

398th Bomb Sqdn. MacDill Field, Tampa, Fla., July 1, 1942.

Dear Friends: Just a short letter to say hello and tell you where I am.

I have had a great disappointment. Since I came here I have been taken off active combat crew and placed here as a bombardier instructor.

I have never missed an issue of the Hico News Review since I left Jackson, Miss. and believe me it is really good to get to read one.

On limited time, I must stop (not K. P.). From a beautiful state, and a friend.

PFC E. M. PRICE

Dear Mutt:

You boys get around so far and so fast I have a hard time keeping up with you. And think what our circulation dept. has to put up with.

Don't let anybody tell you we don't miss you boys who have left 'ais community. It's sure dull for us old folks without the fellows who can take it being here to kid.

War work, along with military service, is taking its toll of personnel, and pretty soon we're all going to have to go to work—as hard as we hate it.

But people are being nice about everything, knowing from their own experiences that every business is operating under handicaps.

I'm sorry you were disappointed about your transfer, and believe I know how you feel. But don't worry. Personally I've finally let it soak into my thick head that the higher-ups in military circles don't tell all they know.

Have you seen your dad lately, but suppose he's busy like the rest of our farmer friends. They are in a jam again, through no fault of their own.

"There Ain't Gonna Be No Reunion" Committee Says

War-time conditions, difficulties of transportation, and a recent request of the President that communities forego celebrations this year that were not essential to the war effort were given as reasons this week by the Hico Reunion Committee for calling off the 1942 homecoming and picnic.

Since the preliminary arrangements were made Pearl Harbor, the committee pointed out. It was especially stressed that this was a hard decision to make, in view of the acknowledged obligation to the community, but that it was believed it would meet the understanding and approval of the majority.

In the announcement on another page of this issue, these reasons are set forth, together with appreciation for past cooperation with the committee, and assurance that plans will be resumed whenever the situation justifies same.

Gas Company Issues Victory Food Booklet

Cooperating with the nutrition program of the Federal Government, the Texas Southwestern Gas Company last week issued a 32-page booklet, "Selective Service For Victory Food," according to W. M. Marcum, local manager of the company.

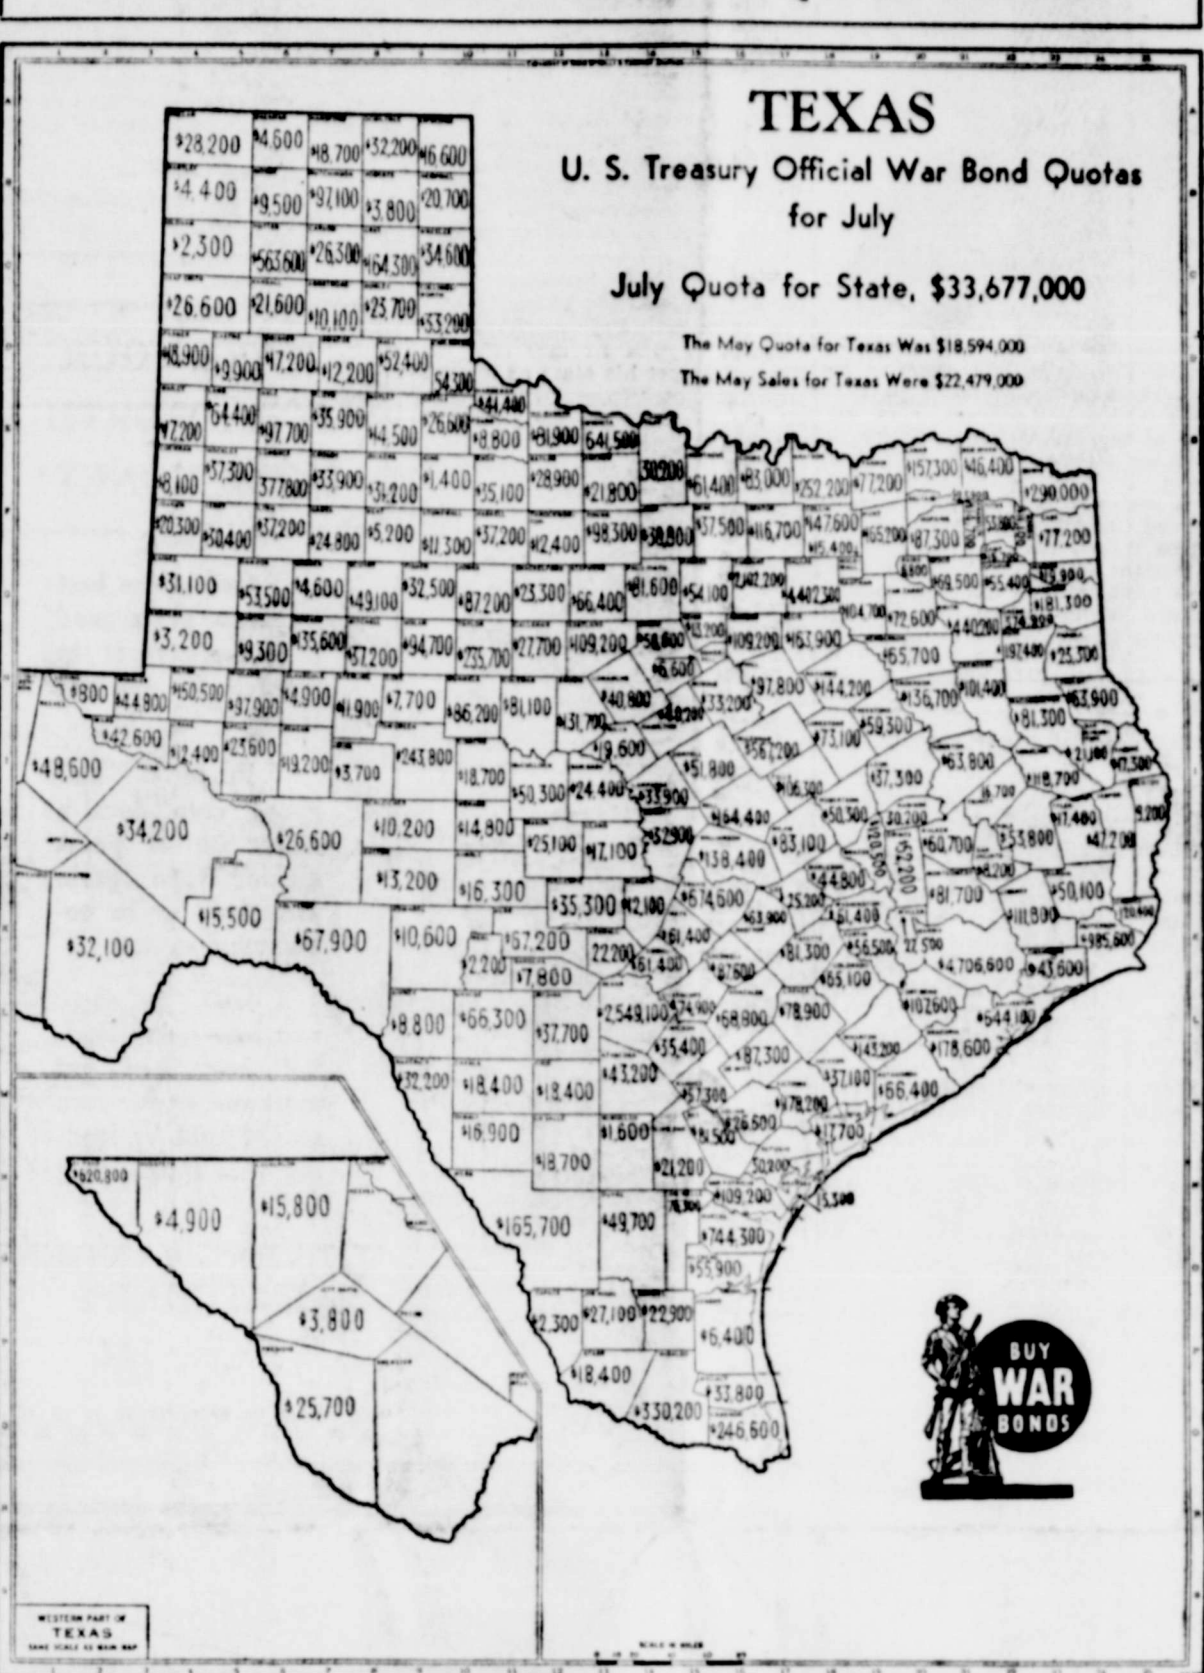

The booklet, prepared by the company's Home Service Department, under the supervision of Miss Theda Stine, home service director, contains numerous helpful hints for housewives in the selection, preparation and serving of nutritious and economical foods of all kinds.

"Publication of this booklet is a recognition of the fact that the American homemaker has important battles of her own to fight in a time like this," Mr. Marcum said. "She has the responsibility of feeding members of her family the food they must have to build their bodies and to maintain their strength."

Information on the basic food elements is presented in readily understandable fashion in the booklet. Its contents do not necessitate counting calories, measuring grams of food or studying complicated charts.

Copies of "Selective Service For Victory Food" are available at the local office of the Texas Southwestern Gas Company. something else until just then when I looked at the clock, and I'm afraid to call the mayor up at this time of night for I don't want to be incarcerated in the bastille.

O. W. Myers of Buffalo Elected Voc. Ag. Teacher

O. W. Myers has been elected to fill the vacancy in the faculty of Hico High School created by the resignation of Chas. H. Sargent, according to an announcement by Supt. Harry T. Pinson following a meeting of trustees Tuesday night, July 7. Mr. and Mrs. Myers and four children, three of whom are of school age, moved here this week, having leased the S. A. Clark place for the coming year.

In making the announcement, the superintendent said that he and the board felt Hico was fortunate in securing the services of a teacher in this line so well fitted for the work he will do in the schools here. Mr. Myers comes to Hico with excellent recommendations from Buffalo, Coleman county, where he has been stationed in the schools for the past six years.

According to geologists, most of West Texas was a shallow continental sea 250,000,000 years ago, and an ancient land which they term Liaporina extended far into the region now occupied by the Gulf of Mexico.

Local Hatchery Has Announced Change of Name

Mrs. G. C. Keeney was in Dallas last week making arrangements for a new line of feed to be handled at her store here, and upon her return announced the addition of the Burrus Mill & Elevator Company's line of Texo Feeds, and a change in the name of the business institution of which she is manager.

In the future her business will be known as Keeney's. It is announced, due to the reputation built up for the Keeney line of leghorns over the past score of years.

In taking on the Burrus line of feeds, Mrs. Keeney calls special attention to the service program conducted by this well known firm in connection with the sale of its products. She invites the poultry and stock raisers of this community to call and learn more about the feeds and services she is now able to offer.

News Review Wins $10 First Prize In Letterhead Contest

A check in the amount of $10.00 was received by the News Review this week as first prize money in Carpenter Paper Company's June Texas Bond Letterhead Contest.

Rollie Forgy, son of former owners of the News Review, who as the saying goes was "raised in a printing office," designed and executed the letterhead in this office, where he has been an employee since before he finished high school.

The letter telling of the award follows:

Fort Worth, Tex., July 3, 1942. The Hico News Review Attention: Mr. Roland L. Holford Dear Mr. Holford:

It is a pleasure for us to award you this first prize, and we hope that you will continue to send us your entries each month.

Yours truly, Carpenter Paper Company, DON WILSON, Manager, Fine Paper Department.

Gas Company Moving Into New Quarters

The local offices of the Texas Southwestern Gas Company, this week were being moved into the new building recently completed to their specifications by R. F. Wiseman on his lot at the southeast corner of Pecan and Second Streets. Moving of fixtures and appliances had practically been completed Thursday, and with a little more straightening and rearranging, business will be going on as usual at the new location.

H. C. Fritzell of Bellville, district manager of the company, was in Hico last week conferring with W. M. Marcum, local manager, on details of the move. Provision has been made in modern show windows for attractive display of ranges and appliances, and the show room advantages of the new quarters are being utilized to the best advantage.

The building itself is of modern design, streamlined, and with white stucco finish on the exterior. It is the result of years of planning by the owner for just such a structure in this location, and has drawn the admiration of visitors as well as homefolks since construction began to reach the finishing stages.

Record Texas Pig Crop The U. S. department of agriculture reported last week that a spring pig crop of 1,629,000, the largest on record and 52 per cent more than in the spring of 1941, were saved on Texas farms this spring.

Sergeant William J. Hess, Army Recruiting Sergeant, located in the Memorial Hall in Brownwood, announced today that during the month of July young men 18 and 19 years of age will be accepted for enlistment in almost any branch of the service they might want to join, including the Air Corps, Signal Corps, Armored Forces, Coast Artillery, Field Artillery, Cavalry, and Infantry.

Dust Off the Fiddle

Dust off the fiddle, guitar, or other musical instrument and gather the neighbors around the front porch or in the school house if you want to keep up community morale. Noble Cain, nationally known choral director and composer, advised on a recent visit to the University of Texas Restriction on travel to concerts and music centers because of war conditions is going to result in a new development of music along community lines, with perhaps a revival of town bands and choruses, he predicted.

USO Chairman Thanks People for Putting Quota Over

Hamilton County can well be proud of its response to the appeal of the USO for funds with which to finance its many operations for the fiscal year ending in May, 1943.

In the national drive which started May 11th and ended July 4th, Hamilton County citizens and business firms, assisted by statewide business institutions with branches here, contributed a total of $1,338.93 against a quota of $1,330.00.

As county chairman during this campaign, I am of course both happy and proud that Hamilton County has gone over the top. The credit for this, however, belongs to the various community chairmen and to their assistants who actually solicited and collected the funds.

To the individuals below, in addition to the community chairmen who have been listed in previous issues of the paper, I wish to express my sincere gratitude for the work they have done for this most worthy cause.

Theron E. Horton, Miss Erline Proffitt, Mrs. Gran Wilford, Miss Parks, W. E. Goynes, Miss Elsie Giese, Mrs. Oscar Domstad, Mrs. Ernest Viertel, Miss Estelle Edmondson, Mrs. Wallace Halle, Mrs. Dan Halle, Mrs. B. B. McKandless, Mrs. Arley Oxley, Mrs. Robert Cole, Mrs. Artye Coffman, Mrs. Howard Shipman, Mrs. Irvin Jones, Mrs. C. M. Broyles, Haskell Payne, Mrs. Cecil Guest, J. C. Courtney, Irvin West, Mrs. Henry Windham, Mrs. W. E. Farmer, Gus Peters, N. Y. Terrell, Mrs. Joe Cleveland, Mrs. Harry Boynton, Mrs. T. A. Emmett, Mrs. T. D. Craddock, Mrs. Robert Lee, Mrs. Guffie Barkley, Mrs. Alice Tate, Miss Mildred Taylor, Miss Tink Cleveland, Mrs. Earl Smith, Mrs. Ed Craig, Miss Alice Joyce Chandler, Miss Wilhelmina Petty, Mrs. Roy Blevins, Mrs. J. V. James, Mrs. R. J. Riley, Robert Williams, Lagree West, Dr. A. J. Koen, John Washam, Bert Patterson, Rev. Walter Gull, Mrs. Henry Alex Wieser, Miss Clara Linton, Roland Holford, and J. E. Harrison.

There are others in addition to those named who helped ably in the campaign but whose names were not given to me by their community chairmen. To them and to the public who responded generously to the appeal, I wish to convey the thanks of the National and State organizations of the USO.

Respectfully submitted, J. T. CHESLEY, Hamilton County Chairman, USO War Fund Campaign.

Keeping Up With TEXAS

Rationing Hits Schools Tire rationing will affect public schools in more serious ways than limiting the travel of school buses, Aldo Jenks, acting director of the University of Texas bureau of municipal research, predicted last week. "State aid for public schools now stands at $22.50 per student," Jenks explained, "and 25 per cent of that amount has been furnished by gasoline tax revenue. Obviously, that 25 per cent is now going to have to come from some other source."

Record Texas Pig Crop

The U. S. department of agriculture reported last week that a spring pig crop of 1,629,000, the largest on record and 52 per cent more than in the spring of 1941, were saved on Texas farms this spring. On Texas farms 270,000 sows were farrowed this spring, the same as the indicated intentions last fall, and 47 per cent more than the number farrowed a year earlier. This year's spring pig crop exceeds the previous spring record set in 1932 by 11 per cent. An average of 6 pigs per litter were saved this spring compared with 5.8 pigs last spring and 5.7 the 10-year average.

Dust Off the Fiddle

Dust off the fiddle, guitar, or other musical instrument and gather the neighbors around the front porch or in the school house if you want to keep up community morale. Noble Cain, nationally known choral director and composer, advised on a recent visit to the University of Texas Restriction on travel to concerts and music centers because of war conditions is going to result in a new development of music along community lines, with perhaps a revival of town bands and choruses, he predicted. "Strange as it seems, war is somewhat of a blessing in disguise to religion and music," he said. "In times of material hardship, people turn to spiritual things, and music ranks next to religion in inspirational value—whether a person likes so-called popular music or the classics."

Favorable Vote On Final Stages Of Consolidation

W. Autrey and L. J. Jordan. Only 17 votes were cast. It was reported, with all of them being for the proposition submitted.

NEWS in the WORLD of RELIGION by W.W. REID

One of the oldest institutions in New York's Borough of Brooklyn—formerly the City of Brooklyn and known as the "City of Churches"—is the Anniversary Day parade of Sunday school children held each June. The first such parade, held more than a century ago, had 300 children from four Sunday schools. The 113th Anniversary Day parade this year had 100,000 pupils and teachers from 320 churches.

"We do not need to go to stories of the early church, we need not enter the catacombs, to find Christian courage; it exists today," President Samuel Trexler of the United Lutheran Synod of New York recently told a gathering of laymen. "Nimrod" has been in jail for five years; he would rather be fettered in body and free in soul. Our bishops in Norway, headed by Berggrav, have taken the same stand. Of our foreign mission posts none have been abandoned. . . . Men do not take a stand of this kind by themselves; it is only as God puts into their hearts the sense of his presence that they will obey God rather than man."

On June 1 there were 2,998 conscientious objectors in twenty-eight special camps "for work of national importance," according to the National Service Board for Religious Objectors. In addition to those who have been accepted by the government as objectors to bearing arms, there are several hundred other cases still pending before draft and appeal boards. A tabulation of the first 2,000 objectors assigned to camps shows that 901 are Mennonites, 355 Brethren, 205 Friends (Quakers), 196 Methodists, 67 Jehovah's Witnesses, 65 Presbyterians, 53 Congregationalists, Christians, and 51 Baptists. The Methodists have the largest number of objectors among the major denominations. Its Discipline says, "Believing that conscientious objection to war is a natural outgrowth of Christian desire for peace on earth, we ask and claim exemption from all forms of military preparation or service for all conscientious objectors who may be members of the Methodist Church."

Dr. Anson Phelps Stokes, president of the Phelps-Stokes Fund, and former canon of the Washington Cathedral of the Protestant Episcopal Church, is chairman of the "Committee on Africa, the War, and Peace Aims." Just organized by a group of nationally prominent American friends of Africa. The objective of the committee is announced as the application of the "eight points" of the Atlantic Charter to the problems of Africa. The committee includes educators and churchmen. The executive group includes Prof. Ralph Johnson Bunche of Howard University, Director Jackson Davis of the General Education Board, Director J. Merle Davis of the International Missionary Council, Dr. Malcolm Davis of the Carnegie Endowment, Dr. Thomas S. Donoghue of the Methodist Board of Missions, Miss Mabel E. Timerson of the Foreign Missions Conference, Prof. Charles S. Johnson of Fisk University, Dr. Thomas Jesse Jones of the Phelps-Stokes Fund, Father John LaFarge, editor of "America," Dr. Emory Ross of the Foreign Missions Conference, and Dr. Channing T. Tobias of the National Y. M. C. A.

The executive board of the United Lutheran Church in America recently adopted resolutions of admiration for the stand of the Lutheran bishops and clergy of Norway against Nazi efforts to control their utterances. "We deplore the fact," said the resolutions, "that any government should exhibit bitter hostility to those whose high duty it is to bring spiritual comfort and strength to the souls of men. Any land which closes its churches and stifles its prophets is inviting inevitable doom. We record with warmest admiration the stand taken by our Lutheran brethren in Norway who refused to permit themselves to be used as unworthy tools of a ruthless dictatorship, preferring any penalty rather than betrayal of the high trust committed to them in their ordination vows."

Among the arrivals from Europe on the S. S. "Drottningholm," early in June, was Dr. Joseph Paul Bartak, superintendent of the Methodist Church in Prague, Czechoslovakia (now the Protectorate of Bohemia and Moravia under Germany). Although born in old Bohemia, Dr. Bartak is an American citizen, having spent his early years in the United States and upon Germany's declaration of war on the United States he was seized and interned in the prison-camp at Laufen, Germany. During five months in this camp he acted as chaplain to the prisoners. Upon news of his pending exchange for internees in America, the men in the camp prepared a "diploma" through which they expressed their appreciation of his ministry. He says that treatment in the camp is not harsh, but that food is scant and not nourishing. Dr. Bartak's family is in Texas, and he will stay there for some weeks of rest. He is a graduate of Southwestern University, and Vanderbilt University, and of the University of Chicago.

THIS AND THAT

By JOE SMITH DYER

There are people that cannot be happy without memberships in country clubs, yachts for cruising, many cylindered cars for fast driving, big houses with a lot of servants—and there are also people who find all the happiness they want in taking care of a little garden. They exchange plants with other gardeners, work early and late making changes and comparing notes with those who have had other gardening experience. It is not the things that we possess that count; it's what we think and feel about those things. There may be more happiness in a canoe on a small river than on a palatial yacht in the harbor of New York—or the reverse may be true! It isn't the canoe or the yacht that's important—the thing that matters is what is in the hearts of those aboard them.

Just finished Struther Burt's latest book, "Along These Streets"—a novel of Philadelphia aristocracy. It was in this city that the author got his start as a newspaperman at fifteen. He covered all the tough beats for years, invented fantastic stories and finally worked his way up to managing editor of the Philadelphia Standard. "Along These Streets" reveals some of the things he saw and encountered during his early newspaper days. It is destined to become one of this year's best sellers.

In Chicago, Sarah Haley, 17 year old negro girl sang as she did her mother's washing in their small back yard. One day two men stopped and listened. One of them was Sig Rupp, manager of the Chicago Fine Arts Course, and the other was Leonardo Raphael, one of America's greatest voice teachers. Today Sarah is being trained for a concert career and every Sunday she sings a solo in the First Negro Methodist Church in Chicago. On Mondays she still washes in her back yard—and sings.

ODDS AND ENDS

One of the largest printing jobs ever undertaken in this land was the one worked out in the Government Printing Office in Washington for the rationing of sugar. More than 700,000,000 printed forms of various kinds and sizes were required and the paper used amounted to almost 12,000,000 pounds. Of the War Ration books, some 190,000,000 copies were printed.

There have been many examples of men and women who resorted to surgery to make their features more attractive, but here is a brand new one: A Polish aviator asked surgeons to crop his nose because it was too long to fit comfortably into his — oxygen mask!

Behind every man in uniform, according to the files of the National Tuberculosis Association, are 18 men and women in overalls, on farms and in factories. In the wars of Napoleon one worker at home was sufficient to supply the needs of two soldiers in battle.

A good rule to apply to any situation is to ask a question when you are unable to think of anything to say. Ask almost any question, even tho it may later appear to be stupid. A question may be silly and yet retrieve the conversation, and a conversation should never, never lag.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

Our army spells and pronounces it pontoon, not "ponton", as you do. Pontoon bridges cost all the way from $15,000 to $700,000. The smaller bridge using individual metal pontoons is pictured here. The largest pontoon bridge is 1,080 feet long and is made of rubber instead of aluminum.

One small bridge has a weight capacity of 25 tons, using about 2,000 individual metal pontoons. The smallest is used only to take troops over smaller streams. But whether our army uses the smaller or largest pontoon, our engineers need plenty of them. If you and every American invests at least 10 percent of income in War Bonds every pay day we can apply our fighting forces with these essentials to a victorious war.

The Customer Is Benefited by Advertising . . .

Last week we told you the story of disposable tissues and how advertising helped to bring the price of disposable tissues to its present low level.

But that was only one case of lowered costs through advertising. There are many more.

Businesses vie to give you better quality at lower prices and through advertising they tell you how their products are better. If a business man gets his prices too high a competitor comes in with a lower price. You are the gainer every time.

Let us take a few examples of lowered costs through advertising. In these 15-year comparisons, you will also recognize that quality is better . . . service of the article improved.

EXAMPLES OF LOWERED COSTS THRU ADVERTISING

In these 15-year comparisons, you will also recognize that quality is better . . . service of the article improved.

WHAT TO DO

Make advertising your buying guide.

It's a guarantee of finest quality at the right price.

And don't let anybody tell you that advertising increases the cost of goods. When you run into that one, tell them how advertising lowers costs through mass production and raises quality through competitive enterprise—the American system.

"YOUR HOME NEWSPAPER"

CONSERVE FOR VICTORY

Longer Life for YOUR RADIO

You depend a lot upon your radio these days so take good care of it and make it last, as no more will be manufactured until the war is over. Here are some suggestions that will help.

Is your radio located near a window? Then move it before you forget. An open window—a sudden shower and the cabinet may be damaged or the wiring short circuited.

Is your radio near a heater or fireplace? Too much heat may warp the cabinet—may dry out the insulation—may shorten the life of the set. Better move it to another spot.

Don't clean out back of radio with dust cloth. You may loosen tubes or disturb wiring. Dust won't harm your radio. If you must clean it, use vacuum cleaner attachment.

Young children ought not to operate the radio-phonograph. They may damage the player mechanism or put it out of adjustment. Load it for them and avoid trouble.

Be careful in moving your radio from one location to another. Hard shocks or jars may damage tubes or connections. Radios are delicate instruments. Handle with care.

BATTLE OF THE KITCHEN FRONT

An army proverbially travels on its stomach. In this all-out war, all of us are in the army. The kind of food eaten by civilians is of the utmost importance.

On the shoulders of the American housewife rests the responsibility of selecting and properly preparing this nourishing food. It is up to her to feed members of her family that they will be healthy and strong.

Worth-while aid is brought to local housewives with the publication by Texas Southwestern Gas Company of a booklet called "Selective Service For Victory Food."

GOOD TO THE LAST DROP

The next thing to save is household cooking fats. During July, each housewife will be asked to keep every drop of fat available, keep it until she has at least a pound, and then turn it in at a meat or food store.

By LYTLE HULL Ups and Downs

A month or so ago the German military position appeared to be unsalvageable. Then some Hitler with a one-track "up" complex, decided that the German army should "take a day off" and clean up Russia.

The Japanese star—at the moment of this writing—is coming steadily toward the apex except for an occasional bump as it hits an Allied air pocket. It, too, will reach a ceiling and descend sharply only to rise and descend and rise and descend again.

All life consists of ups and downs and 99 per cent of all human reaction is to struggle harder when things get bad and to relax when things get good.

Glycerine is made from fats. Most of our fats and oils have been imported from the Far East. But, it is estimated, two billion pounds of cooking fats are ordinarily thrown away each year.

GOOD AND BAD NEWS

Ever since Pearl Harbor we have been wandering up emotional hills and down emotional dales.

Over the radio we hear the sweet music of victories and a few days later the bitter reports of defeats. The victories excite us with the anticipation of a quick ending of the war and we cheerfully envision a better life just around the corner.

If this is a long war, as there is ever reason to expect it to be, these mental ups and downs are going to wear our nerves to frazzles. We need to learn to take our victories with more grains of salt and our defeats with stronger dashes of hope.

PINS AND NEEDLES

Speaking of the straw that broke the camel's back—it has now been determined that economy in the use of pins and needles can be of help in winning the war.

Pins are made of brass, copper and steel. Needles are made of high carbon steel essential for war use. Although it would take the material for a large quantity of pins and needles to make an instrument of war—the number of pins used in this country in a year is even greater than the number of pennies in our national debt.

Actually many tons of vital materials can be conserved if we watch our pins and needles. Saving pins may make it possible to turn out that extra shell which will put the finishing touches on winning the war.

LOOKING AHEAD

Everybody in this country regrets that when we were at peace we weren't foresighted enough to prepare for war. Now that we are at war, let us hope that we will at least realize the importance of preparing for peace.

The peace that follows the war can be to the people of this country a wonderful adventure in a scale of living higher than we have ever known before. Or it can be almost worse than war itself.

Which kind of peace we will have will depend largely on what men are appointed now to work out the master plan which will keep our economy functioning at full speed when the war production ends.

War Comes to Town

"Shot-In-the-Arm" Patriotism

San Antonio was entertained by a group of war heroes Wednesday. The boys were sent here to stir up enthusiasm for buying war bonds and stamps.

In our opinion the affair was the worst indictment of the people of the United States and of the officials of the treasury department that has yet come to light.

No hint of criticism can possibly be laid on the youngsters who are being paraded over the country to make a series of Roman holidays.

They have been given a job, and they are doing it, although it obviously is a lot tougher than any they have yet encountered or will encounter in fighting the enemy.

Does the treasury department feel we need to thus have our patriotism goaded in order to make us see the necessity for buying the bonds that will help to keep our freedom?

Do they think we have to see real live heroes in order to know there is a war going on?

Do we really need this? The record of bond sales would indicate they are correct.

We have not done our part, at least far, far too many of us have not.

But if we need this sort of thing we do not deserve to keep our liberties.

We do not deserve to keep our lives—which really is what we are fighting for.

It is high time we get tough. It is time we realized a lot of people are going to have to die to save our way of life, and the only hope for us is to kill a whole lot more Germans and Japs than they can kill off the men, women and children on our side.

courage us to back the fight with our cash.

It is high time we get tough right here at home.

It is time we get tough with the politician who wastes a penny of our tax money.

It is time we get tough with the chiselers and the cheat, the bungler and the procrastinator, the carping critic of the war effort and the potential Quisling.

Perhaps we are going to have to wait until the bombs fall before we get mad.

Perhaps we will not learn this is war until our loved ones are moaning under the wreckage of our homes.

But if so, it will not help the war effort to parade a group of men called back from the fighting fronts through the streets.

Consider the truth: We have not yet won a battle in this war!

The enemy is advancing on all fronts and the sands of time run dangerously low.

We do not yet have an army. The home front is menaced by selfishness, greed and petty politics.

The battle of production is endangered by lack of materials.

And the treasury thinks it necessary to drive its chariots through our streets with—not captive enemies, but our own fighting heroes lashed to the wheels!

If this indicates a fighting spirit that can win this war then any pool room loafer can lick Joe Louis if you give him a pep-talk.

Let's have no more of this phoney, shot-in-the-arm patriotism.

Let's have no more parades of heroes until the war is won.

Let's get tough, each one and each town and each state.

Let's buy bonds—and heaven help the man who can't buy.

Let's pitch in and WIN this war, instead of talking it—"Around the Plaza" in The San Antonio Light.

UNDERTAKE THE IMPOSSIBLE

H. V. Kaltenborn! You hear him on the air interpreting war news. You've read his books. He was born in Milwaukee, and he graduated from Harvard with honors.

Would you like to know what he considers the secret of his success? I met him on the train not so long ago, and he gave it to me in three words: undertake the impossible.

As a young man he wanted to go to Europe, but he did not have the money, nor did he have any prospect of earning it. So he undertook the impossible: he decided to go to Europe without money.

He traveled over Germany, where he could speak the language, but also he wanted to see Paris—the Paris of his Milwaukee dreams. No money, and he couldn't speak French; but he decided to see Paris, anyway.

He arrived in Paris without a cent in his pocket. He would get a job! He would indeed, for he had to get one! He decided to insert an ad in the papers stating that he would do any kind of work. The insertion of an ad meant pawning his camera.

He received one reply—from a company that wanted him to sell stereoscopes. You'll remember those old-fashioned things you used to look through to see enlarged pictures.

To sell stereoscopes to the French people when he could not parley-vo a word of their language, did seem impossible. He took the printed sales-talk to a waiter who could speak English and French and had him translate it. Then he had the waiter drill him, and learned the whole sales talk by heart.

Well, to make a long story short, he made $4,000 the first year. He worked part of the next year, then gave it up and came back to this country and went to school again.

He told me that if some one in Milwaukee had previously said that he could sell stereoscopes to the French in their own language he would have thought the man crazy. Yet he did it. Mr. Kaltenborn quotes his Harvard professor, William James: "What we do, compared to what we could do, is like comparing the waves on the surface of the sea to the ocean's great depths."

So the next time you are appalled by some task, sail into it, accomplish the impossible. It can be done, if you will have utmost confidence in yourself, you can do it.

Funeral Services Held Tuesday for Hugh L. Bingham

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock for Hugh L. Bingham, who died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. J. H. Goad, Monday night. Services at the home were conducted by Rev. Since the death of his wife he has made his home with his children, who have been very solicitous of his health and happiness, and made his declining years as comfortable and happy as possible. His health had remained remarkably good for one of his age, and it was only in the past few months that he had been denied regular association with friends over a wide territory, in whom he retained a lively interest to the last. # BREAK O'DAY IRON

By Reginald Wright Kauffman

CHAPTER XI
SYNOPSIS

A man identified as Joseph Slinn is found drowned in the Hudson river near Albany, N. Y. Slinn was insured by the Protective Life Insurance company, and his beneficiary is a man named B. B. Twombly who lives in Troy. The company's Albany agent, Carlin, identifies the body, and the insurance money is paid to Twombly. But Jerry Glidden, suspecting that Slinn was murdered, has gone to Ironburg, a little mining town in Pennsylvania, to see an "Angie Slinn." She turns out to be an ugly recluse of a woman who lives in a shack near the abandoned "Break O'Day" iron mine. She denies knowing Joseph Slinn. Rose Walker, grand-daughter of the owner of the mine, runs the local store and post office. When a man registers at the hotel as B. B. Twombly of Portland, Maine, Jerry wires Troy and learns that Twombly has moved to Maine. He has already seen Twombly with Rose Walker, and again at Angie Slinn's shack, so Jerry is not surprised to discover that someone has tried to kill him. Jerry decides to go to America, a nearby town, instead of returning to Ironburg.

He reached Americus long after midnight. Everything was closed tight; the sole lights were the blue-spattering arc-lamps at the corners. The sole person encountered was a large, fat man with whom Jerry collided at his second turning toward what he remembered as Elm Avenue, the main street.

"Who're you an' what do you want?" the fat man demanded.

"If you can tell me that," Jerry countered, "who are you?"

"Constable Campbell. You'd best speak up."

"You wouldn't know who I was if I told you, because I'm not anybody of any importance. I don't belong here. I'm just walking through, but I want to find the telephone exchange and get on to a long distance wire."

"Shut up," said the policeman.

"What? You mean I'm lost?"

"It is. Our exchange closed at twelve tonight an' won't open till seven. The night girl's took sick an' she couldn't find no substitute."

There was nothing for it save to rout out the clerk at the Hotel Americus and—at more expense—lie down on a hard bed for six hard hours. "My coat'll dry, anyhow," Jerry comforted himself.

Up at six he got to his teardrops and roused, betimes, at a Philadelphia boarding house, a young New Yorker, who had lately been sent to the P.L.L.'s Quaker City branch.

Mr. Wraxall, the gentleman in question, wasn't grateful.

Glidden talking, said Jerry.

"When does your office open?"

"Nine o'clock. It's 7:30 now. Thank you for calling me in time."

"Don't mention it; but your private mansion'll do just as well, as long as you're in it. Didn't you once try to sneak through the University of Pennsylvania?"

"I graduated from it."

"Lucky for U.P. Say, listen, Wraxall: I want the name of the best man that institution's got in the practical metallurgical line. The kind who can pick up a cobblesome and tell you why it's coal. Got me?"

"His name's Bower," the unhesitating Wraxall responded, "and he isn't at Penn now, because, if you'll

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Adam and Eve: Temptation and Sin. Lesson for July 12: Genesis 3:1-13: 23, 24.

Golden Text: Ezekiel 18:4.

Strikingly the tempter is described as a serpent—which glides noiselessly by the ground and as silently strikes, sending venom into the victim. Correctly Eve confessed that the serpent beguiled her. And it is tragic enough that the insinuating nature of sin is often realized after one has been deceived.

Adam laid the blame on Eve, she laid the blame on the serpent, and ever since sinners have tried to lay the blame on others. But though the tempter deceives men, men cannot deceive God; he lays the blame where it belongs—in the heart that yields to sin.

Men have wondered why God allowed sin to enter the world. The development of moral character requires the freedom of choice between good and evil. Adam and Eve made the wrong choice and thus sin entered. The pair were soon disillusioned. Their eyes were opened but to the ugly nature and penalty of sin. They realized they were naked and helpless before God. His presence terrified them.

Volumes might be written on the misery of a guilty conscience. God drove Adam and Eve out of the garden, lest they eat of the tree of life. Eternal life in sin would be a greater tragedy than eternal death. So the pair took their mournful way from the gate of a lost Eden, but with the first promise of redemption—that their posterity should bruise the serpent's head. And in that promise of redemption, amplified and fulfilled in Christ, let us know that the sin which entered the world in the beginning may be trampled under foot by those of believing hearts.

HOUSE and HOME

By MARY E. DALLIE
Author of Sister Mary's Kitchen.

In these days of stress the health of the family is of paramount importance. The production of military equipment must continue without interruption—all workers must be on their jobs. Too many illnesses are caused by diet deficiencies so it behooves every homemaker to study and learn all she can about foods and their composition.

There are four definite food substances that are essential for an adequate diet—calories (protein, carbohydrates and fat), minerals, vitamins and water. The calories supply the energy and do their share along with minerals and water to build and repair the body. Minerals, vitamins and water keep the body in good running order—in good health.

Try to include in your daily meals plenty of milk. A quart of milk should be given to every growing child and to every expectant mother and nursing mother. Every other adult member of the family should have a pint of milk. This doesn't mean that it has to be used wholly as a beverage. You can use it in cooking, in cream soup, over vegetables, in desserts and sauces.

You should plan one or more servings every day of tomatoes, oranges, grapefruit, green cabbage or raw green salads.

There should be one or more servings every day of leafy, green or yellow vegetables besides two or more servings of other vegetables and fruits. Potatoes come under the "other" vegetables and are a much more valuable food than they have been considered for the past years. They are a good source of vitamin C, furnish a little iron and are an excellent carrier for fat.

Use plenty of eggs—one a day for every person if you can and at least three or four per person a week.

There should be one or more servings every day of meat, poultry or fish.

Plan at least two servings a day of either whole wheat or enriched cereals and bread. Whole grain cereals and breads play an important part in low cost diets because they are sources of several valuable food substances.

Fats should be included in your meals, too. Cream and butter furnish vitamin A, so if you use a margarine remember to make up the deficiency.

When you have provided all these foods you may add sweets.

If you write to the United States department of agriculture in Washington for the bulletin on Chemical Composition of American Food Materials you can learn much about your foods.

If your life you've been leading is a bit jaded try a mask treatment for a quick pick-up. Of course the use of masks

Reunion Called Off!

The Hico Reunion Committee has deemed it advisable to cancel plans for this year's celebration, previously scheduled for early August as usual.

Naturally this announcement is made with regret, but in the sincere belief that the general public will understand the reasons. Dates for the annual affair were set just before Pearl Harbor, and plans were going forward even after that, in the belief that Hico was almost obligated to extend a welcome to visitors for the 60th such occasion.

But the picture has changed rapidly... the rubber shortage... difficulties of transportation... rationing... and recently, a request from Government officials to defer such celebrations in the interest of the war effort.

We're not inhospitable—just determined to cooperate in any way possible with the Fight For Freedom—a freedom which has allowed 59 of these auspicious and delightful picnics in the past and which must be assured before we can plan anything permanent for the future. If opportunity presents, you may be assured that Hico people will be glad to see you any and all times you can get here—even if you have to walk.

It is hoped that bigger and better picnics and homecomings may be in store for the future... after we've taken care of the things that threaten our freedom and our very existence.

Please accept our thanks for past cooperation, and come when you can!

rub your eyes and look at the calendar, you'll see this is the month of July.

"Then where is he? And if he isn't handy, who is?"

"Tecumseh Sherman Bower lives somewhere in Ranleigh. That's a suburb of Pittsburgh. I'm not wise to his street address, but if you'll—"

"Thanks, I will, old man." Jerry spoke to an unconnected telephone, however. He had already hung up and was seeking a timetable to find out how soon he could start for Pittsburgh.

"Some the less, he had one other 'phone call to make this morning. He called Ironburg. He got Miss Walker on the wire.

"What happened to you?" thus she replied to the announcement of his identity.

"Oh— he was pleased by her concern—"I went for a starlight stroll. And I lost my way. And I'm in Americus."

She punctured his conceit. "I asked because Mr. Hassler was over here worrying, a few minutes ago."

"I was seeing the night life of Americus, but I'm all right now. Say, Rose, I've got to go away on business for about twenty-four hours. Do you mind?"

"I'll never survive it."

"Is Angie Slinn in there in the store with you?"

"Yes. Do tell me about your business trip."

"I can't—over the 'phone. But I want you to promise me something."

"Are you proposing?"

"Sure; but I'm also telling you not to close any business deal with that guy we were talking about last night—not till I get back, or till you hear from me, anyhow."

"Why?"

Desperately he consulted his watch. Some sort of reply he had to give. A phrase sprang ready made from his lips, just because prevarication is so easy.

"I've got to go! I can just catch my train's tail if I do a nosedive for it! I told you I wasn't my own boss. Well, for one thing, I believe your own interests depend a good deal on an answer I must get to a letter I didn't mail to my employers till last evening. Not to do anything—anything—before tomorrow night, anyhow. Will-you-promise?"

From the other wire end traveled to him a gulp of feminine incredulity. "A letter you mailed out here?"

"Certainly."

And then the blow fell.

"Jerry, don't try to lie to me. There's just one letter-box in Ironburg, and that's the one here at the store. Early this morning I had Angie collect everything in it, and I put a lot in the bus mailbag myself. There wasn't a single letter—only a handful of postcards."

"Rose—"

"Click!"

She had rung off.

In the adjoining office of his Ranleigh laboratory, Tecumseh Sherman Bower had pulled a pair of old-fashioned steel-mounted spectacles far down upon an old-fashioned hook nose and looked over them at Jerry.

"From what you tell me, I gather that the water would present no insurmountable difficulty to the engineering mind. The question, therefore, concerns solely these specimens."

He nodded at what looked to Jerry more than ever like rubbish. It was the still sodden contents of those pockets filled at the Break O'Day banks.

"Of course I don't know if I got the right stuff—or got it in the right way, Doctor. I mean I didn't know how to select samples—"

"The tests will tell if you were wrong—or else that the deposit is."

"When must I come back?"

"In two hours."

"And about the fee—do I pay it now or then—or later?"

"Ah, yes, the honorarium. Well, just as you please," said Dr. Bower in a tone that plainly meant "At once!"

Jerry further, and this time almost completely, ruined his bill-roll.

So much at the first session. Now the second had begun, and Jerry was here for the verdict. The expert approached his hands to each other, the tips of their long fingers touching, and leaned back in his swivel chair.

"I am not aware, Mr. Glidden, as to whether you are cognizant of the leading facts in the chronicle of the iron and steel industry."

Jerry wasn't and didn't want to be, but it was impossible to say so. One interview with this specialist had convinced his clients of Dr.

Bower's impenetrable scholarship. Having received his fee, he was determined to give good measure in return.

"I don't know anything about 'em," said Glidden.

"Ah! In order that you may understand about those specimens which you brought me, I must indicate the leading points of the industry's tertiary period."

"Very well," moaned Jerry.

"Before—" Dr. Bower resumed—"before that period, we had a conversion of the metal into fusible castiron. Huntsman, in 1740, removed the ore's gangue by melting. But the process was expensive and never completely satisfactory. Not until more than a century later—to be exact, in 1856—did Bessemer make his magnificent discovery. By the open-hearth method, he developed a hitherto unprecedented heat of 1,500 degrees Centigrade. So he could liberate low carbon steel and wrought iron from cinder mechanically entangled herewith. He liquidated those previously practically infusible factors. Am I clear, Mr. Glidden?"

"Oh, absolutely!" Jerry lied.

"But, you see, all I wanted to know—"

"From what you have told me, I gather that the deposits in question were a case in point. Many such a concern went into bankruptcy and was forgotten before S. G. Thomas found the way to eliminate the phosphorus from any slag rich in lime."

Here was, at last, something worth hearing. "When did that happen?" asked Jerry.

"In 1878. Meanwhile, metallurgical surveys had been imperfectly conducted and maps by no means kept up to date. As I have already intimated, not a few banks now potentially valuable fell into the possession of persons out of touch with the industry's progress and so—"

The concluding words of that sentence Jerry never did hear. He had heard enough to turn his whole being into one great nerve that responded to a single emotion. Rose's grandfather had died in '77, and not paperized later had vowed never again to read or listen to a word about iron ore. 1877—a year before the great invention!

"That's all right, Doc. Jerry fairly wailed, "but just tell me, yes or no, if this stuff of mine's got the right amount of lime in it. For the love of—"

The expert was human, after all. Over his lowered spectacles, he smiled. "My judgment is that you have got hold of a fairly high class of steel ore."

"What!" Jerry's heart jumped into his throat. "What's it—worth?"

"How much have you?"

"None—but I have a friend who has a hill of it."

"And the location?"

"I'll have to consult her."

"A lady?" The Doctor's smile enlarged. "Then of course you must I merely inquired for the reason that these specimens of yours are extremely like some submitted to me only a short while ago."

"These are from this state. Were those others?"

"No, I'm sure not. Indeed, I remember the matter chiefly because, assuming that the person who brought them brought them from his own part of the country, I was surprised to learn there was such ore thereabouts. Since your interests, therefore, can't possibly interfere with those of this predecessor of yours among my clients, I may as well tell you that he was a Mr. Carlin—as I recollect, from Albany or Troy. Must you go, Mr. Glidden?"

Must he? He was gone! He was out of the office; he was "Doing It Now" with a vengeance. In a minute he was hailing a fortunately passing taxi.

"All the way in town! Union Station—and never mind the traffic laws!"

Carlin! The name of the P.L.L.'s agent who had secured the Joseph Slinn risk—and urged its acceptance! Carlin, who had "gone on his vacation" near Casco Bay, Maine, when beneficiary Twombly removed to Portland! Specimens from the Hudson Valley, indeed!

Rose had talked of writing twelve hours only. In the telegraph office, he could scarcely handle the pad of forms. The chain attached to the public pencil snapped. He himself couldn't read the message he wrote for Rose. The operator insisted on Glidden's verbal translation:

"WAIT. DON'T SELL. WAIT. JERRY."

TOMATOES A DIFFERENT WAY EVERY DAY

One of the loveliest foods from your Victory Garden and on your local market is the tomato. The supply is larger than usual and the quality is good. It's a good food. It will give you lots of Vitamin C which will make strong teeth, firm gums, strong blood vessel walls, so that jars and bumps won't make you black and blue. It has Vitamin A which makes strong eyes, keen sight, strong mucous membrane lining of the nose, throat and lungs. It has some Vitamin B-1 which makes for steady nerves, good appetite, good digestion. It has some Vitamin C and some niacin which helps prevent pellagra. It is rich in iron and has some other minerals. It is lovely in color, of delicate acidity, tasty in flavor, juicy and refreshing. It lends itself to a variety of uses in the menu. It can be used a different way every day at every meal, if you like.

One summer Monday morning, won't you try sliced, ripe-red, dew covered tomatoes? They're cold when they come from the garden or the refrigerator. They will help you start Monday right. Of course, if it is winter, you'll take tomato juice, which is almost as good.

Tuesday is a good day for lamb chops for dinner. Add broiled tomatoes, baked stuffed squash, parsley potatoes are good to serve with them.

On a summer Wednesday—especially if that happens to be wash day—why not let the tomato dish be of sliced, deep red, only unpeeled on a blue plate. It will revive your doused spirits and take the perspiration from your brow and the soap suds from your hands. If it is winter, open a can of tomatoes into a sauce pan, add salt, pepper, butter, heat and serve piping hot.

Thursday's dinner in summer is likely to be a bit of a dressed-up affair. If so, serve cocktails made from tomato juice, a dash of to-basco sauce, salt, pepper, and serve finely chopped onion, celery, parsley—just a bit of each. If it's a winter Thursday, try cream of tomato soup, real hot with crisp, whole-wheat crackers.

Friday is housecleaning day. Let's have fresh or salad pack canned tomatoes, stuffed with chicken salad, with green beans (canned, frozen, or fresh) and potatoes baked brown.

On Saturday night a good rich salad—halves of hard cooked eggs, quartered tomatoes, a small box of sardines with all the oil in which they are packed, a dash of French dressing, if you like.

And now comes Sunday—with roast beef, baked tomatoes, garden asparagus, new potatoes. Or tomato crown, which is made by arranging tomatoes with slices of onions and a pork sausage under it, a slice of onion and a pork sausage on top of it, all baked in a moderate oven about 45 minutes. These haven't nearly exhausted the list. There's vegetable soup, rich with tomatoes. There's tomato sauce with cheese. There are a lot of Spanish and creole dishes that are ever so tasty. There are plenty of ways for you to have tomatoes a different way every meal, every day.

Former Citizen Brought Here for Burial Saturday

Mrs. Willie Glass Platt, 86, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Ray Sumrall, at Lake Charles, La., at 10:20 a. m. Thursday, July 2, after a long illness. Services were held at the Burke funeral home at Lake Charles Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock, with Rev. J. Henry Dowdon, pastor of the First Methodist Church, officiating. The body arrived in Hico Saturday morning and funeral services were held at the Platt home, where Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Ford now reside, at 11 a. m. on July 4, conducted by Rev. Floyd W. Thrash, pastor of the Hico Methodist Church, with burial in the Hico cemetery.

Funeral services were held at the Platt home, where Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Ford, Forrest Todd, C. D. Richbourg, E. H. Persons, and George Powledge, with Burrow Funeral Home in charge.

Mrs. Platt was born September 1, 1856 on a plantation 16 miles from Minden, La., which was called Flat Lake, and moved to Lake

Charles when a small child. Her father, Dr. Thomas A. Glass, made his home there several years and practiced his profession there in the early days. The family moved from Lake Charles to Hico when Mrs. Platt was a child and she had made her home here during the intervening years until about two years ago when she went to Lake Charles to make her home with her daughter, Mrs. Sumrall. She was a lifelong member of the Methodist Church, and always took an interest in local affairs. Her circle of friends was large, embracing young and old, and her cheerful disposition lasted until the end. She always missed her friends in Hico, writing only a few weeks ago about her illness and her regret at not being able to come back to the town and the friends she loved so well. She was uncomplicated, and although she missed association with her lifelong acquaintances in her forced estrangement in the latter years of her life, she accepted her fate philosophically and expressed sincere appreciation of the kind and considerate treatment accorded her by her children and relatives.

She was married to Robert James Platt on July 21, 1872 at Filmore, La., moving to Paris, Texas that year. Thirteen children were born to this union, six of whom survive: D. A. Platt, Meridian; A. Platt, Stephenville; Ora Sumrall, Lake Charles, La.; C. C. Platt, Beaumont; G. C. Platt, New Orleans, La.; and L. H. Platt, Roseville, California. All were present except C. C. Platt, who is ill in a hospital in Beaumont, and L. H. of California. She has one brother, Oakley Glass, who resides at Whiteville, N. C., also eight grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

"Home talent" entertainment is coming back in, to remain for the duration, University of Texas defense recreation experts agree. The object of recreation is to have fun, and neighborhood baseball games or dramatics or sing-songs "need not rival professional performances to be good recreation," it was pointed out.

Money alone can't buy Victory. But it can buy the needed tanks and planes for our fighting men. Contribute at least 10 per cent of your household budget as your share for your county's War Bond quota.

Next Two Ration Periods Amended Says Chief Clerk

Ration Periods 5 and 6 have been amended to extend to four weeks each. The four previous ration periods were for two weeks each. Under the amendment, Ration Period No. 5 will extend from June 28 to July 25, 1942, while Ration Period No. 6 will extend from July 26 to August 22, 1942.

Consumers are entitled to receive two pounds of sugar for Stamp No. 5, at any time during Rationing Period No. 5, and two pounds of sugar for Stamp No. 6, at any time during Rationing Period No. 6. Although the amount of sugar which may be obtained by the stamps has been changed to correspond with the extension of the ration period, there is no increase in the amount of sugar allotment for each person.

MAVIS MILLER, Chief Clerk
Hamilton Co. W. P. & R. Bd. 95.

Sugar "Bonus" Is Announced

WASHINGTON, July 3.—A sugar "bonus" of two pounds for every ration card holder, purchasable between July 19 and Aug. 22, was announced by the Office of Price Administration Friday because of "somewhat heavier shipments" of sugar into this country than anticipated.

In addition, institutional users will get 75 per cent of their normal sugar consumption for September and October instead of the present 50 per cent, and industrial users will get 80 per cent instead of 70 per cent.

Householders may obtain the dividend allotment by presenting ration stamp No. 7 to the grocery store any time in the six-week period. The bonus is in addition to the regular two-pound monthly allotments obtainable with card No. 5, and with card No. 6.

Price Administrator Leon Henderson, in announcing OPA's decision, said it represented a "conservative gamble" on the likelihood of sugar supplies continuing to arrive in their present volume.

To meet the urgent need for personnel workers to find and train new industrial workers, the University of Texas in cooperation with the U. S. Department of Education, is sponsoring a series of adult education courses in personnel management and supervision.

Tri-Community Homecoming Held At Park Sunday

The Tri-Community Homecoming of Olin, Gum Branch and Sunshine met in the city park at Hico July 5, for the second time. The rationing cut the attendance about one-third of last year. About one hundred old and new friends enjoyed the following program in the morning:

Claude D. Emmons of Camp Wolters has written his parents here, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Emmons, that he has recently been promoted from second lieutenant to first lieutenant. Young Emmons, whose parents moved here after his entrance into the service, has never lived in Hico but has visited often and has made friends who will be glad to learn of his promotion. He is the youngest son of the Emmons family, and worked his way through Texas A. & M., according to his dad who shows justifiable pride in his son's record.

E. H. Henry has moved again, this time up to Camp Young at Indio, California, where he is now a full-fledged engineer. Writing his wife last week, he stated that the temperature there was 135 in the daytime, and that it got very cold at night. He has been sleeping on a straw mattress while engaged in helping build an air base. How you gonna build an air base that way? Anyhow we didn't know Ed was that tough or we wouldn't have talked so sassy to him when he was living here and managing the Palace Theatre as well as raising chickens, taking care of community enterprises of various sorts, and delving into politics now and then.

Enlists to Avenge Brother

Recruiters at Abilene reported Willis W. Hubbard, 20, said little more than enough to indicate grim determination to enlist when he was accepted for service with the Navy Aviation Corps. The youth is a brother of First Lieut. Henry Frank Hubbard, 24, navigator in a bomber crew, who was reported killed in action when the Japanese attacked the Aleutian Islands. The younger Hubbard left Thursday night for formal enlistment at Dallas.
