As the Shepherd looks after His sheep, so the Lord looks after His children. May we all as Christians reconsecrate our lives and services to Him for we will not want if we live for Him as we should. The hearts of the people were all made and on Sunday evening, Sept. 3, when they heard of the death of Mrs. W. M. Flannery.

Mrs. Flannery passed away at their home Sunday evening at 4:25 o'clock. The deceased was born in Cherokee County Feb. 23, 1874 and died on the day stated above. She was converted at the age of 15 and united with the Baptist Church at Myrtle Springs in Cherokee County, and in later years united with the Baptist Church at Flag Branch.

She was married to Will Flannery June 17, 1896. To this union three children were born, two girls and one boy. One of the girls preceded her in death when an infant. The other two living children are, J. L. Flannery of Rocky, and Mrs. Walter Dotson of Underwood. Both were present when the end came. Mrs. Flannery was upright and always willing to do her part in every way. She was very kind and patient in her suffering. To know her was to love her. She attended church regularly until her health failed her, but even if she could not attend, her heart was always there. She was willing to go for she felt that everything was alright between her and her Savior. No doubt if she could speak to her loved ones she would say, "Weep not for me, for I am at rest, and my suffering days are over." She died at the age of 59 years, 6 months and 10 days. The funeral services were held at the Baptist Church at this place on Monday evening, Sept. 4 at 2:30. Rev. Loyd Lester conducted the services, a large crowd being present. After his talk, the casket was opened and everyone took their last look at her. She looked so happy and peaceful, looked as if she could speak. Her body was carried to the family cemetery and laid to rest beside her loved ones. The floral offerings were large and beautiful, which told of the love and esteem to all her friends. The pall bearers were, J. D. Craig, Sylvester Mings, Maurice Sawyer, Lyn Davis, Aubrey Pruitt and Ivis Hanshaw. The flower girls were Billie Martin, Ethel Daniel, Mildred Burgan, Viola Hanshaw, Anna Foe and Minnie Lee Flannery and Susie Wade Dennis. NRA MEMBER U.S. CHEVROLET "Proud and glad to do our part" WITH President Roosevelt's acceptance of the NRA Automobile Code, Chevrolet, the world's largest builder of motor cars, officially begins operations in accordance with the administration's recovery program. Although the official code was signed only a few days ago, it will be of interest to Chevrolet's many friends to learn that the Chevrolet Motor Company started to carry out the spirit of today's recovery program over three years ago! At that time, we put into operation a "share-the-work" plan, whereby our workmen cooperated in spreading the work to give more men jobs. By means of this plan, as well as by regulating hours of work per week to meet retail demand, and by building up parts stocks in lean seasons, it was possible to carry 33,000 men on our payroll through the depression. For eleven months of each year since 1929, we have kept our employment within 10 per cent of this average. We are justly proud of that record. We are also proud to say that Chevrolet workmen did not, at any time during the depression, become a burden on public welfare departments. Washington.—There are more big business men and more big lawyers in Washington these days than ever before. The business men are here trying to find ways to get in under NIRA without changing their present business practices or adding to their costs and the lawyers are here to find out whether the National Industrial Recovery Act and the other new laws really have teeth in them.

The business men are not having much luck; they get cold comfort from General Johnson, who tells them they've got to play ball. And the lawyers are discovering that these new laws are much like the prehistoric sharks of the Gulf of Mexico, who had forty rows of teeth and a hundred teeth in each row!

Out of their contacts here a good many of these big men—and that means BIG men—are "getting some clearer ideas as to what it is all about. Around a dinner table in one of the big hotels a few nights ago several of them, lawyers and business men, foregathered with several of the men who are running the show. Out of the eager questioning across the table and back, came as true a picture of the New Deal as has yet been put in words. It came down to about this:

Cause, Effect, Sure

"Whatever the Government of the United States may have been in the beginning, it is now clearly a democracy, in which every man and every woman has an equal voice and every man and woman is entitled to an equal opportunity to make the most of his or her abilities.

"This democracy is in trouble. A large part of its members are in debt, a still larger part unemployed, many are both. This is not due to any fault of their own in most cases. It is due to the fact that the great business and industrial enterprises upon which most of our people depend for a livelihood have not been run on democratic lines—which is to say, in the interest of their employees and their customers—but as selfish, self-seeking means on the part of managing groups and controlling capital to enrich themselves.

"And the plight of the farmer is due to similar failure to apply democratic principles to agriculture; since in a true democracy no one would be allowed to compete unfairly with his neighbor, and the sum total of all productive effort would be limited to the possible total consumption.

"Now, it is up to the members of this democracy, the people of the United States, to cure these evils. They can only do so through their elected representatives, and the present Administration, having been overwhelmingly elected, has a mandate from the people to bring them out of their troubles.

Citizens Ordered Change

"This is not something imposed upon the people from above. It is what the people themselves, through their elected representatives in Congress, have agreed to impose upon themselves. It is the law of the land and it is Constitutional.

"In an earlier day this extension of the democratic principle was not perhaps, necessary. Land was to be had for the taking, opportunity lay at every man's door to engage in business or industry in his individual way. The corporate era has changed all that. Most of the business of the country is done by corporations which are steadily growing larger and larger. These corporations belong to their stockholders, and their stock holders are, potentially, all the people of the United States. Indeed, almost the only opportunity for the average man to share in the growth and increase in the nation's resources today is by investing his savings in the shares of these corporations.

"That is a perfectly proper and highly desirable thing, but only if the corporations are so managed that the risk of loss through mismanagement, faulty judgment and destructive competition is first eliminated.

Here are the New Rules

"So the Administration is calling upon these business and industrial corporations to democratize their respective industries, first by eliminating unfair competition, so that there shall be a better chance for profits for those who invest in them; second, by opening the doors of opportunity for the worker wider, giving him higher basic wages, shorter working hours, employing more people in proportion to the total business done, and cutting off the high salaries, bonuses and other devices whereby those at the top have profited at the expense of those at the bottom.

"That does not mean that management is not entitled to fair pay, nor that capital shall earn no profits; but it does mean that profits shall be earned only by actual invested capital and not on watered securities, so that the man who invests in corporate shares hereafter will be on an equal footing with all other shareholders.

"It is going to take time. A lot of people who have been getting more than their share are going to balk—are balking now—at the prospect of having to take less while the men lower down get more. But there are teeth in the Recovery Act, in the Securities Act, in the Banking Act, in the Agricultural Adjustment Act, and anyone who does not want his head bitten off had better come into camp and make the best of it.

Voice of the People

"This is not a one-man show. It is the voice of all of the people, or at least the great majority of them, giving orders. So it is a proper and necessary part of the program to make provision whereby the debtor can obtain the money with which to pay his debts and have a hand dealt him in the New Deal, even if to do that means inflating the dollar, issuing bonds which posterity will be taxed for, or in any other way pledging the credit of the United States, of all the people. For if the New Deal succeeds it will put us in a position where these burdens will not be heavy ones; whereas if it fails the Government of the United States is sunk and Fate will chalk up another failure against the record of the world's experiments in democracy."

"That is as clear an expression of the principles upon which the United States Government is being administered today as your correspondent has yet heard. Some of the know-it-alls may tell you different; but if the reader will keep that simple explanation in mind he will understand what the day-to-day news out of Washington really means.

At last Texas has been admitted into the Government's Bureau of Vital Statistics. For years this State alone remained outside the circle. Vital statistics had to be prepared by state agencies and the figures were not recognized officially by the national bureau. But in the last year, through co-operation of hospitals, undertakers, physicians, welfare departments and police, the larger cities of the State have become eligible for the Government bureau.

Mountains

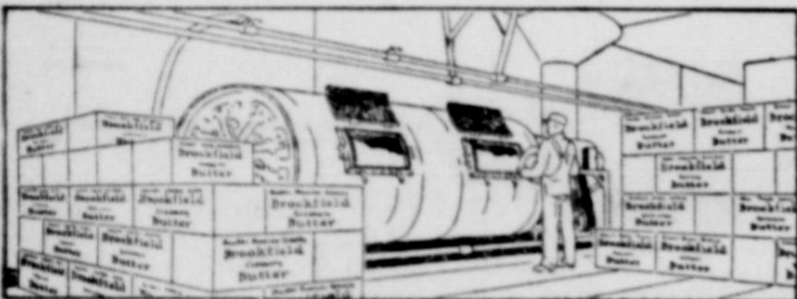

(of Butterfat)

Must Be Moved

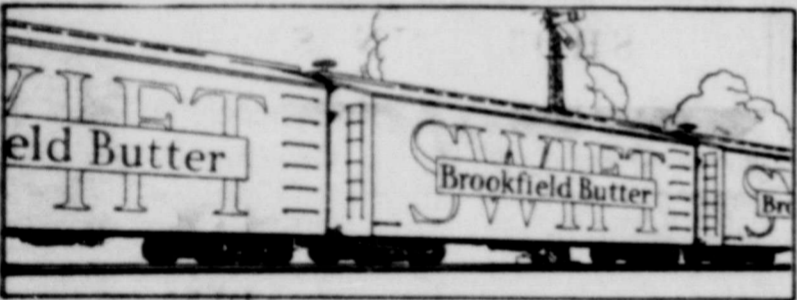

THE MOUNTAIN

Hundreds of thousands of farmers daily have butterfat to sell. In the counties, even the states, where most is produced, there is surplus. This surplus must be sold to faraway consumers in the cities.

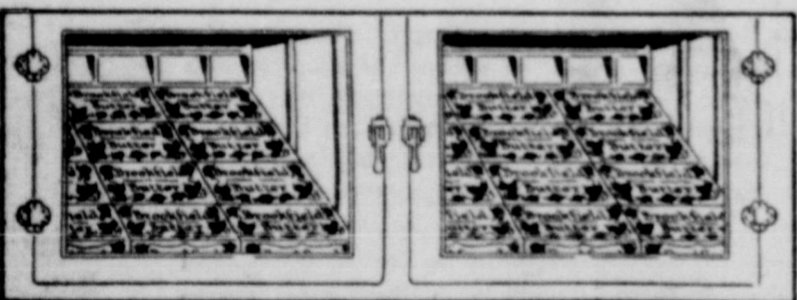

MANUFACTURE

Swift & Company, with its more than 100 produce plants and many buying stations, buys for cash. The next step is processing in a modern churn. Swift makes the finest grades of butter and packs them in attractive style.

TRANSPORTATION

Then distribution. Butter often rides a thousand miles to reach a purchaser. Swift & Company ships in carload lots to a nation-wide market, in which thousands of salesmen dig up and foster demand.

READY BUYERS

So to the retailer. He may be in any one of many thousand cities. Butter goes wherever demand is keen. Swift & Company has hourly information on market requirements—and is able to serve them quickly.

MOUNTAINS of butterfat in the producing areas must be taken care of without delay; else they would lose value. There must be a connecting link between the producer of butterfat (and poultry and eggs as well) and the retailer and consumer.

Swift & Company is a vital link. With a minimum of lost motion and expense, it sends the surpluses to places where shortages would exist without a steady flow of produce.

Swift & Company undertakes all the work of processing, of shipping and of selling to a nation-wide market, an essential service which the farmers can not perform.

Cash prices paid to producers by Swift & Company are competitive and are based strictly on what consumers, through retailers, will pay for the entire supply offered. Sell your poultry, butterfat, and eggs to Swift & Company.

Mt. Zion

We were all in hopes that it would stay dry weather for a few days until we caught up with our cotton picking, but we were badly disappointed Sunday morning as it rained most all day Sunday and on Sunday night.

Everyone has been busy picking cotton the past week. Several farmers reported to have picked out seven or eight bales.

We were sorry to report that it was impossible for Mr. Burl Bales to preach for us last Sunday on account of the rain.

Miss Ethel Wilkins spent Sunday with Misses Ethel and Josie Harris.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Boycan of San Antonio spent last week end in the home of his mother and sister, Mrs. A. H. Boycan and Mrs. Herbert Turner. Mrs. Turner returned to San Antonio with them where she will make a short visit.

Miss Hazel Howard of Camp Branch was a visitor in our Sunday School services last Sunday. Hubert Turner and little daughters, Billie Marie, and Martha Rose, spent Saturday night and Sunday in Morgan visiting relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Polnack entertained a large group of both old and young folks with a singing and party last Saturday night and all reported a nice time.

Dick Appleby, Will Jackson, Hubert Turner and Bill Kidwell were in Meridian Monday on business.

Bro. M. Shannon of Iredell will preach at the Mt. Zion school house next Sunday at 11 a. m. Everyone is invited to attend.

CARD OF THANKS

Flannery, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Tipton, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Daniels and other relatives. 16-1c.

Mrs. Carpenter was invited to the home under the impression that the shower was for a relative and she was asked to bring a gift to share in the shower. In a contest which was conducted immediately upon arrival of the guests, a piece of paper told the honoree to look at various places, and at last led her to a chair covered and surrounded with useful articles of every description. POWER improving nature
A movement has been started in France to preserve the picturesque but inefficient windmills in Brittany and Normandy. The windmills of Holland are rapidly being abandoned in favor of gasoline and Diesel engines, and not one of those which used to dot the shores of our own Cape Cod is performing useful work any longer. The windmill pumps that used to be familiar sights on every farm in the Middle West are vanishing in the same way.

It seems strange to most people that it is not economical to use the forces of Nature, such as wind and falling water, instead of power generated by fuel, coal or oil. It is natural to deplore so much power going to waste. But there are very few spots left in the world where it pays to stick to primitive methods of power production, just as it does not pay to stick to sails for ships and ox-teams for land hauling.

Mankind's achievements consists largely in improving on Nature.

RECORDS fast sea travel
I attended a dinner the other night on board the fastest merchant ship in the world, the Italian liner Rex. We gathered to congratulate Captain Francesco Tarabotto on having broken all ocean records on his latest west-bound crossing of the Atlantic.

From land to land, that is from Gibraltar to Ambrose Lightship, a distance of 3,181 sea miles, the Rex averaged a speed of 28.92 knots, covering the distance in four days, thirteen hours and 58 minutes. A nautical mile is 6,085 feet, 805 feet longer than a land mile, and a knot is the number of sea miles traveled in one hour. So the speed of the Rex in land miles is almost exactly 33 1-3 miles per hour, all the way across the ocean. No other commercial craft has ever steamed so fast so far.

Some naval craft and many small vessels of the yacht type can go faster than that, but few can carry fuel enough for a long voyage at top speed.

I went to Italy on the Rex last year, and believed Captain Tarabotto when he told me then she would break all Atlantic records some day. And I came back on the other great Italian ship, the Conte di Savoia, with a strong belief that when that ship is ready to try for it she can take the record away from the Rex.

CRIME the iron heel
The inefficiency of local police forces, usually entangled with local politics, in trying to suppress crime, has given great impetus to the movement for the extension of the powers of the Federal government in the field of crime suppression as well as of crime detection.

I believe there is a stronger public sentiment in favor of a general clean-up of criminals than there ever has been in America. I rather like the proposal to adopt generally the whipping post system now in use in England and the State of Delaware. Most young criminals fear the lash and public derision more than they do imprisonment.

I hope the era of tenderness toward enemies of society is pretty nearly over. We have been too sentimental about the "rights" of evil-doers and not sufficiently concerned with the rights of the law-abiding to protection.

COMPETENCE Tony's family
My friend, Tony Baldaarris, is the village barber. Except on Saturdays, when there is a rush at the barber shop, he can be hired to trim hedges, attend to flower gardens, build chimneys or mend fences. Tony is an all-around handy man.

They have eight children, the Balda-sarris, and every one of them does some work around their home on the hill, where they grow a lot of the family food and the youngsters learn to do everything. The oldest boy, John, has his career planned. He's going to be a lawyer, but in the meantime he does occasional work for me and other neighbors, competent at whatever he undertakes and never too tired to finish an eight-hour day.

"A lawyer has to know everything," John said the other day. "That's why I'll work at anything I can get to do."

That's why all the Baldaarris will get along; they are learning while children work at many things.

THRIFT few practice it
How many men of fifty past would be glad to have a fixed annual income, for which they did not have to work, of a third of their average earnings during their working life? Say fifty dollars a month for the man who has averaged $150 a month since he first went to work?

We all know that that, or something close to it, is possible for the thrifty ones who put away ten per cent of their incomes religiously, investing them at compound interest for their old age. But most people are not thrifty, hence the distress among the unemployed and the aged poor, and the huge drains on the taxpayers and the purses of the charitable to take care of them.

This Letter Will Bring Joy to Fat Folks and Neuritis Sufferers

"Dear Sirs: I was so crippled with neuritis all down left side of my head and arm both knees so swollen that I could hardly get up and down. At times my feet pained so badly I thought my toes would break off. I tried everything the doctor told me I would be no better while I lived here but I stopped in a drug store in Brooklyn, N. Y., one day last November and the man in charge told me to take Kruschen for 3 weeks steady and I would get relief which I did. Never felt better and along with it, have lost weight. I weighed 210 then. Now I weigh 154 and while I'm over 50 yrs. old I feel 30. I took it for one thing—get free—see I now have 6 others here taking it." Mrs. A. V. Carr, Ft. Tilden, N. Y.

"It's the little daily dose that does it" so take a half teaspoonful of Kruschen in a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast. Get Kruschen at any live druggist in the world—a jar lasts 4 weeks and costs but a trifle.

Carlton

By MRS. ARTHUR REDDEN

Mrs. J. B. Curry died suddenly last Tuesday morning due to heart failure. As she sat in her chair reading near the end of chapter six of "The Birth of a Nation," she gently laid her head on the back of the rocker in which she was sitting and went to sleep never again to awaken in this world. Apparently the end came so peacefully, with not even the twitching of a muscle. Mrs. Curry had gotten up Tuesday morning apparently in good health, went about her household duties. Only a short time before death approached her, she talked to her daughter, Mrs. G. C. Keeney, over the telephone, and told her she was "getting along pretty good." Only her sister, Miss Mittie Walker, was with her at the time as Mr. Curry had gone to town horseback only a few minutes before, and her son, J. B. Jr., had left earlier in the morning. At about 10 o'clock she told her sister she was going to sit down and read for awhile, and a few minutes later death took her away. She was a member of the Methodist Church. Last July 28th, Mr. and Mrs. Curry had all their children home for a family reunion. Mrs. Curry was born at Carrollton, Ga. Dec. 25, 1871. She moved with her parents to Texas at the age of 4 years. During the year 1891 she was united in marriage to J. B. Curry of this community. To this union eight children were born, all of whom survive her: J. B. Jr., Walker Curry, Mrs. G. C. Keeney of Carlton; Fred Curry, Eola; Mrs. Georgia Cope, Paint Rock; Mrs. J. C. Cormack, San Bernardino, Cal.; Pauline Curry, Temple; Inez Curry, East Vaughn, New Mexico; and all were present to attend the services except Mrs. J. C. Cormack, and due to long distance it would have been impossible for her to arrive in time for the services. Besides the children, Mrs. Curry is survived by one brother, Will Walker of Floydada, and one sister Miss Mittie Walker who was with her at the time of her death, and a number of grandchildren. The services were conducted by her pastor, Rev. W. A. Flynn, assisted by Rev. A. J. Quinn and Rev. R. H. Gibson, at the local Methodist Church Wednesday at 3 p. m., Sept. 6th. Interment was at the Carlton Cemetery. The Curries are an old and prominent family of this community having lived on the same place for over 43 years. Their hundreds of friends offer sincere condolence in this, their darkest hour.

The opening of Carlton school has been postponed, the date being set for September 25th instead of the 18th on account of so many people being busy in the field at the earlier date.

Mrs. J. N. Clark was in Fort Worth the first of last week purchasing new merchandise for the dry goods department of their store.

T. B. Cook and wife moved to Stephenville Thursday where Mr. Cook has bought a barber shop.

Fred Geyer and family spent last Sunday week with her brother at Claro. They also visited Mrs. W. D. Elder while there, whom they report as improving slowly.

Mrs. Clifford Cox and children of Comanche visited Mrs. J. P. Childress Wednesday. Mrs. Cox before her marriage was Miss Clifford Womble, who lived here several years ago.

Raymond Burnett, wife and baby Dorothy Ann, of San Angelo came in last week to visit her parents, John Finley and wife. Mr. Burnett returned to San Angelo the afternoon of the arriving day leaving his wife and baby for a week's visit.

Mrs. Hill, mother of Mrs. M. B. Stuckey, returned to her home at Rosebud last week after a two-month's visit with her daughter. She was accompanied by M. B. Stuckey and wife and Hubert Stuckey and wife, who returned home Sunday.

Antha Bell of Dallas who is connected with the State Banking Department at that place, visited her parents and friends here from Friday until Monday. She came with George McGuire and family, also of Dallas who visited his parents, N. N. McGuire and wife.

B. H. Hill and wife of Comstock visited in the home of his sister, Mrs. J. G. Finley last week end. Mr. Hill was superintendent of the Carlton public schools a number of years ago. He is at present Superintendent of the Comstock public schools.

Gene Young and family were visitors in Dublin last week end.

Grady Lwas and family were Stephenville visitors Friday of last week.

KENNEDY SISTERS HERE IN BIG TENT FOR ONE WEEK, OPENING MONDAY NIGHT

Announcement is being made this week through a display advertisement in the News Review and posters, of the opening next Monday night of a tent show, Kennedy Sisters, who will play engagements here each night throughout the week.

The show is accompanied by a good seven-piece orchestra, it is said, and the opening play will be "Little Spit Fire."

Lester Cervin, advance agent for the Kennedy Sisters aggregation, who was here this week, stated that he had played Hico several times in the past, and had the utmost faith in the town and community. He complimented local people on their reception of his shows in the past, and stated that he believed the public would be better pleased than ever with the players next week, as they composed a larger and stronger company than he had been connected with here on previous appearances.

The Kennedy Sisters tent show has played a number of neighboring towns recently, and met an enthusiastic reception everywhere, it is stated.

There are banks in New York with vaults said to be earthquake proof.

Fairy By FAIRY CORRESPONDENTS

We received a fine two-inch rain last Sunday afternoon and night. It will be very beneficial to fall gardens and also bring up volunteer grain, in order that re-breaking can be done and preparations made for sowing fall grain.

W. F. Clayton and family attended the county singing convention at Hamilton last Sunday. A number of others from here planned to go in the afternoon, but due to rain near the noon hour, their plans were thwarted.

Miss Velma Sills was accompanied to Stephenville last Saturday by her father where she entered John Tarleton College Wednesday of this week. She has our best wishes for success in her college work.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Hartgraves attended a bountiful dinner at the home of Mrs. Maggie Stewart of the Mt. Pleasant community last Sunday. Others present were, Mr. Hartgraves' parents, of Jonesboro, their daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. George Blankenship and a small son and daughter of the elder Mr. and Mrs. Hartgraves. All brought well filled baskets and had an enjoyable time. Due to the heavy rain, the folks from Jonesboro remained until Tuesday morning.

Miss Katie Grant of Clovis, N. M. who spent a part of the summer here visiting in the home of her father, Mr. Wallace Grant, and family, returned home last Friday week, where she entered school at Clovis the following Monday.

Quite a number of our little village city folks and country folks were in town last Tuesday night to hear the music made by Graves Bros. and their sister, little Miss Dorothy. The young men and their father, D. Graves, have employment on the P. L. Cox home. They have made music a number of times since they have been here, and we surely enjoy hearing them play as they are talented musicians. J. D. and Frazier Crow also assisted Tuesday night.

We are proud of the Crow Bros. for they too are fine musicians and have been a great help to our community. Good willing workers when it comes to music is something a community should be proud of. Again we say we are proud of these boys for we know we can depend on them.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Sills were dinner guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Richardson.

Uncle Bob Parks returned home last Friday from a trip to the World's Fair, New York City and Canada. Oh, well, we don't know where else, but we feel sure that Uncle Bob realizes he saw a great portion of the globe on his trip. He was accompanied by B. O. Bridges of McGregor, and Rev. and Mrs. A. S. Gafford of Valley Mills.

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Anderson and children, Russell Lee and Thelma, were dinner guests of Mrs. B. A. Grimes last Sunday.

FAIRYTES AND EX-FAIRYTES REPORT WONDERFUL TRIP TO WORLD'S FAIR, OTHER POINTS

Rev. and Mrs. A. S. Gafford, Robert Parks and B. N. Bridges, all of whom have lived at Fairy so long that they hardly consider any other place home, left from Valley Mills Sunday, August 21, for a trip which took them to the World's Fair at Chicago, on to New York and other points in the East, back through the national capitol at Washington, and back home through Tennessee and Georgia.

In giving a report of his trip to the News Review, Mr. Bridges mentioned only a few of the high lights, as it was impossible to describe in detail the wonders of the country through which they passed, or the marvelous sights they witnessed on their trip.

After spending three days at A Century of Progress in Chicago, which Mr. Bridges described as a most wonderful exposition and worth anyone's time spent in attendance, the party went to Columbus, Ohio, where Mr. Bridges located the grave of his father for the first time. His father, a Confederate Soldier, died in January, 1865, and was buried there together with 2261 other Confederate prisoners who died at Camp Chase Prison during the Civil War. The cemetery is opened only twice a year to the public, one time on Memorial Day, at which time wreaths are placed on every grave. Mr. Bridges was fortunate in securing permission to enter the graveyard and locating the grave of his father among the many similar graves there.

From there the party went to Cleveland, Ohio, and Buffalo, New York, across Niagara Falls, 11 miles below the falls, and then back into New York City. They drove down Riverside Drive to Grant's Tomb, and through the Holland Tunnel under the Hudson River. They spent a great deal of time seeing the sights in the biggest city in America.

Philadelphia was their next stopping place, where they saw many relics of the Revolutionary War, including the famous Liberty Bell.

From Philadelphia, Mr. Bridges, Mr. and Mrs. Gafford and Mr. Parks went to Washington, D. C., where they were shown the capitol and inspected the many beauty spots of this beautifully laid-off city on the Potomac River. They went through the capitol building, ascending to the top of the dome, and looking through field glasses at the city and the surrounding countryside.

Leaving Washington, the party drove down to Richmond, Virginia, on through Tennessee, and to Cedar Town, Georgia, where Uncle Bob visited a sister whom he had not seen before in 56 years. They spent the night there and then turned their noses homeward, visiting many other points of interest along the way, and enjoying an altogether pleasant trip, unusual in that a minimum of car trouble was encountered.

A total distance of 4650 miles was traversed, according to Mr. Bridges, which was covered in short time considering that they stopped so often along the way. They had a number of interesting experiences, saw a lot of the country and had a most pleasant time. It is hard to do justice to their description of the trip second hand, but suffice it to say that they all had the grandest time of their lives.
