

131 to receive diplomas this weekend

131 Castro County seniors will receive diplomas Friday and Saturday in commencement exercises at Hart, Nazareth and Dimmitt high schools.

29 Hart seniors and 23 Nazareth seniors will graduate Friday evening, while 79 Dimmitt seniors receive their diplomas Saturday night.

The Nazareth ceremonies will be held at the school cafeteria, while the Hart ceremonies will be held at the school auditorium. Dimmitt's commencement will be held at the DHS Auditorium. All three ceremonies will begin at 8 p.m.

Saturday, the Dimmitt Middle School eighth grade promotional exercises will be held at the DMS Auditorium at 5 p.m.

The valedictorians and salutatorians of each school will address their respective classes. The top two graduates include Jill Smith and Donna Behrends of Dimmitt, Dale Albracht and Mike Huseman of Nazareth, and Antonia Garza and Traci Jeffcoat of Hart. Dimmitt's seniors will be treated to an all-night, no-alcohol-no-drugs party following the annual graduation dance at the Expo Building.

"We hope we are starting a tradition," said Janice Nutt, whose daughter, Cindi, is among this year's DHS graduates. "Larger schools have been having these, and some of the senior parents talked and decided we needed to provide an alternative for our kid. We just want a safe night for our kids, to provide them with an alternative.

"We will have a 'casino night' and a white elephant auction plus some other surprises for them, and it will last from as soon as the dance is over until they're through having fun. The students will be locked in—once they're in, they're required to stay. No one will be allowed to leave and come back."

The all-night party is free for seniors and their dates, with tickets available at the DHS office. Funds to pay for the activities were donated by senior parents.

"We hope this will start a tradition—we hope the parents of next year's seniors will pick up on this."

Nazareth will hold its eighth grade promotion tonight at 7:30 in the school cafeteria. Lorelea Acker and Kirstin Birkenfeld will receive high point grade awards.

Hart will hold eighth grade promotional exercises Saturday at 8 p.m. in the school auditorium. Heather Ritter is the class valedictorian, while Sally Rios is the salutatorian.

DMS team is at OM world meet

Eight Dimmitt Middle School students will be competing today in the Olympics of the Mind World Meet at Northern Arizona University in Flagstaff.

The eight students and seven sponsors left Tuesday morning for the world meet, where they will be competing against teams from across the US and several Canadian provinces as

By Don Nelson

When I visit the hospital, I'd rather it be with a bouquet or book for a friend.

But last Wednesday I landed in Plains Memorial Hospital as a bona fide inmate for the first time since I don't-remember-when. (It had been so long since I had been a guest that they had to issue me a new card and number. That means at least seven years, they said.)

My malady was such that I needed both the "upper and lower GI series," as they call them in hospitalese. To those in white, that means gastrointestinal purging, probing, scoping and X-raying. To the hapless patient, it means starvation, long needles, laxatives, and multiple doses of barium by ingestion and infusion.

I left my dignity in an examination room that has an L-shaped tilting table. It's mounted on a pedestal, a la the mechanical bull at Gilly's. Nearby is a cabinet that's loaded with ominous-looking tools that I couldn't even describe, much less identify. I had never seen such a table before, but I knew right away that I was in big trouble. When they draped my bod over it and put it in gear, I realized why they had hooked me up to that intravenous stand—without it, I think I could have outrun the Treasure Hunters.

The Dimmitt team won second place at the regional meet at West Texas State University in Canyon in March, then won the state contest at El Paso last month.

After arriving in Flagstaff Tuesday night, the team was scheduled to participate in a parade through Flagstaff Wednesday from 4 p.m. until 6 p.m., then assemble at the NAU Skydome for an 8 p.m. pep rally. The local team has designed a banner and individual hats which will be showcased in the parade. The hats and banners will be judged, with the top 20 hats and top 50 banners in each of the three divisions to be selected for final judging during the pep rally.

"This is really an honor for us to be participating in the world OM meet," said team coach Dale Wells. "Only one team per state and province is going for each of the five problems—only 91 kids from all of Texas are in the world competition."

The team will participate in two areas—long-range problem solving, where team members will go through their treasure-hunting routine, and spontaneous problem solving, where team members will try to compile creative, thorough answers to questions posed by judges.

Team sponsors include Dale Wells and his wife, Cindy, DMS gifted/talented teacher Glenda Sims, DMS Assistant Principal David Willis, Jerry Nutt and John and Pam Hamilton.

Lopez art talents sparks OM team

Pablo Picasso may be hard for the untrained or uneducated to appreciate, what with his "different" approach to art.

Jerry Lopez is basically untrained and uneducated in art, and he's just an eighth grader, but he most surely appreciates Picasso more than anyone else in town.

Jerry was a member of the "Great Art Lives" OM team from Dimmitt that won first place in regional competition in Canyon in March and second place at the state contest last month in El Paso, and prepared pieces of art that earned the team maximum points in the contest's performance area.

"Jerry Lopez' art work is already showing maturity," said one of the OM judges that surveyed his work, including two recreations of original Picassos and two original works of Lopez' done in the Picasso style.

The only art education Lopez has, though, is watching his older brother, Jose Angel Lopez, Jr., come up with drawings (Joe graduated from DHS in 1983.)

Catoe staying; chief leaving city position

Dimmitt Police Chief John Hamilton has resigned from his post, while City Manager Paul Catoe has reconsidered his resignation and will formally withdraw his letter of resignation next week.

Hamilton, who has served here since last Aug. 16, will be moving back to the Dallas-Fort Worth area, where he had worked before moving to Dimmitt last summer to succeed Don Franklin.

"I'm in line for a couple of positions in that (Dallas-Fort Worth) area," Hamilton said. "We enjoyed our stay here, and our kids enjoyed the schools, even though we were here only a short time."

"John has done a super job," Catoe said. "He has implemented some things, used a lot of common sense, and we just hate to lose a man of his caliber."

Catoe said Lt. Ray Aleman and Sgt. Felix Balderas will work with him in running the police department until Hamilton's successor is named.

Hamilton's official last day on the job is Friday, but he left for Flagstaff, Ariz., Wednesday morning where his son is competing in the Olympics of the Mind world contest.

Catoe had submitted a letter of resignation which was accepted by the City Board of Aldermen May 19, but said "a couple of the aldermen have since asked me to reconsider. I have reconsidered, and will formally withdraw my letter of resignation at the aldermen's meeting next Monday."

Absentee voting starts for runoff

Absentee voting began Wednesday for the June 7 runoffs in the Democrat and Republican primaries in Texas.

Absentee voting in both parties will be held through Tuesday at the Castro County Clerk's office in Dimmitt.

The Democrat runoff will feature a battle for a seat on the State Railroad Commission between John Sharp and P. S. Ervin, three Supreme Court posts and a spot on the Court of Criminal Appeals.

The supreme court races feature a battle between Oscar Mauzy and Shirley Butts for Place 1, Robert M. Campbell and Jim Brady for Place 2, and Jay Gibson and Raul Gonzales for Place 4. The criminal appeals race is between Rusty

Duncan and George "Jorge" Martinez.

The GOP runoff features contests between David Davidson and Aaron Bullock for Lieutenant Governor, Roy R. Barrera, Jr., and Ed Walsh for Attorney General, Grady T. Yarbrough and M. D. Anderson, Jr., for Commissioner of the General Land Office, and Milton E. Fox and John Thomas Henderson for Railroad Commissioner.

Balloting will be held next Saturday for the runoff, with all Republicans in the county voting at the Commissioner's Courtroom at the courthouse. Democrats in Precincts 1 and 5 will vote in Hart, with all others voting at the courthouse in Dimmitt.

Miller is new RES principal

Richardson Elementary School teacher Les Miller has been named as the new principal at the school, beginning next August 1.

Miller, currently a third-grade teacher at RES, replaces Elmer Berryhill, who is retiring.

Miller was selected by the DISD board May 19 and accepted the post last week.

The board also hired Charles Wells to teach small engine repair at Dimmitt Middle School, replacing N. A. Bryson, who is retiring, according to Supt. Robert Ryan.

Ryan also announced Dimmitt schools will dismiss at 1:45 p.m. today and Friday.

Water table drop slows

Castro County's underground water table is still dropping, but the overall water table in the 5.2 million-acre High Plains Underground Water District neither increased nor decreased last year, according to HPUWD figures compiled from 950 observation wells across the region.

The measurements were taken in January and February.

Average depth-to-water measurements made in wells in eight area counties showed a rise in the water table, with Crosby County showing the largest rise, 2.5 feet.

The average depth-to-water in the seven other counties showed a small increase in the depth-to-water, or a decline in the water table.

Average declines ranged from .08 feet in Bailey County to 1.40 feet in Parmer County. Castro County's decline last year was .78 feet, third on the list behind Bailey and Lamb Counties (-.82) in the rate of decline.

Last year's -.78 loss in the water table was a dramatic decrease compared to the average loss for the last 10 years, 1976 through 1986. The 10-year period showed an average decrease of 2.06 feet per year in the county, with the average change dropping to -1.65 feet from 1981 to 1986 and -1.51 feet from 1983 to 1986.

"In most counties the rate of decline in the water table has been significantly decreased, particularly in the last five years," said District Geologist Don McReynolds. "A combination of non-use, increased energy costs and fortunate rains at opportune times has allowed the Ogallala Aquifer to replenish itself."

HPUWD based its averages on observation from 89 wells in the county. The well which showed the largest total change in the county was near Sunnyside, and dropped 43.83 feet over the past 10 years, while the well with the largest gain in water over the past 10 years, northeast of Dimmitt, had an increase of 8.85 feet.

They Paid The Price

Have you ever wondered what happened to those men who signed the U. S. Declaration of Independence?

It took more than a mere signature on their part. They had to be willing to pay the price, and so they did. Five signers were captured by the British as traitors and tortured before they died. Twelve had their homes ransacked and burned. Two lost their sons in the Revolutionary Army, another had two sons captured. Nine of the 56 fought and died from wounds or the hardships of the Revolutionary War.

What kind of men were they? Twenty four were lawyers and jurists. Eleven were merchants, nine were farmers and large plantation owners, men of means, well educated. But they signed the Declaration of Independence knowing full well that the penalty would be death if they were captured.

They signed and they pledged their lives, their fortunes and their sacred honor.

Carter Braxton of Virginia, a wealthy planter and trader, saw his ships swept from the seas by the British navy. He sold his home and properties to pay his debts, and died in rags.

Thomas McKeam was so hounded by the British that he had to move his family constantly. He served in the army without pay. All his possessions were taken from him and he died in poverty.

At least ten of the signers had their homes and properties leveled to the ground by the enemy and when they returned home, it was to find everything gone.

John Hart was driven from his wife's bedside as she was dying. He and his children fled for their lives. His fields and grist mill were laid waste. He lived in forests and caves, returning home after the war to find his wife dead, his children vanished.

Such were the stories and sacrifices of the American Revolution. These were not wild eyed, rabble rousing ruffians. They were soft spoken men of means and education. They had security, but valued freedom more.

They gave us an independent America. Can we keep it?

Against the Sea

Have you ever wandered idly along a sandy ocean beach or the rocky shore of a lake and come upon the battered hull of an old boat? Perhaps the bottom has been smashed in or the sides leak so badly that probably the repairs would cost far more than the old boat is worth. So it is left to rot; abandoned to the merciless pounding of the wind whipped surf and the constant destruction of the surging water. Let us consider for a moment how many people of our acquaintance have, through their own choice, made their lives very much like this old boat. They have let the destructive waters of malice and greed eat away at their hearts and minds until their lives have become as worthless as this rotting hull. And yet, God in His Infinite Mercy will not let man be abandoned. There is no measure of His forgiveness if we but acknowledge that He is our Father and we are His children. There is no life that He considers worthless or beyond repair. Begin now to attend the church of your choice regularly... for through the church you will know of everlasting life.

EVERYONE IN THE CHURCH
THE CHURCH IN EVERYONE

The Church is God's appointed assembly in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long preserve and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

EDC $ SIGNS

By GERALD M. HANNERS

The ancient sage warns, "Don't plan your future on the past!" Sadly enough, the last dozen years have proved these words more painfully true than ever. Wild business cycles and whipsaw industrial markets have made career planning difficult.

For all the uncertainty, however, selected trends in technology and functional business areas do look reliable enough to serve as a basis for job strategies. Today's graduate who melds personality, interests and skills with the most promising lines of business and most sought-after functional skills can get a good start on a healthy career path.

For those who are graduating, it may be important to keep in mind that the best jobs of the future will not be simple extrapolations of the past. Rather, there will be rewards for those who logically see the interaction between human genius and human needs, develop the right know-how, and welcome change.

Right now, you are "starting fresh," a big advantage. But don't sit back and take it too easy. As your career progresses, updating your skills and knowledge to keep pace with new developments will assure you remain in a position to capture the greatest rewards. Most of all, don't be discouraged. There is still great demand for people with skills, know-how, and the willingness to learn.

Congratulations to all of our graduating seniors and best wishes for many happy tomorrows!

Joyce Hunter retires, sells Lucky U

The Lucky U Christian School has a new name and a new owner.

Joyce Hunter, teacher and owner of the Lucky U for 22 years has decided to retire and sell the school.

A retirement reception in her honor will be held tonight, (Thursday) at 8:30 in the Fellowship Hall of the First Baptist Church.

The three and four year old classes from the Lucky U school will present programs beginning at 6 p.m.

The kindergarten and second grade classes will put on their program at 7:30 p.m. Both programs will be held in the auditorium of the First Baptist Church.

Former and present students and their parents are invited to attend the reception.

The new owner is Danna Willis, wife of Dimmitt Middle School assistant principal David Willis, and the new name will be the Rainbow School.

Willis has a Bachelors degree in education from Lubbock Christian College in Lubbock. She has taught in day care centers in Lubbock and has directed Mothers Day Out programs in Abernathy. She has three children, ages three, two and seven months.

"Danna has shared her ideas with me about the curriculum, teaching methods and goals for the young children that will attend her school," said Hunter.

"I feel very good about the environment that will be provided and feel it will give young children a good foundation in their first step to education."

The school will remain a Christian day care center and will be licensed.

Sandra Waggoner will be in charge of the child care with the learning centers during Monday and Tuesday classes.

Cindy Wells and Gayle Ward will be teaching classes on Wednesday through Friday.

"We will offer a fine pre-school education using the learning center as a basic teaching tool, said Willis. "Research has shown that formal education is harmful for a child and if he uses his senses to learn about things such as matching colors, he will be able to understand things better," Willis remarked.

Rainbow School will be a two part program with classes Mondays through Fridays. The school will be accepting children from two to four years of age. The age of a child will be determined by their age on the first of September. It will be open from September to May and will observe the same calendar as the Dimmitt Independent School District.

The school will operate from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday and Tuesday and from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Wednesday through Friday. Rainbow School will also accept students for half-days on Wednesday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 12:15 p.m.

On Monday and Tuesday, the school will operate a child care program. The learning centers will be used to enhance the days.

Bible stories, learning centers, reading readiness, math, art, free play, snacks and rest time will be the main part of the curriculum for classes Wednesday through Friday.

"We are planning on accepting approximately 38 children depending on interest in the school," Willis said. "We may open another class later on."

There will be a $15 registration fee for all children. This will hold your child a place in the school. Monthly charges will be $56 for the Monday through Tuesday classes, $80 for the Wednesday through Friday classes and $50 for the half-day program.

Anyone wishing to enroll their child in the Rainbow School for the next school year should call Willis at 647-3798.

Newcomers to the band include Ricky Turpin of Lubbock who plays the fiddle and Pam Sanders of Lafayette, Ind., who is an accomplished rhythm guitarist.

They are joined by John Hartin, electric guitar, who is instructional coordinator for SPC's country and bluegrass music program as well as being general director of the show.

Other instrumentalists include Tim McCasland, assistant professor of music at SPC, who plays the pedal steel, guitar, banjo and will join in vocals; Joe Carr, bluegrass music specialist at SPC plays mandolin, guitar and banjo and will serve as the show's master of ceremonies; and Ed Marsh, assistant professor of music

Police Calls

A 17-year-old Dimmitt man was charged with assault and terrorist threat after he allegedly beat his 16-year-old girlfriend and threatened her on Monday.

The man reportedly attacked the woman after she had tried to move back to her mother's house.

According to reports, he threw a football at her, hitting her on the inside of her right arm, leaving a large bruise. Police said he then struck the woman with his hands, kicked her and hit her with some kind of stick. The woman had bruises on her back, left leg, right arm and the left side of her face was swollen. The woman also stated that the man had "threatened to kill her."

Charges were filed against a Dimmitt man for terrorist threat Monday after he allegedly threatened a woman at her residence.

According to police, the woman had been sleeping at her residence when the man woke her up and began yelling at her.

She said he began moving around the house very violently and turned to her, threatened to kill her and then left the house.

Police were unable to locate the man.

Joe Baron, Jr. told police a man identified as Arnold Gonzales, Jr. was getting into his pickup and was driving away without permission.

Gonzales reportedly returned the pickup later that day.

Two TS 6904 speakers were taken from a vehicle owned by Robert Murillo of 300 NE Halsell sometime between 11:30 and 11:55 p.m. Friday.

Tire rims from the front and rear wheels of a pickup owned by Loyd Vaughan of Dimmitt, were taken by unknown persons.

A Dimmitt woman was charged with theft over $20 but under $200 and with contributing to the delinquency of a minor child after she reportedly took four rolls of Polaroid 600 film from Thriftway and then had a 9-year-old girl carry it out for her.

Social Security

...in Castro County

Students and other young people planning to work during the summer should note that special rules affect the reporting of earnings from many typical summer jobs for Social Security purposes. Becoming familiar with the rules can assure that the earnings are reported properly to earn important Social Security protection.

Social Security pays disability and survivors benefits on the record of workers who have credit for as little as 1½ years of work. Work credits accumulate over the worker's lifetime for retirement benefits. While the amount of work credit determines eligibility for benefits, it's the annual earnings reported that the benefits are figured from.

With most jobs, social security taxes are automatically deducted from the pay check, and the employer pays a matching amount and reports the total to Social Security. Many of the types of jobs generally available to summer workers are service jobs (restaurant and hotel work, for example) farm work, or self employment (sales work, for example). A person needs to know how to report cash tips, which are a major part of many service jobs, when farm work counts for Social Security protection, and how to report self employment income.

Many service jobs involve tips. Taxes on tips are paid by the employee only. The employer should give the employer a report of tips he or she received during the month by the 10th of the following month. The employer reports the tips to Social Security along with other regular wage reports.

Because much farm work is irregular and sporadic, a minimum of work or earnings is required before it counts for Social Security purposes. Earnings of at least $150 or more in cash from one employer during a calendar year, or cash wages paid on a time basis (by the hour, day, week, etc.) for any part of 20 days or more during a year should be reported. The earnings are reported by the employer as regular wages.

Self-employment earnings of $400 or more also count for Social Security. The income is reported on the worker's Federal income tax return, and the tax paid at that time.

People who become involved in any of the above types of summer employment should be sure to call the Social Security office for more details on the rules involved for reporting their earnings.

PEOPLE didn't always look forward to the return of Halley's comet. Ranger Rick magazine says that in 1066, English knights blamed the comet for the death of a king and their battlefield loss. New England puritans, in 1682, believed diseases and floods would arrive with the comet. And, in 1910, people hid in barrels of water for protection from Halley's "harmful rays."

Castro County Farm Bureau members can now buy infant car seats at a special price from the manufacturer and, in addition, be refunded the full cost when the need for it is gone, according to Larry Hausmann of Flagg, county president.

Arrangements have been made with the manufacturer for Farm Bureau members to buy the infant car seat for $20. The seat normally retails for about $60.

The seat can be kept or passed on to someone else when the member is finished with it. Or, the member can choose to return it to the county office for a full refund of $20.

The seat meets all federal standards. Restraint seats are required by law in Texas.

entire staff, even to the point of being seen on the streets in that awkward hospital gown.

During the examination, Janet Mays, R.N., was a lot of help—she offered to take my picture and do an on-the-spot interview. Although she was having a great time, I know she meant well. But it's hard to distract a calf while it's being branded, if you get my drift.

I would have confessed to the Brinks robbery while they had me on that table.

After that experience, I was resigned to anything. But the rest of the track was fairly familiar and downhill.

My main aggravation during the rest of my stay was having to drag Charlie around with me. Charlie is the intravenous machine on a rolling stand. He's different than the old Oscar was. Charlie has an electronic brain. He plugs into a wall outlet at one end, and into you at the other, and he beeps, whistles, gurgles, blinks and keeps a running tally. I could never get more than four feet away from this robot deputy to which I was cuffed. (Have you ever tried taking a shower with a garbage bag taped over one arm?)

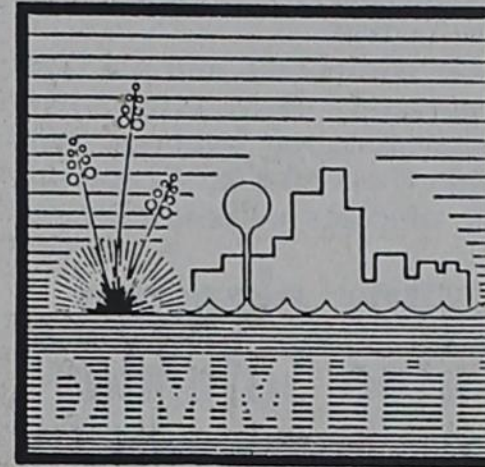

My church choir sent a bunch of pretty balloons, and I tied them to Charlie. They made him seem much less demanding.

There were a lot of nice things about my hospital stay, too. The food is fine and the staff is great. I've heard it said time and again that the personal service you get at Plains Memorial is second to none, and now I can vouch for it. Moreover, we've got some people on our technical staff here who I suspect are real cracker-jacks in their respective fields.

Plains Memorial is a 42-bed hospital. There were only 12 patients while I was in, and that's above average. The norm is eight. It's struggling for survival, as are all small-town hospitals.

I wouldn't want to have to do without Plains Memorial, and all it offers. It's vital to our community and county. We should be willing to do everything we can to keep it.

Except for that L-shaped table.

"I entered an art contest in the first grade," Jerry said. "The theme was a Christmas scene, and I won second place, and I've been interested ever since."

"I really enjoy all art forms, but I haven't done any painting yet, just drawing and sketching."

Lopez, who was the top woodworking student and the most improved science student in the eighth grade this year at DMS and is an eighth grade honor student in the top 10 of his class, will receive his first formal art education next fall at DHS.

Minimum requirements for the scholarship include a score of 21 or better on the ACT test or 1100 or better on the SAT and being in the top 25% of the graduating class.

Candidates go before an evaluation/interview committee, with the final selections made by Air Training Command at Maxwell AFB, Alabama. The scholarship is also based on scholarship achievement, leadership and civic involvement.

Lewis will enter the Corps of Cadets and will major in electrical engineering at College Station.

TSTI starting feedlot program

Texas State Technical Institute will begin classes in feedmill and elevator technology (FET) with the Fall Quarter, Sept. 8.

The new program received approval of the Coordinating Board, Texas College and University System, last winter and work on the program began immediately, according to Jim Lutes, FET program chairman.

According to the FET Advisory Committee members, who hosted their first official meeting this month, job opportunities for FET graduates are excellent and salaries should start at $6 to $6.50 per hour.

A feedmill and elevator maintenance technician operates, troubleshoots and repairs industrial equipment found in feedmills, feedlots and grain elevators.

The training program was developed by TSTI in response to the industry's difficulty in finding trained individuals to fill feedmill and elevator maintenance technician jobs, according to Lutes.

The Texas Cattle Feeder's Association requested that TSTI offer FET and both TCFA and the Texas Grain and Feed Association were consulted in the preparation of the curriculum for the course.

Brooks named to WT board

John Brooks, news editor of the Castro County News, has been named to the Journalism Advisory Committee at West Texas State University.

Brooks will serve a three-year term on the committee beginning next September.

"I look forward to working together with John for the betterment of Panhandle journalism and especially of journalism education at WTSU," said Dr. Philip Isett, director of journalism programs at WTSU.

Brooks is a 1973 graduate of Dimmitt High School and attended Central Arizona College and Hardin-Simmons University before accepting a position with KDHN Radio in Dimmitt in 1975. He also worked with radio stations in Plainview before being named news editor of the Dimmitt newspaper in 1984.

"I am looking forward to working with Dr. Isett and the WTSU journalism department," Brooks said. "There are some challenges in the next few years for this department and the university as a whole—modernization of the department into state-of-the-art technologies in the face of budget cuts, continuing threats of consolidation with Amarillo College and a number of other areas that must be studied over the next three years."

Yearbooks are available

Dimmitt High School has several 1985 Bobcat Yearbooks for sale.

The yearbooks cost $10 and will only be available through Friday.

Insects of interest Pest management training workshop set

By ALLEN KNUTSON

Area producers, fieldmen and all others interested in increasing the effectiveness of their insect pest management programs are invited to participate in the annual High Plains Scout Training Workshop.

The first of two workshops will focus on early and mid-season pests and will be held Tuesday beginning at 8:30 p.m. at the Hale County Agriculture Center in Plainview. The Agriculture Center is on US 87 Business Route, south of the city.

The workshop, conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, focuses on skills in identifying crop pests and making timely management decisions which can protect investments, yield and hold down costs.

Dr. Jim Leser and Dr. Pat Morrison, Extension Entomologists at Lubbock, will begin the workshop by reviewing concepts of pest management, pesticide safety and sampling. Pests of specific crops, including corn, cotton and sorghum, will be discussed in detail in morning and afternoon sessions. Participants will learn how to identify pests using actual specimens and learn such skills as determining percent square set on cotton plants. Handouts will also be available. Field scouts employed by consultants and aerial applicators and producers who wish to learn how to scout their own fields are encouraged to attend.

Picante sauce is hot item

Over the years Texans as well as folks in other states have developed a taste for "hot" sauce in varying degrees, and that taste seems to be growing by leaps and bounds as picante sauces of all types are hitting the market.

"Picante" comes from the Mexican word "pico" which means "hot to the tongue and mouth." The unique taste or flavor of picante sauce comes from its ingredients: tomatoes; peppers, including jalapenos, serrano and Anaheim-type green chiles; onions; vinegar; garlic; black and red pepper; comino; and oregano.

The first commercial picante sauce was produced by David Pace in San Antonio in 1947, and picante sauces have been a "hot" item ever since, says Dr. Al Wagner, a food technologist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"There were probably only about five companies in the picante sauce business 20 to 25 years ago," Wagner notes. "Now you can find some 20 to 25 different brands of picante sauce on the market. Nineteen companies in Texas alone are producing their version of picante, with annual sales estimated at $200 million in $1985."

More and more people seem to be getting into the picante sauce business, Wagner says, and he often gets inquiries from firms and individuals interested in developing their own brand of this sauce.

"I get calls and samples several times a week," Wagner says. "People ask me to check the taste and acidity level of the samples, acidity being a key factor in the product's safety."

While the market for picante sauce is maturing in Texas, inroads are just being made in midwestern, northern and eastern states, notes Wagner. Thus, there seem to be good opportunities for expansion of the picante sauce market into other parts of the nation.

Through Wagner's office, the Extension Service is continuing to provide educational assistance and information or proper processing of picante sauces, maintenance of quality and safety as well as consumer awareness, acceptance and use.

The Texas Agricultural Experiment Station is working on developing improved pepper varieties which should be a boon to the picante sauce industry.

More adult children heading back home

Unemployment, divorce or simple economics is leading more adult children — and their children — back to the parents' home.

Since there are pros and cons for both adult children and their parents, the decision to return to the parents' home shouldn't be taken lightly by either, says family relations expert Dorothy Taylor.

She says that by moving in with parents, the adult child's housing costs are usually reduced or eliminated. Yet the older parents' costs increase.

A parent may also be expected to provide free child care while the adult child works or looks for a job, if that parent is not also employed outside the home.

In addition, the family home can provide a familiar environment and a strong support system for the adult child and his or her children.

Taylor, who is a specialist with the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service home economics program, also cautions that returning to the family home can also be a source of problems. For some adult children it will increase feelings of resentment, failure or lack of independence.

"If parents disapprove of the adult child's social life and sexual behavior or have different ideas of appropriate values and behavior for their grandchildren, it will be a stressful living situation for all," she remarks.

To reduce some of the problems in a two- or three-generation living situation, the specialist recommends a thorough discussion and agreement between parents and adult children about the roles and responsibilities of each.

Because adult children often move in with parents at a time of crisis in their lives, it may be difficult for them to effectively communicate about these matters at first, Taylor observes.

The older parents may also be upset about the imposition on their time, finances, lifestyle or privacy.

But to avoid conflict later, it is important for adult children and older parents to eventually work out an agreement about sharing household duties, telephone and utility costs, child care and discipline of the grandchildren.

The specialist says they may also need to discuss parking space for automobiles, personal space and privacy, kitchen privileges and meal preparation, laundry and general expectations about evening hours, use and volume of television and stereo music.

Since their home is being used to accommodate the adult child, older parents should not feel reluctant to insist on the final say in setting house rules, she advises.

Taylor points out that when either the adult child or parents consider the living arrangement to be temporary or transitional, it will be helpful to establish a tentative date for departure.

Study lease agreement before making decision

Before leasing a car, furniture or other household items, it can pay to study the lease agreement, says family economics expert Nancy Granovsky.

"Leasing may seem less expensive than buying, but can cost you more money in the long run," she explains.

If you rented a $400 television set for 1½ years at $18 a week, for example, the leasing cost would be $1404. Your cost would definitely be lower if you bought the set.

"Even at an 18% interest rate on a credit card, the set could be paid off within a year for much less money than the $1404 you would pay by leasing," says the Extension Service specialist.

The Consumer Leasing Act for personal property requires rental companies to inform shoppers on the lease agreement that they may be able to get cash or credit terms and pay less for ownership.

Granovsky says this act also requires full disclosure of all costs, including any advance payments or security deposits, the total amount of payments due and any fees for license registration, delivery charges or taxes.

You must also be informed of the terms of the lease, including what insurance you will need, warranties, who is responsible for maintenance, how to cancel the lease and at what price you can buy the property you are leasing.

Leasing personal property may be a good financial decision under some circumstances, says the specialist. But consumers will not know whether leasing makes good sense unless they read the rental agreement disclosures and consider their alternatives.

Cedar needs special care

Cedar fences and roofs quickly lose their natural beauty due to the weathering and mildew, and if sapwood is present, wood rot and termites add to the problems.

While most people know that cedar fences and roofs will turn gray, few realize that cedar wood is not always durable, notes Chuck Stayton of Overton, wood products specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"Only the cedar heartwood has natural resistance to rot and insects, and one has to specify all heartwood to get this protection," Stayton points out. "Once the price of all heartwood cedar is established, few are willing or able to pay it. This is why most cedar fences and many cedar roofs contain some sapwood which has no natural resistance to rot and termites."

Most owners of cedar fences and roofs are now experiencing replacement costs within 12 to 15 years. Except for the first year or two, they also have fences and roofs that have turned gray and are discolored due to mildew.

"Cedar roofs and fences can be restored and preserved to give longer service life," Stayton emphasizes. "The key is to start treatment before cedar has weathered for more than six years, particularly on roofs."

The first step to restoring both cedar fences and roofs is to thoroughly clean them, says the specialist. In this regard, bleaching works well. Liquid or granular chlorine in water does an excellent job in removing mildew and discoloration due to weathering. Tough stains not affected by bleach solutions can be removed using a solution of oxalic acid in water. Because oxalic acid solutions are poisonous, they should be used sparingly.

The solution of chlorine and water can be applied to wood with a plastic garden pump sprayer. Chlorine solutions are corrosive and should be applied with commercial spray equipment only when such equipment has stainless steel or plastic internal parts, cautions Stayton. The chlorine solution should be left on the wood for 15 to 20 minutes and then washed off thoroughly with a high water pressure spray from a garden hose. Scrubbing is usually not necessary.

"Once the bleached cedar roof or fence has dried, it should be treated with a preservative," Stayton points out.

"The best choices are pigmented, copper octoate in naphthenic oil and pigmented, water soluble copper naphthenate.

Each of these products can be used for both roofs and fencing, but the copper octoate in naphthenic oil is best for cedar roofs, says the specialist. It is important to use high quality pigment with these products because both are green in color. The applied pigment provides a "natural" finish for roofs and fences while eliminating any greenish cast. Tests conducted at the Texas Forest Services' Forest Products Laboratory at Lufkin show that copper naphthenate has an expected service life of five years, with excellent protection against mildew. Retreatment is necessary when mildew begins to appear.

Anyone interested in more information about cleaning and preserving cedar fences and roofs can contact Stayton at P. O. Box 220, Overton, Tex. 75684, (214) 834-6191.
