recent Act of the Legislature above referred to. The public, of course, does not have the right to enter upon and cross the enclosed and posted

SUBSCRIBERS

In spite of the fact that the farmers and town people are busy they do not neglect coming in and renewing and subscribing for their home paper. We appreciate the great interest you are taking in this, as well as assisting us in securing the news in the territory. We name those who have been or sent in since last report and trust those who have not yet renewed, will do so at an early date. We appreciate all of them.

C. G. MASTERSON sent us a letter from Austin Thursday adding a dollar for the paper, and having these few words to say: "Enclosed you will find $1.00 to pay for the News Review for a year. Please send it here to 102 W. 20th St. until July 20. We are on the job down here. The Dean of Student Life asked us to champion a boys' fraternity and we agreed to do so. This came as a surprise but we are doing our part well. Our best wishes to the people of Hico."

Mrs. T. D. Stewart, who resides at 2003 North Washington, Dallas, will receive the News review for a year since her subscription was brought in Thursday by Postmaster W. E. Gojny of Fair. Mrs. Stewart formerly resided at Fair but about six months ago, her stepson, W. G. Stewart, of insisted that she come to Dallas and make her home with them. Mrs. Stewart, together with her stepson and his wife were week end guests of friends in Fair.

S. M. GRUBBS, a Hico citizen, was in early Friday morning and handed us a dollar telling us to put him on the list for the next year. We thank you very much Mr. Grubbs and hope you enjoy each issue.

MRS. W. C. FOSTER while in town having some dental work, brought in the money to have the subscription renewed for Miss Bell Cox, who gets her mail at 1230 North 3rd, Abilene, Texas. Mrs. Foster did not take time to give us any details concerning the party renewing as her gums seemed to be giving her a great deal of pain, and she was in a hurry to get home again.

"An old Hico resident, who enjoys every line of your paper," says Mrs. Lula Brown, of Dallas, according to her daughter, Miss Sophie Brown, who wrote us a letter to that effect last week. She also asked us to change her street address to 2750 Wilton Ave.

MRS. A. M. BURDEN, who with her family did live at Ballinger, asks by letter that we change their paper to Big Lake, Texas. She states that they are now permanently located, where Mr. Burden is manager of a Chevrolet agency. She says that Hamilton County has always been her home until she moved away three years ago. She does not like to miss a single copy of the paper. She states that the wind blows unusually strong at Big Lake, but feels like that they will enjoy their new location.

W. A. BROWN, who resides in Hico, was also in Monday to renew their subscription to the News Review. He seemed to enjoy the display of freak eggs brought in by Mr. Everett Saturday.

premises of landowners in order to enjoy fishing rights.
While the public, generally, has the right to fish in the public waters of this State, where not prohibited by law, it must exercise this right in such a manner as not to encroach upon the property rights of private citizens. Property owners of course, are under no duty or obligation to permit the public to trespass upon their property in order to reach public waters where fishing may be done.

Why Advertise, your wares to sell? When every day, your sales foretell. Sufficient cash, for eat and drink, tickets allowing us to play several games on the course, but after taking second thought, we still have hopes of getting season passes, so in a meek voice we thanked him for the subscription.

E. L. DUNCAN, who lives on route one, believes in paying off while he has the money whether it is due or not. His subscription will be up until September, but he gave us another 50c "while he had it," he said, to renew his subscription for another six months. He complimented us very highly on the good paper we were giving the people. We appreciate this very much and only wish we had more community citizens like Mr. Duncan.

W. D. TOLLIVER was in Saturday to subscribe for his home paper. He resides on Route 2. Said they used to take the paper but had let his time run out. "Every time I go home from town the women folks ask me if I went to the News Review office and subscribed," said Mr. Tolliver. So while it came to his mind Saturday he carried out their wish, for which he has our thanks. We like to see the women folks interested.

JESSIE A. MASSENGALE, who lives on Route 3, was among those to come in Saturday to renew for another year. He is another of our faithful customers who always comes in about the time his subscription is out, and gets marked up another 12 months.

"I guess I had better have the paper for another year," stated F. D. Craig of the Iredell community when he came in to renew their subscription last week. We are glad to see people from that section interested and we try to give as much news from that community as is possible.

WE CAN'T FIGHT CHANGE
When I was a small boy in the country we had a good old neighbor named Daniel Roe, who owned a cranberry meadow. He brought the water for flooding his meadow through a deep ditch from a lake about a quarter a mile away.
Half of every summer of his life he spent digging out the dirt and stones which had fallen into that ditch.
We kids used to go over and watch him dig. There was a big stone by the side of the ditch which was shaped roughly like an arm chair. There he would eat his lunch at noon, and smoke his pipe. We called the stone Mr. Roe's chair.
In fullness of time he died. His son sold the meadow, and it was abandoned. My father bought the ditch, most of which ran through our woods, and every summer we fill a little piece of it up with junk and garbage and cover it over with dirt.
Last summer I walked through the woods and stopped at Mr. Roe's chair. Already the ditch is half destroyed. In five years more it will be gone.
All his sweat and strain and backache for nothing. No trace of his life work left!
In a New York club I talked with an eminent architect, who said the glorious days had vanished from his profession, he architect of Greece and Rome left monuments that are eternal. The modern architect has no such hope. He himself had designed three houses in New York so magnificent that he expected them to carry his name to future generations. All three have been torn down to make way for apartment buildings.
I talked with a clergyman who had recently visited a city parish where he had labored successfully thirty years ago. That portion of the city has now become a slum. The old families have scattered to the suburbs. The church is closed.
"What is left," he exclaimed sadly, "to show for all my labor?"
I told him that people are left—the sons and daughters of the men and women to whom his sermons were preached.
"Your hearers trained their children in righteousness," I said, "and they will train their children."
We can't fight change, and it is well that we can't. How dull life would be if everything were permanent. How wonderful that each new generation has the fun of taking the world apart and putting it together again.
The church may be closed, the house torn down, the ditch filled up. But Mr. Roe and the architect and the preacher each built a monument in the lives of the people whom he served.
We can do as much; and it is all that we can do.

Miss Nobody from Nowhere

BY ELIZABETH JORDAN

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.

A beautiful young woman finds herself on the sidewalk in a strange city. She cannot remember her name or where she came from. She has nothing in her purse to tell herself who she is. A young man who has seen her in the hotel where she is stopping notices her and takes her to the hotel in a cab. There they find that she registered in French, as "Miss Eve Nobody of Nowhere." The clerk has been calling her "Miss Parsons." The young man tells her she is in New York. His name is Eric Hamilton, of Chicago. She is terrified at her loss of memory. He asks his friend, Dr. Carrick, a nerve specialist, to call at the hotel. Dr. Carrick talks encouragingly, but says he will send a nurse to stay with the mysterious "Miss Parsons" that night.

"Miss Nobody" listens while Hamilton tells her what the doctor has said, then steps into another room. When the nurse arrives, the girl has vanished from the hotel! Eve's departure was simple. She went out of a back door into the servants hall of the hotel, where she encountered a young French porter, who claimed to recognize her. He had seen her in Paris. "Then you know my name?" she demanded eagerly. But the porter had forgotten that. He would write at once to a friend in Paris and find the name of the American young lady they had both admired. He tells her of an apartment house where the janitor, he thinks, would take her in. Meanwhile, while Hamilton is anxiously hunting up the nerve specialist for advice, Eve gets into a taxicab and drives away.

She arranges with Marcel's friend, the janitor of a dingy little apartment house on the East Side of New York, for a small furnished apartment. He tells her not to be frightened if she hears the young woman who occupies the next apartment come in very late in the morning. Eve wonders what sort of a place she has got into.

The girl in the next apartment is Ivy Davenport, a professional cabaret dancer with a weak heart. Eve helps her one night when she is ill. Ivy suggests that Eve, who is short of funds, should take her place in the cabaret. Eve thinks it over, dislikes the idea, but realizes that she has to do something to earn a living until she finds out who she really is. Ivy has twisted the name of "Bersonne" which is the only surname Eve knows for herself, into "Berson."

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

"There's somethin' I'd rather you'd do," Ivy urgently added. "What is it?" Eve asked the question without suspicion. Her mind was centered on the girl's condition—surely a serious one for a dancer. Ivy's next word startled her. "It's my job," she muttered. "I'm going to lose it; that's all." "Oh! I'm sorry!" "Yep. Jake said he didn't want to be hard on me, but he couldn't be left in the lurch again. So the next time I didn't come or send a substitute, it would be the air for mine."

Eve saw with a clearness that made her wince. Evidently Miss Davenport expected a great deal from her fellow-beings. She would not have been surprised if this stranger in her room, having put her to bed and eased her pain, now announced her intention of substituting for her at the cabaret and at once departed to do so. She herself had already shown that she was a friend in need. Probably her associates also were the kind who did that sort of thing. But Jake's! To dance at Jake's! Eve felt that she had definite limitations and that one of them had been reached. "You oughtn't to talk," she hesitantly pointed out. "If you'd go up there and report to Jake, you could bluff your way through the dances," Ivy hurried on. "You'd do fine. The other girls'd help you, if you tol' 'em what it meant. The fellas would, too. They're all my frien's. They'd see you weren't put up against it, 'cause they'd know you was tryin' to help me."

"But, good Heavens, I can't!" Eve became conscious of her tone and checked her words, appalled. This girl had come to her days ago, offering her a job because she believed her to be down and out. Now it was clearly up to her to reciprocate. The demand was a wild one, of course, but surely she was the last human being who should fail any one in trouble. She thought of Hamilton—of the swift willingness with which he had come to her help in her crisis. She could never repay him, but here was a chance to pass on the mercy and kindness he had shown her. This girl's job was at stake, her very bread and butter. As for herself, she could stand Jake's for one night, whatever possibilities Jake's might hold.

She leaned over the bed, in which Ivy now lay in the exhaustion of extreme pain. "Tell me what you want me to do," she said kindly, "and I'll try to do it. What bluff must I make?" She was rewarded by the look in the other girl's face as she struggled up to an elbow. "There's nothin' to it," she said eagerly. "Even if you can't dance place for the winter. See what I mean?"

Eve could not help wondering how, on a few dollars a night, Miss Davenport's income ran to apartments, silk lingerie, over-stuffed furniture, and painted beds. As if the sick girl had read the thought, she hurried on: "You'll knock down six or eight dollars a night without tryin' to make ten or twelve. Any guy that's a real guy'll slip you a dollar or two for dancin' with him a lot, specially if he lands on your feet most of the time. An' there's always some guy will pay for your supper, too. Say—she asked the question with sudden anxiety—"you got anything to wear?"

Eve looked at her blankly. "No, I didn't bring an evening dress."

"Then take one o' mine, any you like. You an' me's about the same size. But hurry. That closet . . . see?"

Eve hurried, and selected the least flamboyant of Miss Davenport's several dancing-gowns—a fairly simple creation in white and silver.

"Miss Davenport told me to come to you," Eve explained. "She is sick."

all the dances—an' I'm bettin' you can—it'll help if you just go there an' tell Jake how 'tis, an' offer to take my place. Talk to him first, and then go to the dressin'-room. Ask for Queenie Morris. She's Jake's head hostess. She's my pal, too, an' the best of the lot. She'll do the rest."

"I understand. But—you're quite sure Jake's place is all right?"

The girl in the bed was spent by the effort of talking as much as she had done, but she rallied to this question. "I'll tell the world it is," she brought out. "Don't you get no idee of white-slave stuff. There's nothin' like it at Jake's. Straight business, on the level, good eats, good music, a pretty good crowd—an' Jimmy Murphy on the spot to throw out rough ones. It ain't a club. Most any one can get in, but they can't stay in 'less they behave. The substitutes git three dollars for every dance they give visitors, besides their tips. You'll git that tonight, of course. All I'm worryin' about is to hold my proved the result, and Eve also received from the long mirror in the living room the assurance that it was not bad.

"I only got one evenin' wrap," Ivy confessed, "but it goes with 'most anything." It did.

"Do I have to dance with every one that asks me?" Eve inquired, when she was ready to leave.

Ivy looked at her with a flicker in her pain-filled eyes. "Say, haven't you never even been in a cabaret?" As Eve did not reply, she answered the question: "Course you got to dance with 'em if you wanta make a hit. The big feature is the program dances, but the men is there for a good time, an' you gotta help. If they ain't perfect gentlemen you tip the wink to Jimmy an' he gives 'em the air. But it's like I told you," she added more faintly. "You do what I said. If you can't dance or don't wanta, they'll all help you out. They're my frien's," she weakly ended.

Within the next hour, when she had reached Jake's, Eve discovered ed that Miss Davenport had not overrated her own popularity. Jake was in the fastness of his private office, a small partitioned retreat off the main room. Eve's modest request to see the manager, combined with the mention of Miss Davenport's name, procured an immediate audience with him.

He was dressed in immaculate evening clothes and his brilliant hair clung to his head like thick black paste. He turned upon her the unwinking gaze of two remote black eyes and waited for what she had to say.

"I've come to substitute for Miss Davenport," Eve explained. "S'matter 'ith her?"

"She's sick."

"Againeh?"

The personal charm of Jake, as set forth by Miss Davenport, was escaping Eve thus far.

"Sure name?" he ended.

"Berson." Eve had decided to accept Miss Davenport's version.

"Sure address?"

"The same as hers."

"Know howt' dance?"

"Miss Davenport says I do. I can't do solo-work, but I think I can get along in the other dances."

"S'lope so. Awright. Report t' s' Morris."

Eve followed to its end the narrow passage he had indicated, guided by the sound of voices. The door of a room at the right was yawning slightly, and a glance through the opening suggested that here was her destination. Half a dozen girls in evening gowns occupied its limited space, lending themselves to various occupations. One, in the only easy-chair, sat holding a hand-glass and touching up an already striking facial color scheme. A second was down on a knee, sewing the beginning of a run in the top of one of her silk stockings. A third fluffed her bobbed hair before a full-length mirror, and a glance through the opening suggested that here was her destination.

for it as long as Ivy can dance better than the rest of us. You ain't feelin' up to Ivy's acrobatic waltz yourself, are you?"

Eve decided that she liked Miss Morris. Queenie, having thus suppressed Maize, and also conquered the run, now felt up to other duties. She rose, shook out her skirt, cast a critical glance at the reflection of her legs in the long mirror, and turned to the newcomer, prepared to give her undivided attention.

"Set down," she invited. "Here, Stella, don't be a pig!"

She seized the legs of the girl called Stella, a tired looking and plain-faced young person who was lying at full length on the room's one couch, and swung them to the floor. Stella retrieved the cigarette dislodged from her lips by the briskness of this maneuver, and gloomily huddled in the couch's top corner. Miss Morris pressed the visitor into part of the vacated space and fitted herself into what was left.

"What's your label?" she asked.

"Berson."

"New in business?"

"Yes."

"I thought so." Miss Morris hid the air of one adjusting her shoulders to a burden. "Well, things don't light up here till the theatre crowd blows in," she resumed, "and that ain't for ten or fifteen minutes yet."

Lots of folks who think they have "indigestion" have only an acid condition which could be corrected in five or ten minutes. An effective anti-acid like Phillips Milk of Magnesia soon restores digestion to normal. Phillips does away with all that sourness and gas right after meals. It prevents the distress so apt to occur two hours after eating. What a pleasant preparation to take! And how good it is for the system! Unlike a burning dose of soda—which is but temporary relief at best—Phillips Milk of Magnesia neutralizes many times its volume in acid. Chevrolet Sales & Service Station Has New Plan

Preventative maintenance service, a forward step in the business of caring for automobiles, will be featured from now on by Blair's in this community, according to an announcement received from S. E. Blair. This service has been adopted by progressive automotive dealers all over the country as part of the "Care Will Save Your Car" movement fostered by the Motor and Equipment Association. As a result of its selection, the local firm is being identified with a national movement in recognition of its reputation in local trade circles.

Preventative maintenance service will be available to every automobile owner. It provides for reducing expensive repair bills by keeping cars in first class shape at all times through a plan of periodic inspection. These regular inspections of the motor and all other parts of the automobile will discover faults and correct them before they become serious enough to tie up the car when it is needed and before they result in conditions that seriously impair its operating efficiency.

A Real Blood Sucker.

The bed bug may be said to be the bane of all housewives, says a local official of the Gulf Refining Company. It is a thief in the night. It bites and pierces your skin and sucks your blood. Because the bed bug sucks blood from the sick and the well, it is a potential carrier of any communicable disease. The bed bug is not merely an annoyance, it is a very dangerous insect to have in your home. An infestation of bed bugs can be easily remedied by spraying one of the modern types of insect sprays, developed and marketed by the large oil refining companies during the past three or four years, and regularly advertised in this paper.

DAIRYING - Dr. L. D. LeGear, V. S. Dr. LeGear is a graduate of Ontario Veterinary College, 1892. Thirty-eight years of veterinary work. Eminent authority on diseases and raising of dairy cows, other livestock, and poultry. Nationally known lecturer, writer and author.

Selecting Ancestors Real Job In Dairying

Family Tree Counts for Everything in Development of a Valuable Herd.

Editor's Note—This is another of articles on dairying written by the well known national dairy and poultry authority, Dr. L. D. LeGear, V. S., of St. Louis, Mo. Our readers are urged to read them carefully and clip them out for future reference.

A favorite source of puns for our vaudeville humorists is the fact that mankind has no voice in the selection of its ancestors. A family tree must be accepted whether good branches or bad cling to it.

In dairying ancestry is a most important factor. And what's more, it is under the absolute control of the herd owner.

Having determined the breed of cattle you desire for your herd you next proceed to that very interesting task of selecting the foundation stock. Let us consider first the job of picking cows for the herd. We might as well make clear at the outset that there is no sure way of knowing how good an animal is from the standpoint of producing heirs. Two cows sired by the same bull may have four calves in four years. One mother will have four sons and the other might possibly have four daughters.

In the first instance the result would be most disappointing and, in the other case, exceedingly fortunate.

The most satisfactory test you can make in choosing cows for dairy purposes is to study the records and breeding of their ancestors and their individual records of production. You should know, for instance, what amount of milk or butterfat your cows should produce at a given age.

Should be remembered that developers of dairy breeds have spent hundreds of years in careful selection for the purpose of increasing milk production. No matter what breed you have it is possible to secure judging cards which will assist you in buying your stock or in deciding what animals to keep in your herd.

You may be familiar with cattle in general, but once you become a dairy enthusiast you will quickly notice these points in the cow which is in the full flow of the milk. First a vigorous physical condition brought about by careful feeding. Second, an unusual development of the udder and milk veins. Third, the proper development to the size of the cow.

The barrel is that part of the animal's body between the fore and rear legs which houses the large digestive organs of the cow. The animal that produces a large amount of milk must necessarily have a large capacity for feed.

An active blood circulation is important because the digested food must be distributed. A large girth where the heart and lungs are located usually indicates large organs. A soft, pliable skin is a pretty sure sign of good circulation. Clear, bright, prominent, staring eyes another.

Look also at the milk veins leading from the udder, under the skin, back toward an opening in the frame work which leads into the cavity of the body. They should be large, especially when the cow is at the height of her milking period. The udder should be carefully examined. The size may fool you. A large udder does not necessarily produce a lot of milk. If it is practically the same size after milking as before, look out. It means an abundance of fatty tissue instead of secreting cells which contain the milk. A good udder has a long attachment to the body, in front and behind. After milking it shows plenty of loose flesh.

Remember a first-class dairy cow may not have much flesh in the milking season. The most of her food goes to the producing of milk. She may appear thin, but she will be vigorous, with soft, healthy hair and bright eyes. The cow that is thin in flesh because of the lack of food, has exactly the opposite appearance. We should keep in mind that dairy cows will naturally take on fat toward the end of the milking period and when dry. This fat is needed for the first few weeks which follows calving.

One rule that should be followed invariably in selecting a dairy cow is to do the choosing when the cow is in milk and preferably near the best stage of her milking period. That is when her characteristics are easiest to judge.

Long experience has shown what physical characteristics in breeds usually indicate high production. For instance, the body of the dairy cow should be wedge shape as viewed from the front, side or top of the withers. The body should be deeper from the hip points to the bottom of the udder than it is at the fore quarters. All of this means that width at the hips, width of the chest and depth of the body are evidences of capacity. Unless these characteristics are present it is practically certain that the animal will not be a big producer of milk.

IN THE RADIO STUDIOS With Albert Zugsmith, Jr.

Tragedy— Babe Ruth has just been introduced to the coast to coast audience of the Columbia Broadcasting System by Ted Husing, sports announcer. Fresh from his shower at the Yankee Stadium, the Babe was nattily dressed in a camel's hair sweater, tan trousers and white trimmed sport shoes as he stood before the "mike" booming forth his hastily prepared speech.

Now Nicholas Cortolongo, the chief page boy of WABC, was a blase young man, rubbing elbows with innumerable celebrities of all sorts during his day's work. But Nick had never been impressed with greatness until he shook the hand that wields the bat that so frequently slams the ball over the fence.

A good page, he knew the law of the studio—perfect quiet during broadcasts. But being in the same identical room with the Sultan of Swat proved too much for Nick. In the middle of the Home Run King's discourse, Nick's wayward foot slipped and he fell with a crash on the studio piano. The Babe jumped; others in the room sat aghast. The unforgivable had occurred.

When Ruth's talk was signed off, poor Nick, completely crushed, crept from behind the piano, tears glistening in his eyes, as he stammered, "Gee, Mr. Ruth, I'm awful sorry."

"Forget it, kid," replied the Bat Impresario, "when I saw it wasn't a pop bottle everything was all right. Here, I'll autograph this ball for you."

When Ted Husing journeyed to Louisville to tell the world who was winning the Kentucky Derby, Governor Samson surprised the popular CBS sport-caster by commissioning him an honorary colonel, on his personal staff.

Hints for the Home - by Nancy Hart

GELATINE

Gelatin is one of the housewife's best friends in warm weather. Desserts made with gelatin have a distinct appeal to warm-weather appetites. On days when a hot roast would destroy the over heated appetite, a jellied meat loaf is tempting and delicious.

Jellied salads, too, are a completely satisfactory mainstay at luncheon in summer. And the best of all these gelatin dishes is that they can be varied for every day in the week, and still you won't have tried them all.

Lemon jelly is a good foundation for many desserts. You can make it with fresh fruit juice according to the directions that come with any box of gelatin, or you can make it with one of the ready prepared fruit gelatin mixtures. Then vary it as you wish.

If your family don't like the flavor of lemon jelly, then try something else—raspberry, orange, cherry or any other favorite flavor. For one always good dessert prepare the fruit gelatin and let it cool. In the bottom of individual moulds put three or four ripe strawberries, and when the gelatin begins to harden cover them. Let it harden completely, and then put in the moulds diced orange pulp, pour on the rest of the gelatin, harden, and serve.

Individual moulds of any fruit jelly are delicious served with whipped cream or with boiled custard. Or, if you wish, with crushed and slightly sweetened fruit. Orange jelly, for instance, is good served with crushed strawberries, lemon jelly is delicious with raspberries.

Banana Pie. Three bananas, two eggs, one cup sugar, two cups milk, two tablespoons flour. Have ready a rich pie paste for a one-crust pie. Make the filling by mixing the sugar, flour, egg yolks and milk. Cook these in a double boiler until thick. Add vanilla to flavor and pour into the crust. Make a meringue of the egg whites beaten with one tablespoon of sugar. Place in the oven until the meringue is brown.

2 GLASSES WATER, NOT TOO COLD, HELP CONSTIPATION. One glass water is not enough—take 2 glasses a half hour before breakfast. You get quicker results by adding a little simple glycerin, saline, etc. (known as Adlerika) to one glass. Unlike other remedies, Adler-ika acts on BOTH upper and lower bowel and removes old poisons you never thought were in your system. Adlerika stops GAS and sour stomach in 10 minutes! Relieves constipation in 2 hours.

PORTER'S DRUG STORE George, whose only means of support was his rich father, was being married. Everything went well until the bridegroom had to repeat the words: "With all my worldly goods I thee endow."

Waco Citizen 79, Endorses New Konjola

"Too Bad I Did Not Hear of Konjola Long Ago," Says This Happy Man.

"Too bad I did not hear of Konjola long ago; it could have saved me much suffering. My stomach was the cause of my trouble," said Mr. J. A. Kin, 122 Oriental road, WACO. "Everything I ate caused pain, gas and bloating. My whole system was run down, my vitality was low and I was gradually losing my strength. I had no ambition and was worn out all the time."

"So many medicines had failed me that I had about lost hope. Then came Konjola. After taking four bottles my appetite increased; I found I could eat anything without a trace of indigestion in any form, and my whole system has taken on new life. I have plenty of ambition to do my work, and I will always recommend Konjola as a real medicine."

Konjola is not a "Cure-all"—there is no such thing, but when taken for from six to eight weeks will produce amazing results. The countless thousands of indorsements of Konjola have proven that it makes good in even the most stubborn cases. Konjola is sold in Hico, Texas, at Porter's Drug Store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

TOMORROW TOMORROW FRANK PARKER STOCKBRIDGE

BANKS A. P. Giannini told a Congressional committee the other day that branch banking would eventually supersede the present system of independent local banks in the United States, as it has done in Canada and largely in England. Small villages, he said, cannot support a bank with sufficient resources to meet the growing industrial needs of small towns.

Mr. Giannini is probably right. There are good-sized cities in the United States whose progress has been held back by lack of adequate local banking capital and by the narrow outlook of local bankers. The prejudice against "chain" ownership of any kind of business extends to banks as well as to stores, but as in the case of chain stores, the remedy is in the hands of the community. Independent banks, like retailers, can compete with "chain" institutions if they will adopt the modern methods of the chains and provide themselves with sufficient resources to make competition effective.

CRIPPLES One of the things which we are beginning to learn is that the worst thing we can do for a person who has been disabled by disease or accident is to coddle him or her, and the best thing that can be done is to train the remaining faculties to useful work.

The Veterans Bureau has finished its rehabilitation work with men who were injured in the World War, and reports that every man who is capable of any sort of productive effort is now at work some where. But the Federal Government is cooperating with the states to provide the same sort of rehabilitation training for victims of industrial accidents and of crippling diseases like infantile paralysis. Only a few states are giving cooperation, but in those surprising results have been achieved.

Leaving out the benefit to society by not having to support the cripple in idleness, there is a definite value to the injured person in the discovery that he is still able to earn a living.

STUPIDITY Customs officials in Seattle recently seized 120 copies of a German medical book, imported by a Seattle dealer for sale to the medical men of the Northwest. The ground for the seizure was that the contents of the book were "indelicately." The book is a learned treatise on biology, which word is merely a technical term meaning "life."

Life, apparently, is indelicate, in the eyes of the United States Customs. But human life only. Nobody tries to suppress books which deal with the breeding of livestock, dogs or poultry. Only when a book suggests that the life processes of human beings are similar to those of other animals do well-meaning but stupid officials interfere.

LOWDOWN Victor V. Green runs what he calls "The Most Low-Down Paper on Earth." Its title is the Coachella Valley Submarine and it is published at Coachella, Riverside County, California, 76 feet below sea level. Editor Green has a sense of humor, as is evidenced by the subtitle of his paper. He also has a sense of responsibility to his thriving agricultural community, as the local news in the "Submarine" clearly shows.

There are other valleys in California the bottoms of which are even farther below the level of the Pacific Ocean than this one. They are beds of ancient lakes which were once bays of the ocean before some prehistoric earthquake raised the land between them and the sea.

Old ocean beds make good farms everywhere. Holland's farms are almost entirely on reclaimed seabottom, and another 300,000 acres of ocean has just been diked off and is being pumped out to add to the agricultural area. Much of Florida's best land has only lately been reclaimed and now project is on foot to irrigate the Sahara desert and make it the world's garden spot.

WASHINGTON The National Capital is rapidly becoming the most beautiful city in America, one of the most beautiful cities of the world. I first went to Washington as a boy, nearly fifty years ago, and have seen it grow from a mudhole ornamented in spots with beautiful structures and monuments, into something which now begins to resemble the harmonious, stately design of the great Frenchman, Major L'Enfant, whom George Washington employed to lay out the city named after himself.

Just now there is being spent in Washington on public buildings and grounds, parkways and the like, a total of $314,250,000. Washington was planned to face East and South from the Capitol and the White House, respectively. Real estate speculators of the 1790's bought up the desirable lots and held them at such high prices that the city grew North and West instead and new fronts had to be put on the White House and the Capitol, the back doors of which faced the city as it is now.

Hico Man Decides Snake Bad Pal For An Auto Ride

"Riding along on a lone country road, when your only companion is a huge long snake, coiled under the seat of the car in which you are riding is not a very comfortable feeling," according to R. O. Moffatt, lineman for the Texas-Louisiana Power Company, who experienced that very thing last Saturday afternoon.

Mr. Moffatt had taken Willie Robertson, a line patrolman, on the Hamilton highway to walk the Hico alone, and when returning four miles of town he spied a long dark snake making its way across the road. The wheels of the car passed over it, and Mr. Moffatt noticed that it was slung on the fender of the car. Its mouth was wide open and its tongue protruding as it slowly climbed down the fender of the car, into the back of the pick-up body, and made itself comfortable directly under the seat of the car as if preparing to make a long journey.

Seeing the actions of the creature and what it was up to, Mr. Moffatt lost no time in bringing the car to a stop. A farmer standing nearby, went to see if he could be of any assistance to the driver and the two tried to fish him out with a wire. But the snake seemed more determined than ever to proceed with his journey and would not make an attempt to give up his present position. He tried to fight back as if he knew he would win the argument.

A truck soon came along which contained some heavy wire, and the driver of the truck assisted them in getting the snake out of his nook and killed him. After making a thorough examination, they found he answered the description of a rattlesnake, although his rattlers were missing. Mr. Moffatt says he will be an even more close observer of snakes in the future, although he does not care to be a "snake charmer."

THE FAMILY DOCTOR

By JOHN JOSEPH GAINES, M.D.

SELF-DRUGGING

It grows on people—the habit of "taking something" for every little discomfort they happen to feel. Self-dosing is never the wise thing to do; you would not employ a physician to treat you who made no pretense to any knowledge of treating the sick or indisposed; now would you? Then why do it to yourself?

A diagnosis of any disposition is necessary before any sort of intelligent treatment can be instituted. Even the intelligent physician may be puzzled over the actual cause of a given complaint, often a comparatively trivial, yet a very annoying thing. Not long ago I met a lady who had spent over $500 on a peculiar neuralgic headache without more than temporary relief; she had taken every variety of "headache tablets" that she heard of—seriously impairing her blood and weakening her heart very perceptibly; I suggested examining her nasal passages and sinuses; "O, there's nothing wrong there—I have no catarrh," she insisted.

Farm Board Plans To Be Discussed At Hamilton Tuesday

Farm board plans for cotton farmers of this district, in which a million bales of cotton are grown in an average year, will be discussed before a mass meeting which has been called for 1:30 on Tuesday afternoon, June 17 at Hamilton. Representative of Erath, Comanche, Mills, San Saba, Lampasas, Coryell and Bosque counties are invited to attend by the Hamilton Lion Club and county agent, Wm. Meinscher, who are issuing the meeting call.

At this meeting, arrangements will be made to send delegations to Waco to take part in formation of a district council. This council will control district policies to a large degree the first year, and will have complete control the second year, it is expected, the district handles 100,000 bales of cotton through the association, up to which condition it will become independent, subject only to the regulations of the farm board.

Farmers and business men are to work out their own policies under the new plan.

The district council meeting to be held about June 20 will mark the beginning of a 20-day educational campaign, ending with a three-day one for members. Before cotton begins to move, the association's marketing machinery will be set up with district headquarters at Waco and with branch offices in half a dozen other towns.

Lawrence Westbrook, in Waco Sunday, said the association policy will be to limit branch offices to the number which can be most effectively handled this season, rather than risk disappointing results if an effort were made to set them up at all points which have applied. He said that sub-offices will be established at points which will probably warrant branch offices later, the sub-offices to give service which will approach as nearly as possible that rendered by the branch offices.

Commenting on the manner in which both business men and farmers of this and other districts are responding to the Farm Board program, Westbrook said it is "little short of phenomenal" and is adding that Carl Williams, on his speaking tour of Texas last week, has said "the board has made more progress in less than a year than I thought it would make in the first two years."

The complete list of Mass Meetings announced to date for the Waco district, and the territory invited to each, includes:

Friday, June 13—2:00 P. M.—Waxahachie, Ellis County.

Friday, June 13—8:00 P. M.—Hutto, all of Williamson Co., Northern Travis Co., Burnett Co., Llano Co., Mason Co.

Saturday, June 14—2:00 P. M.—Cleburne, Johnson Co., Hood Co.

Two brothers survive, J. W. Steele of Hico, and T. A. Steele, of Fluvanna, besides several nieces and nephews. One little girl, a niece of Mrs. Reed's made her home with Mrs. Reed and her brother.

Funeral services were held Thursday afternoon at 3:30 at the First Baptist Church, with the pastor, Rev. Clarence Allen Morton, officiating. The body was laid to rest in the Hico cemetery.

Boy Scout Camp Near Valley Mills Opens On July 7th

The annual summer encampment of the Boy Scouts of the Heart of Texas Council, of which our city is a part, will open on July 7th. The camp will be located on the grounds of the Valley Mills Country Club, about two miles north of Valley Mills.

The many scouts who attended the camps last year had such a fine time at the typical "old swimming hole" and playing games on the beautiful grounds of the Valley Mills golf club that already many applications have been turned in by scouts all over the district reserving places.

Last year it was necessary to hold the camp in three sections, due to the large enrollment of boys and this year it is planned to hold four sections. These sections are limited to 60 boys each and will be of a week's duration each. The camp periods start July 7th, 14th, 21st, and 28th, each Monday morning and close each following Sunday afternoon, enabling the boys' parents to come up, visit the camp site and take their sons home.

Boy Scout camps are non-profit making and the fee is placed low enough so that every scout may attend. This year the camp fee is $5.00 per scout, provided an adult leader from the town accompanies their boys, otherwise the fee is $6.00.

The National Council of the Boy Scouts of America lays down very rigid requirements as to safety and sanitary precautions to be taken on the camps. The drinking water and swimming water must pass a careful analysis by the chemist of the health department. The cooks must have health certificates. The food is of the very best quality and the menu is approved by a regular dietician. Precautions against flies, mosquitoes and insects are considered.

All boys' main idea of camp is "plenty of swimming" and here again the usual Boy Scout precautions are used. The swimming hole is deep enough for any swimmer and yet shallow enough to avoid any trouble from water accidents. An American Red Cross Life Saver is in charge of the swimming at all times and the scout "buddy system" is used, whereby the boys pair off and in that way add precaution or watchfulness is had.

Activities, such as games, hikes, handicraft instruction in leather-soap modeling, bead work, and work, archery, plaster, of Paris other interesting things that boys like to do are big features of the camp.

Around a big camp fire at night games, stunts, songs and contests are held in old Indian style.

Each boy will be required to get a health certificate made out by his doctor before he enters camp. The Scoutmasters of the various troops have these blanks now and are sending in reservations for the camp. It looks like one of the biggest camp years that the council has ever had.

The camps will be in charge of A. J. Lawrence, Scout Executive, and C. Y. Meyers, Field Executive, of the council.

MINIATURE GOLF COURSE MAY BE OPEN FOR BUSINESS SATURDAY

According to S. J. Cheek, who is one of the owners of the new miniature golf course being put in on the lot next to the News office, they may be open for business Saturday afternoon and night. Work has been progressing very rapidly for the past few days, and they are making a special effort to get it ready by that time.

Messrs. Brown and Cheek are planning a formal opening for sometime next time, at which time there will be contests and various forms of entertainment.

The Home Merchants, Producers and Consumers Associations at Huntsville have recently been granted charters.
