HICO, TEXAS, FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 5, 1937.

NUMBER 34

Here In HICO

Stop us if you've heard about this, which you probably have if you get around much. But for the benefit of many interested parties scattered over the golf courses from here to there, we must make mention of a local occurrence Tuesday afternoon.

Which reminds us of a remark made by the pro at a Waco golf course recently. Coming in from a lousy round, a pair of Hico golfers who had just finished a match with two Waco men were accosted by the pro, who inquired: "How'd your game?"

Its three o'clock a. m. Late bedtime, indeed, for honest people. But not out of the ordinary for folks who are dumb enough to get involved in the newspaper game.

What we say is written in all sincerity, and stands as a record of our feelings. Hico has some of the sweetest fellows to work with it has ever been our privilege to be associated among. If we feel that way now, we know we must believe it, for it hasn't been over an hour since we were cussing into space about some of the things we didn't like about the way we get along.

Sometimes we think there are too many hitch-hikers among our prospective advertisers. Unethical conduct is not entirely lacking, but is so scarce as to make it noticeable when some individual takes unfair advantage of a competitor.

Since so many of our good Democratic Senators and Congressmen have been taking pot shots at the President, along with a large majority of the lawyers of the Nation, perhaps the fact that Bruce Barton of New York this week was elected on the Republican ticket over a Democrat won't hurt anything.

Uncle Sam Wants to Know If You Work; If So, How Much?

Another immense task has been delegated to the Post Office Department in taking of the unemployment census, which will begin on Nov. 16, according to local Postmaster Jimmie L. Holford. This census, Mrs. Holford says, must be completed by Nov. 20, and will necessitate prompt cooperation in order that it may be concluded within the allotted time.

Unemployment report cards will be delivered to each dwelling, or place of abode, throughout the entire United States, including the Hawaiian Islands and Alaska, on Tuesday, November 16, 1937. Forms also will be supplied at the window or by rural carriers upon request. URC forms may be returned by the registrant, either by dropping in a mail box, handing to carrier, or mailing in post office, station, or branch. No postage is required.

All questions on the form should be answered, and the forms should be mailed back not later than Nov. 20. The registration is intended for (1) persons who are totally unemployed, able to work, and want work; (2) persons who are partly employed and want more work, and (3) persons who are working on WPA or other emergency work project supported by public funds.

A message from the President occupies the front cover of the forms to be sent out, as follows: "To every worker: If you are unemployed or partly unemployed and are able to work and are seeking work, please fill out this report card right away and mail it before midnight Saturday, Nov. 20, 1937. No postage stamp is needed. The Congress directed me to take this census. It is important to the unemployed and to everyone in this land that the census be complete, honest, and accurate. If you give me the facts I shall try to use them for the benefit of all who need and want work and do not now have it.—Franklin D. Roosevelt."

J. H. ADKISON FUNERAL HELD SUNDAY AFTERNOON

Funeral rites were held at the First Baptist Church in Hico Sunday afternoon for J. H. Adkison, who died suddenly at the family home in the Mount Zion community Saturday night. Rev. E. E. Dawson, pastor of the Hico church conducted the services, and interment was made in the Hico Cemetery. Barrow Undertakers had charge of the burial.

FUNERAL SERVICES HELD FOR MRS. G. W. GOYNE

Funeral services were held at the Methodist Church at Fairy Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock for Mrs. G. W. Goyme who passed away at her home in that community Sunday afternoon. She had been ill for about a week.

Hico School Has Seven Sets of Twins

Four Trades Days In December For Shoppers At Hico

Four Trades Days in the month of December at Hico, starting Wednesday, Dec. 8, and occurring weekly on the same day thereafter is the program adopted by the Hico Chamber of Commerce and participating merchants. Mayor H. P. Sellers, officiating at the street party this week, announced the plans, and invited everyone to come back often, buy winter needs and Christmas goods from merchants who appreciate their trade, and participate in the weekly parties.

Horse Show Judging Places Many Owners From Hico Territory

Many entries were received in the stock judging events at the Stephenville Horse Show, Friday and Saturday, October 22 and 23, more than ever before, according to an account carried in last Friday's issue of the Stephenville Empire-Tribune. G. W. Barnes was judge, and show winners included a number from this section.

Stephenville Plans To Entertain Big Crowds Nov. 11th

In the absence of any sort of Armistice Day celebration at Hico, the Stephenville American Legion has sent a special invitation to the people of this vicinity to join them in their Carnival, feature attraction of which is Western State Shows.

NEW CHARTERS GRANTED

AUSTIN, Texas, Oct. 19.—A total of 103 new charters were granted during September to corporations to operate in Texas, a decline of 27.5 per cent from the preceding month and 16.5 per cent from the corresponding month last year, according to the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research. Capitalization of the new firms totaled $2,034,000 a decline of 49.6 per cent from July, but an increase of 24.1 per cent over September last year.

Stephenville Plans To Entertain Big Crowds Nov. 11th

On Armistice Day there will be a big exhibition by soldiers from San Antonio, numbering perhaps 8,000, with a minimum of 6,000 expected. These soldiers, in 500 trucks, plan to come through Hico on Wednesday, Nov. 10, and no doubt will create enough interest in their activities that many will want to go to Stephenville Armistice Day, where they will be camped.

PLenty of Ammunition

DENTON, Oct. 26.—Unsuccessful road shows would steer clear of Cherokee and Smith counties if they knew how many ripe tomatoes were produced there. These two counties grow more tomatoes than any other section of Texas, and Jacksonville, of Tomato Festival fame, is the leading tomato shipping city of the South.

DENTON, Sept. 28.—Any man owning 275 acres of land worth about $18.70 an acre can consider himself an average Texas farmer. The 137,600,000 acres devoted to farming in this state are divided into over 501,000 farms, which range in size from tiny patches to acres covering thousands of acres.

Thirteen Days Off

Everybody likes a holiday, but does everyone know how many there are and when they come? Three state celebrations are scheduled during the year: Texas Independence Day on March 2, San Jacinto Day on April 21, and Texas Pioneers' Day on August 12.

Gulf States Asks City Council For Franchise Renewal

The original franchise granted Gulf States Telephone Co. in 1912 having expired, officials of the company were on hand at City Council meeting Monday night to request renewal, if satisfactory, on practically the same basis, for another period of 25 years.

After reading of minutes of the previous meeting, Mayor H. F. Sellers shelved other routine matters for the time being, and invited introduction of the telephone business by Oscar Burton of Tyler, Vice-president and general manager of the Gulf States Telephone Co., who was accompanied by J. N. Hopper of Stephenville, the company's district manager.

In beginning, Mr. Burton made it clear that his company had appreciated its opportunity of doing business in Hico, and although conditions in the past few years had not been profitable, that he had not given up and would appreciate renewal of the franchise. This, he explained, was no more or less than documentary evidence that his company and Hico citizens "were on speaking terms" and promised that in the event the council saw fit to grant the request, efforts toward bettering service and keeping rates in line would be continued.

While figures submitted by Mr. Burton covering operations during the past five years showed that the telephone company, along with others, has had hard sledding, one bright spot was analysis of 1937 business up to October 1, which showed a slight profit this year for the first time in the past five years. Mr. Burton impressed the council with the fact that not alone from a business standpoint, but for sentimental reasons also, he is keenly interested in the welfare and progress of the town.

On Armistice Day there will be a big exhibition by soldiers from San Antonio, numbering perhaps 8,000, with a minimum of 6,000 expected. These soldiers, in 500 trucks, plan to come through Hico on Wednesday, Nov. 10, and no doubt will create enough interest in their activities that many will want to go to Stephenville Armistice Day, where they will be camped.

NOTICE OF MR. AND MRS. KING TO HAVE BOOK PUBLISHED

A Ranger woman Mrs. Beulah Kay Hicks, niece of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. King of Hico, is now adding the last bits of color and finishing touches to her book "In Orphan Notes of Dawn." The book is made up of twelve chapters, one for each month of the year. It is to be published in early December and copies will be sold immediately following.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

The Bible is a spiritual clinic. In it one can see the causes and effects of life. One very striking thing revealed there is that disobedience to God begets disaster for the disobedient. An unaffiliated rule is that failure to do what is commanded, or to do what is forbidden, brings disastrous results, a rule from which there is no variation. Has God changed? Have men changed? Have the relationships of men and God changed? Is duty still duty, and must men suffer if they ignore it, if they disobey? You can look about you in this very community and see the results of disobedience. So don't imagine that you can outsmart that fundamental law: you just won't. "Trust and Obey" is a good song to sing!

SINGING HERE SUNDAY

There will be singing at the Pentecostal Church next Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The public is invited to attend.

To Preach at Greyville

Rev. U. S. Luckie of Brownwood will preach at Greyville Saturday night, Sunday and Sunday night, Nov. 6th and 7th. You are invited.

Keeping Up With TEXAS

Action of the city council at Brownwood in agreeing to construct a $10,000 building on the U. S. Department of Agriculture pecan experiment station tract there has assured establishment in the city of an important center of the Government's investigation of pecan and fruit tree adaption and diseases.

Gov. James V. Alfred this week issued his long-expected statement on the result of the special tax session of the state legislature, blaming Senator Frank H. Rawlings of Fort Worth and sent T. J. Holbrook of Galveston for defeat of taxes. Temporarily the interests and Rawlings and Holbrook have won. Alfred said, "but it will be a costly victory when the people get the facts. I propose to see that they get the facts from time to time." He did not comment on reports that he would run for a third term.

The board of control announced this week reduction in the amount of individual old age pension payments probably would not be necessary during November and December. It was stated review of the records of pension applicants and recipients would be continued, however, and those not found eligible would be discontinued "in order that as much funds as possible may be conserved to those who have no other resources and those who are eligible under the law."

W. F. Cato, about 50, former Garza county sheriff for 10 years, was found shot through the heart an instant after the report of a gun was heard in his home at Post about 7:30 o'clock Tuesday morning. Members of the family told Justice of the Peace M. L. Morris that a 45 calibre pistol lay beside his hand. He was tried and acquitted in Lubbock two years ago on a charge of murder growing out of the machine gun slaying of Spencer Stafford, federal prohibition agent, in February, 1934.

Harry W. Brown, 71-year-old resident of Houston who died last Friday, left his entire estate, amounting to about $75,000, to the DePelchin Faith Home. It was revealed when his will was read at his funeral Monday. The will was read by H. Matthews, superintendent of Faith Home, and a lifelong friend of Mr. Brown. Mr. Matthews said that the bequest will be used for improvements. Mr. Brown left the estate to the home for dependent children in memory of his wife, who died in 1923. Mrs. Brown had always taken an interest in the home and it was her desire to help other children after her own three children died in infancy.

PARENTS URGED TO HAVE CHILDREN IMMUNIZED AGAINST DIPHTHERIA

AUSTIN, Texas, Oct. 19.—State Health Officer Geo. V. Cox urges all parents of children between the ages of six months and ten years who have not been immunized against diphtheria, to take them to their family physician and have this done at once.

The first ten months of 1937 saw 1,635 cases of diphtheria reported to the Texas State Department of Health. This is an increase over 1936's figures, and shows the need of immunization of children in this age group.

It was not many years ago that parents dreaded diphtheria because of inability of the medical profession to either prevent or cure the disease. But today when we know both the cause and the cure there is no obstacle but negligence which will prevent the complete elimination of the disease in Texas.

Diphtheria is most dangerous to the very young children, and it is especially important that immunization against it be given early in a child's life. In young children there is practically no reaction to the injection. Immunization has been proven to give absolute protection.

GOES 'ROUND AND 'ROUND

And It Comes Out Here—

This incident really happened at Hico a few years ago when circulars going through the mails were not so plentiful. A family by the name of Holder lived a few miles from town. One day they received a circular in their mail box addressed "Box Holder." The next time the head of the family came to town he brought it back to the post office and informed the postal clerks that it did not belong to them as not a member in their family had the given name of "Box."

Another birthday "victim" is Mrs. Mable Bailey who celebrated her anniversary one day last week. She and her husband closed their cafe and went to the local theatre to celebrate in a big way. Mable had a "hangover" the next day from too much recreation.

One of our good friends, J. W. Moore, who resides on Route 1, was in the office one day last week to renew his subscription to the home paper and also to the Semi-Weekly Farm News. Mr. Moore and his family have lived in this community for many years, and are now residing on the farm they purchased 28 years ago. They have witnessed many hardships, but Mr. Moore says he has always managed to keep his debts paid. At one time when he was trying to pay his farm out, he was left with only one pony to try to farm with, and a few days later traded a cow for an old plow horse, and used the two animals until his farm was paid out. Each year he has managed, with the help of his good wife, to accumulate a little more, until now they have a comfortable living. He owes no taxes and has his two papers paid for, and now feels that they can enjoy life this winter. The motto he has always followed is "Stay out of debt."

Johnnie Farmer is the sole proprietor of the J. & J. Cleaners since he purchased the interest of his partner, Jack Hollis. We do not know what he intends calling the place of business now since one of the "J's" must be erased, and we are urging his friends to assist him in securing a name so he can have an ad in this paper.

Hico citizens had a "crying time" at the local theatre Sunday afternoon and Monday night when "Madame X" was shown. Many forgot to carry their handkerchiefs along, which caused a little embarrassment. Mr. Brinkley, who is managing the theatre, is showing some good pictures, and local citizens are doing their part in supporting him.

The Gulf States Telephone Company offices have taken on a new "dressy" appearance since being repapered and repainted. Recently a number of improvements were made to the equipment, and now Hico has one of the neatest places to be housed by any telephone company.

Since there is not a colored person residing in Hamilton County it looks funny to see the sign "For Colored People" at the rear of Gene's Cafe, which was recently erected. The reason for the placing of this said sign was due to the fact that so many colored folks coming through Hico are wanting a place to eat. So Gene, a live cafe man, fixed a place in the rear of his cafe to feed these ebony-colored nerds. Almost every day some traveling man stops in town with a negro chauffeur, and this year many cotton pickers have stopped in Hico for several hours.

We did not know until this week that Bernard Ogle was a veterinarian, and we don't believe he did either until he did a little experimenting on one of the Malone's cows, and had such good luck that he is going around calling himself "Dr. Ogle." Bernard says the animal was "down" the first of the week and he went to the farm Wednesday morning, taking a big needle with him and gave her a shot of "hemirhythreds" (or something like that) and the cow was "kirk" around and eating when he left.

Mrs. Willie Platt who is sojourning in Beaumont for the present writes back that she is still feeling fine, and enjoying life. She is visiting with a son and family. She sends best wishes to her Hico friends, and says getting the News Review is like a letter from home. May her stay continue to be pleasant, and also her trip to Louisiana, which she plans to take within the next month.

W. A. Brown, who has been janitor at the school for the past few years, was "thrilled" almost beyond words Monday morning when the school superintendent, Ray D. Brown, the coach, J. E. Grimland, and the football boys presented him with a leather jacket in assembly. On one of the pockets was inscribed "Manager." Mr. Brown has put out lots of effort and time in assisting the football team, and this was done in appreciation of his good work.

A card comes this week telling us to change the street address of the paper going to Mr. and Mrs. Frank McClure. Mrs. McClure was formerly Miss Opal Hunter of Hico and this is a part of what she wrote: "We are just settled in a new apartment and just in time, as the 'Spooks' are roaming the streets of Houston. I think today is the first time I have received the paper on Friday and it seems like good old times to get it the same week it is published, as we usually get it Monday. We read it from 'kiver to kiver'."

Just two more days left to take advantage of the special prices on the Rexall Sale at Porter's Drug Store. Mr. Porter said Wednesday that the first day of the sale was a success. He guarantees every article purchased.

A family who used to reside in the Duffau community but who now are residents of Washington, D. C., Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Giesecke and daughter, Panthea, are here for a two weeks' visit with Mrs. Giesecke's mother, Mrs. F. M. Holland, and with relatives of Mr. Giesecke in the Millerville community. The family is carried away with Washington, where Mr. Giesecke has employment with the government in the Internal Revenue Department. Panthea is a Senior at Eastern High, where 2,000 students attend. Half of them attend in the mornings, and the other half in the afternoons. Mr. Giesecke has many interesting things to tell about the Capitol upon each visit here.

Come on with your turkeys, as the local produce houses are ready to buy all you have. Dressing plants are now in operation, and you can get as much for your fowls here as anywhere. Bring them to Hico where you can mix with your friends at the same time. The town welcomes you and your family.

Don't let it scare you when you look on the back page of this issue and see the bargains being offered by Randa's Brothers. It is not a dream either, but just real close prices quoted to their many customers. And besides that if you come to town Saturday, you can get a good cup of Schilling's coffee free at their store. Randa's Brothers are also sole distributors of Bewley's Flour in Hico. "Anchor Egg Mash Produces More Eggs For a Longer Time," they say.

You should see the many holiday goods already arriving at the Hico stores, and some of the "early and wise birds" are abiding by the slogan, "Do your Christmas Shopping Early." Many packages have been wrapped and laid aside for that loved one or friend. Local merchants are planning on a big holiday trade, and are laving in their supplies accordingly.

A new gas stove has been set into the wall at the Buckhorn Cafe this week, and other fixtures have been rearranged. Particularly noticeable for its absence is one piece of equipment that formerly occupied a prominent place at the front entrance.

Agriculture.

Agriculture is man's cultivation of the soil and his care and use of plants and animals, the object of these being the production of food and clothing for mankind. Before the time of recorded history, primitive men depended upon the products of Mother Earth that were ready to their hand. When natural foods failed, the tribes had to move elsewhere; thus life was a struggle for existence.

In different parts of the world and at different periods, men began to see that nature could be brought under control. They learned how to tame and utilize animals. Accidentally, perhaps, some one noticed that plants grew better where the ground was prepared for the seed; hence agriculture or farming began to develop. The farmer is a modern Atlas, bearing the world on his shoulders. To him we all look for our daily bread. If he were to lay down his burden, all other industries would stop.

The Juniors are studying agriculture. We have found it to be a very interesting subject. We have made many talks about agriculture and performed experiments which have proved profitable to us.

New Gym.

The workers on the new gymnasium are making splendid progress. They have almost completed the concrete work. We are anxious to have the building completed.

School Dismissed.

School was dismissed Monday at noon on account of the death of Mrs. Goyne.

Senior Hit Parade.

If blondes are boys' weakness, we will have to guard Geraldine Brummett. Gerry is a heart-breaker. If you don't believe me, wait until she smiles at you with those big blue eyes.

After graduation this spring, she plans to enter college. She is very popular and is liked very much by all of her schoolmates. "The Right Somebody to Love" is her favorite song. Since seeing the Casa Manana Revue, Paul Whiteman's music just melts her heart. Her escort is a handsome young man that lives in her neighborhood.

The Seniors received their play books last Friday. The play is entitled "One Deterious Night" and parts have been assigned to the following persons: Juanita Parks, Osborn, Garner, Dorothy Box, Lucille Herricks, Wynell Blacklock, Tommie Jo Allison, J. N. Pitts, Bratton Eddington, Carrol Akin, Geraldine Brummett, Crockett Sloer, Andrew Duncan, and Sam Battershell.

The Juniors.

The Juniors thought it best to remind the school that next Wednesday, November 10, is Junior Day. On that day as you know, the Seniors and even the faculty must do as any Junior orders. Now Seniors and faculty, are you sports? We'll try you next Wednesday. We promise our request won't be unreasonable but we advise you to prepare to carry our books or other such accommodating things.

Sophomores.

Although she discovers Monty's love for her is not sincere, Natalie admits that she loves him. She is assigned by her paper to report Monty's activities for publication. Jimmy Hale, the newspaper's photographer, becomes Natalie's co-worker.

Natalie interviews Jabe Marion, wealthy airplane builder, who decides to build a record-breaking 'round the world' plane for Monty, Marion's daughter, Sunny, exquisitely beautiful, is attracted to Monty. She invites Natalie to dine with her, when they meet the aviator unexpectedly.

Natalie discovers that Sunny is jealous of her friendship with Monty, and that she is trying to prevent them from being alone. After driving to a mountain resort with Sunny and Jimmy, Monty again declares his love for Natalie.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

Natalie thrilled at the sight. Her wild notion had brought success. The missing fliers were beneath them, apparently unhurt. Monty Wallace tested the ground-currents cautiously and then put the ship into a steep dive.

Withered sandwiches and tepid pop disappeared like magic before the onslaught of the two lost pilots. Bar chocolate and candy bars helped restore their morale and their sense of humor.

They chattered of their adventure, told of the clogged oil line that had caused them to try a landing and of the treacherous air current that had whipped the plane into the ground and crippled it beyond immediate repair.

Natalie drank in the details. Monty Wallace studied his maps and marked upon them the nearest seacoast town that might have a telegraph line. Arrangements were made for the two youths to remain where they were until help had been sent and then Monty and Natalie took off for the coast in high triumph.

At the small Mexican town, Monty wired the lost fliers' home airport and Natalie began writing sheet after sheet of their story. Getting the news out was a prodigious task for the small, black-haired, black-eyed operator had little understanding of English and was forced to send the words almost letter by letter.

Before the task had been completed, radio had sent two planes to land beside Monty's ship on the beach before the town. Monty led the rescue flight and then came back for the girl.

As they winged their way north along the coast line of California Bay, Natalie was happier than she had ever before and Monty's mood matched hers in gaily.

To their chagrin they found they had nothing to eat or drink aboard but they were determined to make port at the earliest possible moment and decided to forget the inconvenience of going without lunch.

"We'll have the biggest dinner there is on the Pacific coast," Monty declared and they planned for the evening together.

At the airport, they were received like heroes with Mack Hannon himself, minus his eye-shade and with his suspenders hidden under a black searsucker coat, all but hugging the girl in his enthusiasm.

Jimmy Hale alone greeted her scornfully.

"After a while I tried to tell you," he primly told her, "going off without even a kodak. Won't you ever learn?"

But she knew that he was more than pleased that he dared admit.

"I forgot everything but getting started," she told him. "It never occurred to me to try for pictures."

"Well," the boy chuckled, "I'm going to see that you never go anywhere again without taking something along that will bring back a picture."

Jabe Marion bore the pair off then for dinner at his house, and there it was that Sunny congratulated them with cold reserve entirely foreign to her usual vulnerability.

"I hope you had a nice time," she said cuttingly when Natalie and she were alone together before dinner.

Natalie took her firmly by the arm.

"Look at me," she commanded. "Do I look as though I'd done anything to be ashamed of? Just because we're both in love with Monty Wallace is no reason why we can't be decent to each other. I like you and, when you aren't thinking of me as the she-devil who is taking your man from you, you like me."

The girl closed her eyes stubbornly.

"I like you," she said, "when you don't consider it necessary to go on overnight trips into the desert with him."

Natalie's head went up then and she turned to the business of freshening herself after the dishevelment of the journey. For a long moment she did not speak. When she did it was with cold fury.

"When I stoop to the sort of something of mine?" Sunny offered and presently Natalie surveyed herself in a long glass wearing one of Sunny's stunning gowns.

"I knew I oughtn't to have done that," Sunny laughed. "Now I'll never get Monty to look at me again."

"It's just too bad about you," Natalie bantered.

And together the two went down the broad stairway in search of the man they loved.

But when they reached the library door, they found that he and Jabe Marion were too deep in conversation to pay any attention to feminine company.

When dinner was announced a few minutes later, both sprang up with apologies for having failed to notice that the two girls waited for them.

The four moved into the spacious dining room without pausing and there Jabe Marion stood in his place to propose a toast.

"Let us drink," he said, "to the success of the greatest flight ever proposed. To the plane Sunny Marion, to her non-stop refueling flight around the world, and to her pilot, Monty Wallace."

Natalie gasped. Sunny squealed with delight. Monty lifted his glass.

"Success to the flight and to the control station at Mineola. Long Island, where the start was to be made.

Wallace was to fly with the newest automatic control equipment.

Everything depended on the plane and on Wallace's ability to keep to the course. Proven methods of refueling in the air would be used and the plane would be altered at once to make refueling easy for the lone flier.

Natalie was already assigned to cover preparations at the home port.

Plans were under way for the christening of the ship by Sunny Marion and Jimmy had sold pictures of the girl to half a dozen national picture agencies.

Sunny's glee was not hard to fathom, for the christening of the plane would link her name with that of Monty Wallace. The world would see romance there. There was at least a chance that Monty had suggested the naming of the ship though Natalie held to the hope that her father had been responsible for the suggestion.

Inspired by the magnitude of the project, Natalie was nevertheless not without her misgivings. She knew that a thousand dangers lurked along the path of the plane and that Monty would crowd his luck for the last chance of success.

More than this, she found that Monty had suddenly become almost a stranger to her. So engrossed was he in the preparations for the flight that he would not leave the field except for sleep and, though her assignment threw the girl with him constantly, there were few moments when they regained any of the easy intimacy they had known.

Natalie's only consolation was that Sunny suffered from the same neglect and yet there were occasional conferences at the Marion home when Sunny must be present while Natalie was busy with her copy or otherwise left out.

As time for the flight drew near the girl reporter found that she had fewer and fewer moments to think of the danger of the plan or to try for the favor of the man she loved.

She knew at last that she was jealous of the flight as well as of Sunny Marion and when Jimmy found her hiding in his dark room one evening in tears he guessed what the trouble was.

"You're just naturally bound to love that guy, aren't you?" he chided. "Well, don't break your heart and we'll see what can be done."

The girl poured out her troubles into his willing ear. He took her in his arms as though she were his sister instead of the girl he adored and promised her that he would do "his best damndest" to fix things up for her.

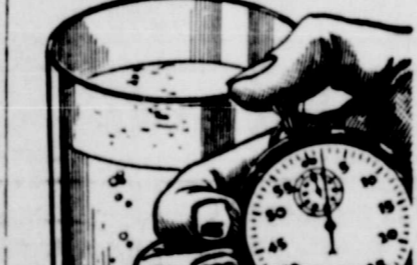

He took her home and made her promise to get into bed and forget all about it.

Sleep came to her rescue then but she woke in the middle of the night, apparently awakened by some noise at the door.

For an instant she was terrified but she knew that help was within call and so she went to the door and opened it. A man lay there, sprawled on the hall carpet and when she bent above him she found it was Jimmy Hale, unconscious and clearly very drunk.

Her heart went out to him as it had never done before. She bent to lift him up and got him into the room. With the door swiftly closed so that he was safe from arrest for his condition and his midnight visit, she helped him

THE REASON HEADACHES ARE RELIEVED SO FAST

Drop a Bayer Aspirin tablet into a tumbler of water. By the time it hits the bottom of the glass it is dissolving. The speed of dissolving enables genuine BAYER Aspirin tablets to start "taking hold" of headaches and similar pain a few minutes after taking.

All people who suffer occasionally from headaches ought to know this way to quick relief.

At the first sign of such pain, take two Bayer Aspirin tablets with a half glass of water. Sometimes if the pain is more severe, another dose is necessary later, according to directions.

If headaches keep coming back we advise you to see your own physician. He will look for the cause in order to correct it.

The price now is only 15¢ for twelve tablets or two full dozen for 25 cents—virtually, only a cent apiece.

Two pigmy figures rushed into a clearing and danced madly.

tactics you mean, I will have lost not only my principles but any vestiges of good sense that may be left to me. I don't propose to be anybody's pet cat and if I find I have to degrade myself to make Monty Wallace love me, I'll choose rather to be worthy of his love than to have it."

Sunny laughed unpleasantly.

"That," she sneered, "is a good line for one of your stories. But you know and I know that you'd take him on any terms."

"Don't be silly," Natalie rejoined. "What you know and I know is that either of us could have had him on his own terms long before this."

Sunny broke then. The tears came and she held out her arms to Natalie.

"I'm sorry," she sobbed, "but I am so jealous of you sometimes I don't know what I'm doing. Even when I don't know why I have to try to hurt you for I can't help being crazy about you."

Natalie comforted the girl as best she could. "And do you think I'm not jealous of you? I'd give my eyes sometimes if you weren't so good-looking."

"Oh, Nat, I never thought of that. You hang onto yourself so. I didn't think you were ever silly. It's because you're such a swell person that I can't imagine anybody not loving you."

"Well, now that we've got all that out of our systems, I suppose we ought to go down to dinner. I wish I could send home for something I haven't slept in." She considered her rumpled costume ruefully.

"I'll probably die if you look well in it, but won't you wear man who conceived the plan," he amended.

"Success," cried Natalie, and the glasses drained.

"Breaks, kid," exclaimed Jimmy Hale. "You sure get 'em. And may you never miss."

Natalie's story of the proposed flight was rolling on the great presses of the Express. The first inky copies lay before the two as they stood in Jimmy's cluttered office.

Coming on the heels of her rescue story out of Lower California, it was world news, and Monty Wallace was again a hero, not only for what he had done but for what he was about to attempt.

In a dozen world capitals, betting odds were to be posted that same night on the chances of success.

The plan was simplicity itself, with Monty Wallace's flying accuracy as the key.

Ten refueling stations were to be established. Ten pilots were to stand ready, linked by short wave radio with the control station at Mineola, Long Island, where the start was to be made.

Wallace was to fly with the

Today's Building Prices Are Bargain Prices

Is it true what they say about building costs? Have building material prices and building labor rates advanced as everything indicates where Mr. Home Owner or Mr. Material Buyer is being taken for a price ride? The answer is decidedly NO!

For example, 1n 1933 one bushel of corn would buy 16½ feet of lumber, now it will buy 25 feet; 100 pounds of hog would buy 125 feet of lumber, now it will buy 315 feet; 100 pounds of steer would buy 233 feet of lumber, now it will buy 410 feet.

These prices taken from the Building Supply News of Chicago show that your building dollar almost doubles that of four years ago.

"Everything to Build Anything"

They Make Your DREAMS COME TRUE!

With the hum of renewed construction activity, we pause to pay tribute to Hico's building industry. Material men, hardware merchants, contractors and skilled laborers have given this community a number of beautiful homes, keep older residences and buildings in a good state of repair. In their calling they not alone provide materials for building, but furnish inspiration without which there would be no incentive for improvement.

In saluting the building industry, we are not unmindful of the fact, but extremely proud, that in their constructive efforts these individuals and organizations are aided by us, not alone through dollars spent for advertising and printing, but with constant publicity with the best interests of the town at heart. Their messages are always constructive, and are worthy of attention from our readers. In cooperating with them we feel the pride that always accompanies progress.

WHERE THE TAXES HIT

Digging into the subject of taxes as they affect the average citizen, Dr. Mabel Newcomer of Yassar College, working under the auspices of the Twentieth Century Fund, has found it to be true, as many have long suspected, that the lower an individual's income, the higher proportion of it he pays in hidden taxes.

By adding together all the taxes, Federal, state and local, direct and hidden, Dr. Newcomer reports that people in the upper income brackets, who pay the direct taxes, have a heavier tax burden as their incomes increase. But people with incomes of $2,000 a year or less, who pay no income taxes and usually no direct property taxes, are penalized by hidden percentage of his income he must pay out in taxes.

The report cites examples. An Illinois farmer with $2,000 income pays from 8 to 10 percent of it in taxes, while his neighbor, with only $500 income, pays from 11 to 16 percent. The same percentages are true of wage earners. The man with $20 a week carries a larger share of the tax burden than does the one who earns $40 a week.

It is the "hidden" taxes, passed on by manufacturers, producers and distributors to the ultimate consumer, that bear the heaviest on the poor, says the report. It is another confirmation of Solomon's sage remark in the Book of Proverbs: "The destruction of the poor is their poverty."

CREDIT FOR EVERYBODY

Considerable concern is expressed over the increasing use of credit by such a large proportion of the American people. Men are mortgaging their futures, these critics say, by buying so many things on the installment plan. That, in the minds of old-school economists, is all wrong. What if everybody who has pledged part of his income should lose his job? How could he keep up his payments?

One answer is that if everybody lost their jobs at the same time it wouldn't make any difference, for the whole country would be broke. But the serious answer to the critics of the system of buying goods on deferred payments is that it has been in operation for so many years, and has so much experience behind it, that there are figures as exact as actuarial tables from which it can be predicted just how many out of a given number of installment buyers will fail to meet their payments.

In the automobile trade the experience is that the loss on installment purchase accounts is less than half of one percent—about 50 cents on every $100 note. About the same proportion holds good in other lines commonly sold on installments. From time immemorial houses have been bought and sold on installment payments. Probably two-thirds of all furniture sold in the past 100 years has been moved on the same basis. Why not then buy other necessary or useful goods in the same way? Most people find it easier to pay off an obligation than to "save up" for a cash transaction.

BETTER BUY LAND NOW

A timely word of advice for farmers deciding how to spend 1917 crop money is this brief editorial in The Progressive Farmer:

After a depression land values usually come back more slowly than other values. But they always come back and are now on an upswing that will probably last several years. To every landless man who can save enough out of this year's crop to make a down payment on a tract of good land we would say: Better get whatever help you can from federal land banks and other agencies and buy before prices go higher.

ABOUT DIESEL ENGINES

A great deal is being heard, these days, about Diesel engines but not many people know the difference between the Diesel type of engine and any other. The principle of the Diesel engine is that if you compress the fuel of an internal-combustion engine enough, it will heat up from pressure alone to the point of explosion. The ordinary gasoline engine requires an electric spark to explode the fuel in the cylinder. The Diesel engine needs no electrical equipment, no battery, no wires, no sparkplugs. It can run on cheap fuel oil such as is used in oil-burning furnaces—even on crude oil. Therefore, it is economical in fuel, and in cost of upkeep.

The Diesel's handicap is its weight. It needs extraordinarily strong cylinders to withstand high pressure. On ships and locomotives weight is not such a serious matter. On airplanes it is very serious; yet aircraft makers are experimenting and have built at least one successful Diesel-engine plane. The advantage in the air is that the Diesel engine gets more power from a pound of low-grade oil than a gas engine gets from a pound of gasoline, thus lessening the fuel load. Also, the oil is not inflammable, and the danger of an airplane catching fire is eliminated.

Light weight Diesel engines are coming into use for trucks. Motor manufacturers hold out hope for a practical Diesel engine for passenger cars. If they get it, they promise fifty miles to the gallon of oil, costing less than half as much per gallon as gasoline—and no sparkplug or battery trouble. That's something to look forward to.

THE IMPORTANCE OF OIL

Few people realize the part which oils and fats play in the structure of world economics. Oil for industrial or mechanical uses, but more particularly oils and fats for food, are the objects of a never-ending quest. Without an intake of food-fats humanity would soon perish.

Read ancient history and note how important the edible fats were in the early days of man's development. The animal and vegetable edible oils are of prime importance still. Lard and tallow, cotton-seed oil, peanut oil, and a great variety of other vegetable oils are more in demand than ever before. Whale-oil is still an item of the first order in world trade. Palm oil from Central Africa is one form of fat for which the demand grows steadily. The age of machinery created a demand for lubricating oils, and the application of gasoline for motive power, by multiplying machines, not only multiplied the market for gasoline but at the same time increased the demand for lubricants.

One use of fats and oils which is new in modern times is for soap. People wish themselves and their clothes more than they did half a dozen centuries ago. The oils which form the bases for paint and varnish are more and more in demand. And more Americans still use oil lamps than there are who have electric lights.

ANNIVERSARY

If a farmer of a century ago could revisit the South today, he would naturally be amazed and bewildered by such complicated farm implements as tractors and grain combines. But did you know he might also be surprised by a simple steel plow? According to The Progressive Farmer, this might be the case. This year marks the 100th anniversary of the founding of the steel plow industry. And only recently Grand Detour, a small village in Illinois, birthplace of the steel plow, was honored with a huge centennial celebration. Music, pageantry, and demonstrations of plowing progress from the time of the Egyptians to the present day marked the occasion. The high light of the day, however, was the dedication of a memorial to Major Leonard Andrus, erected on the site of his early plow manufactory.

JAPAN AND COTTON FARMERS

What the war between Japan and China may mean to Southern cotton farmers is strikingly expressed by The Progressive Farmer in the following paragraph: "In a recent World's News feature we tried to arouse all readers to the importance of having the United States join other nations in some plan whereby disputes between nations will be settled by arbitration and not by war. Such a policy might not only save the lives of your sons or brothers but is desperately needed to keep powerful war-mad nations from exploiting weaker nations. Japan's present effort to gobble up more of defenseless China, for example, is due in large part to Japan's desire to grow her own cotton there instead of using American cotton. As one of the South's foremost cotton authorities has just said, Japan's progressive taking over of North China may result in the loss of from 500,000 to 1,000,000 bales of cotton sales to the Japan-Chinese spinners from United States fields."

FARMERS ON RADIO

Now who would have thought of Lanny Ross as a country boy reluctant to leave the farm? Yet The Progressive Farmer tells us: "It was a great wrench to Lanny Ross to get so far away from the upstate New York farm where he loves to spend every hour he can spare. And he isn't a gentleman farmer either—he knows how to pitch hay and do the chores."

Question for Armistice Day by A. B. CHAPIN

Nancy Hart's HOME NEWS

Doughnuts for Hallow'een.

No Hallow'een frolic is complete without doughnuts and sweet cider so it behooves the hostess to get out her fat kettle and start to work. The terms doughnut, fried cake and cruller are used interchangeably, but there really is a technical difference between them. Not that it matters much because one is just as good as another and we seldom meet a genuine doughnut these days anyway. Doughnuts are bits of yeast dough sweetened and fried in deep fat. Our grandmothers made them and also made a point that they be called doughnuts and not fried cakes.

Fried cakes are of the nature of quick bread dough sweetened or of a cake dough made thick enough to roll, cut in rings and fry in deep fat. Crueller is a Dutch word and means twist. Since the dough of cruellers is the same as that of fried cakes, the shape is the distinguishing feature. So there is something in a name after all.

Then there's the old controversy about the indigestibility of fried cakes. If they are well made and you don't eat too many of them they are just as easy to digest as any other rich cake. The temperature of the fat determines whether the cakes soak fat and become too greasy for easy digestion. The proper blending of materials is important, too. Thorough mixing is necessary but care should be taken not to over-mix the dough. Each ingredient should be thoroughly incorporated in the mixture as it is added, but prolonged beating results in hard, tough fried cakes. Chill the dough for an hour or longer before rolling.

This makes it easy to handle with the minimum amount of flour and insures tender, fluffy cakes.

If you add 1 tablespoonful of vinegar to the frying fat the cakes will absorb less fat flavor. Always add the vinegar when you put the fat on to heat. Do not try to add cold vinegar to hot fat. If you forget it in the beginning, let it go until the next time you make fried cakes.

Remember that chamolis and deep skin gloves should not be washed on the hands. These leathers become soft when wet and are easily torn. Work them around in warm sudsy water, pressing the suds gently through the gloves. Then rinse thoroughly in clear water the same temperature as the first water. Finally rinse through a light suds. Squeeze out the moisture by rolling in a dry Turkish towel. Smooth out wrinkles and gently stretch in shape. Then blow into them to make them dry evenly. While still damp work the leather between the fingers and stretch slightly. Finish drying.

Baked Acorn Squash.

Four acorn squash, 1 pound sausage. Scrub squash and cut out the stem, cutting deep enough to remove seeds. Fill cavity with sausage and bake 1-2 hours in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.). Serve one squash to each person. While baking the squash make a dish of scalloped potatoes and baked apples. This cooks the whole dinner in the oven. Serve a crisp cabbage and pepper salad with the dinner. Dress up the baked apples with a dab of whipped cream with a spot of bright red jelly for garnish.

Never Fail Fried Cakes.

One cup hot mashed potatoes, 4 tablespoons butter, 3 eggs, 1-4 cups sugar, 4 cups flour, 6 teaspoons baking powder, 1 cup sweet milk, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon vanilla, few gratings nutmeg. Add butter and sugar to hot mashed potatoes and mix well. Mix and sift flour, salt and baking powder. Add well beaten eggs to first mixture. Add milk and dry ingredients alternately, mixing lightly after each addition. Add vanilla and nutmeg. Cover closely and let stand in refrigerator for an hour or longer. Roll a small amount of dough on a floured molding board into a sheet about 1-2 inch thick. Cut with a doughnut cutter dipped in flour and fry in deep hot fat (375 degrees F.) If you don't use a fat thermometer, the fat should be hot enough to brown an inch cube of bread in sixty seconds. Cook two minutes on one side, turn and cook two minutes on the other. Drain on crumpled paper and dust with powdered sugar. If you aren't serving hot coffee, mulled cider is a delicious old-fashioned drink to accompany fried cakes.

Fresh ink stains can be removed by covering with salt before the ink dries. When the salt absorbs the ink use a fresh application of salt slightly dampened.

The Federal Social Security Act does not require a state to pass a law in conjunction with it. Nor does it set up any particular system for states that do pass these laws. Every state has passed these laws, however, and three different systems are used by them. Any agreement of a worker to pay a share of his employer's contribution to the Unemployment Compensation Fund is void.

Fig canneries, which started in Texas in 1903, by 1936 were well out of the depression, according to the All-South Development Council, and were using 25,000 pounds of fresh figs per day.

Sunday School Lesson by Rev. Charles E. Dunn

Christian Character and Peace. Lesson for November 7th. Coloss. 3:1-17. Golden Text: Coloss. 3:15. During Paul's first imprisonment in Rome, which lasted two years, he wrote four of his letters, the Philippians, Colossians, Ephilemon, and Ephesians. Our lesson text is taken from the second of these, an epistle addressed "to the people of God and the believing brethren at Colossae." A town in Phrygia or Roman Asia, on the river Lycus, about a hundred miles to the east of Ephesus, Colossae was destroyed by an earthquake in the seventh year of the reign of Nero. Paul never visited Colossae, but during his sojourn of three years at Ephesus one of his assistants, Epaphras, had carried on a successful mission there. Moreover the apostle formed a warm friendship with Philemon, one of the Colossian Christians, apparently a wealthy merchant who visited Ephesus occasionally in the conduct of his business. Later while Paul was in his Roman dungeon two very different visitors reminded him of the Colossian household of faith. One of them was Onesimus, a slave of Philemon, who had run away to Rome after robbing his master, and became Paul's devoted servant. It was he who inspired the briefest of the apostle's letters, the charming note to Philemon. The other visitor was Epaphras who came to Rome evidently for the express purpose of discussing with Paul the spread at Colossae of certain strange teachings hostile to pure Christianity. It was to combat these heretical doctrines, and to support the authority and gospel of Epaphras that the apostle wrote his Colossian letter. While a large part of Paul's argument in Colossians is difficult, even unintelligible, there is much of practical value. In the eloquent passage chosen for our lesson the apostle advocates union with the risen, glorified Christ, stresses the moral results of such a union, and insists that evil habits must give way to a new nature that enshrines love, "the perfect bond of union."

FOR BETTER HEALTH BY DR. J. ROSSLYN EARP Medical Editor, Division of Health Education, New York State Department of Health

ANTHOXYANINURIA Kenneth aged six came running with John's little pot. John aged two trotted along behind. Both childish faces shone with an excitement that was compounded of pride and fear. Kenneth felt important as the bearer of startling evidence, John in the accomplishment of an unprecedented feat. Within the pot was the liquid which John had just produced. It was a rather vivid red. Now if mother had been scared, had looked startled, had cried: Oh dear whatever is that? then the children's anxiety would quickly have changed to panic. Fear would have struck deep into the plastic minds and left its scars perhaps for life. But mother showed not even a trace of surprise. All she said was Beetroots and from the tone of her voice the youngsters knew at once that whatever lay behind the mystery it was nothing that they need fear. Then mother explained to them that when little boys or girls eat lots of beets sometimes the color from the beets goes into the blood, from the blood into the kidneys and comes out into the urine. If she had been a doctor talking to grownups she might have added that the beetroot dye is named anthoxyanin and the passage of beet-stained urine goes by the grand name of anthoxyaninuria. That's something for you to be proud of, isn't it, John; even though it is commoner than you supposed? Happy the children who can buffer themselves from dread of the unknown by the wisdom and tact of a mother who understands.

Palace Theatre At Hico Offers Newest Pictures to Patrons

Opening recently with a completely remodeled show house, including new sound equipment, the Palace Theatre has been attracting large crowds from over a wide territory. Harold W. Stroud, new owner, expresses satisfaction at the reception accorded him on his local venture, and promises steady and constant improvements, along with the best offerings of producers, during coming months.

Manager Brinkley calls special attention to offerings for the following week, advertised elsewhere in the News Review. Three of the pictures he considers of special merit, press release of which follows:

Friends Disregard Star In Disguise

Tyrone Power knows what it is to be unknown, un hailed, and unrecognized, in spite of the fact that he is a star.

For three days during the filming of "Thin Ice," Twentieth Century-Fox picture in which he is co-starred with Sonja Henie, which opened at the Palace Thursday night and will show again tonight (Friday), the young star dined in the studio cafe alone. No one ever greeted him or conversed with him.

He was wearing a gray wig, moustache and goatee, and sometimes a false nose and spectacles for sequences in the picture.

Power enjoyed himself as he sat alone at the table, saying "Hello" to his passing friends, chuckling when they stared coldly at him, nodded, and continued on their way.

McMurray Repeats In Reporter Role

Fred McMurray, the dashing reporter of "The Gilded Lily" and "A Bride Comes Home," is back as a reporter in "Exclusive," a daring story of a newspaper war which opens at the Palace Theatre next Sunday for a two-day run.

McMurray plays the role of a reporter with high ideals who breaks with his superior, Frances Farmer, when the latter also a newspaper worker, decides to make a "racket" of journalism. Charlie Ruggles, Lloyd Nolan, Lee Bowman, Harlan Briggs and Ralph Morgan are also in the cast.

Song Team Keeps Nation Stepping

Gordon and Revel, who wrote the song hits for the Winchell, Bernie musical, "Wake Up and Live," composed the melodies for "You Can't Have Everything," new Twentieth Century-Fox picture coming to the Palace Theatre in Hico Thursday and Friday of next week.

Alice Faye, the Ritz Brothers, Don Ameche, Charles Winninger, Louise Hovick, Rubinoff and his violin, and Tony Martin are featured in the singational show. Norman Taurog directed, and the screen play by Harry Tugend, Jack Yellen and Karl Tunberg was adapted from an original story by Gregory Ratoff.

Old World Romance

Legends of gallant Prince Carl and lovely Lady Sophia surround the old German town of New Braunfels. History relates that after a few German settlements were made over here in 1849 an "Association for the Protection of German Immigrants in Texas" was formed of twenty odd princes, counts, barons, and noblemen in Germany.

The association bought a grant near Comal Springs and in 1844 Prince Carl of Solms-Braunfels led them to America, where they founded the first colony west of Guadalupe. Erecting a log castle for Prince Carl, the colonists christened it Sophienberg in honor of his sweetheart, Lady Sophia.

Postering a government like that of old country, Prince Carl stayed in Texas ten months. His counselors made a strangely mixed society, with a Count as the grocery man, a Baron on a farm, another Baron dispensing beer, and others in odd jobs. After Texas' annexation the Prince returned to his ancestral castle in Braunfels.

I'M THE BIRD who makes others unhappy

I'm the bird that never studies. I never worry about my grades until it is too late and then I make a fuss over them. I go home and tell my parents the teachers have it in for me and that they flunked me. I sometime bring my parents to school and then the row begins. I should have studied and prevented this.

GREAT STRIDES HAVE BEEN MADE IN APPLIED AND PREVENTIVE MEDICINE

"In the last thirty-five years great strides have been made in applied and preventive medicine. Never have mass controls for the prevention of disease and the medical and surgical treatment for illnesses been so highly developed as today. Unfortunately, however, the significance of this forward movement is not yet generally appreciated by the average individual. Though science, by way of the family physician, stands ready to preserve individual health, personal indifference, self diagnosis and self-treatment represent barriers to the helpfulness available in the doctor's office," states Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer.

"Unfortunately, the vast majority of people still consider their doctor merely as an emergency aid. So long as they are well or are not conscious of any physical impairment, they imagine a physician's services are not required. Moreover, there are many who, even though ill, permit themselves or their friends to diagnose the trouble and prescribe some bottled or tablet medicine for the supposed condition. For this group, interest in the family doctor only becomes acute when the self-prescribed remedies fail to cope with the situation. It can be frankly said that thousands upon thousands of men and women become desperately ill or lose their lives because of this misconception of the doctor's limitations or because of an unjustified self-reliance to meet sickness conditions themselves.

"The family physician cannot fulfill his whole duty to the public until his final function is appreciated and the services for which he is so eminently qualified to perform are promptly applied. It must be understood that personal health is just that. It cannot be entirely delegated to public health doctors, sanitary engineers and research laboratory workers. And personal health means first, the prevention of disease or its early discovery; and second, the cure of an existing illness.

"Until the physician is considered as a conservator of personal health as well as an agent to combat disease, many of the discoveries and advanced knowledge in medical science will fall pathetically to render full and due service.

Orators To Debate.

AUSTIN, Texas, Oct. 19.—Schoolboy and schoolgirl orators will debate the question of making the Texas Legislature a unicameral body as this topic forms the 1937-38 subject for the Texas Interscholastic League debate tournament. A bulletin entitled "Texas Legislature: One House or Two" has been prepared by Dr. Joe M. Ray, former instructor in government at The University of Texas, and has been published by the University Bureau of Public School Interests, which is the State executive office for the League. This bulletin contains both affirmative and negative briefs on the subject, and reading material on both sides, including statements from members of the Texas Legislature, articles by authorities on government, and newspaper and magazine editorials.

Texas in 1936 produced 13,400,000 of the nation's total mohair crop of 15,976,000 pounds, or 83.8 per cent. The Texas "per goat" clip average of 4.5 pounds is topped only by Utah's angoras, which average 4.6 pounds, says the All-South Development Council.
