"SCHOOL'S OUT"

For nearly twenty million American children this is an important time of the year. School's out—or soon will be—everywhere, and the long summer vacation is beginning.

Much criticism has been leveled lately at our school system. It is charged with not fitting the children to find jobs when they are through school. Without stopping to debate the question whether or not that is the prime purpose of any school except a farm or trade school, let us look at another side of the picture.

It seems pretty clear that they get a social outlook on life as a whole which the unfortunate children of the rich, educated by private tutors or in "select" private schools never get. In the give-and-take of association with children of their own age, of all social and economic strata, it is a stupid youngster indeed who does not learn that human nature is the same whether one's father is a banker or a bootblack.

THE "BIGGEST STATE"

The curious notion that there is something evil about the money that a man makes through the conversion of a "natural resource" from its native state into marketable goods and the marketing thereof has long played havoc with the thinking processes of those whose duty it is to determine taxation policies.

This is true of other states than Texas, of course, but because Texas has depended upon natural resources not only for its general wealth but also its revenues, to a far greater extent than any other state, a sane analysis of this notion seems much in order.

To the popular mind the phrase "natural resources" means valuable minerals—like oil, natural gas, sulphur, marble, and potash—that the Creator put in the ground. Because He put them there, to interpret one favorite argument, nobody has a right to make real money out of recovering these things, refining them, polishing them, advertising them, shipping them, and selling them.

Of course, the profits, in many cases, are impressive. But they are, on the average, in proportion to the in-pat of enterprise, capital, energy, exploitation and risk-taking. There can be discovered many enterprises—those that we don't hear so much about—where losses have been large, too, likewise in proportion to the expenditure of energy, the capital risk and personal risk.

But the main point is that if nobody had risked his money buying royalties, investing in equipment, promoting railroads and pipelines, energy exploration and risk-taking, and spending more money to set up advertising, merchandising and the whole complex apparatus for dealing in that natural resource, the resources would still be in the ground—and Texas' aspirations to be the biggest state in the Union would be buried there, too!

In spite of this truism, which are thinking about decentralization and making plans, are inclined to weigh against Texas' unquestioned natural advantages, the very potential liability of positive taxation. So, while the state's effort to tell American industry "what we have here," is laudable, it will fail to win converts unless there is a speedy clarification of Texas' taxation "future" which should embody definite low, permanent limits to the state's share of the profits of natural resource development.

WHAT ARE THE FACTS?

That is the fundamental question upon which all business depends. Opinions and beliefs are all right in their place, but they have no place in business operations unless they have facts to support them. Theories and theories get scant attention in this or any other well conducted business, unless they fit in with every known fact. The best theory in the world falls down in the presence of a single proved fact which does not fit in. It is the theory which has to give way, not the fact, when the two find themselves in conflict.

Government, unfortunately, is seldom or never conducted on that basis. Government does not have to show a profit from operations. It is Government's function to spend money, not to earn it. Indeed, it would arouse considerable public indignation if any Government in this country engaged, in any important way, in operations for profit. So long as income flows freely from the taxpayers, the Government is primarily a spending institution.

There is, however, a duty too often overlooked, to the sources of the money Government spends. The taxpayer is, as Professor Sumner long ago pointed out, the "forgotten man." On his behalf, it would seem but fair that Government, before scattering tax money too lavishly, should inquire: "What are the facts?"

KNOW TEXAS

DENTON, May 12.—"Thirty foot" sales are now in order, since the Texas fishing season has opened. As the yearly trek to water-holes throughout the state begins, old Isaac Walton should thrill at the variety of fish and fishermen native to the Lone Star State.

Classifying Texas anglers according to the prey they seek, there are the freshwater sportsmen who want a good fighting fish, such as spotted and large-mouthed black bass or the handsome yellow bass. On the coast "Silver King," or tarpon has won the title of "greatest of game fish" and more daring anglers set out every year to find a 30 to 300 pound specimen of him, or of a Sheepshead, another popular fighter.

The "barefoot boys" go after little Blue-spotted Sunfish and the familiar Rock Bass, both of which are found in ponds, creeks and rivers around patches of vegetation. Other common freshwater varieties out of the 130 represented in this state are the six-inch Blue and Red-eared Sunfish, the foot-long Crappie or White Perch, the long, slender, destructive Little Pickrel in East Texas, and the whole family of Catfish.

The bad name given to Catfish is unfounded, since the Blue and Spotted Varieties caught in the Trinity and San Jacinto rivers are excellent to eat, and caviar is made from the eggs of the spoon-bill cat in East Texas. The yellow mud cat, which is more voracious and less cleanly in its habits, somewhat merits the shady reputation.

MENUS AND RECIPES

DENTON, May 26.—Fashion trends affect many items other than clothing. Modes of entertaining also change with the season, and on the upswing of popularity at present is the buffet supper.

At commencement time there is no other kind of party so easy to give. The cost is light. No service is necessary. Simple, inexpensive dishes are the most appropriate, for even the simplest table may be set with special charm. The three secrets of a successful buffet party are that there should not be too many courses, each dish must be stacked high, with more in the kitchen, and the hostess ought to be relaxed.

MENU I: Devilled crab, Tartar sauce, rolled lettuce sandwiches, whole wheat bread and butter sandwiches, sliced tongue and cucumber marinated, strawberry Bavarian Cream Leaf, Old English gum drop cookies, nuts, mints, coffee.

MENU II: Chicken salad in peeled tomato cups, hot rolls, tiny potato balls, chilled green asparagus, sweet pickles, lemon meringue, mints, celery curis, olives, coffee or an iced punch.

MENU III: Scrambled eggs with tiny sausages, or spinach ring with curried shrimps, Chiffonade salad, olives stuffed with anchovies, radish roses, gherkins, tiny popovers with cheese inserted, beef before serving, ripe pears filled with Neufchatel and Bacle Duc and served with a cold custard sauce, and as beverages: iced cocoa, coffee, punch or tea.

MENU IV: Individual chicken pot pies, or spaghetti, wild rice with mushrooms and apple chutney, cheese bread with different varieties of cheese. Hot Boston brown bread, vanilla ice cream with hot brandied cherries, iced tea, mints, coffee, olives.

DEVILLE CRAB: 2 lb. butter, 1 slice onion, 2 T. flour, 1-2 t. mustard, 2-3 c. white stock, 3 T. sherry flavoring, 1-4 t. beef extract, 1 t. finely chopped parsley, 1 c. chopped crab meat, 6 finely chopped mushroom caps, salt, cayenne, bread crumbs, yolks of 2 eggs. Cook butter with onions three minutes. Add flour mixed with mustard and pour on, gradually, white stock, sherry and beef extract; add parsley. Bring to boiling point and add egg yolks and crab meat. When well mixed, add mushroom caps, salt and cayenne. Fill well-cleaned crabshells with mixture, sprinkle with stale bread crumbs mixed with small quantity of melted butter. Bake until crumbs are brown.

CURRIED SHRIMP: Parboil shrimp, before removing shells, in water to which has been added lemon rind and celery stems and leaves which can not be used uncooked. After 15 minutes remove shrimp and clean. Put in pan and pour over them a sauce made as follows: 2 T. butter, 1-2 onion sliced, 2 T. flour, 1-2 t. curry powder, 3-4 t. salt, 1-4 t. pepper, 1 c. milk. Cook butter with onions until yellow, add flour, mixed with curry powder, salt, and pepper. While stirring constantly, pour on milk gradually.

MODERN WOMEN by CHARL ORMOND WILLIAMS. President of National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Club, Inc.

BRUCE BARTON Soap. Let's Build Courage and Faith. Hats Off to Aunt Julia.

What surprise it is to hear about women of seventy or eighty who are actively engaged in work. Some even older are vitally interested in the affairs of today in favor of or in opposition to important movements. A woman, holding a public service job, who is little known to the public, is Mary M. O'Reilly, assistant director of the Mint in Washington. She celebrated her seventy-first birthday recently and received from President Roosevelt an order extending for the second time for one year her term of service. Miss O'Reilly entered the service of the government in 1902 and became assistant director in 1905.

The first woman graduate of the New York Law School, Mrs. Agnes Murphy Mulligan, is a seventy-one year old grandmother who is an operator of real estate holdings and lives in Hackensack, N. J. She applied for a pistol permit because her business often requires her to carry money and negotiable securities and she wanted to be prepared for hold-ups. Mrs. Mulligan showed her good marks—back of a court house where in five shots she hit the target every time, twice on the first ring next to the bullseye.

What courage Mrs. G. Tyler Dresser had to start to paint at the age of sixty-seven and to achieve success at eighty. She has been exhibiting more than a dozen canvases at a New York gallery. Her mother, who is 103, is active in club life in Los Angeles.

Sunday School Lesson by Rev. Charles E. Dunn

The Remaking of Jacob. Lesson for May 30th. Genesis 28:16-22. Golden Text: Romans 12:2. What a cunning, crafty schemer Jacob was! He insisted that Esau, his hungry brother, should promise the surrender of his birthright in exchange for a bite of food. Then he stole the blessing meant for Esau. Finally, he outwitted his uncle Laban.

The Family DOCTOR by JOHN JOSEPH GAINES, M.D.

It seems to me that every quack in the country is exploiting some "antiseptic." Nevertheless people DO need antiseptics for emergency treatment. The laborer "skins" his hand. It may be a poisoned wound; he has no certain way of knowing, but he must play safe. He has probably a bottle of tincture of iodine—may be a little of mercuriochrome—quite likely a teaspoonful of carbolic acid at the house.

Nancy Hart's HOME NEWS

If you want extra choice specimen flowers of Peonies you should disbud them the same as you do Dahlias. Just save the center bud on each stalk, pinching out those on the sides at the last joints. Of course, if you just want to have a good show in the garden, those side shoots will produce fairly good-sized flowers.

Teamed Guns of Circle L by Perry Westbrook

Ninth Installment.

SYNOPSIS: Slim Loyale is paroled from prison after serving 18 months for a crime he did not commit. He returns to his Circle L ranch to find his father dead and sinister forces at work, trying to make him violate his parole so that he can again be railroaded to prison.

The Brockwells and their gang are plotting to gain possession of Circle L ranch and the property of Mona Hall, a neighbor and lifelong friend of Slim Loyale. Slim discovers that Sheriff Starbuck has joined the plot against him. With the help of Dakota Blue and his cowboys, Slim Loyale defies the landgrabbers to do their worst.

Now go on with the story. "Ten of us got our herds arranged on the trail. I come on ahead to sorta break trail, yuh might say. The short, quick way into the Kicapoo range for us is straight through this country. That's what I was lookin' for Arthur about. Said he had a business proposition to talk over with us."

talk with Arthur. There'll be on us like a swarm of bees. But we know now what to look for an' why, Abe. I want yuh to do something for me. Ride to town an' tell Arthur that Mona has the money to pay her mortgage. Then kinda let 'em slip that I'm gonna loan it to her. Will yuh do that?"

"Shore I will, Slim. But I don't think Mona will take it from yuh. She said she couldn't though darn me if I can see why. Women get funny ideas. Never mind whether she does or not. Just give Arthur the notion that she is. Yuh can ride in when Tisdale goes."

A half an hour later, as Abe and Tisdale were about to leave, Slim made one last remark to Tisdale which caused that individual to wrinkle his brow in puzzlement. "When yuh get through wantin' to write Arthur's stringy neck, Tisdale, ride back out here for the night an' we'll talk business."

At the sound of Abe's approach the stranger turned in his saddle and stopped. until tomorrow noon, keepin' yore eyes on the Standard Bank. "Just hang around sorta. Like yuh was killin' time an' loafin'. Watch that bank all the time. Yuh may have the chance to puncture a holdup. If nothin' happens by noon tomorrow, come on home again. Understand; I'm not sure about anythin', but I'm playin' a strong hunch."

"Shore, an' I've knowed hunches like that to pan out before," grinned Roy. "Come along with yuh, Stoney."

Dakota Blue's brow was furrowed with thought as he watched the two punchers jog along. "That's one angle that I don't quite get," he drawled. "What's the hunch, Slim?"

"My money is in the Standard Bank, ain't it?" explained Slim. "Well, Arthur knows it an' so does the rest of that crowd. The surest way to keep me from usin' that money to loan out on mortgages, like the Dot H Dot's, is to grab the money off."

"I told him we'd fight our way through before we'd be robbed by anybody. Why, there's nigh onto thirty thousand head of cattle movin' up Jericho Valley right now—the combined herds of ten of us Big Bend ranchers. There'll be at least half that many more followin' us that I know of."

"That Jasper musta figured he was gonna clean up a fortune off us. He knows we can't afford to turn back by now. If we did, we'd never be able to drive another route in time to get to the Kicapoo country when it's opened."

"An' that range up there ain't gonna last any too long. It's a plain case of gettin' there right away, or not at all. But me, I can't understand him makin' such demands when he don't own none of this range."

"Suppose we go an' have supper," suggested Slim. "I'll tell yuh the whole set-up while we eat."

Over the meal, Slim gave the Big Bend entire story. "Yuh see," he ended, "Arthur an' the rest of the polecats in with him were schemin' quite a long way ahead. They shore hoped to be in control of this range. Several things kinda upset their calculations. One of them was havin' yore herds arrive so early. Another was their gettin' outa jail on a parole."

"With a little more luck they'd have won out, an' had yuh in a corner. Right now yore sore, Tisdale, over Arthur's demands. But yuh know as well as I do, that in the end yuh'd paid that dollar-a-half range toll. Am I right?"

"Tisdale nodded ruefully. "Yeah, yore right, Loyale. We'd just plain have to, or los everything. But evidently, from the way he talks, that Arthur ain't given up hope yet of gettin' control of this range."

"He hasn't," agreed Slim. "The next forty-eight hours are gonna see hell a-poppin', or I don't know my way about. I'm tryin' right now to spread my cards to spoil his plans. Now then, just how much toll did yuh fella figure yuh'd be willin' to pay an' call it a fair deal all around?"

"Two bits a head," stated Tisdale. "An' we'll guarantee to keep the herd well bunched an' drive fast. We won't let 'em spread a bit. I think that's a fair offer."

"Darned fair," agreed Slim. "Now here's my proposition. Most of that crossin' will be over Dot H Dot range. Miss Hall, who owns the Dot H Dot, has got to have money to spush Arthur an' his foreclosure move. Me, I don't want a cent of money from yuh fella. But if yuh'd ride over to the Dot H Dot with me an' make a deal with Miss Hall, puttin' up the toll money in advance, yuh'll get the crossin' for yore own price an' I'll have enough to pay Arthur."

"I've tried to get her to accept a loan from me, but for some damned reason I can't figure out she won't take it. But a deal like I say with yuh, she'll grab in a hurry. An' it'll be to everybody's benefit except Arthur's. What d'yuh say?"

S. J. R. NO. 9
A JOINT RESOLUTION proposing an amendment to Article XVI of the Constitution of Texas, providing that the Legislature shall authorize the incorporation of banking bodies and provide for the supervision and regulation of same; providing for all of the capital stock to be subscribed and paid for before charter issued; restricting foreign corporations from doing banking business; restricting corporate business to one place.

BE IT RESOLVED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF TEXAS: Section 1. That Section 16, Article XVI, of the Constitution of Texas, be amended so as to hereafter read as follows:

for the proclamation and publication thereof and prescribing the form of ballot.

BE IT RESOLVED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF TEXAS: Section 1. That Article III of the Constitution of the State of Texas, as amended, be amended by adding thereto a Section to be known as Article 51-c which shall read as follows:

Section 51-c. The Legislature shall have the power by General Laws to provide, under such limitations and regulations and restrictions as may by the Legislature be deemed expedient, for assistance to the needy blind over the age of twenty-one (21) years, and for the payment of same not to exceed Fifteen Dollars ($15) per month per person; such assistance to be granted only to actual bona fide citizens of Texas; provided that no habitual criminal and no habitual drunkard and no inmate of any State supported institution, while such inmate, shall be eligible for such assistance to the needy blind over the age of twenty-one (21) years; provided, further, that the requirements for the length of time of actual residence in Texas shall never be less than five (5) years immediately preceding the application for assistance to the needy blind over the age of twenty-one (21) years; and continuously for one year immediately preceding such application.

The Legislature shall have the authority to accept from the Government of the United States such financial aid for assistance to the needy blind as that Government may offer not hereinabove provided.

Section 2. The foregoing Constitutional Amendment shall be submitted to a vote of the qualified electors of this State at a special election to be held throughout the State of Texas on the fourth Monday of August, 1937, at which election all voters favoring the proposed Amendment shall write or have printed on their ballots the following words:

Section 3. The Governor of the State of Texas is hereby directed to issue the necessary proclamation for such election, and to have same published as required by the Constitution and the amendments thereto.

Section 4. The sum of Five Thousand Dollars ($5,000.00), or so much thereof as may be necessary, is hereby appropriated out of any funds of the State of Texas, not otherwise appropriated, to pay the expenses of such election.

Leaving Tisdale at his meal, Slim went outside again. Dakota's eyes hot with interest, beckoned him. "Abe," he said, "tell Slim what yuh just told me."

Abe did so, starting with information of Arthur's visit to the Dot H Dot and his ultimatum. Then he went on about his meeting with Tisdale and what the rancher had told him.

"Get it?" snapped Dakota, as Abe finished.

Slim nodded his head, a grim look on his countenance.

"Shore," exulted Dakota. "I can see it plain now—the whole dirty, high-handed scheme. Abe, I love yuh like a brother for runnin' in to this feller Tisdale an' bringin' him here, Shore, we'll spike Arthur's an' Starbuck's an' Brockwell's guns now."

"Get this. There's just one feasible route to the Kicapoo range from the Big Bend country; that is, a route to drive a herd of cattle over. I know that country. Those herds will come north through Lawler Basin, then along the west edge of the Flytrap Roughts an' finally hit the south end of Jericho Valley."

"An' yuh know where Jericho opens out; it opens right on the Circle L an' the Dot H Dot range! Man, there'll be thousands an' thousands of cattle passin' here inside another month."

"Naturally, them Big Bend owners expect to pay a certain amount per head to take 'em across this range. It's only fair that they should. Them cattle will eat a lot of grass in passin', an' yore gonna have some extra expense in hirin' extra hands to keep our own cattle from mixin' in with the trail herds."

Here's the scheme Arthur, Starbuck an' Brockwell are figgerin' on. I'll bet a laik. They've planned on these herds comin' through over this range. An' they're schemed to get hold of the Circle L an' the Dot H Dot. Once them trail herds get crowdin' well into Jericho, the Big Bend men could be held up somethin' scandalous."

"Time's damn important with 'em. That Kicapoo range won't last long for it's a case of first come, first served. They'll stand for get their stock across in time. An' if Arthur, Starbuck an' Brockwell controlled the Dot H Dot an' the Circle L, they could make 'em pay an' pay an' pay."

Slim laughed softly as Dakota finished. "The old haid is workin' all the time, eh, Dakota? Yore right as rain! If I hadn't been too cussed stupid, I'd a guessed the scheme right along. Yuh've made it plain now. They railroaded me to prison for a job I, didn't do. Dead was fallin' at the time, and they zambled he'd die before I got out. He did. But I'm bettin' my parole kinda upset their plans."

"They tried to dry-gulch yuh, Dakota. With yuh daid an' me in jail, they could soon get their hooks into the Circle L. Then Arthur got that mortgage against the Dot H Dot. Now he's goin' to foreclose, or rather he thinks he is. Man alive, that gang will be desperate, soon as Tisdale has his

GOES 'ROUND AND 'ROUND

One of our local merchants, W. L. McDowell, felt pretty high-headed last Thursday, when he and wife and daughter went to Cleburne, and witnessed a parade which was led by one of Mr. McDowell's saddle horses ridden by a prominent Cleburne citizen. Three of his other horses were also in the parade. These four horses have been in that city for training for several weeks. W. L. McDowell, Jr., who is a student at West Point in New York, is expected home about the middle of June for a summer vacation, and will probably be accompanied here by one or two of his Virginia friends, and these horses are being put in tip-top shape for these boys to ride during their stay here.

The front of the building housed by the N. A. Leath & Son Grocery and Variety which has been painted a dark red for so many years, this week is taking on a couple of coats of snow white paint, which adds very much to the attractiveness of same. Another grocery store which has done some inside improvements is the Lyle Golden Grocery, in the way of rearranging and remodeling.

We enjoyed a short chat with our old friends, Mr. and Mrs. V. H. Bird and their son, on the streets on Tuesday afternoon of this week. They had come to town to do some shopping and attend to business matters. Mr. Bird said in their section, which is a few miles northeast of town, that the depression was over. They have been fortunate in the raising of fine cattle, sheep, goats and other livestock in the past few years, and have prospered in many other ways. They admitted that this is a good old world after all, and can appreciate it so much more after a few trying years when it looked like every one was going to starve. The Birds have many friends who invite them back home at any time they may decide to give up ranch life.

Did you know that next week is National Cotton Week? J. W. Riechbourg, manager for the local G. M. Carlton Bros. & Co. store is offering some very close prices on cotton goods starting Saturday and running through next week in observance of the affair. It will pay you to read the prices closely and make out a list of your needs, then come to the store and lay in a supply. Some of the articles are offered at almost cost.

Bobby Dorsey Bates has a new play-house built in the forks of a large tree, consisting of one room, in the back yard at the home of his grandparents. Mr. and Mrs. John Dorsey. A ladder leads to the place of play, and Bobby can now entertain his friends without the interruption of the grown-ups. Only one other similar to this that we have seen is a large room which was erected several years ago on a river near a little Oklahoma town, owned by an artist in Oklahoma City, who spent his week ends there receiving inspiration from the scenery surrounding the river. This room is large, with all the modern conveniences, and stair steps about twenty feet high take one to see the unusual scenery. Tourists from miles away passing through that community, who have heard of this place, stop to view it. A book for registering is always kept there, and a care taker shows one about the premises. Bobby, who knows but what you may some day become an artist.

Dr. H. V. Hodges, who has yanked out several "hair" of tonsils for the few months he has resided here, said the other day that he had rather take out the things than to eat a meal, and that it was a lot more profitable.

Those who do not believe that C. W. (Judge) Shelton ever works, should pass their residence some morning and see how he works in the garden. Some think Mrs. Shelton does that work, but they just naturally take that for granted. Judge says you should see before you start believing.

Traveling through this section the other day badly burned by the drought in his section, got into conversation with an old settler and his son at a local filling station. "Looks as though we might have rain," said the tourist. "Well, I hope so," replied the native. "Not so much for myself as for my boy here; I've seen it rain."

A large section came out in the Abilene Reporter this week celebrating the completion of a new modern building for the Barrow Furniture Store in that city. The section carried pictures of A. B. and D. G. Barrow, who are owners of the store, and who are brothers of Grady Barrow, Mrs. Annie Waggoner, Mrs. George Stringer and Mrs. John Haines all of Hico. The two men were reared at Hico, and are well known here. They own a chain of furniture stores in West Texas, about seventeen in all. A young man from Hico, in the person of D. F. McCarty, Jr., laid out the advertising in that particular issue, and ads from the local merchants contained congratulatory messages elsewhere in the paper.

Two people dearly loved by Hicoans are Mr. and Mrs. Will Autrey who recently moved "back home" from Hamilton where they have resided for the past few years. They are glad to be back in Hico, but Mr. Autrey said they left things in good shape in the county seat town in case they decided to again make that their home.

After the parade, if you want to give the children, as well as yourself, a treat, take them home and make a tub of good old fashioned ice cream. It is the most wholesome to eat, and costs much less to make the old fashioned way, with a hand freezer. Here's a simple proven recipe for making strawberry ice cream.

STRAWBERRY ICE CREAM

For making 2 quarts (for 1 gallon double)
1 pint cream
2 eggs
1 cup sugar

1 1/2 cups crushed strawberries sweeten to taste
1 teaspoon vanilla

Beat the eggs, add sugar and cream. Partly freeze before adding the crushed strawberries.

With only a few minor details yet to be attended to, the new unit of the Administration-Library Building of The University of Texas, located in the center of the main campus fixtures and furniture, totaled approximately three million dollars. Not a penny of this sum came from the taxpayers. The new unit of the building contains the offices of the president, registrar, auditor, comptroller, librarian, and dean of the College of Arts and Sciences. Among the many attractive features are two rooms exposed on three sides, and entirely glass-enclosed, for pleasure reading. Students who attend the 1937 summer session will be the first to have opportunity to use the building in its completed form.

Sod Disease Among Chickens And Turkeys.

Many letters are being received from poultry people stating that their chicks and poulters are crippled and that their feet have the appearance as though they might have walked through fire. Small blisters form on the feet and the toes curl up. The affected birds walk on the ball of the foot without the aid of the toes. This disease is commonly known as Sod Disease, and usually affects the chicks during the first few weeks of their life.

Close examination reveals the presence of blisters between the toes or possibly small scabs on top of the toes and on the lower part of the leg. The whole foot is usually swollen and is very tender to the touch. In a course of two or three days the blisters rupture and a thick heavy scab forms on the feet. If the chick survives, the scabs disappear in a course of two or three weeks, and the toes become extremely distorted, turning usually in an upward direction so that the only portion of the feet that touches the ground is the heel.

The symptoms may or may not appear on the head, and in some instances they may show on the head and not on the feet. In the early stages small blisters may be found in the unfeathered skin around the beak and around the eyes. Often the eyelids become glued together and the chick becomes totally blind.

The only treatment that can be followed is to move the chicks to newly plowed ground and to treat the feet or head parts with boric acid ointment or carbolic vasoline at least once a day until the condition is cleared up. Spring Garden Makes More Interesting Meals.

"All this food was home grown," stated S. F. Dickerson in his home at the noon meal Tuesday, May 18, to the home demonstration agent.

That the meals served in the Dickerson home are attractive, nutritious and palatable was evident from the meal served that day. Vegetables grown in the home garden making up the menu that day were new potatoes, English peas, snap beans, onions and beets. From the poultry flock, spring fryers, and from the dairy herd milk and butter. Other vegetables growing in the garden ready for table serving are, carrots, radishes, lettuce, kale, spinach, turnips and turnip greens.

The Dickerson home is one of interest, both Mr. and Mrs. Dickerson are putting forth every effort to make the entire farm a "Demonstration Farm."

BILLY ROSE TURNS DOWN VENUS DE MILO

"Sorry, sister," Billy Rose, world's foremost showman, who is director-general of the Fort Worth Frontier Fiesta, is saying to the Venus de Milo, "but your type of beauty is passe, de-lasse, definitely out—in short, you're too fat, and should go on a diet. Now, this little lady on my left represents the modern, stream-lined type of loveliness that will be seen in the Casa Manana Revue at the Frontier Fiesta this summer when 200 girls will appear on the world's biggest revolving stage."

The heavy lines of the famous Greek statue which typified the ancient conception of beauty contrast with the smiling, almost boyish-slender Miss Bobe French of Fort Worth.

BILLY ROSE DISCLOSES CASA MANANA PLANS

FORT WORTH, May 26.—Billy Rose has swung back the curtain at last to reveal the carefully-guarded secrets of the Casa Manana Revue of 1937, outstanding attraction of the great array of amusement which will form the Fort Worth Frontier Fiesta, opening June 26.

The spectacular scope and magnificent sweep of the little magnate's plans actually had an audience of 400 leading citizens from all parts of Texas enthralled and, at the conclusion of the graphic description, Broadway's Barnum was cheered for two minutes.

Last year, the Casa Manana Revue was a Cavalcade of World's Fairs. This year, the scenes will have as a background four "best sellers"—"Gone With the Wind," "Wake Up and Live," "Lost Horizon," and "It Can't Happen Here." In the finale ("It Can't Happen Here"), 300 persons will swarm about the biggest stage set ever built. The scene, a stirring onslaught against "ism," is thus depicted by Rose:

Huge Chromium Stairs. "First you will see the Black Shirts, then the Brown Shirts and then the Reds. These will go into a modern bacchanal, which will be interrupted by a fanfare of trumpets. Everett Marshall, the former Metropolitan Opera singer, will appear at the top of the chromium stairway that goes over the top of the permanent set on the world's biggest revolving stage, and will sing a song representing the spirit of America.

"Women dressed in white patent leather costumes will appear. West Point cadets will march down the long flight of stairs; forces of the sea, forces of the air and finally the Texas Sweetheart No. 1 will sweep down the magnificent stairway. The Texas Sweetheart will be wearing the largest gown ever created, consisting of 1,200 yards of spangled satin and 2 boys will carry the train. She will represent Liberty.

Musical Dramatization. "Then on a flagstaff 50 feet above the scene, the Stars and Stripes and the Lone Star banner will be raised while miniature battle-ships fire cannon in the lagoon in front of the receding stage and the heavens will be lighted with a shower of gold and silver stars.

The books will be dramatized with a musical background; there will be no dialog, the appeal being visual and melodic. Describing the "Gone With the Wind" scene, the Frontier Fiesta director-general said:

"You will see a plantation in the Old South. Ladies and gentlemen will appear at a garden party and Harriet Hector, famous ballerina, will arrive in a carriage drawn by four horses. She will portray Scarlett O'Hara, characterizing the romance of the book in dance. Everett Marshall will portray Rhett Butler and will sing 'Gone With the Wind,' composed by Dana Suesse, who wrote 'The Night Is Young and You're So Beautiful,' hit of the 1936 show.

Mansion Burns. "Pickaninies will dance and there will be an ensemble dance. The distant booming of cannon is heard and Marshall gallops in on a horse to shout that the end of a civilization is at hand. As the huge stage begins to turn, the mansion bursts into flames. Thus we will start the show by burning up the scene.

"Then will come the 'Lost Horizon' episode. If you thought the show girls' costumes in the Paris number last year were beautiful, wait until you see what Raoul Pene de Bois has designed for this year."

Washington, May 18.—As things look now to experienced and impartial observers, there does not seem to be a chance for the enactment of the President's plan of adding six justices to the Supreme Court. There is a bare chance that Congress might agree to a compromise proposal, to increase the Court by two, to a total of eleven, but even that is not to the taste of the opponents of the whole program, inside the President's own party. The inclination now is to delay action on the whole Court proposal until after the Supreme Court has ruled upon the constitutionality of the Social Security Act. That law has been brought to the Supreme Court by an appeal by the Government from the ruling of the Federal Circuit Court of Boston, which declared the Act unconstitutional. The expectation is that the Court will hear arguments this month and hand down its decision late in June. If it upholds the Social Security Act, political wisacres say that will definitely kill Congressional support of the Court-enlargement scheme. If the decision is against the Social Security Act, then the antagonism to the Administration is growing rapidly in both wings of the Capitol, and there is a strong inclination becoming manifest to give the President no more grants of personal power and perhaps to withdraw some of the powers which the last two Congresses gave him. It seems certain that many of the Administration's proposals will suffer defeat, and that Congress will do its own bill-drafting on major matters from now on, instead of accepting whatever the White House proposes.

That seems likely to be particularly true of the whole plan of tax revision. Everybody recognizes that the present tax system is a jumble in which unworkable and oppressive elements are mingled. Roswell Magill, the new Undersecretary of the Treasury, has come out with a proposal to rewrite and recast the whole system of corporation taxes on a more equitable basis. To do that will take time and plenty of study. Congress is not inclined to rush any more tax bills through in a hurry. Therefore the tentative program now is to enact no new tax laws this session, but to extend for another year the excise taxes which expire by limitation this Summer, and in the meantime set committees to work employing experts and holding hearings as the basis for a broad and comprehensive new tax program to be put through at the next session.

Economy Measures Favored. Congress is serious about economy. There is growing strength behind the proposal of a horizontal cut of 10 percent in all departmental estimates. The alternative plan proposed by the Administration's supporters and said to have originated at the White House, to give the President authority to "impound" 15 percent of all appropriations and all portion savings and reductions among Federal departments and bureaus as he sees fit, has met such a cool reception that it is not regarded as having a chance. Opposition to it is upon the same ground that most of the rest of the Congressional opposition to the Administration is based. That is the feeling that while personal authority and discrimination granted to the Executive by previous Congresses was all right at the time in view of the economic emergency, it would create a dangerous precedent to continue that practice of delegating authority now that the emergency has passed. That feeling does not arise from any personal distrust of Mr. Roosevelt. No one thinks that he has any inclination to abuse the tremendous powers which he has been given. But there is much distrust of the motives of some of the President's advisers.

Partly because of that growing sentiment and partly because of a real urge for economy, it seems likely that several measures favored by the Administration will fall by the wayside. These include the Wagner Housing Bill, the plan to set up regional "TVA" projects around seven or eight of the Federal power developments, Federal aid for schools, and all of the Department of Agriculture's proposals, such as a new form of AAA, the farm tenancy relief proposal and crop insurance. There is an revulsion in Congress against evident though largely undergoverned relief projects as a class. The feeling seems to be that more has already been done for farmers than for any other class and that it is about time, now that the economic situation is back on an even keel, to slow down on legislation in the interest of particular classes. For the same reason, it begins to look doubtful whether any new Labor legislation will be enacted this session, though much study will be given to the Wagner Act with the idea of a developing from it a broader and better-balanced Labor policy.

At the same time, the Republicans are beginning to come out of their tent and show signs of political activity. The expectation here is that there will be more talking for political effect from the Republican side than there has been so far this year. All sorts of talk about Republican and "Right Wing" Democrats forming combinations to defeat the New Deal is going around, but most of it can be dismissed as "wishful thinking."

mark that dairying is a good industry and that it has the best possibilities in this country of any face within his knowledge. "Be happy," he admonished, "for that is the important thing in life. What we need right now is more optimists."

Following the close of the program, Mr. Sellers directed the assemblage to the tables where they ate their fill from the abundance of cream and cake provided for the occasion. Roy Welborn, local manager of the Best Ice & Dairy Products, sponsors of the affair, was assisted in serving by plant employees, route men and J. L. Lockhart with his F. F. A. boys. At a late hour the crowd dispersed, each expressing appreciation at having been allowed to participate in such an enjoyable affair.

GIRLS STILL FAVOR COOKIN' AND SEWIN'

DENTON, May 26.—Girls still flock to learn "cookin' and sewin'" according to a recent check-up at Texas State College for Women on the number of students enrolled in the various departments. Those with ideas toward a career in the business world take second place, with 364 in that department, as compared to the 592 majoring in home economics.

Old timers who yearn for the days when the women's place was definitely in the home need not rejoice too hastily over these tabulations, however, because a great many home economics students are heading for cafeteria and institutional management rather than for home-making.

Third high in order comes the liberal arts department, followed by fine and applied arts, kindergarten and primary work, and speech.

To Preach at Millerville. Elder O. O. Newton of Pottsville will preach at Millerville Church of Christ Saturday night before and the Fifth Lord's Day in this month, next Saturday and Sunday. You are invited.
