VOLUME LI HICO, TEXAS, FRIDAY, JULY 19, 1935. NUMBER 8.

Street Paving Now Dependent Upon W. P. A. Application

Some two months ago plans were worked out with interested property owners along two blocks of Pecan Street, whereby a paving program was to have been initiated immediately. Application was made through the FERA for relief labor to be used on two blocks extending from Railroad Avenue to North Second Street, and it was thought that approval of same would be received within a short time.

Shortage of funds was given as the reason for failure of the necessary labor to materialize during June and the first of July. County relief funds were low, and though the paving application had been virtually approved, it was impossible to get final action and allocation of funds.

Work Supervisor Gordon Barrow of Hamilton was in Hico the first of this week, explaining what had been learned about the new set-up of relief work in this county. It is understood that after the 25th of this month, all FERA operations will cease, and the duties taken over by the Works Progress Administration. Some information has been given out on steps necessary to be followed under WPA, but final instructions are not as yet forthcoming. However, Mr. Barrow assured those approaching him on the possibility of resuming the paving plan that a new application to WPA would be necessary, same to replace and supplement that previously made to FERA.

In the meantime it seems that nothing can be done until the new application is made and approved, since the paving program depended upon relief labor. Property owners and the city were to have shared the cost of materials, and the labor was to have been provided without cost. Those property owners who have been interviewed about their thoughts on the matter seem anxious to get something started, as do the city officials, and it is hoped that something may be done under the new Government program.

Cannery Running At Peak Capacity On Share Basis

Crowds are to be seen around the local canning plant at all hours of the day, and many people of this vicinity are availing themselves of the opportunity to put up fresh vegetables, fruit and other edibles under the liberal plan offered.

For a time relief labor was provided at the cannery, and the plant ran day and night through certain periods. Shortage of relief funds and a change in the method of government operation of canning plants has changed this, however, and at the present time the work is being done on a share basis, the customer helping with the work, and the government furnishing equipment, cans, fuel, etc. in exchange for a part of the canned products.

J. B. Russell, who has been located at the local canning plant as supervisor since its establishment several months ago, remains in the same capacity, and the customers seem glad of the opportunity to participate in the plan, even under the present set-up. According to those interviewed on the subject, no assurance can be given as to how long the present arrangement will continue, but those interested can obtain desired information through application at the cannery.

ALL-DAY TERRACING DEMONSTRATION TONDAY SOUTH OF HAMILTON

An all day terracing demonstration at the Jake Walker farm, 3 miles south from Hamilton on Highway 66, will be held next Monday, July 22nd. Schrank farm, Lee Schrank farm and H. B. Schrank and Taylor Hammack farms. After noon the group will again return to the Walker farm.

Several types of terrace building machinery will be used, including the Texas Terracer and Fresno, and tractors. The demonstration will be staged by the Hamilton County Soil Conservation Association. C. E. NELSON, County Agent.

FALL RELIEF GARDENS. Fall gardens cannot be over-estimated. As a factor for reducing the grocery bill and as a necessity for obtaining the type of food we need at this season of the year when meat and bread comprises a large portion of our daily ration hence the fall garden is extremely important.

Soil preparation: All weeds and grass should be cut off with a hoe and removed from the ground. The ground should be plowed shallow after all refuse has been removed. Do not plow it under as it, at this season of the year, has a tendency to dry out the top soil.

As a rule during this season we are short of moisture, therefore let's work to conserve all the moisture that we can. In securing or purchasing seed for the fall garden you should be secure about one fourth more seed than is necessary for spring gardens. The germination of the seed in the fall is generally poor, consequently an extra amount of seed is necessary in order to get a good stand.

R. L. McDANIEL, Relief Gardener for Hamilton County.

Revival in Progress. The Church of Christ revival, which is in progress will continue until Sunday night at which time it will come to a close. Good crowds have been in attendance at all of the services, and the minister, Elder Hood Wilkins of Weatherford, is delivering some powerful sermons.

J. W. CHAPMAN, SECRETARY OF SOIL CONSERVATION BOARD TO SPEAK NEXT MONDAY

J. W. Chapman, Secretary of the Soil Erosion Board which was created by the last Legislature, has notified the County Agent's office that he will be in Hamilton on Monday, July 23rd, at 3:00 o'clock, to address a meeting of farmers and business men at the District Court Room on the mechanical part of the Act.

Mr. Chapman, last year, addressed a large group of interested listeners here, in explaining the benefits of Low Water Dams, and those who heard him then will want to hear him Monday afternoon.

The Act of the legislature provides for the building of terraces on farms, and would affect practically every landowner in the county. It is hoped that at least one thousand people will hear Mr. Chapman.

Move Started In Dallas Meeting to Save Big Feed Crop

(Dallas Morning News) Going in a year from famine to plenty, Texas will harvest this season a record crop of feedstuffs that will give an eighteen month supply, H. W. Williamson, director of the A. & M. extension service, said at a meeting Tuesday in the office of Frank P. Holland at Dallas.

Mr. Williamson announced and outlined a sixty-day State-wide campaign to emphasize to farmers the importance of harvesting, storing and utilizing the record feed crop.

"We are going in two years from a case of plowing up cotton to putting up feed," Mr. Williamson said. "In a year we are going from the situation where last year we gathered tumble-weeds and used them for feed in an effort to save starving cattle to a situation where we are in danger of letting a fine harvest of feed rot in the fields."

Besides the unusually heavy production of feed on the regular acreage used for that purpose in the past, we have the 4,900,000 acres in the State taken out of cotton production which the farmers have put into feed crops for use on their farms.

Object of Program. In announcing the eight-point feed conservation and utilization program, Mr. Williamson where an extension service is interested in helping adjust the farm program to the extent that an adequate supply of food and feed be produced for home consumption.

"The service also is interested in bringing about an increase in the number of farms where an adequate supply of food and feed be produced for home consumption.

"The service also is interested in bringing about an increase in the number of farms where an adequate supply of home-grown meat, poultry, milk and milk products are produced," he said.

"The 322 county agents and 155 home demonstration agents are being called on to go into action with the same zeal which was applied in 1933 in co-operating with the Federal Government in plowing under some 4,900,000 acres of cotton. This zeal will now be directed to harvesting and storing the largest feed crop ever produced."

Features of Program. The eight-point program follows:

1. Dig trench silos for storage of feed that may be conserved as silage.
2. Repair barns, bins and build new storage if needed for the harvested grains, orchard and field crops suitable for home use.
3. Use best practical means of protecting stored grain and other field crops from weevil and rat damage.
4. Stack hay such as sorghum and bundle feed according to best known methods to prevent deterioration.
5. Increase the number of milk cows, hogs and poultry on farms not now producing an adequate supply of milk, meat, chickens and eggs for home use.
6. Offer for slaughter only well fed and finished animals.
7. Finish all Texas cattle and other livestock for market on Texas-grown feed.
8. Feed well during winter months all work and breeding animals.

Delegates at Conference. Those who attended the conference and joined the extension service in inviting active co-operation and assistance from farmers, bankers and various individuals and organizations were:

A. L. Ward, Texas Cottonseed Crushers' Association; B. L. Harris, implement man; R. C. Dyer, journalist; M. W. Holland, journalist; E. M. Regenbrecht, extension service; S. C. Turkenkoph, C. W. # THE DIVORCE COURT MURDER

BY MILTON PROPPER

Sixth Installment.

SYNOPSIS: Six persons are in an inner office of the law firm of Dawson, McQuire and Locke at Philadelphia. A master hearing in the divorce case of Rowland vs. Rowland is under way. Mrs. Rowland, represented by her lawyer brother, Mr. Willard; Mr. Rowland, the defendant and his attorney, Mr. Trumbull; the court clerk and Mr. Dawson, the master, are the six persons. There is a new development in the case. After failing to defend himself against the charge of adultery in earlier hearings, Mr. Rowland digs up evidence and asks the court's permission to produce witnesses and resist the suit. Judge Dawson overrules the heated objections of Mr. Willard, and orders Mr. Trumbull to bring in the first witness. Rowland's lawyer goes to get the witness but finds her dead—chloroformed. She is Mrs. Barbara Keith, wife of a prominent Philadelphia business man. Judge Dawson phoned for the police. Detective Tommy Rankin is assigned to the case. He is now questioning all of the parties involved in the case.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

"If Hugh Campbell is involved in this at all, he'll be too clever to do anything so conspicuous or suspicious. In fact, he'll probably come forward as soon as he learns Headquarters wants him." He glanced at the Bureau, Jenks and tell Gordon to inquire for him at all the best hotels in town. If he's staying in Philly and isn't with friends, he'll check in only at the finest."

He deliberated a moment and then finished his instructions.

"Besides, he has connections here, through which he might be traced. Let's see, there's Gussie Morton at the Morton Club and Nick Alberti, manager of the Or-gandy Club on South Broad Street. Tell Gordon to visit them for a chat."

Jenks made a note of the address mentioned, and his superior continued.

"Now what else have you learned from the office force? Who visited the firm during the afternoon?"

He nodded toward the chairs lined against the wall beyond the rail, where a man and woman waited whom Rankin had barely noticed on his arrival. They sat apart, the woman demure and chic in a gray dress that revealed an attractive figure; about twenty-three years old, she was physically small, with petite features, pretty in an unobtrusive manner.

The man was as large as she was small. Close upon fifty years, he was tall and broad-shouldered. His eyes were dull and unimaginative and altogether he radiated ponderous energy, without alertness or sagacity.

Studying them each in turn, Rankin asked his colleague: "For whom were they witnesses, Jenks? Who are they and what do they know about the case?"

"The girl's name is Jill Edmond—Miss Jill Edmond," Jenks replied. "Earlier, I understand, she worked as Mrs. Rowland's secretary last December and January." "Worked is right, but not any longer," Rankin commented with a smile. "Because she happens to be his correspondent—the woman with whom he had the affair that caused his wife to sue for a divorce."

It was the other's turn to smile—knowingly, with a slightly lascivious smirk.

With regard to the order of entrances and exits that afternoon, Jenks fully corroborated Rankin's own inquiries. His time-table, together with some notes and observations, read as follows:

2:20—Mrs. Rowland and Mr. Willard arrive and enter the library.

2:25—Mr. Trumbull arrives, waits in outer office.

2:30—Allen Rowland and Mrs. Keith arrive, and with Mr. Trumbull, pass into library.

2:35—Jill Edmond arrives and waits in outer office.

2:38—Hugh Campbell arrives and waits in outer office.

2:40—(about)—Allen Rowland leaves Mrs. Keith in 1505, and rejoins Mr. Trumbull.

2:43—Mrs. Rowland joins Campbell, has brief conversation. (Find out what about.)

2:40—Allen Rowland and Mr. Trumbull leave suite through main office, Rowland to dismiss chauffeur. Mrs. Rowland returns to library.

2:41 (about)—Mrs. Rowland leaves suite through main office, and Mr. Trumbull returns to phone his office.

2:45 (about)—Allen Rowland returns to 1507 and retires with Mr. Trumbull to Mr. Dawson's office. (Check the time with Mrs. Keith's chauffeur, Alvin.)

2:49 (about)—Mrs. Rowland returns, speaks to Campbell and rejoins brother in library.

2:51 (about)—Hugh Campbell leaves suite by central door for a minute and returns.

2:56—Hugh Campbell receives phone call and hurries off without explanation.

2:57—Mr. Henry Dawson arrives, and enters his office.

3:00—Mr. Simpkins, court clerk arrives, also enters Mr. Dawson's office. The hearing begins.

"And that about covers the ground, Tommy," Jenks concluded his summary of this data.

He turned away from Jenks and rejoined the group waiting in the library.

"Mr. Simpkins," he addressed the clerk. "I'd like to see your notes of the evidence presented at the hearings. Your typed record. Have you got it with you?"

The clerk produced a large loose-leaf notebook from a voluminous pocket.

"With pleasure, Mr. Rankin," he responded. "Here you have it complete."

Rankin took the book from him, and excusing himself, retired into Mr. Dawson's office. There he closed the door and spread the notes on the lawyer's table for study. Although on the surface the details of Allen Rowland's dalliance with Jill Edmond appeared to have no direct bearing on the tragedy, he would not neglect the circumstances which it helped to bring about.

The preliminary testimony established Mrs. Rowland's right to sue for separation in Pennsylvania. She had resided at her estate in Parkway Road, Germantown, continuously except for her vacations. Allen Rowland had also lived there until she discovered his infidelity. Then he went into bachelor apartments he had at ready evidently been occupying in West Philadelphia.

The marriage certificate was offered in evidence. She had met him four and a half years before, while wintering in Miami. As a life-guard at the beach, he had performed for her some service, not clearly detailed, which first brought them together. Before that he had led a wandering, adventurous life—a cowhand in Texas, a movie extra in Hollywood, a riding master in Chicago. They were married by an Episcopal clergyman at Fort Lauderdale, on December 28, 1928.

Jill Edmond, of course, was the bone of the fatal contention between Adele and Allen Rowland. A month before the past New Year, Mrs. Rowland had advertised for a secretary in the columns of several newspapers. The "ad" required a young and personable girl of more than average intelligence and ability. It would be her duty to attend to her employer's correspondence, manage her social engagements and in general serve as a companion. Of all the applicants, Miss Edmond, petite and neatly dressed, alert, clever and willing, had appeared most suitable for the post.

Mrs. Rowland first had reason to suspect the girl's relations with her husband less than three weeks later. She had remained at home from a bridge party on the 23rd of the same month, because of a headache, but she retired without informing Miss Edmond of her indisposition. Descending unexpectedly from her room at 4 o'clock, she found her in the library, ostensibly writing letters at her desk, while Allen Rowland bent over her, his arm around her shoulder. Their nonchalant air in attempting to carry off the embarrassing situation did not deceive her.

Confronted by this discovery, Adele Rowland consulted her brother, who arranged to hire detectives to watch the couple. Both parties were to be trailed every moment wherever they went, whether separately or not.

There followed in the notes, a resume by the detectives of their movements in watching the subjects of their vigilance. On the Thursday afternoon after they began work, young Rowland kept a rendezvous with the secretary at a park in Germantown and took her to supper in town. Two days later they trailed Rowland alone to the Westview Apartments in West Philadelphia. Investigation revealed that for eight months he had had an establishment there under the name of Seymour King.

The crisis occurred on a Wednesday, February 1st, the girl's next holiday. At 4 o'clock that afternoon, so Mrs. Rowland related in her testimony, she accidentally noticed a scrap of paper in her husband's writing in the secretary's library wastebasket. Evidently he realized at last that they were suspected and employed this indirect method of communicating with her. In the note, he made an appointment to meet her that very evening at nine o'clock. Therefore, when the girl, during supper, specially requested to be excused from duty that night, her employer granted the favor. Rowland was not at the table nor had he been at home that afternoon.

In the meantime, Mrs. Rowland telephoned the detective and apprised him of her knowledge. Then they called Mr. Willard and prepared plans for trapping the faithless couple.

So it was that when Allen Rowland reached the rendezvous that Wednesday night, his wife, Mr. Willard and the detective were already hidden there; they watched unseen from the lawyer's car. Rowland drove up alone in a coupe on the hour and his paramour joined him. They followed him beyond the city limits along the Bethlehem Pike as far as Quakertown. Forty-five miles from Philadelphia, Rowland turned off the main highway to reach the fashionable and expensive Sunset Inn, which, however, like many such roadhouses, possessed a questionable reputation. It was 10:30 when he arrived with his companion. As they went inside, the pursuers, careful lest their quarry observe them, halted a hundred yards from the building.

For some time they waited patiently. In ten minutes, a new light illumined one of the second floor rooms and Allen Rowland appeared at the window and lowered the shade. At 11:15 the three trailers entered.

The chamber the husband and his companion occupied was number 212 on the second floor. (Here, the hotel book was placed on the record to prove Allen Rowland's registration for both of them as husband and wife. In his handwriting was the entry for Mr. and Mrs. King of Allentown, Pennsylvania.) Without warning, Mr. Willard knocked on the door; and when it opened, it revealed a scene that could hardly be more compromising. The guilty man stood in the doorway, chagrined and astonished, in colored pajamas, a robe and slippers, while Jill Edmond, pale and breathless, sat on the bed in negligee.
