

NEWS FROM IREDELL COMMUNITY

By MISS STELLA JONES

Miss Lois Shoemaker of Kervin visited Misses Taelma and Louisa McCauley this week. Tom Deatherage of Lubbock visited here this week. Misses Minnie Maude and Arlene Rundel of Walnut visited their aunt, Mrs. Hart, this week. Mrs. Laswell and Mrs. J. L. Davis and baby visited in Stephenville Wednesday, returning home Thursday. Miss Wilma Roberson of Morgan visited in the McCauley home this week. Mr. and Mrs. Obie Dunlap and baby of near Meridian spent Thursday evening here with his aunt, Mrs. Deatherage. Iredell and surrounding country were blessed with a fine rain which came Wednesday evening, and continued till Thursday morning. The rain was three or four inches which will be fine for the crops and gardens. The Bosque River was half bank full from the heavy rain. Bruce Myers, the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Myers, jumped off a shetland pony and broke an arm. The break isn't bad and he is getting along fine. Mrs. Berna gave her son, Dick Jr., a birthday party Tuesday afternoon, May 23, it being his 7th birthday. Several games were played. Refreshments of ice cream and cake were served. All had a fine time. He received several nice presents. Rev. McCauley and some of his members attended the district conference at Clifton this week. Mrs. Belcher and son of Morgan spent the week end with her father, Rev. McCauley. The way some of the farmers have been buying hoes this week, they aim for the children to spend some of their vacation between the rows of cotton. Rev. McCauley was called to Brandon Friday on account of the serious illness of his mother. His sons went with him. Mrs. Charlie Tidwell of Rio Grande Valley came in Wednesday for a visit to her mother, Mrs. Mingus. Mrs. Grace Pouts and Mrs. Gene Conley attended a garden party at Meridian Tuesday afternoon, sponsored by the Study Club. Mr. and Mrs. Bill Elkins are here visiting. They have been in Fort Worth as he has been in school there. They are moving to Hico. been a great deal of help here. She is also a church member. All of these left Saturday for their homes: Mrs. Hart to Austin; Mrs. Miller to Dallas; and Miss Griffin to Valley Mills. Mrs. Hayden Sadler, Jerry Phillips and Miss Eugenia Pike were also fine teachers and are a great deal of help here in church and social affairs. Miss Pike will be missed here as she was the secretary of the Sunday school. She will leave in a few days for Denton for summer school. Iredell will miss all these teachers. Some of the young people will leave in a few days for summer schools. The graduates had their exercises Friday evening in the presence of a large crowd of relatives and friends. Miss Ama Rogers was the valedictorian of the class and the address she gave was fine. Miss Alberta Phillips was the salutatorian of the class and the address she gave was also fine. Prof. Neill S. Foster of Baylor University at Waco, came with a fine address and was enjoyed by all. Dr. Pike presented the diplomas to the following: Misses Lillie Turner, Alberta Phillips, Zelma Claire Wilson, and Ama Rogers, Messrs. Fred McIlheney, George Blue and Howell McAdele. These young folks have the best wishes of their friends for a life of usefulness, and may they go further on with their education so as to prepare them for their life's work. The following were exempted in their studies: Miss Griffin's room, 4th grade; Bertha M. Phillips in all, Laurence Harper in five subjects, Bennie Newman in 4 and Walton Blakey in 3; in 5th grade, Donna Mae Worrell in all subjects, Billie Jack Blakey in 3 subjects, Robert Heyroth in all subjects, Nell Gregory in 3, Virginia Locker in 2, and Jack Cavness in 3; Mrs. Miller's room, 7th grade; Joe Heyroth in all subjects, Evelyn Griffin in all, Bobbie Tidwell in all but one; 6th grade; Lucille Owens all but one, Chester Mize in four subjects and Jewell McDonell in three. The Senior class gave a stunt program on Tuesday evening that was very humorous and was enjoyed by a large crowd. Mrs. Corley and Mrs. Paul Starnes and son of Breckenridge and Mrs. Richardson and son of Amarillo visited Mrs. B. L. Mitchell this week. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lundberg and Mr. and Mrs. Mart Nicholson of Cranfills Gap spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Holder. Had another rain Monday morning before day. Some of the people were in their storm coats as the cloud looked very bad. We didn't get as much rain as fell west of us. The Duffau and Bosque Rivers were very high Monday. Hope we don't get any more rain soon. Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Davis and children visited his brother, John and family, Sunday afternoon. The children remained all evening and came home Monday morning. Ozburn Lat Tidwell, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Meg Tidwell, deceased, was born March 11, 1894 at Iredell, departed this life May 29, 1933. He was 39 years, 2 months and nine days old. He was converted at the age of 14 and joined the Methodist Church. He was married to Miss Rilla McIlheney June 2, 1917. He was in the World War in the aviation corps at Camp McArthur at Waco. I have known him all his life. He was of a sunny disposition and had a good work and smile for everyone. He made friends wherever he went. He was a good boy and a loving and kind and devoted husband to his heart broken wife. He was a loving brother for he was loved very much by all of them. He was of a turn to win friends wherever he met. He was with the Humble Pipe Line Co. of Cisco for nine years. He was the friend of everyone there. When the news of his tragic death was told to the wife, the citizens of the city of Cisco went to the home of the man they loved so well, and tried to comfort her. The relatives all mourn for him but they do not mourn in vain for they know he is at rest and waiting for them. Besides his wife, he leaves to mourn his untimely death, one sister, Mrs. John Parks of Iredell, and four brothers, C. H. Tidwell of Kilgore, J. D. Tidwell of Sweetwater, Fred Tidwell of Terrell, and C. M. Tidwell of Iredell, and a host of other relatives. The funeral of this fine young man was held in the Methodist Church Monday afternoon, May 22, at 4 o'clock in the presence of a large host of friends and relatives who came to pay the last respects to his memory. Rev. McCauley had charge of the funeral and was assisted by Rev. Lester and Rev. Jackson. The floral offerings were very large and beautiful which told of the high esteem he was held by his friends. Several of the beautiful flowers came from friends at Cisco. Some were from the Humble Pipe Line Co. Some were from friends here for he was born and raised here and lived here until he was married. He has many friends here who are very sorry of his death and extend their sympathy to the wife and relatives in the loss of their loved one. He was laid to rest in the new cemetery. The following were the flower girls: Mrs. Lucille Smith, Misses Opal Laurence, Annabelle Tidwell, Ina Faye Sanders, Inez Newsom, Eugenia Pike and Thelma McCauley. The honorary pall bearers were, J. L. Charlie and Joe Tidwell, Herbert Sellers, Henry Newsom, Ray Tidwell and R. J. Phillips. The active pall bearers were Messrs. I. J. Henson, W. B. Herr, O. V. Cunningham, A. N. Crownover, A. R. Robinson and Y. C. Clough all of Cisco, who were employees of the Humble Pipe Line Co. The stores here closed for the funeral. The out-of-town relatives and friends who attended the funeral were: Mrs. O. L. Tidwell of Cisco, Mr. and Mrs. Davis Tidwell of Sweetwater, Mrs. Nora Little and daughter of Denton, Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Turner and Mrs. Ed Eldridge of Morgan, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Tidwell and son and Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Johnson and son of Kilgore, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Newsom and son of Big Spring, Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Sellers of Hico, Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Tidwell and daughter of Dallas, Mr. and Mrs. Garrison Lundberg and baby and James Williamson of Cranfills Gap. The friends were, Mrs. Clara Richard of Meridian, Mrs. Homer Lee of Clairette, Mr. and Mrs. Grady Barrow, Cole Hooper and Mrs. Flint Ragsdale of Hico, Mr. and Mrs. Crownover of Brownwood, Mr. McMahon of Cisco, and Mrs. Baxter Rose and daughter of Walnut. The Missionary Society will have their sale on Saturday. Everyone that can donate something, please bring it to the place. The booths will be on the Methodist Church lawn. The next social will be at the parsonage on Monday afternoon. All the Methodist ladies be sure and be there. Our capsule friends we have been giving nice things to for three months will be re-voaled. All the ladies who drew out a name, each one is supposed to bring a gift for the friend. Mr. and Mrs. Tom Russell visited his sister, Mrs. Mino Laughlin this week. His home is in Fort Arthur. Mrs. Ed Wellborn celebrated her birthday at her home on Sunday with several present. A traveling man came here Monday evening and put on a picture show, "The Life of Christ." The picture was fine and a large crowd was present. A good stunt to remember when refinishing a canoe is to apply a paste wood filler to the canvas to make it smooth for receiving the enamel. Lightly sandpaper the filler when it is dry and before applying the enamel.

29-FOOT AUTO CYLINDER WINS SPECIAL ATTENTION AT CHICAGO WORLD FAIR

One of the world's largest automobile cylinders is displayed at the Century of Progress in Chicago, Illinois. Measuring 29 feet in height, this huge moving exhibit represents one of the many features of the Gulf Refining Co. display. In the cylinder a large piston operates, showing, with the aid of lights, intake and exhaust and emphasizing the fact that "fresh gas packs power." Made of aluminum alloy, the Gulf cylinder is an exact copy of the modern cylinder. At the base of this display three shelves rotate. The shelves hold interesting miniature models of an airplane, a racing car, and a motor boat. Other eye-catchers of this particular section of the Gulf Exhibit include a cut-away Chrysler marine engine, an Evinrude outboard motor which established a world's record, a Westinghouse Farm Lighting Engine, and a Cummings Diesel engine.

How to Destroy Ant Beds Brownsville—Fifteen beds of large red ants were totally destroyed on the court house lawn in Brownsville this spring by only one treatment of thallium sulphate syrup and corn meal. H. L. Alsmeyer, county agent, explains that the corn meal should be thoroughly moistened with the thallium sulphate syrup and then two tablespoonsful placed in and around the openings. If there is danger of children or animals eating the poisonous material it should be covered up, he says.

Transplanting 451 peach seedlings from the remains of one of the best early seedling orchards in San Augustine county. Bessie Balch of New Hope Girls' Home Demonstration Club has gone in for supplying her family with a variety of fruit in the years to come. She has three rows of trees ready to bud to known varieties in June, and plans to produce extra trees for giving to other club girls who cannot buy them.

The Biggest News Since Fresh Gas... That Good Gulf Gasoline is now lubricated!

GULF stations from Maine to Mexico are now offering a motor fuel that surpasses everything that has gone before. This great fuel is new in everything but name. It actually gives greater mileage and cuts repair costs—because it lubricates the upper cylinder and valves. The new lubricating Good Gulf Gasoline contains an upper cylinder lubricant made by an exclusive Gulf process. This lubricant—correctly blended with that Good Gulf Gasoline, the famous fresh gas —makes today's greatest non-premium fuel for modern motors! It lubricates the intake valves, prevents sticking, and forms little or no carbon! If you want to get more and lower cost miles out of a gallon of gas, try the new Good Gulf Gasoline today. It doesn't cost a penny more. THAT GOOD GULF GASOLINE IT'S FRESH—NOW LUBRICATED

In response to a long-felt need, the Saturday before the First Monday in each month has been set aside as SWAP DAY in Hico. Traders, farmers and merchants are cooperating to the end that this be made a success for everyone concerned. It will be permanent provided the reception is sufficient, and this is practically assured.

FREE ENTERTAINMENT

There will be plenty of free entertainment for every-one. Bring what you have that you wish to trade for something else, and come in on this date to meet your friends. There will be plenty of articles here for trade, and you may make it profitable as well as pleasant.

THIS IS YOUR DAY

While it is not necessary to extend an invitation to people in this section, take this as a warning that you will be sorry if you miss this event. While the idea is not mainly to sell you something, but to give you an opportunity to do some swapping, all the local merchants will offer special bargains on their merchandise, and want you to come visit with them whether you wish to buy or not.

"THE PEOPLE'S STORE"

AWAKENED WOMAN

by Elinore Barry

Twelfth Installment

The Story so far: Joyce Ashton, poor stenographer, in a skidding taxicab accident in Chicago, suffered loss of memory. Two years later she woke one morning after a fall from a horse to find herself under the name of Frills, married to Neil Packard, rich California fruit packer. She determined to tell nobody of her predicament but set about learning what she could of her life in the interval. From the conversation of her friends and letters in her desk she gathered that she had been a heartless, pleasure-loving young woman. One letter that troubled her was from a woman signing herself Sophie, blaming Frills for not giving a home to a baby Sophie was caring for. Could it be her baby? Frills wondered. She also found herself involved in an affair with a man named Maltland. In San Francisco, where she went while her husband was away on business, she met Robert Almsworth, a poet whose work she had always admired. When Joyce returned home, she decided to be pleasanter to Neil than Frills had been. But this line was dangerous, too, for Neil was pathetically anxious to win back Frills's love.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

It was evident that Neil was blowing off steam which had accumulated for some time, and secretly Joyce's spirits rose a little. She was glad that he was asserting himself. She had an odd little feeling—odd when you consider that he was, in terms of actual experience, nothing to her—of pride in his outburst. Frills seemed to her more than ever an alien, a separate individual, almost like a first wife. She was moved by Packard's emotion and filled with an overwhelming desire to erase that hurt look from his face.

"I'm not trying to put anything over on you. I—I don't blame you for not believing me now, but I swear I'm telling the truth about this. I know I've been pretty rotten, but now," she paused. It was so difficult to say what she wanted to. A mixture of shyness and fear, and the unaccustomedness of putting her feelings into words, held her back for a moment. But again her desire to make Neil realize that she wanted to be friends with him, that in the future he would not have to worry about her actions, drove her on. "Well, perhaps that blow on the head knocked a little sense into me."

On impulse alone Joyce suddenly came close to him and smiled up into his face, a little tremulously, and said, "Please, let's start over again, and after this, well, don't expect me to be any white-robed angel, but I'll try not to worry you too much."

She was unable to say more, for Packard abruptly drew her close to him and kissed her again and again, murmuring words of grateful surprise and happiness. "Frills darling, I love you so, sweetheart! You, you really mean it, dear? I thought all my chances of happiness were gone, but now, I'll do everything I can to make it worth while—to help you if you really mean it."

Joyce, submitting to his caresses, reflected ruefully that she had never been so much kissed in her life as she had been since she woke up in Mrs. Neil Packard's bed. Gently she tried to free herself. Poor Neil! He did find it hard to believe that any such miracle as this had happened. She smiled again, all her joy in the day restored, knowing that he would go off to work filled with hope for the future security of his home and happiness.

"Of course, I mean it. But you needn't take my word for it. Just give it a thirty days' trial. Satisfaction guaranteed or your money refunded," she replied lightly, slipping out of his arms, "better run along to work now or you might lose your job. And don't forget our date at five this afternoon."

"You bet I won't! Gee, but—whoopee! I—I wish I didn't have to go down to the office. I feel like celebrating—"

"You go along!" exclaimed

ed into a positive beam of pleasure and relief.

"Hullo, Frills, all ready to go? Fine!" and as Joyce got up he approached her with the intention of kissing her. But she stepped aside and made it plain that she preferred to avoid his greeting. To her relief he did not press the matter.

"How's the Duesenberg working?" he inquired as they went out together.

"Oh, it's all right," replied Joyce indifferently. She went up to Neil's big blue car and waited for him to open the front door.

She laid her arm gently around Joyce's shoulder.

Joyce, alarmed at the threatened loss of her day of freedom and feeling the need of a rest after the strain of this stormy scene, "I can't have you around all day. I'm going to be busy."

"All right! And say, if anything does come up you'd rather do this afternoon, it's all right, you know. We can go to mother's some other time."

The date is made. If it's broken, it'll be your doing."

When she got out to the stable Joyce found Sam about to mount the black horse. "Oh, Sam, where are you going?"

"Why, Mr. Packard asked me to take some papers to Jake Anson. It's up beyond Elk Flat in the hills, a good long way from the road so he told me I'd better ride Barney," explained Sam.

"Well, couldn't I go with you?" demanded Joyce. She was still a little nervous about going out alone, when all the trails were so unfamiliar to her.

"Why, sure! I'll saddle Rosita."

When Joyce got back at noon after a two-hour ride, during which she learned much about the country and its possibilities for horseback riding, she was informed by Roxie that she had missed two sets of callers.

Joyce played with Dickie in the garden for half an hour after lunch she retired to her room to rest and read until time for Neil's return. "I'm out to every one, Roxie," she gave definite instructions. "I don't care if it's the Prince of Wales."

At four-thirty she dressed carefully and then waited for Neil to appear. She was pleased when she heard him arriving at ten minutes before five, an evidence that he intended to take no chances of missing their appointment.

When he came in and saw Joyce in the living room, obviously ready to go, his anxious look turned

"Don't you want to go in your roadster?" asked Neil in surprise, stopping beside the car.

"No, I don't. I don't like the color of it," retorted Joyce, and suppressing a smile, she continued hastily, "anyhow, I prefer to have you drive today."

Packard got in and started the engine without further delay. They drove down the main street of Manzanita where they were greeted right and left by a bewildering number of people and Joyce was on pins and needles for fear Neil would stop to talk to any of them. After half an hour during which she grew more nervous every minute, what in the world would she say to Neil's mother?—they stopped finally at a charming little bungalow covered with rose vines and surrounded by a garden of beautiful flowers. They entered a friendly, low-ceilinged room paneled in white with wide windows framing a view of distant mountains across the valley.

Mrs. Packard rose to meet them and Neil, kissing her, said gently, "Well, mother, here we are, come to make you a little call, Frills and I."

"My dears, I'm delighted to see you both!" exclaimed his mother, holding out her hand to Joyce, while she kept Neil in her clasp at the same time. Joyce shook hands with her and smiled silently.

"Do sit down, children. It's so good to see you," went on Mrs. Packard, beaming happily as she returned to her comfortable armchair in front of one of the windows, "when did you get back, Neil?"

"Last night, mother, and you bet I'm glad to be back," replied Packard.

Neil's mother was a woman in her late sixties, with soft gray hair, and a face pleasantly fresh and clear skinned. Only in her dark eyes could one read the shadow of past sorrows, mingled with present loneliness and pain. Joyce thought, and when she did not smile her mouth was set in curves of quiet resignation.

"Are you feeling quite well again, my dear?" asked Mrs. Packard after Neil had told about his trip. "Neil said you had had a bad fall."

"Oh, yes, I didn't really get hurt," replied Joyce, "though I suppose I might easily have been killed."

"Yes, it frightens me to think of it," said Mrs. Packard, a shadow crossing her face.

"Frills is looking well, though, don't you think, mother?" asked Neil. "Doc spoke of it to me today. She's been keeping sort of quiet since the accident and getting in a lot of sleep."

When they were outside the house, Joyce seized by a sudden impulse, said to Neil, "Wait a minute. I'll be right out again," and turning, she went back into the house. Mrs. Packard who had been sitting quietly gazing out of the window, looked up in surprise when she saw her daughter-in-law reappear.

Joyce ran across the room and kneeling beside the chair, she said hastily, before her courage should go back on her, "Do you—do you suppose we could be friends, after all? Or has Frills, have I been too awful?"

To her dismay she saw Mrs. Packard's eyes fill with quick tears, and a flush moment to her forehead. "My dear, my dear, nothing would make me happier than to—to be able to be a friend my son's wife," she replied, her lips quivering, "to have you want it!" She laid her arm gently around Joyce's shoulders.

"I'm coming again soon, alone, and then we'll, we'll get acquainted," stammered Joyce. She rose and lifting her head toward Mrs. Packard lightly. Then she ran out of the room to Neil.

When they got back to the house Joyce was relieved to find that they had no company.

"Let's see what's on the radio tonight," suggested Neil. Joyce assented, rather curious to hear. She soon discovered that Neil's idea of enjoying the radio was to spend all his time and effort trying to get distant stations.

Joyce bored finally at the superlatives of the unseen speaker who was boosting enthusiastically for the glories of California got up and sang goodnight, hoping that Neil would remain downstairs.

Packard immediately shut off the radio and announced his intention of accompanying her. By the air of happy expectation on his face, Joyce realized that she was about to reap the inevitable results of her friendliness toward him that day.

She decided this time to take no chance of repeating the soap incident and when they reached the bedroom she turned to him and said, "Good-night, Neil, I'm going to read for awhile."

"But, Frills, sweetheart," he began, detaining her, "you've been so wonderful today and—I love you so! I want you so, dear." He drew her closer into his arms whispering the last words close to her ear. "Such adorable little ears!" he said, kissing them again and again. "I'd be so happy if I were sure of you!"

"Listen, Neil," she said quietly, "won't you, if I ask you as a favor—to me and as a return for being what you call reasonable and sensible, won't you please let me sleep in the other room without asking questions and going through this sort of thing every night?"

Her manner evidently made an impression on him for he released ed her immediately, saying, "I'm sorry, dear. It's just that I love you so." He paused and added hesitatingly, "But—will you come of your own accord when you're ready?"

"Of course," promised Joyce hastily, suddenly extremely embarrassed by the conversation after her momentary self-confidence. She said good-night again and went off to her room and shut the door.

The next night when they were going upstairs Neil said, "Look here, sweet, I hate like the devil to have you sleeping indoors. You ought to be getting all this wonderful fresh air. Let me move your bed out to the other end of the porch. I won't bother you."

"Oh, there's plenty of fresh air in my room with all those windows open," retorted Joyce hastily, "really it's just like being out of doors."

"Let me sleep indoors then," he suggested, generously, "and you sleep out here."

Nearly a fortnight later Joyce set off one morning on Rosita for an all-day ramble through the hills. She carried her lunch and a book with her and told Roxie not to expect her back until late in the afternoon.

WORD OF WARNING TO CAMPERS, VACATIONISTS, FROM BOARD OF HEALTH

As the summer season comes upon us again, a word of warning is timely to prospective campers, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, summer vacationists, fishermen, and others who enjoy getting out into the open, relative to the possible dangers that may be encountered from the standpoint of contracting infection under the changed environment. This is especially true of diseases that may be transmitted through food and water supplies.

Typhoid fever is a disease the amount of which is greatest, as a rule, where there is the least sanitation. It is an unnecessary and preventable disease. It is spread from person to person by water, milk, fingers, flies, and food. Every case is contracted by taking into the mouth some substance contaminated with typhoid organisms, and these occur only in nature in the bowel and bladder discharges of persons sick with typhoid or from carriers, persons who have had typhoid and who after recovery still harbor the germs in their systems.

Persons planning a vacation or trip where sanitation may not be rigidly enforced, or where food handlers are not regularly examined should protect themselves against this disease by being vaccinated. Three inoculations with typhoid vaccine, a week apart, are necessary to secure protection against this disease and the immunity established is good for two years. The purity of water or milk cannot be judged by looking at it. Play safe and have your doctor protect you.
