

Here In HICO

ANOTHER one of those things which around a newspaper office are as regrettable as they are inexplicable, happened to the News Review last week. And while it is not our policy to go into detail about each and every little error that creeps into our columns, we believe this one deserves some effort toward an apology.

In giving the names of the graduates, that of Guy O. Eakins, Jr., was inadvertently left out. This wouldn't be so bad, but some weeks past a name was left out of a report of the Junior-Senior banquet, and that omission also involved the same worthy youth.

Looks like a frame-up, we'll admit, and were not Young Guy, Guy Senior and Mrs. Guy such good friends of the paper—were they not so broad-minded and charitable toward the failings of their fellow citizens—we know there would be hard feelings. As it is, we believe they will consider it in its true light—just a mechanical mistake.

Those who know the record of the graduate whose name was so badly handled in our columns will understand that there is no doubt as to his scholarly attributes and probable passing. Others who read that there were nineteen graduates and found only eighteen listed were perhaps puzzled.

As a rule we say that the Linotype error and proof reader are at fault. But the boss himself happened to serve in both capacities on that article, and there is no passing the buck.

Since May 4 this year the News Review has been abiding by the provisions of the Graphics Art Code, which became effective on that date, and which necessitates the use of the price determination schedule issued by code authorities.

Without going into the merits, or probable demerits of the code and its accompanying schedule of prices on job printing, we say frankly that we believe it fair and entirely in line.

Some of the boys are hollering their heads off and hiding behind the excuse that the code is raising their prices. They just haven't the intelligence or the diligence to go into the matter fully when they take this attitude—or else they deliberately distort the facts.

The code does not raise prices, where prices have been charged where within reason in the past. It merely adjusts and equalizes a crippled structure that was tottering under cut-throat competition. The schedule was worked out by practical printers who know costs and realize the necessity for a fair profit if the various institutions are to exist.

We can show howlers many prices in the schedule which are lower than they have been charging—lower should have been charging. And we can also show a customer with an open mind that it is beneficial to printer and buyer alike.

Whether we like it or not, the order for compliance is not a weak request—it is a demand—and it has teeth in it.

For our part, we are going to do our best to adhere to the instructions from higher up. We don't believe we would look good in stripes, and we know that our bank account would not stand a fine of five hundred dollars.

In this we ask the cooperation of the local public, which we believe we will continue to enjoy. For under the code, as in the past printing can be bought in Hico as cheap as it can anywhere else in the United States, unless one cares to deal with bootleggers.

CANDIDATES sending free publicity to this office will find that their literature receives more attention when they fasten the pages together with first-grade clips.

Not that their messages will come any nearer getting into print, but we examine those done up as mentioned above with more caution. And who can tell—some time we might even read some of the stuff included in the lengthy articles.

Another tip for those who think that they are rendering a service by furnishing us with something "to fill our columns": Please see that the multigraph machines are in good shape so that the backs of the sheets will not be blurred and messed up with ink. The five-year-old red-headed office "devil" can draw pictures on the soiled ones when necessity demands the use of same instead of clean, white paper, but in keeping bridge scores and making notes on the back of this type of literature it is most disconcerting to find a batch that is ruined for those purposes.

Events preceding San Jacinto in Texas history will be portrayed in a mammoth parade and in a 14-scene pageant in connection with the Precentennial Celebration and Pioneers Roundup at Pampa May 31 and June 1.

Rapid Progress On Plans For the Big Tri-County Rally

Plans for the big Tri-County Rally Friday and Saturday, June 8 and 9, are progressing rapidly, according to John M. Alton, the local manager. Letters have been received from most of the State candidates, and while they will not be present in person, some of them will have personal representatives here to speak in their behalf. The program has developed to such an extent that it shows the following to be an approximate outline of the proceedings:

Friday 9 A. M. Opening Band concert, followed by address of Mayor Cole, followed by the Hamilton County candidates, and an address by Judge Hamlin at 11 A. M. At 1 P. M. Band concert. At 1:30 McDonald of his representative, 3 P. M. Hunter or his representative. Friday night has been reserved for the use of Senator Connolly or his representative, 9 A. M. Saturday band concert, followed by the Bosque County candidates, District Judge and District Attorneys, and Hon. Oscar Chastain at 11 A. M. At 1 P. M. band concert followed by Alford or his representative, 3 P. M. Small or his representative, and Erath county candidates. Saturday night has been reserved for Joe Bailey or his representative.

This is a most wonderful opportunity for the people to hear a discussion of the matters involved in both our State and National affairs by well posted men who will discuss these matters from their own particular view points thus giving the folks an unusual means of forming a proper judgment as to the best men to vote for to secure results we all want to see. We are hoping that every voter in this entire section will be present so as to get the utmost benefit from this great political rally. Our country and our affairs are in a jangle and it is going to take a lot of close thinking and shoulder to shoulder work to get things cleared up so that we can see something definite for the future. Mr. Alton expresses himself as well pleased with the progress of his efforts but assures one and all that he is fully appreciative of every good word and act of assistance he hopes to have the full co-operation of all local citizens to the end that this year the first of its kind ever held in the part of the State may be the truth and results of far reaching value to the citizenship of this section. We will have more to say next week and we hope to be able to give the names of the speakers by that time.

He states that he will be located here until probably some time in September.

SEVERAL HUNDRED MEN ADDED TO FORCE IN DALLAS, BRANCH OF FORD MOTOR CO.

The steady increase in sales of Ford V-8 cars and trucks has recently made possible the addition of several hundred men to the large force already employed in the Dallas branch of the Ford Motor Company, according to Mr. Foust, local Ford dealer.

The Dallas plant is assembling cars and trucks for dealers throughout Texas and Oklahoma and production has been steadily increased to meet the growing demand, resulting in over a 50 per cent increase in employment since the plant opened in February. Mr. Foust expressed pleasure at the thought that sales of Ford cars and trucks in the Hico community had contributed to this improvement and stated that he confidently expected even greater improvement in June and succeeding months.

Dr. Waite Discusses Three Bible Studies With Hico Seniors

Declaring that for him there were three separate phases to study of the Bible, Dr. E. M. Waite, president of Texas Christian University, of Fort Worth addressed the 1934 Senior Class of Hico High School at the high school auditorium last Sunday morning, May 20.

Preceding Dr. Waite's address, the Seniors in appropriate and charming costumes filed into the auditorium and took their seats at the front of the hall before the large crowd assembled for the baccalaureate exercises.

After the invocation by Rev. W. P. Cunningham, the class rendered a song, "List to the Voice" which was followed by Dr. Waite's address. The speaker was introduced by C. G. Masterson, superintendent of Hico Public Schools.

In opening his talk, Dr. Waite expressed appreciation of the opportunity afforded him of being present at such an auspicious occasion. He had never been in Hico before, he said, and enjoyed immensely the automobile trip down from Fort Worth that morning, and the wealth of scenery afforded on every hand by the beautiful countryside.

The study of the Bible, according to Dr. Waite, should be divided into three divisions in his research of the various books of the Bible, and has divided them into studies of nature, of human nature, and of human life and struggle. His explanation of the three divisions and accompanying remarks relative to same were very interesting.

"There is no place in business, life or school for a moral bankrupt," declared Dr. Waite, giving examples of the truthfulness of his statement. Likening the situation today with the position of El Capitan, a huge rock mountain in California to which many people flee when earthquakes shake the ground, he stated that character is the El Capitan of the world, upon which human beings may safely place their lives and moral safety. He stated that never before in the history of the world had there been a greater need of faith, and stated that personally he looked upon God as a source of safety to whom he could flee in case of trouble.

In his closing remarks, Dr. Waite cautioned the members of the class that life is lived in thoughts and not in years, and successful living was to be judged by deeds, and not by the figures on a dial.

Following Dr. Waite's address, the class rendered another song, "Living For Jesus" after which Rev. L. P. Thomsen, pastor of the Methodist church, gave the benediction, and the members of the graduating class filed out followed by the audience, all greatly inspired by the momentous occasion and by Dr. Waite's encouraging and timely remarks.

Hicoan Appointed On Committee Of Texas Centennial

A letter from Will H. Hayes, temporary secretary of the Texas Centennial Commission, under date of May 19, bears the information that Lawrence N. Lane of Hico has been appointed to membership on the commission.

The letter, addressed jointly to Mr. Lane, Mrs. L. D. Bratton of Hamilton, Arthur Edson of Hamilton, read as follows: "Dear Friends: 'You have been appointed to membership on the Texas Centennial Advisory Board for your county, and I hope you may accept this important trust as you will be in position to render most valuable service to the Centennial, your State, and your own county.'

"The first official meeting of the commission will be held in the Senate Chamber at Austin on June 6, at 10 a. m., and all members of the Advisory Board are invited to be present and participate in the meeting."

Relief is on the way to 219 farmers in Hartley county in the form of $44,000 worth of corn-broil benefit payments during the year.

CONGRESSMAN THOS. L. BLANTON

Congressman Thos. L. Blanton Announces For Re-Election

To My Constituents:

As grounds for asking your vote and support for re-election, I submit my record of service, intimate knowledge of every detail of government business both in the United States and foreign countries, and wide legislative experience.

Except as to return of saloons against which I was unalterably pledged, I have been one of the leaders in the House in supporting President Franklin D. Roosevelt, and in fighting his plans and policies for economic recovery. Regardless of my own views, I have felt that the American people wanted Congress to give the President means to try out and put into effect his recovery program.

As a reward for long, active service, my colleagues have assigned me to membership on the important Committee on Appropriations, which gives me an excellent opportunity to eliminate all items not authorized by law, and to save annually large sums of money for taxpayers.

Wholly at my own expense and without cost to the Government, I have had reprinted excerpts from the daily Record of Congress giving you voters a glimpse of the kind of work I perform in Congress. As the railroads are paid by the post for handling mail, and all postal employees receive annual salaries, it has not cost the Government one extra penny to send these excerpts to you through the mail, and I have felt that you were entitled to know about the standing and work of your Representative in Congress, who serves nearly 2,000 miles away from you.

I have faithfully kept every pledge I have made to the people. During the past five months that my opponents have been actively campaigning against me, Congress has been in continuous session and I have been kept busy here in Washington working 16 hours per day. I feel that I should remain at my post of duty here until Congress adjourns, regardless of my political interests, but I have an abiding faith that if I remain on the job and perform well my duties, you good people will take care of me on election day. If Congress should adjourn in time, I will then try to make the best campaign possible of my district.

Sincerely, your friend,
THOMAS L. BLANTON.

Superintendent Gives Rules Governing the Summer School

1. No pupils should be permitted to earn more than one unit per term of eight weeks and not more than one and one-half units per term of twelve weeks.

2. No credit should be granted for any subject given in a summer school where the total time devoted to recitations in that subject is less than five-sixths of the time devoted to same subject in the regular school session.

3. Qualifications of teachers and standard of work shall be the same as that required in the regular session.

I do not recommend that pupils be allowed to earn credit in new work.

I recommend that the school day begin at eight o'clock in the morning and last until twelve o'clock, that the fee for the eight weeks be ten dollars, payable at the beginning of the term; that a pupil be allowed to earn credit in three grade subjects in which he is deficient.

I recommend that Miss Jeanette Randal be appointed as teacher of the summer school and that she be allowed such assistance as she needs subject to the approval of the board and the superintendent.

This session of summer school shall begin May 28 and continue for eight weeks.

Very truly yours,
C. G. MASTERSON.

COURSE OF STUDY TO BE CONDUCTED BY M. E. PASTOR FOR PEOPLE OF COMMUNITY

A request has come to Brother W. P. Cunningham to conduct a course of study for the community in "The Origin and Growth of the Bible."

Such a course would require twelve hours of class room attendance, and is recognized by the International Council of Religious Education. It is invaluable for the teacher, the student of the Bible and for every young person to make the Bible live in every day thinking. No cost would be required other than that all entering the class should have access to a text book which might be shared with another. The text book costs sixty cents and makes a valuable addition to any library.

Mr. Cunningham is a recognized teacher in this field, and states that immediately upon returning from attendance upon a Pastor's School at Georgetown June 5 to 15th he will gladly meet with a group of students interested in the Bible study proposed either for afternoons or evenings or both. He suggests the use of two periods per week of two hours each. Please get in touch with Mrs. Lusk Randal, Phone 125. Remember there are to be no costs other than the cost of the text book, which may be shared with another.

Randals Brothers Will Soon Occupy Their Old Location

With the beginning of work on the building formerly occupied by the dry goods department of Randals Brothers in Hico, more recently serving as headquarters for the Southern Union Gas Co., plans have been announced by that firm which has been so prominent on the business horizon of this section for the opening in the near future of a grocery and feed store.

The firm, composed of T. A. E. H. and Lusk Randals, conducted a retail store in Hico for a number of years, but more recently have confined their activities to the feed business and later engaged in ranching and real estate operations.

According to T. A. Randals, they have known for some time that they were about ready to re-enter the retail business, but wanted everything completely worked out before starting in on their program. They promise their many old friends as well as others who might not have dealt with them in the past that when they are ready for their formal opening some weeks hence, depending upon the progress made on remodeling the building and installing the fixtures, they will have a complete stock of first-class merchandise to supply the needs of their trade.

The announcement of their intentions and the beginning of actual work on the building are greeted with satisfaction on the part of citizens and business men alike, who realize that the Randals Brothers name carries a lot of prestige over a large section, and bids fair to do its part in enlarging Hico's trade territory.

Highway 66 Work Order Received On Stephenville Road

Interesting and encouraging to those who have been keeping up with the progress of plans for completion of Highway 66 from Hico to Stephenville will be the news contained in the following article taken from the last issue of the Stephenville Empire-Tribune:

Work orders to start construction on Highway 66 between Hico and Stephenville were received by Crouch and Nolan, contractors, Thursday, according to members of the Highway Department stationed here.

The orders stated that time charged against the contractors by the Highway Department will begin May 26. This means that work probably will start on the road on or before that date, it was pointed out.

The Highway Department has allowed 180 working days on grading and small drainage structures and 15 working days on bridges. Both jobs will start at the same time, and the working days on them will run concurrently.

Members of the Crouch and Nolan firm, contractors for both jobs, have indicated that the work will start on the Hico end of the highway.

Headquarters for the contractors will likely be maintained here, it was pointed out.

The work will consist of grading the highway and construction of small drainage structures and bridges between Stephenville and the Hamilton county line just north of Hico.

The grading and small drainage structures will involve a cost of $65,821, and bridges over Polo Hollow and Indian and Simms Creeks will cost $19,645, the contract specifies.

It was pointed out that a great deal of local labor probably will be used on the jobs.

Quarter Billion Needed to Improve Texas Farm Houses

COLLEGE STATION—Texas farmers plan to spend about 26 million dollars during the next three years for new houses, and about 19 million dollars during 1934 for repairs or improvements on present houses, it is estimated by Mrs. Bernice Clayton, extension home improvement specialist at Texas A and M College. She bases these figures on the results of the farm housing survey recently completed as a Federal Civil Works Administration project in cooperation with the Extension Service and the United States Department of Agriculture. Housing needs on 52,650 farms in 56 counties were studied. Included in the survey were white, negro and Mexican homes on farms operated by owners and by tenants.

Only 23 per cent of the occupants of these farm houses would be willing to borrow money to make needed improvements, even if the money were loaned at very low interest rates and were repayable over a long period of years. Those desiring to borrow on such liberal terms, if given the opportunity, would spend an average of $505.72 on improvements. For all of Texas this would amount to an expenditure of about 58 million dollars in repairs and new construction.

If all Texas farm houses were to be brought up to the minimum standard of housing at least one quarter billion dollars would be required, Mrs. Clayton estimates. Minimum standards of farm housing are said to be based on the assumption that the house has reasonably good roof, foundation, windows, exterior walls and floors. In addition there should be an adequate supply of pure water piped into the house for kitchen and bath room; sanitary drainage of waste water; and sanitary toilet. The house should be screened, have liberal kitchen space, have at least one bedroom for every two people, at least one closet per room, and have a living room.

News Notes From Hamilton County Agent's Office

1. All Cotton, Corn-Hog and Wheat Committeemen who have announced for office will be replaced immediately.

2. Committeemen for measuring all basic crops will receive instructions immediately on properly measuring sides and angles of fields planted and rented. All rented acres must be substantially marked with posts so that committeemen will have no difficulty in locating same.

3. If competent engineer or surveyor has already measured land and will certify to same, it will not be necessary for committeemen to measure.

4. Ten counties in Texas have received practically all checks for first benefit payments. 125 counties in Texas have been certified by the State Board of Review and Contracts shipped to Washington.

5. Hamilton County Cotton Acreage Reduction Contracts shipped to Washington May 12th, and first benefit checks should arrive here between June 1 and 15th.

6. Corn-Hog contracts from Hamilton County received by State Corn-Hog Review Board in "Excellent Shape" but will not be given final approval until all contracts from the State have been analyzed.

7. Bankhead Act material should be received from Washington by June 1st. Hamilton County's quota of number of bales of Cotton allowable should be received at that time. All figures submitted by farmers must be made under oath, and farmers would do well to secure accurate figures now.

Recent Audit Shows Nice Balances In Various City Funds

The annual audit of the books of the City of Hico was completed recently, and according to a statement from Mayor M. A. Cole, shows the city affairs in commendable shape, especially when compared with other political subdivisions of this character.

Mr. Cole expressed a desire to have the statement published, in order that the citizens in general, who are in reality stockholders in the city corporation, may ascertain to their complete satisfaction the facts concerning the financial condition of the city. Other council members expressed a similar desire, but as yet the News Review has received no official orders for the publication of the statement.

Citizens interested in this matter might express their wishes to the mayor or members of the council, as they do not want to publish the statement unless there is a demand for same, and unless it would be appreciated and justify the small expense attached thereto. Those who have been approached so far seem anxious to have this done.

Keeping Up With TEXAS

President John G. Barry, of the Texas College of Mines Tuesday wired his resignation, effective May 15, to Beauford Jester, Corsicana, chairman of the University of Texas board of regents. In his resignation Barry said he believed "local men interested in politics, athletics and public schools wish to debase the standards set by the university and the board of education. The College of Mines is a branch of the University of Texas at Austin."

A letter was received at Groesbeck Tuesday, indicating that J. L. Adams, 60, dairyman, missing from his home since Monday night might have been kidnapped. Addressed to his son, Wayne Adams, it said: "Your old man safe; excuse us; we got the wrong man." Adams was last seen when he walked across the street from his home to mail a letter.

Texas railroads showed an increase of 141.37 per cent in net operating income for the three months ended March 31 last, compared with the same period in 1933, a report to the State Railroad Commission revealed. The net operating income for the first quarter of 1934 was $689,439 against a deficit of $1,566,553 for the same period in 1933.

The Texas bond commission Tuesday set June 2 for receiving bids on $2,750,000 in unemployment relief bonds. This amount would absorb all the $10,000,000 authorized by the Legislature, proceeds of which go to feed and clothe dependent families. Members of the Texas Relief Commission in a meeting last week, estimated that all the funds made available from sale of bonds would have been exhausted early this fall. Governor Miriam A. Ferguson said she would call a special session of the Legislature to make more bonds available as soon as necessary.

Sam P. Cochran, 78, Dallas pioneer, for more than half a century connected with the fire insurance business in Dallas, and Miss Regina Urbish, 26, of Dallas were married Tuesday in Durant, Ok. Mr. Cochran, a thirty-third degree Mason is prominently identified with Masonic activities throughout the world. Mr. Cochran Monday announced the termination of his active participation in the insurance firm of Trezevant & Cochran, after a connection of fifty-three years.

Bringing Dallas fourteen miles nearer to Houston as measured by rail passenger service and offering a faster schedule for travelers the new Dallas-Houston train of the Burlington-Rock Island Railroad was northward bound on the last lap of its maiden round trip Sunday evening. The new train, supplementing the schedules of other lines rather than conflicting with them makes it possible to leave Dallas in the morning spending two hours and ten minutes in Houston and arrive back in Dallas the same evening.

Five men returning from a church meeting lost their lives Monday morning when a truck in which they were riding plunged through a bridge and went down a thirty-foot embankment near Carroll, Loyd Dowell, 22, hired by Negroes to take them to the meeting, and Troy Pool, 21, who decided to accompany them, were killed. Three negro victims were killed. A fourth negro, found wandering in a field a mile from the scene of the accident, was seriously injured. Passersby found the men, their bodies badly mangled, apparently about half an hour after the crash. The negro who escaped death was buried in May 26. The accident was the one planned under it: Troy Dowell, a brother of Loyd, was killed in an accident about a mile away several years ago.

Brown F. Lee, Mayor of San Angelo since 1931, died suddenly at his home Monday afternoon thirty minutes after having been stricken at his office. He was an attorney and a former member of the Legislature. His wife, and a son and daughter by a former marriage survive.

Miss Ella Mae Baker, a school-teacher at Salisbury, near Memphis, was accidentally shot and probably fatally wounded by a 17-year-old girl student in the teaching late Saturday. Marie Rich, pupil was fingering a rifle found in a corner of the room when it accidentally discharged, a bullet striking Miss Baker in the head. Garvis Davis, owner of the gun, had left it at the teacherage earlier in the afternoon after a hunting trip and was returning for it when the accident occurred. Miss Baker, formerly of Dallas, was rushed to a hospital at Memphis. Physicians held little hope for her recovery.

IMPROVING THE NRA

We think the National Recovery Administration is taking a wise course in deciding to abandon the effort to place every kind of business, down to the smallest one-man tailor shop, under some sort of a code. We can see where the codes of fair competition may prove in the long run to be of the greatest value to producers and consumers alike, as well as to wage-earners, in the large competitive industries.

We understand that control of operations under the codes is being gradually transferred to the industries themselves, and that the expectation is that before long the hand of the Government will be entirely removed, except as it may serve as a mediator in disputes between industries or within an industry.

But we have never quite understood how the Government expected to be able to police the whole country to see to it that no cobbler half-soled a pair of shoes for a nickel or a dime less than some other cobbler wanted for the job, or that every filling station lived up strictly to the rule of the forty-hour week for employees. Local businesses dealing only with local customers, particularly when they are small concerns operated by the owner and a few helpers, must consider the service to their trade first of all, whether it means conforming to the customs or rules imposed for some other line of business in some other community or not.

We agree in principle with the idea in keeping unfair competition from outside of the trade territory of independent local merchants. We have not seen much of that so far, however, in the operations under the NRA. It was our understanding, and the President's declared purpose, to put the small business man on an equality with the big business men. From all we hear, big business is well pleased with the results under the codes so far, but many small businesses men are not.

Therefore, as we have said, we welcome the news that these small local businesses are not to be included in the new set-up of the NRA.

MEMORIAL DAY

It is now nearly seventy years since the last shot was fired in that tremendous conflict between the North and South which history records as the American Civil War. The pitiful half a hundred of survivors of that great struggle are now old, old men. Whatever hatred or bitterness they felt for each other has long since been resolved by the kindly, soothing hand of time.

It is not necessary here to go into the causes of that Titanic struggle. Leave that to the historians and interpreters, who will not have finished in another seventy years, or in seventy times seventy, their efforts to make the events of the 1860's prove this, that or the other theory. The fact remains that the survivors and the descendants of both sides have equal cause for pride.

We believe we are right in saying that all the rancor, all the sectional bitterness that that great struggle engendered, and which hung for so long like a funeral pall over the reunited Nation, vanished long since. It began to disappear when the sons of men who had worn the Northern blue marched in the ranks in '98 with those whose fathers had worn the Southern gray; its last trace disappeared when the boys from Texas and Mississippi swung into action at Chateau-Thierry alongside their khaki-clad brothers from Vermont and Minnesota.

On the 30th day of this month, all over the North and in many of the States of the South, the Nation will again pay its annual tribute of remembrance to the brave men who fought for their native land in three great wars. In some states there have been or are yet to be held special memorial services for those who fought for the Confederacy. But the tears that are shed and the wreaths that are laid are, all of them, a nation's tribute to what we must still regard as the highest possible expression of the nobility of the human character, which does not hesitate to risk dear life itself, not for any possible selfish gain but for the sake of others.

"Under the soil and the dew, waiting the Judgment Day— Tears and love for the 'Slaves, love and tears for the Gray."

EIGHT HUNDRED THOUSAND NEW HOMES A YEAR
According to the Research Department of the NRA, an annual building volume of 800,000 residential units is required to supply the need for new dwellings. This takes no account of replacement of existing sub-standard homes, and until these are replaced the needed volume could easily be at the rate of 2,000,000 structures a year.

A building revival could fall far below these high limits, and still be the most powerful of actors in fighting depression. No dollar we spend does more work, in stimulating domestic trade and providing employment, than does the building dollar. Surveys show that 37.2 per cent of all the money spent goes to labor at the site—to excavators, graders, carpenters, masons, plumbers, plasterers, etc. The balance of 62.7 per cent goes to buy needed materials and supplies—and the great bulk of that is paid to workers in the plants and factories manufacturing them. In general, about eighty cents out of each dollar goes to labor, directly or indirectly.

The heavy industries—those supplying such manufactures as steel, lumber, cement—were hit hardest by hard times. They are facing the gravest difficulties in recovering from them. Spurring construction would do much to solve a legion of our most troublesome problems.

MENUS AND RECIPES BY C. L. A. AT DENTON

The separate preparation of each part of the menu three times a day is too time-consuming for the homemaker. The main hot dishes require special attention every time. It is possible to prepare hot dishes in sufficient quantity to hold same over for another meal, but warmed over left-overs must be used very skillfully in order not to come into disrepute.

The preparation of desserts can probably be simplified with less sacrifice of quality. Cold desserts do not become less desirable from being held over if carefully covered and kept at a low temperature. The various types of custard, tapoca, and gelatin desserts lose nothing by being prepared in sufficient quantity to serve from twice, especially if they appear in different menus or with different sauces or accompaniments.

When making pie for dinner it is possible to make sufficient crust for two or three desserts. Bake the extra crust into pie shells or tart shells to be filled later with fresh fruit topped with cream or other filling.

Sandwiches having a sweet filling are satisfying for dessert if served with a hot or a fruit beverage. Hot toasted sandwiches with sweet filling and served with a custard sauce are quickly prepared. Fancy breads, made sweet and rich, can serve as hot bread and as dessert, and also let us keep the cookie jar functioning.

BREAKFAST: Sliced oranges, broiled sausage, southern spoon bread, coffee or milk.

LUNCHEON: Toasted minced ham and egg sandwich, celery, pickles, tea, biscuit, hot tea.

DINNER: Carried lamb with dumplings, peas and carrots, hot rolls, butter, minute tapoca cream.

BREAKFAST: Fresh peaches with cream, bran muffins, scrambled eggs and bacon, coffee or milk.

Whiskey and soda live up at the Bronx Zoo. And they're the first of their kind that ever arrived alive in the United States. They're bears from Tibet—odd looking youngsters that only weighed 30 pounds when they got here. And they only got here alive because one of the ship's crew invented a diet that they would eat on route. When they refused the prescribed menu they were fed scrambled eggs, raw and cooked vegetables, a lot of marmalade, milk and oatmeal. Some day they'll weigh from 350 to 400 pounds each.

RAMBLING ROUND NEW YORK with HUGH KENNY

A magazine article appeared recently with the title, "How to Play the Market." The summary of the article was: Don't!

A friend was describing preparations for a dinner party. One of the invited guests was a huge bulk of a man who required some special consideration. "His idea of a roast turkey," said my friend, "is a single portion!"

Walking in Greenwich Village we came across this sign: Noyes School of Rhythm. . . It has nothing to do with drummers, but is a dancing school.

Poor old Broadway—where the bright lights shine at night! One of the things that makes it tawdry, jewelry auctioneers who use loud speakers and drone on and on in a rasping, monotonous tone. In spite of it, there are always the curious and the credulous who stop and listen.

We seem bound to be different in New York. Repeat is a fact. Yes, sit down at a restaurant table and you can order any drink you like. But eat lunch sitting at a counter five feet away and you can't have a drop. Go into a liquor store, ask for beer and the answer is, "we're not allowed to sell it."

Chicago has New York beat for peculiar liquor legislation. You can't have anything you like to drink even though you sit on a high stool at a lunch counter. But if you lower a foot to the floor, straightening one leg to the standing position while drinking, you can be arrested for a misdemeanor.

observe the exact bearing of all the players in the very real job of performing operations. The siege was brought on, of course by such plays as Men in White and Yellow Jack—two of the most successful of the season. There are some surgical amphitheatres where the observers sit in a circular mezzanine around the glass dome directly above the operating table. They can observe the minute work of the surgeon with the aid of binoculars.

There's a company in New York that specializes in neutralizing the effect of stench bombs. It's called the Bombatement Company. Every trade organization in town has its name on the emergency list. The founder started work after he had one of those evil smelling bombs thrown into the store that he used to operate.

New York cops are asked the question, "What piece of fire apparatus cannot go down a one-way street?" The answer: A fire boat.

THE REDSKINS ARE COMING!
A short time ago the Chicago Tribune printed a cartoon that hit the predicament of the average American neatly on the head. It pictures "John R. Taxpayer" and family, attired in frontier dress, hiding in and under a covered wagon, surrounded by an attacking "Tribe of Taxeaters," who have come out of the "American Tax Wilderness." The unfortunate "John Taxpayer" is saying in response to frightened appeals from his wife and children, "There are so many of 'em I don't know where to start shootin'!"

Every citizen is in that position now. The tax-Indians, of course, won't do him physical harm—but they are highly cannibalistic so far as his pocketbook, his savings, and his property are concerned. They are destroying jobs by draining the springs from which payrolls flow.

They are capturing homes and farms—because their owners, in these days of reduced income and increased taxes—can't pay the levies against them.

It's hard all right, to know where to start shooting—but less that start is made, through the united effort of the millions of the both workers and employers of the country, the Indians are going to have an easy time at the massacre. The cure lies in opposition to extravagance and to legislation sphere of government, at the taxpayer's expense, and opposition to officials who propose or foster such practices. A genuine movement along these lines should be started. And every citizen who has a job, owns a piece of property, or has a few dollars invested, belongs in it.

4-H CLUB NEWS

4-H MEETS NEED
Four-H clubs supply many needs of rural youth—recreation, the chance to cultivate talents which enrich life, money, and so on, but where it serves boys and girls best is in teaching them the "know how" of doing the important things which make up the routine of our existence. The 4-H way calls for a boy or girl actually doing a thing as a part of the learning.

Learning by doing is an old and sound method of teaching. It is the method by which man first learned to do things beyond what the animal could do. It is the way so-called uncivilized man taught his children the things he knew. He taught them how to build a fire by having them watch him and then try it themselves. After a certain number of trials they also could build a fire.

All this may seem a foolish discussion to persons familiar with the accomplishments of 4-H clubs and members. Still it has an important bearing on why 4-H club work has met such a widespread need among rural boys and girls. It teaches them to do the important things in their homes and on their farms and in all matters of living.

Once a girl has made bread a time or two she knows pretty well that she can when and if she has to. When a boy has raised an acre of corn or a pig he has learned what he could not learn any other way so well. Same way as to conduct, health and so on.

The boy or girl might spend days and weeks studying at a desk how to do these things—might read all the books and bulletins on the subject and never feel sure how to do them. All of which leads to the point that most of us learn easiest, if at all, by doing. Mental tests prove this. Only a few persons out of every 100 can understand a fundamental rule or principle and apply it. The run of folks have to see the process through and then learn by imitating it. That is why so many children learn slowly, if at all, from books. But they do learn when they see things demonstrated. Hence the value of 4-H demonstrations, private or public.

Sunday School Lesson

by Rev. Charles E. Dunn

The Last Judgment. Lesson for May 27th. Matt 25:31-46.

Golden Text: 2 Cor. 5:10.

Note the principle of separation in this wonderful parable of the final judgment. The saved and the unsaved are not selected on the basis of creed, or race, or church affiliation, but by the criterion of neighborly kindness. Those who have fed the hungry and thirsty, who have housed the stranger, clothed the naked, and visited the sick and imprisoned, are welcomed into eternal life. But all who have neglected these fundamental obligations are condemned.

This test is made very graphic by Tolstoy's story, "Where Love Is, God Is." Martin, a devout cobbler, lived in a basement room with only one window. In his old age he thought much about his soul. One night he sat up late reading the gospel until he fell asleep. A voice called to him, "Martin, Martin! Look out into the street tomorrow, for I shall come."

The next day an old, broken-down soldier came to Martin's window, and cleared away the snow with his spade. "What if I called him in?" thought Martin. They had tea together.

Then later a strange woman, with shabby clothes, and a crying baby passed Martin's window. Martin came out and pleaded for forgiveness.

That night Martin again opened the New Testament. He seemed to hear footsteps. Sure enough, there was the old soldier, the woman and her baby, and the apple-woman and boy.

And Martin's soul was glad. He put on his spectacles, and this is what he read: "I was hungry, and ye gave me meat; I was thirsty, and ye gave me drink; I was a stranger, and ye took me in. Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me."

THE BOOK

by BRUCE BARTON

NO DANIEL AND NO ESTHER

Everyone who has read the Old Testament at all knows about Daniel, who spent a night with the lions rather than give up his religion; and about Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego, his three sturdy associates. They were cast into a fiery furnace but walked comfortably up on the hot coals and came forth without even the smell of the smoke. Similarly we are well acquainted with Esther, the beautiful Jewess, who became queen and had the satisfaction of seeing Haman, the wicked prime minister, bungled upon the gallows which he had built for Mordecai the Jew.

These are two heroic figures, Daniel and Esther, and it is sad indeed to be told that the scientists, in digging around among the ruins of those far-away times, have been unable to find any trace of a queen called Esther.

We are forced reluctantly to conclude that the two books bearing these honored names are splendid pieces of Jewish propaganda, written by patriotic gentlemen who sought to uphold the spirits of their fellow-exiles and, in the case of Daniel, nerve him for one of his most heroic struggles in history—one that in spite of overwhelming odds succeeded. As with Daniel, so with Esther. The author of the book that bears her name made her victory complete, as we shall have occasion to note more fully when we come back to her again. You will remember that her uncle Mordecai, a Jew, was prime minister.

And Mordecai went out from the presence of the king in royal apparel of blue and white, and with a great crown of gold, and with a garment of fine linen and purple and . . .

The Jews had light and gladness and joy, and honour. . . And many of the people of the land became Jews; for the fear of the Jews, came upon them.

But these verses which make so brave a showing for the Jews, are not a historic document; only a pious hope. The Jews, in reading them, buckled their belts a little tighter and took courage.

In taking leave of the Old Testament we must stop to pay reverent tribute to two great truths which give eternal significance to these ancient books.

We have in the record of the division and downfall of the Jewish nation the first instance in human history where the good did not go with the land. In earlier days each tribe and nation had its own particular deity or set of deities, and when a man transferred from one country to another he, of course, changed gods. Naomi urged her two beautiful daughters-in-law to go back to their own country after their husbands had died of starvation.

The FAMILY DOCTOR

by JOHN JOSEPH GAINES M.D.

Let us welcome the glad sunlight. It brings cheer, warmth, flowers, and health. A fine old remedy it is, if we just use it; nothing better.

Yes, it is scientific. The great Creator knew more of chemistry than we have been able to find out in four thousand years. But we have learned something of value. Sunlight is light of the very finest quality. It is more than that. It carries the infra-red rays in abundance. That is a fancy name for "the heat that heats." It is good for everybody. Inventors have done their best to devise substitutes, so that physicians may use sun-rays in their offices on cloudy days. Get your infra-red rays free now—out doors.

And, this wonderful sunlight contains the precious ultra-violet rays too—just in the right proportion for life and health. The ultra-violet gives you "sun-burn," a reasonable amount of which is mighty purifying to the blood. Don't get the idea that you can acquire sunburn by lying where the sunlight comes through a glass; the pane of glass screens out of the violet-ray.

In none of my office apparatus for giving ray treatments, do I have glass globes; the light is directly from the element which supplies it.

Don't forget the value of sunshine and the outdoors; they are invaluable to you. I wish the summers in this middle latitude were longer; I would have all the precious sun-heat and light that it is possible to have.

At least 70 per cent of Burned county farmers repaired their terraces last winter, and many of them are building pasture terraces. The county agent believes pasture contouring and terracing are going to show a big increase there this year.

THE STORY SO FAR

Nancy Gordon, loving Pace Rosemer, sells herself in marriage to Dr. Richard Morgan for fifteen thousand dollars, the amount her brother Roddy stole to give to a woman, Helena Haddon, sophisticated married woman, in love with Richard, does her best to make trouble for Nancy, although she knows nothing of the secret marriage. Mr. Gordon sells his home to repay Richard. Nancy permits Pace to continue making love to her, but when she finds that he wants her to run away with him she recoils from him in horror. Taking shelter in the hotel of a poor woman whose baby is dying, Nancy realizes that Richard is the best man after all, and sends for him. Although he saves the baby's life, he repudiates the help of his wife, Helena, finding that they have spent the night together in the miserable hotel, spreads the scandal about town. Annie Fuller, Roddy's childhood sweetheart, and niece of Major Lomax, tries to stop the scandal. Just then Roddy returns home—drunk. His mother believes him crazy and sends for Dr. Morgan, who takes Roddy home with him. Nancy goes to Richard's to see her brother. "Rod," she says "have you been doing it again—stealing?"

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

"I can't tell you, Rod, don't ask me!" she begged.

"But you must tell me—Angie, what is it? Something's wrong! Tell me—you shall tell me!"

But she shook her head. "No, no!"

He dropped her hands and snatched up his hat. "I'll find out!" he said.

She ran after him, sobbing. "It's nothing—it's nothing—don't ask Roddy, don't ask!"

Angie's tears could not avail now, she had loosed the whirlwind. Roddy was in no mood to reason with Angie's hints. Something was wrong.

He would go straight to Richard. Man to man they would settle it. He was grateful to him, he was loath to behave ill to him.

"Mammy Polk was back again. 'No, Miss' Roddy, de doctor ain't in—be back 'rectly, walk in, dere's a lady in de office—waitin'."

"A lady?" Roddy hesitated. Roddy thought of it a moment. He did not mind Helena. If there was any talk of Richard, Helena would tell him. She would be jealous. Roddy had found out a good deal about jealous women.

Helena sat in a chair by the window.

"Why, Rod Gordon?" she exclaimed and gave him her hand. Roddy swallowed hard. He drew a chair close to hers and sat down.

"Mrs. Haddon, I think you'd know about any gossip, wouldn't you?"

Helena shrank a little. What in the world was coming?

"Oh, I don't know—what do you mean?"

"I've just been told—" he stammered, then he straightened himself ruthlessly in his question. "Is there any reason why I should have a quarrel with Richard Morgan—about my sister?"

"Don't ask me!" she gasped in sheer panic. She thought he knew that she had told.

"What's wrong Roddy? Anyone here?"

"What's wrong Roddy? Anyone here?"

frightened. He looked suddenly at man and she had thought him a mere boy.

"I—I can't tell you!" she said in a low voice, "I'm going—let me go, Roddy!"

But he had caught her by the wrist.

"You shall tell me!" he said between his teeth, "what is it—the damned lie they're telling?"

She dragged back from him, her green eyes suddenly blazing with fury. "I'll tell you—but don't blame me—let go my hand."

He let go as if she had struck him, but his eyes still burned in to hers.

"Your sister went to Washington with Morgan. She stayed there a day and a night. A man who registered at the same hotel told me—they were there as man and wife. That's the story—now, are you satisfied?"

"I'm quite satisfied," he replied simply, "thank you, Mrs. Haddon. Good night."

Mr. Gordon had spent his evening alone. His wife had given up early; a headache brought her the relief of going to bed. She was in terror of her husband's remarks about Roddy's return. Nancy was out on the piazza now, sitting on the steps. No one knew that she was there, and she did not speak when Roddy sprang up the steps and bounded into the house. He did not see her at all.

A moment later Mr. Gordon looked up into the boy's face.

"By gum!" he ejaculated involuntarily, "what's wrong? Drunk again, sir?"

Roddy laid his hand heavily on the back of the nearest chair and straightened himself.

"Father, do you happen to know about the scandal—the story they're telling here about Nancy Virginia?"

Mr. Gordon sat up straight. "Make yourself plain, sir."

"Did Nancy ever go to Washington without you—or mother?"

Mr. Gordon's face changed. "She did."

Roddy made an inarticulate sound in his throat, his hands clenching on the chair back.

"When?"

"In the Spring—after your first escapade." Mr. Gordon was staring hard at him, his anger rising.

"They say she went with Richard Morgan and stayed there twenty-four hours. They—Roddy gasped, his eyes blazing—"that fellow—Morgan—registered there as man and wife."

To his amazement, his father said nothing. He merely nodded his head slowly, his face stern.

"Do you hear me?" Roddy shouted, "do you take it in? Nancy—Nancy Virginia and Dick Morgan as man and wife. Some one saw it, read the register!"

Mr. Gordon regarded him sternly, something like grim humor showing in his eyes. The young fool did not know what a sacrifice the girl had made for him. Then he remembered the intolerable implication against his poor girl. He turned on his son angrily.

"They're married!" he said shortly.

"Married?"

"Married?"

Roddy's jaw dropped, he stared at his father like a zany.

There was a long moment of silence. In it Mr. Gordon's anger gathered force. And who had dared to start it? Roddy getting his breath, broke out again.

"Married? Why didn't I know! Why didn't you tell me before—tell other people?"

Mr. Gordon gave him an exasperated glance. "You're not the one to find fault," he replied dryly, "they're married—secretly."

"Why?" he demanded fiercely, "is that fellow ashamed of my sister?"

His father said nothing.

"Do you hear me?" Roddy strangled with anger. "My sister!" he began to walk up and down. He thought of the family honor. His father must be breaking down in a premature dotage! What else could it mean? Did Richard know it? His eyes shot fire.

"I know," he said chokingly, "you've told Morgan about me—it's because she's my sister! Nancy Virginia scorned for me—my God, I'll—I'll—"

He seemed to strangle again. He ran out of the room and out of the house.

Bare-headed and disheveled, he ran to the gate. He never once looked back. He did not hear the half-smothered cry that pursued him. He vaulted the gate and was gone.

But Nancy stood there, clasping her cold hands against her breast.

"Oh, what shall I do!" she sobbed to herself softly. She had heard almost all that Roddy had crashed and spun around. "You've married my sister and let people talk about her. Do you happen to know what they say of it—of her?"

"Your sister went to Washington with Morgan."

Richard's face whitened to the lips. "I know nothing. Who dares to say anything about her? Or about me?"

Roddy laughed wildly. "Dares? When a man hides his marriage people talk, don't they? They know nothing of this marriage—this secret marriage of yours, you—you coward! They say she's your—"

he strangled again, "your mistress, dam you!"

Richard rose to his feet.

"Who says it?" he demanded hoarsely, "who told you that?"

"The whole town says it!" shouted Roddy, "it's seething like a cauldron. Lomax knows it, Haddon knows it, everybody knows it. You took her to Washington and married her secretly and ruined her good name!"

"If you were not a boy and her brother," said Richard, "I'd wring your neck!"

"Wring my neck, would you? You haven't got the courage!" Roddy screamed, flinging out his arms. "Do you think I don't know what ails you? Father told you I was a thief—you're ashamed to say you married my sister—my sister, Nancy Virginia Gordon!"

She's an angel and you're a devil, you're a black-hearted, cowardly scoundrel! You'll fight me, or, by God, I'll call you a coward on every street corner in the town! I'll publish you—you can't hide any longer behind my sister, I—"

he stopped again, and suddenly drawing himself to his full height, spoke with a new tragic dignity. "I challenge you, Richard Morgan, to defend yourself or die in your tracks—like a dam' coward!"

Richard had scarcely heard him.

"Yes, I'll fight you," he said dryly, "I admit you've a right to demand it."

"Come out now—the moon's like day—I'll get a gun—we can fight it out now, I can't wait, I won't wait!"

"Now? Out there?" a grim smile twisted Richard's lips. "If one of us dies out there tonight it would be called plain murder. That won't do, Roddy, we must keep to the code. Get a second, then I'm ready any time."

"I wouldn't care a copper what they called it," Roddy snapped, "but since you're particular—oh, the code, of course! I'll get a second, you can get yours—over the phone. I give you the choice of weapons, Dr. Morgan."

Richard bowed his head gravely.

"Pisols. Mine's here on my desk, but you can bring two. I'll be waiting for you when you come back. Where is it to be?"

"Out there!" Roddy pointed at the moonlit lawn.

"I understand," Richard answered grimly, and he opened a long window on the moonlit piazza, "you can go this way, I'll wait."

Why Doctors Favor
a Liquid Laxative

A doctor will tell you that the careless use of strong laxatives may do more harm than good.
 Harsh laxatives often drain the system, weaken the bowel muscles, and even affect the liver and kidneys.
 Fortunately, the public is fast returning to laxatives in liquid form.
 The dose of a liquid laxative can be measured. The action can thus be regulated to suit individual need. It forms no habit, you needn't take a "double dose" a day or two later.
 Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin gently helps the average person's bowels back to regularity. Why not try it?
 Some pill or tablet may be more convenient to carry. But there is little "convenience" in any cathartic which is taken so frequently, you must carry it with you, wherever you go!
 Its very taste tells you Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is wholesome. A delightful taste, and delightful action.

Fairy Splits Even With the Gap; Takes One From Meridian

By Grangousier
 This game with Cranfill's Gap Sunday, May 13th, was egg-on-the-chin for the Fairy Tigers. The Gappers getting to Seago for 5 hits and 4 runs in the first inning, the balance of the game running along smoothly with Seago allowing only 3 hits and 1 run, making a total of 5 runs and 8 hits. The Fairyites nicked Johnson for 8 hits and 1 run.
 We are not miracle men, super-naturalists, or authorities on baseball, but we do claim that these "pill rollers" can't do'er twice in a row, or otherwise win two straight games in succession off the Fairyites. The challenge is issued, for the closing of school and accepted by the Cranfill Gap team and back they come for more.
 Manager Goyne starting Gleason who worked nicely along through the game, end's up by letting Trantham warm up a few innings on the boys. Incidentally this boy, Trantham, was Skipper's ace pitcher last season, and won some good games for the team, having obtained an outright release from the manager, and is pitching some mighty good baseball for the Meridian team. The Cranfill Gappers in this game were taken for a little ride to the tune of 8 to 4. This was not an official Tri-County League game but the victory was welcome just as much.
 Manager Goyne and his Ham-donnies treke to Meridian for an official Tri-County League game on May 20th, and are successful in winning another affray by a score of 8 and 2. "Ye old" rally starting off with a bang in the first inning, with Hutton scoring the first run of the game. The Fairy fans with a mighty roar raise the roof off Meridian's grand stand turning it into bleachers. The remaining runs of this in-ning being scored by Herricks, Proffitt, and Pitts, all being as close of tight as a warped cellar door. The most prominent feature of the game being the Skipper's adam's apple, that sticks out like his neck was signaling it was going to turn a corner, and when he wants milk to drink he takes a glass of water and rings a cow bell.
 We don't know anything about Ming porcelain or ceramics, but we do know that he is OK, and that Gin won't rust a bath tub. He also says that he is going to win this League or play them until their tongues are hanging out like the latch string on a municipal lodging house. All-in-all his beautiful optimistic mood may be some what shattered as the only way these birds can stay on top and keep from sliding off is to wear sand paper pants.
 Wilburn pitching for Fairy brewed along nicely, his curve ball as crooked as lobster claws, Meridian getting only 4 hits and 2 runs. Skipper Goyne is seriously thinking of putting this bird and a shortstop on a diet. They can smell ham and eggs in a blizzard, can eat all they can lift, but lose their appetite when they grab something they can't budge. "Old Folks" Seago camped on first base for the locals Sunday and did a job delay in holding the initial sack down, and in-addition to getting two beautiful hits to help the old game along (listen to this), if this guy had been born a chicken he would have died in the shell rather than tap his way out with his beak. If he fails for this line of alphabetical soup the Grangousier is handing out to him, all we can advise him is, that he can get more with a big spoon. Gaston and Herricks the two gladiators of the outer gardens get a triple each. These boys would make good floor walkers in a dog house, also the popular option of many is that he or the other of these birds should have got the 1934 Pulitzer prize for sleeping with their shoes on.
 The next scheduled game for Fairy is May 27th, Clifton at Fairy. This promises to be a good ball game. So come out and enjoy this game of popular sport.

Chevrolet Claims To Have Accomplished Most Unusual Feat

In a letter thanking the News Review for past cooperation, and giving assurance of his confidence in newspaper advertising, Warren R. Peel, assistant zone manager of the Dallas Branch of Chevrolet Motor Co., states that he anticipates a nice business throughout the Dallas Zone territory. Some of his anticipations are based on past proofs of the effectiveness of schedules run in this and other weekly newspapers.
 Mr. Peel attached with his letter a news item relative to the new Chevrolet, as follows:
 At a recent meeting of the Dealers in the Dallas Zone, Mr. H. C. Howard, Zone Manager, made the following statement:
 Starting at zero hour in January, with a car so new and so basically improved as to create a whole new series of major production problems, the Chevrolet Motor Company this year accomplished the almost incredible feat of eclipsing all other producers by the end of March.
 Gaining momentum rapidly, stepping production up from a few units a day to more than 3,500, Chevrolet passed all competitors, with the year but a few weeks old, completing March with its old rank as world's greatest builder of cars, a position it has occupied six of the last seven years.
 Registration figures are not available so early as production totals, but those for March, now complete, show Chevrolet with a healthy lead over all other cars. In the truck field, Chevrolet's leadership was even more decisive due to the fact that the new trucks were in production somewhat earlier. Registrations for Chevrolet trucks, for the year to date, have exceeded those of its three principal competitors combined.
 Rural users have played a major role in bringing about Chevrolet's dominance, both in the passenger car field and in trucks. Replacement of worn-out cars and trucks on farms is going forward more rapidly this spring than for a long time past, Chevrolet dealers report, and it is a significant fact that those who have owned Chevrolets are buying Chevrolets again.
DANCING CLASS SUSPENDED
 Marion Boren, director and dance instructor left for Kansas City, Mo., Thursday, May 24th. After a successful five-weeks stay he decided to return to Kansas City in order to study new routines and further his education.
 Some of the pupils here in Hico that have made especially good progress under his direction are: Misses Martha Masterson, Martha Porter, Mavis Hardy, Oleta Hughes, Elizabeth Boustead, Jane Wolfe, Jean Wolfe, Mary Jane Clark, Anna Lee Persons, Katherine Mag-singill and Messrs. O. W. Hefner, Lloyd Burleson, Leighton Guyton, Morris Blair, Ray Cheek, Walton Gandy, Tom Herbert Wolfe, Howard Rierson, Carroll Smith, Mrs. C. L. Woodward and Mrs. Herbert Wolfe. Ruby Lee and Mary Nell Ellington started out in tap but sickness prevented a continuation of their work.
 One item of particular interest was the accomplishment of Miss Jean and Miss Jane Wolfe last week. Earlier this week Miss Jane whirled with her partner, Mr. Boren, three thousand five hundred and sixty times in succession without a single stop, setting as far as is generally known a world's amateur record. Then not to be left behind her sister, Jean, late this week whirled with the same partner a total of four thousand and fifty times. This is without doubt one of the hardest accomplish-ments of dancing and testifies to the girls' advancement. And as the exertion covered a period of time over fifty minutes it called for quite a bit of physical endurance.
 Mr. Boren still plans on returning this September and anyone interested in enrolling in classes in either tap or ballroom may do so through Mrs. Herbert Wolfe this August. Private instructions will also be offered, and Mr. Boren promises some new dance steps that are guaranteed to please.

TODAY and TOMORROW

FRANK PARKER STOCKBRIDGE

MOLLYCODDLES ... good word
 It was President Theodore Roosevelt who gave popularity to the good old English word "Molly-coddle." By that he meant someone who had everything done for him and was incapable or afraid of doing or trying to do anything for himself. I think, looking back over the preceding paragraphs, that I have been taking a leaf out of Col. Roosevelt's book.
 There isn't any way to count them, but it seems to me that molly-coddles are a great deal more numerous now than they used to be when Col. Roosevelt and I were both young. I wonder, sometimes, whether the boy of today gets the chance to be anything else. Keeping boys in school until they are sixteen, forbidding them to work if they are under eighteen, seem to me to be excellent ways of rearing mollycoddles. If a boy hasn't learned to fight his own battles against the world before he is eighteen, he hasn't much of a chance to learn later.

DEFEATISM ... since the war
 I am sometimes agast as I listen to young folk talking about there being no opportunities left. There seems to have grown up since the war a school of thought which I can only characterize as "defeatism," a belief that the last frontier has been conquered and there is no more chance for enterprising youth to satisfy the spirit of adventure and the urge to rise by his own efforts.
 Unfortunately that feeling has been encouraged by those in high place who ought to know better. I cannot help feeling that President Roosevelt did not stop to think his subject through before he promulgated the notion that this country had become so completely settled and explored that there is nothing ahead for the young except to find a good safe hole and crawl into it. And that the Government must help them find the holes.

SECURITY ... there is none
 There is no such thing as security, of property, of income, of anything else, for that matter. How can there be, when there is no security of life itself?
 One of the present-day tendencies that makes me wonder whether there are not a lot of wrong ideas in circulation is the idea that so many youngsters have that they are entitled to security, to a job as soon as they graduate from high school or college, to a safe place in which to earn big money for little work.
 I think that idea, that everybody is entitled to security, has been fostered by the distribution of enormous sums of public money to persons who have rendered no return for it and who, in many instances, could have got by, somehow, without it. It may take us a long time to get back to the real ization that unearned security is the brand of the pauper.

ADVENTURE ... means risk
 The only life worth living is the adventurous life. I do not mean by that that everyone should be an explorer or run into needless risks, but I do mean that the most degrading and softening influence upon human character is refusal or fear to take chances. Show me a man who never risked his fortune or his life, whether for an ideal or for gain, and I will show you a man who is to be despised rather than envied, no matter how wealthy he may be in worldly goods. His spirit is a poor, wishy-washy thing.
 Friedrich Nietzsche, the great German philosopher, hated what he called the "dangerous life," as the only way for a man to save his soul. President Theodore Roosevelt expressed the same idea when he spoke of the "strenuous life."
 Both meant that one can only live life to the fullest if he does with all his might whatever it is he wishes to do, without thinking about money or possible consequences to himself.
 There is nothing to life but living it. Nobody can win the game with death. The thing to do, it seems to me, is to play the game the game for the sake of the game, and not with the false idea of winning.

SCOUTS ... into the wilds
 There is one line of adventure, it appears, into which boys of today are eager to get. That is plant-hunting for the Department of Agriculture. There is real and satisfying adventure in going to the wilds of the earth and finding new varieties of plants which can be introduced into this country. I know one of the best of the Federal plant hunters, David Fairchild, son-in-law of Professor Bell, who invented the telephone. A man of independent means, he has devoted his life to enriching his country by bringing back many valuable food plants which he found in odd corners of the world. I have always thought he led the most satisfying life of any man I ever knew.
 Dr. Knowles Ryerson, chief of the Bureau of Plant Industry, says that while not all who try to equip themselves as plant hunters succeed in qualifying, there are many other interesting and useful opportunities that stem off from such preparation, in which young men can satisfy their craving for constructive and fascinating work, even though it is not so adventurous as that of the plant hunter.

Evidence that farmers are in better financial condition than a year ago is found in the reduced number of government seed loans. In Madison county, for instance, 75 men applied for loans this year compared to 339 in 1933.

ON TEXAS FARMS

By W. H. Darrow, Extension Service Editor

Wild life is in danger in Fort Bend county where Mrs. D. G. Brumbelew of Brown Home Demonstration Club announces her intention to can everything she can get her hands on, including squirrel, frogged legs, kerfuss weed, lambs' quarters, fish, wild duck, and other native products in addition to regular garden products and farm meat.

Ogie Hiatt has moved his pasture. Failure to do so last year cost him the East Texas Permanent Pasture Contest. Now that the briars are cut and the water grass checked the good grasses and clovers have spread until he finds it necessary to get more cattle to keep the pasture in condition. Mr. Hiatt has a large bottom pasture in Gregg county.

Bit by bit the evidence mounts that alfalfa thrives in Texas. Some day folks will wonder why they ever doubted this great crop. Latest item: a demonstration field on the Everett Plantation in Colorado county recently cut one ton of beautiful alfalfa hay to the acre, at the first cutting, second year.

Texas dairymen will be glad to know that the Lassiter tradition in Jersey breeding is to be carried on by the son of the late Ed Lassiter, Garland Lassiter, who recently exhibited his herd of 56 heifers in Fairfarms. These heifers represent the pick of the calves retained when the famous Lassiter herd was disbanded two years ago.

J. J. Green and wife of Fort Worth were in Hico Tuesday visiting with relatives and old friends. Although Mr. Green's job as manager of the Southland Ice Company's stores in Fort Worth keeps him extremely busy, especially at this season of the year, he manages to slip off with the good lady frequently for a visit to his old home town, which he still considers as home.

The Romans had a phrase for it . . .

"CAVEAT EMPTOR," meaning "Let the buyer beware."

This wasn't used as a bit of balm to ease the ancient conscience; nor, yet, was it placarded in the booths and stalls of the market-place. It was a piece of every-day knowledge, born of dear-bought experience.

A shopkeeper knew little about the source of his merchandise. This tunic he bought from a trader, who said it came from Byzantium. So he sold it as the latest Byzantian style. The trader told him the dye was pure Tyrian—it wouldn't fade. So he sold it as Tyrian dyed. But the buyer knew the responsibility was his own. If he guessed wrongly, or his judgment was poor, it was HIS hard luck.

Today, fortunately, there are safer guides than the blanket-warning to "let your eyes be your market."

These guides are the newspaper advertisements. In this newspaper, they are a weekly catalog of the best values in town—signed by responsible firms. If the goods are not all that is claimed for them, their sponsors would need to "beware." For no business can thrive on a one-time sale, or on dissatisfied customers.

A signed advertisement is, in a way, like a promissory note. The advertiser has made a statement, and affixed his signature as a sign of good faith.

So, read the advertisements before you start out on a buying trip. Make this a weekly habit, and see how much you save . . . in time, in temper, in money, in shoe-leather.

The Hico News Review

THIS WEEK IN WASHINGTON

Washington, May 22.—As forecast in this correspondence a short time ago, the President is choosing the "right" fork of the road to social and economic recovery, rather than the "left." Not by any putting the emphasis on matters which appear of more importance to the conservative element of the citizenry than do a good many of the things about which there has been so much talk.

More and more it is being borne in upon those members of the Administration who are keen for reforming everything—and there are a few who are "bugs" on that subject—that until and unless business responds to what has already been put into effect, it would be folly to try to press any more far-reaching reforms upon the nation. The President sees this clearly, and so do a great many members of both houses of Congress. Some of the latter with the primaries now starting and the election of next November staring them in the face, are wondering whether anything that they can do between now and adjournment will help to restore business confidence in time to do them any good.

Heed Constructive Criticism
The Administration and its supporters are receptive to criticism when it comes from sources which they do not regard as self-seeking. They pay little attention to what Wall Street thinks, but they do listen when representatives of constructive and productive business speak their minds, as did the members of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States recently in their annual convention. One result of that criticism is a revision of the Securities Act, with the President's full support, to enable legitimate business to obtain capital in a legitimate way from legitimate sources without being classed with crooks and highbinders.

It is probably a fair statement that Republican opposition is not worrying the Administration any. In the nation as a whole there is nothing that can be called a Republican party today. The Old Guard is reluctant to let go its leadership yet is calling for young blood to rejuvenate the party.

So far about the only effort to shape up policies on which to go to the electorate next election time seems to be an effort to see how close the Republicans can come to paralleling Democratic ideas. That creates much the same sort of a situation that existed in 1896, when both the Republicans and the Democrats view with each other to see how much they could grab off for themselves of the platform of the vigorous young third party, the Populist party, but its doctrines survived and every one of them is now the law of the land, save only the free coinage of silver; and that seems closer now than at any time in nearly forty years.

The Republican Outlook
There are wise old observers here in Washington who believe that the Republican party has a chance in 1936 only if it comes out frankly and squarely on the conservative side. The radicals have done all the talking for the last couple of years, and one would be tempted to think that there are no conservatives left. Some of the members of Congress who are coming up for reelection know better; there are still a few conservatives left in their home districts who are likely to vote the Republican ticket next November.

Locally, conservative thought is beginning to express itself. Washington has heard hardly more than echoes from the back country, so far, but some smart politicians believe that if the national Republican party would go on record, not as promising the same sort of thing that the Democrats are dishing out now, but almost precisely the opposite so far as Government control of business, and expenditures for social reforms are concerned, it would gather recruits to itself. Like a snowball rolling down hill, it might not win the Presidential election of 1936, but it would have a good chance in 1940. These same observers give President Roosevelt the odds on a second term.

Brains From the Ranks
There are many indications that the so-called "brain trust" is not such a dominating influence as it was. The term, of course, is a loose one, but it used here as meaning the intellectuals who had little practical experience in administering public affairs but were installed here because of their supposed better understanding of public questions than the men who make such matters their life work.

The administration has learned that there are many men of high scholastic attainments, thorough scholars, and with detailed practical knowledge of how Governmental things are done, already in the permanent Government service. These men are not party men, but efficient public servants who, for one reason or another, have made public service their life work. Some of them are men of means, who serve because they feel there is more satisfaction in using their talents for the public welfare than in piling up wealth for themselves. Some are men whose tastes are simple and need few, who got along very comfortably on their Government salaries and who wholeheartedly devote their leisure to the study of social and economic problems in their national and international aspects.

Getting a Hearing Now
These men are now being called into conference, and some of the brain-twisters are discovering that what they have been putting forth as new and original ideas, are old stories in some of these chaps. Some ideas have been tried, and didn't work; some of them are just what these permanent Government servants have been trying to get a hearing on for years.

That is one of the indications that the running of the great business of governing the United States is now shaking down into order and system; but a lot remains to be done before anyone can say positively just what the policies in effect are and in what direction we are ultimately heading.

ON TEXAS FARMS

By W. H. Darrow, Extension Service Editor

It is by hit the evidence mounts that alfalfa thrives in Texas. Some day folks will wonder why they ever doubted this great crop. Latest item: a demonstration field on the Everett Plantation in Colorado county recently cut one ton of beautiful alfalfa hay to the acre, at the first cutting, second year.

Texas dairymen will be glad to know that the Lassiter tradition in Jersey breeding is to be carried on by the son of the late Ed Lassiter, Garland Lassiter, who recently exhibited his herd of 56 heifers in Falfurrias. These heifers represent the pick of the calves retained when the famous Lassiter herd was disbanded two years ago.

Pure line seed furnished farmers in Young county by a Graham service club last year produced 28 per cent more feed than common seed, the county agent reports. Every farmer who received this superior seed free pledged himself to supply two farmers this year with amounts equal to what he was given last year.

"I put in over 600 feet of concrete sub-irrigation tile and I wouldn't take $50 for it," declares S. P. Crawford of New Port Community in Archer county. He is only one of many "satisfied customers" in that county, the home demonstration agent reporting that 2500 feet of this tile have been laid this season, three times as much as in all of 1933.

Pattern 8202—The gracious and flowing lines of the frock pictured here suggest the wind-swept motive so important this season. It is a frock designed for the larger woman, slenderizing, dignified but not old, not too mature, in short, a most attractive style for a woman of any age who is not small or very slim. The wind-swept motive is very becoming to the larger woman.

The printed silks lead in the street scene for summer, next in importance are the dark sheers. This dress would be the most effective in a printed silk, but it could be made equally well in voile, or a dark sheer.

Tires Smoke in 500-Mile Race at Indianapolis

Drivers Choose Tires with Greatest Care to Withstand This Ordeal

"There is not an engineer in a thousand that will believe that tires smoke at modern racing speeds—unless he has seen it," says E. Waldo Stein, veteran Firestone racing tire expert who has devoted his time to the speedways since the early days when he rode at Indianapolis. "Yet I can take the engineers around and show them tires smoking almost any time, from tire tread grinding on track."

The spectators at the great Indianapolis race, May 30, will see the usual haze of smoke hovering above the track, and few will stop to consider that any part of the smoke might be due to any other cause than exhaust fumes; however, if they were to look closely as the cars negotiate the turns, they would no doubt see smoke rising from the brick track in back of the whirling right rear tire of some of the fastest cars. Traveling 140 miles per hour or faster on the straightaways, the cars go into the turns with a terrific thrust on the tires. This continues mile after mile over the hot brick.

Mr. Stein has a keen eye and is always on the lookout. He seems to have every car, every driver, and every tire in his mind's eye. The drivers constantly consult him with their problems. He is a great lover of racing and is a member of the A.A.A. Contest Boards.

He has in his collection of racing pictures a recent photograph with a cloud of smoke rising from the tires, to illustrate his point.

"I have had racing drivers come to me many times the first time they noticed their tires smoking. No less a racing driver than Bob McDonough, known for his daring on the speedways, stopped one of his practice rounds and hurried to me, badly worried by the smoking of his rear tires. I might add that it takes heat to produce smoke, and it takes real tread stock and real tire construction to stand that kind of treatment."

The drivers choose their tires with extreme care and for the Indianapolis race practically every driver insists upon Firestone Tires. Likewise, in other championship races throughout the country, on dirt tracks as well as on brick, Firestone Tires are on the winning cars.

Fairy By FAIRY CORRESPONDENTS

We have had fine weather the past week for harvesting and many farmers are taking advantage of same. Grain is ripening very fast and if fair weather prevails, the harvest will soon be over. This week we have had very threatening weather. Row crops and gardens are needing rain, but we hope to have a few more days of clear weather in order that the grain may be harvested.

Construction of repair work on the Church of Christ is progressing rapidly under the management of Mr. Graves. A new modern bungalow roof is under construction at present which will add greatly to the appearance of the building.

Mrs. W. L. Jones and son Wyley were visiting relatives in Dallas last week. Miss Billie Margaret Tyler and little Miss Patricia Kinchen, granddaughters of Mrs. Jones, returned home with them for a few weeks' visit.

Our hearts were made sad early Tuesday morning of this week when we learned of the death of Mr. Joe Broyles, who has been a resident of the Lanham community for almost thirty years.

Mr. Broyles was a man of many true friends, being well known in Hamilton and Erath Counties, having lived in Erath County before moving to Hamilton County. Mr. Broyles had been in ill health for more than a year. He was 73 years of age. Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, services being conducted by Rev. Gibson of Carlton and Rev. Shaw of Hamilton. More than thirty members of the Masonic Lodge, of which he was a member, also officiated. A large concourse of sorrowing friends were present to pay their last tribute of respect. He leaves a wife and three sons and five daughters, also several grandchildren and other relatives, to mourn his loss, to whom we extend our deepest sympathy.

Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Richardson and children spent Sunday afternoon in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Anderson of Agee.

The commencement exercises last Friday night were well attended. Mr. R. D. Foster of Hamilton gave the commencement address which was enjoyed by all present. Mr. Foster is an able speaker and seems to have a fair point of view in regard to the things of this life. In his address he brought out many things which we in our feeble manner have tried to bring out this year in our P. T. A. work. We hope to have the pleasure of having Mr. Foster with us again in the future.

NOTICE DELINQUENT TAX PAYERS. You will recall that from time to time since 1930 the Legislature of Texas has been suspending interest and penalties on delinquent taxes. Last May, 1933, the last measure of this kind was enacted and under this law I am now collecting only 6 per cent penalty on all delinquent taxes prior to 1933, if they are paid by June 30th, 1934, this year. After this date, the old law prescribing 10 per cent penalty and 6 per cent interest per year will again be in force.
