Thomas Assessed Life In Dr. Hunt Slaying

Daughter Of Littlefield Physician And Texas Ranger Testify As State Sends Case To Jury

SWEETWATER — (AP) — Jim Thomas, 51-year-old convict, was convicted Saturday for a third time on a charge of murdering Dr. Roy E. Hunt of Littlefield and assessed a sentence of life imprisonment.

On two previous convictions of the same charge, juries had decided death should be the punishment.

After Saturday's verdict was reported at 3:30 p. m. Thomas' counsel gave notice of appeal to District Judge A. S. Mauzey.

A jury at Plainview first convicted Thomas, who was arrested Oct. 27, 1943, a day after the bodies of Dr. and Mrs. Hunt were found mutilated and bound in bed at their residence. He was tried only in the death of Dr. Hunt. Thomas won a re-trial because of a jury irregularity and the case then was tried at Lamesa on a charge of venue. The Lamesa jury also convicted Thomas.

After the conviction at Lamesa January 12, 1945, attorneys for Thomas filed motion for a new trial which got underway here on a change of venue this week. The Sweetwater jury received the case about midnight Friday.

The state rested its case Friday night after the Hunts' eight-year-old daughter, Joan, testified that on the night of the slaying she was awakened by her mother's screams. She went into her parents' room and "a big man, wearing black shoes, picked me up and put me in the clothes closet," she said.

Picture Introduced

Levi Duncan, a Texas Ranger, Friday identified a picture introduced as evidence as that of an automobile which Red Craig had testified he loaned to Thomas in Amarillo the day before the Hunts were slain. The picture was taken by Aubrey Fawyer, Lubbock identification officer.

Duncan testified that car tracks in an alley near the Hunt home corresponded with tire marks on the Craig car. He also identified pieces of metal as having been sawed from a fender of the same car. He said they were scratched and indented as if by a blow from a hard object. He said a piece of concrete in the Hunt alley showed that a car had backed into it.

On cross-examination, Defense Attorney Farmer of Waco read from the transcript of Duncan's testimony at Thomas' previous trials to show that the Ranger had not even mentioned the picture, the concrete block or pieces of metal.

U. S. WON'T RESTORE LIVESTOCK CEILINGS

KANSAS CITY — (AP) — Secretary of Agriculture Clinton Anderson stated flatly Saturday that the government had no intention of restoring price ceilings to livestock and meat at any time in the future.

"As far as the livestock industry is concerned, we have reached the end of the control period, and controls are off permanently," Anderson told a press conference.

Vandenberg Asserts World Should Quit Talking Of 'Inevitable War'

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich) took a strong stand beside Secretary of State Byrnes Saturday night for a "patient but firm" policy toward Russia amid indications President Truman might speak along the same lines next week.

As Vandenberg — a top U. S. adviser at the Paris peace conference — followed up Byrnes' Friday night report on that meeting with a radio appeal for support of "America's bipartisan foreign policy," there were these developments at the White House:

1. It was announced that President Truman's address opening the United Nations General Assembly in New York Wednesday will be a 25-minute speech.

2. It was disclosed that Truman approved Byrnes' Friday speech in advance.

3. The President, Byrnes, Undersecretary of State Dean Acheson and Senator Austin (R-Vt.), American delegate-designate to UN, conferred more than two hours on "United Nations matters."

The White House said nothing about the content of Truman's UN speech.

Connally Supports Byrnes

Another endorsement of Byrnes' speech and policy came from Senator Connally (D-Texas) aboard the British liner Queen Elizabeth plowing the Atlantic toward New York. Connally, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and another of Byrnes' advisers in Paris, praised the speech and said the peace conference had achieved "substantial results."

Vandenberg said this country's "bipartisan" policy is one of peace, not war, and predicted it will succeed "unless it is scuttled here at home."

Asked the flat question whether war with Russia some day is inevitable, Vandenberg replied that "it must not be allowed to become inevitable."

"I wish we could quit talking about war," he said.

Vandenberg, like Byrnes, reported that some progress was made at Paris, and that the policy toward Russia is one of firmness, not toughness.

Slavs Deny 165 Americans Held As 'Slave Labor'

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The United States charged wrathfully Friday night that Soviet-dominated Yugoslavia has made "slave laborers" of at least 165 American citizens and that a number of them, possibly 10, have died in horror camps.

In a blistering note expressing "abhorrence and condemnation," the State Department accused the Tito regime of herding persons with a valid claim to American citizenship into concentration camps, of mistreating them so cruelly that some died, and of hitting the survivors out of work for long hours without pay.

The United States note declared that enemy soldiers captured in the heat of battle get better treatment under international law.

A statement from the Yugoslav embassy Saturday denied the American charges. Issued by Sergej Makiedo, charge d'affaires, it said:

"I most emphatically deny that any Americans are being subjected to slave labor in Yugoslavia, or that slave labor conditions exist in my country."

Negro Candidate Sent To Mental Hospital

ATLANTA — (AP) — A negro candidate for coroner against 23 white aspirants was held for several hours in the Atlanta jail Friday night at the request of relatives before being turned over to them for transfer to a private mental hospital.

Police Chief M. A. Hornsby said Saturday.

The family said a reservation had been made at a Nashville, Tenn., sanatorium for 45-year-old Aurelius S. Scott, whose entry into the Fulton County race had caused turmoil in local political circles and a prediction that he stood a good chance of becoming the first negro officeholder in the deep South since Reconstruction days.

About 20,000 Fulton County negroes are expected to vote in the general election.

Ex-GI Sleuths Find $469,500 In Cash In Battered Trunk Of Dead Recluse

By ALLAN FISHER

NEW YORK — (AP) — When Mrs. Minnie Rosser Weigle, 79-year-old eccentric recluse, died last August in a junk-littered hotel apartment, police wrote it off as a routine matter, but the sequel came Saturday when two amateur sleuths produced her hidden fortune of $469,500 in cash, found in a battered old trunk.

The men whose painstaking search produced the money are Timothy J. Healy, an attorney, and Robert Raymond, member of a New York stock exchange firm. Both are former Army officers.

Mrs. Weigle died of natural causes August 17. Two days later police found her body in the bathroom of her two-room apartment.

For two months Healy and Raymond searched the apartment for the fortune they knew must be there—and finally a trunk expert helped them find it in a cleverly hidden secret compartment.

The money and some jewelry, not yet assessed in value, was draped in a hand-sewn cloth bag. Most of the money was crisp and new, in denominations of $5,000, $1,000 and $500.

Connected With Case

Healy is attorney for the estate and Raymond is an administrator. They removed 11 barrels of trash from the apartment in the course of a search that led them into every crevice and cranny.

Hotel employees said Mrs. Weigle had not permitted anyone to set foot in the apartment in the four years she lived there but always paid her rent promptly each month with a crisp new $100 bill.

Healy said the woman's husband, who died in 1935, was Louis J. Weigle, member of a stock brokerage firm.

A will made by Mrs. Weigle in 1937 left one-half her estate to a sister, Mrs. Georgia Rosser Erdwurm, of Chickasha, Okla., and one-quarter each to two nephews, Clyde Rosser of Fort Worth, Texas, and Walter Rosser of Maywood, Calif.

Before Mrs. Weigle died she penciled a note asking that her body be cremated and the ashes scattered to the winds. Healy said the cremation was carried out, but the ashes have been kept at a funeral parlor.

Choice Steers Close Week At Higher Value

Growing Consumer Resistance Reported

CHICAGO — (AP) — The removal of OPA controls has sent the price pattern for most major items in the American food budget into a dizzy whirl and there were indications Saturday of a growing consumer resistance to those products which turn up with a higher sales tag.

The impact of sudden decontrols hit the markets an erratic blow and it was too early to tell how the food dollar of the near future would compare with its buying power of last week.

The major staple decontrolled—meat—promises to be relatively plentiful in butcher shops across the nation in a few days but at prices above old OPA ceilings. Dealers, consumers and trade associations have joined hands in efforts to keep prices down.

The prices of all livestock shot up, despite an avalanche of receipts, and record highs were established in some markets. Both cattle and hog prices, however, experienced downward trends when offerings were the heaviest.

In the commodity markets, the price of soybeans, lard and flax also went up.

Some Prices Drop

However, a long list of commodities dropped in price, including poultry, eggs, butter, wheat and cotton. Sources attributed the butter drop to the removal of ceilings on other fats and oils.

The American Meat Institute, saying prices would be higher until demand is met, urged housewives to "shop around for the best buys."

Some dealers refused to buy meat at high prices and the president of the New Jersey Independent Butchers' Association urged consumers to "strike" until meat prices come down "within reason."

In Helena, Mont., housewives started a chain telephone call movement advocating buyers strikes against butter prices of 89 cents to $1.00 a pound.

In the nation's livestock markets there was no official trading Saturday, although hogs and cattle were being traded for opening of trading Monday.

Prices of livestock as the week closed were under their highs, but still well above the former OPA ceilings.

Steers Are Higher

At Chicago, representative of all markets, choice steers closed the week $8.00 to $15.00 higher. Common, medium and good grades were up $1.00 to $5.00 after losing $4.00 to $7.00 from the mid-week peaks. Most steers finished the week at $18.00 to $23.00 a hundred pounds.

Hogs in Chicago finished $6.00 to $7.50 a hundred pounds higher.

The old OPA ceiling on cattle was $20.25 and there was a subsidy ranging from 50 cents to $2.40, depending on grade. Hogs had a ceiling of $16.25 and there was a subsidy of $1.75, regardless of grade.

Food articles which compete directly with meat, such as poultry, closed the week with price declines. Poultry selling at 35 cents a pound in the Chicago wholesale market Monday, dropped to 29 cents at the week's close.

A grade of butter which brought 88 1/2 to 89 cents a pound in the Chicago wholesale market Monday was down to 80 to 80 1/2 cents at the week's close. New York butter dropped from 87 1/2 cents to 79 1/2-80 cents.

Lard, which had been under a ceiling of 18 cents a pound, was quoted on the Chicago Board of Trade at 36 cents with no sales. However, there were many sales confirmed in the open market at 30 cents.

Cash corn which sold Monday at $2.04 to $2.06 a bushel was down to $1.86 at Chicago by the weekend. Oats at Minneapolis slipped from 80 3/4-82 1/4 to 74 1/4-75 3/4. Wheat at Kansas City fell from $2.06-$2.10 a bushel to $1.95 1/2-1.96 1/4.

In the futures markets, cotton drew the limelight on a $25 a bale break over a three-day period.

Grain futures were highlighted by the end of two dollar wheat. All futures sold above $2.00 on Monday and well below that level on Saturday.

Paving Project To Get Underway In City Monday

Midland's long-awaited paving project is scheduled to get underway Monday when workmen will begin excavating for curb and gutter on Fort Worth Street, between Wall and Texas Streets.

W. L. Johnson, paving contractor, said Saturday that machinery, and materials are on hand for the start of the paving project which will progress as rapidly as possible over the city. The paving will be done on a "first come-first served" basis.

From Fort Worth Street, the paving crew will move to G Street where the block between Missouri and Indiana will be paved, Johnson said.

The 400 block on Holmes Street paving will be started.

The current paving campaign here was started early this summer under the sponsorship of the Midland Junior Chamber of Commerce. JayCee members have conducted a city-wide program to sign-up property owners who desired paving in front of their property.

Under the paving program, property owners are paying all costs of paving, and curb and gutter, dealing directly with the contractor who is operating under specifications of the City of Midland.

C of C Is Stakeholder

The W. L. Johnson Company was issued a permit to pave city streets here by the City Council. Fred Fromhold is the Midland representative of the firm which maintains offices on North A Street.

The Midland Chamber of Commerce is serving as stakeholder in the program. Payment of money for the paving will be authorized by the city's engineer after specifications are met.

The city is providing necessary engineering for the project, and is arranging water and sewer lines on streets to be paved. It also has provided the necessary specifications for the paving, and all paving must meet these requirements, as the city must maintain it once it is installed.

Specifications call for all paving to be the same as that used on state highways.

Property owners interested in the program are urged to contact James Mims, JayCee paving chairman, or the paving contractor as soon as possible.

Four Texans Killed In Plane Crash While Enroute To Mississippi Game

MERIDIAN, MISS. — (AP) — The bodies of four men found in the wreckage of a plane near Key Field here Saturday were identified by Sheriff W. Y. Brane as residents of Victoria, Texas.

He said a telephone call to Victoria disclosed they were enroute to the Mississippi State-San Francisco game in Memphis, Tenn., and apparently lost their direction.

He listed the victims as Howard Cecil Odell Grimes, 34, owner and pilot of the plane; Cecil Leon Bauch, 22; Dr. Earl Barton Keith, 31, chiropractor, formerly of Johnson City, Tenn.; and William Walter Granberry, 36.

The wreckage was discovered in a swamp area within a mile of Key Field by H. L. Skinner of Arundel community, who was going fishing. Sheriff Brane said attendants at Key Field reported a plane circling the airport about 7 p. m. Friday and field lights were turned on.

"The sheriff said the plane, a two-engine Cessna, apparently struck a tree while attempting to make a turn.

Coroner Louis Boyd conducted an inquest and pronounced the deaths due to accidental causes.

Byrnes Alarmed Over Increasing U.S.-Red Tension

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Secretary of State Byrnes declared Friday night he is disturbed by "continued if not increasing tension" between the United States and Russia and that fear of inevitable war "is throttling the economic recovery of Europe."

In an evident reply to former Secretary of Commerce Henry A. Wallace, Byrnes said the United States has a "firm" but not a tough or soft policy toward Russia.

He asserted in effect that the United States is through making concessions to Russia.

"From the Potsdam Conference, which took place at the beginning of his administration," Byrnes said, "President Truman and I have worked to bring about an understanding with the Soviet government."

"Two states can quickly reach an understanding if one is willing to yield to all demands. The United States is unwilling to do that. It is equally unwilling to ask it of another state.

"Every understanding requires the reconciliation of differences and not a yielding by one state to the arbitrary will of the other."

He told of various compromise settlements worked out and reviewed issues still outstanding with the Soviet Union, notably over Trieste and Danube navigation.

Security Council Delegate Hits At Wild Accusations

NEW YORK — (AP) — In a new bid for cooperation among the major powers in the United Nations Security Council, U. S. Delegate Herschel V. Johnson Saturday called for an end of "wild and unsubstantiated charges, harsh accusations and counter-charges within the council."

Speaking before the Foreign Policy Association as delegates from 51 nations gathered for Wednesday's opening of the UN General Assembly, Johnson criticized what he called "insinuations of the council for propaganda purposes" and too frequent use of the veto.

He declared that people throughout the world "react with deep misgivings" to the way the Security Council has operated so far and added:

Spirit of Cooperation

"All of us, I think, feel the need of substituting a spirit of cooperation for one of recrimination. We can, if we will, change the climate of international intercourse by trying harder to win the peace than to win a point in debate."

John Foster Dulles, alternate U. S. delegate to the General Assembly, declared in a speech at the same meeting that the United States must continue its bi-partisan foreign policy and must make it clear to the world that "Americans today stand where their forebears stood, believing that men are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights, and seeking the recognition of those rights everywhere."

Ceiling Prices To Remain On Shoes

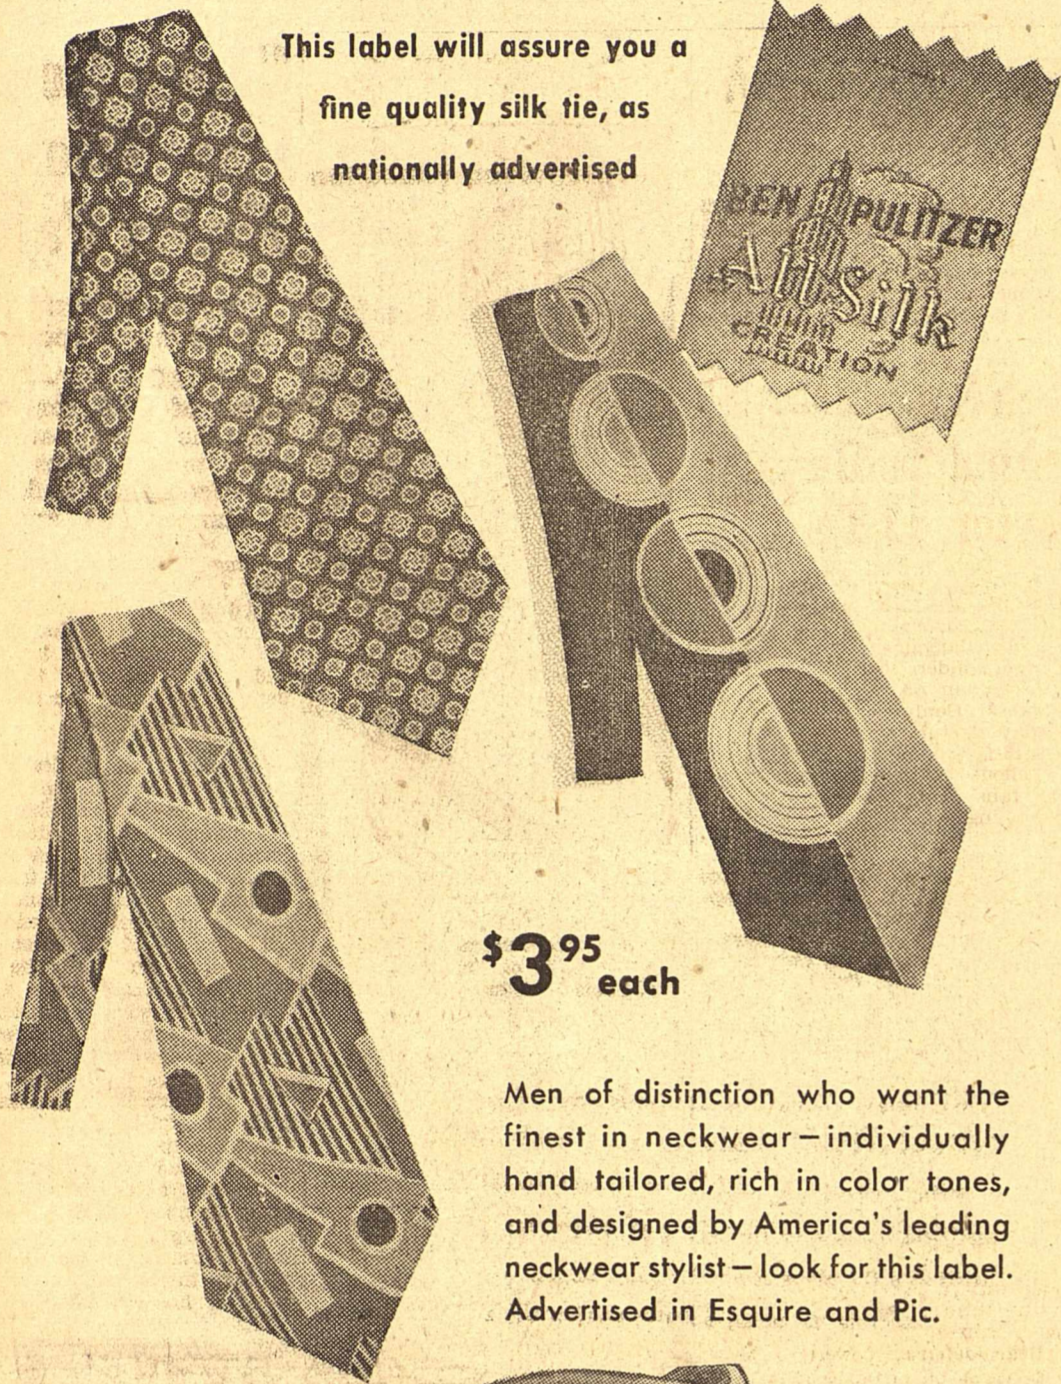

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Estimating the present shoe shortage at 550,000,000 pairs, officials emphasized Saturday that price ceilings will be held on leather and footwear as long as possible despite the decontrol of livestock.

"If we pulled off controls now, leather and shoe prices would skyrocket," an OPA authority said.

He explained that the controls on hides can be retained even though the cattle from which they come are decontrolled under President Truman's order.

The Rev. Marvin Williams, Alpine, arrived here this week to be pastor of the local church and will conduct services Sunday.

For the tea Mrs. Kenneth Burrows greeted guests from 8 until 10 o'clock Wednesday night. Some 80 friends called during those hours.

Mrs. Otto Jenkins presided at the guest register, which bore a cover of western design. The lace-covered tables were centered with pastel dahlias and harmonizing tapers. Four candles burned on the mantle on either side of a snapdragon arrangement reflected by a large mirror.

Members of the WSCS served frosted punch and cookies.

3-AA Clubs Have Busy Card Ahead With All Teams In Action, Including One 'Intersectional' Grid Contest

By TANNER LAINE

Six of the 3-AA conference team get together among themselves this week and one goes "intersectional". The Midland Bulldogs, refreshed from a layoff weekend, travel to Abilene. This game may unrelent some of the best passing seen in the circuit this Fall. Midland unleashes its aerials from Bob Cole to Wingback Dunny

DOWN SPORTSLANE

TANNER LAINE

We know where the American Legion of Midland could get a country club. First blurt on that one is: "What in the name of common horse sense does the American Legion want with a country club." Was a minute before you condemn us to Wichita Falls and we don't mean the junior college there either, lick this: The Legion is hunting a home and what difference does it make if a golf course is thrown in with it. The Legion, should it want this country club, could use the clubhouse for a Legion home and with good management make the golf course a municipal one. It could employ a manager and—at the same time offer a swell golf course as a memorial to veterans for the use of the smaller pay grubs, like us. Midland wants and needs a municipal golf course. What could be better than the Legion sponsoring it and getting the proceeds.

It might be the American Legion Post here doesn't want a country club and could not get management for the golf course. The fact remains it is a good project to ponder and the Legion still holds a few thousand dollars in its purse to build a Legion home. A ready-made one with a paying proposition on the side sounds even better. For 10 yen or less marks we would recommend the thing to the Legion, which would need a lot more wampum to swing the deal.

And the country club we think the Legion could get isn't going out of business. It just seeks a new location with improved surroundings.

Gosh, we almost forgot to mention it. There's a swimming pool at this country club. What a nice splash for the families and youngsters of Midland's many veterans and American Legion members. Has the Legion any way of raising say $50,000 more bucks to get this country club? And has it the nerve to tackle the undertaking? Well, those boys are ex-soldiers and they had the nerve once, plenty of it, to tackle a bigger thing than this.

Let's all think it over. —SL— Here is a telegram we sent The Associated Press: "Please feel out Austin sources if any feasibility of Sweetwater High School having ineligible football players under same conditions as Odessa Pat Evitt case, or any condition. Would like to stop rumors here." And here is the answer: "Rodney J. Kidd of Interscholastic League says no protests been filed on eligibility of Sweetwater players and he has heard of none."—Associated Press.

—SL— You've gotta hand it to Odessa. If you want consider it militarily, it's an important patrol even to play Amarillo on Butler Field, almost an invasion. It is a major campaign to score on the Sandies there. And it's a V-Day indeed that a team beats them on that wretched jinxed soil. Odessa did it, convincingly enough. The game was war indeed. And Charlie Forrest and Lewis Williams of Midland drove up to see it fought, leaving Midland late Friday afternoon but making it by game time.

—SL— RUNDIN UP THE STRAYS... New Boosters, W. P. Red Knight, T. W. Pitzer, The Fort Stockton Panthers, high school football team, ate at the Scharbauer Hotel Friday before playing at Stanton. No word yet on a special train to Abilene and don't believe one will run. Team for team the 3-AA District this Fall is tougher than any in Texas. Toughy Kimball is that bit of fighter one sees out there on the Bullpups team. The greatest high school team we ever saw was the 1931 Abilene High Eagles, state champs. . . . And their ace was Glenn Wyatt, a railroad man's son lured from Sweetwater. . . . One darn good gesture the Booster Club is doing is transportation furnished to country boys who play for the Bulldogs. . . . It is a grand assist. Best crack lately was by Roy Sunday of Odessa, saying: "Well Pat Evitt can get his diploma from the Interscholastic League; it says he is eligible to receive it now, Odessa High School does not." . . . Bob Johnson is a big Midland boy who would be out there scrapping but for trouble's sake, feet which won't let him play. . . . Regardless of what the other team do. . . . Midland plays its bona fide junior high boys and "B" stringers in games calling for only these types of players. . . . Some schools just to win use any boy regardless of grade, age or classification. . . . That is why the purpose of the games. . . . But we are no preacher, they only hurt themselves. . . . Already the bets are flowing freely here on the outcome of the Sweetwater-Odessa game come November 11. . . . Look out and be wary of that one. . . . It's more touchy than a double boil where you sit down. . . . And that's the strays from here.

Something to Fight For

Well, what do you know—Skidmore has a football team! Squad is composed of 22 freshman war veterans at Skidmore College, formerly exclusively a girls' school, and its first game at Saratoga Springs resulted in scoreless tie with Brown Preparatory. Priscilla Phillips, Lois Holzman and Rita Smart, left to right, senior nursing majors, among 600 girl students who cheered their team, find Marvin Brown's pulse normal following game.

Monahans Beats Wink 40-0 In Worst Defeat Of Wildcats' History

WINK — The Monahans Lobos rolled to six touchdowns and a 40 to 0 victory here Friday night to hand the Wildcats their worst defeat in the history of the colorful Wink football machine. It was a 7-A conference game.

eight minutes of play and held a 26-0 lead when the second stringers went in to finish out the conflict. Pug Gabriel tabbed the first touchdown early in the game on a 10 yard plunge after the Bronchos had recovered a fumble deep in Amarillo territory. A blocked kick was recovered in the end zone by Foster for the second tally. Byron Townsend added the extra point.

Fullback Patterson, subbing for the ailing Townsend, plunged for the third touchdown, climaxing a second period 44 yard march for the Bronchos. Townsend kicked goal.

Then Holderman got off the most beautiful run of the night—a 74 yard sprint over guard for the final Odessa counter.

Bobby Rue, reserve Amarillo back, scored the Sandies' first touchdown midway in the first stanza, a 25 yard sprint around end. Rue passed to Bobby Hudgins for 23 yards and the final tally. Farmer ran across the extra point.

Tech Surges From Behind To Defeat Baylor, 13 To 6

LUBBOCK —(AP)— Striking with rattlesnake fury and suddenness in the third quarter to score two rapid-fire touchdowns, the Texas Tech Red Raiders scored their third successive win of the season over Southwest Conference opposition Saturday by turning back Baylor's Bears 13-6.

A sellout crowd of more than 13,000 fans witnessed the Raiders homecoming day grid feature. After playing rather listless ball to fall behind by a 6-0 count at the halftime intermission, Coach Dell Morgan's red shirted Techs stormed back to punch across two touchdowns in less than three minutes' time for their winning margin. Ed Robnett plunged for both Tech touchdowns.

Tech held a distinct edge in most statistical departments. First downs favored the Raiders, 12 to 10, and they amassed 219 yards running to a net gain of 120 by Baylor on the ground. In the air, Baylor picked up 36 yards, three more than the Raiders.

Sammy Pierce led the Bears on a first-quarter touchdown march to an early 6-0 lead, but left the game soon after the start of the second quarter with a leg injury.

In the third period the Raiders, using a spread line that baffled the Bear defense, powered their way 64 yards on an all-ground assault to score, with Robnett going over from three yards out. Just two plays later the Raiders were on their way to their second touchdown. On the first play from scrimmage following the kickoff to Baylor, halfback Glenn Lewis broke through to bat down a lateral from Bobby Griffin intended for Sheats and recovered the ball on Baylor's 16-yard line, and on fourth down Robnett rocketed through the line to score.

AN ODE FOR AN ABODE

Have you ever yearned For comfort supreme, And then have learned That no such thing exists In this racing universe Where everyone persists That harmony is perverse.
For two years I parried With the yearning for home; Sleeping on the ground Or in the sea's foam. With no comfy shelter Just a stony bed On which to kilter My weary head.
Now I am here Wishing my dreams true, But I find my dear Home is crowded by you. All that I ask Is a room or two That I may begin the task Of becoming one of you. Just call John Rouché, Phone 7, Reporter-Telegram.

Significant Item—

James Tanham, vice president of The Texas Company, recently made a significant observation, in an address at the National Safety Council and Exposition in Chicago, which reminds that management and labor can find ways and means of working together in harmony, and for mutual benefit.

He pointed out that those two important elements in industry have cooperated for years in safety programs—and he used that as an evidence that similar cooperation could and should be possible on other items connected with operation of various businesses and industries.

Ranchers Tour Bohannon Place, Find Good Condition Ranges Is Good Policy

Maintaining a range in good condition is good insurance during drought. This was the opinion of ranchers who made a tour of the A. G. Bohannon ranch at the ranch field day held by the Martin-Howard Soil Conservation District Friday.

"Good range condition" means a desirable mixture of nutritious and palatable plants and a stabilized soil. A. T. Jordan, range conservationist with the Soil Conservation Service, who conducted the tour, pointed out. When a range unit is in good condition, the rancher can expect maximum forage production, minimum worry about droughts and maximum protection to the soil.

On the tour, the ranchers observed sites in good and fair condition, and compared the kinds and amounts of forage being produced. They found that on "good condition range" most of the forage was produced by side oats grama, blue grama, black grama, hairy grama and buffalo grass. On "fair condition range" needle grass, triodia, weeds and brush were abundant. Also the cover on good range was much better than on fair range.

Use Affects Condition

One of the main factors contributing to the good condition was proper use, it was learned. This means adjusting the livestock to the amount of forage produced. With the proper number of livestock grazing the range, it was pointed out that at least half of the forage produced was left on the ground at the end of the grazing year. This provides litter to enrich the soil, protect it from damage from erosion, and leaves some food for the plant to grow on the next soil. Also a reserve of forage is left which is like "money in the bank" in that it may give protection against having to sell short on a poor market or spend excessive amounts for short feed supplies.

If a range is in fair or poor condition, it can be improved by good management. This includes adjustment of livestock numbers to forage supply, which is of major importance, deferred grazing, use of supplemental pastures, seasonal use, brush eradication, reseeding, water development, and other mechanical measures.

Those who made the tour were A. G. Bohannon, George Glass, Merwin Haag, C. C. Thomas, Herd Midkiff and Edmund Tom, supervisors of the district, Vernon Young, Midland County agent, and A. T. Jordan and H. D. Clayton of the Soil Conservation Service.

Shell Completes Glasscock Discovery In Mississippian For 238 BOPD Flow

By JAMES C. WATSON, Oil Editor

Shell Oil Company, Inc., No. 1 Clark, North Glasscock County wildcat, eight miles northeast of Garden City, has been completed for a 24-hour flowing potential of 238.06 barrels of 56.3 gravity, API, corrected, oil from Mississippian lime at 9,740-55 feet, through casing perforations.

The well was accompanied by 15.2 barrels of brackish, salty water, which was six per cent of the total amount of fluid flowed by the well in the 24-hour period which ended at 2 p. m. Friday.

The pay section had been treated with 500 gallons of acid. This is first commercial production to be developed from the Mississippian, in West Texas, according to informed sources. The producer is 1,900 feet from south and 1,886 feet from west lines of section 5, block 32, TP survey, T-4-S.

The project bottomed at 10,970 feet, six feet in granite, which was encountered after the Ellenburger and the Hickory sand had been drilled through, without finding any signs of oil or gas production in either formation.

The well is being put on production and will be listed as a discovery of a new field.

Steps out from production in the Irish field in Southwest Hale County, in the Coleman Ranch field in Northwest Mitchell County and in the Emperor-Holt field in South-Central Winkler County, have been staked for immediate drilling.

The Pure Oil Company, No. 2 Preston, 1,980 feet from south and west lines of section 12, block DT, HE&WT survey, is the new South-Central Hale County prospect.

No. 2 Preston is a mile north and the same distance east of the same company's No. 1 Preston, now swabbing to clean out and test after a 10,000-gallon acid treatment in the pay at 5,490-5,884 feet.

Prior to the 10,000-gallon injection the well flowed and swabbed 500 barrels of new oil in 19 hours. The well had been treated with a total of 12,000 gallons of acid previous to the 19-hour test. No water has developed.

No. 2 Preston will drill to the 5,400-5,800-foot pay zone, and will start immediately.

In Northwest Mitchell, Tobe Foster of Lyubbeck has staked location for his No. 1 John Womack, to be 330 feet from north and west lines of lot 5, Cuthbert vacancy strip, on Northwest Mitchell County.

It is to drill to 2,850 feet, with combination tools, starting soon to test the Clear Fork-Permian, which was recently found commercially productive at Roche and Newton A. Coleman, nearby, which has been designated as the discovery well of the Coleman Ranch field.

Stanford Oil & Gas Company, No. 7-E-A Eugenia E. Brown, to be 650 feet from north and west lines of northeast quarter of section 5, block B-11, psl survey, is one-quarter of a mile east of northeast producer from the Holt line on the southeast side of the Emperor field.

It is about six and one-half miles south of Kermit, and approximately the same distance east of Wink. Drilling to around 5,000 feet, to test the Holt, middle Permian is to start at once.

More Devonian Shows The Atlantic Refining Company, No. 1-E-12 Texu, Devonian wildcat on the west side of the Block 12 area in North-Southwest Andrews County, was drilling ahead below 8,560 feet, in lime and chert. It was to go to about 8,610 feet, and take another drillstem test.

A test was taken for one hour at 8,510-60 feet. There was a fair blow of air for the first 10 minutes and a faint blow of air the last 50 minutes of the period.

Recovery was 180 feet of gas cut drilling mud and 70 feet of slightly oil cut drilling mud. No water has developed.

Humble Oil & Refining Company, No. 1 Elkins, northeast step-out from the initial Ellenburger in Southwest Kent County, swabbed 14 hours, and recovered 40 barrels of fluid. During that time the fluid in the tubing was lowered from 3,000 feet from surface to 7,400 feet from surface.

The test was shutdown for one hour and in that time fluid rose 200 feet in the tubing. The shake-out from the 40 barrels swabbed out was from 80 per cent to 95 per cent salt water. There was a slight amount of new oil in the recovery. Operator probably will reacidize through the perforations at 7,795-7,825 feet, which had initially been treated with 2,000 gallons of acid.

Humble No. 1 Turner, East Midland County wildcat, about 12 miles southeast of Midland, tried a drillstem test to total depth at 10,284 feet in the Strawn lime. The packer failed and there was no test—for the second successive time. Operator was drilled from and Canada travel at night.

Wildcats To 6,500 Feet In S-E Chaves And To 4,800 Feet In W-C Lea Staked

HOBBS, N. M.—Location for a 6,500-foot wildcat in Central-Southeast Chaves County, and for a petroleum prospector to 4,800 feet in West-Central Lea County was reported Saturday.

Richfield Oil Corporation No. 1 Comanche unit, 1,980 feet from north and east lines of section 13-118-26, and about 15 miles east of Roswell, is the 6,500 foot Chaves County exploration.

It is on a large block owner by Richfield, and is about one mile west of the same company's No. 1 Coll, which had some interesting oil shows, when drilled more than a year ago, but none of them were of sufficient quantity to produce. Drilling on No. 1 Comanche unit is to start in the near future.

In Maljamar Sector H. T. Page and Harvey Yates No. 1 Stroup, 660 feet from south and east lines of section 10-118-32, and in the undeveloped area between the Maljamar field and the South Maljamar pool, in West-Central Lea County, is to start making hole soon, to 4,800 feet, or production in the Maljamar pay, at a lesser depth.

Skelly Oil Company No. 2 Steeler, East Lea County wildcat, on the west side of the Drinkard field, and 690 feet from north and east lines of section 17-238-37, had penetrated under 8,151 feet, in hard dolomite, and was going ahead.

Operator has not reported identity of the current formation. It is understood that it marked base of the Permian at 7,588 feet. This project missed production in the Drinkard pay section of the lower Permian, and it appears that operator is probably attempting to find the Ellenburger.

Brunson Outpost Shows Amerada Petroleum Corporation No. 5 Corrigan, 1,980 feet from north and east lines of section 4-228-37, and one quarter of a mile north of closest producer from the Ellenburger, in the Brunson field, adjacent to Eunice, in East Lea County, was drilling ahead from 7,598 feet, in the Ellenburger.

A drillstem test was run for three hours at 7,525-98 feet. The drill pipe is reported to have unloaded considerable fluid while being pulled. Operator revealed that total recovery was 840 feet of oil and 120 feet of oil and gas cut drilling mud.

Top on the formation has not been officially released, but that marker is understood to have been slightly high to the nearest completed Ellenburger well.

Drinkard Extended

Humble Oil & Refining Company No. 5-B Hardison, on northeast side of the Drinkard field, and 660 feet from south and 1,980 feet from east lines of section 27-218-37, completed for an initial daily production of 968 barrels of pipe line oil, from lower Permian pay above total depth at 6,580 feet.

Geologists have demonstrated that certain portions of the floor of the Atlantic Ocean once were above the surface of the seavater.

Annual Hallowe'en Carnivals Will Attract Hundreds Of Midlanders

By TANNER LAINE

The annual Hallowe'en carnivals at all Midland schools, which keep the youngsters occupied for the night and out of vandal pranks, are being planned this year to attract hundreds of students and citizens to events at the various schools, October 31.

Parent-teacher associations are pushing the project and Monday merchants of the city will be asked to contribute prizes to be used at the carnivals.

North Elementary School started the idea back in 1940 and held a carnival in a building downtown. The carnival grew and grew and for four years this school held it exclusively. Then the P-TA Council was asked to make the project available to all schools, with each to hold its own carnival.

IF STOMACH BALKS DUE TO GAS AND BLOAT

Help Get Food Digested to Relieve Yourself of This Nervous Distress

Do you feel all puffed-up and miserable after every meal, taste sour, bitter food? If so, here is how you may get blessed relief. In helping your stomach do the job—it should be doing—in the digestion of its food.

Everytime food enters the stomach a vital gastric juice must flow normally to break-up certain food particles; else the food may ferment. Sour food, acid indigestion and gas frequently cause a morbid, touchy, fretful and nervous condition, loss of appetite, underweight, restless sleep, weakness.

To get real relief you must increase the flow of this vital gastric juice. Medical authorities, in independent laboratory tests on human stomachs, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in increasing this flow when it is too little or scanty due to a non-organic stomach disturbance. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains special and potent activating ingredients.

Also, SSS Tonic helps build-up non-organic, weak, watery blood in nutritional anemia—with a good flow of this gastric digestive juice, plus rich red-blood you should eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better.

'Dr. I. Q.' Gives Up $100,000 Job To Become An Episcopalian Minister

By CHARLES W. PAYNE
EVANSTON, ILL. — (NEA) — Because he's found something better than $100,000 a year, the Rev. James W. McClain, who once was Dr. I. Q., is studying for the Episcopal priesthood.

His role as a rapid-fire question-and-answer man, dispensing good cheer, candy bars, and silver dollars, brought his radio fame and $2,000 a week. He gave it up in 1944 for three years of intensive religious training and a possible starting salary of $30 or $40, and recently donned his clerical collar when he was ordained a deacon of the church in services at St. Mark's Episcopal Church in Louisville, Ky., his home town.

Thus qualified for the reading of the offices and other clerical duties except the celebration of the mass, he is now in his third and last year at Seabury-Western Theological Seminary in Evanston, and is serving as assistant to the rector of St. Augustine's Church in nearby Wilmette. Next June he will be ready for canonical examination by the bishop and possible ordination to priesthood.

"This smiling, friendly man of the cloth makes no bones about his reasons for changing from music to radio and then to the church.

"It's simply a matter of vocation," Jimmy McClain says. "It's what a person feels God intends for him to do. You arrive at it by prayer and communion with God. A person who doesn't pray obviously would not arrive at it. It's unmistakable if the prayer and communion are real. It makes no difference whether the vocation or call is for one to be a doctor, a lawyer, a preacher or a shoemaker."

He believes that much unhappiness is caused by men resisting or never feeling their intended vocation.

Dismissing the thought that a sincere clergyman derives a great satisfaction in doing for others, he feels "it goes beyond that. It's not what you can do for others, but what you can do for God. Had it been a matter of bringing enjoyment and happiness to others, rationalizing I easily could have persuaded myself that in radio the world was my parish, that here I was bringing pleasure to millions. Certainly I could have given more to charity."

"I don't care much for the radio, seldom listen to it, but there are thousands of people who practically live by it. I have had fans tell me with tears in their eyes how much they enjoyed the Dr. I. Q. programs. But that was not what God intended me to do."

He chose the Episcopal clergy because it was either that or the Roman Catholic priesthood. Being married and the father of two children Jimmy McClain made an obvious choice. Besides, he considers the Episcopal Church as the historic Catholic church for the United States. He was raised a Christian Scientist.

No holier-than-thou is Jimmy McClain.

Asked to pose on a surplus Army motorcycle parked by the curb, he laughed it off with "I'd better not. I had to sell my motorcycle because my friends thought it was not dignified. I wish I had it now. I can't see anything undignified about it."

The "lionizing" of his radio days is what he misses least. He thinks his happiest days in radio were spent at his typewriter before the success of Dr. I. Q.

At Southern Methodist University in Texas, where Jimmy McClain studied for two years on a musical scholarship, they believe the world lost a great baritone when he went into radio. He had studied music eight years in all; his father was at one time president of the Conservatory of Music in Louisville.

He left Southern Methodist in 1933, married a Texas girl, and got his first radio job reading commercials at $10 a week. He was a writer, producer, actor, program director, and in radio promotion before he became Dr. I. Q.

When he went off the air and into the church, he had in mind rural mission work in the western section of his native Kentucky. That's still what he wants to do.

"I was ordained (as a deacon) on the feast of St. Francis. I should like to emulate him as much as possible," he says simply.

CIO Blames Congress For Present Inflation

AUSTIN — (AP) — John Brophy, director of the CIO's Industrial Union Council and one of the CIO's founders, Saturday leveled criticism at Congress for what he termed "inadequate handling" of its domestic problem.

Major criticisms were on inflation and housing.

Brophy spoke at the tenth annual convention of the Texas State Industrial Council of the CIO which opened here Saturday and continues through Sunday.

"We lost our first engagement in the fight to defeat inflation when Congress failed to pass legislation preserving the OPA," he declared. "It definitely indicated that forces of greed and privilege in the United States are on the march."

Brophy saw "a great depression" as the ultimate end.

"Food prices have risen 50 per cent since V-J Day. What does it mean. It means a wage cut for you," he told the delegates.

The short, graying CIO leader proposed that the President of the United States should call a national conference "at an early date" in the interests of dealing with the problems of inflation. He suggested that labor, farmer and business groups be represented.

Sterling City Takes Win From Courtney

STERLING CITY — Two sets of Eagles, from Sterling City and Courtney, fought through a close six-man game here Friday night. Sterling coming out on top, 28-20.

Jackie Tweedle ran almost the length of the field for one of Sterling's scores and the others were made by Davis, Marvin Brown and King, who took a pass from Tweedle for his tally.

Two of Courtney's scores were on long passes, and the third was on an intercepted pass late in the game.

Army Easily Beats Columbia, 48-14

WEST POINT, N.Y. — (AP) — Army's reserves, labelled the weakest part of another great Cadet football team, got the workout they needed Saturday in a smashing 48 to 14 victory over Columbia, but they only made Glenn Davis and Doc Blanchard look better than ever.

Blanchard bulled through the line in his old-time style and ran the ends for four touchdowns, topping off his performance with a 63-yard gallop into scoring territory with a Columbia kickoff. Davis scored only once—on a 66-yard run around end in the second quarter.

Tennessee Upsets Alabama, 12 To 0

KNOXVILLE, TENN. — (AP) — Tennessee derailed Alabama's high riding red elephants four times in the shadow of the goal Saturday and put together two sustained drives to dump the Rose Bowl champions from the unbeaten ranks, 12-0, before a capacity crowd of 40,000.

It was the first defeat for Coach Frank Thomas' team in a regular-season game since Georgia turned the trick in 1944. It ended a 16-game winning streak.

Oklahoma Defeats Kansas State, 28-7

NORMAN, OKLA. — (AP) — A stumbling University of Oklahoma football team, stopped by a determined Kansas State eleven the first three quarters, awoke to wrap up its first Big Six conference contest of the season, 28-7, Saturday.

Joe Goding, the Sooners' dashing right half, gave a 21-carat performance as he scored three touchdowns—two on runs of 43 and 81 yards — to clinch the contest for Oklahoma.

Eisenhower Returns From European Tour

WASHINGTON — (AP) — General Dwight D. Eisenhower, returning from a four-week European inspection tour, said Saturday he was "more than gratified" at improvements shown by American occupation troops in Germany.

"In view of what we have been through in the last year and a half their advances in training and discipline were remarkable," he told reporters.

Eisenhower said American and Russian troops got along very well and he saw "very little to worry about in personal relations."

Rice Owls Win Over SMU Mustangs, 21-7

HOUSTON — (AP) — Rice's Owls combined the tugging arm of big Virgil (Ke) Elkengren with the fleet running of Huey Keeney to push across two second half touchdowns here Saturday night and defeat a game but outclassed Southern Methodist University eleven, 21-7.

NORTH CAROLINA RALLIES TO BEAT NAVY, 21-14

BALTIMORE — (AP) — Smashing from behind with two sudden touchdowns in the last quarter, the North Carolina Tarheels remained in the undefeated ranks Saturday by overpowering Navy, 21-14, in a bruising football duel before 35,000 persons.

YANKS BEAT DODGERS, 21-10 IN GRID GAME

NEW YORK — (AP) — The New York Yankees scored two quick touchdowns in the final period to overcome a three-point deficit and defeat the Brooklyn Dodgers in an All-American Conference football game before 30,212 spectators at Yankee Stadium Saturday night, 21 to 10.

Stock Market Shifts Lower

NEW YORK — (AP) — The stock market shifted irregularly lower Saturday although holding a net gain on the week for the first time since the period concluded Sept. 27.

The final session was the slowest of the last two years. While modest advances were well distributed at the close, minus signs maintained the majority.

Apprehension over the recent slump in commodities, brokers said, together with caution inspired by decontrols, the climb of industrial inventories to a new peak, the complex international picture as described by Secretary Byrnes, and thoughts of a possible business deflation in coming months, served as a speculative and investment restraint.

Miss Marguerite Anderson Of Abilene Is Guest Speaker At Federation Meet

THIS IS NOT A CONVENTIONAL FURNITURE AD—BUT I DON'T FEEL CONVENTIONAL, NOT A BIT!

WHAT I WANT TO SAY IS PURELY PERSONAL, AND I DO HOPE YOU APPROVE!

Sometimes when a person runs his picture in the paper, some people may think he imagines he's handsome (and the picture proves I'm not) or has the "big head" or thinks he's a "big shot". My hat's not tight on my skull and I'm positive I'm not one of the "powers that be."

Frankly, the reason for the picture is so that old friends who wouldn't recognize me and the new friends I hope to have can spot the face and yell, "Hello, J. B.", at me.

Being in business pays off in the enjoyment of good friendship fully as much as any money the business earns. That's why I had to come back. West Texas people are the salt of the earth. You come by the store any old time. If you have time to visit, that's fine. If you want to buy something, I hope we have it for you.

Invents Electric Lock-Picker But He Won't Sell It

CHATTANOOGA, TENN. —(P)—A Chattanooga locksmith says he has perfected a portable electric lock-picker that could be a menace to civilization.

William Miskill says his device will open the average door lock in a matter of seconds and would be a potential bonanza for house-breakers and car thieves.

But, he added, it will never be put on sale—he's a locksmith and it's to his interest to preserve locks rather than undermine them.

The device, the result of 18 years experimentation, consists of a long steel needle connected to some coils which cause the needle to vibrate when electric current is applied.

All Miskill has to do is insert the needle and a tension tool into the lock and press the trigger. The needle vibrates and, aided by the tension tool, forces the lock tumbler up and the door opens.

The only noise connected with the operation is a gentle humming audible only within 10 feet.

The machine is easily portable. A dry cell fits in one back pocket and the coils and needle in another.

The Midlander last saw Boggs in June, 1945, when the major was taken away from the camp.

Allen himself, a gunner's mate second class, was liberated in September, 1945. He had been in the same prisoner of war camp for the duration.

He was taken prisoner at Guam in December, 1941. Allen was in the hospital then. His ship, the USS Penguin, a minesweeper, had been hit by bombs and sunk on the first day of the war.

Allen, who has lived in Midland most of his life, entered Navy service for this war in 1940 and he hit the States returning on October 12, 1945, on the same day and month he left in 1940.

The veteran is employed at the Midland Tire Company.

He says the most welcome sight he ever saw was American planes drop food to the men in his POW camp as the war's end neared and immediately thereafter until the liberation.

Life wasn't just time on his hands for Allen in that prison camp. He had to work and work hard. He got nothing to eat much except a little rice and sweet potato peelings.

Some of that candy and cheese Boggs was selling would have been heavenly back there when it was ordered, Allen said.

Had To Work
The Japs made Allen and his companions work as stevedores on the docks. They had to get up early and travel by train to work and return late in the afternoon.

"Oh yes, we were paid," says Allen. "Some fraction of a cent a day but there were plenty of days." (Allen had $5,000 in back pay from the U. S. when he was liberated.)

He was discharged in May, 1946, after a spell in the hospital at Corpus Christi.

"But wasn't that Boggs a fellow though," twinkles Allen. "I never imagined he would deliver that order. Nobody else did. But he was businesslike all right. He put down our orders in a book and gave receipts."

"What a guy."
Boggs wrote Allen when he sent the cheese and candy that maple syrup "was still at war."

Cut In Russian Arms Budget Will Be Aid To Peace Throughout World

By J. M. ROBERTS, JR. AP Foreign Affairs Analyst
The relationship of the new Russian budget to the international search for peace is more important now than all of the official Soviet statements since V-E Day.

strength. But in Europe the size of standing armies, and whether they are capable or incapable of quick blows in support of diplomatic policy, always has meant a great deal in the matter of attitude.

It means a reduction of more than 40 per cent in her military establishment, continued maintenance of which has been an ever-present factor in the policies of other powers.

If, as the tremendously increased budget for scientific development indicates, Russia is plunging whole hog into the race for atomic power, she is doing no more than others.

It serves to verify the belief of those who have insisted that, regardless of what her efforts to spread Communism may lead to in the future, Russia has no intention of taking chances with war now.

Atomic fuels for peacetime purposes cannot be produced without at the same time producing materials which can be made into atomic bombs, neither can great industrial establishments be built which cannot be channeled into war production.

It may mean a reduction of the Red Army forces which are living off occupied countries in Europe and the easing by that much of their struggle for economic rehabilitation.

The Russians say frankly that the five-year plan is for the purpose of making the Soviet Union strong economically and militarily.

It may be a verification of the widely-held opinion that Stalin puts the up-building of the Soviet Union at home ahead of ideological warfare, and that the Russians, in their postwar expansion abroad, have merely been making immediate hay out of world unsettlement.

Will Help Attitude
The size of standing armies, of course, is not everything. The United States war effort, developed on a base of a tiny military establishment and a tremendous industrial establishment, is a constant reminder of that.

THE BULLDOG

Written By The Journalism Class Of Midland High School

Bonnie Robertson Selected To Edit Bulldog For Coming Year

Bonnie Robertson will edit "The Bulldog" for the coming year, Roy Johnson, journalism teacher who made the appointment, has announced.

Other staff members named are Pat Flanigan, associate editor; Jeannine Stephens, feature editor; Dorothy Faye Holt, news editor; and Robert Roripaugh, sports editor.

Bonnie is a senior this year and it might well be said that she grew up in a newspaper office. She has been interested in newspaper work for a long time and hopes to make "The Bulldog" a first class school news section.

The remainder of the class will act as reporters. They are: Buddy Norton, Charles Harrington, Lynn Penn, Elizabeth Ann Cowden, Alma Faye Cowden, Mary Martha Sivals, Evelyn Wemple, June Hardison, Patsy Lou Arrington, Frances Gibbins, Ruth Hall Virginia Stewart, Gilbert Sevier, Donna Kelly, Rebecca Watford and Dorothy Harrison.

Who's Who, Bonnie

Bonnie Robertson

Who's Who honor this week goes to Bonnie Robertson, who has recently been elected editor of the Bulldog.

Bonnie, who made her first appearance in Hillsboro, Texas, on December 6, 1930, moved to Midland in 1940 and has lived here ever since then. She is a very attractive ash blonde and claims her eyes to be hazel.

As a freshman and sophomore Bonnie belonged to the Home Economics Club, and she was in the Dramatics Club during her Junior year. This year, as a senior, Bonnie is a student editor for the Catoico, student council representative for her home room, and a member of the Dramatics Club. She is taking English, A Capella choir, bookkeeping, commercial arithmetic, journalism and study hall.

Bonnie's favorite color is blue. She says "just fooling around" is her favorite pastime. When listening to songs, Nelson Eddy's singing ranks first on her list. Her pet peeve is someone who pretends to be what they really aren't.

Bonnie plans to go to Texas Tech and Texas University and then she wants to enter either Colorado or Missouri University. She expects to be some type of a newspaperwoman someday.

Coach Glassie's Mother Dies In San Antonio

The Midland High School students and faculty extend their deepest sympathy to Earl Glassie, assistant coach of Midland High, after the death of his mother, Mrs. Earl Glassie, Sr. Mrs. Glassie was a citizen of Plestun, Texas. Mrs. Glassie was seriously injured when their car collided with another car near San Antonio. She was taken to a San Antonio hospital.

Echoing Halls

Monday: The teachers seem to be getting that gleam in their eyes. We took a poll to find out what the student body thought about six-week tests. The most prevalent opinion was, "Take to hills, men, the dam has broke."

Tuesday: The slaughter begins. One student was asked by his teacher "Do you use Updoc's on your hair?" "What's Updoc's?" questioned the puzzled student, "Who do you think you are, Bugs Bunny?" Hidesous laughter echoed throughout the halls.

Wednesday: Kin ewe spil "kat"? Ten students were found in one room who couldn't. They were tied to the pencil sharpener and horse whipped. You wouldn't think anybody would know it is spelled kat.

Thursday: The B team seems to be ready to go against Lamesa tonight. One of the team flexed his arm this noon, showing off to a member of the A squad, we were told. And the resulting explosion badly mangled four or five innocent bystanders. Sincerely the school is proud of these Bulldogs of the future.

Friday: Many forgotten faces were brought to mind as we looked over the ballots for class favorites, editors, and student council members. Not that it has been a long time since they were nominated, but many have been seen in the cemetery lately.

Either first was used in a surgical operation in 1842 by Dr. Crawford Williamson Long.

Prizes For Posters On Fire Prevention Offered To Students

The Fire Insurance Division of the Board of Insurance Commissioners in Austin is offering a total of $104 to students in public schools for fire prevention posters. Any student is eligible to enter the contest.

The rules for the poster-contest are the following: Posters must be 14 inches by 20 inches or 22 by 22 inches, be original, mounted or painted on cardboard, and must reach the office of the Fire Insurance Division, State Office Building, Austin, by May 1.

The posters must be individual work (not room projects), and the city, school, student, grade, teacher and superintendent must be written in the lower right hand corner.

The prizes, which were donated by Cravens, Dargan and Company of Houston, are the following: First prize $7.50; second prize $5; third prize $3.50; and the next best four are $2.50 each.

The judges will be selected by the commissioners of the Fire Insurance Department.

Bill Young, Ex-Sea-Bee, One Of 6 Vets Enrolled

Midland High School has six ex-servicemen enrolled as students this year. They are Bill Young, Jerry Roberts, Charles and Joe Harrington, Arlie Ennis and Austin Lowry.

This will be the first in a series of articles concerning the service records of these veterans.

Bill Young, ex-Sea-Bee, volunteered for the Navy in June, 1945. He left Midland for San Diego in July. After spending five weeks in "Boot Camp," he was shipped to Port Huenuern, Calif., near Los Angeles. After 14 weeks in Port Huenuern, Bill was sent to Pearl Harbor for five months. He returned to the United States as a seaman first class, and was discharged at Terminal Island, San Pedro, Calif., in July, 1946. Bill received the American Theater, Asiatic-Pacific Theater Ribbons and the Victory Medal.

Midland High Band Adopts Grading System

Operating on the premise that each is entitled to what he actually earns, the Midland Band has adopted a point system of grading. Grade points are given for attendance, practice, good behavior, memory work, and for other activities that are constructive for the individual and the band.

For a grade of 95, one must earn 95 points, etc. All points over 100 count for credit toward a letter and medal. Such a system places full responsibility on the student, who can earn the grade he wants.

Should Frog Legs Be Served Students?

In order to solve some of the more urgent questions disturbing the sleep of MHS students, The Bulldog has taken a poll of popular opinion on some of the more pressing issues confronting the student.

This week's question is: "Do you think frog's legs should be served as appetizers at the next junior-senior marshmallow roash?"

Miss Ima Bun, a junior, "Yes, I think it would cut down expenses. We all have one or two old frogs lying around. I know I've got a couple in my garden."

Biceps Balonsciwitsky, star football player, "Didda-waaa, I ain't quite sure frog's legs would go good with marshmallows."

Bugs Hare, the rabbit faced boy, "Personally, I'd prefer carrots."

Pat Corrigan, son of the manufacturer of left-handed pencil sharpeners, "I think instead of wasting money on the seniors we ought to equip the school with left-handed pencil sharpeners."

Jeanie Mascara, "Frogs are too slimy to eat. Why don't we have raw oysters instead?"

Student Poll Shows Ambitions Range From Marriage To Street Cleaning

Value Of Education

(An Editorial)

You hear a good deal about the importance of education these days. Do we really realize the importance of it? Probably all of us have been reprimanded for not getting our lessons, and probably all of us have at one time or another wondered—what's the use? We say lessons are dry, boring, and take too much time. Sure they take time, but don't all worthwhile things?

Each of us is to play a large part in the world of tomorrow. It's a ravaged world we have to rebuild. It's full of devastated cities and broken people. This job of rebuilding has been handed to us as future law-makers and citizens. It is a big task indeed; but we can do it. We must have an education in back of us, however; for only by having an education can we build a world that is free from tyranny, and a world where all people can speak and think as they like. Only with an education can we understand our fellow man, and only by understanding our fellow man can we build a world decent for ourselves and for our posterity.

Personals

Pat Flanigan, Puddin Sivals, Dorothy Fay Holt, and Jeannine Stephens, chaperoned by Mrs. Marie Stephens, traveled to Lubbock for the home-coming game between Texas Tech and Baylor last Saturday.

Dorothy Fay Holt was limping around school the first of the week from a sprained toe received Sunday night.

Bobby Cole visited Stanley Hall, graduate of '46, in Lubbock Saturday and attended the game between Tech and Baylor.

Floyd Smith broke his collarbone in two places Monday in football practice.

Richard Davis was in a car wreck Tuesday when his car overturned on South Main. No one was seriously injured.

Shirley Cooper has moved back to Midland and will enroll as a Junior soon.

Chifley And Evatt Typify Australia, Are Its Spokesmen Home, Abroad

By MARC J. PARSONS
NEA Staff Correspondent

Two men, typical in many respects of Australia today, have become the spokesmen for its democracy at home and abroad.

One is a quiet, ex-railroad engineer who taught himself to be an expert on government financial matters, Joseph Benedict Chifley, a laboring man who heads Australia's Labor Government as Prime Minister.

The other is Dr. Herbert Vere Evatt, a brilliant student and lawyer who is a favorite by intellectual conviction and who, as Australia's Minister of External Affairs, has become the strident voice of democracy's conscience in world councils.

"Ben" Chifley's rise has been slow, methodical and steady, from railroad shop boy, to cleaner, fireman, engineer, deputy foreman at his home station of Bathurst, a seat in the federal parliament, and finally the Prime Ministry. A strike once set him back to railroad cleaner again. Defeat at the polls interrupted his parliamentary career for nearly 10 years. But he never stopped working.

Dr. Evatt turned from a university to a law career and at 36 became the youngest man ever appointed as judge of the Australian High Court. Then he became the first man ever to resign from the High Court to re-enter politics. He represented Australia at the United Nations organizational meetings in San Francisco, at U.N. sessions in New York City, and then at the Paris Peace Conferences. Everywhere he has been recognized as spokesman for the "little" powers. Today Evatt is back in Australia for the elections.

At home, Chifley has to lead Australia along the middle road of liberalism. His work day begins with informal party conferences at breakfast. He is at his desk by nine each morning and works steadily until 10:30 at night, except Saturdays when he likes to go to bed as early as seven o'clock in the evening.

Reads Everything
He reads constantly, everything from official reports and financial treatises to novels and detective stories. He once told a librarian friend shortly after he became Prime Minister that "you people with books have all the best of it." Walking is about his only exercise, something unusual among athletic

Prime Minister Chifley: "People with books have all the best of it."

Australians. He is an inveterate pipe-smoker, but in all other ways his habits are temperate.

When he is at home in Bathurst, Chifley still lives in the modest home he bought for less than $1,000 when he was married in 1914. His wife stays there instead of occupying the Prime Minister's quarters in the capital city, Canberra.

One Australian newspaper, looking around for ways to explain the Prime Minister, said of him that "in a parliament full of mediocre speakers, he is slightly below average," but added that he was "much above average in what he has to say."

Dr. Evatt has become the stormy petrel of post-war international power politics. He fought the dominance by the big powers at San Francisco and succeeded in broadening the powers of the General Assembly to give the smaller nations a bigger voice in world affairs.

So far at the Paris Peace Conference, his delegation has proposed 73 changes to the five treaties under consideration and prompted a Russian representative to declare that Australia has "drowned us with amendments." Most of the suggested changes have been designed to democratize the treaties. Despite Russian charges that Australia is acting as a "front man" for the so-called Western bloc, Australia has at times found itself

GIs Perplexed On How To Treat Germans In Reich

By RICHARD KASISCHKE

BERLIN—(P)—Some soldiers in the American Army of Occupation say they are perplexed.

They say that what they would like to know from President Truman, Secretary Byrnes and others in authority is:

"Are we now to be kind to the Germans? Are we to conclude that sentences in Nuremberg and other war crimes trials count for explanation of German war guilt and are we, maybe, to try to out-do the other occupying powers in being nice to the people we conquered?"

The questions were put by a combat veteran over coffee in a Red Cross Canteen as he leafed through "Stars and Stripes," the Army newspaper.

Paper Mirrors Confusion
The soldier, a corporal, said that the content of today's paper pretty well mirrored his confusion.

"Now here," said the corporal, "on the front page is a story from Berlin about a German girl getting an exit permit to go to America to marry an American she met here. She's still an enemy alien."

"And here on page four is a story telling about a Christmas party plan for German children to be given by American personnel at Bremerhaven. So we are playing Santa Claus to German kids."

"And on the sports page what do we see? It says soldiers and WACs get time off if they join the Army youth program and teach German kids baseball, football and basketball."

Letter To Editor
"And then we come to the 'B Bag' (the letters to the editor column in which soldiers air their gripes). Here's a letter from a lieutenant in Austria who seems to be as confused as I am. Let me read it to you:

"Our leaders try to impress on us that the Germans and Austrians as a whole are innocent victims of a few madmen, they had nothing against us and they are our friends now. They suffer from malnutrition and lack of homes and lack of clothes, etc."

"Can it be that our leaders have so soon forgotten the atrocities against humanity they have committed — Poland, Lidice, gas cells, murder, rape, pillage, systematic annihilation?"

"Are those just words out of a story book, or did our mouths pop open when we heard them a few years back?"

Said the corporal:
"Now, you tell me, what's the score. Next time a 'Kraut' trails me for a block waiting for me to throw away my cigarette butt, do I kick him in the teeth in memory of my buddies who died on the Western Front, or do I hand him the rest of my pack of cigarettes?"

voting against both Great Britain and the United States.

"Until the nations are prepared to practice international democracy they cannot hope to escape the evils of international tyrannies," he believes.

A Realist, Too
"The future of mankind may well be determined as much by the courage, initiative, determination and democratic idealism of the lesser powers as by the power, leadership and responsibility of the major powers."

Recognizing that the "big" power veto may interfere with "many decisions relating to the peaceful settlement of disputes," Evatt nevertheless has pledged his country to "steady and unwavering support for the United Nations and for the principles declared in the Charter."

"Being a realist, however, he advised Australia to re-examine "regional defense arrangements in the light of the degree of success of the United Nations in carrying out its objectives of giving adequate security against aggressive action."

SAN ANTONIO—(P)—The Tenth Air Force, commanded by Maj. Gen. Howard M. Turner, has established seven AAF reserve base units at which several thousand AAF reserve pilots are enrolled for the purpose of maintaining flying proficiency.

Other bases will be opened as rapidly as cadres can be formed. Already considerable aid has been lent states in initiating their respective Air National Guard programs. The Air Force has examined the Little Rock, Ark., fighter squadron, the first to seek federal recognition in the Tenth's area. It is expected others will apply for examination in the near future.

The Air Force intends to give the Civil Air Patrol help in the latter's program for training the young men in the essentials of aviation.

Put Into Operation
Since mid-summer the following air reserve bases have been put into operation:

Oklahoma City—117th AAF BU, at Tinker Field.

San Antonio—178th AAF BU,

at Brooks Field.
Dallas—4122 AAF BU, at Hensley Field.

New Orleans — 4159th AAF BU, New Orleans Municipal Airport.

Activated since September 30, but not yet ready for enrollment of reservists are:

Shreveport, La.—174th AAF BU, Barksdale Field, Major William T. Douthwaite, commanding.

Houston—175th AAF BU, Ellington Field.

Austin — 179th AAF BU, Bergstrom Field, Major James M. Smith, commanding.

Also the Tenth Air Force has assigned liaison officers to the Army Air Bases at Goodfellow Field, San Angelo, Texas; Biggs Field, at El Paso, and at Enid, Okla., to initiate the reserve flying program.

Midlander Who Served As Engineer On Great Alaskan Highway Favors Statehood

H. L. Goodman Says Soviets He Knew, Liked U. S. But Not War

By CROM HOLMES
Former Col. H. L. Goodman—native Texan, now of Midland and during the war a construction engineer on the great Army-built Alaskan highway—thinks that Alaska's entry into the union as the forty-ninth state would be one of the greatest things that ever happened to Alaska . . . and to the United States.

But being a Texan born in Floyd, Texas, Goodman, who with his brother, W. P. Goodman, operates Goodman Brothers, Inc., distributors of heavy construction equipment, advanced the idea that Congress, when it takes up the Alaskan issue at the next term, should divide Alaska into two states and enter them as the forty-ninth and fiftieth states.

Besides his Texas patriotism which makes him want Texas to remain the largest state in the union, Goodman contends that Alaska is too vast, and that the various sections are too varied in industry and geographical interests to fare well as one state.

"But definitely and surely Alaska must be voted into the nation," Goodman contended. "I don't want to serve as a defensive outpost for one thing, a well-developed Alaska would serve as a defensive outpost for America," he said. "The highway to the great territory has now been built. America will lose a great opportunity if it doesn't take a hand in developing the area and make proper use of its vast store of natural resources."

Goodman was bridge engineer for the Austin Bridge Company which built the new Galveston causeway in 1937. When he entered the Army, the War Department took one look at his construction experience, and it wasn't long before he was stationed in Whitehorse, the capital of the Yukon territory in Alaska, in the headquarters office playing a major role in the construction of the great Alaskan highway—to be used for shuttling Yanks and supplies to the Aleutian chain . . . and supplies to the Russians.

The 1,500-mile, all-weather gravel surface highway played an outstanding part in Russia's ability to turn the tide against the Germans on the Eastern front of the European War, Goodman contends.

"GI's to Cannons" "Everyone knows the Russians used vast quantities of American supplies, but most Americans don't know how those supplies were gotten into Russia," Goodman said, adding: "But 42,000 construction troops do. Once the highway from Dawson Creek, British Columbia, to Fairbanks, Alaska—over the roughest and wildest terrain ever seen by white men—was completed on Oct. 1, 1943, trucks by the thousands moved up the road continuously to Fairbanks from where huge Russian planes transported supplies to the Russian front. The equipment consisted of everything from GI shoes to jeeps, small tanks, and cannons."

Goodman got to know many of the Russian aviators and Russian depot officials well. He says they have a great liking for America and are interested in the way America has developed its industry and built a great, rich, inventive nation. The Russians naturally like Americans, he said.

Russians Don't Want War
The engineer went on to say that if the United States and Russia ever go to war, it will be the fault of the United States.

"The reason they balked and were stubborn at the recent Paris peace conference, as I see it, is that they think the United States is trying to encircle Russia. The Soviet contended that we dominated the conference through a bloc of 10 or 12 nations who were instructed by their home governments to vote as the U. S. did on every issue. And the records show the Russians were correct in their contention."

"But the Russians I knew naturally like Americans and have a great love for the United States, but not their form of government." But in case of a future war with Russia, the war probably will be fought from planes based on the Alaskan outposts and flying over the cold arctic region into Siberia, he pointed out.

"The U. S. now has a great supply line to those Alaskan bases—if it did take a war to get it," he said. He told of numerous airstrips constructed along the highway and the great terminal at Fairbanks.

Proud of Highway
Goodman is very proud of that highway, as well as he might be. He was directly in charge of 350 miles of the 1,500-mile supply line—and his section, from Whitehorse to Fort Nelson, was over the roughest area on the route, he said.

"I don't believe even the Indians had been over the area where some of the road was constructed. There were no trails to indicate the territory had been penetrated," he said.

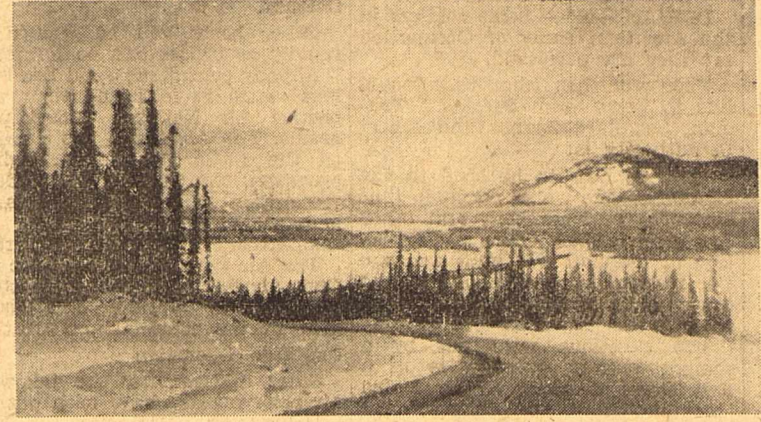

Seven engineering regiments—42,000 soldiers—working under the Northwest Service Command, with headquarters in Whitehorse, constructed the highway in 18 months—a feat Goodman terms as one of the greatest construction achievements of all time and equivalent in magnitude to the Panama Canal.

Praises GI Workers
Goodman is quick to praise the boys who did the work, and contends that the Army never did give the boys in the engineering regiments much credit or recognition for their task carried through to completion under adverse weather conditions and tremendous obstacles.

Most of the boys were Southerners—from south of the Mason-Dixon line—and were not used to cold weather. But they soon learned to adjust themselves to the cold which sometimes went 70 be-

The great Alaskan highway which extends 1,500 miles from Fort Dawson, British Columbia, to Fairbanks, Alaska, was a construction achievement equivalent to the digging of the Panama Canal, according to former Col. H. L. Goodman, now of Midland, who was construction engineer of 350 miles of the highway. His section of the supply line to U. S. troops in the Alaska and the Aleutians and to Russian air bases in Alaska was gouged out of the rugged terrain on the route. The picture on the left shows the highway under construction. On the right is a scene of one section of the finished highway, a gravel all-weather road, with scenic mountains in the distance.

low zero. Some of the workers were negroes from the South. The negro workers kept ahead of the white—but they were used to construction work and hard labor before entering the Army. The soldiers thought nothing of working in 40 degree below zero weather, and did not lose efficiency until the temperature approached 70 below.

34 GI's Killed on Job
Goodman has many pictures—most of them in natural colors—mode of the construction work and of the mountains, wild animals, rivers, and workers during the 18 months of work. Two of them are of an American Army cemetery, where 34 soldiers who were killed in accidents during the construction were buried. Since the end of the war, the bodies have been dug up and returned to the United States, Goodman pointed out.

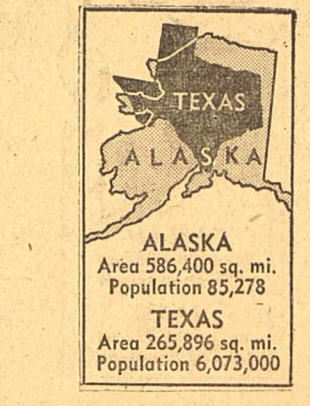

Goodman is enthusiastic about Alaska's being a great place for GIs and their families to get a new start in a new frontier—that is, if the area becomes a state. He said drastic rules, red tape, and plain stubbornness on the part of the Department of Interior has discouraged some of the GIs who were enthusiastic about the country. The department, he said, insisted that they homestead in places picked by the government. Somehow, the government's choice was never in the fertile valleys, Goodman pointed out.

200 GI Homesteaders
He was heartened to hear of the party of 200 persons who will start for Alaska from Cleveland in 10 days to start a new town in the Chilkoot Barracks, 15 miles south of Skagway.

The group will be members of the Veteran's Alaska Co-Operative Company which bought the fully-equipped barracks from the Interior Department as surplus property for $105,000. (See AP story on this page.)

Alaska Ill-Treated
The building of Alaska—not simply taking out its supplies and natural resources—is necessary to

ALASKA VOTES 2-1 TO JOIN UNION

JUNEAU, ALASKA —(P)— As returns from outlying districts continued to trickle in from Alaska's referendum election October 8, the statehood proposal held its two to one lead Saturday.

make Alaska a great state, Goodman contends.

"The United States has been treating Alaska like Great Britain does India," Goodman says. Fur trapping, fishing, and lumber firms have been going up there, taking out the resources, and even taking their own food with them. They don't buy supplies in Alaska and don't care about its development. What Alaska needs is more young persons interested in going up there with the idea of making it their home—and building a future state.

As the highway was being constructed, the Canadians were more enthralled about it than the Alaskans, Goodman pointed out. The Canadians saw the great possibility in the road's playing a part in the development of Alaska and the trade territory between the U. S. and Alaska. The Alaskans no longer had faith in the United States government, and didn't seem to be concerned with the road, he said.

Would Get Appropriations
If Congress votes Alaska into the Union, Alaska will benefit from road appropriations and will gain other rights which will aid it to develop its natural resources and take its place as a credit to the Union, Goodman pointed out.

Fifty per cent of the area is habitable for any one who has lived in the temperate zone, Goodman said. The coldest areas are along the coast line.

Goodman noted that colds were very rare among the soldiers. The cause, in those few cases, he said, was that they wore too many clothes and didn't take them off fast enough while working.

Plans To Go Back
For all his Texas patriotism, Goodman can't get Alaska out of his blood.

"I'm definitely going back up there some day," he said. "It is a hunter's and fisherman's paradise. It's like walking into a dream world. The territory has multitudes of moose, caribou, bear, mountain sheep, grouse, ducks and geese—by the millions."

Hunted Animals For Rations
"Many of the meat rations for the American troops were from the wild game along the highway. Regular hunting squads went out to bring in the game."

"Wolves and bears were in abundance. No one was ever attacked by the wolves. The stories told back in the States are far-fetched. Wolves or bears will attack only when crowded up where they can't get out or in extreme cases when they can't get food."

"Bears daily came and ate at the garbage dumps and the soldiers would walk right up to them." Goodman sent a 10-foot-long (from tip of tail to nose) wolf to the U. S. and had it mounted in Denver. It's a war trophy he's proud of.

As for fishing in Alaska, he said the GIs learned the streams were full of fish when they threw their ration cans into streams. He said fish leaped for the shiny tins before they struck the water. "Boy, did the GIs send home for their fishing equipment. I've seen two GIs go out and catch 400 pounds of northern pike and salmon, weighing from 6 to 25 pounds each, with a rod and reel in no time."

Streams And Bridges
There are hundreds of small lakes and rivers in Alaska, he said. He ought to know. He had to help build about 50 bridges—some of the steel-span type 200 to 350 feet long—across streams along the highway. The Laird River was crossed three times itself and the Yukon River once. Permanent type bridges were constructed, he said.

Goodman recommends Alaska as an ideal vacation place. But he warns that the vacationer should have at least two months to make the trip. He suggests shipping one's car to Dawson Creek, British Columbia, and going by car up the great highway to Fairbanks. He guaranteed plenty to see, plenty of hunting and fishing, and an enjoyable time in a land of paradise.

Open To Civilian Travels
He pointed out that just recently the highway was open to civilian travel, and that already two bus firms run buses from Dawson Creek to romantic Alaska.

Goodman, who was voted into the American Society of Civil Engineers for his achievement in engineering the Galveston Causeway, was awarded the Alaskan-Asiatic Theater Ribbon, and the Army Commendation Ribbon for contract termination work in Milwaukee after

Party Of 200 To Start New Town In Alaska, Using Surplus Army Supplies

CLEVELAND, OHIO —(P)— A party of 200 persons—including a doctor, a dentist and nurses—expect to leave within 10 days to get a new town started in Alaska, in the Chilkoot Barracks, 15 miles south of Skagway.

Major Carl W. Heimiller of near-by Berea, a founder of the Veterans' Alaska Co-operative company which bought the fully equipped barracks from the Interior Department as surplus property for $105,000, expressed hope of having a thriving community there by spring.

The Co-operative obtained title to the 400-acre settlement after a spirited hearing in Washington over the merits of a similar bid by Kenneth O'Hara operator of the O'Hara Bus Line, the biggest in Alaska. O'Hara, a former Ohio State U. student, was known as "the richest corporal in the Army." "Chikoope is an ideal spot," Heimiller said. "We have everything ready to move in—the town has all utilities. Many of the houses are furnished and we have running water and oil heat, sewerage and other conveniences."

Sixty-six of the 400 acres are cleared and there are eighty-six buildings, including a thirteen-bed hospital, two barracks buildings and a fire station.

All of the first settlers—veterans and their families—have purchased a $100 share of common stock in the co-operative. Heimiller, now on terminal leave after six years in the Army, said 800 applications had been received.

The company plans to operate a co-operative retail store and aid members to get started in business. A tank landing craft and a five-passenger plane already have been purchased to help bring in supplies.

Eventually, the group expects to start similar enterprises in other parts of Alaska.

"However, it is a pioneering set-up," Heimiller added. "It won't be too easy at the start, but with two or three years we should have a thriving community of a thousand families."

Non-veterans recommended by members may join as well as veterans. All must purchase stock and all have a vote in the running of the organization.

Members are required to have at least $2,000 to tide them over until the project becomes self-sustaining, Heimiller said.

Hey... all I said was I didn't mind waiting for the tire that OUTWEARS PREWAR TIRES!

We've never had a tire that sold as fast as the new B. F. Goodrich Silvertown

The better the tire, the faster it sells... that's why we've had such a hard time keeping the new B. F. Goodrich Silvertown in stock. There's extra demand because these tires are built with a wider, flatter tread that spreads the wear over a wider area. The cords are of an entirely new and stronger type with more of them, with greater resistance to "road shock." It's a proven tire of extra toughness and durability with millions of test miles on police cars, taxis and special test cars behind it. These features make it the tire that's well worth waiting for.

 George Glass' herd of good Hereford cattle, Wayland Livingston, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earnest Livingston, who won the calf given away in Midland County, has done a nice job in developing his heifer. He will have her at the Midland Livestock Show next March 17, 18, 19. Wayland's sister Rita has also done a good job with the baby chicks she won at the show. The other calf looked at was at the J. J. Willis ranch. J. J.'s son, an Ector County 4-H Club boy, is doing a fine job with his heifer and expects to show her at the Sand Hills Hereford Show in Odessa next March 20, 21, 22. Bob and George were well pleased with the way the boys are handling their calves.

There will be a cattle spraying demonstration at the Forrest King ranch at 2 p.m. next Wednesday. A new type of power sprayer will be demonstrated and a solution of DDT and rotonil will be used to spray the cattle. This solution will kill lice and grubs. The cattle will be worked at No. 9 which is about 11 miles out on the Andrews highway, north of the road. Everyone interested in seeing this work done are invited out.

Herb Midkiff, who ranches in the south part of the county, is off the sick list now and is up and around. Guess you can't keep a good man down.

Bill Brown, another Midland County 4-H Clubber, has placed two cross bred lambs on feed for next year's show. Bill has recently gone to work for the Williamson-Green Feed Store here.

Does anyone know where we can get $5,000 to help get an exhibit building built? If we can raise as much as $5,000 some people say that we can get the rest of the money necessary for the construction of such a building. Midland is in need of this show barn so some one come forth with a suggestion as how to raise the money needed.

The boys down Garden City way have dissolved their roping club for the season and they claim that it is going to cost them very little for the fun they have had this summer at these jack pot ropings. The sale of the roping calves will just about cover their expenses for the season.

William Long, who farms and dairies south of Midland about six miles has proven that at least some soy beans will grow in Midland County in spite of the dry weather. We had last summer. Long planted a few rows of soy beans on his farm in July and they did very well, making lots of beans and foliage.

The local gins report 1,010 bales of cotton have been ginned to date in Midland County. The recent rains have slowed up cotton picking but cotton is moving to the gins now. Midland County has a large acreage of late cotton that will make a good yield if we have a late frost. The same can be said for the late feed crops.

In the first local livestock auction sale held in Midland since the meat control prices were dropped, prices were stronger with bidding active with a strong undertone despite the fact that a number of the major markets broke in prices due to the large number of livestock rushed to market after the price controls were taken off. The local auction sale had a run of over 600 head. Choice butcher yearlings from 17.00 to 19.00; common butcher yearlings 13.00 to 16.00; light weight fat calves, 14.00 to 16.00; choice fat cows, mostly 15.00; butcher cows, 9.50 to 12.50; cutters, 8.00 to 9.50; canners, 6.50 to 8.00; few shelly cows lower; stocker cows, good quality, up to 13.00.

A packet of good stockers consigned by V. P. Tippit of San Angelo brought 13.00. Common stocker cows, 8.50 to 11.00; stocker steer calves up to 16.80; heifer stocker calves a dollar lower; bull calves, good quality, up to 15.00; common stocker grade calves, 12.00 to 13.50; bulls, light weight, 10.00 to 13.50, with no choice bulls offered. Pairs were active with prices up to 153.00. Package of fair cows with small calves from Wink brought 120.00 a pair. Few hogs offered with top of 27.50 for butcher kind, stocker hogs 23.00, while small pigs brought 11.50 by the head.

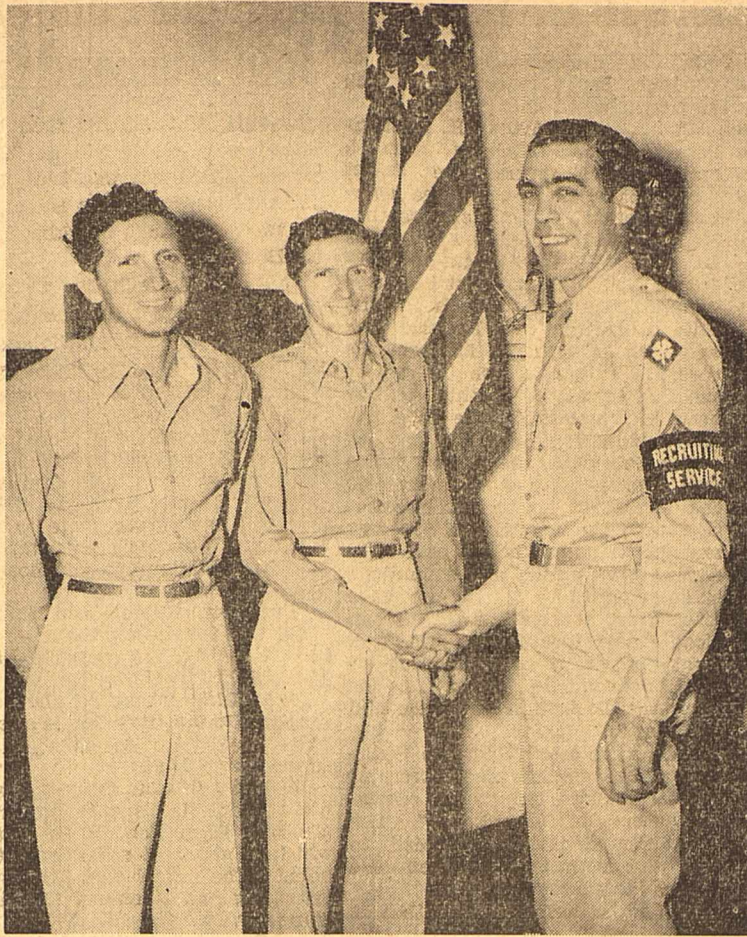

Recent visitors to Midland were Mr. and Mrs. Ray Hightower, Mr. and Mrs. Pete Underwood, and Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Currie, all of Garden City, H. R. Doty from Andrews, J. H. and Hugh Crouch from Garden City.

Glad to see Paul Barron back in town. Hope that the Mrs. gets along all right and is able to come home soon.

O. H. McAllister, who ranches in the east part of the county, was in town last week. O. H. has produced some good calves from his herd of commercial Herefords and has furnished a number of club calves in the last few years. O. H. has a good herd of registered Herefords on his place.

Identical Twins Enlist

Identical twins, Robert and Elbert Adams of Midland are reenlisting in the U. S. Army and receive the congratulations of M. Sgt. James McNeill (right), recruiting non-commissioned officer in charge. McNeill is shown shaking hands with Robert, not it's Elbert. Which is it? The recruiter didn't even know and how can the Army. The twins served in World War II together, enlisting at the same time, serving overseas together, and receiving all promotions together. They will stay together this time during another hitch.

Bill Whalen, McAllen, Is Kiwanis Governor

McALLEN—The new governor of the 142 Kiwanis Clubs of Texas and Oklahoma, W. D. (Bill) Whalen of McAllen, started in business here with a capital of $30. He is now one of the leading furniture dealers of South Texas, and a Valley-wide civic leader.

Whalen, elected governor of the Texas-Oklahoma district at the Beaumont convention, is already making preliminary plans for the Kiwanis magazine "Ki-Notes" which he will begin editing from his office in McAllen January 1. Whalen, though himself an orchard owner, promises to delete his propaganda regarding the superiority of Texas grapefruit and oranges from the magazine.

Division 4, the South Texas district, of which Whalen will remain lieutenant governor of Kiwanis till he begins his governorship of the bi-state district in January, made a national record this year through the organization of four new clubs, with three others in process of organization.

Whalen started a hole-in-the-wall business in McAllen about 15 years ago with a capital of $30, and has become a financial leader through his merchandising and through investments in citrus groves and business property at McAllen. He is a past president of the McAllen chamber of commerce, past president of the Kiwanis Club, and during the two years he headed the Hidalgo County Red Cross campaign, the quota was exceeded each year by more than 100 per cent. Whalen led the campaign which built in McAllen one of the most modern child clinics in the state.

Churchill's Daughter Now Actress In Italy

By JOHN MCKNIGHT
 ROME (AP)—"So I say to him, I love you dearly."

The willowy girl in the long blue velvet dress put the tips of her slender fingers together and laughed. When she laughed, her green eyes laughed, too.

"And what does he answer? I don't know, because he answers me in Italian."

The girl was Sarah Churchill, 30-year-old daughter of Britain's wartime prime minister, a WAAF for five years and now back at her chosen career as an actress.

She was talking about the movie she is making in Rome—"Daniele Cortis," based on the 19th Century novel by Antonio Fogazzaro—in which she plays the feminine lead opposite the Italian stage star Vittorio Gassman.

Don't Speak Same Language
 Miss Churchill speaks no Italian. Gassman speaks no English. On the set, she delivers her lines in precise, carefully enunciated English; he speaks his in Italian. Since there will be both Italian and English versions of the flicker, Miss Churchill's voice will be dubbed in the former, Gassman's and the rest of the cast in the latter. It is easy to see that the situation makes for complications.

As early as 1543, Ambrose Pare adopted the pressure method for inducing anesthesia—by pressure applied to a nerve trunk or artery.

Alabama state laws provide that no one sentenced to death in the state's courts may be executed without a clemency hearing by the governor in person.

of acrimony and dissension that emphasizes the split between the Russian dominated Slavic bloc and the Western Allies, and threatens to nullify much of the labor which has been expended since the parley opened July 29.

The conference results (one scarcely can employ the more optimistic term "achievements") now will be placed before the Big Four Foreign Minister's Council—America, Britain, Russia and France—in New York for approval or rejection. Decisions of the council must be unanimous, and a fiery outburst by Soviet foreign minister Molotov in the closing session of the Paris conference indicated that he would employ the veto against several important actions of that body.

So the dove of peace would seem to have been sitting on an added egg in the old Luxembourg palace. And lucky she didn't get shot, as well.

Molotov Hits Results
Molotov tossed the monkey-wrench into the machinery with great deliberation. He declared that the results of the conference were unsatisfactory. He accused the United States, Britain and France of violating their agreements (made in the Foreign Ministers' Council) in adopting a number of "anti-democratic" measures regarding Trieste.

And the Soviet foreign secretary angrily charged that the United States had dominated the conference. Was it by coincidence that almost simultaneously the Moscow press and radio took vigorous punches at Uncle Sam? Well, anyway, the Soviet newspaper Pravda, commenting on strikes in the United States, declared that American capital had launched a campaign against workers as part of a program to conquer the world by imperialism. Sunday the Moscow radio stated that Premier Stalin was referring "to such a country as the United States" when he made his recent declaration that talk of a new war was promoted by some military men to prevent reduction of military budget in their countries.

Says U. S. Controlled Votes
Molotov, in accusing the United States of dominating a group of lesser powers to achieve its own ends, declared that "in all votes in the conference it was enough for the American delegate to vote and another 12 or 13 votes were assured." He said the Americans sought "definite decisions regardless of whether they were correct as long as they pleased this group."

U. S. Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg preceded Molotov with a speech which spurred the Soviet foreign minister's anger. The senator demanded without success that Russia's $300,000,000 reparations bill against Finland be cut to $200,000,000 on the ground that the larger amount was too much for the little country to pay. He also took exception to remarks in previous speeches in which "the motives of the United States in this matter have been attacked." He then declared bluntly:

"Mr. President, the United States delegation will leave its motives to the verdict of history in connection with the winning of the war and the writing of a just peace. We decline to plead as defendants among Allies to whom we have given every ounce of cooperation in blood and treasure of which a great nation is capable. But we shall continue to speak for the American conception of justice and fair play."

Molotov reported that the Senator's address "made an unfavorable impression both as to his consistency and his frankness." The Soviet representative proceeded to lash out with both fists at the United States.

That is the unhappy situation as the Big Four transfer their activities to New York. This final outburst in Paris was no mere flash in the pan. It marked an accumulation of distrust and suspicion which has been driving the Eastern and the Western Allies further apart. If this atmosphere prevails when the Big Four Foreign Ministers assemble in New York, the prospect of international accord will indeed be gloomy.

Midland Family Leaves Saturday To Join Husband In Occupied Germany

Leaving Midland for New York Saturday, where it will be "Destination—Germany" was Mrs. E. C. Heikkila, 709 West Ohio Street, and her two sons, Eddie Heikkila, 3, and Joe Dorsey, 15.

And Obersaffenhoben, Germany, will be their new address about two years. The three from Midland are joining Maj. E. C. Heikkila, who is stationed with the aviation air corp in Obersaffenhoben. They expect to leave New York about October 25 and will arrive in Bremerhaven in seven to 12 days where they will be met by Army officials who will accompany them to their new home. Mrs. Heikkila is the first wife from Midland to join her husband in occupied Germany.

"I've been talking and thinking about this for so long that now that it is a reality, I'm scared a little," Mrs. Heikkila said.

Little Eddie is excited about seeing his Daddy and Joe is thrilled and would like to take all his friends with him.

Joe will go to an Army-sponsored high school (he is a sophomore in Midland High School) in Munich which is about 15 miles from their home. The school was just set up last week and is one of the six in Germany.

A life-time resident of Midland, Mrs. Heikkila, the former Juanita Johnson, has been living with her mother, Mrs. Bertha Johnson. Talks to Husband
Mrs. Heikkila explained that each person going is allowed to take two suitcases and may carry in the hold of the ship 350 pounds for each adult and 175 for each person under 12. Of household goods, any amount may be shipped. Mrs. 1900 miles long.

Heikkila is taking 1,000 pounds. Tuesday Mrs. Heikkila talked by telephone to her husband in Munich and "he sounded as if he were here in Midland".

About their new house—it is a very nice 10-room Bavarian style home, Major Heikkila said. They have one German housekeeper thus far. She is the owner of the house which is a few miles from the base and is on about a block and a half of land.

To Tour Germany
Mrs. Heikkila says she would like to work while in Germany, but, "I'm not sure my husband will let me" and she plans to take in all the government sponsored tours of the country. "Everyone says its beautiful over there but cold now."

Major Heikkila, in service five years, was stationed at the Midland Army Air Field when it first opened in November, 1941, and was transferred from here in March, 1942. He returned to this field from November, '45, to March, '46, and has been in Germany since April. He was also stationed in Big Spring and Denver.

Major Heikkila applied for passage for Mrs. Heikkila and their two sons in May; she received her travel orders in July and the port call this month. Shipping is about two months behind.

When Major and Mrs. Heikkila and sons return, they will either live in Midland or Brooklyn, N. Y., which is Major Heikkila's home.

VERY IMPORTANT NEWS FOR CAR OWNERS!

WE HAVE INSTALLED A HUGE, NEW BEE LINE CHASSIS ALIGNER

THE LONGEST PRECISION FRAME MACHINE IN THE WORLD!

FOR TRUCKS, TRAILERS, BUSES AND AUTOMOBILES

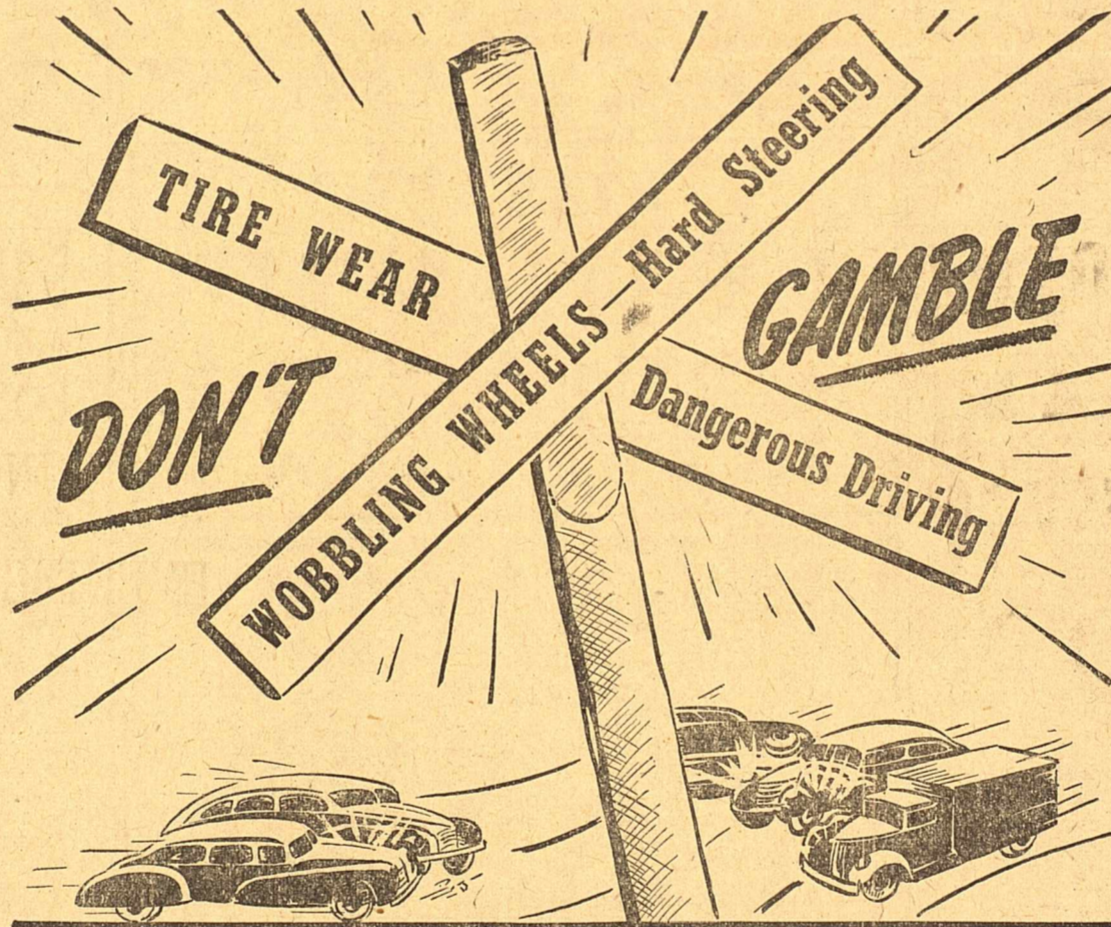

GET THE BEST FRAME AND AXLE SERVICE!

Here is the answer for complete frame and alignment service. The extra strength and power of this machine enables us to handle the largest jobs.

The easy performance of the air lift frame press and the simple universal tool set-up place this chassis aligner in the lead in the field of automobile frame and wheel alignment.

The chassis aligner is sturdy in construction, fast in performance and easy in operation.

The Bee Line Company is the originator of commercial frame straighteners. The company built and pioneered the first model and has constantly improved the product to meet the changing requirements of the automotive industry. Since 1934 all Bee Line chassis aligners have been equipped with an independent frame press and interchangeable tools. This arrangement guarantees against obsolescence due to automotive changes. It is this foresighted designing policy that has made Bee Line the world's largest and best known producer of automobile and truck chassis aligners.

FOR SAFETY HAVE YOUR CAR CHECKED

You should have your alignment checked at least once every six months. Wobbly wheels, shimmying, uneven tire wear and hard steering are danger signals that you must watch for safety's sake as well as for the welfare of your pocketbook.

Drive in today and let our skilled mechanics check your car on our new Bee-Line alignment machine.

COMPLETE BEE LINE AUTOMOTIVE ALIGNMENT SERVICE!

Frame side sway is one of the most common conditions found in a bent frame. The Bee Line AC chassis aligner with its multiple tools is the only machine to handle the operation correctly on late model cars. Box section frames that are made of thin metal require two pushing tools and at least two holding tools if the job is to be done properly. Only Bee Line has tool equipment to straighten modern frames to factory specifications.

Anti-friction rollers carry the cross knees to effect a smooth and full delivery of hydraulic power to the frame. Less power is required by this method and larger frames can be straightened with any size jack than is possible by any other method.

The universal tool arrangement of the Bee Line AC machine makes possible combination set-ups so that the side member of the frame can be raised vertically and stretched out to normal length while side sway is being corrected.

Wot, No Smoke Rings On Airway Flight?

NEW YORK—(AP)—One feature of Pan American World Airway's version of the Boeing Stratocruiser will produce a strange effect on passengers who smoke, according to engineers working on the airliner. You won't be able to blow a smoke ring. In fact, no smoke.

The engineers have installed a studied before but an Italian chemist, the cigarette smoke never has a chance. The system snatches the smoke away almost before it gets out of your mouth. There's no draft, but the passengers get completely new air every 90 seconds.

is increasing all the time, and extends throughout the country."

Col. Fred L. Hamilton, chief of the Army's Remount Service, spoke with happy anticipation of three sales this month at which the service will offer about 400 saddle horses to sportsmen and breeders.

The first will be October 21 at Front Royal, Va., where 150 mounts will be on sale. On October 29 there will be 100 more offered at Fort Reno, Okla., and the next day there will be another 150 for sale at Fort Robinson, Neb.

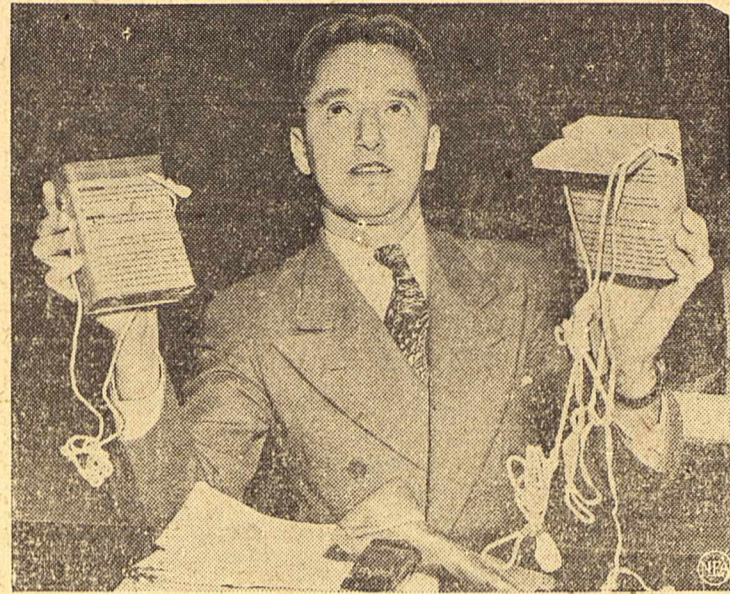

Service Supplies Horses
The Remount Service now is devoted almost entirely to the interests of the nation's horsemen. It supplies a few horses to Fort Riley, Kan., where an Army jumping team is training, some more to Camp Carson, Colo., for troops in mountain training, and some to ROTC units at various schools.

"There is no more cavalry in the Army," the colonel said, "but some National Guard outfits are trying to get it back. We'll give them the horses."

At the Agriculture Department, the horse expert didn't care to be identified by name.

"If you own up to being the horse expert around here," he said, "everybody thinks you don't have anything to do. And if that was all I did, I wouldn't have, either."

'Silver in Them Thar Kits!'

When Milton Hammer, War Assets Administration executive, was flooded with offers of 5 to 40 cents apiece for 235,000 surplus "desalting" kits, he became suspicious. Checking, he discovered that the kits, which cost the taxpayers $20 apiece, contain five ounces of pure silver each, worth 90 cents an ounce. He's shown as he displayed the kits, used by downed U. S. flyers to make salt sea water drinkable, to House Surplus Property Committee.

U. S. Reserves Right To Recapture Weapons Supplied To Allies

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The United States will reserve the right to recapture all weapons and munitions supplied Russia under lend-lease before writing the wartime account "closed", government officials said Saturday.

These officials noted that such recapture provisions have been written into the lend-lease settlements concluded with seven other countries.

Officials say that in general this country does not expect to exercise its right in any country to regain possession of items like guns, planes and tanks, but that the recapture clause was inserted as a precautionary measure.

The great bulk of the $11,000,000,000 in lend-lease goods furnished the Russians falls into the strictly war goods category.

The Russians will be asked, however, to pay at least part of the cost of civilian type articles which the Soviets can use in peace time.

A decision apparently remains to be made on whether to charge for weapons still in use by the Soviet army.

Officials declined to estimate the amount of the final Soviet obligation. They pointed out, however, that Britain was billed for $650,000,000 and France for $420,000,000 when they settled their lend-lease

Lubbock VA Office Seeks Lawyer Service

A "Help Wanted" call for lawyers has been sent out by the West Texas Veterans administration regional office at Lubbock.

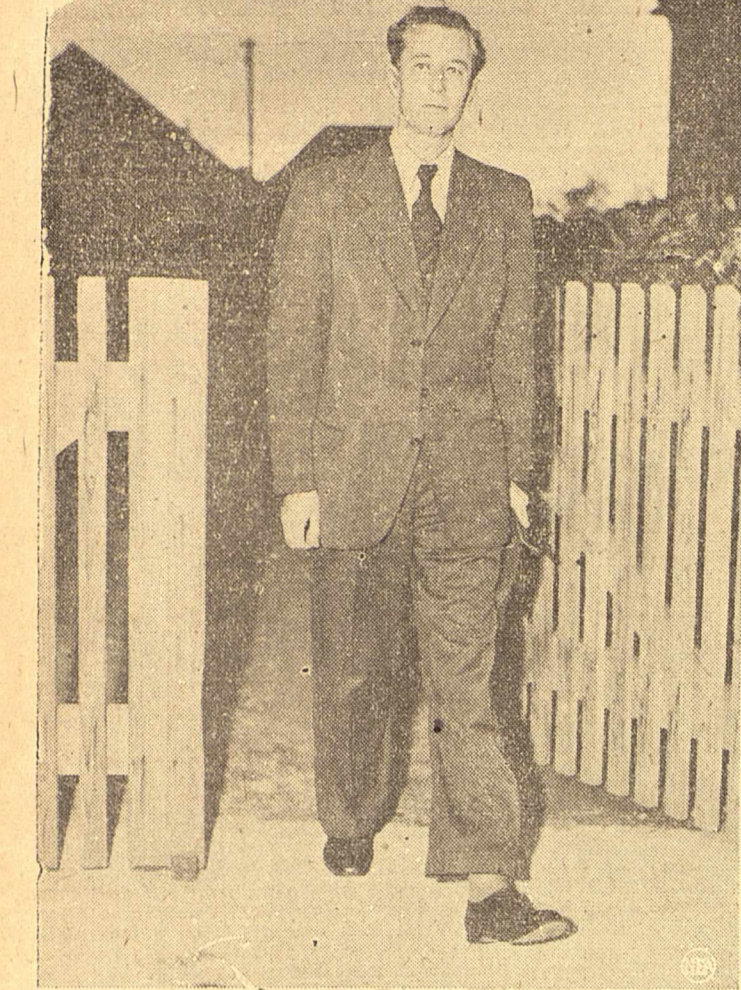

According to Walter R. Byrd, Personnel Officer, lawyers are needed in the adjudications division to prepare and adjudicate claims for disability or death compensation or pension; to make statutory burial allowances; to handle legal correspondence and furnish information as to eligibility for hospitalization, domiciliary care and other benefits; for rating board activities; for activities of the committee on waivers, and for development and certification of appeal cases to the appellate agency.

"These positions offer permanent employment with salaries commensurate with professional experience and training," Byrd said.

Licensed attorneys should apply to the Veterans administration regional office, Lubbock. An application for Federal employment can be secured at any Post Office or from the VA at Lubbock, Byrd pointed out.

Teen-Age Vote Grows Up In Georgia; Youth's Having Its Day In Politics

By HENRY LESENE
NEA Special Writer

ATLANTA, GA.—The teen-age vote is growing up as a political issue in the Southeast.

It started in Georgia, where Gov. Ellis Arnall, elected governor at 35, spearheaded a constitutional amendment allowing 18-year-olds to vote. It spread to South Carolina this Summer when teen-agers were welcomed at the polls for the Democratic primaries, which are South Carolina's actual election.

And now Gov-Nominate James E. (Big Jim) Folsom has promised that it will be the purpose of his administration to permit 18-year-olds to vote in Alabama.

Big Jim campaigned on pledges of constitutional reform and repeal of the poll tax, but he became a convert to the idea of 18-year-old voting after visiting Governor Arnall recently and discussing governmental reform.

Folsom, incidentally, will become the youngest governor in the United States when he takes office. Arnall, who hitherto held the distinction, was prevented from running again by a constitutional ban against a second term.

The decision to permit teen-agers to vote came too late in South Carolina, in fact, for it to have much effect on the Summer primaries.

The youth vote, however, was a considerable factor in Georgia's primary. There is no way of knowing exactly, but a conservative estimate is that 100,000 teen-agers voted in Georgia.

Campus Politics
This was about a third of the normal Georgia vote, but a seventh of the vote this year, when registration reached unprecedented heights as the result of a large negro vote.

Teen-aged voting brought quite a political atmosphere to campuses of Georgia colleges. Students campaigned vigorously for their candidates, with speeches, posters, and even leaflets dropped from airplanes.

Straw votes came often and charges and counter-charges flew between the student organizations. But what was the result?

The results are questionable. The considerable bloc of negro teen-age votes went naturally to 37-year-old James V. Carmichael, who was Arnall-backed, and who won the popular vote despite the fact that Gene Talmadge won the unit vote and the nomination.

All pre-primary polls showed the college boys and girls heavily in favor of Carmichael. But, as Talmadge sagely remarked in a post-primary interview, a good many Georgia boys and girls must have voted just as their daddies did.

Just as in the case of 18-year-old voting, the GI influence in politics has been most marked in the South. This also might be called a part of the youth movement.

Scrutinize the results of the recent primaries in the Democratic one-party South and you'll find some important offices filled by ex-GIs who are well on this side of 40. Georgia has the youngest congressman, 30-year-old W. M. (Don) Wheeler. Another congressman in Georgia, Prince Preston, is just 37. Both are veterans.

Alabama chose a 34-year-old veteran, Laurie C. Battle of Birmingham, in a congressional race. A 31-year-old Congressional Medal of Honor winner, Nathan Gordon, was elected lieutenant governor of Arkansas.

A 32-year-old wartime marine officer, George Smathers, was elected to Congress from Florida. Another veteran, Joe Evins, 36, was elected to Congress in Tennessee.

And so on. There is little doubt that it's the day of youth in the South's politics.

Publicity Men Help Government Bigshots

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Like the little pilot fish that noses along near a ship or a shark in deep water, publicity men swim close in the wake of government bigshots.

You rarely hear their names but this town is full of them. The better they are the less you hear of them and the more and better things you hear of their bosses.

They're on the government payroll. Most of them were newspapermen themselves, once. Somewhere along the road they decided to work for the government and make publicity a career. Some are good. Some aren't.

All don't do the same kind of work. Generally, there are two kinds: the one who works close to the big man, becoming his crutch; and the one who handles the every day information coming from his department.

Take the one who works close to the big man?

He may write his speeches, or help him write them; write the magazine pieces which bear the big man's name; edit his public statements, toning them down, sharpening them, keeping the big man from sticking his neck out.

Fountainhead of Information

He's supposed to be the fountainhead of information about his boss, know what he's thinking, and interpret what he said or didn't say, or meant to say, or didn't mean.

If, by a soft answer he turneth away wrath, he's saved the boss that much wear and tear. If, by giving the right information he's saved the boss from a personal interview, the boss saves time.

All this is just a general picture. It varies by individuals. Some top officials write their own speeches although not always with happy results.

Henry Wallace is reported to have written his own foreign policy speech which set the world wondering and eventually led to his being fired from the cabinet.

The night he left the cabinet he spent half his time on the radio explaining what he meant, or didn't mean, in his speech of a week before.

Now take the other kind of publicity man, the general information man. Every department has a staff of such men.

They may help write speeches, and a lot of them do, but they're supposed to be a central source of information for what happens in their department.

Would-Be Censor

A literary organization as hard-boiled as some of his literary characters is the new creation of James M. Cain, author of "The Postman Always Rings Twice" and other rough and rowdy fiction. Called the American Authors Authority, it seems designed to be a closed-shop clearing house for magazine, screen and radio writers.

All writers in these fields, it seems, would have to belong to guilds representing their various professions. Once joined up, they could send their works to the AAA, which would handle the copyright and marketing. It would lease material only to such magazines and radio and movie firms "as comply with the basic agreements of these guilds." In other words, the AAA would have the market sewed up at both ends.

The Cain plan is obviously inspired by ASCAP (American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers) and James Petrillo's musicians' union. But the situation with the writers doesn't fit these models.

ASCAP came into being largely to protect song writers who formerly had to sell all rights to their work for whatever a publisher offered them. If the song was a hit, the publisher might sell a million copies. But the composer and lyric writer didn't get a cent in royalties.

Petrillo imposed a tax on records for the same basic reason. His musicians got paid for making a record, but a radio station might use this same record over and over again on paid broadcast time.

Cain's AAA is something else again. Magazine writing is a one-shot proposition. A story is published, a script and that's the end of it. Motion picture profits, of course, come from repeated sales. But the screen writers don't work for peanuts, any more than the actors do.

In fact, we've heard no piteous cries for help from any of the writers who fit into Cain's scheme. Good magazine and radio writers have pretty lucrative jobs, as writing goes. Screen writers have even better ones. Nor can unionization be Cain's main concern, for the screen and radio writers are already organized.

But whatever his purpose, the result would certainly be an invitation for bold, high-handed censorship and dictatorship. Its dangers are obvious.

The fact that the Cain plan is backed by the notoriously Communist-dominated Screen Writers Guild is only an incidental objection. The point is that Cain is asking writers to adopt a plan by which their writings could be suppressed by the AAA for any reason. The magazine, radio and picture industries are asked to adopt a plan which would permit the AAA to dictate the subject matter used by all three, if it chose to do so.

So, though Cain may be promising to get the writers more money, it is clear that they stand to lose more than they gain. The AAA plan is a potential blow at independent writing and a free press. This is a Triple-A which might well be plowed under.

Her Lease Has Expired

A 72-year-old Iowa woman, having completed a 35-year murder sentence, doesn't want to leave prison. The state, it is reported, may take steps to evict her.

Let her stay, we say. Enough's enough. She has paid her debt to society, according to law. So why punish her again by throwing her out of a nice comfortable jail right into the midst of the housing shortage? Or maybe the prison has a waiting list, too.

Free Enterprise Will Be Given Final Test As Way Of Life When Wage, Price Controls Lifted

By JAMES MARLOW
 WASHINGTON —(AP)— Here we go on the great adventure.

Pretty soon now the government will have taken off wage controls and most of its price controls. Then at last we'll be back in that free economy—that free enterprise—which businessmen have called for since the war ended.

And right there the great adventure begins. These next five or ten or twenty years may be the most important in the history of the United States.

They may, in fact, decide whether free enterprise is to continue to be the way of life in this country. For if after a decade or two of prosperous free enterprise we crash into depression—because free enterprise failed to keep us out of depression—what then?

The possibility of Socialism or Fascism in this country seems remote now, perhaps absurd.

Depression May Make Difference
 But no one at this minute—when America seems to be entering upon a rich and successful era—can see how much liberty the people might be willing to yield if they became jobless, hungry and hopeless in depression.

We have been raised on the tradition that free enterprise, by free men, has made this country great and will continue to keep it that way.

We had such free enterprise before the war. Then the war came and, up until now, the government sold business what prices it could charge and labor what wages it could get. Now this is ending.

So we start out again upon free enterprise but in a world where Socialism—the opposite of free enterprise—is far stronger than it was before the war, and more widespread.

(Socialism is government ownership of the essential means of production and distribution of goods, like coal mines, aviation, railroads.) Russian Communism—which is Socialism in extreme form because it is a dictatorship with government ownership of practically everything—is far more powerful than in 1939.

But Socialism has spread to England, that original home of free enterprise, although in much milder form than in Russia. In England the government has assumed ownership of the Bank of England, communications, and civil aviation. And it will take over the coal mines next year.

So the people of the whole world, including this country, Russia and England, will be watching to see how these opposite ways of living work out: free enterprise here, Socialism in England, Communism in Russia.

Free enterprise can be given a death blow here in the immediate future—and in the long run, too—is business, hungry for profits, selfishly thinks of its own interests only; and if labor makes wage demands which business can't meet.

Behind it all, of course, is this: Will free enterprise work well enough to keep our factories producing, our workers working, and our people generally with enough money in their pockets to keep on buying?

Bodies Of Fliers Found In Heroes' Grave In Holland

VERSAILLES, FRANCE —(AP)— The American Army graves registration command, in final reports issued here, told how the bodies of 11 United States Army air corps fliers, missing since Sept. 9, 1944, were found in recent Scandinavian operations of a U. S. Army disin-terment team.

The crew in a four-engined bomber bound with heavy cargo for Norwegian underground forces crashed into towering Mount Skorvefjell, in the Telemark Mountains, shortly after midnight on Sept. 10, 1944.

The disin-terment team found that their bodies had been buried in a common grave by loyal Norwegians with a stone marker near-by engraved "they gave all a man can give for freedom and peace".

Fresh flowers decorated the white cross marking each grave, the report said—flowers that had been renewed regularly throughout nearly two years until the American squad could reach the grave and bring the bodies back.

Other Army searching teams pushed nearly 300 miles north of the Arctic circle as far as Hammerfest, Norway, and brought back 44 bodies of Americans, many of them underground liaison men of the Office of Strategic Services.

The Norway mission was headed by Lt. Col. W. A. Cauthen, of Orangeburg, S. C.

Delbert Downing, New C Of C Manager, Props Feet On Desk And Talks Of Midland's Future, Football, Life

By MARIE JOHNSON
"Come on in, and sit down; there are no secrets in my family anymore" and Delbert D. Downing, newly appointed manager of the Midland Chamber of Commerce, leans back comfortably in his chair, props his feet on the desk and prepares for an interview, which he isn't much in favor but will be cordial about.

Truly a country boy, (he said), Downing was born on a farm in Stephens County and later moved to a town "you won't believe this, manager where the previous manager was terrible and things were in a mess and the chamber of commerce was at the bottom. But not me, I have to pick the best there is where the previous manager is well known, liked, capable and popular, but then that's typical of Downing."

Mrs. Downing thinks the whole thing is fine but she is already dreading the long hours it will take.

That Midland will grow into a large city as the cattle and oil capital of West Texas seems quite possible to Downing and he thinks Midland definitely will grow too because of its other foundation... the churches, the school systems and a city government which is far-sighted.

Assumes Position in November
Explaining that he wouldn't actually be the manager until sometime around the first of November, Mr. Downing was interrupted by a telephone call and turning back to his interviewer with a grin, "Well, looks like I've started to work already."

Now the assistant manager of the Scharbauer Hotel, Downing is a family man, having three children, Don, JoDean and Tinker and spends much of his leisure time reading. He especially liked The Robe and the Apostle.

So this tall, friendly, modest, joking man is Midland's new manager of the Chamber of Commerce. And, incidentally, he is quite proud of his newspaper write-ups.

Carnival Artist Strives To Draw His Public In

By ANDY ANDERSON
TAMPA, FLA.—(AP)—You've probably never heard of Snapp Wyatt, but blame him in part when you shell out your money at a carnival or circus to see the bearded lady, monkey show, pin-headed boy or some other attraction.

Wyatt is a master in an almost exclusive school of art, running a shop that is one of four in the country, turning out those gaudy banners that flap in front of some 200 circus and country fair carnival sideshow over the country.

Conventional art lovers may sneer at the flashy oranges and reds but show people know their mass appeal and will permit none but the select few to paint the flaming banners.

Wyatt is 40 and his real first name is David, but carnival people changed that when they discovered he could turn out a canvas at the snap of a finger. Actually, he can complete a regular size banner (8 x 10 feet) in less than two days.

He says that to capture with a paint brush the psychological quirks that draw people into tents, you have to live with show people—and that's what Wyatt's done much of his life for he ran away from home when he was 14 to join a circus.

He was put to work painting props and poles. When he was 20 and working at Coney Island, he decided to study art at Cooper Union Art School in New York.

He didn't learn his present style there, however. It was under Rube Merrifield, king of banner painters, who died in 1932.

Wyatt says he does not use models "because I know practically every freak personally. Occasionally, however, I get an order for a banner about a freak I don't know. Then, of course, I have to ask for details."

Wyatt almost never gets specific orders, and an order would read like this: "Rush two girl show banners, one mummy, one pygmy man and woman, one pin head, one entrance banner, one giant baer."

"They know that I know what they want," he said. "They don't have to give specifications."

Wyatt explained that the showman's favorite color is redish-orange because everyone associates this with carnivals. Since the war, however, this has been difficult to get. Now he has to rely on a yellow background as the next best thing.

Wyatt, who with his brother Bill set up his workshop here in 1936, is just getting back into the swing of things after duty with the Army Combat Engineers. In the Army he painted maps.

Shade of Sycamore

By PERCY MARKS Author of "The Plastic Age" "A Tree Grown Straight!" Etc.

THE STORY: Gayle finds herself increasingly dissatisfied with the empty social life she leads. The house no longer interests her. Both she and Bart are happy that she is going to have a baby, but Bart is far from being an attentive husband.

XXIV

The baby wasn't born until July, and Gayle thought she would never have been able to endure the last long month if Rose hadn't come out to Bronxville in June to stay with her until the birth of the baby.

Although Rose thought no better of Bart than she had a year ago, she said nothing; she did not even remark on his absences, but when he was present, Gayle often saw her looking at him speculatively, the contempt in her shrewd blue eyes only half veiled. Bart was absent a great deal in that month. When his mother was in town, he had dinner with her half a dozen times, and after she had gone to Bar Harbor, he flew up twice to visit her for long weekends. He was apologetic and obviously not entirely at ease with his conscience.

"Maybe I ought to stay here," he said in Rose's presence. "The baby might come any time."

"Oh, go along," Gayle said; "it probably won't come until Christmas. Rose is here, and Mrs. Mays is here, and Tom is here—what more do you want?"

"I ought to be here, though," Rose demanded. "If you are, I'll bet you pass out. Odds?"

He grinned at her good-naturedly. "Not on your life. It scares me to death to think of it. Why doesn't your mother come on, Gayle? I'd feel lots better if she were here. Supposing there wasn't time to get to the hospital."

I get in a cold sweat just thinking about it."

"Mother offered to come, but I told her to stay home in peace. Besides, Mrs. Mays knows just as much about babies as Mother does. For heaven's sake, Bart, go to Maine. If you had your way, I'd be in the hospital right now."

"You bet you would." "Well, I'm not going until I have to. Millions of women are having babies every day without all this fuss and bother. Don't stand around arguing. Go on to Maine."

He went, and Rose thought, "She sent him because she knew he wanted to go. If he was worth a row of beans, he wouldn't have gone if she'd pulled a gun on him."

It was while he was away on his second visit that the baby was born. Rose called him from the hospital to say it was a seven-pound, three-ounce boy and that Gayle was fine.

He arrived the next morning, and for the first time since Gayle had known him, he appeared in public unshaven. His eyes were bright with fear as he approached her bed, his lips tight in his unsuccessful effort to smile.

"Gayle, darling," he whispered. "You're all right? You're still all right?"

"I will be when I get a kiss." "I'm ashamed to kiss you. I haven't any right."

She lifted her arms to him. "Bart, dear."

He bent forward then and kissed her, so humbly, so tenderly that she wanted to weep. "It's all right," she whispered, her hands deep in his hair, "it's all right, sweetheart."

"Gayle, Gayle!" When he lifted his head again, his eyes were brimming full with tears. "How can you ever forgive me?"

Sure in her instinct, she knew she had to comfort him, at once or he would break down utterly and sob in his contrition. "Forgive you?" She smiled up at him. "There's nothing to forgive. It's not your fault, Bart. James Kent decided to arrive while you were away. How were you to know?"

"I shouldn't have gone. I knew I ought to stay home; I knew it all the time."

"You can stay for the next one." Her hand reached for his. "Sit down, sweetheart, and be comfortable. When did you get here?"

"Last night, but they wouldn't let me see you. I thought I'd go nuts, Gayle, and it's a wonder I didn't wreck the plane. You ought to have seen me land."

"Not three points?" "Then at last he really smiled. "I almost set it down on its tail. It was awful." His smile widened. "It's really a boy?"

"Really a boy? Wasn't I smart to make just what you ordered?" "You're the most wonderful girl in the world. I thought so the minute I met you."

"You did not." She laughed into his eyes. "You thought I was snooty."

"Sure; that's what got me interested. James Kent Bartlett's really here. . . . I can't get over it."

"I've got over it—thank the Lord. Would you like to see your son?"

"Would I?" She buzzed for the nurse, who had discreetly left the room. When she appeared, Gayle asked, "Would it break all hospital rules if Mr. Bartlett got a look at the baby?"

"Not all of them. I'll show it to him through the window. Then I think you had better go. Mr. Bartlett. You can come back later, but Mrs. Bartlett ought to rest now."

"Be prepared to see a monkey, Bart," Gayle warned him. "They say he'll improve, though. Let's call him Kent. Three James's in one family are too much."

"Kent?" Bart's smile was its most radiant. "Kent? I think that's swell. Kent Bartlett—here I come."

Do not lose your temper in the middle of a hand. If your partner makes a play that you do not like and you allow yourself to become annoyed, you may lose the whole hand. That is what happened with today's hand in one of the recent world championship events.

After winning the first trick West shifted to the singleton diamond, right through East's queen-ten and East did not like the play at all. He played the ten and South won with the jack of diamonds. The jack of spades was returned, West played the queen, dummy won with the ace and two clubs were discarded by declarer on the queen and jack of hearts, much to East's displeasure.

The ten of spades was then played, West won with the king and shifted to a club, East winning with the ace. At this point all East had to do was to lead a diamond and West would get a trump in.

But East was very much upset by this time, and he led back another club. Declarer trumped with the six of spades, picked up West's two trumps with the nine and eight, and the diamond suit was good. Thus four spades doubled was made.

It is easy to lose one's temper at bridge, but there are very few top ranking players who are not also called good partners.

Santa Will Bring Toys Which Look, Work Like Real

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Hey, kiddies! Guess what Santa Claus will bring this Christmas! For good little girls, he's going to have some new dolls which can laugh, as well as cry or go to sleep. And there will be toy irons and cook stoves that run on real electric current, just like mother's do, and an enameled sink with running water.

And of course there will be lots of games, blackboards, doll houses and things. Some lucky boys will get mechanical shovels which lift real dirt, and trucks, road scrapers, earth haulers and concrete mixers built to scale. There also will be workable telephone sets, and new streamlined trains, velocipedes and airplanes. Santa passed the information along to the Commerce Department Saturday, saying he is doing more this year than ever before to give the children toys that look and work like the real thing. He also has a lot of toys which help teach children to use their minds and hands.

Uncle Joe Stilwell Ignored Medical Advice In Order To Fight In Far East

EDITOR'S NOTE: The writer was an Associated Press war correspondent for two years in the China-Burma-India and South-East Asia command.

By CHARLES A. GRUMICH
NEW YORK — (AP)— Uncle Joe Stilwell stolidly ignored medical advice four years ago in order to fight probably the bitterest war a trudging old foot soldier ever waged simultaneously in combat and Oriental politics.

The stringy old general's friends in New York recalled that he brushed aside efforts to keep him in bed for a long period in Chungking back in 1942.

"I am fighting a war," Stilwell said then, "and can't spare the time."

The doctors could keep him down only a couple of days, although they told him his ailment would result in severe liver trouble within a few years unless he took care of himself immediately.

Stilwell was a single-minded decision of devotion to duty after he had withdrawn all the forces he could save from the Burma debacle in 1942.

Stilwell had just walked out of Burma and had come up with his famous declaration:

"I claim we took a helluva beating. We must find out why we failed and return."

Unpopular With British
This and other forthright remarks about the collapse of the British and American forces in Burma ahead of the Japanese won him a large measure of unpopularity with the British command.

As the foremost field commander of the eastward offensive against the Japanese, Stilwell balked against all British efforts to turn the tide southward for reconquest of Burma.

But it was not a dispute with the British that took the general out of Burma before the Ledo Road from India to China was opened. Rather it was a growing feud with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek and considerable integrated back-stabbing that removed Stilwell in the autumn of 1944, when only minor clean-ups remained before the road was opened to Kunming and Chungking in January, 1945.

Before he was withdrawn, Stilwell had many scrapes with death in Burma, and once, on a walking mission to the forwardmost Chinese positions, artillery shells hit within a few yards of him, but he buried himself and spent their force in mud.

None of his forces ever would dispute his right to the Combat Infantryman's Badge which he was given on his deathbed.

To his CBI troops he was known universally as "Uncle Joe" or the "Old Man." He called himself, as he pronounced it, "Old Turkey Neck."

He was a family man who spent lonely nights in Burma writing home by lamplight.

Once he told Lt. Col. Fred Eldridge, his biographer, that in the family he rated just after the dog. Tough In Hatred

The "Old Man" was tough in his hatred of the Japanese. An enemy prisoner once tried to shake hands with Stilwell when the general examined him at his Tsalpha headquarters in North Burma.

"Not with you, you bastard," the general said and authorized the quotation for publication.

Stilwell was a surprising man at first meeting. He seemed thin and small — although he had been a football player at West Point — rather than rangy as he appeared in his pictures. He always introduced himself with a quick hand-shake and the word, "Stilwell."

The only time he consented to sit in an acting supreme command of Southeast Asia, he got notice of his nomination for full general. An aide walked by his office and said, "General, you've been nominated for a fourth star."

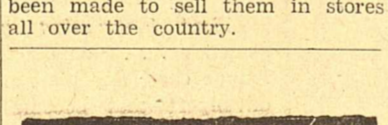

"Nominated, am I?" said the general. "How do you think I'll go in the election?"

Cat-Beasts Sought In Australian Wilds

SIDNEY — (AP)— A recent report that a man had shot "two unknown puma-like animals" at Tugun, near Maryborough, Queensland, has set Australian zoologists speculating again about the possibility of the existence of a giant Australian cat. If one were proved to exist it would be a discovery of first-class importance. Reports persist about "large beasts of the cat-like tribe... the size of a mistiff, with tiger stripes."

Australian zoologists don't write off the possibility of a large Australian marsupial (pouched) cat existing in some of the wilder and little-touched corners of Australia. There's little doubt, for example, that marsupial wolves exist in the wilder and more remote areas of north-western Tasmania. The marsupial wolf once was all over

Poles Say Dollars Reach Destination

WARSAW, Oct. 20 — The newspaper "Dziennik Ludowy" says "dollars will flow into Poland."

It explained that American currency sent from Poles in America to relatives in this country no longer is removed from letters and that correspondence to and from the United States is not censored. The journal said the ministry of posts and telegraphs had declared that letters are delivered to addresses with full contents.

Scrimdom in England was a product of the Norman conquests.

The oldest and largest toy drum factory in the world is in Granville, Mass. There are now some 28,000 acres of cranberry bog in the United States.

SELF-MEDICATION IS DANGEROUS

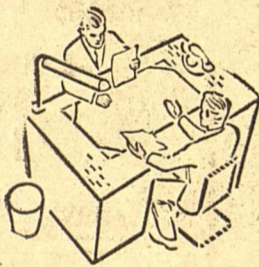

● The human body is the most complicated mechanism ever created. Not all of its processes are thoroughly understood even by those who devote their lives to a study of them. It is not surprising, therefore, that persons without medical training who attempt to diagnose and prescribe for their own serious ills often do themselves irreparable damage. Have respect for your body. You can never get another. When illness comes consult a physician... a licensed M.D. He is a specialist in his line just as we are in the business of filling his prescriptions.

Must be a pretty smart buy!

We know how great is the desire for new automobiles — how urgent the need for them in many cases.

And we're aware that nearly every make of car these days can point to a long waiting list of folks who have placed their orders.

But when a car hops instantly into "most wanted" position as this Buick did —

When week after week new orders out-pace stepped-up factory production —

Then we figure there must be something far beyond the expected in the car itself.

Something even bigger than standout style of the season — a big Fireball straight-eight power plant — the husky, roomy size of two fine-made tons.

What is it? Well, have you handled one of these cars yourself? Have you noticed the happy, almost-starry-eyed look of those who've got theirs?

Fact is — 1946 Buick owners are our best salesmen, and the factory is working with might and main to keep up with the effects of their enthusiasm.

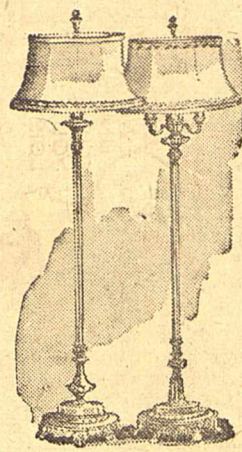

If your order isn't in, you can place it now, for delivery at OPA prices, with or without a car to trade in (though of course we need to get good cars for the used-car buyers on our waiting list).

When better automobiles are built BUICK will build them
